House okays MX missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) - With three votes down and one to go, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill says the last hope of stopping spending for the MX missile is to convince conservative Democrats it bears too high a cost.

"That's the only argument we've got there," O'Neill said in the aftermath of the slender 219-213 vote by which the House on Tuesday voted to authorize $1.5 billion to build a second installment of 21 MX missiles.

Appropriations vote ahead

"Certainly, we're going to try and switch it around," the speaker said. "It comes down to the fact that a lot of conservatives in my party will have to look at the price tag."

Other Democrats called the vote "the high-water mark" for the missile system.

They predicted that even if the House votes to appropriate the money, future administration requests for the MX will be slashed and President Reagan will never get the fleet of 100 MX missiles he seeks.

The second vote, to actually appropriate the MX money, was expected today or Thursday.

Critics argued that MX, which stands for Missile Experimental but which Reagan calls "the Peacekeeper," is too expensive, too vulnerable to Soviet attack, and too likely to destabilize the U.S.-Soviet nuclear balance.

The assigned mission of each highly accurate MX is to hurl 10 nuclear war heads at separate targets over ranges of more than 8,000 miles.

The weapon has been controversial for a dozen years, largely because of disagreement on how to base it. Present plans are to place the MX in existing, and vulnerable, Minuteman missile silos in Nebraska and Wyoming with the hope of fortifying those installations at a later date.

Reagan hailed the House action as "a vote for peace, for a safer future, and for success" at the arms control talks with the Soviet Union in Geneva.

Allies show interest in space missile

LUXEMBOURG (AP) - Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said today the NATO allies had shown "a lot of interest" in participating in American research of a space-based missile defense.

Weinberger formally invited NATO defense ministers Tuesday to join in the multimillion dollar research program of space weapons to protect the Western alliance against Soviet missiles.

"There seems to be a lot of interest in it and a lot of willingness to participate," the defense secretary said today as he entered a second and final day of meetings with other NATO defense chiefs.

"We would like to have as much participation as possible," he added. American officials had said Tuesday the NATO defense ministers had strongly endorsed the research phase of the space weapons initiative, although none formally committed their governments to participation.

Weinberger also told reporters today he was "delighted" with the U.S. House of Representatives vote Tuesday in favor of spending an additional 1.5 billion dollars to produce a second batch of 21 MX intercontinental missiles.

"That will give us 42 (missiles) in all and is a good start on the full program," he said.

Colorado Bound

Hereford High School band members are gearing up for a six-hour "concert-a-thon" scheduled for Saturday in Sugarland Mall. The musicians will be accepting pledges while they play, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., in order to raise money for a trip to the Cavalcade of Music Festival in Colorado Springs in May. The band needs $14,000 for the trip.

Defense contractor indicted on fraud charges after audit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - General Electric Co., faced with $800,000 in cost overruns on nuclear-warhead contracts, charged the amount to other government projects, according to an indictment against the nation's fourth-largest defense contractor.

GE on Tuesday denied any criminal wrongdoing and said it would "work out all the issues arising out of this matter."

The company "mischarged" the government for the $800,000 in overruns on a contract for refitting components for the Minuteman Mark-12A intercontinental ballistic missile re-entry system, said U.S. Attorney Edward Dennis.

The 112-count indictment resulted from a four-year investigation arising from irregularities uncovered by a routine Defense Contract Audit Agency probe of GE's internal accounting, Dennis said.

GE is charged with four counts of "making and presenting false claims to the United States" and 104 counts of making false statements to a U.S. agency by falsifying employee time cards.

GE employee Joseph Calabria and former employee Roy Baessler are charged with two counts each of "making false declarations" to a grand jury.

GE spokesman John Terino, reading from a statement after the indictment was announced, said the company denies any wrongdoing but is willing to cooperate in resolving the matter.

"It is alleged that incorrect charges were entered on employee time cards submitted five years ago," said Terino. "Involved are 100 time cards out of approximately 100,000 time cards."

"GE has indicated its willingness to reimburse the government for any improper charges that might have been made. ... We are confident we can work out all the issues arising out of this matter and continue our role as a responsible supplier of the nation's defense needs."

GE's Re-entry Systems Division - now part of its Space Systems Division based here - had a series of contracts to refurbish missile re-entry vehicles, which carry warheads and arming and aiming systems, the indictment said.

One agreement for test equipment was a fixed-price incentive contract, meaning the Air Force would pay all costs up to a ceiling and GE would absorb any overruns, it said. "As alleged in the indictment, by approximately March 1980, GE had exceeded

Congress wants to slash foreign aid

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite administration claims that national security will be harmed, Congress is trying to slash President Reagan's foreign aid proposal, led by lawmakers battling budget deficits and tired of U.S. support for controversial dictatorships.

"I fully intend to cut your budget by $1 billion," Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee, told a State Department official at a hearing Tuesday. "Can't we afford to limit (some aid) for a year or two until we get our house in order?"

Other committees were already at work cutting Reagan's request for $13.2 billion in foreign aid for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee tentatively decided to freeze spending at 1985 levels, about $600 million less than Reagan requested. The chairman of the panel,

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., said the freeze proposal "has not left the administration particularly happy," but "we are attempting to arrive at a bill which has a hope of passing on the floor."

Over in the House, the foreign affairs subcommittee proposed a plan worth about $250 million less than the president wanted.

Reflecting traditional congressional support for Israel, the subcommittee dealing with the Mideast left intact Reagan's proposal for $3

Candidate forum Thursday evening

A majority of the candidates to be voted on April 6 intend to appear at a candidates forum Thursday night, the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce has announced.

Sponsored by the Chamber's Legislative Affairs Committee, the forum will begin at 7 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center.

Candidates for the Deaf Smith General Hospital Board, Hereford Mayor and City Commission and the Hereford Independent School District Board will be questioned and allowed to make a closing statement.

The evening's event will be taped for later broadcast over Hereford Cablevision's local channel.

Police check thefts, burglary

Hereford police investigated two thefts and a burglary Tuesday and checked a domestic dispute. No arrests were made.

A set of jumper cables was stolen from a vehicle and White's Auto reported an electric digital cassette stereo unit taken among other merchandise.

The burglary was at C&I Machine where four trophies with a total value of $100 were taken.

Murder trial jury selection set Friday

Jury selection is to begin at 9:30 Friday morning in the murder trial of a Hereford man.

Johnny Ramirez, 27, was indicted Oct. 9 for the Sept. 12 shotgun slaying of Gerardo Jasso Guzman, 40, of Olton.

Ramirez faces a sentence of 5 to 99 years or life and possible fine of up to $10,000 if convicted of the first degree felony charge. He is being held in the Deaf Smith County Jail in lieu of $30,000 bond.

Guzman's body was discovered in a parked car north of Umbarger, and law enforcement authorities spent most of one weekend dragging Pittman lake in Hereford for the murder weapon.

Hereford attorney John Lesly is representing Ramirez.

Furr's closing doors Saturday

One of Hereford's major grocery stores announced Tuesday it will close its doors Saturday.

Furr's Supermarket, located at Sugarland Mall, intends to cease operations at the close of business Saturday evening. All 42 employees will lose their jobs.

The grocery chain opened a Hereford store in the 1940s and moved to the mall in 1960.

Furr's has not yet issued a statement as to why the business is closing.

Director chooses jail instead of probation

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) -

The director of a halfway house for Salvadoran refugees was sentenced today to one year in prison after he rejected an offer for probation that would have restricted his activities in the sanctuary movement.

Jack Elder, 41, the director of Casa Oscar Romero in San Benito, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela, who had offered Elder a conditional, two-year probated term.

Elder was convicted on six counts - including conspiring to help the Salvadorans enter the country, helping them enter the country and transporting them to a bus station in Harlingen from San Benito.

Stacey Lynn Merkt, 30, a volunteer at the Catholic Church-sponsored shelter, was sentenced to 179 days in prison for her conviction of conspiring to help two Salvadorans enter the country illegally.

She was convicted on that charge last month in the same trial with Elder.

Vela also ordered Ms. Merkt to serve 90 days on a similar conviction last May. Ms. Merkt's two-year probated term on that conviction was revoked by Vela on Tuesday.

The judge had offered Elder a two-

Beaumont joins major lawsuit

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) - Beaumont officials agreed to join a lawsuit against a Florida securities investment company that collapsed earlier this month and swallowed $20 million in city funds.

City officials decided Tuesday to join a U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission lawsuit asking a federal judge to place ESM Government Securities Inc. of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in involuntary bankruptcy.

Before ESM failed March 4, Beaumont had invested $20 million in government securities.

The sum represented two-thirds of the city's surplus operating funds and nearly 20 percent of its $102 million annual budget. The deal was intended to provide 0.4 percent to 1 percent more interest than investments in Beaumont, officials said.

Beaumont city attorneys previously balked at attempts by a federal judge to force the company into bankruptcy because they were unsure the move would help recover the money.

But City Attorney Lane Nichols said Beaumont now might have a better chance of recovering some of the money.

"(Bankruptcy) will bring more money back into the pot for all claimants to go after."

Nichols said ESM records indicate that a "significant" number of financial transactions occurred in the days before the firm failed.

Beaumont invested the money in ESM during January and February, officials said.

If a court places the company in bankruptcy, it can cancel or reverse all transactions 90 days prior to the date a petition is filed, Nichols said.

"That would be advantageous to us and other claimants," he said.

When Beaumont's money was placed with ESM, it was understood that Bradford Trust Co. was to hold the securities at its New York office, officials said.

As a means of increasing voter interest and allowing voters to meet the candidates and hear their views, a Candidates' Forum is being held Thursday night at the Community Center. The forum is sponsored by the legislative committee of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

While some voters don't usually show much interest in the local elections, the forum should draw a large crowd this time because of the controversy in our school system. Voters seem more interested in the issues of the school board election than in the city or hospital board races.

We commend the chamber for sponsoring the forum. It gives voters an opportunity to learn more about the candidates and hear their answers to the questions submitted by the panel. The forum begins at 7 p.m. Thursday.

If given the opportunity, where would you cut federal spending? Contrary to what the headlines claim, a survey revealed a couple of weeks ago that the majority of Americans would:

1. Put two-year freeze on Social Security benefits, tighten eligibility.
2. Defer military pensions to age 65 but don't slash defense spending.
3. Whack millions in foreign aid, including aid for Israel and other old allies.
4. Attack all government waste, including wasteful outlays by the Pentagon.
5. Phase out farm subsidies, also housing and transportation subsidies.
6. Freeze pay and perks of Congress.
7. Abolish Amtrak.

Camera watches students

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The presence of a video camera outside the restrooms at Huntsville High School apparently is helping to reduce the use of marijuana on campus, officials say.

While marijuana smoking in the girls' and boys' restrooms has ceased, it will move to other areas, probably off school grounds, said Gary Collins, superintendent of the Huntsville Independent School District.

"It won't eliminate it, but at least we're moving it to another location and making it less accessible," Collins said. "Before, anytime anyone wanted to smoke they would slip into the restroom."

The camera was installed March 4 after officials at the 1,500-student school smelled what they believed was marijuana odor coming from the restrooms, which are next to an assistant principal's office.

Officials said they also found what may have been marijuana spilled on the restroom floor.

"We wanted other youngsters to be able to go to the restroom without having to contend with a bunch of pot smokers," Collins said.

"We just never had a situation like this in one area where the student activity was so concentrated," he said.

But American Civil Liberties Union officials said Monday the camera may be a ruse and may not have film inside or be attached to a monitor.

Lawyer doesn't want review

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An attorney representing City Councilman Bernardo Eureste says he is not giving up his quest to keep a grand jury from looking at his client's bank records.

Attorney George Scharmen said Tuesday he will ask the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals to stay a ruling made by Judge Roy Barrera Jr.

Barrera Tuesday ordered the National Bank of Commerce to turn over Eureste's bank records to the Bexar County grand jury.

The grand jury is seeking the documents as part of its investigation into allegations Eureste accepted campaign contributions from corporations, prosecutors have said. Such contributions are outlawed under the state election code.

Barrera said he would sign an order at 10 a.m. today ordering the bank to hand over the documents.

Scharmen already has appealed an earlier decision by Barrera ordering the councilman to surrender all political financial records to the grand jury. He said he will seek to consolidate an appeal of the Tuesday decision with the earlier appeal.

Barrera told Scharmen he had until 10 a.m. today to get an order by a higher authority to stay Tuesday's decision.

Scharmen argued during an hour-long hearing Tuesday that the surrender of the bank records to the grand jury would constitute unreasonable search and seizure.

Bills would outlaw pull tabs

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislation that would outlaw pull tabs and require a 5-cent deposit on all beverage cans and bottles would alleviate some of the state's litter problem, several legislators say.

Industry officials, however, told the House Liquor Regulation Committee on Tuesday such a law wouldn't reduce littering but would only create lost jobs.

Reps. Ralph Wallace, D-Houston, Lena Guerrero, D-Austin, and Terral Smith, R-Austin, all are pushing bills concerning beverage can deposits and pull tabs. All three bills were sent to subcommittee.

"We don't want Texas to be the dumping grounds for pull tab cans," Wallace said. He said 5 million pounds of aluminium cans were gathered in Texas last year.

Smith said his bill would make it illegal for cans under one gallon to have pull tabs. He said pull tabs are polluting Texas beaches and lakes and have killed wildlife.

He said bottles once all were returnable, but no longer.

"Stores managed them before and they can manage them now," Smith told the committee. "If you put the deposit on there, it'll make people quit throwing out paper and other things."

Toby Summers, vice president and general manager of the Victoria Coca-Cola Bottling Co., said the proposed legislation is perceived to bring back the era of the refillable bottles but won't. He said the law will simply force bottlers to set up an inefficient and expensive reverse distribution system.

"What this does is to turn the bottlers, the beer distributors and the retail stores into garbage collectors," Summers said. "In Texas alone, the additional cost to the bottler system would be $75 million per year."

Suspected stolen goods seized

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Generators, radios and other tools and equipment valued at $100,000 have been seized and one man arrested in an investigation into alleged thefts from the Palo Verde nuclear plant, authorities said.

An affidavit filed by law-enforcement authorities said Charles D. Felkins, 37, was arrested March 11 when law-enforcement officers seized tools and equipment in two storage units.

The affidavit said the seized material was valued at $100,000 and that much had been identified as coming from the Palo Verde Nuclear Generating Station, which is under construction about 50 miles west of downtown Phoenix.

The material included generators, air compressors, tires, radios and tools, an investigator for the racketeering and organized-crime unit of the Maricopa County Attorney's office said in the affidavit.

Felkins, who was indicted March 14, was released without bail shortly after his arrest. A May 14 trial was scheduled before Superior Court Judge Joseph Howe.

The indictment, the existence of which was not reported until this week, charged Felkins with racketeering, conspiracy and three counts of trafficking in stolen property.

Felkins had been employed by Bethel Power Coran.

Aircraft damaged in carrier accident

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A Navy jet trying a night landing on the aircraft carrier Nimitz missed an arresting cable early Tuesday and struck three other planes parked on the flight deck, authorities said. A fourth parked plane also was damaged by flying debris.

No injuries were reported in the accident, which occurred during flight operations in the western Atlantic Ocean about 160 miles northeast of the Virgin Islands, said Lt. Cmdr. Dale Smith.

The tailhook of the E-2C Hawkeye missed an arresting cable used to stop planes landing on the deck, Smith said.

"The plane strayed to the right of the center line on the deck, and its right wing tip struck the tails of three parked aircraft as the pilot lifted off to come off and attempt another landing," the spokesman said.

During anti-guerrilla sweeps

Israeli troops fire frequently

By NICOLAS B. TATRO Associated Press Writer

BOURGHLYE, Lebanon (AP) — Jumaa Saeed and a crew of five were working recently in a citrus grove near the Mediterranean coastal road in south Lebanon when an Israeli patrol came by on an anti-guerrilla sweep.

"We were picking lemons when bullets came flying through the trees. We all hit the ground," Saeed told a reporter accompanying the Israeli patrol moments after the incident.

During a nearly three-hour patrol aboard an armored personnel carrier and on foot in the thick plantations of bananas and citrus, Israeli soldiers fired their automatic weapons frequently, often blindly and in one case at the direction of houses only a few hundred meters away.

A week before, an Israeli patrol from another unit fired along the roadside within 10 yards of Irish soldiers of the United Nations peacekeeping force, prompting an angered Irish captain to briefly close the road to the Israelis in protest.

The Israeli army calls the shooting "preventive fire," designed to keep Shiite Moslem guerrillas from using groves or roadside ravines as hiding places to attack Israeli patrols.

"Our lines of transport are one of the main targets of the terrorists. To try and prevent this, we shoot preventive fire but it is controlled fire," said an Israeli lieutenant colonel, who briefed reporters at a base in Tyre before the patrol.

"We shoot only in open areas, not at houses or buildings, and usually in places that control the road and which are known to be places that terrorists can use to shoot or to detonate roadside bombs," said the officer who, in keeping with army regulations, was not identified.

Increased firing by Israeli soldiers has coincided with an escalation of guerrilla attacks on Israel's army since mid-February, when the first stage of a planned troop withdrawal from Lebanon was completed.

What has made Israeli soldiers particularly edgy was a suicide car bomb that plunged into an Israeli convoy March 10, killing 12 soldiers and wounding 14.

Sitting on an armored personnel carrier traveling the coastal road north of Tyre, it is easy to understand how vulnerable Israeli soldiers feel. Every cluster of houses, clump of trees or rocky hilltop could conceal a guerrilla with an anti-tank rocket or a detonator.

Lt. Yehuda, commander of the patrol, pointed to a shattered concrete fence and a 1½-foot deep hole along the road, both sites of recent roadside explosions.

When a Mercedes weighed down with packages and baggage on the roof approached about 200 yards down the road, Lt. Yehuda raised his hand high in the air.

The car edged off the two-lane road but was still moving when the lieutenant fired a burst of machinegun fire about 30 yards in front of the car. The driver quickly backed into a side road.

"I fired because the car was carrying a lot of stuff on the roof which could have been explosives and he ran away when I signaled him to stop," said Yehuda, 23. Israeli soldiers dismounted from the armored vehicle and questioned the driver, Ahmed Assam Salman.

Salman was carrying nine relatives, including an infant, in the car and said he had come from Beirut to visit his family. "I wasn't afraid of the bullets, but there was no reason to shoot at me," he told a reporter.

Gunfire, random or otherwise, is not a new experience for the Lebanese. After a decade of civil warfare and the presence of trigger-happy Palestinian guerrillas, the Lebanese are not easily frightened by the sound of bullets and explosions.

But the practice of firing into plantations, which damages trees and keeps many farmers from their fields, or shooting on the roads in front of cars carrying children and old people, deepens the hostility of the population.

Soot, smell of killer fire remain in mine

ORANGEVILLE, Utah (AP) — Less than 1,000 feet away from the fire that claimed 27 lives still smolders. But deep in the cool, totally black Third East tunnel, only the soot and smell remain from the days the blaze raged out of control through a mile of the Wilberg Mine's tunnels.

For the first time since the Dec. 19 blaze trapped the 26 men and one woman, a group of reporters was allowed into the mine Tuesday.

The 15 reporters and photographers donned overalls, high boots and hard hats and were given a crash course in safety before touring the adjacent Deer Creek Mine and penetrating 1,000 feet into Wilberg.

The smell of burned coal fills the air and soot covers the walls and ceiling in the reclaimed area.

During the tour, an oak staff tipped with brass was used to rap ceilings to check their stability. Blue reflector disks, shining in the bobbing lights of the headlamps — the only light in the mine — pointed the way out.

Officials still are bewildered as to why the fire broke out so quickly and spread so rapidly.

Alfonsin wants Latin leaders to hold summit

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Argentine President Raul Alfonsin said Tuesday he hopes a summit meeting of Latin presidents can be held by early next year to discuss the region's foreign debt and other problems.

"I think it is indispensable that we meet," he said.

Alfonsin, who arrived Monday from the United States for a three-day official visit, also said he believes stalled negotiations on a political solution of Central America's disputes should be renewed.

"A political solution is absolutely necessary," he said at a meeting with foreign correspondents. "A military solution is not a solution."

Alfonsin said he referred to talks the Reagan administration suspended with Nicaragua in January after nine rounds as well as the negotiations between the Salvadoran government and leftist guerrillas there that floundered after two rounds last fall.

In Washington last week, the Argentine leader cautioned President Reagan that the search for peace in Central America must be guided by the principle of non-intervention. In a toast at a state dinner there, Alfonsin said he and Reagan "have discovered a few differences in our analysis, which should neither surprise us nor alarm us."

Asked here about his talks in Washington, Alfonsin replied: "Dialogue is precisely the expression of different points of view."

year probated sentence on the conditions that he move out of the shelter and that he not speak publicly about the sanctuary movement.

ed the price ceiling on the contract," Dennis said.

From about Jan. 1, 1980, until April 1983, GE made up the $800,000 on other government contracts by altering employee time cards, having employees submit blank cards which were filled in by managers, and transferring costs to other contracts that didn't have ceilings, Dennis said.

Calabria, 50, of King of Prussia, chief engineer at the Re-entry Systems Division, and Baessler, 40, of Topsfield, Mass., each face up to 10 years in prison and a 20,000 fine.

"Pure and simple, neither Roy Baessler nor Joseph Calabria made a false declaration to the grand jury, and there is no question that they will be fully vindicated after a trial in this case," said their attorney, Walter M. Phillips of Philadelphia, in a statement.

GE faces a $1.08 million fine and possible loss of all or part of its defense contracts.

Subcommittee studying so-called 'lemon law'

AUSTIN (AP) — A subcommittee of the House Transportation Committee is studying two bills designed to obtain justice for unhappy automobile buyers.

"I know a lemon when I see one," Don Copus of Nederland told the committee Tuesday night.

"I bought a 1984 Ford Tempo and it was in the shop 59 times. It still stopped anywhere, anytime it wanted to."

The 1983 Legislature passed a so-called "lemon law" aimed at providing a way for motorists whose new cars spent at least 30 days in the shop to seek relief from auto manufacturers.

However, the law was declared unconstitutional last June by a district judge who said neither auto manufacturers nor car owners could expect a fair hearing from the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission when five of the nine members were new car dealers.

Both bills were sent to a subcommittee for further study.

"I finally found a sucker and sold the car at an $8,000 loss," Copus added concerning a measure by Rep. Al Price, D-Beaumont.

The other bill was sponsored by ALERS Association.

Price said his bill would put a limit of four auto dealers on the commission, which would allow appointment of a fifth public member.

Robert H. Hoy Jr., an El Paso auto dealer and a member of the Motor Vehicle Commission, supported Schlueter's bill, saying it would prohibit any auto dealer on the commission from hearing a case involving the same type of car he sold.

Robert Kaylor, Austin, supported Price's bill, saying he had a Toyota that stayed in a dealer's shop 45 days because the parts were not available in this country.

Jeanene McMaster, Austin, speaking for the Texas Consumers Association, said Price's bill would be constitutional because it gave the consumer the alternative of going to court over a "lemon" or seeking a hearing before the commission.

Most of those testifying on Schlueter's bill protested a provision concerning the sale of converted vans.

Gene Fondren, executive director of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association, said the provision merely enforced present law that new vehicles converted into luxury recreational vehicles must be sold to a dealer with a franchise for the vehicle's brand or they will be considered used cars.

Ann Landers

Discard national anthem

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If I told you my age you probably would think I was senile, but I assure you I am of sound mind and hope you will print my letter. It is a complaint about our national anthem. I believe it should be discarded, and in its place we should adopt "America, the Beautiful."

To begin with, "The Star-Spangled Banner" has a range that is virtually impossible for the average person to manage. The word "gleaming" is almost always inaudible because it is so far down the register. "And the rockets' red glare" is extremely difficult to reach because it is so high. Whenever our national anthem is sung most people have to change octaves.

At this time in our history when everyone is terrified of the possibility of nuclear war, we should not be singing about "bombs bursting in air." How much better to pay tribute to our "purple mountains majesty" and "amber waves of grain." Also, the mention of "brotherhood— from sea to shining sea" is a lot more reassuring than the reference to "the ramparts we've watched o'er the twilight's last gleaming."

Please crusade for this change, Ann. If anyone can put it over you can. — YOUR DAILY READER IN ARIZONA

DEAR DAILY READER: You've made some valid points, but I am still recovering from the sex survey and cannot take on anything more at this time. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I engaged a lovely young Caucasian woman (recently divorced) to look after our three children. "Annabelle" told us it was necessary to keep her child (age 5) with her and that she needed employment near a good public school. My husband and I felt this would not be a problem.

When we met the child we were surprised to discover he was black. She explained that his father was white, but one of his grandparents was a mulatto and way back in the family there may have been a darker ancestor. "Junior was one of those rare throwbacks," she explained.

Is it possible for two Caucasians to produce a black child?—NOT BIAS-ED; JUST WONDERING (MARYLAND)

DEAR N.B.J.W.: This question comes to me at least once a week. I printed such a letter several years ago and here is the response. (My consultant was a distinguished geneticist from Harvard Medical School who asked that his name not be used.) Dr.—said:

"The offspring of a Negro-Caucasian mating will be lighter in general than the Negro parent and darker than the Caucasian parent. Offspring of mulatto parents can be somewhat darker or lighter than their parents (as can offspring of Caucasian parents). But even white parents and very light mulattos with a remote Negro genetic background would be expected to produce offspring whose pigment varied only slightly from theirs."

"Though vigorous studies of this question are lacking, I know of no documentation where whites have had black children. This is not to say it could never happen, but we can say it does not seem to have happened yet."

How to — and how much? Find out with Ann Landers' new booklet, "How, What, and When to Tell Your Child About Sex." For your copy send 50 cents along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Herd captures win

The Hereford Whitefaces notched a number in the baseball win column Tuesday, outlasting Caprock 18-14 in Amarillo.

The win upped the Herd's District 3-5A record to 1-2. The Longhorns dropped to 1-2.

The 32-run total didn't happen over the regulation seven innings, either. The game was called after five because of darkness, so the barrage of hitting came early.

The Whitefaces sent all nine men to the plate in the first inning, scoring seven runs, five of them earned. And after those seven runs, the Whitefaces scored one in the second and 10 in the third.

Senior Mike Scott banged a three-run homer over the right-center wall behind a gusting 39-mile-per-hour wind in the third. In addition, Scott scored three times to tie for team honors in that category with Curtis Cotten.

Cotten knocked in two runs. Bobby Medina, 1-0, earned the win for Hereford, and Chad Stephan is credited with the save. Sabe Ysaqure got the loss.

The Whitefaces next will be in action Friday at the HHS diamond. Plainview is in town then for a single game at 4 p.m.

Georgetown not one-man team

Dalton walking tall with Hoyas

By PAUL PAGE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Four years ago, Ralph Dalton worried about whether he would ever walk again. Now the man who backs up Georgetown All-American Patrick Ewing finds himself a mainstay on a team bidding for its second straight NCAA title.

"It happened during an intrasquad scrimmage," says Dalton, recalling the 1981 injury that almost ended his career. "I just fell on the floor. The knee snapped and I tore some ligaments. The doctors said there was some nerve damage."

Coach John Thompson had asked Dalton to attend military school for two years before entering Georgetown and now that hard work was disappearing in an operating room.

"When he got hurt, I wasn't concerned about his career so much as his ability to function," said Thompson. "I thought he would be really, seriously restricted."

But the 6-11, 240-pound senior was on the court again in eight months. He plays now only with a massive knee brace and a right shoe that looks more like an army boot, reaching almost all the way up his calf. The reward has been trips to the Final Four in each of the last two years.

On Saturday, the Hoyas will play St. John's for the right to face the winner of the Villanova-Memphis State game in the tournament finale.

While everyone looks to Ewing as the main force behind the 34-2 Hoyas, the defending national champions are far from a one-man team. Never was that more evident than in last week's regional final, however, when Dalton helped Georgetown keep pace with Georgia Tech while the foul-plagued Ewing sat on the bench for 13 minutes of the second half.

Three times in the final 5:23 the Engineers pulled to within two and two of those times it was Dalton on the line, canning free throws that helped preserve the 60-54 victory.

"I'm supposed to be prepared if it comes down to me," said Dalton, a 63 percent foul-shooter who hit four straight against Tech. "Saturday, I was fortunate that it came to me and I was able to come through."

His teammates appreciate what the bulky Dalton does, even if it doesn't draw attention from elsewhere.

"Ralph has meant a lot to the program, through his character, his personality and his strength," says forward Bill Martin, who came to Georgetown in the same year as both Dalton and Ewing. "Ralph has suffered a lot. But he plays and work hard, and this year he may be playing better than he ever has."

Given one of his few moments in the limelight, Dalton instead deflects the attention to the selfless game Thompson coaches.

"I have to give the credit to Coach Thompson," says Dalton, showing a sheepish smile that contrasts sharply with his physical play on the court.

"He's the one who prepared me, just like he's prepared the whole team. It wasn't me you saw doing the job on Saturday. It was the whole team pulling together, I was just in the spotlight."

Indiana boss respected by foe

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - For five years, Don DeVoe was at Bobby Knight's side. But tonight, he'll be across the court when their basketball teams play in the semifinals of the 48th National Invitation Tournament.

"Whenever you play against a Bobby Knight-coached team, you'd better be ready to play," said DeVoe, who leads his Tennessee Volunteers against Knight's Indiana Hoosiers prior to the UCLA-Louisville game. "We're going to have to be at the top of our game, but our players are looking forward to this opportunity."

Because he was Knight's assistant coach at Army in the late 1960s, DeVoe knows exactly what to look for in the contest at Madison Square Garden.

"I expect Bobby Knight to be Bobby Knight, and that is to take the ball inside, especially to his big man (7-foot-2) Uwe Blab," DeVoe said. "And, of course, if you slack off on Steve Alford, he's going to put the ball in the basket. He's got a great inside-outside punch with this basketball squad."

While Tennessee does not have the basketball tradition of the other three teams in the NIT's Final Four, DeVoe doesn't think his team should take a back seat to any of them in this tournament.

"We certainly don't have the image that the other teams do," DeVoe said, referring to the 15 NCAA titles accumulated by the other three, "but this Tennessee team has played some very fine basketball at times this year and even though we're small, we seem to be able to make enough big plays to stay close. And in recent NIT games, we've been a great come-from-behind squad."

So far, all of Tennessee's games in this tourney have been close ones, including a 73-72 win over Southwestern Louisiana when the Vols came back from a five-point deficit in the last 19 seconds.

This is Knight's seventh NIT appearance as a coach, including his third with Indiana which he won with in 1979. DeVoe is in his second NIT tourney with Tennessee, after losing in last year's quarterfinals.

Baseball

Yuletide season early for Yanks

By The Associated Press

They used to say that New York Yankees Manager Yogi Berra could roll out of bed on Christmas morning and get a base hit. Don Mattingly appears to be another one of those players.

And even though Tuesday was a long way from Christmas, Mattingly must have felt as though Santa Claus had filled his stocking to overflowing.

The 1984 American League batting champion, who underwent arthroscopic surgery on his right knee Feb. 22, made his first appearance of the spring. He hit the second pitch he saw for a home run and doubled in his other at-bat as the Yankees edged the Montreal Expos 2-1.

Atlanta third baseman Bob Horner also made his spring debut and grounded out as a pinch hitter. Meanwhile, Chris Chambliss had two hits and two runs batted in as the Braves beat the Baltimore Orioles 6-2. Horner, who underwent surgery in December to repair his twice-broken right wrist, batted in a game for the first time in 10 months.

Elsewhere, the current and former aces of the new York Mets' pitching staff turned in strong outings. Fireballer Dwight Gooden, the National League 1984 Rookie of the Year, allowed just three hits and struck out nine in five innings as the Mets edged the Boston Red Sox 1-0 on Rafael Santana's RBI single in the second inning. Gooden, who struck out 276 batters last year, most ever by a rookie, fanned the first five batters he faced.

Tom Seaver pitched five strong innings and Harold Baines, Greg Walker and Carlton Fisk homered, leading the Chicago White Sox to an 8-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Seaver, who has been named Chicago's opening day pitcher, allowed three hits and one run and owns a 1.57 ERA in 23 innings this spring.

Art Howe's two-run single gave St. Louis a 4-3 lead in the sixth inning and the Cardinals went on to beat the Philadelphia Phillies 10-5.

Pedro Guerrero tripled and doubled and Ken Landreaux doubled and singled to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers' 16-hit attack in an 11-5 rout of the Toronto Blue Jays.

Pittsburgh pitcher Larry McWilliams hit a two-run single during a three-run second inning and three relievers blanked Minnesota over the final four innings as the Pirates edged the Twins 4-3.

Lynn Jones drove in two runs with a homer and a double and Jorge Orta drove in a pair with a double and a single as the Kansas City Royals bombed the Texas Rangers 11-5.

Dickie Thon and Harry Spilman drove in the tying and winning runs in the ninth inning to rally the Houston Astros over the Cincinnati Reds 6-5.

Dave Collins had a single, triple and home run and Jim Essian hit a two-run homer in a 19-hit Oakland attack that powered the A's past the San Diego Padres 12-6.

Carmen Castillo's two-out, two-run single off Vida Blue in the eighth inning broke a tie and lifted the Cleveland Indians to a 4-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Bill Schroeder's two-run homer with two out in the ninth inning gave the Milwaukee Brewers an 8-7 victory over the Chicago Cubs, their first over the Cubs in seven attempts.

Mike Morgan and two relievers teamed to limit California to five hits as the Seattle Mariners blanked the Angels 4-0.

Tulane star claims innocence

By PHILIP DRYSDALE

Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tulane University's all-star center John "Hot Rod" Williams, one of two students arrested in an alleged point-shaving scheme involving the Green Wave basketball team, says he is innocent of any wrongdoing.

"I have nothing to do with this," the All-Metro Conference selection said Tuesday as he arrived at the Orleans Parish District Attorney's office. "I have too much at stake," the 6-foot-10 senior said.

The 23-year-old Williams and 21-year-old Gray Kranz were arrested Tuesday and accused of involvement in point shaving in at least two games — against Final Four participant Memphis State and Southern Mississippi. Warrants were issued for two other Tulane basketball players, authorities said.

Orleans Parish District Attorney Harry Connick said at a surprise news conference that Williams, a senior from Sorrento, La., and Kranz, of New York, as well as 6-7 sophomore swingman David Dominique, 19, of New Iberia, La., and 6-0 senior guard Bobby Thompson, 21, of New Orleans, will be booked for violations of Louisiana sports bribery laws. Dominique and Thompson were still at large late Tuesday, authorities said.

Kranz also will be booked on multiple violations of controlled dangerous substance laws relative to possession of cocaine and distribution of the drug, Connick said. Authorities have not said what role Kranz, a non-player, had in the alleged scheme.

When rumors of point-shaving surfaced on the Tulane campus a month ago, basketball coach Ned Fowler said he and Athletic Director Hindman Wall began their own in-house investigation. "I didn't feel there was any substance to the rumors at the time," Fowler said when reached at his home late Tuesday.

"I'm very upset — flabbergasted. This is the last thing I ever thought would happen to any of my players or my team," Fowler said. "I'm very confused. I want to see what evidence they have."

Williams, who averaged 18 points and 7.9 rebounds per game this season for the Green Wave, has been a standout in the conference since he was named Freshman of the Year. Williams, who according to several National Basketball Association scouts, was considered to be a certain first-round draft choice, was the conference's Player of the Year in 1984.

Tulane finished the 1984-85 season a disappointing 15-13 and a 6-8 mark in the conference. The Green Wave was eliminated by Cincinnati in the first round of the conference tournament.

NBA roundup

Portland blazing bright trail

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

The Portland Trail Blazers are finally dishing out some grief instead of taking it.

Great things were expected of the team in 1984-85, but the team was criticized for making an off-season trade with Denver and for drafting Sam Bowie ahead of Michael Jordan. Last month, the Blazers languished in the middle of the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division standings.

With Tuesday night's 116-113 overtime victory over the division champion Los Angeles Lakers, however, Portland has won six out of its last seven outings and is solidly in second place.

Nuggets 104, Jazz 89

Lafayette Lever scored eight points during a 17-2 third-quarter run that put Denver in control against Utah. The Nuggets, who got 25 points from Alex English and 21 from Calvin Natt, scored the first nine points of the third quarter, then got eight more in a row after the Jazz finally got a basket.

Rockets 115, Kings 93

Houston broke Kansas City's five-game winning streak but stayed four games behind Denver in the Midwest Division.

Ralph Sampson had 22 points and 14 rebounds and Akeem Olajuwon 22 points for the Rockets, who opened a 56-46 halftime lead and then put together a 28-14 streak for an 84-60 advantage.

Bucks 107, Bullets 96

Ricky Pierce scored 10 of his 14 points in the final 12:01 to lift Central Division champion Milwaukee past Washington.

Terry Cummings scored 22 points and Paul Pressey 21 to lead the Bucks, while Gus Williams had 27 for the Bullets.

Bulls 120, Pacers 119

Rookie Michael Jordan scored 38 points and Orlando Woolridge 31 to carry Chicago over Indiana.

The Bulls didn't take the lead for good until there were 57 seconds remaining, when center Dave Corzine's tip-in of a missed Jordan shot made it 118-116. Jordan had two free throws and Indiana's Jim Thomas hit a three-point goal in the final five seconds to account for the final margin.

Pistons 119, Suns 93

Kelly Tripucka scored 13 of his 25 points in the third quarter and Detroit rolled to victory by outscoring Phoenix 32-12 in the final period.

The game was tied 53-53 at halftime before Dan Roundfield put the Pistons ahead to stay at 62-61 with 9:07 left in the third period.

Nets 109, Hawks 108

Michael Ray Richardson scored 34 points and Albert King, limited to 13, had six of them in overtime to lead New Jersey over Atlanta in New Orleans.

Dominique Wilkins led all scorers with 37 points for the Hawks, who fell a game behind Cleveland in the race for the eighth and final Eastern Conference playoff spot.

Mavericks 124, Warriors 107

Rolando Blackman scored 15 of his 24 points as Dallas outscored Golden State 43-26 in the third period to turn a close game into a rout.

The Mavericks trailed 56-55 at halftime, but hit 16 of 22 field goal attempts and all 11 free throws in the third quarter to pull ahead 98-82.

Mark Aguirre led Dallas with 27 points, while the Warriors got 21 points from Lester Conner.

Cavaliers 112, Knicks 98

Cleveland scored 18 points in a row in the third quarter to turn a 64-56 deficit into a 74-64 lead over New York.

The Cavaliers, who were led by World B. Free with 16 points, also had a 10-0 streak in the fourth period to open a 94-90 advantage.

Trent Tucker led all scorers with 27 points for the Knicks.

NASA trims monkey experiment on mission

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Fear of infecting astronauts with a semian herpetic virus has caused NASA to fly only two monkeys, instead of the planned four, on a flight next month of a laboratory aboard the space shuttle.

Two of four monkey cages aboard the spacelab will be empty, said Robert Overmyer, the mission commander, because NASA managers worried about the "remote" chance of infecting the seven-man crew with a disease called herpes virus samarai.

Overmyer said tests showed that four squirrel monkeys that had been trained to fly on the mission were carriers of the herpes virus. NASA management decided to reject those monkeys, he said, and look for others. He said they could find only two that were both virus-free and hardy enough to make the flight.

"I feel very comfortable with our position to fly pathogen-free monkeys," Overmyer said. "We don't know how it (the virus) would react in zero gravity."

The monkeys are being flown to test a new cage that will be used in future space flights to house animals. Also aboard the flight are 24 rats. The seven-day spacelab mission is scheduled for launch on April 29.

Dr. Bill Thornton, a physician-astronaut and a member of the spacelab crew, said most experts had considered the virus to be non-infective for humans but an extensive NASA study of monkey handlers uncovered proof that the virus did in fact transfer from one monkey to humans.

In man, he said, the virus has not developed the lesions common from other types of herpes. But blood tests of the monkey handlers, he said, showed antibodies of the disease.

Thornton, who will care for the monkeys and rats during the mission, said the astronauts will be required to change out waste collection trays for the animals, and that the air of the cages and the spacecraft cabin will mingle. For this reason, said the doctor, he felt the decision "wise" to exclude from flight monkeys infected with herpes.

The monkeys and rats are being flown to test a new cage system that will be used on future mission to carry animals into orbit.

Thornton said squirrel monkeys, which are native to the Americas, were chosen for the mission because they are not susceptible to an even more serious virus that could be fatal to man.

This virus, called the Monkey V, is common in African and Asian primates, said Thornton, and rarely infects man. When it does, he said, it takes up to 20 years for the virus to incubate and then attacks the nervous system.

Overmyer said he has instructed the crew that the two monkeys are not to be named and are to be regarded strictly as laboratory specimens.

"Besides, they aren't very pleasant," he said. "They bite and they're not lovable at all."

Thornton agreed. He said in his first introduction to the two-pound primates, one of them bit the thumb of a laboratory technician, slicing to the bone.

The astronaut said he learned the power of the monkey bite when he first tried to examine one of the small animals with a stethoscope. The monkey bit through the tube of the stethoscope and narrowly missed Thornton's face.

Others crewmen on the Spacelab mission are pilot Frederick Gregory; mission specialists Don Lind and Dr. Norman Thagard; and payload specialists Taylor Wang and Lodewijk van den Berg.

Wang will operate his own experiment, a study in fluid dynamics. Van den Berg will conduct a crystal growth experiment in weightlessness. Lind will conduct a study of the aurora over Australia in the first attempt to record the natural light phenomena from space using a highly sensitive television camera.

The mission will be launched from the Kennedy Space Center and will return there from orbit.

Overmyer said plans are for the Spacelab mission to be launched 17 days after the flight of STS-51-L, the much-delayed mission that includes Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, among the crew.

"DON'T FLAUNT YOUR FAITH"
Don't undo the work of God for a chunk of meat. Remember, there is nothing wrong with the meat, but it is wrong to eat it if it makes another stumble. The right thing to do is to quit eating meat or drinking wine or doing anything else that offends your brother or makes him sin.

You may know that there is nothing wrong with what you do, even from God's point of view, but keep it to yourself; don't flaunt your faith in front of others who might be hurt by it. In this situation, happy is the man who does not sin by doing what he knows is right. But anyone who believes that something he wants to do is wrong shouldn't do it. He sins if he does, for he thinks it is wrong, and so for him it is wrong. Anything that is done apart from what he feels is right is sin.

Even if we believe that it makes no difference to the Lord whether we do these things, still we cannot just go ahead and do them to please ourselves; for we must bear the "burden" of being considerate of the doubts and fears of others--of those who feel these things are wrong. Let's please the other fellow, not ourselves, and do what is for his good and thus build him up in the Lord.

Christ didn't please Himself. As the Psalmist said, "He came for the very purpose of suffering under the insults of those who were against the Lord."

These things that were written in the Scriptures so long ago are to teach us patience and to encourage us, so that we will look forward expectantly to the time when God will conquer sin and death. Romans 14:20-23; 15:1-4

Oscar shows importance of Texas writers

AUSTIN (AP) — The blossoming Texas film industry got more good news from this year's Academy Awards, with the movie "Places in the Heart" showing the importance of Texas writers, says the director of the state Film Commission.

Although Texas-made movies didn't take as many awards this year as last — when "Terms of Endearment" swept several honors including best picture — commission head Joel Smith said the industry is doing just fine.

"Places in the Heart," the story of a Depression-era Texas widow determined to save her farm, won Oscars for best actress and best original screenplay. The movie was made at Wax-anachie.

The only other Texas-made film nominated for an Oscar was "Songwriter," which was filmed in Austin.

"I think it was especially gratifying for 'Places in the Heart' to win some important awards," Smith said Tuesday.

Robert Benton, who wrote the screenplay, is a Texas native. Smith said that points out another dimension to filmmaking in the state.

"I think his Oscar for best original screenplay points up an important resource that the state has. The people who are from Texas, who grew up here, are writing about their experiences growing up. That serves as an important way for movies to get made here," Smith said.

Because of the way filmmakers like to work today, Smith said directors will try to shoot a movie in the area where the story is based.

"The filmmaker is more than likely going to try to shoot that in the locale where the story takes place," he said, noting that Texas author Larry McMurtry penned "Terms of Endearment," which was shot in Houston.

"Most people think in terms of the things the film commission talks about — the climate, technicians, crews and acting talent," Smith said.

"Certainly all of that is very, very important. But there's another element. We have some great, talented writers who keep the state in the minds of the reading and viewing public."

Smith also found Texas ties in the eight-Oscar film "Amadeus," even though it was the story of the final years of the composer Mozart.
