Name Stark Head Basketball Coach

Wayne Stark was named Hereford High School head basketball coach at a Hereford School board meeting Thursday night, superintendent of schools George Graham revealed Saturday.

Stark came to Hereford last summer as assistant football coach after graduating from Tulsa University. He is a former Friona resident. He succeeded Doug Groom who resigned this spring to devote full time to teaching.

Plans for enlarging the principal's office at Central School were also announced. Enlarging the office will cut down on classroom space a little, but Graham said a few students will be transferred over to Shirley School where six new classrooms are in the process of being built.

The dividing line between schools will be about the same next year he said. Adding that the students that change schools will be bus riders.

They also plan on taking petitions out of the Central School gymnasium and putting in a stage.

He said they are ready to plant grass on the south side of Central and the east side of Shirley.

Otherwise the meeting was reported as routine.

KIWANIS OFFICIALLY COMES TO HEREFORD—Hereford Kiwanis club director Owen Bybee holds up two of the several gifts clubs in neighboring communities presented the club at the Charter Night banquet Tuesday evening in Hotel Jim Hill. The plaque he holds in his right hand says "Kiwanis Meets Here, 12 o'clock noon Thursday" and will be hung in the Hotel lobby. The gifts on both sides of Bob Selby, Amarillo Kiwanis club president standing in the center, were also from the club. Seated at the speaker's table are from left, Mrs. Selby, Mrs. Bill Gilstrap of Amarillo and Mr. Gilstrap, Lt. Governor of the Division who was toastmaster, is seated behind the Kiwanis emblem, Mrs. Hugh Sandlin and District Governor Sandlin, Mrs. Bob Wear and Hereford president Bob Wear. The banner hanging on the right was another gift.

TORNADO WHYS AND WHEREFORES

Be Prepared For Emergency

A. J. Schroeter, chairman of Red Cross Disaster Committee, Saturday release important rules to follow in the event a tornado strikes in Hereford or any other part of the county.

"Tornadoes can occur any place in the United States at any time of the year," Schroeter said. "They strike most frequently in midwestern, southern and central states from March through September."

Schroeter said knowing what to do in case of a tornado may mean the difference between life and death. He advises, when time permits, to go to a storm cellar, cave, or underground excavations which should have an air outlet to help equalize the air pressure.

"The tornado can be recognized, usually, as being a funnel-shaped cloud, spinning rapidly, extending earthward from a thundercloud. Close by, it sounds like the roar of many airplanes," Schroeter said.

"A good safety rule, in open country, is to move at right angles to the tornado's path. An automobile can often outrun a tornado. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression of the road, field, or street. If on a river bluff, the side of the bluff facing the tornado is often safer than that away from the tornado," Schroeter said.

Schroeter advised, if living in a city or town, to seek shelter inside a structural steel building.

"DO NOT APPROACH WINDOWS. In homes, the southwest basement corner offers greater safety in a frame house than in a brick or stone house. If time permits, electricity and fuel lines should be cut off. Windows on the north and east sides of the house may also be opened to help reduce damage to the building.

Don't Get Excited

"Tornado weather" is hot, sticky days, southerly winds and ominous skies. However, many such days occur without tornadoes," Schroeter said.

Rain, frequently hail, precedes the tornado. A heavy downpour follows. Tornadoes more often strike between 3 and 6 p. m. but they have occurred at all hours. They almost always travel from southwest to northwest. Speed is an average 25 to 40 miles but may exceed 300 miles. Path is 300 to 400 yards but tornadoes have cut swaths over a mile in width, Schroeter said.

Tornadoes are destructive because of the violent winds that create a serious hazard from objects blown through the air. Differences in air pressure that can lift automobiles and cause buildings to collapse also make them dangerous," Schroeter explained.

Herefordshire Man Speaks Friday To All Civic Clubs

Hereford will roll out the welcome mat Friday for Kenneth Brooks of Herefordshire, England who will be the honor guest of the day.

Mr. Brooks, who is a member of the City Council of Herefordshire, will have letters from his city to local city officials, for the betterment of international goodwill and relations and because of the similarity of the names the two towns bear.

Forty-year-old Mr. Brooks is actually coming to America, and Texas, to participate in the Institute of International Relations in Dallas and San Antonio this week. He will leave the Institute a day early to make the stop in Hereford before proceeding on to Seattle, Washington.

Hereford Chamber of Commerce officials will meet the Englishman at the Amarillo airport.

Mr. Brooks is said to be especially qualified on Russian relations and is an excellent speaker from all reports. His background as Secretary of the British Friends Post War Service committee and honorary secretary of the Friends Industrial and Social Order Council lend credence to this report.

Local civic clubs have signified they will hold their regular weekly meetings Friday night instead of the usual times. They have been invited to bring their wives if they wish to. Price of the dinner will amount to the usual luncheon fee.

Packing Shed and Ice Plant Will Be Ready By July 15

Construction on the $250,000 commercial ice plant southeast of town and the $75,000 packing shed beside it, is moving along on schedule towards completion before cantalopes start coming in about the middle of July, construction superintendent Travis Jackson said Saturday.

All of the concrete has been poured for the ice plant, including the storage floor built to hold 23,000 tons. The floor of the packing shed has also been poured. If the building is up fast enough Jackson plans to wait and pour the floor so it will be protected from the sun. But L. Star Manufacturing Company of Oklahoma City, subcontractor on the building are slow, he will go ahead and pour.

Conveyor equipment cannot be put in until after the floor is down. The conveyor company of Los Angeles has the subcontract on the part of the construction.

Prefabricated steel material for the packing shed is expected this weekend out of Oklahoma City, Jackson added. The material for the ice plant building has been delayed about 10 days.

Howard Beasley, partner to Joe Ballinger and Chas. A. Houston, operators of the packing shed, said they are moving along fine and should be ready for the cantalopes in July and then carrots and lettuce in September. The former around the first and the latter about the 20th.

Ever So Often A Carnival Comes To Town; And Then.

A few months ago, Sheriff J. C. Reese went to a carnival in Hereford and picked up a woman for indecent exposure. She was part of the show.

Wednesday, he went again. This time, he found a game going on which he can't positively identify. The equipment being used was in form of wooden cubes (about the size of dice) with numbers on them. The accused claimed they weren't dice but Sheriff Reese said whatever they were they weren't right.

So he fined the guy $40 and costs, totaling $53.

Judge Schultz Is Candidate For District Judge

Judge Harry Schultz who has announced his candidacy for reelection as Judge of the 69th Judicial District, subject to action of the Democratic Primary made the following statement to The Brand this week.

Although it appears that I will not have an opponent, I again want to express my gratitude to the people of the district for electing me four years ago. I also want to let you know that, by conscientious and continuing effort, I have tried to merit the confidence you have shown in me.

First, I feel that I should mention my appreciation to the many men who, from time to time, have so ably and willingly served as jurors. While your services have been to me personally, your conscientious cooperation and willingness to serve has been more important in the administration of justice than anything I could mention. It has meant a great deal to me as a juror to have tried to do my duty in such ways, among others, as to be prompt in my attendance, to be fair and impartial in my verdict, to be ready to do my duty at all times, to be more than ready to do my duty in any case, to be as conscientious as possible in my deliberations, and to be willing to pay the expenses of the jury.

Some men summoned for jury service still find it confusing to be summoned to appear, initially, for jury service for such an hour as 1:30 P. M. Instead of the usual 10:00 a. m. This has been my practice in order that by starting the case that morning, on the day before, the preliminary legal matters would be out of the way, and everything would be in readiness to take up the main case. The jury is concerned with the facts of the case, or the charges the jury passes upon. The preliminary matters happened

Honolulu Releases While Others Lease

Upwards of 10,000 acres of land representing only a small part of the land leased for oil rights in Deaf Smith county, have been filed in the county clerk's office in the form of 23 leases. Deputy Clerk Lucille Posey said Friday abstract offices are swamped with more leases and bringing abstracts up to date.

Leases aren't filed until the abstracts are in order. Over 100,000 additional acres of lease are pending in abstract offices.

All filed leases, so far, are to Ewing Johnson. Only one lease, Mrs. Posey said, has been assigned to an oil company by Johnson N. A. Brown and wife leased Johnson 640 acres out of Capitol League 421 and 432, township 3N, range 2E. Johnson assigned this lease to the Staley Oil Company of Wichita Falls.

Hand in hand with the brisk oil leasing spree, Honolulu Oil Company has been releasing mineral rights steadily the last two months. Honolulu Oil, according to Mrs. Posey, had only to pay the annual 50 cents an acre to hold their leases.

Honolulu Oil Company, in 1948 according to county abstractor Alex Thompson, leased up about 20,000 acres. About eight months ago, a test well, sunk by Honolulu, was abandoned west of Hereford.

Some of the larger acreages on file now are from Maurice S. Tannahill and wife to Ewing Johnson, all of section 11; Andrew Kershen and wife to Johnson, all of section 155, block M-7; Charles S. Inman and wife to Johnson, all of section 16, block K-8.

Filing Deadline For County Offices Is Six Days Away

With the filing date deadline six days away, 13 candidates have filed for office in Deaf Smith county government.

Five elective county offices are unopposed at present. Robert Thompson is alone for the county clerk office, Velma Hodges is the only candidate filed for County Treasurer, J. C. Reese is up for County Tax Collector and Sheriff and Andy Thomas is the sole candidate for Justice of The Peace.

Funeral Services Will Be Today For Mrs. M. L. Steele

Final rites this afternoon for Mrs. M. L. Steele, 75, who died Friday at her home, 411 East Third in Hereford, will be held at First Methodist Church at 3 o'clock. Rev. Don Davidson will officiate.

Remembered primarily for his love of music and her keen interest in home beautification, Mrs. Steele was an active Methodist church worker. She was born June 6, 1875 in Tennessee and married M. L. Steele at Dundee, Wise County, Texas in 1897 as Nettie Pauline Hines. She was daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Hines. Her family moved to Texas in 1881.

Three Big Units Will Air-Condition Hotel

Hotel Jim Hill ballroom, lobby and coffee-shop will be air-conditioned before long according to an announcement by Corporation secretary Pete Cowart Saturday.

He said they are in the process of installing two 11,000 cubic feet per minute evaporative coolers for the ballroom and one small one, either a 6,000 or 8,000 cubic foot cooler for the other two rooms.

The air will be ducted through the kitchen from the roof where the coolers will be placed. There will be a complete air change every 2.15 minutes in the ball room.

Associated Federal Hotel engineers are handling the job.

Knights Of Columbus Elect New Officers

Other newly elected officers are: Frank Bezner, deputy Grand Knight; Ben Janacek, Chancellor; John Albracht, Jr., recording secretary; Bob Lamm, warden; Ed Loerwald, treasurer; William Betzen, advocate; Joe Bromma, inside guard; Ted Higgins, outside guard; Ray Wilhelm, trustee.

EVERYONE HAS A HAT And They May Be Similar But The Creases Differ

Almost every man wears a hat, and almost every hat will be creased in some shape or fashion. But, why does each particular fellow crease his hat as he does?

The answer to this seemingly simple question is even simpler, they wear it that way just because, or as one fellow says, "It's that way cause it ain't another."

All of this came up because Jimmie Flemming of Stephenville, owner of the Diamond J Ranch, likes his hats creased a certain way, and now a lawsuit is pending in federal court in Oklahoma.

Jimmie's battered hat will be used in evidence. He will get a new hat, but the courts may not let him crease it his way.

Caused A Suit

Because of the crease, one big hat company, which claims to have invented it, is suing another big hat company, Jimmie has made a deposition.

It all started at the State Fair of Texas.

Flemming was standing around not thinking of hats, when a man entered the arena leading a bull and someone said to Flemming: "Who is that?"

Flemming didn't know, but drew a quick character sketch of the stranger.

"How do you know all that?" he was asked.

"By the way he creases his hat," Flemming replied. Then he pointed out rancher after rancher. This man's hat meant he raised Herefords, he explained that one's marked the man from West Texas. Another man's NOBODY KNOWS WHY—Every man creases his hat, one way or another. But finding out why is something else. For example the Pitman brothers above, John and Mac, crease their hats with a "downtown" type crease. Former KIT foreman, C. B. Smith, top right, still creases his hat in the typical rancher style and Bob Higgins creases his in his own inimitable fashion. You just grab the top, put it on and wear it like it is. But even these three different styles of creases are worn on one type of hat, the typical hat in Hereford.

EVERYONE WAS BUSY — Things were really jumping at the Sims Community House opening Friday night, a week ago. The opening, which was attended by 250 persons from the community, Hereford, Vega and Friona, was a successful affair in every way. Uncle Jay of KGNC was the speaker for the evening. CENSUS FIGURES SHOW "HOW MANY," BUT NOT

What Kind Of People

Hereford is one of the few Panhandle towns which is still in doubt regarding the outcome of the 1950 census. People are, on every hand, pondering the question and making unofficial estimates.

Meanwhile, most towns and cities which have received official U. S. Government census figures have been doomed to disappointment. Tulsa, with slightly more than 3,100 population, threatened to bring suit. Floydada likewise is taking steps to combat official reports and threatens to take a census of their own through the Chamber of Commerce. Muleshoe's claimed 5,000 (and estimated 2,448. Perryton showed 4,399 as compared with 2,325 in 1940. Even Amarillo, with 73,000 people failed to show double the 1940 census.

This situation is due probably to the fact that growth has been so startling in most communities as to mislead residents. In addition, Chamber of Commerce estimates have been so generous as to build up a belief in larger populations. Most of these estimates are based upon figures which give four and one-third persons per light meter or gas meter connection—and the size of the average Panhandle family seems to have dropped sharply, indicating an average of around three persons per utility connection.

The real point is, "Don't hitch your hopes too high." In the 1940 census Hereford showed an official count of 2,584, while Deaf Smith County tallied 6,036. To date, towns and counties which have doubled in population have been indeed rare. Should Hereford turn up with a final count of 5,168 or more it will be one of the very few towns in the entire state to prove such startling growth; a population of 6,000 or greater will be most remarkable.

Of perhaps even greater importance is the type of people who today inhabit the area. Tremendous populations are generally based upon the increased number in negro areas, slums and undesirable living conditions. Except for seasonal occupations, Hereford has none of these situations, and even the labor camp is located outside the city limits. To us, people are still more than mere figures on a scrap of paper, and it is well to keep this factor in mind when computing and comparing population figures.

What's It Worth?

There is a lot of hazy thinking over the country as to education. The mere fact that a boy or girl manages to get a college diploma does not necessarily testify conclusively that their education has been a success. It takes more than dates, facts, formulae and figures to make an educated human being.

There are men and women all over the nation who have never been inside of a college but who, nevertheless, are better educated than some of the young graduates. When you know what we mean by this, you are beginning to show signs of education yourself.

Super Bombs?

The so-called hydrogen bomb, which the experts have described in superlative terms of destruction, may or may not be a possibility. Sumner T. Pike, acting-chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said that the chances for success in the manufacture of such a bomb is somewhere between "probable" and "possible."

In answering another question from a newspaper reporter, Mr. Pike said that recent suggestions that the Navy build a hull for an atomic-powered submarine, reveals that Admiral Forrest P. Sherman is "a bit of an optimist." He would not attempt to say how much of an optimist he considers the Admiral, but it was quite apparent that the atomic-powered ship is by no means a certainty.

Why is it that people always come around, asking for donations, but nobody ever comes around with a gift.

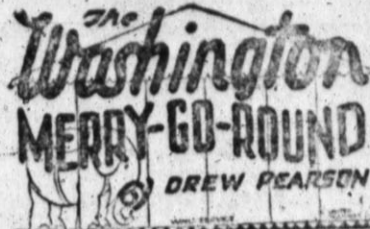

His generous fellowship no cold, medium knows, Burns with one love, with one sentiment glows. —Pope.

Will Polio Strike?

The people of Deaf Smith County, in common with others throughout the nation, are hoping that the current year will not produce a repetition of the 1949 poliomyelitis epidemic which was the worst in the country's history, striking 42,375 persons. If the disease continues its attacks, we can be comforted by the information reported by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

This organization admits that "no practical means of control" can be promised within a given number of years but reports "promising leads" to discoveries that may make possible control of the feared disease. Drugs, serums and vaccines against polio are at least "within the realm of possibility." Already definite progress has been made in isolation and identifying the types of virus or poison that cause infantile paralysis.

Another interesting item in the annual report of the organization, issued late in May, is that eighty per cent of the 1949 victims were assisted by the 2,822 chapters scattered throughout the United States. No person who came to the organization for help was turned away, although 1,089 chapters went broke "meeting the demands of the epidemic." All told, the chapters spent about $16,000,000 of their own funds and, in addition, about $11,000,000 in emergency assistance from the Foundation itself.

Jayces Sponsor Tour

A GANGLING Austrian youth with an engaging smile is the pay-off in a great campaign for international good will. He is Eric Geiger, a Junior Chamber of Commerce member, from Salzburg, Austria, and now an adopted son of Texas.

Geiger has been touring the United States as a guest of patriotic Jayces in the U.S.A., living in their homes, taking part in their dinner-table arguments, and meeting their friends.

The project began with letters exchanged between the Salzburg and Amarillo, Texas, Junior Chambers of Commerce. Finally, as one step in promoting people-to-people friendship, the Texas "adopted" the Salzburg chamber and arranged for Geiger's visit to the U.S.A. He stayed in Amarillo with a different member each day, and eventually arrived in Washington where he watched sessions of congress, took in the Lattimore hearing, and met Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Congress fascinated Geiger. "It is so democratic and so individual," he said. "In our parliament if a member dares defy his party, he must resign. Here, you have so much freedom!"

Communist Who's Who

The Communist Daily Worker has violently denounced Earl Browder, ex-leader of the Communists, and Bella V. Dodd, ex-Communist, following their testimony that Owen Lattimore was never a Communist party member nor a Soviet spy. You can't tell who's where or when about Communists any more. Speaking of who's where, the files of the Communist New Masses show that blue-blooded governor of Massachusetts, Leverett Saltonstall (now senator), wrote a special article for the New Masses in 1944 stating: "The Moscow pact and Cairo and Teheran parleys are the answer to the prayers of millions of people that nations can get along together." Better not let Senator McCarthy or Congressman Smathers see that. Also Gardner Cowles, Jr., publisher of Look, Quick and Flair praised the Russians in the same New Masses. So did A. M. Hamilton, vice president of American Locomotives. Incidentally, Earl Browder was expelled as boss of the Communist party for repeatedly arguing that Russia and capitalist America could live together harmoniously.

Capital News Capsules

KANSAS CITY CLEANUP—Most interesting fact developed at the Kansas City crime probe is that big racketeers are carefully obeying federal laws. They aren't afraid of state and city laws where local officials are easier to bribe. But they are afraid of federal laws. That's why the underworld is leaning over backward not to get caught in conspiracy. In Kansas City, at least, they operate in small groups, rather than in syndicates that cross state lines.

WHAT MCCARTHY REALLY SAID—Secretary of State Acheson now has two affidavits from people who heard and recorded Senator McCarthy's famous speech at Wheeling, W. Va., stating that the state department had 205 card-carrying Communists. The manager of the local radio station, who recorded McCarthy's speech, is one of those who is giving the state department an affidavit.

BYRD'S LOBBY—Senators can thank their colleague, Harry Byrd of Virginia, for increasing their office work. Byrd secretly inspired a flood of telegrams to congress on deficit spending. He even dictated what several groups should say in their wires to congress. The farm equipment association promptly appealed to its dealers to carry out Byrd's bidding, but warned: "Please do not mention Senator Byrd's name in your telegram to congressmen, and change the wording around so that all wires will not read the same."

AIKEN'S PAID AUDIENCE—Good old Senator Aiken of Vermont can add the name of another public official who has been speaking to paid audiences—himself. Aiken stirred up a national hoopla over the fact that the agriculture department paid Minnesota county committeemen to hear Secretary of Agriculture Brannan speak in St. Paul. But the other night, Aiken, himself, addressed a similar meeting of Vermont county committeemen in Burlington. They were also paid, as is the custom in every state.

U.S. COLD WAR STRATEGY—GHQ for the new cold war offensive will be the grimy old state, war and navy building next to the White House. The planning of strategy will be by two agents known to few Americans—the national security council and the national security resources board. They will call the signals for the defense department, atomic energy commission, the state department, ECA, and other agencies. This explains why Stuart Symington, a head-up operator, was taken from his post as secretary of air to run the resources board.

EAST BERLIN'S BLUE SHIRTS:

LOUISA'S LETTER

Dear Louisa:
I married a man whose home is in the country. I had always lived in town and didn't realize how lonesome and inconvenient it would be to live away from the city but here I am. I don't know what to do.

I feel like leaving everything and going back to my old job in town. I love my husband and he tries to make things as easy for me as possible but I am so unhappy. I asked him to give up the farm and get a job in town, but he is not willing to do this as he says farming is all he knows and that before long we will be able to have some conveniences.

What do you think will be the best solution to our problem?

Answer:
The best solution of your problem is my way of thinking is for you to try to get your chin up and try to make your husband a happy home. You know he lived in the country when you married him and that was the way in which he expected to support you, so why be a crybaby now and try to get out of your bargain?

A man has a hard enough job these days making a living for a family with the help of an understanding wife who does her part, but be certainly handicapped if his wife is a whining, dissatisfied creature who thinks only of herself.

If your husband is a good farmer and can make a good living doing such work you would certainly be foolish to try to tear him away from his home for some uncertain work in the city. People are beginning to go back to the country now—a days for a freer, fuller life. What with radios, telephones, automobiles, a country home should be a lonesome one if people love each other.

Yours,
LOUISA.

Take this pi line out you dope!

Dear Louisa:
My wife storms around and screams at the children in an effort to make them obedient, but the only result so far as I can see, is to make them scream back and give way to their tempers.

Don't you think that children will listen to a person who speaks quietly just as well as to one who screams?

Answer:
I think that they will pay a great deal more attention to a parent who controls her temper than one who expects to be obeyed in proportion to the noise she makes.

Children learn more by example than they do by talk and a well-behaved parent who controls his temper will have well-behaved children and vice versa, as a usual thing.

LOUISA.

The measure of a man's worth to the Organized Reserve Corps must be taken not in the rewards that he may acquire, but in that portion of his life and talents which he has devoted to the welfare of others.

Babies dyin' from lack of food and medical care in our own civilized prosperous community sounds pretty bad and if it takes a three handkerchief story to spur us into action, Mrs. Brady certainly has the background for plenty of them. Seems we are expectin' too much of the Red Cross even if eighty-five cents of every dollar we gave does remain in our county.

Money talks of course but sometimes its vocabulary is limited.

Well, apparently sheep can do something for bird weed that accordin' to Rodger Hamilton of the Bushland Experiment Station hasn't been proven for 2-4-D yet. It took two years of systematic grazin'—by that we mean the sheep were penned at night where they could bite the weeds off each mornin' before bein' turned out to pasture—and it looks as if it gave up without much of a struggle since this is the second year and no sign of a come back.

As modern as tomorrow is a pretty good comparison when we take a good look at the offices of Sam Nunnally, Tom Howard, Bill Howard and J. W. Robinson, Jr. and right next door at the Frozen Food Lockers we had made a number of trips through scaffolds and workmen back to our locker but had just supposed that they were enlargin' their show room until we walked in last Saturday to find a neatly and completely stocked grocery with Mr. and Mrs. Garland Campbell behind the counters.

People are always impressed by a youngster like Sam Lesley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lesley, who is very thoughtful of others about him.

When we observe some of the results of modern psychology we still think that perhaps the most effective place to apply the psychology book would be to the seat of the pants.

The BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher has some more opinions on television, his letter this week reveals again.

Dear editor:
I must have television on my mind, since my letter to you last week was on the subject, but yes, today I found another newspaper which turned up out here which had another angle on television and its effect on farming.

According to this article, "Television is going to stem the tide of farm population moving from farms to the big cities—a flow of residents which has almost depopulated some farmland areas." Television takes, to the farm the one big luxury of city life, entertainment, and that alone will make many farm residents happy with their lot."

Now I ain't familiar with much land goes to waste, and while I ain't familiar with many farmers who have thrown up their hands and moved to the city just to be near the kind of entertainment I understand you can get on a television set, there may be some who've done it. But if you ask me, folks who leave the farm for the city don't leave for the entertainment values so much as the fact you don't drive a tractor up one row and work another in a city, don't work from sunup to sundown. While I have heard farmers say they're givin' up farmin' in order to get the advantages of the city, generally it works out it ain't the cultural advantages of the city they're interested in so much as the shade. It's them electric fans and air conditioning in the summer and steam heat in the winter that does the trick.

Nope, when a man makes up his mind to quit farmin', ain't no television set invented yet that'll hold him there.

Farmin' is a way of life, a fight between you and a plow and the soil, all by yourself, and is probably responsible for more bankers, teachers, lawyers, doctors, county agents, and store clerks than any other occupation.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION:

Supreme Court Ruling Is A Controversial One

What do you think of the recent Supreme Court ruling permitting negroes to enroll at the University of Texas and University of Oklahoma?

Bill Landrum (UT grad. 1948): I feel very strongly about the situation as I graduated from Texas. I, needless to say, am against the ruling. During my last year at the university, they set up an excellent law school and had some of the best professors in the country—some from Harvard law school—to lecture to classes. But none of the negroes showed up. Some of our Texans, who have often wanted the advantages of perhaps better universities in the east, have refused to go to eastern schools because they will not associate with negroes, socially. The negro will have to do something to merit social equality before he will be accepted here. I have met this negro who wants to go to TU. In my opinion, he is being ram-rodged in by an organization and education is not the motive. A tea was given in honor of this negro and several of us attended out of curiosity—to see what he looked like. It might be legal for negroes to go to University of Texas, but I don't think it will be very healthy. They won't be socially accepted and they shouldn't be. This is my opinion and I am speaking for myself, grad and for myself.

Heleen Acker ('49 UT grad.): I would not associate with them socially and I don't think there will be any need to mingle with them. They don't cause any trouble in class and are good students, I guess. I have never come in contact with a negro and I don't know how they act. So I don't have a very good opinion.

Buck Allam (OU grad. '50): Seven states had the opportunity last year to go together and build one big university for negroes. Had they done so, the negroes would have had the advantages of a university which would have been as fine as any in the United States. But they couldn't get together so they didn't build the university. Therefore I am in favor of the Supreme Court ruling. I visited Langston University in Oklahoma and the conditions I found to exist appalled me. It was a shame what those negro students have to go through to get an education. The state of Oklahoma has enough money to build a negro university which would be as good as the University of Oklahoma. But they didn't. I believe in social equality—even though I am from the South—and I hope the negroes take advantage of their new opportunity. They have to be taught the American way of life in some way. I have gone to school with negroes in Kansas and they didn't cause any trouble.

Naomi Hopson: I don't believe negroes are ready for such a move. But they never will be ready unless they are more educated. This is impossible without such steps as the recent ruling. I think the problem involved is a moral one. It isn't a racial question. It is a matter of education and evolution.

Wedding In Tulia Sunday Announced By Friends

A wedding of interest here which has been announced recently, is that of Miss Anna Ruth Humphreys, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Humphreys of Tulia, to Ward B. Benson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward B. Benson, Sr. of Galveston.

Rev. J. B. Thompson, pastor of the Tulia Methodist Church, read the marriage service, May 28 as the couple and their attendants stood before the church altar against a background of white summer blossoms, greenery and lighted tapers.

Miss Colleen Ward was organist and accompanied Miss Elaine Turney, soloist. Miss Zoe Evelyn Humphreys was his sister's maid of honor and wore a green net over taffeta. Bridesmaids were Mary Beth Newby and Grace Collins of Tulsa, Okla. They wore yellow and rose frocks respectively.

John Glenn of Denton was best man and ushers were Neal Yynch of Galveston and Howard Humphreys, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white starched chiffon and Magdalene lace, designed with portrait neckline and fitted bodice. The bouffant skirt, worn over hoops, had lace insets and extended into a formal train. Her fingertip veil fell from a halo of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis showered with white satin streamers.

When the couple left for Denton where both are senior students at North Texas State College, the bride was wearing a navy linen suit with navy accessories and a gardenia corsage.

SIMS COMMUNITY HOUSE OPENING—Anybody doubting the fact that food was plentiful at the Sims Community House opening can cease doubting, here is the evidence. Things were also well under control from the management end, as shown by the group in the background.

The bride is the daughter of the former Miss Gladys Kilgore who was head of the music department of Hereford High School for several years. She married W. R. Humphreys in the Hereford Methodist Church at the close of her last year here. Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. S. L. Easley and Mrs. Reed Williams of Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Neil Observe Golden Wedding

Open house from 3 to 5 will be held this afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Roberson honoring her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Neil on their golden wedding anniversary. They are former Deaf Smith County residents, now of Lubbock.

Invitations have been extended to old friends and relatives and all of the couple's nine children are expected to attend. They include L. O. Neil of Lubbock, T. O. of Sweetwater, Mrs. B. E. Roberson, Hereford, Mrs. Herbert Ray, Levelland, Pat of San Angelo, William, Jr., Abilene, George W. of Water Valley, Mrs. John Graham, Lubbock and Kenneth, Summerfield.

Mrs. John Barry of Amarillo has been a guest of Mrs. Seth B. Holman this weekend.

Although there hasn't been a case of anybody suing anybody because of the way they crease their hats, there is plenty of versatility and also an apparent style in Hereford.

A general division might put the cattlemen on one side and the wheatmen on the other. Then you'll find the majority of the businessmen favor the latter style while the rancher style is also worn some by this group.

Pictures Show It

These two styles as shown in the pictures are used on the same general type of hat. That much is more or less standard as far as felts go. Former XIT foreman C. R. Smith shows the usual "Cattlemen" style crease which is made down the center and on both sides. J. A. and J. M. Pitman crease their hats in the more popular style which we are referring to as the "wheatman's" style.

The peculiar part of this is that nobody seems to really know why he creases his hat as he does.

Of course there are exceptions; take Bob Higgins for example, with his individual manner of creasing his hat.

The old XIT cowhand wears a unique crease in his hat that looks as if he just grabbed hold of the top of it and put it on.

"Limb" Trouble

In fact he started wearing it that way for just that reason, and has never stopped. Bob was originally from down Willbarger County where they have fields of trees. He says he came to Deaf Smith County when he developed "limb" trouble.

Here's how he tells it: "One day I was riding along the creek and came up to a tree where an ex-rustler was hanging. I rode a little further and passed a tree where an ex-horse thief was hanging. A little further down the way I came up to another tree with another cow thief hanging from a tree, and I just turned my horse around and went home. I went in the front door, grabbed my other best hat and started out the back with an armload of grub. My mother asked me where I was going and I said out where there's no trees."

So he came to West Texas. When he grabbed that hat in a big hurry he just naturally didn't take time to crease it properly like he just crammed it down on his head and started riding. Ever since he's been wearing his hats the same way.

He has a couple of boys, G. T. and A. B., and ever so often he says one of them will crease his hat up real nice. But it just don't stay that way.

Bob is a cattlemen of the old school. He has three sections on his place. One of them cost him $16 and another $50 that he borrowed from Andrew Lipscomb, Postmaster Jim Lipscomb's father. He got the original one from the state.

As an example of how folks recognize a West Texan, Bob tells how he was down at Tyler for the Birdwell and Sons Thoroughbred sale several weeks ago. He said several people stopped him and asked if he wasn't from this section of the state. And the only good reason he can think of that they would have for asking this is the way he creases and wears his hat.

For the Youngsters

As far as the Bulldog Crush is concerned in this neighborhood, it belongs to the youngsters. And like Mr. Smith says you don't see much of them except around rodeos. Back a few years ago he believes the term

"lillybean" would have been a fitting description of the wearer.

Ed Curtsinger hits his hat once, right down the middle, and that's the end of the crease as far as he's concerned.

Joe Smith has been wearing an old white hat around this summer, that he says "You can fold up and put in your pocket without hurting it." And Homer Fox says he thinks it looks better in his pocket than on his head.

Walter Seeds, Bob Wear, Roger Corbett and a few others don't wear hats. And of course Bill Harris has his derby for formal occasions like "Pioneer Day" celebrations.

But most of all, when you start delving into how a man creases his hat, you get the feeling that they are pretty much the same after all, because like a member of the 81st Congress recently said on the floor of the House of Representatives in Washington, "Light Stetson hats have become a badge of the west."

judge plays in the outcome of the case is passing on the law points and instructing the jury in the written charge concerning the law that pertains to the case.

Even though litigation and court work is now perhaps twice as much as it has ever been in his district, I doubt that there has ever been a time when the lockets were as near caught up. While I keep scheduling business as far in advance as any cases are ready for trial, yet I usually find time available to set any case for trial for a date within 30 days from the time one is ready. The continuous court terms have aided greatly in making this possible. Naturally, this results in considerable traveling, even though I try to keep jury cases in any one county grouped together as much as possible.

Occasionally it has been commented that the former system of having two brief terms of court in each county during the year seemed better than the present system of having trials at irregular intervals of time throughout the year. I can assure you that the extra work and travel it causes a judge are more than offset by the convenience and practicalness of the present continuous terms in making it possible to get business disposed of in all counties as rapidly as it develops.

One of the attractive things about the opportunity of serving in this capacity is the chance to learn, yet, I'm happy to report that thus far the higher courts have been kind enough to reverse only one case that necessitated a second trial of the case. The verdict in the second trial was exactly the same as the one in the first.

It has been a great pleasure to serve you as district judge. I trust that the sense of duty and fairness that I have tried to show have been sufficiently acceptable to merit the opportunity to continue to serve you.

that none of the cases set for that day would be tried. This has sometimes resulted in cases being settled in that interval between the time the trial of the case began and the time for the jurors to appear for service.

I have tried to keep in touch with jury cases after they are set for trial, and if at any time I learned before the date set for trial, that the trial could not be held as scheduled, I have had notices sent to the jurors cancelling the trial. I have also had some jurors who have saved some 2 miles or more, but I have not passed some jurors. The starting of the jury cases, is a practical reduced delay and the cancelling of time of jurors is an expense during the trial of each case. The law does not authorize the proceedings in criminal cases. This proceeding helps to reduce the number of witnesses and other expenses to reduce the time required for the trial of a case. Also at this time the possibilities of an appeal of court settlement are explained and often results in the need of trying the case being eliminated.

In recent months, whenever possible, I have mailed to each juror, at the time he is summoned and before time to report for jury duty, a set of instructions explaining the nature of the duties of a juror. This was done because of the fact that the only other opportunity to learn what is involved in serving as a juror is by repeated service as a juror. It usually happens that half or more of those summoned and those who are selected to serve have had no experience on juries. The importance of the functions of a jury is appreciated when thought is given to the fact that all through the trial of a jury case the only part the

About Your Home

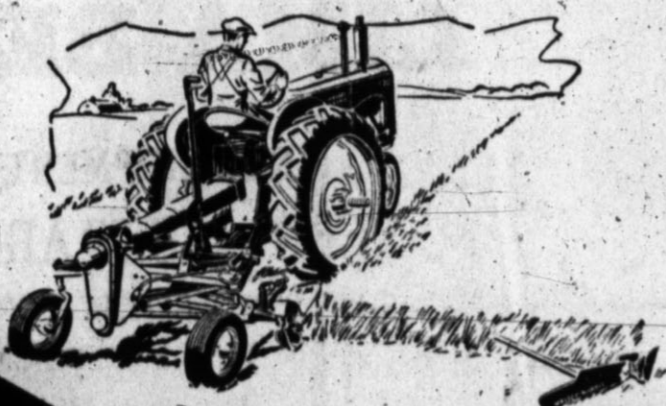

By Frances DeJl

Silver grows more beautiful through use if given the proper care.
Coming in contact with certain things will cause silver to tarnish. Keep silver away from matches, eggs, rubber and gas fumes.
Wash silver as soon as possible after use with mild soap suds then rinse in clear water. Dry immediately. Silver left standing too long after a meal often collects hard-to-remove stains.
A polishing cloth helps keep silver bright. An occasional cleaning with silver polish is necessary to keep silver new looking. Buy a reliable polish and follow directions on the container.
A brush is helpful when removing polish from elaborately designed silver.
If silver is rotated, all pieces will look alike. Stored in anti-tarnish rolls or cabinets and kept away from things which discolor it, there will be little trouble with tarnish.
Temperature changes affect silver. If possible, keep it in a room with an even temperature.

Adams scaled the last 14 feet of the pole after campus workmen erected an 87-foot scaffold. WHOOOSH — THIS IS THE KINDA GUY WHO

Replaced The Man Of The Flying Trapeze

If your boy was out at the carnival last week and saw that fellow get himself blown out the end of the cannon, he will probably be trying something similar soon, if you don't watch him.

The getting-shot-out-of-a-cannon business is a profession which combines the thrills of snap-rolling a F-36 Thunderjet and hitting the forward wall of the Notre Dame football team — all at the same time.

W-W Wilno, 47-year-old German born watchmaker who was with the carnival, can give a few statistics. He doesn't go through the actual act these days because he retired on doctors orders. He said he got to where he couldn't keep his bones in the right sockets so he thought it was time to quit.

A Little Easier Now
Wilno's job, now, is simply firing the charge. He has an assistant who takes all the risks of being blown apart.

Wilno "The Great" came just 19 years close to his ambition — being shot every day for 20 years. He, during his stretched-out career, has performed since 1927. He came to America in 1929 when his agents guaranteed him $500 a week and expenses.

Since the beginning, Wilno figures he has been "shot out" eight months of each 19 years. Narrowing statistics down he flatly declares he has made the big blow 7,600 times. He traveled 250 feet each time, which accumulated quite a few fast miles of quite a unique medium.

Missed The Net
He, yes it happened, missed the net at Syracuse the same year he came to the states — 1929. His reprieve came in the form of quick thinking. He undershot the net and had to reach out and get it with his hands before he hit the ground — at more than 100 per. He wasn't hurt much. Just a broken collar bone and a few ruined ribs. He lost his left eye in the process of biting his tongue in half.

Wilno hasn't much patience with greenhorns at the job. He says they can't think fast enough. He says they should act the part when they are shot.

But he also says a persons body accelerates from zero to 100 miles per hour by the time it comes out the end of that cannon. Wilno has never remembered the actual explosion of the cannon. He reveals his mind is solely on coming out of the barrel alive and putting on a good show of hitting the net.

Don't Think Clearly
He says most of the "cannon balls" have trouble thinking clearly. He says the thing to remember is to have your body as hard as a rock for the explosion. He says a weakling can't take it. If your body is relaxed and limber when the charge goes off, you've had it. It will mash you up just like a lead bullet hitting a piece of steel.

After that, 1929 near-fatality,

Wilno turned his work over to his assistant until he could recover his health. His assistant made some pretty good jumps. Two were real good, and the third was a pip. He killed himself.

So tell your boy to get plenty of practice before he tries to shoot himself out of a cannon. He will have to be in as good a shape as any All-American football player and have nerves cool as a jet fighter pilot. It's just as rough and fast.

Be sure junior has a good set of life insurance, too.

Mrs. Springer Tells Frio HD Club How To Prepare Iced Tea

"The best way to prepare tea for iced tea drink", said Mrs. W. A. Springer, in answering roll call at the Frio HD club meeting, Thursday, "is to place tea leaves in cold water and let stand several hours. Do not heat, at all, as almost everyone does. Use about the amount you would use as ordinarily prepared". That was one answer to the roll call on "Cool drink and foods for summertime". Several other helpful answers were given by other members.

The meeting was at the home of Mrs. W. C. Lowery, with Mrs. W. J. Dickson, assisting the hostess.

The president conducted the business meeting, with several T. H. D. A. papers being filled out, and matters concerning council being taken care of.

Mrs. Owen Andrews gave a demonstration on ironing with an automatic ironer. She ironed a shirt and dress, among other things. Mrs. Floyd Cole, program chairman, planned the program which was changed from the planned one in the yearbook. The one originally planned was a field trip to some point of interest. The club plans to do this by visiting the cannery, in July, if it is in operation by that time.

Those present for the meeting were Mesdames H. F. Benson, W. J. Dickson, J. E. Warrick, T. L. Sparkman, Sr., Sam Lindley, Floyd Cole, C. N. McClure, Glenn Gripp, W. A. Springer, E. B. Berryman, Frank Robbins, Henry Dobbs, Owen Andrews, E. E. Vogler and the hostess. Refreshments planned in keeping with the roll call, were served, including a salad and an iced drink.

The next meeting will be about work simplification, and will be in the W. A. Springer home, on June 22nd.

Attention Mr. Wheat Farmer!

DON'T DELAY MAKING YOUR ARRANGEMENTS FOR YOUR SEED WHEAT COME IN NOW, AND LET US HELP YOU

We all know it doesn't pay to gamble. Neither will old, undesirable varieties out-yeild new, desirable varieties of wheat. Cash returns per acre are definitely highest with new improved varieties. Besides the increased yields, millers this coming season are offering premiums for earlots of wheat high in percentage of acceptable types. Undesirable types now going to export may be discounted or avoided entirely. Seventy per cent of today's bread is baked in commercial bake-shops that use mechanical mixers and require strong gluten varieties of wheat. Housewives will not accept poor bread at any price. Texas wheat growers today know they must grow strong gluten varieties to improve the demand for their wheat.

Appetizing, Economical Dish For Meal Planner

In solving meal planning problems homemakers are turning to economical dishes that not only offer variety but are tempting during warmer weather. Pork chops are relatively reasonable and when combined with a vegetable they provide a rich store of nutrients in relation to their cost.

Mrs. L. Z. Oldham who delighted ed members of the Rotary Club and Lion's Club with her cuisine skill every week for years, worked up a recipe for Fork Chop-Potato Scallop and sixed it down family style for this column. Here it is:

Fork Chop-Potato Scallop

Paré and slice a layer of Irish potatoes in the bottom of a large buttered baking dish, season with salt and pepper, add a touch of crushed onion, and sift a thin layer of flour over potatoes. Dot with butter and repeat the layers of potatoes in like manner until the baker is 3/4 full. Pour milk over all until milk is barely visible and set in slow oven to bake.

While potatoes are starting to cook, take five small pork chops and dip in milk, to which has been added a little salt and pepper, and roll in fine bread crumbs low neckline and three quarter length sleeves and full skirt. Her flower trimmed picture hat was of bako straw in the same color with the velvet streamers at the side-back. Her flowers were lilies of the valley and sweetheart roses made into a corsage and her only ornament was a string of heirloom pearls belonging to her mother.

Long Time Ago

45 Years Ago
During June, 1905, the small grain crop in Deaf Smith was the largest harvested up to that time.

Jno. B. Yaeger, Huston, wrote the postmaster in Hereford asking if there was an ice plant in this city. He said he had a 15 and a 20 ton ice plant he could move here for operation at an early date if enough capital could be raised to erect a building and pay for part of the machinery. He said a plant could be put in for about $25,000. The letter was printed in The Brand.

George A. Stambaugh offered excellent specimens of his well-developed cherries. He had several trees in his yard bearing fruit.

W. M. Cogdell completed the scholastic census for and 1906 and found that the Hereford schools could expect from 350 to 375 pupils for the next year. It was a gain of 75 to 100.

Death took one of the oldest pioneers of Texas, James Madison Franks. His funeral was in Dimmit June 9, 1905 with Rev. A. W. Crawford officiating.

Dr. W. J. Rogers kept the spirit of progress going when they improved his residence. The doctor told Brand reporters he would let the contract for an addition of a 16x18 room, a modern roof and a circular stairway.

A large delegation of farmers and business men heard the address of Col. James S. Davis in the county courtroom in June of 1905.

G. R. Jowell escaped death when the new hydraulic ram he was hauling came tumbling off the wagon as he attempted to cross the creek at C. E. Wheeler's place. Some of the timbers used for foundation struck Jowell's head, cutting off one of his ears. He also received a heavy blow on his left side, breaking one of his ribs.

Mrs. J. E. Kanudson, who came to Hereford from Iowa because of her health, died at her residence. Her body was returned to Iowa for burial.

Two young people of Hereford surprised everyone by getting married. Carl Gilliland and Miss Irene Estes tied the knot in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Estes. Judge W. H. Russell officiated.

Rev. T. J. Talley, Temple, arrived in Hereford and preached an interesting sermon at the Baptist Church.

The Hereford Mercantile improved its store by installing a 10 foot notion case.

Your House Begins With You Is Another On 'House' List

By Corinne Jennings

In spite of the advantage of planning your own home, you will always need an architect, but play up the importance of your own ideas, says H. Vandervoort Walsh in his newly released house plans book which he has titled "Your House Begins With You."

After studying a number of plans and your friends and neighbor's houses your taste will become more discriminating he adds.

You cannot plan your house without planning your money, your time, and your building space first, but once these are settled, proceed with your drawings and consult your architect. Your own ideas will express 'you' in the results.

Walsh guides you step by step in your plans which you may supplement with other books your own ideas and adapt them to those he submits to fit your needs. This volume is not one of ready-made plans but one of suggestions, ideas, plans and devices to be fitted in with your own arrangements.

Little things count up in building a home for better living of the family, and the author suggests a room by room sketch, carefully considering your areas and its future use; your furniture, its size and height.

Other than the technical and practical points to be considered the book gives many unique, modern and unusual suggestions and aids to furnish you more for your space, individuality and your money.

One learns from it when to flout convention in the arrangements and uses of the house, where to compromise and when to sacrifice essentials to family happiness. One learns too when not make a change to the novel if it is not practical.

Many sketches supplement his suggestions; showing devices to gain economy, how to use your stock of materials, built-in storage both in the house and the garage, show places for your hobbies, model kitchens and what makes them so, garage and workshop combined, and many other space savers and clever combinations.

Built-in pieces, how to avoid monotony, room arrangements, ideas for the master bedroom, and more plans in drawings and print to give you the most for your building dollar.

Suggested supplement material are two books "Your Dream House - How to Build For Less than $3500", by Hubbard Cobb which is now high on the non-fiction best seller list and another popular one by Toumey, "How to Build Your Own Home."

Every woman who has seen Helen Kouse's "The American Woman's Encyclopedia" for general interior decoration of the home, has marveled at the in-

Home Gardeners Store Potatoes

Home gardeners will soon be digging and storing their spring Irish potato crop. The length of time will depend upon where you store them and the condition they are in when they are dug. J. E. Hutchison, associate extension horticulturist, specialist of Texas A. & M. College.

He says let the potatoes mature before digging them. Potatoes can be dug before the tops die, but they should be mature if you expect to keep them in storage any length of time. Here is a simple and easy method for checking maturity. Press the thumb against the skin of a few potatoes. If the skin is tough and doesn't break easily, the crop is ready for harvesting.

If excessive rainfall has occurred just prior to harvest, you are likely to find the potatoes covered with water blisters (small elevated white spots) on the skin. Hutchison says harvesting should be delayed until these blisters have dried. If the potatoes are harvested when they are "sappy" or "blistered" heavy losses may result from rotting.

He says you can do a good job of digging the crop by running a middle buster or turning plow eight to ten inches deep under the row of potatoes. The skinned or damaged should be separated from the good ones when they are picked up. Use the damaged potatoes first for they will not keep well in storage. He points out that potatoes should be handled almost as carefully as eggs and as soon as they have been picked up, they should be placed in the shade to prevent blistering.

A cool, well-ventilated cellar makes a satisfactory storage place for the potatoes, provided it has an overhead vent for ventilation. The door and venshould be open at night, and closed during the day time. This practice will help keep the cellar cool.

If the potatoes are stored in buildings or under them, good rca ventilation is a necessity. When potatoes in storage are exposed to light, they will turn green and are undesirable for human consumption. Hutchison says it is best not to spread the potatoes on a floor or on the ground. They'll keep better if placed on a slatted false floor with about four inches of air space under it. Small poles or hay placed under the potatoes will help for what you want is an arrangement that will permit air to completely circle the potato.

Plenty of ventilation will pick up moisture and keep the potatoes dry and this will reduce the storage losses from rotting. He says there isn't much point in producing potatoes if they are not handled and stored properly.

Mrs. L. A. Ricketts and children Larry and Nancy of Fort Worth have arrived for a two weeks stay with Mrs. Ida Ricketts, L. A. Ricketts, son of Mrs. Ricketts, will come later to accompany his wife and children home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mountz have returned from a month vacation trip which took them through Colorado, Arizona, Washington and California. They traveled approximately 5000-miles by car and made many trips to scenic spots with relatives in Washington and Colorado.

Ben Guill Reports To The People

Last week I was asked to appear on the "Meet the Press" radio program. This program is looked upon with a certain amount of alarm by my colleagues in Congress. The newspaper men and women who interviewed the "victim" pull no punches. They come prepared with written notes and prepared questions and the "victim" hasn't the foggiest notion what he's going to be asked. Since the press corps in Washington include some of the best informed people in the country, a man can be made to look foolish in a hurry if he doesn't have the right answers.

Actually, the program is a very healthy idea. Can you imagine any other country where a politician would submit himself to impromptu questioning like that? It's the essence of democracy in action.

Another healthy aspect of "Meet the Press" is the way in which a Senator or a Congressman is cut down to size and made to appear as a human being. You listen to somebody you've read about, all your life and you suddenly realize he has the same faults you have, and that he pulls on his pants one leg at a time, just like anyone else.

REUNION AFTER JAIL SENTENCE — Henry Durham (right), of Houston, Tex., is reunited with his wife and children at his wife's mother's home in Stonebridge Lane, West Derby, Liverpool, Eng. Durham was sentenced to 14 days in an English jail for stowing away to England to join his family. The reunion came after his completed serving the time. His wife, Veronica, holds Amber, 18 months, and Durham holds Beverly, eight months. (AP Photo)

On the program we talked about my vote against the extension of the E.C.A. A couple of reporters made no bones about disagreeing with my vote.

Of course, that's everyone's privilege. I voted against further E.C.A. funds because there were several jokers in the bill I didn't like. For instance, Point 4 of the Bill opens the door for a permanent Marshall Plan. I'm in favor of the Marshall Plan and perhaps it should be continued longer than the original 1953 deadline. But I don't think we should stick our necks out in favor of a permanent Marshall Plan. If we're going to ourselves open to sending money over to Europe forever, then the matter should be treated in a separate bill of its own and be given special and exhaustive debate.

It's a serious commitment and, I think, a foolish and dangerous commitment. It had no place in the E.C.A. Act.

There was also an appropriation of $80,000,000 in the bill to build dams, water works and other projects in Tanganyika, the Cameroons and other places in Africa. There were twenty projects altogether. Well, you know and I know that you can't build twenty dams for eighty million dollars. It will cost around four hundred million dollars. The smaller figure was put in just as a come-on to commit us so we won't be able to back out in the future.

Well, I'm against trickery like that. If they want to spend four hundred million dollars for African dams, then they should say so. They shouldn't try to fool the people and fool the Congress. I'm a little less than enthusiastic about spending all that money on dams in Africa when we're having our troubles borrowing enough money from the government to build the Canadian River dam.

The State Department hasn't been too frank about how it's spending E.C.A. money, either. For instance, when it was brought out that our tax money was going to be spent to rebuild a gambling casino in LaHavre, France, the State Department hastily announced it had decided not to build that particular casino. I did a little checking, however, and found that the State Department failed to mention that it was using our money through E.C.A. to build not one, but three other gambling casinos along the French Riviera. I don't see any reason why our hard-earned dollars should be spent to build French gambling halls.

It's a funny thing, those countries which have received the least Marshall Plan help have made the best recovery since the war. I refer to Holland, Belgium and Norway. They also have had less trouble with Communism. Look at all the money we have spent in Italy — and people in Washington are predicting that Italy is going to recognize Communist China before the month is out. It looks as if that old adage about God helping those who help themselves applies to countries just as much as it does to people.

Some of the folks made an issue about the fact that I didn't agree with the other Texas Congressmen on this issue. Well when I was elected I said I wouldn't shout "Me, too!" in Congress and I don't think the people of the Panhandle want me to vote any way except how my conscience dictates.

Progressive Club Members Wear 'Homemade' Corsage

A rainbow setting of club personnel climaxed a pleasant afternoon in the spacious yard of Mrs. E. O. Billingslea's beautiful country home Tuesday at the meeting of Progressive Home demonstration Club.

Each member wore a corsage which was an achievement of her own hands during the demonstration. Miss Augustine Gregory, leader, and Mrs. E. O.

Billingslea, teacher, covered the rules and construction governing corsages: 1. Personality of wearer, 2. Time and occasion, 3. Formal, semi-formal and sports, 4. Costume, 5. Harmony in color combination.

Mrs. V. E. Dodson, council delegate, reported on the district meeting May 27. Mrs. T. J. Parsons announced she is leaving June 10 with the 4-H girls for A&M College. Miss Lucille Park was elected as nominee for the State Convention to be held shortly.

A new working plan and roll call was out-lined and discussed. Club is to sponsor a party shower honoring Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Burges, recent bride and room, at the school house on the evening of June 27. Mesdames Ira Ricketts, Calvin Edwards and Miss Lucille Park were named as a committee in charge.

Mrs. T. J. Parsons offered her well-lighted yard for the Annual July 4 Picnic.

Next meeting will be held with Mrs. D. Y. Edwards, June 20. Mrs. Calvin Edwards is to serve as co-hostess.

Attending were Mesdames C.

ert Barnhart, C. C. Baueman, E. E. Clark, Leon Coffin, Pete Carmichael, V. E. Dodson, Herman Drake, Calvin Edwards, D. Y. Edwards, Taft McGee, Clyde Russell, Ira Ricketts, T. J. Parsons, C. R. Weathers, Miss Lucille Park and Miss Augustine Gregory and the hostess.

Visitors included Mrs. L. B. Drake and Mrs. Beatrice Adams, mother of Mrs. E. O. Billingslea.

NEW POWER AND ECONOMY WITH MM MODEL U AND LP GAS

LP gas equipment factory installed on Minneapolis-Moline UTU and UTS tractors offers owners the many advantages of this clean burning high-octane fuel. Complete and slow burning of LP gas make possible new smoothness and uniform bearing pressures. This gives you more power on tough plowing jobs and exceptional smoothness for careful cultivating jobs — gives you the hidden savings resulting from greatly reduced maintenance savings and oil economy.

Apply these added fuel benefits to the MM Universal or Standard U tractors that are power and economy leaders in the 3-4 plow power class and you have truly outstanding performance. See us for full particulars on LP gas equipment, factory installed to save you time and money on field changeover.

Mr. Wheat Farmer

Want to be sure of getting hit with a Horseshoe?

Enough people have been lucky to give rise to this expression, but you the wheat farmer can and do make your own luck when it comes to planting the proper kind of seed wheat. Your record marketing acceptable milling wheat has been on the increase from the percentage standpoint. We as elevator and milling operators are proud of your record and admonish you to take caution and plant only the varieties that continue to keep us in the higher brackets.

CAUTION -- Is the watch word now for all of the Wheat Farmers in this area -- Yes, we must use caution in the varieties of wheat we plant for the season coming up -- We have made tremendous gains percentage-wise in more marketable wheat -- let's not plant any variety of wheat that will sacrifice our recent gains.

Recommended Wheat Seed Varieties For This Area

White, enriched, graham or wholewheat—sandwiches, toast or gravy—butter, jam or honey—fresh, dry of stale—WHEAT IS TO EAT.

It's a long road from the wheat field to the dinner table, with many drivers, helpers, and machines. Few people give even a fleeting thought to the planning, the sweat, and the expense that precedes their simple request: "Will you please pass the bread?"

The wheat farmer does his work with care. Which is the proper field? How deep to plow? Weeds all dead? Seedbed firm? Moisture ample? And, above all, what seed to use? It must be high in yield, resistant to disease, stand up well, low to shatter, and possess strong gluten properties.

Merchandizing requires trucks, country elevators, railroads, grain inspectors, terminals, brokers and a board of trade. Then the flour-mills take over with class and variety analysis, laboratory tests for protein quality, cleaning, tempering, grinding, and sifting—all to make the best flour possible from the wheat they bought.

COMANCHE

COMANCHE originated in Kansas from a cross of Oro and Tenmarq — 5 years old — high yields in all tests — suitable for all of winter wheat territory in Oklahoma and Texas — excellent in quality — fairly good straw — good test weight — proving popular with growers who have tried it.

WESTAR

WESTAR — developed for the Panhandle region of Texas — from a cross of Kanred and Hard Federation with Tenmarq — similar to Comanche but higher in yield in the Panhandle — highly resistant to leaf rust but susceptible to stem rust — excellent bread making properties — extremely popular with Plains wheat growers —

WICHITA

WICHITA — early — from an Early Blackhull cross with Tenmarq — made by Kansas — similar to Early Blackhull — better straw — higher yields — superior in milling and baking — approved for Texas Plains not for Oklahoma as Triumph has out-yielded it in most tests. — popular with growers from Amarillo south and southeast.

MANDRAKE

BY LEE FALK & PHIL DAVIS

FLYING FROM THE LAND OF LETHE, MANDRAKE, NARDA AND LOTHAR RETURN TO THE S.S. ARGOS.

I WARNED YOU!

I'LL HAVE TO NAVIGATE, MYSELF. THE PILOT REFUSED TO FOLLOW OUR ROUTE. SOME WILD TALK ABOUT GHOST WHALES--PURE NONSENSE!

LET'S HOPE SO! I'VE HAD ENOUGH ADVENTURE FOR A WHILE.

I FEEL LIKE SLEEPING FOR A WEEK.

ISN'T THAT THE NEW PILOT THE CAPTAIN HIRED? WHY ARE THEY ARGUING?

MANDRAKE, DON'T BE SO LAZY! PLAY BADMINTON WITH ME.

NOPE, THIS IS MY REST PERIOD. BUT MY RACKET WILL PLAY WITH YOU, NARDA.

OH, MANDRAKE, I FEEL SO SILLY!

THIS IS THE WAY TO PLAY BADMINTON.

BUT MANDRAKE'S REST IS SHORT-LIVED--THERE'S A WARNING CRY FROM THE LOOKOUT...

THE SEA IS DOTTED WITH WRECKAGE--AS THE ARGOS COMES NEARER, THEY CAN HEAR THE CRIES OF THE SURVIVORS...

SMALL BOATS FROM THE ARGOS PICK THEM UP--THEY TELL A WILD TALE OF THE CATASTROPHE THAT HIT THEIR FISHING FLEET--NOT A HURRICANE--BUT A HUGE, MYSTERIOUSLY-GLOWING WHALE!
