Harold M. LaFont Announces For State Senator

This week Judge Harold M. LaFont made his announcement for the office of State Senator of the newly created 30th Senatorial District of Texas. In making his announcement, Judge LaFont submitted the following statement: "In asking the people to elect me to this office, it is with a full realization of the responsibility of making laws that govern over 7,000,000 people of the State of Texas. These laws directly affect the daily lives of practically all of us, and serious thought and consideration should be given to each and every law that is passed by the Legislature. It is my humble judgment that men who fill these offices of responsibility and in whom we place our trust and confidence, should be experienced, honest, sincere and capable. "As citizens, all of us are interested in the progress and welfare of our Senatorial District and of the State of Texas as a whole, and we have a right to expect a fair share of those things for which our tax money is spent. These include educational assistants, notice protection for our families and property, a good system of state highways and farm-to-market roads. All of these items of state government help make (Continued on page 3)

Soil Analysis Paper Preliminaries Begin

Preliminary discussions on the first paper to be submitted on the Deaf Smith County Foundation's discoveries will be held in St. Louis Monday and Tuesday of next week between Dr. L. B. Barnett and Dr. Carl A. Moyer, professor of surgery in Washington U's School of Medicine. Dr. Barnett was in Hereford this week-end and said he planned to discuss the chemistry of the soil and produce analysis before preparing the paper on Deaf Smith county at the Texas Orthopedic meeting in Dallas on May 6.

He also told The Brand that they are getting ready for a comparative study between this area and other grain-producing areas such as Nebraska, Kansas and other Mid-West states. Comparative studies on vegetables will be made this summer. The first group of 96 samples taken from Deaf Smith county have been analyzed and studied. Dr. Barnett said the work at the Parkland Hospital in Dallas on the Deaf Smith county samples is now in the clinical stage.

but it will take approximately six months to evaluate anything from these experiments. Meanwhile, requests still come to Dr. Barnett in Dallas from leading hospitals in the nation seeking advice on the feasibility of giving vegetables grown in Deaf Smith county to their own patients. However, he defers their requests, telling them that a copy of the paper which will be presented in May, will be made available to them if they wish to have it.

Mass Meeting March 13 On Home Rule Proposal

The first meeting at which city officials will present the mechanics of the home rule form of government to voters will be held at noon Thursday, March 13 in the ballroom of Hotel Jim Hill.

A mass meeting of all the service clubs in Hereford will form the nucleus of the city-wide audience at this time. Mayor W. E. Dameron urged ALL RESIDENTS of the city who are interested in hearing home rule explained to attend the meeting. "This will be our best opportunity for a large audience on home rule," he explained Saturday.

Persons interested in attending the meeting but not in eating lunch at noon on March 13 will still be able to participate in the mass meeting by arriving at 12:30 p. m.

All interested voters are urged to attend the meeting. This meeting is the first in a series which will be held prior to a city-wide vote on the home rule charter proposal. The incumbent city officials—Mayor Dameron and Commissioners S. O. Wilson and Don Zimmerman—acquiesced to a petition bearing the names of 150 businessmen and entered their names on the ballot for the city elections Tuesday, April 1. They accepted for the purpose of submitting the home rule form of government to the voters. There were no other filings prior to the February 29 deadline. T. W. Alderson has been appointed judge for the city elections with Mrs. R. G. Blue and Mrs. Norma Jewell as clerks. Balloting will be in the city hall.

Charlotte Moore, a sixth grade student at Shirley school, will serve as alternate for the West Texas Spelling Bee, which will be held at Amarillo on March 8.

Red Cross Goal Is Lacking Only $1767

Deaf Smith county's whirlwind Red Cross enrollment campaign closed the week just $1,767 short of its goal, reports Mrs. Dyalithia Brady, executive secretary.

That figures just under $1000 per day since the drive opened Tuesday morning, a record which parallels last year's performance of the same figure in 24 hours.

The weather has played quite an important part in retarding the reports and calls of the workers, she said, but commented on the whole that she is "very well pleased with Red Cross reports with this small balance due." There are enough workers whose reports should bring the goal to completion in the early part of the week," she added.

Beginning Monday, all Red Cross reports are to be turned in to the chapter at the courthouse.

Mrs. Brady thanked all who helped so ably in the drive and also to the many people who have called to find out the progress of the drive. "The support has been excellent. Somewhere along the line it is evident that there are people who have been helped by the Red Cross in the past."

would like to have every parent eat lunch at one of the cafeterias during the week."

The P-TA session will be based upon an open meeting of the school board and a general discussion based upon the topic, "What Makes Good Schools?"

Bruce Waddell has been appointed to contact each of the civic clubs to encourage observation of the occasion with special programs and posters will be displayed over town as a result of the school-wide Public Schools Week poster contest sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

TWIN CALVES is unusual, but having twin heifers born on February 29 is something really rare. M. G. Caywood, farmer living 7 1/2 miles north west of Hereford, had a six-year-old Holstein who gave birth to twin heifers at about 10 a. m. Friday, Feb. 29. The calves are shown above. At left is "Sunbeam", being held by Patricia Caywood, and at right is "Moonbeam", held by "Bucky" Caywood. Clarence Caywood, right, holds "Nigger", the mother. Caywood's herd has produced four sets of twins in 10 months and 5 days. One cow had two of the four sets within the period mentioned. In the previous 11 years Caywood family lived at the place and kept a dairy herd, they never had a multiple birth in their herd, Caywood thinks it's the Holstein bull, and he's sorry now he sold the animal. CONG. ROGERS SAYS
March 31 Deadline For Filing For Relief Under War Claims Act

Held From Thursday Brand
MARCH 31, 1952, AN IMPORTANT DATE TO MANY: The 82nd Congress on April 5, 1951 by Public Law 16, extended the date for filing under the War Claims Act of 1948, as amended, from March 1, 1951, to March 31, 1952. Therefore, those of you who are entitled to "le claims under provisions of the War Claims Act should make immediate arrangements to file your claims. The War Claims Commission is most anxious that everyone having a right under the provisions of such act be fully advised as to the deadline for filing claims. If any of you are in doubt as to your rights to file a claim under this act, please write to me or to the War Claims Commission. Any letters coming to me on the matter will be promptly submitted to the War Claims Commission for full processing and consideration.

IT PAYS TO CHECK THE FACTS: When you hear some story going the rounds that could be dangerous of detrimental either to an individual, an organization, or the government, always be sure to check it for factual basis before repeating it. We all know how dangerous unfounded gossip can be. No one realizes that better than the powers that be in the Kremlin. The entire unrest and confusion that resulted in the downfall of the free governments in many of the satellite countries was commenced by planted gossips and tale-bearers whose first allegiance was to Moscow. Unfounded gossip is like a prairie fire. It is easy to start and almost impossible to stop.

A good example came to my notice the other day. One man had heard a story that disturbed him very much, but instead of repeating it, he wrote me a letter and asked me to find out the facts. I had heard the story before and knew the facts, but I did not know that the story was being circulated again. Here it is: On the 1951 fifty-cent piece there is an image of Benjamin Franklin and stamped on his neck are the initials "J. R. S." The story is being circulated that these are the initials of Joe Stalin. Here are the true facts: The initials on the neck of Benjamin Franklin are the initials of John Ray Sinnock, formerly Chief Engraver at the Philadelphia mint. The reason they are on there is because for many years it has been a tradition and a custom for the initials of the designer of the coin to appear on it.

In 1946 the initials of the first and last name of Mr. Sinnock, to wit, "J. S.", appeared on ten-cent coins. The story was circulating at that time that they were the initials of Joe Stalin. This story of course created many protests. In view of these protests and the misunderstandings created by the circulated story, Mr. Sinnock's middle initial, "R.", was also placed on the coin so that there could be no further misunderstanding.

According to "International Who's Who," published in London, Stalin's full name is Josif Vissarionovich Stalin. So far as the records show, Josif Vissarionovich Stalin is still living. According to the American records, Mr. John Ray Sinnock, former Chief Engraver at the Philadelphia mint, is deceased. The American people are entirely too intelligent to be sucked in by wild, unfounded stories, and I am proud that this constituent wrote me concerning this matter when he heard it.

In Russia the people must depend on gossip because their slightest question concerning any story they might hear could easily result in a quick trip to Siberia. I thank the Almighty Father that such is not the case in this country. Whatever the story might be, you have the right to know the facts behind it, and you may be assured that I will do my best to get them for you.

FARM INCOME: Contrary to the beliefs of many big city folks, the net farm incomes are still far below those of the non-farm individuals. The per capita income of the American farmers last year from all sources was $1020 compared with a per capita income of $1707 for the non-farm population. The income from farming alone amounted to $806 per capita.

MOISTURE AND WIND EROSION CONDITIONS IN TEXAS: The latest reports from the Soil Conservation Service shows the major part of Texas severely hit by drought. The hardest hit is the entire southwest portion of the state, from the lower reaches of the Rio Grande to the western edge of the 19th Congressional District. The northeast corner of the Panhandle appears to be in the best shape for moisture and cover. Those counties lying below the Caprock are the hardest hit in our section. The entire central portion of Texas is hard hit. Recent rains in Eastern Texas have changed soil moisture and plant cover conditions, and this section is in good shape. Most of the Panhandle seems to have good cover except for a few small areas. These areas can certainly produce a lot of dust when the wind gets to blowing.

FOREIGN AID: I have recently obtained some figures on foreign economic and military aid since July 1945. I wish I had the space to put them all in, but will have to wait until later to do that. I thought you might be interested in the totals. The total economic aid from July, 1945, to September, 1951, was $31,191,091,000. Military aid was $4,500,799,000. The economic aid includes grants and credits utilized. The biggest sum, as you perhaps suspect, went to the United Kingdom. In economic aid grants it received $2,370,289,000, plus credits utilized in the amount of $4,727,838,000. The military aid amounted to $839,495,000. The total $35 1/2 billion plus was divided among approximately 90 countries and possessions of countries. I will tell you more about it later.

Big Castor Bean Acreage Indicated

Prospects of 10,000 acres of castor beans in the area to be served by the new Hereford hulling center are "very bright", according to Paul E. Wiles, assistant agronomist with the Baker Castor Bean company.

Visiting the area last week with Wiles was Dr. W. E. Domingo, director of agronomy for Baker; B. M. Baird, Oklahoma City, agronomist; and Wiles. They met with Virgil E. Dodson, their new local representative, who was conducting a series of sign-up meetings in the area.

At the Hereford meeting last week, more than 200 farmers attended. A promise of 2,500 acres in the county for 1932 with an "indication" of 6,000 was realized from the meeting, Wiles said.

Last year in Deaf Smith county, 718 acres were harvested with the 21 growers reporting an average yield of 742 pounds per acre. Half the growers had yields of 1050 pounds and the top seven hit .1100 pound highs.

Walter Paetzold had a high yield with 1458 pounds per acre on his 75 per cent stand. With a better stand, Wiles reported, he could have hit 2000 pounds or better.

Average price last season was 11 1/4c per pound. Ten per cent of the plantings were damaged by hail.

Two varieties of seed will be available this year, Dodson announced. They were Baker No. 7, used last year, and Cimarron, a new shatter-resistant variety which has a better potential because it will hold what it puts on, he said.

Negotiations for locating the new hulling center in Hereford are still "in the mill," Wiles told The Brand.

Seed and contracts for the 1932 season will be in by March 15 at the Hereford Fertilizer and Insecticide Co.

"This area holds the best prospects of any section in the mid-west for the Baker Corporation," Wiles commented.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jolly of Amarillo have announced the birth of a son on February 29. Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Blue are the maternal grandparents. They were in Amarillo Saturday to see the new grandson.

School Students Will Eat Club Beef Next Week

The 828-pound calf shown by Bryce Kelly at the Rotary Junior Livestock and Poultry show last week-end was donated to the Hereford Rural High School district by the First National Bank, purchaser of the animal.

Mrs. Claude Francis, dietitian for the system in Hereford, said the choice beef will furnish a treat of fried steak at one meal and most of another beef dinner during the coming week.

"We wish to take this opportunity to thank the First National Bank of Hereford for the baby beef given for use in the school lunch rooms," Mrs. Francis said.

An average of over 900 eat lunch in the high school, Central, Shirley and Dawn lunch rooms every day, she stated.

Car Hits Cattle On Highway 51

Mrs. Glen Orval Edwards suffered bruises and lacerations in an accident which occurred about seven miles north of Hereford on Highway 51 Friday night.

Mrs. Edwards was given emergency treatment and released from the Deaf Smith county hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards were traveling south on Highway 51 when they came upon a herd of cattle which were being driven north along the highway by Al Fluitt. Five of the cattle were killed when the Edwards car, a 1931 Oldsmobile, plowed into the herd.

"Needs" Meeting Planned Monday

A "needs" meeting to determine the conservation requirements for the county will be held by the Coun' Mobilization committee Monday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the county courthouse.

Purpose of the meeting will be to determine what the county needs so future Production and Marketing Administration programs can be geared to meet this need.

Soil technicians of the Soil Conservation Service will discuss the technical part of the job ahead, including soil analysis, with visits to be made into the field.

On the basis of this advice, the land capabilities will be determined.

The meeting will deal with needs in detail as affected by the Farm Home Administration, extension service, Forestry service, SCS, PMA, and the agriculture experiment stations.

In addition to helping form the 1933 program, the findings will help guide the 1932 program through the year.

Mrs. Earl DeHart will head the Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs for the next two years. She was elected president of the club Friday at the third quarterly luncheon-program held at the Methodist Church.

Others who will serve with her are: Mrs. Reed Williams, vice-president; Mrs. Paul Hoff, recording secretary; Mrs. Ray Johnson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. W. Roberson, treasurer and Mrs. Elmer Patterson, parliamentarian.

International Relations Day was observed in the program and in keeping with that theme tables for the luncheon were marked with figurines representing Mexico, South America, Central America, Hawaii, China, Japan, India and other nations.

Mrs. Lyle Blanton, Federation chairman of International Relations department, presided for the program and introduced Miss Cathy Cinton of Puerto Rico, a student at West Texas State College, who entertained with collections of Mexican and Spanish songs. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Marian Howard of Quanah, piano student at West Texas.

Project of the federation this year has been the promotion of friendly contact with club women around the world and a report on that project and how it was carried out was presented by Mrs. Vivian Major, representative of the Lone Star Study club. She told how the idea was carried out in Texas with club women visiting Mexico, Guatemala, Central America, West Indies, South America, The Near East and European countries. She reported that Texas clubwomen have written 11,388 letters and have extended ninety gifts of scholarships to foreign students.

Mrs. G. W. Newson told of a trip to Hawaii and gave news of clubs and chambers of commerce there.

Mrs. W. S. Fluitt gave the report for The Hereford Garden club who chose Austria for their countless and read excerpts from a letter written by her son Lyle while he was in Austria.

Mrs. C. R. McQuigg representing the North Hereford Home Demonstration Club, told of correspondence with German club women and of sending packages to Germany.

Mrs. Harold Meacham gave the Les Mores Study Club report, telling of correspondence with an Australian club woman who has visited Hereford.

Miss Cinton was asked to tell something of the women of her country and she told of Mothers Clubs in her native city. Miss Cinton spoke briefly on the scholarships awarded to foreign students, commenting that she has attended West Texas the past two years on one of the scholarships.

Mrs. Elmer Patterson, president, conducted a brief business session and announced a called board meeting to be held on March 8. Members were asked to consider extending an invitation to the Seventh District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs for the 1953 convention to be held in Hereford.

The workshop institutes to be held March 4-5-6 in Lubbock, Amarillo and Wellington, were announced.

Dianne Jackson Age Four, Has First "Birthday"

Little Miss Dianne Jackson's dream of having a birthday party came true Friday, Feb. 29, with all the festivity and merriment that could be crowded into the celebration.

Dianne was four years old but this was her first party because there hasn't been any February 29 since the day that marked her birthday in 1948, and she will have to wait another four years before she can really celebrate her birthday again.

Dianne loves birthday parties and when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jackson, give parties for her sisters she is always included. But that isn't like having one all your own—arranged just for you.

In the midst of making plans for her party, however, she remembered how nice it is to (Continued on page 3)

Miss Leona Ann Gabel Is Bride Of Amarillo Man

The marriage of Miss Leona Ann Gabel and Jackie Joe Sexton was solemnized February 15 in Sacred Heart Cathedral, Amarillo, with Rev. Heubert Hoffman reading the double ring service. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Gabel of Amarillo and Mr. Sexton is the son of James Sexton of Wilson, Okla.

The altars of the church were banked with palms and white gladioli and pews were marked with white satin ribbons and clusters of stephanotis.

Mrs. Lester Wagner of Hereford served as her sister's honor matron. She wore lavender net over taffeta with matching hat of net and taffeta and carried a bouquet of yellow jonquils.

Miss Bridie Mae Gabel, also a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was dressed in yellow net over taffeta and carried purple irises.

Lester Wagner of Hereford was best man and best man was Jimmie Gabel. Vernon and Johnnie Gabel were ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional wedding gown of white satin designed with fitted bodice, mandarin collar and leg o'mutton sleeves. The long full skirts fell into a cathedral train and her lace-edged finger-tip veil was caught by a band of flowers.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, after which the couple left on a short wedding trip. They are now at home at 1202 West 19th street. Mrs. Sexton was graduated from St. Mary's Academy and for a time she made her home here with her sister while employed at the Hereford Locker and Cold Storage. The wedding of Miss Doris Jean Smith to Sgt. Robert L. Goldsborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Goldsborough of Salem, Ill., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Smith.

Vows were exchanged on Sunday, February 17 in the First Presbyterian church, Oklahoma City. The Rev. Richard Poole, pastor of the Presbyterian church in Mid-West City, Oklahoma City's new addition, read the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, James W. Throckmorton of Oklahoma City, as the couple and their attendants stood before the altar banked with palms and pink and white gladioli. Traditional wedding music was provided by the church organist and vocal selections included "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Miss Billye Jane Smith who wore a pale orchid suit with purple accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The bride was attired in a suit dress, made simply with aqua dress and navy bolero jacket accented with aqua applique trim. Her hat was in aqua with forget-me-not flower trim and shoulder length veil. She wore a single orchid corsage and carried out the traditional something old, new, borrowed and blue. Her only ornaments were pearl earrings belonging to her mother.

The bride's mother wore a navy faille suit with navy accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Reception in Church
A reception was held after the wedding in the church parlors with punch and wedding cake served from a bride's table laid with a lace cloth.

When the couple left on a short wedding trip, the bride was wearing a navy suit with white blouse and navy accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from the wedding bouquet. They are now at home at 1224 Givens, Mid-West City Okla.

THE 1953 FEDERAL BUDGET OF $85.4 BILLION IS GREATER THAN ALL THE INCOMES OF ALL THE PEOPLE WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI

THIS STARTLING FIGURE is the result of study by the National Chamber's Government Economy Program, based on figures from the U.S. Department of Commerce. Income of all people includes all money that goes to individuals as wages, salaries, interest, rent, and dividends. Since latest Commerce Department figures available for the map were for 1950, the Chamber estimated total 1953-income at 13 per cent higher than those for 1950. Total 1953 spending under the President's budget would equal the income of all persons west of the Mississippi plus 36 per cent of the income in Wisconsin and all the income in Mississippi.

"The School Bus" Topic For Club

Mrs. George Board leader of the program for the Child Study club Thursday evening at a meeting held in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Prosser.
The subject for the evening was "The School Bus" with Mrs. Board giving the introduction. She discussed an article in a recent issue of The Ladies Home Journal in which investigations of school bus drivers found them not only untrained, but lacking in qualifications.
George Graham, supt. of Hereford schools, told of the local situation regarding bus drivers for the schools. He said since the pay is low, the solution here has been for teachers who could arrange their classes to drive the buses thus augmenting their regular salaries.
Mr. Graham pointed with pride to a plaque recently received by the Hereford schools which was awarded by the National Safety Council in recognition of their safety record. The school buses have carried 630 students over a million miles per year with no bodily harm.
Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Glenn Robinson of Summerfield.
Members attending were: Mesdames Betty Gurn, Worth Covington, George Board, Merwin Kaul, J. C. Rosen, John Robinson, Joe Storey, Maurice Tammhill, F. G. Witherspoon, J. W. Witherspoon, Richard Jewell and the hostess.

MRS. LOUIS WOODFORD

Piping Hot Whole Wheat Muffins Quick And Easy

Piping Hot, crusty on the outside, tender and flaky on the inside—that's those whole wheat muffins Mrs. Louis Woodford makes every other day.
 According to nutritionists, a high-in-milk bread is good for everybody, for milk overcomes the calcium deficiency which sometimes causes dental decay in the young, and sufficient calcium may end the bone fragility that results in frequent fractures in older people.
 Mrs. Woodford likes to use Hereford products for their mineral content and features Arrow Head Flour in the following recipe, which is rich in wheat germ and calcium.
Whole Wheat Muffins
 2 cups Arrow Head Whole Wheat Flour
 3 teaspoons baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 2 tablespoons sugar
 1 egg beaten
 1 cup sweet milk
 3 tablespoons melted fat

Sift dry ingredients together. Combine egg, milk and melted fat and add to dry ingredients. Mix just enough to moisten and give mixture a rough appearance. Fill greased muffin tins 2/3 full and bake in 400-F oven about twenty minutes.
 These muffins are good for any meal and you may dress them up a bit if you like by adding fruit or nuts to the flour mixture before mixing with the milk and eggs. Canned blueberries, drained and sweetened to taste, and added to the mixture makes top-notch blueberry muffins.
 Visiting in the home of Mrs. C. D. Cokrell are her two daughters, Mrs. Carl Oldham and children from Woodward, Oklahoma and Mrs. Gene Osburn of Manitou Springs, Colo. Mr. Oldham and Mr. Osburn were here but had to return to their businesses.

Senate Renews Old Debate on St. Lawrence Seaway Project

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY PROJECT—FROM THE ATLANTIC TO DULUTH... the vision seemed close to reality.

U.S. AND Canadian planners have visualized a navigable waterway from the mouth of the St. Lawrence River on the Atlantic to the Great Lakes for more than half a century.

A continuous water route, 2,347 miles long now exists between the two points. Were it not for a 120-mile stretch of the St. Lawrence blocked by falls and rapids, the route would be navigable for ocean-going vessels.

As things stand today, freight cargoes passing between the Atlantic Ocean and the Great Lakes must either be hauled overland by rail or floated down the Mississippi to the Gulf coast.

A system of locks and deep canals alongside the bad stretches of the St. Lawrence would permit vessels up to 20,000 tons to pass from the Atlantic directly to the heart of the continent. After long delays, an agreement for joint construction of such a project, including plans to dam the river and convert its force into electric power, was signed by the United States and Canada in 1941.

The agreement was submitted to Congress and the long-cherished vision seemed close to reality. A bitter controversy arose, however, and the St. Lawrence seaway project was sidetracked.

Last December, Canadians, tired of waiting for Congressional action on the agreement, pushed two bills through parliament at Ottawa which would enable them to construct the power project in association with New York State and to do a solo on the seaway.

This week, Congress moved in on the question. As the motion was brought up in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee observers thought the upper chamber was in a legislative mood. They pointed out that the present Administration, like those of the past 25 years, is strongly in favor of the project and strong behind-the-scenes pressures for authorization in both the Senate and House had been built up.

Two presidential aspirants—Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Kefauver (D-Tenn.)—and seven other senators joined Vermont's Republican Sen. Aiken in co-sponsoring a bill designed to finance the U. S. share of the project by sale of bonds to private individuals.

Security Aspect

Congress was faced with the prospect that the channels and locks of the seaway would all be on the Canadian side of the river if it failed to act. In addition, Canada would have complete control of the project and of the tolls, which would be paid in large measure by Americans.

Congressional proponents of the seaway-power project say it is vitally related to the security not only of the U. S. but of the entire North American continent. The great U. S. defense effort, they point out, has created an increased demand for electrical power and materials which the St. Lawrence project would help meet.

U. S. Army engineers estimate the cost of the entire project would come to about $818,000,000. Of this total, the United States share would be around $556,000,000. The Federal Government would get back $192,000,000 from the sale of power facilities to New York State, which would distribute the electricity to neighboring states.

The balance of $374,000,000 would be eliminated by tolls charged on the seaway.

The WORLD This WEEK

ASIA: Lengthening Shadow

U.N. OFFICERS in Korea faced a Communist onslaught this week while their Allies in Southeast Asia readied for a Red onslaught of another kind.

High British and French officials met in Saigon, Indochina, following the French withdrawal from the key high-way center of Hoa Binh. Purpose of the Saigon meeting was to consolidate defense plans for Indochina and Malaya as the Communist shadow to the north lengthened.

The large-scale withdrawal from Hoa Binh was seen in Washington as a genuine military move to concentrate enough forces around Hanoi to withstand any Red campaign against it.

Not a Trend

U. S. officers thought the retreat had been carried out with great skill and should not be interpreted as a trend in other areas of Indochina.

The suggestion that the French ordered the withdrawal, and gave it prompt publicity, for the primary purpose of inspiring more U. S. military aid and further commitments in Southeast Asia was rejected in Washington.

The possibility that Vietminh rebels are organizing for a renewed drive on Hanoi was seen as the prime reason for the French move. The rebels by now have been able to distribute their scattered forces much of the increased flow of military equipment that started from Communist China late last year.

Vietminh Shouts Victory

Despite the strategic calculations behind the French retreat, the fall of Hoa Binh gave the Vietminh an excellent propaganda weapon and a chance to shout victory. In fact, the abandonment by the French of the network of defenses around Hoa Binh opened the way to Hanoi itself—which the French were trying to protect.

Back in Korea, the Communists flatly rejected an Allied proposal that would have allowed the Reds to give up their insistence on Russian supervision of a truce graciously.

FRENCH-LED TROOPS FIGHT IN INDOCHINA... the way to Hanoi was open.

The Allies had proposed four neutral nations police the truce instead of six. This would have cut Norway off the United Nations list and Russia off the Red nominations.

The truce negotiators also were deadlocked on the number of ports of entry each side should be allowed during a truce. The Allies proposed six, the Communists five.

The prisoner of war exchange question tied up another group of staff officers.

The Allies refused even to debate whether the U.S.S.R. has been neutral in the Korean War.

In the Background: People

In London, Prime Minister Winston Churchill disclosed in the course of a bitter parliamentary debate that his Conservative government is committed to a policy formulated 10 months ago by the Laborites—namely that Britain would favor stronger action against China outside of Korea in "certain circumstances."

The "certain circumstances" were said to include heavy enemy air attacks on U.N. soldiers by planes from Red China.

Behind the wars in Korea and Indochina is the question of the people of Asia. Their tendency toward neutrality and their desire for independence cannot be overlooked.

The United Nations must build up a military balance, but it will take more than that to get to the people. The armaments buildup has to be accompanied by a positive offensive on the moral and political front, including social and economic betterment of the masses and the relief of illiteracy and squalor.

The aim might be for what Anthony Eden calls a peace based on "mutually recognized positions of strength." It would not be a true peace based on understanding but, as Eden points out, "it would be far better than the present atmosphere in which we live."

Coalition Hits UMT

AN OLD Congressional bugaboo was giving the Truman Administration the jitters again this week. A house coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats ganged up on a bill to establish Universal Military Training.

The measure hit the House floor Tuesday and debate got off to a lively start. A vote was not anticipated before next week.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee thought the UMT bill would be approved after the dust settled. The bill would require 18-year-old youths to be trained six months, then be placed on reserve status for seven and one-half years. It has the strong support of Administration leaders.

Previous Record

The GOP-Dixie Democrat coalition already has caused the Administration some trouble in this session. Last week it approved the resolution demanding full information on any military commitments made by President Truman in his January talks with Prime Minister Winston Churchill. The President said there were none.

The Administration wants UMT to get going soon so that a trained reserve force can be built up, thus permitting the reduction of standing armed forces.

Massachusetts Republican Representative Bates sought a way to amend the House measure to set a time limit on any UMT program inaugurated now. "We shouldn't buy it forever until we know how it works," he said.

Elsewhere in Capitol Hill this week, other committees were busy pursuing many and varied investigations. Cleanup Chief Newbold Morris disclosed plans to ask officials throughout the Federal service for full details of their private income sources. He said a questionnaire would be distributed to government officials as soon as it is printed.

First Step for Morris

This move marked the first step in Morris' search for official misconduct in the Government—an inquiry ordered by President Truman in the wake of Congressional disclosures of tax collection scandals and other irregularities.

Morris said his survey of "outside" income is not intended for rank and file government workers but is aimed at upper level officials.

The list of those to be questioned was worked out by the Civil Service Commission.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn's sudden ban on broadcasting or telecasting house committee hearings pulled the rug out from under arrangements to telecast the openings of House Un-American Activities Committee hearings on Communism in Michigan. Rayburn's action touched off a storm of protests from housewives to members of Congress.

Senate investigators meanwhile said they hoped their current probe of overseas airbase construction would save "untold millions of dollars."

Wyoming's Democratic Sen. Hunt, acting chairman of a Senate defense watchdog subcommittee, ordered probes to dig through five different Pentagon reports, understood to be highly critical of expenditures on once-secret projects in North Africa and Greenland.

Quotes

Mrs. Joseph McClain, 35-year-old housewife of Hampton Pond, Mass., after birth of her 19th child: "I'm delighted to have such a big family—and I'd like more children."

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), in reply to letter from grammar school pupil asking if whistling is unconstitutional: "The right to whistle is protected to the same extent as the right to speak or express the words or idea for which the whistling stands—but there are exceptions. Whistling is subject to reasonable police regulation."

NATO

Tough Decisions Ahead

The North Atlantic Council this week concluded its ninth session since the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was formed nearly three years ago. Delegates to the session, held in Lisbon, thought it was the most successful of the lot.

The session worked out for the first time the exact forces Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower can count on to resist any Red aggression. By the end of this year, the general is due to have in Europe a 50-division, 4,000-aircraft fighting force with strong naval support.

In 1954, this is to grow to between 88 and 100 divisions.

The Lisbon sessions meant new sacrifices and tougher decisions were ahead for citizens of Allied powers. Taxes probably will have to be stepped up to meet spiraling costs of atomic age defense. Legions of men must don uniforms—and quickly. Eisenhower now has less than 30 divisions combat-ready or available within two weeks. Twenty or more must be built up in 10 months to meet the Lisbon targets.

Despite difficulties ahead, U. S. officials believe steps toward self-defense taken at Lisbon were heartening. They thought the difficulty of winning U. S. Congressional approval for President Truman's $7,900,000,000 request for foreign aid had been lessened.

The 14 Nato nations including newcomers Greece and Turkey, must in the coming months encourage economic expansion, increase raw material production, prevent inflation, ease manpower shortages by letting countries which need workers bring in men from countries like Italy which has a labor surplus, share equitably the cost of building Nato defenses, boost military efficiency and work out priority systems for division of available military equipment.

As the Nato meetings concluded, the largest aerial and naval maneuver ever carried out by Allied navies in the Mediterranean got underway.

In Short

Approved: by the Senate, after a bitter battle, President Truman's nomination of Harry A. McDonald to be head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Upheld: by a Federal Appeals Court in New York, the death sentences against the husband-wife atom spy team of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

Ordered: by the Agriculture Department: a halt to virtually all imports of livestock and meats from Canada because of an outbreak of hoof and mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

Disclosed: by Prime Minister Winston Churchill, that Britain has developed her own atomic bomb and has the plant to insure its regular production.

Passed: by Congress, a resolution designating Sept. 17 of each year as "Citizenship Day" to commemorate the signing of the Constitution which took place Sept. 17, 1787.

POLITICAL FRONT FLARES

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S campaign for the New Hampshire primary seemed to be turning blue in the wintry cold. Some prominent Democrats spent this week trying to blow some life into it. Although Mr. Truman has declined personally to stump the state, he has permitted his name to remain on the ballot for the preferential, or popularity race. He has also authorized a slate of delegates to run in his behalf.

The President plans to go to Key West, Fla., late next week to rest up for a heavy speech-making schedule which associates say he will stick to regardless of whether he runs for re-election.

The thing that was worrying some of the President's close associates was the threat of a victory by Sen. Estes Kefauver in the March 11 primary. The Tennessee senator has been making a virtual door-to-door campaign which some observers believe is harvesting prospective votes for him.

Kefauver has the appeal of a declared candidate, a political underdog who is challenging the President.

Ohio Campaign Planned

Some Administration supporters were also casting an apprehensive eye westward to Ohio. The Kefauver drive there caused some Truman backers to wonder if the Tennessee won't come up with some delegates from that state.

Kefauver's backers plan a two-week campaign in Ohio just before the primary. Kefauver himself was campaigning in the central states this week. In St. Louis he told an audience the head of a government "has no right to wait for corruption to take the form of scandal before he does something about it."

In Georgia, meanwhile, Democrats launched a move to draft Sen. Richard B. Russell as a presidential candidate.

Many political observers think Taft faces an almost certain surge of Eisenhower sentiment in nine primaries and 14 state conventions to be held in March and April.

In this two-month period, Eisenhower will harvest votes from New Hampshire, New York, Kansas, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania—all areas where his chief backers live. Taft will have to win the Wisconsin and Illinois primaries to keep even slightly ahead in the returns on delegates actually chosen by May 1.

The Ohioan is expected to make his own spurt after that by corraling most of Ohio's 56 votes, picking up majorities in some southern states, and getting the bulk of delegates from Colorado, Indiana, Maryland, Virginia, and Washington.

CRACKS IN IRON CURTAIN

TANGLED FUSES

WHAT ARE the chances of a popular revolt in the Soviet Union?

The question keeps coming up, often on the heels of a declaration like the one made by a Russian refugee before the recent psychological strategy conference in Washington.

Said Constantine Boldyreff, son of a former Russian general and now a professor at Georgetown University: "The chances for a revolt in the Soviet Union are greater than ever before."

There is no doubt that the iron curtain is penetrable. The State Department's "Voice of America" operates on the assumption that it is. So does Radio Free Europe, a non-government propaganda radio, and the psychological warfare schedule operated by the U. S. armed forces.

In Moscow, meanwhile, the Soviet press imagines to take the heart of many would-be revolutionists by predicting the imminent downfall of the western powers and by harping on the success of Soviet foreign policy.

Soviet Optimism

The Soviet press is highly optimistic about world affairs these days. It sees the Atlantic alliance as slowly falling apart. It foresees an approaching crisis in the United States brought on by inflation, corruption in government and confusion in leadership.

The northern countries, Finland, Sweden, Norway and Denmark, are awakening to the situation and it is only a question of time before they take a neutral position between the two big world camps, say the Reds.

Back in this country John Foster Dulles declares that a driving ideological attack by Soviet Communism is winning over the free world in the battle of ideas. He urges a shift by the

Keen Competition In Stock Show Attests Its Success

With the hustle and natural confusion attending the big week-end of the Rotary Junior Livestock and Poultry show out of the picture, let us step back and take an objective look at the entire operation.

We're proud of the way the show was conducted. And we have reason to be. Competition as keen as there was in the Rotary show means only one thing—a top drawer undertaking.

Several people—including FFA advisors and county agents—have commented to this writer on the quality of the animals shown. This was "one of the toughest" shows in which their students and club members had participated in, they said.

Comments such as these are a compliment to the planners of the show because they have not deviated from the express purpose of the exposition. It is indeed a tribute to the FFA and 4-H programs and the people in charge of them.

Attracting such fine animals to the show is no easy job. Keeping them in competition here year after year providing a constant good show requires more than a desire. It takes work. Lots of it.

The Junior Livestock and Poultry show is the biggest single thing the Rotary club or anyone else can do for our young citizens, for on our farms and ranches lies the future of West Texas.

All those connected in any way with the success of the show deserve a hearty "thank you" from each of us. We shall be looking forward to many more community-inspired, Rotary-planned shows that nurture the competitive spirit within our young boys and girls for the ultimate benefit of our entire part of the Panhandle.—W. W. K.

SUNDAY'S CURRENT QUESTION

Readers Feel TV, Radio Should Be Allowed At Public Hearings

Do you think television or radio microphones should be barred from public Congressional investigations as House Speaker Sam Rayburn has decreed? What are the reasons for your beliefs?

JIMMY SPRINGER—No. I think people ought to know what's going on in the hearings.

MRS. H. E. MILLER—I think that if the public knew more about what is going on they would vote different. So much is kept from the people that they don't know what kind of an opinion to form. I think that we should know about it as it happens. If we don't, we will form an opinion anyway, and maybe it would be wrong. If we can't have radio and television in the hearings there ought to be representatives sent to the hearings to take it down like it happened so that the people could know part of what happened.

ROY FORD—I think the radio reporters ought to be able to go in there with the microphones whether it is made public or not. It is my opinion that if the witness realizes that the public is listening he will either hold back his answers or put on a show. If the ban is for political reasons, it is not justified.

BILL PHILLIPS—No I don't think they should be barred—mainly because the television and radio is a means of public information the same as a newspaper or newsreel. If the matter is of public interest there is no more reason for radio and television to be barred than there is for the newspaper and general public.

PAT LOERWALD—I don't think they should be barred from the hearings. I think that the public should know more about what is going on in Washington.

Folks must have already had their pocket books open when the Red Cross drive started as Mrs. Bradley reports that donations have been comin' in at an average of about $1465 a day.

Even the few who have felt that they were unable to contribute made apologies for not bein' able to do so, however, we never know what turn circumstances will take and maybe by another year they too will have a chance to help out in this drive that everybody seems to want a part in.

Well, besides sandwiches and coffee, we had cherry pie, apple pie, pecan pie and mince, with the Camp Fire girls last week and all were good but we ran into a brand new one to us when we bought what the girls called d Spice Pie that Mrs. Jack Bradley had sent in.

Mrs. Bob Wilson thought another name for it was Jeff Davis pie—anyway by either name it was still a nice combination that tickled our palate.

New in the show business, but apparently very much pleased was Paul Drager, smallest of the four Drager youngsters who exhibited lambs at the show last week, and all the children of Mr. and Mrs. A. Drager.

Paul was the little fellow who wasn't much taller than his lamb and the Johnson brothers who bid it in at $46.20, should have seen his happy little face when he passed up and exclaimed:

"My sheep SURE DID bring a lot of money, didn't it?"

Now if Jane Minton were havin' a birthday Monday like we are instead of Tuesday she could claim that the banks will be closed in her honor, too.

But she wonders how we knew she will be six years old on March 4th.

I'll Never Forget

The passing of time and other days in Hereford should be of interest to all of us. When I landed in Hereford on December 6, 1906, I found a town without sidewalks. There were about 400 windmills and no modern conveniences of any kind. Each residence and business establishment had outside privies on the alleys. This made the scavenger business one of the best money earners.

The Santa Fe railroad had fairly good passenger service with 56 pound rails. It should be mentioned here that the first passenger train in Hereford was in September, 1898. About this time the buildings from the county seat, La Plata, were being moved to Hereford.

Trainloads of land buyers were being brought in each week by the George G. Wright Land company of Kansas City. Land was selling then for, from five to 10 dollars per acre. Thousands of acres were being sold each week.

Some of the live land dealers in Hereford then were: Royzer and De Atley; Gough and Witherspoon; Pitman and Wear; Dunlap and Ellison; the O'Brien company; Pike Snyder, Ed Connel; Joe Carter, Jimmie Head and later on, Hill and Ricketts.

LESLIE BASKIN

The leading law firm and title examiners was Knight and Slayton. Later on, Judge Knight became our mayor. He held this office for about 12 years. Knight street is about the only thing that we have to remember Judge Knight by. While Knight was in office, he procured title to what is now known as Lake Park. It should be known as Knight park in honor of him. Judge Knight devoted much time to the affairs of Hereford and made us an excellent mayor.

All the men which I listed above were town and country boosters and we owe them much credit for the fine city and prosperous farming conditions of Deaf Smith county.

It is sad to relate, however, that all of the parties named above are now dead with the exception of one or two and their memory forgotten to most of us. I wonder what they would say if they could see the beautiful Hereford of today with its 40 miles of well-paved streets and alleys. And to see the prosperous farms and modern farm homes. There are nearly 100 miles of well paved farm to market roads and some three miles of whiteway lights in Hereford.

Hereford, today, is much more than a town. In fact it is a wide awake city of some 5000 people. The two banks in Hereford then were the First National with John E. Ferguson as president and the First State Bank with Ben Beach as its president. What was narrow dirt roads, often with gates to open is now the transcontinental US 60, east and west and Highway 51, known as National Parks highway, north and south, with junction in Hereford.

I should mention that in the early days of Hereford while I was out east of town about six miles, I counted 36 antelopes grazing with a herd of cattle. In fact, there were lots of antelope in this part of the country then.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jacobs and daughter, Charlotte Jean, of Texline visited in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Miller, over the week-end.

Hershell Miller and two friends visited in Hereford over the week-end. They are stationed at Sherman field.

Lack Of Modern Air Force Hurts Our Cause In Korea

One of the more humiliating—and deadly—circumstances surrounding the Korean War was brought into light last week with vigor when it was pointed out that the Air Force is carrying out the air war against superior (in numbers and in performance) Russian MIG jet fighters.

True, American air power was supreme in Korea at one time, but those days are now past. While the American dreamers have been pushing the negotiators for a safe political peace, the Communists have been building up their strength.

The Communists knew what they were after, and they have accomplished what they started out to do.

With the increase in Communist power, there is only one thing to do. We've got to get there with the best ships American industry can produce.

Our lack of competent leadership when Congress and Air Force brass pleaded for more groups is now showing up in Korea.

What the eventual cost of this reluctance to face realities will cost the American people will never be known until we start counting our dead.

NOW is the time to make sure that it won't happen again. You can't fight Communism with delayed production goals.

If it is in the power of patriotism of the American politician at this juncture of the race for the White House, we should gear our economy to make up for the costly mistakes we have made in equipping our fighting men.—W. W. K.

Schools Must Reflect Our Democratic Way Of Life

The American public school system is unique on the face of the earth.

That's why state wide plans have been made to observe "Texas Public School Week" from March 2-8.

Using the slogan, "Texas Public Schools—Democracy In Action," our educators and school administrators take this opportunity to renew our acquaintance with the school systems and the work they are doing with our children.

Our schools—above all else—must reflect the democratic way of life in its purest form. For in our schools and in the formative minds of our growing children is where the Communists would sow their first seeds of discontent with our way of life.

The importance of training the children while still in school can best be pointed out by the example of Hitler's regime in Germany. He taught the children that they owed allegiance to Hitler—in some cases even before their own parents.

This example is a vivid reminder of what can happen. This is why it is so important that our school systems form the tender minds of our growing children along the basic tenets of our democratic way of life.

This determination that our children will have the BEST brings up a weak point in many school systems in the state and nation—salaries.

A salary, in the final analysis, is no better than the economy with which it must compete, so any hard and fast figures or rules must be tempered by local conditions. There is, however, a national trend for persons to leave the teaching profession for private industry.

That situation is a challenge for us as parents. We must obtain the BEST in teaching talent and we must make it worth their efforts—both past and present—in instructing our children. We must also see that they are provided for in a manner commensurate with the role they play in building tomorrow's leaders.

This is not a local problem alone, although there may be instances locally where we might check a potentially unfortunate situation before it blooms. It is rather, basically, a national trend that has waited dangerously long to reverse itself.

An understanding of our educator's problems and sympathetic participation in their struggle to overcome them is all that is asked of us, as parents of school students.

We might obtain a different perspective of the huge picture by visiting our schools during "Texas Public School Week."

The training of American children is something we must not let follow the shady path of negligence. Our stake in the outcome is too high.—W. W. K.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: We don't know whether the Bootleg Philosopher on his farm near Bootleg had his tongue in his cheek or not, but here's his letter just like we received it.

Dear Editor:

I read in a paper the other day where a Congressman was denouncing a government agency for spending 60 days testin a new-type super de luxe upholstered typist chair for "safety and durability," since it was figurin on buyin 20,000 of em to replace the chairs it had and didn't wanto go wrong. He was pretty scathin about it, sayin it was the silliest thing he'd ever hear of, that chairs already have been "researched" adequately and the government has no business wastin money in such a fashion.

I do not look at it that way. That is, I'm not in favor of wastin money, unless it's in this area, but about chairs now, the way I look at it is, there is no time limit on how long a chair should be tested. Sixty days seems to me like leanin over backwards to get on with the defense effort in a hurry. Why, I've been testin a chair of mine out here on my front porch on my farm at Bootleg for 35 years, and I ain't prepared to say yet whether it's gonna work out satisfactorily or not. So far it has proved durable and safe, but I ain't making no snap judgment.

One thing wrong with this modern generation is its craze for speed, its intolerable haste to get on with things.. It would be just like this Congressman to throw any kind of a chair he could grab under 20,000 government typists and then have them break down right in the midst of a crisis. Legs fallin off all over the place, backs splittin in two, blisters showin up in the wrong place, errors in the typin, too much time out for coffee, I tell you this mad rush to fling things together, take things for granted, tear into a new program without adequate forethought, is one of the things that's makin taxes so high.

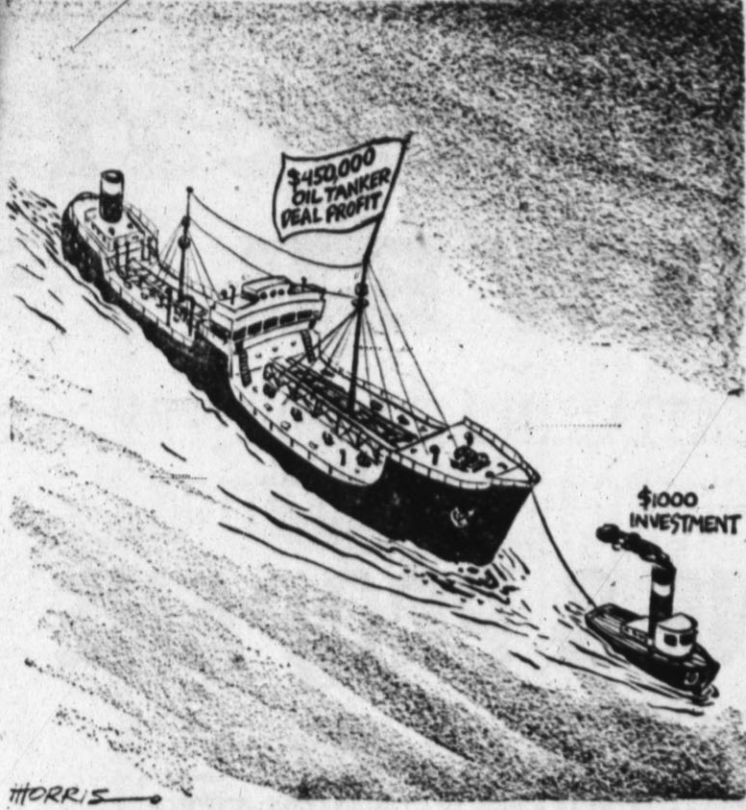

I may not know anything about bein a Congressman, may not know anything about typin, may not know anything about the economic index and the far-flung complexities of the defense program, but if there's anything I know something about it's chairs and I'm here to tell you and the entire Congress that selectin a chair that'll bring the best out of a man's mind is a life-time job. Washington ought to slow down.

Only 60 days to test out a chair? That ain't long enough to test out a new mayor. Why nearly any movie actor will take longer than that just to test out a wife.

Yours faithfully,

I A

BOOKS ON PARADE

"Queen Of The Cowtowns" Story Of Bustling Dodge City, Kans.

"Queen of the Cowtowns" is the story of Dodge City, Kansas and the author, Stanley Vestal, has covered a wide range of history not only of the town itself but the surrounding country and tells especially of the cattle industry and its influence on the town.

Vestal is a professor at the University of Oklahoma as well as a writer of prominence, specializing in western and southwestern non-fiction.

The book is entertaining and informative with a certain amount of humor which he claims was rather hardy and often a bit rough, as in those days, one might expect from outdoor men such as buffalo hunters, mule skinner, soldiers, railroad builders, ranchers and farmers.

It was the custom, he writes that the early American made jokes of anything unpleasant because it took the sting out of the isolation, the loneliness, the hardships and difficulties that the pioneer had to face.

"Laughter is man's best medicine, and on those empty plains infested with hostile Indians, rattlesnakes, hydrophobic skunks, mad wolves, horse thieves, and gunmen, where cholera and small pox were epidemic and nearly every disease was incurable, a good dose of laughter was frequently needed."

They played jokes on every one that needed what they thought a lesson on behavior, or pranks were used as a public protest or as a form of social discipline, and on a tenderfoot just for the fun of it.

The object of these jokes might be a comedian such as Eddie Foy, whom they took to a "hanging party" using him as the brunt of the joke. But his good humor won them over and it ended with a laugh and drink all around.

Or an "Indian Party" might be staged that would even scare some of the old timers, so realistic were the "Indians" made up and the scares they pulled. Or if a dandy came to town and bragged too much they had their own little game which took care of that too.

They often would spend quite a bit of money to carry out some prank, one of which they tried out on a cowboy from Texas. He came in from a trail herd looking rather ragged and they grabbed him tore off his hat and stimped it, finished tearing his clothes into rags—then took him to a store and bought him an entire new ing machines.

George Washington's birthday was celebrated this week by the Masons.

Roger Orr, George Higgins, Thomas Tilston and Frank Cogdell were awarded Eagle badges in their scouting work.

outfit, finishing the joke with drinks at the bar for all.

And in one instant a joke was even played on a dead man.

Beside humor of the early day there are stories on the use of pistols, of "Boot Hill" the very first one of the many to follow this name, women of the early day, both the good and the bad; vigilantes, buffaloes, hide hunters, gamblers and their games, the long horns, the famous Wyatt Earp and others, their part in Dodge City history; train robbers and marshals.

If you like early day history, stories of the old west and many more subjects besides the above named this is your story says the librarian, Mrs. J. J. Boydston of the county library.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Black and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Miller left this week for a weeks trip to points of interest in Georgia; Louisiana; Alabama; Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Beauty at Home

By Lynn Carter

Q. What exercise can I practice for reducing my hips?

A. Try sitting with the soles of the feet flat against each other. Place hands on knees, draw abdomen in an up, spine erect. Now, with a rocking motion, swing first to right, then to left, very rapidly. The harder and farther you rock, the more effective the exercise. Repeat at least 50 times without stopping.

Q. How can I add light and luster to my hair?

A. Through lemon or vinegar rinses. Strained juice of two lemons to a bowlful of warm water or a tablespoon of vinegar to a quart of water. For dry hair, a drop of oil is recommended in the final rinse water. This method of applying distributes the oil evenly through the hair.

Q. Please recommend a good, general-purpose facial mask.

A. One of the best is made of honey, oatmeal and milk. Equal parts of the first two are mixed with enough milk to form a paste.

Q. What is the best way to massage the throat?

A. To avoid drooping lines and to smooth the skin, always massage upward and outward. Use the cushions of the fingers, press gently and firmly, so as not to break down the delicate neck tissues. Make certain the skin is adequately greased and the muscles well stimulated. And be sure to cleanse thoroughly before the massage.

Q. How can I bleach and soften my skin?

A. Lemon juice, added to your cleansing cream (and kept in a cool place so as not to turn rancid) is good. Some women like to keep it in their hand lotion, too.

Q. What is the correct makeup for an abnormally thin face?

A. You can add breadth by placing the color spot closer to the ears. Avoid using too much rouge, and also add a touch of color to the chin.

Q. How much time should the average girl spend on her beauty ritual every night?

A. At least 35 minutes. This should consist of 15 minutes for brushing the hair, 10 minutes for exercise, at least 10 minutes for washing and creaming the face. Massage lubricating cream into neck and face with firm, uplifting strokes. This avoids contours later.

Streu's Diary

February 29, 1952

DEAR DIARY:

This is an unusual day, in that it occurs only once every four years—wouldn't it be a wonderful thing if all the peoples of the world could have a week-long celebration—ending with a terrific demonstration on February 29th—celebrating world brotherhood and peace?

Drove over to Oklahoma City last week-end and picked up a few records—should have another shipment by the time this is read. Nice selection of RCA Victor albums you have been waiting for.

Jean has started receiving some of the new merchandise that she and Elizabeth (from the Dimmitt store) bought at the recent Gift Show in Dallas—some lovely items—of course more will be coming in for another month or so—perhaps you girls had best drop by from time to time in order to keep up with all the new gadgets.

Speaking of new things—we have the new Glamour Rug Cleaner in stock—very highly recommended.

Walter has received most all his fishing stuff—if he gets any more, we will have to move out the hardware and change our name to Streu's Sport Shop—heavenly days!

Some silly individual is passing up an opportunity to buy a new

"75" Martin outboard at a bargain. Have bargains in some other departments as well—ask me about them.

Received this week—great big shipment of popular Walker Ware aluminum pots, pans and percolators, etc.—ball gloves and caps—tennis balls—light bulbs, pipe fittings, Pyrex Ware, Hi-Jacs—shoe-jacs, sandpaper, horse shoe nails, lawn sprinklers, padlocks-etc. etc.

Would you like to hear how your speech sounds to others? Come in for a demonstration of the famous Wilcox-Gay home tape recorder—no charge.

I understand that there are some shares available in the Hereford Golf Club. In almost every town where individuals have purchased shares when the club was small, these shares have increased in value many, many times. I believe that those with foresight enough to get in on the ground floor of this club will find they have made a fine financial investment—besides that, golfing is good fun.

Darned if I ain't gettin' as wordy as a politician!

No March Draft Exam Call For Local Board, Defer Law Students

The Deaf Smith county draft board is one of the 47 local boards in the state which are not getting calls for pre-induction physical or mental exams for March, according to State selective service headquarters. Law school graduates ordered for induction into the armed forces will now have induction postponed to permit them to take the state bar examination next following graduation. Brigadier General Paul L. Wakefield, state Selective Service director, said this new ruling was received at state draft headquarters today in an executive order of Major General Lewis B. Hershey, national director. The registrant must notify his local draft board that he intends to take the bar examination and request postponement for that purpose, General Wakefield said.

The order from General Hershey reads in part:

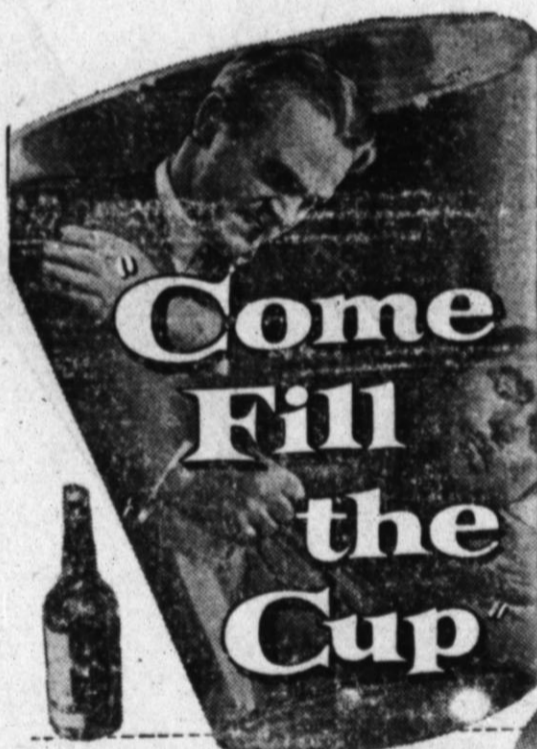

"Whenever a registrant who has graduated from law school is ordered to report for induction prior to the date the bar examination next following his graduation is to be held in the state or comparable jurisdiction in which the registrant is to be examined, and the registrant has notified the local board that he will take such bar examination and desires that his induction be postponed for that purpose, the local board shall postpone the induction of the registrant until the day following the last day of such bar examination."

Outlining his purpose for the order, General Hershey said:

"If successful in the examination, such a registrant may be qualified to apply for a commission in the armed forces as a judge advocate, and will have the opportunity to be admitted to the bar so that he may enter upon the practice of law upon his return from military service."
