AP News Analysis
 By NEVAN BRUMBLEY Associated Press Writer
 MOSCOW (AP) — Kremlin leaders last night demanded a martial law regime, which claims it took power lawfully, may bring unwanted domination of the army over the Communist Party, Soviet and Western sources say.

Such a situation would reject Soviet-style Communism in which the party dominates society. It would also mean the first such nation in the Eastern bloc to have the Communists do not control the government.

"In a sense, it was a coup d'état," said one Soviet source who has proved reliable in explaining Soviet thinking.

The source said Kremlin leaders agreed Polish Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski's declaration of martial law Dec. 13 was the only solution to the struggle between the Polish ruling Communists and the independent Solidarity union. Jaruzelski promised to end martial law when order was restored.

"The Kremlin is resigned to the fact that martial law was the only way out of the situation," the source says.

Caterpillar Company Faces Heavy Losses

WASHINGTON (AP) — One heavy-equipment manufacturer didn't fare too well, but most U.S. companies and thousands of American farmers will not be affected by President Reagan's new trade sanctions against the Soviet Union.

The most significant steps in the administration's package, announced Tuesday in response to the military crackdown in Poland, was the cutoff of about $300 million in annual sales of high technology products, including computers and oil and gas equipment.

The biggest loser apparently will be the Caterpillar Tractor Co. of Peoria, Ill., which had been given preliminary approval earlier this month to sell its pipelayers — sophisticated bulldozers — to the Soviets.

That sale, which company officials estimated would have amounted to $60 million, was halted. But a sale of 10 pipelayers this summer was not affected because the machinery already had been delivered.

Caterpillar officials said it was too soon to predict whether the action will result in further layoffs by the company, which already has laid off 1,400 workers because of sluggish equipment sales.

The company said the sanctions, unless reversed, U.S. sales would "not carry pipelayers to the Soviet Union." (See CATERPILLAR, Page 2A)

No Indications Will Follow

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is no sign that U.S. officials will follow President Reagan's lead in imposing sanctions against the Soviet Union, say U.S. officials.

A senior U.S. official who asked not to be identified said Tuesday that the allies have been asked to invade parallel measures and "at the very least not to take actions to undermine these steps."

"The Allies have... is there is no indication that our allies are supporting the details of the program announced by the White House," said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Clayton Sees Nothing Wrong With Proposal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House Speaker Bill Clayton, who sparked the creation of a committee on public officials' ethics, says there was nothing unethical about him trying to get a mineral lease from a state-regulated board.

Clayton confirmed Tuesday that he offered $167,504 for a lease on the Lower Colorado River Authority's power plant site in Fayette County.

The offer was rejected by the LCRA board.

"I said, 'Return the damn thing,'" Board Chairman Harry Shapiro of San Saba said. "I said we don't want it, and to get it out of here. I was rather adamant about it. ... I think to have considered anything that the speaker of the House would have brought to us... would have been unethical."

Board member John Scanlan, an Austin lawyer, said Clayton's offer was "inappropriate" because LCRA is a state agency.

Clayton disagreed, saying LCRA is a "subdivision of the state, like a water district or city." "There would be nothing wrong with a state official leasing land from one of those jurisdictions," he said.

The speaker, who plans to run for land commissioner next year, said he never "used any influence" on board members. Clayton's Brilab trial, at which he was acquitted of taking a bribe, prompted him to sponsor a bill set-

In Palo Duro Basin

Dumping Petitions Circulating

Frank Ford, president of Arrowhead Mills, is urging local citizens to join the area protest against the dumping of nuclear waste.

Ford is distributing petitions around the city and asking citizens to sign the forms if they agree with the idea of seeking to stop the drilling of test sites in this agricultural area.

STAND (Serious Texans Against Nuclear Dumping) has been formed in Tulla and is leading the fight against the drilling tests. Ford said the movement covers the Palo Duro Basin and that STAND "has done a good job in taking the lead and seeking information."

A Department of Energy (DOE) official was in Hereford recently to hold a briefing for city and county officials. She announced that public hearings will be held in January to provide the Texas Panhandle with information on DOE's National Waste Terminal Storage (NWTS) program.

It was announced here Monday that a public hearing will be held in Hereford on Jan. 19 at the Community Center. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

The petition being circulated locally states: "Whereas the bureaucrats of the discredited Department of Energy have totally disregarded the will of the people of the Palo Duro Basin, expressed in many ways over the past four years, and have secretly, in conjunction with certain state officials, continued to spend a huge amount of our tax dollars in an effort to turn this fertile agricultural area into a DUMP SITE FOR THE NA-TION'S NUCLEAR WASTE: "We, the undersigned citizens of the Palo Duro Basin, STAND UNITED and hereby demand an immediate cessation of this gross waste and abuse of our tax money!

"So long as this is still a free country, we do not intend, under any circumstances, to allow nuclear waste to be dumped under our rich soil and through our life-giving underground water table. The threat of LETHAL RADIOACTIVITY would exist far beyond our lifetime and could PERMANENTLY DEVASTATE THE LIVELIHOOD AND TAX BASE of the citizens and towns of this important and productive agricultural region."

DOE officials had recently confirmed that three contracts have been signed for test drillings of between 2,500 and 2,000 feet deep in Deaf Smith County to test the suitability of deep salt formations in this area.

These sites were described as being located four miles south of the Ford community; three miles southeast of Milo Center, and four miles north of Dawn.

Ford said he understood that "these local contracts can be rescinded by the property owners, if they so (See PETITIONS, Page 2A)

Military Says 'Calm' Prevails

Walesa Agrees to Negotiate

By The Associated Press
 Solidarity chief Lech Walesa has agreed to begin negotiations with Poland's martial law regime, according to uncensored reports reaching the West. Military council members contend the country is calm, "production is growing and worker discipline is increasing."

The government Tuesday acknowledged eight people have been killed in clashes since martial law was declared Dec. 13, according to reports Tuesday. Earlier official reports conceded seven deaths, but unconfirmed reports put the number in the hundreds.

President Reagan on Tuesday banned natural gas pipeline equipment to the Soviet Union as part of trade sanctions "to put powerful doubts in the minds of the Soviet and Polish leaders about this continued repression."

Reagan, who blames the Kremlin for the crackdown in Poland, announced Tuesday that Soviet air and sea rights within U.S. territorial zones would be suspended as well as the sale of the gas pipeline equipment.

Last week, Reagan suspended food aid to Poland, cut off fishing rights and slashed Polish air service to the United States.

West German officials said Polish Deputy Prime Minister Mieczyslaw

Rakowski arrived in Bonn today to meet with Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher to discuss the sanctions, which would halt U.S. cooperation in construction of a Soviet gas pipeline to Western Europe.

The general feeling in Bonn and other Western European capitals involved in the gas deal was that the Soviets would look elsewhere for equipment to build the 2,400 mile pipeline. Rakowski is the first senior Polish official to travel abroad since martial law was declared.

Polish television announced industrial price hikes beginning Jan. 1 for gas, oil, coke and building materials "in line with the economic reform." The cost of a ton of crude oil will go from $54.52 to $432.23, the state-run television said, adding that the increases "will necessarily mean a rise in retail prices."

Earlier this week, the government said meat and butter rations would be cut.

"There's no food again," said a Polish woman from Katowice who arrived in Vienna, Austria today by overnight train. "It's terrible."

Price hikes and food shortages in the summer of 1980 led to nationwide strikes that launched Solidarity as the first union in the Soviet bloc free of Communist Party control. The union was suspended when Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski imposed martial law Dec. 13, ending 16 months of reforms.

Reports quoting a member of Walesa's family said the union chief had decided on Christmas Day to begin talks with the military regime. The negotiations were to have begun Monday, but it could not be learned if they were underway.

A government source who asked not to be identified said "There is room (in Poland's future) for an independent trade union, independent both of the state employer and of political manipulation."

A senior Solidarity adviser still at large said that any political solution to the crisis must be made between authentic Solidarity leaders" and the government. He said any attempts to "replace unionists with Communist Party loyalists would be unacceptable."

The source also confirmed that Walesa had been on a two-day hunger strike. At a news conference Tuesday, government spokesman Jerzy Urban said Walesa was in good health and was in contact with representatives of the government, Poland's Roman Catholic Church and his family, according to reports.

The mustachioed union leader was not under arrest, Urban claimed. "He is in (See WALESA, Page 2A) driver's license checks and routine traffic stops, said traffic Capt. L.E. Daley.

"Motorists can anticipate being asked to show liability coverage on any of these types of incidents," Daley said. "This department believes that people have had sufficient time to educate themselves."

"It is not like it was a brand new ball game to them, he said. "They were supposed to have had it all along."

"We are going to start enforcing it right from the start," said Deputy Chief Edward Foreman in San Antonio. "But we are not sure just how our municipal court people will react."

Dallas police would ticket cars immediately since the public has been exposed to six months of publicity about the law, said Deputy Police Chief Harold Warren.

Hereford firemen battled for three hours at 406 Avenue I Tuesday dousing a house fire started by a child playing with matches. According to Jay Spain, fire marshal, a bedroom made from a converted garage was gutted and the rest of the home heavily damaged by smoke and heat. The Keith Gooch family escaped injury. Spain said the child told his father that he "set the house on fire" immediately, but by the time trucks arrived the paneling in the room had ignited. (Brand Photo by Kelly Cherry)

Police to Enforce New Insurance Law

By JAY JORDEN Associated Press Writer
 DALLAS (AP) — Police in a number of major cities will begin enforcing a state law Friday requiring motorists to prove liability insurance coverage, even though state troopers will not ticket drivers during a grace period.

Only warning tickets will be issued by the Texas Department of Public Safety for the first three months after the law goes into effect, unless the motorist stopped already has received a warning from the DPS, a spokesman said.

A similar plan will not be adopted in five cities, police said Tuesday.

"We are not telling our officers that there is a certain grace period," Houston police spokesman Larry Trout said in a telephone interview. "But officers have been instructed to be as lenient as possible for the first few weeks or so, and to take any evidence as proof."

After that time, he said, officers have been instructed to use their discretion in issuing tickets.

A motorist on Houston streets with no evidence of insurance may be ticketed for a Class C misdemeanor, punishable on first offense by a $75 fine. Second and subsequent offenses provide for fines of not less than $200.

Traffic officers in Dallas, Fort Worth, Corpus Christi and San Antonio will also issue tickets to uninsured motorists after Friday. Austin police will follow the DPS warning ticket guideline.

In Corpus Christi, police will request proof of insurance from motorists during accident investigations, and orders to Wilson's associates around the world.

Her passport was taken by Customs Service agents Dec. 21 when she was arrested at Dallas-Fort Worth Airport on a flight from London. U.S. Magistrate Alex McGlinchey said Tuesday he would hold that passport and he directed that the passport of her son, 10-year-old Mark Barnes, also be surrendered.

Ms. Barnes, who was in Texas to spend the Christmas holidays with relatives in Austin, has been free on $200,000 bond since Christmas Day. The bond was on an arrest warrant that says she is a material witness in the

OCAW Bargaining Fails; Contract Offers Rejected

DENVER (AP) — Bargaining among 55,000 union oil refinery workers and 98 oil companies across the nation appears certain to "go down to the 11th hour" following the rejection of three two-year contract offers from members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, said Tuesday night that the rejected contract offers were "ridiculous" in that they provided for small wage increases and did not address the union's primary demand for a no-layoffs guarantee.

"There's no way there could be a settlement without that," Goss said. "It does no good to get a good pay increase if a man gets laid off two months later."

"I'm amazed that there's been so little realistic bargaining going on so far," he added. "We're eight days away from the deadline and they have not even addressed the major issues. Mechanically, we could handle a settlement at this point, if they don't want a strike. But I'm sure now that it will go down to the 11th hour."

Federal Witness's Passport Withheld

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal magistrate ordered the passports of Robert Jeanne Barnes and her son held to guard against her leaving the country before appearing before a federal grand jury in Washington today.

Justice Department lawyers want to question her about the activities of Edwin P. Wilson, a former CIA agent accused of providing arms to Libya. Wilson and another former CIA agent, Frank Terpil, were indicted in April 1980 in Washington on a charge of illegally shipping explosives to Libya.

Investigators have said Ms. Barnes, 33, delivered funds for refiners, says the oil workers union chief.

Robert F. Goss, president of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, said Tuesday night that the rejected contract offers were "ridiculous" in that they provided for small wage increases and did not address the union's primary demand for a no-layoffs guarantee.

"There's no way there could be a settlement without that," Goss said. "It does no good to get a good pay increase if a man gets laid off two months later."

Jury Indicts Alleged Drug Runner

On Tax Evasion

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury has indicted a member of an alleged family-run heroin ring on income tax evasion charges.

Meynardo Montemayor, one of five brothers facing federal racketeering charges, and his wife, Graciela, were named Tuesday in the indictments.

The grand jury charged the couple with failing to pay $60,000 tax on $200,000 in income for 1978 and 1979.

Montemayor is in the Nueces County jail awaiting trial on racketeering and cocaine charges. No warrant had been issued for Mrs. Montemayor by Tuesday afternoon, a spokesman for the U.S. marshal's office said.

She and brothers Matias, Reyes, Emilio and Manuel, were indicted in November on charges of running a "continuing criminal enterprise" in illegal drugs since 1970.

Federal narcotics officials have alleged in recent proceedings that the Montemayors run one of the country's largest heroin rings between Mexico and the United States.

Meynardo Montemayor testified at a November trial in which he and other family members tried to recover property seized in April by U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agents.

One house, the furnishings of two homes, several cars, horses, expensive jewelry and an airplane were confiscated by agents acting under provisions of a law that allows property traceable to illegal drug transactions to be seized without a hearing.

U.S. District Judge Filemon Vela upheld the confiscation of one home, the furnishings of two houses and other items but not the jewelry.

Under the racketeering indictments, the rest of the property can be confiscated if prosecutors obtain convictions on the charges.

300 Return Home After Evacuation Due To Derailment

GLEN FLORA, Texas (AP) — About 300 people have returned to the homes they left when three tank cars carrying highly flammable liquefied petroleum gas derailed and forced the evacuation of this Wharton County community, officials said.

The three derailed cars were placed back on track by an emergency crew and "everything is back to normal here," a sheriff's deputy said.

The three cars were part of a 25-car Santa Fe freight train which jumped the tracks at about 10:15 Tuesday morning. A spokesman for the Wharton County Sheriff's Department said the evacuation began just after 1 p.m. as the emergency crew prepared to put the cars back on the track.

No one was reported injured and the tank cars were not leaking, sheriff's officials said.

Santa Fe Railroad spokesman Lorne Simmons said there had been a report of a small grass fire near the derailment but it was quickly extinguished by local firefighters.

The freight train was traveling from Bellville to Bay City when the three cars, located in the middle of the train, derailed. The route is regularly traveled by Santa Fe cars and the company had had no previous problems in the area, Simmons said.

The train's other cars contained coke, petroleum gas and one carload of beer, Simmons said.

Judge Bars High Tax On Sex Movie Machines

HOUSTON (AP) — A 100-fold tax increase on machines showing sexually explicit films cannot be collected by the city and Harris County, a state district judge said.

In Austin, a judge said a similar tax imposed by the Texas Amusement Machine Commission will be declared unconstitutional.

Taxes on the movie machines were raised throughout the state after the Legislature passed a law this year enabling taxing entities to increase their levies.

Judge Anthony Farris Tuesday prohibited the city and county from collecting taxes from three companies who operate movie machines and set a Jan. 7 hearing date on the issue.

An attorney for the companies argued the tax is designed to be "confiscatory" and regulatory and said his clients would be put out of business by the increased levy.

Both the county and city hiked the tax on the machines from $7.50 a year to $750. The attorney said his clients would have to pay a total of $196,500 on 131 machines.

In a similar case involving 38 machines owned by an El Paso company, state District Judge Harley Clark, in Travis County, told attorneys he would find the amusement commission's tax increase unconstitutional. The commission upped its annual tax from $15 to $1,500.

A federal court in Dallas is also considering arguments on the case.

Nine Teens Treated For Poisoning

ESTES PARK, Colo. (AP) — Nineteen teenagers from Victoria, Texas, were treated for carbon monoxide poisoning after a natural-gas furnace malfunctioned in a dormitory at the YM-CA of the Rockies near here, officials said.

Four of the teenagers were taken to Elizabeth Koutson Hospital for treatment, according to hospital spokeswoman Anna Schwab. Two were released after treatment and two were admitted in good condition, Ms. Schwab said.

All of the teenagers suffered some nausea, dizziness and headaches and one lost consciousness in the incident, officials said.

Gene Garris, managing director of the Y camp six miles west of Estes Park, said the affected people were in four of the dorm's 50 rooms and that none of the other occupants, totalling 67 people, were affected.

Garris said one of the Texas group phoned the security guard about 5 a.m., the building was evacuated and the nonaffected people were placed in another building.

Public Service Co. of Colorado investigators said a blower compartment door was not properly sealed which caused exhaust fumes not to be properly vented from the building.

Survivors Sue Gulf For $18 Million

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — The family of an electrician killed in a refinery explosion this month and another electrician who survived the blast have sued Gulf Oil Co. for a total of $18 million as a result of the incident.

Two separate lawsuits were filed in Beaumont federal court the past week from the Dec. 9 explosion at Gulf's refinery in Port Arthur. The accident killed two people and put 26 more in the hospital.

Survivors of David Williams, 36, ask $5 million actual damages from Gulf and another $5 million in punitive damages if Gulf is found responsible for the accident.

Williams, an employee of Research-Cottrell Inc. of New Jersey, was working at the refinery when a boiler exploded nearby. Williams died from severe burns a week later at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston.

Williams' widow, Mina Williams, and his mother, Ruby L. Williams, filed the suit on behalf of themselves and two minor children by a previous marriage.

Gulf officials declined to comment on the lawsuits but a company spokesman said the blast is still under investigation.

Where To Put Your Money

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Opening an Individual Retirement Account is easy. Deciding where to open it isn't.

You can open an IRA at any financial institution. Simply make a deposit and sign a trustee or custodial agreement identifying the account as an IRA. The institution which acts as the manager of your account will give you all the necessary forms.

Here are some questions and answers about the major types of investments available:

Q. What do you mean by a financial institution?
A. A bank, a thrift institution like a mutual savings bank or a savings and loan association, a credit union, a brokerage house, a mutual fund or an insurance company.

Q. What happens to the money once I deposit it?

A. That depends on the institution. Banks, thrifts and credit unions generally will invest your money in a certificate of deposit or a regular savings account. Federal regulators have authorized banks, thrifts and credit unions to offer a new type of certificate for IRA accounts only. There is no limit on the amount of interest which can be paid so the new investment is often called a "wild-card" certificate. The wild-card certificates offered by banks and thrifts have a minimum maturity of 18 months; there is no minimum term for credit unions.

Q. What are some of my other options?

A. The big brokerage houses are offering two basic types of IRAs — the self-directed account and the professionally managed one. A self-directed account allows you to control your investment, buying and selling stocks and bonds, real estate, etc. The money in a professionally managed account goes into a package of pre-selected investments. A typical package would include a money-market fund and several types of stocks, funds and bond funds. Mutual fund groups like the Fidelity Corp. of Boston and T. Rowe Price of Baltimore have similar investment packages called "mutual-fund families."

Q. What do insurance companies sell?

A. Insurance companies provide Individual Retirement Annuities which guarantee you a certain amount of income every year after you retire. The payout per $1,000 invested is based on average life expectancies and the yield on the investments purchased with your premium money.

Q. What are some of the advantages and disadvantages of the different types of accounts?

A. All IRAs at banks, thrifts and credit unions are insured by the federal government for up to $100,000 each. IRAs at other financial institutions are not insured, but you may be able to earn a higher yield and you have more flexibility in switching investments.

Q. How much does it cost to open an IRA?

A. It varies from institution to institution. The banks, thrifts and credits unions have the lowest fees; you may not have to pay anything at all to open an IRA. With a self-directed IRA at a brokerage house, you will have to pay a fee to open the account — probably $30 or less, plus annual maintenance charges of up to $50 and commissions on sales or purchases. Professionally managed accounts at brokerage houses and IRAs at mutual fund groups generally have lower fees.

Q. Are there any limits at all on the types of investments for IRAs?

A. Yes. Starting in January, you cannot invest in what are known as "collectibles" — gold or silver, coins, etc. If you have an existing IRA in collectibles you can keep it, but you cannot add to it. NOTE: You should not use an IRA for something like an All Savers Certificate which already has a tax exemption or deferral.

'Yet Another Martyr'

Slain Priest Mourned

DENVER CITY, Texas (AP) — Parish priest Patrick Ryan was eulogized as "yet another martyr" when an overflow crowd jammed Ryan's tiny church for funeral services, a week after he was found beaten to death in a West Texas motel room.

Police say they have no suspects in the death of the man parishioners called "Father Paddy," a native of Ireland whose body will be flown back to his home sod for burial.

Two Roman Catholic bishops, Joseph Florenza of San Angelo and Leroy Mathiesen of Amarillo, were co-celebrants at Tuesday's funeral Mass, with another 50 priests joining the throng of mourners. Police more than 500 people attended the funeral, many of them standing outside in bitter, blustery cold winds and listening to the service on loudspeakers.

"They were standing in the front yard of the church and the church was packed. There was a lot of love," said

Jan Sulecki, who works for the funeral home that handled the funeral arrangements.

Mathiesen, Ryan's bishop, gave the eulogy and called Ryan "yet another martyr." "May his blood — shed by strangers, as with the savior — be the seed that springs up new Christians," Mathiesen said.

Ryan, the only Roman Catholic priest in this West Texas town of 5,000 people, was found beaten to death, nude and bound in an Odessa motel room last week.

He left a steak dinner on the stove when he vanished without a word to his congregation. He was reported missing Christmas Day after he failing to conduct a mass Wednesday, a Christmas Eve midnight Mass and a Christmas Mass.

Ryan lived alone in a parsonage beside the church. Parishioners held an around-the-clock prayer vigil from Sunday night until the funeral Tuesday afternoon. Ryan's wooden coffin was draped with a gift from his parishioners, a hand-made shawl embroidered with a likeness of the Virgin Mary.

After the 80-minute funeral, the body was being taken to Lubbock for a flight to Ireland. Ryan, 49, is to be buried in his native Doon, Ireland.

"He was a great person. Truly the gentlest man I ever met," Ms. Sulecki said.

Ryan, who had been a Pallottine priest for more than 25 years, spent 12 years as a missionary in East Africa before moving to Denver City two years ago.

His body was found last Tuesday but was not identified until Saturday. Medical examiners said it was covered with bruises and death probably came from a blow to the neck.

Police recovered Ryan's car in Hobbs, N.M., about 120 miles from Odessa. Fingerprints taken from the car are being studied, said Yoakum County Sheriff Jim Rice.

Five Tire Slashings Reported In City

Five incidents of tire slashing were reported to Hereford police Tuesday with damage total estimates set at $750.

The vandalism was reported on Avenue G, at Bluewater Gardens Apartments, in the 800 block of Brevard and on Irving. One man on Irving was able to give police a description of several juveniles seen in the area shortly before he discovered his tires cut.

Hereford Day Care, 215 Norton, reported that some youths in the alley with BB guns had broken a window at the center. Officers notified the juveniles' parents who said restitution would be made.

Police reported to the Allsup's at 910 East Park where some kids were playing near some of the store's sheds. When police arrived several of the kids were seen coming out of the sheds. The officers handed the case to juvenile authorities.

Police issued nine citations and made six calls.

martial law in Poland — "it remains to be seen what the attitude of other countries will be."

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. told an audience in San Francisco that, contrary to press reports, West German Foreign Minister Hans Dietrich Genscher is "totally supportive" of Reagan's actions and shares "the concerns of Washington."

However, Haig stopped short of saying Genscher is prepared to recommend that West Germany invoke similar sanctions of its own.

Reagan and other U.S. officials have made it clear in public statements and a letter to Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev that the United States holds the Soviet Union responsible for the military crackdown in Poland.

Reagan thus "tightened the screws" on Moscow on Tuesday with seven sanctions designed to crimp future U.S.-Soviet dealings in high technology, grain sales, air travel and ocean shipping.

He said he acted "to speak for those who have been silenced and to help those who have been rendered helpless."

worry because Jaruzelski's ruling military council has suspended not only activities of Solidarity, but apparently also the Communist Party, which by Polish law plays a "leading role" in society.

A major party purge also is reportedly underway. Several party members, at least four governors and 77 mayors have been sacked. Martial law authorities seem to be using military command structures, not regional party organizations, to run the country.

Soviet and Eastern European sources in Moscow say the Kremlin wants the Polish party purged of those who are inactive and corrupt, cutting the membership of 3 million in half. They say that the party enjoyed little support in Poland before military rule and must purge itself to maintain power.

Administration officials estimated the new trade bans would halt about $100 million in sales of high technology equipment and an additional $300 million worth of oil and gas drilling and transmission equipment.

That represents barely 8 percent of annual U.S. exports to the Soviet Union of $3.7 billion.

Agricultural products, which make up about 70 percent of U.S. sales to the Soviets, were not touched by Reagan, who criticized and lifted the grain export ban imposed by then-President Carter after the Soviet move into Afghanistan.

Reagan said he may take harsher unilateral steps later if the Soviet-backed military regime in Poland does not ease its crackdown and negotiate a political solution with the now-suppressed Solidarity labor movement and the Roman Catholic Church in Poland.

The U.S. official, who briefed reporters on the condition he is not identified, said the president's actions do not affect the resumption of talks in Geneva between the United States and the Soviet Union on reducing nuclear weapons in Europe.

And he said a summit conference next year between Reagan and Brezhnev — while no certainty — has not been foreclosed.

However, he indicated it is by no means certain that a meeting scheduled for January between Haig and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will take place because it is "under review."

The official said Reagan acted after being convinced by a letter from Brezhnev last week that the Soviet Union "is thus far unwilling to change its policies of support and encouragement of suppression in Poland."

grand jury investigation. McGlinchey reduced bond from $500,000 to $200,000 that day and it was posted by her father, Leo Brady, and her brother-in-law, Ron Wamsted. Brady is a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel who lives in North Carolina and Wamsted is an Austin lawyer who was an Army officer for seven years.

McGlinchey said he did not want the bond backed by "Libyan money." He said he believed Brady and Wamsted had "a sense of duty" toward their country and would make sure Ms. Barnes appeared in court.

Ms. Barnes originally was held by Customs Service agents on a charge accusing her of failing to list all of the cash she was bringing into the country. Her lawyers say she simply miscounted the money.

At a hearing in Washington Tuesday, U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker refused Ms. Barnes' lawyers' request to eliminate the bail. She then was served with a subpoena ordering her to appear before the grand jury this morning.

E. Lawrence Barcelona, an assistant U.S. attorney in charge of the Wilson investigation, said the grand jurors had been scheduled to be off until after New Year's Day but were being called in to special session to hear Ms. Barnes.

figure for its wage increase demand, but Goss said any increase should at least keep pace with inflation, which the union estimates at 11 percent for 1982 and more than 9 percent the following year.

A specific demand was to be set forth next week when the bargaining policy committee convened in Denver, Goss said.

"I'll settle for what the oil executives got last year — about 12.3 percent," he said.

Previous reports from Warsaw have said Walesa was held at the headquarters of the army general staff. Walesa's current whereabouts could not be independently confirmed.

Normal communications were cut in Poland when martial law was declared and censorship imposed. Reliable news reports from within Poland have been few and Western news organizations must piece together information from travelers, diplomatic sources and others.

Solidarity is the only independent union in the Soviet bloc free of Communist Party control. The same government source said Jaruzelski, an army general, will unveil a social, economic and political program in early January that will include guidelines under which a union along the lines of Solidarity could operate.

Shortly after martial law was imposed, there were reports of industrial sabotage and protest strikes by thousands of workers from the Baltic shipyards to the coal mines in Silesia. But on Tuesday, a dispatch filed by AP correspondent Thomas W. Netter and subject to censorship, quoted government officials as saying the country was calm.

"Today is the first day in Poland that there are no strikes, or other forms of tension," said Gen. Tadeusz Szaslicio, a member of the ruling military council.

Four test holes have already been completed in the Panhandle area, and about five more are planned. Three of those are in Swisher County and two in Castro County.

The evaluation of deep geological formations has reached the stages of specific locations in five areas of the country. They include bedded salt in the Palo Duro Basin of the Texas Panhandle and in southeastern Utah; salt domes in the Gulf Coast region, and in volcanic rock formations at two federal nuclear reservations in Washington and Nevada.

By 1983, DOE plans to identify sites for construction of the first three exploratory shafts — one in salt (either bedded or dome), one in basalt at the Hanford Reservation in Washington, and one in tuff at the Nevada Test Site.

The DOE anticipates that the first repository site will be recommended to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in 1980 from among the three sites. Actual placement of nuclear waste in the repository would not occur until about 1987, according to DOE plans.

Ann Landers Junk Is Great Fire Hazard

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My father died four years ago. Since that time my mother refuses to throw away anything that has the slightest connection with him. Dad was a great reader of newspapers and magazines, so Mom has kept all the subscriptions although she rarely reads anything except your column and the horoscope.

Our apartment looks like a second-hand junk store. Papers, magazines, books, Dad's old clothes and hobby games are piled all over the place. I am ashamed to invite anyone over.

Worse yet, the fear of a fire haunts me. Mom smokes a lot and is getting absent-minded. If she should fall asleep on the couch with a cigarette in her hand, this place would be a death-trap for not only us but hundreds of people who live in the building.

Don't tell me to talk sense to her. I have tried and she pays no attention. I need your help.—Just Plain Scared

DEAR SCARED: Quit trying to reason with a person who has an emotional problem.

Your apartment sounds like a five-alarm in a fire trap. Call the chief of the fire department and ask him to send an inspector out at once. Perhaps, if your mother hears from an authority that she is violating the law, she'll clean up her act. If the inspector doesn't get through to her, take it upon yourself in the interest of your own safety and that of your neighbors to throw out all the junk so you can get a good night's sleep.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Some time ago a woman wrote to ask why her husband insisted that he could hear better with his glasses on. You said it might be psychological because glasses had no effect on one's hearing.

I am deaf in one ear, and I hear better with my glasses on. Suddenly it dawned on me why. I was lip-reading.

Most people don't realize how disconcerting even a slight hearing loss can be. Here are some suggestions that might help:

Talking louder doesn't do much good. It DOES help to speak more slowly and to move your lips a lot. Don't cover your mouth with your hands when you talk. It precludes any chance to lip-read. And last—most people have a tendency to drop their voice at the end of the sentence and the last several words are lost. Listen and you'll see what I mean.—E.K. in San Angelo, Texas

DEAR E.K.: Your letter will help many people who live and work with folks who have a hearing problem. The next letter might be of special interest to you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Lately my wife and I argue a lot because she claims I don't answer when she speaks to me. I told her I answer when I hear her. She says I hear what I want to hear and I am just being difficult. For years she nagged about my smelly cigars. Now that I've quit, she needs a new subject.

My wife has a high-pitched voice and sometimes I think she doesn't speak at all, just moves her lips so she can pick at me.—Battle Zone in Scottsdale

DEAR BAT: Husbands often have lost the ability to hear a high-pitched voice, especially if it's the wife's. Ask her nicely to try to speak in a lower register. And listen a little harder, Mister.

Cosmetics Play Important Role Since 18th Century

How important a role cosmetics played in the lifestyle of the 18th century was underscored by the last conscious act of the Marquise de Pompadour. Just before she died and after she received the final rites from a priest, she carefully rouged her face and then closed her eyes for the last time. "When it came to cosmetics, the Age of Enlightenment was still in the Dark Ages. It's doubtful that a single 18th century cosmetic could have passed muster with the Food and Drug Administration," says Bob Dressler, senior vice president of research and development at Merle Norman Cosmetics. In celebration of its 50th anniversary the Los Angeles-based company with 2,000 studios across the country has funded "The 18th Century Woman," a new exhibition that opened at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York on Dec. 16.

Makeup application and the function of makeup were vastly different in the 18th century. "Plastered" aptly describes the heavy-handed approach to makeup that was often necessary to mask the accumulation of dirt, since bathing was considered dangerous to health, and to help cover the marks of smallpox so prevalent at that time.

"The porcelain look, with chalk white face and red cheeks, was fashionable almost throughout the century," says Dressler. There was no attempt at subtlety. Among the upper classes the effect was intentionally artificial, women painted their faces white (a suntan was lower class, a sign of working in the fields). Eyebrows were then penciled in and delicate blue veins added.

Next came the rouge, heavily applied. How and where it was placed varied. The ladies of the Court of Versailles applied well-defined flame-colored patches high on the cheek, close to their eyes. In English portraits of the period, rouge appears low on the face, extending from cheek bone to jawline in a triangle, and a few years later in a round pattern. By 1781 the rage for rouge had reached such proportion that 2 million pots of color from vermilion to scarlet to mauve were sold in France alone and ladies of fashion took their cosmetic boxes with them wherever they went to renew their makeup. The final touch was the application of the mouches, beauty spots made of specks of black, gummed silk or paper.

"Artifice was everything then," Dressler says.

Today science has made available a wide range of superior products. Constant safety testing by both cosmetics companies and the FDA ensures that cosmetics are the safest current technology can provide. At Merle Norman, for example, all products are manufactured in-house so that complete control can be exercised over every aspect of production, Dressler says.

"Today science—and our knowledge of how to protect and enhance the skin with products that have been thoroughly screened and tested—makes it possible for women to look lovely without having to hide under thick masks of makeup. Cosmetics have come a long way since the Court of Versailles."

Pennsylvania Nearly Suffered 'Dry' Holidays

By JILL LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Christmas without rum-spiced eggnog? New Year's Eve without champagne? It almost happened this year in Pennsylvania, where clerks at 730 state-owned liquor stores postponed a Christmas week strike threat hours before the walkout was to begin.

The 3,500 clerks are trying to protect their jobs against another threat: the possibility that Pennsylvania, the nation's largest liquor purchaser and the state's only retail liquor vendor, may abandon the retail liquor business.

"Government should not do those things which can be better, and more properly, done by the private sector. I am convinced that the state-run liquor system is one of those things," Gov. Dick Thornburgh said last March.

He proposed transferring state stores to private hands and setting up a dozen state-run warehouses to supply them.

No other state with a liquor monopoly has ever dismantled it. And Thornburgh's proposal, followed by actual legislation, is the first time anyone has taken a concrete swing at Pennsylvania's extensive bureaucracy.

Created 46 years ago when Prohibition was lifted, the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board in fiscal 1981 bought more than $387 million worth of liquor and wines. Gross sales totaled nearly $720 million for the same period.

"We don't know what the U.S.S.R. is doing," said Beverly Eger, a spokeswoman for the PLCB. "But to our knowledge, we are the largest purchaser of liquor and wines."

The PLCB has become a way of life in Pennsylvania.

Some consumers make routine runs to New Jersey or Maryland for wine and liquor. Others browse from a typed list of products as they wait on line for service at drab state stores with wares locked behind the counter. Fewer than one third of the stores are self-service.

These inconveniences were not lost on Thornburgh when he made his initial pitch last January. He called the system inefficient, corrupt and unresponsive. He promised that in private hands, customers would enjoy lower prices, better selection, longer hours and more convenient locations.

By March, when legislation was introduced, Thornburgh said his letters were running 30-1 in favor of reform. And he poked fun at the PLCB's attempts at self-improvement, saying a wine training course had taught employees to tell the difference between white wine and red.

However, the going has been a lot rougher than Thornburgh, with his Republican majorities in both legislative chambers, may have anticipated.

Lawmakers countered his consumer arguments with logic of their own. Did the state want a liquor store on every corner? Operated by organized crime? Selling indiscriminately to teen-agers?

Some claimed the state would suffer from lost revenues and others said 3,500 people thrown out of work by the closing would create an uproar.

The argument cut across party lines and made for strange bedfellows. The GOP leadership arranged to remove one Republican from a committee because he opposed the Thornburgh plan. (It was later reported out of the committee by one vote.)

Solons Say Marketplace Deregulation Costly

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Stuart Statler, a regulation-minded Republican on the Consumer Product Safety Commission, says there's trouble ahead.

"There will be hundreds of more deaths and thousands of more injuries as a result of our inability to monitor the marketplace ... The nation's watchdog has been maimed," he says.

But the Reagan administration contends the watchdogs were maiming the economy, burdening business with regulations and red tape that put American products at a competitive disadvantage, and cost jobs.

Michael Pertschuk, a Democrat on the Federal Trade Commission, says, "For those businesses that are going to step over the line, the risks of getting prosecuted are not great."

But the philosophy of deregulation is that the marketplace will deal with businesses that produce shoddy or unsafe products; customers won't buy them, they'll return the bad and sue over the dangerous.

Ronald Reagan is steering the government away from regulatory policies that have been the rule for years. His administration holds that consumers and the whole economy will benefit.

Reagan appointees to commissions and agencies created to protect consumers are emphasizing reduced government regulation and industry's voluntary cooperation with federal standards.

"I would not in any way say there will be more injuries and more deaths because there is industry involvement at the Consumer Product Safety Commission," says chairman Nancy Harvey Steorts, a Reagan appointee.

"We'll be in very good shape" in the coming budget year, she said, but "we can't do everything for everybody."

Tim Muris, director of consumer protection at the FTC, contends that reduced regulation will save money for business and mean lower prices for consumers.

But holdover appointees — like Statler and Pertschuk — question whether they will be able to do their jobs. The problem, they say, is budget cuts and what one called "the assumption in favor of business."

Throughout government, decisions are being made that reduce recalls of defective products or eliminate refunds for them, or that cut back on the information provided to consumers.

Mitsubishi Corp. agreed to reimburse Chrysler Corp. for problems associated with the balance chain and timing chain mechanisms in the Dodge Colt that the Japanese firm makes for Chrysler. The agreement was part of a FTC investigation of problems with the subcompact car.

But when the commission issued its ruling, dealing with an oil filter, there was no mention of the chains, and thus no order to reimburse car owners. The FTC said Chrysler had corrected the defect shortly after it learned of the problem and there was no violation of the law, so there was no reimbursement.

A cheap plastic table lamp was found to pose a danger of electrocution if the lightbulb socket was dislodged or removed from the lamp base. Four million of the lamps had been sold, but there was no recall because "it would be a very expensive recall and there was no money to pay for it," said Catherine Cook, a compliance officer at the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

When the Consumer Product Safety Commission began a Christmas season toy safety campaign, it emphasized cooperation with manufacturers rather than focusing on dangerous toys.

"They acted like all toys are safe and if there is any problem it is the parent's fault. They never mentioned that toy manufacturers could do things to improve toy safety," said Ann Brown of the Americans for Democratic Action's consumer affairs committee.

Government and industry are joined "in a new spirit of cooperation" to urge consumers to buy appropriate toys, said Ms. Steorts.

Statler said the Consumer Product Safety Commission's efforts to protect consumers is hampered primarily by budget cuts. The panel is on the hit list of Budget Director David Stockman, and its funding dropped from $43 million in fiscal 1981 to a $33 million in 1982.

As a result, the commission cut a project that would have led to revision of the national electrical code — a proposal designed to cut the number of electrical fires — 75,000 a year, the commission says.

Smoke inhalation accounts for more than half of the getion's fire deaths, but the commission cut by 50 percent its spending for research into toxic combustion products.

Chain saws are responsible for 124,000 injuries a year in the United States, and 23 percent of the injuries are related to the saw's kickback — "a phenomenon we think we can deal with in terms of design," said Statler.

But a round of testing aimed at correcting the problem will be dropped as a result of budget cuts. The commission last February had suspended an effort to work with industry to resolve the problem.

Pertschuk, chairman of the FTC during the Carter administration and now a member serving under Miller, said that a consumer complaining about deceptive advertising "has to bear a very heavy burden of demonstrating harm before the agency is going to move."

The commission's policies now, he said, are "an invitation to business to try deceptive practices that a year ago would have been unthinkable."

"The message that's coming out is essentially that the assumption is in favor of business," said Pertschuk.

Neal Freeman, an FTC spokesman, agreed there was such an assumption, but added: "You'd be hard pressed to demonstrate it."

Career Planning Just A Dream

By JOHN CUNNEFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Although they are entering the job world this year at the highest salaries ever, many young business school graduates have been woefully misled into believing they can plan their careers.

That opinion comes from an authority on executive success who condemns the now popular notion that anyone, almost regardless of talent, can precisely plan a career. "It's a sham," says Eugene E. Jennings.

Jennings, professor of management at the graduate school of business, Michigan State University, declares that "he who tries to plan his career makes a career of planning" instead of a career of achieving.

"At least half the opportunities and half the obstacles encountered cannot be anticipated," he said. There is no way, he insists, that a 25-year-old can successfully implement a plan to run a corporation by age 45, and for evidence he suggests that new graduates check those who run today's businesses. Few, he said, ever expected to be doing so.

Most of today's emphasis on career planning, said Jennings, began with cynical professors and students of the 1960s who refused to believe they were so ordinary as to do it the way others had.

"These professors and students intellectualized the American dream as a kind of planning mode," said Jennings, who is widely considered to be the foremost authority on routes to executive success. "It was as if to say 'I'm not just another person — I'll determine my options.'" It was, he said, "a rebelliousness against the status quo."

Somewhat, he said, people failed to realize that anyone at the top got there because of a gut-level emotional drive to make something of themselves. "to become important, productive or powerful."

That drive is what's important, said Jennings, who observes executive behavior closely as a confidential adviser to corporate chairmen and presidents, out of which role has come several books, including "The Mobile Manager" and "Routes To The Executive Suite."

And yet, he continues, "we have people working this career planning technique as if it's the basis of success." They're "tinker-ninkers," he said. "They have faith in a technique but no fire in their bellies."

Public Opinion Polls Speak

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — When in doubt, pollsters poll. And sometimes they poll when there isn't much doubt at all.

Public opinion surveys now have affirmed that people like Christmas, although they think it is too commercialized.

There also is a poll showing that most Americans don't make any New Year's resolutions, with the verdict mixed as to whether those who do make them keep them. New Year's, incidentally, doesn't hold a candle to Christmas as a favored American holiday.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll said Christmas was the favorite among holidays. The survey of 1,602 adult Americans was completed 10 days before Christmas, which probably boosted the rating.

Seventy percent of those surveyed said Christmas or Hanukkah was their favorite holiday. Thanksgiving ran second, with only 8 percent. Independence Day was preferred by 6 percent, Easter by 5 percent.

New Year's Eve and New Year's Day combined got only 2 percent. Halloween got zero. But then, most people don't get Halloween presents. And nobody gets the day off.

A public opinion survey sponsored by Merit, the cigarette people, in an oblique form of advertising, came up with the data on New Year's resolutions. According to that poll, 69 percent of Americans don't make any. Fourteen percent said they make resolutions and don't keep them, 13 percent said they make them and live up to them.

Four percent declined to venture a response to the question. Those may be people who have resolved not to be polled on such topics.

Both surveys put numbers behind the holiday-season refrain that Christmas has become too commercialized. The AP-NBC poll showed that 43 percent think that's so. In the Merit survey, 64 percent said so.

What all of that proves is not very much. But after all, it is the holiday season and even the pollsters are getting into the spirit.

Another AP-NBC poll finding swings the subject back toward the more mundane topics that will dominate the public opinion samplings in the campaign year ahead. Sixty-nine percent of those surveyed in the pre-Christmas poll said they were cutting back on holiday gifts or entertainment because of higher prices.

That holiday poll question wasn't tied to political questions put in the same survey,

Welsh Ends Navy Career Tonight Against Buckeyes in Liberty Bowl

Grin and Shoot

By GEORGE STRODE AP Sports Writer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Little did George Welsh know how important his clinic lecture last summer would be for one of his pupils, Earle Bruce.

The two friends will be coaching rivals in the Liberty Bowl tonight. Welsh will be coaching his final Navy game before moving to Virginia. Bruce will lead 14-point favorite Ohio State.

"We were on the same clinic in the Catskills," recalled Welsh. "He sat in on all of my lectures. I told him all of our secrets. I didn't sit in on his lectures — I was swimming or something."

Bruce denies he learned anything he didn't already know about Welsh's philosophies.

"He never gave any secrets out. What are you talking about? He gave the same clinic talk I've heard for a long time. He talked about his tailback, because that's what he runs. He does it good," the Ohio State coach said.

"His approach to football is very sound. He has good discipline. He thinks a lot about the game of football like I do," Bruce said of Welsh.

The game marks the final collegiate appearance for Ohio State quarterback Art Schlichter, who led the Buckeyes to a Big Ten Conference co-championship with Iowa and an 8-3-0 overall record.

Schlichter has rolled up more than 6,700 total yards in his 47 straight starts.

But his most impressive performances have come in the Gator, Rose and Fiesta bowls. In those three losses, he has completed 47 of 76 passes for 804 yards and four touchdowns.

Schlichter thinks he knows why. "All of the bowls have been on grass and I enjoy playing on the grass. Besides, in the course of the year, I've been banged up. The bowl break has given me a chance to heal," he said.

In contrast, Navy starts Marco Pagnanelli, a sophomore who has been a regular for just eight college games. Pagnanelli doesn't think his performance should be measured with Schlichter.

"It's not me against Schlichter," said Pagnanelli, who helped lead Navy to a 7-3-1 record. "It's me against the Ohio State defense."

Bruce, however, does not expect Pagnanelli to be the Midshipmen's offensive hub.

That role, he says, likely will fall to tailback Eddie Meyers.

Meyers, a 202-pound senior, accounted for 1,318 yards rushing and broke several Navy records this season, despite missing parts or all of three games.

"He breaks tackles. He's got speed. I saw him run against Syracuse. He double clutched them and ran away. I'm worried about our tackling on Meyers," Bruce said.

Both schools have bowl traditions.

Ohio State is appearing its 10th straight bowl and 16th postseason contest. The Buckeyes, however, have lost seven of their last nine bowls and have a 5-9-1 record.

Navy has been a bowl team seven previous times, posting a 3-3-1 mark.

Nearly 50,000 will watch the game in Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium, and the game will be carried on a cable television network.

Three more bowl games are scheduled for New Year's Eve and five major contests that will determine the national champion are slated for New Year's day and night.

Thursday afternoon, Mississippi State, 7-4, plays Kansas, 8-3, in the Hall of Fame Bowl at Birmingham, Ala., and West Virginia, 8-3, faces Florida, 7-4, in the Peach Bowl at Atlanta.

Michigan, 8-3, goes against UCLA, 7-3-1, in the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston Thursday night.

In early afternoon games Friday, third-ranked Alabama and sixth-ranked Texas take 9-1-1 records into the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, while Southern Cal and Penn State are both 9-2 going into their Fiesta Bowl clash at Tempe, Ariz.

After those games, Iowa, 8-3, and Washington, 9-2, meet in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.

Although the Cotton Bowl has a chance to play a part in the national championship picture, the biggest games are slated for Friday night when top-ranked Clemson, 11-0, and No. 5 Nebraska, 9-2, meet in the Orange Bowl at Miami and No. 2 Georgia plays host to 10th-ranked Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

Five all-star games are scheduled after New Year's Day. On Jan. 9, the East-West Shrine game is set for Palo Alto, Calif., and the Hula Bowl will be played at Honolulu.

The Japan Bowl at Yokohama City, Japan, the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala.,

and the Olympia Gold Bowl at San Diego, all on Jan. 16, complete the college season.

In bowl games played so far, North Carolina edged Arkansas 31-27 in the Gator Bowl, Texas A&M defeated Oklahoma State 33-16 in the Independence Bowl, Tennessee topped Wisconsin 28-21 in the Garden State Bowl, Brigham Young edged Washington State 38-36 in the Holiday Bowl, Toledo took San Jose State 27-25 in the California Bowl, Missouri nipped Southern Mississippi 19-17 in the Tangerine Bowl and Oklahoma walloped Houston 40-14 in the Sun Bowl.

In the only postseason all-star game so far, the Blue beat the Gray 21-9.

Herd Girls Blast Pampa

The Herford girls basketball team ripped the Pampa Harvesters 70-20 Tuesday night by holding the Harvesters' tall forward Debi Young to four baskets.

Amy Schumacher opened the scoring with a shot from the side at 5:50, and from there it was the Herd's ball game. Joyce High, Lori Albracht, Stephanie Foster and Deborah Rogers gave the Herd 15 points for the quarter, with only two for the Harvesters from Ladina Hunt.

In the second quarter Pampa had six shots from the line, but made only one, plus a basket by Young to total five at the half.

Herford continued plunking them in. So, with eight buckets and three out of four free shots, the Herd ended the half with 34 points.

Pampa's Young hit first in the third quarter, but Herford answered with two from High, and Cathy Lane donated one from the line. Schumacher got two after a steal by High, followed by another from Schumacher and two in-a-row by Stacie Rhodes. Foster scored from under the net and the Herd allowed Young another basket. Tina Greenway then put one in from the line after a foul by Gail Bartels to end the third quarter at 47-10, Herford.

Herford started scoring in the fourth until Greenway got two more from the line. Seconds later Cheryl Walterscheid was at the line, thanks to a foul by Greenway. Pampa's Sharolyn Salisbury hit two of three free shots between baskets by Walterscheid, Bartels and Foster, bringing the score to 54-14 with less than three minutes left.

Bartels hit, followed by a fast layup from Albracht, which was answered by Young. Shots from Rhodes and Bartels boosted the Herd to 68 and it looked like the winners would hold the Harvesters to the teens.

But after Walterscheid's final right side shot she fouled and Melissa Reed made two free shots to end it 70-20.

The Herford junior varsity also whizzed past Pampa, winning 67-23. Angela Richburg was the top scorer with 17 for the Herd, followed by Bartels with 14 and Amy Noyes with 12.

Harvesters Roll 'Faces

The Pampa Harvesters rode the efforts of Mike Nelson (23) and Charles Nelson (22) to an 85-56 victory over the Herford Whitefaces last night in the opening round of the Borger Basketball Tournament.

The Nelsons overshadowed a 19-point effort by Herford's Steve Welch, and a 12-point showing by Alan Wartes.

Pampa led 15-12 after the first period, but a 25-14 advantage in the second stanza boosted the Harvesters to a 40-25 halftime bulge. The winners added 25 more points in the third period to the Herd's 16 to cruise to the win.

In the other tournament game last night host Borger faced by Perryton 70-59 as Scott Hunt and John Meyer each had 14 points.

Upsets Abound In Rainbow Classic Tourney

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

When the nation's second and eighth ranked college basketball teams are upset on the same night it's big news. When it happens in a doubleheader in the same building it's downright shocking.

But a championship showdown tonight between 20th-ranked North Carolina State and unranked Rice is the surprising result of the former's 60-48 beating of No. 2 Wichita State and the latter's 78-66 victory over No. 8 San Francisco in the Rainbow Classic.

And in the true spirit of David and Goliath, it was N.C. State's little men who prevailed and the Shockers' big men who fell before a stunned crowd at the Blaisdell Center Arena in Honolulu.

"There is no question that our guards (Derek Whittenburg and Sydney Lowe) did it for us again tonight," Wolfpack Coach Jim Valvano said of his team's victory over Wichita State. "We wanted them to control the tempo and when we got the lead, they were to spread the court out. They did it well."

"When we started to play good defense in the second half, but we couldn't get any offense going," said Wichita State Coach Gene Smithson. "We just couldn't stick it in the hole, especially from the outside when N.C. State packed the zone."

Forward Thurl Bailey with 23 points, Whittenburg with 22 and Lowe, who quarterbacked the offense, were the keys to the victory by the Wolfpack, 9-0.

NC State employed a tight 2-3 zone the whole game to effectively shut down the Shockers big front wall of Antoine Carr, Jay Jackson and Cliff Livingston. Livingston had 11 points and Caysr 10.

"That was probably the biggest game in our school's history. I don't think we've ever won a game like this," said Rice Coach Tommy Suits, whose Owls improved to 7-4.

"It's a difficult game for the San Francisco Dons to accept, but it simply wasn't meant to be," said Coach Pete Barry, whose club fell to 10-1.

Rice was led by Renaldo O'Neal with 24 points while Ricky Pierce added 15. San Francisco waltzed a sensational 30-point performance by Quintin Dailey.

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 1 North Carolina ripped Santa Clara 76-57 in the Cable Car Classic final; No. 3 Virginia routed Richmond 74-43 in the Times-Dispatch Invitational at Richmond; No. 4 Kentucky took Notre Dame in overtime 34-28; No. 9 Minnesota crushed Arizona 91-62 in the final of the Pillsbury Classic at Minneapolis; No. 11 Indiana lost 71-61 to Kansas in the consolation game of the Holiday Festival in New York; 12th-ranked Alabama beat Maine 77-61 in the Best Holiday Classic in Portland, Maine; 15th-ranked Oregon State beat Portland 61-55 in the consolation game of the Far West Classic; 16th-ranked UCLA smashed Maryland 80-57, No. 17 Georgetown beat Columbia 38-26; No. 18 Houston defeated Louisiana State 73-60 in the Sugar Bowl tournament and 19th-ranked Villanova lost 94-89 to St. John's in the Holiday Festival final.

Other Top Ten

North Carolina, playing without injured center Sam Perkins, got 21 points from Michael Jordan and 19 from James Worthy to defeat Santa Clara. Jordan, a freshman guard, also had 10 rebounds for the Tar Heels, now 6-6. Perkins, a 6-9 sophomore, sat out the game with a sprained ankle.

All-America Ralph Sampson scored 12 points, got 13 rebounds and blocked three shots while playing just half the game to lead Virginia, unbeaten in nine games, past Richmond.

Notre Dame, one of two teams to employ a slowdown against ranked opposition, fell to 2-5 despite keeping the ball ball away from Kentucky.

Kentucky partisans at Freedom Hall in Louisville hoisted derisively at Notre Dame's tactics, which saw only 46 points scored in regulation time. Wildcats Coach Joe B. Hall, however, thought Notre Dame's Digger Phelps did the right thing.

Trent Tucker scored 21 points, 17 of them in the first half when Minnesota built a 37-24 lead over Arizona en route to the Pillsbury title. Tucker was named MVP of the tournament.

Georgetown, led by 7-foot center Pat Ewing, induced Columbia, whose tallest player is 6-7, to hold the ball for as many as three minutes at a time before taking a shot. It was the lowest-scoring game in the 19-year history of the Rochester Classic tournament, in which no team had ever scored less than 60 points.

Ewing and guard Eric Floyd both scored 14 points to lead the Hoyas, now 5-2 with an eight-game winning streak. St. John's won the Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden as Billy Goodwin scored 20 points and hit some crucial free throws down the stretch as 19th-ranked Villanova, led by John Finney's 24 points, cut an 18-point second-half deficit to three late in the game. No. 11 Indiana lost the consolation game to Kansas as David Magley scored 22 points for the Jayhawks.

Yellowstone National Park includes portions of three states — Wyoming, Montana and Idaho.

Gervin Halts Clipper Rally

By The Associated Press
When the San Antonio Spurs' George Gervin takes over, about all the opposition can do is watch.

"George is so outstanding it's difficult to stop him," says Spurs Coach Stan Albeck. "We take him for granted here, and that's a shame."

Gervin scored 46 points and helped San Antonio derail San Diego, 119-107, in the National Basketball Association Tuesday night. Gervin's 16 points in the third quarter short-circuited a San Diego rally that actually put the Clippers up by one point on two occasions.

"When George is going like he was tonight, there is not much you can do," said San Diego's Michael Brooks, who scored 19 points.

San Diego pulled within five, 110-105, with two minutes left, but San Antonio scored nine of the game's final 11 points.

Mike Mitchell had 16 points for San Antonio. Freeman Williams matched Brooks' scoring output with 19 for the Clippers.

In other NBA games, Philadelphia defeated Golden State 142-135, Milwaukee downed Indiana 107-96, Washington got by Detroit 129-125, New York edged Chicago 111-108, Dallas defeated Kansas City 104-92, Atlanta beat Houston 102-83, Denver downed Boston 128-123, and Los Angeles defeated Utah 121-114.

76ers 135, Warriors 135
Julius Erving scored 34 points and helped the 76ers overtake Boston by a half game for the lead in the NBA's Atlantic Division. Erving scored 14 of his points in the fourth quarter, including 8 of 8 free throws. Two of his foul shots gave Philadelphia a 132-127 lead with 1:07 to play.

Eight Philadelphia players scored in double figures. Bernard King led Golden State with 35 points, and guard World Free had 33.

The victory gave Philadelphia a 21-6, while Boston, with the loss to Denver, dropped to 21-7.

Marques Johnson, playing in only his 10th game since a contract holdout, scored a season-high 22 points in 27 minutes of play, and Sidney Moncrief had 24 to boost Milwaukee over Indiana for the third time this season.

John's slam dunk with 4:34 left in the third quarter gave the Bucks a 74-60 lead, and Indiana never got closer than eight points thereafter.

Bullets 129, Pistons 118
Greg Ballard scored eight straight points for the Bullets, and Washington overcame a 109-107 deficit late in the game to end a four-game Detroit winning streak.

Two free throws by Ballard cut Washington up by two, 21-19, and rookie Frank Johnson scored the final eight points for Washington.

Ballard wound up with 33 points, and Spencer Haywood scored 23 for Washington, which has won six of nine. John Long had 41 points for the Pistons, and rookies Kelly Tripucka and Isiah Thomas had 20 each.

Knicks 111, Bulls 108
Campy Russell ignited the Knicks on a 14-2 burst in the fourth quarter. Chicago led 92-87 early in the fourth quarter, but in the next 4:08, Russell and Sly Williams led a run that put New York up by seven, 101-94. Russell wound up with 24 points and Williams had 19.

David Greenwood led Chicago with 19 points.

Hawks 102, Rockets 95
Dan Roundfield scored 10 of his 35 points in the fourth quarter as Atlanta pulled away from Houston. The Hawks led by three, 76-73, with 9:30 to play when Roundfield began the Atlanta surge.

John Drew added 25 points for the Hawks, and Moses Malone led Houston with 25. Nuggets 128, Celtics 123
Denver won its fifth game in six, getting 32 points from Alex English and 22 from Kiki Vandeweghe. English scored 10 of his points in the fourth quarter, including a pair of free throws with 10 seconds left to put the game away.

The loss was only the seventh in 27 games for the Celtics, who were paced by Larry Bird, with 27 points, and Nate Archibald, with 26.

Lakers 121, Jazz 114
Jamaal Wilkes helped the Lakers hold off a late Utah charge, and the Lakers won their sixth game in a row. The Lakers led by 19 points late in the fourth quarter, but Utah cut the lead to four with a little more than a minute to play.

Wilkes then hit a jumper that put the Lakers up by six with 1:04 left and sealed the victory. Norm Nixon had 25 points and 10 assists for Los Angeles. Adrian Dantley scored a game-high 40 points for the Jazz.

Nigerian Gem Puts Houston Over LSU

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Louisiana State University basketball Coach Dale Brown knows a long-distance recruiting gem when he sees one, and he says Houston has one of the best.

Akeem Abdul Olajuwon, a 7-foot sophomore center from Lagos, Nigeria, rallied 18th-ranked Houston to a 73-69 victory over LSU in the championship game of the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament Tuesday night.

Wake Forest took the consolation trophy with a 76-68 victory over Purdue in the first game of Tuesday night's action.

At the opening tipoff, Olajuwon was matched against LSU's 6-10 freshman center Ray Bomer of Victoria, Australia — the third Australian to play at LSU since Bomer took over there in 1972.

Olajuwon scored 20 points and pulled down eight rebounds for Houston.

Thirteen of his points came in the final seven minutes of play after Houston had erased a 37-32 halftime deficit to tie the score at 52-52.

And with four seconds left in the game — Houston holding a 71-69 lead — Olajuwon swatted away an 8-foot jumper by Howard Carter that could have sent the game into overtime.

"He's an outstanding center," Brown said after the game. "He's one of the best in the country."

Houston Coach Guy Lewis said Olajuwon will be even better when he overcomes the after effects of a back injury.

"He's not in shape," Lewis said after the game. "He missed three weeks of practice because of the back problem."

Olajuwon also gave Houston its biggest lead of the game, hitting a free throw after being fouled on a layup to give the Cougars an 18-4 lead eight minutes into the contest.

LSU battled back to take the five-point halftime advantage, but couldn't hold it. Ironically, Olajuwon's heroics came so late in the contest that most of the voices had already been cast for the All-Tournament team.

He didn't make it, but LSU's Tyrone Black, who scored 23 points in relief of Bomer, did.

Carter was named the tournament's most valuable player. He had 17 points against Houston to go with the 20 he scored in leading LSU to a 70-64 victory over Wake Forest in the opening round of the tournament.

Houston was represented on the all-tournament team by point guard Robert Williams, who scored 19 points in Houston's tournament-opening 59-56 victory over Wake Forest and 9 against LSU.

Forward Mike Helms — 20 points against LSU and 10 against Purdue — represented Wake Forest on the honors team. Guard Keith Edmonson of Purdue — 20 points in the opener and 19 in the consolation game — rounded out the five-man squad.

Rookie Almost Tops Aguirre

DALLAS (AP) — Rookie Jay Vincent hasn't exactly made the Dallas Mavericks coaching staff or Mavericks fans ask "Mark Who?" but he has done an outstanding job of filling in for injured rookie sensation Mark Aguirre.

Vincent scored 41 points, one point shy of the club scoring record, Tuesday night to lead the Mavericks to a 104-92 National Basketball Association victory over a makeshift lineup fielded by the Kansas City Kings.

The club record was set by Aguirre before he broke a bone in his foot and was sidelined nine games ago. Aguirre was scoring at a 23.6 clip when he was injured.

"I guess we (Aguirre and Vincent) will put on the boxing gloves to see who starts," Vincent said of the time when Aguirre returns to the team.

Dallas Coach Dick Motta saw little of Vincent's show, having drawn two technicals and automatic disqualification from referee Bill Tunney with 8:24 left in the second quarter with Dallas leading 30-23.

Kansas City, playing without three starters, caught the Mavericks by halftime, leading 46-42. But Dallas regained the lead for good with 7:24 left in the third quarter on a layup by Brad Davis.

Kansas City guard Phil Ford and forward Cliff Robinson, the leading scorer, did not play due to injuries. And center Steve Johnson remained home due to the illness of his wife.

Dallas will be without starting forward Tom LaGarde for the next three weeks because of a knee ailment, the Mavericks announced Tuesday.

Mike Woodson led Kansas City with 25 points.

Dallas assistant coach Bob Weis, who took over when Motta was ejected, said, "The lead we took in the third quarter was the turning point because we were able to rest Vincent. He played a great game."

The Mavericks are 7-23 and the Kings are 18-18.

LIMIT TENSION
By Bob Wear

TENSION IS "a state of psychic unrest often with signs of physiological stress." It is sometimes limited to the "state of hostility or opposition between individuals or groups." Some of this unrest and opposition will be present in each life; however, such influences are not necessarily a part of living. They can and they must be reduced to a benign minimum.

EFFECTIVE PERFORMANCE requires some tension. This, however, is not the degree of tenseness that includes harmful mental unrest, stress and hostility. We can learn to avoid the hurtful degrees of tenseness, while we remain tense enough to be alert and to concentrate our interest, strength and energy for the fullness of living.

"TENSIONS ARE at a minimum, when we are happy. We cannot eliminate tension altogether, yet wherever possible we must stand up to these tensions and stresses to develop our mental and spiritual muscles just as in a game an athlete shows his ability best under stress." -Dr. Maltz.

WE KNOW that present-day complexities and difficulties have the possibility of causing considerable "tension" in most of us. Such, however, is not inevitable; because we can be fully aware of general conditions, but manage ourselves so that we do not become upset and hostile.

ACCORDING TO AUTHORITIES, such as; sociologists, psychologists, medical doctors and others; there is good reason to learn all we can about the workings of "tension," and how we can limit it to a harmless degree. This can be done, and, if we need help to accomplish it; we must seek such help.

We read and hear about world tensions, about strained relationships between and among individuals and nations, and such like. Of course, we are concerned; but we accomplish nothing by taking these tensions into our own lives. We do have the privilege of managing our lives, as we wish.

MOST TENSION-

CREATING situations can be avoided. We must not over-extend ourselves. We must use our time, energy, money, ability and everything else within reasonable limitations and for the best possible purposes. We must be diligent to do these things, in order to limit tension to the degree that it is not hurtful. We can do this, and it is very important that we do so.

Korean Student Feels Indebted To U.S.

By WILLIAM J. BAUMER
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Korean student Jeong-In Suh vows one day to repay the United States for the outpouring of affection that gave him both the courage and the finances to undergo critical open heart surgery today.

"I will do anything, anything good for the United States because so much is owed to the United States' people, that's my feeling," Jeong-In said Tuesday.

Jeong-In has a hole in his heart and because he is a Jehovah's Witness and blood transfusions are against his religion, a special operation was required.

Dr. Denton Cooley will perform the surgery today at St. Luke's hospital using a procedure that puts the patient on a heart-lung machine and eliminates the need for transfusions of fresh, whole blood, a hospital spokesman said.

The plight of the fine arts student at Hastings College in Nebraska attracted national attention after physicians said Cooley would operate for free but the hospital would require a $9,000 down payment.

Cards, letters and money began pouring in from all over the country and by the time Jeong-In departed for Houston last week, more than $22,000 had been donated.

"I didn't understand why, in my case, people showed so much love. I felt very good, very much relieved and not frightened," said Jeong-In.

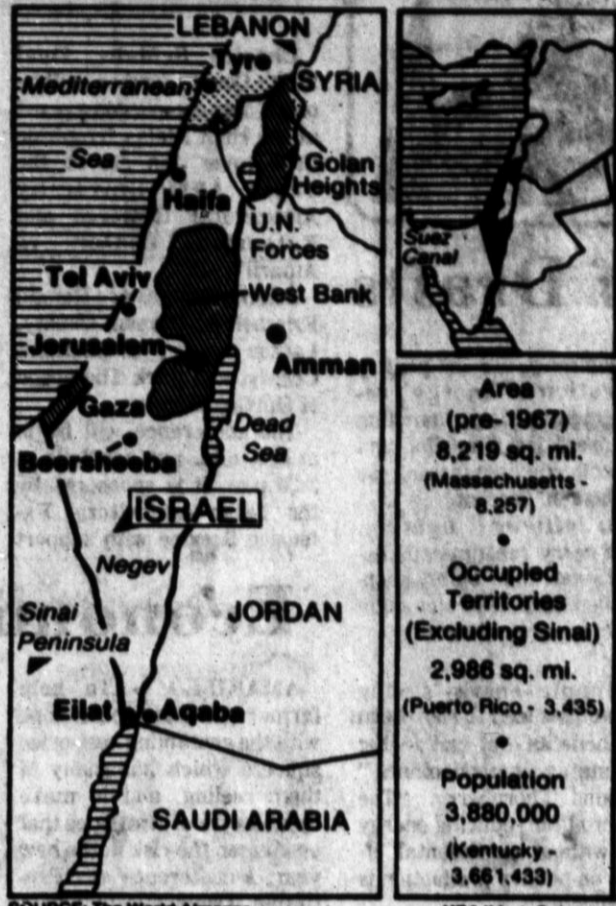

"First, I was real surprised because I'm not an important person. There was just so many people in so many places showing me love," he said.

The Korean student originally thought he'd have about six years before needing the surgery and he planned to sell portraits in order to raise the money.

However, doctors warned him he risked permanent damage if the surgery was not performed within six months.

"I decided to make the money by painting but the doctors said I didn't have enough time. I was afraid, but not now," he said.

Suspected Mass Killer Morin Ordered Held Without Bond

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Suspected mass killer Stephen Peter Morin has been ordered held without bond on a capital murder charge until grand jurors can consider an indictment against him next month.

Justice of the Peace Maria Irene Canales de Janssen, who ruled Tuesday there was probable cause to hold Morin, set a $100,000 bond on an attempted capital murder charge and ordered him held in the Bexar County Jail without bond on the capital murder charge.

Morin is accused of killing Carrie Marie Scott, 21, and wounding Dru Valdes, 23, as he tried to steal Ms. Scott's car from a San Antonio restaurant parking lot Dec. 11.

Assistant District Attorney Charles Conaway will present the case to a grand jury next month, prosecutors said.

Court-appointed defense lawyer Pete Torres Jr. told reporters he would request a change of venue for Morin because of pre-trial publicity. He also said he would ask that Morin be examined by a psychiatrist.

"I think the big issue is going to be whether this man is suffering from some psychological problem responsible for what happened on Dec. 11 and, if he committed others, whether he was mentally and legally culpable," Torres said.

During the examining trial Tuesday, a Corpus Christi woman testified Morin held her hostage for 12 days and a San Antonio man identified Morin as the man who ran from the parking lot where the two women were shot.

Morin, a native of Providence, R.I., also has been charged with kidnapping Pamela Jackson in Corpus Christi; killing Cheryl Daniels, 30, and Susan Belote, 18, both of Las Vegas, Nev., there and killing Sheila E. Waylen of Lockport, N.Y., at Golden Colo.

Detectives also want to question Morin about the 1979 death of Las Vegas high school student Kim Bryant, the Dec. 3 slaying of Janna Bruce, 21, in Corpus Christi and as many as 20 abductions, rapes and killings of young women in nine states.

Prosecutors and detectives describe Morin as a "master of disguises" who has supported himself by robbing and killing young women.

Mrs. Jackson testified Tuesday that she was abducted by Morin and his traveling companion, Sarah Clarke. She said Morin threatened to kill her if she tried to escape.

Ms. Clarke also has been charged with capital murder. David Anderson, 28, a surprise prosecution witness, testified he saw Morin run from the parking lot where Ms. Scott and Ms. Valdes were shot.

"I saw a man run south toward me. He crossed the street and he looked at me and I looked at him from a distance of about 50 feet," said Anderson, who pointed to the boarded Morin when asked to identify the man he saw.

Morin eluded a police dragnet here after the two women were gunned down, but was arrested by Austin police at a bus station the day after the shooting.

Mrs. Jackson said Morin eluded police at a San Antonio motel room by crawling through a bathroom window.

THE HEREFORD BRAND FARM NEWS

Schlabs On Panel For Conference

Charles Schlabs, Deaf Smith County farmer, will be one of four growers on a panel at the High Plains Irrigation Conference Jan. 13 at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center in Amarillo.

Joining Schlabs are Roman Friemel of Carson County, Layton Sawyer of Sherman County, and Jack Thompson of Hartley County.

The conference will begin at 9:40 a.m. and conclude at 3:30 p.m. It is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service with support of the Panhandle Economic Program.

Fuel costs for operating irrigation systems will be one of the major topics of this year's conference, said Leon New, agricultural engineer and irrigation specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Revised electric rates for irrigation will go into effect, probably in the 1983 season, New said. Discussing their effect upon High Plains farmers will be James Hull of the Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative.

An economic comparison of costs for the various fuels available for irrigating will be provided by Dr. Ray Sammons, Extension agricultural economist-farm management.

Reducing pumping costs by repairing and maintaining pumping plants will be another key topic. New will report on several years of testing by the Extension Service and changes in efficiency after repairs are made. Some innovative approaches to pump repair will be presented by Don McElroy of Irrigation Pump and Power

Co., Muleshoe.

The use of furrow diking in conjunction with irrigation will be explained by Dr. Reggie Jones, research soil scientist at the USDA Conservation and Utilization Laboratory at Bushland.

A popular feature of the irrigation conference each year, a growers' panel, will conclude the program. Panelists who will share their experiences will be Roman Friemel of Carson County, Layton Sawyer of Sherman County, Charles Schlabs of Deaf Smith County and Jack Thompson of Hartley County.

How To Keep Chickens Out Of Drafts

COLLEGE STATION — Chickens don't like drafts any more than anyone else — and neither do the producers who pay the chickens' utility bills.

Rising energy costs place an economic hardship on poultry producers, says Dr. Fred Thornberry, because they cannot pass those costs on to the consumer. Thornberry is a poultry specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Poultry producers have little influence on the prices consumers pay for eggs and meat, so they have to absorb any increase in production expenses," says Thornberry.

However, most could save energy "by identifying and adopting efficient practices and paying closer attention to detail," adds the specialist. He says there is a real need for producers to improve their energy management.

"Even small air leaks can be costly," warns Thornberry. "For example, a five mile per hour wind blowing through a one-eighth inch wall crack along both sides of a 300-foot broiler or pullet house can increase LP gas use by eight gallons or more on a cold day."

He says about 71 percent of the on-farm energy use for a poultry operation goes for brooding.

That amount can be reduced 10 to 15 percent in curtain-wall broiler and pullet brooder houses "by tacking a layer of polyethylene to the inside of the sidewall opening to reduce air leakage," suggests Thornberry. However, the plastic should not extend the complete height of the opening if the curtains are used to create ventilation.

"Keep sidewall curtains in good repair and control rodents to minimize curtain and insulation damage," adds Thornberry.

Lighting and ventilation account for 7 and 4 percent, respectively, of a poultry operation's energy requirements. Waste handling and operation of feeding and egg collection equipment use up about 18 percent.

For efficient lighting, Thornberry recommends using 25-watt light bulbs, keeping the bulbs clean and using reflectors around them.

"Simple energy-saving techniques lead to short-term cost benefits, but that's what stimulates improvements," explains Thornberry. "The potential for reducing energy use without detrimental effects on poultry production is significant."

Seed Production Increases 66%

AUSTIN—Texas certified seed production reached an all-time high of more than 480,000 acres in 1981. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has announced.

"That total represents an increase of 66 percent over the last three years," Brown said. "There is no substitute for quality planting seed and Texas continues to help meet the demand here and in foreign countries for this vital element of successful agricultural production."

Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) personnel inspect certified seed fields during the growing season and TDA administers the program in cooperation with the State Seed and Plant Board.

"Most of our certified seed acreage is planted in cotton each year and this year cottonseed accounted for more than 75 percent of all certified seed production in Texas," Brown said.

season adverse weather conditions reduced the supply of quality cottonseed. This season growers are making up for last year's short supply.

The number of acres planted to other major crops in the certified seed program include: small grains, 49,070; rice, 21,880; soybeans, 14,335; peanuts, 13,662; and sorghum, 10,216.

The Texas Seed Certification Law insures genetic purity and identity of planting seed and vegetative propagating materials. Participation in the program is voluntary. TDA issues the official purple or blue certified seed label only to those individuals or firms who voluntarily apply and submit their planting seed production to close supervision, inspection and approval of certifying authorities.

CERTIFIED SEED production in Texas has reached an all time high this year. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports. Above, a TDA seed inspector checks seed for quality.

Economic Program For Farmers

AMARILLO — To help farmers and ranchers cope with the continuing cost-price squeeze which has many of them reeling, and to make them aware of strategies that can lessen the risk in the new year, a conference on "Profitable Decision-Making in '82" will be held here Jan. 27.

The conference at the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center, 6500 Amarillo Blvd. West, will be conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service with support of the Panhandle Economic Program. It is one of eight such meetings being held throughout the state.

The Panhandle meeting will feature outlook information on wheat, grain sorghum and corn, said Dr. Ray Sammons, Extension economist-farm management. It will begin at 9:30 a.m. and conclude at 3:45 p.m.

Conference speakers will discuss policy and marketing trends, explain implications of the new farm bill on Panhandle producers, compare marketing options for risk and return, and evaluate risk positions, credit stretching, crop insurance and selection of the best crop for 1982.

"The coming year will be crucial for many area farmers and ranchers," Sammons said. "This program is designed to help them better understand risk and the alternatives in managing it."

He said the program will provide specific evaluations and discussions of the local situation and provide opportunities for questions and answers.

Changes In Federal Beef Grading Standards Under Consideration

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to overhaul federal beef grading standards will be discussed at a series of public hearings in February, says the Agriculture Department.

Under the proposal, leaner beef would qualify for Prime and Choice grades but would "not significantly lower the palatability" or taste of either grade. Beef in the Good grade "would be leaner with lowered palatability."

The proposal, which was announced Tuesday, is mostly in line with a recommendation by the National Cattlemen's Association to allow less fat "marbling" in the top grades of beef.

However, the department's proposal calls for somewhat more marbling than the cattlemen had wanted.

By having leaner beef qualify for the top grades, producers will not have to fatten their cattle as much, thus saving an estimated $100 million or more in annual feed costs.

Prime has the most marbling, followed by the remaining federal quality grades: Choice, Good, Standard, Commercial, Utility, Cutter and Canner. However, grades that consumers see at retail meat counters are mostly the top three.

Some consumer groups, including the National Nutrition Institute, also advocated leaner beef under the grading system but wanted to change some of the names of the grades to help enhance consumer acceptance of them.

Under the institute's plan, for example, Standard would be changed to Lean as a way of telling consumers more precisely what they were buying.

The proposal made by the department, however, calls for elimination of Standard, a recommendation made by the cattlemen.

Ellen Haas, the institute's consumer director, called the department's proposal "just a reshuffle of standards without any consumer benefit."

Copper Essential To Humans And Animals

By Robert L. Hancy
TAES Science Writer

Copper, called a "trace element" in nutrition, is known to be absolutely essential to life and health of all living organisms, according to Dr. Edward Harris, a biochemist specializing in trace element research at Texas A&M University.

Paradoxically, while a little copper is essential to normal nutrition, too much copper in the diet can be poisonous and cause all sorts of malfunctions, even death.

In the future, perhaps one of the most fascinating aspects of copper in human and animal health will be a more widespread use of copper-based drugs for treatment of arthritis and other inflammatory disorders, Harris says.

Already a number of excellent animal and clinical studies have reported promising results from using copper salicylates and amino acid complexes in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, gastric ulcers, epileptic seizures, convulsions, and certain carcinomas (cancers).

The anti-inflammatory activity of these drugs appears to be in arresting the inflammatory agent and stimulating tissue repair, according to Harris.

Harris' research has shown that copper is essential to proper development of blood vessels.

The functions of copper in connective tissue maturation are closely linked with the properties of lysyl oxidase, a copper-dependent enzyme found almost exclusively in connective tissue.

Closely akin to its role in connective tissue maturation is the function of copper in maintaining vascular integrity in major arteries of growing animals, Harris says.

Copper deficiency in the growing animal results in blood vessels with sparse and fragmented elastic fibers.

The failure to form a firm supporting elastin structure seems to result in a weakened internal structure of the aorta. Aortic aneurysms eventually give rise to aortic rupture and instant death through internal hemorrhaging.

Research showed that naturally occurring copper deficiency in farm animals, notably sheep and cattle in Western Australia, can cause severe problems.

The development of swayback in lambs or falling disease in cattle was traced to insufficient copper in soils and pastures or the presence of high amounts of molybdenum complexes that blocked copper absorption.

The greatest impetus for early studies of copper function in humans was the recognition that changes in serum copper levels fluctuated with many disease states in man, a clear implication of the importance of copper to human health.

A partial listing of diseases of humans recognized to be associated with elevated levels of serum copper, include Addison's disease, aplastic anemia, arsenic poisoning, carcinomas (cancers) of various types, central nervous system disorders, diabetes, Hodgkins disease, iron-deficiency anemia, hyperthyroidism, leukemia, liver diseases, malaria, pernicious anemia, and sickle cell anemia.

Harris cautions that the presence of higher levels of copper in blood serum is not to be taken as the cause of all these diseases but rather as an indicator of the widespread importance of copper in a variety of functions in the body.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

A GOOD BEGINNING
AUSTIN — Crime pays. That's the opinion of most criminals' experts on criminology told us at the first meeting of the Committee on the Criminal Justice System of Texas.
"It's like a catfish on a trotline. You'll get seven or eight bites before you get a hook," one criminal was reported to have said.
What causes people to have the attitude that they should take a chance on going to the penitentiary by committing a crime? Why would they be willing to take that risk?
Most of us feel like there's a direct cause and effect relationship between crime and punishment. You commit the crime, you get caught, you go to jail. Most criminals do not seem to see it that way.
The reason for their way of looking at the world may be because they were not punished as children. When most of us were children, we knew certain things caused certain punishments. It was simple for us, but it does not seem simple for today's criminal — who very likely was yesterday's juvenile delinquent.
And if he was yesterday's juvenile delinquent, was he punished? We don't know. Records of juveniles are sealed when the juvenile becomes 18 years old. We can't tell if the criminal was delinquent, whether he was punished, or how likely whether he was given probation and sent away — sent away with the idea that crime pays.

Discipline may sound like an old-fashioned word in these days of fancy theories about criminals, but it's a word we can believe in. If we had more discipline — more speedy punishment when it's needed — we believe we could stop crime before it starts. We could teach children crime does not pay. It would be a good beginning.
We know you are interested in stopping the rising crime rate in this state. We want to hear your ideas about how to go about it. Please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS ARE IN position to dish out speedy justice, if they want to do it. We have tied the hands of teachers and administrators who would give students well-deserved punishment. Teachers these days fear a lawsuit or a parental notice when they administer corporal punishment. So the child gets the idea young that the

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Despite Gov. Bill Clements' belief that the Democratic gubernatorial contenders should be sparing among themselves, those Democrats still are taking every opportunity to jab at the incumbent.
Tyler Sen. Peyton McKnight has no time in criticizing Clements for what he saw as insensitivity toward the plight of the unemployed. McKnight says Clements' remarks that the lay off of nearly 1,000 Texas Employment Commission employees will "help the curve" in his state employee reduction program shows he is more interested in making himself look good than in helping the unemployed. About 400 TEC employees already have received their pink slips because of federal budget cuts in job service programs, and another 400 are expected to be laid off by Jan. 31.
"The governor should stop worrying so much about his numbers and start thinking about what's best for the people of Texas," McKnight says.
Meanwhile, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, also vying for the state's top office, got in his shots at the incumbent Republican, too. Armstrong blasted Clements stating the Dallas oilman has shown little concern for the elderly.
In a printed statement, Armstrong criticized the governor's failure to appoint an independent ombudsman to investigate complaints of nursing home patients. The governor's only response was that Armstrong "better start worrying about (Attorney General) Mark White," the third Democrat in the race.

Hobby Opposition
Clements, however, wasn't the only one getting bad press. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who is seeking re-election to a fourth term in the state's second-highest office, has been the subject of criticism from the Texas Pro-Life Political Action Committee, which has been distributing "Ask Me Why I'm Against Bill Hobby" bumper stickers.
Hobby, who denied ever blocking passage of anti-abortion legislation, said the pro-lifers are sending out "scurrilous" materials. Former Secretary of State George Strake, Hobby's GOP opponent, denied any connection with the pro-lifers actions.
Strake says he has no intention of making abortion an issue in the lieutenant governor's race.

Attorney General's Race
Euless Sen. Bill Meier has announced he will make his first GOP campaign one for attorney general. Meier switched to the Republican party in 1981 after previously serving in the Senate as a Democrat.
Meier will face former U.S. Attorney John Hannah of Tyler in that race, as well as a long list of other potential candidates who have not yet made their formal announcements.
Meier says the attorney general's post has become increasingly important because of litigation over the state's prison systems and policy on education of illegal aliens.

Meier's Senate colleague, Democrat Ray Stubbins of Wichita Falls, has announced he is bowing out of the attorney general's race because of the high price tag he expects that campaign to have. Stubbins says the probability that former Sen. Max Sherman, chairman of West Texas State University in Canyon, will enter the race also influenced his decision.
However, San Diego County District Attorney Arthur C. "Cappy" Bala says he is contemplating a bid for the state's top legal post. So is David Dean, who recently replaced Strake as secretary of state.
"I'm From Department of Public Safety Director Col. Jim Adams says his officers are beginning a crackdown on marijuana farms.
Adams says DPS last fall college students with a few "pot" plants in a flower box, instead of a flower box, will be searching for large-scale farming of marijuana as a cash crop.
Some marijuana growers already have been cited in the Bastrop, Caldwell, Lampasas and Taylor County areas, with some thousands of pounds of the weed since September, Adams says about 34 million worth of marijuana has been seized by DPS officers this year.
Adams says public awareness campaigns will be aimed at hardy and hard-implant dealers, and some agents and officers will keep them alert and report suspected marijuana farms.
Insurance Bill
Texas Insurance Board member Lyndell Williams of Waco has been named president of the Association of Insurance Commissioners.
Olson, a former state representative, was appointed to the State Board of Insurance by former Gov. Dolph Briscoe, and has been publicly in the NAIC organization.
Olson is the first Texas to serve in this post since Ned Price was named to the position in 1969.
Olson ran an unsuccessful campaign for Congress in 1976 and recently had his name withdrawn from consideration for a federal post.
Medical Practice Act
Some doctors and lawyers have begun questioning the constitutionality of the Medical Practice Act.
Officials of the Texas Medical Association and some insurance groups say it is very likely the act could be declared unconstitutional because it is "unconstitutional."
The law prohibits a group of $300,000 in insurance companies against a doctor, and to have contractual relationship, while a doctor, as an individual, can be another person for any amount he desires.
In seven of the states with similar provisions, such courts have struck down such laws.

Don't eat the poppies
Polly POLLY — I have curly poppy flowers of all colors in my garden. Is this poppy seed good for baking? —
Polly POLLY, P.S. — I wouldn't recommend it. Ornamental poppies are not good for producing edible seeds. Even if you do have a variety which were proven to be safe to eat, the seeds are probably not have the flavor that makes poppy seeds so popular. Poppy seed comes from the opium poppy which is non-narcotic and do not contain the alkaloid that is narcotic drug. So enjoy the beauty of your garden and buy your poppy seed at the supermarket. — Polly

How to clean a white egg
A white egg you gave advice on how to clean a white egg. Here's some advice on how to KEEP it clean. Wash your egg with a copper or steel scouring pad. Use a gentle scrubbing. Once the egg is really cleaned, it will be shining again.
Wash the egg in water. Put a little oil on any blemish and scrub it off with a soft cloth.
Never use bleach or cleansers to clean it.
Put a little oil on the inside of the egg before putting it away. A well-seasoned iron pan would better than these cleaning and anti-stick coatings. — ANONYMOUS FROM COAL
How to clean my stainless cookware with silver polish. I use this intensive method. I sprinkle the silver polish over a little vinegar and scrub well. If the surface is very dull, I repeat. Then I wash in hot water, rinse and dry well. After 10 years my pans still look like new. — BBA

Facial hair isn't whole story

DR. LAMB — I am a 19-year-old male and I think I have a delayed puberty. I have gone through the first stages all right. When I was about 15 my voice changed and I grew a little facial hair. Not much, but I was 4 feet 10 inches and 140 pounds. I don't have facial hair yet and still don't have a full growth of axillary hair. I feel underdeveloped and don't have much muscle mass. I was wondering if hormone treatments would be beneficial in aiding my problem. I have heard that this can produce undesirable side effects. This problem has depressed me and hampered my social life. I need your advice.
DEAR DR. LAMB — There are a few more important anatomical changes associated with becoming a man. It is not just how much hair you grow on your face. It is also the development of secondary sex characteristics and the growth of the testes. These changes are not complete until you are about 17-18 years old. It is normal for you to have less facial hair than you would expect at your age. It is also normal for you to have less muscle mass than you would expect. This is because your body is still growing and developing. It is important to remember that everyone develops at their own pace. It is not a competition. You should not worry about your appearance. You should focus on your health and well-being. If you are concerned about your development, you should see a doctor. He can examine you and determine if there is anything wrong. Most of the time, there is nothing wrong. You are just a normal young man who is developing at his own pace. You should be proud of who you are and what you have achieved. You should continue to work on yourself and your goals. You should not let your appearance or development worry you. You should live your life to the fullest and enjoy every moment. You should be happy and content with who you are. You should not compare yourself to others. You should be your own person. You should not let anyone else's opinion of you affect you.
