Southwest Ranch Life Subject Of Photo Display

Photographs depicting Texas and Southwest ranch life for the past 50 years will be on view at Wayland Baptist College in Plainview until Dec. 12.

This collection of photographs is the work of Frank Reeves, longtime livestock editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, and were originated as an exhibition by the Amon Carter Museum of Western Art in Fort Worth.

SPONSORED by the American Heritage Program at Wayland, the display will be in Van Howeling Memorial Library on cam-

Often called the 'dean of livestock reporters," Reeves began taking his photographs in 1912 to accompany his reporting. They still dot the walls of hotels, restaurants, offices and homes throughout the Southwest.

The Reeves exhibition is classified in three parts: ranch life at work, ranch life at play (rodeos) and personalities. Among the personalities are included former Vice-President John Nance Garner, the late J. Frank Dobie and Mrs. Dobie, and Abb Blocker, the trail driver who designed the XIT brand by scraping his boot in the sand.

Reeves turned to photography after being thwarted in his desire of becoming a lawyer. He picked up extra money while attending Grayson College in Whitewright by working for a studio photographer on Satur-

THE 1884 Kentucky-born Texan began his popular "Chuck Wagon" column for the Star-Telegram in 1930, giving news about the livestock industry and the people who make it work.

He still writes the column and takes countless pictures to accompany his stories, while producing a unique pictorial record of the Southwest during the past four decades.

Many of the photographs on display are of rodeos and cattle during roundups. These are the finest and most candid shots of the cattle industry ever produced and have earned Reeves the respect of all who have met him in his work.

Christmas Mail Volume Increase

Hereford's economy booming at an unprecedented pace, Hereford Postmaster Nolan Grady is predicting a dramatic rise in mail volume over last year's Christmas "rush".

"Literally billions of pieces of mail will be delivered between now and Christmas this year by the postal service. If everyone were to wait until the last week to mail their gifts and greetings, there is a possibility that the postal system would be literally swamped in a sea of mail. More important, special messages of good will would not be delivered on time. Public cooperation is the key to fast and on-time mail delivery at this time of the year," he said.

IN ORDER to insure delivery before Christmas, the following schedule should be used, he suggested:

Air Parcels for Armed Forces men overseas - not later than Gift parcels for distant states

- not later than Dec. 5. Gift parcels for local and nearby areas - not later than Dec.

Greeting cards for distant states - not later than Dec. 10. Greeting cards for local and nearby areas - not later than Dec. 15.

The name and address of both the sender and addresse should be included inside each parcel to permit identity in case of damage or loss to outside address. Postmaster Grady urged that special care be taken to see that each package is tightly stuffed and that nothing rattics around inside.

Bottle Collectors Find Prizes In Trash Heaps

THEY DIG UP SPECIMENS

Digging is not an activity which would seem to bear much relation to collecting bottles, but Mr. and Mrs. Sam Morgan have discovered some of the best items in their collection by spadework - in trash heaps.

BOTTLE COLLECTING is a new enthusiasm for the Morgans, but they already have dozens of old, unusual of pretty glass containers which they have bought, received as gifts or dug up.

The digging is literal, Mrs. Morgan says. Nothing pleases a bottle collector more than finding an abandoned house with a heap of discarded rubbish into which he may delve, or an old dump ground where house holders of bygone years left bottles emptied of medicine, food or

Of equal worth are such things as a bitters bottle in brown under the floor of a tumbling glass, a casor oil bottle labeled with raised letters, and an old soda water bottle of thick glass.

ORIGINAL CONTENTS of the bottles range from perfume to shill tonic to snuff to wine and launched the Morgans on their whiskey. Some have marks on hobby. The Hereford Composite Squadron of the Cvil Air Patrol will join with more than 2,300 other CAP units throughout the United States in observing the 24th anniversary of Civil Air Patrol on December 1st.

Col. Joe L. Mason, USAF, CAP National commander, in a congratulatory message to all units said 1965 has been a year of significant achievement in Civil Air patrol and urged CAP's members to "even greater achievements in 1966". National Headquarters of Civil Air Patrol is located at Ellington AFB, Houston, Texas.

Hereford Retail Growth Improves Area Outlook

Viewed from a community-wide slant we do not know of any other single development which has been the topic of more discussion than Hereford's new shopping center, Sugarland Mall.

The new center, with a stately array of firms already listed, is scheduled to open in March and, without doubt, will certainly change the shopping habits of many people. Another thing we like about the mall is the fact that it will be ulta-modern, and this is the way Hereford has always liked to travel. The development represents a growth factor which puts the community on a better basis to compete with other towns and cities, including Amarillo and Lubbock. As a result, it seems to us that Hereford. as a community, has everything to gain from the new development.

Numerous critics, on the other hand, are prone to believe that we have perhaps outgrown our trade potential, and fell that all business may well suffer from the expansion. To this, we would say that the new facilities will undoubtedly have some effect on existing merchants; the effect can go two ways. First, we have already noted a tremendous expansion plan in downtown Hereford with the establishment of Variety Park, and a general improvement throughout the downtown area. The other alternate, of course would be to sit still, complain to high heaven, and lose business -but our merchants seem to have already crossed this bridge and are offering the largest stocks and the best service in the

Time Here For Toy Project

Deaf Smith County Veterans are once again seeking toys which can be repaired, painted and used for distribution to needy families at Christmas. As always, people endorse the idea wholeheartedly, but often delay bringing in their toys until the last Actually, the veterans need the toys early, and the earlier the better. Practically all of the repairs are made after hours and at night by a group of people who donate their time and abilities. If the toys come in at the last minute, it is impossible to handle the project most efficiently.

These facts are obvious, and should spur each of us into high gear in helping with the plan. All of us know that scores of youngsters will go without gifts this Christmas unless the toy repair plan succeeds and, as in the past, we believe that the community will respond handsomely once people realize that only three weeks remain in which to accomplish the task.

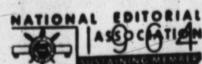

Again, too, let's take time to give the veterans a pat on the back for their efforts. We do not know of a more worthy or worthwhile project anywhere than the toy repair program.

BAFETY.AFILM

If we are prone to look beyond the of local competition and face things squarely on a community-wide basis, it does seem that Hereford is fast moving into its best position. If we view the new center as an addition to the services previously offered, we find our selves capable of competing with anything Amarillo and Lubbock have to offer. No onger will the shopper find it necessary to leave town to secure the goods he desires, nor will he find them anywhere else in better surroundings than Hereford has to offer. Both of these factors are all-important to maintain merchandise volumes.

No one likes competition, especially against himself, but we all must agree that it does contribute to more efficient and better service. Hereford's food markets, for instance, have more than doubled in floor space during the past 12 monthsand we doubt if any town in Texas (large or small) affords a better place to buy foods. Furthermore, we doubt if very many food dollars are straying into other areas to be spent.

It is logical and highly probable that the same thing will happen in other lines, including general merchandise and discount stores, which in the past have drawn thousands of dollars from this community. Once the mall and retail business expansion has been completed, it figures that more and more of these out-of-town dollars will stay in the community, and we will certainly be in a position to attract regional purchases which are now passing through Hereford and being spent in the larger cities. We are also prone to forget the tremendous boost in population here during the past five years. This alone justifies a good portion of the retail growth, which normally follows.

All merchants compete against each other, regardless of what town they call home. To date, our greatest competitors have not been in Hereford; instead, they have been in Amarillo, Lubbock, Dallas and other cities. Now that we are growing up, we find ourselves in a position to hold more and more of this business in the community. Our job is to make the most of a good situation by increasing stocks, services and efficiency. Needless to say, the happiest ones of all will be the shoppers when they find that they can "get it in Hereford"and at prices competitive to anywhere else 'in the country.

East Underpass

Present agitation for an underpass in east Hereford is a matter which merits extensive support. Without doubt, the need exisits. Sunch a project wil be costly, however, and will require cooperation between several groups before it materializes.

The underpass west of town, for instance was "in the mill" a dozen years or more before it became a reality. Meanwhile several people lost their lives on carious crossings, and thousands of hours were wasted by travelers.

Due to the factors involved, the accomplishment wil be slow, but it can be achieved, and the fact that it has come into public limelight is a good first step in this direction. All in all, we would say that the situation indicates an alert citizenship which, more important, is interested in the welfare of the community and its inhabitof the gatlon kerosene can.

Right after my nap yesterday afternoon I pulled out a newspaper which I had found that morning on the road near this bindweed farm and which I picked up to do my part to help keep America beautiful. It's not that I think a newspaper blowing in the wind is so much worse than leaves doing the same thing, but you can't get around prejudice. A leaf-strewn lawn is one thing, but a Hereford Brand strewn lawn would be another thing.

At any rate, after I had collected my senses form the nap I looked it over and ran into an article on sleep by a man in England who was described as the "world's foremost authority on sleep," and has written a book on

While I don't know how a man gets to be the top authority on sleep, at least I've never found sleeping something you had to study for, any one-day-old baby can do it, I've been doing it for years, still what interested me about the article was his contention that people, if they try hard enough, can get by on a lot less than the customary eight hours a night. In fact, he said the eighthour system is a carry over from cave-man days when men didn't have any light and slept from sundown to dawn, and he was in favor of cutting it down to six hours and eventually to four hours.

Well now I'll tell you I belive that's one field where we don't need any outside advice or control. We just don't need any sleep quotas. Maybe some people need to be told how much or how little to sleep, but I've always gotten along on my own. If a man doesen't know when he's sleepy, and when he's through sleeping, or when he's hungry and when he's not, or when to sit down when he's tired and when to get up when he's rested, or when it's time to get a drink of water, I doubt if he can find much help in a book of directions. I sleep till I wake up, then stay awake till I go to sleep. Don't see how anybody can improve on that system.

Old Schoolhouse With New Role As Scene Of Christmas Party

ONCE THE CENTER OF communty activities and especially gay at Christmastime, then abandoned to use as a storage building for years, the former schoolhouse has been rejuvenated as a neighborhood meeting place as well as a club-room by the Ford Home Demonstration Club

Longtime residents remember its use not only for school programs, but for singings, political rallies and church services back when travel to nearby towns was not so easy, and people of Ford community gathered at the school for entertainment they now seek farther away.

This year women of the H. D. Club, some of whom, like Mrs Raymond Flores, attended school there, thought nostalgically of Christmas programs and trees they knew in the old building, and decided to give their children - and grandchildren, about 50 in all - the same sort of party.

"WE REALIZED that children today seldom can take part in a community Christmas entertainment with others of all ages and adults as well", explains Mrs. A. L. Hollingsworth, club president, "and we think they are missing something important.

> TAX CASE UNDER STUDY

A special three-judge federal court has under study whether the Texas poll tax should be repealed as a voting requirement. Court heard case, brought by U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach under new voting rights act, here Wednesday (December 1).

Katzenbach contends poll tax discriminates against Texas Negroes because they earn less.

State Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr counters that anyone who can't pay $1.75 tax "is not intelligent enough or competent enough to manage the affairs of the government." There is no evidence of levy being used to discriminate against any voter or group, says Carr.

Placing power lines where they are needed is fun for a child, but it is a big job for the nation's power industry.

Today, consumer-owned electric systems such as ours serve 54% of the rural population, and the demand doubles every seven years.

Meeting the rising powerneeds and preparing for tomorrow takes the best efforts of the entire power industry. In our area we are proud to be carrying our share of the load.
