Murder victim identified

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor
Authorities are continuing to question potential suspects and witnesses in the apparent murder of a 15-year-old boy southwest of Hereford.

By using dental records and verification by three doctors, authorities are "99 percent sure" the victim was Johnny Martinez, 15, of Hereford. The autopsy was not able to determine how long the youth had been dead, but was able to determine the cause of death was one or more blows to the back of the head. The blow or blows probably came from a hammer.

Compounding the problems of identification, the body had apparently been burned by persons involved in the murder, possibly to hide evidence of what had happened. The boy's body had also been subjected to extreme temperatures and rains that fell last Friday. The body was found by a young boy at an abandoned farmhouse just outside Hereford.

Sheriff's department investigators said this morning they are still interrogating suspects and witnesses of the event. Investigator Fidel Reyna said there could be an arrest in the case within the next two days.

"We hope to get the case narrowed down to about a half-dozen suspects, and maybe have an arrest in the next two days," Reyna said.

The incident could have happened as early as Sept. 1, a week before the body was found. The boy was last seen the night of Sept. 1, and was reported as missing on Sept. 2. Reyna said the boy's grandparents reported him as missing on Sept. 2, and said it was not unusual for the boy to have not come home on Saturday night. Information on the missing youth was placed in law enforcement agency computers on Monday after the youth could not be located despite questioning and searching.

Budget talks turn to taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) - White House and congressional budget bargainers are considering new taxes on cigarettes and petroleum products as participants say they sense an approaching deal despite daunting remaining obstacles.

Negotiators worked into the early morning hours today for a seventh consecutive day cloistered at Andrews Air Force Base, just outside the capital city in Maryland.

Round-the-clock sessions seemed possible as bargainers tried to close in on a package of tax increases and spending cuts saving $50 billion in the fiscal year starting Oct. 1 and $500 billion by 1995.

"The mood is fairly positive, fairly upbeat," said Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, one of the negotiators. "But I've got to tell you, we are a long way from reaching agreement until some major issues are resolved."

On Wednesday, the negotiators tackled the question of whose taxes will be increased. They already have agreed to raise taxes and federal fees by $25 billion next year and $130 billion over the next five years.

Participants said they discussed boosting the 16-cents-per-pack cigarette tax, perhaps doubling it, which would raise $2.8 billion next year. They continued their efforts to agree to higher taxes on alcoholic beverages, an idea both sides have suggested.

In response, Anheuser-Busch, the nation's largest brewer of malt beverages, has been running "Can the Beer Tax" advertisements. Walker Merryman, vice president of the Tobacco Institute, said cigarette manufacturers have chosen a lower-profile effort against any increase, contending that a rise in tobacco taxes would hurt the poor disproportionately and cause job layoffs.

White House budget chief Richard Darman suggested slapping a 1 percent tax on all petroleum-containing products except livestock feed, one official said, a proposal that would cover items ranging from gasoline to cosmetics. It would reap the government $800 million next year and $7 billion over five years.

He also proposed a lower-cost version of a tax on luxury items the Democrats have advanced. Goods subject to the levy under both proposals include expensive cars, private planes and boats, jewelry, furs and electronic equipment.

But one of the thorniest remaining hurdles is also a tax proposal: President Bush's proposal to lower the capital gains tax rate. The levy is charged when property and other investments are sold at a profit. Republicans say a cut would stimulate more sales and thus bring in more tax revenue.

But Democrats, complaining that the idea would merely fatten the wallets of the rich, say they won't accept it without a proposal of their own: a boost in income taxes on the wealthy. Republicans reject that idea.

Man injured in accident

Emergency workers were able to free Shane Skarke from under this John Deere front-end loader that overturned atop him in an accident on a county road nine miles north of Dawn on Wednesday afternoon. The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department used air bags, purchased through fund raisers by the department two years ago, to lift the tractor off of Skarke so he could be pulled free. Skarke was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital for treatment. Volunteer firemen said the air bags have now been used twice to save lives in life-threatening accidents.

Iraq terrorizing hostages

By CHRISTOPHER BURNS
Associated Press Writer

British women who have flown to freedom but left husbands behind in occupied Kuwait say Iraqi soldiers in the captive nation are terrorizing Western men they hold and searching house to house for those they don't.

The State Department also says it has information that Iraqi troops are mounting intensified, more systematic searches for American men in the wealthy Persian Gulf state they seized in an Aug. 2 invasion.

Washington pressed on with diplomatic efforts to isolate Iraq. Secretary of State James Baker III was to fly today to the frontline state of Syria.

U.S. relations with Syria have in the past been strained over its support of terrorists but Damascus is now an ally in the desert military standoff with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

The trip comes as Iraq rapidly reconciles with neighboring Iran, which after an eight-year war is now showing signs it could help Saddam poke holes in a U.N.-ordered trade embargo enforced by dozens of U.S. and other warships.

In another indication the embargo could be in trouble, a U.N. sanctions committee failed in New York Wednesday to agree on what kind of food aid to allow into Iraq and Kuwait.

Most delegates wanted to allow shipments only to foreigners and children. But Cuba and Yemen advocated allowing in food to all civilians, and several countries have said they intend to ship supplies to their trapped nationals.

Tens of thousands of foreigners remained trapped in Iraq and Kuwait, and masses of mostly penniless Asian refugees are still stranded in camps in neighboring Jordan awaiting transportation to their homelands.

In Washington, State Department deputy spokesman Richard Boucher said Iraqi authorities searching for American men in Kuwait are tightening the dragnet.

"In Kuwait, there has been increased harassment of U.S. citizens, and more systematic house-to-house searches for American men are now being conducted," he said.

Boucher also said the 80 or so Americans who have been rounded up for use as human shields to deter a feared U.S. attack are being moved continually. All are believed held in Iraq.

About 1,400 Americans remain in Kuwait, while there are about 200 in Iraq, according to official estimates.

Concern for the safety of those held hostage by the Iraqis ran deep among the more than 400 women and children who comprised the latest planeload of Westerners allowed to leave Baghdad by Iraq authorities.

All had reached the Iraq capital from Kuwait.

One British woman who arrived in London on the Iraqi Airways 747 Wednesday night said she was forced to leave her 19-year-old son in the hands of Iraqi soldiers so she and her daughter could gain their freedom.

"The Iraqi soldiers would not listen when I tried to persuade them that Owen was just a student and should be allowed to go free," Elizabeth Walters told reporters. "The soldiers said 'He is a man so he must stay.'"

About 280 Americans were on the jumbo jet, which was chartered by the U.S. and British governments. They were to fly on to Raleigh-Durham airport in North Carolina today.

'They're terrorizing people just for the sheer hell of it.'

More than 900 Americans have left Iraq and Kuwait in recent days and an additional flight is scheduled for Friday.

Mrs. Walters, who said her husband was in hiding in Kuwait, told of Iraqi soldiers terrorizing Western men in the emirate:

"One (British) man was taken off into the desert, blindfolded and told to get out of the car and then they threatened to kill him. He was then pushed back into the car and they drove him round again and did the same, threatening to kill him again. They were terrorizing him just for the sheer hell of it."

The U.S. military buildup in the region, though adequate to defend Saudi Arabia against Iraq, won't be completed for about two months, the U.S. commander in Saudi Arabia was quoted today as saying.

That's about a month later than earlier reported.

Amy Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, in an interview published in the Washington Post, attributed at least part of the slowdown to breakdowns of some of the Navy's fast transport ships, which he said has forced the use of slower vessels.

Man files suit over language against TEC

BROWNSVILLE (AP) - A Spanish-speaking Brownsville man is suing the Texas Employment Commission, saying he didn't understand an English-only notice denying his unemployment benefits and thus couldn't appeal the order.

The federal class-action lawsuit accuses the TEC of failure to comply with a law requiring it to provide notices in Spanish.

Bernardino Gonzalez, 43, represents a large class of people who said they couldn't appeal their benefit denials because the didn't understand the notices, the lawsuit, filed Monday, claims.

The class includes Mexican-Americans and other Hispanics eligible for unemployment, according to the lawsuit filed with the assistance of Texas Rural Legal Aid Inc.

Several lawsuits filed against the TEC in the early 1980s complained of lack of services in Spanish. A state law requiring that important forms be made available in Spanish as well as English was passed in 1985, according to the lawsuit.

Ed Davidson, special counsel for the TEC, said lawyers for Texas Rural Legal Aid and TEC have discussed the issue for years.

"What they (TRLA) want is for everybody who was denied a hearing to have an opportunity to try to prove...that it was because the notice was in English," Davidson said. "Our position is going to be that we implemented the law in a timely fashion."

Davidson said TEC spends thousands of dollars a year on interpreters and translated forms.

"It's not as though we are not aware of this need," he said.

Efren Hernandez, a supervising interviewer with the TEC office in Brownsville, said the agency has a system of notifying claimants in their native language. He said candidates receive correspondence in English and Spanish if they say they prefer Spanish during their initial interviews.

US puts its foot down for peace

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House is sending a pointed message to U.S. allies slow to provide military and financial help for the Persian Gulf deployment: The United States will no longer foot the entire bill for defending the world.

Angered by Japan's delay in giving $1 billion to a campaign that could cost up to $15 billion in the next year, the House on Wednesday adopted a measure requiring the Asian nation to pay all the costs of stationing U.S. forces on its soil, or begin losing the troops.

The amendment was one of three burden-sharing proposals added to the $283 billion defense budget for fiscal 1991, which begins Oct. 1, by lawmakers who spent several hours of debate lashing out at America's friends.

The House resumed action on the bill today with the following issues on the agenda:

- Amendments to increase or decrease the level of spending on the Strategic Defense Initiative in fiscal 1991. President Bush had called for a budget of $4.7 billion for the program commonly known as Star Wars. The Senate trimmed about $1 billion from the 1991 request; the House slashed nearly $2 billion.

In debate on Tuesday, the ranking Republican on the House Armed Services panel, Rep. Bill Dickinson of Alabama, raised the possibility of a Bush veto if lawmakers "decimate the program."

But Rep. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., sponsor of an amendment to end Star Wars, said it was "time to stop spending 'billions of dollars on a fairy tale.'"

Debate over the B-2 stealth bomber, the costliest weapon in history at some $860 million a plane. Proponents of the radar-evading aircraft plan to discuss the bomber's merits but no vote on the issue is planned.

If approved, the House bill calls for halting production of the plane at the 15 bombers under construction.

- Amendments to assist communities, businesses and workers left without a job due to cutbacks in defense spending that force the closing or scaling back of military contractors.

Democrats get environmental endorsement

AUSTIN (AP) - Clean Water Action, which calls itself the largest environmental lobby in Texas, said it couldn't find a single Republican candidate for statewide office who strongly supported environmental goals.

The environmental group, which on Wednesday endorsed a straight Democratic ticket, identified only one Republican who even had an environmental campaign platform, said spokeswoman Bridget Shea. That was Rob Mosbacher in the lieutenant governor's race.

He was not endorsed because his positions were much weaker than those of his opponent, Bob Bullock, she said.

Clean Water Action, a national organization with about 60,000 Texas members, has endorsed Republicans in other state elections, but in Texas "there was almost no contest," Ms. Shea said.

In the governor's race, "Texas clearly faces enormous environmental problems and Ann Richards has laid out a bold and aggressive plan to respond to these problems," the environmental group said in its endorsement.

Republican Clayton Williams "has a documented history of breaking environmental laws - weak as they are - with his oil and gas business," the group's endorsement said.

Williams spokeswoman Mona Palmer criticized the group. Clean Water Action "is a California-based liberal fringe group whose goal, like the goal of Ann Richards, is to shut down economic and job opportunities in Texas," Ms. Palmer said.

In the agriculture commissioner's race, Democrat Jim Hightower has a solid national reputation for reforming Texas' pesticide laws, the group said, whereas Republican Rick Perry "is the ultimate astro-turf candidate - green on the outside, plastic on the inside."

A Perry spokeswoman said his campaign is focused on gaining the support of Texas cattle ranchers, rather than Clean Water Action.

"We were conservationists long before the new-styled environmentalists, as they call themselves, became the fashion," Perry said in a statement released after the environmentalists' endorsements.

Clean Water Action endorsed Democrat Dan Morales in the state attorney general's race for creating "one of the toughest plans on the environment."

In other political developments Wednesday:

- Mosbacher listed 10 "errors" from Bullock's radio and newspaper campaign advertisements.

The alleged errors centered on Bullock's claims that a firm in which Mosbacher is an investor, Hollywood

Holding Company, owns Hollywood Marine, which has been responsible for 200 oil spills.

Bullock's advertisements do not point out that Mosbacher owns only 2.4 percent of Hollywood Holding Company, Mosbacher said.

In most cases, Hollywood Marine's spills involved less than two barrels of oil, Mosbacher added.

Bullock responded that Hollywood Marine has spilled at least 10,000 barrels of petrochemical products since 1980.

- Morales and his Republican opponent, J.E. "Buster" Brown, have accepted invitations to address an open government conference, Sept. 25, at the invitation of Attorney General Jim Mattox.

Supreme Court nominee side steps issues in confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP) - David H. Souter, whose views could anchor the Supreme Court firmly on the right, faces politically charged questioning from liberals as the Senate Judiciary Committee opens confirmation hearings.

"Voting rights, race and sex discrimination, separation of church and state, and the right to privacy ... I intend to question Judge Souter about these matters and let the chips fall where they may," Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said on the eve of the hearings.

Kennedy seconded remarks by the committee chairman, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-DeL., that the importance of the nomination and the atmosphere surrounding it made such questioning - including on the issue of abortion - mandatory.

But it was unclear how far Souter, scheduled to testify for two days, will go toward unveiling his views. He could refuse on the basis that he might prejudice himself regarding cases before the high court.

It's a strategy that his Republican supporters like.

"I frankly believe that a judge has a responsibility not to comment on cases or legal issues that may come before him or her on the court," said Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, a senior member of the Judiciary Committee.

White House chief of staff John Sununu, who appointed Souter to the state bench while governor of New Hampshire, has assured conservatives that the nominee is one they'll like on the Supreme Court, which has taken an increasingly conservative cast.

The 50-year-old federal appeals judge remains a philosophical mystery on many of the issues before the court. His approach to the law is undoubtedly conservative but there's not enough in the record to say, for example, how he would vote on the 1973 abortion rights ruling now being challenged by the Bush administration.

In addition, many of the bachelor judge's friends are political moderates or liberals.

Since being chosen by President Bush on July 23 to replace retired Justice William Brennan, Souter paid courtesy calls on the committee's 14 members and discussed the law broadly with them. But he side-stepped issues with either them or the news media, saying he would address things more thoroughly at the hearings.

Souter maintained his pre-hearing silence on Wednesday, refusing to answer reporters' questions following a luncheon with the president.

Bush made a plug for his nominee later in the day.

Souter is a "tough, fair-minded, intellectually brilliant judge," the president said. He pressed the Senate to approve the nomination this month "so that he can take his place as the only career prosecutor on the court in time for the court's first sitting" next month.

Souter spent a decade as New Hampshire's attorney general. In that job, he had to take some controversial stands - for example, defending Gov. Meldrim Thomson's order to lower flags to half-staff on Good Friday.

But supporters portray him as a lawyer with a client, representing views not necessarily his own.

After he became a state appeals justice, Souter dissented from his colleagues who struck down government fees for some special court sessions. Although the state constitution appeared on its face to make that improper, Souter said the constitution had to be taken in its original context of 200 years ago.

Liberal senators want to know how heavily "original intent" affects Souter's views, especially on women's rights and abortion, privacy rights, civil rights - issues which in their current context didn't exist when the U.S. Constitution was written.

Women first competed in the modern Olympic Games in 1900.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I returned to Chicago recently from a business trip to Denver. I was already seated in the middle seat when a woman, assigned to the aisle seat, bent over and asked me, very sweetly, if I would mind lifting the arm of the chair we shared. She said, "I am uncomfortable with it down." I agreed, which was a big mistake.

When the woman sat down, she spread out into one-quarter of my space. This was no problem at the time. As the flight progressed, she continued to spread. Half way through the flight the seat belt light went on, signaling turbulence. By then the woman had expanded into half of my space. Her seat belt was cutting into my thigh and I had to use her hip as an armrest. My leg began to ache from lack of circulation and I was becoming more irritated by the minute.

Somehow, with God's help, I made it to Chicago. As I thought about the trip, I realized how dumb I had been. When I deplaned, I walked directly behind this woman and had a full view of her posterior. I don't understand why in the world she was not required to purchase two seats.

Please tell your readers that they should never allow anyone to raise the armrest prior to a flight departing. Believe me, Ann, I will never make that mistake again. -- Squashed on Arrival

DEAR SQUASHED: Just when I think I have heard everything, something new comes along. I believe that you had a legitimate complaint and should have taken it up with the flight attendant. Thanks for writing.

ATLANTA (AP) - Charlton Heston, George Jones, Tammy Wynette, Randy Travis and the cast of TV's "In the Heat of the Night" are some of the celebrities from Hollywood and Nashville helping Georgia politicians raise money and votes.

"I do it because it can be useful," said Heston, the conservative Oscar-winning actor slated to appear at a fund-raiser Sept. 15 for Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga.

"My primary function is to attract them to his ideas. I have a louder voice than some of my neighbors." Gingrich, the House minority whip, faces a challenge from Democrat David Worley.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You have published several letters recently from adult children who are disappointed or downright angry about not receiving what they consider their fair share of an inheritance.

What's with these people anyway? Their parents worked their whole lives to earn what they have, and they're entitled to do whatever they want with it.

When I turned 23, my mother told me not to expect anything because she planned to enjoy most of the money she had earned and leave what was left to her live-in gentleman friend. (He doesn't have much but he treats her beautifully.) That didn't bother me a bit. I love my mother no matter what.

To those who believe their parents owe them an inheritance, I ask, why? They gave you life, what more do you want? -- C.J. Mahwah, N.J.

DEAR C.J.: I like your style. Thanks for unloading in this corner.

DEAR READERS: Tired of trash? Want to read a fascinating, poignant, informative book that covers the last 50 years of the theater and Hollywood? Treat yourself to "Helen Hayes--My Life in Three Acts." The publisher is Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, $19.95 (higher in Canada). This intimate biography is a delicious treat, and you don't have to worry if the kids get hold of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have read and enjoyed your column for many years and have had a chuckle or two from some of the letters and your responses. I thought perhaps you and your readers might get a laugh out of this.

My wife gave our 8-month-old puppy an empty plastic container to chew on and play with. It had a "childproof" lid on it. Guess what? The puppy got the lid off in no time at all. -- D.J.V.N.

DEAR D.: I have always had a devil of a time with those things and felt like an idiot. Now you say your puppy can do it. Thanks for ruining my day.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Famous holiday wish book list unusual gift ideas

DALLAS (AP) - Even Fido leaps from the doghouse to the lap of luxury in this year's Neiman Marcus Christmas catalogue.

Nestled among a rare black mink coat for a mere $50,000, a gem-encrusted butterfly brooch for a quarter million, and a New Orleans Mardi Gras excursion for about six grand is the Pooch Palace, described as "a canine dream home."

It's six feet tall with an AstroTurf base and a car door window permanently rolled down. Neiman Marcus offers it all - for only $3,220.

The toney, Dallas-based department store on Tuesday began sending out 3 million copies worldwide of its holiday wish book famous for items ranging from the silly to the sublime.

This year there's the usual Russian caviar packed in gold-lined tins at $295 per gram, as well as knick-knacks, clothes, food and other things, many at regular department store prices.

"There's a lot of stuff in this book that's just for you and me," said Jan Roberts, Neiman vice president of public relations in New York. "Things that are still whimsical and unique, but aren't necessarily expensive."

"One of my favorites is the gold Slinky. It would make a great executive gift," she said.

The gold-plated toy, which is a large spring that "walks" down stairs, is $55.00.

Also for executive-level children is a dollop of Silly Putty in its own engraved sterling silver egg for $95 to commemorate the 40th anniversary of its birth.

For art you can use, look to the catalogue's lead item: His and Hers 1990 "chairpersons."

For $6,000 each, straight-backed wooden chairs designed by artist Philip Grace become life-size portraits of your choice.

"People are always interested in seeing what we have for the His and Hers gifts. Every year we look for something that hasn't been done before," Ms. Roberts said.

"Some years they're really expensive gifts, some years they're animals. It doesn't always have to have the same feel."

In the one-of-a-kind category, the store offers an original Gypsy house trailer, ornately carved and painted, allegedly "once both home and transportation to an important English Gypsy."

Ms. Roberts said the caravan, obtained from a Midwestern collector is "really spectacular ... a little museum on wheels."

Veterans day parade set Saturday, Sept. 15

Thousands of area residents are expected to gather in downtown Borger for the fifth annual Veterans Appreciation Day parade set for 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 15.

Donald R. Waak, president of the Texas State Council, Vietnam Veterans of America, will be the parade grand marshal. While in Vietnam, Waak served with the famed 101 Airborne Division. Since 1988, he has been involved in the readjustment counseling of Vietnam era veterans and is presently with the Amarillo Vet Center.

Joe Watson, parade chairman, said more than 100 entries have been received by the three sponsoring organizations.

Watson said the parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at 10th and North Main Street and proceed south down Main to Grand in South Borger.

After the parade, veterans from throughout the Panhandle area will be treated to a free dinner at the Aluminum Dome, Watson said.

The parade and Veterans Appreciation Day activities are co-sponsored by the American Legion Post 671, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1789, and North Plains Chapter 404, Vietnam Veterans of America, and their auxiliary units.

Parade entries are encouraged by calling the American Legion, 273-5322; VFW, 273-3512; or Vietnam Veterans, 273-3218.

Dove still plentiful for area hunters

With dove season entering its third week, something strange has happened. No cold fronts have roared through our region and local birds are still plentiful. Find some sunflowers, some water, a friendly landowner and you are in business. Remember to offer some birds to the landowner. He may or may not accept your bribe, but he will look kindly upon letting you return to hunt his land next time. Rest assured he will check out the area where you were hunting. If he finds any soft drink cans or trash, you can start looking for a new hunting spot.

If you are looking for a free dove hunting site, I recommend the Canadian River. The politicians and their big contributors are working on several deals, but for this season the people can still hunt the bottom land. The area north of Amarillo on the Dumas highway is a great spot for some fast action during the sunrise and sunset hours. Snuggle up to a cedar tree and get ready for some eight-to-one shooting. Eight shell are shot before downing one dove according to industry sources.

TIP OF THE WEEK: One of the best tips on hunting with a shotgun is to learn the pattern your gun makes with various loads and types of shells.

First, get some butcher paper (three feet wide). Tape two pieces together about four feet long. You should now have a target approximately three feet by four feet. Now draw several life-size doves on this hunting canvas. Make several targets because shotgun patterning is fun and paper is cheap.

Second, find a tree (yes, I know where we live) or something from which to hang your target. Pace off 25 yards, 40 yards and 60 yards. I usually draw a two-foot circle around each bird and call this my zone. Take a shot at 25 yards and count the hole in the zone.

Repeat this patterning at all distances with several brand name shells and various loads until you find the right one.

FISHING RESULTS: Out of 138 entries Mike Harber of Borger edged out Richard Beule of Dumas by one one-hundredth of a pound to win the Thursday evening at Lake Meredith. Mike 7.61 pounds and earned $690 while Richard pocketed $345 for weighing in 7.60 pounds. Third place money of $276 went to Jimmy Baggett of Pampa for catching 4.77 pounds. Fourth place and $173 went to Brent Breznik of Fritch for his 4.45 pounds. Lucky Hank McWilliams of Borger finished 10th with 1.85 pounds and earned $173. For some fun fishing try Lake Meredith on Sept. 20.

Tech, UH to open SWC play tonight

LUBBOCK (AP) - Get ready, America, here comes the run-and-shoot.

The Houston Cougars, who spent three dark years out of sight but not out of mind, finally get to show off their high-powered offense to the nation in tonight's game with the Texas Tech Red Raiders.

Tech and the 18th-ranked Cougars, who are coming off probation that kept them off television and out of bowl games, kick off the Southwest Conference season on ESPN at 7:07 p.m. CDT.

The game will mark Houston's first nationally televised appearance in three years, and Cougars coach John Jenkins said he doesn't want his coming-out party spoiled by a tough Tech team guided by his buddy Spike Dykes.

"I want to be able to walk across the field and put my arm around him and tell him they'll get better," Jenkins said.

Dykes and Jenkins were both assistant coaches at Mississippi State in 1979.

But Tech linebacker Charlie Rowe said he fears there will be nothing friendly about the Cougars tonight. He said he thinks they'll want to show off.

"They are going to try to show the country what the run-and-shoot is all about," Rowe said. "Hopefully, they won't be able to use us as an example."

The scoreboard-busting offense, masterminded by Jenkins, averaged 53.5 points and 511 yards passing last year.

Herd to test Palo Duro

By SAM WALLER

Sports Editor

Improvement will be the key Friday when the Hereford Whitefaces host Amarillo Palo Duro in the 1990 home opener for the Herd.

Herd coach Don Cumpston said for a better performance in all areas after last week's 14-0 loss to Amarillo Tascosa.

"We need to improve a little bit every where this week," Cumpston said. "What try to do is get better with each game. If we go out and play the kind of game we're capable of, the score will take care of itself."

Cumpston said he expects to use several players as was the case against Tascosa.

"We're going to play a lot of people," he said. "We're still trying to find out about a couple of positions. But it's like I said back before the season started, we have the luxury of five games before district so we can take a little longer look at some people."

The Dons come into the game off a 20-7 win over Odessa High. Cumpston said that while PD may not be the explosive unit that beat the Herd 34-7 last year, it will still take an error-free game to win.

"We've got to control the ball on offense and keep the ball away from them," he said, "and we can't afford to give up the big play on defense. If we can do that, we'll have a chance to win."

Palo Duro's multiple offense is led by quarterback Donald Shanklin and fullback Shawn Jones. Shanklin rushed for 129 yards against Odessa, including touchdowns of 73 and 2 yards, while Jones carried for 130 yards with a 4-yard score. Cumpston said shutting down the pair will be a major chore for the Herd defense.

"Shanklin is as good a quarterback as we'll see all year," he said. "As far as running the offense the way they want it done, he may be the best we line up against."

"Jones has played for them for three years and can carry the football. He averaged over 100 yards a game most of last year and had that much against Odessa."

Looking to break out

Hereford Whiteface tailback Matt Bromlow tries to elude the tackle of Amarillo Tascosa's Simmie Callahan (24) during last week's 14-0 loss to the Rebels. Bromlow and the rest of the Herd will try to get on the winning track Friday when Amarillo Palo Duro invades Whiteface Stadium for a 7:30 p.m. contest.

ChiSox fall to Tribe, drop 11 back of Oakland

By The Associated Press
It sounded like a concession speech from Carlton Fisk, the elder statesman of the Chicago White Sox. "We still have our guns, but we're out of bullets," Fisk said after the White Sox lost to Cleveland 12-2 Wednesday night and fell 11 games behind Oakland in the American League West with only 20 left. If you're counting, the Athletics' magic number is 10. "We just can't pack it in yet," Fisk said. "I don't think anyone here will. You want to finish respectably. But they have a huge lead, seemingly insurmountable. A lot of things that were working early in the season stopped working for us."

Oakland, which has doubled its lead since Sept. 1, trounced Seattle 9-3. In the AL East, Boston increased its lead over Toronto to four games with a 6-1 triumph over Milwaukee while the Blue Jays lost to Kansas City 7-5.

Elsewhere, it was Texas 5, New York 4; Baltimore 2, Detroit 1; California 8, Minnesota 6.

The White Sox lost for the sixth time in seven games as Cleveland rapped out 17 hits — four each by Brook Jacoby and Alex Cole plus homers by Stan Jefferson and Carlos Baerga — and Bud Black (11-10) won for the first time in more than a month by scattering eight hits.

Melido Perez (12-14) lost for the fourth time in five starts, yielding five runs and nine hits in 5 1-3 innings.

Athletics 9, Mariners 3
Rookie Dann Howitt's first major league hit, a tie-breaking triple, ignited Oakland's five-run sixth inning.

Scott Sanderson (16-9) combined with three relievers for a seven-hitter.

Howitt's triple off Mike Gardiner (0-1) broke a 3-3 tie and Terry Steinbach added a two-run double in the sixth inning.

Ken Griffey Jr. drove in his 40-year-old father, Ken Sr., for the first time since Ken Sr. joined the Mariners on Aug. 29, hitting a two-run homer in the first inning.

Red Sox 6, Brewers 1
Mike Boddicker stopped Boston's skid with a seven-hitter and Ellis Burks and Carlos Quintana led a 13-hit attack with three singles each. Boddicker (15-8) struck out three and didn't walk a batter. Milwaukee's Teddy Higuera (10-7) gave up all the Boston runs and 12 hits in six innings.

Burks had RBI singles in the first and fifth innings, Luis Rivera hit a two-run single in the third and Carlos Quintana and Wade Boggs had RBI singles in the sixth.

Royals 7, Blue Jays 5
Bo Jackson drove in four runs, three with a first-inning homer, and George Brett had two triples among his four hits.

Mark Davis, who led the majors with 44 saves a year ago, went two scoreless innings for his sixth save and first since May 7.

Jackson's towering three-run homer gave Tom Gordon (11-10) a 3-0 lead. Brett's triple in the fifth was followed by Jackson's double.

Cone comes through in clutch as Mets hold off Pittsburgh, 2-1

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer
David Cone's success in the clutch against the middle of the Pittsburgh lineup has the New York Mets alive and hoping to sweep the Pirates tonight.

"Cone seemed to be a man on a mission," Pittsburgh manager Jim Leyland said after the right-hander pitched a three-hitter Wednesday night. "He wasn't going to let us beat him."

Not Bobby Bonilla, not Barry Bonds. Both were beaten by Cone, who made a two-run first inning stand up all night as the Mets held on for a 2-1 victory.

"Had they lost?"
"If we lost this game, we were dead," New York's Frank Viola said. Tonight, Doug Drabek will try to become Pittsburgh's first 20-game winner in 13 years. Dwight Gooden (16-6) goes for the Mets.

The Pirates, who could afford the luxury of a loss, were relaxed after Wednesday night's game.

"When you come into the clubhouse after losing 2-1 and still with a 21-game lead, you can't be too devastated," said Bonilla, who drove in Pittsburgh's only run with a bases-loaded walk in the third inning.

"I was flirting with disaster in the third inning," Cone said.

Indeed, he allowed a single to losing pitcher John Smiley, who nearly matched Cone pitch for pitch before settling for a five-hitter.

Cone walked Jay Bell, Andy Van Slyke and Bonilla to force in a run.

But Cone toughened in the face of disaster and got Bonds to pop out to end the inning.

Elsewhere, it was San Francisco 8, Atlanta 3; Chicago 9, Philadelphia 3; Montreal 6, St. Louis 2; Houston 3, Cincinnati 1 in 13 innings, and Los Angeles 10, San Diego 3.

Cone (12-8) improved to 5-0 lifetime against the Pirates, striking out eight and walking four.

The victory was especially sweet for the Mets, who entered the fray against left-hander Smiley (8-9) having won just one of their last eight games against southpaws.

The Mets won on a two-run double by Dave Magadan following a walk to Gregg Jefferies and a single by Keith Miller.

Astros 3, Reds 1
Mike Simms' first major league hit knocked in the go-ahead run in the 13th inning.

Simms, who replaced Glenn Davis at first base in the 12th, singled to center off Tim Layana (5-3) to score Eric Yelding. Layana wild-pitched in another run. Juan Agosto (7-7) pitched 12-3 innings for the victory, with Brian Meyer getting the last out for his first save.

Dodgers 10, Padres 3
Pinch-hitter Kal Daniels broke a tie with a three-run double in the eighth inning and Eddie Murray homered and scored four runs.

Hubie Brooks scored three runs and both Murray and Lenny Harris had three of 16 hits by the Dodgers.

The decisive rally began with one out when Murray singled off reliever Altee Hammaker (4-8). After Murray went to second on Hammaker's balk, Brooks was intentionally walked. Mike Scioscia singled, loading the bases and forcing Hammaker from the game. Greg Harris came on, but Daniels hit a drive down the right field line to clear the bases.

Giants 8, Braves 3
Matt Williams hit a three-run homer and rookie John Burkett pitched San Francisco to its eighth straight victory over Atlanta.

Burkett (12-7) allowed 10 hits in 7 2-3 innings.

Williams' 30th homer came in the first inning, ending the hot spell of Charlie Leibrandt (8-9), who came into the game with three straight victories and a streak of 25 consecutive innings without giving up an earned run.

Brett Butler and Mike Laga added solo homers.

Cubs 9, Phillies 3
Chicago's Andre Dawson had a two-run single to highlight a six-run first inning and Ryne Sandberg tied for the league lead with his 34th homer.

The Cubs used three walks, four singles and an error against Jose DeJesus (5-7).

Sandberg tied San Francisco's Kevin Mitchell for the league lead with a two-run homer in the fourth. One out later, Dawson hit his 23rd.

Greg Maddux (13-13) went the first seven innings.

Expos 6, Cardinals 2
Rookie Delino DeShields drove in a career-high four runs to support Oil Can Boyd.

Boyd (10-5) pitched seven innings, allowing two runs on five hits.

DeShields had an RBI single off Bob Tewksbury (10-6) in the first to extend his team-high hitting streak to 14 games. DeShields drove in two runs with a double in the third and hit his fourth homer, a solo shot off Frank DiPino, in the fifth.

Cumpton added that pair has become the focal point of the PD attack.

"They are much more quarterback-and fullback-oriented in their offense than they were last year. They don't have that great breakaway tailback they had last year in Michael Westmoreland, so we'll see a lot more option from them.

"What they're trying to do is get the ball in Shanklin's hands as much as possible."

On defense, Cumpton said the Dons are weaker in the secondary, but as strong as ever up front.

"They don't seem to be as physical in the secondary as they were last year," he said. "Three of their four starters back there last year signed college scholarships, so they've got some holes to fill. On the line, I couldn't tell any difference. They could be the best we'll see."

Injury Report: WR Sean Jones (hand) and TE Derek Mason (collar bone) will not play. OL Ralph Martinez (knee) returns and is expected to start. QB Richard Sanderson has been plagued by a virus during the week, but is expected to play.

Lightning facts given

Here are some facts that may give you more than a flash of insight about lightning. They come from renowned physicist Bernard Vonnegut, a member of the Meteorological Society of America:

The flash of lightning you see starts from the ground and travels up into the clouds. Each lightning stroke contains some 20,000 amperes of electrical current, about what 100 modern households would consume with every possible electrical appliance turned on.

Lightning begins when the electrical attraction between cloud and ground reaches ten to 50 million volts. At this point, a thin filament of a charge flicks toward earth, scouting out an electrical pathway through the atmosphere. When this powerful charge nears the ground, an opposite charge darts up to meet it. When the two make contact, cloud and earth are electrically connected by a thin channel of ionized air.

At that moment, a huge gush of electrical current explodes from ground to cloud in a bright column of raw electricity. This massive flow of current is termed a return stroke.

The entire process takes only about 1/20th of a second. It may seem longer, but that's because where there's one stroke of lightning there are often others right behind, giving the impression of one, long-lasting flash.

Lightning is very dangerous and kills more people each year than tornadoes and hurricanes combined. If you're caught in an electrical storm, avoid trees, towers or high spots—those are the places closest to the cloud. If you're in the open, squat with feet together and never lie down—these measures reduce chances of an electrical charge passing through your body. The old rumor that a car is the safest place to be during an electrical storm is absolutely true.

CLEVELAND (AP) - Many business executives and managers who have lost their jobs because of company mergers, buyouts or restructuring are finding new careers as their own bosses in "white collar franchises."

Gregory P. Muzzillo, president of ProForma Inc., a business products franchisor, says 35 percent of all U.S. franchise operations today are run by former management executives. Many come from banking, retailing, electronics and other industries hard-hit by corporate layoffs, he says.

Franchises, according to Muzzillo, currently account for about 34 percent of all retail sales in the United States.

Know facts about hot weather food myths

Little Red Riding Hood has carried her picnic basket through the thickets of popular imagination for some time. She's been around since 1697 when Charles Perrault, a French noble at the court of Louis XIV first published his Tales of Mother Goose.

Like all tales, the story has become entrenched through repetition.

Misinformation spreads the same way. So USDA's Meat and Poultry Hotline staff is standing in for the woodsmen to chop down some mischievous modern "tales" that cause trouble in summertime food handling.

The trouble we're referring to is the possibility of bacterial foodborne illness—the menace represented here by the wolf.

MYTH 1. It's summer—you can take a vacation, and relax your food safety principles!

Actually, reports of foodborne illness rise during the hazy, lazy days of summer, so you shouldn't relax when preparing food. But with a few precautions you can enjoy a safe picnic.

Be sure to keep all food preparation areas clean. Special care must be taken to ensure that food is kept cold, or hot enough to slow the growth of any bacteria present. And foods should be thoroughly cooked.

MYTH 2. There are some foods you just can't take on a picnic.

If the time between leaving home and serving the picnic is under two hours, and you plan for proper cold or hot storage on the trip, you can take most any food on a picnic.

Perishable foods like meat and poultry need more care, of course, and highly perishable foods like cream pies or custards may be difficult to transport.

But with a good insulated cooler, and lots of ice or other cold sources, your picnic can safely include such foods as potato salad, deviled eggs or cream cheese dip.

MYTH 3. Any food containing mayonnaise is more likely to cause illness.

While all mayonnaise-based salads should be kept on ice, the mayo that you buy at the store is not a food safety villain. It's been pasteurized, and, actually, its high acid content slows bacterial growth. But homemade mayonnaise, which uses raw eggs, is never safe, not even for at-home consumption.

MYTH 4. Packing cold food into a cooler is all you need to do to ensure safety when transporting it.

It's not enough to just put foods into the cooler. Packing the food directly from the refrigerator is a good start, but you must also include a cold source.

The commercial "blue jell" is a good choice, but you can also freeze water in containers to use as an ice block. Boxed juices can be frozen to provide an excellent cold source and an icy cold drink at the picnic. Ice cubes, cold fruit and even frozen food like hamburgers and hot dogs, that will thaw enroute or before grilling, can also be used to keep your food cold.

MYTH 5. You don't need to worry about taking carry-out food like fried chicken to a picnic since it's already cooked.

Cooked food also requires special care, especially if the food is warm. Bacteria that can cause illness can be introduced to food just by handling. This bacteria can grow rapidly in warm temperatures.

If the chicken will be served and eaten within two hours, it's okay to pick it up on the way to the outing.

But, if serving will not be for several hours, it's better to purchase the chicken well in advance of the picnic, and chill it thoroughly. Then pack it in the cooler and eat it cold.

MYTH 6. Hard-cooked eggs are great to take on a hike because they don't need to be refrigerated.

Even though the shell of an egg does provide some protection for the interior, you shouldn't rely on it.

Hard-cooking the egg will kill any bacteria, such as salmonella, that may be in the raw egg. But, there are other bacteria that grow well on cooked food. Cracks in the shell, even too small to see, can allow bacteria into the inside of the egg.

Once inside the shell, the bacteria can grow well, and rapidly on the egg's protein surface, and could cause illness. That's the last thing you'd want on a hike!

Keep hard-cooked eggs on ice and in a cooler or cold-pack. Carry eggs on a hike only if you'll be eating them with two hours of leaving the base camp.

MYTH 7. Dirt and pesticides can be removed from fresh vegetables by washing with soap and water.

Soap or detergent should not be used to wash vegetables and fruits. Very little pesticide residue, if any, actually remains on fruits and vegetables, but what might be there can be effectively washed off with only water and, perhaps, a vegetable brush.

Household detergents have not been approved for use on food items.

OUR COMMITMENT TO HEREFORD AND OUR GROWERS MEANS BREAKING NEW GROUND.

And that's what we did today in Hereford. By starting construction of a new $12 million facility at our Hereford factory, Holly Sugar is building for the future. Yours and ours.

This new facility with its new process technology will recover pure sugar which was previously lost in the molasses by-product stream. For Hereford, that means new jobs, more payroll and additional tax revenue. Most important, it demonstrates our confidence in the area's beet sugar industry.

Holly Sugar broke new ground the first time in 1964 when the Hereford factory was built and we began a new industry for Hereford area growers.

Twenty five years later, that commitment was renewed by Imperial Holly when it acquired and merged Holly with Imperial of Sugar Land, Texas. The combined Imperial Holly Corporation, with eight beet sugar factories and the cane sugar refinery at Sugar land, is now one of the strongest and best balanced sugar companies in the United States and ranks among the Fortune 500 industrial corporations.

We believe this is proof positive that our dedication to our growers is as solid as ever and that Imperial Holly will lead the way in breaking new ground to meet the challenges of the future.

Imperial Holly understands that success is not measured just by achieving production and profit objectives. Indeed, it depends on a determination to break new ground, dig deeper and create progress. And by achieving our own success, we ensure yours...now and in the future.

Make your home safe for latchkey children

School is back in session, and for many children that means spending time at home alone once the school day ends.

National estimates indicate that as many as 15 million children ages 6-13 are at home by themselves some time of the day. Child care experts believe there are at least one million latchkey children in Texas, but accurate figures don't exist.

"That's because parents are reluctant to admit that their children spend time at home alone," said Dr. Sarah Anderson, family life specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "They fear being seen as unfit parents. So, you get invalid statistics on latchkey children in the state."

Latchkey children who are victims of violent crimes or kidnapping make the headlines, but these cases are rare, Anderson said. National figures show that fires and accidents at home are the greatest threat, taking the lives of 4,000 children (many of them unsupervised) each year.

Parents who allow children to take care of themselves after school can do a number of things to help ensure their safety. Anderson suggested following these tips:

* Arriving home -- If children walk home from school, tell them to walk with friends and never take alternative routes. They should always come straight home. Also, instruct your child not to go inside if the door is open or unlocked.

* Keys -- Instruct children to keep their house keys hidden inside a pocket, purse or wallet. Make sure all doors and windows can be locked and the child knows how to unlock them.

* Safety rules -- Establish and post house safety rules regarding answering the telephone and door, playing and using appliances. Put all dangerous items out of reach of children. Check electrical cords for bare wires and broken plugs and make sure children cannot trip over them.

* Emergencies -- Post a list of emergency numbers and addresses near each telephone and make sure the phones are accessible to the child. Practice emergency procedures for fires and tornadoes. Be sure a smoke detector is on each level of your home, and that all smoke detectors have batteries and are working properly.

* Check-in -- Designate an adult for children to check in with when they arrive home from school. Also, you may want your child to call you at work.

* Friends -- Do not allow friends to visit when the child is home alone. Unsupervised play may lead to accidents.

* Quality Time -- When parents are home, time should be spent with children. Listen to their problems and answer questions.

"All children need to develop personal safety skills to protect themselves," Anderson said. "If children understand all the family rules and know about safety, both parents and children will feel more secure and comfortable."

However, parents should keep looking for alternatives to leaving children in self-care, she said. More communities are establishing options for latchkey kids.

Anderson advises checking with your local county Extension Service agent for more information on safety, self-care and alternatives for children at home alone.

Whether you're buying a new home—or want a new one at the old address—check to see if the builder or remodeler uses quality materials.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Readers: The first years of a child's life mean buying baby beds, high chairs, strollers, car seats, toys and more. All of these should be selected carefully with a child's safety in mind.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and the Juvenile Products Manufacturers Association want you to be aware of Baby Safety Week, September 9-15, 1990. They are offering two very important pamphlets: "Tips for Your Baby's Safety," a checklist, and "Protect Your Child." To receive these free pamphlets, just send a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to the Office of Information and Public Affairs, CPSC, Washington, DC 20207.

Some of the information covered is the proper spacing of crib slats, mattresses that fit snugly in the baby's bed so the child can't become wedged between the mattress and the crib sides, and protective safety straps on high chairs, strollers and walkers. There are so many important and informative tips in these pamphlets, every parent should have one.

Babies are precious, defenseless little beings and they need to be protected from dangerous situations and products. Educate yourself to better care for your children. Don't be the one who says "I didn't know." — Heloise

STIFF TOWELS

Q. I purchased some new towels and washcloths. I have been washing them with my regular detergent but they are getting stiff.

In your years of experience, have you discovered any solution to this problem? — Carol Fuller, Las Vegas, Nev.

A. There could be several reasons, the main one being a detergent buildup. Overloading the washer and using too much detergent make it impossible for the towels to be rinsed well. Try using less detergent, hotter water and fewer towels per wash load.

To help remove the detergent buildup in the towels, wash them in very hot water with baking soda, borax or washing soda and add a cup or so of vinegar to the rinse water. Doing this every so often will keep those towels soft and fluffy. — Heloise

BABY YARN

Dear Heloise: I use empty tall potato-chip containers to put my small skeins of baby yarn in. I cut a small hole in the lid and pull the yarn out from the center of the skein, put the lid back on. No more tangled yarn!

I store these containers of yarn in a 1-liter empty cardboard wine box which holds 12 neatly. — E.B.J., Hanover, Pa.

GIFT WRAP

Dear Heloise: One day I ran out of gift wrap, so I improvised. I used a sheet of aluminum foil and a sheet of colored plastic wrap.

Garden tips given at meeting

Ruby Carmichael gave tips on drying flowers to members of the Garden Beautiful Club recently.

Louise Axe, hostess, and co-hostesses Doris Bryant, and Margaret Young served breakfast to 14 members.

Axe suggested that members send a new yearbook to Mrs. Charlie Hood, a long time member who has moved to Colorado. Hood's book, telling her life story and picturing life in Texas during the early part of the century, will be remembered by many.

President Jeanne Dowell asked for volunteers to drive King's Manor Methodist Home residents shopping this month.

The next meeting will be in the home of Bessie Story on Oct. 5. There will be an auction sale to raise money for the club.

Members present were Axe, Bryant, Carmichael, Marguerite Cole, Kottie Darden, Audine Dettmann, Dowell, Hilda Havens, Nadine Hill, Camelia Jones, Dorothy Noland, Helen Spinks, Story and Young.

Chamber singers to audition

The Hereford Chamber Singers will hold auditions for new members for the 1990-91 season Sunday, Sept. 16, at 4 p.m. in the Hereford High School choir room.

All adult citizens of the area who enjoy singing in a choir and are willing to practice each Sunday evening from 8-10 are invited to come.

Auditions consist of singing the person's preferred part in a quartet situation. No preparation of a musical selection prior to the audition is required.

For more information call Bobby or Bera Boyd after 4 p.m. Monday-Friday or all day Saturday at 364-5345. Jan Walser is serving as director of the Hereford Chamber Singers.

Air show scheduled Sept. 22

On Saturday, Sept. 22, Cannon Air Force Base in Clovis, will hold an annual Community Appreciation Day. The base will be open to the public from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. with special performance by the aerial demonstration team, the Air Force Thunderbirds. The six F-16 Falcon jet fighters begin the show at 2 p.m.

A variety of military aircraft will be on display on the flightline throughout the day. Fighter, bomber, and training aircraft will be displayed. In addition, there will be flying demonstrations by F-15 and F-111 aircraft.

Admission is free. There will be plenty of food, drink, and parking available.

More interest may mean fewer problems

A better planet for children: That theme, signalling a call for action to protect our environment for the well-being of future generations, was chosen for this year's observance of World Environment Day (WED).

The annual event, sponsored by the United Nations Environment Program, is celebrated on all the earth's continents with the goal of raising public awareness on the basic elements of the environment affecting human survival. This year's festivities, held on June 5, in Mexico City, included:

-Placing a time capsule in Mexico City's Chapultepec Park, to remain sealed until June 5, 2000. The stone time capsule—houses inspiring environmental messages from world leaders such as Pope John Paul II, President George Bush and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev, as well as artifacts that reflect the status of today's environment.

-Reports to Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari and leading scientists from Mexican youngsters who took part in special children's research expeditions on the state of the environment in four regions of Mexico. Twelve young people between eight and 14 years old served as observers during four expeditions. Working under the guidance of leading Mexican conservationists, botanists, zoologists and biologists, the young explorers learned, experienced and evaluated the environmental ingredients in each of the four regions, including the Pacific, Atlantic and Caribbean coasts as well as mountains, lakes and cities throughout the nation, to improve their understanding of the fragile relationship between man and nature. They called on adults to plant more trees and protect wildlife.

-Planting over two million trees across Mexico as part of President Salinas' reforestation program. His goal is to plant 32 million trees annually in Mexico. The special tree planting ceremonies on World Environment Day were attended by WED dignitaries, Mexican government representatives, Ambassadors of the Americas, celebrities and children who "adopted" a tree and learned what it takes for trees to prosper in their local environment.

-Naming 74 new laureates for the Global 500 Award. They were chosen for their concrete local achievements in protecting and preserving the natural resources of the planet. The laureates represent every region of the world and cover every field of environmental endeavor.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been taking red and white pills for my emphysema from a doctor in Mexico. My face has been swollen and my blood pressure has gone from 130/70 to 160/90. I went to a doctor here and he advised me to go back to this doctor in Mexico as the pills had a lot of cortisone in them.
I can't afford to go back to Mexico now. I have been cutting down on this medicine a little at a time. Is there a better way to come down off this high? The doctor here said it would kill me if I quit all at once.
DEAR READER: Cortisone, prednisone and related adrenal steroids are wonderful and often lifesaving medicines, but they can also be dangerous and cause many problems. The trick is knowing when to use them and how much should be used. There are medical situations when, despite the bad effects of large doses of these medicines, it is a necessity to use them to prevent worse problems.
I don't know why you needed cortisone, but it is not normally used for emphysema. Prednisone, a synthetic medicine with fewer complications, is often used in asthma. Cortisone is more likely to cause you to retain sodium and water, resulting in an increase in blood pressure.
One of the most dangerous complications of large doses of the adrenal steroids, such as cortisone, is that the adrenal cortex itself simply quits functioning. Then when the medicine is stopped, you have adrenal insufficiency. The cells in the glands that produce this vital hormone may atrophy. It is essential to get the adrenal gland functioning again. Sudden stopping of a large dose of adrenal steroids can indeed be life threatening.
I have discussed the dangers of adrenal steroids in Special Issue 34-04, Your Vital Adrenal Steroids (Corticosteroids). I am sending you a free copy. Others who want this issue can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/34-04, P.O. Box 787, Gibbstown, NJ 08027-9908.

FIGHTING STREP THROAT

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) - Children with strep throat need a little time to build up their own defenses against the infection before getting the necessary antibiotics, says Dr. Michael Pichichero.

Pichichero, a University of Rochester researcher, says, "Unless your child is very sick, your doctor should wait 48 hours before giving penicillin." The delay allows a child to develop immunity to the infection and lessens the risk it will get strep throat again soon.

Pichichero found that eight out of 59 children who got immediate treatment got sick again within four months while only one of 55 children with delayed treatment became ill.

Children's health remedies given

Children's Health

Do you know how to soothe chicken pox with a bath? How to ease colic with massage? What to brew for and upset stomach? A new book provides natural, drug-free health care, answers for many of our children's problems.

While urging parents to consult with doctors for serious, complicated or long-term medical problems, "Natural Medicine for Children" offers alternative health remedies that can be applied immediately.

- For example:
- * Children with chicken pox may feel better if bathed in water containing tea made from peppermint (the plant, not the candy).
 - * Soothe a colicky infant by gently massaging his back and abdomen with a little baby oil or olive oil before feedings.
 - * Restless newborns may benefit from being thoroughly wrapped-swaddled in their blankets.
 - * Mild sunburn can be relieved by applying sliced tomatoes.
 - * Hay fever symptoms may be eased in children over seven with visualization. Sit with your child in a peaceful and quiet place with eyes shut. Ask him or her to imagine a scene of cool mountains and breathing in pure air. Spend about five to ten minutes at this.

* Ease a sore throat with a gargle made from a tiny amount of herb sage which has been soaked in a mixture of water and a drop of brandy.

* Red and sore eyes may benefit if treated with hard boiled egg whites placed over each closed eye for ten minutes.

* Zinc and castor oil ointment can soothe and cool an infant's skin in cases of diaper rash. Let the area be exposed to air as much as possible, too.

In the comprehensive and practical guide, "Natural Medicine for Children," you can learn more about nature's own powerful remedies. Dr. Julian Scott demystifies the world's best-known alternative health remedies. He addresses diet, posture and hygiene, physical and emotional developments, danger signs and risk factors. He offers dozens of unique home prescriptions specially developed for children. "Natural Medicine for Children" is available in local bookstores.

Helpful hints for cleaning freezer

Few people include defrosting their freezer as a favorite summertime activity. However, home economists from Whirlpool Corporation suggest that you defrost and clean your freezer annually. There's no time like the present, they say.

So if your home freezer isn't a no-frost model, follow these cleaning tips:

- * Turn off and unplug the freezer.
- * Remove frozen food and store it for a few hours. Your best bets are in your refrigerator's freezer compartment or in a neighbor's freezer. Another method: Wrap food packages in several layers of newspaper, put it in a box or basket and cover it with a blanket (it will stay frozen for several hours.)

* Melt and remove the ice buildup. Caution: Use only a plastic scraper, pans of hot water or a hand-held hair dryer to speed melting. Never use an ice pick or other sharp tools, which can damage the freezer.

* Drain or remove all defrost water.

* Wash the inside and outside of the freezer with warm water and mild detergent. Rinse and dry thoroughly.

* Plug in unit and turn it on.

* Reload freezer with frozen items (be sure to wait until freezer has reached freezing before adding fresh items to be frozen).

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Fans at a Toto concert over the weekend were infuriated when they discovered the band was not the Grammy-winning group whose hits included "Rosanna" and "Africa."

Singer Bobby Kimball, who left the group in 1984, and a few other musicians performed at The Starry Night club, said Ellen Lynch, a spokeswoman for Toto's management company.

Toto currently features guitarist Steve Lukather, brothers Jeff and Steve Porcaro and David Paich. All are original members.

Lynch said Monday that Kimball has used the band's name before.

"We've gotten reports all over the country, from Florida and now the Northwest and Europe," Lynch said. "As far as I know, he doesn't own any rights to the name. It's now become a huge legal matter."

Kimball's whereabouts were not immediately known.

Resisting chocolate aids in swimsuit competition

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - Giving up chocolate and working out five days a week with a physical trainer was the winning combination that helped Miss Florida Dana Rinehart Dalton win the second of three preliminary swimsuit competitions in the Miss America Pageant.

Miss Dalton, who at 5-foot-9 is one of this year's taller contestants, said winning was overwhelming.

"I'm not the super-thin girl that usually wins swimsuit," said the 122-pound Miss Dalton.

"I had a chocolate cookie when I walked back to the dressing room because I wanted something chocolate."

The 23-year-old Orlando resident is a senior at Rollins College, focusing on music and developing recreational programs for the elderly.

She captured top honors in Wednesday's preliminary swimsuit competition wearing a white swimsuit with a plunging back and criss-cross neckline.

The green-eyed brunette said she jogs, swims, bicycles and trains with weights to stay in shape.

"I had probably worked the hardest for this part of the competition," she said, adding she had a personal trainer since March.

Miss North Carolina Scarlet Morgan walked away Wednesday as the winner of that night's preliminary talent competition.

Miss Morgan, 22, of Pfafftown, N.C., sang from the classical opera

"Vissi D' Arte" in a 16th century electric-blue velvet Alice in Wonderland-style gown.

"I still cannot believe this," she said afterward.

Miss Morgan, who has had voice training for four years, said wants to become a professional opera singer because of the emotion of the music.

"For me, opera is just the ultimate. It's so expressive," she said. "There are just so many things involved in it."

The 5-foot-6, 115-pound contestant has black hair and green eyes. Adopted at seven weeks, she has listed adoption issues as part of the platform she would promote if she were to become Miss America.

"I feel that God has given each of us a special talent and he's given me the talent of song," she said.

The 50 Miss America hopefuls are divided into three groups, who compete in talent, swimsuit and evening gown divisions on three successive nights to qualify for Saturday's finals.

Wednesday was the second of three preliminary competitions in swimsuit, talent and evening gown categories. The winner of the evening gown competition is kept secret.

Miss Texas Suzanne Lawrence won the first of three talent competitions and Miss Colorado Karrie Mitchell won the first of three swimsuit competitions in the Tuesday night preliminary.
