Homes damaged by fires

Over $10,000 damage was done to a Hereford house on Thursday night, the second home fire in the Hereford area in less than 24 hours.

A child playing with a cigarette lighter in a closet touched off the blaze at 444 Ave. E at 6:56 p.m. Thursday. The house was owned by Alex Sermino of Hereford. His daughter, Judy Sermino, and her three children lived in the house.

Extensive damage was done to the house. There were no injuries, and Hereford volunteer firemen were at the fire for about two hours.

At 3 a.m. Thursday, a fire totally destroyed a frame house southeast of Hereford.

The house was owned by Luz Mendoza and had been occupied by Joe Sepeda. Fire Marshall Jay Spain said the fire started around a hot water heater. The house was totally consumed by the time the fire was called in.

Sepeda was not at home when the fire occurred. The house was located six miles east of Hereford on Austin Road, a mile south and a half-mile east.

Spain, one of three Panhandle-area leaders forming the area 9-1-1 network, said the network should be in effect here by January 1992. Spain said that much of the groundwork has already been done, including naming and numbering rural roads in most counties. The committee will be checking different types of computer equipment in the near future.

The network will allow all Panhandle residents to call 9-1-1 for law enforcement, fire and other emergency help.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says parents who are afraid to put their foot down have children who step on their toes.

Bub Sparks says his wife, Georgia, is a strong believer in paper recycling. "Every time she gets some money, she puts it right back into circulation."

Until there is an emergency, we sometimes take for granted the services of our medical personnel, volunteer firemen and law enforcement people. After the accident at Farr Better Feeds Wednesday, we've heard a number of complimentary statements about the work of emergency room personnel at Deaf Smith General Hospital, the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department, and city police.

We join others in the community in saluting these people for their dedicated service!

Mark your calendar for the next Fun Breakfast, Thursday, Sept. 20! George Warner Seed will be the sponsor for the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting. Warner is celebrating its 25th anniversary in Hereford. Emcees Charlie Bell and John Stagner are arranging a fun-filled morning, so be there!

Special plans for Deaf Smith County's 100th birthday party are on the front burner, and the Centennial Committee headed by Ruth McBride is cooking up some great activities for the special event on Oct. 6. A big parade, a special ceremony to unveil the bronze bust of Erastus "Deaf" Smith--the county's namesake, special programs at the county museum, and food booths around the courthouse square are some of the featured events for the birthday party. Look for plenty of details in The Brand!

Drill Team ready for action

The Hereford High School Drill Team has been busy through the summer preparing for halftime performances this year and other activities. The drill team will debut at Saturday's Hereford-Tascosa game at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

World effort pushed forward in embargo

By LISA GENASCI
Associated Press Writer

The global effort against Iraq strengthened today with more aid for victims of the Persian Gulf crisis, and Kuwait's exiled leaders promised to help underwrite U.S. forces in the region after the Saudis pledged billions of dollars.

Moscow said it favored establishing a U.N. peacekeeping force in the gulf and might have its troops participate in the effort to rein in Iraq's Saddam Hussein, whose army overran Kuwait five weeks ago and massed near the Saudi Arabian border.

Three British minchunters plied Egypt's Suez Canal today, heading for the Persian Gulf region where scores of U.S. and other warships are enforcing a U.N.-sanctioned embargo against the Baghdad government.

A U.S.-chartered Iraqi plane today shuttled another group of Americans from Kuwait to Baghdad and was to fly on to Amman, Jordan, a State Department spokesman said in Washington on condition of anonymity. He said he had no further details.

Hundreds of Western women and children held by Saddam as human shields in case of war have been allowed to leave Iraq after being delayed by visa paperwork. Also among a string of flights since last weekend, more than 250 arrived in London today.

More promises of aid were made today for desperate Asian and Arab refugees from Iraq and Kuwait stranded in a no man's land at the Jordanian border.

Japan said today it would send an additional $12 million to help evacuees. A day earlier, Britain earmarked $3.8 million more in refugee aid, bringing total British aid to $10 million.

European Community foreign ministers meeting in Rome today planned to consider emergency aid to Jordan, the Italian Foreign Ministry said.

CRISIS IN THE GULF

The Jordanian news agency Petra says more than 600,000 people have fled since Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2 in a dispute over oil, land and money.

Most have managed to leave Jordan, but relief officials said more than 100,000 Bangladeshis, Pakistanis, Indians, Sri Lankans, Thais and Filipinos remain in squalid camps that are running low on food, water and medicines.

Kuwait's exiled monarch, Jabir al-Sabah, told Secretary of State James A. Baker III today his government will help pay for the U.S. buildup in the gulf region "in order to restore my country to what it was before."

"We will not spare any amount or any value. We will give whatever is necessary," he told Baker at the royal mountain retreat in Taif, Saudi Arabia, about 50 miles east of Mecca. The emir did not immediately give a specific figure.

U.S. officials say the cost of the 100,000-strong American force in the region is about $1 billion a month. While Kuwait's royal family has lost control of its vast oil reserves it still has billions in assets worldwide.

In Saudi Arabia Thursday, Baker was promised that at a minimum, the Saudi government will pick up all fuel, water and transportation costs for American troops protecting the kingdom's oil fields from possible Iraqi aggression.

Bush plans direct appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush is appealing directly to the Iraqi people for support to end the Persian Gulf crisis as he renews a blistering attack on their president and prepares for a weekend superpower summit.

"We Americans should make something very clear - our argument is not with the people of Iraq," Bush told a Republican rally in Tallahassee, Fla., on Thursday night. "Rather it is with Iraq's dictator who uses innocent travelers as shields, who now, in direct contravention of international law, holds hostage civilians from many countries."

He said Iraqi President Saddam Hussein "must know that our policy ... will not be altered by his brazen blackmail" and that the United States will maintain its military buildup in the region and enforcement of the international economic sanctions against Iraq.

However, Bush told reporters traveling with him on a one-day political trip that he was glad for Saddam's offer of airtime to televise a message to the Iraqi people.

The president called it "a real opportunity." He has previously voiced a desire to take his case to the Iraqi people, as Saddam has done to Americans, with hours of his speeches and appearances broadcast live on U.S. news programs.

White House officials said Bush will tape a message of about 10 minutes, probably next Wednesday after his address Tuesday to a joint session of Congress on the Persian Gulf situation.

Press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said the White House would put together the tape and then have a State Department translation made. "We'll do the whole thing ourselves," he said in reference to the Iraqi offer of a TV crew to travel to Washington and interview Bush.

Iraqi Ambassador Mohamed al-Mashat said that "of course" Iraqi TV would air Bush's message "in its entirety without editing. Here you edit, in Iraq we do not edit."

Bush, Congress resume talks on stalled budget

WASHINGTON (AP) - Democratic and Republican budget negotiators say they agree on the amount of deficit reductions they need, but as their bargaining resumes they disagree strongly over how far to cut military spending.

After a five-week break for Congress' August recess, administration officials and congressional leaders resume their talks today at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland, just outside the capital. President Bush plans to attend the session.

"It is in the interest of every family here that we get a budget agreement," the president said Thursday at a political rally in Tallahassee, Fla. "I pledge to you and to every American taxpayer that I will not accept a budget agreement that is not fiscally sound and fundamentally fair."

The new fiscal year begins Oct. 1. Without some combination of spending cuts and tax increases, the administration estimates the budget gap will approach a record $250 billion, Republican officials said.

Unless a budget deal is enacted by then, the Gramm-Rudman law will impose about $100 billion in spending cuts in most domestic and defense programs. As a result, the bargainiers hope to wrap up a deal by Monday to give Congress time to enact it.

"The hope is to arrive at an agreement," said House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta, D-Calif.

Democrats and Republicans met separately in the Capitol Thursday to put finishing touches on the proposals they will begin swapping.

Leaders of both sides said they want to aim for packages cutting red ink by $50 billion next year and $500 billion over five years. Since Iraq's Aug. 2 conquest of Kuwait and the resulting oil price increases, some lawmakers have cautioned that the first-year figure should be lower for fear of driving the weakening economy into a recession. But important differences remained.

GOP officials, speaking on condition they not be identified, said their first offer would be similar to the $53 billion deficit-cutting measure the administration drew up in July.

It would include new taxes on alcoholic products and defense cuts of about $7 billion - several billion dollars less than Democrats prefer.

"I suspect the defense figure will fare better than it otherwise would have had there not been a crisis in the Middle East," said House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill.

Democrats talked of a package that would take a deeper slice out of the Pentagon, more akin to their earlier proposals of $9 billion to $16 billion cuts. They said they were reluctant to add the costs of the U.S. Middle East military buildup - about $1 billion monthly - into the long-range spending plan.

"It comes more under the head of emergency conditions than of regular planning for the future," said House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash.

Foley, House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., and Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, said they wanted a budget plan that also encouraged economic growth, protected social programs, contained progressive taxes and pushed the United States toward energy security.

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said he favored energy production incentives. Sen. Pete Domenici of New Mexico, ranking Republican on the Senate Budget Committee, said new taxes and tax incentives on energy were a possibility.

Divisions remained within GOP ranks. Conservative Rep. Newt Gingrich of Georgia, the No. 2 House Republican, continued to call for tax cuts to spur the economy.

NASA will replace fuel pump on shuttle

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - NASA plans to replace a softball-sized fuel pump this weekend to get shuttle Columbia ready for a fourth try at carrying an astronomical observatory into space in mid-September.

"This has been a troublesome and vexing summer for me and for NASA," Richard Truly, NASA's administrator, said Thursday. "But let me just remind everybody that running the space program ... is not an ordinary business. We push the boundaries of human activity, flying in space, and it's a hard job."

The new target date for the three-scrubbed launch will be early in the week of Sept. 17. That, Truly said, will let the Astro mission proceed without affecting the next flight, which must begin between Oct. 5 and Oct. 23.

Space engineers, following a vapor trail of clues, said the pump was the leading suspect for the hydrogen leaks that canceled Thursday's scheduled launch. They will not be sure until they open the aft compartment of the shuttle on Saturday and remove a "package" that includes three of the pumps, one for each engine.

The swap itself will take only two days, according to officials, but retesting and all the other steps required before a countdown can begin will take up the rest of the week.

All along, NASA has said that Columbia must be on its way before Sept. 14, so that launch crews can turn their attention to Discovery, sitting on a neighboring launch pad.

But the officials say now that was a "soft" date, subject to change. In any event, the Discovery flight is likely to be delayed several days because of a problem in its cooling system.

Discovery will carry into orbit a space probe that then will be launched toward the sun, with a velocity boost gained by flying past the planet Jupiter. Only in the 19-day period will the alignment of Earth and Jupiter permit that boost.

Columbia's leak problem first surfaced on May 29 while the shuttle was being fueled for the first attempt to launch the $150 million Astro observatory. After scrubbing the flight, engineers thought the hydrogen leaked from a plumbing connector between the orbiter and its fuel tank.

Hydrogen also was detected in the aft compartment. William Lenoir, head of NASA's space flight program, said engineers concluded at the time "that perhaps half that leak was drawn into the aft compartment and the other part went external."

He said engineers found no separate cause for the leak in the compartment, which houses a maze of pipes, valves and pumps.

Endangered wildlife revived from S&L debris

WASHINGTON (AP) - Amid the debris of the savings and loan crisis, the gold-plated faucets in the glitzy hotel and condominium developments that went bust, lie some simpler properties inhabited by rare birds and other non-paying tenants.

The multibillion-dollar S&L scandal has intruded on the world of nature, as the shock waves set off by the crisis create ripples in some quiet ponds tucked away in nature preserves.

At least one congressman and a number of environmentalists are worried about the impact of the thrift bailout on S&L properties seized by the government that are considered to have significant environmental value.

At the same time, the environmental activists see the government's control of those lands as a rare opportunity for promoting conservation.

The Resolution Trust Corp., the agency set up last year to take over and dispose of failed thrift institutions, has under its control 2,600 S&L properties believed to have important environmental, historical, recreational or scientific value.

They range from natural habitats of endangered wildlife to "pocket parks" in cities and towns. A group of properties, for example, lies in the Balcones Canyonlands, an area west of Austin, Texas, that is home to several endangered songbirds and other species.

The 2,600 parcels, many of them situated in Texas, Arizona, California and Florida, are a small proportion of the 36,000 or so S&L properties under the RTC's control - but they can stir strong emotions.

"We're trying to protect them," Rep. Bruce F. Vento, D-Minn., said in an interview. "Some of them never should have been developed in the first place."

Vento, chairman of a House task force on the RTC, scheduled a hearing for today on the issue. Representatives of the trust, the Interior Department and environmental groups were expected to testify.

Some of the properties were commercially developed when they were in private hands, since the laws governing land use are relatively lenient when assets are privately owned.

Now that they are under government control and subject to stricter regulations, environmentalists and historic preservationists want to seize the chance to protect them and to add some conditions to their future sale.

"It's the greatest opportunity of the century to protect important environmental lands," said Richard Lowerre, a project director at the Texas Center for Policy Studies in Austin.

The RTC, on the other hand, is charged with protecting taxpayers by getting as much money as it can for the thrift assets it sells. Restrictions against commercial development on land tend to sharply reduce its market value.

The conflicting goals apparently have created a bureaucratic standoff.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the RTC have drafted an agreement under which the service, part of the Interior Department, would review the RTC's inventory of properties. The service would then recommend conservation restrictions on the use of properties that are considered environmentally sensitive.

The agreement was scheduled to be signed by officials from both agencies on Aug. 3, but it was put on hold indefinitely.

Social services slash Speaker

AUSTIN (AP) - Two social service advocates who were critical of the Texas Legislature say they consider a letter they received from House Speaker Gib Lewis a threat of possible retaliation.

In a copyright story, the Austin American-Statesman reported today that Lewis sent letters to advocates for elderly, disabled and mentally ill Texans telling them they shouldn't criticize the speaker and the legislature.

The three advocates had been quoted in a recent newspaper article as saying that the Texas Legislature has more pressing needs than keeping the Southwest Conference intact.

Lewis told The Associated Press late Thursday that it was "a story fabricated by the Austin American-Statesman" and the quotes from his letter were taken out of context.

He promised to provide the AP with a copy of the letter Friday and also promised to provide a copy of a letter from one of the persons quoted in the story who said they were misquoted in the original story, which ran in the American-Statesman on Aug. 21.

Lewis did not deny writing the letters, but said the newspaper "just created a story."

The original story discussed lawmakers' quick response to reports that the University of Texas and Texas A&M University were considering leaving the SWC. Lewis promised to do "everything in my power" to keep the athletic conference together and to slash the academic budgets of departing schools.

The Austin newspaper reported that on Aug. 22 Lewis wrote the letters to Bob Kafka, spokesman for the coalition of Texans with Disabilities; Mary Dees, spokeswoman for the Texas Mental Health Consumers; Genevieve Hearon, a board member of the National Alliance for the Mentally III; and Rosie Torres, spokeswoman for the Texas Alliance for Human Needs. Of the four, only Kafka directly criticized Lewis.

Ms. Dees, Ms. Hearon and Ms. Torres received letters from Lewis. Kafka is believed to have received a copy, but is in Colorado and has not checked his post office mailbox.

"In my opinion, there is little room in the legislative process for those who so irresponsibly attempt to mislead the public about the Legislature's position and accomplishments on issues as important as the ones espoused by your organization," Lewis wrote.

"I intend to continue my efforts as a staunch advocate of the issues that affect the lives of elderly, disabled and mentally afflicted Texans," the speaker's letter stated. "Unfortunately, I will have to do so without the benefit of insight from your organization."

"It is unfortunate that you felt compelled to intervene in this matter," Lewis continued. "I regret the taint your association must now bear with members of the Legislature as a result of your actions."

Although he has not personally seen a copy of the letter, Kafka said, "It's a threat and not even a veiled threat - it's an open threat. What he's saying is, 'I'm in power and you're nothing. Unless you kiss my ring, you're not going to get an audience.'"

Ms. Hearon said she thinks the letter was meant "to intimidate and terrorize and bully."

Lewis' letter will not deter her, Ms. Hearon said.

"I get more tenacious," she said. "I have free speech, and it's a free country."

The other two advocates declined to criticize Lewis.

"I respect his position as speaker," Ms. Dees said. "It was not intended as personal criticism then, and it's not my intention to personally criticize him now."

"I responded to his letter," said Ms. Torres. "I don't want to discuss it, really."

Two key legislators describe the exchange between Lewis and the advocates as no more than a temporary flare-up.

"That's a heat-of-the-moment response," said Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, chairman of the Senate Health and Human Services Committee. "I don't think he's going to try to shut anybody out."

"The criticism that came out obviously angered him to some extent, and I can understand how he might feel that way," Brooks added. "He might wish he'd phrased this a little differently, and I suspect the advocates may have wished they crafted their phrases a bit differently, too."

Rep. Jack Vowell, R-El Paso, who oversees human services budgets for the House Appropriations Committee, said he seriously doubts Lewis will retaliate against the advocates.

"I've never known him to carry a grudge," Vowell said. "I just can't believe that because of someone's criticism, he would do anything to hurt or harm any kind of program that is important to the state."

Bob Crawford, associate insurance commissioner in charge of the financial division, was demoted to director of field examinations. Billie Smith, director of field examinations, was demoted to an examiner, according to Saxton.

"As far as Pacer was concerned, some directions given to the group were not followed," Saxton said. "Who knows if we had done more with American Pacer three months earlier, we might have saved some dollars. We might not have saved either, you don't know," he said.

"I think what happened is we had some ideologues who hit the panic button," Vento said. Some government officials apparently feared that an environmental review would result in all the properties being put under strong conservation measures, he suggested.

In fact, Vento said, what his panel is seeking is "compatible use" of the RTC properties. Some could be sold to state and local governments, he said, while others could be bought by private developers, with some protective conservation measures included as a condition of sale.

"While the primary purpose of the RTC is to produce some return on the sale of failed S&L assets, it should not blindly sell these properties without first properly identifying the cultural, historical, recreational and scientific values," Vento said. "The absence of such review would be wasteful and would rob the American public of significant resources."

Problems plague insurance board; DA investigates insurer

AUSTIN (AP) - Problems in regulating the state insurance industry continue to plague the State Board of Insurance, which called for a criminal investigation into a failed Dallas insurance company.

The board on Thursday also demoted two high-level regulators for not investigating the company fast enough and called for a complete overhaul of the agency's policies for examining insurance companies.

State insurance officials were under fire last year for the record failure of Dallas-based National County Mutual. As the controversy unfolded, several high-level insurance board staff members resigned and the entire board was eventually replaced.

"Delay, hesitancy, poor communication and reluctance to take aggressive action all contributed to the National County Mutual debacle," board member Jo Ann Howard said. "The present board is sending a clear signal that it will not tolerate regulatory sluggishness nor in the future."

The board has asked Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle to investigate allegations of fraud in the failure of American Pacer Insurance Co.

Board members said two state regulators who examined American Pacer were not involved in any criminal wrongdoing but failed to act quickly enough against the company. Those two have been demoted.

"The disconcerting thing about that was that the information was not getting pushed up high enough," said insurance board Chairman James Saxton Jr.

Saxton said an internal audit showed there were serious problems in the agency's response to American Pacer's financial problems. He also said the insurance company failed to cooperate with the insurance examiner.

"It has become abundantly clear that further substantial changes in our examination practices are necessary if this agency is to perform as the public and Legislature have a right to expect," he said.

American Pacer specialized in high-risk automobile insurance and had approximately 20,000 policyholders when it was placed in receivership Aug. 1. The company's liabilities exceeded assets by $7.2

Herd ready for opener against Tascosa Rebels

By SAM WALLER
Sports Editor

THEY'RE BAAAAAACK!

The Hereford Whitefaces start what they hope is a third straight trip to the playoffs when they open the 1990 season at 2 p.m. Saturday against Amarillo Tascosa at Dick Bivins Stadium.

Herd coach Don Cumpston said getting the season off on the right foot will be important.

"The first game is important," he said. "It's not a do-or-die game by any means; there'll be a lot more important games down the road. But, to get the season started good we think is important."

Cumpston said the Rebels will provide a good test of the Herd's ability in the early part of the year.

"We've always played a quality opponent in the first game and this year is no exception," he said. "We'll have to play well to win the game. They're an impressive ball club. I think they're a lot better than they were at this time last year."

Cumpston said while Tascosa won't offer very much different from what has been seen in the past, the team should have better talent than last year's 3-7 squad.

"Tascosa will do about the same thing we saw last year. They've got a little more speed than they had last year, especially in the backfield."

"We've been very impressed in the scrimmages with their quarterbacks (Max Pearson and Jon Permenter). They're both big tall kids, about 6-3 and 190 pounds. They're strong and they can throw the ball like a rocket. And Tascosa has a couple of kids that can catch it."

"Their running backs (Stephen McQueen and James Mitchell) have excellent quickness. They remind me a little of the Amarillo High backs but they probably have a little more foot speed."

Cumpston said the Herd defense will be a key in the game, but added that the new scheme has been progressing well.

"We think we're familiar enough with our defense now that it shouldn't be a problem," he said. "We'll have to tackle well. We can't afford to miss tackles on those fast backs first of all, and second we must contain them. If we let them get around us they could hurt us."

On the other side of the ball, Cumpston said the rebels will offer a variety of looks defensively.

"They are very multiple on defense," he said. "Their base defense is a 5-2 look, but they give you a lot of different looks out of it."

"Most of the things they do we've seen in our scrimmages with Monterey and Amarillo High. They do a couple of things we haven't seen yet."

"Their defensive linemen are a lot like ours; they aren't very tall but they're heavy and they're pretty quick."

The Herd coaches will get a chance to look at several players during the afternoon, Cumpston said, as the temperature is expected to be in the 90s.

"We're going to play a lot of kids. The situation will dictate that some and we've got some kids we're going to play in specific situations."

Cumpston added that several players expected to go both ways for the Herd may be limited in their playing time by the weather.

"I don't know how much we'll use our two-way players both ways. In the heat of the day and all we'll rest them some, but they will play both ways."

INJURY REPORT: TE Derek Mason (collarbone), WR Sean Smith (hand) and OL Paul Moreno (knee) are out. Moreno is expected to undergo surgery for the second year in a row and is most likely gone for the year. Cumpston said. OL Ralph Martinez (knee), OL Aaron Albracht (flu), DT Juan Gonzales (knee) are not expected to play. FB Brian Bentley (groin) may see limited action.

Heading into 1990

Hereford Whiteface quarterback T.J. Head looks to turn upfield during Friday's scrimmage with Amarillo High. The Herd opens the 1990 season at 2 p.m. Saturday against Amarillo Tascosa at Dick Bivins Stadium.

Herd sendoff planned

A pep rally has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday at the field house to send off the Hereford Whitefaces to their season opener against Amarillo Tascosa.

The Mighty Maroon Marching Band will perform with the Hereford High School cheerleaders, twirlers and drill team.

All Herd fans are encouraged to attend and are reminded to be on time.

Herd volleyball teams hit road for weekend tournament competition

The Hereford Lady Whiteface volleyball teams hit the tournament trail for the weekend with all three squads playing in separate events.

The varsity was scheduled to open the San Angelo Invitational at 8 a.m. today with a pool match against San Angelo Central. Other pool play on tap for Hereford included Brownwood at 2 p.m. and the San Angelo Lake View junior varsity at 6 p.m.

The top two teams from each pool move into Saturday's championship bracket with the other teams playing in the consolation field. Saturday's matches are set to get underway at 8 a.m.

The Lady Whiteface JV will open the Amarillo JV Tournament at 6 p.m. today against Amarillo High in a match scheduled for the Palo Duro Activity Center. A win would put the Herd up against Dumas at 10 a.m. Saturday while a loss would set up a match against the PD-Canyon High loser at noon.

The freshman team will get into tournament competition in the Borger JV Tournament with a match against Amarillo River Road at 10 a.m. Saturday. Hereford's second-round match will be against either San Jacinto or Sanford-Fritch at noon.

Harriers open season at Borger Invitational

The Hereford Whiteface and Lady Whiteface cross country teams will be off and running Saturday when they open the 1990 season at the Borger Invitational Meet.

Coach Martha Emerson said depth and talent the girls team, which finished second at district and regional last year and seventh at state.

"The potential is there to have a better team than last year," she said, "but they must get mentally tough and have a deep desire to win in order to meet that goal."

The girls return six of 1989's top seven runners, including District 1-4A individual champion Teresa Castillo. Castillo added a fifth-place finish at regional and 10th at state to earn All-State honors.

Also back are Lisa Zepeda, Jill

Dutton, Minerva Salazar, Denise Davila and Veronica Hernandez.

But with 24 runners out for the team, Emerson said several spots on the varsity will be up for grabs.

"Brandie Webb has been the most impressive newcomer," she said, "but there will be competition for the varsity spots. We should have a strong JV team as well and with as many runners as we have, competition will be keen for that team, also."

What will be strengths for the girls is lacking from the boys team, Emerson said. The boys return two runners, Jerry Gallegos and Armando Garza, with varsity experience out of nine on the team.

"This is a hard-working group," Emerson said, "and I think we will improve each week and experience will come quickly."

Herd sophs win, 2-0; JV, frosh suffer losses

The Hereford Whiteface varsity teams opened the 1990 season Thursday, dropping three of four games.

The Herd junior varsity fell 26-13 at Amarillo Tascosa while the sophomores picked up the lone win with a 2-0 decision over Lubbock Monterey. The freshman Maroon team lost 28-8 to Amarillo Palo Duro White and the freshman White squad lost 8-0 on the road against the PD Blue team.

Tascosa JV 26, Herd JV 13
Pete Colvin scored on runs of 7 and 8 yards for both Hereford touchdowns.

Colvin's first score capped a 70-yard drive to give the Herd a 6-0 lead.

Tascosa tied the game on Shane Conklin's 52-yard run following the kickoff. The Rebels took the lead at 12-6 on a 36-yard run by Terry Smith just before the half.

Hereford regained the lead with another long drive to start the third quarter that ended in Colvin's second touchdown. Richard Rodriguez added the extra point to put the Herd up 13-12.

Tascosa put the final two scores on the board on Conklin's 43-yard run and a run of 7 yards by Smith.

Colvin led the Herd offense with 79 yards on 13 carries. Quarterback Chad Sandoval completed 2-of-5 passes for 19 yards.

Jason Tatarevich led the defense with two interceptions and Shawn Fogo had a fumble recovery.

Herd sophs 2, Monterey 0

The sophomores turned a third-quarter mistake into the winning points in their first game of the year.

Monterey's Joe Franco picked off a Jake Head pass at the Monterey 7-yard line and ran into the end zone on the return. Cody Powell made the tackle to give the Herd the only points of the game.

The Herd defense proved good enough the rest of the way, stopping the Plainsmen twice on fourth down in the Hereford end of the field.

Monterey had its first opportunity when Powell fumbled the free kick return and Gary Shephard recovered at the Herd 35. The Plainsmen reached the 8 before Noah Garcia stopped a screen pass on fourth down.

A fumbled punt snap set Monterey up at the Herd 29, but Aaron Ward threw Cody King for a five-yard loss on third down.

One other Monterey try ended when Fabian Reyna fell on a fumble for the Herd.

PD White 8, Frosh Maroon 0

Another defensive battle went against the Herd as Luvirt Wells scored the game's only touchdown with less than three minutes left in the game.

Stacey Sanders picked up an interception and Robert Jimenez recovered a fumble to lead the Herd defense.

PD Blue 28, Frosh White 8
Big plays were the difference as PD's Terrence Davis scored on runs of 65 and 66 yards.

Davis put PD on top 6-0 with a 1-yard run in the first quarter.

Justin Wright gave the Herd the lead briefly with a 12-yard touchdown and a conversion run.

Palo Duro added another score on a 28-yard pass from Kenny Smith to Chris Fisher.

MEET THE HERD: Kicking game crucial to team

By SAM WALLER
Sports Editor

As the Hereford Whitefaces make final preparations for the 1990 season more attention gets paid to details.

A lot of the fine tuning has been spent on the Herd's kicking game.

Herd coach Don Cumpston said the kicking game will be just as important to the team's success as offense and defense.

"We've been pretty happy with our punting and kicking," he said. "Our kick and punt coverage teams are extremely important and we hope they'll do a good job."

"We haven't really had a chance to see them under fire yet and the first game the kicking game's always a big factor.

The team returns two specialty players from 1989 in punter Matt Bromlow (37.8 yard average) and holder T.J. Head.

Replacements must be found at deep snapper and place kicker. Cumpston said the kicking chores will be shared by Jesus Gonzales and Chris Blair while Cody Page will handle all deep snaps.

On the return teams, Cumpston said anybody and everybody has gotten a look.

"We've worked several people on returns," he said. "We'll try them in there and see how they do and see what happens."

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE MOST IMPORTANT ANIMAL IN BIBLICAL DAILY LIFE!

THE MOST VALUABLE OF ANIMALS, IN BIBLICAL TIMES, WAS THE ASS. IT WAS USED EXTENSIVELY FOR RIDING, CARRYING BURDENS, PLOWING FARMLANDS, AND GRINDING THE GRAIN IN FLOUR MILLS. WHEN A FAMILY WANTED TO MOVE, THEY PACKED THEIR ENTIRE HOUSEHOLD ONTO THE BACKS OF THESE STURDY, LITTLE BEASTS AND OFF THEY'D GO!

THE HORSE WAS USED ONLY FOR WARFARE AND, IN THE ROCKY, HILLY COUNTRY OF JUDEA, IT WAS OF NO USE EVEN IN BATTLES, FOR IT COULD NOT MOVE WELL IN THE ROCKS AND RIDGES OF THE MOUNTAINOUS LAND—IN FACT, THERE IS HARDLY ANY MENTION OF THE HORSE BEING USED BY THE JEWS UNTIL KING SOLOMON, WHO IMPORTED THOUSANDS OF THEM FROM EGYPT. BUT THE ASS WAS A NECESSITY IN THE DAILY LIFE OF THE JEWS EVEN TO THE POINT OF PRODUCING FOOD—FOR MANY HERDS WERE KEPT FOR MILKING—THE SHE-ASS GIVING MILK AS RICH AND NUTRITIOUS AS THE GOAT AND COW!

A SPECIES OF PURE-WHITE ANIMALS, BRED IN MESOPOTAMIA, WAS IMPORTED BY MANY COUNTRIES FOR CEREMONIAL ACTIVITIES. RICHLY BRIDLED AND SADDLED, THEY WERE KEPT BY KINGS AND PRINCES FOR THE CONVENIENCE OF IMPORTANT GUESTS AND FOR THEIR FAVORITE WIVES! (JUDGES 5:10)

MILKING AN ANIMAL WAS DONE FROM THE REAR—THIS CUSTOM STILL PREVAILS IN PARTS OF NORTH AFRICA AND THE NEAR EAST!

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several years ago you printed a piece in your column titled, "Dead at 17." Well, now my youngest brother is going to get his license soon. Please, Ann, help me to teach him that life is fragile, and that driving is a privilege. I learned an awful lot from that column. It really opened my eyes. Please run it again. -- Grateful Teenager in Shelburne, Vt.

DEAR GRATEFUL TEEN: Here it is, after many years, but as relevant as if it were written yesterday. Thanks for asking.

Dead at Seventeen
Agony claws my mind. I am a statistic. When I first got her I felt very much alone. I was overwhelmed by grief and I expected to find sympathy.

I found no sympathy. I saw only thousands of others whose bodies were as badly mangled as mine. I was given a number and placed in a category. The category was called

"Traffic Fatalities."

The day I died was an ordinary school day. How I wish I had taken the bus! But I was too cool for the bus. I remember how I wheeled the car out of Mom. "Special favor," I pleaded. "All the kids drive." When the 2:50 bell rang, I threw my books in the locker...free until tomorrow morning! I ran to the parking lot, excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss.

It doesn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off -- going too fast, taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remember was passing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard a crash and felt a terrific jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning inside out. I heard myself scream.

Suddenly, I awakened. It was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. I saw a doctor. My body was mangled. I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strange that I couldn't feel anything. Hey, don't pull that sheet over my head. I can't be dead. I'm only 17. I've got a date tonight. I'm supposed to have a wonderful life ahead of me. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks came to identify me. Why did they have to see me like this? Why did I have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked very old. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he's our son."

The funeral was weird. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked by.

Please somebody -- wake me up! Get me out of here. I can't bear to see Mom and Dad in such pain. My grandparents are so weak from grief they can barely walk. My brother and sister are like zombies. They move like robots. In a daze. Everybody. No one can believe this. I can't believe it, either.

Please don't bury me! I not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground! I promise if you give me just one more chance, God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I want is one more chance. Please, God, I'm only 17.

Is life passing you by? Want to improve your social skills? Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $5.05.)

If We Ran This Ad On Radio, You'd Only Have 30 Seconds To Hear It.

Now you'd only have 25 seconds, and you wouldn't be able to go back and look at the opening line or pause (19...18...17...) to consider its significance. You wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with this advertisement and it wouldn't be able to spend a lot of time with you. In fact, if we tried to say just this much in a 30-second radio advertisement, throwing in only a brief mention that newspapers offer coupons, give you great flexibility of size, and can leave a lasting impression on your customers, we'd run out of...

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Meryl Streep says Hollywood won't start producing better movies until moviegoers start complaining.

"Until then, we'll get more of the same," Miss Streep said in an interview this week for the syndicated television show "Personalities."

The star of the new movie "Postcards From the Edge" called for people unhappy about violent, shoot-'em-up Hollywood fare "to make some noise about what they want to see."

Preparation for wool contest now underway

Preparations for the District I "Make It Yourself With Wool Contest" are now underway, according to Colleen Chadwick, County Extension Agent-Home Economics and director for the District I Make It Yourself Wool Contest.

The contest, in which entrants select, make and model a wool garment of their choice, is sponsored by the American Sheep Producers Council and the Women's Auxiliary of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association. Fabrics used for the contest must be at least 60 percent wool or mohair.

The four divisions are pre-teen, under age 14; junior, ages 14-17; senior, ages 18-24; and adult, over 24. Junior and senior winners at the state level will win a trip to the national finals of the "Make It Yourself With Wool Contest" Jan. 20 in Long Beach, Calif.

Nine district contests will be held throughout Texas. The winners from each district will go on to the state competition Dec. 1 at the Grand Opera House at Uvalde, Texas.

The District I contest will begin at 9 a.m. Nov. 17 in the Moody Science Auditorium at Wayland Baptist University Campus in Plainview.

Entry blanks may be obtained by calling Colleen Chadwick at 293-8481, extension 269, or by writing her at Box 680, Plainview, Texas 79073-0680. Entry blanks are also available from Home Economics Teachers and County Extension Agents. Further information is available by calling Beverly Harder, County Extension Agent-Home Economics at 364-3573.

Entries are due at the Hale County Extension office by Nov. 2 and no late entries will be accepted.

Prizes to be awarded at all levels of competition include Pendleton wool, savings bonds, sewing machines, handwoven wool rugs, and trips at the state and national level.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Smith to speak at Westway

Glen Smith, president of International Western World Outreach Center Inc. and Rodeo Cowboy Ministries, will be guest speaker at the Heritage Christian Church, Westway Community Center, at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday. He will also be speaking at 7:30 tonight and Saturday at the George Turrentine's Farm 4 1/2 miles west on Harrison Highway. The public is invited to attend.

Smith was ordained to full time ministry in the early 1970s. His wife Ann has traveled with him throughout the United States and other countries.

International Western World Outreach Center has established offices in Australia, Mexico and the U.S.

Smith has pioneered many cowboy church services and camp meetings including those at the National Finals Rodeo and World Cup Rodeo in Australia.

Although primarily involved in International Evangelistic Ministry, he also teaches in churches and F.G.B.M.F.S. conventions.

Smith and his wife have just returned from two weeks of ministering in the Soviet Union.
