House Acts, Senate Delays Property Tax Repeal

By KATHY BAKER Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Quick House committee approval of a constitutional amendment abolishing the state property tax could put the proposal to the full House today, but the Senate delayed action on a similar measure. The Senate Education Committee suspended action on various proposals to do away with the tax, which had funded construction at smaller state universities, after Sen.

Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, invoked parliamentary procedures in a plan to embarrass Gov. Bill Clements. Clements scheduled the special session of the Legislature, which began Monday, specifically to abolish the tax and make a one-time appropriation for current construction projects at colleges which do not have access to the Permanent University Fund. The 10-cent state property tax is still on the books, but it has not been collected since the 1979 Legislature virtually killed it by setting a .0001 percent assessment ratio. However, it would take a constitutional amendment to repeal the tax because it was established in the Texas Constitution. Clements called the special session after Midwestern State University sued for collection of the tax. Senate Education Committee Chairman Pete Snelson, D-Midland, rescheduled Monday's meeting for Wednesday afternoon after Mauzy "tagged" the four Senate bills, thereby requiring 48 hours public notice before their consideration. "We wanted to orchestrate a point of view that this is nothing but a very skillful and cynical political move by a politician who is trying to put himself in a more favorable light between now and November," said Mauzy after the hearing, in a reference to Clements, who is up for re-election this year.

Earlier Monday, the House Constitutional Amendment Committee voted 7-1 for an amendment abolishing the tax. Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, was the dissenter on the House committee. Mrs. Delco wants to keep the tax, but reduce it to three cents. She said the tax is still needed to pay for construction at the 17 campuses and vowed to offer floor amendments to provide some kind of permanent funding for the schools. She said she decided not to fight the repeal in committee because, "This train is well-greased and on the tracks." The measure passed by the House committee simply eliminates the tax and forgives taxes that accrued between 1979 and the current action.

In the Senate, the proposals range from simple repeal of the tax with a suggestion that the regular session of the Legislature consider a permanent fund, to a proposal that would keep the tax in effect until the Legislature acts on a permanent funding source for the schools.

Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, sponsor of a bill that would require the Legislature to come up with a permanent fund during the regular session, said Monday that Rep. Ron Coleman, D-El Paso, had agreed to offer the proposal in the House as a substitute measure.

Meanwhile, the House Appropriations Committee and the Senate Finance Committee on began looking at the Legislative Budget Board's $130 million recommendation to "catch up" construction at the 17 non-PUF colleges.

Britain Loses Third Frigate

By The Associated Press
Reporting eight more planes downed, Britain claimed the destruction of more than a third of Argentina's air force but admitted the loss of its third major warship in the Falklands war, the frigate Antelope.

On the diplomatic front, Ireland submitted a resolution to the U.N. Security Council calling for a 72-hour cease-fire while Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar made another attempt to negotiate a peaceful solution. But British Defense Minister John Nott said a truce would not be considered until Britain's troops had retaken the islands. Britain was expected to veto the resolution.

British war correspondents reported waves of Argentine Mirage and Skyhawk jets made three attacks Monday afternoon on the invasion task force in Falkland Sound off the British beachhead. It was the third such attack in four days.

The British Defense Ministry said its Harrier jets and anti-aircraft fire from the ships and shore batteries brought down eight of the attackers. This raised to 64 the total number of Argentine aircraft shot down or destroyed on the ground. Nott told the House of Commons more than a third of the Argentine air force has been destroyed, and more ships were arriving to strengthen the British task force.

Rev. Mann Offers Prayer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Rev. Gerald Mann of the Riverside Baptist Church of Austin offered this prayer in the Senate Monday at the opening of the special session:

"May this special session be adjourned at least 10 minutes before the devil knows it has convened. Amen."

"The devil called it," shouted Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, an outspoken foe of Republican Bill Clements, who did call the session.

The Argentine government admitted the loss of two fighters Monday and claimed the raiders inflicted "serious damage" to a troopship and "damage" to a frigate. The

Fred Fox, Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District director, shows a proposed tax statement which will eliminate sending three statements per piece of property to landowners. Fox has approval of the city and county for the new statement and is to ask the school district approval soon. Fox said the statement will still allow for payments to separate entities, yet will cut the number of accounts on file from about 33,000 to about 17,000.

Senior Citizens, Day Care, Library Ask County for Revenue Sharing Funds

Representatives from Senior Citizens, Hereford Day Care and Deaf Smith County Library made appeals to the county commissioners during their regular meeting Monday to not be forgotten when revenue sharing comes up on their budget workday June 7.

Revenue sharing funds for 1982-83 will be $2,923 less than the $185,939 the county received during the 1981-82 fiscal year. The last fiscal year also reaped an additional collection of $4,493.

Commissioner Bruce Coleman reminded the commission and guests that money will be tight because the county is facing a tax base reduction of nearly 14 percent and will also incur unknown expenses for jail renovation which must be started within a year. "I will be surprised if revenue sharing survives all the budget cuts," Coleman said, speculating future county budgeting.

Marge Daniels of the Senior Citizens told the commission that her budget could be cut eight percent all in the fourth quarter. She said the Senior Citizens need more money in the general fund for staff and utilities. Special project money is used as match money for the nutrition program.

George Warner, Betty Dixon and Troy Waddell told the court that Hereford Day Care is on a very safe break even level for a non profit organization, but needs funding for expansion. The center receives no federal grants or funds and sets rate charges according to the family income. The representatives claimed that since such a broad section of the community was served through the center it deserved community support.

Lois Gilliland, director of the county museum, said that the museum was "desperately in need of something for the rear grounds." She said that the wooden wagons would soon be a pile of boards unless a barn or shed is built to protect them from weathering.

Mrs. Gilliland also invited the commissioners to the museum reception Sunday from 3 to 4:30 p.m. for dedication of the Bess Turrentine Werner room.

Justice of the Peace O.K. Neal requested that a clause ordering the door of his office to be shut be deleted. He said since the snack machines have been moved and his office is no longer giving change, an open door is not a distraction to workers and is needed for ventilation.

Neal said with him working extra hours and the employment of a part time clerk his office will be caught up by June.

Diane Pierson, librarian, was asked to draw up a new set of library rules for use of the meeting rooms. Several rules are ironic, according to Coleman, who cited that no food or drink is allowed in the kitchen area.

Commissioners met in a closed session to hear an update on several pending litigations.

All commissioners were present.

Clements Chided For Session Call

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Two Senate Democrats have chided Gov. Bill Clements for calling a $60,000-a-day special legislative session to repeal a tax that has not been collected in four years.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett suggested on the first day of the session Monday that Clements "uncall" it and let lawmakers go home.

Clements has advocated a $1 billion tax break for Texans, but Doggett said no one has seen "one red cent" of that money.

"This is his last desperate hope to provide the illusion of tax relief," Doggett said.

Remarks by Doggett and Sens. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, and Bill Meier, R-Eules, underscored political differences that could intensify as the special (See CHIDED, Page 2)

Discussion on proposals by Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., and Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., came routinely Monday, but discussion raged on for hours on a proposal by the Conservative Black Caucus, causing the debate and vote on the Rousselot budget to be delayed until Tuesday.

Rousselot, in his version, proposed freezing all spending — including defense — at fiscal 1982 levels. Up to 68 amendments are scheduled to be offered Tuesday and Wednesday during lengthy debate set for three other versions offered by Rep. Del Latta, R-Ohio; Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis.; and Rep. Jim Jones, D-Okla., the House Budget Committee chairman.

Most of the amendments would add more money for various non-defense programs — the ones hit hardest by the 1982 budget cuts. Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, of Stamford, the chairman of conservative Democratic "Boll Weevils," and Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, of College Station took part in forging the compromise plan that Latta is introducing. But Hance indicated he would vote against it. Other Boll Weevils, including several from Texas, said they hadn't decided yet.

Texas split, 12-12, on a proposal by Miller, D-Calif., that would have required Congress to specify savings elsewhere or call for new tax revenue to finance additional spendings approved. In the House, the measure failed, 181-225. Reps. Martin Frost, D-Dallas, and Mickey Leland, D-Houston, were the only Texans to support a Obey's proposal, which would (See BUDGET, Page 2)

Andropov's Chances Improved By Appointment

MOSCOW (AP) — The appointment of Yuri V. Andropov, the 67-year-old chief of the Soviet secret police, to the 10-man secretariat of the Communist Party Central Committee appears to improve his chances of succeeding President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Andropov's new position was announced Monday after a special meeting of the Central Committee. He fills the place left open by the death last January of Mikhail A. Suslov, the No. 2 man in the Soviet leadership.

The committee also named Vladimir Dolgikh, 57, the secretariat member responsible for heavy industry, to the party's ruling Politburo as a candidate, or non-voting, member. Dolgikh thus emerges as a leader of the generation of Soviets who will succeed the current leadership generation, most of whom are over 70.

Soviet sources said they expected Andropov to give up his position as head of the Committee on State Security or KGB. Western diplomatic observers feel that continued association with the feared secret police would hinder Andropov's chances of succeeding Brezhnev, who is 75, ailing and drops out of public view with increasing frequency.

Farabee Asks $220 Million Water Bond Proposal

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Ray Farabee asked Gov. Bill Clements on Monday to open up the special legislative session to a proposal that would allow almost $220 million in state water development bonds to be sold at current market interest rates.

Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, said the bonds were authorized several years ago, but have not been sold because the market rate for such bonds has been higher than the rate set by the Texas Constitution.

If the Legislature approved the proposed constitutional amendment, it would be submitted to the voters on Nov. 2.

"This will be of immediate help to small- and medium-size communities of the state," said Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby. "It will enable them to finance projects at lower interest rates than they could obtain without state involvement."

Farabee said 10 senators had joined as co-sponsors of his proposal.

Jury To Investigate DPS Ties To Cauble

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A federal grand jury began today to investigate alleged ties between the Department of Public Safety and Denton millionaire Rex Cauble, according to a newspaper report.

Grand jurors in the three-day session plan to hear testimony from Capt. Wesly Crites of the DPS Narcotics Division on Wednesday, the Tyler Morning Telegraph reported. Several other officers were also scheduled to appear, a source told the newspaper.

Two Drug Enforcement Administration investigators have also been summoned as has a retired DPS officer, a U.S. government spokesman, who declined to be identified, said.

The source said that earlier news stories about grand jury interest in testimony given by DPS officers in Cauble's defense and allegations that ties existed between the law enforcement agency and the millionaire "were right on the button."

However, U.S. Attorney Robert Wortham of Beaumont refused comment on the probe, saying, "I can neither deny or confirm any such investigation."

No indictments are expected to be returned, a source told the newspaper, pointing out the investigation is in the early stages.

In Austin, Col. Jim Adams, DPS director, declined comment about the probe.

The investigation surrounds evidence given during Cauble's trial earlier this year. Cauble was convicted on a ten-count indictment for drug smuggling and illegal banking practices.

Carot Mightier Than The Stick

The one energy indispensable to life on this planet—the one energy of which we have more than anybody—is food.

Why don't we use it? By withholding food from belligerent nations we could get them to back off....

And we could motivate backward nations to move forward in the development of their own agriculture.

Ours is the carrot mightier than the stick.

Lowell Ponte, for Readers Digest, traveled 14 nations re-evaluating our nation's food policy. He concludes that we should be using this mightiest weapon for power, for profit—and for peace.

More than 170 nations sit in the United States; only eight of them grow more food than they eat.

The United States and Canada, Australia and Argentina, France and New Zealand, South Africa and Thailand—all "Western-aligned nations," please note—produce food for export. But the United States, all by itself, controls the biggest share (57 percent) of exportable grain. With Canada, we produce and control 85 percent.

We have a greater potential stranglehold on the world's food supply than the OPEC nations have on the world's oil supply.

It is not inexhaustible. Our soil is being depleted as surely as world oil is being depleted.

Before our fertile topsoil is spent, we had better learn to husband what remains of this irreplaceable energy resource. President Carter tried to use food as a weapon in 1980, failed.

When the Soviets invaded Afghanistan, President Carter cut off further grain sales.

There were several reasons the embargo hurt us worse than it did them.

For one thing, there was enough grain "in the pipelines" to keep the Soviets supplied for many months. Also, the embargo "leaked;" Eastern Europe bought our grain and re-sold it to the Soviets. And our allies among food producing nations doubled their own exports.

So the Carter embargo fizzled, the glut of unsold grain in the United States depressed prices so that our own farmers were punished mercilessly.

Lowell Ponte concludes that our nation's global humanitarian food policy has done more harm than good. It discouraged under-developed nations from developing their own agriculture and encouraged them to breed more babies.

Even now we sell our grain much too cheaply.

While oil has gone from one dollar a barrel to 30 dollars and more, our bushel of wheat or corn sells now far less than then!

If we would join with the other seven world grain producers to form an OPEC-like cartel, we could get top dollar for our grain, conserve topsoil, and prompt other nations to produce more food on their own.

We tried using food as "a stick" and failed.

Despite Fighting In Falklands

Pope Going Ahead With Visit

LONDON (AP) — Pope John Paul II is going ahead with his historic visit to Britain this weekend despite the Falkland Islands fighting, Roman Catholic Church officials here say.

But Vatican officials said the pope may shorten his visit — the first ever by a pope to Britain — and cancel meetings with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and other British political leaders to emphasize the "religious and pastoral nature" of the trip.

Archbishop Derek Worlock of Liverpool, who returned to London from Rome Monday night, said the pope would arrive Friday as scheduled. "The visit is on and the pope is looking forward to being with us," he said. "He still yearns for peace, but he is coming to share our life as it is. He has no last minute reservations."

The Falklands fighting had put the visit in doubt because some Vatican aides and Latin American prelates expressed fears that Argentina, where 95 percent of the people are Catholic, might interpret the trip as a pro-British gesture.

The pope's visit to mainly Protestant Britain was planned long before Argentina seized the British colony in the South Atlantic and fighting between Britain and Argentina erupted. Mrs. Thatcher suggested that the pope not meet her to keep his distance from the war. But British church sources said he still plans to keep to his original itinerary and visit nine cities in England, Scotland and Wales.

There is strong opposition to the visit from a militant Protestant minority led by men such as the Rev. Ian Paisley, the Northern Ireland political leader, who feel the pope's presence threatens the nation's Protestant heritage. They object particularly because the pope will be welcomed by Queen Elizabeth II as temporal head of the Church of England and by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Robert Runcie, the spiritual head of the state church.

Henry VIII split the Church of England from Rome in 1534 after he was refused papal permission to divorce Catherine of Aragon, the first of his wives, when she did not give him a son. The British government and the Holy See established diplomatic relations two months ago, and the papal visit is considered an important step toward healing the rift between the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches.

Chided

session continues in an election year.

Doggett, D-Austin, selected a routine motion as a forum for criticizing Clements.

At the beginning of each session, a committee is appointed to notify the governor that the Senate is organized and ready for business. On Monday, Doggett included in the motion an invitation for Clements to give the Senate Education Committee his "inexplicable reasons" for calling the special session.

"Many people cannot help but question the motives and reasons of the governor" for calling the session, Doggett said. He referred to the cost of the session as a "campaign subsidy" for Clements.

The governor said in scheduling the session that a lawsuit challenging the way the 1979 Legislature repealed the tax might cost Texans $1 billion in back taxes.

The lawsuit was scheduled for trial June 2, but Doggett said Clements knew before he called the session that the colleges who had sued had agreed to wait until after the 1983 Legislature to pursue the suit. Without the property tax, 17 colleges receive no construction money.

Because the colleges had agreed to delay their suit, Doggett said, there is no emergency.

"There is clearly no reason for lawmakers to gather here," Doggett said. He added that Clements "places a very low priority on higher education except at election time."

"The one true significant problem with higher education today is Bill Clements," Doggett said.

Parker indicated the Legislature's time might be better spent appropriating money for a new prison.

"If you're going to lock folks up and throw away the key, don't you need a place to lock them up and a key to throw away?" said Parker.

Meier zeroed in on Clements' opponent for governor, Attorney General Mark White.

Meier said Texans owe Railroad Commissioner Buddy Temple, White's Democratic primary opponent, a "debt of gratitude" for tagging White as the "Pinocchio of Texas politics." Dipping his hand into a large box of sawdust on his desk, Meier said White — like Pinocchio, a "creation from wood" — leaves a trail of sawdust wherever he goes.

Doggett finally withdrew his motion, and — to the laughter of other senators — was one of five appointed to tell Clements that the Senate was, indeed, ready to go to work.

Teen-Ager's Bond Set In Lieu Of $75,000

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A teen-age robbery suspect who allegedly tried to shoot down a police helicopter as it pursued him across a field remained in jail Monday in lieu of $75,000 bond.

Dennis Hunt, 19, was accused of robbing a neighborhood convenience store Sunday, then firing a pistol at the helicopter as it chased him.

Patrolman L.H. Ramirez captured the suspect after the officer fired one shot and Hunt fell down, police reported.

Helicopter pilot Greg Koch said he was unaware the shots were fired at his craft.

home. I think the reason is that the people can't get excited about a $110 billion deficit," Hall said.

Rep. Phil Gramm, D-Texas, of College Station is among the leading advocates of a "bipartisan recovery program," sponsored by Latta with the backing of most House Republicans and President Reagan.

Reps. Abraham Kazen, D-Laredo, and Jim Wright, D-Fort Worth, took the microphone during early debate to urge the House to support Miller's proposition.

"People across the United States are interested in one thing over everything else — cutting the deficit — and this is a proposition we can all agree with," said Kazen, noting that Texas' budget process is based on Miller's "pay as you go" theory. Wright commended Miller "for an imaginative and straight-forward and wholly honest approach." Either now or sometime in the future, Congress needs to pass such an approach, the majority leader said.

Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, of Houston is one of several Republicans who have been most vocal in support of the Rousselot amendment.

A balanced budget — instead of budgets with a deficit of $100 billion or higher for 1983, as most of the proposals called for — would bring such joy to the financial community that interest rates would drop significantly almost overnight, Archer contended.

Indecency Charges Filed On Galan

Charges have been filed on a Hereford man arrested Friday for indecency with a child.

Arnulfo Galan, 32, 339 Avenue D, was taken into custody at 7:40 a.m. Friday by Hereford police. He gave a statement to authorities and was arrested in the district attorney's office.

A variety of thefts were included in police reports Monday.

Residents reported a spare tire stolen from 631 Avenue J, several gallons of gas from a post office vehicle and a license plate from a vehicle at 136 Oak.

Sears and Roebuck on Main reported that a rock had been thrown through a window.

Officers made one arrest for public intoxication, checked two minor accidents, and issued eight citations.

County law enforcers reported a bike theft and checked out a domestic squabble.

An Arlington man who came to Hereford to check out a burglary on some of his property earlier this week filed a second report of a break in at the home. Someone had obviously been in the house just previous to his arrival Saturday and left some kitchen items strewn through the back yard. A few household items and clothes were reported missing.

Weekend theft reports included a 125 pound anvil from 112 Kingwood and two female rabbits from 229 Avenue B.

A sliding glass door at 201 Beach was shattered by a BB gun.

One verbal threat and some harassing phone calls were reported.

have cut defense spending, preserved various social programs at least at current levels and raised more tax revenues.

The black caucus proposal restoring money cut last year from non-defense programs was soundly defeated, 86-322. Frost and Leland were joined only by Reps. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas, and Henry Gonzalez, D-San Antonio, in voting for it in the Texas delegation.

Miller's proposition had a lot of support, but lost any chance of passage when he got approval for his proposal to be voted on only with four amendments tacked onto it.

Miller planned originally to let members vote first on a freeze of all federal programs and salaries at 1982 levels. Through additional votes, Congress could have expressed itself on a cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) for Social Security recipients, COLA for other entitlements, more spending for defense, and more spending for non-defense, discretionary programs.

Rep. Ralph Hall, D-Texas, of Rockwall voted at first for Miller's proposal, but changed his vote to "no" at the end of the 15-minute electronic roll call.

"I just couldn't stomach the idea of all the tax revenues he was calling for (with all four amendments added)," Hall said.

Hall noted a major difference in public reaction to this year's budget discussion to the budget and tax cut battles of 1981.

"The thing that's missing for all of this is public pressure. There just hasn't been any. I've gotten calls from the president, from Jones, and from Gramm, but not from the people back Argentine Embassy in Washington said the troopship was the 44,000-ton cruiser liner Canberra, which the British government requisitioned to carry the invasion force to the South Atlantic, but this was not confirmed in London.

Instead, British Defense Ministry spokesman Ian McDonald said only that some ships may have been damaged.

Argentina also claimed that its anti-aircraft guns shot down a Harrier jet during a British raid Monday on Stanley, the Falklands capital on the east coast of East Falkland and 42 miles east of the British beachhead. The British Defense Ministry confirmed that ships and planes of the task force bombarded the Stanley airfield, but said, "All our aircraft returned safely."

The British announced that the 3,250-ton Antelope, which had been reported afloat after an Argentine air attack Sunday, was abandoned and sank Monday after the crew was unable to get control of the flames. Press Association, the domestic British news agency, said the fire was started by a 500-pound Argentine bomb that lodged unexploded in the ship's engine room and was set off by technicians trying to defuse it.

The Defense Ministry announced earlier Monday that one man was killed and five injured, apparently from the bomb explosion. The later announcement said "there were no further reports of casualties."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am simply mortified at the way a young woman is making life hell for a good friend of mine.

He used to date her occasionally, but they were never intimate. When he stopped asking her out, about two months ago, she wrote letters threatening suicide. Now she waits outside his office in her car and follows him after work to restaurants and homes of acquaintances. He has turned around in a movie and seen her sitting behind him. Last Sunday she suddenly appeared in the pew across from him, although she is not a member of that church.

She never attempts to speak to him, just follows him everywhere. Is this against the law? Obviously the woman is off her rocker. But is she dangerous? Must he wait until she does something bizarre—like maybe shoots him—before he can complain? Please advise.—Concerned In Huntsville, Ala.

DEAR CONCERNED: The man should report the woman to the police. The charge—harassment.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here's one for "Both Wife and Other Woman" who advises the wife who is being used to tell her half-a-husband to move out.

After 27 years my first husband and I were divorced. Shortly thereafter I married a man whose first wife was an alcoholic. He had the reputation of being a terrific womanizer but I was convinced that a devoted, intelligent woman and super sex partner would keep him at home. We got along perfectly—until one day last summer after two years of what I thought was an ideal marriage, I walked in on him and his female architect with whom he always claimed he had a professional relationship.

He absolutely refuses to discuss it. They continue to see each other for lunch to "talk business." I'm stuck—no money, minimal income and the house is his. So, how do I kick him out? He tells me I have no alternatives. I'm still in shock and going crazy. I want out but I don't want to starve. Can you offer any suggestions?—Miserable In The Southwest

DEAR S.W.: Don't let him bamboozle you. You DO have alternatives. See a lawyer and find out what they are.

Louise Walker Presents Program To Members Of Westway EH Club

Louise Walker, county extension agent, presented a program on "Understanding and Reading Labels" to members of Westway Extension Club recently in the home of Marjorie Thomas.

Ms. Walker distributed copies of a personal project plan which included personal, family and home improvement plans. The brochures outlined specific goals and how each may be accomplished.

A display of generic and leading brands of grocery items were used for a discussion of quality, price and nutrition. Generic brands use plain white containers with black lettering and each label tells what it is, weight, the company and its ingredients. Ms. Walker stated that these are less expensive because of the simpler packaging. They are generally lower in quality but still nutritious, but in some cases, items are not too good and may even cost as much, if not more, than name brands. Jeanette Ramey, leader, opened the meeting with two readings entitled "You Know It's Gonna be a Bad Day When" and an inspirational reading entitled "Listen." Roll call was answered with "A Mistake I've Made by not Reading Labels."

It was announced that the tasting bee recipes turned in at the extension office will be included in the Cook Book and the dishes served at the Tasting Bee scheduled Sept. 27. Terri Johnson announced that the Council will have a float for the Town and Country Jubilee planned Aug. 19-22. The next meeting of the club will be held Sept. 21 in the home of Grace Covington. At the close of the meeting Ms. Thomas served refreshments of cheeses, fruits and crackerpie to Ms. Walker and her daughter,

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I think women have done all we can do for jogging. We've taken a simple sport of throwing on a pair of boxer shorts and white T-shirt to run around the neighborhood, and elevated it to couture status.

We've coordinated shoes to match the shorts, stripes in the shirt to match the headband, warm-up trousers and jackets with designs that belong on a Paris runway.

And that's only what we wear in the supermarkets to shop in. Who knows what the ones who run wear. Frankly, I was glad when tennis fizzled out. It must have taken us six or seven years to turn that sport around. Remember those plain mid-thigh white dresses and boring gym shoes? I had one outfit that never failed to stir attention wherever I went. It was pale pink and the shoes picked up that same shade in the shoestrings. The cap was like a little bonnet with a visor. Even the panties had little ruffles on them and a cute saying. All I needed was a sweatband to match the bootie socks with the little balls over the heel. I finally found both in a sporting goods store on the west side of town. The salesperson said, "How's your racket? In the market for a new one?"

I said, "Are you crazy? I don't even play tennis. This outfit is for picking up my child at school in the afternoon."

As for golf, remember when people went to the matches to watch the game? Then women came along and jazzed it up with short skirts, bright T-shirts and great-looking sun hats. But like everything else, I got bored wearing that silly short skirt and cut-out glove to the beauty shop every week.

Men don't understand it. They think fashion and sports don't mix. The other morning I came down to breakfast in a lavender leotard, pink tights, yellow headband and fiesta-striped warm-up socks crushed just below my knees.

My husband had just come in from jogging and was wearing white boxer shorts just above the knee like he had just run off the set of "Chariots of Fire."

"I give up," he said. "What are you supposed to be and where is your treat bag?"

"Don't be cute," I said, sipping my coffee, "this is my aerobics outfit."

"Aerobics?" he said. "I didn't know you exercised."

"Don't be naive," I said. "I'm dressed to drop off the sweeper to be fixed!"

Community involvement is the key to a successful 4-H program. And the support that International Harvester Co. gives to the 4-H agricultural program is a good example of community involvement through local IH dealers.

4-H agricultural program participants have a valuable learning resource in International Harvester. IH dealers have been contributing trophies, equipment and personnel to local 4-H programs for several years.

Each spring, many IH dealers work with 4-H'ers for 10-20 hours to certify them for tractor operation outside the family farm, at the age of 14 or 15. Their participation in orientation and academic advising at the Activities Center on June 1 from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Instruction in evening classes also begins on June 1, with day classes meeting on Wednesday, June 2. Late registration with a $5 late fee also begins on June 2. Day classes meet each day.

The College of Arts and Sciences will offer two workshops for the first summer term. Jack Mothersbough, assistant professor of geography, will teach Conservation Education Workshop to teachers concerning the local Panhandle environment from 9:15 a.m. to 12:35 p.m. each Monday through Friday from June 2-17.

A workshop for teachers of algebra in public schools will be taught by Davis Lasher, assistant professor of mathematics, at 9:15 a.m. daily during the first term. A variety of workshops for students and teachers will be available through the College of Education.

Workshops will include Diagnostic Teaching of Reading, offered through the Department of Curriculum and Instruction, Dr. Helton Wilbur, associate professor of education, 9:15 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., June 2-17; Human Relations Education Seminar, Dr. Jack Nance, associate professor of education, 12:45 p.m. to 4:15 p.m., June 2-17.

Also, using Newspapers in the Classroom, Dr. Dan White, professor of education, 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m., June 13-16, Gifted and Talented Summer.

Students, Dr. Enid Bates, associate professor of education, June 17-July 2.

Other workshops include Seminar in Social Studies, White, 12:45 p.m. to 4:15 p.m., June 17-July 2; Practicum in Teaching the Intellectually and Sensorily Impaired, Dr. Jane Norris, assistant professor of education, 9:15 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., June 17-July 2.

And, Moral Reasoning and Citizenship Seminar, Nance, 12:45 p.m. to 4:15 p.m., June 17-July 2; Problems in Athletics, Dr. A.J. Luquette, professor of physical education, 9:15 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., June 15-July 2; and Techniques of Counseling Psychology, June 2-July 2.

The Department of School Services will offer a course on storage and retrieval of Library Materials, Jackie this project is in line with the Hazardous Occupation in Agriculture Act. While older 4-H'ers are involved in this training, younger members practice the same types of tractor maneuvers on smaller tractors often provided by the dealer.

One IH dealer says, "We plan to continue our participation. Not only is this a good way for our company and employees to become involved in the community, but it allows tomorrow's farmers to become familiar with our equipment."

Nationwide, International Harvester Co. provides incentives and awards, arranged by the National 4-H Council, for members who excel in the agricultural program. Medals of honor are presented to four members in each county; one 4-H'er from each state earns an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago; and during Congress six outstanding 4-H members, named as national winners, receive $1,000 scholarships.

Boys and girls aged 9 to 19 can obtain more information about the 4-H agricultural program and other aspects of 4-H at their county Extension office.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, May 25, the 145th day of 1982. There are 220 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On May 25, 1961, President John Kennedy asked the nation to strive to send Americans to the moon within a decade. The first manned moon landing came in 1969.

Also on this date:

In 1836, Rep. John Quincy Adams spoke out against the annexation of Texas. Adams said he was concerned the move could trigger a war with Mexico.

In 1963, leaders of six African nations, meeting in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, formed the Organization of African Unity.

In 1979, an American Airlines DC10 lost an engine and nosedived into the ground at Chicago's O'Hare Airport. The crash killed all 272 people aboard, the worst disaster in the history of U.S. aviation.

Ten years ago: The manager of President Nixon's re-election campaign said he regarded the question of who would be Nixon's vice presidential running mate "an open question." John Mitchell's remark led to speculation Nixon was preparing to seek an alternative to Vice President Spiro Agnew on the 1972 GOP ticket.

Five years ago: South Moluccan extremists holding hostages in the Netherlands backed down from a threat to start killing them when the government refused to honor the deadline for their 5th day.

Mario Andretti was declared the winner of the Indianapolis 500 after race officials voided the earlier declared victory of driver Bobby Unser. Andretti's victory was the result of a one-lap penalty race officials imposed on Unser.

Death Sentence Is Reinstated

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A state official says it could be six months to one year before condemned killer John Louis Evans III can be executed in the Alabama electric chair.

The U.S. Supreme Court restored Evans' death sentence Monday saying a lower court misread an earlier order dealing with Alabama's 1975 death penalty law. Evans, a native of Beaumont, Texas, has openly admitted to the 1977 murder of a Mobile, Ala. pawn shop owner.

After the ruling was issued, Alabama Attorney General Charles Graddick said Evans' execution could be scheduled "within six to 12 months."

Graddick said he was uncertain how the ruling would affect other death row cases that are being reconsidered because of the high court's 1975 ruling that found Alabama's death penalty flawed.

The court said the death penalty law did not permit capital murder juries to find a defendant guilty of a lesser crime not punishable by death.

There was no immediate word from Evans' attorneys on the possibility of further appeals or when a new death date might be set.

Evans, 32, said he and cohort Wayne Ritter shot pawn shop owner Edward Nassar to death on Jan. 5, 1977 while roaming from state to state on a crime spree.

Evans and Ritter, who had served prison sentences together in Indiana, each asked their trial jury for the death penalty.

Within six hours of execution in 1979, Evans appealed his conviction and death sentence, saved only by a last minute stay that he had not sought.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans set aside Evans' death sentence and ordered a new trial.

But the U.S. Supreme Court Monday overturned the appeals judges, voting 9-0 to reinstate Evans' capital murder conviction. And the justices voted 7-2 to reinstate his death sentence, with capital punishment opponents William J. Brennan and Thurgood Marshall dissenting.

The action sets the stage for Alabama's first execution since 1965.

In 1980, the Supreme Court overturned the death sentences of more than 30 inmates in a ruling on a case known as Beck v. Alabama.

In a separate proceeding the 5th Circuit invalidated Evans conviction.

But Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, speaking for the Supreme Court in its opinion Monday, said, "The court of appeals misread our opinion in Beck."

The court said the jury need only be instructed of a possible lesser charge when "the evidence warrants such an instruction," Burger said. "The jury's discretion is thus channeled so that it may convict a defendant of any crime fairly supported by the evidence."

Burger said that in the Evans case, there is no question that the evidence points to first-degree murder and no lesser crime.

"In another case with different facts," said Burger, "a defendant might make a plausible claim that he would have employed different trial tactics" if the jury could have considered a lesser offense than capital murder. "However, that is not this case, since the defendant here confessed that he shot the victim and then pleaded guilty to capital murder."

Evans, during his trial, told the jury he shot Nassar to death during a robbery, one of many he said he committed as he and Ritter traveled across several states.

Ritter changed his mind about demanding the death sentence and appealed after being placed on death row. Because Ritter didn't pull the trigger in the Nassar killing, his appeal took a different route and, last year, he was granted a new trial.

"YOU DON'T PUT a budget together without accommodation and compromise," says Budget Director David Stockman, who — in contrast to last year — is remaining behind the scenes in efforts to produce a federal budget that will satisfy Congress without sacrificing the administration's commitments to lower taxes and higher defense spending.

One of the most fragrant spices blended in incense, cinnamon was burned at the funeral of Poppea, Nero's second wife. The city of Rome had to relinquish its entire annual supply for the show of grief.

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

Times are tough. Tighten your belts. Pinch your pennies. Almost daily Americans are being asked to sacrifice to help bring the country out of recession.

Can they be blamed for getting angry when the very lawmakers asking for the sacrifices make laws to enrich themselves? I think not. Members of Congress made a big mistake last year by voting themselves increased tax breaks and more outside income. I voted against it and did not claim it on my tax return.

What Congress did was lift a $3,000 limit on tax deductions for living expenses members incur in Washington. The change permits depreciation of a residence in Washington and allows a daily "expense account."

With this "expense account," members of Congress have a choice of itemizing their actual expenses or taking up to a $75 blanket deduction for each "congressional day." They do not even have to account for that $75. To give you an idea of the effect of this change, the IRS allowed 241 "congressional days" for 1981, when Congress only met for 165 days. Under this new change in the law, that would have added up to $18,075 in tax deductions for members of Congress, deductions that wouldn't have to be accounted for.

I believe those tax breaks are wrong and cannot argue with those who say Congress took a "back door" means of avoiding voting itself a pay raise.

All other taxpayers in this country have to justify their tax deductions. There is not a single other business or profession allowed this generous a deal. Why should Congress set itself apart from the rest of the people?

I strongly support repeal of these business tax deductions for Congress.

In addition to changing the tax code, Congress last year also voted to lift restrictions on outside income, such as honoraria for speeches. There is no longer any annual limit on such earnings, although a limit of $2,000 for each speech was retained.

It always has been my policy to not accept honoraria or any gratuities that are offered when I am asked to make a speech. I suggest, instead, that if the organization inviting me wishes to do so, it give the money to a charitable organization.

The action Congress took last fall to give itself a "back door" pay increase, to give its members a special tax break that other Americans don't have—at a time when spending on other government programs was being cut, at a time when recession was throwing many Americans out of work—was wrong.

Congress sent the wrong signal to the American people. A change in signals would be in order.

Colonization Scheduled

HOUSTON (AP) — President Reagan will commit the United States to establishing a permanent orbiting space station by the end of the decade and colonizing outer space, a television station reports.

In a copyright story Monday night, KHOU-TV said Reagan will outline his goals in a major policy statement after the space shuttle Columbia completes its fourth mission.

KHOU said the president will wait at Edwards Air Force Base in California for the shuttle landing, now scheduled for July 4.

The president's goal will be to establish a major orbiting space station by 1990, a semi-permanent station as early as 1984 and to redouble efforts to get Western private and government operations into space, the television station said, quoting unnamed sources in the White House and National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The president believes building and manning of a space station is necessary because the Soviets have already established an orbiting space station, KHOU quoted sources as saying.

The White House already has begun to reclassify spy satellite photographs of Russian and Cuban military buildings, which will be the keystone in the president's arguments to upgrade the space program, KHOU said.

Professor Predicts Big Earthquake

ST. LOUIS (AP) — America's next big earthquake is likely to be centered in Missouri's Bootheel and probably will cause $15 billion in damage across the Midwest from Dallas to Chicago, scientists predict.

"There is a 25 percent chance that the next great earthquake in this country by the year 2,000 will occur in the Mississippi Valley," Otto W. Nuttli, professor of geophysics at St. Louis University, said Monday.

Nuttli's prediction was part of an earthquake workshop presented this week by the U.S. Geological Survey and the Federal Emergency Management Center at St. Louis University.

Nuttli called southern Missouri "the most active earthquake area of the United States east of the Rocky Mountains."

The reason is the New Madrid Fault, which extends about 150 miles northeast from Marked Tree, Ark., through southeastern Missouri to Cairo, Ill.

The fault produced the nation's strongest earthquake in the winter of 1811-12. Three powerful quakes — about 8.5 on the Richter scale — shook a wide area, doing damage to buildings as far away as Cincinnati.

Nuttli warned that state and local governments today are unprepared for another earthquake.

"This hazard on the whole has been ignored by government officials; architects and engineers," he said.

Part of the problem, said Arthur Atkisson, an environmental engineer at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, is the time and cost required to make buildings strong enough to withstand a major earthquake.

"It took California 50 years to make their schools safe," Atkisson said. "There are no constituencies that give a damn, and legislators aren't going to act without them."

"We have to act before it's too late. We have to have enough guts to act without the constant reminders they have in California."

Atkisson said one way to get started was to "ratchet up" building codes and require that people who rehabilitate old buildings make foundations strong enough to withstand tremors.

"We should link them to other problems," he said. "People should be required to strengthen buildings against tornadoes, high winds and snow as well."

Geophysicist Ted Algermissen of the U.S. Geological Survey warned the scientists and government officials that an earthquake the magnitude of the 1811-1812 quakes would do much more damage today.

"Tall buildings can be damaged at relatively large distances," he said. "This would affect a broad area of the Midwest — as far away as Dallas and Chicago."

Federal officials estimated a major quake could do up to $15 billion in damage and said it would affect parts of Arkansas, Kentucky, Missouri and Tennessee.

Federal planners said a severe earthquake would shut down most communication facilities in the country's heartland and bring traffic on the country's three major rivers — the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio, to a standstill.

President Lobbies For Passage

President Reagan is intensifying his efforts to win House passage of a Republican-drafted budget and to defeat a separate bill before the Senate that would authorize $5 billion to aid the housing industry.

Reagan said Monday he will be making more calls to lawmakers in the next few days on behalf of a "bipartisan recovery bill" in the House that calls for $95 billion in tax increases over three years and cuts of $76 billion in domestic and benefit programs, as well as a reduction of $28 billion in the administration's defense buildup.

It projects a deficit of $101.6 billion in 1983, about $77 billion in 1984 and $49 billion in 1985.

Reagan told reporters he made several calls to members of Congress over the weekend.

"I believe the bipartisan recovery budget has a fighting chance to win if responsible members of the House will rally to support it," Reagan said.

The president said in a nationally televised statement early in the day that House approval of the budget prior to an international economic summit in France in early June would demonstrate to Western nations that the United States is serious about bringing down high interest rates.

Many economists have blamed high interest rates in part on deficits caused by unrestrained government spending.

While Reagan was lobbying for a budget, he also made it clear he opposed a provision in an emergency spending bill before the Senate that would authorize $5 billion to bail out the struggling housing industry. The bill would provide mortgage subsidies to qualifying families. A version of the bill before the Senate has been passed by the House.

"This would compound the deficit problem, keep interest rates excessively high and weaken the economic recovery," Reagan said in a letter to Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn.

Baker said the president was likely to veto a bill containing the housing provision.

In other economic news:

—The nation's steel executives prepared for three-day meeting in New York on the depressed state of the industry, operating at an estimated 50 percent of capacity. The opening of the general meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute was scheduled today.

—A group of business economists said a lukewarm recovery with reduced inflation but high unemployment is the best the nation can expect this summer with the federal budget deficit soaring past $100 billion. A poll of the National Association of Business Economists said the private analysts believe the recession is continuing in the current April-June quarter but that the economy will turn upward this summer.

—Yields on short-term Treasury securities fell for the seventh time in eight weeks at Monday's auctions, hitting their lowest levels since last December. About $4.9 billion in six-month Treasury bills were auctioned at an average discount rate of 11.677 percent, down from the 12.187 percent of last week. Last Dec. 14 the level was 11.595 percent.

Herd's Maroon-White Clash Ends Spring Drills

Intra-Squad Games Slated Today at Whiteface Stadium

Hereford Whiteface football fans, still basking in the glory of the championship 1981 season, will get a preview of the new edition of the Hostile Herd tonight at the annual Maroon-White game.

Two intra-squad games will serve as a climax to the spring training program, with the freshmen teeing up the pigskin at 5 p.m. and the varsity clash set for 7:30 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

All interested grid fans are invited to the two spring contests. Should heavy rainfall occur, the games could be moved to the practice field, since the grass is thin in the middle of Whiteface Stadium.

Whiteface Boosters will hold an election of officers at halftime of the varsity intra-squad contest, according to Chuck Cosper, the 1981-82 president.

Coach Don Cumpton and his assistants are finishing the spring drills 158 grid prospects, and they'll all see action tonight—except for a half dozen or more who are nursing injuries. Cumpton says the team will be "smaller but quicker" than last year's quarterfinal champs, who lost a close semifinal game to the eventual state champion Lake Highland team.

The Whiteface boss hopes his team is further along in spring preparations than usual. With Hereford in a nine-team league this fall, Cumpton figured the team was going to have to be ready for championship play a lot earlier.

The Herd opens play here Sept. 3 against Pampa, then travels to Canyon on Sept. 10 to complete non-district play. The following week, the Whitefaces launch district action and play eight consecutive contests.

The new district alignment includes the four Amarillo schools, three Lubbock schools and Plainview. District coaches will choose the favorite this summer at the state coaching school, and Hereford and Plainview are likely candidates.

Cumpton said the coaches attempted to divide the squads as "evenly as possible" for tonight's Maroon-White game. While the team has only two offensive and two defensive returning starters, several others saw plenty of action last season.

Three of the veterans will be on the Maroon team tonight. They include center Tim Martin, guard Mark Collier and quarterback Charles McDowell (a defensive starter last year). Linebacker Freddy Garcia, the other returning starter, heads up the White team.

But the Whites have not been short-changed. They have their share of the 16 returning lettermen, including the hard-hitting Garcia and all-district runner Alfred Ball.

Cumpton has said there is no clear-cut leader to take over the quarterback post this fall, so the game could give a hint as to who is moving to the forefront. These are several strong candidates, including returning defensive starter McDowell, who is probably the fastest of the prospects.

McDowell, Robert Abalos and Stacy Evans are listed as Maroon quarterbacks tonight, while Jeff Streun, Mike Scott and Sammy Suarez will be on the White team.

The Herd will have 43 seniors on the varsity this fall. There will be 51 juniors and 65 sophomores seeking spots on the varsity, junior varsity and soph teams.

Times in SWC Meet Adjusted

HOUSTON (AP) — Athletic officials say because someone made "an honest mistake" most of the times recorded in a Southwest Conference track meet here May 14-15 were off by .05 of a second.

Mike Takaha, an administrative assistant to University of Houston track Coach Tom Tellez, said the volunteer official interpreting the "Accutrack" timing system apparently used the wrong reference point and added 5 percent of a second to most times.

Some times were correct, but conference officials said most athletes ended up with better times — including one whose adjusted time became an SWC record.

Tom Turbiville, an SWC spokesman, said the new times would become official and SWC track coaches were being sent a revised listing. The new times also will be used in determining seedings in next week's NCAA championships at Provo, Utah.

Takaha said times in only three of 12 running events during the two-day event remained the same after an extensive review was completed over the weekend.

The times of Houston's Stanley Floyd, who won the 100 meters in 10.32, and Arkansas' Randy Stephens, winner of the 1,500 in 3:44.10, and Pat Vaughn, winner of the 10,000 in 29:26.16, were unchanged.

Houston's Cletus Clark benefitted from the change, having his record-tying 13.74 victory in the 110-meter high hurdles, changed to a SWC record 13.68.

The Accutrack system does not show a numerical readout of the times as athletes cross the finish line, Takaha said. Instead, officials must interpret a photo taken of the finish and compare it with a series of dots on the side of the photo.

"It's really not an uncommon mistake," Takaha said. "There is a series of dots and times at the side for each .10 and a bigger dot for each .05. Occasionally, people will use the wrong dot."

Two other records were broken in the running events at the meet, then adjusted even lower after the review.

Baylor's Paul Montgomery was announced as running a record 49.19 in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles. His time subsequently was lowered to 49.14. Texas' Sam Sitnik had his record 8:44.99 time in the 3,000-meter steeplechase reduced to 8:44.78 in the re-check.

"It was an honest mistake," said Takaha. "He made the same mistake all the way through. I've seen it happen at national meets before, even with experienced readers. I have a feeling this has happened at a lot of other meets where the pictures were not reviewed."

Adjusted winning times in other events included: 400-meter relay, Houston, 39.40 instead of 39.45; 400 meters, Leslie Brooks, SMU, 45.96 from 46.01; 800 meters, Randy Stephens, Arkansas, 1:48.06 from 1:48.11; 200 meters, Phillip Epps, TCU, 20.47 from 20.52; 5,000 meters, Ronnie Carroll, Arkansas, 14:06.10 from 14:06.86; 1,600-meter relay, Baylor, 3:04.93 from 3:04.98.

Lakers Guessed Right, Meet 76ers in Playoffs

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Lakers, who have spent more time waiting than playing during the National Basketball Association playoffs, are glad they will face the Philadelphia 76ers in the championship series.

The Lakers don't necessarily believe the 76ers are an easier opponent than the Boston Celtics would have been. It's just that Los Angeles has been preparing longer for Philadelphia.

"I really didn't care who we played," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley. "But we had been gearing up to play Philadelphia ever since they took a 3-1 series lead. We knew it was a real possibility that we'd be playing the Sixers Sunday in the first game, so all our preparations were in that direction. I'm just relieved that their series is over."

If the 76ers could have beaten Boston in the fifth or sixth game of their Eastern Conference final series last week, the championship series would have started last Sunday. But on that day, Philadelphia, which collapsed against Boston a year ago after taking a 3-1 lead, had to play a seventh game, which it won, 120-106 at Boston for its fourth and clinching victory.

Now, the opener of the final series will be Thursday, 12 days since the Lakers finished a four-game sweep of San Antonio in the Western Conference final series.

"I can't afford to worry about a layoff," Riley said. "We just have to keep working. We have veteran ballplayers and a layoff won't affect them as much as it would affect a younger team."

"The players are bored and just want to play. It's been so long since we played I just hope we remember how."

The Lakers, who beat Philadelphia in six games in the 1980 championship series, have showed in this year's playoffs why they had the best regular-season record (58-24) in the Western Conference.

Los Angeles also set a record for consecutive road playoff victories with six straight, dating back to the last game of the 1980 series against the 76ers.

"I think the main ingredient on the team right now is that it is so together," Riley said. "The chemistry is probably one of the main reasons we are playing so well. The players are behind each other all the way."

The Lakers had a bye in the first round of this year's playoffs and had to wait nine days before the Phoenix series started. After sweeping the Suns, Los Angeles then had to go another week without a game before meeting San Antonio.

Los Angeles beat Phoenix and San Antonio, with four-game sweeps each time, to become the first team in NBA history to capture two straight best-of-seven series without a loss.

The NBA record for consecutive playoff victories is nine, set by the Minneapolis Lakers, who won the last game of the 1949 playoffs and the first eight of the 1950 postseason. The eight 1950 victories included a one-game division tiebreaker, three two-game series sweeps and a triumph in the first game of the best-of-seven finals.

Los Angeles also set a record for consecutive road playoff victories with six straight, dating back to the last game of the 1980 series against the 76ers.

"I think the main ingredient on the team right now is that it is so together," Riley said. "The chemistry is probably one of the main reasons we are playing so well. The players are behind each other all the way."

Seaver Bombed by Phils

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

Tom Seaver, for years one of the best pitchers in baseball, is baffled. Things have never gone so wrong for so long.

"I've been pitching poorly for almost two months," Seaver said Monday night after being bombed by the Philadelphia Phillies. "I don't think I've ever pitched this badly for this long of a time."

Seaver gave up seven runs on nine hits in five innings, absorbing his sixth loss in seven decisions as the Phillies beat the Cincinnati Reds 9-1. The victory was Philadelphia's third in a row, while the Reds lost for the sixth straight time.

Bo Diaz drove in three runs and homered to back Steve Carlton in his first victory over Cincinnati since May 19, 1980.

In the rest of Monday night's National League action, San Diego defeated Chicago 8-2, New York downed Atlanta 5-3, Montreal blanked Houston 2-0, St. Louis shut out San Francisco 6-0 and Pittsburgh routed Los Angeles 9-3.

Seaver was 14-2 last season and finished second in the NL Cy Young balloting to Fernando Valenzuela, and he says he hasn't a clue to his terrible start.

Carlton, 5-6, spaced four hits over eight innings with three walks and three strikeouts before getting last-inning relief help from Warren Brusstar.

Padres 8, Cubs 2

Tim Lollar won his fifth game without a loss, working seven innings and getting offensive support from Ruppert Jones, who extended his hitting streak to 13 games with a 3-for-3 performance.

Jones drove in three runs, and San Diego took advantage of some sloppy Chicago fielding and wildness by Cubs pitchers Dickie Noles and Dick Tidrow to score five runs in the third inning. The Padres had just three hits in the inning, but Chicago committed two errors and yielded three walks.

Mets 5, Braves 3
Ellis Valentine drove in his first two runs of the season with a two-run homer, and New York extended its winning streak to three games behind the pitching of Pat Zachry and Neil Allen.

Valentine's homer staked Zachry to a 2-1 lead in the fourth inning, and the Mets right-hander handcuffed the Braves until the eighth when he yielded a run on three hits. Allen relieved Zachry with none out in the eighth and pitched two hitless innings for his 11th save.

The Mets put the game away with three runs in the sixth, chasing rookie starter Ken Dayley, 1-2. Glenn Hubbard homered in the Atlanta first.

Expos 2, Astros 0
Montreal won its fourth in a row with a pair of unearned runs, and Bill Gullickson and Woody Fryman teamed on an eight-hit shutout.

The Expos scored both their runs in the sixth inning on an error by first baseman Denny Walling and Al Oliver's run-scoring single. Gullickson held the lead until walking the first man in the ninth, and Fryman finished up.

The Astros now have gone scoreless in the last 21 innings and have lost three in a row.

Cards 6, Giants 0
Joaquin Andujar pitched a six-hit shutout, his second of the season, to lead St. Louis over San Francisco. Willie McGee led the St. Louis attack with a three-run triple in a five-run fourth inning.

Andujar did not allow an extra-base hit while striking out five and walking none. The shutout was the fifth pitched against the Giants this season.

Andujar pitched his first shutout since 1977 on April 17 when he had a three-hitter against Philadelphia.

Pirates 9, Dodgers 3
Pittsburgh snapped a 2-2 tie with six runs after two were out in the seventh inning, and the Pirates won their second straight after losing three in a row.

Lee Lacy got the rally started with a two-run double, and Tony Pena also drove in two runs in the inning. Jason Thompson drove in Pittsburgh's final run with a ninth-inning homer, his 12th of the season.

Don Robinson, 5-0, pitched Pittsburgh's first complete game of the season, scattering 10 hits while striking out five and walking three.

Report Slated Today On Ranger 'Sessions'

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — A news conference scheduled today by Texas Rangers officials followed lengthy meetings called by owner Eddie Chiles with team management, coaches and players Monday in the wake of heavy losses.

Rangers executive vice president Eddie Robinson announced the press conference for 1:30 p.m. CST at Arlington Stadium. More team meetings were also planned, he said.

The team has lost 21 of its last 26 games, with the latest defeat on Sunday.

"The meetings were fruitful, and I am not at liberty to say what went on at them," Robinson said in a telephone interview Monday night from his Fort Worth home. "There will be (more) meetings tomorrow."

Asked whether personnel changes were decided at the meetings, Robinson said, "I really can't say what went on."

Manager Don Zimmer had speculated that he or Robinson might be fired as a result of the team's poor performance.

"I'm going to three meetings, but I couldn't begin to tell you what they're about," Zimmer said before Monday's meetings. "But we know something has to be done."

Zimmer said he thought about the possibility of being fired.

"But who hasn't thought about it?" he said.

Chiles had imposed a strict news blackout around meetings with Zimmer, his staff and players. The owner alerted Arlington Stadium security to keep the media away from the Ranger offices. The first talks were with Zimmer and Robinson.

That talk preceded separate conferences with the Rangers coaching staff and team Monday afternoon. "I've put a news blackout on the whole situation," Chiles said earlier from his home in Fort Worth. "I don't want any reporters or media anywhere around the meetings."

The first meeting was at Robinson's office and the others followed at Zimmer's office and the players' lounge adjacent to the club house.

The Rangers suffered a painful 5-3 loss to the Kansas City Royals. Chiles had earlier expressed his displeasure at the team's losses.

But Chiles described the meeting as a "work session." "I'm not firing anybody," he said. "I've said some things I wish I hadn't said. The more I've thought about it, the more I've analyzed it, the more I realize we have a lot to do to get things straightened out."

Zimmer said some type of a trade might result from the meetings.

"I'm not mad at anybody," Chiles said, adding that the news blackout is not "to spite anybody. I just feel like I've got a job to do and I don't need any help."

TL No-Hitter Goes To Jackson Pitcher

By The Associated Press
It will be easy for Jose Rodriguez to remember his first game as a starting pitcher in the Texas League.

Rodriguez, a relief pitcher, pitched a no-hitter as the Jackson Mets shut out the San Antonio Dodgers, 5-0, in the second game of a doubleheader Monday night.

San Antonio won the opening game, 4-2.

In other Texas League games, Amarillo edged Shreveport, 7-5, El Paso whipped Arkansas, 8-3, and Midland beat Tulsa, 10-5.

It was the first no-hitter by a Jackson pitcher since 1979.

Rodriguez, 1-1, walked two and struck out five. Terry Blocker singled home the only run Jackson needed in the third inning. The Mets added another on a single by Rick Poe in the fourth inning. An infield hit by Rick McMullen and a sacrifice fly by Darryl Strawberry added two more runs in the fifth.

Butch Wickensheimer, 1-3, was the losing pitcher.

Catcher Dan Bilardello's two-run homer in the opening game powered the Dodgers to a 4-2 victory.

Paul Voigt, 6-3, was the winning pitcher. The loser was Ted Davis, 4-3.

Dan Purpura's two-run double in the seventh inning gave the Amarillo Gold Sox a 7-5 victory over the Shreveport Captains.

The winning pitcher was Frank Williams. Steve Stone, 8-4, was the loser.

Chisox Hurler Wins 14th in Row

By MIKE EMBRY AP Sports Writer

Being the winningest pitcher in the major leagues with the league's best earned run average doesn't keep a pitcher immune to criticism. Just ask Chicago's LaMarr Hoyt.

The rap against Hoyt is that his teammates have been overly generous in run production. In his last five starts before Monday night the White Sox had scored 52 runs.

That changed Monday night when Chicago eked out a 3-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals. The 27-year-old right-hander scattered eight hits and struck out eight to register his ninth straight victory of the season.

Hoyt said he felt he needed to win a tight game to prove something to his detractors.

"To a point, yes," said Hoyt, who boasts a 1.45 ERA. "(Paul) Splittorff threw well and I thought it was going to be a 1-0 game."

In other American League action, Cleveland blasted Minnesota 9-2 and Baltimore edged Toronto 7-5. California at Boston was rained out.

Kansas City Manager Dick Howser didn't have to be impressed by the White Sox pitcher who now has a 27-6 career record, including a 16-0 slate in Comiskey Park.

"I really like the way he goes after the hitters," he said. "He attacks the hitters. You have to give him credit. He really has a good idea of what he's doing."

Hoyt's shutout bid ended with two outs in the ninth when Hal McRae and Cesar Geronimo hit back-to-back doubles.

He now has 14 straight victories dating back to last season, three short of the American League record of 17 set by Johnny Allen of Cleveland in 1936-37 and equaled by Dave McNally of Baltimore in 1968-69.

The major league mark of 24 straight victories was established by Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants in 1936-37.

Indians 9, Twins 2
Cleveland pitcher Len Barker allowed only four hits and took advantage of the Indians' 11-hit attack that included a three-run homer in the first inning by Andre Thornton.

Barker, 5-2, struck out six and gave up two walks in recording the fifth complete game by a Cleveland pitcher this season.

Orioles 7, Blue Jays 5
Gary Roenicke stroked three hits and drove in two runs to lead the Orioles over Toronto.

Roenicke's first hit, a home run in the first inning, gave Baltimore a 1-0 lead. It was his 10th homer of the season.

The Orioles chased loser Jim Clancy, 5-3, in the second with four runs.

Baltimore starter Scott McGregor, 6-3, worked 71-3 innings for the victory. Tim Stoddard came on in the eighth and gained his third save of the year.

French Open Greatest, Wimbledon Worst, Says Star

PARIS (AP) — The $917,000 French Open tennis championship has begun with some harsh comments about its British Grand Prix counterpart.

"If there was a players' boycott of Wimbledon, I'd be with them all the way," No. 5-seed Vitas Gerulaitis said after a hard-fought, first-round victory Monday over fellow American Erik Iskersky on the clay courts of Paris' Roland Garros Stadium.

"The French Open is the greatest tournament in the year for players and spectators," Gerulaitis said. "Wimbledon is the worst. The French Open improves every year while at Wimbledon if they increase the size of the tea room, it's a big deal."

Gerulaitis, ranked eighth in the world, came from behind for his 6-7, 6-3, 7-6, 6-3 victory over Iskersky, who is ranked 73rd.

All five other seeded players who played Monday made it into the second round.

Czechoslovakian Ivan Lendl, 22, easily defeated Fernando Maynetto of Peru 6-0, 6-4, 6-1. Lendl, who is vying for the first grand-slam title of his career, also had comments about Wimbledon.

"I've said I'll decide after the French Open whether or not I'll play Wimbledon," said Lendl, who now has won 90 of the 93 matches he has played since September. "I'm tired of talking about it."

Argentines Guillermo Vilas and Jose-Luis Clerc, the third and fourth seeds, respectively, in Paris, have announced they will not participate at Wimbledon this year because of the Falkland Islands conflict between Britain and Argentina.

Vilas, the 1977 French Open champion, had little trouble eliminating Frenchman Christophe Freyss 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 in his first-round match.

"It's always important to play well in your first match of any tournament and I'm happy with the way I played today," Vilas said.

Clerc moved into the second round with a 6-2, 6-4, 6-1 defeat of Spain's Eduardo Osta, who entered the tournament on a lucky loser's card.

Top-seed Jimmy Connors was to play for the first time today along with fellow American Eliot Teltscher, the No. 6 seed, Australian Peter McNamara, seeded seventh, and No. 8-seed Yannick Noah of France.

Connors, who was seeded first after an injured ankle forced American John McEnroe to withdraw before play began, was to meet American Bruce Manson in his first-round match.

The 29-year-old Connors has never made it into the finals of the French Open and has not won a grand-slam event since his third U.S. Open title in 1978.

A victory in Paris would make Connors the first American to win the French Open since Tony Trabert's victory 27 years ago.

American Chris Evert Lloyd, the No. 1 seed among the women, was trying for her fifth French title. The 27-year-old had a first-round bye and comes on court for the first time on either Wednesday or Thursday.

HEALTH Needs headache help

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Please help. My sister, age 61, has been suffering with headaches for many years. She lives on Excedrin which is the only thing that relieves them. They are not considered migraines. She has been examined by neurologists, had an allergy work-up done, eyes examined, seen an ENT specialist, a chiropractor - nothing has helped. She was told they are tension headaches and was given Valium. She does not feel tense but frequently feels a burning sensation in her nose, mouth and throat. She gets a headache almost every day, even when walking in the morning. She's now considering acupuncture. Please give us your opinion. She's at her wits' end and doesn't know where to turn next.

DEAR READER - A headache is a symptom, not a diagnosis. Even though there are many causes for a headache, such as a cold, or rarely even a brain tumor, the mechanisms that produce the ache are limited. They may involve dilatation of arteries that cause the ache, as in migraine headaches, contraction of muscles of the scalp and head area that cause an ache or even pressure against sensitive structures in the brain. Surprisingly, though, much of the brain is painless.

Considering the many examinations by competent physicians that your sister has had and the time span involved you can eliminate such things as a brain tumor. And she doesn't have a story of migraine headaches.

Very often headaches of this nature are caused by emotional conflict and end up being called tension headaches. That could mean that she has anxiety. People often do not know they are really anxious or that they have anything to be anxious about. If they did it would be much easier for them to correct the situation. It would be worth your sister's time to have a consultation with a psychiatrist. He may be able to tell fairly soon if her headaches are the result of an emotional conflict.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My wife wakes out of a deep sleep every so often with terrible pains because of cramps in the toes, feet and shin. She walks the floor to get rid of the spasms and pain. What else can she do? Can I help her by massaging the affected areas?

DEAR READER - This is a common complaint. One reason it occurs at night is that the body temperature falls at night. That is part of the 24-hour cyclical change in body temperature. When a muscle gets cool it is more likely to contract and cramp. The legs are the farthest from the heart and apt to be the coolest.

Some years ago many of my readers wrote in that they got benefit from heavy wool socks - to the knees. The point is to keep the feet and legs warm. Prevent the excess nightly cooling.

Also it helps to stretch the muscles, such as the calf, that tend to cramp. A nightly stretching exercise before going to bed is a good idea. Put a board at the bottom of the bed with a pillow against it to keep the covers off the feet so the toes don't point down and put the muscles in a position to cramp.

Bankruptcy Judge Refuses To Release Farmer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A federal bankruptcy judge has turned down Missouri farmer Wayne Cryts' request to be released from a jail in Arkansas, saying Cryts holds the key to freeing himself.

"He can do so by telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth," Judge Charles Baker said Monday. Baker ruled that Cryts "has planted the seeds of sedition" and must "harvest the bitter-sweet bounty of his own folly" by staying in jail.

Baker sent Cryts to the Pope County Jail in Russellville on April 28 for civil contempt of court. Cryts refused to say who helped him remove 31,000 bushels of soybeans from a grain elevator. Cryts stored the beans in the elevator, and although they were tied up in bankruptcy proceedings, he said they belonged to him.

"Mr. Cryts is in jail to make him testify," Baker said.

He denied a motion for temporary release and a motion to set bail so Cryts could be freed while his case is appealed. The appeal has been assigned to U.S. District Judge G. Thomas Eisele of Little Rock. No hearing date has been set.

Cryts, 35, of Puxico, Mo., and others took the grain July 22, 1981, from an elevator in Bernie, Mo., in defiance of a court order. Five months earlier, Cryts and others had seized the soybeans from an elevator at Ristine, Mo. The elevator was owned by the James family of Corning. The family had filed a petition in bankruptcy court.

Baker ordered the beans sold and the money invested until the final ownership could be determined. The American Agriculture Movement, of which Cryts is a national vice president, says the struggle is over property rights.

Baker freed Cryts from jail last week so he could testify in Washington in congressional hearings on proposals to change the bankruptcy laws.

Attorney F. Lee Bailey of Boston asked Baker to free Cryts until June 1 when Cryts' wife, father and two others must appear at a hearing before Baker, or until the U.S. Supreme Court decides the constitutionality of the federal Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1978.

"Cryts has chosen to thumb his nose at this court, his fellow farmers, the other unfortunate citizens who are owed money by the debtor and the taxpayers who must cover his unpaid loan," Baker said. Cryts borrowed money from the Commodity Credit Corp. on the beans at Ristine. The loan has been declared in default.

Baker said Cryts' argument that the bankruptcy law might be declared unconstitutional was speculative. Baker said an appeal on that basis could take years to resolve and the case already has taken too long.

"A conspiracy of silence jeopardizes the creditors' rights to a just portion of the debtors' assets," Baker said.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Entertainer Paul Anka has donated $25,000, the proceeds of a recent concert here, to the Clark County Victim Witness Program as part of a plea bargain.

The payment Monday was part of the settlement of a customs charge stemming from Anka's unauthorized removal of his luggage from a customs area at McCarran International Airport.

The singer-songwriter also paid a $2,000 fine. Anka was charged last month with removing goods secured by federal officials when he took the 16 bags. Anka later apologized, but said he was running late in making connections for another engagement.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Schneider and Tom Wopat, alleging fraud and breach of contract in a multimillion-dollar lawsuit, have quit the hit CBS series "The Dukes of Hazzard," their lawyer says.

The two stars, who play Bo and Luke Duke in the show, allege in the lawsuit that they were cheated of their share of the profits from more than $190 million in the merchandising of games, toys and other items bearing the likenesses of the characters.

The members of the Duke family "sure wouldn't stand for being cheated and neither will we," Schneider and Wopat said in a statement Monday.

Their lawyer, Harry Evan Sloan, said the pair will not report when the series resumes production for the fall in about two weeks.

OREM, Utah (AP) — Singer Marie Osmond and former Brigham Young University basketball player Steve Craig plan to marry June 26 in a small family ceremony at the Salt Lake City Mormon Temple.

Craig, 25, and Miss Osmond, 22, have been dating since they met 1½ years ago, with wedding plans in the making for the past several weeks, the Osmond family announced Monday.

After the ceremony, the couple plans a reception in Salt Lake City with 4,000 invited guests.

The groom-to-be, whose parents live in Los Angeles, is to graduate from college next spring with a bachelor's degree in communications and public relations.

CHICAGO (AP) — For a change, authorities want skyscraper-scaler Dan Goodwin to put his talents to use, and a judge here says he won't keep the human spider grounded.

Circuit Court Judge Harold A. Siegan gave Goodwin permission Monday to climb a 27-story building in New Orleans on June 2, ruling it would not violate terms of the climber's probation.

Siegan placed Goodwin, 26, on probation after the climber scaled the 100-story John Hancock Center here Nov. 11, violating a court order issued after his unsuccessful attempt to climb the building Nov. 1.

A lawyer for Goodwin, Stephen W. Zucker, told Siegan that Goodwin's New Orleans climb is part of completion ceremonies for a new office building and has the support of local officials, including New Orleans Mayor Ernest Morial.

Goodwin scaled Chicago's Sears Tower, the world's tallest building, on Memorial Day last year.

Mt. Erebus is one of three active Antarctic volcanoes. Located on Ross Island, it towers 13,200 feet.

Summer Reruns To Last Year-Round

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember the good old days when reruns were something you put up with in the summer after having first-run TV fare the rest of the year?

Now they're found in all seasons, including months like May when the ratings that determine local advertising rates are established.

Some shows you've seen on CBS actually have popped up on NBC. Why, NBC even trotted out specials from five years ago.

What you're seeing reflects several things:

—The high cost of producing new programs, which means fewer original episodes to spread over 52 weeks. In TV's golden days, networks bought 30-36 episodes. Now, they order 20 to 24, and some shows were further cut by last year's writers' strike. "Hill Street Blues," for example, had only 18 original episodes this season.

—A recognition by programmers that there are times — like the Christmas season — when original shows might be overlooked.

—The networks' realization that they can use substantially less-expensive reruns, draw smaller audiences, but still make money. In addition to regular viewers, reruns give people a chance to see shows they missed.

—And, the networks' discovery that viewers have shorter memories than programmers once thought.

NBC's programming for the May sweeps, which determine summer advertising rates, illustrates how the people who decide what we see on the air use both reruns and new programs in today's market.

The network anchored its prime-time programming with "Marco Polo," a sweeping epic that got the best ratings of any miniseries this season — 36 percent of the homes watching television tuned in on average over four nights.

Texas Weather

By The Associated Press

Severe thunderstorms continued their relentless assaults on most sections of Texas today, dumping heavy rain and spawning several tornado funnel clouds.

A flash flood warning was issued for Dallas, Tarrant and Denton Counties early today after heavy thunderstorms moved into the area. Some street flooding was reported at Haltom City, the National Weather Service said.

A tornado was sighted early today by San Angelo police about 10 miles northwest of San Angelo. There were no reports of injuries although winds gusted to 44 mph as a line of heavy thunderstorms passed through the San Angelo area.

Another tornado dipped into a grain field near Blossom in Northeast Texas. There were no reports of injuries.

A possible tornado was sighted northwest of LaMesa in Dawson County.

There were unconfirmed sightings of funnel clouds near Big Spring and in north Dallas. A funnel cloud was sighted northwest of Stanton, but it retreated back into storm clouds without touching down, authorities said.

Large hail, some up to the size of golf balls, fell in northern Midland County and at Stanton. Some wind damage was reported at Andrews.

Street flooding was reported early today at Abilene.

Amazing Diet Breakthrough: CUT CALORIES BUT NOT CONSUMPTION

At last, medical science has discovered a way to lose weight without reducing caloric intake. No more strict regimentation, fad diets, or gnawing hunger pains! Eat regular, nutritious, well-balanced meals and still lose weight.

Eleven years of scientific research

A noted Biochemist directed twenty-five other scientists in an eleven-year research study that discovered an incredibly effective diet aid.

The scientific team noted that when laboratory animals were fed uncooked kidney beans, undigested starch was found in their digestive systems. Evidence suggested that some substance in the raw beans prevented the digestion of starch. After years of painstaking research, the scientists isolated the substance and named it Special Legume Protein Concentrate (SLPC).

Caloric absorption blocked

SLPC performs its magic by prohibiting the carbohydrate-digesting enzyme, alpha-amylase, from digesting carbohydrates in the digestive tract. When SLPC is ingested prior to eating a meal containing starchy foods such as potatoes, rice, breads and pasta the SLPC inhibits the alpha-amylase from working. Undigested starch passes through the digestive tract and is eliminated—calories and all.

Convenient tablet formulation

Until now, SLPC has been restricted to use by physicians. But because SLPC is not a drug and is harmless when taken in combination with a variety of healthy foods, Nutrion Corporation has made this miraculous dietary breakthrough available to the public in tablet form, STARCH-LITE.

One STARCH-LITE tablet, taken at the beginning of each meal or snack, inhibits the ingestion of 400 starch calories—the amount of starch found in four baked potatoes, four slices of bread, two cups of rice, or two cups of pasta. While it is unlikely to consume such quantities of any one food in one meal; many fruits and vegetables also contain large amounts of starch, and thus each STARCH-LITE tablet is formulated to block the average starch content of one meal.

Food	Total calories	Starch calories blocked by STARCH-LITE	Calories remaining
Bread, one slice	110	100	10
Rice, 1 cup cooked	200	180	20
Macaroni, 1 cup cooked	210	168	42
Corn, 1 cup	174	160	14
Potato, 1 medium baked	120	100	20
Banana	120	104	16

The STARCH-LITE difference

Unlike most starch blockers on the market, STARCH-LITE is more than just granulated beans. The STARCH-LITE formulation includes a highly concentrated portion of the effective SLPC ingredient.

In addition to inhibiting carbohydrate absorption, STARCH-LITE tablets have been formulated with a bulking agent which serves as an appetite suppressant. In the stomach, each STARCH-LITE tablet expands to fifty times its original size, creating a full, satisfied feeling which naturally reduces your desire for food.

Safe and stable weight loss

One STARCH-LITE tablet taken with every meal results in pound after pound of excessive weight loss. You'll realize losses of five to ten pounds almost immediately. But most importantly, your weight will come off and stay off. With the continued use of STARCH-LITE, you'll never again have to suffer the frustrations of dieting.
