Parents applaud teachers' criticism

By JERI CURTIS
Managing Editor

Citizens applauded several times Tuesday night when veteran first grade and kindergarten teachers presented the Hereford School Board with their opinions on the mastery learning program and a parent group leader received a standing ovation, when he read a research paper which declared mastery learning as "humanistic".

Jim Conkright read excerpts from an essay by Charlotte Iserby, who had worked on President Reagan's transition team in educational areas and has served in several national education capacities in the capital, which claims that mastery learning takes away the ability to think problems through and instead teaches learned responses.

The paper also noted that the Arizona American Federation of Teachers had passed a resolution opposing mastery learning calling it an "inferior, radical experimental" program.

Conkright said copies of the paper would be distributed to each campus.

The board met with a nearly full cafeteria of parents and teachers, most apparently, objecting to the mastery learning plan Hereford schools have adopted, to review the first grade curriculum under the new plan.

Mrs. Augusta McCarley, a first grade teacher, was the first to give her presentation. She expounded on a few reasons the mastery learning was positive, but noted that it was detrimental to push a child too much and that part of teaching reading is not to hurry a child.

She said that before students learn to read they must be ready. Some first grade teachers, she said, are not at all comfortable with pre-testing, one of the big issues of mastery learning, but some are. Mrs. McCarley said that before a child can be taught to read with comprehension, he must have a vocabulary to fit what he is learning to read. She suggested reading readiness be stressed in kindergarten to better prepare a child for first grade.

She called it "a parent belief system" that says all first graders must learn to read. She added that the pre-test in the basal reading system has caused students to skip levels, when actually the skills must be stacked.

She also suggested having a counselor on each campus to administer all tests so that teachers may be freed for teaching.

Billie Birdwell, also a first grade teacher, said a majority of her peers do not want pre-testing on every level because of the time it consumes. She said 23 tests show 76 objectives for first graders. That much testing takes up about three weeks of schooling, not counting post-testing. She added that the children must be tested in small groups which leaves the rest of the class unattended or requires extra planning on the teacher's part.

She added that when a child enters school from another district it takes two to three days to test and place that child.

Letter to parent called intimidating

Local attorney Dino Barela, speaking as "a concerned citizen," said a letter sent to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lange by the Hereford School administration was an attempt at intimidation.

The letter, dated Feb. 21, 1985, warned the couple of the seriousness of violations of copyright laws and requested the relinquishing of a tape recording of their child being tested. Mrs. Lange said she did not record the testing session.

In a meeting last week, Mrs. Lange had requested to be present when her child was tested, and reported that the teacher was leading her child to be unsure of her first pick for an answer.

The letter explained that the taping of the test devalued its effectiveness and ruined its limited disclosure. It asked that the tape be returned or that the Langes tell the administration if they had not taped the session.

Mrs. Lange asked the administration for a public apology last night, but received no comment.

Barela told the group that the intimidation might work with the teacher, but warned that the parents wouldn't take it and that the administration was hired by taxpayers.

Tapes gave info for mob arrests

NEW YORK (AP) — Thousands of hours of tapes from 90 wiretaps and 80 bugging devices led to the indictment of five Mafia leaders who served on the mob's fabled "commission," and more indictments could help "break up the mob," a federal prosecutor said.

The reputed leaders of New York's five Mafia families and four other men were named in an indictment Tuesday describing the commission as the "ruling body" of a criminal enterprise that deals in murder, labor racketeering and extortion. The "commission" reportedly has served as organized crime's board of directors since the days of Prohibition.

"The commission promoted and encouraged a climate of fear" to keep Mafia factions from warring among themselves, from breaking the traditional code of silence and from infringing on each other's territory, the indictment said.

U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani said the government has thousands of hours of taped conversations, amassed during the past several years from 90 telephone taps and 80 hidden microphones, in which the alleged mobsters themselves discuss the commission and its work.

Giuliani said the surveillance provided "a lot of information to develop cases in the future and break up the mob."

One tap was put on a 1982 Jaguar used by Antonio "Tony Ducks" Corallo, reputed head of the Lucchese family. It allowed agents to trace him to a "sit-down" of family bosses and to hear him discussing afterward what transpired in the meeting, authorities said.

According to today's Daily News, a bug also was put in the Staten Island mansion of Paul "Big Paul" Castellano, the reputed head of the Gambino family and one of those indicted Tuesday.

The News said information about the inner workings of the mob arose

Farm vote postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans, frustrated last week by filibustering Democrats, are using some delaying tactics of their own to head off farm credit legislation opposed by President Reagan.

After Democrats said Tuesday they believed they had the votes to pass increases in government credit help, Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole abruptly postponed votes until today.

Also scheduled to stand trial on the March 5 district court docket is Johnny Ramirez, 27, who was indicted Oct. 9 for the Sept. 12 shotgun slaying of a 40-year-old Milton man.

Ramirez was arrested after the body of Gerardo Jasso Guzman was found in a parked car north of Umbarger.

Hereford attorney John Lesly is representing both men.

Full House

Nearly all the seats were taken in the Hereford High School cafeteria Tuesday night as school district patrons listened to teachers give reports on mastery learning at the special school board meeting. Major complaints from the teachers include having more paperwork with less time to teach and that pre-testing is not always the best indicator of a child's readiness for a subject.

Rep. Boulter wants study on putting high-level nuclear waste in orbit

By JUDY GIANNETTINO
Associated Press Writer

TULIA, Texas (AP) — Saying the idea merits at least a study, U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter, R-Texas, says he will introduce legislation that would look into the feasibility of disposing nuclear waste in space.

Boulter, a Republican freshman congressman from Amarillo, said he would push for such legislation in Congress this year, suggesting that one out of every four dollars put into the Nuclear Waste Fund be apportioned to NASA to study the idea.

Boulter made his comments at a Department of Energy hearing held in Tulia Tuesday to receive public comment on its environmental assessments of the Texas Panhandle as a potential site for the nation's first high-level radioactive waste repository.

If Texas is chosen as home for the controversial dump, it would be put on a nine-square-mile area of farmland about 16 miles north of Hereford in Deaf Smith County.

A similar site in Swisher County, for which Tulia is the county seat, was among nine "potentially acceptable sites" the DOE selected before whittling its list to three last December. The Deaf Smith County site, along with locations in Washington and Nevada, have been labeled as the three "preferred sites" by the Energy Department.

Boulter said he has studied the possibility of space disposal for nuclear waste for about three months and has concluded the proposal is the "obvious solution."

"The energy cost of sending several launched payloads or a permanent orbit around Earth and Venus would be relatively small and would get rid of the high-level radiation nuclear waste here on Earth," the congressman said.

The proposal has been studied by Energy Department officials, Boulter said. But, he said, they "decided to discredit this alternative by merely claiming that it will not work."

DOE-commissioned scientists, however, "believe they came up with a workable solution to this problem," Boulter said.

After testifying at the hearing, Boulter told reporters the cost of a space disposal program would be less than what the government plans to spend on its land-disposal program.

But, Boulter said, he could not give specifics on the costs or operation of such a program.

"I am not here to detail specifics," he said. "I am here to develop policy. The only thing I'm saying is that the evidence seems to say it's safer to put it (waste) in space."

Boulter added that National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials have told him the plan is "do-able."

Boulter also said he would seek legislation that would remove all privately held land from consideration as a site for the repository.

The Deaf Smith County site is on privately owned land, while the Washington and Nevada locations are federally owned.

About 30 other people testified at Tuesday's hearing, the first of three to be held in the state this week.

A public comment period on the preferred sites is to end March 20, after which exploratory construction work is to begin if President Reagan approves the locations.

A final decision is not expected for at least five years on where to locate the repository, which is to be operational by 1998.

The main concerns cited by area residents Tuesday about the Panhandle being chosen as a possible dump location were the effect the repository would have on the water supply and on agriculture production.

"We all know what happens to products that are thought to be harmful to people," said Brian Borchardt. "Consumers today demand high-quality food that is not tainted by chemicals, especially radiation."

Borchardt said that even the

Arson trial next week

A Hereford man scheduled to plead guilty to an arson charge Tuesday has decided to stand trial before a 22nd District Court Jury.

Pete Casias Jr., 28, will be tried on a first degree felony arson charge on March 5. Casias is accused of setting fire to the rental home in which he and his family were living at the time.

Punishment for the crime ranges from five to 99 years and up to a $20,000 fine. Casias is free on $5,000 bond.

Also scheduled to stand trial on the March 5 district court docket is Johnny Ramirez, 27, who was indicted Oct. 9 for the Sept. 12 shotgun slaying of a 40-year-old Milton man.

Ramirez was arrested after the body of Gerardo Jasso Guzman was found in a parked car north of Umbarger.

Hereford attorney John Lesly is representing both men.

Dole said he had to leave to make a speech to a civic group in Peoria, Ill., and added, "If we can't dispose of (the amendments), we'll probably talk at length," an expression often used to indicate a filibuster.

Dole's move appeared aimed at bringing White House pressure to bear on wavering GOP senators. He said Senate Republicans would caucus today to discuss the situation.

The tactic was used by Democrats last week to force Dole to allow votes on the farm credit aid issue, one the party believes it can use to win votes in 1986 when the GOP risks losing its slim Senate majority.

Dole and Reagan administration officials argued that the amendments, which would greatly liberalize a credit-aid program already being implemented by the Agriculture Department, would serve only to relieve banks of problem debt and do little to help farmers in need of loans for spring planting.

State officials due at Hereford hearing

Austin officials are expected to be out in force for the Department of Energy hearings Thursday in Hereford.

The DOE will be accepting citizen comment on the naming of a site in Deaf Smith County as one of the top three contenders for the nation's first high-level nuclear waste repository.

A spokesman for Texas Gov. Mark White's Nuclear Waste Programs Office said this morning that director Steve Frishman and his assistant, Dan Smith, will attend the hearings. The DOE has scheduled testimony from 4 to 9 p.m. Thursday at the Hereford High School auditorium.

Also expected from Austin are Julie Brody from the Texas Department of Agriculture, Assistant Attorney General Rene Hicks and Jim Reed from the Governor's Advisory Committee on Intergovernmental Relations.

Scheduled to testify on behalf of the State and Federal Relations Office in Washington, D.C. is Nancy Umbach.

Appearing on the panel, according to DOE's Salt Repository Project Office in Columbus, will be Jefferson Neff, program manager for that office, and Bill Bennett, Deputy Manager for the Office of Geologic Repository Deployment.

Susan Wiltshire of South Hamilton, Mass. will serve as moderator, while George Ritter of Canyon will appear as the local representative.

Similar hearings were conducted Tuesday in Tulia (see Associated Press story) and are planned for Friday in Austin.

Among Hereford residents attending the Tulia hearing was Tanya Kleuskens, chairman of People Opposed to Wasted Energy Repositories (POWER).

"They (DOE) are hearing all those things over and over because they have not addressed them in the first place," Kleuskens claimed.

Kleuskens said concerns about DOE information not being available in Spanish were aired during the Tulia hearings. She feels there has not been a strong enough effort on the part of the DOE to let Spanish-speaking persons know about the program.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower recently issued a news release criticizing the DOE for not having more materials available in Spanish. He said 1980 census figures showed 41 percent of Deaf Smith County residents are Hispanic, and 40 percent speak Spanish in the home.

Industrial seminar set

The Industrial Development committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is hosting an industrial seminar Thursday evening.

The seminar, similar but more in-depth than those held in 1979, 1980 and 1982, will begin at 7 p.m. at the Hereford Community Center. Mike Carr, Chamber executive director, said the seminar would last approximately an hour and a half.

John Krebs, manager of area development for Southwestern Public Service, will head the seminar. Dan Graham, who is responsible for this area through his office of the Texas Economic Development Council in Austin, will attend to discuss industrial development.

Carr said the program will include information on what industry looks at when considering a town for a location and what a town can and should do for attracting industry.

Auto accident kills Texas ranger

HOUSTON (AP) — A Texas Ranger was killed in an automobile accident early today when his vehicle went out of control after hitting the curb on the entrance ramp to U.S. Highway 290 in north Houston, the Department of Public Safety said.

He was identified as Charles B. Cook, 44, of Houston.

DPS spokesman David Wells said the accident happened at 12:45 a.m. as Cook pulled from the U.S. 290 service road onto the entrance ramp. The car hit the curb and the side of the ramp, became airborne and struck a large highway sign, Wells said.

The sign struck the top of the vehicle and windshield and hit Cook in the head, Wells said. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Cook had been a Texas Ranger since 1978. Before that, he served 11 years with the DPS, Wells said.

Rookie wins big on first case

HOUSTON (AP) — While police listened on hidden microphones, a raven-haired beauty used romance to lure a Houston man into confessing his part in the hired murder of a wealthy lawyer and his wife.

Kim Paris, 23, a rookie detective, lured the confession from David Duval West, 28, as a "final act of faith" in a romance that was actually a dangerous stalk of a suspected killer.

For West, though, it was almost love at first sight when he met the blue-eyed Ms. Paris. He proposed marriage to her on their second date.

Ms. West said she was glad it was over and added: "I don't feel sorry for him under the circumstances."

Police charged that West was hired to kill James H. Campbell, 55, and his wife, Virginia, 50. One of the Campbells four daughters, Cynthia Ray, 28, has been charged with capital murder of her mother. Authorities are seeking grand jury indictments.

The Campbells were shot to death in June, 1982 as they slept in their plush Houston mansion. The killer stepped over two of Ms. Ray's children, sleeping on the floor of their grandparents' bedroom, to shoot each of the Campbells twice in the head and once in the chest with a .45-caliber pistol.

Police called it a "professional killing" but were unable to make an arrest. Three months ago, three of the Campbells' four daughters hired Houston private detective Clyde Wilson to investigate the case.

Commission okays open ledgers

NEW YORK (AP) — If it would help reach a labor agreement, baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth says his office has no objection to players taking an unprecedented look at the financial ledgers of the clubs.

He also said after a club owners meeting Tuesday that if negotiators for both sides agreed it would be helpful, he would order the owners to "open their books."

In a statement issued by his office, Ueberroth said that if negotiators for management and labor both felt an open financial policy "could be critical to negotiations and would remove any lingering lack of trust between the parties... I would do it."

While union representatives said it was never their primary objective to see these financial records, the subject has come up in the past. The clubs would not be legally bound to show the union their books unless they used inability to pay as a negotiating tool.

Don Fehr, acting executive director of the Major League Players Association was in Washington and not available to comment on Ueberroth's statement.

Gangsters charged with murder

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Prosecutors filed murder charges today against three reputed gangsters in the slaying in California of a Chinese-American author whose writings had been critical of the Taiwan government.

Taipei's District Court Prosecutor's Office announced that in addition to murder, it has indicted Chen Chi-li, 41, his lieutenant Wu Tun, 35, and another reputed gangster, Tung Kuei-sen, 33, on charges of participating in "organized crimes."

Chen was charged with a third count, possession of firearms.

Chen and Wu were arrested last November in an anti-crime sweep unrelated to the slaying of writer Henry Liu at his home in Daly City, Calif., on Oct. 15.

Local press reports said they confessed to the murder when U.S. authorities linked them to the case and they later implicated three officials of the Taiwan Defense Ministry's Intelligence Bureau.

Government: Strike is finished

LONDON (AP) — The National Coal Board said today more than half of Britain's coal miners had abandoned a nearly year-old strike against mine closures, and Energy Secretary Peter Walker declared: "The strike is finished."

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's energy secretary called on the remaining strikers to "get back to work and start producing coal to be sold on the world markets. That must be the interests of the miners... The sooner this dreadful dispute is put behind us (the better)."

Arthur Scargill, the Marxist president of the National Union of Mineworkers, acknowledged there had been a surge back to work but said the board's figures were phony. He said 80 percent of those who started the strike were still not working.

A board spokesman said that a preliminary count of the early shift today showed more than 550 miners defecting from the strike. That brought the number working to well over 93,000 out of a national membership of the National Union of Mineworkers of 186,064.

Woman cleared of charge

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — American businesswoman Marie Lee McBroom was acquitted today of six charges of illegally exporting oil from Nigeria — offenses that can carry the death penalty on conviction.

Mrs. McBroom, 59, of Jersey City, N.J., was set free after the acquittal in the Lagos Special Military Tribunal where her trial began last Dec. 10 before Judge Adebayo Desalu.

Mrs. McBroom could have faced the firing squad if she had been convicted. The military government of Nigeria, black Africa's largest oil producer, warned last year that it would execute anyone convicted of illegally trafficking in oil because it was losing $1 million a day in unauthorized oil deals.

The prosecution had charged that Mrs. McBroom's firm, Palm International, never registered with the state petroleum corporation as a company dealing in oil, and that it engaged in a series of deals to export petroleum and refined products.

Mrs. McBroom countered with evidence showing she had registered the company to be an import-export firm and to earn commissions as an agent between buyer and seller. She maintained that the company had been merely an agent, not a dealer in the transactions before the court.

During first of talks

Pope meets with Gromyko

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul II today held his first meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko since the pontiff was shot in 1981 and the upheaval in the pope's native Poland.

Although some reports have linked the assassination plot to the Soviet KGB, the Vatican rolled out a red carpet welcome for Gromyko, posting additional Swiss guards in ceremonial attire at various entrances leading to the papal apartments in the Apostolic Palace.

Gromyko was greeted by Archbishop Jacques Martin, head of the papal household, when he arrived at the San Damasus courtyard inside the Vatican.

Gromyko was expected to try to enlist papal support in Moscow's campaign against the U.S. "Star Wars" space-based defense proposal, while the pontiff was expected to raise the issue of religious liberty in the Soviet Union.

The pope interrupted his Lenten spiritual retreat for the audience, which the Vatican said the Soviet diplomat requested.

John Paul has called on both superpowers to reach agreements on nuclear disarmament, but has not taken a public stand on the Reagan administration's plan to pursue research on space-based defenses against nuclear missiles.

The pope is reviewing the findings of the Pontifical Academy of Science, which last month met to consider the "weaponization of space." Carlos Chagas, the Brazilian biophysicist who heads the academy, has said the U.S. plan on space weapons, officially called the Strategic Defense Initiative, is of "dubious value."

Vatican Radio said the discussions between the pope and Gromyko would range from issues of peace and disarmament to human rights and Vatican concern over the state of the Catholic church in the Soviet Union.

The two men will meet in the pope's library with only interpreters present.

"The Holy See doesn't usually invite visitors to come and see the pope," said Vatican spokesman Joaquin Navarro.

In meetings with Italian officials Tuesday, Gromyko called on his hosts to oppose President Reagan's "Star Wars" proposals, and said U.S. abandonment of the plans is "absolutely indispensable" if arms control talks scheduled to begin in Geneva on March 12 are to succeed.

The Vatican and the Soviet Union do not have formal diplomatic relations, but Gromyko met five times with Pope Paul VI and held an exceptionally long, one hour and 45 minute meeting at the Vatican with John Paul on Jan. 24, 1979. The pope has not received any other Soviet official since Gromyko's last visit.

Since that time, the pontiff gave his support to the now-banned Solidarity, the first independent labor movement in Poland and the Soviet bloc; and was the target of an assassination attempt in St. Peter's Square.

An Italian judge last October indicted three Bulgarians for complicity in the May 13, 1981 assassination attempt after a prosecutor said that Bulgaria, possibly with Soviet support, masterminded the shooting attack carried out by Turkish terrorist Mehmet Ali Agca.

The prosecutor speculated that the plot was designed to stop social unrest in Poland sparked by the Solidarity movement.

Paul Harvey Court to be confronted

The Supreme Court is going to be asked this question: "Where a school district has fulfilled its obligation under the law busing black and white students back and forth among city schools..."

"And where the results have been negative for both black and white students..."

"And when the parents of both black and white students would prefer a 'voluntary' rather than a 'mandatory' system of integration..."

"May they phase out forced busing?"

The case is called Riddick versus School Board of Norfolk, Va.

When President Reagan, during his re-election campaign, visited Charlotte, N.C., he said, "Court-ordered busing is a social experiment which has failed to accomplish its purpose; it has become something nobody wants."

The prompt response from the Charlotte Observer was captioned, "You are wrong, Mister President."

The Observer called Charlotte's fully-integrated public school system its "proudest achievement."

But that was before the new test-score statistics came out.

Now, the Charlotte Observer's own columnist, Ralph McMillan, writes, "Educational quality has suffered as a result of forced busing."

Crosstown school busing was instituted on the premise that it would narrow the educational gap between black and white students.

On the contrary, since court-ordered busing began in 1970 the academic gap — the differential between black and white scores — is wider than before.

One factor reflected in this differential is that many parents, reluctant to send their students to schools they consider inferior, have removed the brightest students from public schools and placed them in private schools.

Naturally, this depresses public school test scores.

However, Charlotte boasts that its school system "has blossomed into one of the nation's finest," when in fact its test scores are 42 percent below the national average and, as Mr. McMillan notes, since 1970 Charlotte and the surrounding county have built and filled 34 private schools.

So now Norfolk, Va., is going to petition the Supreme Court to re-allow voluntary — rather than mandatory — busing.

And with all segments of that city's parents, black and white, asking for it — it is difficult to imagine how the court could deny them.

School busing has proved dangerous, fuel-wasteful, extravagantly costly in time and money, and it has steadily worsened the quality of education for all concerned.

Some future generation, more enlightened, will surely shake its head, incredulous at this "child abuse."

Tina Turner, Prince take honors

LOS ANGELES (AP) — High-voltage soul singer Tina Turner won three Grammys to cap a smash comeback, gyrating rocker Prince danced off with three awards and a surprised Lionel Richie took album-of-the-year honors at the 27th Annual Grammy Awards.

Cyndi Lauper, the unruly rocker with carrot-colored hair and thrift shop clothes, was named best new artist of the year Tuesday by members of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences.

Miss Turner, who first gained fame more than two decades ago as the shimmy-shaking partner of ex-husband Ike, won record of the year for her gutsy "What's Love Got To Do With It." The song also captured best female pop vocal, while best female rock vocal went to "Better Be Good to Me," all from her smash "Private Dancer" album.

"This is the biggest single moment of my career — right now," Miss Turner, 43, said backstage after winning record of the year. Her last Grammy was with Ike in 1971 for their version of "Proud Mary," and her first hit record was in 1960.

"What's Love Got To Do With It" also won song of the year for writers Graham Lyle and Terry Britten, who Miss Turner said had to make changes before she agreed to record it.

"It wasn't my type of song," she said. "I didn't like it. It was a bit odd... but that's what hit records are about."

Veteran songwriter and singer Richie's "Can't Slow Down," a slick melange of pop ballads and easy dance tunes, was named album of the year at the more than three-hour show televised live from the Shrine Auditorium to an estimated audience of 140 million worldwide.

As a member of the Commodores and an individual performer, Richie had been nominated for a Grammy 28 times since 1977, but has only won three.

"Every year it's always been 'I wonder why, I wonder why,'" a delighted Richie said. "And in this case, I don't want to wonder why anymore. I just want to enjoy it."

Richie, 34, and collaborator James Anthony Carmichael also shared the producer of the year award with David Foster, who had snared the most nominations with six. Foster also won the instrumental arrangement Grammy for his "Hard Habit to Break" by Chicago.

Prince, star of the hit movie "Purple Rain," won or shared three awards. He and his band, the Revolution, won best rock performance by a group with vocal for the "Purple Rain" soundtrack, and best album of original score written for a motion picture or TV special. The album sold 9 million copies.

The 26-year-old Minneapolis rocker also won for writing the best rhythm and blues song, "I Feel For You." The song was recorded by Chaka Khan, who was named best female rhythm and blues artist.

His performance of "Baby I'm a Star" in the show's closing minutes had the audience on its feet. Boy George and others from the crowd joined him on stage, dancing and singing.

Blue-collar rocker Bruce Springsteen, 35, who had never won a Grammy despite his decade-long leadership in American rock music, won his first award as best rock male vocalist for his sensuous "Dancing in the Dark."

Miss Lauper had been nominated for five awards. The 31-year-old new wave Betty Boop, who attended the ceremonies with gargantuan wrestler Hulk Hogan, said backstage: "The Grammy means a lot to me because I never thought I would amount to anything. I always wanted to make art."

Michael Jackson didn't make this year's show, but his "Making Michael Jackson's Thriller" won best video album, bringing his Grammy career total to 10.

"I want to devote my time to teaching, that's why I'm a teacher," said Dorothy Brownlow, as she gave a review of paperwork required under mastery learning.

According to Mrs. Brownlow, teachers must record the test and what skills it analyzed five times. She also said that when post-testing a child after remedial teaching has been done the teacher must develop the test for the individual child, which is also time-consuming.

Board member Marilyn Culpepper said teachers might consider using a computer to file reports.

Another teacher said that when children erase too hard on a computer card test it is often "read" as the actual mark.

A teacher from Aikman Elementary quoted from an article which said children are growing up too fast and related that comment to accelerated learning. She also noted from the article that modern pressures are causing a rise in teenage suicide.

Kindergarten and pre-kindergarten teachers echoed the comments of the first grade teachers and suggested that teaching "kits" be screened by teachers before being purchased by the administration.

Another teacher noted that kindergarten children need time for reflection, time and equipment to develop muscles and time to explore because a teacher can't hurry development.

Curriculum director Marc Williamson concluded with comments that there were some things possibility that accidents could harm products would have a "devastating effect on the market of High Plains products."

One Swisher County landowner, Marjorie Dawson, said she was fearful of accidents occurring in the transportation of the waste.

The DOE has estimated that 28 truckloads of radioactive material would be transported to the dump daily six days each week once the repository is operating.

"With over 8,000 truckloads of nuclear waste in a year's time coming in, doesn't it seem like there would be some accidents?" Mrs. Dawson said.

Over a period of five months begin-that definitely needed to be examined.

"We may have been planning to the point that we have no time to teach," he said, stressing that the program can be more flexible.

DOE's environmental assessment underestimated the effects the dump would have on the area and charged that the massive environmental documents were filled with "technical language and page after page of statistics meant to confuse and intimidate the poor, dumb farmers."

A local bank president, John Rike, said the assessments did not address the drop in county land values due to the site selection process.

Rike testified that some farmland in Swisher County has dropped in value by as much as $200 an acre because of the possibility the dump would be placed there.

ning in March 1983, the bug in the Jaguar picked up 75 hours of conversations dealing with "the workings of the mob," the News quoted Ronald Goldstock, a deputy state attorney general, as saying.

World Day of Prayer scheduled Friday

Church Women United members invited all church women to World Day of Prayer Friday at 9:30 a.m. at the First Church of the Nazarene.

Recognizing the Christian women of India, the program will be filled with inspirational music by Susie Merrick and two Christian speakers, Janie Banner, member of Pro Family-Pro Life, and Tonya Kleuskens, representing POWER (people opposed to wasted energy repositories).

The testimonies of the two women will bring the theme, Prayer In Action, into focus.

During the celebration, an offering will be taken to be sent to missions in India. In Hereford, four projects have been scheduled to follow through with the theme of prayer.

First, CWU members will supply postcards and distribute the addresses of senators and congressmen. Second, members will distribute literature on the upcoming abortion bill. A seven-day devotional for Christians in India will be conducted as prayer support. Finally, a mini-prayer seminar will be held Tuesday, March 5, at St. Thomas Episcopal Church presented by Sharon Duke.

All church women are encouraged to attend the World Day of Prayer celebration. Babysitting will be provided at no charge.

NCAA head says

Cheating rises

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The amount of cheating in college athletics may not have increased much in the last three decades but it's being done on a much grander scale, according to the executive director of the NCAA.

"If you equate the late 1940s and early 1950s to today, I'm inclined to believe the percentage of violations is probably a little bit higher today, but the value of improper and illicit arrangements is substantially higher," Walter Byers said Tuesday. "There's no question the degree of the violations is substantially higher."

Byers made his remarks to a nationwide group of writers and coaches at the conclusion of the NCAA's annual College Football Preview. And he warned the nation's major football and basketball schools that chronic violators could have all or part of a season canceled in a dramatic effort to penalize schools which continually violate the rules.

Citing what he termed "a moral reawakening in intercollegiate athletics," Byers said the NCAA's Presidents' Commission "is launching a broad-based frontal approach to the problem. If the tyranny of the lowest common denominator of ethical conduct can't be controlled, it must be denied," he said.

Byers noted that in early April, the Presidents' Commission will study the results of a survey of chief executive officers of member institutions "to shape up proposals... dealing with the integrity and economics of the system" for a special meeting of Division I-A members in New Orleans in June. "I have a belief that the enforcement process, techniques and sanctions will be in some pro-

Tech, SMU showdown slated tonight in Dallas

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Can Texas Tech overcome Southern Methodist's Moody Coliseum mastery?

The Mustangs are 15-0 in Moody Coliseum this year, but the Red Raiders can earn the top seed in the Southwest Conference Post-Season Basketball Classic with a victory tonight over the Mustangs.

"It's the biggest game of my career," said Texas Tech guard Bubba Jennings. "This is the game we've been working for."

Tech can clinch a title tie with a victory. The last time the Red Raiders won a SWC championship was 1973.

If the 13th-ranked Mustangs defeat the Red Raiders, they will clinch a co-championship.

However, should the Mustangs win, the No. 1 seed will still be up for grabs between SMU and Tech.

Tech is at Texas Christian on Saturday in a regionally televised 1:08 p.m. game while SMU is at Houston on Sunday in a 1 p.m. regionally televised contest, the last regular season game of the SWC.

The Red Raiders and Mustangs have 10-4 SWC records.

Tech gave SMU its second loss of the season Jan. 26 in Lubbock 64-63 on a 15-foot jump shot by Tony Benford with three seconds left to play. SMU went into the game with a chance to be No. 1 in the nation.

The Mustangs have slipped to 13th in The Associated Press poll and are now 21-6 overall.

"I kind of hope it doesn't come down to another last second shot," said Benford. "But I wouldn't be surprised if it did. This will be a great game to just be a participant in."

Tech has won six games in a row, most for the Red Raiders in eight years.

"I know it will be a tough game," said Tech coach Gerald Myers. "But the pressure is off now that we know we'll finish ahead of Arkansas. We'll be either 1 or 2. But we would like to win our last two games so we can get some attention from the NCAA Playoff Committee."

SMU center Jon Koncak, who suffered a gash over his left eye in Saturday's 64-60 victory over Texas, did not work out Monday but will ready for tonight's 7:30 p.m. tipoff.

In other games tonight, Rice is a Baylor in a battle for the eighth and final SWC playoff berth, Texas A&M is at Houston, and TCU is at Texas.

Erving scores 7, sets NBA record

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Julius Erving never would have become the third-leading scorer in pro basketball history if he made a habit of scoring seven points in a game.

That uncharacteristic performance Tuesday night was all it took for the popular Philadelphia forward to pass Elvin Hayes on the all-time list with 27,314 points. After the game, a 116-97 National Basketball Association loss to the Milwaukee Bucks, he did something else that is unusual for him — brush off the media.

"It's not so bad when you're playing happy," Erving said. "I'm thankful for it. That's all I've got to say."

Lakers 100, Rockets 94
Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 15 points, 18 assists and 11 rebounds to pace Los Angeles over Houston.

The Lakers got 19 points each from Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and James Worthy.

Nuggets 106, Hawks 94
Denver increased its Midwest Division lead over Houston to 3½ games as Alex English scored 33 points against Atlanta.

Bean due crown

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer
CORAL SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — Last year, Andy Bean let this one get away.

"I guess you can't say that any tournament owes you one, but I kind of feel like I've got one coming here," Bean said before a practice round for the $500,000 Honda Classic golf tournament.

Bean, who often is at a peak during the Florida swing of the PGA Tour, let Bruce Lietzke make up four strokes over the final round last year then bogeyed the first extra hole to lose this title in a sudden death playoff.

"I had a lot of chances to win last year," said Bean, whose only victory came at Greensboro.

He also lost to Jack Nicklaus in a playoff for the Memorial event, lost to Denis Watson on the final hole at the Las Vegas Invitational and was sixth or better in eight events.

"It's disappointing at the time," he said. "But you know that if you keep on playing good, some day all those little putts that just miss, well, someday they're gonna start falling."

Bean, who has scored three of his nine career victories in Florida, got his game on track last weekend with a solid, fifth-place finish in the Doral-

Eastern Open.

"I grew up in Florida and grew up playing Florida courses. I'm just a little more comfortable on the greens here," Bean said. "I played well last week and I expect to play well this week. It's just a question of how many putts I can make."

Bean and the rest of the 144-man field will face a slightly altered Eagle Trace Club course in the event that gets under way Thursday. The major change to the Stadium Golf facility involves the 12th green, which has been rebuilt.

In addition to the three principals in the Doral-Eastern Open, Nicklaus, Tom Kite and winner Mark McCumber, among the others who will be chasing a $90,000 first prize here includes Masters champ Ben Crenshaw Mark O'Meara, already a two-time winner this season.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by CBS.

Boys at Lubbock, girls at Dalhart

HHS track teams to begin seasons Saturday

Hereford High School boys and girls open their respective track seasons Saturday, the boys in Lubbock at the Lubbock Invitational and the girls in Dalhart at the Dalhart Relays.

Boys coach Ron Young and girls coach Martha Emerson expect the Whitefaces to be competitive this spring. And they should find out right away, they agreed.

Five boys teams from District 3-5A are to be running at Lubbock this weekend. Young has said he plans to run just a varsity team Saturday, later dividing the participants into a junior varsity team as well.

"Our 1985 track team has been working very hard," Young said. "The team is made up of dedicated, hard-working young men, and we are expecting some outstanding performances from the team as a whole."

"After Saturday's meet, we'll be able to tell a lot more about the team. We hope everyone will come out and watch us or maybe join us in the program."

Emerson welcomes back nine lettermen from the 1984 girls squad which placed second in the league meet. Five more girls with junior varsity experience join the team this year.

The HHS girls should be strong in distance events, Emerson said. Selma Moreno, last year's fifth-place finisher at the state track meet in the 3,200-meter run, leads the group. Moreno also was a 1984 regional qualifier in the 1,600 meters.

"We should be strong there with from cross-country and experience from last year," Emerson said, "with Lind Esqueda, Francis Flores and Eva Medrano. We'll also have Terry Valdez, Alicia Reyes and Michelle Vaughn."

Nine sophomores are out for the team.

"I think we can be very competitive this season, but it will take hard work and a lot of determination from everybody," Emerson said. "Mental attitude is important, and I feel with our experienced people, we will be ready. If the rest can come around, we'll be in good shape."

One of the experienced people Emerson is counting on is Lisa Redmon. Redmon is 3-5A's defending champion in both the 100- and 200-meter dashes the last two years. Other returnees who fared well at the district meet a year ago are Diana Devers in the shot, Stephanie Thomas in the shot and discus and Stacey Sanders in the long jump. Emerson said Sanders will also triple jump this spring.

"We have more spring speed this year than we've had in several years," Emerson said. "Lisa Redmon, Stacey Sanders and Felicia Redmon will carry most of the relays, with some help from Stacie High, Monica Devers and Susie Kalka."

"Our middle distance (400 and 800) runners will be okay," she added, "with varsity experience from Sandra Valdez, Adelia Rodriguez, Michelle Mason, Jennifer Bankston and possibly Susie."

Emerson said individuals' best events couldn't be decided until later in the spring, but plans on Felicia Redmon competing in the high jump — an event Hereford has been open in the past two years. Junior Donnan Cummings is progressing in the hurdles, Emerson said, as are sophomores Tonya Redwine and Katie Ramey in the shot and discus. Cindy McMillin also is coaching girls track.

Young said he preferred not to place individuals in particular events right now. He will better be able to judge the boys' strongest events later in the season.

minence on the June agenda," he said. No football team has ever had its season canceled for violating NCAA regulations. However, the basketball seasons were canceled at the University of Kentucky in 1952-53 and at Southwestern Louisiana in 1973-74 and 1974-75.

The University of Florida's football program recently was hit with the severest penalty ever handed out in that sport — three years of probation, including a ban on bowl games and television appearances for two years, plus a reduction in scholarships from 30 to 20 both this year and next and an unprecedented cut in the total number of scholarships from 95 to 85 this year and to 75 in 1986.

Byers called the cut in scholarships "an effective penalty." But he noted — "and this is illustrative; I have no institution in mind," he said — that schools have fired a coach "and gone back to what they're accustomed to and have found ways to circumvent a cut in grant-in-aids."

Last year, Byers estimated that 10-15 percent of the nation's major football and basketball schools were chronic violators while another 10-15 percent "turned their heads in the competitive rush of things."

Freshman leads Syracuse

By The Associated Press
Rony Seikaly and No. 12 Syracuse may be returning from the land of the lost-and-found.

Seikaly, a 6-foot-10 freshman center, scored 17 points, including five straight shots in the first half, and Rafael Addison scored 25 points to lead Syracuse past Pittsburgh 80-72 Tuesday night in a Big East Conference basketball game.

When the two teams met a month ago, Syracuse won 80-75, although Seikaly was not much of a factor.

"The first time we played him, he looked a little lost, to be honest with you," Pitt Coach Roy Chipman said. "Tonight, he was just superb. He made almost every shot he took. He made a jumper from almost 17 feet. I almost died when it went in."

The Orangemen, the only Top 20 team in action Tuesday night, raised their record to 20-6. This marks the eighth time in nine seasons under Coach Jim Boeheim that Syracuse has reached the 20-victory plateau.

Syracuse now is 9-6 in the Big East. The Panthers are 16-10 overall and 7-8 in the conference.

Unranked Teams
Darryl Lloyd scored 29 points while Melvin Mathis and Demetrius Henderson added 19 apiece as Drake broke a six-game losing streak by routing Creighton 103-54 in the Missouri Valley Conference. Drake, 4-12 in the conference, led 45-16 at halftime in sending Creighton, 20-10 overall, to its fourth straight loss.

Mark Gottfried scored 23 points in pacing Alabama past Florida 81-66 in the Southeastern Conference.

Health

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
See physician

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have developed brown areas on my face, on both cheeks and at the corners of my mouth. This condition appeared once before but faded after about six months. This time it has persisted for more than a year, and the spots have not lightened with the use of two different commercial fading creams.

I am 46 and had a total hysterectomy 18 months ago.

Is there any way to completely fade the brown marks and avoid their recurrence without giving up all the summer sports I enjoy?

DEAR READER — The winter is a good time to have such spots checked by your doctor. When you don't have a tan, it is easier to see just what needs treatment. All skin spots and bumps should be seen by a physician, since a good look is worth a thousand words of description. If you have the usual brown spots, or "liver spots," caused by the accumulation of melanin skin pigment, your doctor may wish to remove them by lightly freezing the surface of the skin. The area peels off, leaving normal skin.

The radiation from the sun definitely brings out these spots. You can help to prevent them by avoiding sun exposure. Be extra-careful to protect your skin in the winter. Avoiding reflected radiation from the sidewalks, snow and exposure to wind in the winter is important. Use a good sunscreen year-round and use it properly. Then, if you enjoy summer sports, you can be exposed to the sun longer with less damage. Don't forget the value of clothing in protecting your skin. That includes wearing a hat to shade the face.

I have discussed such spots in The Health Letter, Special Report 28, Skin: Aging, Spots, Cancer and Sun, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Our church activities involve much handshaking. Doesn't that spread germs of flu and colds, coughs and many other things? I want our staff to read your answer on this. I think it's very important, especially at this flu season.

DEAR READER — Bless you for trying to be helpful. Hands are near the top of the list of vehicles that spread diseases. Colds and flu are spread by hands. Not only can you get the germs from other hands, but your hands can pick up infectious organisms from doorknobs, handrails and other surfaces.

The infected hands end up rubbing the face, particularly the nose, and the germs have access to your body. I have been very impressed by the face masks worn in the Orient during the season for respiratory ills. They may not be very effective in avoiding the spread of germs, but they keep people from touching the nose and face.

You can do several things to help prevent the problem. One is to wear gloves; another is to wash your hands frequently, and particularly after being out with people. A third, and very important, thing is to avoid putting your hands near your face area, particularly the nose and mouth.

Hands also spread food poisoning in the kitchen and other diseases besides colds. Clean hands are important to good health.

Awards luncheon scheduled April 20

WTSU - This year's Distinguished Service Awards luncheon at West Texas State University will celebrate the 75th anniversary of WTSU and the 10th awarding of recognition to area women with a Hall of Fame.

The Hall of Fame members, selected by a WTSU committee, will be honored during the luncheon on Saturday, April 20, in addition to the 10 recipients of the Distinguished Service Awards.

Nominations for the awards will be accepted through Friday, March 22, and should be mailed to Betty Phillips, acting director, WTSU Returning Student Program, Canyon, Texas, 79016. She emphasized that the Hall of Fame members have been selected and nominations will be accepted only for the 10 recipients of Distinguished Service Awards which are awarded to residents of the top 32 counties of the Texas Panhandle who have distinguished themselves in a number of areas including education, medicine, business, civic activities and volunteer activities.

The luncheon will begin at 11 a.m. at the WTSU East Dining Hall. Tickets are $10 and will be available by mail through the Returning Student Program until Friday, April 12. Distinguished Service Awards have been presented during a luncheon at WTSU since 1976. About 100 women have received the distinction. Members of the WTSU community and the Area Advisory Council of the Returning Student Program plan the luncheon each year.

Members of the Area Advisory Council for 1985 are Carol Autry, chairperson, Canyon; Paula Britt, Wheeler; Inell Bagwell, Claude; Argen Draper, Hereford; Beth Duke, Amarillo; Coco Medina, Amarillo; Jané Kerr, Amarillo; and Ruth Cross, Canyon.

Darlene Roach is the honorary chairperson of the committee and Lila Vars, WTSU director of development, is coordinating special activities for the luncheon in conjunction with WTSU's 75th anniversary celebration.

Annette Renner, WTSU legal counsel, also is planning the luncheon as a co-chairperson.

Members of the Area Advisory Council, who were appointed in 1984 for a two-year term, are former Distinguished Service Award winners, members of the WTSU faculty and staff, and Amarillo and Canyon residents who work to support WTSU activities.

Members learn telephone pointers

Cultural Extension Club met in the home of Jewell Hargrave with members answering roll call with "Do you plan to lease your phone?" For the opening exercise, Vernis Parsons read a recipe for a happy garden. The hostess introduced Mary Lou Spinhrine who presented a few pointers on leasing or buying telephones. She told members to be sure and check the warranty, price and style.

During the business meeting, a report from the Finance committee was given by Fannie Townsend. Bertha Dettmann gave the treasurer's report. Hargrave read the revised version of the club's by-laws.

Edith Hunter and Parsons were appointed to attend the training meeting "Organizing Your Storage" on March 5 at the Heritage Room. Hunter will host the next meeting March 8. Others attending were Nell Pope, Winnie Wiseman and Virginia Sumner.

Ann Landers Seek others

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope I can put my problem in language you will be able to print because there must be a lot of people out there who need help, as I do.

I am 58 years old and have had six children. I look like the picture of health, and actually I am not ill, but my problem has caused me a lot of embarrassment and has ruined many a social occasion. To put it bluntly, I wet my pants when I sneeze or cough unexpectedly or when I laugh a lot. Sometimes I feel that awful dampness (or worse yet, trickling) for not reason at all.

Last week my husband and I went to the theater with another couple. I had heard it was a hilarious play so I packed myself with a sizable wad of paper tissues. I felt safe until I stood up to leave. The tissue was soaked and so was the back of my dress. Luckily for me I had brought a light coat along, but I felt so humiliated and hoped no one noticed my stockings.

The last time I saw my doctor was three years ago. The problem was so slight I mentioned it only casually. He called it urinary incontinence, and said it is not uncommon and to come back if it got to be a real nuisance. I hate going to doctors, which is crazy, I know, but that's the way I am.

Please advise me, Ann. If you say I should go to the doctor, I will, but what other help is there for people like me?—MRS. X IN OAK PARK, ILL.

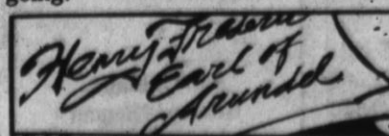

DEAR MRS. X: Millions of Americans, both male and female, share your problem. The psychological aspects are often worse than the physical. These people become recluses and the loneliness is unbearable.

First, go back and see your doctor. A woman your age should have a Pap smear and breast examination at least every other year.

Next, write to the Simon Foundation P.O. Box 815, Wilmette, Ill. 60091 for literature and a free newsletter. (Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope). The Simon Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to serving the unique needs of people like you.

You should be informed about the various products that are available to give you peace of mind and where they can be purchased. If the condition worsens, you should know about the surgical options and devices that are open to you.

At this moment there is only one self-help group for individuals who suffer with this problem. Happily for you, it is in your area. More are on the drawing board. I am a great believer in self-help groups. The emotional support of people who share a common problem beats any other kind of help that I know of. Get going.

Middle names were uncommon until the 17th century. The first Englishman to have one is presumed to be Henry Frederick, Earl of Arundel, in 1608.

Technique yields double the Dow

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - By popular consensus, the month of December 1981 was not a choice one for investing in stocks, which is one of the prime reasons why seven investors met and did just that. It was a time of uncertainty. The country was tossed about in an economic recession, and there was little enthusiasm for stocks.

But the seven investors had a point to make, and it was that carefully selected portfolios assembled in good times or bad times could provide at least a satisfactory return. Each selected 10 stocks for its appreciation potential. Last December, as planned, they dissolved their portfolios. One had a gain of 127.3 percent, another 117.8 percent. The others improved their investments by 89 percent, 85 percent, 83.6 percent, 65 percent and 32.5 percent.

Averaged out, the gains amounted to 85.9 percent for the three-year period, compared with a 40.2 percent gain for the Dow Jones industrial average, which rose from 864.25 in December 1981 to 1211.57 points on December 31, 1984.

The seven investors were members of a committee that picks the monthly "stock to study" for Better Investing, the magazine of the National Association of Investment Clubs, made up mainly of amateur investors.

The stocks chosen came from selections made in earlier issues of the magazine, which is published in Royal Oak, Mich., and goes to 6,000 clubs and their members, as well as to 14,000 individual investors or would-be investors.

American Family, a cancer insurer, appeared in five of the seven portfolios and also showed one of the biggest gains, 302.2 percent, based on a rise to $23.25 from $5.78.

The winning portfolio included General Cinema, which rose 189 percent to $52.75 a share; Shoney's, a restaurant chain that rose 192.5 percent to $31.88; and Precision Castparts, a castings maker, which rose 140.4 percent to $32.

The biggest gain of all, 484.6 percent, came from the choice of SCA Services, which was bought out and the proceeds reinvested in Kuhlman Industries, a manufacturer of transformers and automotive products.

But there were losses, too, and they appeared in every portfolio, which prompts Tom O'Hara, chairman of the NAIC, to remind amateur investors that it is wise to buy stocks in groups, so that winning selections can offset losers.

The winning portfolio, for example, tripped to a 9.6 percent loss on its selection of Impell, which was sold to Combustion Engineering and the proceeds reinvested in Comair, an airline.

While that was its only loss, the winning portfolio included several stocks that failed to hold their own, including ONEOK, an Oklahoma utility that rose only 4.5 percent, and Lawson Products, a machinery warehouse that rose 28 percent, or well below the gain registered by the Dow Jones average.

TO WHOM ARE YOU ENSLAVED?

Do not let sin control your puny body any longer: do not give in to its sinful desires. Do not let any part of your bodies become tools of wickedness to be used for sinning; but give yourselves completely to God—every part of you—for you are back from death, and you want to be tools in the hands of God, to be used for His good purposes. Sin need never again be your master, for now you are no longer tied to the law where sin enslaves you, but you are free under God's favor and mercy.

Does this mean that now we can go ahead and sin and not worry about it? (For our salvation does not depend on keeping the law, but on receiving God's grace!) Of course not! Don't you realize that you can choose your own master? You can choose sin (with death) or else obedience (with acquittal). The one to whom you offer yourself—he will take you and be your master and you will be his slave.

Thank God that though you once chose to be slaves of sin, now you have obeyed with all your heart the teaching to which God has committed you.

And now you are free from your old master, sin; and you have become slaves to your new master, righteousness. I speak this way, using the illustration of slaves and masters, because it is easy to understand: just as you used to be slaves to all kinds of sin, so now you must let yourselves be slaves to all that is right and holy.

In those days when you were slaves of sin you didn't bother much with goodness. And what was the result? Evidently not good, since you are ashamed now even to think about those things you used to do, for all of them end in eternal doom.

But now you are free from the power of sin and are slaves of God, and His benefits to you include holiness and everlasting life. For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Romans 6:12-23

Messick speaks with many voices

LOS ANGELES (AP) - he said. "I was in a workshop for veterans, run by Bob Light, and through him I got my first job as the voice of Raggedy Andy on 'The Raggedy Ann Show.'"

Messick worked through the days of live television as the voice on various puppet shows. Oddly enough, it was the release of the movie studios' backlog of animated cartoons that put him out of a job. And it was the voice of new cartoon shows that he found his fortune.

He met William Hanna and Joseph Barbera just as they were leaving MGM to set up their own cartoon studio. "I'm still on a day player contract, but I've worked every year for them for the past 26 years," Messick said.

State Capital

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Highlights

AUSTIN—When the Legislative leadership asked state agencies last year to prepare for a major belt-tightening, most responded with pleas for more aid, a reflection that budget realities had not yet sunk in.

That was never the case with State Comptroller Bob Bullock, the man constitutionally charged with keeping his finger on state government's economic pulse.

Last week, instead of asking for more money, Bullock returned $4.7 million to the Legislature, saying he had tightened his agency's belt and could "live without" the money. He has set the example for fiscal behavior that the budget leadership hoped other agency heads would display.

"It's a pleasure to be here," Bullock told the Senate Finance Committee last week. "I've come here to give you $4.7 million back. That is $4.7 million the Legislative Budget Board recommended for us which we can live without."

Fiscal Warning
At the same hearing, Bullock warned senators of a continuing fiscal crisis for Texas government that is just starting and "it will be worse in two years."

Bullock also told senators that even though he recently terminated 11 district offices and 149 employees, he expected to bring $34.5 million in added revenues to the state due to automation and pay raises for well-trained employees.

This recent action by Bullock provides a dramatic contrast between him and Gov. Mark White, whom Bullock once hoped to replace. White campaigned on a theme of "no new taxes," but once in office he promoted a record $4.6 billion tax increase. Bullock has forecast fiscal conservatism and tightened his own belt first as an example for others to follow.

Ruffled Feathers

White, for his part, spent some time last week trying to make amends with state senators who felt left out of his appointments process. Some feathers were ruffled because senators felt White did not consult with them enough in making his selections.

After a meeting with Senate deans Oscar Mauzy and Chet Brooks, White agreed to hire a liaison between his office and the senate.

Name Withdrawn

Meanwhile, former State Rep. Bob Simpson of Amarillo told friends he withdrew his name from consideration for an appointment to the State Board of Insurance because he was tired of waiting on word from Mark White and decided he did not need the job.

Simpson was the highly respected chairman of the House Committee on Insurance and a conservative Democrat during his legislative tenure.

Mattox Trial

The felony commercial bribery trial of Jim Mattox closed its first week of testimony in which prosecutors attempted to establish that Mattox had indeed threatened to end the multi-million dollar bond business of a Houston law firm.

J. Wiley Caldwell, who heads the bond division of the Fulbright & Jaworski firm and was a top political fund raiser for Mattox in '82, was the chief witness who testified that Mat-tox "threatened war" over their lawyer's attempt to question Mattox's sister in an unrelated case.

Other witnesses testified they had no evidence that Mattox ever delayed approval of their bond issues during that period, until Thursday when Mattox's former bond chief told the Court Mattox had instructed him to hold the F&J bonds until further orders.

Other interesting highlights of the week included: —North Texas farmer Noel Cowling became the first announced candidate to challenge Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, and Amarillo state Sen. Bill Sarpalius confirmed he is seriously thinking of adding his name to the list.

Hightower responded "if you want to take me on, you better strap yourself to the saddle." —Texas Monthly reporter Paul Burka, who writes the controversial "Ten Best/Ten Worst Legislators" column, has advised the Legislature to abolish the state's two black universities, Prairie View A&M and Texas Southern, saving the state could save $44 million.

—A survey conducted for the Texas Education Agency indicated that Texas school districts raised local property taxes an average 15 percent to help pay for the state's new massive school reforms last year.

—Another poll reflected that 75 percent of Texans approve of their local schools.

—H. Ross Perot, the Dallas billionaire who headed the education reform committee, suggested the creation of a new panel to overhaul higher education.

For starters, Perot would cut out "junk course like the history of rock and roll."

Nitze says 'Star Wars' negotiable

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States might be willing to negotiate with the Soviet Union on deploying a "Star Wars" anti-missile system, but it won't halt research into the futuristic program, an administration arms control adviser says.

That assertion was made Tuesday by Paul Nitze as U.S. and Soviet officials commented publicly about the superpower arms talks scheduled to begin March 12 in Geneva.

In Rome, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko urged Italian leaders to oppose President Reagan's two-year-old Strategic Defense Initiative, known as the "Star Wars" research plan.

Meanwhile, Nitze and other top Reagan administration national security officials were on Capitol Hill urging support for the missile defense system, along with a range of nuclear weapons that included the MX missile.

Nitze, appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was asked about recent conflicting statements by top officials regarding the negotiability of the "Star Wars" proposal.

Asked if the ultimate deployment of such a system — as opposed to mere research — was negotiable in the Geneva talks, Nitze, who was urged by Secretary of State George Shultz and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, both of whom told the Senate Armed Services Committee the American bargaining position at the talks will be hurt if the missile is canceled.

"This is no time to cast doubt on our national resolve," Shultz said.

Congress has already approved 21 of the 100 MX weapons Reagan wants, but will vote next month on whether to permit the Pentagon to go ahead and build 21 more of the weapons.
