

EA's within weeks of completion

The Department of Energy is within a week or two of finishing the final environmental assessments of the nine potentially acceptable sites—including one in Deaf Smith County—being considered for a nuclear waste repository, according to Linda McClain, Texas project manager for DOE. McClain was in Hereford's DOE information office Tuesday.

McClain said DOE is still reviewing and compiling comments heard at a series of hearings last February and March after the release of the draft environmental assessments in December of 1984. DOE is shooting for a public release of the final environmental assessments in mid to late December of this year. The assessments will accompany the nominations of five sites from which three will be recommended to the President for site characterization.

Mystery creature reported

HEARNE, Texas (AP) — Halloween may have come early to this small Robertson County community, where residents report a tall, mysterious creature has torn window screens and pounced across rooftops.

"Every now and then someone calls and says they think they heard the creature," Police Chief James Bundren said Tuesday. "It's Halloween time and there might be a lot of creatures out there."

One resident told authorities last week that something about 6 feet tall had chewed up the porch, window screen and railing at the front of his house, Bundren said.

The resident heard a noise at the front door during the night and went to investigate. When he opened the door, Bundren said, he saw the "image of a man, but it had a head that was chewing and slapping at the door."

The resident told police he quickly slammed the door. He looked out the window and saw his frightened dog running down the street. Bundren said the pet still has not returned.

Another resident told police she heard something large land on one side of her roof, walk to the other side and leap off the carport, Bundren said. But investigators found no tracks around the house after the incident was reported.

"It raised all kinds of commotion around here after that happened," Bundren said. He said calls are still coming in from people saying they have heard the creature.

Bundren said police have no suspects, but he theorizes the image that the first homeowner saw at his door was a man holding a large dog in front of him.

McClain told the Hereford Board of Realtors at a luncheon Tuesday that the President has 60 days from the time of DOE's recommendation to give his approval of the sites.

She said that "if and when" the Deaf Smith site was approved, a DOE staff of about 40 persons would relocate offices "to the panhandle" in March or April. DOE already has staff at potential sites in Washington and Nevada since the sites are on government property.

The DOE this week announced that an information office, similar to Hereford's facility, would be opened Nov. 1 in Vega.

Meanwhile in Washington, a panel of advisors for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said the standards issued in August by the Environmental Protection Agency "are unreasonably restrictive and... will undoubtedly introduce unnecessary obstacles" to licensing the dump.

The panel, the NRC's Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards, is comprised of 15 outside scientific and engineering experts.

DOE Rep Visits

Linda McClain, Texas project manager for the Department of Energy, visited the Hereford DOE Information Office Tuesday. McClain said the DOE is within weeks of finishing the final environmental assessments to be used for recommending locations for site characterization to determine where the department will place the nation's first nuclear waste repository.

Falling transportation costs held retail prices down

WASHINGTON (AP) - Falling transportation costs held the September retail price rise to a scant 0.2 percent for a fifth straight month, the government reported today.

The small gain was enough, however, to trigger an automatic rise in Social Security benefits and gave officials the information needed to index the federal income tax, to squeeze out the effects of inflation.

Slightly different versions of the Consumer Price Index compiled by the Labor Department are used to calculate the Social Security benefit increase, effective Jan. 1, will be 3.1 percent. It had been 3.5 percent in each of the last two years.

The $1,040-per-person income tax exemption and the standard deductions, $2,390 for single people and $3,540 for couples filing joint returns, will be increased by 3.7 percent for taxes due on 1985 income.

Tax table brackets will also be widened by the same percentage so that more income will be taxed at lower rates.

As for price activity last month, the transportation price calculation, which showed lower costs for used cars and auto financing as well as for gasoline, fell 0.2 percent, its fifth straight decline.

Gasoline prices were off 0.8 percent for the second month running. Used car prices fell 0.2 percent after a 1.2 percent decline in August. New car prices, however, continued to rise — up 0.3 percent — but financing charges were down 4.6 percent, the tenth consecutive monthly drop.

Overall food costs rose 0.3 percent, the sharpest rise since a 0.5 percent rise last February. Food prices had risen a minuscule 0.1 percent in each of the preceding three months.

Prices for food bought at grocery stores also rose 0.3 percent, due largely to a 0.6 percent jump in fruit and vegetable prices, which had fallen 0.7 percent in August.

The cost of meals eaten outside the home rose 0.5 percent for normal seasonal variations:

—Housing costs rose 0.2 percent, including gains of 0.3 percent for both homeowners and renters.

—Entertainment costs gained 0.5 percent after declining 0.1 percent in August.

If last month's 0.2 percent increase held steady for 12 straight months, the yearly advance would be 2.3 percent. The annual rate supplied by the department is based on a more precise calculation of price activity than the rounded percentage contained in the monthly CPI report.

In all, the broad-gauge Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers stood at 324.5 in September, meaning goods costing $10 in 1967 would have cost $32.45 last month.

The Social Security increase was pegged to a different calculation, called the CPI for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers, which also rose 0.2 percent last month.

The broader, All Urban Consumers, index has risen at an annual rate of 3.2 percent for the first nine months of 1985, the slowest pace since 1967, when prices rose 3 percent. The September index was 3.2 percent above the same month a year ago.

To be released in December

They told the NRC Monday that the stringent standards would delay the completion of the nuclear waste facility beyond a 1988 deadline.

However, the commissions own radioactive waste staff and the DOE supported the EPA standards, saying they are easily achievable and do not need to be re-examined.

The EPA standards would prohibit a repository from causing any significant radiation increase in nearby groundwater supplies.

The standards also require that the containment for the 2,500-foot underground repository restrict releases of radioactivity for 10,000 years to specific curie limits for particular radionuclides. The effect of the limits is to require that radiation from the dump cause no more than once cancer death per decade.

The EPA officials noted — though contending that they did not deliberately intend for it to come out that way — that one cancer death per decade coincides with the number of

SIPCO considering buyout offered by investors

BY AP AND BRAND STAFF

Swift Independent Corp., the nation's largest pork packer, is considering a $135 million leverage buyout offer from a partnership led by a Texas investor.

The proposed cash and preferred stock transaction will be presented to Swift's board of directors at meetings later this week in Chicago, company spokesman Bill Dillman said Tuesday.

Swift Independent's beef packing plant at Hereford was closed down June 15. The company has been plants at Dumas, Guyton, Ok., and Des Moines, Ia.

The proposed buyout comes from a partnership comprised primarily of trusts of the Edwin L. Cox Jr. family of Dallas. Cox is the primary investor in the Valley View Energy plant which is scheduled for construction in Hereford. The $98 million project calls for an electrical generating plant fired by cattle manure.

Another unit is to be constructed near Gruver. The Hereford plant was originally scheduled to be operating by October 1986, but delays in getting agreements on transmitting the power to Austin have moved the completion date to late in 1987. The unit near Gruver would be completed four to six months after the first unit here. Cox has signed long-term contracts with area feedyards to purchase manure.

The proposed buyout plan for Swift calls for each share of Swift to be converted into $21 in cash and a $7 face value of a 15 percent cumulative exchangeable preferred stock, according to Dillman, the company spokesman.

Dividends for the first three years would be payable in additional shares of preferred stock, and the preferred is subject to mandatory redemption of 20 percent a year beginning in the 11th year, he said.

In a leveraged buyout, an investment group usually finances the acquisition of a company's outstanding shares with borrowed money, using the company's anticipated earnings, or liquidation proceeds, as collateral.

"The potential purchaser has advised Swift Independent that it has entered into an agreement with Esmark, Inc., a subsidiary of Beatrice, to buy Esmark's 35 percent interest in Swift Independent for $25 a share in cash," Dillman said.

Shares acquired by Beatrice would be canceled in the proposed merger.

Beatrice, one of the world's largest food and consumer-products companies, recently rejected a leveraged buyout offer from Kohlberg, Kravis, Roberts & Co., a New York investment banking firm.

Swift has annual sales in excess of $3 billion. Dillman said the Cox proposal would be discussed at board meetings Wednesday and Thursday.

Cox is engaged in various interests in livestock production operations and other activities related to agriculture and food production, Dillman said.

Reagan to pass up U.N. ceremonies

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan will seek out Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze to map plans for the U.S.-Soviet summit meeting in November and pass up ceremonies marking the 40th anniversary of the United Nations during three busy days in New York.

The surprising, last-minute twists in Reagan's packed schedule were announced by White House officials Tuesday, along with denials that having Vice President George Bush take his place at the U.N. anniversary ceremonies Thursday slighted the world organization.

During his New York stay Reagan will make a major speech to the General Assembly that outlines U.S. hopes for the Nov. 19-20 Geneva summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, mingle at a reception and dine with many of the 80 world leaders assembled for the anniversary.

"There is a very solid commitment," said a senior administration official who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

Larry Speakes, the presidential spokesman, told reporters at another briefing that Reagan "will have other meetings during that time frame." He said assigning Bush to the ceremonies was "a special acknowledgement" of the importance Reagan attaches to the event.

Separate working sessions were planned for the president with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, Italian Prime Minister Bettino Craxi, Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi and Pakistani President Mohammed Zia al-Haq.

The anticipated meeting with Shevardnadze was not listed on the schedule, but the senior official said, "We hope the opportunity will arise and we hope it can be arranged."

Gramm's colleagues mixed on his budget proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal by Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, to balance the federal budget by 1991 is viewed by his home-state House colleagues as ranging from an "excellent, ingenious idea" to a "sophisticated mess."

Republicans lauded the measure, which would put statutory limits on the national budget until it balances six years hence, while Democrats praised the motive but not necessarily the vehicle.

"I think it's an excellent, ingenious idea, and I think we should go further with it," said Rep. Dick Army, R-Denton, who like Gramm, used to teach college economics.

He disagrees with 1985 Nobel prize-winning economist Franco Modigliani of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who earlier this week called the measure a "Mickey-Mouse" proposal that will lull lawmakers into thinking they've taken care of the deficit until it is too late.

Modigliani said much deeper cuts in the budget must be taken immediately and that lawmakers should not rule out raising taxes.

Army said he agreed that immediate cuts are needed, but said the Gramm proposal is the best proposal Congress has gotten.

"We've debated the balance budget for how many years? And we'll continue for six more. This is a giant step in the right direction," said Army.

The proposal is currently before a House-Senate conference. It was approved by the Senate. The House endorsed the concept but avoided voting for the legislation itself.

"It's a very sophisticated mess," said Rep. Albert Bustamante, D-San Antonio. "Everybody is questioning whether it is constitutional. I don't think the Senate knows what they voted for."

Bustamante said he favors an across-the-board budget freeze, combined with a minimum corporate income tax.

He read a list of exemptions from the bill being added by the conference committee, including Social Security and veterans benefits,

Two shot while friends watch

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - A Texas Tech freshman and a companion were shot to death with a semi-automatic .30-caliber rifle while their friends were forced to lie face down on a sidewalk, police said.

Authorities said Christian Lee Fisher, 18, of Fort Worth, was fatally shot about six times in the head and stomach Monday. The gunman then fired a fatal volley at James Alan Holzler, 23, of Fort Worth, who was a few feet away in Miss Fisher's car.

Two other friends of Miss Fisher, Cody Minick, 18, and Karen Tidwell, 26, both of Fort Worth, said as they ran for their lives, the gunman put the barrel of the rifle in his mouth and pulled the trigger.

A man identified as Michael McBride, 23, of Lubbock, was listed in serious condition Tuesday at Lubbock General Hospital. No charges had been filed in the shootings as of Tuesday evening, officials said.

Minick and Miss Tidwell said Miss Fisher had recently broken up with a man she had dated for about six months and was moving back to Fort Worth when she died. Minick, Miss Tidwell and Holzler were in Lubbock to help her move.

Minick and Miss Tidwell said they had followed Miss Fisher and Holzler to her ex-boyfriend's home at about 10:45 p.m. Monday. They said he had asked her to pick up a painting he was giving her in repayment of a debt.

Minick and Miss Tidwell said they went with Miss Fisher because the former boyfriend had threatened her several times during the weekend, Minick told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Minick said the gunman came out of the darkness and forced him and Miss Tidwell to get out of their car.

"He must have been outside waiting," Minick said. "He pointed the gun at the window of my car and said, 'Get out or I'll kill you both.'"

Minick said he and Miss Tidwell were ordered to lie on the sidewalk.

Miss Fisher got out of her car, but Holzler remained inside, Minick said.

"Chris (Miss Fisher) told Jim (Holzler) to get in the driver's seat and go for help," he said.

Miss Fisher then walked over to the gunman, grabbed his gun and said that he couldn't and wouldn't shoot her, Minick said. But the man did, Minick said, then ran over to her car fired a flurry of shots at Holzler before he could get away.

Judge creates lawsuit

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) - A federal district judge has put a new wrinkle in the tangled history of asbestos litigation by creating a class action lawsuit against asbestos manufacturers.

Judge Robert Parker has set a Feb. 10, 1986, trial date for the class-action suit of hundreds of asbestos workers who claim their health was damaged or destroyed. His ruling, which was issued Oct. 16, is already controversial.

Some lawyers praised Parker's order as an innovative method of dealing with court dockets overloaded with asbestos only one of its kind in the country involving the cases. But lawyers opposing the class certification predicted an appeals court would overturn it.

"Asbestos litigation is a nationwide epidemic," said Walter Umphrey of Port Arthur, one of the lawyers who will represent the disease, a common medical future and common damages."

Asbestos manufacturers are facing thousands of lawsuits nationwide accusing them of concealing the harmful effects of their product from workers who later suffered from a debilitating lung disease called asbestosis or a rare form of cancer linked to asbestos fibers.

Texas had 44% of nation's syphilis cases

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas had 103 cases of congenital syphilis last year - 44 percent of the nation's cases - and most of them could have been prevented with routine prenatal care, says State Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein.

Congenital syphilis is transmitted to unborn babies by infected mothers. Two-thirds of the Texas cases involved women who had no prenatal care or who did not seek care until the final three months of pregnancy.

"Major factors contributing to the problem include a failure on the part of expectant mothers to obtain regular prenatal care and a failure on the part of health care professionals to adequately screen for venereal disease during pregnancy," Bernstein said.

Tuesday was the final day of a Texas Department of Health symposium on neonatal and maternal sexually transmitted diseases.

Infants born with syphilis are 12 times more likely to die before their first birthday. Of the 103 cases, 55 babies were stillborn and five died in the first 23 days of life.

fatalities occurring from the natural presence of unmined uranium in the earth's crust.

The NRC advisory panel and a similar committee of outside experts at the EPA contend that, in view of the risks posed by other phenomena in society, the EPA standards are far too strict.

Officials for all three agencies and the outside scientists agreed, it is unlikely that anyone living near a nuclear waste dump will incur a cancer because of it for several thousand years.

Bonfire to be held Thursday

The Hereford High School cheerleaders and Key Club members will be sponsoring a bonfire and pep rally Thursday evening in a field behind the Nazarene Church, Ironwood and LaPlata.

The rally will begin with a march led by the HHS band from the Whiteface Stadium parking lot to the bonfire site.

Moore, Gladys Cavness and Lou and Bill Davis. Names of all committeemen and boards through the years were displayed on screens at the party.

Nelson recognized with plaque

County Judge Glen Nelson received a plaque Tuesday from Ronnie Van Baugh, Director of Housing for Panhandle Community Services in recognition for his help in "Project Self-Sufficiency".

Project Self-Sufficiency is a coordinated approach to breaking the poverty-dependency cycle among low income single parents. The program focuses on the special needs of low income families by involving the cooperative efforts of local governments and local public and private agencies.

Of 2,000 applications submitted for the grant, Panhandle Community Services received the largest of the 108 grants awarded. The Panhandle Community Services serves the 26 counties of the panhandle.

Johnny Raymond, executive director of Panhandle Community Services, indicated that Project Self-Sufficiency combines housing assistance, which the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Department allocates to the communities, with child care, personal and career counseling, transportation, basic education, job training and placement provided by local partnerships. Raymond also indicated, "that the application for the project had been co-sponsored by the county judges serving the panhandle. Their support and commitment to the program's goals had a great deal to do with the selection of Panhandle Community Services for the pilot project."

The $8 million dollar budget authority from HUD to the housing department of Panhandle Community Services is to provide decent and affordable housing that will offer stable living conditions for the selected participants. Local agencies leverage these monies for the overall program goals.

In the next few months applications will be solicited from single parents with dependent children who are interested in the program.

Deaf Smith County Commissioner Bill Bradley is on the board of directors of the local Self-Sufficiency Program along with Mrs. Jean Polly, who is the coordinator of the local center.

Donation Presented

night at the Community Center. Stevens presented an informative program on telephone help passing out brochures in both Spanish and English to the Chamber members.

U.N.

Gorbachev, in a letter delivered to Reagan by Shevardnadze late last month, proposed a 50 percent reduction in U.S. and Soviet nuclear missiles and warheads. Administration officials have hinted there could be a U.S. counterproposal before Reagan saw Gorbachev in Geneva.

The Washington Post, in Wednesday's editions, quoted Defense Department sources as saying the Reagan administration is prepared to offer to give the Soviets five to seven years notice before deploying defensive strategic weapons unilaterally, and to negotiate any proposed deployment.

The proposals, agreed to at a meeting of senior administration officials earlier this month, are intended as a response to Soviet demands for concessions on Star Wars, the newspaper quoted sources as saying.

various trust funds and federal judges' salaries.

"Now they're finding out this monster has a thousand heads," Bustamante said.

Rep. Larry Combest, R-Lubbock, said he, like Army, was an original co-sponsor of the Gramm proposal.

"Do you cut spending or continue to try to fool the people?" he said. "It may not be the only thing out there we can do. It's just the best thing I have seen."

He said he was willing to consider alternatives, but will stick with the statutory budget reduction measure if nothing else is forthcoming.

"I'm not locked into this," Combest said. "I just basically want to reach the goal. I think that's basically what the House was saying."

Rep. Mike Andrews, D-Houston, said he "applauded" the effort to set statutory budget targets, but said, "one thing glaringly obvious is that there are too few cuts in the budget in 1986. The toughest cuts will come in 1989 and 1990."

He also opposes exempting defense from budget cuts and ruling out any increase in taxes.

"I don't think we can make a sacred cow out of 30 percent of our expenditures and get from A to Z," Andrews said, adding that there should be "an option for increasing revenues down the road, if needed."

"We really have to make some very very difficult choices in the next 12 months," Andrews said. "Every month we delay coming to grips with the deficit is one month closer to economic disaster."

Earthquake worsened economy

MEXICO CITY (AP) - Last month's earthquake worsened Mexico's already precarious economy and reconstruction costs will put further pressure on the already strained resources, Treasury Secretary Jesus Silva Herzog says.

"The predicted levels of public deficit, balance of payments and inflation will not be able to be met," Silva Herzog said. "In addition, the earthquake complicated the situation, especially because greater resources than we have will be required."

Total damage is estimated at $4.1 billion, a report from the Economic Commission for Latin America says. The commission is part of the United Nations.

Stanton 7th graders win 6-0

A touchdown run of two yards by Jose Nava was the only scoring in the game as the Stanton Junior High School seventh grade football team defeated Plainview Red 6-0 Tuesday in Hereford.

Nava's touchdown came with 4:10 left in the fourth quarter in the season opener for the Stanton seventh grade team.

"Most of our players in the game had not played their positions very long. We lost 31 players," said Coach Paul Samples, referring to the athletes who are ineligible because of the no-pass, no play rule.

"Our guys played courageously," Samples adds.

Late in the first quarter, Stanton blocked a Plainview punt and gained possession of the ball at the Plainview nine-yard line.

Jermaine Williams of Stanton was stopped short of the goal line, and Stanton lost possession of the ball on downs. The defensive battle continued through the third quarter and into the fourth quarter before Jose Nava scored for Stanton.

6-1 over Cardinals Tuesday

Royals score first victory of 1985 World Series

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals had gotten these kinds of hits all season.

But, that didn't give them any clue as to how to stop them.

Buddy Biancalana's high chop created confusion in the Cardinals' infield and went for a single in the fourth inning, setting up a two-run double by Lonnie Smith that sent the Kansas City Royals to a 6-1 victory over St. Louis in Game 3 of the World Series Tuesday night. The Cardinals lead the series 2-1.

"It was an AstroTurf hit," St. Louis first baseman Jack Clark said. "We got a lot of those all year."

With a runner on first and one out in a scoreless game, Biancalana hit a

La Plata 7th grade football team falls to Plainview Blue

The La Plata seventh grade football team suffered a 16-0 defeat to Plainview Blue in its season opener Tuesday at Plainview.

Plainview Blue scored in the second quarter and had an 8-0 halftime lead. Plainview added a safety in the third quarter and a touchdown in the fourth quarter.

La Plata Coach Brent Royce said his defensive standouts included strong safety Kent Simmacher and linebacker Mike Daniels.

"Offensively, we need to work on hitting the holes better and running a little harder. We didn't do too bad for the first game of the season," Royce said.

chopper to the right of the mound. Pitcher Joaquin Andujar, second baseman Tommy Herr and Clark all converged on the ball, and Andujar wound up grabbing it.

Andujar took a step toward first and cocked his arm, but held the ball when he realized no one was covering the bag.

"I was yelling for Joaquin to go to first," Clark said. Andujar said, "I had a chance to get it. I thought it was going to me or to second base."

Herr said he started in because he thought "it was going to be my play."

Biancalana said he initially thought he could beat it out, and then realized he would be safe when first base was left unoccupied.

"It's always a great feeling to see no one covering first," Biancalana said.

Because Biancalana's ball was a hit and not the second out, pitcher Bret Saberhagen was able to follow with a sacrifice—instead of representing the potential final out of the inning.

Saberhagen, in just his second major-league at-bat, laid down a bunt that advanced runners to second and third, and Smith followed with his double that made it 2-0.

Biancalana, who hit just .188 during the regular season, delivered a line-drive single in the seventh inning that drove in the game's final run.

Biancalana said he knew his one-hopper was causing trouble.

"I had my head up and I saw everyone going for it," he said.

St. Louis shortstop Ozzie Smith said, "Everyone has to go after that ball. That play takes care of itself."

Added Clark: "You just have to hope everyone does his job. But even so, usually the guy is going to be safe."

Biancalana would make no fuss if it turns out that destiny has big plans for him in the World Series.

"It happens all the time, so why shouldn't it happen to me," asked the light-hitting Royals shortstop. "Look at Kurt Bevacqua with San Diego last year."

Biancalana's woeful hitting in the regular season made him the butt of some jokes. And he didn't help himself when, in Game 1 Saturday night, he failed to execute a suicide-squeeze bunt and caused Darryl Motley to be trapped off third.

"I'm certainly not trying to be a star of the World Series. I'm just trying to go out and do the best I can. I look at this as a second chance to make up for the season I had. I want to show everyone what I can do," Biancalana said.

"But there are a lot of unheralded guys who've stepped forward in World Series play. I don't know what that is. Maybe it's because they know nobody's expecting much of them and so they don't feel as much pressure to perform."

Biancalana was one of five Royals to collect two hits off four Cardinal pitchers. Lonnie Smith, George Brett, Willie Wilson and Frank White also turned the trick.

White drove in three runs with a home run and double and Brett, who also walked three times, tied a World Series record by reaching base five times in five at-bats.

"It's good that everybody is contributing," Wilson said. "I'm happy it's not just one or two people. When everybody starts chipping in, that can get a team rolling."

"The Cardinals are a lot like us," Brett said. "They battle back and they always come at you. This win will give us a lot of momentum, but if we lose tomorrow, it won't mean much. It is a seven-game series, and we have to remember the object is to get the four, not just one or two."

Tonight in Game 4, Royals Manager Dick Howser sent Bud Black, 10-15, against the Cardinals' ace, John Tudor, the winner in Game 1.

Howser has said there is no such thing as momentum. Whitey Herzog, Cardinals' manager, has said the same. But if momentum does exist, it may be swining toward the Royals.

"The players know we can have a bad streak but we've got good people to run out to the mound," Howser said. "We don't have to panic as far as starters go. I've got five of them and I've got confidence in all of them. And so do the players."

No team ever has come back to win the World Series after losing the first two games at home. No team ever has come back to win the series after losing the first three.

"We seem to play best with our backs up against the wall," Black said. "It's hard to say why, but we did it at the end of the season, in the playoffs and now. Who knows why?"

Perhaps George Brett knows why they did it Tuesday night. "If we had cruised through the Western Division of the American League, if we'd cruised to the American League championship, maybe beaten Toronto four games to one, then being down two games to none in the World Series, we might have been a little more scared," Brett said.

"But our ballclub was very loose before the game," Brett said.

Frank White, who would be batting farther down in the order if this was a designated-hitter World Series with Hal McRae in the lineup, said, "I always felt I could hit home runs if I tried. The last two years I tried to bunt people over and hit singles."

White's blast came on the last pitch Andujar threw in the game—and likely the last he will throw as a starter in this World Series.

"I don't know what it is; he just can't seem to get it all together," Herzog said about Andujar. "He struggled every inning, got out of a couple of jams." Until the fourth inning.

Would Andujar start the sixth game, if there is one?

"I'm going to find out how Danny Cox is tomorrow," Herzog said of Thursday night's sore-armed but scheduled starter. "He's coming off a bad elbow and it might be I'd go with Ken Forsch in the fourth game and come back with Cox in the sixth if needed and then Tudor in the seventh."

"I could always use Andujar in the bullpen if I had to."

Ann Landers

Reader agrees with woman

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is in response to older people being called by their first names by members of the medical profession.

I am a registered X-ray technician and have worked for more than 20 years in various hospitals and clinics around the country. I give you this background so you will know I am not one of those 22-year-olds referred to by the person who complained.

I say it's better to call a patient by his or her first name than to murder the last name. Furthermore, even though I wear a large name tag, 90 percent of the patients call me "Dearie."

"Mrs."-whatever-the doctor's-last-name-is. Let's face it, some older people like to be called by their first names, others don't. You can't please everybody. I gave up trying a long time ago and my migraines disappeared.—CONTENT IN SALT LAKE CITY

DEAR S.L.: Thanks for the discourse. Here's another letter on the same subject:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm only 37 but I heartily agree with the elderly woman who objected to being called by her first name by everybody from medical personnel to the supermarket cashier who sees her name on a check.

The bank I used obviously has instructed their people to use a first-name policy. I don't like it. I am afraid next they will ask me how my sex life is. Perhaps some customers enjoy this personal touch but I am seriously considering changing banks because of it. Sign me—A CUSTOMER, NOT A CHUM, IN TULSA

DEAR TULSA: Many who wrote said they put an end to unwelcome first-name familiarity by saying, "Please call me Mrs. X." I suggest you do the same.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A reader sent the following poem. I'd like to respond to it. Hers went like this:

I met him.
I liked him.
I liked him.
I loved him.
I loved him.
I let him.
I let him.
I lost him.
Here is my experience:
I saw her.
I liked her.
I loved her.
I wanted her.
She said no.
I married her.
After 60 years,
I still have her.—FORT WORTH, TEXAS

DEAR FORT WORTH: Thanks for a lovely response. I certainly hope she said "yes" somewhere along the line!

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keep your head together can they be of help? Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope," separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. For each booklet ordered, send $2.00, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.
