"I think the people who have worked on this deserve a pat on the back...but, I think in the light of this poll that it's just the wrong time to consider such a project," Voyles said.

"I agree," Coleman said, 'But, I wouldn't want to kill it forever. I think we might be able to take another look at it

The court reviewed written comments included by some of those responding to the poll, agreeing that their method of learning the feeling of county voters and taxpayes was effective.

The county's part of the proposed events center was to be a banquet hallauditorium type facility, estimated to cost around $4 million. That project was to. combine with an indoor swimming pool to be built by the city of Hereford, and a sports complex to be constructed by the Hereford Independent School District.

Also slated to be included at the SEC site was a combined Senior Citizens-YMCA building, which would be funded by those two entities themselves

While turning thumbs down on the SEC project Monday. the court recognized the efforts of the Driskell Halfway House in Tulia, agreeing to James presented the court with a record of how many Deaf Smith County residents have been helped by the halfway house in the past four years. The figures showed 4,169 days during which county residents were housed at the center. Based on an average cost of $16.50 per day and subtracting client fees and other assistance, James said the cost of the Deaf Smith County residents' treatment came to $41,690.

James said he realized that the county had a frozen budget, and said that any help the court could provide would "help keep us on our feet for the next few months."

The halfway house is currently in the process of moving into a new building and is running short of operating funds as well as funds necessary for the remodeling of their new building.

The county fathers agreed to pay a $5,000 "statement" presented by James for the halfway house's services. That amount was just over 10 percent of the county's estimated "bill."

In other business Monday the court agreed to advertise for bids for materials to fix the Bull Barn roof to prevent leaks, and asked County Judge Glen Nelson to have a

Wyoming chosen to host MX missile silos

WASHINGTON (AP) -Wielding both stick and carrot President Reagan proposed yesterday to deploy the huge MX missile in a string of Wyoming silos, then invited the Soviet Union to take several joint steps to abate fears of an accidental nuclear direction.

'We've always lived under the gun," said Mrs. Robert Gerard, whose husband is retired from the Air Force. She called President Reagan's proposal Monday to base MX missiles in Wyoming "not that startling.

On the outskirts of this town of 47,000 is Francis E. Warren Air Force Base, which got its first intercontinental missiles in 1958. It now commands 200 Minuteman III missiles scattered in silos in Wyoming, Nebraska and Col-

"I suspect we're a targeted area already, whether we have the MX or not," said Gov. Ed Herschler, whose official residence lies within a stone's throw of the air base. The Democrat said he supports the proposal, but called it a mixed blessing, something like "a teen-age daughter coming home at 3 a.m. with a Gideon Bible under her arm.

Reagan's plan, announced Monday, calls for 100 MX missiles to be located in Wyoming using a "dense pack" of missiles installed in superhardened silos 1,800 to 2,000 feet apart. The Minuteman III silos are separated by at least several miles.

Support isn't universal. Sister Francis Russell, à leader of a regional anti-MX group, said she doesn't want southeastern Wyoming to become a strategic Soviet target and promised "a vigorous program of grass-roots education" in an effort to block its deployment. She is a spokeswoman for the Tri-State Coalition Against MX.

State Rep. William Edwards, D-Cheyenne, said he is opposed "mainly because I don't have enough information to make a positive decision. Also, I feel that we may not need the MX anywhere."

Edwards said the MX may cost much more than the current estimate of $26 billion and use more than the anticipated 20 square miles of land.

Rancher Paul Etchepare, who owns much of the land where the MX would be based, said he supports the proposal. He said many ranchers already conduct their operations around Minutemen silos and share his sentiments. "I have absolute faith in our president," he said. Republican Sen. Alan Simpson said he supports the president's decision, saying national security is "an overriding concern.' Bruce Hamilton of the Sierra Club said his group opposes the MX for "environmental, social and economic reasons," contending it would affect present land use, water users and communities. But Bill Budd, Cheyenne Chamber of Commerce president, said a poll of his members last week showed 75 percent favored bringing the MX to Wyoming.

Wyoming, from its governor to its high elected officials, all favored MX being built in their state, and I think that had something to do with the site selection since it was equally acceptable to sites in Nevada and New Mexico," said Domenici, who was reached in Mobile, Ala., where he was touring a dam

Elevator installer dies in fall

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A 60-yearold Lockhart man died when he fell at least 50 feet down the elevator shaft of a 20-story bank building under construction here, investigators said.

Police said William Hoover, an elevator installer employed by subcontractor Austin Elevator Co., died Monday while working on the construction project two blocks from the Capitol.

Homicide Sgt. Juan Gonzales said Hoover apparently was standing alone at the fifth-floor edge of the shaft just before he fell.

"His co-workers were at the bottom of the shaft in the basement," Gonzales said. "One of the men was struck by the victim's hard-hat. He looked up and saw the victim coming Gonzales said Hoover died on impact and that an autopsy would be sought to reveal any medical reason for Hoover's fall.

"He might have had a dizzy spell," Gonzales speculated.

Fire Department Capt. Emmett Glosson said the elevator workers were installing rails that eventually will support the elevator cars.

Rate dispute settled

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Lone Star Gas Co. customers can expect an average increase in residential bills of $1.92 a month after the company agreed to slash its rate hike request by more than half.

The company reached an agreement on Monday with the Texas Municipal League for a $42.9 million hike in its annual natural gas city gate

The gate rate means the gas company delivers the gas to the city which then distributes it.

"dense pack," represents a dramatic departure from past missile deployment plans, including the Carter administration's scheme for

That plan called for spreading 200 MS missiles among some 4,600 concrete shelters stretching across the Utah and Nevada deserts and shifting real missile sand decoys from site to site.

The untested theory behind the dense-pack plan is that most of the MX missiles could survive a Soviet surprise attack because incoming soviet warheads would disable each other as they converged on the MX silos and exploded.

Reagan said cost was a factor in his decision. "We concluded that by pulling the launch sites much closer together and making them a great deal harder, we could make significant savings," from the plan originally envisioned by then-President Carter.

Reagan said his proposed deployment "would require the Soviets to make costly new technical deployments if they wish to even contemplate a surprise attack.

Rep. Joe Skeen, R-N.M., whose congressional district includes Cannon, said he expects a long debate in Congress over whether the nation needs the missile system.

Domenici and Skeen have favored development of the MX, but Domenici said Monday he will have to study the dense pack deployment before making up his mind on whether he will support it.

"Since the dense pack method of deploying it is new and different, I will take my time to evaluate it," he said. ... At this point, I'm not sure that I'll support it, but I'm going to do everything that I can to support the president and support what he has decided upon for our country."

Hall-iday Open House termed successful

Approximately 300 people attended the Hall-iday open House at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center Sunday afternoon

Depicting the holidays, Christmas carols played throughout the afternoon and the serving table was decorated in red and greeen with crystal Christmas trees. Canapes and punch were served from crystal plates and bowl set.

Art work was shown by Bob Hunnicutt of Channing, Jean Marlow of Amarillo and Randy Jones of Hereford, Giles Boone exhibited a woodwork rocking horse and Nita Newsom and Peggy Daniels wove on a hand loom furnished by John Stribling, president and manager of Western Wool Weavers of Hereford

In a picture which ran in the Sunday edition of the Newsom was identified as Mrs. John Stribling.

Five door prices were presented. A 14-inch appliqued western Hoop-La-La. featuring womens' western wear donated and made by Naoma Spann was awarded to first place winner Jim Walterscheid. Paul Wylie prints were given to second place winner, Connie Gilbert, and third place winner, Connie Baker. Fourth and fifth place award recipients were given prints by Norberto A. Reves to Annette Parsley and Barbara Durham.

Hosting the open house were, Garth Thomas, Margaret Formby, Lynton Allred, Ruth Newsom, Roberta Caviness, Wilma Bryan, Georgia Sparks, Jackie Hammett, Barbara Allen, Janice Carr. Peaches Reinauer. Gladys Setliff, Jeanette Case

Nunnally wins grid contest

It was a tough week for the football prognosticators, but .R. Nunnally, 205B Funston, missed just five games to take the $25 prize in The Brand Football Contest.

Two entrants missed six of the games with Flora J. Baker, 341 Douglas, taking the second prize of $15 in Hereford Bucks by coming closer on the tie-breaker total. That left Henry Ramaekers of Dimmitt in third place and prize of $10.

The winners became the last three entrants to qualify for next week's Grand Prize contest. All of the Hereford Buck winners this season - 35 of them - will compete in a separate contest on the final week's game to determine the season winners.

The top picker of the 35 will receive $100 in Hereford Bucks, while the second and third-place winners will receive $35 and $15, respectively. Entrants are reminded to guess the total scores on two games listed on the entry.

While these 35 are competing for the Grand Prize, the final contest will also offer the regular weekly prize of $25, $15 and $10 to all other entrants. The Grand Prize entrants will not be eligible for the weekly contest. All these 35 entrants are asked to put their entry forms in a separate box at The Brand office, or mark them as "Grand Prize Entry" if sent by mail. The 35 contestants for the Grand Prize awards are:

Flora J. Baker, Ronnie Bell, Beverly Bryant, John D. Bryant, Frank Cogdell, Hap Cavness, Ben Conklin, Rick Castenada, Ed Delozier, David Emerick, Frances Farr, Jimmy George (Dimmitt);

John Milton, J.R. Nunnally, K. Phommyvong Amarillo), Henry Rameakers (Dimmitt), Johnny Schumucker (Nazareth), Tracey Shepherd, Dago Valdez, Violeta Valdez, and Larry Wartes.

Others who came close last week, missing 7 of the games, included Mike Scott, Troy Waddell, Bob Baker, Debbie Rueda, Marcia Homer, Susie Kalka, Bernadette Kalka, and Ailene Alexander.

The final contest of the season will be found in today's Brand. Follow these easy rules, pick your teams and get the entry to the Brand office by 5 p.m. Friday.

Plainview and Hereford dominated the 1982 District 3-5A All District Football team, selected by a vote of district coaches, by placing 11 players on offense and six on defense.

Plainview defensive back Kenneth Hallman and Monterey placekicker Scott Segrist were the only unaninmous selections on the team. Ties were not broken in the voting, thus there were more than 11 players on both offense and defense.

Hereford's first team selections included wide receiver Brian Taylor, offensive tackle Erasmo Gonzales, center Tim Martin, running back Alfred Ball, quarterback-defensive back Charles McDowell and defensive end James Payne.

First-team selections from Plainview included tight end Dean Teykl, offensive tackles B. Terrell and Kirk Evans, guards Robert Bradic (also selected defensive linebacker

Raiders rally, clip Chargers

LOS ANGELES (AP) -After nearly half of their first National Football League regular-season game in Los Angeles as the home team, it appeared the Raiders needed some magic to escape with a victory. That's exactly what they got.

Los Angeles Coach Tom Flores called it "Monday Night Magic."

The Raiders overcame a 24-0 deficit to defeat the San Diego Chargers 28-24 at the Los Angeles Coliseum, raising their record in nationally televised Monday night games over the years to 19-2-1

"I don't know what it is about Monday night football," said Flores after his team raised its record to 3-0. "We're very proud of our Monday night record. Monday night football just brings out the best in us.

It didn't for most of the first half. The Chargers were in complete control until Ted Hendricks recovered a fumble by Chuck Muncie at the San Diego 17-yard line with less than two minutes to play in the first half.

That was the beginning of the end for the Chargers, who fell to 1-2 in the strikeinterrupted season:

The game completed the first weekend of action for the NFL's 28 teams following the

Garvey wants to talk more before players vote

Although the Cincinnati Bengals already have voted 47-1 to accept the agreement that allowed the National Football League season to resume, the scheduled ratification vote by all the players will not be held because union chief Ed Garvey wants to discuss the issues some more.

Garvey said Monday that some issues must be resolved before the players association will poll its members and officially end the strike that halted the 1982 season for eight weeks. Plans had called for the vote to take place to-

Community Thanksgiving Service

The Hereford Ministerial Alliance is sponsoring a community Thanksgiving service at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the First Christian Church sanctuary, shown above. The Rev. Dorman Duggan, pastor of Community Church, will bring the message and the Rev. Bob Huffaker, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, will lead in a Canticle of Thanksgiving. The welcome will be extended by First Christian Church minister, the Rev. Mack McCarter, at right. Anyone who would like to participate in the community choir which will provide special music in the service is asked to meet at the church at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

BY BRAD MORRISON Assistant County Extension Agent

Youth can gain lifetime benefits by joining the 4-H program and participating in its many projects and activities.

A vital part of the 4-H program are individual projects which help youth gain knowledge and learn new skills. The projects also provide ways to recognize work well done. Hundreds of certificates, medals and premiums are awarded each year to boys and girls in all stages of 4-H work.

4-H adds poise and confidence to the abilities of youngsters. 4-H'ers grow accustomed to public ap-pearances as they exhibit projects, give talks and demonstrations, and appear on 4-H programs.

4-H'ers have numerous opportunities to learn to work with other people. Leadership ability develops as club members work together.

Citizenship also develops and becomes more meaningful to 4-H'ers as they see their club in action, using the democratic process. They elect their own officers, plan their own programs, and carry out community service projects.

In addition, 4-H provides wholesome recreation for youth. Games, music, sports and talent shows are only a few of the many fun things in which 4-H'ers can become involved. Camping and hiking appeal to those who enjoy nature and outdoor living.

4-H offers many good things for today's youth, and the first step to getting involved is to contact the county Extension office.

Help for hemorrhoids

DEAR DR. LAMB Under what conditions do you think an operation is justified to remove hemorrhoids? I am female, 74, and the doctor prescribed medications to regulate my heartbeat and blood pres-

For two years now the hemorrhoids bleed occasionally, but always in the evening, usually after such exercise as walking around a large shopping mall. I quit roller skating, swimming and bicycling — all of which I did easily and well because they seemed to bring on the bleeding.

My physician-surgeon wanted to "cut 'em off' more than a year ago, saying they would never stop bleeding. But I put him off. DEAR READER — I hate to think that you are limiting your activity and your enjoyment because of hemorrhoids. Being active is important to your health if you are in good enough physical condition to be that active. Certainly a good walk is something you should be able to do without concern.

Whether you need your hemorrhoids treated depends on how much trouble they are giving you. And if you do need to do something, you need to know what kind of hemorrhoids you have before a decision is made regarding treatment.

Many people with mild symptoms find that better bowel habits that avoid straining at the stool help. And lubrication helps to avoid irritation and hence bleeding when being active.

If you need something done to control bleeding you may be fortunate enough to have internal hemorrhoids. These can be treated by injecting sclerosing agents that obliterate the offending hemorrhoid vein. You can't use injections for external hemorrhoids. And if you can't have injections you might be able to have the rubber band surgery. It is also only for internal hemorrhoids.

The choices for different types of hemorrhoids are outlined in The Health Letter 13-12, Hemorrhoids: New Treatments for an Old Affliction, which I am sending you. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB -Which is more important, the grams of carbohydrate or the calories? And can you tell me how many calories you have to take in to gain one pound?

DEAR READER - Calories ARE what count. Generally speaking, there are four calories in every gram of carbohydrate. Compare that to four calories for a gram of protein, nine calories for gram of fat and seven calories for a gram of alcohol. I think it is unfortunate that food labeling is not all done in calories to eliminate the confusion for the public.

You didn't say a pound of what. A pound of body fat contains about 3,500 calories. That means you need to consume 3,500 calories more than your body uses to gain a pound of fat. The excess calories can be from carbohydrates, protein, fat or alcohol.

But a pound of muscle contains only 600 calories. It follows that if you are consuming enough protein and are exercising properly, you can gain weight because you are developing muscle while you are losing fat from a calorie-restricted diet.

Take charge of your future

Older Texans should take reshape some of these habits, 2. If you want to remain charge of their future now.

"You can take charge of your future -- physically, cially. Control the things you can to become the person you want to be," suggests Mrs. Judith L. Warren, family life education specialist-aging, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Each individual can have some influence over what your future will be by the way you approach it," Warren adds. Leadership and volunteerism may be major

1. Decide what you expect of yourself in the future. Look at yourself now, and think about what kind of person you want to be and what kind of life you want to lead in five or 10 years. If you are physically active now and currently involved in a sport or exercise program, continue it. You may want to start an exercise program, if you are not currently involved.
