

Teenagers And Adults Voice Views On Hereford's High School Grads

Editors Note — Twelve local people six of them scheduled for graduation from Hereford High School at the end of this term, together with six of Hereford's leading citizens — were asked the same question: "Upon graduation from high school, what future does Hereford offer the teenager for jobs, economy and education?" Brand photographer and writer Tyler Vance, who is slated to graduate this year, drew the assignment to interview his fellow classmates, while Brand staff writer Earl Moseley, who has a daughter graduating from Eisenhower High School at Lawton, Oklahoma, was assigned the citizen portion of the survey. The two Brand employees did not collaborate "by comparing notes" prior to the publication of their separate stories, nor did they reveal opinions of others they had interviewed to any of those on their lists. The question was important. An honest personal viewpoint was equally as important. But reporters have their own viewpoints. Both agreed that some of the answers they received were surprising. The reader's viewpoint may be in for a few shocks of its own. THE TEENAGE VIEWPOINT

By TYLER VANCE
Teenagers, on the whole, are not quiet, shy creatures. Most of them have definite views on any subject put before them, and are usually quite willing to let their opinions be known. So it is with Hereford's teenagers. Each of the six graduating seniors interviewed gave permission to use his name, and each gave his or her personal views on the question put to them. Although each of the six opinions differed somewhat, as could be expected in any opinion poll, the general consensus is that Hereford is a pretty good town, "even though the educational opportunities offered are not the best," "there aren't enough jobs," and "the recreational needs of the city are behind the times."
Joe Walker is planning for a career as an Astro-Dynamical engineer. He hopes to get an appointment to the Air Force Academy after graduation, but doesn't know yet whether or not he is going to get it. In the way of jobs, I really can't think of too many business that offer job, other than farm labor during the summer. I can't think of any great jobs for the student after graduation either. That might change, there are more jobs coming in, but not right now.

But Walker saw a bright future for the Hereford area. "Hereford has potential, possibly after graduation from college a student would have a good chance. Hereford is going to be an industrial center, but I don't think just a high school education would help right now. Education-wise, there isn't much available. It is on the way up, because of the junior college, West Texas State and Texas Tech, as well as Amarillo college, are the ones in the immediate area that would give educational opportunities."
What about economy? Walker had this to say:

"The large portion of the teenagers get their cars from their parents, and most parents get their money from farming. Agriculture has contributed much to the wealth of the area. In this sense, the county would be a little better off, as compared to other counties. There is not much indifference found in the local teenagers, as there is in the eastern states. For that reason, the community is better for the student — it allows him to develop a wider outlook on society.
"But Hereford doesn't offer much education after graduation for a person planning to be an Astro-Dynamical engineer," Walker added.
Gary Goodin is a familiar name to area sports fans. Goodin runs track for the local Whiteface team, and has been quite a success in that field.
"There is money in local jobs — if you can find a job," quipped Goodin. "I think the town needs more jobs. There are summer jobs at the vegetable sheds, but that's about it.

Can you make a living and save money at the same time in Hereford?
"Well, any normal person ought to be able to. Prices are about right. It takes work to do anything. The trouble is getting a job to earn money.
"The education could be better — offer more. Also, there isn't enough recreation for the high school kids. There are too many restrictions."
Frank Nobles likes science and math. He has won several awards in the science fairs and contests he has entered.
"The only jobs available to students are technical jobs. They require no skill or training. As far as I know, these are all that are offered in Hereford."
Nobles saw a flaw in the credit availability in Hereford.
"There is a lot of credit. Whether or not it is bad depends on the person. Credit is being over-used — it is abused quite a bit. People buy things on credit, and have a hard time paying for them."
"As far as education goes, there is none available to the graduating senior. The only education available would be West Texas State or Texas Tech, and they are pretty good colleges. Generally, colleges in the local area are state supported, and cost is not a factor. But they don't compare to eastern colleges.

Several girls will be included in the 1968 graduating class, and so to give a complete picture of teenage ideas, three members of the fair sex were interviewed.
While Glynda Landers plans to attend college in Kentucky, she still has some ideas on what the graduating senior can expect in the way of economy for the local area.
"Economy depends on a lot of things. It depends on the type of job a person gets." Landers said she thinks that Hereford's economy compares, "pretty good" to that of other towns.
"As far as jobs go, the industrial students have a good chance. The employers are willing to teach the kids a trade, such as welding and stuff. Those taking business courses also have a good chance for education. But for the students who are taking math and science, Hereford does not seem to be too promising for us in the way of jobs and education. However, Hereford is a pretty good town, considering everything."

Shelly Rush will start her college education at West Texas State University. After one year she hopes to transfer to TCU, where her sister now attends school. She will live in a dormitory at WT.
"There isn't much opportunity for jobs right here in Hereford. Some kids go to Amarillo for jobs. If we had something new here. Of course, they have that meat packing plant in Friona, but Hereford is not quite ready for everyone graduating, especially during the summer.
"If a person had a good job, and wasn't married, he could make it, but everyone should go to college. The vocational trades part of high school is good, like building trades. Everyone needs a builder because Hereford is expanding.

"No one really wants you unless you go to college," Rush added.
The last person to be interviewed was Kandis Hill, one of Hereford High School's cheerleaders. She will be going to San Marcos to college, with a planned major in elementary education.
"I guess that there are a lot of job opportunities around in a lot of different fields. There are a lot of summer jobs. Some kids go out of town to work, however. There are jobs if you look for them. For girls, office jobs, life guarding or baby sitting are available. The wage scales are about average.
"Education? Well, in high school, they have all special fields, but as far as the rest of it goes, everyone needs a college education."
So that's how Hereford teenagers feel about their future in jobs, economy and education. See SCHOOL Page 2

Most Decorated War Vet Gives Insight To Vietnam

A close insight into the Vietnam War, its past and future, was given here Saturday by one of America's most decorated flying aces—Col. Joe Levinson, retired.
Levinson talked briefly with newsmen from the Brand at the Hereford Municipal Airport as he prepared to leave with friends and business associates from Hereford for a weekend trip.
Col. Levinson, who now lives in Dallas with his wife and children, was commander of the 121st Army Aviation Company in Vietnam for one year, arriving there in November, 1963, and leaving in November, 1964. He headed a combat unit longer than any other American has thus far in the Vietnam War. Known as "Tiger Six" during his Vietnam battle days, Col. Levinson has a long list of medals earned in World War II, the Korean War and in Vietnam. Included are the Vietnamese Medal of Valor with a gold palm (the highest Vietnam medal for gallantry); the Vietnamese Medal of Valor with a bronze palm; U. S. Legion of Merit; Bronze Star Medal; Air Medal; with V device for valor; 13 Air Medals.

Also Army Commendation Medal; Air Force Commendation Medal; Purple Heart; Navy Good Conduct Medal; Honorary Korean Army Aviator

Wings (one of 32 U. S. Army men so honored); Senior U. S. Army Aviator Wings; Navy Combat Air Crew Wings; American European Pacific Theatre of Operations Medal; United Nations Service Medal; Korean Service Medal; World War II Victory Medal; Vietnamese Service Medal; Sigmund Rhea (Korean) Presidential Unit Citation.
Col. Levinson, who is now 44 was born and reared in Chicago. He attended schools there and spent a period of time at Northwestern University. When World War II broke out, he volunteered for the Navy and spent four years piloting "flying boats."
He served as National Guard aide to Gen. Julius Cline from 196 until 1951, and went on active duty when the Korean War broke out. His one year in Korea included flying 120 missions in the Cessna artiller aircraft. Col. Levinson arrived in Vietnam when there were very few Americans. The job of his unit was mostly to support the Vietnamese, and in doing so pioneered the tactics of quick reaction airlifts and helicopter gun ship fire support which are still used today.
Explaining that the troubles in Vietnam actually began with the Geneva Conference in 1953, Col. Levinson stated that "it's absolutely right that we not leave there. The question of us being there in the first place is a question for the historians to decide."
"My personal feeling is that it is strongly within our own national interest to be there." Continuing, he said if Americans would think of the ramifications his remark would be understood. "What would the other countries think if we pulled out of Vietnam now. They would say 'what would they (America) do if we get in trouble. We

Services Are Held For Mrs. Bryant

Funeral services for Mrs. Cawthon Bryant, 312 Star, who died Thursday in a Dallas hospital, were conducted Saturday morning at First Methodist Church, of which she was a member, by the Rev. Clifford Trotter, pastor, and Dr. Don Davidson, executive director of Kings Manor.
A teacher for 25 years in Deaf Smith County elementary schools, Mrs. Bryant had been on the faculty of Aikman School since it opened 12 years ago. She taught at Ward and Westway schools before coming to the Hereford schools.

Mrs. Bryant, who called teaching her "first love" began her career in the classroom before she received her bachelors degree, and continued to study and teach until she had earned the masters degree also, both from West Texas State University.
She had worked many hours outside the school day with pupils entering county spelling bees, and was rewarded when her students had a record of winning nine of the 12 Junior Spelling Bees held in this county.
Born July 29, 1914 at Ralls, she was Mattie Ellen Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith. She married Cawthon Bryant June 27, 1937 at Ralls and has lived here throughout her married life.
She is survived by her husband; a son, John David Bryant of Hereford; her mother, Mrs. J. D. Smith of Ralls; three sisters, Mrs. Tee Richards of Fort Worth, Juanita Smith of Ralls and Mrs. Weidreng West of Clarendon; four brothers, Dick and Leidge Smith of Dallas, Vernie Smith of Ralls and Ray Smith of Santa Fe.
Burial in West Lawn Cemetery was directed by Gilliland Funeral Home. Serving as pallbearers were D. C. Martin, T. J. Parsons, Dale Tinnin, Robert Veigel, Fred Mulkey, Merlin Kaul, Norman Gray and Howard Birdwell.

Political Rally To Be Held At Walcott School

All voters in Deaf Smith County, as well as residents of the Walcott area, are invited to a political rally at Walcott School next Saturday evening sponsored by Messenger Home Demonstration Club.
Candidates for county and district offices have been invited to attend, be introduced and speak briefly. Women of the sponsoring club will serve doughnuts and coffee.
Women of Messenger Club will sell a hand-made quilt during the evening to benefit the club fund for service projects.

Local Men Elected To Highway Group

Lynton Allred of Hereford was elected president of the Texas Division of the National U. S. Highway 60 Association during a meeting Tuesday night in Panhandle.
Serving with Allred will be Bill Thompson, manager of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, as secretary, and Ben Babitzke of Higgins as first vice president, and Byron Vermillion of Amarillo as second vice president.
Allred is chairman of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Tourist Convention Committee.
The Association will revise and distribute a new brochure on "Things to See and Do in the Texas Panhandle." In other business, a plan for verifying road conditions during severe weather was explained. Thousands of dollars in traveler dollars are lost each year because of false reports of road conditions, it was reported. The telephone report system will be expanded to cover all area towns so that accurate advisories can be given.
A suggestion from the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce that the possibility of printing a magazine similar to ARIZONA HIGHWAYS with stories from along Highway 60 was discussed and passed on to the National Association for investigation.

The National Highway 60 Association will be meeting in Springville, Arizona, April 18 through 20. Hereford will be bidding for the 1969 convention.
Chamber Board Plans Meeting
The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will have its April board of directors meeting at a Wednesday morning breakfast in the Jim Hill Hotel at 6:30, according to Earnest Langley, the chamber president.
One of the questions on the agenda will be in regard to "an unusually high demand for our brochures due to tourists heading for the HemisFair has nearly depleted our supply. Reprinting will cost $1,100. We do not have the funds available to pay for this. Shall we borrow the necessary funds or limit the distribution and make the present supply last? We have only about 600 on hand — less than one month's supply at the present distribution rate."
Another of the questions for discussion will be: "The annual Chamber banquet made a profit this year. Shall we dedicate that money towards the Bull Barn?"

Tourney Entries Are Due By Friday

Friday is the deadline for the entrants in the local Volleyball tournament, set to be played in the Hereford High School gymnasium on April 30, May 2, 3, and 4.
Sponsored by the Hereford Women's Volleyball League with its two teams, the Panthers and the Mustangs, all proceeds from the matches are slated to be donated to the Revisit Center of the Institutes For the Achievement of Human Potential of Texas, Inc.
The Hereford Revisit Center, located here for more than a year, will be relocated in Amarillo on April 29. The move became necessary when Dr. Dudley Moore of Canyon became its medical director and arranged for additional medical and psychiatric assistance, agreed upon by Amarillo doctors.
The Women's League felt that "this was something very important to the brain-damaged children" who are involved in the program, no matter where the center was located, and agreed to promote the games for their benefit.

The league representatives announced that they have invited 20 area teams to compete in the tourney.
A number of trophies have been contributed by Hereford merchants and businesses, to be awarded at the tournament.
Inspections To End On Vehicles
Long lines are expected to form at the 11 official Inspection Stations in Hereford Monday as local residents attempt to beat the deadline on inspections set by the Department of Public Safety.
There are 12,362 registered vehicles in Deaf Smith County to be inspected this year, according to the DPS. One official made a survey of the Hereford Official Inspection Stations Monday morning and at that time, only 8,889 vehicles had been inspected.
The Official Inspection Stations here are Orval Watson Ford, 200 W. First; Osborn Chevrolet-Olds, 211 N. Schley; Kinsey-Osborn Motors, 142 N. Miles; McRight Garage and Supply, 642 E. Second; Kemp Auto Repair, East Highway 60, and Beavers Motor Company, 320 E. Third.

Plans Begin On Shrine Circus

The annual Khiva's Shrine Circus is coming to the Panhandle again and will be in Hereford May 10th.
The Nobles of Khiva Temple are sent tickets each year to sell and if they fail to sell them, a $10 check is sent in as their contribution to the men in the Units and Shrine Associations who work hard in parades, ceremonies and gatherings of all types.
This Circus will be in Plainview, Borger, Pampa, Spearman, Dumas, and Amarillo at various dates.

USDA Lists Maturity Dates

Maturity dates for price support loans placed on 1967-crop grains and similarly handled commodities were listed today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The dates are similar to those for 1966 crops except for dry edible beans, which have been placed under one date instead of two previously used.
Price support loans on eligible commodities will be available up to 30 days prior to the loan maturity dates. If not placed under loan, such commodities can be sold to Commodity Credit Corporation by notifying the county ASCS office before the loan maturity dates of April 30th for Wheat and June 30th for Feed Grain.

Young Farmers Plan Meeting

THE ADULT VIEWPOINT By EARL MOSELEY

Rounding up six local civic-minded people for an answer to the question of Hereford's job, education and economy for the high school graduate has not been an easy assignment. Each of the six who were interviewed were busy.

But that is a prime point which should not be overlooked: They all stay busy — trying to build a strong future here, not only for the teenager but everyone.

The order in which the adult's answers appear here are not selective — they appear here in the order in which they were received by this reporter. In fairness, some thought the original question was a bit tricky but nonetheless were left to rely on their own interpretation.

Johnny Clark, Jr., superintendent of the Hereford schools, expressed the opinion that he thought this column "was very timely now" in view of Hereford's activities toward bringing a junior college into this area, together with the statistics that 52 per cent of all crimes committed in Texas are perpetrated by young people not yet 19 years old, and the training school program at James Connally Air Force Base at Waco, "after a 12-month training program for 150 young men, their average starting salary became $5,400 per year."

Clark said firmly that without education after high school the graduate will have nothing. "Jobs and opportunities are far above average in Hereford," he said. "The students who have elected to serve the vocational route in high school, I think they can be well equipped to fill positions — and even advance."

"The economy and growth of the community out of necessity is going to give them above-average opportunities. But for that student who took the traditional academic route in high school, I see limited opportunity. Their opportunities are as salesmen or positions of routine menial tasks. But beyond this, I see little possibility for professional advancement."

"Which means this: The youngster should pursue the vocational route — beyond the high school level."

County Judge H. C. Williams said: "The main recommendation Hereford has for its youth is its increasing population. A town depends upon growth for its existence, for without growth there is no progress, and without progress there is no life. Progress and its sister, opportunity, are an intrinsic part of Hereford's makeup."

"The high standard of living in Hereford, because of its rich farmland and its growing industrial importance, encourages high wages for the young man or woman starting out in the world of business. There are always jobs open for young people who have enthusiasm for work and a desire to make a success of their lives."

"The new opportunities in business are great and are becoming greater every year in Hereford. Upon graduation from the Hereford school system, the teenager is well prepared to take advantage of these opportunities. The Future Farmers of America and the Future Homemakers of America give boys and girls a basic knowledge of agriculture and domestic arts. Also, such organizations as Future Nurses of America, Future Teachers of America, and Distributive Education give young people new goals in choosing their life's work."

Judge Williams continued: "Higher education is more and more becoming a prerequisite for economic success. The proximity of various institutions of higher learning allow the youth of Hereford a greater chance to further their education. Institutions such as West Texas State University, Amarillo College, Texas Technological College, Lubbock Christian College and South Plains Junior College are all within a hundred-mile radius of Hereford and offer a widely varied curricula. There are also excellent business colleges in the area as well as beauty colleges and other trade schools.

"The new industry in Hereford gives excellent opportunity to those unable to obtain higher education. Holly Sugar Corporation offers jobs of varied types to persons without higher degrees and offer good possibilities for advancement. Dolly Textiles also offer young women a chance to make advantageous use of their domestic skills in dressmaking. Other opportunities in farming and in the cattle feeding business are unlimited."

"Hereford, then, with its growth and progress, gives any willing youth unlimited opportunities for good jobs and economic security."

Paul Abalos, the Stanton Junior High teacher, KPAN disc jockey and Latino-merchandise store owner, said:

"After graduation, the teenager in Hereford would have the opportunity to compete with the unskilled or semi-skilled for a job. There are also opportunities to work as a 'white-collar worker,' but these jobs are limited. There is no question that there are not enough good jobs to go around to all the high school teenagers."

"Since there is a need to train these students for certain length of time, it takes a good while for the students to draw a good salary. Therefore, teenagers usually take on unskilled jobs because they are able to draw higher wages. But such jobs are very uneventful from the standpoint of security."

"Education: Hereford offers teenagers very few opportunities to pursue any type of post high school study. At the present, there is a beauty college, various adult education classes that include business or commercial training and also vocational oriented classes. In my opinion, the teenagers that graduate have limited opportunity once they have left high school — here in Hereford."

"Our teenagers are vital to the economy of our community. They are the future consumers and should be provided the facilities necessary to meet their needs, if we are to keep them in our community. There is a need for higher training beyond the high school. In the final analysis, it is up to the community as a whole to offer the Hereford High School graduate the benefits of higher education, economic stability — and better job opportunities."

Earnest L. Langley, president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, said:

"It is an old saying that the grass looks greener on the other side of the fence, and perhaps most people feel, as I think I did when I graduated from high school, that there were probably places that offered more than the town where I had grown up. This is probably a fairly common attitude on the part of recent high school graduates."

"However, I have seen less of this attitude in Hereford than I have ever seen anywhere else, and this fact would seem to reflect that most of our young people feel, as I do, that Hereford does in fact offer more opportunities for our young people than the average town. This is not to say that the town will grab a young person and put him to work at exactly what he or she wants to do, but I do think that the opportunities are here, for those who will look about them for awhile."

Langley continued, "We have an unusually large number of service businesses and industries here, it seems to me, and most of these do not require a college education to qualify for jobs that should enable young people to marry and support a family. This would include such jobs as welding, machinist, building trades, auto repair, farm equipment business, fertilizers and farm supplies, and many others. We also have Holly Sugar and several other industrial organizations, including Swift, Allied Chemical, Monsanto, and such local organizations as Her-Tex Mills. There is a broader opportunity than most towns have in these fields."

"Most of these businesses also offer better opportunities for our young women than most towns have, including secretarial and business work."

"The adult education facilities at our high school offer tremendous opportunities for anyone who wants to add skills and thereby increase his or her ability to qualify for better paying jobs. This should be increasingly important over the years."

Mrs. Argen Draper, the County Home Demonstration Agent, said "that high school graduates are very fortunate in Hereford because of the job opportunities in expanding industries and new industries. It is my feeling that there are sufficient financial institutions to provide capital for persons going into business."

"As far as education is concerned, there is a vocational within 30 miles and university classes giving facilities for continued training here."

Johnny B. Pool, owner of the Western Auto Associate Store and recently elected as a City Commissioner, explained that he had never had to "look for a job in his life. But with Wilson and Company coming in, and the cattle feeding business, it offers greater opportunities than ever before. All insecticide and fertilizer companies have to have salesmen."

"I also believe this: If one store owner here takes an employee, he is actually teaching him how to work for another store owner." He explained that was advancement. "You have to teach them how to work or they will never get anywhere."

Actually, the adults of Hereford do not have the problem of communication with its young people. The low juvenile delinquency rate here bears this out. There have been no demonstrations, no draft-card burnings, no organized gangs which have reigned terror on the streets and highways."

Each of the adults interviewed — and many more! — have been quick to notice the frequent outstanding contributions the Hereford teenager has made toward his own progress. This has made it easy for the Hereford adult to fight for continued progress for them. Because they know they will not be disappointed."

But Hereford does have a similar problem to other cities — in that the teenager here, in the establishment of his own independence, will sometimes pay little attention to his own parent's advice. But that has been going on since Adam and Eve had teenagers.

However, in each case of the

Children To Get Measles Vaccine

Dr. C. E. Rush, Deaf Smith County Health Officer, will give free measles vaccine to all county children of third grade age and under at the Hereford High School cafeteria on Sunday, April 28, between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

The children eligible for the vaccine are pre-schoolers, and those of kindergarten, headstart and nursery schools, and first, second and third grade students. Mrs. Ray Simpson, president of the Young Mothers Club, reported that her club members will be cooperating in this project. Work of the members is being supervised by a Young Mothers committee comprised of Mmes. David Brumley, Al Hunter, Don Brush and Homer Rudd.

Dr. Rush said that measles epidemics can be avoided if unprotected children, pre-schoolers and those attending school, are properly immunized."

Immediately following the Easter holidays, Young Mothers members will conduct a survey in an effort to notify parents of all eligible children.

Children who have had measles — or those who have previously been given the measles vaccine — are already protected from the disease and will not need a new vaccination.

couldn't expect any help from them" It would severely hurt our trade with these countries."

Speaking of the current peace talks in Vietnam, Col. Levinson said he actually knew no more than what he has read and heard lately. "My feelings are that we can negotiate for peace, but it will be an uneasy peace. 'Ho Chee Minh,' he continued, 'Naturally will feel that Vietnam is his.'"

Describing how strongly he felt about staying in Vietnam, Col. Levinson said if some of the government officials came to his home in Dallas and told him the United States would stay if he would go over there or would leave if he did not, "I'd say let's go."

Col. Levinson, although retired from the Army, is quite active in several business ventures, including some in the "highly developed agriculture area of Deaf Smith County." He is the south and southwest marketing director for the Alden Press of Chicago and is affiliated with Dewey Wiles and local businessmen in developments here.

Plans call for the group to return to Hereford today (Sunday) and drive around the county to look over some of the industry and potential for more.

adult being interviewed here, their answers were point-blank and given in extreme honesty. It was done so because each of them realize that the time is ripe for the graduating teenager to become adults themselves. Whatever their own future is to be in Hereford, they will have to pick up their own reins and do it for themselves.

With their past record in mind, there is little doubt that they cannot accomplish this sensibly.

Bell Is Named Outstanding GI

SP-5 Roy L. Bell

Sp-5 Roy L. Bell, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bell of 324 Ave. J, Hereford, and husband of Kay Bell, has been chosen Soldier of the Month in his company, now stationed at Vung Tau, Vietnam. The selection was made from approximately 200 men.

Sp-5 Bell, a graduate of Hereford High School, has been in the Army since August 4, 1966. He took his basic training at Ft. Bliss, Texas, and was shipped to Ft. Bragg, North Carolina, Ft. Sill, Oklahoma, and Ft. Hood, Texas, before arriving in Vietnam on Jan. 29.

He was promoted in March to a Specialist E-7 rating.

Bell, who was born at Roaring Springs but has lived in Hereford most of his life, was employed here by W. H. Henry as a mechanic before going into the service. He is still a mechanic — a senior wheel vehicle mechanic, a shop foreman for the Army.

His wife of seven years is staying in Hereford with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Albracht of 321 Ave. B. She said that her husband was returning to the states for home on July 25.

Sp. Bell's address now is with the 67th Engineers (DT) Company, APO San Francisco, California 96291. His serial number is US 54371405.

Promotion Given To Jerry Tucker

Jerry E. Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Tucker of 422 Western in Hereford, has just received notice of promotion from Specialist Fourth Class to that of Sergeant, his mother announced.

Tucker, who is presently stationed in Song Be Vietnam, is with D Battery of the 71st Artillery. He has been in Vietnam since the 29th of September of 1967 and is expected to be discharged on the 15th of September of this year, when his enlistment is up.

He attended the last two years of school at Hereford High School before his entrance into the service. He became 21 on the 3rd of April.

Gardners Hear Review Of Book

FHA DELEGATES — Chosen to represent Stanton Junior High School chapter, Future Homemakers of America, at the state FHA meeting at Austin next Thursday and Friday were Kaylanette Battenfield and Lupe Pena, who will attend as official delegates.

Brought home to members by reference to measures such as those planned locally to increase a dwindling water supply, content of a book titled The Quiet Crisis supplied the program for Hereford Garden Club Friday afternoon.

Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. reviewed the book by Stewart Udall, whose experience as U. S. Secretary of the Interior has given him a view of past waste of America's natural resources and the need to preserve those remaining. Conservation of water was one phase of Udall's discussion.

Mmes. R. L. Wilson, S.S. Williams and R. L. Ehrhridge were club hostesses in Mrs. Wilson's home. Business included delegates, reports from the recent convention of Texas Garden Clubs Inc.

Failure of American settlers to conserve this nation's resources because they believed the overabundance assured a lasting supply, was one note in Udall's book which Mrs. Hill emphasized. She spoke of the pioneers' waste of forests and land, native animals and birds, minerals and oil.

Now air and water pollution are problems, she said, and the fast-growing population has caused building with no plans for recreation or breathing space so that crowding in cities has bred tension and unrest.

The writer traced the history of government attempts to conserve resources from the time of John Quincy Adams, the first president to note the need. But politicians have always been disinterested in conservation until it was almost too late, he noted.

Also on program was a brief report by Mrs. Luther Norvell from the National Gardener magazine. She called attention to a new book by Mary Kittell on scenic spots in each of the Garden Club districts of Texas.

Convention reports, including awards won by Hereford Garden Club, were given by Mrs. Ray L. Johnson, president, Mrs. A. L. Manjeot and Hill, delegates, who represented the club at Corpus Christi.

A guest was Mrs. W.D. Manly of Bunkie, La., Mrs. Johnson's sister, and 17 members were present.

Bridges-Bell Engagement Of Interest Here

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Cynthia Jane Bridges and Charles Thomas Bell of Montgomery, Ala., is of interest here to friends of the bridegroom-elect and his family. He is the son of Lt. Col. (ret) and Mrs. Charles Austin Bell of Montgomery, the grandson of Mrs. Alan G. Bell and the late Mr. Bell of Hereford. His fiancée's parents are Lt. Col. and Mrs. Benjamin Eugene Bridges of Annandale, Va.

The wedding is planned for June 9 at 4 p. m. in the Church of the Holy Comforter in Montgomery. Mr. Bell is to be graduated from Texas A&M College earlier in the month, and will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force upon graduation.

He has been president of Delta Y and the YMCA Cabinet, vice president of Polaris Council and of Southwest YMCA as a student at A&M. He and Miss Bridges are both graduates of Sidney Lanier High School and she will be a June graduate of Auburn University where she is listed in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

Fathers of Miss Bridges and Mr. Bell have served together in overseas duty with U. S. military forces. Mr. Bell has visited his grandmother and other relatives in Hereford and is acquainted with many residents here.

Special Week Is Planned At Nazarene Church

An Evangelistic Campaign will begin at the Church of the Nazarene, 16th and Blackfoot, Monday night and will last through next Sunday.

Rev. Lawson Brown of Oklahoma City will be the speaker and also will be soloist during the special music each night by the congregation.

On Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, the West Texas Ambassadors will be guests. The Ambassadors is a group of teenagers from throughout the northern portion of the Panhandle who meet regularly to sing and train themselves for evangelistic work. The group is directed by Rev. Charles Jones of Canyon and Bill Burton of Fritch.

The services begin at 7:30 p. m. nightly during the Evangelistic Campaign.

by MELVIN YOUNG

Emmett Milburn, the sage of Sampson St., says he can't figure out which is going up the fastest — groceries, taxes or mini skirts.

And Bartley Dowell, recently elected city commissioner, has the saddest story of all. Bart has been putting in some mighty long hours at the accounting firm recently, trying to get all his client's tax returns in before the April 15th deadline. This is a pretty rough time for accountants, and they generally burn a lot of midnight oil before the final day. And, due to the extra long hours, it has been a custom for the office to close its doors on the 16th and let all the accountants take a holiday.

Bart was raly looking forward to the 16th — which is Tuesday. That is, he was, until he arrived home and found a letter from the sheriff's office informing him that he was one of the lucky ones who must report for jury duty that day.

Apparently, there just "ain't" no justice.

—HB—
Took a tour of the city property west of town Friday with Mayor Ray Cowser and Commissioner Lloyd Sharp. The property we're speaking of is that 75-acre plot just west of the city where the new wells and the water tank is located. Not too long ago, this property was overgrown with weeds and looked pretty bad. Particularly down around the creek. But a little work by city employees has improved the situation considerably. The mayor tells us that they plan to pull out some of the old trees, particularly the ones growing in the creek channel, and fix a picnic area just west of the highway bridge.

It's amazing what a little "clean-up" campaign can do.

—HB—
The City of Hereford has done an exceptionally good job on parks in Hereford with the small amount of money they have had to work with.

We're hoping by the way, that they will see fit to make a park out of the present Campfire property when the new Campfire building is constructed and the old barracks moved off. That triangle would make a nice little park.

And speaking of Campfire, we might mention that the plan for the new building is about completed and it shouldn't be too long before construction will start. If everything moves

Friona Defeats City Sales Tax

FRIONA — Following the lead of Hereford voters, Friona defeated the proposition for a city sales tax there with a total of 160 votes for it and 206 against.

The mayor and city council election was held on the same date last week, with a total of 388 voters at the Friona polls. It was considered a good turnout.

along according to schedule, the girls should be in their new building by the time school starts in August. According to Mrs. Nita Lea, we now have 475 girls participating in the Campfire program, and it is amazing that they have been able to keep the program operating so well in the present quarters.

—HB—
Work: Something that when we have it we wish we didn't; when we don't have it, we wish we did; and the object of most of it is to be able to afford not to do any some day.

out, although an even larger turnout had been forecast because of the sales tax angle.

A school board election was held at the same place and date. A total of 386 votes were cast for it — a larger amount than the sales tax proposition.

In the mayor's race, W. L. Edelman, unopposed for the position, was elected by 302 votes.

TAX MAN SAM SEZ

Well, the big day finally got here. We are glad that you made it, even though it was at the last minute. Internal Revenue has some good advice for a large part of those late filers: Be patient about your refund check, since these late returns take a little bit longer. For the people who waited 'til the last minute and still had to pay, IRS doesn't have a message but in case you haven't given up reading everything pertaining to taxes until next April 15, let me repeat our January 1 message: "Next year, file early!"

Thanks to all who made the effort to vote for me last Saturday in the school board election. Al Dziuk honoree at its guest day luncheon this week. Mrs. Ralph McCullough, right, reviewed the new book, Junior Dear. Mrs. Delmar Sigle, club president, is standing behind them.

Alfred Ellison and his brother came to Deaf Smith County in 1907 and built the first house in the Escarbada pasture when land from the XIT was being sold. They were strictly cattlemen until about 1920. Afterward, they farmed.

Experiences As Author Are Ahead

More experience as an author with a book lately published is being gained by Mrs. H. E. Miller, Hereford writer, during a visit to California. She left by train Friday for Sacramento. Mrs. Miller will visit in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Herb Dones, in the California capital and while there she will be honored at an autograph day in the book department of Rhodes Department Store and will make a television appearance. She will be interviewed on a noon show of a Sacramento TV station. Other autograph party appearances are also to be made. She plans to return to Hereford about May 1.

Interviews and autograph sessions have been made by Mrs. Miller in Hereford, Lubbock and Amarillo since publication of her first book, Junior Dear, late in February. The same publishers, Dorrance and Co. of Philadelphia, recently accepted her second novel, Mama The Preacher, which was written while Mrs. Miller was waiting for the acceptance and publication of the first.

Officers Elected By Paisano Lions

Election of next years officers installation of new members, and the presentation of an award all highlighted a meeting of the Paisano Lions last Monday night.

Ed Salinas, present president of the organization, termed the meeting as "one of the most exciting and lively nights we've had" due to the election of officers and the campaigning for offices.

Elected as President of the club was Noe Salinas with First Vice-President being Joe Aguirre; Second Vice-President, Alex Sermino; Secretary, Alex Torres; Treasurer, Robert Pelsina; Lion Tamer, Charlie Moreno; Tall Twister, Joe Soto; and Raymond Zamora and Paul Villarreal being elected as new directors.

Official installation date for the new officers will be in the latter part of June it was announced.

Guest speaker for the meeting was Don Chaney, secretary of the newly-formed Big Brother Program in Hereford. Chaney discussed the new program to the Lions and its apparent need in the local community.

Following the program, the two new members were inducted into the club, and these were Cub Lions, Gilbert Blea and Frank Garcia. Sponsoring Blea was Julio Valdez, while Charlie Moreno was the sponsor for Garcia. These two new members were given 1969 calendars, an old broken gold brick, and a baby rattle which they had to carry around the table five times rattling it while they said "I'm Glad To Be A Cub Lion."

An attendance prize winner was fished out of a fish bowl by the club's sweatshirt, Mrs. Hope Mendez. Recipient of the award was Alex Torres.

The meeting ended after a discussion of future plans for Lion conventions.

After a short trip the couple will be at home in Stratford, where Mr. Kirchoffner is a geologist with an oil company. A buffet supper in the Wade home followed the ceremony. In addition to those in the wedding party, guests were Joe Boren, Bill Boren, Joe Bill Boren, Misses Margaret Daniels and Betty Mochau and Mrs. Bonnie Mitchell.

Rodriguez Ends Job Corps Course

SAN MARCOS — Robert Rodriguez, 17, of Hereford, was among 117 Gary Job Corps Center trainees to receive a certificate of completion at formal graduation ceremonies last Thursday.

Rodriguez had completed the Retailing course. He has been in training at Gary for 7 months. The graduating class represented all six vocational clusters, which include the 37 trade programs offered on Center.

Principal speaker was the Rev. M. Bill G. Arnold, Pastor of the First Baptist Church in New Braunfels, Tex. He holds degrees from Howard Payne College and Southwestern Seminary. Mr. Arnold is also trustee of Howard Payne College and the Valley Baptist Academy in Harlingen, Tex.

The arrival of an unannounced visitor added special significance to Corpsmen about to embark on a new life. Sgt. Ken Pace, former Gary Corpsman from Amarillo, Tex., appeared at the stage edge to personally congratulate each graduate who filed by with a certificate of completion.

Invited on stage by Center Director Wallace D. Dockall, Pace, in an extemporaneous and moving address, told the Corpsmen he felt "home at last" when he entered the Gary gates. "Take pride in a country like America which cares about her youth—enough to make possible the Job Corps chance," said Pace.

Less than a day in the states after a 13-month stint in Viet Nam, Pace told of a certain "esprit de corps" when he ran into other ex-Corpsmen serving in the battlefields. "Being in fox holes night after night gave me time to pray, and I realized what caring is all about," he said. "I knew then that Job Corps had truly given a special meaning to my life—a place to serve and be a part. Now I can repay this faith." The audience rose en masse with an overwhelming response to the address.

That First Airplane Ride Is Exhilarating Experience

By PENNY YOUNG
 For the most part of my air jaunt to San Antonio, I can't relate very much of what I saw, mainly because I seemed to be hindered from the sightseeing by a type of illness common to first-time flyers-nausea. So, between my white plastic "burp bag" with the blue trim, and my sudden attacks of illness, I'll try to give the reader the same sensation that I experienced on my first cross-country flight.

Charles Frye's small red, white, and blue 8513R Bellanca plane provided our transportation to the big city and back. Donna Smith and Mary Carter were the other passengers.
 At 8:20 a. m., with Donna at the controls, we left Hereford in a smooth take-off which excited me to no end to think that we were really in the air-flying. I was even doing fine as far as sickness went. In fact I began to pride myself on how well I was holding up on my first time around.

Have you ever seen an aerial picture of the countryside or of a large city? Beautiful isn't it? Well, that is exactly what it looks like and even more picturesque in real life. The farms form perfect symmetrical blocks like a patchwork quilt that grandma used to make so well. From the sky, you wouldn't believe anything could ever be dirty.

Funeral Service Set Today For G. L. Shirley

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. today for George Shirley, 63, of 136 North West Drive, who died Thursday afternoon at a local hospital after a year's illness. The service will be in Avenue Baptist Church.
 The Rev. Ronald Harpster, pastor, will officiate and burial will be in West Park Cemetery with Gilliland Funeral Home in charge.

Mr. Shirley, an automobile mechanic, had lived in Deaf Smith County since 1926, when he moved from Stratford, Okla. He was born Feb. 19, 1905 at Ada, Okla., and married Sadie Barns in Stratford Nov. 15, 1930.

Survivors are his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Joyce Landers of Hereford, Mrs. Ruth Smith and Mrs. Kay Mallicoat of Amarillo; a son, Alvin Shirley of Glendora, Calif., and eight grandchildren.

Also six sisters, Mrs. Hester Thompson of Hereford, Mrs. Jewell O'Neal of Amarillo, Mrs. Emily Lollis of Wewoka, Okla., Mrs. Nadile Lutz of Chicago, Mrs. Rodie Stephens of Mountain View, Calif., and Mrs. Thelma Malloy of Sunnyvale, Calif.

Billions of birds fly thousands of miles each year on their seasonal migrations.

On a clear day, you can see details down below so clearly. People are pinpoints and houses are the play toys you used to have as a little girl or boy. Everything on earth seems so beautiful. You want to just reach down and touch it. Streams, rivers, land, farms, houses; you name it and its all like a miniature model of the real thing. A paradise and a haven of peace. Sometimes, if you have the stomach you can watch all the scenery below and think just how much the Creator really put into our great world. A loveliness too great for words and a lot of the time something too great for people, especially if they don't know how to enjoy it.

Donna was doing a fine job at the controls and Mrs. Carter and I were enjoying the scenery immensely. Sort of drinking in all of its beauty and wonder when all of a sudden (I think it was somewhere over Snyder) I turned sheet-white and had to politely ask for a "burp bag" to hold in my hands. Being a polite guest, I really hated to mess up the floor of the plane. I think that it was after about 10 minutes of flying that I finally resigned myself to my acknowledged fate of air sickness.

Soon after my sickness had passed and I had placed a complacent smile on my face, I tied up the little bag and carefully set it in the back compartment of the plane feeling sure that I had now conquered the nausea.

So back to the scenery and enjoying my trip, I thought. Thirty minutes later I was again asking for the little white bag. I settled back in my seat and tried to pry my thoughts away from their present meditation.

As I lay there, I began thinking about everyone's favorite World War I flying ace-Snoopy, and his constant fight with the Red Baron. There I was, the World War I flying ace, wounded and being transported to medical overseas. This tended to make me feel even worse and what's more, it induced me to make use of the "burp bag" in my hands. I wasn't so anxious however to tie it up and dispose of it. It seemed to be a crutch.

For a while I slept and started feeling better, although I could swear that one more false move of that little plane and I would have had it.

The terrain began to change not long after we passed over Lubbock. The beautiful patchwork was becoming rare to see and more and more the rougher terrain with trees by the thousands and rolling hills began to show its face. Roads were thinning out I noticed, and lakes and streams were becoming more frequent.

The clouds were also changing. But I wasn't the first to notice. Donna and Charles were already making preparations to meet the little thunderstorm that we were destined to run into.

There was a low fog over San Antonio and I could see where the puffy white clouds made a sharp decline to a lower level. They were so pretty I never dreamed they could cause so much trouble.

Hours and hours of boredom and one moment of stark terror was the statement made to me by Charles Frye before we left Hereford. And I believe that's exactly what it was. The small thunderstorm we hit bounced our little plane around tremendously and even brought a few laughs from the rest of the crew as I was sitting there clutching my mouth and stomach partly from fear and partly from sickness. It's pretty bad being the only one in the plane on their first flight.

I'll never forget that part of the ride. From the bumps and the little bag to the smooth parts and a quick rest back to the jostling and bouncing of both the plane and my stomach. There has never been a person any happier to feel the solid earth underneath them than me. Before we landed, I managed to catch a glimpse of the San Antonio airport, which was so large that I couldn't possibly see it all in one glimpse. Runways everywhere resembling a geometry design that I had to work up at one time. After landing, we descended from the plane and what a change in the atmosphere. Humid, very humid. Your clothes just stuck to you and not really hot, just wet.

We watched a jet take off from the airport and a few land, then proceeded to the office, a cold water fountain and a good solid chair.

San Antonio is a huge city and great to visit but I really would not want to live there. I don't like so many people at one time and I really prefer a small town like Hereford to any big congested city.

Avis rent-a-car provided our transportation with a Dodge dart and we began our small tour of the large town. First we got a view of the apartments that Hereford Aero rented for the Hereford pilots to use if they had an unexpected flight down or if they were weathered in. Branding Iron restaurant in the North Star Mall, and took a walk or maybe a small shopping spree without any money, around the mall.

Downtown San Antonio is fascinating and so is the HemisFair, at least what we got to see of it. Our family is planning a trip in June and I simply can't wait to get to go through the lovely structures.

The tower is the most fascinating of all to me. From a distance, it looks small and harmless, but close up it scared me to death. One thing that did startle me was the hotel that I learned had been completely built, room for room in the country and brought in piece by piece and constructed like a huge cross-word puzzle. I believe it was called the Hilton-Placacio de Rio.

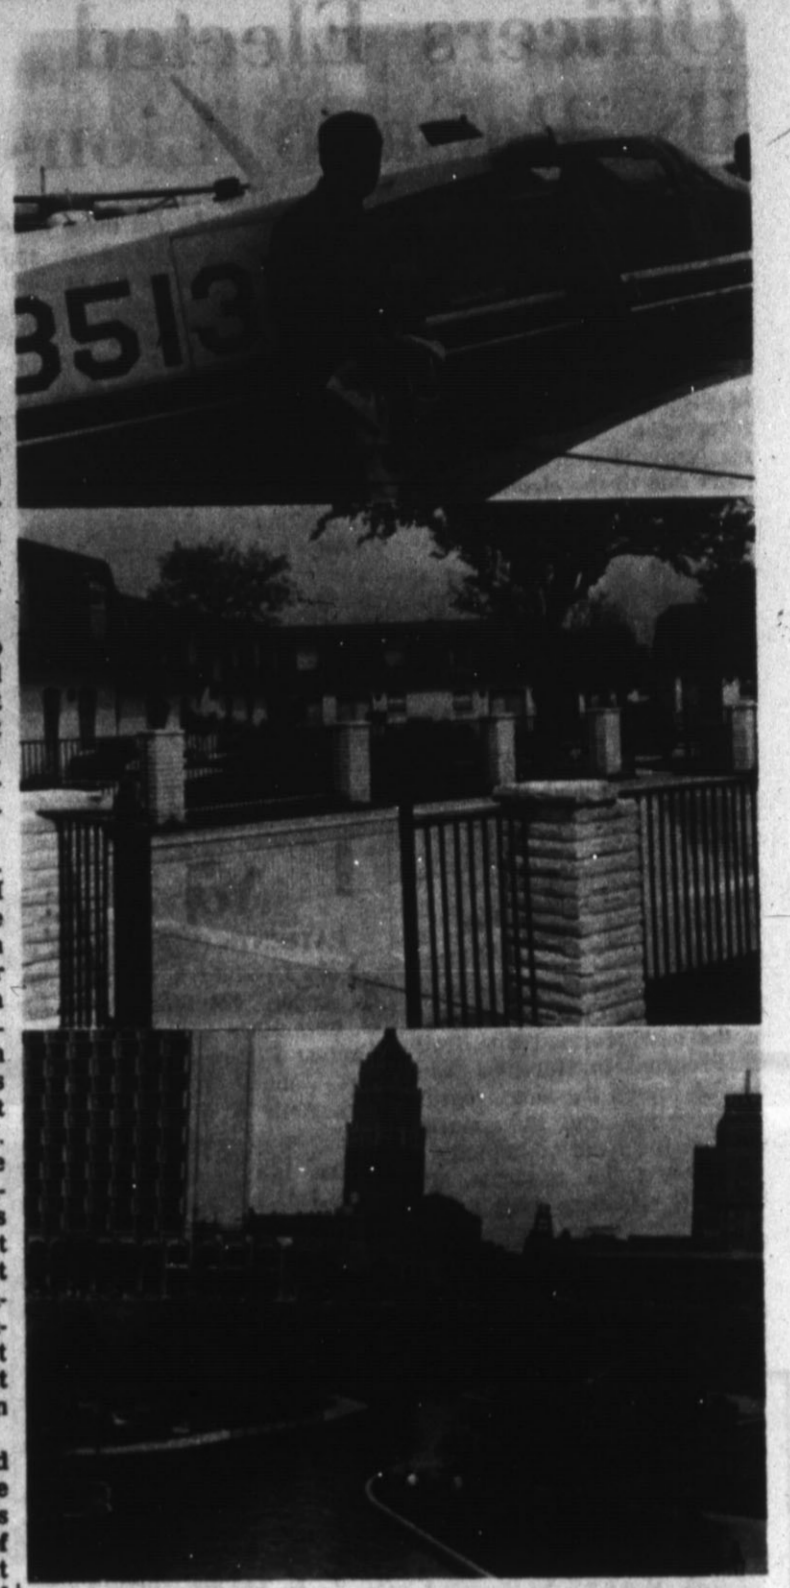

Our stay in San Antonio wasn't too long but I enjoyed every moment of it. The thought of having to get back on that plane was what made me sick. We patronized the nearest drugstore and bought some Dramamine pills before we left.

The trip back was marvelous. I'll never forget that either. I really do feel sorry for anyone who hasn't been able to watch the sun set from the air or watch it rain down below from up above. Lovely! The sun peeping just barely over the horizon and making beautiful colors and effects on the clouds that are missed by someone below. We missed the majority of the storms, however, we did run into scattered thunderstorms which produced the same effect on the plane as before but it didn't seem to bother my stomach at all. We even saw a rainbow. I felt like reaching out and touching it and the thought that you couldn't reach it even from the air disappointed me.

When night fell, the cities and towns shone like stars in the sky except they were man's creation on earth. Patches of light here, and patches of light there, mixed with scattered lights all over the countryside. It couldn't have been lovelier. To fly at night is the most wonderful experience that could happen to a pilot and his passengers.

I was reluctant for us to land after such a magic land that I was living in from above, but all good things must come to an end, as we all know.

From the results of my first flight, all I have to say is I hope I never again experience the sickness that I did but I simply can't wait for my next soar through the air.

MIDDLE—OUR TRIP to San Antonio included a visit to these lovely apartments which were leased by the Hereford Aero for six months. After a 15-minute tour, we left for downtown San Antonio.

BOTTOM—DOWNTOWN and a view of the picturesque part of the San Antonio River that runs through the city. The motel in the distance is the Hilton-Placacio de Rio that was built room by room in the country and transported piece by piece to build the building.

CLOSED SUNDAY

To the people of Hereford and surrounding communities:

The elders of the Central congregation of the church of Christ take pleasure in announcing an expanded program of the work in Hereford.

The first step in this expansion will require the services of a second full-time minister in addition to Gene Fooks. Several men are under consideration, and we expect a second minister to be with us by late summer.

The elders urge you to prayerfully consider your relationship to the Lord. It is our prayer that the cause of Christ will continue to go forward in this community, and we earnestly request your consideration and your prayers that His will may be done and that our efforts may glorify His name.

Everyone is welcome at the services of the Central church of Christ.

Herd Lines

By Marshall Day

Milers dream of the magic four minutes, 120 hurdlers wish for the close-but-yet-so-far 13 seconds, and vaulters falter before the cloud-touching 18 feet.

All of these records and more seemed like things out of the realms of science fiction not many years ago but steadily they have become things of reality for the persistent competitors. Looking back not so many years ago, you can find several "records" that look as if the competitors weren't putting their heart into it or there weren't many good cindermen around.

Setting, breaking, and re-breaking records seems to be the theme of several of the Hereford High School tracksters this season as those records of yesteryear seem laughing matters.

Gary Goodin, one of these versatile competitors, was a youngster competing back in 1966 when he set a record of 14.9 in the 120-yard high hurdles. Two years later, and quite a few hurdles since, he has set record after record at almost every meet he has entered. His present best time is down to a minute 14.3 as he is now ranked among the state's top five. Quite a change since his beginning days, wouldn't you say?

Mark Hicks, a Whiteface not too many years ago, set a record in the high jump in the same meet which Goodin set his hurdle record. Hicks record stood for one season but even so, it was — or so it seems now — a simple one to chalk down. His jump cleared him a bar raised 5 feet 10½ inches. This year, Jim Childers, who is another record setter wherever he journeys, has managed to talk himself into clearing an even 6 feet on several occasions. While not rated among the states top five, he is among the top group in the Panhandle.

Not limiting themselves to just one event, Goodin and Childers have both garnered several records and firsts in other events. Goodin now is rated among the states top group in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles and Childers is again rated in the Panhandles group in the long jump.

Not just pointing these two out for their records, the point is that these two serve as examples to what has happened in the track and field world over a short period of time. Records of 15 seconds in the 120-yard hurdles seemed non-existent a few years back but that has all changed, along with the four-minute mile, the 18 feet vault and all other events.

Another thing which can serve as an example as to the ever-increasing amount of competition is the fact that in 1966, seven Whiteface boys made it to the regional meet while in 1967 one more was added as eight runners and fielders qualified. Still another year and another district meet later, another was added when nine boys made the qualifying times to be entered in the regional meet. This of which all goes to prove that there is an increasing number of tracksters who are setting records and will go on setting records to mark up unbelievable times for the future.

Often you will find sports and good will going hand-in-hand just like peaches and ice cream, and peaches and ice cream can well describe the progressiveness of the women and men who have put forth the effort to organize the volleyball tournament which will give all the proceeds to the Revisit Center of the Institutes For the Achievement of Human Potential of Texas, Inc.

Persons contributing to the center initiated the tournament solely for the purpose of assisting the Revisit Center. The tournament will be played through four days with a charge of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Dates for the tourney are April 30, May 2, 3 and 4, skipping the first of May. There will be some 20 teams entered in the four-day tournament.

WILL HE OR WON'T HE — Elementary school students have begun a track program in preparation for a track meet to be held here April 23. Sometimes it can get a little rough for the participants, as evidenced by this photo sequence taken by Brand photographer Tyler Vance. This boy looks questioningly as he prepares to do pullups, but then gives everything he has in an attempt to accomplish the feat. Finally, after much straining, a look of anguish crosses his face as the situation begins to look hopeless.

Herd Nabs Second At Andrews Meet

Taking time out for the rest between district and regional track meets proved to be a fruitful occasion for the Hereford Whiteface cindermen when they traveled to Andrews for the Mustang Relays.

Netting a total of 76 points for the locals, it just wasn't quite enough to take the first place victory but it was enough for a second place finish. Lubbock Dunbar garnered the first place spot with a whopping total of 126 points while Seminole took third and Andrews was fourth in the twelve team meet.

Hereford collected most of their points in second place finishes as they had four of these. These places came in the broad jump, 330-yard intermediate hurdles, mile relay, and the 440-yard relay. The team also nabbed two firsts and one third in the meet to get their other points.

Two Whiteface cindermen placed in the broad jump when Bobby Burwick surprised everyone as he out-jumped Jim Childers with a leap of 21 feet 6½ inches for a second place. Childers jumped one inch shorter at 21 feet 5½ inches.

Gary Goodin suffered one of his very few defeats of the season as a sizzling runner from Lubbock Dunbar was timed at 39.1 in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles to beat Goodin by four steps. Goodin's time was also clocked at another sizzling mark as the clock read 39.5. Goodin did manage to take one of the two firsts in the meet as he defeated his field of competitors in the 120-yard high hurdles with a timing of 14.2.

The Whiteface's mile relay and their 440-yard relay both took second place finishes behind the powerful Dunbar teams. Timed at 3:27.7 in the mile relay, it was not enough to compete with, as Dunbar hit the 3:22.4 mark. The 440-yard relay team also fell to the Dunbar team as they were defeated by .9 of a second with times of 42.7, and 43.5 for the Herd.

The only other place collected by a Whiteface was in the 440-yard dash as Burwick was clocked at his best time of the year as he ran the dash in an even 50 seconds.

Nine of these eleven boys who participated in the Andrews meet will see action in the regional meet in Odessa next Saturday.

Some six million bow-and-arrow enthusiasts havemade archery one of the fastest growing sports in America.

Easter

SYMBOLS OF NEW LIFE in springtime and at the Easter season, fluffy baby chicks and furry white baby bunnies have been associated with the religious holiday for centuries. Their irresistible appeal to children is typified as Pam Wert looks over an Easter basket holding some of the tiny animals, and quickly makes pets of them. Four-year-old Pam is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Wert, 106 West Fifth.

Warrick-Neil Wedding Is Solemnized In Church

Mrs. Floyd Neill nee Phyllis Warrick (Angel photo)

Wedding vows were spoken in a twilight ceremony Saturday by Miss Phyllis Warrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elza Warrick, Star Route, and Floyd Neill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo F. Neill, 430 Avenue G.

The Rev. Clarence F. Powell, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, conducted the double ring ceremony in Avenue Baptist Church as the couple stood before an arch of green foliage and white pompon mums.

Cathedral tapers, lighted before the ceremony by Rusty Rule and Mike Odom, burned in tall candelabra basked in greenery on either side. Her father gave the bride in marriage.

Her maid of honor was Miss Judy Orsborn and bridesmaids were her sister, Mrs. Norma Jean Odom of Center, Colo., and Miss Ia Jean Brinkman. Tammy Cassels was the flower girl. David Neill acted as his brother's best man. Ricky Hassell and Larry Powell were groomsmen; Mike Ranspot and Joe Pat Cassels ushered guests to their seats.

Preceding the bridal procession, Mrs. Johnny Brannon of Lovington, N. M., accompanied by Mrs. Jim Cramer, organist, sang Twelfth Of Never and Wedding Prayer. Mrs. Cramer played other selections and the marches.

Chantilly lace and tulle made the bride's gown, with figurine bodice pointed at center front, long sleeves pointed at the wrist and lace-bordered panniers curved back to reveal multiple tiers of lace ruffles adding fullness to the spreading skirt. A pearl necklace accented the lace scalloped Sabrina neckline.

Her nylon net veil floated almost to the floor from a cluster of roses above her brow. Her bouquet was a cascade of white and blue carnations with white satin streamers.

Bridesmaids and the small flower girl were all in blue satin A-line dresses, street length, worn with white slippers and gloves. Roses of the fabric with matching streamers and blush veils of blue and white net were their headpieces.

Nosegays of blue carnations backed with lace and tied with white ribbons were carried by the maids, white petals in a lace basket by the flower girl. Guests registered at the church, in a book where Miss Patricia Neill, sister of the bridegroom, presided.

The newlywed couple left immediately on a wedding trip, Mrs. Neill wearing a white suit with blue touches in accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet. After a few days at Hilltop Lake resort south of Dallas, they will be at home on Star Route, Hereford.

After graduation from Hereford schools, the bride completed hair styling instruction and is employed at Imperial Coiffures. Neill is with Suit's Auto Supply and is a member of the U. S. Marine Reserve with the Amarillo company.

Out-of-city guests for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Parsons of Enid, Okla., Mrs. Beulah Neill of Hennessey, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. Marion Miles of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Blaylock of Lubbock and Miss Martha Shay of Monte Vista, Colo.

CFWC Board Called

Change of date for the spring luncheon of Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs has also advanced the time of the preliminary board meeting, Mrs. C. D. Kelton, president, reminds members in calling the board session for 4 p. m. Tuesday.

It will be held at Community Center. In addition to officers and other comprising the board, presidents of the affiliated clubs are always invited to these meetings, Mrs. Kelton says, and the sessions are open to any interested women.

The luncheon date was changed from the customary fifth Tuesday to April 23, so it falls within the Fine Arts Week designated by Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce. Its program will be a part of the first Fine Arts Festival sponsored by the C of C fine arts committee.

Each year the spring Federation meeting is devoted to a program of fine arts and the C of C committee requested that it be included in the week of special programs planned for April 21-28.

Hostess clubs for the lunch at Community Center will be Bud To Blossom Garden Club, Summerfield and El Llano Study Clubs.

Area Meeting Of Society Held

The bride has been employed with Rockwell Brothers and Company here. Mr. Davis will attend school and be employed in Dallas.

Miss McKee Becomes Bride Of Donald Davis

A mid-afternoon ceremony was conducted Saturday for the marriage of Miss Karen Kay McKee, 504-B West Fifth, and Donald Ray Davis in the Union Congregational Church at Friona, home city of the couple's families.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McKee and Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Davis. The Rev. Eugene Brink, minister of Hereford First Christian Church, was assisted by the Rev. Paul A. Mohr, pastor of Union Congregational Church, in conducting the marriage service.

Gladiolas and chrysanthemum with masses of green leaves were arranged at the altar as a background for the wedding party.

Her sister, Mrs. Joe D. Tongate of Denver City, was Miss McKee's matron of honor and Beely W. Nazworth was best man.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in antique satin. Spanish influence was evident in the design of her dress, cut with empire waistline and long bell sleeves, and in the mantilla which was draped over her hair.

Daisy motifs of lace were inset at the border of the sleeves and around the hemline of the floor-length skirt of her dress. Daisies were also applied on nylon net which formed the mantilla. She carried white blossoms on a bridal Bible.

A pearl necklace belonging to her sister was her only piece of jewelry. Mrs. Tongate wore a dress styled similarly to that of the bride, in lemon yellow. Her flowers were yellow, shading to deep gold tones.

A vocal duet by Mrs. John F. White and Mrs. Mohr, O Perfect Love, was sung before the ceremony, and The Lord's Prayer at the close. Mrs. R. S. Alexander played organ accompaniment and a medley of traditional wedding music in addition to the marches.

Friends offered good wishes and congratulations to the couple at a reception in the church fellowship hall after the service. Mrs. Billy W. Nazworth and Mrs. Archie Webb served punch and cake.

Topped with wedding bells, the cake was decorated in yellow with white daisies. Yellow and orange flowers were arranged in the centerpiece on the white-covered table.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis left on a trip which will take them to Dallas, where they will make their home at 1016 Hartsdale

Achieving Peace, Harmony; Hereford Has Set Example

"I have lived in Hereford 14 years, and would like to commend the people of Hereford, because I feel that this is, as far as I know, the best place in the United States for all races to live in peace and harmony."

The above Letter to the Editor appeared last week, amid nationwide strife and crises following the death of Dr. Martin Luther King, in The Brand. It was written by a Negro citizen, and we believe it expresses the opinion of all people and races in the community. Needless to say, it reflects credit upon the writer and upon his own race along with everyone else. To us, the letter indicates an achievement of the ideals which Dr. King expressed and endeared, more than any other expression we have encountered since his untimely death. It also brings up several pertinent questions.

Why and how has Hereford achieved this state of peace and harmony when so many other cities and communities have failed?

Some people feel that our problem is not so acute as in other places, and this may be true. At the same time, it strikes us that there are other elements: Hereford integrated its schools long before integration was required by federal edicts. This came about because the people of the community wanted to do what they considered just and right. The same is true with jury panels and other civic responsibilities.

Hereford has enjoyed tremendous growth during the past quarter of a century, and like America in earlier days, we find the community enriched with people of many nations, of all races, and of all creeds. People in this community are accepted and judged on the basis of accomplishment and ability, rather than color or creed. They are welcomed because of their contribution to the community and, in most cases, they appreciate the opportunity which the community offers them.

Can it be that growth and progress afford the answer to America's dilemma? To say the least, most of our trouble seems to appear in large cities and ghettos, where growth and progress have become secondary, where greed of a few may have persecuted others.

Certainly, America is faced with one of the greatest challenges in its history, and while we are grateful for local immunity let us also hope and pray that other parts of this great country may also meet and solve our national challenge.

Veterans Gift To Scouts Is Big Boost To City

Allocation of 25 acres of Veterans Park land to the Tierra Blanca Boy Scouts district may well be the forerunner of development long needed in the park area. The Scouts do have extensive plans. We understand, to establish a museum and other projects.

The park, contributed by the community to veterans following World War II, had been county-owned immediately prior to this time, and is currently controlled by a joint board of veteran organizations. In recent years, the property has been eyed wishfully from several angles, including City of Hereford officials.

The greatest thing the park affords today, as in the past, is potential. While it now includes some improvements on behalf of the organizations, it still affords a tremendous challenge in the form of recreation and community service.

Development of a Boy Scout mecca, it seems to us, could well be the first step toward getting the most from the park. This, no doubt, could easily contribute toward additional development of the area as an important Panhandle center.

Hereford, for a town its size, already boasts several parks which contribute extensively to making life more pleasant for its inhabitants. Rapid advancement of shorter work weeks and more spare time serve daily to emphasize the tremendous need for more recreation facilities, which will continue to grow in importance as time passes.

Consequently, it seems to us that the veterans in designating unused park land for community improvement indicate a deep and unquestioned desire toward community welfare. Such an unselfish attitude is second only to the sacrifices they made in behalf of their nation and community in past years of military service.

Area Growth Continuing

Recent opening of what is termed "the world's largest meat packing plant" in neighboring Friona is a healthy sign, indeed, for the Panhandle of Texas. This is more especially true of Hereford, which is located only a few miles from the gigantic installation.

In addition to the market which the new installation will open for area producers, the new plant will bring numerous other benefits into the Golden Triangle area, which is truly one of the bright spots of the entire nation.

The fact that another large packing plant is already "in the mill" in the Hereford territory will strengthen the position of both processors tremendously. Undoubtedly, two modern plants so closely located will establish the area as a prime market more rapidly than any other possible development. At the same time, it strengthens the grain sorghum market in this territory as nothing else could.

No other development has contributed so much to this area as the advent of cattle feeding lots. The appearance of packing plants assures us that this new industry will not only continue but more likely grow and expand.

Discrimination To Older Workers To Become Illegal

By BERT MILLS

Washington, D. C. — Arbitrary discrimination by employers against older workers or job applicants will become illegal on June 12, 1968, when the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 became effective.

No longer will it be possible for an employer to discharge a worker who has not reached 65 on grounds that he or she is too old. Nor will it be legal for a company to refuse a job to an applicant who is over 40, for reasons of age.

Public Law 90-302, enacted December 15, 1967, states that: "It is therefore the purpose of this Act to promote employment of older persons based on their ability rather than age; to prohibit arbitrary age discrimination in employment; to help employers and workers find ways of meeting problems arising from the impact of age on employment."

Congress passed this law because some companies get rid of older workers before they are 65 for no reason except age. Also, some firms refuse to hire anybody who is over 40, partly because of pension liabilities or other employee benefit programs.

The new law has teeth. Those who violate it — and coverage extends to labor unions and employment agencies — can be haled into court and punished. Employees wrongfully fired can gain retroactive payment of wages, plus liquidated damages in the case of willful violations.

Small Business Exempted

The law contains a small business exemption. An employer is defined as "a person engaged in an industry affecting commerce who has 25 or more employees." The act also applies to employment agencies of any size and to unions with 25 or more members.

The law recognized that not everybody under 65 is capable of handling a particular job. Thus the ban on age discrimination does not apply "where age is a bona fide occupational qualification reasonably necessary to the normal operations of the particular business."

"Help-Wanted" columns in newspapers will be affected. The statute says: "It shall be unlawful for an employer, labor organization, or employment agency to print or publish any notice or advertisement relating to employment, indicating any preference, limitation, specification, or discrimination based on age."

The law will not affect a bona-fide seniority system or employee benefit plan so long as the plan is not a subterfuge to evade the Act. However, no employee benefit plan "shall excuse the failure to hire any individual." The law also permits firing a worker "for good cause" but excludes age as a cause, if less than 65.

Labor Department Will Enforce

Enforcement of the age discrimination act will be handled by the U. S. Department of Labor. It has published a free leaflet explaining the law. Single copies may be obtained from field offices of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division, at least one located in each state. The pamphlet is WHPC Publication 1230.

The law directs the Secretary of Labor to undertake an education and research program "with a view to reducing barriers to the employment of older persons, and the promotion of measures for utilizing their skills." Another stated objective is "expanding the opportunities and potentials of older persons."

Another provision of the statute requires the Secretary of Labor to recommend to Congress by next December "any measures he may deem desirable to change the lower or upper age limits." This suggests that the minimum of 40 and maximum of 65 may be changed later.

Uncle Sam cannot guarantee that all who can work until retirement will have a job but the new law does remove some barriers to involuntary unemployment for those over 40 but not necessarily over the hill.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his blindweed farm has been engulfed by the wave of political surprises lately, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

There have been so many surprises in politics lately, topped by President Johnson's decision not to run again, that there simply can't be anymore left, outside maybe of Bobby Kennedy's showing up with a crew cut and DeGaulle's offering to pay France's World War I debts.

The worst thing about these surprises though is what it does to newspaper columnists. I got hold of a bunch of old newspapers last night and began reading them in the light of what has happened a few weeks after they were published and they're confusing.

For example when Rockefeller thwarted the experts and said he wasn't running, the columnists were caught flat-footed. "Political analysts had thought he certainly was going to run," one of them wrote, not mentioning he was one of the analysts.

Another one wrote only two weeks ago: "Anybody who knows Lyndon Johnson knows he's not going to give up four more years of power."

When Eugene McCarthy first announced he was running, another columnist said bemusedly "he is like Emmett Kelly, the clown, trying to sweep up his own spotlight."

And so it went, proving that this is where television has an advantage over newspapers for experts. An expert can be 100 per cent wrong and almost swallow his foot on T. V., but when the program changes, his words fade with the picture and it's hard to pin anything on him.

But with a newspaper it's different. There the words are, in black and white, and you can clip them out and carry them around and examine them after events have shown the expert didn't know anymore about what was going on inside the mind of the President for example than he did next week's weather.

Consequently I have worked out a solution. Newspapers carrying columns by political experts ought to be printed in disappearing ink. Twenty-four hours after their profound and analytical opinions have appeared, the ink ought to fade like a television picture with a burned-out tube.

This of course does not apply to The Sunday Brand. Not as long as I'm in it.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

What About The Future

Standing in on a militant black power "speak out" can be a hair raising experience if your skin is white. Hearing the vehement words of hate for yourself is a little more frightening than reading them in the local newspaper.

So I went along on a civil rights march last week, and have pictures of the Texas Capitol rotunda when its floors were covered from first to fourth with people who wanted an apology from John Connally for his remarks concerning Dr. Martin Luther King.

Although Austin was not the scene of rioting and looting, it was a scene of dissatisfaction, unrest, and hatred. In large cities, militant tactics may eliminate rioters and looters, but they won't eradicate the hatred. And no matter how big government programs are, they won't eradicate the hatred.

The President's Commission on Civil Disorders was instructed at its formation that it was not to endorse any particular views, that it was to lead, not to follow. But when it did disclose what it found, the commission's report was condemned because it claimed white racism to be at the root of the problem. While we will comfortably exercise our opinion that white racism does not exist, we cannot deny statistical evidence.

For nonwhites, unemployment rates have been twice as high as those for whites. This pattern has been consistent for the past 18 years. In 1965, the white unemployment rate was 4.1 per cent. For nonwhites, it was 8.3 per cent. (Unemployment figures include only those persons actively seeking employment.)

Qualifications are often the determining factor, but the fact remains that a Negro high school graduate can expect to earn less than a white man who dropped out of school after completing the eighth grade. A Negro college graduate can expect to earn only 85 per cent of what his white counterpart earns.

A white backlash is to be expected when looters and rioters take over parts of the nation's cities. Hate becomes a two-way street for both black and white.

Newspaper headlines continue to tell us that rioting is an immediate and pressing problem. We cannot think, however, that ending the riots will automatically end the disruptive civil rights movement. Granted, it has brought chaos to the cities; but the civil rights movement has also demonstrated the Negro's increased efficacy in securing for himself and his children equal rights and equal opportunities.

Answers are not to be found in rioting and looting, and they are not to be found in federal legislation. Civil rights will no longer be an issue only when the private sector of the American economic and social strata unconsciously accepts the Negro as equal. This can happen as the Negro continues to force his way into the ruling social structure, whose real places of power are in the school boards and city commissions.

—Larry Fuhrmann

Small Talk

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

This is the time of year when weeds look pretty, purely because they are timely. Our eyes, hungry for something green after the winter drab, welcome the nuisances that we will be battling later in the spring, just because they push out ahead of the cultivated plants.

YIELDING TO no one as a scrounger, Viola Williams says that what she wants right now is a load of hay and a saddle or two, since she has already found a stroller, play pen and other items for care of a seven-month old baby.

If that sounds like an oddly assorted order, you can take Viola's word that she has asked for odder — and usually found what she wanted. She isn't using all these things herself, of course; they are for her favorite people, the youngsters down at Gristown USA.

Youngest girl ever to find a home in that haven, the seven-month-old child is a new resident and is now provided with the furniture for her particular needs.

THE MAY, and other feed, would be for two horses lately given to Gristown by the Inmon Larsons from their farm south of Hereford, and for other livestock in Gristown barns and pastures there.

Saddles would enable the girls to enjoy even more the horses, which are gentle and broke for riding. They represent possibly the biggest gift to Gristown, in bulk, ever to go from Hereford.

The Larsons wanted the mares, a Shetland and a big sorrel, to have a home where they would be loved as well as cared for, and I'll bet they found it at Gristown.

THEY AREN'T waiting for a gift load of hay before they eat, but when she accepted them and arranged for their transportation to Gristown, Viola was reminded that more livestock feed will now be needed, and whatever is most needed there, she starts looking for.

IF SOMEONE is interested in entering paintings in a spring arts festival exhibit sponsored by the Woman's Book Club of Canyon next weekend, I have several entry blanks sent by Mrs. M. J. Morris, exhibit chairman, and will be happy to let some of our local artists have them.

Area artists are invited to exhibit as many as four paintings in any media, with a dollar entry fee for each. The show will be held in the automobile sales building across the highway from Buffalo Stadium, open to the public at no admission charge from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Saturday and 2 to 5 p. m. next Sunday.

SEVERAL DAYS ago I received an anonymous letter from an indignant woman, and I think she has a point. But like all newspapers that I'm acquainted with, The Brand does not publish anonymous letters. If she would like to air her complaint and will give me her name, it can be aired.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Miss Donna Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Johnson, Route 4, and Johnny Leroy Allen of Friona are to be married here May 9, her parents announce. Miss Johnson is a 1967 graduate of Hereford High School and an employe of The Hereford Brand. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Jr. of Friona, is employed at Missouri Meat Packers Plant. He has attended Hereford school.

Veleda Members Laugh And Learn In Program

While Veleda Study Club was closing its formal programs for the season and electing officers for a new year, members were given something to laugh about and much to think about in a program presented this week by Mrs. Bill Brady.

The meeting was in her home and she was elected president for 1968-69, to succeed Mrs. Bob Willmot.

To be installed in other offices at a dinner May 7, Mrs. Dale Barkley was named vice president, Mrs. Glenn Watts secretary, Mrs. Gid Bfownd treasurer, Mrs. Ron Harpeter correspondent, Mrs. George Olson historian and Mrs. Don Baugous parliamentarian.

Subject of the timely program Worthwhile, and Mrs. Brady based it on a book with that title. She said club programs are usually given by lecture, drama or discussion and this program used all three.

For the lecture she listed common faults in conduct of pro-

Casa de Amigos

The recent meetings of the Board of the Hereford Migrant Ministry have been the scene of some changes which will be of interest to supporters of the Migrant Ministry.

Dimmitt Group Reaches Quota For Contracts

DIMITT — The $1.8 million mark was passed in corn contracts Tuesday by the Dimmitt Wheat Growers, Inc. General manager Aaron Isaacs also predicted that sign-ups would reach the $2-million quota.

Isaacs said, "There is no doubt now that we will reach the quota we needed on contracts to build the mill."

The $2-million mark in contracts will satisfy the minimum requirements by financiers and will also assure enough corn production to supply the mill's first unit appetite of 3.3-million bushels per year.

The sign-ups have been spurred by farmers in Olton, Hart and Friona, according to the report. Further meetings will be held in these areas "to give farmers there a chance to pick up available poundage, if they want it."

The cooperative still must reach $2.5-million in mill investments — either through corn contracts or through the sale of first preferred stock.

But Isaac said, "I foresee no problem in the sale of this stock."

The Dimmitt Wheat Growers is now registering with the Texas Securities and Exchange Commission for authorization to sell up to a half-million dollars' worth of stock on the market. The amount of first preferred stock to be sold to private investors will depend on the final corn contract figure.

new member.

May 30 was set as the date for the club's attendance at the Branding Iron Theatre production of The Most Happy Fella on the WTSU campus, and Mrs. J. R. Oglesby is chairman of reservations for members.

The Board meets monthly and is made up of three members from each of the member organizations; First Methodist Church, First Christian Church, Presbyterian Church, St. Thomas Episcopal Church, San Pablo Methodist Church and The United Church Women. Also included on the Board are the ministers of the Member churches.

One of the most recent actions by the Board was the election of new officers. They are William T. Thompson-President, Jim Arney-Vice-President, Nell Culpepper-Secretary, and Kee Ruland-Treasurer.

NEW DIRECTOR SELECTED
The announcement by Program Director Eunice Vasquez that she plans to leave the Migrant Ministry by the end of April started a search for her replacement. A possible choice was found in Jose M. Vasquez. Jose has recently been working with a migrant program in Muscatine, Iowa. He also happens to be a brother of Eunice.

During last month's Board meeting Jose's application was approved and he is to take over duties at the Casa after Eunice leaves.

Stamp Exhibit To Be Presented
It has been announced that the 8th exhibition of the South Plains Stamp Club of Lubbock, will be held April 20th and 21st in conjunction with the High Plains Regional Stamp Club Exhibition number 2. Promising to be the biggest exhibition ever held in the area the exhibit will be held at the Municipal Garden and Arts Center, 43rd and University Avenue, in Lubbock.

An invitation to all persons who are in the area at the time of the exhibition and all youth groups has been extended. Each youth group will receive an envelope with a starter set of stamps.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED
Several much needed committees were recently appointed by Bill Thompson. The first is a committee on determining roles in the Migrant Ministry. Serving on this committee are Gene Brink, Jim Arney, Frank Ford and Helen Stark. The purpose of the committee is to prepare job descriptions for the employed staff, VISTA workers, VISTA sponsor, and the Board itself.

A committee on By Laws was created and is made up of Fred Howard, John Aikin, Donald Henslee and Catherine Benefield. The purpose is to review the By Laws, especially those sections concerning requirements for member organizations and the role of the ministers on the Board as an Advisory Council.

A committee on Finance was created and is made up by Clifford Trotter, Kee Ruland, and Lloyd Pool. This committee is to prepare recommendations, for broadening the base of financial support for the Migrant Ministry.

DOCTOR TO SPEAK
Guest speaker for Antonion Circle of St. Anthony's Catholic Church at its meeting Thursday will be Dr. J. H. McCrary, to discuss the subject, Sex Education for Children in the Home. The Circle will meet at 8 p. m. in St. Anthony's School auditorium.

Announcing Chevrolet's new Torque-Drive.

Nobody else offers anything like it at the price.

Torque-Drive does away with the clutch pedal. Most of the shifting, too. And for the most economy, it's available exclusively on all Camaro sixes and Chevy II Nova 4- and 6-cylinder models.

Look how simple it is. You accelerate in 1st; then shift to Hi for cruising. That's all. If you like, you can even start in Hi. And accelerate from standstill to cruising speed. It's just a little slower that way.

The shift lever is conveniently located on the steering column, and there's a selector quadrant with easy-to-read indications. Park-R-N-Hi-1st. Only your Chevrolet dealer has it—clutchless driving at only $68.65.

The first no clutch one shift $68.65* transmission

Only Chevrolet has it.

SS Number Is Required For Summer Work

Spring is summer job hunting season for many high school and college students. Students who will be taking a job for the first time and will need a social security number were urged by Travis C. Briggs, social security district manager, to apply now and avoid the May and June rush.

Briggs stated that, by applying now, the student will avoid unnecessary delay. In May and June the number of applications for social security cards is four to five times greater than in the other months of the year and some delays occur. Since employers need to see a new employee's social security card before he goes on duty, getting the card late could cause a delay in starting work, and result in missing a good job opportunity.

Briggs concluded by advising students not to wait until school is out to apply for their social security numbers. Applications may be obtained from the Amarillo social security district office located at 1006 Adams, or from most post offices.

The House of Lords plays an important part in revising non-ancient bills passed by Commons.

Adrian News

Adrian F.F.A. At Work

As farming in Texas and the nation becomes more highly mechanized, there is an ever increasing need for high school students to receive training in farm mechanics.

Realizing this, Adrian High School vocational agriculture department is placing ever increasing emphasis on farm mechanics training. In farm mechanics a variety of subjects are taught. These include hand woodworking machine woodworking farm electrification, soldering, cold metal work, both oxyacetylene and arc welding.

Instruction in farm mechanics affords many advantages to students of Adrian High School. In addition to learning the knowledge, skills, and ideals needed by present and future farmers, they learn how to purchase and maintaining farm machinery, electrical equipment thereby resulting in a vast saving of money.

This learning, in addition to being applied on the farm, can be applied also to many non-farm situations. As a result of this learning, many former students are now earning a living applying in a professional manner basic knowledge and skills first learned in farm shop class.

Instruction in farm mechanics also gives students an opportunity to do purposeful thinking, as well as to use their hands, in dealing with common problems of everyday living. Basic skills to allow him to be capable of performing maintenance and construction of projects from both wood and metal are taught. Logical approaches to the problem and economical solutions are included in this instruction.

Such instruction prepares the student for present and future problem solving. Many consider the farm shop training that is given to vocational agriculture students, the most valuable and useful of all the various subjects taught.

Spring Foods In Bloom, Too

By Mrs. Argen Draper
Home Demonstration Agent

The lovely spring flowers, the usual spark to wardrobes, and conversation of Easter foods have taken the spotlight this week.

A suggestion for a luncheon or supper that can be prepared almost all ahead of time or use prepared foods. This would be delicious for Easter supper.

EASY MENU

Cold Sliced Chicken
Fresh Asparagus and Shrimp Salad
Garlic Bread or Layne's Rolls
Ice Cream with Strawberry Topping or Strawberry Pie
Coffee

FRESH ASPARAGUS AND SHRIMP SALAD

3 lbs. cooked fresh asparagus
1/4 c. French dressing
1/2 head lettuce
15 cooked large shrimp
Fresh tomato mayonnaise
Marinate cold cooked asparagus in French dressing for one hour in the refrigerator. Arrange on lettuce with cold cooked shrimp. Serve with fresh tomato mayonnaise.

HINT: 1 lb. asparagus - 20 large stalks

FRESH TOMATO MAYONNAISE

Combine 1/2 cup mayonnaise with 1/2 cup finely chopped fresh tomato, 1/4 teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon ground black pepper and one-eighth teaspoon ground red pepper. Serve with above salad.

GARLIC BREAD

1 loaf French bread or thickly sliced loaf bread
Melt butter and add garlic salt.
Brush each slice with melted butter; wrap in foil and heat in moderate oven.

LAST YEAR at the district 4-H Foods Show Layne Young won a blue ribbon on her food exhibit; on April 20, Layne will be trying again to make a good record for herself and her club.

She will display easy light rolls and give nutritional value, place in the diet, method of preparation and how the rolls fit into the menu. Incidentally Layne got the recipe from a cook book which was a prize from last year's winning.

ASTROLIFT EASY LIGHT ROLLS

1 package active dry yeast
1/2 cup warm water (105 degrees)
1 tsp. sugar
1/4 cup melted shortening
1 cup warm buttermilk
1 egg, well beaten
3 cups flour
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. soda

Soften yeast in warm water. Stir in sugar, shortening, buttermilk and egg. Sift dry ingredients together, add to first mixture, mix until smooth. Spoon into greased muffin pans, fill about half full. Put in warm place (80 to 85 degrees) let rise 30 minutes. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about 18 rolls.

FOR AN EXTRA special spark to the menu, try the recipe for this strawberry meringue or topping. Use a lemon-lime carbonated beverage that is flavored with extract taken from real limes and lemons. You will like this extra zip to the ever-favorite ice cream for dessert. Or scoop ice cream into meringue shells and top with strawberry sauce.

STRAWBERRY MERINGUE OR TOPPING

1 pint fresh strawberries
One-third cup sugar
1 1/2 tsp. flour
1 7-oz bottle lemon-lime carbonated beverage
8 Meringue shells
1 pint vanilla ice cream
HINT: 1 tablespoon cornstarch equals 2 tablespoons flour
Stem and slice berries. Stir sugar and flour together in saucepan; thoroughly stir in carbonated beverage. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Cool. Stir in berries and refrigerate.

MRS. FRITZ Smith asked for the following strawberry pie recipe. Thanks to her and Mrs. Clayton Woolery for this delicious recipe.

STRAWBERRY PIE

1 baked pie shell
1 pint fresh strawberries, sweetened

Whipped cream or topping
1 package (3 oz) strawberry flavored gelatin

1/2 c sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1 1/2 c. boiling water
2 tsp. lemon juice
Dissolve gelatin, sugar and salt in boiling water. Add lemon juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Spoon sliced strawberries into baked shell. Pour the syrup from the strawberries into the gelatin mixture and pour the mixture over the strawberries. Chill. Garnish with whipped cream or topping.

AN INVITATION came this week to the fifteenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jury. They are former residents of the Wyche Community and now reside in Fair Play, Missouri.

Mrs. Jury was an outstanding club member and served in most all club offices and often as subject matter demonstrator. I appreciate citizens in their influence of the neighborhood in which they live and work.

BYRLE ELLISTON brought some climbing okra seed to the office. I have given these seed to some of the best gardeners, so, Byrle, we're checking your story to see if the okra pods are still tender when they are 12 inches in length.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

THE UNCHANGING TIMES - It costs almost as much to mail a letter today as it did when the Texas postal system began 133 years ago.

On October 23, 1835, John Rice Jones was named postmaster general of the Mexican state of Texas and established headquarters of the post office department in San Felipe, Austin County. Mail was carried by horseback and steamboat over ten routes covering 988 miles.

And the rates? Only 6 1/2 cents for a letter - providing that it didn't have to travel more than 20 miles. Beyond that, the price of a mailing rose sharply to a maximum of 37 1/2 cents for a letter traveling more than 200 miles.

TONSORIAL SAFARI - Jimmy Carpenter's barber shop in Baytown may be the only place in the world where customers flip their cigarettes into ash trays made from the feet of elk, ostrich and bear.

While they're reclining in the barber chair for a shave, they look at a ceiling lined with 750 sets of antler horns. Mounted heads of buffalo, elk and deer look down from the walls, and a 1,400-pound polar bear stands in the corner. Carpenter, an avid hunter who has made all of the kills himself, aptly calls his place the "Trophy Barber Shop."

HAVE YOU EVER WONDERED - Why are some structures that span water called bridges and others are called culverts?

In Texas, at least, any highway water crossing that is more than 20 feet long is a bridge. If it's less than 20 feet in length, it's a culvert.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? Mesmerizer's Creek, which flows through Corsicana, was so named because a hypnotist decided his powers were such that he could put even wild buffalo under a spell.

To prove his point to doubting citizens, he asked them to round up all of the buffalo they could find and gather them along the bank of the local creek. From the opposite side, the hypnotist fixed his eyes on the herd, muttered a series of incantations and announced that the animals were mesmerized.

They weren't - and they stampeded into town, virtually destroying most of the wooden buildings. In the confusion, the hypnotist fled. The creek, however, has been known as Mesmerizer's since.

OLD GHOST - Magnolia, once a bustling Trinity River port in Anderson County, is one of Texas' oldest ghost towns. Started as a ferry crossing in 1847, Magnolia had become a business center by the 1860's. It continued as a port until 1872 when the railroad came to nearby Palestine. Magnolia's demise began then, and today the only trace of the old river town are a few concrete pilings.

Robust elegance,
English country style!
It's Thomasville's Wayside Inn

Here's beauty that originated with English handcraftsmen three centuries ago. That trestle table, that armoire, that magnificent buffet... they might have been designed for a rural inn or manor house. Even the chairs have rush seats as of old and the hardware is the muted silvery tone of pewter. Notice the carved door panels. And the frosty seeded glass with strips of leading like 17th Century window panes. (Thomasville furniture is famous for its authentic details!) Pecan veneers and solids are finished in Tawny Heather, a mellow greyed-brown, and in Briar, a rich, deep tone. Come see all of Wayside Inn. You'll be impressed!
