SCOTT WILL DECORATE STREETS

Last Year's Artists to be Reemployed to Dress up Streets And Help With Merchants' Booths. Ladies' Work Will be Bigger and Better Than Ever

Detailed plans for making the Hereford Fair of 1920 the biggest thing of the kind ever undertaken here are slowly but surely taking shape from day to day. Special committees to handle different phases of the work are being put to work by General Manager Neal. The ladies division of the display is now receiving a great deal of attention, and it is planned to make this feature even bigger than ever before. The ladies' committees will probably be announced by Mr. Neal next week.

The Scott Decorating Co., who handled the street decorations and merchants' booths so successfully last year, has again been employed to do the work this year. Mr. Neal is dicker with a Carnival concern which promises to bring here a complete show of every description, free from the usual objectionable features of such amusements. It is hoped to secure the services of expert judges for the different livestock and agricultural exhibits. The A & M College has been asked to send an expert judge of hogs, sheep, horses, etc. and it is possible that an American Poultry Association judge may be obtained for this department of the exhibit.

Work on the new barn and pavilion of the Registered Hereford Breeders' Association is being pushed, and the different exhibits will probably be bunched around this new structure. The Hereford display is in charge of the association officers and will, of course, be the largest and one of the most complete departments of the annual event. The breeders all have their cattle in great shape this year, and the beautiful blooded aristocrats is sure to draw an interested crowd of cattlemen from distant points.

Manager Neal urges all the citizens of this community to give some individual thought to the forth-coming Fair and save good specimens, of whatever nature, to help in making it a success. It is pointed out that this is the best year Hereford has had in years to put a cracker into a real display of livestock and agriculture. There is nothing that can prevent the banner display of all time if the people will join hands and cooperate with those upon whose shoulders the burden of making the Fair a success has fallen.

Hotel Committee Has new Problem; Lahm Deal Fails

The paramount question of a hotel for Hereford, which seemed near a solution last week, has received another setback. However, new plans are now maturing, and the committee having the matter in charge is determined to allow nothing to stand in the way of the immediate accomplishment of the project.

L. S. Lahm, of Amarillo, former proprietor of the Cordova Hotel, who was dicker with the local committee, advised this week that another deal he had on in Amarillo has materialized and he will be tied up elsewhere and cannot come to Hereford. While Mr. Lahm's proven ability as a hotel man made his acquisition very desirable, and his loss is regretted, still the committee intends to keep right on hammering away, and already have several propositions before them to build a modern hotel for Hereford.

A. W. GREGG HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY WEDNESDAY NIGHT

What is reported to have been one of the most enjoyable social affairs of the season was a birthday dinner at the A. W. Gregg home Wednesday night, honoring the head of the household. Thirty-five invitations to the more mature gentlemen friends of Mr. Gregg were issued, but owing to the inclement weather quite a few were detained. A full and detailed account will be given in next week's Brand.

604 Students Is Record for First Day of Schools

Superintendent Fertsch announced Monday night that on Monday, the first day of the new school term, a total of 604 pupils were enrolled by the teachers at the High and Central schools. This is 57 more than last year. The comparative figures are as follows:

	1919-20	1920-21
Central School	350	371
High School	197	233
Totals	547	604

At the High School twenty three more students reported than there were desks for. Adjustments are being made and by next Monday it is hoped to have all comfortably taken care of. Work in all grades is starting off auspiciously, and the prospects are bright for a splendid school year.

Another problem confronting the school authorities Monday was the large number of six year olds whose parents desired them to attend school. Owing to the lack of room these little tots were turned back home. The school board is trying to figure out a way to employ a special teacher, paid by tuition fees, to take charge of this class of beginners.

BANQUET PLANNED FOR BUSINESS MEN AFTER LOCAL FAIR

A special committee was appointed by the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce last week to look into the matter of holding a big membership banquet in the near future. After investigating the matter in detail the committee has arrived at the conclusion that there are so many irons in the fire just now that it will be best to postpone the banquet until after the Hereford Fair, and then push the matter through quickly.

The first order of business for all committees just now is to make the 1920 Fair the best ever held here, and it has been determined to allow nothing to interfere to make the Fair a good one. Announcement of the date for the banquet will be made as soon as the Fair has been disposed of.

THREE DELEGATES GO TO PRESBYTERY HELD AT MEMPHIS

G. M. Suggs, R. T. Nunn, and Roy Nunn left Hereford Tuesday for Memphis, Texas, as delegates from the local Presbyterian church to the Presbyterian meeting for this district. The Presbytery was formally opened Tuesday night. Messrs. Suggs and R. T. Nunn are Elders in the church, while Roy Nunn, son of R. T. Nunn, is a candidate for the ministry.

FOX BROTHERS OFF ON CAMPING AND FISHING RAMBLE

Homer and Ollie Fox will leave for a vacation trip to the San Angelo country Friday, to be gone probably several weeks. Homer has not been in the best of health for some time, and is taking this trip to fish and camp and get himself into physical condition for the winter's work.

STAMBAUGH WITH FAMILY LEAVES TO VISIT POMONA, CAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Stambaugh, and son, Vivian, will leave Hereford Friday for Pomona, Calif., where they will spend the winter. Vivian will attend school at some California institution this winter. The family intends to return to their Hereford home next summer.

DOG UPSETS CAPTAIN ESTES; ARM BROKEN AT SOCKET

Captain John Estes, whose left arm was broken recently, went to Amarillo Monday and had an x-ray examination made of the injured member. The pictures show that the socket bone near the shoulder was fractured. Latest reports were that the Captain was resting well.

The accident which caused the trouble was a peculiar one. Captain Estes was standing on the street talking to friends when two big dogs, frolicking about ran pell-mell against him, upsetting his balance and causing him to fall on the cement sidewalk.

20,000 Acres Land Change Owners In Three Weeks

It is estimated by local real estate men that over 20,000 acres of land in this vicinity has changed hands during the past three weeks. The partial list of real estate transfers carried in this issue of The Brand give some idea of the magnitude of the movement. A great many trades and sales are in process of completion and details do not come to light immediately. In addition to the acreage sold here about twenty residences have changed hands in the same length of time. Among recent sales are:

E. W. Morgan sold to Lee Conklin, 100 acres two miles west, for $12,000; G. O. Chandler sold to C. W. Hays, 140 acres four miles south on the Dimmitt road, consideration $65,000 per acre; C. W. Hays, sold to G. O. Chandler 247 acres about eight miles southeast for $55,000 per acre; all these trades were handled through the firm of Morgan & Williams.

J. H. Kemp sold to J. Hand, of Floyd county, twenty acres a quarter mile out on the Cemetery road, consideration $4,200; and R. E. Jacobs bought 320 acres three miles northeast for $30,000 per acre. Ed Connell made these two trades.

HIGHWAY THRU TO NAZARETH PLANNED BY COMMITTEES

A joint excursion by members of the Highway and Trade Extension committees of the Chamber of Commerce to look over a prospective road to the Nazareth community has been planned for some time, but owing to the recent heavy rains and the condition of the roads the trip has never materialized. It is planned by Chairmen Homer Fox and Walter Dunlap to make a map of a proposed straight road through Castro county, and then work to have the road opened up for traffic as soon as possible. Practically all of the right-of-way is already assured, with the exception of one section owned by a non-resident, and it is believed it will only be a matter of a short time until Hereford can offer the people of the Nazareth community an open, smooth highway from Nazareth to Main street, Hereford.

FARMERS TO FORM COOPERATIVE MERCANTILE AGENCY

Two meetings of farmers of this community interested in the organization of a cooperative mercantile association have been held recently and preliminary plans discussed for organization. Another meeting has been called for the courthouse at 2:00 o'clock next Saturday afternoon, September 15. A communication concerning this proposed organization by J. M. Kimmous is printed in another part of this week's Brand. Details of the plan of organization have not yet been given out.

GRAIN MEN INSTALL NEW EQUIPMENT TO HANDLE NEW CROPS

Improvements recently undertaken by the Great West Mill & Elevator Company is progressing rapidly. A new Howe scale of 20,000 pounds capacity has been installed, also a Globe air dump to unload any size wagon or truck. The foundations for the eight new bins are now being constructed. Jones & McLean have also installed a brand new 20,000 pounds capacity Howe Scales.

TOURIST CAMP IS UNDER WAY; WORK WILL BE PUSHED

Work on the new Tourist Camp ground in East Hereford is under way. A water line 500 feet long is being laid, and sewerage connections coupled up. A cook oven will also be built at once, and the road properly sign posted at both ends of town.

Jamison is Guest Commercial Club Weekly Luncheon

Frank R. Jamison, secretary of the Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce, was the guest of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce at luncheon at the Cordova Hotel last Monday, and delivered two inspiring addresses. Mr. Jamison and his organization are doing a splendid work for the Plains country, and the luncheon was instrumental in bringing about a closer relation and better understanding of all concerned. Quite a good deal of business was disposed of by the directors at the meeting.

The regular weekly luncheon will be held at the Stockman's Cafe on next Monday at 12:00 o'clock sharp. Everybody is invited to these luncheons, and it is hoped a good attendance will be recorded on September 20.

HARDWICKS TO PUT SWELL PLAYHOUSE ON AT CLOVIS, N. M.

"Roumanian Relief," a one-reel Red Cross picturization of relief work in the war-torn little Balkan state, will be shown at the Star Theatre Friday night under the auspices of the local Red Cross Chapter.

Manager Hardwicke, of the Star, has been working hard in Clovis every spare minute of late helping get the Lyceum Theatre at that point ready for the grand opening next Tuesday. Concerning this new Theatre the Clovis News says:

"The new Lyceum Theatre will open September 21st. The seats have arrived and are being put in now and all the finishing touches on Clovis' new theatre will be completed in ample time for the opening."

"The picture program for the opening will be Chas. R. Ray's latest picture, a pre-release showing (that is a picture that has not yet been seen by the public) the title of which is, 'Forty-five Minutes From Broadway,' and a Harold Lloyd two reel comedy, 'High and Dizzy.'

"A particular feature of the opening night will be the Fashion Show which will be participated in by the merchants of Clovis, all the latest fall fashions being shown. This show will be under the personal direction of Miss Edith Gilligan of Denver. Miss Gilligan arrived in Clovis this week and has taken personal charge of all the arrangements for the show."

"The new Lyceum will be one of the best, if not the best, opera house in the state and would do credit to a town of several times the size of Clovis. No detail has been overlooked in making it modern and up-to-date in every particular."

McNERNEYS WILL VISIT MISSOURI FOR TIME BEING

C. C. Mc Nerney and family will leave Hereford next Saturday for Mexico, Mo., where the family will spend the winter. They will be accompanied on the trip by Frank Jesse, Mrs. Mc Nerney's brother. Messrs. Mc Nerney and Jesse will return to Hereford after a visit of several weeks in Missouri.

Mr. Mc Nerney recently sold his place south of town to a Mr. Thompson, of Vernon, Texas, and his plans for the future are as yet undetermined.

O. SCHLINKER IS HOME FROM EAST

O. Schlinker returned to Hereford Thursday morning after about 30 days in and around Washington. D. C. Mr. Schlinker also made a business trip to Detroit and Indianapolis.

Football is Now Warming Interest School Athletes

The Hereford High football team is practicing daily, and will soon be in shape to play the first game of the season. At a meeting held last Monday afternoon, Keith Stegall, star quarterback of last year's eleven, was elected Captain for the 1920 season. A big squad of husky fellows reported for practice, among them being the following who have had previous experience: Corbett, Ratcliffe, McEntyre, Golden, McMinn, Gilliland, Lewis, Jewell, Connell, Spencer, Burns, Terry, Woody and Chamness.

Roy Terry and Cliff Acker, who helped coach the boys last year, have again expressed a willingness to assist this year. The McDonald boys, and others who have graduated here in the past and had college experience, are volunteering to help turn out a winning aggregation. Additional equipment has already been ordered, and stern practice will be the order of the day hereafter.

The boys are full of pep and spirit, and are determined to have an even better team than last year. A great deal of the success of the team depends upon the kind of backing they get from the home folks, and it is hoped that the parents and others interested will this year attend the games more regularly and help root for the team.

RIPENING WEATHER ENDED BY STORM OF RAIN AND HAIL

The weather for the past week, up to Wednesday afternoon, has been clear, bright and warm, ideal for ripening and filling of the tremendous grain crop raised this year in this section. Wednesday afternoon, however, a sudden dust and wind storm blew up, followed by a driving rain, mixed with hail, which lasted for several minutes. A total precipitation of thirty five hundredths of an inch of rain fell in the city. The air has been cleared and cooled. If any damage from hail resulted The Brand has not yet been advised of it.

INDIANA MAN IS VISITING WAGNER; IS MUCH PLEASED

F. V. Perkins and wife of Indianapolis, Ind., arrived in Hereford on Saturday, September 4, for a visit with the family of J. H. Wagner.

Mr. Perkins expresses himself as much pleased with this country, and predicts a great future for it. He was particularly struck with the great quantity of fine land lying idle at present which should be under cultivation.

BARRETT TRIAL IS SET FOR OCT. 4th

Information received in the city Wednesday was to the effect that the case of the State of Texas vs. C. H. Barrett, charged with indictment with the killing of W. B. Rowell in Deaf Smith county, February 1, 1920, has been set for October 4, in the district court at Dalhart, Texas. The case was transferred to Dallam county at the last term of district court held here.

CLAUDE NORTON IS BACK AFTER OPERATION AT K. C.

Claude Norton and family returned last week from Kansas City. Mr. Norton has recovered from an operation and is now on the road to complete recovery. He is staying for the present in the home of his father-in-law, D. P. Vaughn.

Oklahoma Boosters Plan Big Get-together Meeting Next Week

D. L. McDonald, president of the Abo Pass Highway Association, will leave here the end of the present week for Enid, Okla., where another big organization meeting of the road boosters will be held Monday. Concerning this meeting and the road, the Enid Chamber of Commerce has issued the following:

The Abo Pass Highway Association, which meets at Enid, Okla., Monday, Sept. 20th, promises to be one of the largest Road Conventions ever held in Oklahoma. This meeting is called for the purpose of designating the route of the Abo Pass Highway from Enid to Kansas City and also to formulate plans for thoroughly advertising the road to all tourists to California. The Highway has been thoroughly marked from Belen and Socorro, New Mexico to Enid. The marking crew will start from Enid immediately after the Convention and mark the Highway to Kansas City. Practically every city from Kansas City to Belen has to have representatives at the meeting. In the evening, the delegates will be the guests of the Enid Chamber of Commerce at a "Good Roads" dinner. Gov. Robertson will be the principal speaker of the meeting and will be assisted by several other prominent Good Road Men.

The Abo Pass Highway is the newest and shortest of the trans-continental highways. It starts at Kansas City and is two days shorter to its western terminal than any other existing route. At Belen and Socorro it connects with the National Old Trails and the Ocean to Ocean Highway. It crosses the Rockies through the Abo Pass, from which the Highway derives its name. The Abo Pass has the lowest altitude of any pass over the mountains and is free from snow at all seasons of the year. The sponsors of the Highway are very confident that this Highway will prove one of the most popular of the tourist routes to California. Plans are being made for a race between a popular make of cars running on the time of the Santa Fe Limited, which will demonstrate the shortness of the Highway and the conditions which will make it popular for tourists.

Engineers to do Street Surveying Secured by Mayor

The question of the improvement of Third or Fourth street through town, to a connection at both ends with the main highway east and west is assuming large proportions. Recently Mayor Knight, chairman of the Civic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, was authorized to obtain estimates of the cost of an engineering survey of these streets so that actual figures could be submitted to the property owners. The Henry Exall Elerod Co., of Dallas, have advised the Mayor that the expense of this survey will be approximately $100, and on last Monday the committee was instructed to proceed and secure the figures. A representative of the engineering company will be in Hereford soon to do the work.

Residents of both streets are beginning to awaken to the advantage of this improvement and are expressing their willingness to undertake it. As an instance, Geo. A. Stambaugh, whose residence is on Third street, and who is leaving this week for California, has assured the committee that he will be glad to see Third street so improved and to stand his share of the expense.

FATHER MRS. JOHN McLEAN OPERATED ON LAST SUNDAY

Mrs. John McLean received a message last Saturday telling of the illness of her father at Wichita Falls, and left at once for his bedside. She was accompanied as far as Amarillo by her husband. Mr. McLean has been advised since that time that his father-in-law was operated upon Sunday, and is doing as well as could be expected.

Motors to Amarillo

Mrs. W. H. Ray motored to Amarillo Wednesday, accompanying Mrs. J. Ray and children, who spent the past week in Hereford, to their home. She returned Thursday, bringing with her Miss Edith Harrison, of Canyon, who remained over the week-end.

For Amarillo Friends

Little Miss Mary Elizabeth Wilkinson was a charming hostess to fifteen of her friends at a fine party on Saturday evening, in honor of Hazel and Fay O'Brien of Amarillo.

After the play the party was entertained at the Burns drug store and later enjoyed a merry round of games at the Wilkinson home, punch being served throughout the evening.

Grape Feast

An informal evening that gave pleasure to about twenty guests was enjoyed on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Barnhart, when they entertained members of the local Hebekah lodge with a grape feast.

The vineyard of Mr. Barnhart is well known for its great variety of grapes which, this season, are especially fine and the luscious fruit so generously served was a real treat to the appreciative guests.

Music and other informal social features completed a thoroughly enjoyable occasion.

Picnic

The membership of the Christian Sunday School enjoyed an afternoon at Sulphur Park on Friday. A large number of cars were pressed into service, the auto ride to and from the picnic ground furnishing a feature much enjoyed, especially by the little folks.

Amusements to suit the individual preference were easily obtainable and it was a very merry party that surrounded the tables spread at supper-time with a bountiful picnic luncheon.

The occasion was another of those pleasant social affairs that so strengthen the efforts of the earnest workers of this Sunday School.

Delightful Entertainment

A large party of young people spent an afternoon of unalloyed pleasure at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Mounts on Sunday, the occasion being a good-bye social for several of the young people who are leaving for school within the next few weeks.

Gathering at the Mounts home immediately after church, the guests partook of an appetizing buffet luncheon after which, the large lawn, so inviting in its delicious coolness, the wide gallery and the spacious rooms, shared alike in providing entertainment.

Throughout the afternoon and until early twilight the music of young voices filled the air, as song and game and cheery conversation engaged the gay party.

A watermelon feast closed the delightful afternoon which was enjoyed by about thirty guests.

Miss Coffin Honored

One of the pretty courtesies extended to the young people in honor of Miss Minnie Dea Coffin was the picnic given by the Tri-C class of the Presbyterian Sunday School at the home of Mrs. C. C. Ferguson.

Following the delights of an elaborate picnic supper, complete in its menu and in its atmosphere of true comradeship, an informal program of games was enjoyed. Next came the real musical feast furnished by Miss Elizabeth Tatman—always a favorite performer, and by the honoree, who is just home from a summer's study of piano under Harold Henry and whose musicianship is a source of pride to Hereford's musical world.

The occasion was one of the most delightful of the many that the members of this up-to-the-minute class have enjoyed together.

Class Party

Mothers' Park furnished a beautiful setting for the charming picture of happy childhood presented there on Saturday afternoon when Miss Lollie Shore brought together there the little folks of the Christian Sunday School and gave them a real, all-their-own, party.

The tiny tots in their dainty party clothes were irresistible as they played and laughed and sang and enjoyed to the full every minute of the fine afternoon with its program just suited to their childish fancies.

Watermelon, juicy and delicious, supplied the feast of all feasts most appetizing to children on a warm summer day.

Miss Lollie was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Miss Helen.

Entertain With Picnic

The week's social calendar recorded nothing pleasanter than the picnic given by Mr. and Mrs. John McLean Thursday evening, the delightful affair honoring their house guests, Judge and Mrs. Akin, of Wichita Falls.

Invitations were limited to members of the Bay View Club and their husbands, the party going to the creek, enjoying an hour of social cheer and then spreading a picnic supper that was truly a feast of toothsome eatables.

A literary treat was enjoyed in a number of readings contributed by Mrs. Akin, who is a real artist in this field. She is a close friend of Grace Noll Crowell, a Texas writer who is becoming quite well known, and gave a number of her poems most pleasingly.

The entire evening was most delightfully spent.

Entertained in Amarillo

A number of Hereford people spent a most delightful day in Amarillo, Sunday, going up for the morning service at the First Presbyterian church, listening to Dr. Thompson in his own pulpit and remaining for the evening service.

The intervening hours were spent with Amarillo friends, the party being entertained at dinner at the home of Mrs. E. S. Arnold.

The ideal summertime picnic dinner—a picnic on the lawn—was much enjoyed as was an informal gathering at the home of Mrs. Newbold in the late afternoon, a delicious ice course adding a pleasant feature to the latter occasion.

Rainbow Party

An afternoon repete with clever ideas charmingly carried out, entertained in a most delightful manner, a number of the friends of Miss Geraldine Harmon, from four to six, on Thursday.

The Harmon home with its spacious rooms and beautiful grounds simply radiates pleasure and the spirited games and delightful music enjoyed during the first hour acquired unusual fascination. Later the guests were each given a spool of coarse silk and told to wind until they came to the foot of the rainbow where each would receive the mythical pot of gold. After a merry tour of the house and lawn the fairy threads led them into the dining room where a dazlingly beautiful "rainbow's end" was discovered in the table all aglow with rainbow tinted streamers radiating from the chandelier and leading to the "pots of gold" shown in dainty orange baskets filled with mints. In the center, a basket of vari-colored summer blossoms showed "all the colors of the rainbow."

Unique place cards were booklets in each of which was inscribed a clue to the fortune of the fair maiden whose name it bore. Brick cream and cake were served after which a number of extremely clever toasts written on the back of the place cards were read.

The little "pots of gold" and the booklets were given as souvenirs to: Grace Ferguson, Geraldine Feehan, Louise Ricketts, Emma Jean Donald.

CASTRO COUNTY

DIMMITT

The Dimmitt High School opened Monday, September 13, with an enrollment of 100. The parents and friends of the school showed their interest by coming in large numbers to the opening. A number of good speeches were made. Hon. Mark Cowser gave an interesting talk on the educational demands of the age; showing that the school children of this generation are expected to hold up the standards of civilization and advancement. Judge Kerr very ably reviewed the schools of yesterday as compared with modern schools. Being a retired teacher of fifteen years experience, Judge Kerr can appreciate the advances made in school work. He has a very deep personal interest in this school, having had four children graduate from the Dimmitt High School. County Superintendent of Schools Woodlee, also an ex-teacher, is a "live wire" in Castro County school work.

The Primary Department is under the direction of Miss Ola Parks, who needs no introduction to this district as she has worked here before. Miss Elsie Smith is teacher of the Intermediate department. She comes highly recommended as a teacher of ability. Superintendent Belew has had ten years experience in the rural and high schools of Texas. Mrs. Woodlee, the music teacher, has a record of accomplishment behind her that speaks volumes for her ability.

The largest enrollment for several years past is expected this year. There have been several boarding students enrolled. Raymond Hogge of the Arnie School, also Mr. Taylor, is making arrangements to send four pupils from Arnie.

The Dimmitt people are wide awake to their school duty, but there is plenty left to do. Some needed improvements will be made this year. A strong local fight for the Educational Amendment to be voted on this year will be made in this county.

Dimmitt Ward School opened with the largest enrollment of its three years. Miss Alva Metcalf is teacher. Paul Wright, of Lubbock, has accepted a position in the City Barber Shop.

Walter Hicketts, county and district clerk of this county, is visiting his parents.

Hubert McEntire had a slight operation performed last Monday at Plainview.

Miss Richardson, our efficient nurse, visited Plainview Monday.

F. L. Sheppard was in town Monday. Mesdames Hardy and Wright visited the school Monday.

Dr. Miller motored to Plainview Monday.

Roy Gilbreath and Will S. Kerr motored to Amarillo Monday.

C. F. Kerr reports the following real estate sales: half of sec. 334, blk. M-6, to J. L. Smith, of Benton county, Arkansas; consideration $21.00 per acre; the other half of same section to Mr. Reynolds, of Floyd county, same price; each of the above gentlemen will become citizens of Castro county soon and patrons of the Ward school; a quarter of section 1, blk. O-3, to J. C. Knox, of Dimmitt.

J. A. Johnson sold one section of land in Blk. M-6 to a man from Oklahoma at $23.00 per acre.

Mrs. C. F. Kerr and family are moving to Canyon this week to take advantage of the Normal school. Judge Kerr will remain and conduct his business in Dimmitt.

H. R. Knox of Portales, N. M., visited his brothers, J. C. and R. L. Knox, last week.

CLEO

Part of this community had another downpour of rain last Friday evening. The farmers are getting along very slowly with their wheat sowing on account of so much rain. Our grass and crops are fine, but on account of the rain the grass doesn't seem to be maturing as it should.

The Dimmitt school opened on the 13th, with Prof. Ballew as principal, William Wimberly, Ollie Dixon, Miss Ruby Wimberly, Clyde Shuford, and Miss Leola Shuford, of this community are going from Cleo to Dimmitt this year.

The Sunny Side school also opened on the 13th, with Prof. Jack Henson, as principal, Richard Galle and Felix Houser, of Cleo, are going to attend that school.

On account of our teacher, Miss Ruth Rippy, not being able to get here at present, the Cleo school will not open until Oct. 1st.

Mack Johnson, the thresherman of Cleo, went to C. J. Mapes with his engine to fill his silo. W. S. Dixon and A. Rip will also fill as soon as they get through at Mapes.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Houser came in from Plainview with Felix last week. Felix was operated on for appendicitis and is doing nicely. He will be able to start to school in a few days.

A Real Land Bargain

Section No. 76, Block K-3, located three miles north of Hereford on Twenty Five Mile Avenue—just across the road from my irrigated farm.

All smooth land with five feet of soil and a good set of improvements on the northeast quarter. One hundred sixty acres under cultivation with an excellent crop growing.

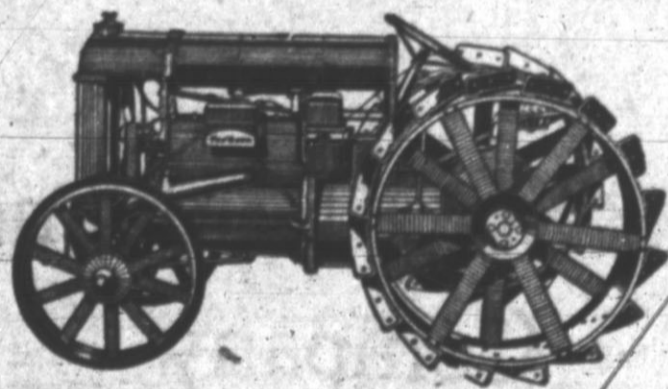

The section is surrounded with big irrigation wells which indicate an abundant water supply at any point on the tract at fifty feet or less.

This is one of the best tracts of land in Deaf Smith County and one of the few real choice locations left. Good close-in land is getting more scarce every day and remember land located in the Hereford Independent School District will always be worth more money.

Will sell in quarters at a slight advance over the price of $50 an acre for the whole section. One fourth cash with easy terms on balance.

COMMUNICATIONS

The proposed "Cooperative Mercantile Association," of Deaf Smith and neighboring counties, will meet again at the Courthouse, in Hereford, on Saturday, Sept. 13, at 2:00 p. m. Some of the friends and patrons of this organization have asked me to say a word on the matter through the Brand.

The initial steps have already been taken; its purposes stated and bi-laws drafted. These articles are awaiting any changes or corrections that may be made at the next meeting, when a larger and more representative body of our citizens will be present. It is earnestly desired and expected that while in town Saturday, no local or outside attraction will delay prompt opening of the meeting at 2:00 p. m.

While its name may not so indicate, yet the purpose of this organization is to touch nearly every interest of its members, especially the farming communities.

For decades the farmer has complained that he has never been able to get a fair deal. Well, who has been largely to blame? And are we willing to begin to correct the situation? We shall get no where by limiting ourselves to complaint and protest. Are we willing to put the same interest and energy into cooperative effort for the future and stay with it, that the whole past has watched us expend in individual effort; in the haphazard, uncertain, "maybe so", "hope so," "ought to be" way?

The best minds of every county, in every state, and throughout the nation are telling us through voice or pen, that the time is ripe for action, and there is but one method or means for achievement, and that this method must be through organization, cooperation and intelligent, straight forward effort. If we expect fuller values for what we buy, living prices for what we sell, surer markets for our products, and, in a hundred ways, better and more encouraging results; then we will get busy and work tirelessly, yet patiently, to that end. But, if we prefer to sit still and attempt nothing, then, let's kill our grouch, gracefully take our medicine, and forever be mute as the Egyptian sphinx.

The temporary Chairman, Mr. Price, and those whom I have heard discuss it, give assurance that this movement is not animated by prejudice, nor a fight on men, or any class of men or business. This, however, need hardly be mentioned, as any movement with such a purpose must finally fail, and ought to fail. Every business is entitled to its legitimate profit, and the world will sometime be big enough to rejoice in this fact and help it along.

I suppose no one will expect amazing results or big things to tumble into our laps at the beginning and certainly none ever will, except we begin. To this end it is desired that every interested person be present, if not with practical assistance, and a push, at least, with good will.

inson, Mable, and Eda Park, Wm. and Muller Duke, Horace and Howard go to Hereford High. The girls and the Duke boys stay in town. The others take the "Tin Lizzy" route.

A company of young folks gathered at the Park home on Saturday evening for a good time before school began. Ice cream and cake were among the good things served.

Thirty seven people composed the crowd that visited the Canyon fair from this community on Thursday of last week. We couldn't tell from the exhibits that there were any merchants in the town of Canyon. Not one sign or exhibit could we find representing any store in town. The hog exhibit was fine, and a large local showing was had. No doubt, there would have been many more hogs from a distance had there been any roads to haul them over.

Leslie Neal was one man that had nerve enough to brave the mud and take four fatuity hogs, of the right kind, to the exhibit at Canyon.

Roy Nunn, of the Wyche neighbor-

We are glad to hear from Cleo and hope the correspondent will see fit to would be very interesting reading.

ing our school on Monday of this week.

Dinner Party

One of the very charming parties of the past week was the seven o'clock dinner given Friday afternoon by Misses Corinne and Mabel Jowell, in honor of a number of young people who are soon leaving for school.

Every appointment of the pretty affair showed an exquisite harmony of arrangement. Dainty invitations in pink with fancy lettering in lavender established the color scheme that was obtained throughout the receiving rooms and in the table decorations.

Guests were seated at four tables, each the exact counterpart of every other, place cards showing the prevailing colors as did, also, the centerpiece of sweet peas adorning each table.

Under the softened light from a central chandelier the dining room presented a most beautiful picture. The following menu was served:

- Strawberry Cocktail
- Fried Chicken, Gravy, Creamed Potatoes, Peas, Sliced Tomatoes
- Olives Pickles
- Salad
- Angel Food Cake

Following the dinner, an informal dance concluded the evening's pleasure which was shared by: Misses Sena Mae and Mattie Mounts, Helen Lambert, Edna Elliott, Eddie Connell, Victoria, Kathryn and Olive Wilson, Johnnie Woods, Kennie Gears, Maurine Stockman, Dene Dulap, Corinne and Mabel Jowell; Messrs. Ford Johnson, Forrest Randall, Vivian Stambaugh, Carl Lewis, Oden Weems, Paul Jowell, Douglas Connell, Jack Mounts, W. C. Pitman, Ho Chaimness, John McDonald, Caldwell Hicks, and Mack Pitman.

Shower for Miss Price

A morning party, beautiful in its spirit of high regard for its honor guest, and in every detail of its charming arrangement, had as its hostesses on Wednesday, Mesdames C. C. Ferguson and Homer Wilkinson, and as honor guest, Miss Annie Price, the happy event purposing to shower the honoree not only with love and good wishes for her success in her new field of work in Spokane, Washington, but also, with material gifts for her pleasure and comfort enroute.

The pretty home of Mrs. Wilkinson was adorned with an exquisite combination of dahlias with smilax, each of the receiving rooms showing the same general arrangement.

A musical program of special excellence was rendered by Misses Minnie Dea Coffin, Bonnie Chaimness, and Mrs. W. E. Dameron. At its close the door between the living room and Gen was thrown open and Mrs. Wilkinson presented to the honor guest a shopping bag suggesting, as she did so, the advisability of a "shopping tour" in each of the larger stop-over cities. She then placed in Miss Anne's hand a ball of twine telling her to follow the main line to the first stop-over. The cord led through all the rooms and out on the lawn, each city being represented by packages of the various articles she had been advised to purchase there.

The clever wording of the tickets to the various points was most amusing, and the entire journey until the final stop in Spokane, was a continuous round of merriment. Porters in the person of Misses Clara Dunlap, Elizabeth Black, Minnie Dea Coffin and Mrs. Elmer Dameron carried the large assortment of packages collected on the trip.

It was a veritable "shower" of lovely gifts each expressing the warm place held by Miss Price in the hearts of her friends.

Refreshments of apple pie and ice cream were served.

The list of guests included members of the Music Study Club and the famous war-time organization—the Liberty Girls—about forty in number.

Watermelon Feast

A watermelon feast given by Miss Dene Dunlap on Tuesday evening was one of the pleasant social affairs enjoyed by the younger crowd during the past week.

The large lawn was very inviting and the bountiful supply of fine melons were especially appetizing served amid such pleasing environment.

An informal program of amusements entertained very pleasantly throughout the remainder of the evening.

Delphians to Meet

Mrs. Charles Donald, president of the Delphian Club calls a meeting of the Club members for Monday, Sept. 20th at 2:30 p. m.

The meeting will be held in the club rooms. Mrs. Donald urges a full attendance as officers are to be elected at this meeting and plans for the year's work outlined.

Delphians, please take notice.

B. Y. P. U. Social

The young people of the B. Y. P. U. enjoyed a lawn fete with an elaborate picnic supper, Wednesday evening, the large lawn between the Conkright and Lambert residences, brilliantly lighted for the occasion, furnishing an ideal spot for an evening of outdoor pleasure.

Informal amusements, games and music provided enjoyable entertainment which was completed by the feast of delicious entables spread on the lawn and shared by about forty young people.

Entertain With Forty-Two

Two charming hostesses on Thursday were Misses Elizabeth Stegall and Frances Wilson, who entertained most delightfully with a morning forty-two party.

The guests included fourteen of their girl friends, the hours being from nine to eleven.

The spirit of hospitality and cordial welcome pervaded the atmosphere adding zest to the games which furnished an enjoyable morning's program.

A delicious refreshment course consisted of berry frappe with assorted cakes.

Picnic at North Creek

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Neal, of Dawn, very charmingly entertained a number of Hereford young people last Sunday afternoon, honoring Misses Edna Elliott and Gertrude Cowley, of Dallas. The party met at the Neal home in Dawn and from there proceeded to North Creek, where the afternoon was spent most pleasantly.

Just before twilight a bountiful picnic luncheon was served, the chief constituents of which were fried chicken and ice cream.

Nine carloads of young people enjoyed Mr. and Mrs. Neal's cordial hospitality on this occasion.

Forty-two Party

Miss Virginia Laird was hostess on Tuesday to a number of her girl friends at a delightful morning forty-two party, four tables of players occupying the hours from nine to eleven most pleasantly.

The fresh morning air was sweet with the breath of roses used in decoration, the loveliness of the flowers seeming emblematic of the beauty of lovely young girlhood whose presence they honored.

An ice course concluded the morning's pleasures which were shared by: Eloise Pitman, Louise Ricketts, Dorothy Barber, Frances Wilson, Grace Ferguson, Geraldine Harmon, Geraldine Feehan, Emma Jean Donald, Margaret Lupton, Beulah Lee Rutherford, Margaret Gilliland, Mary McDonald, Elizabeth Stegall, Maurine Hughes, and Virginia Laird.

Y. P. S. C. E. Entertained

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Presbyterian Church have enjoyed two social evenings within the past week.

The first was given in honor of Mr. Arthur Boyd and his sister at the Boyd home on Tuesday evening. The jolly affair was termed a "watermelon evening," big juicy melons in bountiful abundance furnishing at once the very best of refreshments and unlimited fun.

The other was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Nunn on Monday evening. Unique invitations stated in the style of the "country bumpkin" that the girls would be hidden-somewhere in Hereford on Monday evening and the boys, who were to meet at the Presbyterian church, were to find them or furnish the ice cream and vice versa.

Accordingly the girls met with Miss Lois Cobb and hid themselves so securely that the boys gave up the search declaring the girls had won in the contest.

Upon the appearance of the girls, the party drove to the Nunn home and spent a most enjoyable evening.

Bay Views Entertain

Inaugurating its work for the coming year, the Bay View Club held "Open House" on Thursday and welcomed to the home of Mrs. John McLean a brilliant assemblage of guests who shared with its members an entertaining program, and an afternoon of delightful renewing of associations which the hot summer weather has interrupted.

The attractiveness of the pretty home was in itself a pleasure. All the glories of the late summer seemed blended in the rich coloring of wonderful dahlias used throughout the rooms with truly exquisite effect. Baskets and vases of the lovely blossoms showed a skillful handling of colors that emphasized the natural beauty of the flowers themselves and reflected the artist's touch in a charming decorative scheme.

Receiving with the hostess were: Mesdames D. C. Laird, P. W. Price, J. Frank Potts, Mrs. George Garrison, newly elected president, Mrs. F. T. Roloson, retiring president, and Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, past president, who greeted the guests at the door.

The program was opened by Mrs. Roloson with a pleasing talk reviewing the past year's work and outlining that of the new. Announcing the program, she gave as the first number, roll call, which was responded to by quotations from some noted dramatist. This was followed by a reading, "The Highwayman," by Alfred Noyles, given by Mrs. Guthrie.

Next came a delightful one-act play entitled, "Fourteen." The cast of characters included: Mrs. W. A. Price, Miss Clara Dunlap, Mrs. C. Y. Cockrell, and Mrs. F. T. Roloson. The parts were wonderfully well taken, the histrionic ability of the players being very pronounced.

As this was the club's first venture in theatricals, the success of the pleasing little comedy was all the more keenly appreciated.

Closing the program was a captivating (a) and (b) number, given in costume by Mrs. John Williams, the first of which was the old Scotch ballad, "The Campbells are Comin'," with piano accompaniment by Mrs. A. G. Monday and also, the rhythmic accompaniment of the graceful dance movement of the typical "highland lassie." "Ladle" was given as a (b) number, the singer being equally irresistible in both.

Brick cream with angel food cake was served at the close of the program.

"CAPTAIN COURTESY" IS PHOToplay FOR RED-BLOODED FANS

Dustin Farnum Does Dare Devil Riding in Picture of Old California

All the red-blooded film fans will await with interest "Captain Courtesy" which will be shown at the Star Theatre Saturday Night, for it stars Dustin Farnum in some dare-devil riding which few people have ever seen. Mr. Farnum is glad of this opportunity to show the public that he is actually a rider; for everybody knows that skilled horsemanship cannot be faked—it has to be done.

When he plunges through a stained-glass window of the old San Fernando Mission to warn the inmates of an intended attack by the Mexicans, his spirited thoroughbred, with dilated nostrils and head aloft becomes as much an actor as the rider himself.

He sniffs the breeze, then bridges a most dangerous gap with his glossy, supple body, landing in the center of the chappel where the padre is at prayer. This scene is tremendously dramatic, and shows Mr. Farnum to the very best advantage.

Herbert Standing, who has established himself in the hearts of photoplay lovers, enacts the role of the padre in a most natural and artistic manner.

A two reel Sunshine Comedy, "Back to Nature Girls," and a Mutt and Jeff comedy cartoon will also be shown.

STRADDLING

Senator Harding is for the "four-fold plan of soldier relief," one fold of which contemplates the payment of a cash bonus, provided a plan can be worked out that will not "upset the financial stability of the country."

Whether such a plan can be devised or not, Senator Harding does not venture to say, and since he reserves the privilege of offering that objection to any plan which may be offered for his approval, he leaves the question of his attitude toward the bonus proposal quite as much of a riddle as it was before he spoke. But instead of regarding the ambiguity of his statement as a fault, he holds it up as a virtue. If he were minded to treat that matter in demagogic fashion, he would say: "Oh, sure; I'm for all those things." But would that be the response of the expert demagogue? Such an unequivocal declaration would doubtless attract a large number of soldier votes, but it would also reap a large, and possibly equal, number of taxpayer votes, the votes of men who are opposed to the bonus proposal. It is the way of the demagogue, when in doubt as to which side of a proposition claims the greater number of adherents, to foster the hopes of both. Senator Harding without of course being actuated by a demagogic motive, has made a statement upon which both the proponents and opponents of the bonus proposition can nourish their hopes.

This penchant for planting one foot on each side of every controversy, so as to leave himself free to step onto whichever side may be popular at the moment requiring action, is the one trait of Senator Harding's character that has been brought out most conspicuously. Perhaps there is some question concerning which Senator Harding has enough of a conviction to embolden him to make an unequivocal declaration. We rather expect, indeed, that when he comes to talk of the tariff, Senator Harding will speak with a clarity and positiveness that will satisfy the most orthodox protectionist. But none of the questions that Senator Harding has so far considered has inspired him with that degree of courage. In his acceptance speech he did, indeed, speak on the subject of the League of Nations in a way which could leave no one in doubt that he was opposed to the ratification of the covenant with or without the Lodge reservations. But recently he has made it evident that the consequences of that candor have made him regretful that he indulged in it. Still declaring his opposition to the League of Nations, lest he throw Senator Johnson into disrepute, he is now protesting his readiness to enter into any association that will not rob the United States of its independence, as a means of quieting the disgruntlement of Mr. Taft. The least to be said of such a performance is that in making a conciliatory gesture toward Senator Johnson on one day only to follow it the next with an equally conciliatory gesture toward Mr. Taft, Senator Harding enacts a pantomime which should excite the distrust, if not the disgust, of both those whom it is meant to propitiate.—Dallas News.

This is more than the total export of raisins from Malaga during the seven years from 1913 to 1919, inclusive. The extraordinary demand for Malaga raisins, according to the American consul at Malaga, is ascribed by the exporters to the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, as they

THE MYSTERY OF HARTLEY HOUSE

"Into the office, man," he said, still clutching me. "What are you doing abroad? This night of all nights! But no matter. Into the office, and turn on the lights. Turn on the lights in the hall—not all of them, but some of them."

He ran to do it himself and was all flutter and activity. Then he ordered:

"Into the office now, and act natural. You're a man of genius; think of something we could naturally be doing at this time. Think quick man; it's beyond me. What are you doing here? Good Lord, what are you doing here? I could have managed it without you. Why did you have to be on the scene? And I can think of nothing!"

"You have severe cramps in the stomach," I said. "It's not to be wondered at, considering the way you abuse your stomach. I may say you are the only human being I ever was glad to see drinking himself to death. You have now some premonitory symptoms of gastritis. You have got me up. If I do not have a collar and tie on it will look more natural."

I tossed these articles and my coat behind a couch.

"And possibly if you were less clad it would help the illusion."

Jed rid himself of collar, tie and coat and disposed of them in the same fashion.

"Now, I imagine," I said, "we are reasonably convincing as physician and sinner. What are your symptoms?"

"You're a man of genius!" Jed exclaimed. "Wait a minute."

He ran to the window, concealing himself behind a curtain.

"He's almost here," he said, as he looked out on the ghastly white lawn. Then he came running back.

"The door had better be opened," he said, and he threw the door to the office open. Then he sat in one of the chairs and began to whine loudly.

"It's an acute shooting pain, doctor," he said loudly and then he whispered: "What ought it to be?"

I heard the front door open and shut.

"I have often told you," I said with loud professional dignity, "that there is a penalty attached to such habits as yours. Have you any nausea?"

"Sick as I can be with pain," said Jed, groaning tremulously.

"I don't mind at all being aroused, Jed," I said, just loud enough to carry to the person approaching and to sound to him as if it were a normal tone to Jed with me in the office. "That is a part of my business here."

"Sick as I Can Be With Pain," Said Jed.

tried to preserve the normalities, taken as he was in such strange circumstances!

"Mr. Sidney!" I exclaimed again, and my wonder was not simulated. "You abroad tonight at such an hour!"

He made a violent effort to keep his composure and succeeded.

"I felt so well, doctor," he said, "and I see so little of the place I love so much, that I took the only chance I had—this wonderful October moon and my faithful physician asleep and off guard, as I thought—to steal out a moment. But Jed—"

Here purpose took hold of him again and defied concealment; he became excited and caused me to have double dread of his tomorrow. "Jed, call the penitentiary," he commanded. "There's a convict escaped. I met him as I walked down the lane toward the river. Call the penitentiary instantly. He ran when he saw me, but I recognized him. It was the old fellow I saw working in the library at the prison. Call quickly."

Jed took up the telephone.

"Tell them he ran east toward the main road," said Mr. Sidney in great agitation. "He saw me and ran. But I recognized him. There could not be any doubt."

Jed had the penitentiary on the telephone. Yes, a convict, long trusted, had walked out of the prison gates. It was the old man in the library. They were hunting for him—had been for three hours in several different parties—not because they feared to have him escape, but because he would be so miserable and unhappy in the open all night, and, liking him, they hoped to find him and bring him back to shelter. He had no use for liberty; it would only torment and torture him, but some whim—anyway, the old man was loose.

"He's on my place," Mr. Sidney cried to Jed—in a voice I never would have recognized as his. "We can't have convicts running about the place."

They would have him in a few minutes, said the man at the penitentiary, now that they had him located and he would be as glad to get back as they would be to get him.

They closed the conversation. Mr. Sidney, with one foot of showing in his eyes, gently and softly collapsed in his chair with a moan.

Jed and I, in alarm, got him to bed.

CHAPTER XIV.

Dr. Brownell came in the morning and found Mr. Sidney, as was expected, in extreme exhaustion. I explained that our patient had been, as usual the night prior to his alarming collapses, very animated and that after midnight he had stolen out of the house for a walk about the grounds, had encountered a convict escaped from the penitentiary and had come back in great excitement.

Restoratives were given Mr. Sidney, but Dr. Brownell said he responded with more difficulty and more slowly than in other occasions. For several days he lay quite passive, as nearly inanimate as a living person could be. His immobile features, as he lay unconscious, were set; and the expression, it seemed to me, was one of hate, indomitable, steady, enduring hate.

Dr. Brownell came once every three days for two weeks, during which time Mr. Sidney's recovery was painfully slow. His mind cleared and became active long before any strength came back to his body. As soon as his mind did clear, he was, in disposition, his former self. I thought that if such a thing were possible in so gentle a man, he was even gentler than ordinary. I am not exaggerating when I say that the benignity of the man was seraphic.

I thought I saw a change of mood in him. There was, if I was right, a less insistent claim upon life. There was a yielding, an appearance of physical and spiritual acceptance of the law of three score and ten. If I were not deceived by little and impressive signs I noted, Mr. Sidney was substituting complacently the will to die for the will to live which had been in him conspicuously indomitable.

On Dr. Brownell's last visit, he confirmed what was in truth a fear.

"Has Mr. Sidney, to your knowledge," he asked, "recently found a supreme satisfaction in any event?"

"None that I know of," I said. "Why?"

"He's changing. He is different now from anything I ever knew him to be. I always have believed that his case was out of our province, and that life and death for him, depended upon resolve and that the resolve had a purpose. You have not found things wholly normal here, have you?"

"No, I haven't."

"There is something here," said Dr. Brownell. "I don't know what it is. You don't know what it is, but depend on it, something of importance to Sidney has happened. It may not have satisfied his life's resolve, but I think it has. For the present, he does not need me—possibly never again."

Jed observed the change in Mr. Sidney. Afterward I knew that he was a much more acute observer than I, for the good enough reason that his observation had a background of knowledge which I lacked. There was, no doubt directly as the consequence of this, an unbelievable change in Jed. He was very fond of Mr. Sidney. In our unhappy experiences with him, we had overlooked this fact and had failed to use it as we could have. His affection for Mr. Sidney was the one thing greater than his cupidity and self-love, with their attendant train of malevolence, violence, surliness, brutality and treachery.

He was convinced that Mr. Sidney was about to die, and the thought affected him tremendously. He became gentle; he abandoned his rasping manner—which, indeed, he never had carried into Mr. Sidney's room, but which was an intermittent provocation elsewhere. He was more than ever with Mr. Sidney, and each evening, after the others had gone, they had a bottle of wine which Jed drank; but he did not go stinging down the halls afterward. He was quiet and considerate, courteous to Mrs. Sidney and thoroughly friendly to me.

October went and the brown month of November took even the white-oak leaves, and the woods stood in monochrome. Isabel and I rode every morning, and just before the early sun-down we usually took a short walk, to rustle the brown leaves underfoot and enjoy the sweetness of crisp air filled with the odors of a seemingly decay underfoot. Soon after sunset we were in Mr. Sidney's room. He greatly enjoyed to have the family about him, not engaged in entertaining him or waiting on him, but occupied in any amusement or work that could be undertaken by his fire.

Jed had a cot moved in and spent the night with him. He did not want the nurses to have this office, and as he was perfectly competent, I consented.

It was an intensely happy and intensely unhappy experience for me. Mr. Sidney, I was convinced, would not live to the hepatic season. Isabel had permitted him to follow the changing seasons from spring to winter by bringing him flowers, and his delight at seeing the first hepatic had been as great as hers in bringing it to him.

Isabel could not realize that her father was dying. No one would have been so brutal as to tell her—or would it have been brutal? But Mrs. Sidney knew. I knew, Jed knew and Mr. Sidney knew—and was happy.

The day before Christmas came with a driving snow which set in with an east wind early in the morning. It was a real Christmas snowstorm, heavy, persistent and driving, but not unkindly.

In the afternoon Morgan of the Metropolitan agency came, driving with difficulty through the drifted snow in the roads, to see me. I was full of apprehension as I told Jed to show him in. His mood was different from what it had been before, when he almost raged out of the house. It seemed to me everybody's mood was changing.

Nevertheless a child's fancy came into my mind. Outside was the storm through which traveled fierce animals of northern forest, and here, out of the storm, came the werewolf.

"Doctor," said Morgan, "we have done a great deal of work since I saw you. I told you we would, because the case interested me. We have traced Mr. Sidney through every known operation and act—so long as we can find him as Mr. Sidney. Every act is honorable; many of them are acts of astonishing charity and kindness. That is so far as Mr. Sidney exists."

He paused and looked at me as if to see whether he was reaching any hidden spring which—if touched and sprung would open the secret. He did not believe I was truthful.

"Mr. Sidney's life is open, honorable and full of nothing but good for fifty

MUSIC ESSENTIAL PART EDUCATION

(By Miss Mattie Swisher)

In education there is no element more vital (reading alone excepted) than music when we permit it to serve its ancient way functioning through history, geography and literature, awakening the powers of attention, interest, concentration, judgment and imagination.

A knowledge of literature is considered of first importance in education. Scarcely a great poem or book that may be illustrated by the music that is either an integral part of it or related to it by circumstances, environment, nationality, reference or history.

Shakespeare is impossible without an intimate knowledge of music of the Elizabethan period. Shakespeare knew the music of his day and his plays are bubbling over with reference to it.

If we would feel the charm of Sir Walter Scott in "The Lady of the Lake" we needs must hear rousing bagpipes and the lusty voices of the warriors as they row over the lake singing their "Hail to the Chief."

As to History, Egyptian and Assyrian hieroglyphics show us that music was then a part of life. Chinese music is as old as the race. Music has preserved for all time the history of all races through their scales, rhythm and instruments. The ancient Hebrew had music in all activities of life. The first expressions of the Christian Era were the songs of the catacombs of Rome. The first work of the early church was in music.

What of Geography? The life of every people is reflected in their music. The whole History of Russia is in her folk songs. Sunny Italy is mirrored in her languorous songs of love and beauty. The pathos, the humor of the whole Scotch race is revealed in the beautiful love songs of Bobbie Burns. Do not three or four measures of "St. Patrick's Day" or the "Irish Washerwoman" bring to memory the whole Irish nationality. Among our American Indians every season, every ceremony and festival has its song. Why is the American negro the only natural harmonist. I wonder why their conceptions and ideas of Heaven center and revolve around music, the golden harp and singing.

Musical development of the individual is an epitome of the history of the race, as our primitive ancestors first expressed themselves in rhythmic activity with jingles, drums, horns, and bells, then in melody with pipe and strings and finally in harmony with combinations, and lastly in story-telling and musical description and tone coloring for every good of nature and every emotion of the human heart. So every child must be carried step by step through this same evolution.

We should teach the children to listen to music in a better way, and train the ear to acute sensitiveness. The habit of listening, as other good habits, should be formed in youth. Let us try. Does this piece tell you to walk, march, skip, or run? Is this march patriotic or simply walking? Is this one gay or sad, fast or slow, is it soldierly or for a funeral procession? Is this boat song a pleasure boat or a working boat? Is this a song of spring or winter? If it tells of spring will it be sleepy or wide awake like the birds and brooks? Is this piece telling of a brook or a river? Is it turning a mill wheel or just rippling along over the stones.

Liszt painted for us the Hungarian race in his rhapsodies, and Chopin the miseries of his beloved and still suffering Poland. The Venus music and the Pilgrims' Chorus picture perfectly the world old struggle between right and wrong.

Education means to draw out the powers of the mind or to cultivate the mental powers to give quick response to the will to do. School is not only a preparation for life, it is life. The old three R schools had in mind only the barest necessities for pioneer life without regard to cultured arts.

The new education has been called the three H's. Hand, head and heart. In this three-fold cultivation of the attributes of the body, mind and soul, music plays a large part. It is certainly just as commendable to draw a bow across a violin as Elton does it, as to saw straight through a one-half inch board.

If, then, it is shown that music has great power as education in and of itself, and has more practical application in later as well as in school life than almost any other branch of study, that it serves all other branches in the curriculum, is the friend and helper of all that is uplifting and ennobling and the foe of baseness, meanness and trickery, then why in the name of reason, is it not taught systematically and thoroughly in every school in the land? Why should there be one child in all the country deprived of the joys and benefits that come with the study and use of music? Every city or town should have a Supervisor of Music, trained for the wide field of teaching music itself, in all its beauty, rather than the merest alphabet of the language—do, re, mi.

Present Equipment Hinders

Music should be taught in every High School on exactly the same basis as language or science and the same credits given for equal work. Orchestras and bands should be organized in every school, and the instruments exactly as are the tools for manual training, or the foods in domestic science. If especially talented boys or girls wish to pursue their music and also the High School course, let proper credits be given for supervised study of piano, voice or violin under competent outside teachers until the time comes when such special teaching will be offered within the school.

Whenever and wherever you band together and demand these opportunities for your children they will be forthcoming. You banded together and started the music course in the public schools of Hereford. Let us build consistently and soundly from the bottom up by putting into the schools the very best equipment necessary for proper and thorough musical education of our boys and girls. Let the children know the great music of orchestral instruments, and the great musicians as they do their multiplication tables and no more will we blush that the children of Hereford do not understand a Beethoven Symphony or a Grieg tone poem or an Italian Opera or French Suite.

I was on my way to act on this plan when the light in the stairway leading to Mr. Sidney's room was extinguished, and I knew Jed was on his way downstairs. I did not have time to reach the entrance. I doubted that I even had time to retrace my steps. I did not want to meet Jed. So I stepped into a sort of little lounging space off the hall, which was quite dark.

In a few minutes Jed went by, humming, not singing. I had expected him to be very tipsy, considering the jovial mood of Mr. Sidney. It had even occurred to me that once a year, on a certain date—one to be commemorated—Mr. Sidney joined Jed in the wine and that this caused the relapse. But Jed was not drunk, his step was steady.

He was turning out the lights, but he was reversing the reasonable process. He went down the hall to the light at the stairway leading to his room and turned it out. Then he came back, past the recess in which I stood, turning out lights as he went, and the last light he extinguished was the one at the foot of Mr. Sidney's stairs.

Now the hall was in complete darkness and was quiet. Jed, like myself, I guessed, was in hiding—but for what reason?

Then I heard the faintest stirring near by. It came nearer. I tried to keep from breathing audibly. I could hear another person's breathing. It was Jed, beyond doubt. He came into the recess where I stood. It was only five or six feet deep but fully twenty feet long. He was at one end, as nearly as I could judge. I was at the other.

The situation, a product of supercaution, had grown ridiculous and also a bit ghastly. Here were Jed and I, standing in utter darkness in a small recess in the hall, he not knowing of my presence, I not knowing his purpose.

I decided to make my escape. I had, as usual, my electric flash in my pocket. If he heard me and challenged me, I could throw the light on him, challenge him, and say that I was on my way to the telephone to consult Doctor Brownell, and make him explain. His position was the awkward one. I had an idea that even if he heard me he would not challenge.

I made my escape without noise—or if I made any Jed did not inquire; and I found the office door in the dark. I intended merely to use the flash, and the telephone and do my errand in the dark. But I had just flashed the light once about the room when I heard a person at the door. This was not a stealthy person; the hand that touched the doorknob was resolute. By this time nothing rational seemed reasonable. The house of mystery had so asserted itself that one, hearing a noise, hid. Before me, revealed in the single flash of light, was a tall clock—and I was flattened against the wall the farther side of that great clock before the person at the door was in the room.

The person carried a candle—and it was Mr. Sidney. He was completely dressed and wore an overcoat and a cap which came down over his ears. His hands were gloved and he was well protected against more severe weather than that of this crisp October night.

His candle lighted the large room but dimly, and I felt secure, seeing immediately that he had a definite object. He went to the corner of the room, took up a heavy cane which I had often seen standing there, and with it in his hand went toward the door as if his business in the room were wholly done.

As he did so, I saw his face plainly in the candle light. It was wholly changed; it indicated ferocity, hate, malevolence, a bitter sense of injury—a terrible face, hardly recognizable as that of the gentle, courteous, jovial Mr. Sidney. He closed the door and was gone.

When Mr. Sidney had been gone a moment, I heard him open the front door and heard him close it after him. I should have followed him to the front door, but Jed was somewhere in the hall. I waited at the half-open door of the office. Presently I could hear Jed coming down the hall, carelessly now. He also went to the front door, and I heard it opened and closed again.

I went to a window of the office which gave a view of the lawn. I could see one figure slowly crossing the open space toward the path leading down to the river. Jed was standing just outside the shadow of the house.

The farther figure—Mr. Sidney, as I knew—passed into the dense black of the thickets by the path. Then Jed stepped forth and went quickly across the open. I went to the front entrance and stood on the porch.

The hunter's moon was at full, and the place was luminous in a soft, misty yellow light.

I had tremors, frankly—felt the presence of tangible dangers, unseen, and of intangible terrors. I never felt such oppression, doubt, distress and dismay in my life. My patient was on a strange errand far beyond any strength I ever knew him to have; and Jed, whom I always dreaded, was following him.

It may be wondered why I was not instantly in chase and why I stood worried and indecisive. The only explanation is that I knew, as surely as one could know anything by reason and conjecture, that whatever was happening that night had happened this same night for a number of years in the past, and that whatever it was, it had direct connection with the secret of the place which Mrs. Sidney so earnestly desired me not to possess. For these reasons, or upon this instinct, I acted as I did and stood on the porch listening to the unnaturally late whippoorwill and looking out toward the dark woods and thickets which stood at the edge of the yellow moonlight.

The tension was so great that I got a distinct shock when out of this wall of darkness came a figure running into and across the moonlit space toward the house. I knew it must be Jed, and I waited where I stood as he approached. He barely had come into the shadow of the house when another figure came out of the dark wall of the thickets and came slowly across the moonlit space.

Jed, running up the steps, saw me and gasped with astonishment, but recovered himself with wonderful promptness.

"Inside, man, inside, and act natural," he cried. "Come"—taking my arm—"in the office."

He was so certain and so commanding that I did just what I was told.

Presbyterian Missionary Society
The Presbyterian Missionary Society met Wednesday, Sept. 5, in an all-day meeting at the church and quilled 7 quilts and tacked three comforts for the orphans' home that burned recently at Albany, Texas. There were over forty ladies present, each one brought a dish of something good to eat for lunch and at the noon hour a great feast was spread. Everyone felt it a day well spent in a social way as well as the work accomplished for the orphans. In the afternoon at the regular hour a short business meeting was held. Meeting was called to order by our president, Mrs. Laird. Scripture was read by Mrs. Broadwell, after which we were led in prayer by Mrs. Wilson. Several topics of interest were discussed and decided upon. Two new members were added to our membership. We will begin our new study book this week with Mrs. Haber as our leader. Would like for all members to be present and help with this study.

Methodist Missionary Society
The Methodist Missionary Society held their "study lesson" on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 8th, 1929, at the home of Mrs. D. F. Ashbrook, with 34 members present. The lesson for this meeting was "Deborah," and the 4th and 5th chapters in Judges were read in concert with the Supt. of Study as leader. Mrs. Price gave a historical and geographical sketch of the time of Deborah and she told of its influence upon Deborah from childhood. The place of action and the history of Israel was set forth in such a manner to understand better what made Deborah the great woman that she was. The thought was brought out by Mrs. Ashbrook in her paper on Deborah, that Deborah had to serve before she was a queen and she was made a queen because she could serve. Mrs. Ashbrook also brought out three important facts from this lesson, 1st, the need of our country, our lives; 2nd, God's willingness to right conditions; and 3rd, God's need of us to help right conditions. A round table discussion then followed in which every one expressed their appreciation and help from the lesson.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by Miss Lula Edwards, after which the Society adjourned to meet next week with Mrs. Price.

On Wednesday, September 22nd, the Methodist Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Glen Snyder, with Mesdames Snyder, H. H. Hawkins and Henry Wilkinson as hostesses. Cars will be provided for those who haven't a way to go and please phone one of the hostesses if you want to go and have no way by Wednesday morning.

PARMER COUNTY

BOVINA

Mulkey Ezell has gone to Clarendon, where he will attend Clarendon College the present term. Ronald and Leroy Berggren are attending Farwell High, and Beulah Davis and Wilma Crowley are attending Hereford High. Mrs. J. H. Ritchie and little son, Garth, of Lubbock, are visiting Mesdames B. Y. Dickinson and A. F. Elfers.

FRIONA REVIVAL

One of the greatest, if not the greatest, revivals ever held in Friona has just come to a close. Rev. Eddie Young, noted puglist evangelist, did the preaching, assisted in song service by Rev. B. Y. Dickinson, Methodist pastor. Large crowds from the very beginning, with steady increase until the closing service Monday night. Rev. Young's preaching was of an exceptionally high order, condemning no man, but exalting the Lowly Nazarene. As a result, there was a goodly number of conversions, one of which was a gentleman quite past middle life. A large number renewed their faith, and all the churches in town will receive a number of new members by baptism and letters. The whole town has been strengthened in moral and spiritual tone, the influence reaching to the neighboring communities. It is the unanimous verdict that this revival effort be repeated in the future.

The good people of Friona, regardless of denominational affiliations, left nothing undone for the welfare and comfort of the evangelistic party, for which they wish to express their sincere thanks. And not only in the matter of entertainment, but were exceedingly liberal in their financial offering. To each and every one who helped to make this meeting worth while, in any way, from the greatest down to the very least, we say again, thank you.

B. Y. Dickinson, Pastor.

Is Your Kitchen a Prison or a Playground

The average woman spends twenty years of her threescore and ten in the kitchen. A kitchen cluttered up is the most depressing and discouraging spot on earth. A tidy, orderly kitchen is a real joy to any woman who possesses the true domestic instinct. Everything hinges on how a woman manages her work. But—how can she manage her work if she has nothing to work with?

A Hoosier Cabinet is the solution.

It is the cheerful, efficient, always-at-your-elbow slave of the woman who refuses to drudge.

Thought, study, experiment, and the opinions of the best known domestic scientists over a period of twenty years are built into every Hoosier. Two million American housewives have selected it, bought it, and brought it into their daily lives. In their opinion, it is the best, or they would have chosen some other kind.

There is not a shelf or a cranny in the Hoosier that has not been planned and sized and placed scientifically—with the housewife's comfort in mind.

We sell Hoosiers on terms to suit the customer.

Singer Sewing Machines are sold on terms to suit you.

Phonographs and Pianos are sold on terms—if you like.
