TRLA chief calls report 'hatchet job'

By KIM THOGMARTIN
Staff Reporter

The Legal Services Corporation's (LSC) investigation of the Hereford office of Texas Rural Legal Aid (TRLA) is a "politically motivated hatchet job", a TRLA official said Wednesday.

David Hall, executive director of TRLA, traveled to Hereford from Weslaco to refute charges made in a report issued last week by LSC investigator Wendell Wylie. Wylie is an attorney with LSC's Office of Compliance and Review who met with Hereford residents during November to gather testimony about TRLA's activities locally.

Wylie came to Hereford after the LSC received a petition, signed by around 3,000 persons, claiming that the legal office concentrates on "big publicity lawsuits" and is not doing the job it was established here to do.

The report lists several instances where Wylie feels TRLA has acted improperly, and is especially critical of labor leader Jesus Moya's involvement with the office.

"The report is nothing more than a repetition of hysterical rumors and false accusations told to Wylie by persons hostile to TRLA and its clients," Hall said. "The way this so-called investigation was conducted, if someone had told Wylie that TRLA was spreading bubonic plague in Deaf Smith County, he would have unquestioningly reported it as if it were fact."

Hall said he intends to demand an apology from LSC and a full retraction of the report. If that doesn't happen, he added, TRLA will take more steps to defend itself that could include litigation.

Appearing with Hall at the 10 a.m. press conference at TRLA's office on West Highway 60 were Office Manager Viviana Patino and Bill Beardall, TRLA's farmworker litigation director.

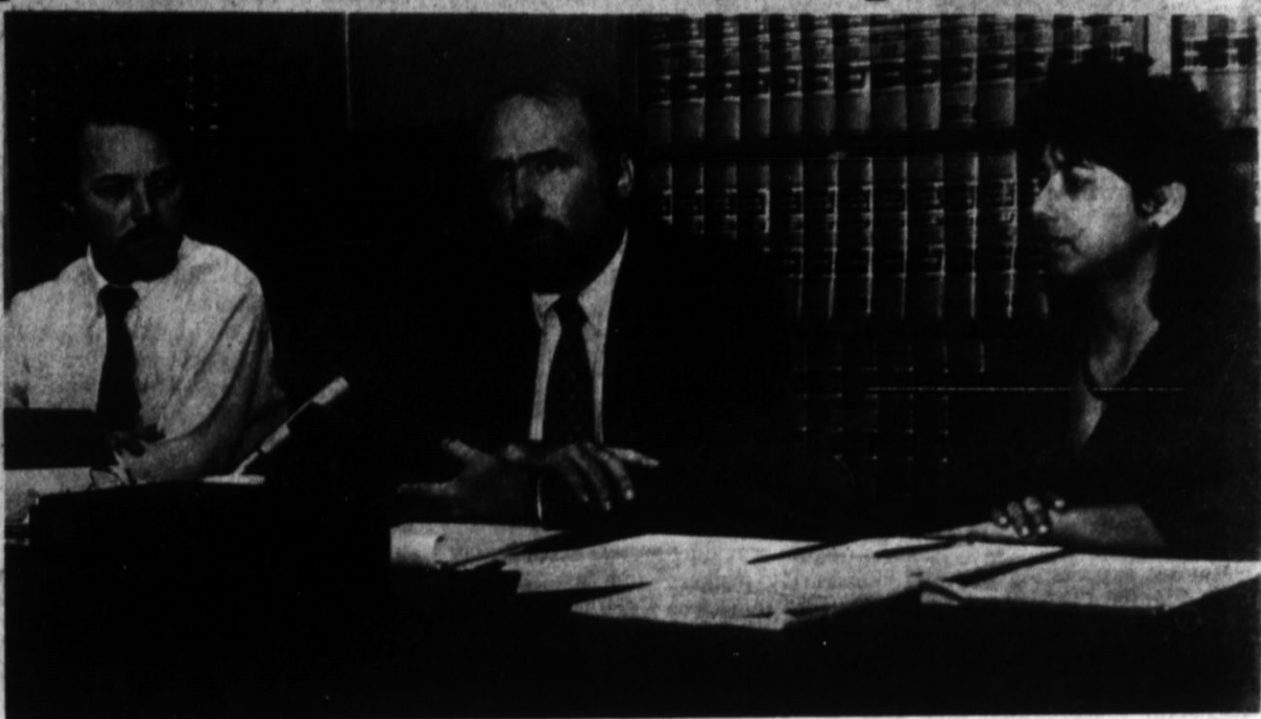

According to Hall, Wylie "gathered up every defamatory remark he could possibly obtain", including at least 29 clearly false statements and many more "profound exaggerations of fact."

Although he claimed Wylie found no violations of the LSC's regulations, Hall said he came to Hereford to respond to the report because "it defames us before our clients, the legal and judicial communities and the community of Hereford as a whole."

Responding to Wylie's suggestion that the local Bar Association set up a grievance committee to review TRLA cases that might turn in to lawsuits, Hall said he is "appalled" at the idea. "It is about as gross an ethical interference as I can imagine."

He said TRLA has no intention of taking its clients "and running them through some kind of preview panel of lawyers who will be defending the cases in court."

Hall said he wondered how those same attorneys would like to have their cases reviewed by a panel of (See TRLA, Page 2)

Refuting Report

Expressing their disgust Wednesday with a report on Texas Rural Legal Aid activities issued by the Legal Services Corporation were (from left) Bill Beardall, David Hall and Viviana Patino. Beardall one of the original attorneys at the local office, is now a state litigation director. Hall is executive director and Patino is the local office manager.

LSC investigator waiting to comment

It appears that an apology demanded of the Legal Services Corporation (LSC) by Texas Rural Legal Aid (TRLA) is not anywhere close on the horizon.

"I'm waiting to get a copy of his (TRLA director David Hall) press release before I say anything," LSC investigator Wendell Wylie said this morning from his Washington, D.C. office.

Hall was in Hereford Wednesday to refute charges made by Wylie in a report on activities at the local office. Issued last week, the report was based on Wylie's four-day investigation into complaints that TRLA has violated its charter and engaged in unethical behavior.

The LSC sent Wylie, who is a staff attorney with its office of Compliance and Review, in response to a petition signed by around 3,000 Deaf Smith County residents unhappy with TRLA activities. Wylie met with a number of local citizens when he visited the city last November, but did not talk with TRLA staff members.

While reluctant to respond to remarks made Wednesday by Hall (see related story), Wylie did defend the substance of his report.

"I said in my report that one person, in four days, could not possibly conduct a thorough investigation that would answer all the questions (See LSC, Page 2)

Mark Kelley enters city race

Mark Kelley has become the first person to file for a seat on the Hereford city commission. He is seeking the Place 2 position being vacated by Ed Coplen.

Kelley is the general manager of American Packaging Corp. He traveled to Hereford several times while writing for "The Packer" magazine and moved here to open the packaging business in June 1983.

"There is nothing noble about my reasons for running for city commissioner," says Kelley. "I think as a relative newcomer and young family man I can add a different perspective to the commission." I've got the time and I've got the initiative to do it."

He said he wants to help the city retain its quality of life by finding ways to prevent young families from moving away, to help retail businesses prosper and by drawing industry to the area.

Kelley, 29, is a member of the Kiwanis Whiteface Breakfast Club and attends St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

A graduate of Temple High School, Kelley received his bachelors degree in communications and his master's in agriculture from Texas A&M University.

He and his wife Carol have two children, Gabriel, five, and Colleen, two years old.

No one had filed for the Place 1 seat on the commission as of Thursday morning. Mayor Wes Fisher has filed for another term at his post. Filing ends March 6 for the April 6 election.

Singles group organizing

Does Hereford need a singles organization?

A small group of the city's unmarrieds, ranging in age from 30 to 60, thinks maybe it does.

A meeting to find out if others agree is scheduled for Friday night at the Hereford Community Center.

Bob Gentry and Dewanah Aylesworth, spokespersons for the group, said they want to find out if singles in town would like to see more activities provided that cater to the unmarried and provide an alternative to bars.

"We don't want to give anyone the impression that we have things all planned out," Gentry, a certified public accountant, explained. "We want to know how others feel and we would appreciate their interest and support."

Babysitting will be provided during the 7 p.m. meeting in the community center ballroom.

Aylesworth, who works at Farr Better Feeds and has lived in Hereford two years, said such activities as dancing, hiking, attending dinner theaters and educational programs for single parents have been discussed.

"Tommy, who said 'Give me liberty or give me death?'" asked the teacher.

"That's right," said the teacher. "Now, Jimmy, who was it that said, 'I have come to bury Caesar, not to praise him?'"

Bruce Coleman, former longtime county commissioner, said this morning that the plan announced by the Reagan administration to help farmers get loans is a "smoke screen."

The plan is for the government to guarantee 90 percent of the loan for a farmer. "Banks do not and will not loan money at 90 percent," claimed Coleman. "They don't loan money on the basis of a 90-percent return, and anyone who has ever borrowed money should realize that."

Coleman said the only situation he could see where a bank might be interested in such a loan "would be a case where a farmer has already gone down the tube and the bank hasn't written him off yet."

Coleman also pointed out that the debt and interest deferment plan announced by Reagan during his campaign is a maze of red tape and massive paperwork with rules that make it difficult for anyone to qualify.

"No one in this county or district has qualified for this program and no one will," claimed Coleman. Both plans are "just political rhetoric" and won't help the majority of farmers, he added.

Hereford and Deaf Smith County have a track record of professing Christian love. Contributions to charitable causes, support of non-profit organizations, acts of helping neighbors...we sometimes take them for granted.

This past Sunday a benefit luncheon was held for Bonnie Mitchell at the Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church. People responded with love and compassion for a neighbor in need. They came from various churches; they made large and small donations to help defray hospital expenses for a neighbor. This, too, is hustlin' Hereford!

Tax system, spending cuts, topics for Reagan tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is expected to face questions about his plans for simplifying the income tax system and his proposals for massive domestic spending reductions when he holds the first news conference of his second term this evening.

The president's 28th formal question-and-answer session with reporters will be broadcast live by the major television and radio networks at 8 p.m. EST.

The session, expected to last about 30 minutes, will take place in the East Room of the White House.

Reagan's last news conference was on Jan. 9, when he reported on the successful conclusion of two days of U.S.-Soviet talks in Geneva that led to the two superpowers' agreement to begin a new round of arms control talks next month.

Since then, Reagan has proposed a fiscal 1986 budget calling for sweeping cuts in federal spending for nearly everything but defense, elimination of some programs, including the national passenger railroad Amtrak, and new limits on spending for federal health and education programs.

Two weeks ago, in his State of the Union address, Reagan outlined a plan for a new income tax program that would eliminate many of the present tax brackets, and most deductions, exemptions and credits, as well, to ensure that all but the very poor bear a share of the federal tax burden.

At the same time, however, he left open for negotiation many of the controversial areas of tax revision, such as how to deal with charitable contributions and capital gains and what corporations can write off for depreciation.

And he called for new tax breaks for some special interests, such as parents who send their children to private or parochial schools and businesses that build in depressed areas.

Reagan's budget director, David Stockman, has touched off some controversies the president could face questions about tonight.

Stockman infuriated high-ranking military officers and their congressional supporters recently when he suggested the brass was more interested in preserving lucrative pensions for career soldiers than in maintaining national security.

Dogs may run for funds

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill on parimutuel greyhound racing would allow four coastal counties to build dog racing tracks, with some of the proceeds earmarked for a welfare program.

Bill co-sponsors Reps. Lloyd Criss, D-LaMarque and Paul Ragsdale, D-Dallas, told the House Urban Affairs Committee Wednesday evening four dog race tracks would contribute $12 million to Aid to Families with Dependent Families in 1987. By 1990, the bill would have contributed $48 million to the program, Criss said.

The bill, left pending, has a statewide referendum and calls for an initiative and referendum clause to create race tracks in four Texas counties — Galveston, Jefferson, Nueces, and Cameron. The bill would allow tracks to operate 300 days a year, with 150 matinee races.

Voters through initiative and referendum would authorize one location in the county to have a dog racing site. Initiative permits voters to have a measure placed on the ballot while referendum refers to voters approving a constitutional amendment.

A.R. "Babe" Schwartz, former state senator from Galveston, said the four coastal counties depend on tourism for their economy therefore the counties would benefit from the race tracks. The tracks would also create 600 jobs for Texans, he said.

But Phil Strickland, director of Christian Life Commission for the Texas Baptist Convention, said the proponents were "missing the real profits."

"When you implement any kind of pari-mutuel wagering, ...the issue is parimutuel gambling. When you institute pari-mutuel gambling you have indeed made it in the interest of the state of Texas to create as many losers as possible," Strickland testified.

The bill also establishes a Greyhound Racing Commission composed of the state attorney general, state comptroller, state agricultural commissioner, state land commissioner and the state treasurer.

Police arrest four persons
Hereford police arrested four persons Wednesday. One juvenile was arrested for theft of a channel changer from a residence and another for shoplifting at Furr's. One adult was taken in for a second offense of lack of liability insurance and one for public intoxication. Two criminal mischief cases were investigated. Roberts Supply at 136 W. Third reported a broken window and Hereford Day Care at 215 Norton reported a broken window, also. One theft of service was investigated in which city water had been tapped at a fire hydrant. Reports were also filed for a suspicious vehicle and phone harassment.

Family Services hosting program
"How to Deal with Difficult People" is the name of a free program to be presented Monday night by Hereford Family Services counselor Mike Moon. Moon, who is director of the Family Services Center, will discuss practical ways of dealing with people who gossip, clam up, or "act like Sherman tanks." The program should last about an hour, Moon said. "My hope is that people will come away with one idea to help break frustrating patterns in their relationships with others," Moon explained. The session is planned for 7:30 p.m. Monday in the basement of the Deaf Smith County Library. Child care services will not be available. For more information call the center at 364-6111.

Messer recognized as Leader of the Year

During annual Camp Fire meet

Johnnie Messer received the Leader of the Year Award during the annual meeting of Camp Fire Tuesday evening at the Community Center. The new directors were present for this meeting.

During the evening's activities, Fern Ford received the Sponsor of the Year Award for Bay View Study Club. The award is presented to a group who continually sponsors Camp Fire. The fledgling award, augmented to show appreciation for outstanding leadership among Camp Fire's fledglings, the Sparks, was received by Linda Krtinich.

Vernon Hope was awarded the Blue Ribbon Award. Given to volunteers who have demonstrated outstanding service to the council in an undefined capacity, Hope served on the board of directors, and willingly painted, plastered and built in order to renovate the Camp Fire Lodge.

The Earnest Thomson Seton Award was received by Joe Don Cummings for his distinctive contributions to the council through leadership as an administrative volunteer for four or more years. Cummings has served on the board of directors for two consecutive terms, the camping committee and as parliamentarian for the board of directors. His wife is a club leader and a camp counselor, and his two children are active youth members. Jeryl Baker was recognized for his contributions in the field of business and finance with the John Collier Award. Baker has served on the finance committee and later as chairman of the committee.

Accepting the I-Tan-A Award for Ellen Collins was Carroll Rettman. The award is given to the person who has achieved personal goals within the council. Collins has been the leader for two Horizon Clubs. This year, the senior girls in her club received their Wo-He-Lo medallions. She has served as group leader, camp counselor and president of the Leaders Association.

Anna Dupnik received the Sebago Award recognizing her outstanding contributions in the field of camping and outdoor programming. The final award was received by Carolyn Killough. She accepted the Broken Saucer Award for levity and sportsmanship.

Leader Of The Year

Campfire chairman Mary Hamby, left, presented Johnnie Messer with the Leader of the Year Award at the annual Campfire affair on Tuesday night.

Sponsor Of The Year

Mrs. Fern Ford, right, accepted the Sponsor of the Year award from the local Campfire council for the Bay View Study Club which sponsors a campfire group and has done so for 20 years.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

May we express our love and appreciation for all the people working for the American Heart Association's Door-to-door campaign Feb. 10. Our heartfelt thanks goes to all the wonderful contributors who also helped us in our quest to alleviate America's No. 1 killer, heart disease.

Special praise goes to the following youth groups giving up their Sunday afternoon for this service to our community: Key Club, Rainbow Girls, St. Anthony's CYO and the youth groups from Westway Baptist, Avenue Baptist, Temple Baptist and the Presbyterian Churches.

Congratulations to Ronald Fuhrmann who got 100 percent participation from all those he contacted for donations. That's quite an accomplishment!

Thank you, McDonald's for once again providing orange drink for our thirsty walkers and last, but not least, thank you Hereford Brand for the excellent coverage.

May God bless you all!

Dear editor:

I noticed in last Sunday's paper that the number of DWI cases in Deaf Smith County jumped from 157 in 1983 to 311 in 1984. According to the officials, however, this increase had little to do with the fact that 1984 was the year that the county went wet.

Now, if you'll buy that story, I wonder if I could interest you in a choice piece of development property about 20 miles north of town.

Incredibly yours,
J.E. Andrews

three TRLA lawyers, and expressed his doubt that three attorneys not biased against TRLA could be found in Hereford.

Patino said such action would force her "poverty clientele" to follow a different system of justice than anyone else, and "that's not what this country is all about."

In answer to complaints that TRLA lawyers are quick to file lawsuits rather than try to settle disputes out of court, Hall claimed that nearly 5,000 cases have been handled by the local office since it opened in 1978, and estimated that "90 percent or better never resulted in any litigation."

The office has not acted improperly in its alleged "cozy" relationship with Moya, Hall said, because Moya is an eligible legal services client. He claimed Moya should be afforded such conveniences as using TRLA's telephone, just as any other legal client might be allowed to do while visiting his lawyer's office.

Hall denied that Moya had ever lived at the local office or taken advantage of its clerical services. He said TRLA staff did not participate in strikes or picketing led by Moya, but have gone to the scene to provide "legal assistance."

A charge included in Wylie's report that a TRLA attorney appeared at a deposition in a T-shirt bearing an obscenity is "an outrageous lie," Hall said.

In response to suggestions that TRLA activity is hurting the local economy and causing growers to switch from hand-harvested to machine-harvested crops, Hall said he hopes employers in the area "are not making business decisions based on where they think they can get away with not obeying federal law."

Despite the fact that 98 percent of TRLA funding comes from LSC, Hall did not mince words in his depiction of LSC board members in Washington, D.C.

"They're rumor mongering. They don't like us." He claimed the Reagan administration has appointed persons to key LSC positions who "are hostile to the concept of legal services for the poor."

Beardall compared the circumstances to that of James Watt being the Secretary of the Interior, a "fox in the henhouse" situation.

Hall claimed that TRLA has become unpopular because it has won so many racial discrimination cases, and "people don't like to be told that they're racist."

"We've been successful, and people don't like that. But it ain't appropriate to kill the messenger when you don't like the news."

raised. I did not have time to do some of the things I'd like to do in the way of verification."

Even so, Wylie pointed out, when eight or ten people met with him and told him the same thing, he did "tend to lend some credence to their remarks."

Wylie said he does have verification for some of the claims discussed in his report, newspaper articles, such as photographs and depositions.

"You're probably going to see me down there again," Wylie said. "In fact, I can almost promise you we'll be in Hereford again."

Wylie said he would like to see LSC send a "team of investigators" to verify the testimony given to him during his November visit.

The investigator said he was sorry to hear that TRLA has rejected his suggestion that TRLA clients with grievances go before an arbitration panel of Hereford attorneys. That suggestion has not been accepted by LSC, but Wylie expects a decision to be made Monday.

Theft reaches $2 million

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Authorities are searching for traces of two men who robbed an antiques store of an estimated $2 million worth of diamonds.

Capt. Gene Kloss of the Ector County Sheriff's Department said the men entered the Barn Door Antiques store in northwest Ector County shortly after it opened at 9 a.m. Wednesday and posed as customers for several minutes before taking control of the store.

Kloss said the robbers took loose stones and diamond rings from a jewelry display case but did not take any cash.

"They came in and were just browsing and then pulled guns," Kloss told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

He said five female employees were forced to lie face down on the floor and were handcuffed by the bandits. None of the women were harmed by their captors.

The employees managed to free themselves after the robbers fled the scene. No customers were in the store when the robbery occurred, Kloss said.

Law enforcement officers are not sure of the exact value of the diamonds, but employees estimated the value of the diamonds at about $2 million, Kloss said.

An Ector County Sheriff's Department spokesman said the exact value of the stones will not be known until the owner of the store, who was out of the country Wednesday, takes an inventory.

Pipe supports found unstable

DALLAS (AP) — More than a quarter of 226 pipe supports inspected at the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant are potentially unstable and must be reviewed to rule out the possibility of a domino-like collapse of the piping system, officials say.

Those findings from San Francisco-based Cygna Energy Services, released Wednesday, support a criticism leveled almost three years ago by two former Comanche Peak engineers.

Jack Doyle and Mark Walsh had questioned the design of the plant's pipe supports. Their concerns prompted Peter Bloch, chairman of the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board, to declare in late 1983 that the "record before us casts doubt on the design quality" of Comanche Peak.

The plant's owner, Texas Utilities, ordered the Cygna audit on Bloch's recommendation.

Cygna officials recommended that the utility evaluate pipe supports throughout the plant and either modify the supports to fix the problem, prove that each support is stable or prove that the entire system is stable if any individual support fails.

Look at proposals again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby was in Washington Wednesday promising up to $25 million to the Navy if it puts a new base on the Texas Gulf Coast. But the seven Texas cities vying for the base might want to check the small print.

Hobby cracked up a news conference by top state officials in town to meet with Navy Secretary John Lehman when a reporter, speculating on the down side of getting the base, asked if officials weren't concerned about problems of drug use and prostitution.

Hobby fielded the question. "We have an adequate supply of all those things in Texas," he said.

Lions Prepare For Supper

The Hereford Lions Club annual Pancake Supper and Auction is scheduled at the Bull Barn Friday night, and three Lions are shown hooking up the griddles for the pancakes. David Ruland, Phil Shook and B.J. Gilliland were setting up the hot plates Wednesday afternoon. Proceeds go to worthwhile projects.

Referring to rhetoric

Stockman told to cool it

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials say Budget Director David Stockman has been told to tone down his public statements or stop talking about such sensitive issues as military pensions and financially ailing farmers.

One senior administration official said Wednesday that White House chief of staff Donald T. Regan informed Stockman of his displeasure about the budget director's recent testimony before a Senate committee and about comments Stockman made to reporters.

According to the official, Regan told Stockman "that many of these statements could be left unsaid or better expressed."

The official, speaking on condition he not be identified, would not say Stockman was disciplined but made it clear the new White House staff chief gave the budget director a dressing down.

Regan, a former Marine Corps officer and Wall Street chief executive, has a reputation as a tough taskmaster with a ready wit — and a ready temper.

But the official denied Regan had threatened the often brash young budget director with dismissal, although he indicated Stockman's behavior is being watched.

Asked what would happen to Stockman as a result of his recent unauthorized testimony, the official said, "As of the moment right now, nothing. He will continue to fight the battle of the budget."

Asked if Stockman would soon be leaving, the source replied, "I'd have to refer you to Dave on that one. ... We'll just see how things fly, play it by ear."

"Now, he was very good up on the Hill yesterday," the official said, referring to Stockman's testimony before the Senate Budget Committee.

Asked if that indicated the budget director was on some sort of probation, the official said, "No. ... That would lead to the interpretation that these were outbursts and not continuing practice."

Stockman, 38, has not set any date for his departure from the administration, but there has been recurring speculation that he would not remain through President Reagan's second term. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige is said to be a candidate for head of the White House Office of Management and Budget should Stockman leave.

Two weeks ago, when he went to Capitol Hill to defend Reagan's fiscal 1986 budget, Stockman veered from the party line to suggest that the government shouldn't bail out the nation's financially strapped farmers. He also charged that the military brass is more concerned about its pension security than national security.

Just as the furor over those remarks was beginning to die down, Stockman reiterated his opposition to emergency credit aid for farmers — prompting one White House aide to suggest the budget director was trying to get himself fired.

"I can't imagine what else he could do, short of calling the first lady names," the aide said in amazement.

But another senior official observed that the budget director has made himself almost indispensable as the one administration official with an almost flawless command of the gargantuan federal budget.

"He carries numbers around in his head that it takes the rest of us a week to find in the (budget) book," the official said.

Meeting new friends is important to Jean Holbert. And, to satisfy that need, she is involved actively in Alpha Alpha Preceptor chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

"You meet a different circle of people at sorority and I think that's important," Holbert said. "I really enjoy the girls."

Pledging the Alpha Iota Mu chapter in 1972, she is currently president for Alpha Alpha Preceptor.

"I am really more involved as president," Holbert explained.

"And, when you're more involved in a club, you enjoy it more."

"Being president isn't hard," she added. "It's a fun job and it keeps you interested."

Founded in the 1930s, Beta Sigma Phi boasts three chapters in Hereford as well as those all over the world. New members pledge Alpha Iota Mu which actively participates in service work. At the end of six years, the members are eligible to join Xi Epsilon, the exemplar chapter. The final chapter is Alpha Alpha Preceptor. Of the 65 women who belong to the three chapters, 20 are members of Alpha Alpha Preceptor.

Holbert described the sorority as primarily a social organization that aided members in forming long-lasting friendships.

"Our motto is Life, Learning and Friendship," she said. "Friendship is a big part of it."

Holbert said that this sorority differs from those at universities because it includes women of all ages.

Representing an even cross-section of the community, each of the three chapters has a cause for which it works. Projects are handed down from the State council, but each chapter is free to choose its own project. The city council, a group of representatives from each chapter, directs all of the activities for each of the local chapters.

Within her chapter, Holbert has been chosen chapter Sweetheart and Girl of the Year. She is also active in the Presbyterian Church. She and her husband, Chick, play in two bridge clubs, and she enjoys crocheting and other crafts.

"I've started every hobby there is," she laughed. "There are just a few, though, that are my favorites."

Although she has worked in various departments during her 17 years at First National Bank, Holbert currently handles commercial loan processing.

Her husband is self-employed. Together, they enjoy going to the lake and fishing.

The Holberts have two children. Rhonda Bain lives in Corpus Christi with her husband, Wendal. They have two daughters, Christi, 6, and Amy, 5. Scott Holbert lives in Amarillo.

Holbert enjoys trying new recipes. The ones she submitted are easy to make because, according to her, she only makes simple meals.

"We have a standing joke here," Holbert laughingly explained. "I'll say 'it's an old family recipe. It came out of last week's paper.'"

ENCHILADA SQUARES

- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1/4 C chopped onion
- 4 eggs
- 1-5/8 oz. can evaporated milk (3/4 C)
- 1-8 oz. can tomato sauce
- 1 envelope enchilada sauce mix

- 1/2 C sliced pitted ripe olives
- 2 C corn chips
- 1 C (4-oz.) shredded natural cheddar cheese

Cook beef and onion in skillet until beef is browned and onion is tender. Drain off excess fat. Spread beef in bottom of a 10x6x1 1/2-inch baking dish.

Beat together eggs, evaporated milk, tomato sauce and enchilada sauce mix. Pour over meat layer. Sprinkle with sliced ripe olives; top with corn chips.

Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or until firm in center. Sprinkle with cheese and return to oven for three to five minutes. Makes six servings.

SOUR CREAM RAISIN PIE

- 1 1/2 C sugar
- 2 Tbsp. flour
- 1 1/2 C sour cream dressing
- 5 eggs, separated
- 1 C raisins

Combine sugar and flour and add dressing. Add egg yolks. Cook to custard stage. Add raisins and place in ready cooked pie crust. Top with beaten egg whites.

CANADIAN CHEESE SOUP

- 1/2 C chopped onion
- 1/2 C chopped celery
- 1/2 C grated carrot
- 1/4 C butter, melted
- 3 Tbsp. flour
- 1 1/2 Tbsp. corn starch
- 1 qt. chicken broth, heated
- 1 qt. milk
- 1/4 tsp. baking soda
- 1 C grated American cheese

Cook onion, celery and carrot in butter. Add flour and corn starch; cook until bubbly. Add chicken broth and then milk, baking soda and cheese. Heat until cheese melts. Do not boil.

Thirty teen achievers from the Amarillo Area will compete in the 1985 AMARILLO MISS T.E.E.N. Pageant to be held at the Amarillo Hilton Inn in Amarillo on Saturday, March 2 at 7 P.M. This is the official city preliminary for the TEXAS MISS T.E.E.N. Pageant to be held August 30, 31, 1 at the Loews Anatole in Dallas.

All contestants are between the ages of 14 and 18. Judging is based on scholastic achievement, volunteer service, poise, personality, formal presentation and speech or talent.

All Contestants participating in the pageant maintain a "B" or better grade average and have contributed a minimum of 12 hours of time to a volunteer service project of their choice. The March of Dimes has been selected as the national charity organization of the MISS T.E.E.N. Pageant.

Contestants will register at 8 A.M., Saturday, March 2 to begin the pageant day activities. At 3:30 p.m., Saturday, all 30 contestants will contribute additional volunteer service time by participating in a "Mini Walk," for the March of Dimes.

Through the efforts of the Amarillo contestants over $300 will go to the March of Dimes. In 1984, over 700,000 hours and more than $50,000 were contributed to the March of Dimes through the MISS T.E.E.N. Pageant Program.

The winner of the pageant will receive a $500 cash scholarship, and an expense paid trip to represent Amarillo at the 1985 Texas state pageant. Among the prizes awarded on the state level is over $3,000 in cash and prizes, and an expense paid trip to the national pageant in Albuquerque, N.M. where more than $25,000 in scholarships and prizes will be awarded.

Tickets to the Saturday night pageant will be available at the entrance to the Amarillo Hilton Inn Ballroom, $8 per person beginning at 6 p.m. Saturday night festivities begin at 7 p.m.

The Amarillo Area Chapter Foster Children, Quadruplets, Charles, Brent, Ryan and Chase Hill, will be presenting our Volunteer Service Award on Saturday night.

Clinic groundbreaking set March 6 for Tech Med School

Groundbreaking for an expanded clinic and ambulatory teaching center for Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center at Amarillo has been set for 11:30 a.m. March 6.

The new building will house teaching clinics and patient care facilities for most of the Amarillo medical school's outpatient treatment programs—pediatrics, surgery, obstetrics & gynecology, psychiatry, and internal medicine. It will be located in the 1500 block of Coulter, due west of Northwest Texas Hospital.

Faculty and residents of the Amarillo medical school now care for most patients at teaching clinics on the ground floor of the Psychiatric Pavilion, which the school leases from the Amarillo Hospital District.

"Mrs. Caroline Bush Emery of Amarillo and Cleveland, Ohio, original owner of the property, has carefully guided the Health Sciences Center administration toward the acquisition of the property," said Tech President Lauro Cavazos. "She has, in many ways, expressed a keen interest in the development and expansion of the Amarillo medical school."

Eric Williams, director of Tech's office of health facilities planning, said the single-story structure will contain 33,000 square feet and will hold clinic offices, conference-teaching rooms, and 47 examining rooms. It also will house the medical school's business office and medical records department, leaving room in Tech's administration building on Wallace Boulevard for expansion of offices, research facilities, and student-faculty conference rooms.

Jim Doche of Amarillo, architect for the building, said the structure's design will allow for expansion both horizontally and vertically.

Total cost of the eight-year lease-purchase for the building and five-acre property is projected at about $2.2 million.

Dr. Walter Dickinson, associate dean for the Amarillo medical school, said the need for the center has existed in Amarillo for some time because of the growing patient load and the need for expanded teaching facilities for medical students and resident physicians.

"Patient care is moving more and more toward outpatient treatment," he said. "The days are rapidly passing when a patient is admitted to a hospital for testing and observation if it is medically safe to do the testing on an outpatient basis. As patients are treated increasingly on an outpatient rather than in-hospital basis, we must gear our teaching procedures to meet the needs of young doctors entering a changing medical practice. The new clinic building is designed to meet this need."

Target date for completion of the new structure is late fall.

Bosch to speak at seminar

Amarillo College Adult Students' and Women's Programs and St. Andrews Episcopal Church will co-sponsor a free community-awareness seminar on "Women Against Rape" Mar. 11 and 12 from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each night.

Anyone over 12 years of age is invited to attend this copyrighted, two-part seminar which will include a free dinner and child care services. Dinner will be served from 5 to 6 p.m.

Seating will be limited to the first 250 reservations which can be made by calling 376-6075.

Amarillo Police Cpl. Dianne Bosch will be offering this preventative and educational program at the St. Andrews Episcopal Church, 1601 S. Georgia Street.

SMU stumbles again

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The Southern Methodist Mustangs collapsed on the road again Wednesday night and suddenly found they had company atop the Southwest Conference basketball ladder.

The Texas Christian Horned Frogs cut down the No. 9 rated Mustangs 72-64 while Texas Tech beat Baylor 83-71. Both the Red Raiders and Mustangs are locked with 9-4 records.

They meet in Dallas Feb. 27. In other games, Texas A&M blew a chance to make it a triple tie at the top by falling 53-51 to Texas at home; Arkansas climbed back into the race with a 73-59 rout of Houston, and Rice clubbed Tarleton State 82-44.

Arkansas is just a game off the lead with a 9-5 record while A&M is a game a half back at 8-5.

"The race is really muddled now," said SMU Coach Dave Bliss. "Obviously, we've got to start playing better basketball. TCU was just smarter than we were and we let it get away."

It was SMU's fourth straight road loss.

"I thought TCU played a good, smart basketball game," said Bliss. "We just played poor offensively. We hurried key shots."

Carven Holcombe hit four free throws and a basket in the final three minutes for TCU.

"We got the lead in the latter stages of the game then hit our free throws," said TCU Coach Jim Killingsworth. "That's been the script for just about all of our wins in Southwest Conference games this year. If we can just get two or three more wins I think we'll be in good shape for a possible post-season invitation."

SMU is 20-6 overall while TCU evened its league mark at 7-7 and the Horned Frogs are 15-10 overall.

Holcombe led the Horned Frogs with 18 points.

"It's a great win for us," said Killingsworth. "It's nice to beat somebody who is somebody."

Killingsworth added "That's the way it is in this league this year. We've got some really good, well-balanced teams. If you don't play at your best, you can get beat."

The Mustangs got 19 points from seven-foot center Jon Koncak and 17 points from Carl Wright.

The victory before 6,392 fans in Daniel Meyer Coliseum broke a four-game Horned Frog losing streak against the Mustangs.

Texas Tech senior guard Phil Wallace had a 12-point effort in the second half against Baylor.

"We're glad to be in a tie for first. Everybody likes to be in that position," Texas Tech head coach Gerald Myers said. "Still, we can't relax, because we have three tough games left. The only thing that will matter is how it stands at the end."

Baylor Coach Jim Haller said, "I have to give Texas Tech credit for playing a good game. They deserve to be tied for the conference championship at this point."

Arkansas senior center Joe Kleine scored 27 points and the Razorbacks climbed to a 34-29 halftime advantage.

Arkansas raised its season mark to 18-10.

Rice Coach Tommy Suits said that the Owls' win continues the trend of a winning non-conference stretch.

"I was pleased," he said. "Tarleton State had a lot of disadvantages, not being a Division I program and traveling that far on the day of the game. But we really defended them well.

"Sound play is sound play, no matter who it's against, and until the last six or seven minutes we played well," he said.

Texas limited A&M's Kenny Brown to four points, two each half, and ended his double-digit scoring mark at 24 straight games.

"This is an unbelievably big win for us," an exuberant Texas Coach Bob Weltlich said. "I just can't say enough about these guys and I couldn't be happier for them. And it's about time we beat A&M."

In Saturday's games, Texas is at SMU for a 12:38 p.m. regionally televised contest while Texas A&M is at Texas Tech and Houston is at Baylor.

On Sunday, Arkansas is at Rice in a 1:38 p.m. TV game.

Leading up to the 1985 season, the 26 major-league baseball teams are opening their spring training camps. Exhibition games begin in the Grapefruit League (Florida) on March 8 and in the Cactus League (Arizona and California) on March 9. Opening day of the regular baseball season is April 8.

As spring training begins

Tigers begin another defense

By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

Sparky Anderson traditionally operates one of the toughest spring training camps in baseball. It will be made even tougher this year by one fact: The Detroit Tigers are defending their World Series title.

Not since the 1978 New York Yankees completed a three-year run as American League champions has a team won successive AL pennants.

That precedent has not daunted Anderson, who has said, "We'll go to spring training with the idea of repeating."

The Tigers, along with the Minnesota Twins, were the first teams to officially open camp Wednesday to pitchers, catchers, rookies, players recovering from injuries and any others who volunteer for a little early work. The Tigers train at Lakeland, Fla., the Twins at Orlando.

Most of the regulars and veterans are due in camp by the end of February or the first few days of March.

Eighteen clubs train in Florida, and the other eight are in Arizona. The Houston Astros are the only club with a new spring training site this year, having moved to Kissimmee, Fla., from Cocoa.

All clubs will have opened their spring sites by next Thursday, Feb. 28, when the Oakland A's begin workouts at Phoenix, Ariz.

Three NL teams — Houston, Los Angeles and New York — open camp on Thursday. The Cincinnati Reds, Atlanta Braves, Baltimore Orioles, Boston Red Sox, Chicago White Sox and New York Yankees open their facilities Friday.

Pete Rose of Cincinnati is one of six managers going to spring training for the first time. And, in his dual role as a player, he faces two challenges this season.

The first is to turn around a team that finished in fifth place in the National League. West last season, 22 games behind San Diego. The second is to break the record for career hits of 4,191 by Ty Cobb. He is 95 hits away.

The other managers who have never taken a team to spring training are Jackie Moore of Oakland, Chuck Cottier of Seattle, Eddie Haas of Atlanta, John Felske of Philadelphia and Jim Davenport of San Francisco.

Besides the six rookies, two other managers — Buck Rodgers of Montreal and John McNamara of Boston — are taking new teams to spring training, and two others — George Bamberger of Milwaukee and Gene Mauch of California — are rejoining teams they once managed.

The first spring training games are on March 8, and they continue through April 7. The regular season opens on Monday, April 8.

at 9:20 p.m. EST on WTBS, Ted Turner's "superstation."

He approaches the new role much the way he approaches the starting block at races — very low key.

"The only preparation I have so far is a roster of the athletes in the meet," the two-time Olympic gold medalist said without concern. "But that's no problem if you have a presence." Furthermore, he said, "I generally work under a lot of pressure."

He has, however, taken some public speaking lessons, and he's getting a few more pointers on the fine art of talking sensibly on camera from veteran broadcaster Marty Glickman, a 1936 Olympian.

Looking over the executive in a red silk tie and dark blue suit, Moses said this was not a tryout for a future in front of a camera.

"If it works out fine, but I never saw myself in broadcasting as a producer."

And so on Friday night, Moses will make his debut as a special analyst for the all-star track meet, starting

Moses overcomes arrest for new career

By TERRY TAYLOR AP Sports Writer

The first phone call after the arrest came from the Mobil Corporation.

Edwin Moses says he'll never forget it.

"They expressed their confidence and belief in me and said no matter what happened they wanted to pursue this thing. It really made me feel good."

Mobil wanted Moses to work the broadcast booth for the USA-Mobil Indoor Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden. They got him, and then Moses was charged with soliciting an undercover policewoman for prostitution, a misdemeanor.

"At first you think the worst, that it's all going down the tubes. But I never felt abandoned," the Olympic hurdles hero said during an interview Wednesday.

Fight scheduled in Detroit

Spinks back for another try

DETROIT (AP) — Leon Spinks is back in Detroit, the city where he was knocked out by Larry Holmes on his quick slide from the heights of being a one-fight world heavyweight champion.

Spinks now is under the tutelage of highly regarded Emanuel Steward and the Kronk Gym and begins another comeback try tonight in a 10-round in Cobo Hall against unheralded Lupe "Macho" Guerra of Omaha, Neb.

His training under Steward, who helped develop Thomas "Hit Man" Hearns and Milton McCrory, has been more rigorous than Spinks was used to before his previous fights, when he would taper off as the bouts drew near.

He had eight pounds to lose earlier this week to get to the 195 pounds the fight contract called for, but said:

"I'll go down to the gym and get beat up on. Kronk's so hot, I can lose the weight easy. I've been off so long, I need all the sparring I can get."

Spinks' last bout was March 6, 1983, in Atlantic City, N.J., when he was knocked out in the sixth round by Sugar DeLeon and lost his North American Boxing Federation cruiserweight title.

It was still another setback in a long list that began after Spinks had soared to prominence by winning an Olympic gold medal in 1976 as a light heavyweight then stunning Muhammad Ali, taking away the champion's World Boxing Association crown in a 15-round decision in only his eighth pro fight.

That was Feb. 15, 1978, and Ali recaptured his championship in a 15-round decision over Spinks the following September in New Orleans, in what was Spinks' first defense.

He laid low after losing the crown, fighting once in 1979, when he was knocked out in the first round by Gerrie Coetzee in Monte Carlo. He won his four fights in 1980, but his only fight in 1981 was against Holmes, who defended his World Heavyweight title by knocking out Spinks out in the third round in Detroit.

After he had won his title, Spinks cruised around in limousines, cutting a flashy figure in his fur coats, jewelry and cowboy hats.

But he also got in trouble with the law, several times with automobiles and once on a concealed weapons charge in Detroit in June 1981.

"Everything was new to me then. I was taken in by all the razzamatazz. I'm different now. I've learned a lesson. I'm sure I can make it back," Spinks said in 1979, before one of his earlier comebacks.

He feels the same way now, although he's 31 years old. But he has had relatively few bouts and sports only a 12-4-2 record as a pro.

"I took two years off for a reason, to get my head together," he said. "I'm anxious to get back in there. I should be a little rusty, but the fight should come out great."

There were two great hitting performances in 1941. Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees hit in 56 straight games and Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox batted .406.

fession. I never really felt that's what I wanted to do."

"I've spoken to Howard Cosell about it and he said, 'Just don't be a jock in the broadcast booth. If you're going to do it, do it as a journalist.' So I'm going to try to approach it that way," he said.

Among those competing in this year's championships are Eamonn Coghlan, the world indoor record holder in the mile; Valerie Brisco-Hooks, a triple Olympic gold medalist; and Roger Kingdom, the Olympic gold medalist in the 110-meter hurdles.

Meantime, Moses, found innocent of the charge, says he was "not left with any bad feelings about the situation I was involved in."

"It was an embarrassing situation for me, my family, my friends and the people that know me. Now, I'm looking forward to getting back on the track ... doing what I know best."

Moses plans to make his first track appearance of the season April 11 in a meet at Trinidad.

"I want to stay in track and field as long as possible," said Moses, adding that he might go for a third gold medal in the 1988 Olympics at Seoul, South Korea. "I want to keep on going."

ADD WOMEN'S SPORTS UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — The University of Mississippi has made a major increase in its women's sports program.

Athletic director Warner Alford announces that five sports for women will be added within the next four years. The sports are cross country, indoor track, outdoor track, golf and swimming.

Cross country, indoor and outdoor track will be added to the women's program for the 1985-86 season. Golf will be included for 1986-87, and swimming will go on the agenda for 1987-88.

Milwaukee making situation crowded

By The Associated Press

Move over, you Boston Celtics, Philadelphia 76ers and Los Angeles Lakers. Make room for the Milwaukee Bucks.

"I think you saw one of the four or five best teams in basketball," Detroit Coach Chuck Daly said Wednesday night after the Bucks nipped the Pistons 113-112 for their fifth consecutive victory. "I think tradition is a big part of it. They have great coaching and plan. They're the defending (Central Division) champs, and until they're dethroned they're the champs."

All five Milwaukee starters finished in double figures against Detroit, with Paul Pressey scoring 24 points and Terry Cummings 20.

Nuggets 132, Celtics 129

Calvin Natt scored 33 points, including two critical baskets in the final 75 seconds, as Denver held off a rally by the injury-riddled Celtics for its fifth straight victory and 12th in a row at home. Denver took the lead for good 124-123 with 1:34 left on a pair of free throws by Dan Issel, who scored 12 of his 22 points in the final period.

76ers 137, Warriors 116

Moses Malone scored 38 points and grabbed 24 rebounds to match his season high off the boards. The Sixers, coming off two losses to Cleveland in four days, got 25 points apiece from Andrew Toney and Julius Erving.

The Warriors, who dropped their 13th in a row on the road and are 2-23 away from home, were paced by Eric Floyd's 19.

Rockets 126, Suns 122

Ralph Sampson scored eight of his 18 points in the fourth quarter, including a stuff with 34 seconds remaining. Sampson's third stuff in a 1:25 span put the Rockets ahead for good with 34 seconds left.

Akeem Olajuwon had 23 points for Houston before fouling out with 3:44 left. Kyle Macy scored a season-high 21 for Phoenix.

Jazz 110, Nets 104

Thurl Bailey scored eight of Utah's 10 overtime points after the Jazz overcame a 22-point first-half deficit. Bailey finished with 24 points, while Rickey Green led the Jazz with 25 and Darrell Griffith also had 24. Otis Birdsong had 23 and Micheal Ray Richardson 20 for New Jersey, which lost for only the second time in 10 games.

Mavericks 104, Trail Blazers 98

Dale Ellis scored all 12 of his points in the fourth period to cap a rally that saw Dallas come from 15 points behind. The Mavericks trailed 80-70 after three periods but held Portland to two points in the first eight minutes of the final quarter. Dallas outscored the Trail Blazers 20-2 and opened a 90-82 lead with 4:25 left on a basket by Rolando Blackman, who led all scorers with a season-high 36 points.

Bullets 105, Spurs 104

Dudley Bradley scored a three-point jump shot with six seconds to play to lift Washington. San Antonio's George Gervin led all scorers with 31 points while Greg Ballard had 23 for the Bullets and Gus Williams added 21.

SuperSonics 118, Clippers 105

Tim McCormick, starting in place of the suspended Tom Chambers, scored a career-high 27 points to power Seattle. McCormick's 11 third-quarter points helped Seattle pull away as the Sonics outscored Los Angeles 41-23 in the period and took control with a 17-5 run that built a 79-58 advantage. Norm Nixon, with four three-point field goals, scored 22 of his game-high 37 points in the final quarter for Los Angeles. Cavaliers 102, Pacers 92

World B. Free scored 24 points, including 14 in the fourth quarter. Steve Stipanovich put Indiana ahead 51-50 with 10 minutes to play. Indiana led 67-57 but Cleveland unleashed a 16-2 burst and led 73-69 after three quarters. An 8-1 run boosted the lead to 84-77.

Today in History

Today is Thursday, February 21st, the 52nd day of 1985. There are 313 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:
On February 21st, 1965, Black Muslim leader Malcolm X was shot to death as he was about to speak to a rally of several hundred followers in New York City.

On this date:
In 1846, Sarah G. Bagley became the first female telegrapher when she took charge at the newly opened telegraph office in Lowell, Massachusetts.

In 1866, Lucy B. Hobbs became the first woman to graduate from a dental school, the Ohio College of Dental Surgery in Cincinnati.

In 1878, the first telephone directory was issued, by the New Haven, Connecticut District Telephone Company. It listed 50 names.

In 1885, the Washington Monument was dedicated in the nation's capital.

In 1916, the longest and bloodiest battle of World War One — the Battle of Verdun — began in France.

In 1919, after World War One, the allied nations recognized the Polish government of Ignace Paderewski.

In 1925, the magazine The New Yorker made its debut.

In 1947, inventor Edwin H. Land publicly demonstrated his Polaroid Land camera, which used self-developing film that produced a black-and-white photograph in just 60 seconds.

In 1972, President Richard M. Nixon began his historic visit to mainland China.

In 1973, Israeli fighter planes shot down a Libyan Airlines 727 over the Sinai Desert, killing more than 100 people.

Today's Birthdays: Columnist Erma Bombeck and fashion designer Hubert de Givenchy are 58. Tricia Nixon Cox is 39. Actor Christopher Atkins is 24.

Thought for Today: "It is better to live one day as a lion than a hundred years as a sheep." — Italian proverb.

Carrots get top billing

COLLEGE STATION — Carrots are high in Vitamin A and low in calories and are a nutritious snack food for children as well as adults.

Carrots currently are a good buy in Texas supermarkets, so consumers should stock up on them, says a horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Carrots can be eaten whole or as sticks," says Tom Longbrake. "They are easy for children to carry for a snack and are not drippy, sticky or messy."

U.S. per capita consumption of carrots has risen in recent years to 7.4 pounds in 1982, Longbrake adds. Most are eaten raw. Carrots lose between 10 and 20 percent of their vitamin and mineral content when cooked.

"Carrots have a long shelf-life when stored in plastic bags in the crisper of a refrigerator," Longbrake points out. "When washed clean, a carrot does not require peeling before munching as a snack or cutting into salads and stews."

Carrots are available year round in one- or two-pound bags. And at some specialty stores, they're available in bunches with tops intact, notes the horticulturist. Bunched carrots are generally more expensive and have a shorter shelf-life than those cello-packed with tops removed at the farm level. Besides, the tops are of no value.

Neon hair, nails newest fashion

The neon hair fashion was the new release at the All-Texas Beauty Show held in Dallas Feb. 16-18 at the Registry Hotel. Karen McPherson and Phyllis Neill of A-I Beauty Salon in Hereford were in attendance for the classes and programs.

The basic neon cut is right for today, according to those at the convention. It is high energy hair for day, fun or evening wear. With the right perm, the neon cut makes a vibrant hair high hair statement. Perms today are designed to gently bend hair to add airiness, giving the hair a lasting volume that replaces teasing.

Hair America represents the entire cosmetology profession through its three sections of ladies, gents and aesthetics. Inspired by the new emphasis in fashions on bright colors, Hair America designed the neon cuts.

In addition to neon style, neon nails are featured with shiny, flashy colors spotlighted with stripes and rhinestones. Together, according to statements made at the convention, the neon cuts and nails are the hottest designs of the day.

PEANUTS by Charles M. Schultz

WHY, MAY I ASK, ARE YOU BUILDING A USELESS ROCK WALL?

I DISCOVERED THAT I HAVE THE ABILITY TO PICK UP A ROCK, AND TO CARRY IT FROM ONE PLACE TO ANOTHER.

THEN, I DISCOVERED THAT I COULD PILE THEM UP, AND MAKE A ROCK WALL... IT'S UGLY AND USELESS, BUT WHO CARES?

WHEN YOU'RE DONE, YOU CAN MAKE A SECOND WALL WITH THE ROCKS IN YOUR HEAD!

STEVE CANYON by Milton Caniff

NOW, LILY, DON'T BE MAD AT PASTIE! I GOT A LITTLE NOISY BECAUSE I'M SCARED!

IF HONEST ERNEST TAKES YOU IN, I'LL BE BACK DOING A TWO-A-DAY!

I GOT TOP BILLING ON THE GAIETY CIRCUIT!

WHOM I BURLESQUE ... AND I MIGHT AS WELL BE!

FRANK AND ERNEST by Bob Thaves

WELL, IT SURE WASN'T MY STOMACH GROWLING!

THE BORN LOSER by Art Sansom

YOU NEVER WEAR YOUR TOUPEE ANYMORE...

CON'T YOU WANT TO LOOK YOUNG AND DASHING?

NAH.

HE'S GOTTEN TO THE POINT WHERE HE LOOKS AT THE HORSE BEFORE LADY GODIVA.

EK & MEK by Howie Schneider

THERE'S A LOT OF WOMEN'S COUNSELING GOING ON THESE DAYS...

BECAUSE UNLIKE YESTERDAY'S WOMAN, TODAY'S WOMAN IS FACED WITH THE REAL PROBLEM OF CHOOSING BETWEEN MARRIAGE AND A CAREER...

MY PROBLEM IS, WHO DO I SEE ABOUT BECOMING TODAY'S WOMAN?

ALLEY OOP by Dave Graue

GADFRY! IT LOOKS LIKE TH' PILOT WAS A ROBOT!

WHAT'S THIS? IF IT'S A FLASHLIGHT, WE SURE CAN USE IT!

HEY, MR. OOP! Y' BETTER COME OUT HERE QUICK!!

OH! OH! NOW WHAT?!

MARMADUKE by Brad Anderson

"No, I'm not calling Mrs. Rowe to come and pick up her puppies."

Ann Landers

Wake up, America

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I thought you might be interested in the enclosed article from the Arkansas Gazette. An incident such as this presents a strong argument for banning handguns. Keep spreading the word, Ann. — WITH YOU ALL THE WAY

DEAR WITH ME: Thanks for the items. It speaks eloquently to the problem. I appreciate the opportunity to share it with my readers.

WOMAN DROPS PURSE, GUN FIRES, KILLS SURGEON, 41

Dr. Peter R. Dornenburg, 41, an orthopedic surgeon, suffered a fatal gunshot wound at a cleaning and laundry firm when a woman dropped a purse containing a pistol and the gun fired. The bullet struck Dr. Dornenburg in the forehead. He died at 6:05 p.m. in St. Vincent Infirmary. The police said Dr. Dornenburg was standing in front of the counter at the Oak Forest Cleaners and Laundry when Phyllis J. Campbell, 31, entered the business carrying a large bundle of clothing and her purse. Campbell dropped the purse, and a .25-caliber automatic discharged when the purse struck the floor. Bert Jenkins, Police Information Officer, said the pistol was fully loaded and that he didn't know why Campbell was carrying the weapon or how long she had been carrying it. So, dear readers, another example of being in the wrong place at the wrong time. With 65 million handguns loose, who can tell when and where the next freak accident will occur?

I suspect the woman, like so many others, bought the gun to "protect" herself. When are people going to learn that a handgun provides precious little protection in nine encounters out of 10? A mugger has a lot more experience with firearms than the Phyllis Campbells among us.

The United States has the worst record in the world for murders committed. It is a shameful and dangerous situation that will get no better until we ban the sale of handguns to private citizens.

Wake up, America — heaven only knows how many guns that kill innocent people were stolen from the homes of law-abiding citizens who bought them for "protection."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This letter is too late for Christmas, but please print it for next year. At least 100 men come in to buy their wives a nice outfit. When we ask, "What size?" They always say, "Oh, she's about your height and weight." I know there is no way that every woman in town is 5 feet 8 inches and weighs 130 pounds. When these wives bring back the outfit, I have to laugh. They are invariably 5 feet 2 inches and weigh 100 (or 160) pounds.

My husband and I each carry in our wallets a card that has the other's sizes in everything from hats to rings. Please pass this on. — LAUGHING IN MUSKOGEE

DEAR MUSK: Consider it passed. DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently I attended the wedding of a friend. On the table at each place-setting was a printed card that said, "Thank you for coming and bringing a gift." Is this acceptable etiquette? — WONDERING IN BINGHAMTON

DEAR BING: No. In fact, I would say it is downright vulgar. Each person who invested time and money on a wedding gift deserves the courtesy of being thanked individually.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. For a copy, send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (37 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Malpractice crises warned

An increase in professional liability lawsuits has brought Texas physicians "to the brink of another crisis," warns the journal Texas Medicine.

"While in 1975 many physicians faced the crisis of being unable to find professional liability insurance, physicians in 1985 face the crisis of affordability," according to the journal, published by the Texas Medical Association.

An article in the February issue notes that limited legislative reforms designed to alleviate the 1975 crisis have been eroded by the courts.

"It's approaching a volcanic eruption in terms of suits, claims, judgments, and settlements," says Dr. Milton V. Davis, a Dallas surgeon. He was a member of the special Medical Professional Liability Study Commission, created by the Legislature in 1975.

Texas Medicine notes that Texas liability insurance companies for physicians are sizably increasing their charges. Policy holders with the Texas Medical Liability Trust face a 35 to 38 percent increase in premiums, and the Joint Underwriting Association increased its reserve fund surcharge from 1 percent of the premium to 20 percent for 1985.

Medical specialists in some states are paying more than $1,000 per week for professional liability insurance, the journal says. In 1982, U.S. physicians paid $1.5 billion to insurance companies for liability insurance, and the figure reached an estimated $2 billion in 1984.

The American Medical Association says the number of claims per 100 physicians has risen from 3.3 to 8 per year since 1978. AMA studies also show that over 31 percent of all physicians have increased their fees because of professional liability insurance costs.

Increases in the number of medical lawsuits and the amounts awarded have forced doctors to practice "defensive medicine," the use of additional and often unnecessary tests to support or confirm a medical decision in case a lawsuit is filed later. The AMA says defensive medicine may drive up the nation's total healthcare bill as much as $15.1 billion annually.

Dr. E. Don Webb, a Houston family physician who also served on the legislative commission, said many of the legislative reform of 1977 have been ruled unconstitutional by the Texas Supreme Court.

TMA is working with other professional and business groups to develop reforms that will hold up constitutionally.

Publication now on quarterly basis

AUSTIN — After more than 25 years of producing six-months Calendars of Texas Events, the State Department of Highways is now issuing the popular publication on a quarterly basis.

The first of the seasonal Calendars is the Spring 1985 edition, covering the months of March, April, and May. Approximately, two of the first events listed are kite-flying contests in Austin and College Station.

Other springtime events that welcome the end of winter range from such outdoor events as horse races, tennis and golf tournaments, fun runs, and cycle and drag boat races.

Springtime in Texas is famed for its wild flower displays, and several cities organize events highlighting such flora extravaganzas. Azaleas, bluebonnets and dogwood are popular springtime features, and the new Calendar pinpoints times and places to go.

Arts and crafts shows, historical tours, cookoffs, stock shows, concerts, tractor pulls — an astonishing variety of occasions to celebrate — are found in the Calendar of Texas Events.

Free copies are available at any Texas Highway Tourist Bureau, or by mail from Calendar of Texas Events, Box 5064, Austin 78763.

Bridal shower honors Kahlich

A shower honoring Suzanne Kahlich, bride-elect of Mike Butcher, was held recently in the home of Gwen Hacker.

A floral arrangement of teal blue and white silk flowers, the bride's chosen colors, adorned the center of the table. The arrangement was created by the bride's mother, Marilyn Kahlich.

Coffee was served from a silver coffee service by Phyllis Kahlich, Valerie Andrews and Brenda Kitten. They also ladled punch from a crystal punch bowl with silver ladle.

Tricia Kahlich, sister of the bride, registered guests. The guests came from Slaton, Amarillo, Canyon, Memphis and Silverton.

Hostesses for the occasion were Hacker, Roberta Last, Oleta Diller, Judith Rae Andrews, Tina Langenhennig, Carol Gerke, Faye Dirks, Theresa Paetzold, Evelyn Bodkin, and Nancy Last.

Also, Josie Schulte, Mary Parker, Ann Washington, Charlene Sanders, Wanda Nall, Bonnie Carlson, Kay Ivins, Janie Gomez, Donna Lindeman and Barbara Adams.

Shower honors Wilson

Vickie Wilson of Odessa, bride of Wesley Wilson, formerly of Hereford, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Earnie Murphey.

The couple was married Jan. 11 in the Crescent Baptist Church in Odessa. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Hill of Odessa, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wilson of Hereford.

The serving table was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with a white lace cloth, and was centered with an arrangement of pink and burgundy carnations accented with baby's breath and greenery. Cake, punch, party nuts, and pink mints were served to the guests.

Guests were greeted by the bride and Mrs. Vernon Wilson, mother of the groom. Special guest in attendance was Mrs. R.L. Wilson, grandmother of the groom.

Hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Tommy Murphey, Mrs. Earnie Murphey, Mrs. Ray Deasure, Lillie Muller, Mrs. John Wilson, and Mrs. Harold Easley.

AC to offer health course on aging

Amarillo College Continuing Education Programs, Adult Vocational Education, will offer a short-term health course on Issues on Aging beginning Mar. 5.

The eight-week class will meet Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 on the AC West Campus, Building C, Room 108.

This course deals with the phenomenon of aging in America with changes in physiology, economics, and social status of the elderly being taken into consideration. The psychological aspects of aging are explored.

Issues on Aging is apropos for individuals providing services for the aging as well as aging persons themselves and their families.

Special emphasis will be placed on resources available to deal with the problems of aging, legal protection and civil rights, and opportunities available to aging people.

David Melber, B.S., B.D., will serve as instructor. He is an experienced teacher, minister, and social worker.

Registration for this course can be accomplished at the Registrar's Office, Washington Street Campus, or by mail by completing the form available in the AC Adviser with payment to Amarillo College.

Complete information regarding this, other short-term health care courses and all Continuing Education programs is available by calling 376-5111, extension 2204.

The "Dark Ages" is the term used to describe the period between the fifth and 11th century. "Dark" refers to the supposed lack of learning and the decay of culture during that period.

Prime Minister puts accent on positive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, emphasizing her acceptance of President Reagan's arms control strategy, is playing down U.S.-British differences spawned by a strong dollar and a weak pound.

The British pound, along with other Western European currencies, has been driven to record lows against the strong American dollar. Mrs. Thatcher's Conservative Party has blamed America's $200 billion deficit for siphoning capital from around the world, weakening other currencies and driving up interest rates abroad.

Mrs. Thatcher, in separate private sessions planned today with Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul A. Volcker, was to emphasize how the economic policies of one country affect another, according to a British Embassy spokesman.

In keeping with the positive, non-confrontational tone of her visit, the prime minister "does not have a shopping list of complaints," spokesman Alan Ingle said. "They are general discussions of bilateral economic issues."

The president and Mrs. Thatcher, after conferring privately in the Oval Office on Wednesday, lunched and talked for 2½ hours. Mrs. Thatcher said she and the president had "a thorough discussion" of economic problems.

Continuing her enthusiastic praise of Reagan's conservative policies, she said the record of the American economy and its success in creating new jobs is "envious." But she added the reminder that the size of the U.S. economy is such "that your decisions affect all of us."

An official familiar with the discussions who spoke on condition he not be identified quoted Mrs. Thatcher as saying that "while there are obvious concerns about the strength of the dollar, the biggest danger would be a rapid decline in the value of the dollar."

In her address Wednesday to a joint session of Congress — the first by a British prime minister since Winston Churchill in 1952 — she warned that the West should not "expect too much too soon" from the arms control talks with the Soviets.

"Let us be under no illusions: It is our strength and not their good will that has brought the Soviet Union to the negotiating table in Geneva," she said.

Mrs. Thatcher noted that the current strength of the dollar, which makes foreign goods less expensive in the United States, poses difficulties for U.S. export industries and creates pressure for international trade barriers that would harm free trade.

"I am certain that your administration is right to resist such pressures," she said. "To give in to them would betray the millions in the developing world, to say nothing of the strains on your other trading partners."

At a formal British Embassy dinner Wednesday evening marking the 20th anniversary of Anglo-America diplomatic ties, President Reagan praised Mrs. Thatcher for the "vigor, clarity and directness" of her views.

The two nations, he said, celebrate their anniversary while "bound together by innumerable ties of ancient history and present friendship."

In the area of international commerce, Reagan said the United States is determined to "knock down barriers to trade and foreign investment, and to the free movement of capital."

Economic pressure now on Mexico

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — An irate Sen. Dennis DeConcini says corruption in Mexico "is so rampant ... the central government is afraid to go after terrorists," and calls for economic pressure on that country to find missing Americans.

The Arizona Democrat said Wednesday he thinks the United States should "put heat on them" by calling in a $1 billion loan given to Mexico in 1982 as part of an economic bailout.

Since Friday, U.S. Customs officials have been conducting extensive searches of vehicles at checkpoints all along the 1,760-mile Mexican border in response to the abduction of a U.S. drug agent in Guadalajara, Mexico. Six other Americans also have been reported missing in Guadalajara since December, including at least four others who also were abducted.

U.S. law enforcement officials have said the intensified searches were ordered as a punitive measure to register this country's anger at the pace of the Mexican investigation.

But in a telephone interview from Washington, DeConcini said he doesn't think that action is the best answer.

"I don't find fault with our government for trying to pressure" the Mexican government, he said. "But I don't think this is the best thing we can do."

The lengthy searches, which at times have created massive, hours-long traffic delays, are "only hurting the balance of trade and American businesses along the border," he said, adding that "is not going to solve the problem."

He said, "We should implement economic reactions to Mexico," including calling due a $1 billion cash loan given in August 1982 amid the Mexican peso devaluation and economic crisis.

"These are things we ought to call due," DeConcini said — "put heat on them."

To blind woman

Ham radio license opens up windows

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Carmen Carreno, who has been blind for 20 years, never traveled outside Corpus Christi without her husband until last August. At his insistence she attended a week-long ham radio camp for the disabled in Minnesota.

"I said, 'No way I'm going without you,'" the diminutive gray-haired woman recalls.

But her husband put her on the plane, kissed her goodbye and she went, crying all the way to Houston. "I guess people around me thought I was going to a funeral," she joked recently. "I was so afraid to be alone that I forgot to be afraid of flying."

That trip and obtaining her novice ham radio operator's license were turning points in Mrs. Carreno's life. "I had always been so dependent on my husband, even before I was blind," she said. Mrs. Carreno, who is a victim of retinitis pigmentosa, began losing her vision at an early age and was totally blind by the time her fourth child was born.

Wile Mrs. Carreno was changing planes in Houston, a woman who sat next to her on the transfer train struck up a conversation. The woman, it turned out, was also blind, but she traveled quite a lot by herself and taught school in Minneapolis.

The woman gave Mrs. Carreno hints about traveling alone. She then told Mrs. Carreno that her cane was named Abraham and asked the name of Mrs. Carreno's cane.

Mrs. Carreno had a cane, but she had not used it since learning to get around 20 years before. The women said, "Here, put your cane next to Abraham. Abraham, meet Moses."

"I'm a very religious person," said Mrs. Carreno, who is originally from Madrid. "When this happened, I said, 'Dear Lord, you are showing me the way.' It gave me such faith and confidence meeting this woman."

Now, Mrs. Carreno takes "Moses" with her everywhere. "It was a new feeling for me. I always was hanging on my husband's arm and now I was just walking with my Moses," she said. "When I have my cane in my hand, I see many more things." She recently decided to go shopping and to the beauty shop. She called a taxi and went. For Mrs. Carreno, that simple trip opened a whole new world of independence. Before she would have waited until it was convenient for someone to take her.

Attending the ham radio camp, which is sponsored by a non-profit organization called Handi-Ham, gave Mrs. Carreno even more confidence. She learned to get around in a hotel room and at the camp and learned enough radio theory and Morse code to pass the Federal Communications Commission novice ham radio operator's exam.

Now she has her "rig" in a closet off her bedroom and spends many happy hours talking with other hams. In fact, Mrs. Carreno said her son told her the other day, "All you know how to do these days is be with the radio."

The Carrenos are avid sailors who enjoy long cruises and her ham radio skills not only provide her a pleasurable pastime but will also be useful.

Mrs. Carreno recently went to Malibu, Calif., attending another Handi-Ham camp in order to obtain her general license.

Mrs. Carreno can't say enough good things about Handi-Ham, which is a service of Courage Center, a non-profit independent rehabilitation center in Golden Valley, Minn.

Handi-Ham was started in 1967 as a non-profit volunteer group by Ned Carmen, who worked in collections for the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

He was often in the homes of disabled people and saw how bored many were. On his own he got a number of disabled people to start studying for their ham radio licenses.

Later, he contacted the Sisters of Assisi, many of whom he knew through the Mayo Clinic, and got several of them interested in his idea of helping disabled people to become ham radio operators.

After his death in 1972 Handi-Ham continued as a non-profit volunteer group until 1975 when it became a service of Courage Center. Not only blind people, but those who cannot talk, who have cerebral palsy, who are quadriplegics or have other physical disabilities, are taught at the Handi-ham camps.

Handi-Ham, as well as running camps twice a year in Golden Valley and Malibu, provides educational material, loans equipment for a limited time and will introduce a new ham to an experienced ham in their area who can work with them and provide encouragement.

For more information about Handi-Ham, contact Sister Alverna at Courage Center, 3915 Golden Valley Road, Golden Valley, Minn. 55422.

During February, the Daughters of the American Revolution recall the famous leader of Washington's Cavalry whose sobriquet was "Light Horse Harry." Henry Lee served with distinction under Washington. He served in the Virginia House of Delegates and was later elected Governor of that state. He delivered the address on the death of Washington which contained the famous phrase: "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his Countrymen."

The first successful electric typewriter was the Blickensderfer Electric in 1902. It would have been more successful if more offices had electricity.

HHS Personalities

During the annual Koobraey assembly at the high school, several personalities from the student body were chosen. Amy Mason, left, was selected Most Versatile and, Connie Zinser was awarded Most Intellectual.

Other Personalities

Christy Burford, left, received the title of Most Flirtatious recently at the annual koobraey assembly at the high school. Ralph Gallegos, not pictured, was also chosen Most Flirtatious. Doug Owens was the sole recipient of the Twirp King award.

Use floor wax

DEAR POLLY — If a person's rubber footwear is dull and dingy looking, give it a coat of floor wax. Looks like new!

Do not grease the sides of your loaf pans for cakes or quick breads. The loaves will turn out with nicely rounded tops when baked in ungreased pans instead of having unattractive sharp edges. Grease pan bottoms only.

Use ordinary plain salted crackers, coarsely crushed, instead of stale bread for stuffing. Very good texture and flavor.

To make grated lemon or orange rind for baking: remove and discard the white membrane from orange or lemon rind. Cut up the colored portion and put it in a blender with one-half cup cold water. Blend until rind is finely grated. Drain in a fine sieve or through cheesecloth and spread on paper towels to dry somewhat. Package in teaspoonfuls or tablespoonfuls in plastic freezer bags or plastic wrap. Store in the freezer. The rind will be ready and at hand when needed. — MRS. F.C.

DEAR POLLY — After using a washcloth, rinse it carefully in cold water and wring it out before hanging it up. This will prevent a sour odor from developing between uses. — NONA

DEAR POLLY — Save your good cutting board from absorbing the odors of onion or garlic by using mini cutting boards made from plastic snap-on covers of coffee or shortening cans. Just trim off the rims of these covers and you have a handy, washable cutting board.

A good substitute for rubber gloves when applying hair-color-rinse is a couple of plastic sandwich bags. — EVA

DEAR POLLY — Whenever I want a new haircut or hairstyle, I look at the models in the department-store catalog. I can usually find a style that's appealing to me. The picture can be taken to the hairdresser. — LISA

Operetta set in Amarillo

The Amarillo College Concert Hall Theater comes alive Mar. 6-9 at 8:15 p.m. and again Mar. 10 at 2:30 p.m. with Gilbert and Sullivan's most elegant operetta.

"The Mikado" takes place in Japan. YumYum is to wed the Lord High Executioner, but she loves Nanki-poo, the Mikado's son, who is disguised as a minstrel in order to hide from Katisha who plans to marry him.

Audiences will remember musical numbers such as "Behind the Lord High Executioner," "Brightly Dawns Our Wedding Day," and "Miya Samma Miya." A theatrical evening of farce tipped in splendor and grave is in store for all who plan to attend.

Advance reservations are available by calling 376-5111, extension 2503.

Barela listed in Who's Who

LUBBOCK — Thirty-three Texas Tech University students have been selected for the 1984-85 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

The students were chosen for the one-time honor from all junior, senior, graduate, law and medical students at Texas Tech. Selections were made by a committee of faculty members, staff and students, based on outstanding achievement in scholarship, leadership and service while at Texas Tech.

Selected for the edition from Hereford is Cynthia Josette Barela, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.D. Barela of 329 Centre. She is a political science junior.

Some people believed they could frighten off storms by shouting and waving weapons.

Health

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Improve habits

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 60, and recently my sleeping has been fouled up. I sleep one night and stay awake the next night. What can I do? Do you have a Health Letter on this? I don't want to have to take sleeping pills or anything else.

DEAR READER — Your complaint is a little unusual. Most people who have trouble sleeping have difficulty every night. A certain amount of the sleep pattern is caused by habit. You can improve your sleep by improving your habits.

Try to go to bed at the same time every night. Set a time when you will be sleepy and then use that hour regularly. Try to wind down before bedtime by doing something that doesn't excite or upset you or require a lot of concentration. (I guess a lot of TV programs would fit into the kind of activity that prepares you for sleep.)

You should get some exercise every day, since it will help to relax you. However, don't exercise too late in the evening, or the stimulation of the metabolism may keep you awake. There is a good reason for exercising when you get up: It wakes you up, and you don't want that at night. Avoid all stimulants, coffee, tea and caffeine-containing colas.

You will need a quiet dark room for sleeping. I have discussed the things you should do to help you sleep better in The Health Letter, Special Report 35, Improve Your Sleep, which I am sending you as you requested. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You are wise to avoid sleeping pills. They can be used on occasion, but should never be a regular aid to sleeping. Many sleeping pills lose their effectiveness within two weeks; then the dose must be increased to have any effect, which starts the path of taking too much.
