July 4 Activities Draw 2,000

40 Units March In Parade

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

A crowd of approximately 2,000 people turned out Saturday morning to make July 4, 1970, one of the most memorable Independence Day celebrations in Deaf Smith County history.

From the mid-morning parade to the afternoon barbecue the July 4 celebration clicked off in perfect style without a problem. Perfect weather prevailed for the entire day as citizens were given the opportunity to celebrate with the rest of the United States, "Honor America Day."

The parade, which consisted of approximately 40 units, ignited the celebration. Led by the American Legion color guard, the parade featured the high school band, members of the Elks organization, the Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis Clubs, the Hereford Riders Club and many more.

An estimated 500 persons joined in "Honor America" Day ceremonies Saturday on the steps of the County Courthouse

shal, said, "It was perfect. We started at exactly 10 a. m. and we even had more units than we had planned on. Right at the last minute, several dropped out of the parade, but even more showed up to take their places."

units wound up in the parade for which only 33 had been anticipated. Late additions were by the Wailing Wives' and Mothers, the Hereford Square Dancers, Beeline Fashions and several others.

Reich said, "The organizations, from what I've heard, were real proud to have been a part of the parade. 'But, we want an even bigger and better parade next year.' Police blocked off several streets for the parade and accofing to officials, "everything went real fine." Some 11 city police officers worked the parade and no incidents were reported.

The parade began at the corner of Sixth St. and traveled down Main St. to Second St. From there the units turned left to Sampson St. where they continued to the west side of the court house then broke up.

The parade finished its round about 10:30 a. m. and a one-hour break was taken before the patriotic program on the courthouse steps was started. Approximately 500 persons attended the patriotic assemblage which featured speeches by Bill Devers, Jim Sears, Mal Manchee, Kevin Young, Dale Young, Noe Salinas, David

Thomas, Pete Nash and Darrell Rose. Following the community program, a barbecue, sponsored by the Shriners, was held at the Bull Barn where approximately 1,000 persons were fed between 12 noon and 2 p. m.

City Praises Freight Line For Progress

Businessmen throughout Hereford expressed satisfaction for the most part this week with the work of the city's only trucking line in improving the freight situation, which earlier this year was considered intolerable.

They praised Merchants Fast Motor Lines, Inc., the only line which has an office here and does local business, for making changes which resulted in considerably faster handling of inbound freight.

Both the local agent and the president of the trucking firm are responsible for the improvement in service, businessmen feel.

The president of the company heard the protests of Hereford businessmen at a March hearing at Graham of the Texas Railroad Commission into trucking lines and went into action.

"He said he would check into the situation immediately and he did," said Bill Lamm, office manager of Pro-Chemical Company in Hereford.

The "situation" Lamm spoke of was habitual complaints of freight shortages, delays in delivery once merchandise had arrived in Hereford, and mix-ups with freight shipped to other local businessmen.

Jim McDowell, at McDowell Drug, said his store at one time was receiving "the invoice for an order of merchandise, then the bill and later on we got our merchandise. That doesn't happen now. Our deliveries have improved greatly."

The local agent "was experienced, but he just had too much to handle. When the president sent in help, everything straightened out. They also took away the Dimmitt freight from the local office. He just didn't have the help and equipment to handle it, too," considering the heavy freight load he was having to handle in Hereford, Lamm said.

Much of the problem in Hereford has been due to the refusal of Red Ball and ICX, which had permits to pick up and deliver freight here, to serve the town's needs.

Since the Railroad Commission allows only three trucking franchises for Hereford, no other companies are allowed to come in and compete for the business. It has resulted in an overload on Merchants.

"This problem isn't affecting only Hereford," said Bill Thompson, manager of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. "ICX and Red Ball are pulling out of all the smaller towns."

"Hereford could use another freight line," Harold Close, owner of a drug store in Sugarland Mall, said. "ICS has a permit here but they only want to use the highway."

Close said most of his intrastate freight "is coming in much faster" now, but he still has considerable problems with merchandise from other states.

There is a possibility the Chamber of Commerce will send a representation back before the Railroad Commission to request a cancellation of the permits of ICX and Red Ball and assignment of the permits to companies which are interested in operating here.

Incoming freight from other states would then be more likely to come into Hereford without a change of trucks. There is little trouble with intrastate freight shipment since

See Hog Feeding As Major Industry

A group of area businessmen—confident that swine production is at the start of a dramatic upsurge in this area similar to that of cattle feeding—purchased an elaborate plant 10 miles northwest of Hereford this week and announced plans to immediately double its size.

The group, headed by Neil Cooper of Hereford, closed the deal Thursday for acquisition of Lesly Swine Breeders, Inc., from Luther Lesly and Sammy Lesly of Hereford for an undisclosed amount.

The swine facility, which consists of 12 barns on a 27-acre tract two and one-half miles north of the Westway community, is known as a disease-free operation because of the strict precautions taken to raise near-perfect animals, free from disease.

Under the new ownership, which has stockholders in Hereford, Dimmitt, Canyon, Amarillo and Plainview, the company will be known as Texham Corporation. Cooper will be president and general manager.

Cooper said that James Burris, plant manager, and the four other workers at the company will keep their jobs. Bruce Winn of Canyon, president of the Panhandle Pork Producers Association, is vice president; Charles Allen, Hereford banker, is treasurer; and Tom Burdett, Hereford attorney, is secretary.

Rising Costs, Wages Put Hospital In $$$ Problem

(Editor's Note: The following is the first of a five-part series on the Deaf Smith County Hospital, its current financial difficulty, the reasons for it, and the alternatives which hospital officials view as possible solutions.)

By CHARLES RICHARDS
News Editor

Late this month the board of the Deaf Smith County Hospital will meet in joint session with the county commissioners and ask for financial help, both immediate and for the long-range future.

Henry Sears Is Ag Man Of Year

—See Story Page 6

T. F. Seigler, hospital administrator, will tell the commissioners:

"Our problem is the same thing every business in town has—an increase in costs."

When the hospital buys groceries, supplies, utilities or new brooms, it finds itself paying about 15 per cent more than it did a year ago.

When any of the kitchen help walk up to the pay window, the check is bigger by 15 cents an hour than it was this time last year. And when the dishwasher and the mail got their raise from $1.30 to $1.45 an hour under federal minimum wage requirements, then the hospital had to grant a similar raise from $1.45 to $1.60 to other workers higher up in skill or experience, to keep from having a morale problem.

The same was true with other employees all the way up the line, in what local hospital officials view as a "monster" of a chain reaction that plays havoc with their attempts to keep the hospital budget in the black.

For the first five months of 1970, the hospital found itself paying $3,700 more for maintenance costs and supplies than for January through May in 1969. The salary expenditures were a whopping $26,000 higher.

Added to those are a five-month loss on charity cases of $56,000 and a sudden, unexpected reversal in a steady demand for the hospital's services that had persisted for a decade.

"The loss of revenue has been the big thing," Seigler said. "People are just not coming to the hospital. Money is tight. People who used to borrow money from the bank to pay their hospital bills can't do it now."

The hospital's patients utilized almost 1,000 fewer patient days this year than one year ago. Using the average income of $55 per patient day, the hospital so far has received some $55,000 less revenue this year than last. The hospital averaged about 55 patients a day last year and about 45 this year so far.

With the main culprit the more than $10,000 a month—or $333 a day—in charity and bad accounts, the hospital has lost in the vicinity of $40,000 for the year.

A reserve fund of $30,000 the hospital had built up in more profitable times—for use in case of emergency—vanished in a hurry. According to Seigler, the hospital probably can continue under the present situation for as long as three or four months and still continue to meet its bills, but not much. See RISING WAGES Page 2

Day Care Center Gains Momentum

By BARBARA SWIMMER
Women's Editor

An undetermined number of children were left alone at home school last year to care for younger brothers or sisters while their mothers worked.

In some instances, small children were left alone at home because the mothers were unable to find baby sitters or could not afford the expense.

Many mothers who needed to work to supplement the family income were unable to do so because they didn't have a baby sitter.

These problems will be alleviated in September when a Day Care Center with facilities for 50 children will become a reality.

The Thompson Memorial Building, located on the corner of Norton and S. Texas, has been acquired from the First Baptist Church, a proposed operating budget has been completed, and plans are underway for a campaign to raise $20,000 for initial operation expense.

Tom Burdett will direct the fund-raising drive, which begins July 13.

Not to be confused with the Satellite School, the Day Care

PLANS CAMPAIGN — Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine, chairwoman of the Day Care Center Task Force, and Tom Burdett, drive chairman, mapped out plans for the upcoming fund-raising drive at a committee meeting Friday evening.

Skypala Sets Goal Of New Members For Lions

By ALESIA RAGSDALE
Staff Writer

Because the Hereford Evening Lions Club is only a year old, its new president has set his sights on a membership drive as his main goal for his term of office.

Ellwood Skypala, who was recently installed as successor to Ray Barber at the helm of the new club, said in planning other activities the club will seek ventures that will require little manpower yet prove valuable to the organization and to the community.

The club probably will sponsor a TV raffle and a garage sale, Skyla said. "The clean-up campaign we launched with painting barrels, we feel, was a success, but I doubt if we will do it again this next year. As for other projects, the board of directors is bouncing them around right now to make their decision as to which ones we will sponsor," said Skypala.

Baylor Sets Yell School

The American Cheerleaders Association will conduct a summer training camp for high school cheerleaders Aug. 9 through 14 on the Baylor University campus at Waco.

The camp, which is designed to train students in all phases of cheerleading, will be under the direction of Bill Horan, the association's director and founder.

Open to junior and senior high school cheerleaders throughout the United States, the training camp will offer training in new routines, formations, starts, jumps and endings, with both classroom work and actual drill in performing.

Rev. Arthur Gouthro

Young Minister Will Discuss Ecumenism

A young visiting minister, with a masters degree in theology, will discuss ecumenism this week on the radio program sponsored by the Hereford Ministerial Association.

Rev. Arthur Gouthro, a native of Nova Scotia, will be interviewed each morning by Rev. Michael Graham, on the program, "The Chapel Door" presented daily at 10:15 a. m.

A graduate of the University of Ottawa, Rev. Gouthro majored in ecumenical studies. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1969 at Graymoor, Garrison, N. Y.

Father Arthur is spending the summer in Hereford, during the absence of Rev. Aedan A. Davis, assistant pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

Celebrating his 25th year as an ordained priest, Father Aedan is taking an extended vacation until mid-August.

"The major problem in ecumenism is a lack of interest of people of all churches in the unity of the Church. I see this as a lack of education," says Father Arthur.

PLANS AUGUST VOWS — Mr. and Mrs. Alvin M. Smith, 422 Western, announce the engagement and plans for an August wedding of their daughter, Nancy Lorraine, to David Wilkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Truett Wilkins of Duncanville, Tex. ## Tax Surcharge Ends; Paychecks Get Bigger Millions of wage and salary earners receive a small increase in take-home pay effective this week.

Employers reduced on Wednesday the tax withheld from pay. The 1969 Tax Reform Act dropped the tax surcharge which has been 3 per cent from Jan. 1, 1970, through June 30, 1970 and each exemption increased from $600 to $650 effective Wednesday.

Is Married At Adrian

Miss Scherrie Ann Beavers became the bride of Derral Ray Ward of Vega in a double ring ceremony solemnized recently in the Adrian home of Mrs. Billie Morell. Vows were read by the Rev. Bob Miller, pastor of the Adrian Baptist Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Beavers of Adrian and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ward of Vega.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white street-length dress with a mantilla veil edged with lace. Her bridal bouquet of gardenias was carried atop a bridal Bible.

Miss Vicki Beavers was her sister's only attendant and Gary Brown of Vega was best man.

A reception honoring the bride and groom was held immediately following the ceremony.

The lace-covered serving table held a 2-tiered wedding cake topped with the traditional bride and groom. Mrs. Elmer Beavers and Mrs. Alvin Ward presided at the table.

The couple are at home in Vega.

The first person to sail around the world alone was Joshua Slocum of New England, who made the trip between 1895 and 1898.

Evelyn Kuper Joins SCS Staff

The Soil Conservation Service office here has employed Evelyn Kuper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kuper, for a summer, College Work-Study program.

Under the program, Miss Kuper provides clerical assistance to the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District as well as to the local SCS office.

The College Work-Study program was originated several years ago to give college-bound students an opportunity to earn money to be used toward their education. The district conservation office pays 30 per cent of the salary of the employee and the Work-Study program pays the balance of the salary.

Miss Kuper will attend West Texas State University as a freshman this fall where she will major in elementary education. She is a 1970 graduate of Hereford High School.

County Bond Sales Stay On Schedule

Residents of Deaf Smith County bought $21,082 in U. S. Savings Bonds during May, according to county bond chairman Jim Sears.

The sales for the month raised the county's bond purchases for the first five months to $46,699 and on schedule with the 1970 goal of $100,000.

Throughout the state, more than $14.5 million in bonds were sold, about $400,000 less than during the same month in 1969.

Food prices rose less than three-fourths as much as all other consumer goods in the past ten years according to the latest reports from the USDA.

MRS. OWEN ANDREWS

Brand Correspondent
Relatives of the W. H. Andrews from Marlow, Oklahoma City, Ft. Worth, Mesquite, Clovis and Texico came to be with the Andrews and attend the funeral for Mrs. Andrews at the First Baptist Church in Hereford on Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boyd of West Plains Mo. were also among those coming. Mrs. Andrews died Tuesday night after several months of illness.

Their daughter, Mrs. Godfrey Baldwin and Randy, have been here a month with them and Godfrey flew here Sunday. They live in Temple Hills, Md. The Andrews' sons live here: Jack and his wife, Anna Ruth, in Hereford, and Ronnie and his wife, Carolyn, in the community.

The family home is about five miles south of Hereford, just off F. M. 1055, having lived at that place since moving into the community in 1946.

Rev. Gil Wendt, of Plainview, conducted services at Frio, June 21, in the absence of the pastor. The Ogans were visiting relatives in South Texas for a few days. Rev. Wendt is a ministerial student at Wayland and was a shipmate of Jackie Andrews when both were in the Navy.

Cheryl Cole left Wednesday for Ridgecrest Baptist Assembly, N. C., where she was to attend Y. W. A. Camp. She joined some people in Amarillo and from there they joined the Texas group before going on to North Carolina.

Visiting the Earnest Harders Sunday night were an aunt, Mrs. Agatha Kreiger, Edgar Kreiger and Mrs. Epp, all of Lawrence, Kan. The Kreigers were on their way to California.

Among community visitors at Frio Church, Sunday, were Rev. and Mrs. Bill Hindmen and son of Lubbock. Mrs. Hindmen is the former Tawana Thompson, who grew up in this community. He is pastor of Monterey Baptist Church, Lubbock.

Visiting the Billy Warricks for a week recently were Mrs.

Warricks' sister, Mrs. Mary Hughes and her three daughters, Rosie, Patsy and Sue (Mrs. Robert Ensley), and the two Ensley sons. Mr. Ensley came and spent a weekend while his family was here. Rosie Hughes completed her college work at Durant, last spring and plans to teach in Maud, Okla. this term. Mrs. Ensley will be a sophomore in the Durant college and Patsy is a high school junior at Durant.

Mrs. Addie Bingham, of Valiant, Okla. is here visiting her children, the Billy Warricks and Ed Bingham, for the summer.

Mike and Rhonda White, Biloxy, Miss. came by bus, Wednesday, to visit their grandmother, Mrs. E. B. Berryman, and the Clark Andrews family.

Mrs. Clark Andrews and Mrs. Earl Harkins accompanied the junior girls, from Frio Baptist Church, to Encampment, at Floydada, Monday through Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Yandell attended a reunion of New Lynn Community residents and former residents, held at Tahoka

The Chandelier Shop Is A Story Itself About The Owner

By PENNY YOUNG
Staff Writer

When you first walk into the Chandelier Shop in Sugarland Mall, you wander through a haven of little house candles, music boxes, figurines, stationary and one or two antiques placed periodically around the store.

shops, and gift shops are just gift shops but the Chandelier Shop is not just a shop. It has a story for each item and portrays the background and life of the owner, Mrs. Jack Renfro.

Five years ago, in 1965, Mrs. Renfro opened the little shop, the largest gift shop in West Texas, in the mall.

"I felt we had a need for it in Hereford. This little shop is just the place for people to lose themselves. Some people can spend all afternoon just walking through the shop. A lot of people bring guests," she said.

An old wardrobe from Spain, which used to grace her ranch home in New Mexico now sits in the back of the shop displaying baby clothes. Most of the items are made in Switzerland or Germany.

Elsewhere are brass bowls and cups from India sitting in the old Credenza which also used to be in her home. A wooden table with a brass tray is by the window. The tray was separated so it could be used for serving.

"Mushrooms are in this year and zodiac. Oh, all my zodiac items. I have cups, stationary, key chains, glasses, notepads, cards, letter sealers and just everything in the zodiac pattern. Look at my little mushroom glasses. Aren't they cute?" she added.

"I go to market each year and the people can't believe that I buy so much of this."

She buys directly from foreign merchants who come to markets in the United States to sell their merchandise.

All of the paper goods in the shop are imported.

One napkin and mat set is made in different countries. The napkins were made in Denmark and the mats in England.

Glass bottles covered with leather are popular for the men and Mrs. Renfro carries decanter sets from different countries. Most of them come from Czechoslovakia.

The old Credenza holds more on display than hardware from India, Oeslau, West Germany, provides the states with little "Hummel" figures—little girls and boys perched on platforms of tree branches, in front of one of Germany's houses, or standing around looking meek. Several of the figures have been carved on candles of pure bee's wax or designed for book ends.

"They look cute just sitting there even if you don't have any books to put between them," Mrs. Renfro said.

The most interesting item was a hand-woven blanket, 100 per cent virgin wool, made in Houston. Each thread is individually woven by one of the three weavers in Texas.

"They are so proud of their work," she said holding the soft blanket in her hands and examining each thread.

"They each sign their name to the blanket that they make. Did you know that these blankets are the only kind used in the White House now? Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis chose them over any imported ones."

Close to the back of the store is a shelf which holds any fragrance of room spray that can be imagined. Even the smell of cake in the oven comes in a can, along with others such as cinnamon, apple, cherry, lemon, and strawberry.

"We carry a lot of baskets," she said. "These baskets were made in Poland and Portugal. Aren't they darling? And look at all this intricate work. And they really aren't that expensive. They just look it."

A small Spanish antique table displays a Spanish hand-carved candle and lamp near the front of the store.

Satin pictures surrounded in velvet or suede decorate the wall, setting off the larger portraits.

She carries plastic place mats that look like linen, mats with daisies, mats with checks and mats with mushrooms; napkins, cups with coke, seven-up and mushroom designs, cups with zodiac designs, miniature flower arrangements, brass bowls (antique) from China with the original markings on back, letter openers, antique books travel accessories and travel bags complete with all the necessary travel items, jewelry cases which can be taken apart in order to carry your more expensive things with you, and puzzles of all types.

Securities Board Begins Inquiry On Zira Corp.

The State Securities Board is seeking information on any attempts to sell Hereford area residents shares of stock in a firm known as the Zira corporation.

Bill Thompson, manager of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, called the Lubbock Better Business about the firm after he was asked by a local citizen about the company's reputation.

He subsequently received a letter from Kenneth Hooper, a securities investigator for the State Securities Board, who said the state currently "is making an inquiry into the sale of Zira Corporation stock."

Hooper asked for names and addresses of persons who have purchased this stock or who have had it offered to them for sale.

Hooper said he also wants details about the operation of the company and its promoters. Thompson requested that anyone with such information contact him at the local Chamber of Commerce office.

To flour a greased baking pan, shake a spoonful of flour around in the pan until it is evenly coated. Remove the excess flour by gently tapping the inverted pan.

them for the 25th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Renfro also carries little hand-carved German birthday candles, which she says some people drive miles to buy.

Another unusual item is a holders for baby bottles, fully equipped with a music box which plays a lullaby.

"We also carry unusual things like a sixpence from England covered with a lace hart. This is to give to the bride."

Sparkling gold evening purses are displayed on one shelf, along with pill boxes in the shapes of birds; perfumes from New York; sachets; and a very large model of the U. S. Frigate (1776).

"There is not another one of these ships in West Texas," she said.

In the music boxes, there are ones from Switzerland, Germany, and Czechoslovakia. There is a beer mug that plays "How Dry I Am," Snoopy and his doghouse (all decked out for flying) playing "Fly Me To The inside. When the cage is wound up, the birds sing continuously. When it is set on intermission, the birds talk to each other and move their tails in acknowledgment.

Of all her businesses, Mrs. Renfro admits this is her smallest one.

"I love this, though. It's part of me. It doesn't really make as much money as my other businesses do but I didn't put it in here for that. I put it in because I love working with and collecting these types of things."

Lubbock Duo Takes Golf Championship

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

The Lubbock combination of Randall Rieger and L. D. Clopton combined for a sizzling 17-under-par 123 to win the annual Hereford Partnership Golf Tournament Saturday and Sunday.

Rieger and Clopton finished eight strokes ahead of second place finishers Mack and Dick Tubb, in the championship flight.

Rieger had a two-day total of 61 (nine under par), and Clopton had a two-day total of 62 (eight under par).

A record crowd of 140 golfers participated in the tournament, making the first place prize soar to $200 in the championship and first flights. The other flights awarded $120 for first place finishers.

Ken Hicks and David McCaskill tied at 134 with Gano Tubb and Joe Tubb for honors in the first flight while Gracy Cappu and Herman Thomas tied with Ted Willock and B. M. Silvers at 137 in the second flight.

In the third flight, Gary Stagner and Barry Arnwine combined for a one-over-par 141 to win the third flight and Mike and Ray Don King paired for five-over-par 145 to take the fourth flight.

USDA Gives Soybean Price Support Rate

The U. S. Department of Agriculture Wednesday announced county price-support rates for the 1970 soybean crop.

Rates for the counties reflect the national average support price of $2.25 per bushel, No. 1 grade, for 1970-crop soybeans which was announced February 5, 1970, unchanged from last year's rate.

Most of the county rates are unchanged from the 1969 rates. In a few areas adjustments have been made to reflect changes in the competitive market situation.

Because of new mills and strong market prices, many counties in Georgia, Florida, and Alabama were increased from one to three cents.

A few counties in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area of Minnesota were increased by one cent because of their location with respect to water transportation. Some counties in the central and eastern part of Illinois were lowered by one cent to make them more comparable with adjacent areas.

The premium and discount schedule is unchanged from that used in the 1969 crop program.

The national average loan level of $2.25 per bushel is for soybeans containing 12.8 to 13 per cent moisture an grading not lower than No. 2 on the factors of test weight, splits, and heat damage, and No. 1 on all other factors.

County rates are being sent to State ASCS offices in States where soybeans are produced, or they can be obtained from the Oilseeds and Special Crops Division, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 20250.

Agriculture is the nation's biggest single industry. It employs more people than the utilities, transportation, and the steel and auto industries combined.

The farm value for all the ingredients in a loaf of bread is exactly the same today as it was in 1950 — 3.3 cents.

Feedyards Mean Business

Computers Beef Up Cattle

In the thriving Texas Panhandle town of Hereford, cattlemen do things in a big way. Not because it's the fashionable thing to do, but for a much more important reason — survival.

From the time a calf is born until he's sold, the animal is a liability, costing the rancher money every minute. So the quicker an animal is fattened, the quicker he can be sold and the quicker the rancher gets his money back plus a profit.

It's a big cycle. And, in today's competitive market, the cycle probably could never be successfully completed without the help of two basic ingredients — the computer and the telephone.

Started Last Year
It all started last year when Dick Moore, Amarillo data marketing manager, and a representative of the Agricultural Computing Company (ACC) in Amarillo visited with the managers of the Hereford feedyards. They showed them how the computer could improve the efficiency of their operation, yielding greater profits.

Today, one year later, 10 feedyards subscribe to ACC's service.

Gain Weight
Each feedyard, like the Tex-sun Feedyard, Inc., has a computer terminal located in its office. The terminal equipment gives the feedyard direct access to the Amarillo computer. Various data is fed daily from the Hereford feedyard to the computer in Amarillo.

"As a result," said Wayne

Barber, Texas manager, "We have an up-to-the minute report on how the cattle are doing. Their owners send them to our lots to gain weight, and we think this quick access to the information is helping us do our job."

When Barber speaks about information, he's talking about the complete story of any one of the more than 100 pens in the feedyards. Was pen 17 fed today? Was the correct ration fed to lot 64? How much weight have the cattle in lot 33 gained? How much did they gain last month? How much is it costing to feed them? The computer terminal is not the only sign that the cattle industry is with it. For instance, don't expect to find a cowboy's bunk house around. Texas's office stands 1600 square feet, air-conditioned and carpeted. There are no rifles or cowboy hats hanging on racks, either. Instead, teletype machines, typewriters, and Touch-Tone telephones decorate the office.

Big Business
Feedyards are big business. The Texas plant investment is around $750,000. Six million more dollars in cattle and feed cross their scales in a year's time.

"We can feed more cattle per square foot than a rancher can on comparable acreage," Barber said. "Here at Texasun, we can handle 15,000 cattle on 90 acres. When an owner makes a sale, we can weigh 50 head, put them on the truck, and have the bill of sale ready in 20 minutes. On a ranch, this would take the better part of a day."

Even the nutritionists use computers to determine the fatness formula. "The object, Barber said, "is to put the most weight on 'em for the least cost. That's what it's all about."

STARS AS MURDERER
LONDON — British actor-director Richard Attenborough who made the successful "Oh what a Lovely War," is to star as the murderer John Christie in a new movie called "10 Rillington Place."

The title is the London address where police unearthed bodies in the garden and hidden in walls in one of Britain's most macabre mass murders in the 1940's.

Farm Industry Will Continue To Show Gains

Cash receipts from agricultural products on the South Plains of Texas are expected to total $525,306,000 by the end of 1976 with the present pace of the agricultural industry plus some innovations along the way.

"This would mean a boost in the area's agricultural income of some $126,463,000 over the next six years," points out Marvin Sartin, area farm management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. These projections were made recently in conjunction with a statewide program designed to increase Texas' present agricultural income of $2.75 billion by $1 billion by 1976. Launched by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the massive program is appropriately titled, "3.76 in '76."

Estimates of farm incomes from each commodity produced in each of the 20 South Plains counties were prepared jointly by county agricultural agents and county program building committees," explains Sartin. "The South Plains Development (SPD) program will play a key role in helping the South Plains area carry its share of the load in this statewide effort," points out Billy C. Gunter, Extension district agricultural agent. "Since it is designed to boost the overall economy of the area through maximum as well as efficient utilization of human and natural resources, SPD will be a driving force to meet the goal of '3.76 in '76'."

"The South Plains area is proud to be participating in a program of this magnitude," adds the district agent. "It should provide the incentive for everyone in the area engaged in the agricultural industry to 'put his best foot forward' to accomplish the state's objective."

"Looking at the area picture as far as crops are concerned, cotton leads the list with a projected increase of $38.64 million during the next six years," says Sartin. "With this 23 percent addition to present cash receipts, cotton income will total $179,186,000 and will continue to account for more than 50 percent of the total income from crops in the area."

Grain sorghum, the other major cash crop for the area, is also expected to show a substantial increase in cash receipts—$21,375,000. Projected 1976 cash receipts total $116,845,000 and account for almost 33 percent of the total crop income, the same as at present.

Total cash receipts from all crops on the South Plains now total about $290,000,000. These are expected to increase by $65,735,000 by the target date.

Returns from Livestock
"The overall livestock industry on the South Plains is really expected to boom," contends the specialist. "The present picture shows total income to be $108,626,000. This is expected to increase by $60,568,000 in the next six years."

Income from fed beef is projected to lead the way with an increase of $39,501,000 from the present total of $52,519,000. This means that fed beef will account for more than 54 percent of the total cash receipts from livestock by the end of 1976, a six percent increase from the 1968-69 average.

Hogs are expected to bring in cash receipts of $20,515,000 by the target date, up $8,278,000.

The projected agricultural income for Bailey County tops the list with regards to the total estimated increases of $126,463,000 for the South Plains. It boasts a projected increase of $19,188,000 with Hale County ranking second with an increase of $18,651,000.

Among other counties in the area that are expected to add substantially to the overall agricultural income picture are Floyd, $10,755,000; Lamb, $10,714,000; Swisher, $10,272,000; Gaines, $8,418,000; Crosby, $8,350,000; Dawson, $7,829,000; Lubbock, $6,828,000; and Hockley, $5,384,000.

Marketing is Key
"Marketing will be the key to all future growth in Texas agriculture," adds Sartin. "Markets for Texas food and fiber products must be strengthened and improved if the state's agricultural income program is to be a success."

Production guidelines for each agricultural commodity will be prepared by the Extension Service based on the latest research information available for increasing production and marketing efficiency. Other agricultural agencies and organizations throughout the state will also be involved in this total effort.

Church Members Seek Housing For Delegates

Hereford's congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses recently attended a special meeting in Amarillo of 400 members of the Watchtower Society, launching a huge housing project preparatory to the "Men of Goodwill" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses, July 23-26, in the Amarillo Civic Center.

Over 6,500 are expected for the four days. In order to care for their needs it will take a great deal of arranging. The purpose of the meeting was to organize the Witnesses' efforts to find accommodations for the visiting delegates," said Chester Proctor, presiding minister of the Hereford congregation. Proctor said car pools will be formed here to transport volunteer workers to Amarillo for those having time available to join with the five congregations in Amarillo in a housing program.

A full-time staff of helpers are already active with expectations for the number of volunteers to grow to more than 1,000 workers as the convention opens.

At the meeting held in Stephen F. Austin Junior High School, Mr. Robert White, circuit supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses, outlined the procedure to be followed by Jehovah's Witnesses, who will assist him in a four-week search for rooms for delegates.

White informed the audience that it isn't an easy job. Arrangements have been made to call on all the motels and hotels in Amarillo to reserve the accommodations. But also a house to house search will be made to supplement the commercial facilities.

Explaining the problem for them, White said, "There are so many things to be considered and each individual application for accommodations presents a particular need and special problem."

Thousands of family groups are expected to attend with room requests already received

Rotary Installs McDowell As New President

The Hereford Rotary Club installed Jim McDowell Tuesday night as its president for the next year.

McDowell, who has been a Rotarian in Hereford for six years, following his graduation from college, received the president's gavel from outgoing president Charles Frye.

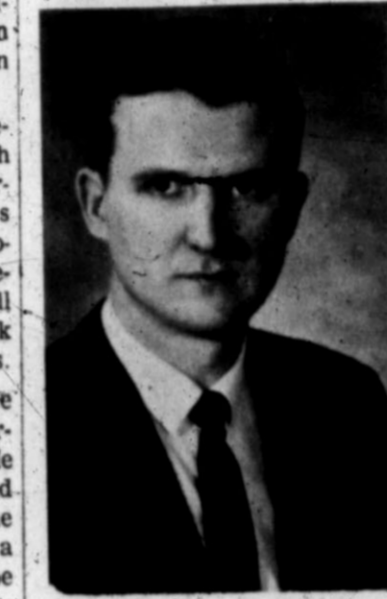

Other officers installed were Ken Rogers, vice president; Myron Morgan, secretary; Jack Wilcox, treasurer; and Marc Hoelscher, Wes Gully and Don Martin, directors.

Following the installation, Frye presented perfect attendance pins to Earl Phillips for 23 years, Myron Morgan for 12 years and Gwen Owen for 1 year.

The members presented a plaque to Frye in appreciation for his term of leadership.

McDowell announced his intention to pursue an expanded Rotary chapter in Hereford.

"I feel we have something to offer a new member,"

Jim McDowell

from a 10-state area.

Jehovah's Witnesses are noted for their active door-to-door preaching activities following the manner of the Founder of Christianity, Jesus Christ, who visited the people at their homes to talk with them about God.

A 100-Mile Trip-12,000 Years Through Time

By SUE COLEMAN
Going back in time 12,000 years by going in distance less than a hundred miles from Hereford is no trick at all, if your trip is to the Alibates Flint Quarry, only national monument in the Panhandle.

Only this spring has the spot been opened to the public, with weekend tours under guidance of the National Park Service Archaeologists, geologists and people interested in Indian history have known about it and been visiting it since early in this century.

Since Lake Meredith was formed by damming the Canadian River, the historic quarry is on the edge of the lake, and you can hold in your hand a piece of history dated circa 110,000 B. C. while you watch boats and fishermen in a recreation area.

You can, that is, if you are willing to walk a half-mile over rocky ground that slants up sharply to the high bluff where indentations in the ground denote location of the pre-historic quarries form which long-extinct Indian tribes took flint, make arrowheads and spears for killing the mammoth and bison of that era.

Three of us were willing last Sunday and found it a very pleasant one-day vacation of the sort we like to take in various directions from Hereford.

Mrs. Sue James arranged our excursion, writing in advance to the National Park Service representatives at Sanford who schedule the hiking trips into the national monument each Saturday and Sunday mornings.

She invited Mrs. Lee Benefield and me to go along, so we dug out our walking shoes and got together picnic lunches to make a day of it, regretting that two other friends, who enjoy the same sort of near-home traveling were unable to go that day.

The drive is made up of State Highway 136 north from Amarillo, toward Fritch. Before you reach that lake resort town, you turn off left into the Alibates area at a well-marked entrance and follow the pavement to the lakeside.

There the touring party is formed, with a couple of park service rangers and not more than 15 persons in a group. Our appointed time was 10:30 a. m. and we found Rangers Ronald Ece and Edwin Day waiting for us. We followed their jeep back a short way on the pavement, then across the pasture, winding and climbing in the rough land near the lake.

About four miles of driving, and we left the car for the last half-mile afoot. Instructed to wear stout shoes or boots, we were prepared for the climb. Kathryn Benefield in smart brown leather shoes, Sue James in trim off-white ties and I in beat-up but very comfortable oxfords.

We were dressed for the sun, in long-sleeved blouses and shady straw hats thoughtfully provided by Kathryn who loaned us some from a collection she gathered on a trip to the West Indies several years ago. The gay type that make climbing easier.

Visitors are asked firmly not to take rocks from the quarry area for souvenirs. But one may pick them up to see closely the many hues and patterns of the flint which was so well liked by Indians from pre-historic times to the quarries for hundreds of miles.

Among fascinating bits of history you learn at Alibates, is that the arrowhead-makers apparently liked the Canadian Valley flint for its red color. There is a wide range of shades from yellow and orange through light and dark reds, brown, rose and pink, into purple and lavender tints.

Also the flint is found in all shades of gray from pearly white to black and some blue and green. It is on the surface of the ground, mixed with other types of rock including the sparkling crystals of quartz to make a display interesting even to a person who knows nothing about rocks—like me. The quarries are not deep, we learned, as good veins of flint are found only two and three feet below ground level. The layers that jut out above the earth were not used for the weapons and tools of the Indians because those rocks have been damaged by weathering.

Also, many of the pieces of flint on the surface "are rejects," pieces deemed not perfect for the Indians' use and tossed aside after they had been split.

We were told that large pieces chipped off in the first steps of shaping tools or weapons had been left at the quarry site, while small chips of flint, such as result from the final shaping and sharpening of the implements, were found on an opposite bluff across the creek, where signs of Indian camp sites had been discovered.

Apparently the Indians did their preliminary work where they dug the rock, then took the crude implements back to the campsite for finishing.

Another piece of information that was new to me was supplied by Sue James, the Panhandle history hobbyist, who said the quarry site is named for Allie Bates, a cowboy who discovered it. That greatly pleased me, since such places are so often named for scientists who come later and take the glory from the native sons.

Ranger Day, who makes arrowheads as a hobby, completed our tour by showing us how the Indians made them, with a flat rock, a round quartz stone and dried antelope horns for tools. He chipped out a neat arrowhead in a short time, but said it still needed a lot of polishing before it was taken on a hunt.

After the quarry tour, Sue drove to the nearby McBride picnic area which is not located on the lakeside, but on a nice sandy creek that runs into the lake.

Huge cottonwood trees and nearly as big chinaberry and hackberry trees, many with mustang grapevines climbing to the top, shade the picnic tables. There are also grills which we didn't use for our delicious ready-made lunch.

On the way back to the highway we stopped for a better look at the old McBride Ranch home, its rock walls standing sturdily beside the road but fenced by the Park Service until it can perhaps be restored in the future.

With our usual dislike of direct routes for Sunday rides, we went on up Highway 136 to Sanford and the dam, then straight south through Borger, Panhandle and Claude, out Highway 27 toward Silverton so we could drive again across Palo Duro Canyon on that road.

We agreed that it looks different every time you cross it, and its red bluffs and hills, reminding Kathryn of her former Oklahoma home, presented another picture with clouds floating over. Instead of going to Silverton, we turned west again on the farm road via Wayside and back to Highway 87 into Canyon, and so home.

Pierson Serves As Missionary In Jamaica

Billy Pierson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Pierson of Hereford, is serving as a missionary intern in Jamaica until Aug. 5. He flew to Jamaica on June 5, and is working with Assemblies of God missionaries in Spanish Town and Kingston.

In order to qualify for the missionary intern program, Pierson had to obtain recommendation from his college professors as well as from the Assembly of God Church and its pastor, Rev. Homer T. Goodwin. Since his graduation from Hereford High School in 1968, Pierson has been attending Southwestern Assemblies of God College at Waxahatchie, where he will resume his ministerial studies in the fall.

Experts Attack Reading Problem

Experts in the field of language development will conduct a month-long institute at Texas Tech this summer for children with speech, hearing and language problems.

The pilot program will begin July 12 and continue through Aug. 15. Dr. James Yate, director of the Speech and Hearing Clinics at Texas Tech, said the program will be open to children between the ages of 6 and 14.

The State Health Department has given a grant to partially finance the program. As many as 30 children are expected to participate.

The program will provide four therapy sessions daily, Monday through Friday and will include a comprehensive recreation plan aimed at language development. The children will be housed in the Wiggins Dormitory Complex on the campus and qualified therapists will serve as supervisors of the enrollees while they are in the dormitory.

'Adding Years To Life And Life To Years'

The Sunday Brand

Hereford, Texas, Sunday, July 5, 1970

SECTION TWO

By BARBARA SWIMMER
Women's Editor

"Adding years to life and life to years" of the residents of King's Manor Retirement Center and Westgate Nursing Home was a dream "invisioned" years ago by the late Don R. Davidson, who was then Executive Director of the Methodist Home. Although Dr. Davidson did not live to see his dream a reality, he began the initial footwork of forming an auxiliary for the home, just a few months before his death.

Today, 43 women make up the King's Manor Auxiliary to enhance the lives of the residents of the home. They are church women of all denominations who listen and heed the needs of the senior citizens. They create opportunities for service to the aging, provide information on the problems of aging, and live up to the home's slogan, "Adding years to life and life to years."

They are women who write letters for those who have become too palsied to hold a pencil or whose eyes will not permit them to see what they have written.

They are women who take the stereo and "talking books" and play them for the residents who desire it.

They are women who furnish transportation to town for the residents and conduct arts and crafts classes.

The retirement center called King's Manor consists of a nursing facility, known as Westgate, the retirement home known as "The Manor," and six duplexes known as Cottage Row. All of these are on an 11-acre campus in the west part of Hereford, across the street from Northwest Elementary School. Approximately 100 persons live there.

It is owned and operated by a board of trustees for the First United Methodist Church. The residents, however, are not all Methodists. There are members of many churches — Baptist, Catholic, First Christian, Church of Christ, Presbyterian. The center accepts residents of all faiths, creeds and color.

The minimum age for residents at The Manor is 65. Several of them are in their 90s and are still going strong. There is no minimum age limit at Westgate. It is available to any one who needs nursing care.

The home has what it considers a very good staff, although they are unable to supply all the "extras" considered helpful to people in their care.

The dream of Brother Don, as he was called by those who knew him, began to formulate in the spring of 1969. He called a group of women together from all denominations—those he thought would be interested in helping the senior citizens. This group met several times and formed committees to plan the organization. The committees interviewed persons at the home to determine their needs, then began plans for orientation meetings.

Dr. Davidson died last July and on Oct. 28 came the first of three orientation meetings.

Mrs. Swain Burkett of Dimmitt, chairman of the Health and Activities Committee started by Dr. Davidson, explained the areas of service the auxiliary would be working in. They included patient aid, transportation, social activities, arts, crafts, with possible receptionist relief and, occasionally, office work.

Manson Waits, administrator, gave a rundown on the campus and Mrs. Deke Kendrick, who filled in as executive director following Dr. Davidson's death, gave a brief history of the home.

At the second orientation meeting in November, officers to lead the group were elected. Mrs. Hilton Higgins was chosen as president, Mrs. Clark Andrews as vice president; Mrs. Jim Perrin as secretary, and Mrs. Ray Carille as treasurer.

Committees for various projects were appointed, and soon the Auxiliary was in full swing. Membership is open to all women who are interested in the health and welfare of the aging and who will abide by the objectives of the Auxiliary.

Charter members in the organization are Mmes. Clark Andrews, Ronnie Andrews, Ray Carille, Nina Collins, Don R. Davidson, W. L. Davis Jr., C.T. Douglas, J. J. Durham, R. C. Godwin, Earl Harkins, V. O. Hennen, Hilton Higgins, D. C. Kinsey, Don Martin, J.H. McCrary, Claude McGowan, Rudy Metz, A. T. Mims, G. W. Newson, T. J. Parsons, Margaret Shown, Keith Simmer, Robert Strain, S. S. Williams, C. P. Worthan and Willard Stewart, all of Hereford.

Also Mmes. Bill Burnam, H. R. Cocanougher and J. T. Gee, Friona; Mmes. Leland Burns, Edger Jacobson, N.L. Jacobson, H. K. Kendrick, Jim Perrin and Don Travis, all of Adrian; Mmes. Swain Burkett, Jim Cleavinger and M. E. Cleavinger, all of Dimmitt; Mrs. Walter Cranmer and Mrs. Cecil Matthews of Canyon; Mrs. Leroy Edwards and Mrs. L. C. Roots, Summerfield; and Mrs. Homer Ehresman of Glenrio, N. M.

TRIPS TO TOWN are furnished by Auxiliary members when needed by the residents. Mrs. J. C. McCracken, chairman of the transportation committee, was chauffeur Wednesday for Mrs. Mollie Grant. Nurse Phyllis Donham helps her into the car.

COFFEE BREAK — Mrs. Don T. Martin, publicity chairman for the auxiliary, takes time out to enjoy a cup of coffee with Will Harris.

ARTS AND CRAFTS ACTIVITIES — Mrs. H. R. "Cap" Cocanougher, auxiliary member from Friona, assists residents in making paper flowers. The bouquet made is on display at Westgate. Mrs. Cocanougher is chairman of the arts and crafts committee. Mrs. W. A. Campbell, left, and Mrs. Lillie E. Worthan look on.

A dapper gentleman will be in this area sometime this week perching in tree-tops, hanging from cliffs and grinding away with a big movie camera at the surrounding scenery.

He is Immanuel Olshan, a prominent Houston businessman and camera bug who has volunteered to produce at no cost an extensive color travelogue film depicting the "Ten Trails of Texas". He is making the movie under the auspices of the Texas Tourist Development Agency and the travel development division of the Texas Highway Department.

He will be in this area this week some time to film scenes which will be part of a tourist travelogue movie of the TEXAS PLAINS TRAIL.

Olshan is president of Olshan Enterprises of Houston, which includes an eight-acre lumber company, a demolishing company and a house moving company. He is also widely known as a world-traveler, and his hobby for many years has been producing travel films for showing before civic groups and social clubs.

Olshan said production of the entire film will require about one and one-half years to complete. He will travel about 20,000 miles, in every corner of the state, in order to film all the trails.

The "Ten Texas Trails" have been plotted so as to get the motorist off the expressways and throughways and onto the little-traveled hard-surfaced roads, where he can appreciate the "real" Texas.

Special care was taken to include areas that also can offer unique, entertainment and food, cultural, historical and beauty attractions and convenient accommodations.

Routes were programmed over existing hard-surfaced roads, primarily farm-to-market and state highways. Easy-to-follow blue and white signs have been erected along the trails. Brochures containing maps and descriptions of attractions on the tourways are available. The tourways extend over 6,200 miles, slicing across 182 of the state's 254 counties. Averaging 600 miles in length, each trail has a special historic flavor and personality. The trails are The Tropical Trail, covering Padre Island and the Rio Grande Valley; The Forest Trail (East Texas); The Lakes Trail (Central Texas); The Mountain Trail (which includes Big Bend National Park); The Forts Trail; The Independence Trail; The Plains Trail; The Brazos Trail; The Pecos Trail; and The Hill Country Trail.

Women Say Yes, Men No To Equal Rights For Women

By PENNY YOUNG
Staff Writer

Certain jobs or advancements are not for the lace-collar workers, no matter what her qualifications.

This seems to be the tone of most rales over the country and a phrase that has really hit home on the part of the female worker.

The reply by women over the nation to this come back positive. "We can hold a top executive job as well as any and we don't want to be discriminated against."

How do Hereford women feel about this situation?

I talked to a small group of women in different walks of life, and generally they told me, "Give me the pay for what I'm worth and don't let my sex stand in the way."

"My question — and — answer period revealed varied opinions. "How do you feel about the rising women's liberation movement?" I asked.

"I really don't have an answer — for you, I'm a type of person who sticks to one job," said one sales lady.

"I agree with some of their points," added a lady supermarket cashier.

"Don't know exactly, but they have some good points," commented another saleslady.

"I personally think it's about time, that women took a stand," said one bank worker defensively.

"I think they may be carrying it too far, but I do agree to a point," added another worker from the bank.

"If a woman is going to be completely liberated, she must have the caliber to go on. She definitely can't be a clinging vine."

One lady-on-the-street — a mother, housewife and worker — said, "I do think we should get higher pay according to our capabilities and not to our sex. Of course, there are a lot of points that I don't agree with."

Okay, I continued, how do you feel about men getting more pay and promotions over women with equal experience and capabilities?

"I noticed at first that you didn't mention capabilities," one banker retorted. "That's the most important. If a man and woman are up for a job it should depend on who is the most capable."

"Yes, I feel like I'm worth more than I'm being paid," one saleslady said in answer to another question. "We can do anything they can do if not better."

"We have to work just as hard as a man in the same position and we sure should get paid as much."

"I don't think so," disagreed one saleslady. "I think a woman's place is in her home and she should naturally get lower pay because she's not the breadwinner."

"That happened in the dark ages," protested another. "That just goes to show you how behind we are. We have to get modernized. Women pay taxes just like men."

"If she's smart enough, she should be there and there are quite a few women who have what it takes to get there. That includes any field they want to enter."

"That is ridiculous, in this day and time, it takes two to make a living and the woman needs experience in case she doesn't always have the man to lean on."

"I think if they are the provider, they should be given chance, but I also think a wife's place is in her home and she should let the husband do the hard work."

"And how would they feel about a woman politician?"

"They are sneaky and devious enough," laughed one girl.

"No, I don't think that would be right," commented another. "They aren't physically made for the job. Especially president or governor. Just look how old these men look when they come out of these positions."

Most of the women agreed that they wouldn't vote for a woman candidate for a political position.

But what if they become lawyers and decide to further their careers by running for city councilman?

"Oh, they make fine lawyers, but I mean higher in politics," commented one.

"I don't know anything about politics," commented one.

"Sure, let them run. It couldn't hurt. Frankly, I don't think that they could make any bigger of a mess than has already been made."

"I think they would let their emotions over-power their job."

"But a woman who has completely forgotten emotion and has completely dedicated herself to her career could probably do good, don't you think?"

"I think we ought to have some women who would dedicate themselves to politics. I think we would solve the problems then. A woman can discuss easier than a man because she doesn't get her pride hurt as often."

Then what about women as doctors I asked.

"Oh, they make fine doctors. I enjoy going to a woman doctor."

"They make fine barbers too," threw in one man sitting on the sidelines.

Should the man complain when the woman brings home the bigger salary?

"I don't think so. I think they should be glad that it's coming in," one woman said.

"Oh, no," added another. "It makes them feel bad. Makes them feel inferior to the women."

That's a perfect answer to introduce my next question, I said. Do you think men consider women inferior beings?

Agriculture is a $50 billion customer in the American economy. Farmers annually buy tractors, machinery and equipment containing 6.5 million tons of steel; more petroleum than any other single industry; and more electricity than all the people and industries in Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Baltimore and Washington, D. C., combined.

Definitely, they don't think we should be at the top."

"No, I think they just have respect for us."

"We're pampered, that's what it is. In other countries women exercise during the time we call our coffeekicks. I sure wouldn't want that, I enjoy my coffeekick. But, no, I don't think they really think we're inferior."

One man turned around when he was asked the question, and said "I do."

If a woman receives equal pay and equal rights, should she then open the door if she gets there first, I asked.

"What do you mean?" questioned one cashier. "Do you mean that the men shouldn't open the door for the ladies any more? Oh, I think they should. It's just out of respect. My husband still opens the door for me. I wouldn't change that."

"Manners have gone out. In New York City, a man will not get up from his seat on a crowded bus and offer it to a woman. It's who gets there first."

But, don't you think maybe we should show a little respect for the men and open their doors, they were asked.

"Oh, I think they would feel funny. They like doing that. I don't think that should change."

The women here have definite feelings about women being restricted from public places such as bars in Greenwich Village which wouldn't allow women to enter until a recent court order forced it to.

"That's not fair. We can go anywhere we want to," one woman said.

"Frankly," said another, "men can do this if they want to, I don't care. I'd like to take them all and lock them up and forget it."

Well, don't women have places to go that they don't want men? But, that's right, a public place shouldn't be restricted.

As expected, Hereford men had slightly different views on questions. Even if women are ready to break out of the protective shell that has been spun around them for so long, many men apparently aren't willing to let them go.

"I don't think that they are discriminated against in reality," commented one staunch protester.

"I've seen too many women in high positions, who tend to want some man to help them make decisions instead of using their own ingenuity. This is because they are used to being bossed," added another man.

"I'm for the women's equal rights movement, all right," quipped one man. "I think women have had the upper hand too long."

And then there was a recent report about the old man sitting on the corner who was approached by a reporter. "What do you think of the Women's Liberation Movement sir?" he was asked.

"I think," said the old man turning his head casually to spit on the sidewalk, "that there are too many women thinking."

Waving Flag Isn't Enough

In Dallas, Texas, a 21-year-old Tufts University pre-law student has filed a complaint against a major bank for using the American flag in advertising promotions, citing an untested 1917 Texas statute which prohibits use of the flag in advertising. He filed the complaint after another student had been assessed a four-year prison sentence for burning an American flag.

In the little South Plains city of Lorenzo, the flag will be waving every day beginning Saturday, July 4th as a gesture of respect for the national emblem. The citizens of Lorenzo feel that every day should be flag day and they intend to keep Old Glory waving so there will be no doubt how flag and country stand in the heart of the citizens.

Flag waving is a time-honored tradition and we hope that it will remain so throughout the history of this great nation. Whenever the people lose respect for the flag and that which it symbolizes, then this great republic will soon cease to function.

However, just waving the flag is not enough and the sooner we realize that the strength of America does not come from flag waving but from the deeds of the 200 million work-a-day citizens who make up the bulk of our population.

Certainly, it makes our blood boil to see disrespect shown for the national emblem, but we realize that there is only a small minority of "kooks" who are obviously dedicated to the eventual destruction of the nation and who are

Too Many Rap Browns, Not Enough Roy Wilkins

NAACP leader Roy Wilkins, in his appearance before the 61st annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, has begged militants within the black minority to "cool it," urging that they work within the bi-racial effort by employing reason and logic to support their cause rather than violence.

Wilkins, the champion of equal rights for the black people of this nation, has consistently insisted that his people would benefit more from the peaceful approach to integration and that it will come about faster without violence than with it. Certainly, we believe the majority of the black people agree with Mr. Wilkins.

However, whenever an effort as momentous as the civil rights movement gathers steam, it also picks up the usual number of rabble rousers along the way. Some, interested only in the thrill of the thing, are usually the pawns for those who have ulterior motives. There's always the few hardcore communists whose purpose is obviously the overthrow of the government, and then there are some who see the opportunity to make a fast buck from the plight of their fellow man.

With all of these around, it takes a lot of work from a lot of level-headed people like Roy Wilkins to keep the movement on the track, and eventually help the minority groups. And it may take many "Roy Wilkins" to overcome the stigma of one "Ray Brown."

making a show of flag burning, draft card burning, etc. Many of these will end up in the penal institutions of the country, or more likely, take a thrashing at the hands of some farm boy who has gotten fed-up with the malarkey and eventually see the error of their way. And although we commend the good citizens of Lorenzo and all others who take the time and trouble to honor the flag, we would encourage these people to give more than "lip-service" to their country, their community and their fellow man by taking an active interest in local government.

The involvement of a majority of the citizens in the affairs of the community is the attribute that has made this nation great. When apathy takes over and we no longer take an active interest in our local government, in our churches and our civic and service organizations, then all the flag-waving in the world won't save us.

Drugs In Britain

Though Home Secretary James Callaghan has been moving under considerable pressure to toughen up laws regarding illegal use of drugs, Britain might do well for now to be thankful for the problem it has.

The British policy of giving free and legal heroin to addicts, in effect for nearly 50 years, is an obvious example. An alarming recent increase in the number of heroin addicts in Britain, particularly younger ones, as well as growing world-wide concern about the illegal uses of drugs, has led to demands for extensive modification or abolition of the program. Such a reaction is understandable enough.

The existence of a growing number of drug addicts is a symptom of social pathology which seems to cry out for action, if for no other reason than to express official disapproval. And the policy does stand in direct contrast to today's international tendency to classify illegal drugs as a "law and order" issue.

But if Britain today seems to have a narcotics problem (the number of heroin addicts, in fact, is still only about 2,500, compared with at least 100,000 in New York City alone, despite the world's toughest narcotics control efforts) an attempt to solve it by "getting tough" is likely, judging from American experience, to create at least three worse ones:

A rich bonanza for organized crime in the form of a much more lucrative black market for illegal drugs. — A deadly "crime in the streets" outbreak as addicts seek money to pay for black market drugs. — A major public health problem as a result of the use of impure drugs under conditions which lead to other complications.

Mr. Callahan's Misuse of Drugs Bill brings the British approach to "soft" drugs into line with present North American practice (lesser penalties for use but stiffer penalties for trafficking) but makes only minor modifications to the approach to hard narcotics. Hopefully, this policy will be maintained. If the idea of handing out free heroin to addicts is no answer to the narcotics problem, its social effects, at least, have been less harmful than those of any other "solution" tried so far. — Edmonton (Alta.) ## Stocks On The Skids

U. S. stock markets have been on the downgrade for months, with only minor and short-lived rallies. A climax of sorts occurred when the Dow Jones 30-industrial average sagged 19.07 points to 714.56—the longest dive since Nov. 22, 1963, when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

It seems advisable to point out emphatically that the market situation today is far different from what it was just before the big flop in October, 1929. Then, innumerable persons had bought heavily on margin, so that they were wiped out financially when the roof fell in. There is far less margin investing now.

All this makes very timely Feder a 1 Reserve Board lowering of the margin requirement minimum from 80 per cent to 65 per cent. That should encourage investors no little — a good thing, we believe, all around. — New York Daily News

Senate May Need A Nudge To Change Electoral College

by PERT MILLS
WASHINGTON, D. C.—Prolonged Senate debate on our military involvement in Southeast Asia has prevented action on many pressing domestic matters, including a crucial important Constitutional amendment to revise our system of electing a President.

Last year the House passed by overwhelming vote a measure to scrap the electoral college in favor of a direct election of the President. The Senate Judiciary Committee stalled on this proposition for many months but finally approved it last April, by an 11 to 6 margin.

Ever since, the proposed 26th amendment to the Constitution has rested on the Senate calendar. Sponsors hope for action late this summer but meanwhile time is running out. To take effect, the amendment must be ratified by 38 states. The deadline for adoption in time to affect the 1972 Presidential election is April 15, 1971.

That may seem like ample time but it is not. Four state legislatures are not even scheduled to meet in 1971, and some Southern states are expected to reject the reform amendment. The Senate had better hurry or forget about a change most voters want.

President Nixon also supports the amendment, and the House vote favoring it was 339 to 70. There seems little doubt of Senate passage—if there is a chance to vote.

Wallace Poses Threat? — George Wallace's recent narrow victory in Alabama's gubernatorial primary enhances the prospect of adoption of a 26th Amendment. The Alabamian is once again a factor in a Presidential election and unless our system is changed he could wind up holding the balance of power in 1972. It came fairly close to happening in 1968.

Wallace ran for President in 1968 and carried five deep South states, worth 46 electoral votes. If he had done a bit better, he could have prevented Richard Nixon from gaining an electoral majority. That was the Wallace goal last time and may be again.

If the leading candidate fails to achieve an electoral majority, the House of Representatives elects a President. A third party candidate could bargain for concessions in return for supporting either major party candidate. Most people think this is no way to decide an election.

The pending amendment would not bar third party candidates. It would only reduce their importance, because any candidate getting the most popular votes would be elected, so long as he received at least 40 percent of the vote.

If no candidate received 40 percent, there would be a runoff election between the two top contenders. Nixon won with 43.4 percent in 1968. No President has ever been elected with less than 40 percent of the popular vote, except Abraham Lincoln, and his share was 39.9 percent.

Should Demand Action
Legislators generally respond to the public will and polls show that voters are overwhelmingly in favor of a direct election for President. But the Senate seems to need a nudge to give electoral reform the priority attention it requires. As long ago as last fall, President Nixon urged the Senate to adopt the House-passed resolution.

The key men are Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D., Mont.) and Chairman a James O. Eastland (D., Miss.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee. A one-week debate ought to suffice because the issue had been studied for years and the House spent eight days in reaching its 1969 decision.

As the President reminded the Senate and the nation last year, "It is clear that unless the Senate follows the lead of the House, all opportunity for reform will be lost this year and possibly for years to come."

What about it, Senators?

There's nothing to the report, is there, that the football leagues aren't going to play this fall, just re-run last season's games?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Talk of Texas

by JACK MAGUIRE

AGES WITH BIRDSHOP—At one time during World War I, the U. S. planned to blast enemy fighter planes out of the sky with sawed-off shotguns!

In 1917, when The University of Texas began training combat airmen at its School of Aeronautics, trap shooting was a required course for the fly-boys. Adolph Topperwein, probably the best marksman with a rifle, pistol or shotgun in history, was the instructor. The future aviators, standing atop high wooden towers erected on the campus, fired pump shotguns with sawed-off barrels at clay pigeons.

The object was to teach them to hit a moving target at 75 yards. It was believed that U. S. fighter planes armed with the shotguns could down almost any enemy aircraft with which they came in contact.

HISTORY ON CANVAS—Traveling salesmen in early Texas often were looking for a farmer's daughter—but only to paint her picture.

Portrait painting was in vogue about the time the Republic of Texas was established. Many an itinerant peddler, taking advantage of this desire of rural customers to leave their likeness to posterity, added paints and canvas to their pack and became painters of people.

Calling themselves "limners," these roving artists usually asked $10 (a very high price in those days) for a portrait. Many a proud parent paid the fee willingly, and today some of these primitive paintings are collector's items.

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY—John Wesley Hardin, self-styled "world's champion desperado" and acknowledged killer of 43 men, was a member of one of the best families of Bonham, Fannin County seat.

Hardin was born just northwest of Bonham, the son of a circuit-riding Methodist preacher. As a teenager, Hardin killed his first man after an argument on a Bonham street.

An uncle, Jeff Hardin, was a prominent Bonham businessman and built a 12-room colonial mansion that was a local showplace. It was similar to the colonial home of another Bonham citizen, the late Speaker Sam Rayburn. The Hardin home was torn down a few years ago.

HOW IT BEGAN—San Antonio's Menger Hotel was built because a local brewer needed a place to house his customers overnight.

William Menger began brewing beer in the Alamo City in the mid-1840's and his product was so good that distributors came from all over to buy it. He developed so much business from nearby German settlements that he had to have a place to house visiting buyers.

He acquired a lot across from the Alamo and built the Menger Hotel in 1859. It is still one of San Antonio's leading inns.

65 YEARS AGO—1905

W. M. Cogdell, who has just completed the scholastic census for 1905 and 1906, informs us there will be from 350 to 375 pupils assigned to the Hereford public school this year. Last year, there were 280 pupils enrolled. The gain of 75 to 100 pupils is a record that cannot be equaled anywhere in the Panhandle and makes two facts evident: that our country is fast settling up and that our public school has attained that degree of efficiency which characterizes all successful schools and renders them popular with the people. A new land and immigration company was brought in to exist since this week to be known as the Hereford Realty Co. The principals of the company are C. L. Davis, C. B. Oxendine and H. H. Hawkins.

50 YEARS AGO—1920

All preliminaries for the big Roundup to be held today and tomorrow had been completed Wednesday afternoon and Manager Purcell said all was ready for the crowd and the opening hour. The total property valuations within the corporate limits of the City of Hereford have been placed at $2,300,000 by the Board of Equalization. The figures for last year were $2,010,000, which gives an increase of nearly $300,000. This valuation will add about $1,000 to the general fund and will enable the city to do a lot of things the coming year that it never could have hoped to do without this increase.

35 YEARS AGO—1935

Tragedy stalked in the B. A. West home last Thursday when the infant daughter, Peggy Jean, was hanged as she slept in a chair while her mother was outdoors working. The 6-month old child was in a rocking chair in which there was a loose cushion, when the mother went to the yard. When Mrs. West returned later she found the little body suspended from the front of the chair with the neck caught between the arm and front side of the chair. Hereford is to have a modern sewage disposal plant. The plant will be complete this week. It is being done by Mayor Charles Paddock, Commissioner Nestor Gass and J. D. Buchanan.

20 YEARS AGO—1950

Hereford Junior Chamber of Commerce was awarded second place in the Civic Improvement Class at the National Convention in Chicago Saturday. Local Jaycees also placed second in the state on this particular division. Local residents complained this week over the 1950 census returns. The city's population is under 5,000. Estimates had been all the way up to 12,000. Eleven delegates from Hereford are attending the Northwest Texas conference Youth Assembly at McMurry College this week. More than 400 high school and college students arrived Monday for the six-day session.

5 YEARS AGO—1965

Two doctors are joining the staff of the Hereford Medical and Surgical Clinic on July 1. They are Dr. Howard R. Johnson and Dr. Noble L. Ballard. Both are graduates of the University of Oklahoma's Medical School and have recently completed internship at St. Anthony's Hospital in Oklahoma City. Dr. McCrary will open his own office here on West Park Avenue following the recent completion of his internship at Ft. Worth's John Peter Smith Hospital. There will now be a total of 10 practicing physicians here. Rainfall of up to six inches washed the Hereford area, with high winds and damaging hail dousing the county Thursday and Friday delaying harvest and wiping out what crops there were to reap in spots.

Hidden Medical Problems Signaled By Medic Alert

Most questions concerning the state of one's health will elicit an answer of "fine." But rosy-cheeked, attractive, trim youth-looking Linda Collins Maurer thinks the answer is not that simple. "That's one major problem in saving lives," commented the registered nurse, titled amateur golfer, homemaker and mother of three. "Most people never think about their hidden medical problems—allegies, diabetes, epilepsy, or even the fact that they wear contact lenses. Yet not being aware of these potential sources of trouble and, more importantly, not making others aware of these ailments may cost these people their lives."

Fourteen years ago, she recalled, she didn't have any idea that she was allergic to tetanus antitoxin. "I was about 14 and I remember gashing my hand. Being a doctor's daughter, I was aware of the dangers of infection. So I went to the local medical center — my father was not at home — and asked to have the cut treated. The doctor cleaned and bandaged my hand, then properly scratched a droplet of tetanus antitoxin into my skin to check for a reaction." Within minutes, Linda collapsed, struck down by an often fatal allergic reaction. After she recovered, her father worried about preventing a repetition of the incident. At first he taped a note to her wrist, put a note inside her purse and alerted everyone with whom she might come in contact. But when the time came for her to go away to study nursing at Stanford University, her father realized these cautions wouldn't be enough. "First my father thought of tattooing me, but my mother and I vetoed that," Linda says with a smile. "Finally, we came up with the idea of a bracelet," she said, pointing to her chain-link silver bracelet with an eye-catching disk. On the front is a caduceus, the symbol of the medical profession and the words "Medic Alert." On the back is engraved the warning, "Allergic to Tetanus Antitoxin, Sulphur, and Aspirin."

Local Federated club presidents and committee chairmen attended an informative workshop Monday for 75 members and officers of the Top of Texas District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs held in Panama. Attending from Hereford were Mrs. Ralph McCullough, District Revisions chairman; Mrs. L. H. Lookingbill Sr., State and District Maintenance chairman; Mrs. Ray Johnson, District chairman of Life Membership and president of Summerfield Study Club; and Mrs. Ted Panciera, president of the Pioneer Study Club. Mrs. Kermit B. Lawson, district president, presented new goals and proposed programs for 1970-1972 and a summary of the national convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs held at San Antonio in June. Mrs. Lawson told of the work of H. Ross Perot of Dallas, who was named outstanding citizen of Texas at the VFW state convention held in Amarillo last week. He is working for improved treatment and release of prisoners of war and urges club women to participate in obtaining publicity in the movement. Perot declares that Hanoi will head a grass roots public opinion movement in the United States and urges club women to request politicians to take a stand on POW issues during their campaigns. Perot said club women can play a major role in bringing assistance to prisoners. "Don't think that your individual voice is not important," Mrs. Lawson told the women. "You are a force-when 11 1/2 million women speak, their opinions are heard."

Mrs. Lawson used as an example a recent bill which was killed in the U. S. House of Representatives because of pressure brought by the president of GFWC and members. She said the women were credited for killing legislation which would have allowed larger trucks to use the highways. Other major concerns reported by the president were ecology and environmental health, urban and rural affairs with the support of cooperation of regional planning groups such as Council of Governments, status of women, safety and law enforcement. Reported as upcoming main projects of the TFWC during the next two years were the support and promotion of technical vocational training, special education and rehabilitation, especially for children. Being planned on a state level is the observance of the 75th anniversary of the TFWC at the next state convention. A rhinestone pin has been designed and names of 40 and 50-year club members will be submitted to the district and will be honored at the convention.

Newcomers Faces Housing Problem

By JANIE REINART
Staff Writer

Bill and Bobbie Butler and two-year-old dachshund "Fritzzy" came to Hereford in May from Weatherford, Oklahoma and were faced with a problem all newcomers to the city share—finding a place to live.

"We were having supper one evening around 6 when Jim Arney called and asked Bill to come and see about a job in Hereford. Well, by 6:30 we were on our way to Hereford from Oklahoma. Bill interviewed for a job at Edward's Pharmacy and liked it so we had one day to find a place to live. We were a job at Edward's Pharmacy and liked it so we had one day to find a place to live. We were actually forced to take this beautiful place, at least until we can find a less expensive rent home. The apartment house allows no pets or children and here we are, a pet and a baby expected in September! We had to get special permission to even live here."

and Southwestern State and received his bachelors degree. In order for Bobbie to catch up with her husband she attended Frank Phillips, Tech, W. T., and Southwestern State and attended classes each summer so she could graduate in three years with her husband.

Recalling a humorous incident while in college Bobbie said "I remember the time I had to give a theme while I was student teaching. I did it on the population explosion and at that time I was pregnant! Of course the students didn't know it but my supervisor did and he had a ball!"

The Butlers are originally from Abilene. Bill grew up in Borger and Bobbie was reared in Winters, near Abilene. She moved to Borger in 1965 and met Bill the following year. They were married two years later.

Butler's father is a medical technician at Phillips Petroleum Co. in Borger and his mother is employed at Frank Phillips College. Bobbie's father is band director for Borger High School. She says "Borger seems to be dying as Hereford grows. The high school is 4A, like Hereford, but it doesn't seem like it should be."

The Butlers recently returned from a 4-day trip to Houston where Bill took his State Board Exam for his pharmacist license. "We like to travel but haven't been out of Texas or Oklahoma except for our honeymoon trip to Colorado."

Mr. and Mrs. Butler and their families are quite excited and ready for the baby to arrive. "Bill says it's going to be a boy, which is typical of most fathers, and the grandparents agree, but the doctor is not so sure. I'm not particular," she said.

Bobbie has spent most of her time during the past summers skiing, playing tennis, and attending school, but that has been curtailed for this summer. "If it weren't for the baby I would be looking for a job or

The True Story Of A Boy's "Growing Pains"

Available at the Deaf Smith County Library this week is the comical, true story of a young boy seemingly "incident-prone." Also available for your reading enjoyment is the story of Alexander the Great, from early childhood to his life as an adult and conqueror.

Growing Pains
by Paul Villard

Growing Pains is the hilarious and warm story of a boy growing up in America during the early years of this century. It is the true-to-life record of the scrapes and mischief he got into, of his curiosity and his ways of finding out about things.

Here is a charming book about young Paul, who manages (among other things) to delay trains, blow up houses, burn down forests, give poison ivy to his teacher, and lure his father into a cesspool—all during the few fleeting years of childhood. Every incident actually happened to this basically good lad who lived his early years with intensity and relish but who was what must be termed "incident-prone."

Paul was always ready to undertake anything out of the ordinary. Making Tom Sawyer look like a sissy, he managed to survive a million misadventures and to grasp solid values that enabled him to become self-reliant when forced out into the world.

Some of the tales in this book are wildly absurd; others are sharply poignant. Together, they spell out the story of one boy's growing pains.

FIRE FROM HEAVEN

By Mary Renault

In the closing pages on Mary Renault's last novel, The Mask of Apollo, the young Alexander and his friend, Hephaestion, make a brief but unforgettable appearance. Now, in Fire from Heaven, Miss Renault tells the story of Alexander's life from childhood to the age of twenty when he succeeded his murdered father, King Philip of Macedonia. These years cover almost two-thirds of his short life, and to everything that is enigmatic or may seem contradictory in his character as recorded in history, the key must lie here! Considering Alexander's ultimate importance, this is the most ambitious of Miss Renault's classical novels; it is also one of her most triumphant achievements.

fourth century B. C. Alexander grew up in King Philip's great palace at Pella. His strength of character, his beauty, his bravery from an early age, are wonderfully conveyed. If some of the incidents are necessarily conjectural, it is difficult to doubt their essential truth, so wholly convincing are they in every detail. Torn between admiration, hatred and love for his father, wary of the jealous, devouring affection of his mother, Queen Olympias, Alexander soon exerts his independence. His early Spartan training, his precocious incursions into diplomacy, his first experiences of war, his mastery of the horse, Boukephalos; his schooling under the tutelage of Aristotle—everything shows his natural ascendancy over his companions, and the unquestioning trust and love in which they hold him. Through the difficulties and dangers of his youth, whether in his relationship with his parents or on the field of battle; he has at his side his friend Hephaestion; the development of their affection, indeed of their love, which was to last until the end of their lives, is shown with a depth of understanding that is the more moving for its restraint.

The military and political events of these years, the aims and ambitions of the warring states, the impact on the times of such figures as Aristotle and Demosthenes, the scenes of court and peasant life, the archaic, almost Homeric traditions of Macedonia—all have a natural place in this novel and are seen with a richness of detail that would seem almost to be psychically apprehended. But, above all, the novel portrays in its shining central character the boyhood and early years of a man—intensely complex, at once human and godlike—who will inevitably one day conquer the world.

Who eats out? As income rises more money is spent on food, USDA studies show that families with an annual income of $10,000 and over spend more than 25 per cent of their food money on meals away from home. Families with less than $3,000 income spend only about 10 per cent on meals away from home.

SO DOES OUR HOUSE PAINT!

That's why it lasts longer...

SUN-PROOF FOR THE HUSBAND WHOSE IDEA OF "GETTING OUT" DOESN'T INCLUDE PAINTING THE HOUSE.

Your wife says, "Paint the house before you do anything else this summer." So what do you do? As little as possible.

That's why you need Sun-Proof Latex House Paint. It does as much as possible.

To begin with, it normally allows you to skip priming completely. Further, it stretches and shrinks with your house. Which eliminates cracking and peeling. Also, a special paint film resists air pollution, smog, and mildew. This all means that your paint will last up to four years longer. So you spend less time painting and more time relaxing.

Be Prepared

By Mrs. Argen Draper

First aid to a happier vacation may mean being prepared to give first aid to a few of the most common accidents. You'll feel more assured—and perhaps return from your vacation in better shape—if you learn these principles of first aid before leaving.

Scrapes and minor cuts should be carefully cleaned of every bit of foreign matter. Infection may result. If the wound isn't deep, the foreign material often can be washed away with soap and water. But, if you can't cleanse the wound, get medical aid. Once the wound is cleaned, it should be coated with an antibiotic preparation that is harmless to human tissue, then covered with a sterile bandage.

Deep cuts and punctures definitely require medical attention to be sure the wound is properly cleansed. Unless a blood vessel has been cut, you can stop the bleeding by pressing a wad of sterile gauze on the wound. If this direct pressure doesn't stop the bleeding, apply a tourniquet until medical aid is available.

Many people, especially children are susceptible to motion sickness—the feeling of nausea you get if jostled about too much in a vehicle or on a boat. The more you can reduce the jostling, the less likely you are to become ill. A soft seat, for example, is better than a hard one. In a car, try to avoid bumpy roads and sudden starts and stops.

Fresh air helps a lot. So does fixing your eyes firmly on a given spot, perhaps the road ahead or the land on shore. As for food, the best idea is to have a light meal two or three hours before leaving.

Effective remedies for motion sickness are available from your local pharmacist; get your doctor's advice as to the remedy he recommends.

Everyone should learn to recognize poison ivy, oak and sumac, and remember that "natural" immunity often disappears. Immediately after contact, the skin should be scrubbed thoroughly with a strong soap, allowing the soap to remain on the skin for several minutes after the cleansing. Once the skin is irritated by poisonous plants, avoid water, oily ointments, or alcoholic solutions. Ask your druggist to recommend a medication to soothe the poison ivy eruptions. If it's a severe case, do consult a physician. There are a number of steroid drugs available on prescription to alleviate symptoms.

When you go on your vacation, your diet changes and the water you drink is different. Your meal schedules are erratic. You're excited by the change of scene and setting out for new adventures. All this can cause stomach or intestinal irritation and its most common symptom, diarrhea. If the symptoms persist, or is unusually severe, food poisoning may be the cause and you should call a doctor immediately. You can help self and family to avoid this more serious upset in travel plans by shunning roadside stands and foods most prone to spoilage (hamburgers, whipped cream, custard).

Severe sunburn should be treated like any other burn. Sun lotion is good before exposure to the sun, but does little good afterwards. Aspirin will relieve the general discomfort, and the patient should drink plenty of water.

Heat cramps result when the body loses too much salt through perspiration. Treatment: coated salt tablets. If salt tablets are not available, a teaspoon of salt in a pint of water will do the trick.

Heat exhaustion is characterized by a cold and clammy skin, weak pulse, and shallow breathing. The onset is marked by dizziness, a feeling of fatigue, sometimes even unconsciousness. Treatment: Remove the patient to a cool place, place him prone with his feet raised, and loosen his clothing. Fan him and lay cool, wet cloths on his forehead and wrists. Upon recovery, give him cool sweetened drinks — preferably coffee or tea.

Follow these first aid rules, and you'll be on your way to a vacation that's a gain, not a pain (that is, if it doesn't rain).

The "Dirty Dozen" of household equipment have been singled out by the Public Health Service. These are classified as such because of the frequent home accidents they

Glady's Garden

By Gladys Howton Manjeot

Gardening is an art. It increases knowledge, it is an important part of beautification, and it is one of the leading hobbies of the United States.

He who gardens adds greatly to the general welfare of the people. Make it one of your hobbies, it pays off in large dividends.

These hot, summer days are testing times for the gardeners. It is advisable to be consistent in watering. Proper watering is good conservation.

One of the important things causing the Public Health Service has released figures in approximate numbers for each that cause injuries during the year.

Leading the list is home machinery, such as power saws, electric drills and the like. These are responsible for 125,000 injuries a year. Heating devices such as furnace grates and space heaters are also responsible for approximately 125,000 injuries.

Power mowers, cooking stoves and clothes wringers are each responsible for about 100,000 injuries a year, and burns from hot handles on skillets and splattering greases are responsible for 80,000 injuries.

Others in the "Dirty Dozen" list include incinerators, 50,000 injuries; glass doors, 40,000 injuries; appliance cords, 35,000; sockets and extensions, 30,000; gas burners, 10,000 and sun lamps causing another 1,000 injuries a year.

It sounds like Alma Atkinson is getting ready for food preservation as she has asked for this recipe: PICKLED OKRA

Soak okra overnight in a brine made of 2 teaspoons alum and 1/4c. salt in 1/2 gallon water. Rinse in clear water and pack in jars. Cover with a hot solution made of: 2 cups white vinegar 2 T. salt 1 1/2 cups water 2 t. Mustard seed 1/4 T. dill seed Hot Green Peppers

Remember to use preserving salt for all canning; also, distilled vinegar for vegetables, pickles and cider vinegar for fruits.

Come to the office for canning and freezing bulletins.

pertaining to watering, is NOT how often, but how thorough. Early morning hours are ideal for watering of the lawns, plants, and vegetables.

Do not water during the middle of the day when the heat is the highest, because at this time the evaporation is highest also, and the water does not give full value. Late evening is also an acceptable time for watering, and for this time soaking is recommended.

Spraying is not advisable, because the water which is left on the foliage often causes diseases, such as mildew and black spot. However, it is good practice to spray plants at least two or three times a month, to remove residue, and some plants (evergreens) drink from their tips.

Do the spraying or sprinkling in the early morning, so the moisture will have dried thoroughly on the foliage, blossoms and vegetables.

Slow soaking is a tried and proven method for the best results. Leave the hose and let water run slow. Time it, do not move it too often. It is the root system that feeds the water. The equivalent of an inch of rainfall is advisable for good results.

If a spray is used on the lawn or elsewhere, to test amount of waterfall place a flat pan in the radius of the spray and measure the amount of water in the container. It should be approximately an inch.

Do not waste water. It is precious. Good, well-cared-for equipment makes garden chores more enjoyable. Shears, hoes, edgers, mower blades, a trimmer should be well sharpened. Motors should be cared for. Change oil and check on gasoline quality. Also keep motors clean, as well as the mower or other equipment being used.

I recently read of a new watering hose now on the market. It is a plastic hose, lies flat when not in use, is light in weight and is easy to handle. Flatness enables it to be readily rewound. It is made of polyvinyl chloride plastic reinforced with nylon. These qualities and properties should make it a lasting product, and one that a gardener would be proud of. Neatness is a valuable asset for any gardener. Neatness adds to attractiveness and the overall beauty of the garden and other grounds. Groom out the discolored foliage and dry stems. Keep old blossoms removed. If the annuals are to be kept in full bloom it is very necessary that the old blossoms be removed.

When removing the faded blossoms of the petunias, be sure that they are pinched deep enough to get the seed pod. This also aids in keeping the shape of the plant.

It is important that roses be carefully groomed. Care should be used in cutting stems. Do not abuse the plant by cutting too much stem. However, if right cutting is done, it is one of the means of keeping the bush pruned, and promotes bloom.

Gladioli should be cut when three or more florets have opened. Cut on a slant, harden in deep water, then arrange, and the remaining florets will bloom. Check in the heart of the floret for thrips. This can also be noted by the discoloration around the edges of the blossom. A method to check and know for sure is to break one of the florets from the spike, and shake it over a piece of black paper. The tiny thrips will fall. They are very light in color. Look sharp. Spray or dust the plant to kill the thrips. (All forms should be treated before planting.) This is one of the worst enemies of the gladioli.

A Fourth of July window, featuring red white and blue is very striking. It's at the Park Avenue Shop. Make an arrangement of the national colors during the week-end for your patio table. Some very clever ideas can be incorporated. If there are children, use some fire crackers as accessories for the arrangement.

The pledge of allegiance is often repeated, and, since we have observed the 4th of July, and heard it read or recited, to whom are we indebted for its authorship? (Answer next week)

BEAUTY SPOTS—Watch for the announcement of the Beauty Spots of the month. This is going to be a hard decision for the beautification committee, since there are so many pretties in town.

The selected flower for Hereford this year is the petunia, and there are some very lovely plantings in town.

For brilliance, see the red petunias at Mrs. Obe Robertsons. For a lovely combination with other flowering plants, see the planting at 238 Northwest Drive. The ageratum combines nicely with the petunias. The difference in texture and foliage, as well as color harmony is very pretty.

The tree roses at the D.H. Perrin home 219 N. Texas are very attractive, and is good to see them doing so well in our locale.

THEY MAKE MEDICINE NOW, THEN LOOK FOR A DISEASE TO USE IT ON EVERYTHING'S BACKWARDS...THE COLLEGE KIDS TELL THE TEACHERS WHAT TO DO...

AND PARKING METERS - THEY WERE PUT IN TO MAKE MONEY FOR THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

THEN THE CITY FATHERS HIRE METER MAIDS WHO COST MORE THAN THE METERS BRING IN...

YOU GOT ME THINKING TOO, DADDY. IF YOU BACKED A CLEAN CAR INTO THE EXIT...

...OF A CAR WASH AND BACKED IT ALL THE WAY TO THE ENTRANCE... WOULD IT COME OUT DIRTY?
