Reagan says U.S. has obligation in Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says the United States has the right and obligation to try to rid Nicaragua of its "communist totalitarian" government and give those who oppose dictatorship "a chance to have that democracy that they fought for."

Members of Congress who voted to bar his administration from acting to overthrow the leftist regime "lacked a complete understanding of what is at stake there and what we're trying to do," Reagan told a nationally broadcast news conference Thurs-

In conference Thursday

But he said he wouldn't specifically advocate the overthrow of the Sanistas "if the present government would turn around and say ...
'Uncle'" and bring Nicaraguan rebels into the government.

In the first news conference of his econd term, Reagan also defended his proposal to phase out federal farm subsidies, saying, "We won't pull the rug out from under anyone instantly ... but the government programs didn't succeed.

The administration's farm bill, being sent to Congress today, is designed to get "the team economy back into the free parket place and government out of the agricultural business." Reason said. business," Reagan said.

The president said he plans to retain his controversial budget director, David Stockman, who angered embattled farmers by questioning their right to government bailouts and career military personnel by suggesting they were more interested in their retirement security than in national security.

"I can understand a fellow blowing his cool," Reagan said, suggesting Stockman was being heckled and harassed by lawmakers when he made his inflammatory remarks while testifying before the Senate Budget Committee.

Reagan also renewed his call for action this year on legislation to simplify the income tax code, although his administration has yet to settle on details of a tax overhaul plan. And he urged Congress to summon the "political courage" to give him the budget cuts he is seeking.

The president said he will decide in coming months whether the United States will join the Soviet Union "in violating" the unratified SALT II arms control treaty, which both sides have claimed they would observe despite the Senate's failure to ratify Nicaraguan officials wasted little time responding to the president's comments. Shortly after the news conference, the Nicaraguan Embassy issued a statement saying, 'Nicaragua feels the best way to resolve problems in Central America is through negotiations and not through armed conflict."

"It is absolutely false to suggest that the Somoza counterrevolutionaries fought to overthrow Senate Finance Committee. Reagan said he imagined Packwood had in mind a value-added tax, in which a tax is imposed at different stages of production.

"First of all, this appears to be increasing taxes, which I've said we wouldn't do," Reagan said. "But the other thing with that tax is it's hidden in the price of a product ... Taxes should hurt in the sense that people should be able to see them and know what they're paying."

And as to whether he would consider an import tax on oil, Reagan said, "I'm just not considering a tax of that kind."

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan today ordered his agriculture secretary to unilaterally implement measures to ease the farm credit crisis despite their rejection by filibustering Democratic senators, a White House spokesman said today.

Senate Majority Leader Robert J. Dole, himself a farm-state lawmaker, said Reagan's action leaves the filibustering Democrats "standing out there naked. It ought to be over now."

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes, in an announcement that followed the collapse Thursday night negotiations to expand ad ministration relief efforts, said Reagan ordered Agriculture Secretary John Block this morning "to fully implement expeditiously the policies set forth in the agreement that was presented ... which the Democrats said last night they would not accept."

Lewis testified Thursday that state law requires the attorney general to approve public bonds before they can be sold. Lewis said he and two other lawyers did such work for Mattox.

An earlier witness, Fulbright & Jaworski lawyer Wiley Caldwell, said Mattox threatened in a June 17 phone call to withhold approval of the firm's bonds.

Lewis said Mattox told him another Fulbright & Jaworski lawyer, Thomas McDade, was acting unethically in a case involving Mobil Oil, South Texas rancher Clinton Manges and the state.

Mattox had talked with Caldwell, "and he thought Wiley Caldwell needed another message," Lewis testified.

Lewis said Mattox instructed him to hold up on the bonds and to tell Caldwell "there might be a problem with their bond issues."

Lewis said he ordered his secretaries and fellow lawyers to sit on the Fulbright & Jaworski bonds.

When a secretary asked about two issues which were ready to be sent to the state comptroller — as required by law — Lewis said he "told her no, that our instructions were to hold them until the attorney general told us they were all right."

Ma Bell wants more

AUSTIN (AP) - Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. has informally advised the Public Utility Commission that it will seek about a 30 percent increase in local rates in March.

The company won an $816 million rate hike last March.

"It will be a broadly based case," said Richard Harris, the company's vice president for revenue and public affairs. "Our interest has been in making sure in this case we're talking about a few dollars on local rates and not a major hit on local rates."

Harris told the Dallas Times Herald on Thursday that the proposed increase would be between $3 and $4 for basic telephone service.

Harris said the company had privately informed the PUC and consumer lawyers of its plans to seek a Testimony in the trial was to

Supporters launch phone campaign

AUSTIN (AP) - A phone call to a toll-free number can result in legislators getting letters in favor of repealing the Blue Law, a coali-

Texans for Blue Law Repeal on Thursday launched a statewide ad campaign whereby consumers are able to call and give their support to do away with the current law.

The Texas blue law prohibits businesses from selling 42 categories of merchandise on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays, effectively forcing many Sunday store closings.

"The purpose of our campaign is to facilitate communication between the people of Texas, particularly those 66 percent who support blue law repeal, and the members of our Texas Legislature," said John Matera, senior vice president with Joske's of Texas.

State land review approved

AUSTIN (AP) - A bill that would lead to a three-year review of how more than 4 million acres of state land might be put to better use has been approved by the Senate.

"In 148 years, we've never done this," said Sen. John Leedom, sponsor of a series of bills recommended by an interim Senate committee on managing state agency funds.

Leedom's bill would create a division within the General Land Office to review land held by state agencies and to compile a list of the current market values of all state-owned property by no later than Sept. 1, 1988.

"The Land Office will be directed to verify the accuracy of agency property records, establish a current market value for each tract, and make some determination regarding the highest and best uses of these lands," said Leedom.

Proceeds from any state real estate transactions would be deposited in a trust fund, which would be available for future building and non-recurring capital improvement needs of the state. The fund could not be used for highways or college construction.

SAYREVILLE, N.J. (AP) - An explosion on Thursday night tore through a plant where a gunpowder ingredient is manufactured, kill-

The ensuing fire had been extinguished by midnight, he said.

"It was a clean blast," said State Police Lt. Steve Sgourakis. "We don't know what the cause is yet."

Nitrocellulose, which is made at the plant, is used in the manufacture of explosives, plastics and varnishes, Hessler said. The nitrocellulose made at the Sayreville plant is used primarily to make furniture covers and smokeless gunpowder.

GRAND FORKS AIR FORCE BASE, N.D. (AP) - The second test of an unarmed cruise missile in Canadian airspace was postponed Thursday night after a fuel leak was discovered in a plane that was to monitor the missile's flight, officials said.

The Friday morning test was called off when the fuel leak was discovered aboard the plane at Fairchild Air Force Base in Washington, said Maj. Alton Waller, a spokesman at Grand Forks Air Force Base.

Administration considering increase

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Transportation Department says it is considering a wide range of options in deciding whether to urge changes in the 55 mph speed limit, including linking higher limits to enactment of state seat belt laws.

Philip Hazeltine, deputy assistant secretary of transportation, emphasized the department has made no decision on the speed limit issue, which has become increasingly controversial in Western states where there is widespread opposition to the law.

But he told a House subcommittee Thursday "the potential options" include:

-Keeping the speed limit at the current level nationwide, an approach the Reagan administration has up to now endorsed but which is attracting widespread opposition.

-Allowing higher speeds on certain limited access rural roads as some members of a recent National Research Council panel as well as a number of members of Congress have suggested.

-Limiting higher speed limits to states that take "other safety measures such as increased enforcement or the enactment of safety belt use laws."

More students participating in UIL contests

AUSTIN - The University Interscholastic League, celebrating its 75th anniversary this year, reports more Texas high school students participate in UIL academic and music contests each year than in athletic contests.

Based on The University of Texas at Austin, the UIL is administered through UT's Division of Continuing Education.

Figures released by the UIL show that of the 1.3 million contestants who participated in 1983-84 in UIL programs, 572,627 competed in academic contests, 205,058 in music and 554,791 in athletics.

UIL academic contests are held in 13 general areas ranging from journalism to speech, from calculator applications to one-act plays.

Music activities fostered by the UIL are in band, choir, orchestra, string orchestra and orchestra sooensemble Athletic activities of the UIL cover 10 sports ranging from football to swimming to track and field.

Some of the academic champions of UIL contests win more than medals or certificates. They receive college scholarships through the Texas Interscholastic League Foundation, whose endowment for that purpose is now in excess of $1 million. "It is the president's desire that we move quickly on an administrative basis without the necessity of legislation so that we can provide adequate funding for the planting season, which is beginning in many sections of the country."

The plan would liberalize somewhat the requirements for farmers to obtain credit under the administration's previously announced $650 million farm-credit relief package.

The new measures include a slight asing of qualifications for farm banks seeking federal guarantees of shaky loans and increased guarantee levels, as well as assurances that adequate credit will be made available to financially pinched farmers for spring planting. Several Senate Republicans, including Kansas' Dole, had urged such an announcement after negotiations to resolve the filibuster, which has held up the confirmation of Edwin Meese III as attorney general, broke down late Thursday.

On Capitol Hill, meanwhile, Senate Republican Conference Chairman John Chafee, R-R.I., promised his party's leadership would work "throughout the day, evening and possibly tomorrow" in an attempt to wear down the filibustering senators.

The filibuster began Wednesday and has continued despite Reagan's insistence that his emergency farm credit program is adequately aiding

The offer to liberalize slightly the rules of the administration's $650 million loan-guarantee program was unanimously rejected by Democrats, who called the proposal too weak to help many farmers.

Margaret Formby brought a program Tuesday night to La Plata Study Club members displaying her collection of American artist dolls of the 20th century. The group met in the home of Sarah Hazelrigg with Margaret Schroeter serving as cohostess.

Her dolls surrounded two walls of Mrs. Hazelrigg's den and each one had a story. She also mentioned that doll collecting is the second or third most popular hobby in America

Even though dollmaking faced the depression in 1935, dolls were still made," she continued. She explained that there have been dolls that do most anything and other dolls keep being created.

Baylor probe centers on secret recording

DALLAS (AP) - A secretly recorded conversation in which head Coach Jim Haller allegedly talks of steroids and giving money to a player is reportedly the basis for Baylor University's in-house probe of its basketball program.

Former reserve center John Wheeler made the tape within the last three weeks when he went to talk with Haller about getting money for car payments, television station WFAA-TV reported Thursday night.

WFAA said it had obtained a copy of the tape from a confidential source outside the university.

A voice WFAA identified as Haller's told Wheeler on the tape that "I had a check processed for you. So I want you to take this check to the bank, you give it to the bank, and you tell them this is for January, February and March. Give it to them right now and you won't have to worry about it until April."

Later, Haller refused to listen to the tape and told WFAA the only check he might give to a player would have been expense money for use during the Christmas holiday.

Haller's telephone was repeatedly busy when The Associated Press tried calling him at his Waco home late Thursday and early today.

Also on the tape, Haller told

Wheeler he knew the player had been using steroids, a possibly dangerous substance used to improve athletes' performance, for about seven mon-

"I wished I didn't even know you were taking them," Haller said. "I'm out of that. Not because I don't want to help you; because I'm scared to death of it."

Haller said later that his players have never and will never use

Baylor President Herbert Reynolds ordered an in-house investigation of the university's basketball program last week - in part because of reports that Haller's players dislike his methods - and has ordered school officials and players not to speak to the press concerning the case.

He would neither confirm nor deny the tape's existence when WFAA contacted him, but he did say the investigation should be concluded by the middle of next week.

Haller said he hasn't yet been interviewed in the investigation. But he said that of the allegations against him, "99.9 percent are so far-fetched that they've got to be the figment of someone's great imagination."

Baylor is 2-11 in Southwest Conference play and 9-15 on the season.

Sports ..... Lady Longhorn boss

UT cage coach busy woman

By MARK ROSNER Austin American-Statesman

AUSTIN (AP) - Jody Conradt will get back to you later. Right now, she is tied up taping a television spot. Next, there's a radio interview. Then, the reporter from Dallas is coming in and, if she doesn't finish with him before practice, she'll have to talk to him when she gets back to her her office.

As coach of the No. 1-ranked Lady Longhorns, Conradt these days is moving at the speed of her team's fast-break offense. And Wednesday night, the 23-2 Lady Longhorns defeated Texas A&M, 12-12, to give Conradt her 400th coaching win.

Conradt's 400 wins - 12 against junior colleges do not count in the NCAA record book - came with only 111 losses in her 16 coaching seasons, nine of them at UT.

Her victory total ranks No. 2 in women's basketball. She has more wins than any woman coach and only 39 less than Fresno State's Bob Spencer, who compiled most of his at Division II schools.

Between the countdown to No. 400 and Texas hitting the top of the Associated Press poll three weeks ago, the name Conradt has become synonymous with women's basket-

A day doesn't go by when she is not being interviewed by out-of-town reporters. Once she missed 45 minutes of practice waiting for an NBC-TV crew to show up. But the increased demands on her time do not bother her.

"When people leave me alone, I'll be worried," she said.

"We've worked hard for it, and I'm going to cooperate as much as possi-ble. It's not just me. It's the players and Lynn and Jill (assistant coaches Pool and Rankin), too. But we have our No. 1 priority, which is what happens on the floor. We can't lose sight of that."

It's doubtful Conradt will let her team become affected by its success and the accompanying attention. The coach is a strong competitor who never becomes complacent. She's still the same old Jody who nitpicks after 35-point Southwest Conference victories.

"She's a perfectionist," point guard Kamie Ethridge said. 'Sometimes, it's hard for us to understand, but we help each other. She'll let you know when you're not playing up to your potential. But she'll also pat you on your back when you're doing well."

The eyes of the nation began focusing on Texas in November, when Cable News Network taped highlights of the Texas win over then top-ranked Georgia.

The game was covered extensively by both Atlanta newspapers and USA Today. After that victory, Conradt was quoted in Sports Illustrated and asked by USA Today to make a Super Bowl prediction.

But the media deluge really began Jan. 22, when the Horns moved up from No. 2 after Old Dominion lost.

Since then, nearly every metropolitan newspaper in Texas has written stories on the team. In addition, Conradt has taped a couple of highlight shows for a community cable channel and a segment for NBC-TV that will be aired Sunday at halftime of the Georgia-Kentucky

Last week, the team was honored at the Capitol; this week Conradt spoke at a junior high career day and, next week, she will address two local service clubs and attend an awards dinner at a UT dormitory.

"It's amazing how many things she can do at once," Texas women's athletic director Donna Lopiano said.

"She does it all, one thing independent of the other. She can change her mood and intensity for each thing. It was a zoo around here the day NBC came. But, if anyone can handle that kind of thing, it's Jody."

The Longhorns have won 14 consecutive games since losing to Southern Cal Dec. 29. While other top teams, including Old Dominion, Louisiana Tech and Southern Cal, have recently lost to unranked opponents, Texas keeps rolling, having won 94 straight games against SWC competition.

Ironically, No. 94 came against A&M, the last SWC team to beat Texas, a feat the Aggies accomplished Jan. 23, 1978 in College Station. The indelible losses are the ones that end seasons, most recently two defeats in the NCAA Midwest Regional finals at Louisiana Tech.

She knows that with the final four being played at the Erwin Center in Austin March 29 and 31, there is more pressure than usual to win whatever regional the Longhorns are sent to.

Conradt accepts it as part of the evolution of women's athletics. It sure beats the old days. Seven years ago, her job was a package deal that included coaching volleyball. At Sam Houston and Texas-Arlington, she coached at least two sports, taught classes and sometimes drove the "Right now, I'm having a great time," she said. "But I probably thought I was having a great time back then. I didn't know any better. I never looked down the road. I never thought all of this interest in women's basketball was possible."

"It's going to have to end sometime," Kings' guard Reggie Theus said Thursday, after the Lakers made his team their ninth straight victim in a 123-117 decision in the National Basketball Associa-

The Kings, who fell to 18-37, made a run at Los Angeles late in the game, but it wasn't enough. Kansas City has now dropped 12 in a row to the Lakers, with its last win coming

Replays to aid officials in USFL

NEW YORK (AP) - The use of a televised instant replay to decide controversial plays in football has long been a controversial issue in own," said ABC, which will televise itself. But that hasn't stopped Commissioner Harry Usher of the United States Football League from going ahead with it this season.

"After meeting with our football operations people, I decided that instant replay was an idea whose time had come," Usher said Thursday in announcing that the device, used on an experimental basis in two preseason games, would be used during Sunday's game between the Birmingham Stallions and New Jersey Generals.

'Our league is innovative, exciting, fresh and a place where football still is a game. I look at instant replay as something that's there. It makes sense to me and we're going to use it and see where it goes."

His opinion, though, is not shared by the networks who televise USFL games - ABC and the all-sports channel, ESPN. Reacting to Usher's announcement, both said they would not be involved in the replay process.

At ESPN, meanwhile, chief operating officer Scotty Connal said: 'We will continue to provide feeds of our live telecasts to monitors located in the press box. The USFL must utilize the replays that the viewers at home will see."

Appeals will be limited to three types of plays - whether a ball has been fumbled; whether a pass is complete, incomplete or intercepted; and whether a ballcarrier has penetrated the goal line.

AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc. ("AT&T Communications"), in accordance with the Public Utility Regulatory Act and the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas ("PUC") hereby gives notice of its intent to implement a new schedule of rates for its services. The new rates will be effective February 22, 1985, unless otherwise determined by the PUC. All customers and classes of customers would be affected by the proposed rates.

AT&T Communications has filed restructured tariffs designed to more closely recover access and other costs for private line, DATAPHONE' Digital Service, OCC Facilities. WATS and 800 services.

Also proposed is the institution of a charge for directory assistance to begin to recover access costs incurred for such service, and increases in rates for operator assisted AT&T Long Distance calls.

AT&T Communications is proposing to restructure its AT&T Long Distance Service and to reduce its overall revenues from basic long distance approximately $25

While long distance rates will, in most instances, be reduced, certain AT&T Long Distance rates are proposed to be increased to more nearly recover the access charges approved by the PUC for such service.

The proposed new rates for all services would result in an increase in adjusted test period revenues of $123.4 million, or 11.3 percent.

A complete copy of the proposed tariffs are on file with the Texas Public Utility Commission.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. DETROIT (AP) - It took Leon Spinks two years to find his way back into the boxing ring. It took him just over four rounds to successfully begin his comeback.

Spinks floored Lupe Guerra with a stinging left hook 43 seconds into the fourth round of their scheduled 10-pound cruiserweight match Thursday night, prompting referee Tom Briscoe to stop the fight.

The former World Boxing Association heavyweight champion had no sooner stepped out of the ring at Cobo Arena before he outlined his goals.

"I'm just going to take them one at a time," said Spinks, 31, who fought in only his 18th professional fight. "I felt pretty good out there. I'd like to fight Larry Holmes, but that's further on down the line."

Holmes, 46-0 and the current Inter-national Boxing Federation heavyweight champion, scored a third-round knockout over Spinks in the same arena in 1981.

Guerra's manager Ron Stander said the victory could be the start of a successful comeback for Spinks. It's been a long and rocky road for

He was on top of the world after capturing a gold medal at the 1976 Olympics as a light heavyweight and stunning Muhammad Ali Feb. 15, 1978, when he won a 15-round decision and the WBA crown. Ali regained the title in a return bout.

After losing to Holmes, Spinks had several run-ins with the law, including a concealed weapons charge in Detroit in June 1981.

Spinks only fought three times between that and Thursday night. His last fight was March 6, 1983, in Atlantic City, N.J., where he was knocked out in the sixth round by Sugar DeLeon and lost his North American Boxing Federation cruiserweight ti-

Last year, Spinks hooked up with the Kronk Gym and manager Emanuel Steward, who developed Thomas "Hit Man" Hearns and brothers Milton and Steve McCrory. Spinks soon made a new commitment and declared himself in his best

"He (Guerra) was the kind of guy I was looking for," Spinks said. "I felt the crowd was behind me, and that felt good. After being away for two years, you read a lot of things that people say."

Spinks, 196, was six pounds heavier than Guerra but was giving up 2 inches to the 6-foot-3 Omaha, Neb., native. Neither fighter had an edge in quickness, and Guerra seemed to be effective only during an exchange in the second round.

With the victory, Spinks raised his record to 13-4-2. Guerra, who has lost three of his last four fights, saw his record drop to 24-13-1.

Spinks' brother, Michael, is scheduled to defend his undisputed light heavyweight championship against David Sears on Saturday in Atlantic City.

Home teams beaten Thursday

By BARRY WILNER

AP Sports Writer There was something rotten in the Big Apple — all three hockey teams. For only the second time ever, the New York Rangers and Islanders and New Jersey Devils were at home on the same night. And all three were beaten Thursday, with Hartford edging the Rangers 4-3 in overtime, the Islanders falling to Winnipeg 3-2 and the Devils losing to Los Angeles 5-3.

In other National Hockey League games, it was Philadelphia 4, Toronto 1, and Washington 6, Vancouver 2.

A total of 44,001 fans saw the New York area hockey teams drop their games. The Rangers gave the crowd of 17,416 at Madison Square Garden plenty of hope, carrying a 3-1 lead into the final three minutes. But Ray Neufeld scored on a 2-on-1 break at 17:24 and Greg Malone tied it with 13

Jets 3, Islanders 2

Winnipeg, one of the NHL's most improved teams, picked up its 14th road victory — as many as the Jets had last season - to disappoint 15,721 fans at Nassau Coliseum. Doug Smail and Brian Mullen scored 70 seconds apart in the first 93 seconds of the second period and the Jets held on behind sparkling goaltending by Brian Hayward.

Kings 5, Devils 3

Los Angeles, like Winnipeg a team on the move up in the NHL standings, swept its three-game season series with New Jersey as Jim Fox scored a controversial goal at 16:10 of the second period to break a 3-3 tie. Fox appeared to kick a rebound past goalie Glenn Resch but referee Ron Fournier ruled the puck deflected off the skate of Fox and was not deliberately kicked in.

Flyers 4, Maple Leafs 1

Philadelphia extended its unbeaten streak to seven games (6-0-1) as the line of Brian Propp, Dave Poulin and Tim Kerr dominated the visiting Leafs. Propp goals.

Capitals 6, Canucks 2

Washington burst in a 1:53 span of the second period.

Washington's victory snapped Vancouver's six-game home winning streak. The victory for Caps goalie Pat Riggin tied the club record of 25 set by Al Jensen.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Added calcium

DEAR DR. LAMB - My friends tell me that, at 46, I should be taking a calcium supplement so that I don't eventually end up with a "widow's hump" and delicate bones. I maintain that because I run 30 miles a week and drink a half-quart of milk a day, I'll be all right, but my friends are beginning to make me nervous. I prefer not to take supplements of any kind, but to use natural foods and exercise to stay healthy. Am I on the right track? DEAR READER - Hurrah for your friends. They may save you a lot of trouble later. You may be on a calcium-deficient diet. Many adults are, and that has a lot to do with the reason so many women develop osteoporosis (dissolving bones), which causes the "widow's hump" you osteoporosis (dissolving bones), which causes the "widow's hump" you describe and leads to hip fractures and other serious problems. A half-quart of regular milk only provides about 600 mg. or less of calcium. The recommended daily dietary allowance (RDA) is 800 mg. Many authorities believe that a woman should increase her calcium intake when she approaches menopause. At the onset menopause and thereafter, she should either take an adequate should either take an adequate amount of estrogen replacement or consume 1,500 mg. of calcium a day.

Exercise is important. It makes bones stronger and affects subtle bone architecture. However, women who run a lot and are very thin may stop having menstrual periods, stop ovulating and actually lose bone tissue. This may have something to do with inadequate nutrition for the level of exercise.

MISS YOUR PAPER ON CARRIER ROUTE? Call 364-2030 between 6-7 p.m.

the "boy in a bubble," has been dead for a year now, but his parents still miss the "music of the motors" that was the symphony of life for their son.

For 12 years, the constant, only "David's Parents" or unwavering hum of motors pumping germ-free air into David's plastic bubble was the sound of hope, a droning promise that medical science would find for him a way to live in the outside world.

The motors fell silent forever on Feb. 22, 1984 when David died. An experimental treatment failed to provide him the immunity he needed for a normal life.

"I miss the music of the motors," said Carol Ann. David's mother. "It was the last thing I heard at night and the motors would lull me to sleep. They were the first thing I listened for in the morning.

After David died, she said, 'the house was so quiet it was eerie. We would cry ourselves

David's plight attracted international attention. A year after his death, he is remembered by thousands who still write letters, often delivered with addresses of

"Family of Bubble Boy." David was born with severe combined immune deficiency syndrome, a condition in which there is no immune protection from disease. He was defenseless against the dirty world.

Prenatal tests, taken because an older brother died of SCIDS, showed that David had the immune deficiency. He was delivered in 1972 by Caesarean section and placed immediately into a germ-free plastic bubble.

The bubbles grew in size as he did, and David lived in transparent isolation, untouched by a bare human hand or by a mother's kiss. His food was sterlized and limited. All his life he yearned for a Coke. He never got it.

HAD ME FOOLED, BUT NOT FOR LONG

Well then, am I suggesting that these laws of God are evil? Of course not! No, the law is not sinful but it was the law that showed me my sin I would never have known the sin in my heart--the evil desires that are hidden there--if the law had not said. "You must not have evil desires in your heart." But sin used this law against evil desires by reminding me that such desires are wrong and arousing all kinds of forbidden desires within me! Only if there were no such laws to break would there be no sinning.

That is why I felt fine so long as I did not understand what the law really demanded. But when I learned the truth, I realized that I had broken the law and was a sinner, doomed to die. So far as I was concerned, the good law which was supposed to show me the way of life resulted instead in my being given the death penalty. Sin fooled me by taking the good laws of God and using them to make me guilty of death.

But still, you see, the law itself was wholly right and good. But how can that be? Didn't the law cause my doom? How then can it be good? No, it was sin, devilish stuff that it is, that used what was good to bring about my condemnation. So you can see how cunning and deadly and damnable it is. For it uses God's good laws for its own evil purposes. ,-Romans 7:7-13

His parents, Carol Ann and David Sr., who agreed to be interviewed by The Associated Press on condition their last name not be used, viewed David's life in the bubble as only temporary, just a safe place for their son to wait until a cure could be found. But as the wait stretched from months into years, they tried to create for David a real boyhood, with friends. schooling and a warm family

A series of bubble chambers was constructed in the living and dining rooms of the family home.

Airtight, black rubber gloves extended into the bubble, permitting David to reach out, or the family to reach in. Those gloves were used to deliver both hugs and, when needed, spankings, said

David attended school by telephone and participated in classroom activities, even competing in a spelling bee. His grades were above.

Only rarely was there a moment when a family member was not with David. Each night, his parents or his sister. slept on a pallet beside the bubble. Except for times when he was in the hospital. Carol Ann and David Sr. were away from their son together only five times in 12 years.

"The times we did go out, we were not complete," his mother said. "We were complete as a family, here, together, in this house.

David missed picnics, sailing and skiing," she said. "But he did enjoy many. many things. It was a good life, a quality life. He developed quite normally and quite naturally."

David's memory is bright at the Texas Children's Hospital where he was a patient periodically all his life. and where he died. The David Fund, started at the hospital after his death. has received 1,442 donations, at least one from every state, Canada and France, and totals $204,147. The money has been used by the hospital to treat 160 children, all with immune difficulties. Two with SCIDS have been cured with the treatment that failed

"He stands out as the family sought. clearest example of immune deficiency," said Dr. William T. Shearer, David's principal physician. "There is no other person who is so well known. I travel to other countries and they know instantly who David is. No other explanation is needed."

Ordinary people remember David, too. Bundles of letters arrive daily at the hospital.

"There are boxes and boxes of letters at the hospital," Carol Ann said. "I go there often and work all day processing them."

Shearer believes David will be the last child ever to be placed in such isolation. At the time he was born, there was no cure for SCIDS. Children with it died. It was that simple.

"David was put into isolation to await a development that might save his life," Shearer said. "Medicine had the ability to prolong his life, but not the technology to cure the problem. New technology is now here. It is still experimental, byt at least you can offer survival." When he was born, nobody expected David would be isolated for 12 years, becoming the longest surviving victim of untreated SCIDS. "We waited all those years for something to come along that would give us better than a 50-50 chance," said Carol Ann. And while they waited.

David grew up. Eventually, it became clear he wanted out and was ready to risk the loss of his safe isolation for a chance at freedom.

"He never expressed to me that he wanted out," his father said. "But the time did come, and David sensed it, that we had to try something."

Carol Ann agrees: "David was ready. He was primed. David had reached a certain time in his life when he was changing. He didn't say it but he was indicating that something had to be done."

Researchers had developed a method of transplanting unmatched bone marrow as a way of curing SCIDS. It was used in cases similar to David's, where matched bone marrow was not available. It was experimental, but offered the 50-50 chance the

The family asked Shearer to try the new method. The doctor explained the dangers death, cancer, severe infections. But also, he said, there was a hope of success. David understood and both he and his parents signed consent papers.

In October, 1983, David received the transplant of treated marrow that had been taken from his sister. Then he waited.

Nothing happened until January, and then it was bad. First there was fever and then diarrhea and vomiting. It kept on, day after day, and soon Shearer realized David had to leave the bubble to receive treatment

On Feb. 7, a seal was removed and Shearer gently helped David to a gurney. The boy was wrapped in sterile sheets and whisked to a room that had been scrubb-

His family, gowned and gloved, met him there. Briefly, there was joy. For the first time they could hug outside the bubble. David sat in a chair for the first time and, in awe, touched ordinary things in the room.

But David grew sicker and finally told Shearer: "Nothing is working and I'm getting tired. Why don't we just pull all of these tubes out and let me go home?"

"I think he meant to say he knew he was dying," Carol Shearer gave the family some time alone. Carol Ann told the boy of her love and David, in his last words to his mother, replied, "I love you allytoo.

The doctor then told to David that he was to be placed on a respirator. It would require sedation that would put him to sleep, Shearer explained.

"He agreed and winked a me and that was the last communication," said the doctor The family returned and to touch her son. "It was the first time, ever. that I touched his hand," she wrote in People Magazine. I lifted my mask. I kissed him. It was the first time, and the last time
