

Crop Outlook Is 'Better Than Average'

Deaf Smith County crops—which pour large sums into the local economy year after year—appear to be on their way to a "better than average" year, according to County Agent Juston McBride.

The local outlook goes right along with the state outlook that all major crops, with the exception of corn and rice, are expected to exceed production levels of a year ago.

"Across the board, and overall, I think we've got a very good crop," McBride said. "Perhaps this year's crop is a little better than average."

Increased production in 1972 is expected as a result of an increase in acres for harvest and higher yield prospects over last year, according to reports from the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Locally, McBride said corn and grain sorghum are holding their own while the potato and onion crops are making progress.

"Our grain sorghum looks as good to me at this time as we have had in a good long while. I don't know if I should make a comparison with past years, but as a whole it looks real good. It appears to be maturing out possibly a little earlier than usual and the prospects look good for an excellent harvest," the county agent said.

Grain sorghum production is forecast, for the state, at 336 million bushels, up 11 per cent from last year. Yield is expected to average 60 bushels per acre compared to 52 bushels in 1971. Harvest across the state now is approaching the half-way mark.

The sugar beet crop has promises of being one of the best in recent years.

"Our beets look real good, but there is a lot of infestation of leaf spot which will require close watching," McBride said. "It could burn beet tops down yet, but with continued spray programs into September, we could control it. We ought to end up with a better than average crop for the past few years."

The cotton crop for this county will be "a little short" because a lot of it was hailed out earlier. However, across the state, the cotton crop is estimated at more than 1 million bales above last year.

Production this season is set now at 3.6 million bales, which is an increase of 1,021,000 bales over production in 1971. Production last year was the smallest since 1946.

Cattle production, another vital ingredient in the local economy, also is on the upswing.

Texas continues to be the No. 1 cattle feeding state in the nation, according to agriculture department officials, with this area topping the state.

There are 2.12 million head of cattle and calves on feed for slaughter as of Aug. 1 in Texas. This is 29 per cent above a year ago, but virtually the same as the number on feed a month ago.

Placements into Texas feedlots during July totaled 370,000 head. These placements are 39 per cent above July 1971 but 18 per cent below the previous month.

Plans Erased for 118-Bed Facility

Care Home Is Cancelled

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says the average man would rather be a millionaire with problems than remain a poor man with troubles.

A young boy came home from his first day at school with a black eye. His mother wanted to know if that was part of his education. The boy answered, "Yes, I learned today why a young gentleman should never hit a young lady."

At the recent West Texas Press meeting in Brownwood, we heard a publisher talking about some new bumper stickers he had spotted. The first read: "Don't Let Mac Govern"; the second: "Re-elect Nixon. He Kept Us Out of Ireland"; the third: "Will Rogers Never Met George McGovern".

And, speaking of the convention, The Brand picked up two awards in the Better Newspaper Contest—a first in news photography, and a second in advertising composition.

Presidents of various civic clubs got together this week to discuss plans for the upcoming Mahon visit and, at the same time, decided to form a "presidents' council." Jim Lindsey, C of C executive vice president, was elected as chairman of the group and an organizational meet is planned soon.

Aim of the civic and service club council will be to coordinate activities of the various club and work together on large projects of interest to the entire community.

Hereford resident are ready and willing to help their neighbors when misfortune strikes—if they know about it. That's the message we got in a letter to the editor which is published in today's Brand. The letter comes from a lady who lost her home in a fire, and she defends the citizens and the letter writer who complained in Thursday's Brand that people did not respond.

School gets underway here Monday, and that should make some mothers happy—now they might have a little peace and quiet around the house during the day!

Whiteface gridders start drills Monday on a limited scale, then don the pads Friday for the real contact work. The Herd candidates were supposed to run a mile in less than 6½ minutes Friday, and only a few failed to make the timing. Those few will be asked to do an "encore" and break the speed limit. The new turf at Whiteface Stadium is looking great!

Don't worry about finding your station in life; someone will be sure to tell you where to get off.

Plans for a large new care home in Hereford, announced in June, have been cancelled "due to circumstances beyond our control," it was announced today by Virgil Justice, participating owner in the proposed facility for the elderly.

Financing had been arranged for the 118-bed facility, which was scheduled to be constructed in west Hereford between Bradley and Campbell streets. Construction was originally planned to start in late July.

According to Justice, plans for the new home were stalled when the planners "could not show adequate medical help in support of the facility." He added that sponsorship of a local physician was needed, and their "workloads simply would not permit them to take on the added responsibility."

Justice reported the project had been kept alive on the possibility that a physician might move to Hereford and assume the responsibility of a sponsor. However, this prospect failed to materialize this week, and the project was cancelled.

"We are disappointed in announcing cancellation of the project," said Justice, "but there was a problem which we did not anticipate."

He added that "we want to make it clear that we are not blaming local doctors... they have been very cooperative and considerate."

Cost of the proposed home had been estimated at about $550,000 when completed and ready for occupancy. Initial plans called for a building composed of a central hub with seven wings extending from this large nurses station.

When the project was unveiled in June, Justice announced the new home was being built to meet the growing need of the Hereford area for more facilities to care for the elderly. He noted that existing homes are full and waiting lists are growing daily.

County to Welcome Mahon on Aug. 30

Hereford is preparing to roll out the maroon carpet for Congressman George Mahon when he makes a "get-acquainted" visit to the city on Aug. 30.

Deaf Smith County will be included in Mahon's 19th Congressional District with realignment in January, and the veteran U.S. Representative from Texas will be visiting around his district during the recess of Congress from Aug. 18 to Sept. 5.

Heading up the "welcoming committee" for Mahon will be presidents of civic clubs and the Chamber of Commerce. A planning session called Wednesday by Melvin Jayroe, C of C president, included leaders of various clubs in the city. They are making plans for a "Mahon Appreciation Day."

The group made plans for a luncheon at the Bull Barn on Wednesday, Aug. 30, with the public invited to attend and meet the Congressman. Tickets will be on sale at the C of C office at $2 a plate.

Arrangements are also being made for Rep. Mahon to appear at a high school assembly Wednesday morning, and at a coffee Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 4:30 p.m.

The Lubbock Democrat has been a member of the U.S. House since his election to the 74th Congress in November, 1934. Only three members of the House have in the Senate out rank him in length of service. He has served as chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee since 1964.

As a member of Congress, Mahon has been interested in all legislation, but he has been most active in defense and agricultural matters. His wife, Helen, will accompany him on his visit to Hereford.

In an announcement this week, Mahon said he would spend two weeks in his district following the recess of Congress on Aug. 18. Congress will reconvene on Sept. 5 and has set Sept. 30 as the target date for final adjournment.

Mahon expressed the hope that the Sept. 30 adjournment day could be met, but pointed out that much additional work remains to be done.

In a statement, Mahon said, "I will present to the House in mid-September the big defense appropriation bill totalling in excess of $75 billion. I predict that the appropriation work of the Congress will be completed in September, and that the sums made available for all purposes will not greatly exceed the President's total budget. There will be increases and decreases; in my judgment, however, some bills will be considerably in excess of requirements."

Mahon said that a lame-duck session of Congress after the election would be a mistake and that he was pressing for final adjournment before the election.

GED Testing Is Changed

The next GED Testing has been postponed until Aug. 28-29 because of conflicts with school activities, according to Robert Thompson, test director.

The tests will be given at the administration board room in the administration building, beginning at 8:30 a.m. on both days.

Further information concerning the GED tests can be obtained by contacting Thompson at the high school at 364-0617 or at his home at 364-0843.

MOMENT OF TRUTH
The paramount issue at this time of year seems to center around the fall elections.

MS RESULTS—Linda Broadfoot of the Amarillo-based Muscular Sclerosis association, receives a check from co-chairmen Dale Smith, center, and Bill Bankston. The local drive was conducted Thursday and Friday and netted some $1,000 which will go for MS research. The Jaycees and Jaycee-Ettes sponsored the drive in which some 40 persons helped canvass the city.

Enrollment Totals Given

The new 1972-73 school year gets underway with classes starting Monday in Hereford public schools, after enrollment Thursday and Friday showed a total of 4,453 students.

The enrollment was slightly under last year's beginning registration of 4,571, but the totals are far below the expected peak enrollment in September.

Bob Holman, assistant superintendent, explained that late enrollees, including a large number of migrant family students, would probably push the total up around 5,700 in September. This is the customary pattern on enrollment here, he said.

The initial registration showed 2,532 in elementary schools, 1,132 in the two junior highs, and 789 in high school. The 5-year-old kindergarten had 149 to enroll, and the 4-year-old program had 81 to register so far.

Boosters Set First Meeting

Football drills start Monday; contact work gets underway on Friday, and Hereford Booster Club is catching the "football fever."

The adult boosters will hold their first meeting of the new year on Aug. 28, according to president James Higgins. The meeting will be at the Community Center beginning at 7:30 p.m., and a film of the Dallas Cowboy's victory in the Super Bowl is on the program.

Higgins said the club will also make plans for an ice-cream supper for the Whiteface gridders. It is scheduled for Aug. 29, following an intrasquad scrimmage.

The new booster chief also announced that meetings will be open to women who are interested in joining the club.

DUE CREDIT
Be sure you're right, but don't be too sure the fellow across the street is always wrong.

MIDDLE-AGE SPREAD
The average middle-aged man would be happier if he had less weight to throw around.

REGISTRATION DAY—Youngsters from the first grade through high school turned out in large numbers Thursday for registration for the coming school year. Friday it was all teachers as they underwent in-service work in preparation for Monday's first day of school. Initial enrollment totalled only 4,453 but school officials expect the number to hit about 5,700 in September.

Old Labor Camp Area Faces Water Problem

As state pressures bear down on them, the Hereford Project Water System Association, has turned to legal authorities in an attempt to find out what can be done about improving the water supply of the area southwest of the city limits.

Officials of the state health department, in a visit here earlier this month, gave the association 30 days in which to comply with state standards.

"The state health department man gave us 30 days from the 6th of this month, so we just have a few days to find out what we can do," A.L. Ortiz, president of the association, said.

Blood Bank Drive Continues

The Coffee Memorial Blood Bank will be in Hereford Aug. 30 to take donations for Hereford's supply.

The bank and volunteers will be at the Community Center from 4 to 6 p.m. and all persons planning to donate blood should contact Barbara McCrary prior to the scheduled date.

Presently Hereford's supply is about even after fluctuating a great deal over the past few months.

FCA Supper Thursday

A chicken supper for all Fellowship of Christian Athletes members—adult chapter and huddle group chapter—will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Community Center building, it was announced Saturday by Earl Stagner, president of the FCA adult chapter.

Stagner said all adults interested in joining the FCA chapter are invited to the supper. It is membership sign-up time and dues are $10 per year. Mike Mayberry is president of the high school "huddle group."

Program for the supper will be a report on the FCA camp which athletes recently attended at Ft. Collins, Colo.

The last trip the Amarillo-based blood bank made to Hereford resulted in only 10 pints of blood for the local supply. Mrs. McCrary said some 40 persons had promised to show up to donate blood, but only 12 did.

Mrs. McCrary, who is heading up the local drive, said several different agencies have been contacted for support of the blood program, but nothing has developed at this time.

Ortiz said the state health official conducted tests of the water from the well and said they "are not too favorable."

Kids are inseparable; at least in clenches

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

My children are inseparable — in the clenches, that is. When two kids can't pass each other in the hallway without delivering karate chops and bolo punches, psychologists call it "sibling rivalry" — but I'm ready to call it quits.

"Why can't you be nice to each other?" I asked just last week and they both looked at me in dismay. "We are!" they said in unison — the first thing they'd agreed on in weeks. They seemed amazed that I considered their strife anything but delightful.

"Are you kidding?" I replied, and climbed onto my imaginary soapbox. "Listen," I began, and I could tell they were about as excited as hearing words of wisdom from me as watching educational TV. But I went on, nevertheless.

"You two will have to realize that the family unit within the home is where true brotherhood and peace begins." I paused. They looked at me expectantly — I think they were waiting for a commercial.

"You will have to also realize," I continued, "that if you can't keep from socking each other in your own living room, you will have one heck of a time making it with your fellow man in the huge marketplace of life."

They were swaying with boredom.

"Did you hear me?" I asked. And they said yes, yes, they had heard me.

Only would I please tell him to stop leaving graham cracker crumbs in the mouthpiece of her phone, and would I please tell her to stop using his hair spray.

I said I'd try. And I will, too. I'll try to remember what the psychologists say: that my children are just vying for my attention and that they will not only grow up, but grow up to like each other.

So, go to your corners, kids, and come out loving.

Approximately three-fourths of the 800 million people on the China mainland speak Chinese. Mandarin, the most popular dialect, is spoken by 500 million people. Another 55 million

Simple shots are only a starting point

By GILBERT HILL
Copley News Service

Don't give up! Because the great interest in photography for so many, apparently, is the challenge — some call it frustration — of finding ever new, better, and virtually unending ways to say something with a camera.

Almost anyone can make a simple picture with a simple camera. And, for thousands, that's where photography ends. But for thousands of others it is the starting point.

There comes the time to "try to do better — learn something — about photography." It may be the arrival of the first child, a vacation trip, a visit to a photographic show, or appreciation of a friend's pictures, that begins a lifetime of fun, exploring that "do it better" trail, a step at a time.

There's no hurry. And there is no limit on speed either, for learning. You set your own pace. But every step it seems, opens another door to possibilities, and raises more questions.

But where do you get the answers to those questions — the one that's bugging you right now at your stage of progress — where do you start to learn about photography?

Your local camera store can be a starting point, and a gold mine of information, in several ways. Most good stores have an older hand around with varied and sound experience in photography, who has decided to "slow down a little," but doesn't want to leave photography entirely, so gets a job selling photo supplies.

He — or she — is the one who at least has an idea about your problem, and can send you out, eager once more, to find out if the suggestion is actually the solution.

But even without that personal help there is almost always a big display of books, brochures, and pamphlets where it pays off well to spend a little time. Many of the best — and most practical — ones are either free, or cost under $1. Of course they may be devoted to a particular manufacturer's firm. And the suggestions made, the data given, is almost always universal anyway — applies equally well to anyone's product.

There are the more expensive books, too, which illustrate the point that anyone interested in photography has the whole world as a subject. Most of these texts deal with a "specialty," and it can be anything from insects to pretty girls, from scenery to product photography.

But the most important thing about camera stores is that they tend to become "hang-outs" for people who are interested in the same thing you're doing. You have a common ground on which to talk, to trade information, and gather ideas.

More often than not there'll be someone in the store who you know by name and reputation but never hoped to meet. And it is always a bit of a surprise to the beginner to find that this fellow is perfectly willing to give even a stranger all the help he can.

And why not — that's the way, undoubtedly, that he's learned most of what he knows, by reading, listening, and asking questions of someone who had had a different experience. And he's learning something from you, probably about the new gadget you've bought that he hasn't had time to use.

Actually, the camera store has served well as the "school" that simply doesn't exist for thousands who are in photography "just for fun," who couldn't and wouldn't spend either the time or the money for more formal training because they're convinced they are "not that interested." But you couldn't tell it! And there are other ways of learning, too.

Lots of misfits got to be misfits by trying to fit themselves as men of distinction.

The man on the way up must have a good head and be pointed in the right direction.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I am writing this regarding a letter sent to you by a Mr. Walker. It seems a little unfair to those few who have helped. I am sure he meant well and I appreciate his trying to help.

It made some angry and others amused by it. But, after all, how could anyone know about our fire when there wasn't a word in our paper? I had friends who didn't know about it until I called them several days later, and they wondered why the story wasn't in The Brand. I understand that KPN carried the news but so many people do not listen to the radio.

It's quite a shock to come home and find everything you own gone up in smoke. When I left home to run some errands, everything was intact. When my husband located me, I couldn't believe it until I saw it.

The statement, "where the man worked", in the letter seems to have caused some controversy. People are wanting to know why he lost his job. My husband is still employed and the people at Big Tex Feed Yards have been very kind.

Now that I have defended the local residents, I would like to defend Mr. Walker. Until his letter appeared, only a few people knew of our misfortune. As one lady said, "If we don't know, how can we help?"

Since then, some members of our church and three other people I didn't know have helped. We are so grateful to them. A very kind gentleman has offered us the use of a mobile home until we can find a house.

With us it may create a problem. Although we have no children, we have a German shepherd and a bobcat. A dog people can understand, but you should see the reaction I get and the expression on people's faces when they find out our bobcat is for real!

Dear Editor,

THE ART OF GIVING
In gratitude for God's gift of life to us we should share that gift with others. The art of giving encompasses many areas. It is an outgoing, overflowing way of life.

Basically we give what we are. "The thoughts you think," wrote Maeterlinck, "will irradiate you as though you are a transparent vase."

The gift of things are never as precious as the gifts of thought.

Emerson said it well: "Rings and jewels are not gifts, but apologies for gifts. The only true gift is a portion of thyself."

We give of ourselves when we give gifts of the heart: love, joy, kindness, understanding, sympathy, tolerance, forgiveness...

We give of ourselves when we give gifts of the mind; ideas, dreams, purposes, ideals, principles, plans, inventions, projects, poetry...

We give of ourselves when we give gifts of the spirit: prayer, vision, beauty, aspiration, peace, faith...

We give of ourselves when we give the gift of time; when we are minute builders of more abundant living for others...

We give of ourselves when we give the gift of words: encouragement, inspiration, guidance...

We should give of ourselves with the radiant warmth of sunshine and the glow of the open fire.

We should give our community a good man.

We should give our home a devoted husband and father.

We should give our country a loyal citizen.

We should give our world a life toward "that one far-off divine event toward which all creation moves."

The finest gift a man can give to his age and time is the gift of a constructive and creative life.

Nuclear Power Plants Seen As Future Power Source

Nuclear power plants will be lighting up Texas within eight years and by the year 2000 will furnish a major part of the state's massive and rapidly expanding electricity demand. State health authorities, who will assist the Atomic Energy Commission in supervising development of the plants and monitoring of their operations, say they expect six nuclear generating plants to be in operation in Texas in the 1980's, with another nearby plant in Louisiana also furnishing part of the state's electrical needs. "Failure to consider nuclear power as a necessary alternative source of electricity from the fossil fuel plants now in operation in Texas would be to ignore a pressing need and follow a road that would lead to a vast energy problem," said Dr. J.R. Maxfield, Jr., chairman of the Texas Radiation Advisory Board to the Texas State Department of Health. The facets of that problem include potential power blackouts, brownouts, curtailed use of electricity by the public, possible higher prices, continued pollution from fossil fuel plants, and a vulnerability to the demands of oil-producing nations of the world. "Texas will face the probability of electrical brownouts in the major metropolitan areas in the 1980's if we don't develop an alternative power source to fossil fuel," said Dr. Maxfield. "We will find ourselves in the predicament the east coast of the U.S. now faces, with brownouts and blackouts a fact of life." "Texas is reasonably well-supplied with fossil fuel at the moment, but within the next 10 years we will be facing a crisis. If we don't move now to develop nuclear power as a generating source for electricity, the day will come when we will have to have a curtailment of power to industry and for the home. Limitations will have to be placed on the use of air conditioning or refrigeration. Industry will have to be rationed in the number of hours its plants can run per day." Despite this apparent desperate need for an alternative energy source, wherever nuclear power plants are under consideration in Texas criticism is heard, primarily from environmental effects are too great. "Nothing could be farther from the truth, according to extensive studies and data accumulated over the past several years," said Martin C. Wukasz, director of the Occupational Health and Radiation Control Division of the State Health Department. "The safety record of the 22 nuclear power plants now in operation in the United States is an even 100 per cent. The total operating experience of these 22 plants is equal to about 100 years, and there has never been a radiation release that exceeded regulatory guidelines. These nuclear plants are constructed with almost 'fail-safe' self-quenching safety mechanisms. And in normal operation, the nuclear plants emit less radiation to the environment than naturally occurring cosmic radiation. There is certainly no radiation problem posed by radiation emissions from the red granite in the State Capitol building, but the Capitol emits more radiation than would a nuclear power plant." "The knowledge that a nuclear power reactor contains many millions of curies of radioactive fission products has led to the conscious imposition of severe safety standards by designers and operators. The release of even a small fraction of this radioactivity in any circumstance, including a serious accident, is so unlikely as to be deemed incredible by normal engineering judgment. Health officials have calculated the odds on the possible release of radiation from a nuclear power plant to the environment, even under conditions of a serious accident, to be less than the probability of a meteorite striking an individual on the surface of the earth. Since Texas has become an "Agreement State" with the Atomic Energy Commission, the State Health Department will play a vital role in environmental surveillance and monitoring in the planning phase, the development and construction, and the day-to-day operations of nuclear power plants in the state. No other program comes under stricter state supervision. At least 15 state agencies will have the opportunity to review the environmental impact of these plants and advise the Executive Department, who in turn will advise the Environmental Protection Agency and the Atomic Energy Commission of any undesirable or potential ecological problems. "The major problem with conventional plants is potential air pollution," said Dr. Maxfield. "Nuclear plants pose no radiation problems, there is no air pollution, and the only factor to contend with is 'thermal enhancement', which too many people call thermal pollution. The heated water released from nuclear plants raises the receiving stream or pond only two to three degrees warmer and can actually be used to benefit the environment, by preventing frost around citrus trees or enabling us to grow bigger fish in winter faster than in surrounding water bodies."

Veteran's Affairs

Q. — I am the daughter of a Korean Conflict veteran who was totally and permanently disabled by a service connected injury. I am eligible for VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance, but wonder if I can go to school less than half time?
A. — Yes. However, payment will be limited to tuition cost, not to exceed $175 if you train less than half time.

Q. — I need funds to finance my son's college education. May I borrow on my GI insurance for that purpose?
A. — Yes, provided you have a permanent plan GI insurance policy over one year old. If you do, you can borrow up to 94 percent of its cash value. Current interest rate on such loans is five per cent.

Q. — I understand anyone may buy a VA repossessed home. Where can I get a list of real estate brokers who handle such properties?
A. — The loan guaranty officer in the VA regional office in the area where you want to buy will provide such a list if you write or phone your request.

The future is a certainty—the problem is what is it going to bring with it.

The fellow who is first to butt in is the first to back out.

Tech Coach Speaker At FCA Conference

FT. COLLINS, COL.—Jim Carlen has been called "The Deacon" and cartoonized with a halo, but the Texas Tech head football mentor ignores it and bluntly maintains that what coaches and athletes and American youth in general need is the leadership of Jesus Christ for a complete, fulfilled life.

Hunting, Fishing Licenses Mailed

AUSTIN—Patience, Texas sportsmen, the 1972-73 hunting and fishing licenses are on the way.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will mail over two million licenses Aug. 11. License sales deputies throughout the state should receive their consignments this weekend or by the first of the week.

The two million figure included 729,425 resident hunting, 218,240 exempt, 11,575 nonresident and 1,062,400 fishing licenses.

The department will also send 62,940 White-winged Dove Stamps to be used in the coming three-day whitewing hunt.

Last year's permits expire Aug. 31, so outdoorsmen should make the purchase of a license part of the yearly preparation for the fall season.

Resident hunting licenses cost $3.25; exempt ones for those under 17 years of age or over 65, are 25 cents. Fishing licenses are $2.15.

Licenses are available throughout the state for authorized dealers such as sporting goods stores and other retail outlets as well as department offices.

draws, Bill Carrothers, Butch Casey, Bryan Clark, Alan Cornelius, David Crume, David Duvall, Alvin Ellerd, Wallace Hill, Keith Kitchens, Mike Mayberry, Steve Nieman, Tony Ohlig, Terry Poindexter, Terry Scott, Win Short, James Waites and Dan Vander Zee.

"We don't make a big issue of Christianity, of course," Carlen stated. "I never force Christianity on my players or anyone else. I wouldn't call myself pious but I wouldn't be a Christian if I didn't try to live my faith and try to share it through my life and counseling. I try to show my players the really important thing in life by living my Christianity. If I say a boy shouldn't drink, smoke or use drugs and then do it myself, it makes a big difference in my effectiveness."

"Also, I think players and all young people are feeling a vacuum in their lives; they don't feel fulfilled. They're looking for an answer. We are the most educated people in history; so we've gone the book route. We are the most successful nation financially—so much so that we call it poverty when we give a man $350 a month. We have more big cars, more colored television sets and more of everything going for us, and we still haven't made it. So what's the next step? Young people are trying drugs and it's still not giving them that sense of having a fulfilled life. There still is that vacuum."

"I happen to believe that Christ can fill that vacuum, that hunt for contentment and satisfaction. He should be No. 1 in our lives. Many may not agree with me, but still the name of Christ keeps popping up among young people and they keep clinging to it as the answer."

Some people, Carlen revealed, criticized an open show of faith such as before-game prayers: "But when you're in a situation where you have to visit the family of a player who has been killed in an auto accident and they ask you to pray with them, then practicing Christianity isn't offensive at all.

"I think that a coach has to meet many crises in the young lives of his players. That is, if a coach is interested in young people. Now many people may be a lot smarter than I am because they avoid all conflicts with a young man, but I think if I'm not there to help him with his problems, then I'm really saying to him that it's fine just as long as we just talk about it, but when we get down to his little problem or something that might be controversial, let me out. I can't stand such an attitude. That's the reason my coaches are so close to my players."

The Texas Tech team has a devotional hour on the day of each game and a prayer before each game and after. "The players themselves asked for it," Carlen said. "We allotted the time and the coaches join in. Sunday mornings we have a loosening-up practice and tend to injuries, but we always see to it we are finished in plenty of time for them to attend church. We encourage them to do so."

As head coach, of course, Carlen can choose his assistants.

"My first requisite is that they are practicing Christians. I don't want to have to lecture about loyalty; I feel my coaches, being Christian, know what loyalty is. I don't think you should have to sit down and use paper and pencil to discuss what love is or what it means to get along with your fellow coaches and players, or what it means to have an argument and come back and treat the other person as a brother. I want the harmony of Christian love."

All but one of his assistants teaches Sunday School, Carlen revealed, and he himself has done so for many years. "We make countless talks in a month's time and we often speak at Sunday services."

A strong FCA supporter since 1957, Carlen said that he believes the campus turmoils of the 1960s affected also the athletes and many coaches turned to religion for help. Many of those who came to FCA conferences found themselves getting more involved than they planned and now they are big workers for the FCA.

"When I was in the Southeastern Conference we got to the point that every college had at least one coach and four athletes go to FCA conference each year."

The Texas Tech boss said that his faith comes out even in his recruiting which he claims is tougher in Texas than any place in the nation. "It's natural that I should talk about religion among the other qualities which I want in a boy. I want to let the parents know, also that I'm concerned about their faith and their morality."

"I hope that someday someone sells my son on the idea that just because you leave home and go out on your own, there is no reason you should forsake church and not take part in Christian fellowship."

Dragers Register Record Fish Catch

Abraham and Bertha Drager and their three sons returned recently from a Ute Lake fishing trip with a record family catch.

Mrs. Drager hauled in a 13.25 pounder, her son George had an 11 pounder, David had a 9.75 pounder and Paul had a 7.75 pounder. Together, the four fish weighed 41.75 pounds.

The family also caught other blue catfish and channel catfish while on the two-day excursion. The Dragers, who have lived in the Westway Community since 1947, were asked to sign a registration form at the lake, verifying the fish they caught. It was believed to be a record for one family.

The three sons were all visiting the Dragers for the weekend. David lives in Friona, George in Lawton, Okla., and Paul in Albuquerque, N.M.

Success is apt to come to those who haven't time to wait.

Stamps Feature 1972 Olympics

By PAUL J. WEIS
Copley News Service

A set of four new postage stamps has been released in Nassau, Bahamas. The release date was July 11, 1972.

The special set of commemorative stamps saluted the Olympic Games that will be held in Munich, Germany from August 26 to September 16, 1972.

Four different sports are depicted: sailing, running, cycling, and high jumping. The denominations are 10 cents, 11 cents, 15 cents and 18 cents. Souvenir sheets bearing the four stamps, at a cost of 54 cents, will be on sale.

Orders for the stamps and any questions concerning other issues will be answered by: The Postmaster, Philatelic Section, General Post Office, Nassau, N.P., Bahamas. Orders for stamps must be accompanied by Bankers Draft, Money Order, Postal Order or Certified Check to cover the cost of the stamps.

A view of Venice as it appeared in 1581, spread over a block of four 50-cent stamps, was featured on a series of six stamps from the Vatican that were issued earlier in the month. On the two additional stamps, a 25-cent stamp depicted a mosaic of the 12th-13th century in the Basilica of St. Mark in Venice; and a 180-cent stamp reproduced a painting by Egidio Lancellotti of a front view of the Basilica under a stylized sun.

The 50-cent block was adapted from a fresco in the Vatican's Gallery of Maps, painted under the direction of Ignazio Danti, the cosmographer. The mosaic on the 25-cent stamp represents an episode in the legend of St. Mark.

The lagoon city of Venice has ecological and other problems, including those of its structures built in piles sinking into its turbid waters.

Expectant mothers should watch weight

By ELEANOR B. RODGERSON, M.D.
Copley News Service

Q. I am planning my first pregnancy. How much weight should I gain? I am a little overweight now.

A. Obstetricians are not stressing the limitation of weight as much as they used to. I knew several women in the past who were afraid to go back to their doctors for prenatal visits if they had gained more weight than recommended. Today it is felt that developing babies should not have dieting mothers. But the food eaten must be well-balanced with a good supply of the vital proteins. A woman must not overeat sweets and starches.

If you are overweight now, it is advisable to get down to normal before you become pregnant. Doctors worry a great deal about their fat patients. These women seem to have more complications, perhaps because the complications are harder to handle. Simple procedures, like moving the patients, can become major undertakings and, if, for some reason, a Caesarian Section has to be done, a thick abdominal wall makes the operation difficult and can readily become infected post-operatively.

Moderation in eating habits usually resolves overweight and keeps pounds under control during pregnancy. Will power on the part of the patient is necessary because she is hungry when she is pregnant. Remembering the slinky dresses she wants to get back into after her pregnancy is often enough to fortify her will power.

Q. Will you please put my mind at ease? Could there be any after effects, such as pain in another part of the body, after having root canal work done?

A. Since I am a gynecologist, I imagine you are referring to pain in the region of the pelvic organs. For an answer, you would have to tell me more about it. Prophecy has it that, sometime in the future, gynecologists, who now only take care of the normal and abnormal functions of women's reproductive organs, will become "the woman's doctor" and care for many things. We will have to know a lot more about general medicine than we do now, but, until then, most of us will continue to specialize in our specific fields.

I suppose there could be a "nervous" referral of pain from the root canal to the brain and to some other organ, but, for safety's sake, see your doctor and be examined.

Q. My problem is this: my doctor took me off the birth control pills I have used for five years because I began to have headaches and my blood pressure went up. I planned to use foam instead and have my boyfriend use a condom, but my boyfriend refuses to use a condom and he doesn't like diaphragms. I don't feel safe with just the foam. So we haven't been having intercourse. Now he tells me there are other women after him. I think I am modern in my thinking, but I'm afraid I will lose him. I'm terribly upset. The doctor wanted me to stay off the pills long enough to see whether my blood pressure would come down. What should I do?

A. I hope the doctor who took you off birth control pills is not getting the blame for disturbance of your romance. It seems to me the problem is not the medication or lack of it, but the relationship with the boyfriend and the need to decide what the future of that relationship will be. Is your boyfriend worth holding by intercourse alone? Will you have to sanction other affairs on his part? Is this boyfriend really your ideal? You have to make some decisions all on your own.

SAME OLD STORY

Some people seem to think that having the ability to dodge the consequences is a much better policy than honesty.

Doctors used to be good guys

By IRWIN J. POLK, M.D.
Copley News Service

The phone gave a half-ring and stopped. That in itself was a bad sign. Someone on the other end had decided not to call. Then it rang again, once, twice. That was a worse sign. The caller had decided to give me the message after all. I picked up the phone.

"Doctor Polk," came the voice, "this is Mr. Short. I want to talk to you about my son, Mark, whom you've been treating since April. I want to know exactly what's wrong with him. He hasn't gotten better over all these weeks. In fact, I think he's worse."

He sounded very angry. Worse yet, I couldn't remember his son, and said so.

"I can't understand that," came the reply. "You doctors are all alike, just interested in the money and not interested in the patients at all."

I asked Mr. Short to excuse me for a moment while we got out his son's record. To my surprise, the secretary couldn't find one. Nor could she find a charge card for Mark Short. I told this to the father.

He fairly roared with anger. "I can't understand that. I have receipts in my hand for weekly visits to your office every week since April. At $20 a week, that's a lot of money and you should at least have some record. You doctors are all careless, anyway."

Indeed, $20 a week is a lot of money. In fact, it is more than twice my office visit fee. So I asked him to describe his receipts. "They are the usual receipts," he said, "the kind that you can buy in any stationery store by the padful. They have your name stamped on the bottom of the sheet and the initials 'CJS.' One receipt is stamped with your name and signed, 'J. Salk.'"

That was not the kind of receipt we use in the office. Ours are printed forms, with my name printed on the top of the page. There is no one named Salk working at the office, nor anyone with initials "CJS." The mystery was thickening. How did Mr. Short get a series of receipts supposedly from my office, initialed by someone who never worked for me, for amounts much larger than the usual office fees, for a patient for whom my files had neither a medical chart, nor a billing card?

I explained the problem to Mr. Short and was relieved to note that he calmed down a bit.

Then I said, "You don't seem to know very much about all this, sir. Who's been bringing your son to the office?" His wife had been bringing Mark. So I asked if I might speak to Mrs. Short.

"She isn't with me," I was told. "You see, we're separated now and Mark lives with her. I just pay the bills as they come in and see my son once in a while."

So I suggested to the father that he check with his wife about visits she had supposedly made to the office. Apparently, Mrs. Short had bought a book of receipts and a rubber stamp with my name, and was using this to add $20 a week to the money she was receiving for support. I explained this to Mr. Short, and wished him the best of luck with his child's health and the problem with Mrs. Short. He really has a problem.

When I started medical school, doctors were known as good guys. Their image was one of service, devotion to their patients and keen interest in the art and science of medicine. Doctors haven't really changed much but their image certainly has. Otherwise how could Mrs. Short have thought to get away with a swindle of this sort. Obviously she believed her husband would accept as normal, doctor bills of $20 a week although his son wasn't getting any better.

Perhaps she had a worse opinion of doctors than her husband. He was angry, but at least he called to try to straighten the matter out. I hope he's satisfied. He really has a problem.

Cayman Islands announces minting

By PAUL J. WEIS
Copley News Service

It was recently announced by V.G. Johnson, Financial Secretary of the Cayman Islands, that Paramount International Coin Corporation of Englewood, Ohio has been selected as the sole world wide numismatic agent for the Cayman Islands.

Located south of Cuba in the Caribbean Sea, this British Crown Colony first introduced its own coinage on May 1, 1972. On that date, one, five, ten and twenty-five cent pieces were placed in general circulation. Since then, four additional coins have been announced, a 50 cent piece, and one dollar, two dollar and five dollar coins. The four larger denominations will all be struck in .925 fine sterling silver.

Johnson indicated that the Cayman Islands will soon begin a numismatic program designed for the collector. This program will include the issue of a proof set containing all eight of Cayman's new coins. Additionally, the Cayman Islands intend to issue two twenty-five dollar coins, one of silver and one of gold, to commemorate the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip. Exact prices and ordering procedures have not been worked out as yet. An announcement will be made as soon as the details are established. However, Johnson did say that both the proof set and the commemorative coins will be struck at the Royal Canadian Mint in Ottawa, and will be distributed exclusively by Paramount.

One item on Page 31 of the July 1972 Franklin Mint Almanac provides the following information regarding the new mintage of the 1971 Republic of Panama 20 Balboas coin:

Proof Edition: 69,081 in sterling silver.
Uncirculated Edition: sterling silver - limited.
This information is incorrect. The number shown is a typographical error. The correct figures are as follows:

Proof Edition: 40,269 in sterling silver.
Uncirculated Edition: 69,281 in sterling silver.
The Panamanian Ministry of Finance and the Banco Nacional de Panama have already been notified of this error. The Franklin Mint plans to publish a correction in the very next issue of the Almanac.

+ + +

The question on Biafra's coinage will soon have a more complete answer than at the present time. The coin commonly thought to be a 1-pound crown size piece proves to be a medal that was struck in Switzerland without official authorization by Biafran officials. Actually, the medal is quite attractive and is a popular collector's item. It is now selling for about $6.

Three currency coins were ordered by the Biafran government and delivered before the government fell. The 1969 threepence saw quite a bit of circulation, and most known copies of this scarce coin are in very fine to extra fine condition, they are selling for about $6 and upward.

The other two 1969 coins, the 1 and 2½ shillings denominations, were struck in large quantities and did not see much circulation. They are available in uncirculated condition for about $2 each. The three pieces were used as currency coins only a short time before Biafra fell and they soon lost their face value.

+ + +

A series of solid sterling silver ingots is being minted by The Franklin Mint of Franklin Center, Pa., in the precise design and shape of the 42 sovereign flags which have flown over parts or all of the United States. First edition proof sets have been offered to established Franklin Mint collectors. The entire collection contains 50,000 grains of sterling silver. Each ingot is priced at $13.50.

Walcott Offers Lunch Program

The Walcott Independent School District again is offering free and reduced lunches to students whose parents are financially unable to bear the full cost of school lunches. L.B. Copies of the application form were sent home in a letter. Additional copies may be obtained at the school.

The completed application, signed by an adult member of the family, should be sent to Russell at the school. The applications will be reviewed promptly and within three days the family will be notified in writing as to the decision made. CARD OF THANKS
I wish to send a most heartfelt thanks to my dear husband and daughters for the many things they did and said to help me through my recent illness. A special thanks to Dr. Rush and Dr. Mims and all the hospital staff without whose help I could not have recuperated so well. Thanks to all my co-workers, relatives and friends for all the visits, prayers, cards, gifts and so many beautiful flowers. God bless each of you in a special way.

FALL IS IN THE AIR and with school beginning, I believe I've never seen prettier fall fashions for school girls. Fall fashions formals are mix, match and machine wash. The children's fashions have classic washable no-irons.

Durable, washable fabrics in comfortable, practical styles will be the rule of the season for today's fashion-conscious young — even the very young with their rough-and-tumble enthusiasm.

Outlining general trends for fall, a casual look with plaids a major element and fabric textures important — particularly brushed effects for depth and richness.

In the girls' department the still-popular layered look will emerge in knit dresses, cuffed pants, stretch bodysuits, pleated or flared skirts, tops and sweaters — including twin sweater sets.

Skirts will be short, knee-length, or ankle-length with a generous sprinkling of culotte-style shorties. Pants will feature turned up cuffs, flares and modified bell bottoms.

In the boys' aisle, jean styling will remain the top favorite, but fabrics and special treatments will vary widely, with corduroy

Boys Ranch Rodeo Set

The only rodeo of its kind in the nation will be held over the Labor Day weekend, September 3 and 4.

It will be the 28th annual Boys Ranch Rodeo at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, where approximately 10,000 people are expected for the two performances. More than 150 boys will be riding calves, steers, brahma bulls and bucking broncs. Older boys will compete on professional rodeo stock with judging under R.C.A.

and denim remaining popular.

Knits and stretch wovens will make inroads, because they're sleek, allow body movement and snap back to shape after laundering.

Fall shirt fashions for boys are still highly-patterned — often coupled with solid pans as a complement.

Knit sport shirts reflect the classic, long sleeved, front button collar trends. Cotton, polyester and blends feature geometric patterns, animal motifs and leaf prints. Plaids show up in denim work shirts, western and lumberjack styles and wide appeal to boys.

Advising shoppers to mix and match fashions for fall, shop carefully for the most mixability and machine wash-and-dry-ability.

MRS. A.E. HODGES SAYS the finishing touches have been put on the program for the state meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association.

About 700 members of home demonstration clubs are expected to attend at Houston September 13 and 14. It will be in the Astro-World Hotel. Those attending from Deaf Smith besides Nell Hodges are Mrs. Leroy Johnson, Mrs. J.H. Holden, Mrs. Viola Williams, and Mrs. Kenneth Homfeld.

Too, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Thomas will attend as Wayne is one of the speakers. Wayne's mother was a HD club member at Sims and Mary Thomas's mother was a club member in Randall County and also was on the state board. Therefore Wayne and Mary should enjoy the meeting of the Texas Home Demonstration Association.

Bodywear is basic

By SUSAN SWARTZ
Copley News Service

Bodywear is a snap.

That's mainly what separates it from standard shirts and sweaters. You put it on and it stays put.

It began with a turtleneck that grew into a leotard. A slow starter, it snuck into hosiery departments in somber navy, black and brown to be coordinated with navy, black and brown pantyhose.

From there it was non-stop to the current collection of crew necks, scoop necks, dolman sleeves, no sleeves, ribbed, puckered, any-color-you-can-imagine versions.

Bodywear is for daytime and evening. Pair it with a skirt or pants. Or go it alone. It works for sunbathing or yoga class.

Everybody wants to speak in body language. For fall there will be large sizes of body dressing.

But there's even bigger news. Look for bodysweaters. Front runners are angora sweaters and argyle plaids. In addition to the basic ribbed turtleneck there will be sweaters that have the look of a shirt underneath. Look for tweeds, stripes and all sorts of plaids to pair with tweed, plaid and striped pantyhose or knee-highs.

fashion. For summer all you need is a bodysuit, a skirt and a pair of sandals. The body shirt looks sleek and skinny. It's the very base of a layered look.

Look for the man-tailored bodysuit. And the bodysuit with Gibson Girl, Victorian and Cossack accents. The bodysuit and the bodysuit.

For summer bodywear is strong in gingham checks, denim and stripes. The bodysuit that looks like an undershirt is a winner.

Try a yellow and white striped shirt. Add a black and white gingham tank top body-suit and white pants or a skirt. For evening start with a silk shirt, add the tank top plus a mass of pearls and an ankle-grazing skirt.

The bodywear boom has had a healthy influence on legwear. Many hosiery manufacturers have branched into body things. Since the first bodywear appeared it has become increasingly easier to color-match body and legs.

The newest (oldest) look in legwear for fall will be the seamed stocking. This time around the seamed leg will be bi-colored — like a navy stocking with red seams.

MRS. OWEN ANDREWS Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shultz were hosts, Saturday evening, at a surprise supper honoring Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cole on their twenty fifth wedding anniversary. Also hosting the occasion were the Cole children, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Vinson, of Pampa, Cheryl Cole, Beverly Cole and Bill Cole.

A table, centered with a white gladioli and daisy floral arrangement also featured a tiered cake, decorated with miniature bride and groom and lettered "25".

The supper was served on the patio, after which the guests played 42.

Attending were Mrs. H.M. Mobley, Austin Mobley, LaNelle Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reno, of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. R.G. Peeler, Mr. and Mrs. T.L. Sparkman Jr., Mr. and Mrs. D.N. HIGHWAY SAFETY

In 1970, 2.68 persons were killed per 100 million miles of travel on the Interstate system, compared with 5.16 on other roads.

LUMBER USE UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lumber consumption in the United States in 1972 will set an all-time record of about 46 billion board feet, according to estimates for the year by the National Forest Production Assn.

"The building industry accounts for between two-thirds and three-fourths of all lumber consumption in the United States with variations depending largely on the strength of home building," said NFPA Forest economist, Dr. John Muench Jr.

Muench said that a domestic consumption level of 46 billion board feet would represent a gain of 20 per cent more than the 1970 consumption level, which was a relatively sluggish year for both housing and lumber. He attributed the bulk of the gain this year to the current housing boom.

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, TEX.—For the first time in three years, the number of Texas families with dependent children on welfare rolls declined last month.

There are 1,555 fewer AFDC recipients than a month before, the State Department of Public Welfare reported.

Welfare Commissioner Raymond W. Vowell attributed the reversal to a number of factors, including tighter controls on AFDC program eligibility, vocational training and expanded day care programs to help mothers get to work.

The decline was the first in AFDC caseload since July, 1969. Dropoff was from 447,967 recipients to 446,412.

A steady increase in recent years has been attributed to liberalized eligibility standards as ordered by federal courts and altered federal regulations. In late 1970 and early 1971, AFDC rolls swelled at a rate of 10,000 to 12,000 recipients a month. Growth slowed significantly in recent months.

Vowell directed caseworkers to return to the practice of holding personal interviews with AFDC applicants and recipients, verifying income, child support, domicile, household composition, and other factors affecting eligibility and the amount of assistance granted.

A massive recertification effort also has been ordered by which AFDC cases are being checked individually to determine whether a family situation has changed so as to affect the monthly assistance payment. A new policy also has been instituted requiring applicants to provide documentary evidence of child eligibility by birth or baptismal certificate or hospital record.

Fraud detection efforts have been stepped up, and $205 suspected cases have been referred to local prosecutors or grand juries.

PWD REORGANIZED—A far-reaching reshuffling of Parks and Wildlife Department divisions was ordered by new Executive Director Clayton T. Garrison.

Garrison named six new directors to head statewide divisions under a new structure.

The new directors are James E. Dickinson, 30, finance; Stetson G. Reed, 39, law enforcement; Robert J. Kemp Jr., 46, fish and wildlife; Paul E. Schlimper, 32, parks; Clayton G. Rutter, 38, engineering; and Bobby E. Bradley, 37, administration. Richard A. McCune will remain as director of information and education.

Garrison said the reorganization is a "move to get back to the basic responsibilities of the department." Each of the six new divisions will be the headquarters unit for administration of all field activities. PWD personnel will report to appropriate directors and divisions in Austin.

HIGHWAY CONTEST FINALISTS NAMED—Five State Highway Department foremen and construction supervisors are finalists for this year's Lady Bird Johnson award for highway beautification work.

They are Milton C. Campbell of Ralls, Cullen Luttrell of Sonora, Herbert H. Smith of Rusk, Melvin E. Bayless of LaGrange, and Rinaldo Rivera of Falfurrias.

Mrs. Johnson will make the awards October 11 at the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park near Stonewall. First-place winner will receive a cash award of $1,000, and the runner-up will get $500. An additional award of $500 will go to the newspaper writer who does the best job on highway beautification coverage, and an identical prize will go to the best radio-television effort in the field.

OFFICERS CREDITED—Additional auto insurance reductions may result from intensive law enforcement efforts that curb accidents, Southwestern Insurance Information Service said recently.

On the other hand, if enforcement efforts slacken and accident frequency rises, benefits of the recent 11 per cent rate cut (effective September 1) will be lost, the association said. Police chiefs and sheriffs received a special commendation from the insurance group for efforts to reduce accidents last year—and a request that they continue to concentrate on speeders, drunk drivers, and those without proper licenses.

HIRING COMPLAINTS AILED—Texas state agencies were warned they don't have enough minority group employees. Dr. Luther Holcomb, federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission vice chairman, briefed the agencies on legislation making state governments subject to anti-discrimination regulations.

Six of the state agencies already face firing complaints under the new law. Practices found discriminatory include asking of questions on job applications about race, religion, or arrest record, use of standardized tests, requirement of a high school diploma and insisting on photographs of job applicants.

CANDIDATES FILE—Three candidates have filed for a vacant state representative seat in South Texas district 46, place 3—Brooks, Cameron, Kenedy, and Willacy counties. Candidates in the special election September 16 are Dr. Martin Garcia of Raymondville, Neal Clark Jr. of Cameron County, and Claude Carter of Harlingen.

Rep. J. A. Garcia Jr. of Raymondville resigned his House seat in the district July 31. Deadline for filing was last Wednesday.

PAY RAISES SOUGHT—Gov. Preston Smith and Sen. John Tower are pressing the federal pay board to approve 6.8 per cent pay raises for state employees September 1 as voted by the Legislature.

The pay board voted to retain a 5.5 per cent ceiling on raises, but Smith and Tower claim an exemption for the 67,000 state employees under the "catch-up" provision.

GOATS TO RUSSIA—Eighteen hundred Texas Angora goats are being airlifted to Russia September 1 to help upgrade the mohair industry in the Soviet.

A three-man Russian team bought the goats in the Brady area where 700 others were sold to Russia in 1936. Sale was handled through federal agencies, industry services, the Texas Department of Agriculture, and the Russian Embassy.

RETIRED TEACHERS WANT BREAK—Changes in the teacher retirement system are being requested by retired school personnel who claim their benefits are meager or "token."

The retired teachers want benefits raised to the standard provided in 1971 legislation—based on the best five-year average and boosting the percentage factor. An example was cited of a teacher with 29 years' service who gets $189 a month after retirement seven years ago. A teacher who retired last year with 19 years' service, under the example quoted, draws $245 a month.

4-H Groups Swim, Plan County Fair

A swimming party for 4-H Club members of Deaf Smith County was an event of this week, as the girls and boys look forward to the 4-H Youth Fair Sept. 11 and the annual sign-up for club membership that evening.

Approximately 225 4-H'ers, their parents and club leaders attended the party at Green Acres swimming club Thursday evening. After members had

New state bank charters are being sought at Dallas, Houston, and Texas City.

Quail season dates for South Central Texas have been changed to November 18, 1972 to January 31, 1973, with a daily bag of 12 and 36 in possession.

enjoyed the swim, parents joined the party for refreshments of homemade ice cream and brownies.

The next county-wide 4-H event will be the fair Sept. 11 in the County Bull Barn. The customary Crop and Vegetable Show will be combined with a Youth Fair this year. Information about it may be obtained from Joyce Shipp or Robert Devin, Assistant County Agents, at the Extension Service office here.

Members will enroll in their respective clubs at a county-wide orientation meeting at 7:30 p.m. the same day. This meeting will be in First Baptist Fellowship Hall. Anyone interested in joining a 4-H Club is invited, along with present members, their parents and adult leaders.

Skyjack pilot's home wrecked

Capt. Eugene Vaughn, 53, the Pan Am pilot who was involved in the killing of a North Vietnamese skyjacker in Saigon recently, returned to his home in Phoenix, Ariz., to find that it had been wrecked.

Animal intestines, paint, broken bottles and signs written in animal blood were found in the back garden and swimming pool.

In Memory of John Carl Lee

He stood six foot four and a half weighed two forty five;
A good-looking fellow, and very much alive.
He was broad in the shoulder 'kinda' narrow in the hip
And everybody knew you didn't give no lip
To Big John
Big John Carl Lee.
He worked on a ranch in his younger days,
Fifty dollars a month with promise of a raise.
Providing for his wife and children—as they came;
But this wasn't the way he won his fame.
As tractors began to replace the 'hoss'
His job then became Elevator Boss
He worked long and hard, but he'd never complain.
Still—this wasn't the job that won him his fame.
Twenty two years he stood before the same
Sunday School.
Holding up the Bible as the Golden Rule,
Teaching Jesus Christ—The Truth The Way;
And living his teaching every day.
Through sorrow and suffering
Victorious he came
And this, my friend, is how he won his fame.

4 New Sound-Idea Tractors Featuring Sound-Gard body... a world apart from any old cab

It's not incomplete like a cab. It's a total body—the John Deere Sound-Gard body, a complete unit with seat, all controls, and instrument panel intact... a total body like that on your car and pickup. Sound-Gard body attaches firmly to the tractor... yet it isolates you from that tractor. It's actually free to flex slightly when you're on rough ground. Noise level is down to 85 dB(A) so you can easily hear the optional radio or 8-track stereo tape player.

Equip Sound-Gard body with heater and air-conditioner and you have total temperature control winter and summer. Sound-Gard body—one of the many sound ideas in new John Deere 4030, 4230, 4430, and 4630 Tractors. Stop in soon and get the full story.

Condominium concept hits housing market

By JAMES M. WOODARD
Copley News Service

Condominium: a big and increasingly important word in the real estate marketplace. And just when millions of Americans begin to understand what the word means, its "common use" definition takes on new variations.

Most folks consider a condominium to be an owner-occupied apartment or townhouse residence. The occupant completely and individually owns the "cube of air" comprising his own residence, and owns a share of the common areas in the total development. He enjoys the same tax benefits and "pride of ownership" as does the owner of a conventional home, plus the easy, carefree living advantages of apartment residency.

That's the most commonly understood definition of a condominium. This basic type of owner-occupied residence has rapidly become a major phase of new home construction. In fact, viewing the increasing popularity of condominium living, many housing experts say a full 50 per cent of all multi-family construction will be condominium units by 1975. Converting existing rental apartments to condominium units is also becoming a noteworthy trend.

In addition to the rapidly increasing activity in the development and sales of such units, the condominium field is expanding and becoming more diversified. Office buildings, commercial centers, resorts and other types of real estate projects are now being developed as condominiums. It's the same basic concept, but applied to a wider range of real estate developments.

Probably the most popular aspect of condominiums, at least in the residential field, is the security and "carefree living" afforded by the development form. All maintenance and landscaping needs are totally and consistently handled by professionals. Owners may leave town for a week or month and feel confident their property is in good hands.

This strong advantage has sparked still another development form keyed to the "condominium concept" ... a new community of single family homes with the same carefree features offered in the finest condominium developments.

For example, a 34-home community of luxury homes located in an exclusive hilltop area in Montecito, Calif. offers "estate living without care and security problems," according to its developers. The 20-acre park-like development (Villa Coronada) includes spacious, individual homes priced from $85,000 to $135,000. All homes are protected and landscaped is maintained by professionals retained by an owners' association — a success-proven condominium concept.

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE 'Lolly-Madonna War' doesn't thrill columnist

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Admittedly I'm picky, picky, picky. Also admittedly, since I haven't seen the picture (still in production) or read the script or the book upon which it is based, this may be an unfair, snap judgement.

But off-hand I'd say that the best thing about Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Lolly-Madonna War" will be its scenery, the gorgeous hills and dales lying between Knoxville, Tenn., and the Cumberland Gap.

Next should come the acting, since the cast includes in part Robert Ryan, Rod Steiger and Jeff Bridges, each a competent and sometimes brilliant performer.

However, as for the story line: Yuk! Or at least that's my impression after a fast trip to the location.

The book was written by a Santa Monica housewife, Sue Grafton, who couldn't get it published in this country but who finally found a publisher for it in England where anything about American Indians sells well.

A young British producer, Rodney Carr-Smith (no relation to partners Allan Carr and Roger Smith of Regalian Productions) grabbed the property, grabbed the novelist (they're now a lovey-dovey duo) and prevailed upon MGM to convert it into a movie with himself at the helm of the project.

The fact that the characters have names like Laban Feather (that belongs to a Cherokee Indian with sons named Hawk Feather and Thrush Feather), Pap Gutshall (that belongs to a retired military man with sons named Seb, Villum and Ludie Gutshall) and Ronnie Gill (a girl mistaken for Lolly-Madonna and played by an actress named Season Hubley) is discouraging.

Even so, the names of the characters aren't half so discouraging as their prescribed conduct.

Pap, though he's a retired military man, didn't pick up any spit and polish in the service, so he goes around looking like Pa Kettle.

Robert Ryan plays Pap and is unquestionably doing the best he can under the circumstances. He even says he likes the script.

Rod Steiger plays Laban, the Indian, while, even more astoundingly, blond, Nordic-looking Jeff Bridges plays one of his Cherokee sons.

The casting is enough to make the real, genuine Cherokee Indians who live only a hundred or so miles over the mountain from the picture's location put on their war paint, march through the passes and jerk off Steiger's putty nose.

I'll not give away the plot except to say that it's full of violence and inconsistencies.

To cite one of the latter, at the close of the picture one character buries his slain wife in a disputed field so that no one can ever use it again.

"Why can't they?" I asked the harrassed publicity man.

"I guess because he's turned it into a cemetery," the p.r. guy ventured.

That didn't make much sense, since there was a family cemetery in the middle of a field on the farm on which the picture was shooting. And the presence of the little plot had in no way impaired the utility of the rest of the pasture. I didn't press that point.

However, recalling the Sino-Japanese War and the Franco-Prussian war, I did beg the producer to take the hyphen out of "The Lolly-Madonna War" lest potential audiences assume it's about the Lollies fighting the Madonnas which it isn't.

The producer said I was off my rocker.

His name, as you recall, is Carr-Smith.

Now to the positive side: "The Lolly-Madonna War" is being partially filmed on the Kenneth Buckner farm near Maynardville, Tenn., using a house in which Buckner and several generations of his ancestors were born.

The house has an authentic, Tennessee farm-house flavor, because it is an authentic, Tennessee farm-house.

And the surrounding mountains are magnificent.

Steiger is spending his leisure hours in Tennessee with Sherry Nelson, the same Sherry who previously went steady with Vince Edwards.

Follies opening brings stars

HOLLYWOOD — When "The Follies" opened in Los Angeles at the new Shubert Theater, Sandy Duncan was there with her fiancé, Dr. Thomas Calcaterra, wearing an austere cut gown of brown silk or chiffon with a low, rounded neck-line. Lucille Ball, with Gary Morton, wore gold lace; Shirley Jones, a white, silk dinner suit; Helen Hayes, a multi-colored print in pale shades.

Ross Hunter squired Nancy Sinatra, Sr.; Fred MacMurray, his wife.

Television's original "Peyton Place" is still showing in Yugoslavia where it's so popular that James Douglas, Ed Nelson and Pat Morrow of the cast were invited by the government to tour the country.

They've just come back from their visit which Douglas says was a treat.

Elvis, in company with his stepbrothers, has been sitting out his domestic difficulties in Memphis.

When a Hollywood contingent, in Baltimore for a telethon to aid flood victims started home, Tige Andrews of "Mod Squad" couldn't find his wallet. He and the other Hollywood-bound, telethon volunteers were in flight to California before Janet Leigh found the missing item in her tote bag.

Tige, always the gentleman, had toted the bag for her, and, while he was doing it, his wallet had fallen out of his pocket and into a side pocket on Janet's valise.

Chris Connelly and Tom Ewell, dressed like policemen for their roles in MGM's "They Only Kill Their Masters," were mistaken for real officers by so many tourists who saw them standing at the MGM gate that they had to retire to their dressing rooms.

"So many people asked for directions," Chris said, "that I felt like a tour guide."

Passersby failed to recognize the duo, because Ewell has gained several pounds lately while Chris has lost several more.

What's the world coming to? In "They Only Kill Their Masters," dainty, adorable, little June Allyson plays (of all things) a lesbian or, as a member of the crew put it, "a Dresden dyke."

The film brings June and Peter Lawford together on the screen for the first time since they co-starred in "Little Women" ever so many years ago. Before that, they'd worked together in the hit musical "Good News."

Dick Powell, Jr., June's son, may make his acting debut soon in "Medical Center."

MAPPING CCA CAMPAIGN — Chairman, captains and workers are preparing for the annual membership campaign week of Hereford Community Concert Association, which will begin with the kickoff dinner Sept. 11. New members are enrolled only during this week, and only members may attend concerts by nationally-known artists who are brought to the city by the association. The orientation coffee to instruct workers was given Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. Eddie Reinauer, who in the top photo is bidding goodbye to the association's president, Hazen Woods. Mrs. Roy Hartman, right in middle photo, was one of the instructors to workers at the coffee who like Mrs. Woods, center, received kits of material for enrolling members. Mrs. Tom Burdett is shown at left. Chairman of this year's campaign is Mrs. Richard Ottesen, who looks over membership lists in lower photo. She and Mrs. Wesley Gulley, public relations chairman, also helped instruct workers at the coffee. Nancy Richie presided at the refreshment table.

Head 'em up - move 'em out! Whether your journey is to a different state or a mere jaunt across town, moving today requires detailed arrangements. So decide on a mover and set a moving date as soon as possible - a month's notice is good.

All motor carrier services must be certified by the Interstate Commerce Commission. They are required to provide you with a booklet entitled, "Summary of Information for Shippers of Household Goods." This booklet describes in detail many items of vital importance, such as information about obtaining estimates and loss and damage claims.

Contact one or more recommended movers for an estimate of charges. But remember - this is only an estimate, and is not binding on you or the company. Your final Inquisitive people gather a lot of information that isn't backed up with facts.

"The Summary of Information for Shippers of Household Goods," states: "If the total actual charges do not exceed the estimate plus 10 per cent, you must pay the actual charges prior to unloading your goods. However, when the total actual charges exceed the estimate by more than 10 per cent, the mover is required, on your request, to deliver your goods upon payment of the estimated charges plus an additional 10 per cent, and you have 15 days to pay the balance."

Once you reach your final destination, inspect your property. Report any damages immediately. Your carrier service is a service to you. You are paying for the best. Make sure you receive it.

SPIRIT BOOSTERS OF HEREFORD HIGH SCHOOL

1972-73 PEP SQUAD of Hereford High School is prepared to present itself to the school and Hereford sports fans as it has worked throughout the summer learning hand drills, marching techniques, charm and poise factors and assembling uniforms.

BAKE SALES were one money-making project the girls participated in during the summer as seen in the photo above. Money made was used to send the captains to camp at Austin.

A NEW UNIFORM is being worn by members this year and Barbara Owen and Donna Sargent model it at bottom left. The different pieces make various costumes that will adjust to the changing weather conditions of each sport.

H.H.S. CHEERLEADERS are another group of the spirit boosters. Having recently returned from camp also, this group works with the Pep Squad to teach new cheers and chants. 1972-73 cheerleaders are Rhonda Stephan, Janna Balden, Meredith Wilcox, Nancy Barrett and Diedra Dziuk. Scat is Pam Garrison and not pictured with the other cheerleaders at upper right is Joni Charest.

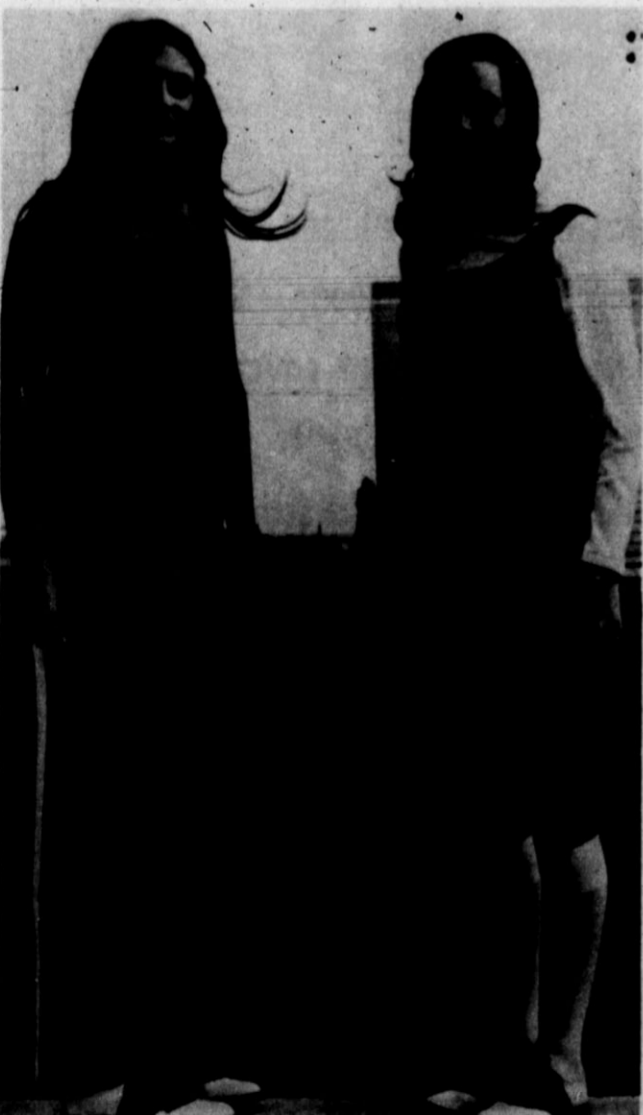

OFFICERS FOR THE coming year are Barbara Owen, assistant head captain; Donna Sargent, head captain; Jane Lyons, senior captain; Carmela Burges and Holly Layman, junior captains.

Newest Service Agency Offers Aid To Elderly

BY SUE COLEMAN
Brand Staff Writer
(This is one of a series of stories concerning community service agencies which depend to some degree upon the help of volunteers who give either work or financial support, or both.)

A CHERFUL MAN in the 80's, his eyesight failing but his sense of humor unimpaired; an older couple grateful for a service that enables them to keep living in their own home; a great-grandmother who cooks meals for a large family but cannot prepare the diet she needs as a diabetic — these are some who find Meals on Wheels an answer to their problems.

Newest of the various agencies in Hereford designed to meet needs of its residents, Meals on Wheels is a program aimed at the well-being of older persons who live in their own homes but are unable to regularly prepare the meals they need.

IT IS OPERATING on funds raised in the community, and by the efforts of workers who receive no pay. It was begun here by a volunteer, Mrs. O.C. Curtsinger Jr., who continues to act as an unpaid coordinator.

The only cost is for the meals, prepared in the kitchen of Kings Manor Retirement Home here at a minimum price. Volunteers put the food into insulated plastic containers and deliver it to homes at noon five days a week.

From 10 to 15 persons have received meals through the program since it began here earlier this year. The aim is to supply one substantial hot meal daily, with consideration given to special diets and to individual likes and dislikes in food.

THIS IS NOT a program for low-income persons, although those who cannot pay the full

Wedel Home Has Guest Relatives

Recent visitors in the home of Henry Wedel, 504 Ave. J, were Mrs. Elmer Richardson of Slater, Iowa, a sister of Wedel and Riley Wedel of Amarillo, a brother, and his wife; Mrs. Richardson had visited in Houston previous to coming to Hereford and plans to travel to Amarillo to visit a brother before returning home.

Also visiting in that home are district attorney Larry Sutton, his wife and two children of Los Angeles. Mrs. Sutton is a niece of Wedel. Dr. Carl Wedel, a nephew to the local resident, his wife and baby also visited in the home and are from Houston.

A man's worth is determined only by his ability to stick at his work until he gets there.

A HUNCH
Political oratory may not be what it used to be—and we have a suspicion it never was.

price of a meal, $1.25, are served at a reduced price. All those in the program now make some payment, Mrs. Curtsinger says, some the entire amount.

Mrs. Curtsinger demonstrated that one person can fill a community need when she conducted a single-handed campaign to begin the program after hearing of it in other cities. She talked to news media representatives, to church and club groups until she created enough interest to begin its operation.

Now she is keeping records which will be required when Hereford Meals on Wheels becomes eligible to apply for a grant from state funds. She cares for all correspondence, receives and acknowledges contributions, makes daily reports on the work and spends much time in telephone conversations about it.

Also, she accepts all invitations to explain the program to various meetings and shows slides to illustrate.

ASSISTANCE in the paper work, bookkeeping and public appearances would be welcome, she says. Especially needed are typists whom she can call on when needed, and since she has no car available for her use, services of a chauffeur are often needed.

But rather than assistance in her own work, she is interested in finding more persons who will help with delivering the meals. About 20 are available now but some can work only one day a week so more are needed. The drivers work about 45 minutes on each trip.

Two persons go together to make the deliveries, one to drive and help with things like opening doors, the other to carry the food containers.

Some of the recipients in the program are couples, so two are needed to handle all the food. A pair of drivers will make two to four deliveries, depending on the distance to be driven.

VOLUNTEERS WHO CAN give only one day a week, or those who can give five, all are needed, Mrs. Curtsinger says. She suggests that women with small children need not look for sitters; the children can go along on the drives as most of the elderly people are very happy to have children visit them.

This points up another phase of the program; daily visits from drivers mean as much or more to some of the recipients as the food. The drivers have found their "customers" waiting each day, eager for a chat as well as the meal.

Contributions of money are made regularly by some clubs and individuals and occasionally by others. Need for this will continue until a state grant is obtained, Mrs. Curtsinger notes.

SHE SAYS RECIPIENTS of the meals appreciate touches like holiday plate favors which have been made by a Campfire Girl group and the Girls Auxiliary of Temple Baptist Church; she would like to see more of these.

Also, one elderly man was delighted by a decorated birthday cake made by one of the drivers, which suggests another way to assist in this program. Mrs. Curtsinger hopes more of the city's older residents who live alone will take advantage of the program, saying that "many who really need it insist that they don't; we must admire the spirit of a person in a wheel chair who says she can prepare her own meals, but we do wish she would let us help."

Volunteers Plan Party

Hostesses for the monthly birthday party for residents of Westgate Unit, Kings Manor retirement home Sept. 6, members of the Red Cross Uniformed Volunteers planned that event at their August luncheon Thursday in K-Bob's Restaurant.

Women in the organization are also making the birthday cakes for Hereford Day Care Center, and several are helping in the Meals on Wheels program here.

Final work is being done in ditty bags filled with gifts for U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam, as the bags are due to be shipped soon to reach combat zones in time for distribution at Christmas.

In all, the 12 members at lunch reported 247 hours of volunteer service in the community in the past month.

Mrs. Tommy Crawford presided for the first time since her installation last month as 1972-73 president.

Welcome, Teachers

Many people seem to take our teachers for granted, and why not; they are always there. But a teacher is more than an book worm. She's a mom to 40 children a day, a nurse for that scratched knee, an educator. He's a football coach, a friend at times, a disciplinarian at others. The cold fact is, children spend half of their time in school. Aren't you glad that qualified, trained, patient, teachers are instructing your children. The FIRST NATIONAL BANK wishes to extend a big WELCOME to all the returning and new teachers in the Hereford Independent School System.

Miss Kathleen Robinson Is Bride Of Dan Gorman

Miss Kathleen Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Robinson, 609 Stanton, became the bride of Daniel Joseph Gorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gorman of 215 Avenue A, in a Friday morning ceremony at First Baptist Church. Dr. Gerald Mann, pastor, officiated.

The couple and their attendants stood before an archway covered with greenery and knelt at a bench lit with candles.

Mrs. Greg Cromer of Sawyer, Kansas, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor with bridesmaids Mrs. J.W. White Jr. and Mrs. Mike Justice of Dalhart, also sisters of the bride.

Best man was Tony Gorman, brother of the bridegroom, with John Gorman, another brother, and Danny Locke as groomsmen. Ushering guests were Vance Robinson, a brother of the bride, Chip Formby, Ricky Locke and Mickey Bishop.

Nieces of the bride, Chantel and Shazell Justice and Monica and Donnell Cromer were flower girls. Kari and Keile Robinson, also nieces, were ring bearer and candle lighter.

Miss Sherry White accompanied by Mrs. Jack Keeling of Amarillo, sang The Lord's Prayer and Oh Promise Me.

Miss Robinson wore a gown of angelmist peau de soie over bridal taffeta. It was designed with a high rounded neckline, empire waist and long full sleeves gathered to a wide cuff. Re-embroidered venise lace trimmed the gown at the neckline, bodice, sleeves and skirt front.

Her veil of imported illusion was edged with the lace and fell from a coil of small flowers. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with an orchid.

The bride's only jewelry was her grandmother's gold wedding ring.

Her attendants wore rainbow colored dresses of chiffon lined with blue taffeta.

For the wedding, mothers of the bride and groom wore dresses of different shades of blue, each with matching accessories.

A reception followed the ceremony and Miss Helen Gorman, sister of the bridegroom, registered guests. Mrs. Vance Robinson and Mrs. James M. Caughan poured punch and coffee.

Miss Shirley Gorman and Mrs. John Gorman served cake from a table covered with white lace and taffeta. The table was further decorated with pink rose arrangements.

Other members of the houseparty were Mrs. Jimmy Christie, Mrs. Reece Lawson and Mrs. C.J. Crump.

For a wedding trip to El Paso the bride wore an aqua pantsuit. The couple will be at home at 440 Avenue B.

Mr. and Mrs. Gorman are 1971 graduates of Hereford High School and Mrs. Gorman attended West Texas State University previous to her employment at North Plains Printing.

Gorman is associated with his father in a paint contracting business.

Friends and relatives attending the wedding from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sadler, Miss Suzan Allen and Mrs. Ed Jordan, all of Carlsbad; Mrs. J.V. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. O.D. Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson, of Panhandle.

Also in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hammers of Groom, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hammers of Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Rolly Hill of Morton.

Former Criminal To Talk At Church

Dick Palmer will be guest speaker at First Church of the Nazarene Thursday at 7:30 p.m. as he tells of experiences that changed his life from one of crime and violence to one of ministering to thousands across the United States.

The Rev. Bill Ray, pastor, invites the public to the service at the church, 16th and Blackfoot.

Palmer was involved in gun fights with police and bloody prison battles as he spent time in state and federal prisons. Since his conversion he has spent much time working with hippies, dope addicts and alcoholics.

His wife and their four daughters, Joline, Tammy, Liane and Sherry will provide special music.

A Quaint Practice

In ancient China, doctors were paid by their patients for every day the patient stayed well. When the patient got sick, he stopped paying his doctor. Before laughing at the "quaint" practice, consider for a moment where it puts the financial incentive. The Chinese doctor made money when his patients were well, and lost money when they got sick.

This same principle is attracting attention in health care circles in America today, as a possible answer to the all-but-out-of-control rise in the cost of medical services.

The system — in modern dress — is known as the "pre-paid group practice," or, more broadly, the "health maintenance organization." How does it work? Well, if you want to participate, you contract with a group of doctors — either directly or through an insurance company — to keep you well for a flat monthly payment. The doctors may own and operate their own hospitals, or they may use regular hospitals. The doctors are often paid a straight salary, plus a percentage of any profit accrued by the plan.

When you stay well, the plan — and the doctors — make money. So they have an incentive to keep you well by practicing the best preventive medicine. Since you pay the same monthly fee (with some small exceptions) regardless of the services you use, you also have an incentive to take advantage of preventive medicine.

When you get sick, the doctors do not charge extra for treatment — that's covered by the monthly fee. So they have an incentive to make you well again as quickly as possible, since that will save them the cost of further treatment. Obviously, the doctors will want to use the least expensive effective treatment, since that, too, will save them money. But conversely, they also must be sure to cure you — because a relapse would be even more costly for them.

The result of it all — in theory any way — is a health care system in which all the participants, including the patient — have a financial incentive to provide the best possible care at the lowest possible cost.

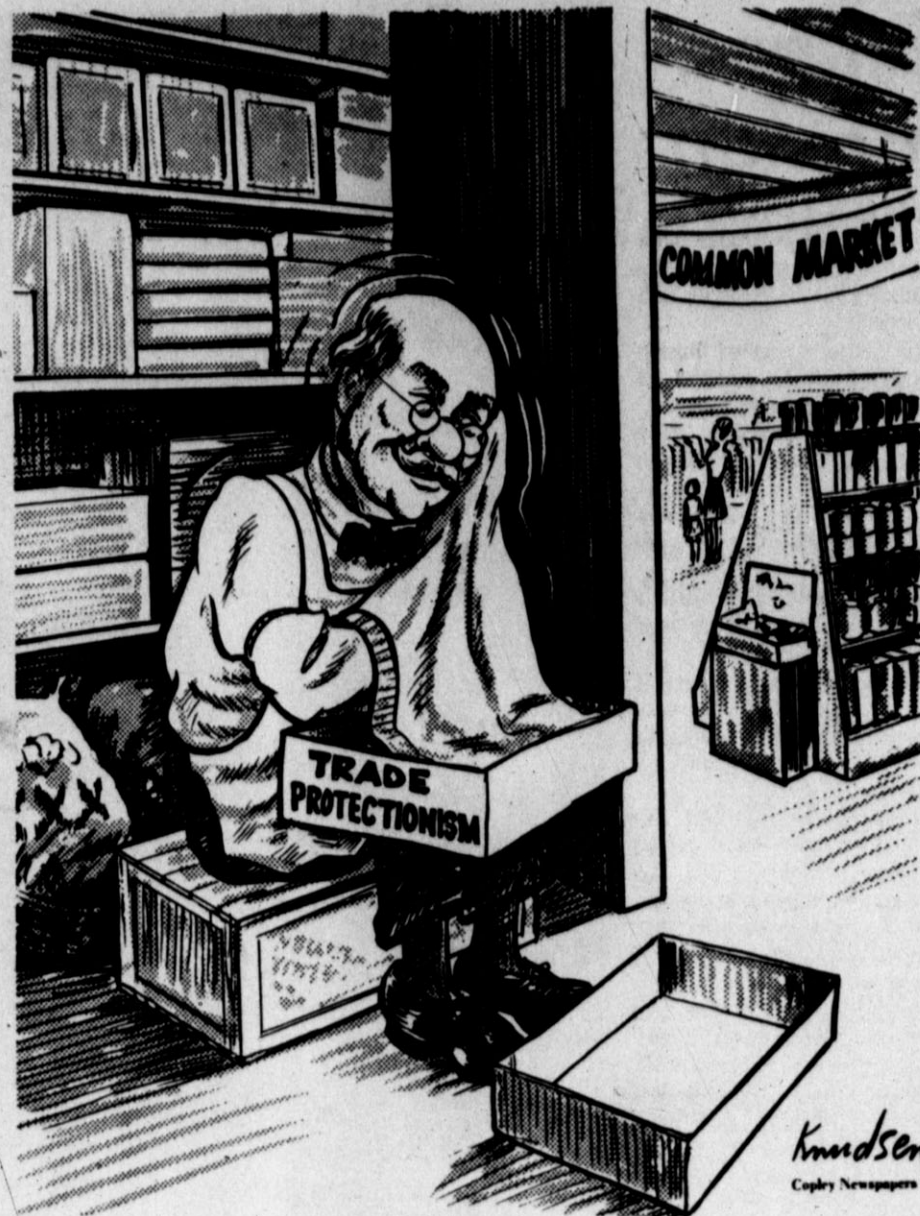

The first U.S. pre-paid medical cooperatives were started in 1927. The largest and best-known example of the breed — the Kaiser-Permanente Medical Care Program — started during the 1930s in California, and today serves over two million members with about 2,000 doctors, 21 hospitals and assets of $250 million — an accomplishment managed without any government participation.

This type of health-care service is spreading, but slowly. Depending on how such plans are defined, there are from 20 to 125 of them today, serving between four and eight million people.

What are the disadvantages? Some patients have complained of a cold, "institutional" feel to the plans. As some plan doctors have described it, "We don't have much time for hand-holding." However, most plans do try to allow the patient some freedom in choosing his own doctor — within the participating staff — and there are always other doctors available in emergencies, when the doctor of your choice is out.

The American Medical Association warns that "the risk with HMO's is that they tend to over-promise the medical results and savings possible." Nevertheless, the AMA is on record as favoring experimentation with the HMO concept and other innovations in health-care delivery, so long as a patient's right to choose from among the various systems is preserved.

Is an HMO for you? Only you can answer that. But the interest in them today is symbolic of the intense efforts underway in the private sector to find some answer to the problem of rising health care costs that doesn't involve another inefficient, expensive, unresponsive addition to the massive federal bureaucracy.

Red Cross Making Presence Felt More

by Bert Mills
Washington, D. C. — Help is the one-word explanation of the mission of the Red Cross. This nation's official volunteer disaster relief agency provides aid in 20,000 disasters annually, including floods, tornadoes, fires, explosions, and wrecks. 1972 has been a calamitous year for the United States. Since January 1, there have been twice as many major disasters as in any comparable period in our history. President Nixon, who is Honorary Chairman of the American Red Cross, has declared 32 major disasters so far this year — an average of one per week. All sections of the nation have been hit by major disasters:

California, Oregon and Washington in the West; South Dakota and Michigan in the Midwest; Texas, West Virginia, Mississippi and Florida in the South; and Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York and Pennsylvania in the East. The Red Cross, with its network of 3,210 chapters in all states, every major city, and almost every county, has assisted in all the major disasters and thousands of lesser cases. Over 1.8 million Americans contributed their services as Red Cross volunteers in 1971 and there were 35.8 million contributors to the fund campaign which ended in midyear in 1971.

Operates 4 Major Programs

The Red Cross operates four major programs: disaster preparedness and relief; services to members of the armed forces, veterans, and their families; blood bank; and community health and safety programs, including nursing, first aid, small craft and water safety. Over 6.5 million students participated in school Red Cross programs last year. June 1972, will be long remembered by the Red Cross Disaster Service. As the month began, flood relief operations were going on in Alaska, Washington, Oregon, California and Texas. On June 9, the Black Hills cloudburst occurred and Rapid City, South Dakota, was devastated. The Red Cross aided 2,400 families there.

One week later, Hurricane Agnes brought the worst flood in U.S. history. The worst inundation was from Virginia north to New York. At the peak, the Red Cross operated 492 shelters, housed 152,000 persons, and fed 329,500 victims and workers. Meanwhile, a California town broke and thousands lost their homes. The Red Cross was there, and also in Arizona's floods. People in 12 states were receiving Red Cross aid at one time.

Members of the armed forces and veterans don't need to be told about the Red Cross, which has 2,260 staff members at military stations around the world, not counting volunteers in hospitals and elsewhere in the U.S.

The Red Cross is the largest single blood collection agency, operating 59 centers with 1,700 chapters participating, and collecting 3.4 million units last year from 2.3 million donors. About half of all the blood used in civilian and government hospitals comes from the Red Cross.

Disaster Fund Drive On
The Red Cross budgets about $12 million annually for disaster relief. By June 1, one month before the end of its fiscal year, it had already spent $13 million. Then came the 12-state disasters of June, especially Agnes. At last count, the Red Cross had spent $22.4 million more, digging deep into its reserves.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Talk Of Texas

BY JACK MAGUIRE

SWEET BUSINESS—This summer, more than 15 billion migrant Texans are working in fields from Canada to Mexico. They're busy from dawn to dusk, receive no money for their labors and millions will work so hard they'll die.

They are honeybees, and they'll bring home about 8 million pounds of honey from their migration. Another 15 billion bees, working within the confines of Texas, will produce an equal amount.

Commercial bookkeepers truck their hives from Texas as far north as the Dakotas each summer to search out fields of succulent clover and soybeans. Next to cotton blossoms, these are among the favorite sources of nectar. Farmers welcome the arrival of the migrant bees because they pollinate their crops. As a result, most farmers permit hives to be set up on their property without charge.

On the few occasions when an apiarist has to pay for the privilege of letting his bees work, the payment usually is in honey.

IT'S A FACT—Most of the stories about rich Texans are fabrications. In 1971, Texas ranked 32nd among all of the states in per capita income.

Last year, the average Texan took home $3,682 compared with the national average of $4,138. He is much worse off than a resident of the District of Columbia, where the per capita income was $6,000, or New York, where it was $5,021.

TRAVELING TEXAS—On Santa Cruz Hill, outside of Pharr in the Rio Grande Valley, is a huge cross erected 80 years ago by a farmer who promised God he'd build it if only He would send rain to end a terrible drought.

The rains came, and in 1892, Domingo Pena set up the cross atop the hill. In the years since, it has been maintained by members of his family and replaced when needed. The present cross was put up in 1957.

Each May 3, a procession is held to the hill and a rosary and mass are said by a priest asking blessings on the valley's crops.

TEXAS FIRST—One of the few cardiovascular hospitals for animals in the U. S. was opened recently at College Station by the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A. & M. University.

At the A. & M. facility, a dog, cat or other animal with serious heart and blood vessel diseases now can be treated with such sophisticated equipment as a heart-lung by-pass machine, a radio isotope scanning unit and others.

If X-rays are needed, there is even a rapid cassette changer that will take pictures at half second intervals.

Window Hogging

The recent era of liberal economic theory seems to have given rise to the notion that a nation's power to accommodate would-be borrowers is practically unlimited.

It isn't so, of course. What is to be borrowed must first be saved, in an economic sense, through an excess of production over consumption. When borrowing exceeds savings the borrowers are trying to get something that isn't there. The Federal Reserve can make up the deficiency by pumping up the money supply, but this will lead to fresh spirals of price inflation.

It would appear that the federal government now is most in need of this reminder from the handbooks of basic economics. As the remarks of Maurice Mann make clear on this page today, there has been a burgeoning in recent years of credit demand from government and its agencies. Mr. Mann, now executive vice president of Western Pennsylvania National Bank in Pittsburgh, has served as assistant director of the federal Office of Management and Budget and as vice president and general economist for the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, so he has had an opportunity to view federal borrowing from three separate vantage points.

He cites estimates that federal and federally assisted borrowing will account for half of the nation's total credit demand this year. Three years ago, the federal share was only 18 per cent.

We commend Mr. Mann's observations to our readers because we suspect that we all will be hearing a great deal more from the problem he describes in the years just ahead. The inordinate demands being made by the government on the nation's credit resources for one thing constitute a very strong force for reallocating the nation's resources along lines designated by the government rather than market forces. That suggests an ever increasing reliance on the economic wisdom of Congress and national administrations. The record indicates that the nation's economic health, or that of any other nation that has followed the same route, has often been badly served by such reliance.

More immediate is the problem of inflation. An establishment that seeks $60 billion in credit in a single year, and is in a position to influence many of the ground rules at the same time, sharply increases the risk of exceeding the economic limits on borrowing. There is thus every reason to expect still further difficulties in coping with inflationary pressures. —Wall Street Journal

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Dear editor:

Although it hasn't been established how high up a man owns space above his land, it is generally conceded that he owns as far down as you can go; however an item I read in a newspaper last night may unloose a legal bag of worms on that point that even the Supreme Court won't be able to handle.

According to this item, scientists, I suppose may be having discovered that once you get a hundred thousand miles out in space, going any further is about as fascinating as adding another story on a hundred-story building, are now turning their thoughts to the inside of the earth.

They want to see how far down they can go, to see what's down there, bring back some samples, that sort of thing.

This is all right with me, a man can spend his time like he pleases, even devote his entire life to playing chess, so long as it's him doing it and not me, but here's the situation: if these earth-digging scientists go far enough down they're going to be trespassing on everybody in the world who owns as much as one city lot.

If a man owns everything under his land, all the way down to the center of the globe, then what he owns is a piece of the earth shaped like a pyramid turned upside down, and naturally at the very center everybody's land narrows down to something less than needle-point size.

This invites some of the worst squabbling the world has ever seen.

Say for example oil is discovered right at the center. Who could figure out what share goes to what individual, what share to what nation? Or say there's molten gold there and if everybody could get his share he'd never have to work again, or if it was divided among everybody nobody would ever have to work again?

There are times when it can be argued that it's a pity the earth isn't flat and that Columbus didn't sail off the edge of it as he was warned instead of discovering America. At least it sure would have saved us a lot of money in foreign aid, foreign wars, etc.

By Mrs. Art Manjeot

Keep up that good garden spirit, even though the days in August are hot and dry. Continue a consistent watering system.

Do not let shrubs, trees, chrysanthemums, annuals, perennials and vegetables suffer from lack of water. Be alert for signs of insects and diseases.

Yesterday I went to town to shop and visit a bit; in talking with some of my garden friends, each one of them mentioned that they are having an attack of garden worms. They are the small yellow fuzzy ones.

This is their second appearance this summer. It is well to look closely for them as they are hard to see and when the foliage of plant is disturbed they roll up into a tiny ball, and this makes them more difficult to see.

They chew, and leave their marks on the leaves, so use a spray which is recommended for chewing insects. Malithion is a good all purpose spray, and can be safely used on vegetables.

You are growing gladiolas for the fall flower, shows check them for aphids and thrips. Do this regularly because they appear almost while one is looking and must be treated or the quality of the gladioli will be damaged badly.

If you are fond of fresh wilted lettuce salad, plant some lettuce now. This is an old fashioned salad, tangy and good.

SUNFLOWERS...Because of a request from some of my readers, am giving the following information on sunflowers.

Helianthus is the common sunflower. It is a coarse-growing, tall plant of the composite family. There are both annual and perennial. The leaves are medium to large, spear-shaped, covered with short spines or hairs. The flowers are small to very large in size, having yellow rays with yellow, brown, or purple discs.

The annual sunflower is the variety which is most popular in our area. In making my rounds over the city I have found some well grown sunflowers.

Some of the best are at 707 Blevins. One growing near the house is almost as tall as the house and the heads are large and full of seed. A background planting is at the rear of the home and makes a very lovely setting for the vegetable garden.

Annual sunflowers grow to a height of 12 feet. Leaves often are 8 to 12 inches long. Flower heads are from 3 to 12 inches or more in diameter.

From the flowers is produced a yellow dye and leaves are used for forage for cattle. Seeds are used for food and when pressed produce oil. I remember that my grandfather grew sunflowers in abundance in his vegetable garden and he would use the seed for feed for the chickens.

Some of the varieties grown were the Russian giant, which was very large. A popular dwarf double form, was the nanus. The name it was known by.

I also remember the wild sunflowers which grew along the roadside and in the pastures. They were not very popular with the farmers if they started in their fields as they were difficult to control.

In recent years horticulturists have done much experimenting with the sunflower and many new varieties have been perfected through hybridizing and experimentation.

In the catalogues this year some of those that were listed are: Helianthus-sunflower...produces large flowers, mostly in shades of yellow. Grows well in dry weather, and are grown for hedges and screens in landscaping.

Names of the most popular are giganteus, dwarf sungold, dwarf chrysanthemum-flowered, Suttons red, sungold (very double), color fashion (a mixture with a wider range of color) small flowered helianthus in mixed colors, and Italian white, very pretty, pure white, uniform shape and excellent for arranging.

Not only have new types of sunflowers been introduced by scientists have been experimenting and have brought to light the fact that the sunflower seed or the oil extracted from them may be a cure for multiple sclerosis.

British Medical Journal reports that researchers seeking a cure for multiple sclerosis mysterious crippling nerve disease, recommends that the seed and oil of the sunflower should be included in the regular diet for patients.

This is of course just in the experimental stage both in Britain and America, but let us pray that a cure can be brought about for loved ones and friends who have this crippling disease.

In another publication I learned that the Russians are growing sunflowers. They are already growing a variety that produces more than two billion tons of oil a year.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture reveals a Texas agronomist has found a way to breed hybrid sunflowers of consistent high quality the same as hybrid corn is bred. It may be possible to have a yield of 30 per cent more than the old inbred varieties.

Out of these experiments, terms becoming very popular are: saturated fatty acids, polyunsaturated fats, serum lipids and linoleic acid, that would be lost on the average consumer. However in time all will be understandable by Mr. Average Citizen.

Thus the sunflower could become an important crop as well as being used in landscaping and for pleasure. It is a hardy plant and experiments have shown that it can adapt to extremes of climate more than corn or soybeans.

While in Kansas last summer I read a most interesting article relative to the sunflower. Since it is a state flower for Kansas, they have done research on its potential. The seed is on the market and is popular bird feed, also is eaten by people. They are really very delectable when roasted in oil.

The following is a recipe I clipped! Shell out the seed from the flower heads, place in shallow or flat pan in the oven, salting when taken from the oven. Another process is to soak the seed for a few hours (overnight if you like) in a light brine solution (1/4 cup salt to quart of water) Drain and place in flat pan. Roast in 375 degree oven about 45 minutes or until dry and crisp; do not over-roast. Remove from oven and dry on paper towels if they seem a bit oily. Do not roast the soaked seed until they have been dried. These are good, and are a popular product.

CAUTION: If we do not make an extensive drive to eradicate bindweed, (sometimes called passion vine with white flowers) we are going to have much trouble. It can be killed, but a united effort is needed to rid alleys, highways, curbs, yards, gardens, and public places of this enemy.

Survey your property and search out this plant. It is as bad or worse than the dandelion. Was studying a yard last week for landscaping and planting, and found that the bind weed was starting, also found it in bed at a most attractive planting in the business area.

Happiness is — community co-operation!

Urbanczyk Family Holds Annual Reunion In Park

The Urbanczyk family's fourth annual reunion was held Sunday at Thompson Park with family members from Hereford, other Texas cities and other states.

They attended from North Dakota and Oklahoma, also from Houston, Midland, Aspermont, San Antonio, Plainview, Panhandle, Pampa, White Deer, Canyon, Amarillo and Groom.

From Hereford were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dziuk family, Robert Dziuk, the Conrad Urbanczyk family, Mr. and Mrs. Syd Urbanczyk, the Arhart Reinart, Sam Mazurek and Tony Urbanczyk families, all descenddants of the late Felix Urbanczyk.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. John Kotara Jr. and family and the Mack Grange family of White Deer; Mr. and Mrs. Tony Borthick of Norman.

Mrs. Leo Bichsel, daughter of the original Urbanczyks, and Rosa, wife of one of the brothers, both of White Deer, were in attendance. They were pioneers settling in that town.

The three Urbanczyk brothers, John, Ben and Felix, now deceased, were among early settlers in Texas. In 1909, Ben and his cousin were in search for land they could settle on. They found such land in the Panhandle and arranged with the White Deer Land Company to bring Polish settlers there to buy and settle.

John moved to White Deer in 1910, Ben and Felix in 1911. Their father, Anton, was five years old when his family came from Poland with other Poles in 1854. They migrated to Indianola, where they landed, to Panna Maria.

In 1937, Felix moved to Hereford.

Success exacts many penalties and headaches, but failure is still much more severe.

Q. I was hospitalized in January 1972 and was required to pay $68.00. I was told that this was my deductible. I had already had several doctor bills this year and had met my deductible. Why did I have to pay it again?

A. Medicare is divided into two parts, Part A or hospital and Part B or supplemental — sometimes called doctor's part. There is a deductible for each part. The deductible for Part A is $68.00 and for Part B is $5.00. You had met the Part B deductible, but not Part A.

Q. I understand that Part A of Medicare pays all covered charges in the hospital for the first 60 days after I have paid the first $68.00. What happens if I am hospitalized for 70 days?

A. For the 61st through the 90th day you pay $17.00 a day and Medicare pays all other covered charges.

Couple At Home After Marriage

After a honeymoon trip to Red River, New Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Higgins are at home in Stafford Hall, on West Texas State University campus at Canyon. They were married in a mid-afternoon ceremony last Sunday in First Christian Church.

The bride is the former Miss Deborah Townsend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.C. Townsend of Amarillo. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ted Higgins, 333 Stadium Drive.

Sisters of the bride were attendants in the service conducted by the Rev. Gene Brink, minister. Miss Hazel Townsend of Amarillo was maid of honor, Mrs. Ron Coulter and Mrs. Larry Guffey of Adrian the bridesmaids.

John Seiver of Wichita Falls acted as best man, while brothers of the bridegroom, Daniel and Pat Higgins, were groomsmen. Ushers were Gary Higgins of Hobbs, New Mexico, cousin of the bridegroom, and Bill Townsend of Amarillo, the bride's brother.

Wedding music was by Mrs. Joe Hacker, organist, who played prelude selections and the marches.

Miss Townsend's wedding gown was of starwhite miramist with puffed sleeves gathered to wide French cuffs, a high waistline circled with satin ribbon and pearl buttons in a row on the bodice front. Lace frills trimmed the high neckline and cuffs. She wore a picture hat with floor-length veil attached.

Attendants were dressed in miramist, shading from pale green to deep blue, with matching picture hats.

The couple and their parents greeted guests at a reception in the church fellowship hall after the ceremony. Miss Sheila Travis of Amarillo served the wedding cake and Miss Ann Liggett of Canyon ladled punch.

assisted by Miss Eva Hall of Hartley. Mrs. John Sevier was at the registry table.

For travel Mrs. Higgins changed to a pantsuit in purple and white.

She enrolled in WTSU after graduation from Tascosa High School in Amarillo with the class of 1969. Higgins is a junior at WTSU majoring in computer science. He was a 1970 graduate of Hereford High.

Out-of-city wedding guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L.T. White of Downey, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred N. Higgins, Miss Vickie Higgins and Dennis Higgins of Hobbs; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Seay of Lakin, Kan.; Mike Moore of Sweetwater.

Also Jim Cooper of Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Thompson of Ft. Sill, Okla., the Day Thompsons of Vega, the Ralph Halls of Hartley, Mr. and Mrs. John Higgins of Portales, N.M., and David Ruland of Denver.

Present, Former Bippus Folk At Homecoming

Traveling farthest to the annual Bippus Homecoming at the community church in that area Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burns of Lakin, Kan., were among those recognized at the afternoon program.

Edwin Morrison was introduced as the first person coming to the community, Jerry Homfeld as the oldest person present who was born and lived his entire life there, Ronnie Judd as the youngest present. Mrs. Charlie Burk presented gifts to each of these.

Outstanding residents of Bippus in Extension Service work were introduced by Argen Draper, County Home Demonstration Agent, who sketched briefly the history of the service in Deaf Smith County with emphasis on activities in the Bippus neighborhood.

She presented Mrs. Clint

Homfeld and Mrs. J.G. Fortenberry, who each received the title of H.D. Woman of the Year, and Mrs. Jimmie Bradley, once a Deaf Smith County 4-H Gold Star Girl and now chairman of the County H.D. Council.

Clint Homfeld conducted the annual memorial service, honoring the late N.O. Phillips and Ronald Judd.

Mrs. Charles Higgins was reelected Homecoming president next year, with Mrs. Morrison as vice president and Mrs. Wayne Sifford secretary.

Sixty residents and former residents of the community were present for the day-long reunion and noon dinner. The morning was spent in registration, singing and a worship service conducted by the Rev. Gene Brock. Youth of the church led songs to open the afternoon program. Special music was by Joe Don Weaver and Ronnie Coleman of Hereford.

Small Talk

BY SUE COLEMAN
Woman's Editor

THREE YOUNG WOMEN in Hereford have been nominated by clubs here and selected for listing in the national publication, Outstanding Young Women of America. The 1972 edition will be published in November and distributed as a reference publication.

It will present a biographical sketch of the nominees, who include Ruth Wagner Dobbs, Betty Martin and Jean Glass Ricketts of Hereford.

They are also candidates for further state and national honors; one young woman from each state will be chosen to compete for selection of the ten outstanding young women of the year for the nation.

Purpose of this program, which was originated by major women's clubs of the U.S., is to recognize women from 21 to 35 years of age for exceptional contributions to the betterment of their communities, professions and country.

Another Hereford woman, Rita Huckert, was among those listed in last year's volume.

darkness, they reported.

SOME INTERESTING visitors spent a day in Corinne's home this week, and also visited other members of the Jowell family here. Mrs. Oren Collins of Midland was a Jowell before her marriage, as Corinne was; they are third cousins and hadn't seen each other in 45 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins were here just for a day, but the cousins promised themselves not to wait so many years between visits any more.

Mrs. Collins' father, Spence Jowell, was a partner with Corinne's father, Ratcliff Jowell, a pioneer Hereford rancher, in business—oldtimers here remember the Jowell and Jowell partnership. And the two women attended old Midland College together quite a few years ago.

VISITING A FEW DAYS with her parents, Delight and Hank Williams, is Charlotte Bowman of Alexandria, Va., while her husband, Ed, is in Panama for a couple of weeks on Marine Corps Reserve duty. She is also visiting her sister, Sheila Thames, and family, and trying to see as many Hereford friends as possible in a short time.

OFF-TO-COLLEGE reports are beginning to come in, and we do like to get them; people are always interested in learning where Hereford students are going to school this year.

Two 1972 graduates of Hereford High who will go to Texas Tech are Janet Baker, daughter of the Art Bakers, and Nelda Norton, whose parents are the Palmer Nortons.

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: JASEN FINISHES HIS TALE OF THE INJUSTICE SUFFERED BY WARRIORS WHO HAD FOUGHT SO VALIANTLY FOR THEIR KING. HATRED FLASHES FROM HIS ONE EYE AS HE FINGERS THE KNIFE HE HAD PLEDGED TO SINK IN THE RIBS OF KING DASHAD, UNAWARE THAT THE CALM LITTLE FAT MAN BESIDE HIM IS THE KING!

PRINCE VALIANT HAD INDUCED THE KING TO COME ON THIS HUNTING TRIP IN DISGUISE SO THAT HE MIGHT LEARN SOMETHING OF HIS SUBJECTS AND BECOME LESS OF A DESPOT. HE AWAITS DASH'S REACTION.

"TELL ME, JASEN, ARE THERE MANY WHO, LIKE YOU, HAVE GONE UNREWARDED FOR THEIR SERVICE TO THEIR KING?" JASEN GLARES: "HALF THE BEGGARS IN ATHELDAG ARE CRIPPLED WAR VETERANS!" "I HAVE SOME INFLUENCE AT COURT," SAYS DASH, "COULD YOU GATHER THESE VETERANS TOGETHER AND PUT YOUR CASE BEFORE THE KING?"

"BAH!" SNARLS JASEN, "THE KING IS SURROUNDED BY FAWNING COURTIERS WHO WAX WEALTHY ON HIS FAVORS. ONLY THE WEALTHY CAN AFFORD THE BRIBERY IT TAKES TO HAVE AUDIENCE WITH THE KING." THEREAFTER DASH IS LOST IN THOUGHT AND JASEN BUSIES HIMSELF WITH HIS COOKING POTS.

NOW THE BOATMEN TELL THEM THAT ON THE MORROW THEY WILL REACH THE HUNTING GROUNDS. SO IMPATIENT ARE THEY THAT THE OARS ARE MANNED TO SPEED THEM ON THEIR WAY.

AND DASH LAUGHS. FOR WHO WOULD BELIEVE THAT A MIGHTY KING WOULD PULL AT AN OAR BESIDE HUMBLE BOATMEN? THEN HIS SOFT HANDS BLISTERED.

FIELDS AND VILLAGES ARE LEFT BEHIND AND THE RIVER WINDS THROUGH A WILD BRUSH-COVERED PLAIN.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Here is an idea that may be helpful to some of your readers.

When you buy men's coat-style pajamas (which is all my husband will wear) the facings on the coat are never stitched down, consequently the buttons pull out easily, many times tearing a hole.

To remedy this, I removed the buttons and sewed a strip of twilled tape inside the facing, then stitched down the facings on both sides.

I sewed the buttons on the inserted tape strip and they just never tear out again.

Violet Jones

Take it from me, gals, this little lady has not only solved like to write poems of my very own.

Whenever I write a poem I make a copy of it. I give one to someone as a gift and keep the other one. The one I keep, I place in my scrapbook and write the date on it.

My mother thinks I write very good poetry, and she seems to think I will enjoy the poems even more when I'm older.

The next poem I write, I plan to send to you, Aunt Heloise. Hope you like it.

Teresa

I'll be looking forward to receiving your poem, darlin'. With a sweet letter like yours, the poem would just have to be as extra special as I'm sure you are.

SOUP'S ON!

DEAR HELOISE:
Don't you think homemade vegetable soup is just about the yummiest?

I like my vegetable soup full of vegetables, but fixing it that way can often yield enough to feed an army.

When I put the soup bone on to cook, I add some dried vegetables—a few lima beans, kidney beans, etc. When the meat is done so are they.

Then the last-half-hour or so I add potatoes, carrots, an onion, and maybe some corn. It makes a luscious blend of flavors and I don't have five or six half empty cans to contend with or enough soup that I have to call the neighborhood in!

Linda Smith

Have you heard the old saying about "eating high on the hog?"—Well, that describes homemade vegetable soup to a T. Don't think you could do any better anywhere, anytime.

I like to make a "barrel" of it and freeze what's left over.

Heloise

HERE'S THE POINT!

DEAR HELOISE:
As a primary school teacher I find the following idea extremely useful:

I use a staple remover to pull knots apart. This really helps and is so much better than breaking fingernails.

Just put the points of the

GRANDPA'S PIE

DEAR HELOISE:
Maybe a 73-year-old grandpa can help your many readers.

When I bake a frozen pie, I remove the pie from the carton and allow it to stand until the top crust is soft. Then, instead of punching vent holes in the crust, I score or cut through the softened crust into the number of pieces I want. I do not cut through the outer ring of the crust.

When the pie is baked, the bottom crust and ring can be cut with a thin knife and each slice can be lifted out as if it were baked separately.

No more broken, crumbly, smashed top crust.

GET WELL SOON!

DEAR HELOISE:
One of my duties in our local hospital is forwarding the mail of patients who have been discharged.

It is difficult to write a forwarding address when most of the envelope has been used to spell out our address.

Please ask your friends to leave enough room for a forwarding address on each envelope. Also, it is far easier to identify the patient if the writer will use the given name of the patient, such as Mrs. Mary Smith, not Mrs. John Smith.

Following these simple suggestions will insure the patient receiving those wonderful letters and cards from her friends.

PARTY BALLOONS

DEAR HELOISE:
A few weeks ago, my sister and I made some balloon ornaments for a party.

We took some very, very heavy starch and dipped small strands of yarn into the starch.

Then we blew up the balloons and wrapped many, many strands around each balloon—enough so that the balloons were completely covered.

We allowed 24 hours or more for the starch to dry completely and then popped the balloons.

Tied a string from one of the yarn strands on each balloon and we were able to hang them anywhere.

They are so cute.

A KNIGHT FOR IT

DEAR HELOISE:
Just thought you would like to know that chivalry isn't dead.

The young lady across the street has a boy friend who drives a pickup truck.

When he comes to call for her on Saturday night, he escorts her to the cab of the truck and from the back of the truck he gets a three-legged stool (the kind we used to use when milking Old Betsy) and places it on the ground for her to step up. This way she can get into the cab more easily.

Rather gallant, I'd say.

Friendly Neighbor

I surely agree. What's more, I can't think of a better compliment to give the youth of today.

I hope Sir Galahad was watching, as I'm sure he would be beaming.

BULLETIN BOARD

- SITTING BULL! Warn a friend that you are about to perform some Indian magic. Ask him to join you in sitting on the floor. Now, tell him he will be unable to get up by himself. He'll scoff, of course, but when he gets up, you do, too.
- Not many English words form their plural by a change of an inside vowel or vowels—woman, women; man, men, for example. Can you name three more? Book, foot, room, knee, tooth, pouch, foot, etc.
- Speaking of vowels, there is good reason to suppose that there were at least two less in bygone days. Why's that, do you suppose? Simply because it and I were not there.

Hey kids! If you have a Bulletin Board item, send it to Junior Whirl, c/o this paper. It may appear here.

PLACE a coin in the palm of your hand. Challenge a friend to brush it off with a soft hairbrush—if he can.
