Theaters have new manager

A 24-year-old man from Albuquerque has moved to Hereford and taken over operation of the Star Theatre and Tower Drive-In.

He is Scott Brewer, who has been with the Commonwealth Theater chain for about 10 years. He has been a manager for two years, coming here from a drive-in theater in Albuquerque.

He replaces Randall Foy, who left Wednesday to assume the management of a theater in West Helena, Ark.

His wife, Judy, arrived in Hereford late last week after he had been here several days already, trying to learn the local mode of operation.

"If people will stick with me, I'm sure they'll get what they want here in the way of pictures," Brewer said in an interview.

"I want to try to provide a place for people to come and enjoy a good movie. I feel the movie is probably one of the few places where you can get away from everything while you're still right in the middle of it. Sort of like a vacation." Brewer said he plans to spend considerable time looking through the charts to see what kind of movie Hereford people want to see, as evidenced by how many people attended the various movies that have been shown here in the past.

"It's hard and expensive to get the really good, first-class movies in a town of this size population. You don't have the people to play to like you do in a big town like Amarillo or Lubbock. There, they know they've got enough people to pay for that film, while in a small town, you're skeptical," he added.

The movie companies charge the same price for their films regardless of the size town the movie is showing in, unless it is being shown several months after it first hits the metropolitan areas.

"Some of the films are very expensive and one or two good crowds just won't take care of

Clayton votes against removal of gasoline tax

AUSTIN — Deaf Smith County representative Bill Clayton was one of three representatives who voted Thursday against the removal of the 2 cent tax on gasoline from the huge tax bill that was okayed last week.

Clayton said he believes the gasoline tax would be good and the elimination of the tax could possibly mean a special session to raise more money next year. "The 2 cents would mean only $1.37 a month additional tax to the average person," Clayton said, "and if we don't allow for this tax, it will mean a special session and the additional expense of that session for the state."

He and his wife have no children. "It's warmer to wear two thin garments than one thick one because the air between them serves as insulation."

it. It's something you have to have a fairly decent crowd on all the way." But Hereford still gets a better break on good movies than do smaller towns. "They just won't sell them to small towns first. Most of the big films are played in the big towns first because that's where they guarantee them more money. After that, then come the towns like Hereford, Pampa and places like that. Hereford is 14,000 population, and of course it gets these movies before the towns of 4,000 or 5,000 population, or less." Brewer said he feels Hereford

Students must complete forms for transfer

Students who will be transferring into the Hereford Independent School District from another school district will be required to fill out transfer papers before the June 1 deadline. Dorothy Mercer, with the school administration office said Friday that any student transferring into the local district from another should come by the school administration office as soon as possible to complete transfer applications. Students who are transferring out of the Hereford system into another should follow the same procedure by going to the school offices of the district they plan to enroll in for next year.

WHY DO WE NEED A HOSPITAL DISTRICT ?

We have worked with Deaf Smith County Hospital through the years, and the following is our position on this question:

FACTS:

1. Deaf Smith County furnishes tax money to our county hospital only for the retirement of outstanding hospital bonds and approximately $9,000.00 per year for property maintenance. It costs over $900,000.00 per year to operate the hospital. No operating money is furnished to the hospital out of county taxes. Operating funds are raised by the hospital through income from patient charges.

2. Hospital costs per patient day have risen 17% per year as a national average; Deaf Smith County Hospital's experience has been as follows:

- In 1965, cost per patient day — $31.47;
- In 1966, cost per patient day — $37.71, up 19.8%;
- In 1967, cost per patient day — $41.65, up 10.5%;
- In 1968, cost per patient day — $44.98, up 7.9%;
- In 1969, cost per patient day — $48.12, up 6.7%;
- In 1970, cost per patient day — $59.10, up 22.8%;

The room rate of the hospital has increased from $25.00-$31.00 in 1965 to $40.00-$41.00 in 1970.

3. Why have hospital costs increased?

(a) Payroll and payroll taxes account for 66.32% of all hospital expenses. Payroll and payroll taxes have increased because the hospital has in recent years been required to pay employees according to the Federal Minimum Wage Law, and such minimum wages have been increasing and will continue to increase; which increases have caused all other employees of more seniority and with more responsibility to also require higher salaries.

(b) The cost of hospital supplies this past year increased 21%.

(c) In the past five years, the hospital has charged off of the books and has absorbed a total of $424,584.77 in charity and unpaid accounts. The following graph shows that the hospital charged off $15,000.00 for charity and unpaid accounts in 1955, and $145,000.00 in 1969:

Our population has doubled since 1955, but our charity and unpaid accounts have more than doubled. If this trend continues during the next ten years, hospital charges in the future will be seriously affected.

(d) The ten-year trend of a greater demand for hospital service reversed itself in 1970. Hospital patients utilized almost 1,000 fewer patient days in 1970 than during the same period for 1969, amounting to approximately $55,000.00 less gross revenue. The spiraling cost of hospital care can no longer be paid by many people, therefore, in our opinion, gross hospital patient days have dropped for this reason and may continue to drop in the face of increasing costs of hospital care.

CONCLUSION:

Inasmuch as no county taxes are available to our county hospital for operating expenses, the increasing costs of hospital care cannot continue to be met by raising hospital charges to the sick. The increasing costs of hospital care, together with the increasing costs of providing hospital care for those who cannot pay, together with the increasing costs of the hospital care provided for those who do not pay for such care, all in the face of a possible continuation of fewer patient days and less gross revenue, are burdens which all citizens of Deaf Smith County should share with the sick through taxes paid to a hospital district. The county cannot supply the funds with which to meet such increasing burdens within its present tax structure, the sick cannot continue to pay increasing costs for hospital care; therefore, we need a hospital district as the only fair and equitable means of distributing these burdens among all of our citizens.

IF A HOSPITAL DISTRICT IS CREATED, WILL HOSPITAL CHARGES BE REDUCED ?

Charges for patient care are based upon the cost of such care to the hospital. To the extent the cost of labor, supplies and services increase, the charges to the patient increase to pay for such costs; however, a part of the present cost of hospital care charged to the patient is the cost of providing hospital care for indigents and the cost of providing hospital care for those who fail to pay for the same. If a hospital district is created, and tax money becomes available to the hospital for operational purposes, the cost of providing hospital care for indigents and the cost of care for those who fail to pay for the same can be offset by such tax money, and the patient is thereby relieved of this burden; therefore, to the extent the cost of paying for indigent care and bad accounts is reflected in the patient's bill, such hospital charges to the patient can be reduced in this amount.

WHAT HAPPENS IF WE TURN DOWN THE HOSPITAL DISTRICT ?

We cannot foretell future conditions or events, but one answer to this question is as follows:

If we do not elect to create a hospital district, and if present trends continue and operating revenues are required by our county hospital from county taxes, county tax valuations will have to be raised to provide such additional revenue. If county valuation are raised, under the present law, our school system will receive less state money for the operation of our school system because higher property valuations has the effect of lowering the amount of state money paid to our school system, and if the amount of the reduction of state money paid to our school system is significant, our school district in turn may find it necessary to raise school taxes in order to offset the loss of state money; and in like manner, since state ad valorem taxes are levied on county tax valuations, higher county tax valuations will result in higher state ad valorem taxes for the remainder of the time such ad valorem taxes are paid to the state, and the net result would conceivably be an increase in our county taxes, an increase in our school taxes and an increase in our state ad valorem taxes.

By the same token, if we create the hospital district and it thereby becomes possible to lower county valuations by reason of the county funds no longer being required for hospital purposes, lower county valuations would result in more state money for our school system, rather than less money, and thus no need for an increase in school taxes would arise, and lower county valuations would mean lower county taxes, and lower county valuations would lower state ad valorem taxes; therefore, it is possible that much of the new taxes levied by the hospital district would be offset by more state money paid to our schools and lower county and state taxes.

Local deputy aids in look at 'hijacking'

A local deputy sheriff played a key role in the investigation of a truck reported hijacked after it left Wilson Beef and Lamb Co., last week, loaded with 40,000 pounds of refrigerated meat and destined for the Bronx, N. Y.

The truck left Hereford last Thursday afternoon. The next day, the truck was reported stolen. Trans-Code Express Truckline of Dallas said the driver called in from Oklahoma City and said his truck had been hijacked between Hereford and Oklahoma City.

Local deputy sheriff Gary Gillespie checked it out locally, in Amarillo and in Oklahoma City; put reports on the state-wide teletype wire read by various law enforcement agencies; and eventually got a call from Houston police saying the truck was in their city. The two men went with the truck to the KK Packing Company in Houston and attempted to sell the 40,000 pounds of meat for $7,500. The meat was valued at approximately $20,000 on the rough estimate of 50 cents a pound.

Gillespie, after talking additionally with Houston police, called County Attorney Andy Shuval, and got a "John Doe" warrant issued Friday afternoon for the men who tried to sell the meat. Houston police picked up the two men that night, along with the truck.

The truck driver called from Oklahoma City Friday afternoon that he had been hijacked but Houston police determined that he was in Houston Friday morning. They issued a warrant for the driver and for the two others.

For the truck to have arrived in Houston Friday morning, as it did, police feel the truck headed immediately for Houston after pulling away from Wilson's. They believe the driver then flew to Oklahoma City later Friday to make the telephone call reporting the hijacking.

The new Amarillo air terminal is, without a doubt, one of the finest in Texas, and will be an asset to the entire area. It is designed in such a way that expansion can be made, when and if necessary, with a minimum of effort.

Monte Rosenwald, Amarillo public relations and advertising executive, and Chairman of the Amarillo Airport Board, took members of the news media on a tour of the airport Friday to begin the weekend activities that will end with the dedication ceremony scheduled for 2 p. m. today. The dedication will climax more than three years of planning and two years of construction at the site east of Amarillo. Open house for the public will be held from 2 to 6 p. m. today and beginning tomorrow, the new terminal will be handling air traffic to and from the city.

There is still some work to be done at the terminal, but it will be completed shortly. Also, the overpass on the new road leading to the terminal has not been completed, and probably will not be for another 30 days or so.

Apparently there has been enough pressure applied to Texas legislators to prevent the splitting of the City of Amarillo into two Congressional districts. The latest map that we have seen makes a little more sense, although it will still, if approved, put Congressman Bob Price of Pampa and Congressman a Graham Purcell of Wichita Falls in a race for the post. As it now stands, the new district would start on the east at Wichita County (Wichita Falls) and would include Wilbarger, Foard and Hardeman Counties. The rest of the new district plan is about like the present 18th Congressional District except that Farmer and Castro Counties would go to the 19th Congressional District now represented by Congressman George Mahon. We have known for a long time that this area would probably lose one of its representatives since the big population increase in Texas has almost all gone to the cities. Hereford is one of the few rural towns that has gained any population at all, and many of the counties in the Panhandle have lost population. That's unfortunate, but that's the way it is.

Don't forget to vote Tuesday. This is the day that you choose a man to fill the newly created post of Criminal District Attorney for Deaf Smith County, and it is also the day that you let your wishes be known concerning the formation of a hospital district for this county. It is important that you vote.

We're not too well acquainted with Congressman Purcell, but apparently he is well liked in his present district and must be doing a pretty good job for those people. We do think that Congressman a Price has worked hard for our interests, and we would hope that the voters will see fit to retain him when the time comes. However, that remains to be seen. If this plan is finally approved, one of them won't be there much longer.

We get a little amused at times over the fumbling that's going on in Washington, particularly concerning the SST issue. We would be amused, that is, if it wasn't costing us so much money!

And someone once said, never buy anything with a handle on it. It means work.

Cliff Arnold wins top prize in golf tourney

Cliff Arnold won the individual honors in the 1st Annual Civic Club Golf Tournament last weekend and received the traveling trophy Tuesday for his club, the Rotary Club.

He had both the low net and low gross score, and was awarded a dozen golf balls for his 67 net score. Although Arnold shot a 73 gross score, the dozen golf balls for best gross went elsewhere, since prizes were distributed so no one would be a double winner. Charles Skinner and Carroll McDonald, who each shot a 74, got six golf

CHATEAU PROVENCE by Thomasville

It's that informal elegance you find in antiques crafted in the French provinces... charming and intimate. Now Thomasville re-creates the style with great authenticity of design detail. Floral garlands are carved with crispness and finesse. Spindles, a favorite motif of craftsmen in Brittany, are beautifully turned. Doors and table tops have parquet inlays. Edges are worn and highlighted. All carvings are executed in solid oak, except for the sunburst overlay which is simulated wood. Premium wormy oak veneers and oak solids are finished in Vintage, mellow with a satiny patina. Certain pieces come in fashionable accent colors: Calais White; Faded Yellow; Brittany Blue. Second attempt at kidney donor surgery slated

For the second time, Mrs. Pat Maupin of 902 - 18th is getting ready for surgery to give a kidney to a transplant for her 11-year-old nephew, David Murphy of Phoenix, Ariz. An attempt at the transplant was made a few months ago in a Phoenix hospital, but after incisions had been made in both parties the doctors decided they lacked the necessary experience with transplants in children to complete the operation.

That meant that David, who suffered kidney failure about a year ago, must continue to spend three days a week, at a weekly cost of $1,000, on a blood dialysis machine at a hospital, in order to hold on to life. Surgery now is planned next month in Children's Hospital at Los Angeles. Residents of the Phoenix area contributed more than $15,000 for the new attempt after newspapers carried the story that David's family had exhausted their savings plus health insurance to the amount of $50,000 in his long fight for life.

Small talk

By SUE COLEMAN
 Women's Editor

"NOW THAT the girls are home from college..." Mrs. J. D. Anderson was saying in the beauty parlor one afternoon this week, and it made me think how many parents are saying something like that just now.

The girls, and boys, are coming home by the dozens, to live up the town until next fall.

Mrs. Anderson was talking about Rita and Jan, who have been in West Texas State.

A NOTE from Mrs. S. C. Ramey came from Amarillo,

ASTRO topic of meeting

David F. Tipple, assistant manager-traffic of the Santa Fe Railway at Amarillo, Tex., will discuss the rail industry's ASTRO program at the Hereford Rotary Club noon meeting Monday.

Calling for a national policy that treats all forms of transportation equally, the program was developed as America's Sound Transportation Review Organization by the Association of American Railroads in Washington, D. C.

ASTRO recommends updated laws and regulatory procedures that would free railroads from past restraints; financial help on rights-of-way and equipment, recognition that railroads can no longer perform their essential role without support received by their competitors and expanded federal research.

Equality sought by the hard-pressed industry is expected to come through specific legislation in the 92nd Congress. However, prior to submission of such legislation, the industry has embarked upon a massive grassroots communications program to generate public and organizational support of the ASTRO recommendations.

The recommendations were contained in a report released by former U. S. Senator George A. Smathers of Florida, general counsel for ASTRO, and AAR president Stephen Alles.

WHEN THE Home Demonstration Club women over the county were having those lessons last month on making do-it-yourself cake mix, I got interested and asked Arge nDraper for the recipe.

This mix can be stored three months, she says, without refrigeration. It can be used for all sorts of cakes and cookies, and the H. D. Council members are selling recipe books for only 15 cents, said Arge, getting in a small free ad along with the recipe.

Or (ad continued) if you buy a bottle of the flavoring extract they are also selling, you get a recipe booklet free. Just as a sample, here is one standard cake you can make with the mix:

MASTER CAKE MIX
 2 pkg. cake flour or 9/2 cups sifted flour
 1/2 cup baking powder
 1 lb. salt
 5 cups sugar
 2-one-third cups shortening (1 lb. can)

Sift all dry ingredients 3 times. Cut in shortening with blender or fingers, or with mixer at low speed 8-10 minutes. This is best done in a dishpan or some utensil that big. Store in covered container at room temperature. To measure, pile lightly in cup and level top.

WHITE CAKE
 3-one-third cups quickmaster mix
 1/2 cup milk
 3 egg whites
 1 tsp. vanilla

Add a half cup of milk to the mix and beat two minutes; then add remainder of milk and beat two more minutes. Fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in two 8-inch layers in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, for 20 minutes.

For a good white icing, Arge recommends mixing 4 cups

Prom is event for graduates

Deep sea atmosphere pervaded the County Bull Barn Friday evening for the senior banquet and prom, a highlight of the commencement season for Hereford High School graduates of 1971.

The auditorium was divided into a dining room and ballroom, with a high wall arranged midway, painted seagreen and decorated with colorful drawings of deep sea fauna. Fish nets dyed bright colors were draped above the platform where the speakers' table was set in the dining room, and at the entrance was a big seachest filled with pirates' treasure, and the figure of a mermaid reclining on a huge shell.

The ballroom at the east end of the hall was similarly decked, with streamers and balloons added. A huge bouquet centered the punch table near the entrance.

Harold Schmucker served as master of ceremonies for the program which featured songs and humorous patter by Richard Campbell and an address, also humor-filled, by Leon Hill of Amarillo.

Donny McDermitt, class president, welcomed guests an dSara Bell, secretary, recognized sponsors and parents present. The class song, We've Only Just Begun, was presented by Carol Scott, Sammie Vinson and Sherry White. Chip Formby gave the benediction.

Dinner music was by John Fielder, organist, and a live band played for dancing. The dinner was catered by the Calson House and served by girls from other high school classes, wearing jaunty sailor blouses and caps.

Arrangements were in charge of the class sponsors. Billye M. Buck is the coordinator and other sponsors are Barry Arwino, Rene Batard, Margaret Bell, Ben Gollehon, Dalsey Hunt-singer, Lois Laughan, Betty Mercer, Dorotha Prowell, Tommy Rossen, Ann Warwick and Mrs. R. Shackelford.

Charter member special guest

Mrs. Ray Coneway, Hereford Study Club honorary member, was the only charter member present for its officer installation Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Bill Gentry when a salad supper co-hosted by Mrs. Roy Hartman was also enjoyed. Mrs. Gentry installed officers, symbolic of a tree, saying "The roots are those who organized the club or our charter members. Our president is the trunk or main part holding the rest together, and the other officers are limbs. Members of course, are the fruit of the tree."

Committees appointed by the new president are as follows: yearbook, Mmes. Solomon, O.Z. Golden, Richard Winget and Bill Yarbrow; membership, Mmes. Hartman, M.S. Tannahill, Tom Braaddy; and cheer, Mrs. Labry Ballard.

Also Mmes. Don Robinson, Bartlett, Gentry and Gladys Setliff, public welfare; Mmes. Poston, Wilson and Art Stoy, finance; and Mmes. Noble Howard and Merlyn Kaul, telephone.

A large flock of turkey buzzards usually arrives in Hinkley, Ohio each year on March 15. The town welcomes them with an annual festival.

Mrs. J. W. Witherspoon was replaced on the list of associate members for another year and Turkey buzzards thrive on refuse and can subsist on carrion other animals would not touch.

FRONT ENTRANCE of remodeled house reflects the hospitality of its owners, Mr. and Mrs. George Suggs. Antique rose-red stained glass from old Tullia Methodist Church is in narrow windows on either side of door.

SINCE 1900 the new house, top left, evolved from the original ranch home below. At right, from top, the house making its first move, located west of Dawn, and finally in more recent guise at 503 N. Miles.

Second time in house is quite different

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

WHEN GEORGE and Emily Suggs lately moved back to the house they occupied as newlyweds, it was quite a different place in appearance although the basic structure is the same.

Not for the first time, the residence at 503 Miles has a brand-new look. This time the change did not involve relocation, but in its history the house has had three different sites.

It was built about 1900 by Suggs' grandfather, pioneer rancher George Higgins, and has been in the family ever since.

IT HAS stood at the present site since 1946, a neat white stucco occupied by tenants. When the Suggs decided early this year they would like to live in walking distance of downtown Hereford, they considered remodeling the old house.

They consulted Jay Swayze, builder and planner of homes, who was pleased with the challenge of changing room arrangement and adding to the house without altering the basic frame or the roof line.

Planning with the Suggs for a home to meet their needs and likes, he kept something of the look of an oldtime West Texas ranch house, but on a larger scale than the original.

He restored the front porch which was torn off when the house was first moved, but tied it to the roof line to balance an ell at the back which adds a big den, family dining room, utility room and double garage.

EXTERIOR of the house is new, of red brick, with windows made smaller to permit modern temperature control. But an old touch is in the beautiful rose-red stained glass of narrow windows flanking the front door.

The glass is a gift from Mrs. Suggs' brother, who acquired it when the old Methodist Church at Tullia, which her parents attended, was torn down. It had been used in the church windows.

Mrs. Suggs was Emily Fincher of Tullia before her marriage in 1935. When she lived in the house as a bride, it was still on the Higgins ranch nine miles north and three west of Hereford.

George Higgins had freighted lumber by wagon from Amarillo and Canyon to build it soon after he moved his family here from Vernon in 1900. They located on a section of land he bought for $2.50 an acre.

THE HOUSE had its first change of location in 1908, when it was moved to a farm four miles west of Dawn.

"And we didn't miss a night sleeping in it when it was moved," Mrs. Suggs says. For this move it lost the narrow front porch, and in its new location the clapboard siding was replaced by stucco.

In 1946 it was moved to the lot on North Miles, and there it was painted white. It is just next door to the house where George Suggs was born, now owned by his sister, Mrs. Jim Lipscomb.

The Suggs' two children were born in the old house, and the family left it for a location more convenient to schools. They bought a house on Avenue G and later one on Ranger, where they were living when the decision was made to return to their first home.

PRINCIPAL changes in the building were to make larger rooms. A living-dining room extends across the front of the house now, opening into a handsomely modernized kitchen. A bathroom, room for heater-cooler equipment and stairway hall occupy the remainder of the original first floor.

The stairway was changed and now winds upward in three short flights to save floor space. On the first landing, a light burns above a painting, a mountain scene which Mrs. Lipscomb painted to fit an antique oval frame.

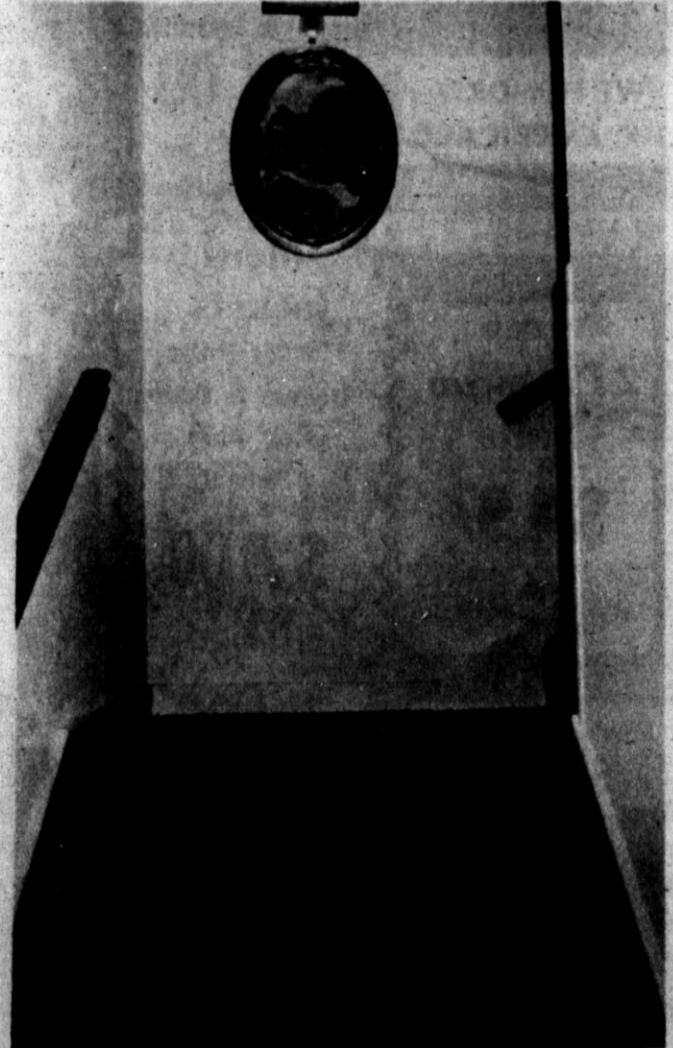

Upstairs, the four tiny bedrooms of the old house are converted to two of generous size, another bath and hallway. The added slope of the roof makes space for a pair of walk-in closets in the master bedroom and another in the guest room, where Mrs. Suggs says delightedly that "all the Christmas decorations can stay until next Christmas!"

WHILE REMODELING was in progress, the Suggs lived where they could watch every detail — in a trailer on the lot to the north. Since they owned the trailer, they took advantage of an opportunity to sell their previous home as soon as their plans were definite.

Bought for trips, the trailer is a travel vehicle rather than a residence. Although it is a comfortable home on wheels

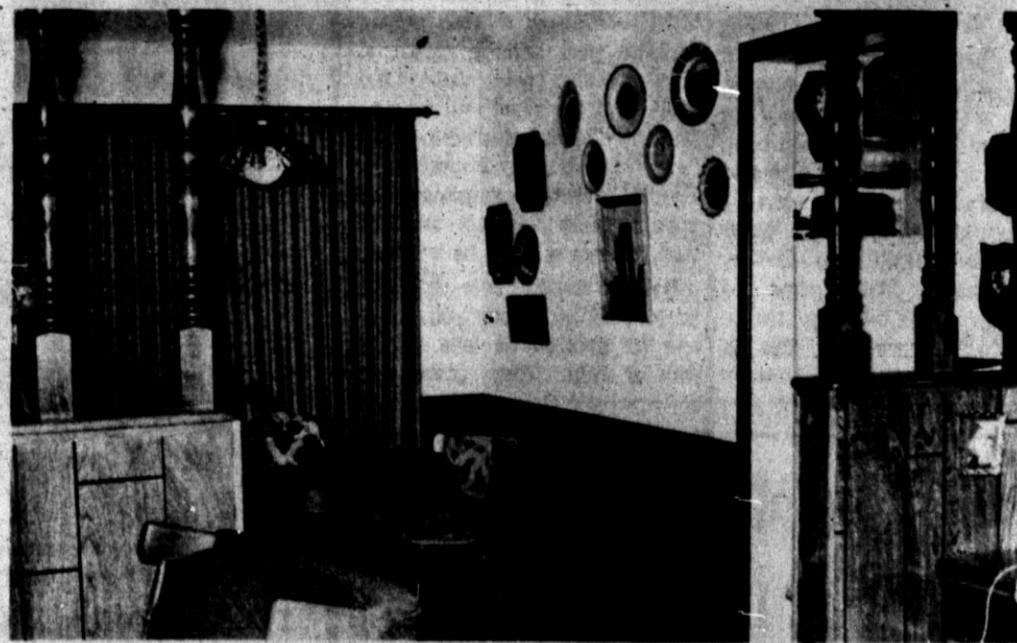

ROCKING CHAIR, one of three among the old furniture which blends with new pieces to create the pleasant atmosphere of the rooms, has been in Suggs' family for years.

SPECIAL PLACE arranged for a scene painted by Suggs' sister, Mrs. Jim Lipscomb, is on the first stairway landing.

FROM ORIGINAL owners, the George Higgins, grandparents of Suggs, came the oak sideboard in the dining area. Mrs. Suggs' handwork supplied crochet lace on table and sideboard, and plastic grape centerpiece.

IN NEW ROOMS added to the house are the den, its fireplace wall pictured above, and dinette, with one wall covered with souvenirs of the Suggs' travels.

during vacations, the Suggs declare it a bit too compact for lengthy living and they were very glad to leave it for the spacious house.

They are getting ready to use it again, though, and are talking of a possible trip to Canada this summer. Travel is a principal interest of the couple, and they bought the trailer for a trip to Mexico in a caravan of travel trailer owners.

HAWAII was the destination of a recent trip. With her flair for handcraft, Mrs. Suggs made attractive plaques to decorate a wall of the small dining room, of souvenir menus from the steamship Lurline which took them on that trip to the islands.

They enjoy trips short or long, including visits to their family. Their daughter Sue, Mrs. Ira Havens of El Campo, has a daughter and a son. Three other grandsons of the couple are children of their son, G. W. Suggs, whose accidental death occurred a few years ago; they live at Flag-dada.

At the library Suspense thriller due to kidnaping

People become very concerned when they hear a child has been abducted and his life put in danger. A story of one such incident is now available at the Deaf Smith County Library.

THE KIDNAPED CHILD
by John Creasey as Gordon Ashe
Obsessed with the idea that someone is trying to harm her baby son, beautiful and wealthy Margaret Wylie exhibits all the symptoms of losing her mind.

Patrick Dawlish, a close friend of the Wylie family, send his wife, Felicity, to their country estate to comfort the young mother, but shortly afterwards, when Dawlish attempts to telephone, he discovers that all the lines have been cut. It is only then that he and millionaire John Wylie realize the two women are at the mercy of a highly organized gang intent on kidnaping the young heir and that they are both powerless to help.

The resourceful Dawlish begins to sort through the complex of clues surrounding the child's abduction and discovers a trail peopled by such villains as an ex-vaudevillian hunchback with a talent for imitating bird calls (and baby cries), an attractive, albeit homicidal, nun with two infant murderers to her credit, and a cunning blackmailer with an ingenious plan for cashing in on thousands of pounds of ill-gotten stocks and bonds.

Writing with all the dash and flair that has attracted readers all over the world, John Creasey presents another Gordon Ashe thriller featuring the redoubtable Patrick Dawlish, a story that is sure to please his many faithful fans.

THE GOLDEN ROCK
by Eleanor Neckert
"This rock, of only six miles in length and three in breadth, has done England more harm than all the arms of her most potent enemies, and alone supported the infamous rebellion. . . . When I leave the island of St. Eustatius, it will be as barren a rock as the day it erupted from the sea.

Instead of the greatest empires on earth, it will be a mere desert, ad known only by report."

This did Admiral Sir George Brydges Rodney, Commander-in-Chief of the British West Indian Fleet, decree the fate of the key link in the Continental Army's slender chain of supply. . . the tiny, volcanic island they called—

The Golden Rock.
Not yet thirty, and only a few years transplanted from Virginia, Thaddeus Prescott was the most successful trader on St. Eustatius in the neutral Dutch West Indies, as well as the most eligible bachelor.

His keenest competitor was a woman—the fiery and headstrong Trus Brandenburg, whose green eyes made ship captains forget their asking prices.

For awhile things went almost too smoothly for Thad and Trus in their lush, semi-tropical paradise. The war was a thousand miles away, and the trading it generated was staggering.

Britannia still ruled the waves in early 1781, yet for every blockade-runner she captured, another would get through, and St. Eustatius was where they took on their precious cargoes of guns, boots and powder.

The intense activity provided ideal cover for Thad, who was secretly an American agent, in charge of coordinating the transshipment of all contraband. As such, he was fated to become the object of an island man-hunt, when the British finally decided to eliminate the Golden Rock.

Their instrument was the most skilled and ruthless commander serving the Union Jack. But what no one in the Admiralty could foresee was the debt-ridden Rodney's obsession with spoils and vengeance, as he set about the methodical rape of the Golden Rock.

"Hell, Heaven or Hoboken by Christmas," was a 1918 quote attributed to Gen. John J. Pershing.

The River Rhone in France is the swiftest in the world.

Glady's Garden

By Gladys Howton Manjeot

The iris are just bursting out all-over in gorgeous rainbow colors, and a sheen that sparkles and gleams in the sunlight. They arrange beautifully, and if you wish to have the blossoms last longer, and the arrangement be attractive, select with the open blooms some buds, and when the open flowers fade the buds will take their place.

I read this in a current magazine, and since this column is primarily for gardeners, I want to pass on to you the idea, that we too are aiding in fighting pollution.

What can one person do to fight pollution and improve environment? The vine Committee of Freeport, N.Y., provides an object lesson on private initiative. In 1965 they ("fewer than eight persons, who do not want individual recognition") started giving vines to city-based boys' clubs. From resulting publicity, people started asking for vines. The committee sent them, and still does, to requesting organizations or persons who promise to plant them at street level on commercial buildings. Distribution is limited to New York City or Nassau County, N.Y.

By last fall the committee had sent out 19,500 vines, a third of which they raised themselves, and the rest purchased. Their idea is to beautify ugly surfaces, keep the city cooler in summer, and cut down noise and air pollution. To help other communities start something similar they have two information sheets, "Propagation of Vines by Homeowners," and "How Vines Can Improve Your Home and Neighborhood" they will send on request.

This is just one of many, many, projects being promoted for the good of communities, and the people there in. Vines are good insulation against heat, and cold as well, they also add an attractive pattern to the brickwalls, and walls of other materials (stucco etc.) As they grow, and the leaves grow and multiply, then they in turn throw off oxygen, and this is what people need to assist in their breathing, and even their very lives. Much good can and does come from such projects, co-operation, beautification, cleanliness, and assistance in fighting some of the problems of which we are faced these days.

It is a good feeling to be a part of such a movement, and if you plant, grow, and strive for cleanliness, along with growing green plants, then you are sharing in one of the major problems of which our nation is confronted.

A small project was started among club members this last planting season. Bulbs, and corns were planted and records kept, to ascertain which would grow better in our town. The two flowers used in the test gardens were Gladioli, and Tulips. It is probable that, after records are compiled, and sent into the authorities that we will be offering some of the ones tested growers in our area. The names of some of those tested are fanlistic, and some marvelous results were shown.

GARDEN TIPS: The temperature of the soil is ready for the dahlias to be planted. Some have perhaps already planted their tubers, if so that is alright, but really they do better when the ground is thoroughly warm, and they will come right up and start off with good growth.

If the clumps of tubers were lifted, and labelled, then when preparing them for planting, be sure that a portion of the mother stalk is cut off when each tuber is removed from the clump. Also set them correctly in the ground, so that the roots will start soon, and a nice strong straight stalk will be grown. It is where the root joins the stalk that the plant will start growth. This is referred to as an "eye" and is very important. Exercise care in removing the root or tuber from the stalk so that the eye will not be harmed.

Dahlias should never be planted in cold or muddy soil. They can be planted as late as the 15th of July. They should be planted at least 3 feet apart, preferably 4 feet, if space is available. This applies primarily to exhibition type dahlias, as bedding and varieties used for landscape effect may be planted closer. Pompon, ball, single, seedlings, and other small flowering types may be planted two feet apart in rows spaced 3 or 4 feet apart.

In planting, be sure and place securely a strong stake in with the tuber or root, so that it will be formed well and ready to tie the plant to, when it has reached growth which will require a stake for protection and to promote finer and larger flowers. After each watering be sure and till the soil, but do not go too deep as sometimes the roots are near the top of the ground, especially when plant is showing fast growth. Dahlias are prone to have mildew, so start an early spray or dusting program to control this. Also, in the exhibition dahlias, it will be necessary to disbud, to produce flowers of exhibition dahlias, it will be necessary to disbud, to produce flowers of exhibition quality. Dahlias are favorite flowers of many, and are especially liked by men gardeners.

At the rate of 100,000 seedlings being grown each year to produce something like 100 new introductions that are placed on the market for gardeners, we realize that Dahlia growing is a most interesting and important phase of gardening. They come in varied colors, also two tones, and have names which are very intriguing, so good luck with your dahlias!

PLEASE, PLEASE Everyone, take an active part in the clean-up campaign. Our hometown HEREFORD Texas, is going to be just as clean, neat and beautiful as we the people, who make our homes here, keep them and assist in such a movement as this one which is being sponsored by the Ladies Chamber of Commerce. Easterwood; the man for criminal DA

The man who enters the local political spectrum only to enhance his own political future is seldom an asset to a community. His actions too often are dictated by those things that will further his career and the citizens of the community are sorely neglected.

We have seen the results of some of this political fumbling in the past years and Deaf Smith County has suffered greatly from the adverse publicity brought about by one public official's witch hunt, and we may be awhile in living down our reputation the "Mafia Capital of the Nation." This may have simply been a poor choice of words on the part of our former DA, but the fact remains that the image of our county has suffered greatly.

There were some "plusses" that came out of that fiasco however. It brought to the attention of the public the need for, and the ultimate legislation creating a special criminal district attorney post for Deaf Smith County — a move that should have come about several years ago. And this Tuesday, May 18, we will have the opportunity to secure a little stability in the Courthouse and a return to honest prosecution of the criminal element.

Rex W. Easterwood, a lifelong resident of the Texas Panhandle and a resident of the Hereford area for the past 23 years, is seeking the position of Criminal District Attorney for this county.

Easterwood is a graduate of Dimmitt High School and West Texas State University as well as St. Mary's University College of Law. He received a Doctor of Jurisprudence from St. Mary's, and is the only candidate for the office of DA who has a law degree. He is a successful practicing attorney, and through both education and practice is highly qualified for the post. He is a member of the First Baptist Church and is active in church work.

Easterwood has many other attributes however, which will be asset to the office and to the citizen of this county as a whole. He knows and understands the people of this area and will also be entering the office without the personal conflicts that now beset the court. He will conduct the office of Criminal District Attorney with all the dignity and respect which it deserves. He is held in high esteem among his colleagues and all those in the community who know him. And he is not attempting to build a personal political base for future political gain. He is interested in doing the job and serving the people of Deaf Smith County.

It is time to bring a little dignity and commonsense back into the courtroom, and we sincerely believe that Rex W. Easterwood is the man to do that job. We ask your support for Rex W. Easterwood for Criminal District Attorney of Deaf Smith County.

Hospital district is important for county

Tuesday, May 18, is a very important day to the voters of Deaf Smith County. Not only will we be asked to elect a Criminal District Attorney, but we must also decide the fate of the proposed hospital district for this county. Both issues are of utmost importance.

Since it was founded, the local hospital has been operated under the supervision of the County Commissioner's Court, with a board of directors appointed by that Court and responsible to it. It has been a very successful system, and perhaps because of it, we have one of the finest medical facilities in the country. The county has been responsible for all building costs and contributes towards maintenance. The operational costs of the hospital have been paid from patient revenue. As we said, it has been a good system in the past.

However, the increased cost of medical supplies, the increases in payroll brought about by federal minimum wage laws, the increased demands made upon the hospital by the patient load, and the fact that more and more indigent patients are being handled by the local facility, has forced the hospital board to take another look at their situation.

After long consideration, they have recommended that a hospital district be created for Deaf Smith County. The required legislation has been passed and an election called by the commissioners for final approval by the citizens of this county. That vote will come Tuesday.

The cost of operating for Deaf Smith County Hospital has now reached the point that the county is hard pressed to raise sufficient revenue for its continued growth and maintenance through the normal tax sources. By voting a hospital district, we will also be approving the levying of an additional tax to carry the burden.

Certainly, the cost is not going to be less because of the creation of the district, but a hospital district can retain all the money collected from taxation for its own purposes, whereas the county must now remit a portion of all taxes collected to the State. Also, by creating this district and removing the responsibility of collecting taxes for the hospital from the county, the commissioners will be able to reduce the present county tax. The administration of the hospital will remain virtually the same, except that the citizens of the county can, if they so desire, petition the court for an election to require the board of directors to be chosen by ballot. At the present, the board is appointed by the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court.

We believe the creation of a hospital district for this county is in the best interest of all the citizens of the county and would encourage your support in its behalf.

Consumers seek more protection from fraud

By BERT MILLS
WASHINGTON—Consumer activists and their Democratic friends in Congress are pushing for enactment of a law to authorize class action suits by groups of people, possibly millions of them, who feel they have been defrauded by some business concern.

The Nixon Administration is fighting the class action bills, proposing instead that such group damage suits in Federal court be limited to cases successfully prosecuted by the Department of Justice or Federal Trade Commission. If the government gained a court verdict of fraud, then injured consumers could sue to recover damages.

The Consumer Subcommittee of the Senate Commerce Comittee has been holding hearings on this and other consumer problems. Many millions of dollars are riding on the Congressional decision on class action suits, and the outcome is in doubt. Several pro-consumer laws are sure to be enacted this year or next but details of the legislation cannot be forecast.

Consumer militants insist the Nixon alternative on class action suits is too weak to help those who are defrauded. The Department of Justice contends that consumers could expect little relief from unlimited class action suits and the lawyers instigating such cases would be the primary beneficiaries.

Rules Changed in 1966
Most non-lawyers have never heard of the Federal Rule of Civil Procedure, but an amendment to these rules adopted in 1966 is of key importance in the class action controversy. Rule 23 called to allow what attorneys used "permissive joinder," meaning that people with similar claims could join and assert their claims in a single suit.

However, only those joining in a suit could recover damages. The 1966 amendment changed that by transforming "permissive joinder" into a device by which the rights of parties not actually before the court were to be decided. The new Rule 23 invites more lawsuits, but contains an important safeguard. Rule 23 directs the judge to exercise his discretion as to whether a class action suit is "manageable." In at least two cases, the judge has ruled such a suit not "manageable" and consumers received no relief at all as a result.

A class action suit was brought in Philadelphia on behalf of 1.5 million consumers seeking to recover overcharges on bread resulting from a price-fixing conspiracy by bank ers. The court concluded that the class of 1.5 million bread eaters was "unmanageable."

Another class action suit in Hawaii was brought on behalf of every individual purchaser of gasoline. The judge dismissed the case, concluding "the problem of management is clearly insurmountable." Again, consumers got no relief.

Delay Another Factor
The Federal courts are already jammed with too many cases. Assistant Attorney General Richard W. McLaren testified recently that "it takes 41 months to get to trial in Philadelphia, 33 months in New York, 28 months in Brooklyn, and 27 months in Detroit."

Unlimited class action suits, he said, "would simply increase the congestion," with the result that consumers would receive "a small piece of a five or six-year lawsuit." In one drug case in which the defendants offered a $200,000 settlement more than two years ago, no consumer has received a penny as yet.

Class action suits, McLaren concluded, are not "anywhere near the panacea for the woes of consumers" that advocates have been claiming.

The record suggests the Assistant Attorney General is right and that it would be a mistake for Congress to grant unlimited access to the Federal courts for actions brought on behalf of groups numbering in the millions. Such legislation looks like more of a boon for lawyers than for consumers.

Talk of Texas

By JACK MAGUIRE

HISTORY REPEATS — Spindletop, the wildest oil well near Beaumont that blew in on January 10, 1901, and became the world's first great gusher, has done it again.

Only this time it was for television cameras and the "new" Spindletop is near historic Brackettville, Kinney County, instead of Beaumont. The 1971 recreation of Spindletop was built on a Brackettville ranch by Hollywood prop men to serve as the backdrop for a television commercial.

The old oil derrick was built from original specifications and "aged" to look like the original. Water colored with lamp black became the "oil." It was all done to advertise a popular beer.

BIG TEXAS — The nine tourist bureaus that the Texas Highway Department maintains along the state line to welcome visitors are all located closer to the capitals of other states than they are to Austin.

For example, the Texarkana bureau is nearer to four other state capitals — Baton Rouge, Little Rock, Jackson and Oklahoma City — that it is to the Texas capital. The bureau at Anthony, near El Paso, is closer to Santa Fe and Phoenix, as well as to the capitals of two Mexican states, than it is to Austin.

WHATS IN A NAME? — Frognot, in Collin County, proudly displays a huge painting of a green frog on the town water tank.

CHANCE OF FAITH — The Baptist minister who was the second president and principal builder of Baylor Female College (forerunner of Baylor University) eventually forsook that denomination and became an Episcopal priest.

Dr. Horace G. Clark, who was born in Massachusetts, came to Texas in 1868. He was the principal and president of Baylor Female Institute at Independence, and in 1888, was ordained a Baptist minister. At Baylor he operated a dormitory for 29 years and, using a $1,000 gift from Dr. Aea Hoxey, built the Institute's three-story main hall. (Its ruins may still be seen at Independence).

In 1890, Dr. Clark took the holy orders of the Episcopal Church and became the rector of a church in Corpus Christi.

TRAVELING TEXAS — About 1883, an enterprising citizen of Round Rock, Williamson County, built the two-story St. Charles Hotel alongside the Chisholm Trail to provide a rest stop for drivers taking herds of cattle to market. The St. Charles still welcomes visitors to Round Rock. Today it's an antique shop combined with a residence.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

The mass demonstrations in late April and the first days of this month testify to the mastery of agitation and propaganda techniques by the radical organizations that planned the protests. Unfortunately, the reading and viewing public hasn't been given the information needed to grasp the character of the protest groups.

The two principal organizers of the demonstrations contain a cross-section of Hanoi's helpers in the United States. The NPAC has a steering committee that includes representatives of more than 100 militant organizations, including the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam and the Socialist Workers Party. This group demands immediate and unconditional withdrawal of all U. S. troops and material from Southeast Asia — the prime objective of Hanoi and Peking.

NPAC's marches in Washington and San Francisco were endorsed by a New Left element in Congress, Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., Americans for Democratic Action, and extreme left-wing factions in the labor movement.

The so-called Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice is an umbrella organization for such groups as the Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam, the American Friends Service Committee, the Fellowship of Reconciliation, and the War Resisters League. It represents many of the more militant "peace" groups that attempted to disrupt the national capital May 3. The coordinating committee of the Coalition includes David Dellinger and Rennie Davis, convicted in the Chicago conspiracy case, and other hard-core leftists such as Sidney Lens and Terry Hallinan. In staging protests, the Coalition cooperated with other radical groups such as the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the National Welfare Rights Organization, and Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

Despite the hard-core radical character of the organizers of the protests, the public undoubtedly received the impression that many of the marchers were idealists. The public simply hasn't been provided with the facts about the individuals and groups masterminding the demonstrations. The failure of the networks and the metropolitan media to provide important information is nothing new. What's especially hard to understand is why high government officials don't speak directly to the people and give a run-down on the anti-American forces involved.

Instead, the public has been exposed to endless stories about the "vets" marching in Washington. Often the stories of these "veterans" are taken at face value without the kind of check a reporter would make in writing routine news stories.

Undoubtedly some of the protesters served in Vietnam. Considering that over two million Americans have served in Southeast Asia, it isn't surprising that a contingent of radical, disgruntled former servicemen can be found. In a nation of more than 200 million people, one finds every human type.

What's disturbing is that the network reporters and the liberal Washington and New York Journal apparently didn't check out the discharge papers of the "veterans" who marched. Those newsmen who covered the protest marches in the South in the 1960's and early 1960's remember that demonstrators were known to put on the attire of clergymen and nuns in order to lend moral distinction to their sit-down strategy. It should be borne in mind that anyone can buy a pair of Army fatigues from an Army-Navy surplus store.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm comes up with a new idea, his, not ours, for faster mail service.

Dear editor:

According to an article I read in a newspaper last night which was three days old but still better than the re-run on television, the Post Office Department in Washington has worked out a speeded-up mail delivery system whereby it'll guarantee an air-mail letter will get to its destination in 24 hours within an area not more than 600 miles away. Further away, it'll take 2 days.

To pay for this speed, the post office's word, not mine, the cost of an air-mail stamp will be increased.

I have been thinking this over and have begun to wonder why the Post Office Department, if it's convinced there are enough people within 600 miles of Hereford who have to have their mail within 24 hours, doesn't come into the modern age.

Why doesn't it issue a special Pickup Truck Stamp?

With the country now inter-laced with good roads, a ny pickup truck can get to any point within 600 miles of here in far less than 24 hours. That'll beat airplanes all hollow.

Why haul mail say in New York City out to some distant airport, load it on a plane, fly it to Boston, land after waiting for air traffic to clear, unload it at the airport there and haul it in to the post office, when you can back a pickup up to the first post office, load the mail on, and take off or the next city and be half-way there before an airplane can make up its mind to take off?

Under this new service, people in no hurry about their mail could stamp their letters AIR MAIL and those in a hurry could stamp theirs PICKUP TRUCK. It would be the prestigious thing to do.

If you think this is a good idea, write the Postmaster General a letter now so he'll have plenty of time to get it before mid-summer.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Senior Citizens Month is being observed in May, members of the American Association of Retired Persons were reminded at the Hereford chapter's meeting in Community Center Thursday evening. They were asked to invite friends over the age of 65 to join the group.

Life is divided into three parts, the speaker said: Years of experience, the productive years and the twilight years, and each

Vegetation helps, but it also hurts

While vegetation helps sustain life, some common plants, trees and shrubs are potential killers, says the Texas State Department of Health.

We eat herbs and the fruits, leaves and roots of many plants in our daily diet, but some plants we deliberately cultivate are deadly.

To the average person, the term "poisonous plant" usually brings to mind visions of poison ivy, or some similar plant that poisons or irritates upon contact. But more poisonous plants are harmful only when they are eaten. In fact, more than 700 species of plants in the United States are known to have caused death or illness. Every year about 12,000 children in his country chew or swallow potentially poisonous plants. A study conducted several years ago revealed that 10 per cent of all child poisonings were caused from eating toxic plants — yet over half of the parents were unaware of the dangers of the plants. Eighty-five per cent of all poisoning cases involving poisonous plants involve children.

It is difficult to believe that one leaf of the graceful poinsettia could kill a child, or that tea made from mistletoe berries has killed adults. Who would expect that the beautiful oleander bush — grown indoor and outdoors all over the country — contains a deadly heart stimulant, similar to the drug digitalis? So powerful is this poison that a single leaf of an oleander can kill a child. And many people have died merely from eating steaks speared on oleander twigs and roasted over a fire.

It's easy to be deceived by plants, for one part may be edible while another is poisonous. All parts of the buttercup, rhododendron, and laurel are harmful. In other plants, only certain parts are toxic. A classic example is the rhubarb which has a perfectly edible stalk, but the leaf contains a deadly poison.

In the strict sense of the word, poison ivy and its cousins are not really poisonous. They contain no poisonous substances and are allergic to them. But over 90 percent of those who handle these plants will develop mild to severe dermatitis, or skin irritation.

The "poisonous" plants do contain toxic agents which can cause direct harm when in contact with the skin or absorbed by the body. Poisonous saps and juices of some plants cause severe irritation on contact, actually burning the skin. However, most poisonous plants must be eaten to cause adverse effects.

Sound advice from an Extension specialist: Fast action along with proper procedure is the key to successful stain removal on upholstery, drapery and other furniture fabrics, reminds Jan Slabaugh, Extension housing and home furnishings specialist. Don't forget to pre-test cleaning products in an inconspicuous area of the upholstery fabric, she adds.

Common stains fall into three categories: greasy, non-greasy and stains that are a combination of the other types.

Greasy stains such as butter, margarine, or car grease can be removed from washable fabrics using a detergent foam. However, it's usually necessary to use a dry cleaning solvent.

Soaps, detergents, glycerine, denatured alcohol, or a weak ammonia solution should be used on foam rubber and nonwashable fabrics. Mrs. Slabaugh advises caution in using any solvent, since many are flammable, poisonous, and may cause illness if their vapors are inhaled.

The eight finalists will be guests of the sponsors, with their parents, for the trip to Detroit for the All-Star Game. They will have box seats for the game and will compete before the All-Star game audience. There will be a banquet in their honor the evening preceding the All-Star game.

with sponge wrung out of alcohol helps remove detergent and dries the fabric. Dilute the alcohol with two parts water for use on acetate fabrics, she advises.

Use a sponge wrung out with cool water, then apply a detergent-water foam removed by sponging with clear water to eliminate combination stains from ice cream, chocolate or coffee with cream.

If the spot is still visible, sponging with a grease solvent on either washable or nonwashable fabrics.

Use bleaching on upholstery fabrics only as a last resort, Mrs. Slabaugh says. Then, use only a very weak solution if a trace of the stain's discoloration remains.

Hereford boy is Boys Ranch grad

Dan Hardy, a Hereford boy who has lived at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch near Amarillo for almost 4 years, will graduate Friday from the Boys Ranch High School.

Dan, 17, is one of the 24 seniors who will be receiving diplomas during commencement exercises for the seniors. He has been active in the band, varsity football, the annual rodeo, fire team, Boys Ranch Letterman's Club, intramural sports, and the Junior Staff, the highest honor a boy can receive while living at the Ranch. He takes vocational agriculture for his vocation and is active in the Future Farmer's of America Chapter of the Ranch.

Now in its 32nd year the Ranch has raised and cared for more than 2,500 homeless and troubled boys and is now home for 378 boys. They have been provided with a home much like the average American family, and in practically all cases without any expense to the parents or any governmental, religious, or social agency.

Cal Farley founded Boys Ranch in 1939 at the historic ghost town of Old Tascosa, Texas. Farley died 4 years ago and has been succeeded by Virgil Patterson, a member of the Ranch's Board of Directors for over 20 years.

The other Hereford boys now making their home at the Ranch are: Chuck Cogdell, Walter Edmonson, Shawn and Ty Lightfoot, Steve Metcalf, and Bobby Turnbow.

County reports April accidents

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 12 accidents on rural highways in Deaf Smith County during the month of April, according to Sgt. Bill Wells, Highway Patrol supervisor for this area.

In the 12 accidents, seven persons were injured but no one was killed.

The April total of accidents brought the year's total to 46 with no deaths attributed to the accidents. There were 26 persons injured in accidents during the first four months of this year.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for April shows a total of 454 accidents resulting in 17 persons killed and 276 persons injured.

Q — I am the holder of a "V" National Service Life Insurance Endowment Policy which will mature soon. Will I have to take the face value of the policy, or may I change to a policy of lesser cash value?
 A — You may change your type of policy, provided you apply before your endowment matures and you are in good health.

Q — Are World War II and Korean Conflict veterans still entitled to GI educational benefits?
 A — No. The laws under which such educational entitlements were granted have been repealed.

Q — My service medical report stated that I have a hernia that I received while in the service. Is it too late to file for a disability pension from the VA?
 A — No. There is no time limit for filing a claim for disease or injury a veteran feels was suffered while in military service.

Q — Are scholarships available from the VA for children of veterans?
 A — Scholarships are not available through the VA. Children of veterans who died of service-connected disabilities, who are totally and permanently disabled because of a service-connected disability, or who are prisoners of war, are eligible for education counseling and assistance. Such children may attend college and receive $175 monthly for full-time attendance.

Complex television network connects region's colleges

LUBBOCK — Higher education today is literally that, in cost and academic instruction. Students, parents who foot part of the bills, public and private institutions, administrators and legislators — not to mention taxpayers — are seriously concerned.

The extension of educational opportunities to all Texans and the upward trend of student population make the problem of numbers of immediate concern. More students require increased facilities and personnel and these require enlarged expenditures.

WIN, the abbreviation for Western Information Network, is a concept which will help to extend educational facilities, adapting today's technology to the critical needs of education.

WIN is an extensive information exchange system — a 1350 mile microwave hook-up that brings together the strengths and capabilities of 18 educational institutions with a present student body of 40,000 and a faculty of 2,000.

Member institutions of WIN are: Abilene Christian College, Amarillo College, Angelo State University, Clarendon College, South Plains College, Sul Ross State University, Texas Tech University, the University of Texas at El Paso, Wayland Baptist College and West Texas State University.

It is a communication network Frank Phillips College, Hardin-Simmons University, Howard County Junior College, Howard Payne College, Lubbock Christian College, Midwestern University, McMurry College, Odessa that shares educational resources, expands teaching talent and brings every member institution, with its community, into the mainstream of education and learning.

Dr. John R. Bradford, dean of the College of Engineering at Texas Tech University and originator of the WIN concept, said the idea began developing when Tech was approached by industry asking that graduate-taught their employees, level engineering courses be

"We were unable to help at that time," said Bradford, "simply because we did not have enough faculty members. We instituted 'flying professors' who flew to area towns once a week to teach."

"Good teachers, the key resource of any education system, must be used more efficiently. This is where an electronic communications network has much to offer Texans," said WIN associate director Robert D. Whipple. "It will never replace teachers; but it will make them more effective by giving them a greater outreach, a flexibility and reinforcement in their teaching and research activity."

The bulk of knowledge is increasing daily. New ideas replace old ones, making them obsolete even before a new textbook is left the press. All professions and trades are being influenced by today's information explosion and are experiencing an education problem. Man needs to receive new knowledge and to be taught its application, not to go over that which is now obsolete. WIN can provide the media to overcome these problems, according to Whipple.

One of the biggest problems in industry is keeping professional personnel abreast of developments.

"In the next decade," Bradford said, "I anticipate the dollar value put into continuing education to exceed the value of that put into graduate education by every institution in the U. S."

Keeping up is difficult even in areas where schools abound. The problem is even greater in some fairly isolated areas.

"West Texas is still a frontier — out here distances defeat us. WIN will electronically transport the professor and students to a common meeting ground, via two-way closed circuit television."

"Greatly increasing WIN's effectiveness is its offer of live two-way communication. This means that a professor gives his talk live, answers questions immediately, and reviewed complex points if and as needed," Whipple said.

Primary operations of WIN will be through a multi-channel, two-way communications system including closed circuit television. WIN will link classrooms, libraries, computer facilities and information retrieval systems at the 18 points into one immense knowledge-dynamics system which all may use most efficiently, economically and effectively.

"The system offers benefits to each participant," Whipple said. "The institutions providing a learning resource gain more support, the institution using the resource gains by not having to duplicate existing facilities."

"Network instruction could later extend to many other areas and institutions in this state. It reduces cost and makes learning easier for students. Quality of instruction also is improved in many cases."

"In total impact, WIN would forge the combined efforts of institutions of learning into one tremendous force of maximum quality and efficiency. It would serve to achieve institutional enrichment, improve relationships between industries and colleges, and perform the greatest possible public service to the area and beyond."

For institutions of higher learning, WIN would provide instantaneous interchange of faulty and student communications. "One university may have a sophisticated computer center, another an outstanding research library and a third a superior business school," Bradford said. "Network connection would give each the opportunity to share the best facilities available."

WIN will link industry and technology with the colleges. This provides the opportunity for up-to-the-minute advanced degrees, in-plant education, and a vital boost to industrial development in West Texas with industry and education working together.

WIN can make available a great array of opportunities in adult education from the stimulation of cultural discovery to the most practical kind of training.

Resources which are now too expensive for any single campus to produce for its own use could become economically feasible for a state-wide student body of more than 200,000.

Medical School demonstrations now being repeated 10 to 20 times in order to reach 100 students could reach the entire group in a single showing with savings in both time and money. WIN will offer new opportunities in health care, medical training, education and post graduate work and make possible computer assisted diagnosis, and emergency consultations.

"Technology has been called impersonal and dehumanizing, but newly trained educators say it is rather a means for greater humanizing of education, a means by which the outdated, self-contained classroom, which prohibits individual progress at individual pace could be replaced," said Bradford.

"The computer has made it possible to put the emphasis on the student as learner, rather than on the teacher as impartor of knowledge. The new stress is on learning how to learn, rather than on learning a mass of obsolete information."

Total cost of developing the network throughout West Texas would be about $10 million. Operation of the network is expected to cost $1 million annually. "While this total represents a great initial expenditure," Whipple said, "when the figure is regarded as the cost per student, the amount is relatively low."

The Texas Legislature authorized WIN's establishment and operation in 1967. While awaiting funds for the needed microwave system, a Moody grant enables the schools to proceed with the videotape method of conducting classes.

Computer science classes at other WIN member institutions are enriched by Texas Tech professors with help from videotaped recordings (VTR). WIN has made it possible for 600 students to complete this course, students who otherwise would not have been able to study the subject.

Whipple said, "VTR is an excellent method to enable the use of television as a teaching guide while waiting for WIN to operate as a closed circuit network."

"Reaction to this program," said Whipple, "has been most encouraging. As one measure of effectiveness, students receiving live instruction at Tech and those receiving videotaped lessons earned comparable grades."

Local woman's mother dies

Mrs. Grace McCoy, 70, mother of Mrs. Tom Mercer of Hereford, died Tuesday at Rocky Mountain Hospital in Denver of an apparent heart attack.

Burial Friday was in Crown Hill Cemetery at Denver.

Other survivors include four daughters, Mrs. Steve Stevenson and Mrs. Art Dombrosa, both of San Jose, Calif.; Mrs. John Egenbert, Omaha, Neb. and Mrs. John Close, Denver.

Sons surviving Mrs. McCoy are William R. of San Jose, James T. of Ronkonkoma, N.Y. and James Porter McCoy Jr., Brazil.

"I anticipate the time when educational activities will disregard the geographical separation of universities," said Dr. Bradford. "Co-operative research projects can be undertaken between faculty members on different campuses and all library and data processing facilities should be available throughout the university system."

A Cornell University biologist has shown that Indigo Buntings must learn some astronomy before making long migratory trips and that their guidance system is not entirely genetically built-in as many scientists have thought.

It's happening at Tech

Engineers study biology

Who studies biology? Well, biologists as a rule, but at Texas Tech University it's also a field of special interest to mechanical engineers.

Specialists in both fields historically have exchanged information. Mechanical engineers helped develop better microscopes and other tools used by biologists, and kidney dialysis machines, for example, are directly patterned after a biological organ or mechanism.

The study of living tissue, however, traditionally is left to the biologists who have known since the 17th Century that motion is common to living cells. As microscopes got better and biological studies more sophisticated, the scientists proposed various theories about the cause of the motion.

The source of the energy causing cellular movement is known to be chemical, but within the cell this becomes mechanical energy. The physical mechanism which causes the transduction from chemical energy to mechanical energy is not known. The answer could be important eventually in helping to recognize flaws in cell behavior or even in manipulation of cells, for instance, for agricultural or medical benefits.

Giving a lot of thought to the mystery the past two years has been Dr. Gerald S. Kirby, a member of the mechanical engineering faculty at Texas Tech and a specialist in the fields of fluid mechanics and thermodynamics.

His understanding of biology has come through self-study and auditing biology courses at the university.

Now with the aid of a National Science Foundation Engineering Research Initiation Grant of $16,000, Kirby is setting out to investigate the mechanism which causes cytoplasmic streaming in biological cells. Cytoplasmic streaming is demonstrated by Kirby in a brief film showing living cells as they are seen through a microscope. His studies include the cells of such things as slime molds, algae, a common aquarium plant called Elodea and amoeba — the one-celled animal introduced early to beginners of microscopic studies.

The cells of Elodea offer a good example. Looking through a microscope an Elodea cell can be seen to have a central area shaped something like a race track. Traveling in a continuous motion around this are the cell's green egg-shaped chloroplasts. They are carried along by a fluid stream of cytoplasm. It is this streaming which interests Kirby.

In cells of other plants, there will be an occasional chloroplast which breaks away and begins to rotate on its own axis. This, too, is a motion of special interest.

A third is seen in Oscillatoria, a form of algae with its own peculiarities. It is filamentous-composed of a linear series of cells. In this, a filament is observed to move in one direction for several minutes before it stops and reverses direction, sometimes with a noticeable jerk. This ability to reverse is seen also in some other organisms. It is a major phenomenon which must be explained, said Kirby.

Because Dr. Kirby pictures the cells as microscopic machines which must comply with universal physical laws, he expects them to be subject to thermodynamic analysis.

"There is a indication that the cytoplasmic streaming phenomenon of a biological cell is a direct chemical to mechanical energy conversion," he said.

While the results of the cell action are visible through a microscope, the action itself is hidden by the infinitesimal dimensions.

Kirby and a graduate student, O. Hayden Griffin, have proposed a mechanism of motion called the "momentum transport model" which appears to explain several forms of cellular movement. The model will be tested experimentally and analytically.

ALARMING SITUATION
NEW YORK — "People used to rely almost entirely on locks and bars to keep out intruders," says Sol Rosen, president of Pro-Tech Programs which makes and installs electronic alarm systems. "But the soaring crime rate has proven these methods inadequate, precipitating the growth of companies engaged in supplying security systems for industry and home."

Microsurgery is one of the proposed experimental techniques. By using surgery to cut a single Oscillatoria cell from a filament, Kirby said, it should be possible to determine if the reversal phenomenon occurs on the cellular level or is somehow related to an interaction among cells.

Cutting chloroplasts from active Elodea should also be possible, he said, and important in determining whether the rotation phenomenon seen in some cells is unique to their performance or can be duplicated in other types of cells.

The effect of light on cells will be studied, Kirby said, because it is possible that a photochemical reaction might be a direct cause of some motion forms.

Each of the experimental and analytical methods have variations important to the investigation.

Kirby's studies started with two small State of Texas grants, and the NSF support provides the means to continue.

The science and engineering interrelationship in the research is a matter of satisfaction to biologists and to Kirby.

"Generous mutual cooperation is essential to people working on interdisciplinary problems," Kirby said. "Biologists have given the type of help that makes the research possible."

To Biology Prof. Jerry D. Berlin, Kirby's mechanical engineering approach should be of "tremendous help."

"In this age of specialists," Dr. Berlin said, "the multidisciplinary approach is important and will become more so."

amendments concerning the Teacher Retirement System of Texas are offsetting. If both are adopted, no constitutional change would be made. If one (SJR 1/4) PASSES ALONE, THE 1/4 M (3) passes alone, the 18-year minimum service requirement would be cut to five years.

WELFARE INCREASE—When Social Security payments increase next month, most aged, blind and disabled in Texas will also get a slight income boost. Social Security recipients will get $4 more a month, as will those on Old Age Assistance who have no Social Security benefits. State Welfare Board has authorized a $1 monthly increase in standards for blind and disabled programs.

Texas public assistance recipients will not have Social Security increases retroactive to January counted against state grants.

STATE LAND LEASED—Texas School Land Board accepted $794,881 in high bids for leases on 12,438 acres of state-owned land.

Highest bidder was Humble Oil and Refining Company with a $167,942 bid for 640 acres in Ward County.

Six bids were submitted on 79 upland tracts and 39 riverbed tracts. Total bids came to $1.17 million. Forty-five high bids were accepted by the Board.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said the Board was pleased with the $58.28 average price per acre.

Another state lease sale for submerged lands is set for July 9.

18-YEAR-OLD VOTE NEARS—Governor Smith signed a legislative resolution giving formal Texas ratification to a federal constitutional amendment extending full voting rights to 18-year-olds.

Texas is one of 23 states which has ratified the proposed amendment. A total of 38 must approve it by legislative action to put it into effect.

Smith said he has "every confidence" that the required number of states will ratify and "that by 1972 all citizens over the age of 18 will have the right and the responsibility to vote. It is a likelihood to be cherished by all and feared by none".

In 1925 preacher Billy Sunday said "If a minister believes and teaches evolution, he is a stinking drunk, a hypocrite and a liar."

SHORT SNORTS—Dr. Elmer Baum of Austin resigned from the State Banking Board the day before the Senate nominations committee hearing.

Senate State Affairs Committee approved a bill calling for the state to assume 100 per cent of the state foundation school program cost.

Cigarette tax revenue increased nearly $1 million from $14.8 to $15.8 million from April 1970 to last month.

Cars damaged in accidents would have to be re-inspected under a bill about to become law.

Jim Bowmer, Temple attorney, is new president-elect of State Bar of Texas; James C. Watson of Corpus Christi is incoming president, to be installed June 30.

AUSTIN—Texas lawmakers wrapped up their toughest job, that of writing a record $673.3 million tax bill, thus hopefully clearing the way for adjournment of their session by the May 31 deadline.

Top legislators said they feel that with the tax issue out of the way (assuming Gov. Preston Smith signs the bill), they can complete congressional and legislative redistricting and other "must" duties this month.

Few legislators claimed to be entirely satisfied with the huge tax bill, but the House voted 100-46 to concur in Senate amendments, bowing to the argument that a conference committee would only delay the inevitable.

Tremendous sentiment for lawmakers to wind up the bitter, complex session and get home as quickly as possible was apparent in the House vote.

Here are key provisions of the tax bill which will become effective July 1 if signed by Governor Smith:

*Sales tax increase from 3.25 to four per cent.

*Auto sales and rental tax at four per cent.

*Franchise tax rate from $3.25 to $4.50 per $1,000.

*Cigarette tax raise from 15.5 to 18.5 cents a pack.

*Gasoline tax raise from five to seven cents a gallon (and diesel fuel increase from 6.5 cents to seven cents a gallon).

*Beer tax boost from $4.30 to $6 a barrel.

House Speaker Gus Mutscher, who pushed for concurrence in the Senate changes, indicated an agreement has been reached to roll back the beer tax increase to $5 a barrel in subsequent liquor-by-the-drink legislation which will be voted on later.

SMITH VETOES 10-2 JURY VERDICTS—Governor Smith, in his first veto of the current session, rejected a bill to set up comparative negligence in personal injury law-suits and 10-2 jury verdicts.

In a strongly-worded veto message, Smith claimed the bill would throw the judicial system "into utter chaos" and substantially increase auto insurance premiums.

Little chance was seen for overriding the veto.

G OVERNORS BLAST NIXON ON DROUGHT—Governors of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma in statements here blasted the Nixon administration for failure to provide complete aid to their drought-stricken areas.

Governors said they will ask their congressmen to press harder for disaster relief.

Meanwhile, Texas House members on the drought committee visited Washington officials and found "some hope" of low-interest federal loans. Committee reports that farmers and ranchers are not adequately informed on the types of loans available to them and asked for special meetings with the Farmers Home Administration to explain aid which can be provided.

Panhandle legislator, Rep. Dean Cobb of Dumas, introduced a bill to allow the governor to declare a county a disaster area due to "serious deficiency in normal rainfall and chronic lack of storage water." Local agencies would be authorized under the proposed emergency act to revalue property for tax purposes on designation of the area as a disaster zone.

COURTS SPEAK—U.S. Supreme Court ruling upholding a jury's right to levy the death sentence may mean early execution of many convicted murderers in Texas. There are 43 on death row at the state penitentiary and others in county jails. Most of them are appealing sentences.

State Supreme Court refused a defeated Palestine city council candidate's bid to force his way to election by legal action.

Texas Supreme Court set June 2 for arguments in opposition complaints over granting application for a new savings and loan association in Bay City and a branch office in Hallettsville.

Court of Criminal Appeals upheld an 899-year prison sentence given a Fort Worth man for rape in 1960.

AG OPINIONS—A bill allowing banks to have drive-in facilities 1,850 feet from the main unit may or may not be held constitutional, depending on facts in each case, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held. Question is whether the bill permits banks to engage in business "in more than one place."

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

*Legislation to permit a bank to increase its capital stock without issuing same is unconstitutional, since authorized capital stock must be subscribed and fully paid in cash.

*A barber inspector who practices barbering on weekends may be eligible for appointment to the State Board of Barber Examiners if he has performed "substantial practice continuously" for five years or more.

*Two proposed constitutional

Vote for the WATER AMENDMENT

#4 on the ballot, Tuesday, May 18

1. Constitutional Amendment No. 4 would provide for $100,000,000 in Texas Water Development Bonds earmarked for state assistance to local governments in construction of waste water treatment facilities, thereby clearing the way for more than $180 million in Federal funds.
2. Constitutional Amendment No. 4 raises the maximum interest that can be paid on ALL Texas Water Development Bonds from the present 4% to 6%.
3. Constitutional Amendment No. 4 removes the 1982 cutoff date for assistance through the Texas Water Development Fund.
4. Constitutional Amendment No. 4 effectively binds water quality and water quantity together, paving the way for future cooperation between ecologists and the environmentalists on the one hand, and those who realistically support the full development of our water resources on the other.
5. A large turnout of eligible voters at the May 18 election is considered of paramount importance to the passage of Constitutional Amendment No. 4.

This provision applies to the $100,000,000 included in this amendment and earmarked for waste water treatment facility assistance as well as to about $300,000,000 previously approved and unsold bonds which are to be principally used for assistance in the form of loans for development of water supplies for cities and towns and for financing reservoir storage space for surplus water that will feed a canal to West Texas.

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: AS THEY TRAVEL SOUTHWARD THE DANGERS MULTIPLY AND ALL PRINCE VALIANT'S ENERGIES ARE TURNED TO JUST PLAIN SURVIVAL. BUT IN THE LONG NIGHT WATCHES HE BROODS OVER HIS TRAGEDY: A SERIES OF PETTY INCIDENTS, MISTAKEN PRIDE AND, PERHAPS, VANITY. THE WHOLE THING COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED WITH JUST ONE KISS!

NO MORE DO THEY ALLOW THEIR HASTE TO LEAD THEM INTO NEEDLESS BATTLES WITH ROVING BANDS OF GOths. THE WOUNDS RECEIVED IN THEIR LAST ENCOUNTER HAVE SHOWN THEM THE HARDINESS OF THEIR FOES.

AFTER DAYS OF RAIN THE SUN CLEARS AWAY THE MIST AND THERE, STANDING LIKE A WALL AGAINST THE SOUTHERN SKY, LOOM THE PYRENEES MOUNTAINS. BEYOND IS HISPANIA, THE GOAL OF THE MIGRATING GOths. NOW THEY MUST RIDE EASTWARD, FOR THIS IS THE NARROWEST PART OF GAUL BETWEEN THE BAY OF BISCAY AND THE MEDITERRANEAN, AND PERIL LURKS AT EVERY LEAGUE OF THE WAY.

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Our 25th Wedding Anniversary was celebrated with an open house, and on display was a snapshot of us taken on each anniversary for every one of our twenty-five years, including a picture taken that day. I had carefully kept each picture and then framed...

them all in one large frame for the occasion.
Of course, newly marrieds must begin this on their first anniversary...

Mrs. F. B.

What a lovely memento—it's like taking a "stroll down memory lane."
Best wishes to you and your husband. I'll be looking forward to hearing from you when you make that "Golden" one.
Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
I had an old dressing table with a beautiful big mirror that had really seen its best years, but I decided that there just had to be something I could do with it. It had seven drawers and a knee hole like a desk.
I removed the mirror (re-did it and made use of it elsewhere in the house), and then refinished the dresser base in an antique red. All I needed was an unfinished chair which I bought and painted to match.
The results were a darling desk and chair set for our younger son. It's very sturdy and really a lovely piece of furniture.

Ina

ALL CHOKED UP!

DEAR HELOISE:
We like artichokes, but the accumulation of leaves on our plates always bothered me.
Now everyone gets a little wooden or plastic berry basket at their place to hold their discarded leaves... looks kind of cute, too, especially with a casual place setting including pottery and a checked tablecloth.
Chicky

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:
You asked what you could do about a tired mind. This suggestion is guaranteed as a sure cure: PRACTICE GRATITUDE!
Every morning when you wake up, take a second or two to be conscious of the fact that you have a brand-new day. If you think you have nothing to be grateful for, get a pencil and make a list.

How about hands, legs, eyes, ears, food, warmth, a roof over your head? What if we were without any one of these?
Stop to savor them and enjoy them. Be honestly grateful and the tired mind will be no more.
Lorena Colvin

IT'S A BELL RINGER

DEAR HELOISE:
Some time ago my mother had to wrap a wedding gift on very short notice and found that she had no ribbon in the house. Rather than make a special trip to the store she came up with this very clever idea:
She wrapped the gift as usual and then on the front of the wrapping she outlined two wedding bells.
But this isn't the end of the story. She got a box of tapioca from the kitchen pantry and a bottle of glue. She filled in the outline with glue and then put on the tapioca.

It was so pretty and so different.

NAIL THE DOWN

DEAR HELOISE:
I would like to pass along a hint that concerns those aspiring young carpenters in your household.
After repeated tearful sessions over nail holes in the linoleum, toys, or what have you, I came up with this solution:
An inexpensive small-size household hammer, some large nails and a cardboard box enabled my little ones to pound to their heart's content.
I started some holes for my two-year-old, and it was easy for him to insert the nails and "hammer" like his older brother.
Just thought some other frantic mom might be looking for "busy" work for the kiddos...
A Mom

THAT'S SOME YARN

DEAR HELOISE:
I've found a great way to keep those darling yarn hair ribbons:
Hook as many paper clips as you need on a hanger. Use one clip for each ribbon. Then just slip the yarn through the clip and it will hang beautifully.
It's neat, handy, and easy to find the color you want.
Mrs. Mary Crandall

BEARS NOTHING

DEAR HELOISE:
I have a dandy hint that is sure to make a big hit with a lot of seamstresses. My husband gave me the idea to use a compass for a seam ripper. It's the type with one pointed end and one end where a pencil is placed.
The pointed end works perfectly to take out those tiny hard-to-reach threads.
Handy

SPREAD YOUR EMBROIDERY

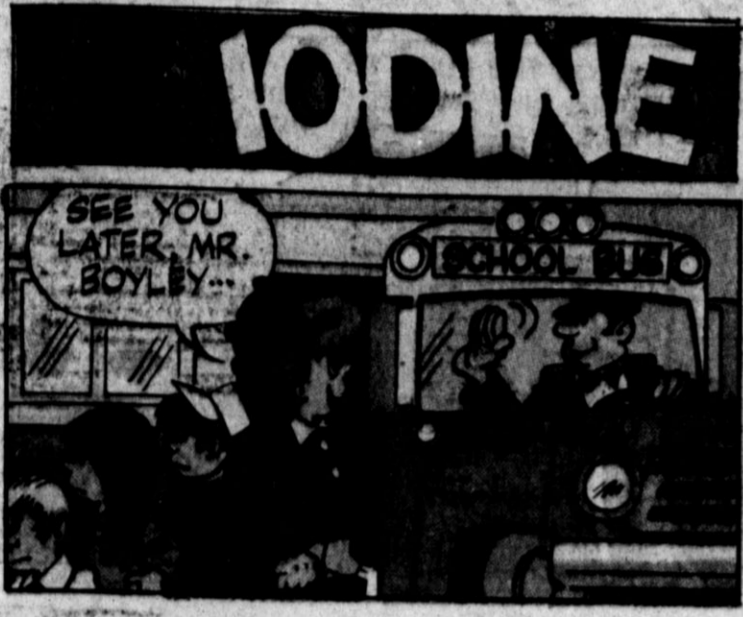

DEAR HELOISE:
I think reversible bedspreads are a great saving. A lot of washing and wear and tear are avoided if during the week the spreads the children sit or lie on can be put "right side up" and be clean for week ends or company.

My phone is by my bed and I always stretch out and rest my not-so-good back when I talk on the telephone.
I found that this hint doubled the life of my spreads.
Mrs. Vivian Wake

That's mighty fine thinking, gal! It's ideas like yours that save the day for our housewives. And to you we say a great big "thanks."
Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
When my children tire of eating popcorn with salt and want something different, I use confectioners' sugar. It's quick, but not sticky.

Sum Shootout

HERE is a type of target shooting that also tests wits. Suppose you are given the target above and asked to achieve a total of 15 in just seven shots. How many times must you hit ones, twos and fives to achieve this score?

Oh, yes, one other thing, each of the three figures must be hit at least once.

Remember, the goal is 15 in seven shots.

Answers: It can be done three times, five once, two ones, one five.

BULLETIN BOARD

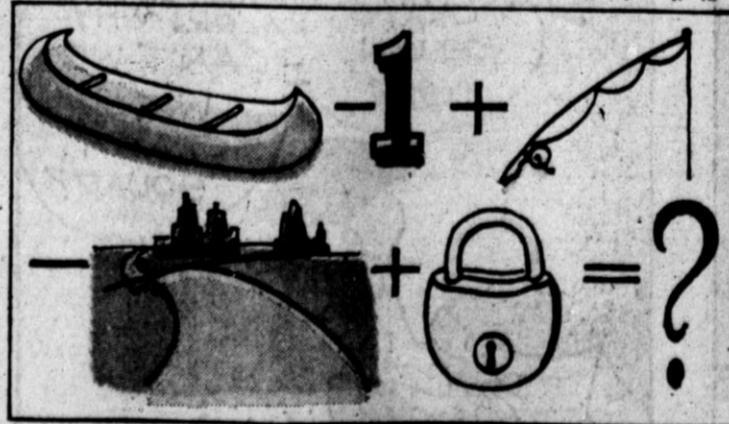

● HEADS UP! A snake charmer has a certain number of snakes facing alternate ways in a flat crate. If three heads show on one side and three tails on the other, how many snakes are there?

● Ask a friend to list all 26 letters of the alphabet on a sheet of paper. You do the same. Hold a race to see who can find a word for each letter.

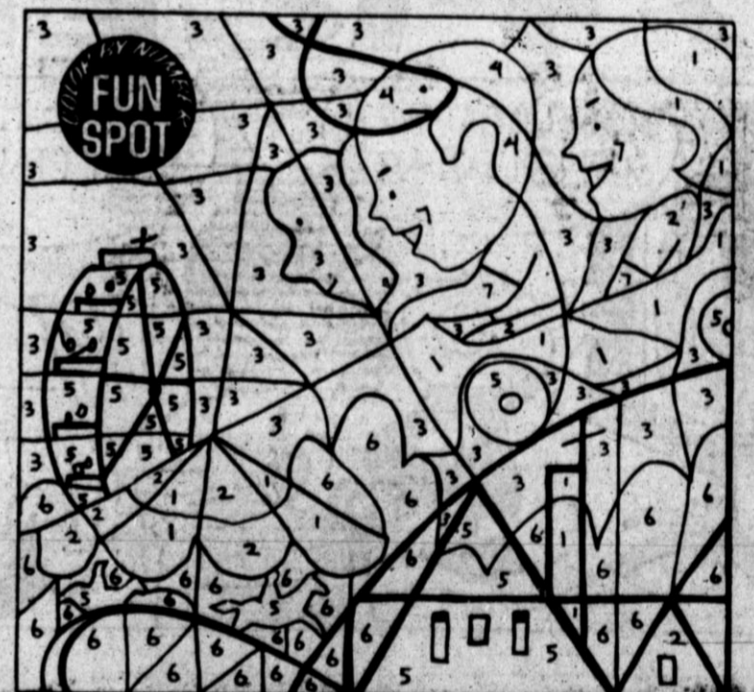

● IQ Tester: Spot the intruders in this group of words and state why: Shell, starry, saddle, second, corral, sherry, stucco, school.

Shell—only five letters; second—lacks double letter.

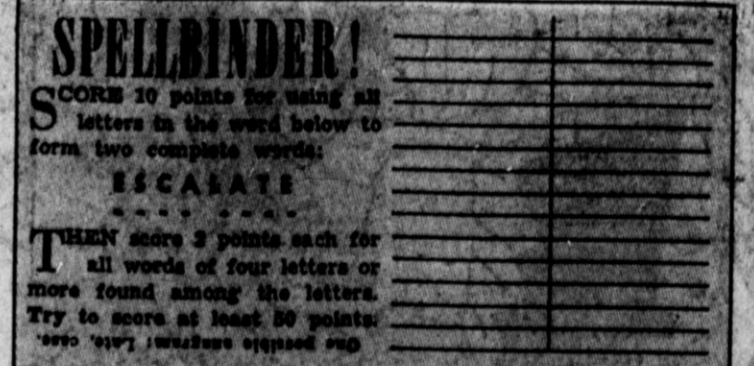

BEGIN with letters in the word "canoe," above; subtract "one," etc., with this result: Something which many people watch.

Answers: canoe minus one plus rod minus road equals lock.

MAGIC COLORS: 1—Red, 2—Blue, 3—Yellow, 4—Brown, 5—Purple or lavender, 6—Green, 7—Flesh tones. Simply apply all colors neatly above to bring forth the surprise picture.
