Interstate Highway Is Proposed Here

City Uncertain About Rate Hike

The City of Hereford says it is willing to go to court to prevent a Southwestern Bell Telephone rate increase from taking effect.

City Manager Dudley Bayne said Friday that figures given the city do not indicate a rate increase is justifiable for Hereford. Bayne was one of several area city representatives who met in Canyon last week to discuss the proposed rate increase which has been presented to numerous area towns.

Southwestern Bell Telephone is seeking a 20 per cent increase in resident costs and a 33 per cent increase in business costs in Hereford. The rate varies in other towns and this prevented the cities from joining together in an attempt to fight the increase.

"We thought we could get together like we did on the gas rate increase last year, but we can't because the rates aren't the same all over," Bayne said. It was over a year ago that Panhandle cities joined together to fight a Pioneer Natural Gas rate increase for gas rates and burner tip rates. The fight went before the Railroad Commission which ruled the gas company could not make the increases it was seeking. However, an increase was permitted, but not as large as was expected.

Cities represented in the meeting in Canyon last week were Amarillo, Canyon, Hereford, Tulia, Silvertown and Littlefield. Silvertown and Littlefield are not served by Southwestern Bell Telephone, but the company that does serve those two cities has asked for an estimated 130 per cent increase.

"What we are doing now," Bayne said, "is we are just setting the stage in case we have to go to court."

The mayor (Jim Sears) has written Bell Telephone and we do not think they are entitled to an increase at this time, according to the information they have given us."

The city is just waiting on any further action, which would have to come from Southwestern Bell. The next step, if it is requested by the telephone company, would be to have a public hearing to discuss the proposal.

However, Bayne said there has been no attempt by the company to contact the city. The item is not included on Monday's upcoming city commission agenda and could not be discussed even then, since the mayor will be out of town.

A three-day public notice period is required before any governmental agency can take action on any subject. Thursday evening was the latest an addition could have been made to the Monday agenda.

The increase has been on the city commission's agenda several different times since it was first presented on May 15. At that time sufficient data was unavailable so the commission tabled the request.

The requested increase includes a monthly increase in business one-party service from $10 to $13.50; residence one-party service from $5.25 to $6.25; residence two-party service from $4.25 to $4.90; suburban four-party business service from $8.35 to $10.50; and suburban four-party residence service from $4.85 to $5.25.

The present rates on telephone service were established in January of 1958.

No Proposal Change Likely, Manager Says

Mike Patrick, local manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone, said last week that he doesn't feel the requested rate increase by his company will be lowered.

"I don't see any reason that it should be," he said. This proposal is what we need and I suspect that this figure will stay."

Patrick, whose company is seeking increases in residential and business telephone rates, said he received a letter from the city Friday asking for additional facts, but, as he sees it, the matter is "on a table basis right now."

If the city formally rejects the rate increase proposal?

"We would probably have a couple of alternatives. We could refile it or go to court, it is just hard to say what would happen," he said. "From the last indications it seemed the question was one of our depreciation, but we are going to have to get some more specific questions before we can give some more specific answers."

Patrick said if it comes to refiling the rate request, the telephone company could lower the rates on some of the other areas.

"We are not going to ask for a rate increase unless we feel it is justified," he said. "And, at this point I can't see any reason we can't get any that the commission has resolved."

"We have to say these are the rates we need and if we didn't need them, we wouldn't be asking for them."

The last rate increase received by the telephone company came more than 14 years ago.

"An awful lot has happened in the past 14 years and I question whether a lot of other companies have been able to hold the line as well as we have," he said.

In less than one year of existence the Hereford chapter of Weight Watchers has watched some 4,047 pounds fade away.

Weight Watchers of West Texas observed its third anniversary Saturday in Lubbock where a luncheon was held to honor members of the group who have lost 100 or more pounds. These people are called 100 pound achievers. A total of 53, 100-pound achievers are in area chapters, while the Hereford chapter has three.

Local 100 pound achievers are Nell Miller, Loretta Kindsfather and Thelma Sorrells.

The basic idea of Weight Watchers International is to establish a program for its members consisting of a carefully-planned eating program for its members and regular attendance at weekly classes, to enable the overweight person to reach a realistic weight goal and maintain that weight loss.

Following the Saturday luncheon for area honorables, a workshop for lecturers of the area was conducted by a woman from the New York office of Jean Nidethich who founded the organization.

Lecturers, Mrs. Eades and Mrs. Walter London Jr. attended. Mrs. London, who achieved her weight loss in one of Mrs. Eades' classes began lecturing last March in local classes of Weight Watchers.

Currently there are 233 members of the Hereford chapter. Some 148 of these members take part in regular classes, while 41 are enrolled in special classes and 44 members have lifetime memberships.

A lifetime member has reached a weight loss goal and does not have to pay again as long as his weight does not exceed the goal weight by more than two pounds.

"The program is designed for men, women and children," Mrs. Eades said. "Some men feel that this is a program for women, but Weight Watchers has a special handbook for men too."

One man in the Hereford chapter has lost 88 pounds during 39 weeks, another man has lost 86 pounds during 30 weeks.

"Wives are encouraged to attend with their husbands and vice versa," Mrs. London said.

For some people, individual dieting does not offer enough discipline to be effective. Others are inclined to over do a program and hurt their health when left to themselves. While

Monday Is Dollar Day In Hereford

Monday is Dollar Day in Hereford. The city has declared Monday as a day when all businesses must accept one dollar for all purchases. This is a response to the national "Dollar Day" campaign. The city council passed a resolution on Friday to support this initiative. The goal is to reduce inflation and encourage the use of cash. Businesses are expected to participate in the program starting on Monday. The city manager said that the program is a way to show support for the national effort. The program is expected to last for a week. The city council will be meeting again on Monday to discuss the progress of the program. An interstate highway through Hereford — so what — MONEY!

Some 29 area business met Friday night at Dickies Restaurant to discuss the possibility of obtaining an interstate highway that would partially follow the existing Highway 60, which runs through Hereford.

Attending were Texas Highway Department Officials and John McClellan from Roswell, N.M. who has been pushing such a highway for more than a decade.

Leroy Tillery, assistant manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce introduced McClellan to the gathering and explained the basic purpose of the meeting. He said the main purpose of the new interstate route would be to connect I-10 and I-40 along with proposed I-27 which will connect Lubbock with Amarillo.

"We (Amarillo) have good highways," Tillery said. "We just want to help you get them too."

The route of the interstate would be set to connect Amarillo with Las Cruces, running from Amarillo to Canyon, Hereford, Clovis, Pecos, Roswell, Alamogordo and ending in Las Cruces.

Senator Montoya of New Mexico has been given credit for being the legislative "driving force" behind the program and has held public hearings concerning it.

"It is a legislative matter at this point," Tillery said.

However, the route has been favored by the Bureau of Roads since 1958. A bill was introduced to establish the route and passed the Senate, but fell short of passing the House of Representatives by a large margin.

"This bill was defeated due to the majority of representative from New York and Illinois who were more interested in urban development," McClellan said.

Continuing, McClellan said that a legislative bill is not needed to produce a highway and that the Transportation Department has the power to make such decisions, but that they are not building any highways at this time for anyone.

McClellan defined the proposed interstate as "money and a lot of money" through added commerce to the towns it connects. At the same time he warned of the bill that is being proposed by the Transportation Department and "the President" which would have the users of highways pay one-third of the operating costs.

"I feel that we have justified this route with the legislators, but it will be impossible to get this route without total area cooperation," McClellan said.

He pointed out the importance of the new interstate to Hereford, by speaking of the trucking business connected with the cattle and vegetable industry. If the interstate is put into effect the route to Los Angeles would be shortened by 135 miles, and the trucking companies have to be interested in this measure due to the cost advantages.

At this point McClellan said that one of Texas most powerful assets would be found in Senator John Tower who has indicated an interest in the interstate.

Some concern was voiced by the delegation concerning by-passing of towns by a highway such as the proposed one.

"Interstates cause by-passes and some people are afraid of being by-passed, but the increase in traffic will actually increase the king of traffic in a

'Fightin' Felipe' Heads For National Matches

Felipe Luna said goodbye Saturday to the Bull Barn along with his trainer, Harold Wheeler, after five solid months of working out which led to his winning a berth in the AAU National Junior Olympic boxing finals this week in Columbia, S.C.

Luna, who fought his way from Hereford to the national finals, weighs in at 87 pounds, packs a punch and has speed that have been great assets to his success. Yet, his greatest assets are his dedication and determination to win.

"I've never seen a boy like him," Wheeler said.

Felipe is the most dedicated boy I've ever been around, if he pursues life like he does boxing, he will be something else."

Although Luna is quiet around most people, he says enough with the warm smile that he answers most questions with. Even at the end of a tough workout of 15 rounds at top speed and a two-mile-run he still smiles with the pride that has come from his efforts.

Wednesday night will begin Luna's series of bouts in route to the national title. A two day drive to Columbia will be rewarded by two days of relaxation for Luna at the foot of the Smokies and let Felipe catch a fish and get used to the climate before we report into the finals Tuesday," Wheeler said.

The main emphasis during the past month of workouts for Luna has been placed on speed and timing, Wheeler said, besides the 78 pound bag that Luna was pounding.

"Count the punches while I clock him," Wheeler said.

The count was 125 punches per minute, compared to the average punch speed of boys in his class of 80 per minute.

holding the bag while Luna dishes out his blows makes one wonder how an 87-pound youngster can land such powerful punches for 15 rounds.

Luna will fight three-round bouts in the finals, while he has worked out each day for 15 rounds, twice a day followed by running under the clock.

"I feel good about it," was Luna's answer to the question of what he thought about the bid he is about to make for a national title.

too. He's representing Hereford, the region and the sport very well."

A long-range goal of Luna and his trainer is to compete for a position on the U.S. boxing team for the 1976 World Olympics.

"If he keeps it up he can very easily make the world olympics," Wheeler said. "That's our goal."

A good step toward that four-year goal will be competing in the Junior Olympic finals this week.

"I've had a lot of boys who just did what they had to do to make the team," Wheeler said, "but Felipe does a lot more than he is asked to do, just look at the callouses on the backs of his hands, that's proof enough."

Each knuckle bares a callous from continued working. These trophies will be rare at the finals and that is good, considering that there is only one trophy for the national champion there.

THE NORTHWEST coast and Canada were visited by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Inman on a two-week vacation; they returned home the first of the week.

They visited his sister, Mrs. Bruce L. Miller, on Whidbey Island, Oak Harbor, Wash., and took side trips to Vancouver and Victoria, B.C.

AFTER GRADUATION from Hereford High School when her parents were living here, Geneva Logan went to California and got herself a job instead of going to college, one of her friends was telling me this week.

She started work for Source Book Magazine and seems to have done very well; she is now managing editor of that Los Angeles publication. She was here last weekend visiting her aunt, Mrs. C.R. Logan, also the Ira Otts and other friends.

IMPROMPTU TRIPS can be fun, Grace Coombes was saying at the coffee Pat Fisher gave Tuesday morning for Mary Joe Godwin during her short visit. (And it still seems odd to write that Mary Joe is a visitor from Arizona) she was too much a part of Hereford for too long for her new address to sound right)

Anyway some of the guests were talking about recent visits, and Grace said while her daughter Dorothy was spending a few days with friends in Amarillo, she suddenly decided it would be nice to go to Dallas and see her son, John Samuels, and his wife.

So she threw a few things into a bag in a hurry, feeling smart that she wasn't forgetting her toothbrush, and caught a plane. The trip was just fine, but she discovered at Dallas that what she had forgotten was something to sleep in.

But you can always borrow pajamas from a son, she says, even if they don't fit too well.

"HIGHWAY" .....

town that is profitable, if the town has something to offer," McClellan said.

"From here to Las Cruces, the roads are pretty bad and trucks will by-pass bad roads and drive extra just for good roads."

"This road can only mean dollars to you and a lot of dollars."

McClellan stressed the fact that the highway department will not approve an interstate highway for "just one state" but that such a highway would take cooperation between towns and states to be realized.

He pointed to the fact that over 3,000 cars pass over the New Mexico line into Clovis per day, and that that figure might be increased by more than 40 per cent taking into consideration the amount of travel being done to the West Coast.

"With this route, I think that a great deal of the traffic headed to the West Coast out of Amarillo could be attracted to take this route," McClellan said.

Jim Lindsey, Hereford chamber executive explained the pros and cons of the interstates effect on Hereford.

"It's my understanding that Santa Fe is getting out of the cattle hauling business, and this alone will increase our trucking business and traffic. At the same time we have a lot of businesses along this route and for this reason I think that the actual route would have some bearing on our stand concerning this matter," Lindsey said.

McClellan countered by saying that he felt that the Highway Department would work in cooperation with communities in "everyway." He added that he thought the present route followed by Highway 60 from Canyon to Hereford would not vary to any degree. However, Charles Smith, Texas Highway Department official spoke by saying that they would be a possibility that the highway would not come directly through Hereford.

"I doubt that the interstate would come through Hereford," Smith said, "due to the law that we can't move existing businesses."

At that point questions were raised by area delegates concerning their own towns and the proposed route through them.

"It would be impossible for us to go to a town and pin-point the exact route through a town prior to the adoption of the route by the department," Smith said.

"We have made studies about a possible route around Hereford," Smith said, "and it would be similar to the route highway 60 takes around Canyon."

Following the meeting Smith said that the Highway Department would try to do all that is possible to please Hereford "where it is feasible." "We would certainly want to use all of the existing road that we could in building such a highway," Smith said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Project Health, the new program which teaches businessmen how to recognize and avoid potentially serious health problems, reports that potential alcoholics display five early on-the-job signs.

They are higher-than-average charges on expense accounts; early arrival and/or late departure from company functions where there's free liquor; marital problems, divorce, or separation; psychiatric help for children, and high rate of illness or accidents in the family.

JANE GULLEY recovered with no problems from an emergency appendectomy and after taking it easy a week decided she felt as well as she ever had so there was no use sitting at home.

She went on back to her job of directing music in First United Methodist Church last Sunday, and did it well, but after the morning service admitted that maybe major surgery does do something unpleasant to a person. She felt plumb shaky by the time it was over, she said.

However, the tired feeling wasn't permanent; she was quite up to par by midweek when she was out on some chores for the Community Concert Association, involved in her job as vice president and public relations chairman.

19 Whitefaces At FCA Camp In Colorado

Nineteen Hereford Whiteface athletes, accompanied by two coaches, left Sunday morning to attend the Fellowship of Christian Athletes summer camp in Ft. Collins, Col. The group was scheduled to leave at 5:30 a.m. today in a car caravan. Coach Ron Mayberry and Coach Jeff Smart and family accompanied the athletes. They were scheduled to arrive in Ft. Collins about 3 p.m. today. The group will return to Hereford Friday.

The local FCA chapter held a golf tournament to raise funds for the summer camp. Student president of the Hereford FCA chapter is Mike Mayberry. Athletes attending the camp include Randy Alexander, Rocky Andrews, Bill

Pony Leaguers Go To Abilene Stars Take 7th

After a long bus ride and three rough innings starting the Pony League All-Star game, the Hereford All-Stars took their seventh straight win in their series over Abilene 5-4 last Thursday night in Abilene.

Chris King was lead-off batter for the Stars and slugged a home run to start things off, but from then until the end of the sixth inning the team suffered a dry spell without a single score.

At the same time, Abilene managed to put three points on the board.

In the sixth inning Hereford tied the score with two runs, and the see-saw battle began running into an extra inning of play to break a 4-4 tie.

Albert Gonzales lead the batting in the seventh and put the ball over the fence for Hereford's winning score of the game.

Abilene traveled to Hereford to play the final game or games of the series Saturday night. No results were available at press time.

FIGHTIN' FELIPE—JUNIOR OLYMPIC BOUND—Felipe Luna, Hereford's Region 9 boxing champ left Saturday morning with his trainer, Harold Wheeler, to compete in the National AAU Junior Olympic Boxing Finals to be held next week in Columbus, S.C. Felipe has put five months of hard training into getting ready for this tournament and is almost quick enough to spar with himself, averaging 125 punches per minute, he is one of the fastest and most accurate boxers in his age bracket when punch rates of most boys his age averages about 80 per minute.

— From left field behind right tackle under the basket on the fourth lap.

During the past 29 years of Herd football, the HHA teams have managed to out total their opponents by a margin of 308 points.

The total for the Herd during these 29 years of football is 4,987, with 176 of these points scored last year. Total points earned by Herd opponents is 4,579.

During the 1942 season the Herd amassed 280, while they allowed their opponents a mere seven points. That season was the only season during this series that the Herd went undefeated, with only one tie in which Phillips scored the only points against the Herd that year.

That highest scoring season for the Herd was 1945 when that team chalked 364 points. The 1956 season stands as the season the most points were scored against Hereford totaling 322 to the Herds 120 points during that year.

Lamesa will inherit one of Hereford's "legendary" hole-in-one golfers, when Lynn Brisendine, assistant ad man at The Brand, moves there to take over the position of advertising manager and assistant publisher this week. The sports desk wishes him luck in golf and business.

Everybody learns with wife in school

By JOHN SINOR
Copley News Service

There are about 320 feet of spaghetti per pound. Now, don't say you didn't learn anything today. (We are on an education kick around here.)

Back to school for the wife. She is taking a two-week cram course that has such a complicated title I cannot remember it. Working for a teaching credential.

"Everybody will have to pitch in," she said. "Besides school every afternoon, I will have to spend a lot of time studying at home."

Thus, everybody is getting more education. I, personally, am learning a lot about cooking dinner.

"Do you know what this word means?" she asked. I forgot the word, but it was as long as half a pound of spaghetti.

We looked it up. And found there are at least a half-dozen short, familiar words that mean the same thing.

She said: "I think educators do that on purpose. They take a word they need, then look up a bigger word that means the same thing, and build their own language with it."

I wish I could remember that word. I have been writing for a quarter of a century and never came across it.

Yet, this textbook on teaching tosses it off as if any simpleton should know it. (A simpleton being someone who is not in the education field.)

All it means is "to make a list."

The children said: "What are we having for dinner?" I said: "How about 320 feet of spaghetti and a green salad?"

Our kids have all kinds of different tastes, but they are all daffy about spaghetti. That's serendipity for you. A happy accident.

My wife, the professor. Right now she is studying curriculum structure. (Or is it 'curricula'? Don't ask me. I've even forgotten the capital of North Dakota.)

However, her degree is in drama, and she hopes to teach in that field.

She said: "It's really exciting when you are in a methods course, but these education courses can be a little dull."

I said: "Bear up kid. I'm not having any fun in the kitchen, either."

She said: "Here's a doozy. What do you think 'extrapolate' means?"

I said: "I don't know. It sounds like some kind of a dangerous symptom."

She said: "Well, it means to estimate a value or values of a function for values of the argument not used in the process of estimation. Whatever that means. That's the kind of language we have to break down in this class."

I said: "Lots of luck. Frankly, if I used words like that, I'm afraid my whole class would walk out on me."

Isn't that right, class? Let's keep it simple.

Interviewer should bring up salary

Dear Mrs. Tobin: When one is being interviewed for a job, who should bring up the question of salary and who should terminate the interview? — Miss A.

Dear Miss A.: I feel sure that after the employer has filled you in on the job description he will give you this vital statistic. If he doesn't you'll have to ask. I suggest that you first ask about the chances of advancement. This will imply that you intend to be more than a grab-the-pay-check-and-run employee. The interviewer should terminate the session.

Dear Mrs. Tobin: My husband and I have friends who never call us before they visit. They just drop in unexpectedly. We like to have them visit us but don't you think it's proper to call ahead of time? — Mrs. R.

Dear Mrs. R.: Yes, definitely. The next time you want to visit them, be sure you call first. Perhaps she'll take the hint. If this doesn't work, why not TELL her? Obviously this couple feels they are welcome in your home at any hour, any day.

Dear Harassed: The law says your son CAN have a driver's license. It's up to you and your wife to decide if he MAY. Enroll him in a learner's class. It will solve everyone's problem.

and not to take up a real estate salesman's time. I'm trying to earn a living. — Bill in Honolulu

Dear Bill: Oh behalf of real estate salesmen everywhere, amen.

Dear Harassed: The law says your son CAN have a driver's license. It's up to you and your wife to decide if he MAY. Enroll him in a learner's class. It will solve everyone's problem.

One reason the dollar buys less is that it has more to buy.

Unborn child's sex can be determined

Q. Is it possible for a mother to know what the sex of her child is before it is born?

A. Mothers, but especially relatives, like to guess what the sex of a coming child will be. "It's carried low;" "it's carried far out in front;" "it's very active;" "the heart is slow;" "your back is broad;" "this time it's different so this time it must be a boy."

Sex can now be determined accurately by amniocentesis, withdrawing a small amount of amniotic fluid from the sac surrounding the baby in the uterus. This procedure is done in patients with problems to determine maturity and normality in the baby. The cells in the fluid are examined for a number of conditions and reactions and sex can be determined at the same time. Most female cells have a characteristic bit of material, a Barr body, at one edge of the nucleus. Designating the sex for no medical reason adds nothing to the health and welfare of either mother or baby and is not done just to relieve curiosity. Families can still have a surprise at the end of pregnancy and labor.

WILBUR'S BILL
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Any aspirations Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., might have for the presidency or vice presidency apparently won't jeopardize his House seat. A special Arkansas law, approved this year especially for Mills, provides that any Arkansan who seeks the presidency or vice presidency also shall be eligible to seek any office in Arkansas. The legislation whisked through the Arkansas General Assembly under the fanciful appellation, "Wilbur's Bill." Mills is unopposed for reelection to the House.

No need for a warrant

By E. J. DEMSON
Copley News Service

Q. I was arrested without a warrant on my property. The patrolman followed me without his red lights on until I drove into my driveway where he charged me with driving my car while under the influence of alcohol. I refused to take the breath test. Isn't it illegal to arrest a person on his property without a warrant? Can I sue the patrolman for false arrest?

A. Throughout Title 28 of the Arizona Revised Statutes the law gives the arresting officer the right without a warrant to arrest an offender, if what he observes about his driving would lead a reasonably prudent man to conclude the driver was intoxicated; such an observation creates a probable cause for the arrest. Forty-seven states have a like law with minor variations. If an officer has probable cause to believe a person is in violation, he can pursue the offender to his own property and arrest him there without a warrant (43 P 2d 691 Az.). Your refusal to take the legally authorized breath test gives Arizona the right to suspend your driver's license for six months (ARS 28-691 D). The Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution — testifying against yourself — is no longer a defense in breath test cases. A civil action for damages arising out of detention or false arrest, a wrong, committed by an officer would have a Federal Circuit Court case to meet. It was not reversed by the U.S. Supreme Court. That case ruled that even if a warrant of arrest were illegal, probable cause will justify an arrest. Q. My mother died in 1971 and left her house to me and my sister. The property is in joint tenancy, our lawyer says. If either of us die the survivor will get the property without probate administration. But can either of us during our life sell our half to another person? And can the new owner of the half be a joint tenant and upon my sister's or my death if either of us sells become a survivor and get the whole property? A. In your state of Pennsylvania the law says (75 A 2d 512) a joint tenant may sell and convey his interest to another, but by doing so, the joint tenancy is destroyed. It then becomes a tenancy in common.

Memorial Gives Inspiration To Live

BY REAGAN BROWN
Sociologist

In the beautiful little cemetery at Baird, Texas, a reddish granite memorial stands in a family plot. It guards not the grave of the one whose name is chiseled on this everlasting piece of granite. It is an inarticulate stone erected in memory of a young Air Force lieutenant named Robert Walls.

This young officer was lost on a combat mission over New Guinea in 1944. The inscription on this memorial stabs you awake and creates a reverie of gratitude for his life, sacrificed in the dark days of World War II.

It seems to me that his memorial says something to each of us today, for here on this rock is inscribed the words — "When last seen he was still flying."

Visualization of the courage and dedication of this young officer as he flew into the wild blue yonder to be swallowed up by the vast creeping jungle of vine and tree. His bones and his plane have long since bleached and mildewed into oblivion. The muffled drums' sad roll has beat this airman's last tattoo. Words carved in his memory may even surpass in motivation the oblation of his life. "When last seen he was still flying."

Rhetoric can neither add nor detract from the offering that Robert Walls gave to his country. The score has long been settled. The lengthening shadows of the years are drawing the blinds on those who knew him personally, and the comrades that flew with him. To try to fathom a measure of understanding of what was at stake in the conflict that cost him his life seems unimportant now. No discourse can explain the devotion and courage and what "When last seen he was still flying" meant to the young man from West Texas.

More important, what does "When last seen he was still flying" say to you and me today? Can these words inspire us when the motor is missing, the runway is obscure, and the clouds are thick? Can we keep flying? Every day we come in contact with individuals whose flaps are down, who are skimming the treetops of life with a throttle closed, and are heading for a crash landing. So often we want to say, "Raise the flaps, open the throttle — keep flying!"

I paused in a ward recently in one of our mental hospitals and looked upon a pile of flesh that had once been a young and beautiful girl. Her life has been virtually destroyed by a hypodermic needle. This young girl had already decided that the navigation of life was rough and she had folded the map, turned off the engine and bailed out, depending on a parachute that was full of holes.

Recently, a person I know went home and put a bullet in her head. She had lost the radar of radiant living and she struck the tent and faded away.

Day after day, we see marriages that break and splinter for the lack of effort. The prisons are full of those who missed the runway of right direction. Welfare rolls, skid row, flop houses, junkies, hippies, and others are testimonials to failure. Many can offer excuses, few will say — "When last seen we were still flying." Many are unwilling to pay the price that will enable them to glide over the ramparts of life. Is there a refrain that can touch your heartstrings today? Is there a voice crying out that says, "Stretch yourselves?" Is there one among us that cannot remember the time when the road was forked and the choice we made affected our life? Are we thankful when we look back to those souls that influenced us to reach for the stars and to keep flying?

It seems to me that America needs a sweeping revival of motivation. We need inspiration that says to the individual, "Flight one more round." Personally, I ask that I be numbered not among those meek souls that always stay in port. Let me be one who cried as the Biblical prophet of old, "Give me that mountain," — to challenge me, to enrage me, to determine me, to beat it and to climb it. If that mountain is despair, grief, disappointment, let me always attack and let my scars always be in the front.

Let us also remember that each individual must make an accounting. In the final analysis, it will not be the company, club, group, or even the family that will answer. No, it will be each of us, individually, with the ledger of our life and the ways we used it. It will be wonderful on that day, after our records have been checked, the ledger is closed, and we head down the road toward eternity, if that Man in the Tower is asked if He has in the flight pattern and He replies — "When last seen he was still flying."

Roberto Clemente missed both June games in New York against the Mets. The Pittsburgh star had a severe cold and a bothersome left knee.

City Residents Use Lots Of H<sub>2</sub>O

Water, water, everywhere and Hereford residents are using it in large quantities. But, not in the quantities they used it last year, according to figures from the city water department.

City residents used 23,000,000 gallons less water last month than they did a year ago, but, the reason was due to a relatively wet summer this year. In July of 1971, the height of a minor drought, residents used 178,000,000 gallons of water. That compared with 155,000,000 gallons used during July of this year.

Armour's meat packing plant is the largest single user of water provided by the city. That multi-million dollar plant uses close to 1,000,000 gallons of water each day. July normally is the largest water-consuming month of the year in Hereford because of the amounts used by local vegetable processing sheds and because of the heat that forces residents to use more water on their lawns.

June, however, has been the largest water-using month this year when residents used 158,000,000 gallons of the liquid for taking baths, washing their cars and watering their lawns.

July followed with its 155,000,000 gallons while April had 132,000,000 gallons used. Last year, the 178,000,000 gallons used in July was the high while June saw the figure at 144,000,000 and May at 117,000,000.

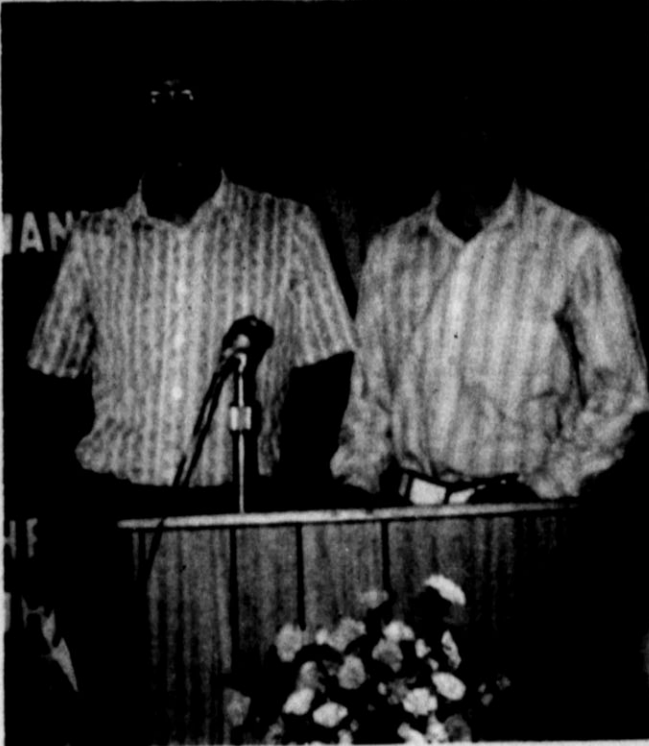

These figures compared with the neighboring city of Canyon show that Hereford residents are using considerably more water.

Bean Receives Special Award

A special award was presented recently to Larry Bean, an employee of Westway Fertilizer Company at Westway.

The award, a plaque bearing two rare silver dollars, two Kennedy half-dollars, and a specially minted commemorative coin set in an automotive engine design, was presented for exceptional customer service by the representative of the Gates Rubber Company.

LED TWO-MAN TEAM

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Ron Letellier, head pro at the North Hills Country Club, Manhasset, N. Y., led the two-man Long Island contingent that played all four rounds of the 1972 U.S. Open golf championship at Pebble Beach. Letellier, Metropolitan Open champion, scored 308 to tie for 47th place among 70 finalists. He earned $930.

Austin Straub, assistant Huntington Country Club pro, shot 315 and earned $800 in tying for 67th position.

Harvest Dinner Set As Scholarship Aid

Benefiting from the annual Harvest Dinner of the American Legion Auxiliary, to be served Friday in the Legion building at Veterans Park, is the Auxiliary scholarship fund which has assisted a number of Hereford girls to attend college in the past decade.

Investor In Produce Business Here Dies

The recent death of Lester V. (Bud) Antle of Salinas, Calif., was noted by acquaintances here who remember his part in development of the produce business in Hereford. Antle, 58, died of a heart attack Tuesday in Salinas.

He founded the world's biggest lettuce growing and shipping firm, and the first California grower to sign a labor union contract with field workers, the news service account of his death reported. He made large investments in this area when the business of growing and marketing produce was being established.

Antle expanded his firm to the world's largest from a start in 1953 with a capital of $1,500.

Exes Planning For '72 Homecoming

Begun last year by 1946 graduates of Hereford High School in their 25th anniversary reunion, an HHS Ex-Students Association is being more firmly organized this summer, and planning its part in the annual homecoming parade of the school scheduled Oct. 27.

Umbarger Group Sets Garage Sale

The Umbarger Community Association, a newly created group aimed at helping keep that small community going, has scheduled a garage sale Saturday at the school gymnasium in Umbarger.

Mrs. Don Dolle, a member of the board of the association, said proceeds from the sale will go to "improve the community and enhance activities and friendly relations for all."

The association was formed in May of this year by an interested group of citizens. Since that time the group has leased the Umbarger school gym from the Canyon Independent School District and the facility will be used for sports activities for the young people and social activities for the adults.

Mrs. Dolle said the garage sale Saturday will feature "all sorts of odds and ends, household goods, furniture and food."

Proposals for the future include a community swimming pool and a small park development. Also, a farm machinery sale is planned for sometime this fall.

Officers of the Umbarger Community Association are Paul Ferguson, president, and Tom Payne, Bernard Hartman, John Witek and Mrs. Dolle, all board members.

this year is Mary Kay Wagner, who was a 1972 graduate of Hereford High School. Last year Lisa Williamson received the cash aid.

First to receive the annual award was Joan Marnell. Records for the past five years show that Kathy Rusher was the recipient in 1967, Cynthia Hanna in 1968, Kay Golden in 1969 and Debra Bowers in 1970.

The public is invited to the dinner, its menu comprising food produced in Deaf Smith County. A wide variety of fresh vegetables, including squash, blackeyed peas, beans, tomatoes, carrots, potatoes, okra, cabbage, corn and onions, will be featured.

With Mrs. Ira Ott as general chairman, Auxiliary members will prepare the food in traditional West Texas fashion. Meat for the dinner is also locally produced, and breads — corn, wholewheat and white — are homemade from Deaf Smith County grains.

Only spices, coffee and tea must be imported for the dinner, which has earned a reputation through the years of being a meal with a genuine old-time West Texas flavor.

PASSING INSPECTION — Members of the American Legion Auxiliary look over a variety of vegetables from Deaf Smith County gardens, checking the quality as they select items for the annual Harvest Dinner they will serve Friday to benefit their scholarship fund. ## GSPA Proposes New Plan For Future Farm Programs

The Grain Sorghum Producers Association is proposing a new plan for future farm programs.

Elbert Harp, GSPA Executive Director, said, "We are introducing this new plan as a means of obtaining a parity of income for our grain sorghum farmers. We feel it is applicable to all commodities and will easily be understood by farmers, Congress, and the American people."

Under the GSPA proposal, the Secretary of Agriculture will ask the land grant college of each state, in cooperation with the commodity and farm organizations, to conduct an intensive study of the cost of production of each price supported commodity produced within the state. This study shall include all costs which are typical expenses, and shall consider different cultural practices, such as irrigation as opposed to dryland farming, different soil types, and other regional variations affecting cost.

These cost studies will also consider:

1. Interest on land investment, figured as the current interest rate of the Federal Land Bank times the present market prices of the farm land under each type of farming by area.
2. The current property taxes on farm land and buildings.
3. Interest on farm equipment and average operating capital required times current bank rates for farm operating loans.

4. All other costs that are normal and typical within a given state or region.

5. Labor, to be figured at current minimum wage levels.

6. A percentage of all other expenses, added as management costs or profit.

When these studies are complete, the Secretary will use them as a basis for computing the National Average Cost of Production for each price supported commodity. This will be done by multiplying the typical cost by the total amount of production, which will give the weighted average cost figure for each given commodity, or the "National Average Cost of Production."

Through the use of CCC Loan and Price Support Programs, the Secretary shall administer a production and supply control program that will set a minimum return to farmers who comply with the required production restrictions, as set by the Secretary, of not less than the current year's National Weighted Average Cost of Production for that given commodity, including a profit margin for management.

Harp stated that Texas A&M University has done some preliminary studies on the cost

Q. I started receiving reduced social security retirement checks last year when I turned 62. I am now 63 and have suffered a stroke. Can I apply for monthly disability payments? — L. F. K.

A. Yes, if you are found eligible to receive disability benefits, your retirement benefits will be changed over to disability benefits. You cannot collect benefits under both the disability and the retirement programs at the same time. Your monthly disability payments would be higher than those you receive now under the retirement program.

Q. Our son will be graduating from college next year and we would like to know what the government expects of a federal worker under the Civil Service, and where they may work? — Mrs. D. N. P.

A. Federal employees are at work in offices and laboratories, machine shops and hospitals, all over the United States.

They may make weapons for the Armed Forces, protect the public against counterfeiters, inspect foods and drugs, help maintain our national parks, forecast the weather. They perform research in the fields of electronic, radio, and radar, and may explore the ocean depths and the reaches of space.

In hundreds of other ways Federal employees perform essential public service.

For your federal information, write, Area Manager, Interagency Board of U.S. Civil Service Area Office in your state of Colorado; Room 203, Post Office Bldg., 1823 Stout Street, Denver, 8-202.

Q. We are interested in buying a new home in an area that has been advertising various types of homes, particularly, condominiums and cooperative housing. Will you please explain to us what their difference would be? — V. S.

A. The condominium-type of home is the individual ownership of a dwelling unit and an undivided interest in the common areas and facilities which serve the multi-unit project. Cooperative housing is an apartment building or a group of dwellings owned by residents and operated for their benefit by their elected board of directors. The resident occupies but does not own his unit — but he does have a share of stock in the total enterprise.

Q. Which way is our mass transit progressing? — O. E.

Social Security

Q. I was age 65 in December. I tried to enroll in Medicare in August, but was denied. Why?

A. The enrollment period of Medicare is three months before the month of your 65th birthday, the month of your 65th birthday and three months after that month. Because you applied a month too early, you could not enroll at that time.

Q. The month after I became age 65, I received a Medicare Card showing I was entitled to Hospital Insurance. When I became ill six months later, I learned that I was not eligible for the doctor-bill part of Medicare. Please explain.

A. If you are entitled to Social Security or Railroad benefits during the month you reach age 65, you automatically receive a card showing you are entitled to Medicare hospital insurance. You also should have received a card in the mail to enroll in the medical insurance part of Medicare. Since you failed to enroll in medical insurance during your initial enrollment period (three months before the month you become 65, the months you attained 65, and three months thereafter), you must now wait to enroll in a general enrollment period for January 1 through March 31 to become eligible for medical insurance protection.

MAYOR SIGNS PROCLAMATION—Jim Sears signs a local proclamation stating that August 13, will be observed, in Hereford as Family Reunion Day. Sponsors of the nation-wide event are Kiwanis International and The Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. Watching Sears sign are left, R.C. Hoelscher and right, Rodney Laubhan, president of the Hereford Kiwanis Club.

Family Reunion Day Scheduled

Hereford Mayor Jim Sears signed a proclamation, establishing Sunday, August 13 as the Fifth Annual Family Reunion Day sponsored by the Hereford Kiwanis Club.

This day will be observed throughout the United States and Canada. It is a day set aside to recognize the family as the basis of the nation's strength and morality.

Different family activities that will take place on Family Reunion Day are family dinners, picnics, outings, such activities as getting the family up-to-date on addresses, birthdays, anniversaries, deaths and significant events. Other activities will be patriotic activities, familiarizing young members of the family with historic documents and events, and development of family research projects.

In some communities there are group picnics, observances sponsored by clubs, churches, youth organization, while in others there are special newspaper features, and broadcast events. All of these, however, serve to back up or dramatize Family Reunion Day. Family Reunion Day is primarily a family activity undertaken by families independently.

The day is sponsored by Kiwanis International and the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

The sponsors feel that the significance is basic in the fact that since the family is the basis of society, its emphasis and dramatization cannot help but reaffirm its importance and act as a powerful weapon against lawlessness, disorder, corruption and moral laxity. The sponsors feel that Family Reunion Day is a positive step toward the solution of these problems.

Bob Hope is the 1972 Honorary Chairman of the event that is moving into its fifth international year after being endorsed by national, state and local leaders.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sirs:

I have lived in the Hereford area for around 25 years and have always believed the people of this area to be extremely generous and warm hearted.

I belong to the Odd Fellows Lodge of Hereford, and on Tuesday August 7, 1972, I was notified that our Home of the Aged and our childrens home, were in need of fresh produce. I made several phone calls, and within thirty minutes, the produce people of Hereford had donated over 2,000 pounds of potatoes, carrots, cabbage and onions.

I would at this time like to express not only my gratitude and thanks, but the gratitude and thanks of the residences of our homes to: A & P Produce, Griffin and Brand, Colville & Wilson, E.C. Reinauer and Sons, T.J. Powers, Howard Gault Co. Deck Produce, and Hereford Produce.

It is people such as these that make me proud to call Hereford, Texas home.

Sincerely,

Elliot Silverstein, director of "Deadly Honeycomb," is happy to be working with unknown and relatively unknown performers, because he says, "non-stars are more secure than stars," and so they take direction better.

Rebecca Dianna Smith, Dack's "bride" in the film they're making together, is a Texas girl who's doing her first professional work as an actress.

Brunette and shapely with luminous eyes, she looks like early Jennifer Jones and talks like early Donna Douglas. Very metaphysical.

After an interview, the interviewer is left with the feeling that Rebecca Dianna considers, "all men are brothers," an adequate answer to practically every question which is not to say that she's wrong; only that she's hard to pin down.

A graduate of Britain's Royal Academy, she was in Hollywood visiting her brother, actor Gary McClain, when she was chosen for the new MGM film.

Of her acting, Rebecca Dianna says, "I don't think of it as a career. It's just something I have to share."

"Yes, an actress faces many problems, but nothing is simple, is it?"

As for career versus marriage, she says, "I'd only marry if it were a real love which, to me, is perfect freedom. I've had very beautiful relationships with men. To me, marriage is not a goal. I learn that his bride has been raped, he cries. The scene called for tears, and Dack cried."

"When I asked Richard Harris to cry, he refused."

"Antique lovers will drool over the furniture in "Deadly Honeycomb," because the sets have been dressed with genuine early American pieces, some of museum quality.

One set features a bed made by Prudent Mallard, a famous, French craftsman who set up shop in New Orleans during the Jacksonian period.

His furniture graced the homes of wealthy plantation owners and can be seen in the American Museum in England.

The set dresser for "Deadly Honeycomb" bought the bed for $1,000 (a steal) from a family distantly related to Mallard, and, by the time production began, had sold it for the same price with the understanding that it would be delivered to the next owner at the end of the picture.

He found a handsome, pier mirror behind a shop in the French Quarter in dreadful repair and bought it.

For use in the picture, the frame was simply painted with gold, but later MGM craftsmen will gold-leaf it and present it to a museum.

Air conditioning for the set with the Mallard bed was piped from trucks through plastic tubes into a second floor apartment where the company was working. The system used 15 tons of ice a day.

"Each person has different tasks and obstacles. Each person has his own thing to work out."

"You'll be hearing more from Rebecca Dianna, I expect, and you'll certainly be seeing her when "Deadly Honeycomb" or whatever it turns out to be is released.

"If you're an established star," he explains, "you can lose everything you have. When you're standing on the edge of a high building, it's scary to be asked to hop on one foot."

"The more successful an actor becomes, the more his acting range narrows. He comes to depend upon cliches to protect his image."

"When you hear the phrase 'a Steve McQueen picture' what do you think of?"

"I'd like to see McQueen play Santa Claus or Abiel, and he could play either one very well, too, if he'd try, because he's a good actor."

"George C. Scott is a star who takes chances. Dustin Hoffman takes chances. But most stars refuse to, because they don't want to jeopardize their standings by presenting new images on the screen."

"When you consider it from the star's point of view, you can hardly blame him for wanting to play it safe by sticking with the gimmicks that have made him famous."

Silverstein directed Richard Harris in "A Man Called Horse" and makes his point about established stars versus newer talent by citing an example.

"In "Deadly Honeycomb," he says, "when Dack Rambo

Michigan State's basketball team will play in two holiday tournaments next season. The Spartans are in the Kodak Classic at Rochester, N.Y., Dec. 29-30 and in the Senior Bowl classic, at Mobile, Ala., Jan. 2-3.

Flame Resistant Clothing Coming

A burned child is not a pretty sight, and protection for children against some fabric burns is on the way, says the Texas State Department of Health. A new law has just become effective which eventually will lead to the use of flame resistant material in children's sleepwear and children's outer clothing through size 14.

At this time, children's sleepwear in sizes 0 to 6X must be resistant to flames or have a warning placed on it that it is flammable. At the end of next

July this clothing must be flame resistant. The labeling option in sleepwear gives manufacturers a year in which to begin using flame resistant fabric, but on July 29, 1973, all children's sleepwear through 6X must meet the standard or not be sold, says the State Health Department.

Compliance date for larger sizes of sleepwear and outer garments will be announced in the future, and manufacturers will again be given 12 months to comply following the announcement. Also covered will be mattresses and protective pads.

Incident after incident in Texas point up the need for flame resistant fabrics. When a person's clothing ignites, there's more than a good chance that the person will be burned — sometimes horribly, sometimes fatally, but always painfully.

Burns in the United States are killing and crippling more people than polio did in its peak epidemic year in 1954. In 1954, about 50,000 persons contracted polio and 1,500 died of it. In contrast, according to National Safety Council figures, 6,700 persons died in fires and of burn injuries in 1970, and 250,000 suffered disabling injuries.

In clothing, says the State Health Department's Bedding and Product Safety Division, it is the quick igniting fabric which causes the greatest human losses. These soft fabrics, usually highly-flammable, are put into children's clothing as well as nightgowns and robes worn by adults. All too often the frills which decorate these fabrics burn rapidly, adding to the speed of ignition of the garment itself.

Experience has shown the need to protect our children — as well as adults — and the sleepwear standards in the Texas Hazardous Substances Law are a breakthrough in solving this life or death problem in the state.

Stuff soft pitted prunes with pecan halves. Wrap a half-slice of bacon around each prune. Place stuffed, wrapped prunes in a jelly roll pan and bake in a very hot oven until the bacon is crisp.

Revolution and Evolution The Bicentennial Year August 27 through September 2

Editor's note: This is one of a series of weekly columns recalling events in the history of the nation, and of the world, 200, 150 and 100 years ago.

Copley News Service

1772 — Fearful hurricane decimates West Indies islands, and particularly Antigua, Dominica and the Virgin Islands. Most ships are damaged and many sunk, buildings destroyed, crops lost, and there are many fatalities among both persons and animals.

James Bruce, Scottish-born, having navigated the Nile to Aswan in 1768 and crossed the desert to Abyssinia to reach the source of the Blue Nile in 1770, traced that river to its confluence with the White Nile at this time. Returned to Cairo in 1773 and to Scotland in 1774, his account of his adventures was published in four volumes.

1822 — General triennial meeting of stockholders of Bank of the United States is held in new and superb home building in Philadelphia. Established in 1791, it was the first bank of national importance in the country, and was intended to be the government's bank at a time when Philadelphia was the capital. Liquidated in 1811, with all its obligations paid, a bank of the same name was rechartered in 1816 and was operated successfully until 1836. At that time its charter expired and, because of political opposition, it ceased to operate.

From London it is reported that an iron steamboat, put into service between London and Paris, is completely fireproof and draws less water than other steamboats of the time, permitting it to ply both the Thames and the Seine Rivers. It is predicted that ships of this type will be put into service in the United States.

1872 — There is a substantial beginning at this time of a program under which Chinese students are educated abroad, providing China's first direct exposure to Western culture. Under Yung Wing, 120 students are brought to the United States to study at Yale, with 30 others going to universities in England and France for technical training.

Jehovah's Witnesses organized as a religious movement by Charles Taze Russell in Pittsburgh, originally known as "Russellites," later as "International Bible Students," and taking the present name in 1931. Pastor Russell, as he was popularly known, had been a member of the Congregationalist church prior to becoming an independent clergyman, advancing his own interpretations of the Bible to the death in 1916.

WINE DIGGITY

European youngsters taught to drink wine

By MARY LESTER Copley News Service

Our teenagers are drinking and I don't mean just Dr. Pepper.

A 16-year-old high school junior who is a neighbor openly admitted that he has been drinking "a little bit" since 14.

At first, going along with his peers, he tried whiskey and rum. Then, at a party this past Christmas, he found a "pop wine." He liked the taste plus the discovery the alcohol content was only 9 per cent. Now, when he goes to parties where there is going to be drinking, he brings a bottle of his "pop" and nurses a glass or two mixed with ice cubes.

I congratulate him on his good sense of moderation. For that is the secret of the art of drinking, whether hard spirits or wines: moderation.

The wine producing countries of the world have raised generations of youngsters who, at an early age, are given small amounts of wine with their meals. These children are taught the cultural merits of the beverage and the evils of the misuse of any potential intoxicant.

It was Cleobulus from Rhodes, one of the fabled Seven Sages of ancient Greece, who coined the classic phrase:

"Moderation is the greatest good." (I have always harbored a sneaky suspicion that Cleobulus had that particular brainstorm while suffering an acute hangover from imbibing too many goblets of the local fermented-grape juice.)

Our French, Italian, German, Chilean, Spanish, Portuguese and Argentinian wine-drinking cousins place training their youngsters in the proper way of drinking just about in the same category as good manners. After all, a drunk person is generally unruly and that spells improper behavior.

In the United States, approximately 65 per cent of the wine sales are made to the under-40 age group, with 18-25 year-olds showing their wine consciousness by comprising half of those figures.

I predict by 1985 the average American will have a more rounded knowledge of wines than his European counterpart.

So don't panic when you hear that a 13 or 14-year-old has a drink of wine once in awhile. It just could be that his parents have told him the pros and cons of drinking, explaining that only fools try to prove how much they can imbibe. They could have impressed upon him there is one drink, that gives full enjoyment, when drunk in moderation: Wine.

Sly patients push insurance rate up

Sneezing near animals was the patient's complaint. So I asked whether he had any animals at home. "No," he replied. "We had four deer for a while but we had to get rid of them."

I asked why. "Well, when they were small, we thought we had 2 bucks and 2 does, but when they got bigger, it turned out that all four were bucks. They began to fight with each other, jump out of their pen, and generally to cause trouble. So we had to give them away."

I asked why he hadn't sold them. "Why didn't we sell them? You as a doctor should know the answer to that. Can't hardly get anything for four bucks these days!"

As it developed, this patient had had a fit of sneezing so severe that he strained an abdominal muscle a few days earlier. He had gone to the emergency room where an examination showed nothing so no treatment was given. I asked why he had gone to the emergency room instead of calling me. "You see, doc, I thought I had broken a rib or something and needed x-rays. I knew that if I went to the emergency room, my hospital insurance would cover the visit. But my policy doesn't cover a visit to your office. So I went first to the emergency room. You can understand that, can't you, doc?"

have been half that or less, but it would have come out of the patient's pocket.

More and more patients with medical problems which are not truly emergencies are going to the ER for care. The number of patients being seen in the emergency-room is increasing, in some hospitals by as much as 50 per cent a year.

There are disadvantages to using the ER for primary medical care. An ER is not staffed to serve as home base for a large general practice. There are usually too few doctors and nurses for a large volume of patients. Often the doctors are trained for medical and surgical emergencies, accidents, heart failure, broken bones, rather than general practice.

There is no follow-up care at the ER. The problem is seen and treated and a record is made. But there is usually no system for providing further medical attention when needed. In many cases, then, ER care is incomplete. About all that can be said for taking a medical problem to an emergency room is that the care is cheap, if you have insurance to cover.

Or is it cheap? Hospital insurance plans seem to be asking for rate increases about twice a year in some parts of the country. Emergency room care is part of the reason for this. Although the patient doesn't pay for ER care in out-of-pocket dollars, he pays when the insurance rates go up. But then, many people feel like my patient. You can't hardly get anything for a few bucks any more anyway.

New look for child's room

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. Please help me finish my 3-year-old son's bedroom. The furniture is light oak and the carpeting is an olive green that has sort of a gold cast to it. Not a very childish color but it will have to do. Please suggest colors for walls, bedspread and curtains. — P.E.E.

A. The carpet color sounds fine and practical — an important consideration for this age child. And before you finish the room, he'll certainly have grown and matured so I think it is a waste of time to do something too babyish. Try to do basic things that can last through the years and merely change things like accessories and bedspread that wears out.

For decorating a child's room, why not choose a theme — something he's interested in. Perhaps he likes sports or has a favorite story book character or likes animals or boats. Let's say he likes wild animals and you decide to do an African safari room. With a green-gold carpeting, why not choose a green, gold and brown color scheme. Make him a fake leopard skin throw bedspread (you can find those fun prints in a wide width and the fabric is appealing to youngsters because it is so soft).

Buy some inexpensive and happy stuffed wild animal toys in your color scheme. Mount them on little plywood plaques like hunter's trophies and letter their names under them. Provide him with a deep gold vinyl covered bulletin board for hanging his treasures and art work.

Clinic Gets HHS Baton Twirlers Ready For Action

TWIRLERS LEARN TRICKS — Nine pretty girls, the most ever listed as a Hereford High School twirling team, will stir school spirit at pep rallies, parades and games during the 1972-73 term. They spent four days this week in a clinic at Deaf Smith County Bull Barn, conducted by Terry Stephens of Midland who taught them dance routines, two-baton work, fanfares and new twirling tricks to incorporate into their routines. Helen Rose is their

Young Preacher's Wife Doesn't Fit Own Image

BY LINDA HALLOWS
Brand Staff Writer
WIFE OF THE NEW associate pastor of First United Methodist Church, Mrs. J.O. Norred and her family are glad to be in Hereford where "the people are extremely friendly."

Creek and Ben Franklin. "We lived in Enloe four years and I was pretty settled there and was afraid it would be hard to adjust to Hereford—but it hasn't been and we haven't been sorry," Mrs. Norred states. "WE LIKE HEREFORD and since it's the biggest church since we've been assigned to naturally we have met many more people." As associate minister, Norred has various duties to fulfill, of the educational system of the local church. Laurel relates that her image of a preacher's wife is a woman that sings, plays the piano and does anything to help out her husband. "I just don't fit that image. I can't sing and I don't play the piano. But I am very proud of my husband. I feel that I can assist him most by simply supporting him in all that he does." "HE ALWAYS TELLS me that I am his biggest critic on the sermons he delivers," Mrs. Norred adds. Beginning his preaching career in Silver, Norred also was minister in Tuscola, Greenville and Dallas. He was born and raised in Sweetwater and after attending McMurry College, he enrolled in Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University. Laurel was raised in Fort Worth and after graduation from Haltom High School, attended McMurry College and majored in physical education and business education.

Music Club Has Officer Change

Setting dates for a silver anniversary tea and other special events, Dawn Music Club also made an unforeseen change in officers for the coming season and approved yearbook plans at a called summer meeting Wednesday afternoon in Mrs. Carl Klueskens' home. Mrs. Klueskens, elected vice president for this year, became president when Mrs. Jerry Parker resigned the office, and Mrs. Alfred Smith was named vice president. Mrs. Parker was assigned this week to a faculty post at West Texas State University and will be unable to serve as president although she will remain a member of the club. The anniversary tea Sept. 10 in the home of Mrs. Carl Wimberley will formally open a club season. Preceding that date, members will conduct a rummage sale Aug. 25 and 26 in Dawn Community Center to replenish the treasury for a new year. Another date set is Oct. 31, when a Hallowe'en spook party will be staged in the big barn on the Parker ranch south of Dawn. Club yearbooks are ready for the printers and will be distributed at the beginning of the fall season, it was announced. Changes in the bylaws were approved and a brief workshop was held on duties of officers and committee chairmen. Mrs. Jerry Stewart, was named publicity chairman, as duties of that committee were separated from that of the club historian.

J.O. NORRED AND LAUREL Dobbins worked at Ceta Glenn Canyon, where they began to know each other better and decided to be married. The couple has been married seven years. Majoring in physical education, Laurel enjoys all sports and especially volleyball. She likes to knit, crochet and sew, though she has had little time for any handicrafts since her move. "I love to cook, too," she adds. "Thank heaven I have a husband that likes to eat! I like to try new and different dishes on him." "We are also avid Cowboy fans," Laurel Norred concludes.

Hereford Woman's Father Is Buried

The funeral of William Bruce Hanna, 63, of Beeville, father of Mrs. Claude DeBord, 215 Beach, was conducted in a funeral chapel at Beeville July 27 and burial was in Glenwood Cemetery there. Mrs. DeBord and family attended the service. Mr. Hanna died at his home July 24 after an illness of three months. He was employed by a hardware firm in Beeville, and was a member of the Presbyterian Church. Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Delta Pearl, of Beeville; two sons, William Bruce Jr. of Zwolle, La., and James Paul of the U.S. Navy serving on the USS Reeves; a sister, Mrs. Clyde Benson of Harrisburg, Ill.; a brother, the Rev. Paul D. Hanna of Karnes City, and four grandchildren.

Veleda Club Has Summer Social

An ice cream social Wednesday evening was hosted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Olson when members of Veleda Study Club and their husbands gathered for an evening of visiting. Mrs. Richard Ottesen was co-hostess for the club's annual summer social. In a brief business session, members voted Mrs. Billy Wayne Sisson to fill the secretary's position left vacant by Mrs. Doug Nix, who has moved to Dalhart. Those attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Bill Brady, Gid Brown, George Ritter, Richard Ottesen, Billy Wayne Sisson and George Olson. Also Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zinser, Jane and Diana, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Clearman and Scott. Forgetting the past is alright, but don't forget the future.

Master Of Science Degree Is Conferred

Lou Ann Rounds participated in summer graduation ceremonies recently when she received her master of science degree in clothing, textiles and merchandising from Oklahoma State University at Stillwater. Mrs. Rounds is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Witkowski, 215 N. Texas, and has been employed by Hereford school system in the home economics department. More than five million Egyptians, about 15 per cent of the country's 34 million people, live in the capital city of Cairo.

Pioneer Club Meets At Summer Coffee

Stirring of club activity, noted this week as summer vacation season nears an end, included a called meeting of Pioneer Study Club at a coffee in Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room Thursday morning. The yearbook committee, Mmes. Herman Ford, O.G. Hill Sr., William Wimberley, Delmar Sigle and C.L. Craig, were hostesses. They served coffee from a table centered with summer blooms from Mrs. Hill's yard. Roberta Campbell, new president, conducted business which included a change of meeting time for the coming year. The club will meet for lunch on second Tuesdays of each month, as in the past, but the new time is 11:30 a.m. It was announced that bulbs for sale as a club project are here, ready for fall planting. Approval of the budget and a report on the program outlined for next season were other matters given attention. Mrs. L.H. Lookingbill Sr. gave a report on the May meeting in Dallas of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, with which Pioneer Club is affiliated. Also present were Mmes. Frank Ball, Henry Hasting, W.C. Hromas, Tandy Legg, Ralph McCullough, J.V. Pickens, Paul Rudd, P.B. Sowell and R.L. Sowell and R.L. Wilson. CHARRY TO K.C. — KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Michael Charry, assistant conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra, has been appointed principal guest conductor of the Kansas City Philharmonic, starting in the fall. Charry's 11-year association with the Cleveland Orchestra began in 1961 when he was chosen apprentice conductor by George Szell as the result of nationwide competition. Charry has been musical director of the Canton, Ohio, Symphony since 1961, a post he will continue. He has resigned from the Cleveland Orchestra. Charry was born in New York and is 38. Jorge Mester is artistic adviser and principal conductor of the Kansas City Philharmonic.

By the Garden Gate

With Glad

By Mrs. Art Manjeot

To walk in the garden in the early hours of the day is invigorating, relaxing and refreshing. As I walked the garden paths this morn I was reminded of a bit of poetry I learned when I was a child:

So here hath been dawning another new day,
Think! will you let it slip uselessly away.

Out of eternity this new day was born,
And into eternity at night will return.

The challenge of the new day reminded me that there was much to be done, and to be thankful for. Standing by the garden gate enjoying the beauty of the pink Crape Myrtle, the opening of the new rosebuds, and the promise of the clear blue morning glory blooms, I thought of other gardens and some of the old fashioned flowers that my mother grew. Hollyhocks by the garden wall, reaching high, showing off the ruffled blossoms of red, pink, yellow, and white.

The hollyhock even though an old-fashioned plant is very popular. I have found that it is in many gardens of today, and the effect is very nice. Their stateliness adds glamour and motion to a garden.

Through research and study much can be learned. Hollyhock is the common name for althea rosea, a Greek word meaning to heal. It is closely related to the mallows family, is a biennial or semi-biennial.

Four hundred years ago the hollyhock grew in English gardens, later becoming a popular garden flower in America, and has since been a favorite of many gardeners.

The history of the hollyhock reveals that it grew in the early monastery gardens with other medicinal plants, and its chief use was for medical purposes. Was specially recommended for chest and stomach diseases. Leaves used for a potherb, and the flower petals were used for dye.

The flower stalks grow to a height of 10 to 12 feet, the leaves are large, rough and round, heart shaped. The flower is sessile, borne along leafy, hairy, main stems. The flowers are both single and double.

A recent seed catalogue in listing the various colors, stated that they come in beautiful pastel colors, and some of the new colors are: newport pink, fine soft pink; rose, pleasing and rose-pink; deep scarlet red, rich crimson appealing red; and yellow, fine sulphur yellow. Also comes in glistening white, clear and beautiful.

The frilly-like blossoms have been described as being like ballerinas and filly pinafores. Flower heads are similar to the form of the carnation.

This old garden favorite is excellent for background planting, screening unsightly places and planting along bare walls. Are easy to grow, and do best in deep, rich, well-drained soil.

The plant dearly likes a sunny location, warm and sheltered from wind. If not protected then tie or fasten to wall or stake so that they will not be damaged by wind and storm.

They thrive on attention and lots of fertilizer. Preparation of soil is important. Spade deeply, rake well, adding a generous application of well rotted manure or selected fertilizer.

If an early bloom is wanted, the seed should be sown in late summer, the latter part of August is a good time. If seed is sown in the spring the first year's growth is primarily stalk and foliage, the full blossoming will not appear until the next growing season. Plants can be transplanted from the clumps as plants mature.

The blooming period of the hollyhock is long, as they start opening at the base of the flowering stalk and bloom upward. As the blossoms open and mature they should be removed when darkened and dried. The foliage enhances the plant as it has interesting texture and a pleasing green color.

Not only are the blossoms pretty in the garden but they make attractive arrangements. They are pretty when floated in a glass container. Colored glass or clear crystal can be used effectively.

Do not overcrowd, as one of the interests is the water reflection and spacing. For accent use some of the tight buds and foliage where attached to the buds.

The open blossom can also be used for corsages, if properly hardened. They will last longer if a bit of paraffin is used at the base of the flower stem. Let this harden before wiring and wrapping.

Hollyhocks have some enemies which cause the gardener extra care. The common disease is rust. This shows itself on the underside of the leaf by reddish-brown rust-spore bodies. When it first appears the affected leaves should be picked off and burned.

Follow with a spray or dust containing a mixture of copper oxide, or any other recommended spray or dust.

It is important to remember (write in your garden note book) that the spraying should be started when the growth of the plant first appears in the spring. Continue throughout the growing season with consistent spraying or dusting, and the plant will be better grown and produce better. This is a good preventive for dahlias, and zinnias, to keep down mildew.

The most common insect attacking the hollyhock is the corn borer. Termites have been known to attack the woody stalk. Plants should be dusted or sprayed at five day intervals, starting June 10 and continue throughout the flowering season.

When the blooming cycle has been completed, cut all stalks, pick up all fallen leaves, stem, etc. and burn. Select seed from the best matured blooms and of your chosen color. They are nice to share with others who wish to grow the stately and lovely hollyhock.

(Note: Thank you, Betty, for your note, hope this is information you wanted. Will do some research on the sunflower and give this later).

GARDEN CHORES: August will be a busy month for gardening. First keep up systematic watering, don't let your plants suffer for want of water and attention even though the days are long and hot.

Evenings and mornings are most enjoyable spent in the garden. Soon we will be having vegetables from the late planting.

This is the month to take rootings from geraniums for potted plants. Plant ornamental peppers in pots for winter enjoyment. They will be especially pretty for Christmas, and make nice gifts for shut-ins or sick folk.

Many lovely gardens and well kept lawns in Hereford town. A leisurely drive yesterday afternoon was most enjoyable. The scarlet petunias in full flower, made a beautiful setting for the garden chairs at the Taft McGee home.

Glad to note that the magnolia at Mrs. Norvell's is making a good showing, the pretty double white petunias at the base add an attractive accent. The bed of colorful bluebonnets remind me of the Texas hills in springtime, with their blanket of our state flower.

Glad to see the new tennis courts being completed on Plains, also the addition of the U.S. flag at the Greenwood church. Roses add their glamour to the gardens, and hedges. Many beautiful crape myrtles and zinnias are adding color to many areas.

ATTENTION: Watch for snails, they are having trouble with them in Amarillo. Yesterday I found one on the front walk. They can be cited by the bright thread-like path they leave as they move about. For precaution place some pans filled with beer. Snails will find them and partake; Beer is poison to them.

A most interesting and different sight was the bed of mushrooms which appeared at the B.E. Roberson home while they were on vacation. Would have been a good study for our artists.

My good friends, the Horace Hersheys, brought me a shower of fresh vegetables. Nothing I like better than blackeyed peas, cornbread, okra and squash. By the way if you are interested in acquiring an aloe vera plant, call the Hersheys. They have some extras, which they have grown outside. These plants are good to have.

HAPPINESS is being busy and cheerful!

Drain a can of bristling sardines and mash with a small package of cream cheese and a tablespoon or two of minced chives; refrigerate. Serve as a spread for crackers or party-style rye bread.

Carter-Laing Vows Said In Lovely Garden Setting

A garden wedding ceremony was conducted Friday evening for Miss Terri Jeanette Carter and Randy Ray Laing, as the couple pledged vows before an archway covered with green foliage.

The ceremony was read by the Rev. Russell Wingert of First Presbyterian Church in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Spangler's home, 300 Sunset.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Jo Aven Carter, 1101 13th Street; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Laing of 402 Blevins are parents of the bridegroom.

Miss Nelda Norton was pianist and played Wedding Song and other selections.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Houle as best man and matron of honor.

Miss Carter wore a gown of silk organza with wide Chantilly lace trim down the front in panel effect, and on sleeves, collar, and cuffs. Satin ribbon was laced through the trim.

She wore a lace picture hat and carried a nosegay of yellow roses and daisies. A handkerchief and sixpence belonging to the bride's grandmother were heirlooms carried by Miss Carter.

Mrs. Houle's gown was of chiffon crepe with a yellow skirt covered by sheer material in floral design. She carried on long stemmed yellow rose and wore a yellow head piece.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Carter selected a floor length gown of gold, green and red crepe with long sleeves and embroidered waistband.

Mrs. Laing wore a gown with white brocaded top and charcoal and white voile skirt.

For a reception following the ceremony, Mrs. Tony Carter invited guests to register as Miss Beverly Friemel poured punch.

Mrs. W.M. Covin, aunt of the bride, served the three tiered wedding cake that was topped with yellow roses. It was set on a table covered with a Belgium lace cloth.

Other members of the houseparty were Mrs. J.D. Whitaker, Mrs. Clyde Whitaker, Mrs. Charles Walden and Mrs. Kenny Wilson.

For a short wedding trip, Mrs. Laing wore a yellow pantsuit. The couple will be at home after August 8 at 410 Lawton.

Mrs. Laing, a 1972 graduate of Hereford High School, was enrolled in Vocational Office Education during her senior year and was a member of the Pop Squad and Drill Team. She will be employed as a teacher's aid in the school system.

A 1971 graduate of HHS, Laing was a member of the Rodio Club and was currently employed at Missouri Beef Packers.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were from Amarillo, Dimmitt and cities in Oklahoma.

CANADIANS STAND OUT COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five of the eight harness racing drivers who have won 100 dashes or more in 1972 are Canadian-born, including Montreal's Herve Filion who heads the list. The others are Greg Wright, Ross Curran, Keith Waples and Buddy Gilmoure, all born in Ontario.

The Highwaymen

Late last month, on a hot summer day, six New Jersey patrolmen on the Palisades Interstate Parkway force deliberately caused a 14-mile traffic jam on that artery. They did it by checking the drivers license and registration of every car headed toward New York City at the peak of the morning rush hour.

Why? Because the patrolmen wanted a new contract. Such so-called "job actions" are an increasingly popular device for public employees who are forbidden to strike, but want to "dramatize" their case for higher pay, or whatever else they are after.

In this particular case, cool heads prevailed. Officials reassigned the patrolmen involved and their organization, the New Jersey State Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, agreed to forgo any more interstate traffic tie-ups.

At first glance, it is always hard to resist a snicker when society's red tape is carried to an absurd extreme. But beneath the surface of such incidents lurks a dark, ugly, dangerous creature which threatens the very fabric of society.

Public employees are given special powers by society, to use for the protection of society. When they have the right to misuse these powers for their own personal gain—no matter how good a case they may have for a raise or whatever—society moves to the brink of anarchy. Whom do you call when you are held up by a policeman?

Was the action of those six patrolmen really so different from that of a kidnapper, who holds his victims for ransom?

Is a "job action" by firemen really so different from the racketeer who offers to "protect" a small businessman from being fire-bombed, in return for a small monthly "insurance" payment?

But why, some people ask, shouldn't public employees have the same strike privilege that other workers have? The answer to that takes a little thought.

We live under a system of checks and balances, for the restraint of arbitrary or unbridled power. What checks the striker in an action against a private employer? The possibility that he will demand so much that the employer is forced out of business. What checks the employer from simply passing along higher labor costs to the public, through higher prices? Competition. If Ajax Widgets become too costly, people will buy their widgets from someone else. The system has its imperfections, but on the whole, it works.

Now, what about public employees? What checks them? Nothing, really, except the will of the people expressed through their duly elected representatives. After all, you can't very well take your business to a competing police department, or "bargain hunt" for low fire-fighting rates.

So if public employees are permitted to withhold from the public a vital service, then they gain the ability to extort from the taxpayer anything they want. That is the point at which our public "servants" become our keepers, and we their slaves.

'Success' For Controls

The question of whether wage and price controls have "succeeded" leaves us with a classic case of mixed feelings. On one hand, if everyone decided that controls have finally succeeded we could finally get rid of them. On the other hand, Washington can cause the economy no little trouble by learning things that ain't so.

The "success" question is newly pertinent following the encouraging June figures on the economy. In particular, the consumer price index rose at an annual rate of only 1.2 per cent, a figure of true beauty in the context of recent years. Unquestionably prices are rising more slowly now than they were before controls were applied. Therefore it's easy to leap to the conclusion that controls have been responsible for the improvement.

Before you leap, look at a chart of changes in the consumer price index, the one above, for instance. This version of the index is the series on the rate of change over six-month spans, published in the Commerce Department's Business Conditions Digest. It does show a sharp drop for the six-month span centered on August 1971, when controls were started. There is also evidence of a post-freeze bulge and the more recent downturn culminating in the June figure.

By far the most overwhelming aspect of the chart, though, is the downtrend starting in January of 1970, some 18 months before controls were instituted. Charts of monthly and year-to-year changes show the same basic pattern, a peak in early 1970 and a downtrend that only wiggled when controls started to apply. At the very least, this raises serious questions about whether the controls have had anything in particular to do with the improvement we now feel.

That doesn't necessarily prove controls have had no effect, of course, because conceivably the downtrend would not have continued without them. But Leonall C. Andersen, the St. Louis Fed research chief, recently dug out the forecasts collected by the American Statistical Association shortly before the onset of controls. In forecasting the rate of inflation for the first quarter of 1972, the forecasters had no idea that controls would be started. Yet, Mr. Andersen notes, "the average rate projected by this group of forecasters turned out to be the actual rate."

He adds, "My reading of the record since last August leads me to conclude that there is little support for the proposition that the rate of inflation has been reduced considerably from what it would have been in the absence of the program."

Certified Mechanics Thing Of Future

BY BERT MILLS

Washington, D.C. — Motorists displeased with the automotive repair service they receive may be able before long to shop around and find a mechanic who has been tested and certified as a qualified expert.

A new industry group called the National Foundation for Automotive Service Excellence has begun operations here, and its first project will be a Certified Mechanic program. This is a voluntary alternative to Legislative proposals for mandatory Federal licensing of mechanics. One state, California, already requires mechanics to be licensed.

Although car manufacturers and auto dealers contributed funds to get the institute started, it will be a completely independent organization which expects to be self-supporting within two years. Income will be derived from test fees charged mechanics or their employers.

A diversified Board of Directors numbering 27 will include working mechanics, employers of mechanics, representatives of the public, educators, and auto service experts. The first four Board members to be named are the General Service Manager of American Motors Corp., two franchised car dealers from the Washington suburbs, and the operator of an independent repair shop in California.

The purpose of the Institute is to improve auto repair service by "providing recognition of career opportunities within the automotive service industry, helping to increase consumer confidence in the quality of automotive repair, and providing a stimulus for the improvement of educational and training programs."

Certification Won't Come Easy

Certified Mechanics will have to earn the uniform patches which will attest to their expertise. They will have to take and pass four written tests, each with 80 multiple-choice questions. In addition, they must have at least two years of experience as a working mechanic.

Educational Testing Service, of Princeton, N.J., famed for its College Board admission test, will administer the tests. E.T.S. conducts and scores some 15 million tests annually, including many in the vocational field. For two years, E.T.S. has been developing the tests for auto mechanics, including a trial run last year in which 800 mechanics were tested.

First tests will be given in about 150 locations across the nation, on four successive Tuesday nights starting November 21. A mechanic or his employer will pay $10 to take each test or $40 for the series. A second series of tests will be given March 24 and 31, 1973.

The four tests will cover particular areas of a vehicle: engines and their main systems, fuel, induction, ignition, and exhaust; transmission, clutches, drive lines, and axles; suspension, steering and brake systems; and starting, charging, basic electrical and air conditioning systems.

30,000 May Qualify
Institute officials estimate that about 30,000 mechanics, out of about 800,000 in the trade, will take the initial test next November and that the vast majority will qualify as Certified Mechanics. It is expected that the best men will apply for the first tests and have no trouble in earning their patch.

Certified Mechanics will be re-tested every three years, to make sure they have retained their competence and kept up with new technology. Additional tests for truck mechanics and various specialties are being developed and will be offered in future years. For example, a specialist on transmission could be certified for that specialty alone.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Dear editor:

Over the years and several times lately I've read about lawyers arguing that their clients couldn't get a fair trial in their home towns because too much publicity had been given their crimes. Too many people know about the matter and a change of venue is required to get a fair and impartial jury, the lawyers say.

What they mean is that justice requires that their client be tried before 12 people who've never heard of the murder or the stealing or the defrauding or whatever it was he did. With or without a change of venue, sometimes it takes two or three months and thousands and thousands of dollars just to pick 12 people considered uninformed enough to serve.

I have figured out a way to avoid all this. What we need is a stable of people specially selected and sheltered to serve as jurors. It'd be their lifetime's work.

To make sure they meet the court's requirements, that is, that they are totally ignorant of what's going on, the professional jurors would be prohibited from reading any newspaper that isn't at least five years old. No television of course would be permitted, because even on soap operas or football games the networks have a prejudicial, jury-destroying habit of interrupting a program to report news bulletins. They'd have to get their entertainment from phonograph records, checkers and dominoes. No chess. What sort of juror do you think Bobby Fisher would make? What an affront it'd be to the dignity of the court to have each juror hauling in his own chair and adjusting all the lights in the court room.

Under this system, when a trial begins, the judge pushes a button and 12 people come sliding out of a chute, their eyes blinded by the glare but their minds absolutely uncluttered. It would then be up to the lawyers on both sides to unroll the facts and implant whatever prejudices they can manage, ten minutes after the trial starts. No use taking weeks and hunting all over the county to find 12 people who never heard of you when you've got 12 already stored away in the courthouse.

Of course another way to handle the problem would be to abolish all newspapers and radio and television stations, but I won't go into that. I'm probably already in contempt of court as it is.

Yours faithfully
J.A.

Talk Of Texas

BY JACK MAGUIRE

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY — Less than a year after Texas won its independence from Mexico, the general who was commander-in-chief of the new Army of the Republic tried to steal the city of San Antonio by a ruse.

He was Felix Huston, a Kentuckian who was practicing law in Natchez, Miss., when Texas went to war against Mexico. Sensing an opportunity to further his own ambitions, he incurred a personal debt of $40,000 raising and equipping an army of 500 Mississippi farmers that he planned to lead against Mexico.

By the time Huston got his men to Texas in the summer of 1836, however, the war was over and Texas had won its independence. Huston stayed on, and the following December, President Sam Houston made him a brigadier general and named him commander-in-chief of the Texas Army. It was a decision that Huston was to regret later.

General Huston's most infamous act was to order Juan N. Seguin, major of San Antonio, to evacuate the town, claiming that it was about to be attacked by a Mexican force. Seguin refused and appealed to President Houston to countermand the order. Huston did exactly that, and it is well that he did. His commander-in-chief had a wagon train hidden outside the town and planned to claim it under "squatter's rights" when the populace left.

Later, Huston relieved Huston of his command and sent Albert Sidney Johnston to replace him. Huston challenged Johnston to a duel at Edna, Jackson County, and wounded General Johnston. The affair deposed Huston, however, and he returned to Mississippi where he died in 1857.

SUNNY SIDE UP — Resident in the Lamar County village of Blossom is a dry-land terrapin named Sam who likes fried eggs for breakfast. He has one every morning.

Sam first showed up one morning three years ago at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Shores and was fed a bit of left-over scrambled egg. He liked it so well that he came back the next day and Mrs. Shores fried him one of his own. Now he shows up promptly at 7 a.m., waits to be taken into the house, has a leisurely breakfast and then ambles off to spend the next 24 hours doing whatever terrapins do with their time.

How do the Shores recognize Sam? By an initial they carved on his underside. And by the egg on his face.

Sharon Garrison Bride In Ceremony At Church

Miss Sharon Kay Garrison and Danny Melvin Harvey were married in a late afternoon ceremony Saturday at First United Methodist Church. Dr. Clifford Trotter of Amarillo, former pastor here and now district superintendent officiated.

Miss Garrison is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.L. Garrison of Route 2. Harvey is the son of J.M. Harvey of Stamford and the late Mrs. Harvey.

The church was decorated with candle arches trimmed in fern with bouquets of pink snapdragons, lavender pompons, purple asters and pink carnations. The center aisle was marked with votive candles and smilax.

Miss Garrison's gown of silk organza over taffeta was designed with a fitted empire bodice with Victorian neckline and long sheer sleeves caught at the wrist by deep cuffs and a soft flounce over her hands.

The bodice was trimmed in Venice lace twined with lavender ribbon. The gathered skirt fell to a flounced hemline also trimmed in lace.

She wore a matching organza wide brimmed hat with a veil extending to chapel length bows topped streamers of lavender satin ribbon cascading over the veil. The bride carried a nosegay of roses, stephanotis and statice.

Miss Pamela Garrison attended her sister as maid of honor with Dennis Melton of Stanton serving as best man. Other bridesmaids were Mrs. Warren Gossett of Austin and Mrs. Bobby Bolding of Robert Lee.

Groomsmen were: Mike McLean of Eunice, N.M., and Jim Bruce of Corpus Christi. Ushering quests were Steve Marth, Buzzy Andress, John Hilgers and Harvey Garrison of Dumas, brother of the bride.

Jana Michele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Garrison was flower girl and her brother, Kerry Don, lighted candles.

Mrs. Tony Calkins, organist, accompanied Miss Sandi Webb and Gaylon Beights as they sang "If and We've Only Just Begun."

Bridal attendants wore pale lavender dotted Swiss gowns with puffed sleeves and flounced hemline. White lace with purple flowers circled the empire bodice and flounce. They wore white wide-brimmed hats with lavender streamers and carried a nosegay of orchid pompons and purple stephanotis.

Mrs. Garrison chose a mauve dress for her daughter's wedding, of peau de soie with a metallic embroidered lace bodice and modified empire waistline. The jacket was semi-fitted with buttons matching the lace of the dress.

A reception at Hereford Country Club following the ceremony honored the couple. Miss Anita Campbell of Ft. Stanton, N.M., registered guests. Mrs. Gene Duval of Amarillo and Mrs. Barry Haensch of Van Horn poured punch and coffee.

Miss Pam Winget and Mrs. Harvey Garrison served the wedding cake decorated with orchid daisies and pink sweetheart-roses. The cake centered the table that was further decorated with two crystal globes trimmed with smilax and sweetheart roses.

For a wedding trip to Miami and the Bahama Islands, Mrs. Harvey wore an ensemble of white sharkskin bell-bottom pants with a seersucker jacket of green, yellow and red. Brown leather accessories completed the attire.

The couple will be at home after August 19 at 2410 Church St., Apt. 1, Abilene.

A 1967 graduate of Hereford High School, Mrs. Harvey was a member of Theta Chi Lambda social club at McMurry College where she graduated in 1971.

She was employed by Merchants Motor Lines in Abilene.

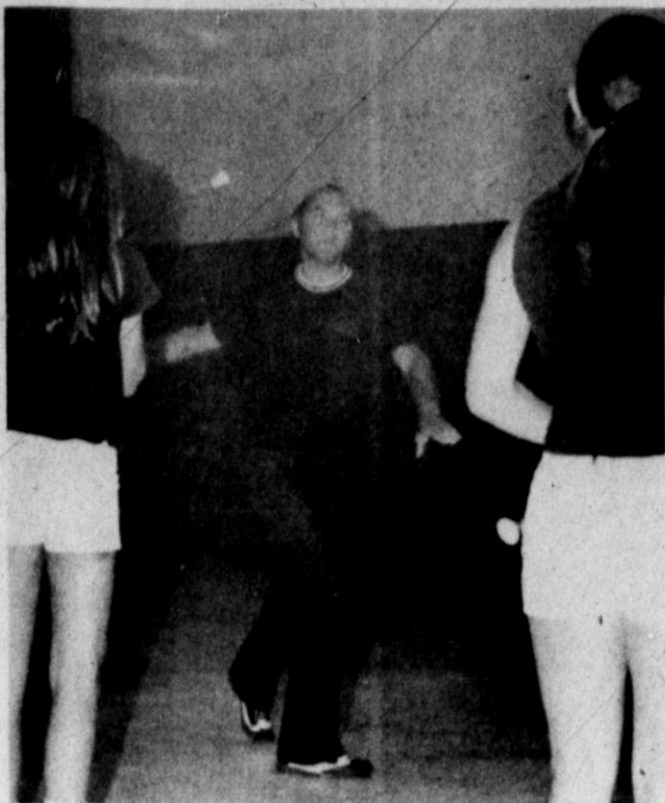

Harvey is a senior student at McMurry, majoring in marketing. He graduated from Stamford High School in 1968.

Attending the wedding from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dickenson of Stamford, Mrs. S.H. Garrison and Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Nelson, Ilene and Kim of Lubbock; Mrs. W.W. Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Ivey, Mr. and Mrs. Alby Cockerell, all of Levelland; Mrs. W.H. Wilmore of Mt. View, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Jones of Petersburg.

Bridesmaids and members of the houseparty were guests at a brunch Saturday morning at the Country Club with Mrs. Homer Garrison as hostess.

The bride-elect and her mother were present with the guests who also included Mrs. S.H. Garrison, Mrs. Welch and Mrs. Dickenson.

LESSON AT CLINIC—Terry Stephens of Midland, instructor in the clinic held this week for Hereford High School twirlers, starts to demonstrate a routine as his pupils give him their full attention. The four-day clinic was a preliminary to the twirlers' activities during football and basketball season in the school here.

Twirling Clinic Held For High School Girls

Instructed by a former holder of the men's national twirling championship, Terry Stephens of Midland, the Hereford High School twirlers for next term participated in a clinic at the County Bull Barn Monday through Thursday.

Because of the HHS band trip to Mexico this summer, and other conflicting events, they were not able to attend an area clinic as they customarily do, so the period of instruction was scheduled here.

Twirlers are Sandi Caison, Vicki Payne, Denise Strange, Teri Reinauer, Cheryl Smith, Patricia Green, Carolyn Langley, Sheila Lea, and Renee Walden. Helen Rose is the faculty sponsor.

During the clinic they practiced dance and twirling routines, and learned two-baton numbers which will be exhibited as they appear through the school year at football and basketball games, pep rallies, and parades.

Stephens has been an instructor at twirling clinics in this area several years. He is now doing this work only in summer sessions, as he is an art teacher in Midland schools. He won his national championship while he was a student at Texas Tech.

Manor Founders Dinner, Dedication Date Is Fixed

Dedication of a new wing at Kings Manor Retirement Home will be combined with the annual Founders Day program and dinner this year. Shirley Garrison, president of the Founders Association, has announced. The date will be Oct. 2.

For the first time, the dinner will be served at Kings Manor, the Methodist retirement home here. It will be held in the just-completed Lamar Memorial Garden Room, a wing of the original Manor building, which is to be consecrated that evening.

Dr. Aislie Carleton of Albuquerque, United Methodist bishop of Northwest Texas and New Mexico, will be the speaker.

Special guests will be Lamar family members and friends from United Methodist churches at Dimmitt and Crosbyton who gave funds for building the room in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lamar and daughter, Marie.

Reservations for the dinner are made by becoming a member or renewing membership in Kings Manor Founders Association. Regular membership fee is $10; sustaining, life and memorial members are those giving more than that amount.

The garden room is the latest addition to Manor buildings completed this year. A new wing of the hospital unit, Westgate, was occupied in the spring.

Dr. John English is executive director of the facility, which includes a number of duplex cottages as well as the manor proper and the unit for nursing care.

Member Prospects Invited

Young Homemakers of Texas announce plans for a party Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Reddy Room of Southwestern Public Service building to welcome anyone interested in joining the organization.

Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Connie Urbanczyk or Mrs. Mike Watts.

Refreshments, games and an evening of getting acquainted is planned.

Preparing ditty bags for servicemen overseas is the current project the club is engaged in. Installation of officers has been set for Sept. 5 and members plan to participate in an area convention at Plainview, also in September.

Miss Turrentine Becomes Bride Of James Haile

Miss Carol Ann Turrentine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Turrentine, Harrison Highway and James B. Haile son of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Haile of Route 4, were married Friday afternoon with the Rev. John F. Kiesling conducting the nuptial mass at St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

White snapdragons and yellow pompons with babybreath were arranged on the altars with topiary trees filled with coral and yellow pompons on either side at the communion rail.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Miss Patti Turrentine with Chris Hulcherson serving as best man.

Miss Jan Turrentine, sister of the bride, Miss Connie Walker and Miss Janet Weiershausen of Houston were bridesmaids with Wally Roach, Kim Williamson and Brian Haile, brother of the bridegroom, as groomsmen.

Brother John Ponica of St. Ann's Church in Bovina was master of ceremonies and Walter John Paetzold was lector. Altar boys were Danny Paetzold and Gregory Koenig.

Ben Gollehon and Rick Davis of Canyon were vocalists who sang Wedding Song, Twelfth of Never and the Lord's Prayer. They were accompanied by David Booths of Canyon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza with a Victorian neckline and empire bodice.

Long sheer sleeves were caught at the wrists with wide cuffs and circled with bands of Venice lace. Lace appliques traced a pattern over the bodice and the train which fell to chapel length.

A lace coil sprinkled with seed pearls and a satin ribbon bow held her veil, edged in lace, which extended over the train. Miss Turrentine carried a bouquet of pompons, stephanotis and babybreath.

Her costume included an heirloom locket belonging to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. J.M. Paetzold. The locket is a traditional wedding ornament worn by the bride's mother, grandmother and cousin at their weddings. She also wore a diamond heart necklace given her as a wedding present by the bridegroom.

The bride's attendants were dressed in coral chiffon with lantern sleeves, scooped neckline and empire waistline. The skirt was gathered and featured a ruffle at the hemline. They carried nosegays of coral carnations and yellow pompons, the same flowers made their head pieces.

Mrs. Turrentine selected a floor length chiffon gown of sea blue for the wedding and Mrs. Haile wore an apricot gown of crepe trimmed with beading.

A three-tiered wedding cake was served to guests at a reception at Hereford Country Club following the ceremony. The bride's circular table was centered under an archway decorated with roses and daisies. The groom's table and punch table were on either side. Topiary trees filled with flowers completed the arrangement. Attending the bride's table was Mrs. Craig Fuller and Mrs. Jerry Sublett. At the groom's table were Miss Terrie Beth Line and Mrs. W.W. Roach. Mrs. Jack Denison, Misses Kathy Shumacker and Shan Banks poured punch and coffee.

Registering guests were Misses Martha Ann McBride and Sherry Bergin. Mrs. Donnie Houle was another member of the houseparty.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico and Colorado, Mrs. Haile wore a red, white and blue pantsuit with matching accessories. The couple will be at home after August 12 at 1915 Tenth Avenue in Canyon.

Mrs. Haile is a 1971 graduate of Hereford High School and has attended Texas Tech University. She has been employed as a lifeguard and secretary at Hereford Country club.

A 1969 graduate of HHS, Haile is attending West Texas State University and majoring in music therapy. He is currently employed at Kilgore Children's Psychiatric Pavilion in Amarillo.

Coffee Honors Former Resident

A summer visitor with friends here, Mrs. Dick Godwin of Phoenix was honoree at a coffee Thursday morning in Mrs. Wes Fisher's home and had the opportunity for informal chatting with the callers. Mrs. Godwin is a former resident of Hereford.

She and her daughter, Diana, were here a few days enroute to Denton where her son, Rick, is spending the summer vacation. They plan to go on to Alabama for a visit with Mrs. Godwin's mother and other relatives.

Mrs. Fisher invited members of the Music Study Club, which Mrs. Godwin served as president just before her move from Hereford, and a number of other friends to come for coffee and conversation during the morning hours.

Casual service of the coffee and doughnuts from a round table at the end of the living room suited the relaxed atmosphere of the party.

Couple Married In Vega

Miss Mary Loretta Conn of Vega and Ronald Jay Yell of Fort Smith, Arkansas were married in the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church at Vega Saturday evening.

Monsignor W.F. Bosen conducted the ceremony.

The couple planned a honeymoon to Fort Smith where they will make their home.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quinton Conn of Rt. 1, Vega. Yell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gearl Moses of Fort Smith.

The bride wore a formal gown of angelmist peau de soie over taffeta designed with a high neckline, empire waist and bracelet length sleeves with a flounce banded in Alencon lace. The lace also trimmed the neckline, bodice front and skirt of the gown.

Satin bow and streamers marked the waistline and extended down the front of the dress. Her detachable chapel length train was trimmed with lace edging and appliques.

She wore a veil of illusion which fell from a pearl crown and carried a nosegay of yellow and white daisies.

Maid of honor was Miss Judy Ellen Conn, sister of the bride, and serving as best man was Montie Gene Kinsey, cousin of the bridegroom. Ushering guests were Ricky Lynn Kinsey and Kenneth Earl Fangman. Arlene Rohrbach played wedding music which included More and O Perfect Love.

Miss Conn's attendant wore a gown of floral print with long chiffon sleeves. A wide satin ribbon was at the waist and she carried white daisies.

Miss Debra Gilter invited guests to register at a reception following the ceremony. Miss Mary Brorman poured punch as Miss Lane Welch served cake.

The three tiered cake was decorated with yellow and white daisies with bride-and-groom figurine atop. It centered a table that was decorated in yellow and white daisies with green foliage.

For the wedding trip, Mrs. Yell wore a white dress with red, white and navy trimming. The couple will be at home after August 10.

The bride attended Vega High School where Yell graduated in May. He is employed at Van Buren Ice and Cold Storage at Fort Smith.

Attending the wedding from Hereford were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gilleland, Mr. and Mrs. Truett Wiseman, Mr. and Mrs. John Gilter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sunhine.

Guests also included friends and relatives from Amarillo, Bushland, Wildorado and Pomona, California.

Better Life For Hereford Folk Aim Of Organizations

BY SUE COLEMAN
Brand Staff Writer

This is one of a series of weekly stories concerning community organizations which depend to some degree upon the help of volunteers who give either work or financial support, or both.

THE CHARACTER OF LIFE in Hereford is the concern of two organizations here which make their contributions to the community through the work of volunteers.

Names of the two groups indicate their field of service —

Community Players and Community Concert Association.

Although their part in making this a good place to live is less tangible than that of welfare agencies, for instance, members feel that they have a large share in presenting a picture of Hereford as a progressive, well-rounded community.

AIMS OF THE TWO groups are not parallel, but both have the primary purpose of improving the cultural climate, working with schools and clubs concerned with the arts.

Membership in both is open to all residents; so is the service performed in both by volunteers.

The Concert Association's function is to bring to the city each year at least three programs by musicians of national reputation, to be heard by members enrolled in an annual one-week campaign.

Community Players, on the other hand, foster area talent as they offer live drama by local actors to adult or child audiences, giving residents an opportunity to direct, act and stage plays.

In a sense, membership in either group is a service to the community since it supports effort to bring good entertainment here. Also, those who take part in any phase of the Players' shows are giving an unpaid service as well as finding personal satisfaction.

TO GET THE SHOW on the boards, however, whether it is a concert by the world-famous Norman Luboff Choir or a comedy by a local cast, requires the services of many persons who names never appear on the program.

These are the volunteers who sell tickets or memberships, arrange for places to give the programs, work in boxoffice or as ushers, advertise the events and do numerous other chores entailed in the business of bringing performers to Hereford or staging plays here.

Its biggest task for volunteer workers faces the Concert Association now, with Sept. 11 set as the opening day of its membership campaign week. Mrs. Richard Ottesen has accepted leadership of the drive this year, and is selecting captains, each of whom will enlist a group of workers.

THIS GROUP WILL solicit renewed and new memberships during the week with a goal of 1100 members, the seating capacity of Hereford High School auditorium where the concerts

Community Concert Association is a national organization which aids the local group in enlisting members and in booking artists. Its policy in each local association is to first determine its budget through membership fees, then book the concerts it can afford, so there is never a money deficit.

The Hereford Association guarantees it members at least three concerts in a season, with the possibility of a fourth if the membership goal is reached. One "hold" attraction has been engaged for the coming year, the Young Americans, a singing group which has been popular in nationwide tours and on television. Others will be chosen at the end of the drive.

Hazen Woods is president of the association for a second year, and Mrs. Roy Hartman secretary. Officers and Directors are other volunteers who serve in this organization.

A SEASON OF THREE attractions is also planned by the Community Players, with plays and directors already chosen for a fall, winter and spring production. For the first time in the four-year history of the Players, plans are underway of offer season tickets.

The three dramas tentatively selected are Dial M for Murder, My Three Angels and Come Blow Your Horn, with Kay Claypool, Bessie Lee Wood and Meredith Wilcox as directors.

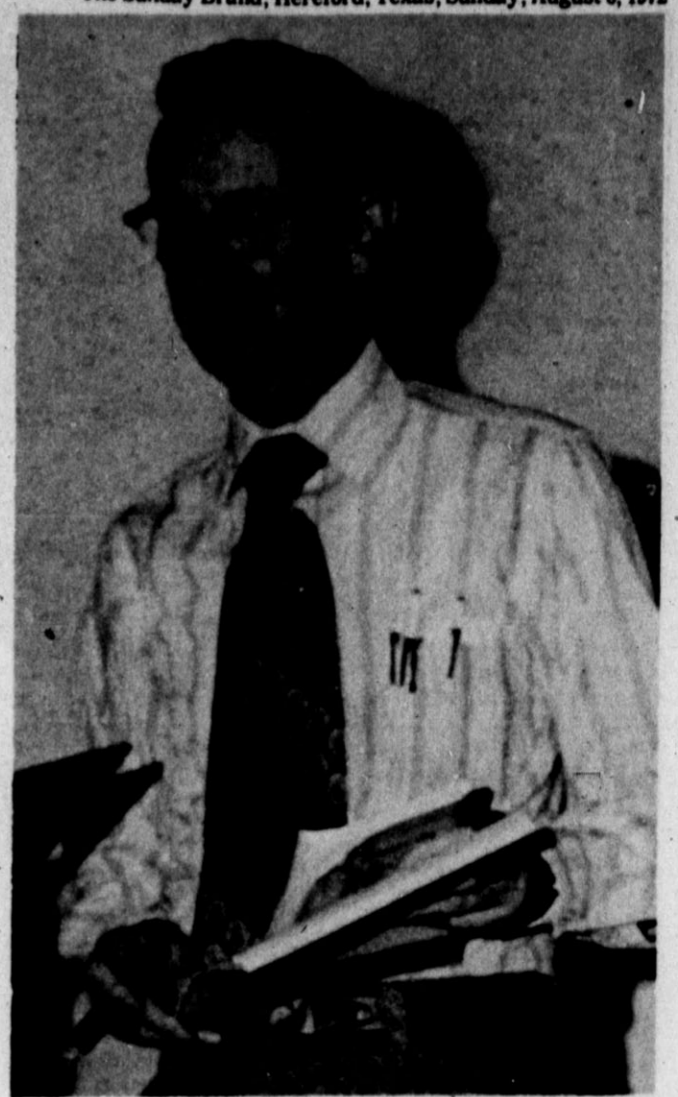

John Aikin is currently president of the Players, serving with a board of directors which is the policy-making body.

In addition to play roles, which are assigned after tryouts open to any interested persons, backstage staffs are filled with volunteers.

Officers invite area residents who would like to work with stage sets, lighting, costuming or makeup to become members and find their place in the scheduled productions.

Also the field is open to those interested in the business side of the theater, in promotion, poster and program design, ticket sales and other phases of the necessary work out front.

PLAYERS' PRESIDENT—John Aikin, pictured at work as director of a comedy presented last spring, by Hereford Community Players, is the new president for 1972-73. Participation in the local theater group is a hobby of the attorney, who has appeared as an actor in a previous year's show.

OFFICERS PLAN CCA DRIVE—Mrs. Roy Hartman, secretary of Hereford Community Concert Association, points to lists of members which she and Mrs. Wesley Gulley, vice president, study in preparation for the annual drive to renew memberships and enroll new members for a season of programs.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

"We can't live on a budget!" Or is it that you don't want to? How else can you find out where your money goes - or where it's taking you? A smart consumer not only spends his money wisely, but plans his spending as well.

Good money management considers the past, present, and future. Look at the past to see where your money goes as well as where it comes from. Keep an extra close check on spending for a month or more to determine your spending patterns.

Then figure how much money is coming in. Your spendable income basically is your pay check. If you have cash income from other sources, such as dividends, interest, or rent, be sure to include it.

Look at the present to check family needs and wants for which you can spend current income. First, list the things you need—your fixed expenses. This includes food, shelter (house payments, repairs, furniture, appliances, utilities), clothing (new, repairs), taxes, transportation (bus fare, auto payments and repairs, gas, oil), insurance, health (doctor and dentist, drugs, eye glasses), and savings (including emergencies).

Second, list the things you want—flexible expenses. These include education (books, tuition, newspapers, magazines), recreation (sports, movies, records, pets, vacations), gifts, personal grooming, contributions and dues, etc.

Third, add up these items to see if they fit the family's total expected income. If you're like most people starting a budget, you've probably overspent. You'll have to alter your plan. Remember your important needs—food, a place to live, and clothing. Can these costs be cut? What about other expenses? What could be left out or put off until later?

Make your plan, but keep it simple. If it's easy to use, you'll be more likely to stick to it. Then try your plan for a month or two. Perhaps you've overestimated spendings in some areas and underestimated in others. Try to leave a "cushion" of a few dollars.

Look to the future and adjust to change. Spending and savings plans seldom remain the same for long periods of time. Major changes may have to be made as financial problems are solved, as goals are reached or reevaluated, as you move from one stage to another in the family life cycle, if you have a change in income.

UTILITIES. Utilities subject to state or federal regulation may not increase their rates to consumers unless they can prove that the increases are fully justified and are in line with the government's anti-inflation guidelines.

DOCTORS AND DENTISTS. Under price controls, doctors and dentists may not increase their charges except to the extent that their own costs have increased. Even then, they may not put up their charges more than an average of 2.5 percent in one year.

RETAILERS AND WHOLESALERS. Retailers and wholesalers under price controls may not increase their customary percentage markup on goods. If their prices rise above their previous "Base" prices, then their profit margins are also controlled. If they increase their markups or profit margins illegally, they are subject to price rollbacks and fines.

HOSPITALS AND NURSING HOMES. Under price controls, hospitals and nursing homes may not increase their charges except to the extent that their own costs have increased. Even then, they may not put up their charges more than an average of six percent in one year.

Buffalo Lake Again Attracting Tourists

Buffalo Lake National Wildlife Refuge is making a come-back.

The massive lake, once the pride of the area then the eyecore only a short time afterwards, has been improved and people are beginning to sit up and take notice. Boaters, campers and picnickers are again making use of the lake and it was evidenced by last weekend's influx of out-doorsmen. Some 1,200 people went to the lake last Sunday, according to figures released by Paul Ferguson, refuge manager. That figure represented the largest single day's attendance in the past three years.

Some 400 other persons visited the lake on Saturday, making the weekend total 1,600.

The surge of weekenders came on the heels of a four-inch rain that raised the lake to 1,200 small figure compared to the 18,500 acre-feet that the large lake can hold.

Ferguson said there is no algae problem and the water is "doing real well."

Buffalo Lake, which is one of 300 national wildlife refuges, is under the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife of the U.S. Department of Interior.

State game wardens enforce state rules, while the management of the lake is under national jurisdiction, carried out by Ferguson and three other permanent staff members.

Fishing at the lake is expected to begin again next spring. Channel catfish were restocked in the lake last year and are now about nine inches, according to Ferguson.

No carp were found in the samplings by a Bureau fishery biologist and Ferguson said that backs up the thinking that the kill of carp was successful. Large flocks of birds also are making use of the refuge, Ferguson said. He said pheasants and doves are increasing, especially in the south end where there is less public use.

Conforming to recent national concern over ecology, the Bureau has new objectives centering around environmental protection and the public use of wildlife-oriented natural lands, said Ferguson. Because of this, non-wildlife activities, such as high-powered boat use and water-skiing will be phased out, while fishing, camping and picnicking will be emphasized.

The target date for these new policies is now set at 1978, which will probably get pushed back, said Ferguson.

Economic Stabilization

Questions and Answers

Q. Are finance charges exempt from price controls?
A. Yes. Finance charges are exempt from price controls. Included under exempt charges are the following: 1) interest, time price differential, and any amount payable under a point, discount, or other system of additional charges; 2) service or carrying charges; 3) loan fees, finder's fees, or similar charges; and 4) fees for an investigation or credit report. Charges for insurance, including credit life insurance, are not exempt.

Q. If I complain to the IRS about a rent increase, may my landlord evict me in retaliation?
A. No. Economic Stabilization rules forbid any retaliatory action by a landlord against a tenant who exercises his rights under the regulations. In addition, a landlord, in his rent increase notice, must tell you it is illegal for him to take retaliatory action and that he will not do so.
Q. Can my landlord increase my rent because the city made a special assessment upon him for the installation of sidewalks in my development?
A. Yes. Special assessments, such as those for the installation of sidewalks, sewer lines and water line, are now considered allowable cost items under the rent regulations. This means that landlords can pass on to tenants increased assessments, just as they can pass on increased state and local real estate taxes and state and local fees, levies and charges for all municipal services, except for gas and electricity.

A. On or after June 15, 1972, a manufacturer who sells a product for which the cost of leather constitutes more than 10 percent of the total allowable costs may not charge more for that product (1) than he could have had the cost of leather not increased since Jan. 1, 1971 or (2) since the last price increase on the product before Nov. 13, 1971, whichever is later. To this the manufacturer may add the dollar amount of the cost increase of the product attributable to leather since that last price increase.
 If the cost of the product which is attributable to leather decreases at any time after July 15, 1972, the manufacturer must reduce the price of the product accordingly.

Q. Will a retailer's base price list tell you if the firm's price increases are legal?
A. No. But the base price list will tell you whether or not a price has gone up since the freeze. If it has, the base price will tell you how much. If you come across an unusually large price increase, ask the store manager for an explanation. If his answer doesn't convince you that the increase is legitimate, call the Internal Revenue Service for information concerning the procedure to be followed in filing a complaint.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Drag Strips

To hot rodders, the opening of a new drag strip is a cause for jubilation. But to residents of the neighborhood, the occasion may be less joyful. Do they have legal grounds for complaint?

Unless banned by local statute, a drag strip (or other kind of race track) is a perfectly lawful activity. It may become unlawful, however, because of the way it is run. That is, it may amount to a "nuisance" — subject to abatement by court action.

The noise alone may be offensive enough to justify a stop order. Take this case:

Residents living near a suburban drag strip found the noise so unbearable that they had to keep their windows shut. Residents one mile away had to keep their television turned on high. Residents three miles away said the noise ("like a chain saw") could be heard plainly.

Impressed by these tales of woe, a court ordered the track closed down.

Even if the noise itself isn't too bad, other factors may tilt the scales against the track operators.

In one case, in issuing an injunction, the court stressed the smell of burning fuel. In another case, the court called attention to the glare of lights, powerful enough to keep the neighbors awake at night. Said the indignant judge:

"To dangle restful sleep before an exhausted mortal and never allow him to taste of its refreshing juices constitutes one of the most torturous experiences of mankind."

Still, if these assorted annoyances are kept within reasonable limits, the mere fact that the track brings some commotion into the neighborhood may be overlooked.

The main objections to a new midjet race track were 1) that traffic in the neighborhood had increased, and 2) that parking spaces had become harder to find. But this time the court denied an injunction, saying that traffic and parking were problems for the city, not for the operators of the track.

The judge said the right to use the public streets belongs to all members of the public—including racing fans.

Relatives

Visiting After

Long Absence

A visit from relatives, former Deaf Smith County residents who have not been here in more than 20 years, has been the occasion for a family gathering in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lawrence this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Haywood and daughter, Jean Baker, are here from Huntingdon, Tenn. They once lived in Westway community. Mrs. Haywood is Lawrence's sister.

Mrs. Virgie Britt of Fort Smith, Ark., their cousin, is also a visitor and the Lawrences' daughter and her family. Mr. and Mrs. Benny Cooper and children, Melissa and Chris, came up from Lubbock to see the relatives.

More than $3.6 billion was spent on boating and boating services in the United States in 1971.

An Open Letter To Our Readers

As Chairman of the Price Commission I am deeply concerned over some of the fears, suspicions and misconceptions I hear voiced as I travel throughout the nation.

Fears — that nothing can, in fact, be done to control the ruinous inflation which robs every American of part of his earnings every day.

Suspicious — that price controls are "anti-labor" or "anti-business" or "anti-farmer" or "anti-consumer" or even "anti-American."

Misconceptions — that control over an inflationary spiral which has been a part of our economy for over two decades can be established overnight, and that it can be accomplished wholly by the government.

I know of these concerns; perhaps you share some or all of them. And for that reason I would like you to understand that we on the Commission are determined to reach the goals set for us by the Economic Stabilization Act: to control prices, to bring them down, while at the same time ensuring the health and growth and future of our nation's economy.

I would like you to understand that we are determined to administer price controls as firmly as necessary and as equitably as possible. Not one set of controls for business, another for labor, another for consumers and yet another for farmers — but one set of controls aimed at helping all Americans realize a better, more rewarding life.

But most importantly, I want you to understand that the Price Commission alone cannot achieve overnight a long-range victory over inflation. The root causes of inflation are too deeply set and stubborn for that.

The governmental controls we are administering today are designed for the short run — to cure the symptoms of an ailing economy and to bring immediate relief to consumers. And may I say that the most recent economic yardsticks show that controls are beginning to do just that.

But government controls cannot and will not last forever, and when they are finally phased out, the final cure for our nation's economic ills will have to be engineered, fought for and won by private hands and private will.

The chance of our achieving a lasting economic cure depends on enough people being aware of what we're doing to ourselves, our nation, our life style, our national values; on feeling a sense of individual responsibility; on thinking positively about our ability to individually and collectively influence our destinies; and on doing something — even if it is a small action.

Each of us can help hold down prices, if we are willing to accept a challenge. It's a simple, straight-forward challenge; but like any medicine that really works, it's going to sting a bit to meet it. It begins with individual action: If it costs too much — walk away.

That's right. Walk away. Don't buy. Try another store. (Yes, that does take time.) Find a substitute product.

(Yes, that does mean breaking old buying habits.) Consume less. (Yes, that does mean making an occasional sacrifice.) Seek bargains, not convenience. (Yes, that does mean extra effort and initiative.) Demand quality. (Yes, that does mean raising your voice now and then.)

What it boils down to is this: We're all the victims of inflation because we're all part of the cause of inflation. We demand more, and more, and yet more. And we're willing to pay the price.

Isn't it time we stopped?

Because we have based the price control program on good faith and honesty, we will rely on every American to share the burden of this experience. It will not always be easy. But it is not impossible. As a man who always has had unqualified confidence in the United States and its citizens, I know that all of us working together can, and will, win this battle against inflation.

Sincerely,
 /s/ C. Jackson Grayson, Jr.
 Chairman, Price Commission

What's Happening Where

CANYON — A former Canyon School Board member criticized the current board Tuesday night for the school district's policy concerning long hair for boys.

Bill Davis, who served 11 years as a board member, blasted the school board for a policy which states that boy's hair length will not be below the shirt collar with sideburns not protruding below the ear lobe.

"Personally, I don't go along with the dress code," Davis told the board. "Why legislate what a child wears to school?"

Board president Dudley Moore was quick to retort. "Because it would be abused if we didn't," Moore said. "The courts are backing us on this."

DIMMITT — A bumper harvest of cucumbers is now in full swing and will continue until the second week of September — provided enough workers will still be on hand by then to finish picking the big crop.

"The yields are real good, and the weather has been just right so far," Elvon De Vaney, operations manager for Western Vegetables here, reported this week.

—Castro County News

TULIA — J.R. Allen Jr.,

president of Royal Park Fashions, Inc. of Dallas, and Tulia Industrial Foundation officials announced Tuesday the opening in Tulia of a sewing plant to be located in the old bowling alley on N. Dallas street.

According to Harvey Milner, vice president of the foundation, and Elwood Bates who assisted, the plant initially will employ from 100 to 150 women with plans to expand the number to 500 in the next few years.

—The Tulia Herald

OLTON — Robert E. Sivley, 34, of Poolville has been hired as Olton's new high school principal.

Sivley, who for the last two years has served the Poolville School District as superintendent, attended Paris Junior College, and received his degree from McMurry College. He coached at Whitewright and Bridgeport for six years and was principal at Chico High School before going to Poolville.

—The Olton Enterprise

PERRYTON — The tax suit between a group of Ochiltree County rural taxpayers and the Perryton Independent School District got underway in Dumas Tuesday morning after a day spent in selecting a jury.

—Lamb Co. LeaderNews

Attorneys for the rural taxpayers are attempting to show that rural land is assessed more than its market value, that the assessors failed to take into consideration the productivity of the land in arriving at its market value, and that other classes of property in the Perryton school district have escaped taxation.

Defense attorneys have asked each witness to set a valuation of his property based on market value, defined as "the price that a willing seller would offer to a willing buyer." The defense contends that the valuation placed on rural land are below true market value.

—The Perryton Herald
LITTLEFIELD — Stanley Doss, justice of peace of precinct 4, has filed a salary grievance with the Lamb County Salary Grievance Committee which was established here in January of this year.

The committee was established after authorization by the Texas Legislature. The committee is to review any elected official's salary who files a complaint after he has asked for a raise in salary and the raise has been denied.

Doss requested a salary raise in January which was not granted. His salary is $415 per month or $4,980 per year. Doss is asking for a salary of $6,600 annually plus an additional $600 for personal and auto expenses incurred in the performance of duties.

—Lamb Co. LeaderNews

FLOYDADA — Work is expected to begin immediately on the $3 million Mackenzie Dam and Reservoir after the Authority awarded a $2,636,390 contract Friday for initial construction to Gilvin-Terrell Inc. of Amarillo.

Awarding of the contract is a seven-year dream by area planners to build a water supply for cities of Tulia, Floydada, Lockney and Silverton. Tax rate for the water district for the coming year was set at 40 cents per $100 evaluation.

—Floydada Hesperian

BROWNFIELD — George Weiss, president of Brownfield Development Corp., observed this week that negotiations are still in progress with the garment industry which is considering Brownfield as a site for another one of its plants.

—The Brownfield News

State Happenings

BIG TEXAS — When the new Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport opens in 1973, it will be the largest facility of its kind in the world.

Covering more than 18,000 acres (it will be three times as large as New York's Kennedy Airport), it will be nine miles long and eight miles wide. And by 1980, it will employ between 40,000 and 50,000 people, making it the single largest industry in the area.

Each year, more than 15 million people will arrive and depart from it. An estimated 145,000 people will be in the facility at any given moment.

DISAPPEARING COAST — Texas is losing its coastline at the rate of about six inches a year.

Scientists say that the millions of tons of sulphur and barrels of oil taken from the area have caused the sinking and that it will continue.

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: KING DASHAD OF ATHALDAG NEVER HAD TO DRESS HIMSELF, BUT NOW, AS JUST PLAIN 'DASH', HE FINDS UNEXPECTED DIFFICULTIES.

HE JOINS VAL IN A MORNING SHOWER AND BY THE TIME HE UNDRESSES AND DRESSES AGAIN HE GETS HIS CLOTHES ON RIGHT, A TRIUMPH IN SELF-SUFFICIENCY.

BUT THE MEALS ARE A TRIFLE PRIMITIVE. EVEN THE TWO BOATMEN ADMIT THEIR LIMITATIONS. "I HAVE A FRIEND WHO IS AN EXCELLENT COOK. HE LIVES IN THE VILLAGE ACROSS THE RIVER," SUGGESTS THE ONE NAMED CID.

THEY LEAVE THEIR MOORING, AND DASH, EVER EAGER TO LEARN, DOES SO THE HARD WAY.

"THIS IS MY FRIEND JASEN. HE WILL MAKE MEALTIME A PLEASURE," SAYS CID. VAL LOOKS HIM OVER. HE HAS BUT ONE EYE, A SHRIVELED ARM AND BY HIS SCARS APPEARS A ONE-TIME WARRIOR. HE WONDERS WHAT MISFORTUNE HAS BROUGHT SUCH A MAN TO THIS LOWLY POSITION.

WHEN THE DAY'S WORK IS DONE AND IT IS YET TOO EARLY FOR SLEEP, THERE COMES THAT TWILIGHT HOUR WHEN STORIES ARE TOLD AND HERE DASH IS SUPREME. FOR YEARS HE HAS BEEN LULLED TO SLEEP BY HIS STORYTELLER AND HE HAS MANY TALES OF WONDER. JASEN LISTENS, A FIERCE GLEAM IN HIS EYE.

CORA AND I HAD A BIG FIGHT... SHE MADE ME PACK MY BAGS AND LEAVE

YOU'RE ALL I HAVE TO TURN TO

IT'S OKAY, BOSS... I'VE GOT AN IDEA

YOU HAVE TO WOO HER ALL OVER AGAIN... START BY PHONING HER AND MAKING A DATE

I NEVER WAS MUCH ON WOONG

CORA... THIS IS JULIUS... MAY I HAVE THE PLEASURE OF YOUR COMPANY FOR A DINNER AND DANCING DATE?

WELL... I GUESS SO

I INSIST WE HAVE THE FINEST STEAK AND CHAMPAGNE

THANK YOU FOR THE LOVELY CORSAGE

YOU'RE MORE FUN THAN A BARREL OF MONKEYS

FLATTERER

I HAD A DELIGHTFUL EVENING

SO DID I... IT WAS WONDERFUL

AH, BOY! IT SURE FEELS GOOD TO BE HOME AGAIN!

BOM

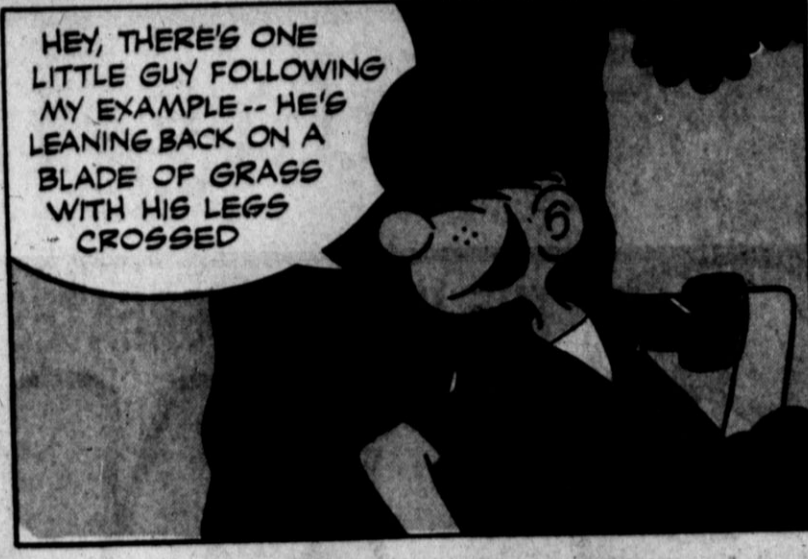

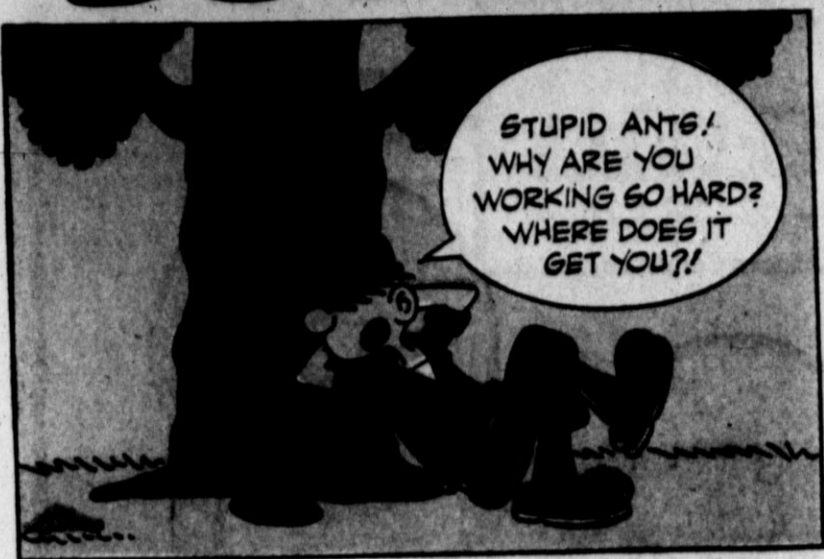

LISTEN, JUST BECAUSE WE HAD ONE LITTLE DATE TOGETHER DOESN'T MEAN YOU'RE FORGIVEN!

I'D RUN, BUT I WANT TO SAVE ALL MY ENERGY FOR WHEN I GET TO BUMSTEAD'S HOUSE

I WONDER HOW THE OLD GEEZER MADE OUT ON HIS DATE TONIGHT?

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
I have a gift idea for the little ones in your family. If you sew I am sure you have plenty of scraps. How about making a good-grooming kit?

Buy your fillers first. This would include such items as comb, brush (for little hands) toothbrush, toothpaste, small mirror, etc. Then take the longest item to be put in your kit (say-it's the comb) and bags or cleaning bags for the lining. Stitch the plastic and the material together, leaving an opening to turn. Then fold at the length of the longest item to be used in the kit, leaving the four inches for the flap.

Add a large button and loop for little hands to fasten "all by myself."

Another thought--use your accumulated cosmetic samples, (hand cream, perfume, etc.) as an added touch. Makes a nice travel kit when they are overnight guests of Grandma and Grandpa.

And the cost? It's strictly up to you. A delightful kit can be made for less than two dollars.

Mrs. N. J. G.

measure twice its length plus four inches for flap and seam. You can use your floral or fancy material for the girl's kits and your checks and stripes for the boy's. Use your "saved" plastic

GIVE ME A RING!

DEAR HELOISE:
I read in your column about cleaning up the clutter in your jewelry-box by using a plastic foam wig stand for large brooches, etc.

I would like to take this idea a bit further. I have taken my daughter's wig form, and, with a sharp knife, cut slits around the "hair line" and stored my big rings in these little slits.

I just stick the pins or brooches in the back part of the form and it leaves plenty of room for the rings.

Finding a place for the rings really helps that overcrowded jewelry box because they are so bulky and I have so many of them.

Mrs. R. H. P.

STAMP THIS OUT!

DEAR HELOISE:
As I was sitting here wrestling with a book of trading stamps, I recalled the last time I took my precious stamps to a redemption center. It was a perfect horror to the clerk and myself.

When the clerk opened the books to check the stamps, the pages tore, stamps fell out and not all the pages were full. I hadn't put my name and address on the back of the book, and, to top it all off, I didn't have enough money with me for the tax.

Well, right then and there, I resolved to do better next time.

I make sure all pages are filled properly--if the stamps don't stick like they should, I use tape to secure them.

And when I finish a book, I immediately write on the front cover, "Complete Book." Then I fill in the space for name, address, etc. And I always check the tax before going to the center.

This saves time, embarrassment and dirty looks from the other customers waiting their turn in line.

Mrs. C. W. Kelly

PINK RAIN?

DEAR HELOISE:
A neighbor has a rain gauge (the tall glass test tube variety) in his backyard. It's

This feature is written for you... the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share... write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper.

mounted on the fence.

Occasionally a drop of food coloring is added and in this way when it rains, the rain water in the gauge is colored and can be seen from some distance.

This makes it quite handy during a rainstorm to watch the gauge from the window instead of having to run outside to check each time.

Jane

SHEER MAGIC

DEAR HELOISE:
Because I have unsightly veins on my legs I thought I would never be able to wear those lovely and very fashionable stockings in black and navy blue because they come in such sheer nylon.

Then I discovered that I could, indeed, wear them if I put on my regular stockings underneath.

The effect is just great and I felt that I just had to pass on this idea to others who may have my problem.

Mrs. M. A.

TO CAP IT ALL...

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you ever try using a shower cap to keep paper plates neat and clean until the next time you need them?

The elastic lets you take the plates out very easily. Just fit the cap over the stack of plates with the elastic at the bottom of the stack.

Mine has a floral print on it which makes it all the prettier.

Angela Cerio

You have given me an idea, and I bet other campers will jump at it, too. This would be marvelous to use when camping.

It would keep the plates from blowing away, keep them dry and clean, and takes up no extra space. As you know, some paper plates come with a cover that resembles a shower cap but the less expensive ones that you buy in bulk do not.

Wish I could give you a big old bear hug for that one.

Hejose

GRANDMA'S TRUNK

DEAR HELOISE:
I have a large metal trunk that must be 50 years old. The patterned paper lining had cracked and turned brown--and I needed a trunk for my college-going daughter in the worst way.

So I purchased black enamel paint from an auto body shop and painted the outside of the trunk. Then I lined the insides with black and white patterned vinyl-coated wallpaper.

With a little ingenuity and a dab of paint, my daughter has a trunk to withstand the wear and tear of her college years.

Happy Traveler

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

My mother had a neat idea. She goes around the house with a shopping bag. She picks up our stuff that we leave lying around and won't give it back to us until we give her a dime for each item. I'll say that either we will "pick-up or go broke!"

Jo Altimus

...as an-innocent onlooker, I'd say your Mom has won this round. Right?
