

Deaf Smith County Has Large Court Case Load

BY GRANT MABRY
Staff Writer

Through a survey made recently by Andy Shuval, criminal district attorney, it was found that the local office is handling two-and-a-half times the number of cases compared to the state average.

In making the survey, Shuval, compared the local statistics to the statistics of the Randall County criminal prosecution office.

"Law enforcement officials agree that the secret to an effective law enforcement program and to the prevention of crime is the sureness and swiftness of punishment," Shuval said.

"In order to achieve sureness in punishment one must have good capable investigation. Over the past year since I have been elected District Attorney I have worked closely with the Sheriff's Department and the Police Department and I believe that our investigation of cases and preparation for trial has been immeasurable increased and is now on a high level of competency.

"How quickly a case gets to trial depends upon the workload of the prosecuting attorney. Therefore I have done a study of the workload in Deaf Smith County in comparison to the workload in the state as an average and with the workload in Randall County."

In making his comparison, Shuval used three divisions which were made of the three courts that he, as the Criminal District Attorney handles — county criminal action, district criminal action and civil court action.

County and district court findings were taken over a seven-month period from January 1, 1972 through July 31, 1972. He broke these two divisions into four classes — number filed, number disposed of, number appealed and number of probation revocations.

Civil actions were studied over a 19-month period from January 1, 1971 through July 31, 1972, broken into five classes — bond forfeitures, county court cases involving such cases as mental and driver's license suspensions, juveniles filed, district court cases involving reciprocal child support, and dependent and neglect cases, along with justice court criminal jury trials.

"Upon investigation I find that the average case load in the state is 161 cases a year," Shuval said.

The number of cases that Randall County would have disposed of in 1972 would be 312 cases, while the number of cases disposed of in Deaf Smith County in the year 1972 will be

396. "These figures are based upon the actual number of cases disposed in both counties from January 1 to July 31, 1972 and then these figures are projected for the remaining five months."

The difference between the cases handled by Randall and Deaf Smith County does not look that great until one considers that Randall has two to one prosecutors over Deaf Smith County.

"The reason that I picked Randall County is that they, like us, have a Criminal District Attorney," Shuval said.

"Randall County does have three times the population we do and they have two full time assistants or three times the prosecutors that we do."

"However, it should be noted that they handle three times the number of Justice Court cases that we do and also the district attorney's office handles all delinquent tax suits for the county which this office does not.

"Therefore in comparing the figures between Deaf Smith and Randall County, we should assume that Randall County only has one assistant or two prosecutors to handle the criminal prosecution in county and district court."

The survey showed that in a comparison of county criminal cases Deaf Smith County filed 217 while Randall filed 187. In a different series of cases, Deaf Smith disposed of 175 compared to 131 disposed of by Randall. Of the 175 cases worked by the Deaf Smith County District Attorney's office some 137 were found guilty, one was found not guilty and 37 cases were dismissed. At the same time the Randall office brought 100 guilty pleas, one not guilty and dismissed 30 cases.

"While you study these figures, keep in mind that a lesser amount of cases were tried in total by two prosecutors in Randall than were tried by myself, alone," Shuval said.

In district criminal studies it was found that 51 indictments were returned in Deaf Smith County, while Randall indicted 40. Cases disposed of during the survey were broken down as Deaf Smith County brought 42 guilty decisions compared to 27 guilty in Randall.

Figures of Randall County civil court actions were not available to be included in the survey.

"One warning should be given in regard to these statistics," Shuval said, "it should not be read that there is a crime wave in Deaf Smith County, because we have more cases than Randall County."

"The reason for this is that Randall's population is primarily the more well-to-do section of Amarillo. The crime rate is always higher in poorer sections of a community.

"In this respect it should be noted that we have one-third the population of Randall County and approximately one-third the justice of the peace case load. The reason for this is that people in the better sections of town get as many traffic tickets, but they do not get in trouble with major misdemeanors and felony cases as much."

Statistical data tells only a partial part of the duties that are executed by the criminal district attorney's office, while actual book work and case writing can not be measured by statistics. Hours spent in preparation for cases by the office can not be tabulated, while at the same time, hours lost due to moving of trials to different times can not be stated.

"Other duties of the district attorney such as county-civil cases which include driver's suspension and mental cases, district-civil cases which include reciprocal child support, dependent and neglect cases, bond forfeitures in both courts, investigation of cases which are ultimately not taken, juvenile cases which are prosecuted in the same manner as criminal cases but are of courts confidential, JP cases in which we have had over 50 that we have had to prepare for trial on this year, or the many other duties of the office, just can not be put into data form," Shuval explained.

"Another phase of the duties that cannot be counted in statistics are duties such as advising county officials, helping police and sheriff's departments in the investigation of cases, advising

Four Being Sought In Armed Robbery

Some six hours and $1,900 after his abduction, Billy Hightower of Bovina was sighted by the Hereford City Police Wednesday night while he was looking for help.

Hightower had been high-jacked and held by four persons at a local motel after he picked up three of the persons on Highway 60 just north of Hereford.

After he had been taken to the motel room a fourth person joined the trio, as they beat, kicked, cut and robbed

Hightower. The robbers took his clothing and bound him in bed sheets after taking $1,900. They then fled through the back window of the room.

Hightower managed to free his feet and open the door in an effort to secure help. A city patrolman, on routine patrol, noticed him and alerted the city police and county law enforcement departments.

After investigation by the local law men a general description was issued Thursday morning.

"Chief Brush and I spent almost all Thursday gathering information," Sheriff Travis McPherson said.

Friday morning warrants were issued for the four persons and an all-points-bulletin was issued for the arrest of Shirley Ann Logsdan, Evalia Sasa Reyes, Margie Ruiz and Pablo Marpquin, alias Calacha Marpquin.

Grazing Program Set For Tuesday

Grazing of alfalfa by Beef Cattle Producers has been tempting for many years, but due to bloat problem, most producers have refrained from using alfalfa for a grazing crop. Many remedies to prevent bloat have been tried with varying results. A new product mixed with molasses appears to offer great promise in solving this problem.

Research in Nevada has resulted in daily gains of 2.3 pounds per day with 5 animal units per acre, while grazing alfalfa. Demonstrations at Dalhart, Springlake, and the Bill Gentry Farm in Deaf Smith County are now testing this product. To date, no problems have been encountered and preliminary gains will be obtained in the next few days. The results of this demonstration and all details concerning the use of alfalfa as a grazing crop will be presented by Extension Service Specialists at the Community Center in Hereford, at 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, August 15.

Grid Season Promises To Be 'Exciting' One

BY GRANT MABRY
Staff Writer

Within a month, the Herd will have started its regular football season, which from all indications will produce some exciting games for local fans this year.

Defending the 1971 District title, the Herd will be a sure team being talked about in district field houses during the next few weeks of pre-season workouts.

"Our district is such that it would be impossible to specify any one team as a favorite to take the title," Head Coach

Larry Dippel said, "I don't think that there is any team in the district that can be ruled out as a contender. Even Snyder will field a good team, that some call Snyder's best."

Looking at the coming season, Dippel feels that the two teams that will be the toughest will be Pampa and Palo Duro, both who are listed by most expert as state — contenders.

"I think our strongest point has to be our offense," Dippel said, "an indication of this fact was the spring game score, which was 32-22.

"We returned six offensive starters and two defensive starter Winston Short and Berry McNutt, leaving nine defense openings. Even at this I am very optimistic about our possibilities of having another good defensive team."

Some eleven Whiteface lettermen will be returning this year along with some good prospects that are coming up from Junior Varsity and transferring from other high schools.

Lettermen include Short, who started for the Herd last year at middle linebacker and center, he will be moved from center to guard this year. Keith Kitchens will return as a starter from last year at quarterback.

Barry McNutt was a defensive starter last year in the Herd defensive secondary, while he also held down an offensive end position.

"Berry's a good secondary player with good quick feet which is a must to play back there," Dippel said.

Terry Champ who was a starter last year a wing back and defensive cornerback will return.

"Champ also handles the punts and kick-offs," Dippel said, "he did a fine job last year in all of these department and I think he could be one of the better athletes in the Panhandle."

Wallace Hill, a letterman, will be moved from the end position to offensive tackle, along with holding down a defensive end spot.

"Wallace is a player that is going to surprise some people," Dippel said, "I think Wallace has the potential to be an outstanding player for us this year."

Wesley High, who lead the Herd in rushing last year, will return to his regular starting position of tailback.

Danny Harris, another starting back will return sporting two varsity letters.

"Harris will be filling one of the vacant linebacker slots and we feel that he will be a good defensive performer for us," Dippel said.

Dale Hollingsworth will return this season as starting center. Playing beside Hollingsworth at guard will be returning starter Allen Hare.

"Hollingsworth and Hare, I believe are the finest two blockers that we've had since I've been in Hereford," Dippel said, "for their size they may be the best in the area pound for pound."

Walter Olson, returning letterman, will be moved from the defensive secondary to the line.

"We're expecting Walter to make a large contribution to our football team this year," Dippel said.

Alan Cornelius, a returning letterman, is expected to start at end for the Herd.

"Alan is expected to be a great receiver this year," Dippel said.

Teachers To Begin School Week Earlier

While students still have a week to go before classes begin, instructors in the Hereford school system will have to start Monday with in-service work.

The pre-school workshop will begin Monday and continues through Friday with various meetings and conferences scheduled. The in-service work will begin with orientation presentation from 8 to 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in the high school auditorium for all new teachers.

Coffee and refreshments will be served to all faculty in the high school cafeteria beginning at 9:30 and from 10:15 to noon there will be a general faculty meeting in the high school auditorium.

A two-hour session beginning at 1 p.m. will be conducted for all teachers and paraprofessional aides at their assigned buildings.

Also, for teachers, aides and other personnel who have not received tuberculosis tests, they will be given from noon to 2 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

On Tuesday, elementary teachers will be divided into various groups for consultation. Secondary teachers will also be sent to departmental meetings in various sections of the high school.

On Wednesday, departmental meetings will be held for the elementary school teachers while secondary teachers will continue with their departmental meetings.

Thursday will be set aside for registration from 8:30 a.m.

Grid Season Set

Wednesday will mark the official start for Herd football 1972 when players will be issued shoes and take their physicals. Athletic Director Larry Dippel said that all players should report to the field house at 5 p.m. Wednesday for shoes. Following this at 7 p.m. all players will report to the Hereford Clinic for physicals. Dippel stressed the fact that it was important that all boys interested in playing varsity ball be at the clinic for a physical. He said that new boys who have not reported to him should also be at the clinic.

Friday, Herd members will report to the field house once again to be timed in the mile run. The first day for organized practice will be August 21, the first day of school. Members will workout in shorts and shoes. No contact work in pads will be done until August 25, when pads will be issued and the hard work of a real football season will begin.

An intra-squad scrimmage will be played August 29 before the Herd members will join the local Boosters Club for an ice cream supper. September 1 will mark a scrimmage between the Herd and Tascosa High School here. That same night Hereford's Junior Varsity will travel to Farwell to scrimmage at 8 p.m.

Holly Sugar Corporation is a dollar richer today because a man's conscience bothered him.

An elderly gentleman walked into the office of Holly's Agricultural Research Station in Sheridan, Wyoming. It seems that while he worked for Holly as a sugar loader, he took small quantities of sugar home to his family in his lunch bucket.

He said that at that time sugar wasn't worth much so he gave a secretary $1 with the hope that the company would accept it for its loss.

The Sheridan factory hasn't produced sugar since 1948.

Economic Stabilization

Questions and Answers

Q. What kind of evidence would a tenant find helpful when bringing his own legal action against a landlord for evicting him in retaliation for protesting an allegedly illegal rent increase?

A. Useful evidence to support an allegation of retaliatory eviction includes the following:
 1) the tenant always paid rent on time, behaved properly, etc., and therefore, the landlord could have no reason for eviction other than retaliation;
 2) when the tenant asked the landlord the reason for the notice of rent increase, the landlord refused to answer or was evasive;
 3) if the landlord contends that the tenant was sometimes late in paying the rent or was sometimes noisy, the landlord had never complained about this to the tenant;

 4) other tenants were late in paying rent for longer periods and more frequently than the tenant in question; or
 5) the only points of consequence about which the tenant and landlord disagreed, or about which the tenant challenged the landlord, were the validity of the proposed illegal increase or the compliance of the rent increase notice with the form required by Economic Stabilization regulations.

Q. May a person's salary be increased beyond the Pay Board's 5.5 per cent standard to comply with the equal pay for equal work laws?
 A. Yes. Such pay adjustments are covered under the Fair Labor Standards Act and thus, are exempt under Economic Stabilization regulations.

Q. Can a person who has filed a complaint with the IRS about a price increase learn about the status of that complaint?
 A. Yes. In addition to general information on the Economic Stabilization Program, the following information is available to a person who has filed a complaint or has specific knowledge of a complaint:
 1) that a case is still under investigation;
 2) that no violation has been found as the result of an investigation and an explanation of the general reasons for the finding of "no violation"; and
 3) that a case has been investigated and no further action is contemplated.

Q. If an employee has increased duties and responsibilities which are not considered a promotion, may he receive a pay raise without regard to the 5.5 per cent wage and salary standard?
 A. No. All wage and salary increases are subject to the 5.5 per cent standard unless specifically exempted or excepted. Bona fide promotions have been exempted. However, increased duties and responsibilities which do not constitute an actual promotion are not exempt. Therefore, such increases are subject to the 5.5 per cent standard.

Q. I am leasing from the State residential property consisting of ten units. Is the rent I am charged subject to controls?

A. Rent adjustments by state or local governments are exempt from Phase II controls. However, a sublease agreement between you and a subsequent tenant would be controlled by the rent regulations.

Sam Self Attending School Of Banking

The 22nd annual Colorado School of Banking began on the University of Colorado campus in Boulder on Sunday (Aug. 6) and will continue through Friday.

Sam Self, vice president in the commercial loan department of the First National Bank here, is attending the school.

The school is co-sponsored by the Colorado Bankers Association and the University of Colorado in cooperation with the CU School of Business.

It is one of five regional banking schools in this country and it is open to employees of commercial banks or bank regulatory agencies. During the three-year program participants spend two weeks each summer in residence in Boulder.

Graduation requirements require satisfactory completion of interim assignments and successful completion of a final examination the third year.

This year, participants represent 19 states as well as federal banking agencies. Thirteen of the participants are women.

Until this year, enrollment for each class was limited to 100; it was increased to 150 this year and 145 are enrolled for the first-year program.

"A lot of time is taken in writing appellate briefs and conducting appeals to the court of criminal appeals, handling writs of habeas corpus from prisoners in the state pen, and representing the state in federal

With these facts and figures it is evident that the district attorney office is a full-functioning, tool for public service aimed toward keeping justice for the county as well as service to citizens who need it in different forms. A study such as the one made can only improve the effective functioning of all district attorney offices.

Home In Friona To Follow Trip For Newlyweds

The marriage of Miss Keri Jo Kirby of Dimmitt and Galen D. Jack of Friona, farmer in southwestern Deaf Smith County, was solemnized in First Baptist Church of Dimmitt Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy L. Kirby of Dimmitt are parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Jack of Route 2, Friona, the bridegroom's parents.

The Rev. Mike Jeter, assistant pastor of the church, conducted the double ring ceremony in a setting of pastel blossoms in tall baskets backed by paired spiral candelabra holding white tapers. White bows marked the bridal aisle.

Miss Jan Cleavinger of Springlake, cousin of the bride, was her maid of honor and Kent Jack attended his brother as best man.

Misses Pam Barker, Karen Irbeck and Janey Wylie were bridesmaids; John Frank Martin, Joe Paetzold and Steve Jones, all of Hereford, the groomsmen. Ushers were Greg Whitacker of Hereford, James Head of Friona, Anthony D. Mays and Mark Wohlgenuth.

Bobbi Kirby, the bride's sister, and Jeanette Seely lighted altar candles. Dr. Charles Vandiver sang solos, Whither Thou Goest as a prelude to the ceremony and Twelfth of Never at the close, with organ accompaniment by Miss Rhonda Tidwell who also played the marches.

The bride designed and made her gown of white dotted Swiss. The natural waistline and panels on the bodice front were marked with double ruffles and rows of eyelet lace run with orchid ribbon.

Similar ribbon-run lace headed a deep flounce at the bottom of the straight skirt, and edged the short, squared train. The high neckline and short puffed sleeves were also trimmed with lace. Her veil fell fingertip length from a chaplet of tiny pearled leaves.

The diamond pendant she wore was the bridegroom's gift, and her heirloom piece was her great-grandmother's wedding ring.

In the same nineteenth century style of the bride's dress, the frocks worn by her attendants were in gingham checks with white dotted Swiss aprons. The maid of honor wore orchid checks, the other attendants pink, yellow and blue respectively. Each carried a nosegay of flowers in pastel colors.

Candlelighters wore similar dresses in green and white, and Miss Sue Hawkins of Hart wore blue and white checks as she registered guests.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall with Misses Billie Sue Maddox, Paulette Wagner of Clovis and Terrie Swink of Amarillo at the punch table dressed in yellow and white checks.

A large pink candle centered the table, based in swirls of pink net with tiny nosegays placed at intervals. Orchid sweetpeas ornamented the tiered cake which was served with pink punch.

In the reception houseparty were Mmes. Orville Cleavinger, Dan Heard, Diane Perkins, V.C. Hopson, Darrell Kenmore, Harlin Dodd, Buford Newton, Rex Cowart, Elbert Smith, Elvis Barker, Vaden Kirby, Anthony Mays and E.R. Waggoner.

The bride's brother, Kent Kirby, gave the guests rice bags from a white wicker basket. For the wedding trip to Vaicita, Colo., Mrs. Jack changed to a Kelly green and white pantsuit. After Aug. 17 the couple will be at home in Friona.

The bride attended South Plains College at Levelland after graduation in 1971 from Dimmitt High School. A graduate of Hereford High, Jack has attended West Texas State University.

Barber-Coker Vows Read In Afternoon Ceremony

Miss Tracy Barber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Flake Barber of 610 Jackson, became the bride of Phil Coker, son of Mr. and Mrs. G.D. Coker, 228 Hickory, in a Saturday afternoon ceremony at First United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Norman Cobb of St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Lubbock conducted the service.

The church was decorated with floral arrangements in the bride's selected colors of yellow, pink and orchid. The couple and their attendants stood before an archway covered with ivy.

Miss Kelly Barber attended her sister as maid of honor with Miss Dorothy Johnston of Friona as the bridesmaid.

Best man was Reese Dawson and Jerry Coker, brother of the bridegroom, served as groomsmen. Ushering guests were Wade Coker, another brother, and Sam Curtsinger.

Bearing the rings was Nathan Coker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Coker.

Miss Alesia Ragsdale accompanied LaDonna Williams, Rick Lee and Ricky Locke as they sang The First Time Ever, One Hand One Heart and Wedding Song.

Miss Barber wore a wedding gown of white poly-puff with empire waistline and a gored skirt cut for circular fullness at the hem.

Sheer sleeves, tucked to fit at the wrist and to form shoulder puffs, and a shawl collar were made of voile. A rolled cord of the material was tied in a bow at the base of the V-shaped neckline.

Her three-tiered veil of illusion was attached to a crocheted cloche and she carried a white Bible under a bouquet of stephanotis, daisies and ivy tied with satin ribbons.

The bride wore an antique cameo necklace belonging to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. A.H. Gentry.

Her attendants wore yellow printed voile dresses in fashion similar to the bride's gown but with short puffed sleeves. They each carried a nosegay of daisies and wore a cameo necklace, a gift of the bride.

Miss Lori Hopson invited guests to register at a reception at the Fellowship Hall following the service.

Mrs. Jerry Coker and Lora Coker poured punch and coffee as Miss M'Lynn Hopson, Miss Kerry Hall and Mrs. Wade Coker served the bride and groom cakes. Mrs. Lon Booth of Dimmitt was also a member of the houseparty.

Served from the bride's table was a three-tiered lemon cake decorated with yellow, pink, and lavender daisies and topped with bride and groom figurine under an arch of daisies. A chocolate cake was served from the groom's table.

For a wedding trip to Dallas, Mrs. Coker wore a black pantsuit with a short jacket over

Dippel Named

Larry Dippel, head mentor of the Whitefaces, was chosen as the nominee for the coaching position of the 1973 High School Football All-Star team at the 40th Annual Coaching School held in Houston July 30 through August 3.

One man from each of the eight Texas regions was nominated for the two coaching positions. Dippel will represent Region 1 as its nomination for coach of the North All-Stars. A final vote in February at the regional meeting will determine which of the four north regional nominees will pace the All-Stars next summer at Dallas.

Attendance at this year's Texas High School Coaches Association Coaching School was 6,200 which was the largest attendance in the history of the school.

Local coaches who attended were Dippel, Fred Upshaw, Don Cumpton, Dempsey Alexander, Wendell Robinson, Jim Arthur, Aaron Bourland, Barry Arnwine, Ron Mayberry, Cuby Kitchens, Grady Allen, Terrel Bell, Mike Benway, Jeff Smart and James Self.

The school covered four areas of coaching including football, basketball, track and training.

"The school is a part of a professional organization and it is run accordingly," Dippel said. "We took part in lectures, business and the exchange of ideas with other Texas coaches."

Purchasers Are Protected

A recent decision of the United States Supreme Court will require changes in the way a creditor in Texas can use the law to repossess goods from a defaulting purchaser.

That opinion was voiced by John E. Krahrmer, associate professor of law and newly appointed assistant dean of the School of Law at Texas Tech University.

Under the law as it existed in most states, including Texas, prior to the Supreme Court decision, a creditor who had sold goods "on time" under an installment contract could obtain a court order allowing the sheriff to take such goods from a defaulting purchaser without a hearing. If the taking was wrongful, the purchaser was allowed to bring a suit at a later time for any damages he may have suffered, Krahrmer said.

In the case of Fuentes v. Shevin, however, the Supreme Court has held that the purchaser's right to due process of law are violated if the order is issued solely at the request of the creditor and the purchaser is not given an opportunity for a hearing to contest whether such an order is proper on the fact of the case before the goods are taken.

As the Court said in reaching its decision, "It has long been recognized that fairness can rarely be obtained by secret, one-sided determination of facts decisive of rights."

According to Krahrmer, the purpose of a hearing before an order is issued "is to insure that a person's property is not taken without giving him a chance to present his side of the case. For example, a person may have defaulted on grounds which would allow him to have legal recourse against the seller. A prior hearing would bring this to light and may well result in the court deciding that the creditor should not be allowed to use a court order as leverage to force the payment of a doubtful claim."

This new legal requirement will result in a delay between the time when a buyer defaults and the time when goods can legally be seized. "The delay will undoubtedly cost something," Krahrmer said, "and this will probably be reflected in increased credit costs or in increased costs for the goods themselves."

Krahrmer is now conducting a research project to determine what effects the Court's decision of June 14th will have on the business community.

This Court indicated that it might be possible to waive the right to a hearing in the installment payment contract if the waiver is made willingly, knowingly, and intelligently. Krahrmer is doubtful about a waiver statement being upheld if there is even a slightest question about whether the purchaser understood the effect of the statement.

"The first reaction of many creditors," he said, "will probably be to include a waiver clause in their installment contracts. My own opinion is that it is quite likely the courts will not uphold such waivers when purchasers are not made aware of them at the time the contract is signed."

"The trend of the law today is to require at least a minimum of fairness in sales bargaining and to look with suspicion on attempts by one party to bury waivers of important rights of the other party in the fine print of form contracts."

The principle of the Fuentes case may be expanded in the near future, Krahrmer said. "A case recently decided by a Federal District Court in California, Adams v. Egley, has extended the prior hearing rule to cases in which the creditor privately repossesses goods under the Uniform Commercial Code (which is also in effect in Texas) without using a court order directed to a sheriff. If upheld, the decision will certainly have a significant impact on consumer-creditor relations."

Cook medium pearl barley in clear chicken broth; season with salt, pepper and butter. Serve instead of rice or potatoes with meat, poultry or fish.

Skewer cubes of liver with squares of bacon and button mushrooms; brush with melted butter and broil.

Minced cooked leftover corned beef makes an excellent spread for crackers when the beef is mixed with mayonnaise and pickle relish.

Plans Made Regarding Future Water Sources

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles produced by Water, Inc. in an attempt to better educate the public in regard to water problems and suggested solutions.)

What ever became of the Texas Water Plan? The West Texas-Eastern New Mexico

Water Import Project? Both are alive and well, thank you.

To really understand and appreciate current developments in the field of water development several more questions need to be asked. What is the Texas Water Plan and the import project? How are they related?

As stated in the introduction to the Texas Water Plan, "Water planning is a means to an end and not an end in itself. Its objective is the development of water resources as effectively and economically as possible to meet man's needs while at the same time protecting him from flooding and periodic drought." With this concept in mind, a comprehensive plan for the full development of the state's water resources was developed. Unfortunately, in-state resources fell short of long-range projected needs, consequently, the Texas Water Plan includes provisions for importing water from outside state boundaries to "balance" the "water budget." In toto, the Texas Water Plan is a statutorily authorized blueprint to guide the state's water development to the end that adequate future water is available to all. It is made up of various individual projects, one of which is the proposed West Texas-Eastern New Mexico Import Project.

The import project, as currently envisioned, would take water from the Mississippi River south of New Orleans, and through a system of canals, transport the water across Louisiana, the northern part of Texas and would terminate on the High Plains of Texas and New Mexico. Throughout the length of the canal, the imported water would be put to beneficial use by municipalities, industries and agricultural interests. More appropriately, the proposal could well have been called the Louisiana, Eastern Texas, Northern Texas, Western Texas and Eastern New Mexico Import Project.

Much study must understandably go into such an import proposal. Fully funded by Congress, the study was divided into three distinct segments. The Mississippi River Commission was assigned the task to make a determination if surplus water is available from the Mississippi, and if so, when and where it is available. The Corps of Engineers was charged with making a reconnaissance study of canal routing and sizing from the point of take on the river to the point designated as "Twin Lakes" north of Dallas. The Bureau of Reclamation takes up the study at that point, and is looking at canal sizing and routes to the High Plains along with studies of a distribution system to farms on the High Plains.

The studies, which will have taken seven years when completed, will be handed over to Congress next year. Already, enough is known about the findings to indicate the project is not a pipedream. From an engineering standpoint it is feasible. The big question is "do the beneficiaries want the project enough to pursue its implementation?"

Death wave costs captain command

Cmdr. Pierre Josse, captain of the French destroyer Guerpette, was relieved of his command recently following an incident involving his ship which resulted in the death of a girl and injury to many other persons.

Josse was cited for traveling too fast (30 knots), too near shore, which created a 12-foot tidal wave which hurled bathers against rocks and damaged pleasure craft and beach fittings.

FAMILY HEALTH

THE IMPORTANCE OF VITAMIN C

You don't have to be a nut on health to know that vitamin C, ascorbic acid, is the anti-scurvy vitamin. This discovery was made by the British many years ago when limes were given to sailors who were at sea many months as a preventive measure against scurvy. Today we know that citrus fruits contain vitamin C which does provide protection against scurvy.

Daily requirements of vitamin C are in the range of 30 to 100 mg in healthy individuals, much larger doses are used therapeutically. As far as getting the vitamin from cooked food, you have to be careful. Since it is unstable in solution, it may be destroyed by prolonged cooking. However, fresh fruits and vegetables are good sources of vitamin C in the diet.

Doctors are quick to point out that for some people, such as adolescent girls and pregnant and nursing women, it's difficult to supply the vitamin C requirements even with proper diet. Consequently, these people may need additional vitamins.

Recent medical findings also indicate that many women who use oral contraceptives may develop a greater need for vitamin C than women who do not take birth control pills. Therefore, vitamin C supplementation appears to be in order when oral contraceptives are prescribed.

As a result of these findings, a special dietary supplement has been developed that not only contains 200 milligrams of vitamin C, but also all of the other vitamins and minerals women who use oral contraceptives are known to need each day. The new supplement is now available at drug counters everywhere.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

"But Mommy, why can't I have this toy? I have three pennies and a nickel to pay for it." Perhaps you've heard this naive plea from your youngster. Television, radio, and newspapers keep the young under constant pressure to buy, buy, buy. It is consequently essential that a child learns the wise use of money from his earliest years. Money is like any other tool; using it intelligently comes only from direct experience. Even before children reach school age, they have many occasions to use money for toys, gifts, snacks. It's a good idea to take your preschooler along on shopping trips and allow him to make a small purchase of his own. Let him give the money to the salesperson. It's also useful to explain the relative value of different coins. During the years of 6 through 12, a child should be guided to plan his spending and set short-term goals for savings. At this age, your child's attitudes toward money and how it should be spent are influenced greatly by his friends. He may also go through phases, such as penny-pinching one month and splurging the next. For teens, it seems everywhere they turn requires money. Social life and school life are well mixed-up with the dollar sign. Give your teen greater responsibility in planning for his personal needs and wants, as well as allowing him to participate in family financial discussions. You can help him understand the use of cash and credit by setting up a spending plan to meet daily needs and a savings plan to meet future goals. A weekly allowance is a good idea and it's never too early to start. Let your child be responsible for as many routine expenses as he can handle — lunches, school supplies, grooming aids, snacks. It's important for him to make mistakes early, so let him spend the money as he wishes. Jobs around the house, such as washing the dishes or taking out the garbage, should not be paid for. They're part of the family responsibility. The allowance is not a wage, but a device to teach your child how to manage his money. Money should be emotion-free and not influenced by other factors. It is a symbol of barter and not a sign of approval or punishment. Set a good example and re-examine your own money habits. Your children will be smart consumers tomorrow if you teach them proper money management today. When your child leaves home, he should know how to deal with dollars and sense. If he's ready or not depends largely on you.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Walking Through Glass

Leaving her dentist's office, Martha headed for the lobby of the building. But as she reached the exit, she mistook a glass panel for the door and pushed right through it.

Cut and bruised, Martha decided to seek damages from the owner of the building. "The door is glass and so is the panel," she complained in a court hearing. "It is all very confusing."

But the building owner saw no good reason for her confusion. He pointed out that the door had a metal frame, a hydraulic mechanism, and a handle—all plainly visible. Result: Martha's claim was turned down. As one judge put it:

"The injury was due to her own lack of care. She was the author of her own misfortune."

The growing use of glass in homes and buildings has led to numerous lawsuits in which someone inadvertently "walked through glass." In homes alone, such accidents happen about 40,000 times a year.

How alert does the law expect you to be in discerning danger? One key factor, as in the case above, is the presence of visible features that should put a reasonably careful person on guard.

Another factor is your familiarity with the premises. A woman shopper barged into the glass panel beside the door at her neighborhood supermarket. But a court rejected her damage claim largely on the ground that she had been using the same door for years without any difficulty.

However, in other circumstances, inattention may well be excused. Consider this case: An eight-year-old child, visiting at the home of some family friends, ran into a sliding glass door. But it seems that the lighting was poor, and that the door—kept spotlessly clean at all times—had no telltale fixtures to make it noticeable.

A court accordingly found no fault with the youthful victim. Ordering the home owner to pay damages, the court said he could easily have called attention to the hazard with a strategic strip of colored tape.

A MANY-SPLENDORED 'RING'

One of the towering landmarks of western culture, Richard Wagner's superb masterpiece "The Ring of the Nibelung" consists of four great operas: Das Rheingold, Die Walküre, Siegfried and Götterdämmerung.

"The Ring" contains some of the greatest thrills the world of music has to offer: the sweep of the great river Rhine in the tone painting of the prelude to Das Rheingold, the majesty of the gods' entry into Valhalla at the end, the vivid stormscape at the beginning of Die Walküre, and the passionate love duet that concludes its first act.

But this magnificent opus is much more than a string of beautiful scenes or set pieces. It is a single, unified work of art that, both musically and dramatically, sweeps the listener irresistibly along the whole course. This in itself is astonishing, for the four operas that comprise it take more than 15 hours to perform; the writing of them took some 25 years of Wagner's life; the staging of them is so complex and demanding that a special festival theater at Bayreuth had to be built to present them!

Committing such a work to stereo has been compared to reproducing the Sistine Chapel. Yet this "impossible" job was done with talent of a quality that had opera buffs all over the world open-mouthed with awe. The renowned Sir Georg Solti conducted the incomparable Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra. Birgit Nilsson sang Brünnhilde. Wolfgang Windgassen portrayed Siegfried and Hans Hotter sang the role of Wotan.

Two legendary stars, Kirsten Flagstad and Joan Sutherland, even consented to sing relatively minor roles just to be part of this historic enterprise!

The actual recording of the four "Ring" operas took seven years and has been recognized as one of the greatest accomplishments in the history of musical recording. If you would like further information or an opportunity to audition the first opera, Das Rheingold, in your own home for 10 days free of charge, write to TIME-LIFE RECORDS, 1503 Time & Life Building, New York, N. Y. 10020.

Johnson Grass Is Studied

Johnsongrass is one of the most widespread perennial weeds, since nearly every state in the U.S. has some infested areas.

This tall-growing grass spreads by two ways. Underground stems, or rhizomes, act like roots and spread quickly in cropland. Rhizomes become tangled on tillage equipment and hitch a ride to infest other fields. Another method of spread is by seed. Seed blows into cropland from johnsongrass in ditches and lake areas. Johnsongrass seed is hard to separate from hay or straw and is difficult to clear out of some crop seed. Extensive research in johnsongrass control has been conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Lubbock. Weed research at the Center was conducted by Dr. Dudley Smith. Various control methods and chemicals were studied in cotton fields with several cooperating growers.

Good weed control just does not happen, it must be carefully planned before the crop is planted. In cotton or soybeans, plan on double disk incorporation of the full recommended rate of Treflan or Planavin for your soil type. This controls seedling johnsongrass and prevents more new plants from establishing. Preliminary test work in cotton by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station shows that applying a double rate of Treflan for two years, with thorough incorporation gives good control and excellent suppression on old rhizomes. Good soil incorporation is essential.

Disking two or more times cuts up rhizomes better, mixes the chemical through the soil, and places treated soil next to more old root sections. If cotton is planted later, after soil warms up, yields are not reduced as a result of high application rates. Rhizome control with Treflan drastically reduces the johnsongrass population, particularly when followed by a postemergence herbicide program. High, double rates of Treflan for johnsongrass control are not labeled or recommended for use yet.

"But results have been good in research plots," says Dr. Smith.

Interested growers should only treat a very small acreage to observe how this practice works on their farm.

Timely cultivation in any crop is an essential part of a total control program for johnsongrass. The weed is forced to regrow with repeated tillage and hand hoeing of infested spots. More root reserves or carbohydrates are used up each time new shoots are produced. Total control will depend on having a chemical in the soil to suppress root growth, spraying shoots to kill foliage and roots, and soil tillage to make the plant exhaust its reserves. But watch ditches, fence rows, and lakes. Because once a field is cleaned up, these are sources for reinfestation.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Farmcast

Compiled From Sources
Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

Calf prices are above 100 per cent of parity, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes. Average price for calves received by Texas farmers as of July 15 was $45.30 per hundredweight. Effective parity is $44.20 per hundredweight.

Overall, the all farm products index shows prices received by Texas farmers and ranchers were at 356 per cent of the 1910-14 base. This is an increase of 20 per cent above a year ago.

Calf prices are the only commodity above effective parity price. Cotton, for example, was at 28.5 cents per pound while the effective parity is 55.16 cents per pound.

Hogs were at $27.20 in Texas on the average; effective parity is $30.60.

Beef cattle prices averaged $35.60; effective parity is $36.80. Grain sorghum averaged $2.01, while effective parity is $3.33.

Parity—that measuring stick used to compare farm income with non-farm income—is now at 75 per cent.

So even though farm prices have been increasing, total farm income is still about one-fourth below the rest of the economy.

Farm income now is estimated at $18 billion this year. But at full parity, farm income would be about $22 billion.

Sheep on feed in Texas shows a six per cent increase in the number on feed a month earlier. This, however, is four per cent below a year ago.

Drylot sheep feeders with a lot capacity of 2,000 head or more had 143,000 head of sheep and lambs on feed for slaughter as of August 1.

Current intentions to market the 143,000 head are: August, 53,000; September, 56,000; and October, 34,000. September and October intentions are incomplete at this time because additional lambs could still be placed on feed and marketed during the period.

Cancellation of DDT registration will take effect August 31, except for a few limited uses. The Pesticide Advisory Committee of Texas, which makes recommendations to the Texas Department of Agriculture relating to the use of pesticides, said cancellation should have little impact on agriculture production in the state.

DDT will continue to be registered for use on stored sweet potatoes, use by public health officials, in prescription drugs, and by the military in health quarantine programs.

Screwworm regulations relating to dipping or spraying of livestock have been changed. Livestock are no longer required to be dipped or sprayed before shipment from one screwworm-infested state to another. However, all livestock shipped from or through areas where screwworms are a recurring problem must still be inspected, any wounds treated, and the shipment certified free of screwworms.

Pink bollworm stalk destruction deadline is August 31 for these counties: Cameron, Willacy and certain portions of Starr and Hidalgo.

Early stalk destruction throughout the state is urged. Extensive insect damage has been reported this year in many parts of the state. Early stalk destruction can reduce insect infestation for the 1973 cotton crop.

Services Held For Henderson Infant

Funeral services for Traci LeeAnn Henderson, 13-month old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David Henderson of Huntsville, former residents of Hereford, were held Thursday in First Baptist Church of Huntsville. Graveside services were Saturday morning in Dumas Cemetery. The Rev. Joe Gilmore of Calvary Baptist Church officiated.

The infant died Wednesday morning in Baptist Memorial Hospital in Houston after a brief illness.

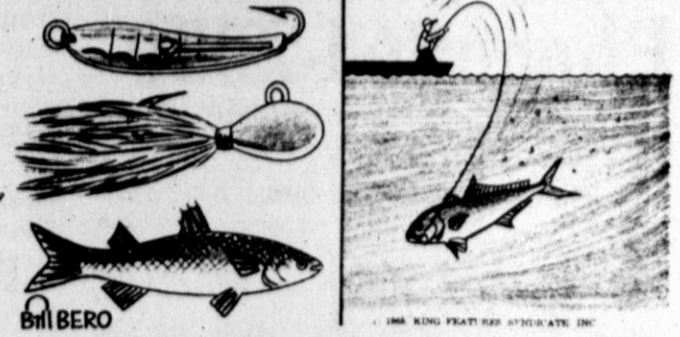

Survivors beside her parents include one brother, Travis Wayne of the home; Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Henderson and Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Hodges, grandparents all of Dumas.

Dr. Henderson taught at Hereford High School and his wife was secretary at Central Elementary.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
I feel it is about time for someone to report to the citizens of our fine community about our hospital and how wonderful I think it is.

A few days ago I was in Deaf Smith General Hospital for several days and the kindness and care the doctors and nurses gave me went "far beyond the call of duty."

There are so many more nice people who work there and their jobs are very important too and they do them very well.

I just had to tell good old Hereford how lucky we are to have such a wonderful place to go when we are ill.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Paul Harvey

HOME BUYER CLINIC
By James O. Hickman
Vice President
American Land Title Association

Mortgage Lender Needs Assurance

When you're in the market for a home, assurance of good title is as important to your mortgage lender as it is to you. Most lenders will require this assurance before advancing a substantial portion of your purchase price through a mortgage loan.

Your lender needs this assurance of good title for a secure real estate investment, just as you do. With this safeguard, the lender also will be in a better position to sell the mortgage if this becomes desirable.

Maximum assurance of good title is available to the lender through the protection of lender's title insurance. This form of title insurance helps keep mortgages an attractive investment for lenders and thus helps maintain the mortgage money supply for buyers.

While preparing to purchase a home, you'll want to remember that — regardless of who pays for it — lender's title insurance protects only the lender. Owner's title insurance is necessary to safeguard the buyer against land title hazards.

Insurance of title insurance is based on a search of separately located public records for matters affecting real estate ownership. Land title defects uncovered in this search are brought to the attention of lender and buyer so problems can be cleared up before the transaction is completed. Title insurance safeguards against land title hazards including those even the most thorough search will not reveal.

The protection of title insurance includes payment for the cost of a defense against an attack on a title as insured and payment of claims proved to be valid. Title insurance is available for a one-time charge at closing with no annual renewals.

Now Bill Toomey is at the other end of sports

By DON FREEMAN Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — For Bill Toomey, the gold medalist decathlon champion in the 1968 Olympics, speaking into the microphone as a sports commentator is the newest in a series of lifelong challenges. Ineligible to compete this year, he'll be one of the announcers wearing the ABC silks in covering the Olympics in Munich and Bill views his job with a champion's confidence and a neophyte's wariness. We were sitting around at lunch and Toomey, often colorful and full of humor, was being fairly serious.

"This is what the hardest part is for a sports commentator," said Toomey, who has been picking up experience in "Wide World of Sports" telecasts of track events. "A simple matter of humanizing what is obvious — there's nothing tougher than pulling that off. Most sports announcers confirm what's obvious."

"That's it exactly. And of course Bill Toomey's avowed goal is to avoid that most common of television aggravations. "It doesn't take much for anyone to figure out something else that isn't easy," Bill said. "How much do you say? How many words are really necessary. There's no formula. If I see something happening I just try to interpret. But I do have this one advantage — I know what the athlete is feeling out there. I've been there."

"Viewers at home, maybe they're not all that knowledgeable about track. Maybe they need their statistics conceptualized. How far does some guy jump? Well, I might say roughly it was like from his living room to the dining room. Track is a sport of numbers but I just don't think a guy at home wants to be bombarded with all those numbers that only mean something to your real track nut."

Toomey suggested that a color commentator's performance is often dependent on the announcer he's working with.

"If the other guy in the booth asks you dumb and rheanless questions, you're stuck. I've seen color guys who get tossed in with a real television smoothie and what happens is, the 'expert' gets defensive and rushes to what he thinks is his strength — that is, his knowledge of the sport — and he starts rattling off facts and statistics and his strength turns out to be his weakness."

"Bill," I inquired, "who's the best color commentator on television?"

"Personally, I'd rather listen to Don Meredith talk football than anybody," Toomey said. "I get bored with some guys just telling me that the fullback ran eight yards off tackle. I want to know who the fullback is, what's he all about as a human being?"

Toomey grinned. "Some medium, this television. When I was teaching school, if I started boring the students I could tell in an instant. I could see their eyes go glazed and their minds whiz off to another planet. But if you're talking to a TV camera you can be boring people to death at home and you wouldn't know it."

"Maybe," said Bill, "a good TV commentator is a good teacher."

"Why didn't you stay in teaching?"

"Oh, I just found a bigger classroom," he said, airily.

"No, actually, I wouldn't trade my five years of teaching for anything."

What he might just possibly trade is his decision to appear in some TV commercials extolling a nutritional supplement which he used while competing.

"By the rules, in theory, an amateur athlete can't use his name for financial gain and Toomey, was therefore declared ineligible by Avery Brundage, head of the Olympic committee, for the '72 games.

"It was all hypocritical," says Toomey, referring to the incident. Not supposed to capitalize on your name, huh? Right after the '68 games, I had offers of teaching jobs from four major universities and I wasn't all that brilliant a scholar. At least I didn't take money under the table. I sure don't feel like a professional."

As a decathlon man, Toomey was competing in the 10-event competition most people consider the most grueling in all of sport. And Bill Toomey, it was widely believed, might well be the world's greatest athlete.

Toomey had his troubles getting there. At age 4, he was playing with a piece of ceramic that shattered, severing the nerves in his right hand, paralyzing it; it is still shriveled. Several years before the '68 olympics, he caught infectious hepatitis which put him in the hospital for six months. After his recovery, he was beset with mononucleosis. Soof after that, he cracked up his knees in an automobile accident. Still he persevered and went to the Olympics at Mexico City and became a champion

Multi-Branded Agency

Self-Help Encouraged Through Program

BY SUE COLEMAN
Brand Staff Writer

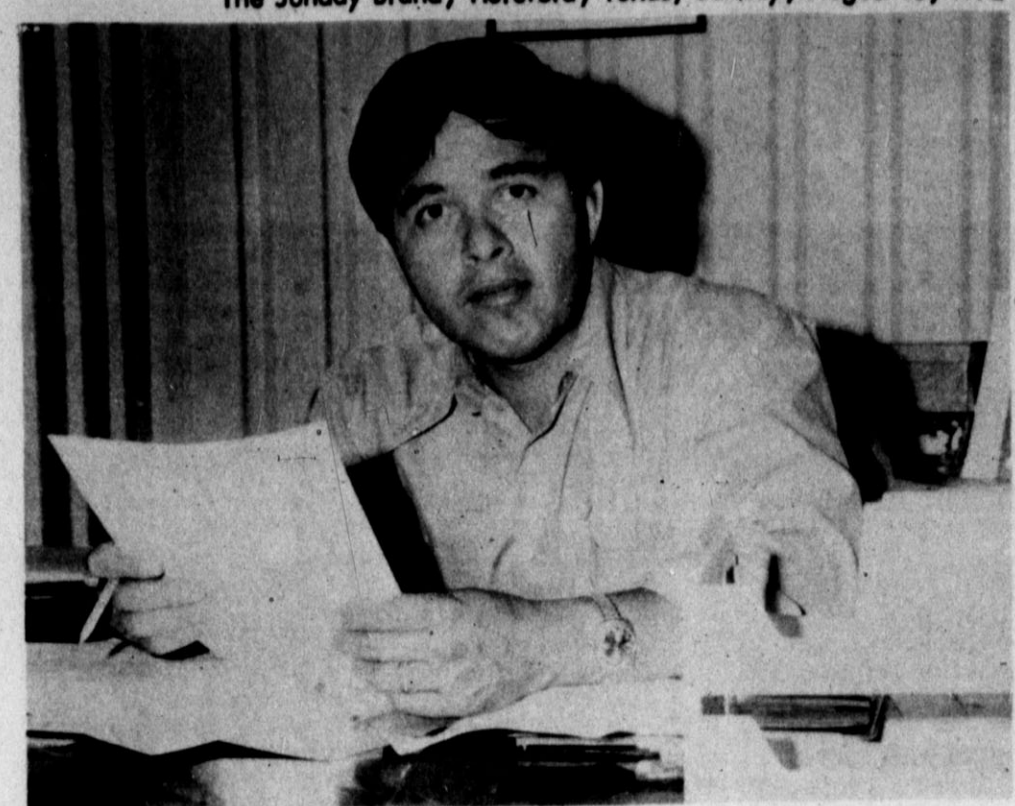

This is one of a series of stories concerning community service agencies which depend to some degree upon the help of volunteers who give either work or financial support, or both. SINCE THE COMMUNITY Action Agency in Deaf Smith County has the very broad aim of encouraging self-help for poor and disadvantaged residents, involving them in the business life and activities of the community, its program necessarily has many branches. Growing out of state and national programs, the CAA has a regional headquarters in Amarillo for Panhandle counties and each county has its own local committee and coordinator. A committee must include representatives of local government, of the business community and of residents classified as poor by federal standards. Coordinator for Deaf Smith County is Lorenzo Granado, whose office is at the former Migrant Ministries building at the Labor Camp. Much of the educational program which is an important phase of CAA is carried on in that building. CLASSES IN TYPING and other secretarial skills are being formed now to begin in September. Classes for adults who wish to pass high school equivalency tests are conducted through the school year. Classes in family nutrition and cookery have been held. Classes and individual teaching help adults pass tests for drivers' license; these have been especially helpful to older persons who have never been able to pass the tests because they lacked instruction, Granado says. Education concerning health, specifically prevention and detection of tuberculosis, has been given in classes also. Education is combined with recreation in a summer program for youth, which is being conducted five days a week with the leadership of students paid through a federal grant. Use of the old hospital building at the Labor Camp was given by the Catholic Church, and air conditioning was installed by Kiwanis Clubs here. ARTS AND CRAFTS classes are a part of this program. Trips to visit various industries and public agencies are included; swimming lessons have been given at the municipal pool. CAA Staff members have been the instructors for most of the adult classes, but volunteers have helped in many and led some. Church Women United of Hereford sponsored a series of classes in nutrition with Argen Draper, County Home Demonstration Agent, as teacher and several women of the community as volunteer assistants. More of such classes for homemakers would be helpful, Granado says, as women trained at the center could go into homes and spread the instruction to others. He suggested basics of sewing, cooking, child care, health and home nursing, with qualified teachers, as possible subjects. Volunteers could also help in teaching office skills or subjects for the high school equivalency tests, either in classes or by tutoring individuals. COORDINATION OF community resources is another aim of CAA, with referral of persons who need them to resources which are available. Granado lists 30 to 40 agencies, including government units, educational and welfare programs, with which his office works. The staff tries at all times to inform community residents of resources available to meet their needs and problems. For instance, the CAA does not serve as an employment agency, but works with the Texas Employment Commission and on occasion "spreads the word" for need of workers at the request of the TEC or at a direct request from an employer.

STAFF MEMBERS rather than volunteers confer with persons who seek help and are referred to the appropriate agency, because it is necessary to communicate clearly with those who speak no English, or very little. Volunteer help is given occasionally by residents of the community served by the CAA, perhaps as a chauffeur to take a neighbor to the clinic or TEC office, sometimes to assist staff members in sorting and hanging clothing given to the agency for distribution to persons who need it. Gifts of clothing and household articles are frequently sent to the office by residents and organizations here and from Amarillo, Granado said, following a custom established when the Migrant Ministry was operating. CAA personnel have continued to distribute these articles, but without charge to the recipients instead of for the small price formerly charged.

Playboy Philosophy

WASHINGTON — We have all heard of playboys who squander in a few years fortunes their fathers worded hard to amass. Could an entire society do that? Well, why not? We are a rich nation, but only because earlier generations worked to accumulate that wealth. If we stop working and continue spending, we'll inevitably come to the bottom of the barrel.

An election year invites such thoughts. Especially an election year in which major candidates are recklessly promising more for nearly everyone, at a time when many Americans are questioning who the are and what they do and what it means.

Such musings are a luxury available only to those who have managed to satisfy their more immediate needs. But that doesn't make them any less cause for concern.

The American tradition of aspiration — which is as great and basic a tradition as any in our culture — seems threatened by this current passion for searching re-examinations.

Ethologists, psychologists and anthropologists quarrel with one another over whether the need to strive is genetic, cultural or some mixture of the two. Without getting into that argument, it is undeniable that the need for achievement — for "success" — has gripped Western man profoundly, especially in this country.

Upward mobility was a basic goal of those who settled America. Once fundamental political and religious freedoms were attained — in fact, as they were being attained — material wealth became the most common measure of success.

Many of the Founding Fathers preached the virtues of thrift, industry, initiative and self-reliance. It was a mixture of hard-headed pragmatism and the Calvinist philosophy. The early settlers had no accumulated capital to live on. They had to work or starve.

Ever since, the goal of economic success has been essential to the spectacular national development of America.

Now where are we? Is it true that the idea of success — the idea of universal productive endeavor as a national virtue — the idea of work itself — is fast growing obsolete? Do we need new standards for measuring the good life?

Upward mobility — like freedom in general — is a two-edged sword. The chance to succeed is also the chance to fail. The more we venerate success, the harder we are driven to attain it, and the worse we feel if we don't. So the system can be hard on some individuals, particularly those whose abilities are not in keeping with their aspirations.

Critics indict the system because of this disadvantage. But what alternative is there with adequate incentives for the able, total production increases and the entire society benefits. Without adequate incentives, there would be less available for any purpose, including aid to the non-working. The redistribution of wealth, after all, presupposes the existence of wealth to redistribute.

Like the playboy, we could stop working and live for a while off of what other generations have left us. But then what?

Is the wealth of America in trust to us, to be passed along to our children? Or do we have the moral right to blow it all on one big, generation-long party? And if we do, who will empty the ashtrays, after the party's over?

Washington, D.C.
Congressional hearings are a necessary part of the legislative process and the hundreds of volumes printed every year to report these hearings are one of the best sources of information on what the Federal government is doing.

On a busy day, there may be as many as 50 full committee or subcommittee hearings going on at the same time, some open to the public and some closed. Weeks or months after these hearings are held, a printed record is published for the benefit of anybody who is interested.

Among those most interested are news correspondents. If a particular hearing was held in executive session, the first news of what was said may come much later when the printed volumes are issued. While not every word that was said may be reproduced, particularly when national security is involved, printed committee hearings are the best source of information that is available.

Even when hearings are open to the public there are so many of them going on simultaneously that no news organization can cover them all. The solution is to check the printed volumes when they become available, usually at the time when committee action on a bill has been concluded.

Members of Congress and their hired hands are also avid readers of printed hearings, as are government officials seeking to keep up with what is going on in their own department or agency as well as elsewhere in the Federal jungle.

Appropriations Hold the Key

Money bills must, by law, originate in the House, with the result that hearings by subcommittees of the House Appropriations Committee are of key importance. These hearings are held in secret, so the printed volumes are the usual source to find out who is going to get how much to do what.

The Appropriations Committees of the House and Senate are among the most important in Congress because they make the initial decisions on money. Congress can pass a law authorizing a particular program but it will never get started unless the appropriation bill OK's the money.

Occasionally the decisions of the Appropriations Committee are overruled on the floor of the House or Senate but generally the committees have their way. The power of the purse allows these committees to dictate to the departments and agencies.

The bureaucrats have to answer any and all questions or they don't get their money.

Therefore, hearings on appropriation bills are wide-ranging, and the printed volumes reporting these proceedings can be most informative. Sometimes it takes several fat books to report the proceedings of a single subcommittee. The procedure is repeated annually.

Facts Abound in Hearings

As an example of what printed hearings may contain, consider the 880-page volume reporting hearings this year by the House Appropriation Subcommittee on the Legislative Branch. The Subcommittee comprises nine House members, whose duty it is to decide what funds Congress and its various adjuncts may spend during the fiscal year 1973.

All kinds of facts can be dug out of this book, such as that in 1789 Representatives were paid $6 a day, while Senators received $7. Both are now rewarded to the tune of $42,500 per year. Getting away from money, one can learn that the cafeteria in the Longworth House Office Building has a cockroach problem.

Also, the Government Printing Office has 170 linotype machines, or more than four times as many as Washington's leading newspaper. A good many of those G.P.O. machines are used to print hearings, not to mention about 100 million words in the Congressional Record each year.

A Fly In The Soup

When Richard Nixon ran for the presidency in 1968, most of the nation's prominent mayors, who as a rule are Democrats, vigorously opposed him. As President, they feared, he would be unbearably partisan, and would feed Republican suburbs while starving the Democratic cities. After years of conditioning under the Great Society, the mayors had come to believe their fortunes would turn on the spending whims of the man in the White House.

As it turned out, it seems things weren't so bad. According to The National Journal, which surveyed 38 mayors at their recent New Orleans conference, "Even the most liberal and partisan of Democratic city officials say they have been pleasantly surprised by Mr. Nixon's urban policies...their attitude toward the President is one of benevolent neutrality." Nixon isn't the tightwad they'd feared, and they're delighted with his moves to give them more power.

The Nixon people undoubtedly find these quotes delicious, but if they read on they will find a fly in the soup. The mayors, it appears, doggedly persist in the belief that their financial problems can be solved by Washington, regardless of the financial problems Washington itself is having. This notion could devil whoever occupies the White House next year and beyond. More importantly, the reluctance of the mayors to face reality is likely to plague their cities.

Indeed, whoever is in the White House next year will find it impossible to expand urban aid, unless he is willing to ask tax increases expressly for that purpose or is willing to ignore his budget responsibilities. The mayors will have to get by on the current level of federal aid at best. But it should be pointed out that as the economy expands and unemployment recedes, state and local revenues will burgeon as their tax bases expand. This has already been happening.

Still, the mayors are huddling over plans to further assault the Treasury. Mr. Nixon's revenue-sharing scheme has not yet cleared Congress with its $5.3 billion annual pricetag and the mayors are talking about pushing the payout to $10 billion a year. And while the Nixon people are under the illusion that these no-strings revenue-sharing funds will slake the thirst of the cities for higher grants in the categorical programs—urban renewal, model cities, etc.—the mayors have their sights trained on larger appropriations across the board, and we have to expect they will stamp their feet if they are denied.

The President may have one reasonable opportunity, though, of keeping the mayors tolerably satisfied without busting the budget. It is the Nixon proposal, now 18 months old, to collapse some 110 federal programs into six "special revenue sharing" efforts. Under this approach, the mayors wouldn't get any more federal aid than at present, but they would clearly be able to make better use of the money they get.

THE BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm foresees a problem that's going to be hard to handle.

Dear editor:

There's one problem coming up in connection with airplane hijacking that the airlines and the government apparently are overlooking.

Here's a situation: the first hijacker several years ago, as I recall, demanded something like $50,000 and got it. Then a little later another demanded $100,000, and that too was produced.

Getting bolder, on account of inflation I guess, the next one demanded $250,000 and got it. Recognizing a trend where he saw one, the next hijacker demanded $500,000 and collected.

And just last week a group of hijackers asked for a cool million dollars, and that too was handed over.

Now here's the problem that's looming up: suppose the next somebody gets on board a plane loaded with say 300 passengers and demands ONE BILLION DOLLARS.

What is the airline going to do? It can't say, go ahead, blow up the plane. And yet how is it going to round up a billion dollars?

It might try borrowing it from Washington, but Washington is so far behind on its installment payments now it's in no shape to take on anything else. One more item added to its monthly payments and everything it's got might be repossessed.

The only solution I can figure out is for the airlines to post signs at airports in big letters saying: "Attention, Hijackers, Positively No Ransom Exceeding 1 Million Dollars Can Be Paid. Limit One To A Customer."

I don't think this will do any good, but then nothing else is working either.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Talk Of Texas

BY JACK MAGUIRE

HONORARY TEXAS — Hundreds of visiting dignitaries (and thousands of ordinary outlanders) have become citizens of Texas by gubernatorial fiat over the years and have their signed certificates to prove it. Certainly one who appreciated his honorary citizenship more than most were the late Lord Bossom, the great English architect.

Lord Bossom, who spent much time in Texas designing skyscrapers (among them, the Magnolia Building in Dallas), took his honorary Texas status seriously. He organized the Anglo-Texan Society in London and headed it for many years. And he was an instant friend and ready host for any Texan who visited London.

He liked Texans in numbers, too. When up to 100 University of Texas alumni would descend on England on one of their famed "Flying Longhorn" tours, Lord Bossom always had them as his guests for tea or cocktails in the House of Lords.

Once he said to his old friend, Winston Churchill: "You have had many honors in your distinguished lifetime, but I have received one that you have not. I am an honorary citizen of the State of Texas."

During his long career, Lord Bossom designed many great U.S. buildings. But Texas was the only American state that he looked upon as his second home.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT — Restaurants in San Antonio (which claims to be the Mexican food capital of the U.S.) serve 100,000 tacos each day.

TOURIST NOTE — The U.S. Interior Department has approved five pieces of Texas landscape for inclusion in the National Registry of Natural Landmarks.

One is Devil's Sinkhole, near Rocksprings, Edwards County. It is a deep, bell-shaped, collapsed limestone sink leading to an intricate system of caverns occupied by tens of thousands of bats.

Another is Enchanted Rock, a series of granite peaks extending for two miles over an area of 665 acres in Llano and Gillespie Counties. It is a famous Hill Country tourist attraction.

A third is Ezell Cave, a two-acre site in the city limits of San Marcos. Of the ten known varieties of aquatic cave fauna, six are found only in Ezell and its connecting underground waters.

Longhorn Cavern, southwest of Burnet, is another. Believed to be the largest of the Texas caverns (much of it has never been explored), it offers some of the most remarkable examples of domes, walls and ceilings sculptured by abrasion and solution to be found in any U.S. cave.

The last is Natural Bridge Cavern, near San Antonio. It is noted because a 60-foot natural stone bridge spans its sinkhole entrance.

ALL IN THE FAMILY — Two brothers, Jim and Mike Flournoy, are the high sheriffs of neighboring Texas counties.

Jim, a lawman for 50 years, has been the Fayette County sheriff since 1946. Brother Mike, 56, has been the Wharton County sheriff for 20 years. Neither brother had an opponent in the primary elections this year.

50 YEARS AGO

A car load of officers and Texas Rangers in Hereford Wednesday excited the curiosity of all who beheld them. The following story in the Amarillo News of Friday clears up the mystery: "Sheriffs officers charged down on a still hidden away in a cave about 15 miles from Adrian Wednesday as if they were making an attack on the mountain fastness. And right they did, for they had been informed that the place was guarded from the top by men with winchesters. The still was of enormous size, as indicated by the finding of about 400 gallons of mash."

35 YEARS AGO

The record of an advertisement in the Brand each week since he opened for business in Hereford in March 1901, is that of E.B. Black, local merchant who has also been in the same business location here for more than 36 years. . . Following government approval of J.E. Morgan & Son's bid of $89,636.75 on the construction of 80 miles of Rural Electrification lines in this territory, Morgan this week said that materials have already been ordered for the project and it was estimated that actual construction will start around August 15. . .

20 YEARS AGO

Complete planting on an estimated 4,000 to 4,500 acres of lettuce in the Hereford Irrigation area—the largest acreage in the history of this vicinity and about 1,000 acres more than the 1951 planting—should be accomplished by the end of this coming week, lettuce shippers told the Brand Saturday. The British will set up about 90,000 observation seats for Queen Elizabeth's coronation procession next June. Spectators who want to see the Queen pass by will be charged $10 to $15 to sit in them. . .

With Glad

By Mrs. Art Manjeot

Much has been said these days about the wasteful pattern of human life. Natural resources, we are told, are being devastated, and the population explosion rapidly is multiplying human need.

We recognize the truth of these statements, but it is hard to but it is hard to bring them down to our own personal level. Just what do we need to do about it all? We of the older age bracket, realize fully each day that life is very brief at the best. Your time and my time are very important. What needs to be done, needs to be done NOW!

Almost daily the mail brings communications relative to some of the sponsored programs of various organizations. Ecology, pollution, waste of natural resources, preservation of wildlife, littering, etc., etc.

What can we home gardeners, neighbors and friends do? Let us ask ourselves this question — HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE NEXT DOOR TO YOU??

If you lived next door to you, it could be that you wouldn't like you very much. That is, if you are at all like me! Yes, it is about time that every one who has a neighbor go right over on the other side of the fence and take a good look. Long look at himself — like a sort of analyst or something. Surprises probably await all of us.

Oh! wait a minute before you go, make a list of some of the things that annoy you most. This might start the wheels of our mind to turning, and some real deep thinking.

About Cluttered Alleys: (Yes we have many of them in Hereford) How do our alleys get so cluttered and messy? Suburbia means children, grown folk and pets both cats and dogs, are "garbage hoppers". Garbage-can hoppers are fussy eaters and what they don't eat, they scatter... from here to there, all over. If you don't believe this just watch the alleys and trash cans.

Question, Where are your pets? Do YOU have a garbage-can-hopper?

What about a clear, beautiful view. Look quickly — what do you see from your patio or upstairs window, yes it could really be a shocker. Did you ever see a sunset over your own compost heap? Do your garbage cans look like two drunken guys who flipped their lids? Is the mailbox wobbly? Does the lawn need a trimming? Is yesterday's newspaper carpeting the lawn or alley? How many bicycles are laying prone in the driveway? And maybe some old tires laying around? Can you see the "inards" of your garage? Look carefully you will probably find something which you thought was lost or given away.

Perhaps two old rusty rakes, without handles, a wheelbarrow without wheels, lawn mower, empty gas cans, rocks, weathered wood, sun dried branches, and dried weeds. Just maybe there is an old car parked in the alley or backyard, which really effects the view.

Do you by chance forget that you have the water running, and it has gotten out of control, and has run down the street, is wasting and making the neighbors driveway messy and sloppy, or the cross streets too. Remember Waste makes Wants be CONSERVATIVE.

Save water, save soil, take extra good care of the trees. Really hurts me to see some of our beautiful trees with bad color, and perhaps dead wood, which should be removed. The lawn may need some extra attention. Always keep in mind that our breathing depends on the every-needful source given us from trees, grass and other plants.

A good resolution for one and all would be to have another clean up, pick up, and perhaps paint-up, drive to produce cleanliness and attractiveness. Now would be a good time to start such a program so that our yards, alleys and entire premises will go into the winter in a good clean condition. Really hurts me, as I go about town, both the resident and business sections. I try to make a survey at least every week or ten-days. And really it is often difficult to get through the alleys. The other day I saw some extra lovely blossoms in an alley, and wanted a close up view. Well I turned from the street into the alley... and gee! I almost didn't make it... so much JUNK and clutter. The huge blossoms were lovely and the entire place was neat, clean and had well grown plants, shrubs and trees. After the new awards are placed for the Beauty Spots, I try to see them soon, and evaluate them. Sometimes I wonder well why didn't that place get the award? Maybe it is prettier than the other (especially the front appearance, well what about the alley? And when I drive through and look over the back I remember alleys are graded too. They really make a place look shabby and unkept.

Let us one and all LOOK and GO to work. Then you and I will be a better neighbor and then you would probably really like living next door to you!

August moon signs are good to remember, not now for planting but for other garden chores. From the 1st to the 4th is important. 'Tis time to cultivate and destroy weeds. August 5th through 25th Good planting time for root crops, especially where hardness is important. From the 3rd through the entire month is time to fertilize, plant late vegetables, irrigate carefully and thoroughly. August full moon comes in at 10:24 on the 24th.

This hot summer month is a good time to take root cuttings of evergreens, Abelias, barberries, privets, pyracanthas, and roses (more about rose rooting later). Set the cutting in a firmly packed mixture of a firmly packed mixture of peatmoss and sand or a bed made by spreading a 2-inch layer of topsoil, peatmoss, and sand, also packed firmly. Place cuttings in the soil mixture, after dipping the cut end into Rootone. Keep moist not wet. Geranium cutting can be treated the same way. Trim off lower leaves on all cuttings. Keep in a light but shady place. Cutting should be ready in three to four weeks. If sunshine shines on cuttings, it may be necessary to shade at least during the time this exists. Some gardeners cover their cuttings, if they are not making a large number of them, with plastic bags. This aids in creating a humidity which is necessary for good rooting.

If you are having trouble with fungus in the lawn, the following is used as an aid and also a preventive. Mix one part of Clorox solution to 24 parts of water. If there are portions of the lawn which are in the shade and moisture tends to be a constant thing, then I would advise this treatment. If however fungus has already set in there see about securing a cure. Contact local commercial dealers of fungicide. Several have called relative to problems with tomatoes. For wilt, the first thing to do is to pull and destroy the plant that is infected, then give attention to the remaining plants. A strong Tide Suds is recommended for plants which are inclined to have wilt. Then too often wilt is caused by planting of the same plant in same location for years. It is advisable to rotate. This is also true for flowers especially petunias. Remember (use garden note book) where plants were grown this year that became infected. Do not plant in same place another year.

Now is the time to lift, divide and transplant iris rizons. If old rizons are continually left, diseases can set in and destroy them. If such conditions exists in your garden, then lift the rizons which are infected, and destroy. If you are not familiar on how to correctly plant the iris, call 364-1343 for information.

Oh! yes Now is the time to make that list of spring flowering bulbs which you plan to purchase and plant in October. Pioneer Study Club is selling those GOOD Holland bulbs.

Home Wedding Conducted For Cecilia Packard

A wedding ceremony Friday evening in the home of the bride's parents joined Miss Cecilia Gay Packard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Packard who reside south of Hereford, and Terry LaRay Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ray Watson, 601 Baltimore.

Jack McCormack, minister of the Church of Christ at Littlefield, conducted the service. He was the minister who officiated at the service when the bride's parents were married.

The couple and their attendants stood before a picture window with bouquets of yellow snapdragons and blue majestic daisies on either side.

Cheri Packard, sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor and Ray Skelton served as best man.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Packard wore an A-line street length dress of white Chantilly lace over bridal taffeta. A waist length veil of illusion was attached to a satin rose headpiece which was worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Brian Baum, at her wedding. She carried a bouquet of orchids and carnations atop a white Bible belonging to an aunt, Mrs. Charles Packard. The bride's mother and sister had carried that Bible at their weddings.

Miss Cheri Packard wore a blue street length dress made of crepe and a blue lace picture hat. She carried a nosegay of blue and yellow carnations. Mrs. Packard chose for her daughter's wedding a dress in shades of pink with white accessories and wore a pink cymbidium orchid corsage; Mrs. Watson wore a red dress with red, white and blue accessories and a white orchid corsage.

A three-tiered wedding cake topped with three white wedding bells was served to guests at a reception following the service. Mrs. Ed Sanders registered herself as Mrs. Frank Daniel served the cake.

The cake centered the table which was decorated with a bouquet of yellow and blue snapdragons and daisies.

Mrs. Don Vinton poured punch and was assisted by Mrs. Charles Packard, Mrs. Jim Stallings and Mrs. Elmer Fryar.

After a honeymoon trip to Colorado and New Mexico, the couple will make their home at 600 Irving, Apt. 12.

For the wedding trip, Mrs. Watson wore a blue and white double knit pantsuit. She is a 1968 graduate of Hereford High School and attended South Plains Junior College. She is currently employed by Shurgro Liquid Feed.

The bridegroom who also attended Hereford schools, is employed by Case Power and Equipment.

Attending the wedding service from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Dwain Knabe of Amarillo, Miss Donna Shackelford of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Clark of Muleshoe.

GETS AWARD—U.S. Major Jimmie D. Auten, right, received the Meritorious Service Medal at Scott AFB, Ill. from Major General Ray M. Cole, deputy chief of staff for plans.

Zimmerman Joins Lone Star Agency

Don Zimmerman, a long-time supporter of Hereford and a former hardware store owner here, has joined Lone Star Agency as a realtor.

Zimmerman, 62, was owner of Hereford Hardware until he sold recently.

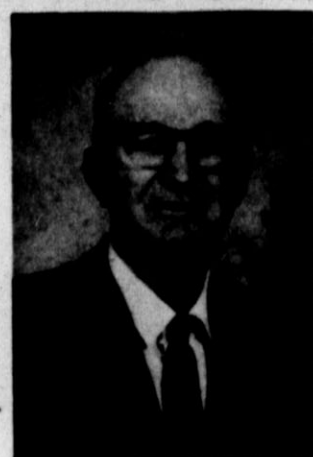

He came to Hereford in 1947 when he purchased that business and since that time has been very active in various phases of contributions to Hereford. He served two terms on the city commission, was president of the Hereford Lions Club in 1952, served three terms as director of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, was elected "Citizen of the Year" in 1959 and was elected Deaf Smith County Judge in 1960.

After one year as county judge, Zimmerman resigned to accept work with Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, but returned to the hardware business in 1962.

He retired from the Army Reserve in July of last year with a rank of Lt. Col.

As a member of the local Lions Club, he served as president of that organization in 1952, and just less than a week ago was inducted into the Texas Lions Hall of Fame.

Zimmerman and his wife, Ernestine, have three sons:

Don Zimmerman

Donald Lee, a lawyer and vice president and trust officer of Citizen's State Bank of Corpus Christi; Ron, a dentist in Hereford; and Carl, an optometrist in Espinola, N.M.

VISITING FROM MILAN, ITALY in the John Gorman home are Mr. and Mrs. Gino Fabris. Mrs. Fabris has not seen her sister, Mrs. Gorman, seated on the left, for 25 years.

Visitors From Italy

Quarter Century Apart Sisters Together After

ICE-COLD FOOD and drinks are an oddity of American life to Maria and Gino Fabris, visitors from Italy who are here to visit several weeks in the home of her sister, Mrs. John Gorman, and family.

Voicing enthusiastic approval of what they have seen here, they were asked what they do not like about America and could only think of "too much ice food". Their comment is a reversal of that often made by Americans traveling in Europe, who are disturbed by not finding water and other drinks served with plenty of ice for American tastes.

"My sister and brother-in-law believe we eat too much," Mrs. Gorman laughs. "They think all three meals need not be big meals, and that we eat too many sweets."

MR. AND MRS. FABRIS, whose home is in Milan, arrived in Hereford Aug. 1 and plan to remain in this country until Sept. 12. This is the first time in 25 years, since Mrs. Gorman came to the United States as a war bride, that the two sisters have seen each other.

"It's like a dream, their really being here, and I can hardly believe it yet," the Hereford woman says.

Although they are delighted with their reception by friendly West Texans and their views of the country, the Fabris have two regrets.

One is that their knowledge of English is limited to a few words so they can't talk directly to people they meet but must depend upon Mrs. Gorman to interpret.

THE OTHER IS THAT Texas is even larger than they expected, with distances so great they will not be able to visit all the cities they would like. But Fabris added that they do plan to go to Dallas before they leave the state.

Expanses of the Plains fascinate the couple who are accustomed to their crowded home city and the mountains prevalent in Italy. The miles of cultivated crops impress them, as do the numerous grain elevators and cattle feeding pens which cover acres.

The Gormans have taken them for drives over the area and to the Top of Texas rodeo at Pampa last weekend, which they found exciting for its sights of genuine cowboys.

Visiting the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce office and the state highway department's Tourist Information Center at Amarillo they were given a quantity of literature about Texas and the Panhandle, with pictures, which they will take home with them.

THEY HAVE BOUGHT souvenirs typical of this area, including a cowboy outfit they know will please their 10-year-old nephew in Italy. Fabris is a camera hobbyist and takes pictures wherever they go, so they will be well prepared to tell relatives and friends at home about their trip.

He is also photographing members of the Gorman family and their homes and the couple is pleased that they will be in Hereford for the wedding of the Gormans' son Dan and Kathleen Robinson next Friday, when he plans to take more candid shots.

More sightseeing in this area is on program for the visitors, including a visit to Palo Duro State Park and the production of the musical, Texas, in the canyon.

MOBLE HOMES of the Gormans and their son, John M. Gorman, have interested the Italian couple since that type of housing is virtually unknown where they live.

Since their home is in a city where most people live in apartments and not much greenery is to be seen except in parks, they like the individual houses and yards in Hereford, Mrs. Gorman says.

Gorman adds that the numerous large cars surprised them, because small cars are the rule in Italy as in other European countries where gasoline is quite expensive.

Freeways and supermarkets are becoming common in Italy

Auten Receives Medal

U.S. Air Force Major Jimmie D. Auten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim H. Auten, 700 N. Miles Ave., Hereford, has received the Meritorious Service Medal at Scott AFB, Ill.

Major Auten was cited for his meritorious service to the United States as programs analysis and management officer with Headquarters, Air Weather Service, Air Weather Service, AWS provides weather information for military flight operations.

The major has completed a tour of duty in Thailand.

A 1956 graduate of Hereford High School, he received his B.S. degree in mathematics in 1960 from Texas Technological University and was commissioned there through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

Major Auten's wife, Judy, is the daughter of Hubert L. Kiker, 4506 22nd St., Lubbock, Tex.

now, though, her relatives tell Mrs. Gorman, who says after their description of life in their homeland in the industrial boom that followed World War II, "I probably wouldn't know my own country if I went back there now!"

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

We have just completed another series of Red Cross swimming classes in which more than 200 young people of Hereford were trained to swim or to improve on skills which they already had.

Each summer a group of volunteer teachers give their time and talents to this most valuable training course without pay. Mrs. C.E. Rush and Mrs. David Brumley have directed this program and worked constantly in it for many years. Each year there are 13 to 18 others who help with the teaching — all without pay.

Most of these volunteers have homes of their own, and nearly all have children of their own to care for, but they spend two to four hours at the pool in all kinds of weather day after day to help our young citizens learn to swim.

At a time when people are demanding pay for every minute of time on the job and always crying for more pay, I think these Red Cross volunteers deserve a great big "THANK YOU" from every resident of Hereford; so as I now say "Thank you" to them, I am sure that I speak for many Hereford Citizens.

Most sincerely,
Audine B. Dettmann

Army dentist (Major) Don W. Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Morgan, Adrian, Tex., recently completed a 23-week army medical department officer career course at the U.S. Army medical field service school, Brooke Army Medical Center, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas.

Students are trained in the duties and responsibilities of Army Medical Service Officers. Instruction included organization and administration of medical units, command and staff procedures, hospital management and courses related to medical services.

Dr. Morgan entered the Army in 1966 and was last stationed in Germany. He holds the Air Medal, two awards of the Bronze Star Medal, the Army Commendation Medal and the Combat Medical Badge.

He received an A.A. Degree from Schreiner College, Kerrville, in 1960, a B.A. Degree from West Texas State University, Canyon, in 1962 and a D.D.S. Degree at Baylor College of Dentistry, Dallas, in 1966. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha and Xi Psi Phi Fraternities.

Warren-Haschke Vows Exchanged In Church

Miss Terry Warren and Sam Haschke were married Saturday afternoon in a wedding ceremony at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. The Rev. Boniface Riedmann officiated for the service.

Miss Warren is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Birkenfeld, 421 Ave. K; the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Haschke of Canyon.

The couple knelt at an altar decorated with arrangements of green, yellow, blue and orchid carnations.

Mrs. Arnie Wieck of Dalhart, sister of the bride, attended as matron of honor with bridesmaids Miss Elaine Birkenfeld, another sister of the bride and Misses Celine and Peg Haschke, sisters of the bridegroom.

Kenny Gerber served as best man and groomsmen were Tom Haschke, the bridegroom's brother, Jimmy Warren, bride's brother, and Arnie Wieck of Dalhart. Ushers were Roy Reinart, Dennis Hartmann, Stanley Handing and Gene Haschke.

Serving as acolytes were Dennis Artho, Mile Artho and Gregg Brockman.

More and Mother At Your Feet We're Kneeling were musical selections sung by Miss Susie Hickman, accompanied by Mrs. Allen Evers.

The bride wore a gown which was worn by her sister at her wedding of white organza designed with empire wastline and high collar. Sheer full sleeves were gathered at the wrist and caught by a wide cuff of lace.

Her veil of illusion was edged with the lace that trimmed the dress and she carried a bouquet of white carnations tied with white satin streamers.

Her attendants wore gowns of flocked organza in blue, orchid, yellow and green, styled with empire wastlines and decorated with matching ribbon. Picture hats worn by the attendants were also trimmed in ribbon. They carried nosegays of summer flowers that matched the color of their gowns.

A reception and dance at the Knights of Columbus Hall honored the couple as Miss Paulette Reinart registered guests.

Mrs. Galen Friemel and Miss Kathy Wheeler served the four-tiered wedding cake that was decorated in pastel rainbow colors. Miss Lori Artho and Mrs. Roy Reinart poured punch and coffee.

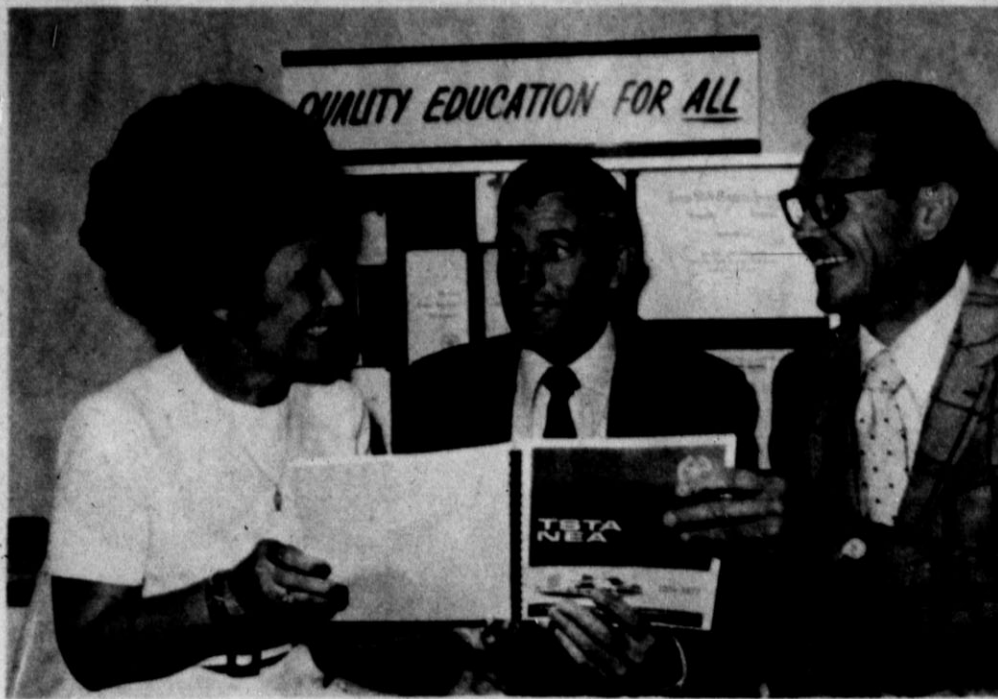

After a wedding trip to Colorado, the couple will be at home at Wildorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Haschke are both graduates of Hereford High School and he is currently engaged in farming.

SPACE-AGE FOOD

BRIGHTON, England (AP) — A research scientist from Yorkshire has suggested that on future missions space men may be able to eat furniture in their craft.

Dr. Tim de Dombal, addressing a caterers' association conference in Sussex, explained that bulkheads made of compressed meats may be the answer to the problem of feeding men on long space missions. "Instrument panels used for only part of the journey could be built from prepared vegetables," he said.

TEACHER LEADERS — Supt. Roy Hartman of the Hereford ISD (center) was in Austin recently for a leaders conference of the Texas State Teachers Association. With him are Mrs. Patsy Duncan of Canyon and Amarillo, state president of TSTA, and William C. Harter of Amarillo. Hartman is District XVI membership chairman for the National Education Association, and Harter is district membership chairman for TSTA. On the wall is TSTA's theme for 1972-73: "Quality Education for All."

63rd Annual A&M Open House Slated

The Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center north of Lubbock will host its 63rd Annual Field Day and Open House Tuesday, September 12 beginning at 1:00 p.m.

Detailed discussions will be presented at eight different locations in the field according to Dr. Jack Gipson, research scientist and Mr. Oliver Newton, agricultural meteorologist, co-chairmen of the field day.

Topics to be featured at the field stops include: drip irrigation, oilseed crops, cotton diseases, cotton varieties, narrow-row cotton, soil fertility, vegetable crops and sorghum breeding and insect control.

minutes, and visitors may disembark at the discussion site of their choice and then catch a subsequent shuttle when they are ready to move on. This is a new innovation and was added at the request of farmers who participated in the planning sessions of this year's event, according to Gipson and Newton.

Other topics to be featured which are of vital interest to the agricultural industry on the High Plains are weed control and weather. Special "classes" will be conducted at the headquarters area on these subjects.

Displays and exhibits will also be featured for public viewing. These will include plant diseases, soil testing, plant physiology, and a large machinery exhibit.

Everyone with an interest in agriculture in West Texas is encouraged to attend the field day and open house. According to the field chairmen.

The land of promise can be found in any democratic nation just prior to election time.

Prince Valiant

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: DASH ENTERTAINS HIS COMPANIONS WITH MANY WONDROUS TALES. AT LAST HE SAYS: "I HAVE TALKED TOO LONG. PERHAPS SOME OF YOU HAVE A STORY TO TELL."

JASEN SPEAKS UP. HIS FIERCE EYE GLEAMING: "I CAN TELL A TALE OF KINGS AND HEROES."

"I FOUGHT FOR MY KING IN MANY WARS. I BECAME A GREAT HERO AND HELPED BRING VICTORY TO THE CROWN. HONORS I RECEIVED AND WOUNDS TOO."

"MY SHARE OF THE PLUNDER WAS GREAT AND I ENTERTAINED MY FRIENDS LAVISHLY AND WAS THE FAVORITE OF THE DANCING GIRLS. LIFE TO ME WAS ONE JOYOUS ADVENTURE."

"BUT IN THE LAST GREAT VICTORY I GAVE EVERY OUNCE OF MY STRENGTH FOR MY KING. AS I LAY WOUNDED, THE OFFICERS DIVIDED MY SHARE OF THE SPOILS AMONG THEMSELVES. NO LONGER ABLE TO BEAR ARMS I WAS DISCHARGED FROM THE ARMY, CRIPPLED, PENNILESS AND ONE HUNDRED MILES FROM HOME."

"A VAGABOND, I BEGGED FOR CRUSTS UNTIL I LEARNED THE ART OF COOKING. A CURSE ON THE DESPOT KING DASHAD! AND HE SPAT."

"I KEEP THIS KNIFE EVER SHARP, AND IF THE GODS ARE GOOD TO ME IT MAY COME TO REST AT LAST IN THE KING'S BREAST!"

DASH IS WITHIN ARM'S LENGTH OF JASEN, BUT HIS FACE SHOWS NO FEAR, RATHER HE SEEMS TO BE IN DEEP THOUGHT.

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
My hobby is crewel embroidery. I have found it fascinating because I like to work with my hands and colors.

I think the color yarns are delightful to work with, but I always have trouble keeping them from getting tangled in my work bag.

To simplify this tangled mess, I cut my yarns a workable length and sort them as to colors and numbers.

I cut a piece of masking tape (or freezer tape) about 16-inches-long and lay my yarns, according to number and color needed, on half the tape. I then fold the balance of the tape over the yarns to keep them intact. My yarns dangling from the tape remind me of a multi-colored hula skirt!

This method keeps my colors separate and in order, and it is so easy to pull a thread out of the tape holder when I need it.

This idea is a good one and can be used by beginners or by more experienced crewel workers.

Mrs. R. J. Burden

Hear ye, hear ye! All you gals who are clever with embroidering projects, this is a wonderful way to keep those many, many colored yarns separated.

Heloise

SEEMS SO EASY

DEAR HELOISE:
A must in every sewing kit is something that you can use to rip seams, etc.

If you don't own a special ripping gadget and use a razor blade, you have to be careful when you pick it up or you are apt to cut yourself.

Here is what I have concocted to protect my hands.

Out of thin cardboard and tape I made an envelope just the size of the razor blade. Then I cut a small "V" at the top of the opening, so it is easy to remove the blade.

I put a piece of tape on one side of the double-edged blade (that is the kind my husband uses) so there is no danger of cutting myself. Also, the blade is easier to pick up in its cardboard envelope.

It works perfectly for me, and I thought other sewers would be interested in knowing about this hint.

Mrs. Edith Taylor

We think this is a superb idea. In fact, we followed your directions and have the blade in our sewing kit in its own little envelope. Thanks a million.

Heloise

SHARP RECIPE

DEAR HELOISE:
My family likes their

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

breaded foods coated just a trifle heavier than the plain egg and milk dip and crumbs. But if I dip fish, meat, chicken, etc., twice in the liquid and crumbs, they complain, saying that it has too much coating.

So I have found that if I grate a small amount of cheese in the liquid, it gives a trifle more body to the dip.

The breaded foods have a slight cheese flavor and are delicious.

Judy

ONE MORE CEILING

DEAR HELOISE:
I have heard so many people say, "I just don't have room for it unless I hang it from the ceiling." And that is exactly what I have done.

My old-fashioned roomy kitchen, which does not have enough concealed storage space, looks like a surrealist painting with my gay, colorful baskets hanging from the ceiling.

My work table was so cluttered with odds and ends and small appliances that I was nearly frantic. I piled many of those necessary but infrequently used utensils and small appliances in my baskets.

My husband then installed a pulley system, and it's terrific! Now when I need a certain utensil or one of my small appliances I just pull down the basket, and there it is.

June Clark

A-ticket-a-tasket, a red and yellow basket... really, this is a case where you don't hide your light under a bushel. Bring it out in the open, even if you have to hang it from the ceiling. Wonderful!

Heloise

WHERE'VE YOU BIN?

DEAR HELOISE:
Want to know an easy way to mark your garbage can so that it can be easily identified when you pick it up from the trash bin?

Save the tape that is used on bananas and mark your cans with that. It costs nothing, and believe you me it sticks.

A. Egleston

ON THE SHELF

DEAR HELOISE:
For a crowded medicine cabinet, try using one of those plastic containers that fruit comes in.

It will hold all the small pill bottles, half-used tubes of ointment, etc., and, believe me, it sure does save space.

Faithful Reader

COLOR IT RED!

DEAR HELOISE:
Did you know that those empty metal containers that adhesive bandages come in are perfect for storing crayons?

I found the containers come in all different sizes and so do crayons. So just match the size of the container.

There will be no more torn boxes or lost crayons to clutter up the house.

Mrs. C. Magee

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:
As you know, there is a definite movement of our people to "return to the country." I have a hint for city-bred gals who would make like they were pioneers.

Please, gals, if you must chop wood for your fireplace, learn to swing the axe straight down, not in an arc, or the next time you look there may be a leg missing!

Lucy F. Longo

SWEET DREAMS!

DEAR HELOISE:
My mom and I have an idea for a clever, inexpensive sleepshirt.

We took one of my Dad's discarded white permanent press shirts and embroidered the names of the boys I have dated during high school. (I am only a freshman and we are going to keep adding names until college, I hope!)

Makes a good conversation piece at slumber parties.

Mindy

IT'S IN THE BAG!

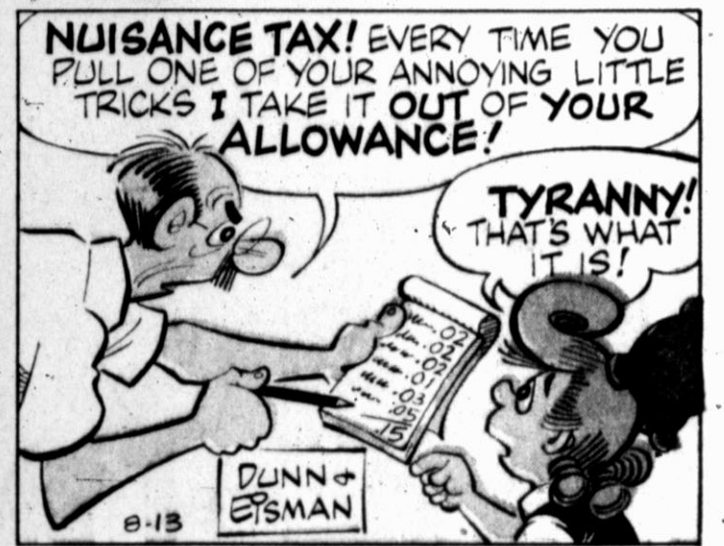

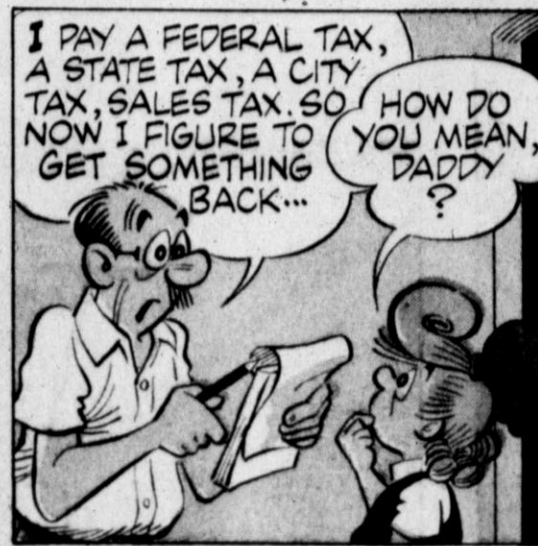

DEAR HELOISE:
I have found so many uses for those self-closing plastic sandwich bags.

For instance they are just the right size for storing a leftover half of tomato or an onion, and also make the perfect storage container for sandwich meat that has been removed from its own wrapping.
