

In Season Opener

Whitefaces Shut Out Harvesters, 20-0

BY MARSHALL DAY
NEWS EDITOR
A green and unheard Whiteface defense shut out the state's No. 10 ranked team Friday night while a steady offense put three touchdowns on the board in a 20-0 upset of the Pampa Harvesters.

Playing before a capacity crowd of more than 5,000 in the season opener for both teams, the Hereford defense, with only two returners from last year's squad, turned back the Pampa attack time and time again. There was little comparison between Friday's defensive unit and the one that scrimmaged the Tascosa Rebels a week earlier.

The defense held the Harvesters to 14 first downs, 225 yards rushing and 28 passing while it also recovered one fumble. Although Pampa did put almost more than 250 yards rushing on the books, the drives were limited to short ones.

The only real threat came in the second quarter with just seconds to play. Pampa had moved to the Hereford 5-yard line but Barry McNutt pounced on a Harvester fumble to end the threat.

Offensively, it was Wesley High who led the ground attack with 122 yards in 17 carries with a touchdown. He was followed closely by quarterback Keith Kitchens who rambled 93 steps in eight carries and one touchdown. The other TD came on a 17-yard scoring strike from Kitchens to Terry Champ. Hereford got on the board first with its initial offensive drive of the second quarter. After getting a Pampa punt at the Pampa 32, Danny Harris picked up six, High got three more and Kitchens got a first down at the 15 on a sweep. A late hitting penalty against Pampa on Kitchens' gainer put the ball at the 7-yard line and High took the next two hand-offs and on the second attempt made it in for the score.

Terry Poindexter added the Pat and the score was 7-0 for Hereford with almost 10 minutes remaining in the second stanza.

With about two minutes left in the second quarter, the Whitefaces got the ball again, this time following an 18-yard punt that rolled dead at the Pampa 34. Kitchens, who went 6-for-23 passing, hit Champ with a 13-yard gainer then followed up with the 17-yard TD strike with 1:18 to go in the half.

An illegal motion penalty against Hereford cost the Whitefaces the extra point when Poindexter, after getting his first attempt, missed from five yards farther back.

The third quarter was played mostly in the middle of the field when neither team could mount a threat. It was, however, near the end of the period when the Whitefaces began their third scoring drive.

After getting the ball on their own 20 via a punt, the Whitefaces began the final scoring drive of the game. Kitchens hit Champ with a 13-yarder on the first play and picked up a first down.

An incomplete pass ended that period but on a second and 10 situation, High busted loose for 13 more yards. After a series of exchanging penalties, Hereford was at the Pampa 46. Kitchens, rolling to his left, found daylight and raced the 46 yards for the final score. Poindexter hit on the conversion to make the score read 20-0.

Hereford threatened late in the final stanza when it moved to the Pampa 28, but when three passes failed, the Whitefaces were willing to let the ball go over on downs.

Public Gets Chance Tuesday To Discuss Highway Proposal

Scheduled to explore the pros and cons of the proposed interstate highway which may be routed through Hereford, the public meeting slated for Tuesday evening at Dickie's Restaurant will give Hereford citizens an opportunity to voice their opinions on the issue. The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m., and is sponsored by the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

"I just hope that we have a real good attendance at the meeting," said Jim Lindsey, Chamber executive president. "The Chamber has remained neutral on this, but we would like to give everyone a voice on the matter." Lindsey said representatives from Roswell and Canyon may be present at the meeting.

Hereford opinions, according to Lindsey, are varied on the new highway, which would connect I-10 and I-40, along with proposed I-27 which will run from Lubbock to Amarillo, and would link Amarillo, Hereford, Friona, Clovis, Portales, Roswell, Alamogordo and Las Cruces.

"It's pros and cons," he said. "Some are for it, some are against it." He added that a large attendance at Tuesday's meeting would help give those interested a more definite idea of what the general consensus of opinion would be.

Celebration Draws Near

Christine Castaneda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Castaneda, will be crowned at 9 p.m. Friday at the Bull Barn during the annual Mexican Independence Coronation Ball — the highlight of the annual Mexican Independence Day celebration.

Miss Castaneda won the queen's honor over three other candidates and thus will reign as the new queen, replacing Dee Dee Trivino who won last year. The other three queen candidates this year were Princess Lucy Sturgeon, Dutchess Alicia Mendoza and Marquesa May Lou Madrigal.

The queen was determined by the amount of money raised in voting boxes throughout the city over the past few months. Each penny contributed to each candidate's jar counted as one vote.

The money raised from the voting, plus that that will come from the concession stands during the festival, will be used to meet the needs of St. Joseph's Mission.

The crowning of the queen is the highlight of the two-day celebration commemorating the independence of Mexico. Other activities include a parade, dances and various programs.

The parade, scheduled to start at 4 p.m. Saturday at the Community Center, will travel down Main Street to Second Street where it will turn east and proceed to the Bull Barn for the closing program and dance.

Riding the main float will be the queen with her attendants. The float carrying the Virgin of Guadalupe, with the parts of Our Lady being played by Romona Torres and the First Indian who saw the Virgin by Abel Rodriguez, will lead the parade.

On another float will be the portrayal of Miguel Hidalgo Costilla, a priest from Dolores, Guanajuata, who was a member of the Liberal group and the leader of the Mexican Revolution in 1810.

The children, in authentic dress, will dance the Mexican Hat Dance at 7 p.m. Friday and also will perform on the floats in the parade on Saturday. The children are performing under the direction of Bertha Maldonado.

The public is invited to the festivities which include, in addition to the crowning of the queen and the parade, programs and dances both evenings at the Bull Barn.

County Gets Its Share Of Rain Through Week

Some interesting statistics have been sent our way on the "Texas" show which completed its 1972 run in Palo Duro Park. Total attendance was 82,248 for the season. One-fourth of the visitors were from out of state; 64 per cent of them traveled more than 100 miles each way to see the show, and 34 per cent had seen the show at least once before. It's a great tourist attraction for the area.

If you haven't heard Arnold Paulson speak about agriculture's role in world economics, you need to make it a point to attend the meeting at the Bull Barn Friday night. NORM (National Organization for Raw Materials) is sponsoring a return appearance of Paulson and the general public is invited. There is no admission charge.

Paulson is an agricultural research analyst from Granite Falls, Minn., and executive director of NORM. The organization, which seeks a fair share for agriculture in world economy, had its start in Hereford and is headed, as president, by Harlan Vander Zee of Hereford State Bank.

County crops, for the most part, got a big boost last week when gentle, pelting rains roamed across the area and deposited up to two inches of moisture in some places. In the dryland area of the county, where any type of moisture is welcome, reports showed up to a quarter of an inch last Wednesday night and about a tenth of an inch the night before.

As for as the crop picture stands, County Agent Juston McBride said Friday that all the moisture would be of some benefit.

"Primarily, there will be a benefit to area crops," he said. "Even though the rains have been scattered, they've been very beneficial."

"The rains will enable dryland farmers to plant their wheat and they may cause some wheat to get up without irrigation. It will be of great benefit to maturing grain sorghum and corn crops and we may even see a good grass crop come, in before we have a freeze."

Gene King at Community Center south of Hereford, said that area received about half an inch of moisture Wednesday night and "everything is looking real good."

On the J.E. McCabe farm east of Dawn, some .47 of an inch of moisture fell over the two-day period while Dean Strimling, near Milo Center, reported two inches during the past week with 1.5 inches coming Wednesday night.

Some 13 miles northeast of Hereford on the H.L. Hershey farm, there was nine-tenths of an inch of rain Wednesday night with only a trace on Thursday.

The sheriff's office, which has an in-town gauge, showed .75 of an inch for Wednesday and Thursday although some sections of the city received more than that.

Heavy rains from farther up the draw during the two-day period resulted in a flood warning being issued for this county on Wednesday night. However, the flood stages failed to develop and the warning was cancelled.

Building Permits Pass $2 Million

August building permits totaled almost $300,000, tripling a July total of about $100,000 and at the same time pushing the yearly total over the $2 million mark.

Some 19 permits were issued during August that totaled $299,350. This, added to the previous seven months, takes the total for the year to $2,279,575.

The August figure shows an upswing over the July total, which was the lowest for the year. A run down of the other months show January, $109,350; February, $512,950; March, $252,100; April, $336,640; May, $374,255; June, $308,200.

A majority of the permits were issued either for the erection of or alteration and addition to residences.

The largest permits, at $34,000 and $32,500, were issued for residential buildings.

STEPPING OUT — Wesley High, who gained over 100 yards in Friday's game against Pampa, is shown on one of his long gainers. High scored one touchdown in the 20-0 shut-out of the state's No. 10 ranked Harvesters.

Tuesday's meeting has been organized with an aim of getting a more definite idea of where Hereford residents stand on the issue.

Tuesday's meeting will be the third such meeting in the past month. The first was held early in August to present the idea to the towns along the proposed route, and was followed by the Aug. 25 meeting.

Lindsey said that the proposal is not yet in a stage where it would be close to becoming a reality.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

Pro stars play for keeps in summer

LOS ANGELES — A Sidney Wicks stuff, a deft, no-look pass by Charley Scott, a long, graceful swish by Flynn Robinson, Mack Calvin outquicking a defender.

All are regular sights during a professional basketball season, but to view the array of talent during the year costs a pretty penny and usually requires a pair of binoculars to get a good look at the action.

However, thanks to Dick Marquis and a group of close-knit associates, Los Angeles basketball fans are able to see many of the sport's genuine superstars at a minimal fee, and from a distance that would be considered plush seating during the year.

Marquis, a 32-year-old former Golden Gloves champion, began the Professional Summer League at Cal State Los Angeles in 1971, and, though hampered in the beginning by expected growing pains, has put together a program that has become one of the top drawing cards in the Los Angeles area.

The league, featuring two games a night, runs on Tuesday, Friday and Sunday evenings from the early part of June through the end of August.

Six teams are currently enrolled in the league, with Marquis hoping to expand the program to eight clubs next year. Marquis, formerly head coach of the Kitchen Fresh Chippers in AAU competition, certainly hasn't put the league together by himself, and went to the top to get it going in a proper manner.

Jerry Chambers, the Los Angeles Lakers' top draft pick in 1966 and a member of several pro teams since that time, is the league's vice-president, and works with current Laker standout Keith Erickson in the recruitment of many of the star-players.

Bill Sharman, the NBA's Coach of the Year this season after guiding the Lakers to the world title, is one of the league's directors and can be seen many times sitting in a corner of the stands, jotting down notes, making comments to his lovely wife about certain players, and like any fan, shaking his head in admiration at a Curtis Rowe blocked shot.

The league is run by NBA rules, with the exception of the three-point basket and the 30-second clock, both ABA standards. There is a public address announcer, and a complete statistical crew which keeps up to date stats in all departments.

The list of big name stars playing in the league goes on and on: Laker headliner Jim McMillian has played on several occasions, as has John Brisker and Spencer Haywood, two of the finest forwards, along with Wicks, in pro ball today.

Jimmy Chones, the former Marquette All-American who is foregoing his senior year to play with the New York Nets in the ABA next season, is a member of Direction Sports, a team that also features Bob Rule (Philadelphia 76ers), George Trapp (Atlanta Hawks), and Scott, the 6-6 all-everything guard who led the ABA in scoring at Virginia before jumping over to Phoenix of the rival NBA late in the year.

Chambers heads an Athletes for a Better America team that includes the Lakers' John Q. Trapp, Flynn Robinson and McMillian.

Mack Calvin leads the University of Southern California Alumni team that is currently in first place and a unit that became the league's initial regular season titlist last year — UCLA won the championship in round robin tournament play.

The action is legitimate pro-style — run and gun, shoot-'em-up play where a spectacular shot easily outnumbers defensive gems.

Crowds that were somewhat lacking a year ago have tripled this summer, with as many as 2,500 showing up for the USC-UCLA battles, both, by the way, won by the Trojans.

Why should a veteran like Charley Scott, among the games' greatest guards, play in such a league? "I do it strictly for conditioning and timing," the former North Carolina All-American says. "Individuality is the main difference between the summer league and regular season play.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"I Just Killed My..."

Poking fun at the law, a cartoon shows a man rushing into the police station to confess a murder. But the desk sergeant frantically waves him into silence. "You don't have to say a word," the sergeant explains, "until you have seen a lawyer." This may be good cartooning. But it is bad law. The sergeant has no obligation to interrupt a confession that is offered voluntarily. Furthermore, the man's statement may be used against him in court.

Consider an actual case: A motorcycle officer sired a motorist to the curb and asked to see his driver's license and registration slip. After a moment's hesitation, the man shrugged. "Well, I guess you've got me," he said. "I stole the car."

Brought to trial later for car theft, he claimed that his confession could not be used against him because the officer had failed to warn him of his rights.

But the court found nothing wrong with the confession, since the man had made it of his own free will.

What kind of pressures do taint a confession as "involuntary"—hence inadmissible in court? Obvious examples are the use of physical violence or mental intimidation. Such methods run afoul of the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination.

But a confession may also be ruled out because it was obtained by the unfair use of promises or temptations.

In one case, a man under questioning about a robbery was informed that his wife—also being held—would be released if he would confess he had committed the crime.

He did confess. But this time, his confession was held to be inadmissible in court. The judge said a confession obtained by offering such a powerful temptation had one great drawback in the eyes of the law:

It was all too likely to be false.

One-Man Art Show Planned

A one-man show of paintings, approximately 25 in all, has been scheduled for the week of Sept. 24 by Mrs. Duffy McBrayer, who is inviting a number of guests for a Sunday afternoon reception on the opening day.

Afterward, the public is invited to see the paintings, some of them for sale. Most are in oils, but Mrs. McBrayer plans to include at least one watercolor; she is just beginning to work in that medium.

Residing in Hereford four years, Nan McBrayer had become interested in painting while she was living in Fort Worth, and studied with W.C. Austin at the Art Center in that city two years. She is enrolled for lessons in watercolor at West Texas State University this year.

Her major there is psychology, as she returns to complete the college hours necessary to receive a degree. Now that her son, age 7, is well started to school she feels she will have time to resume her interrupted studies.

Painting began as a hobby for the Hereford physician's wife, who says, "It has become a disease. I even paint while I'm watching TV!"

Lunch Follows Club Tradition Club Learns And Uses New Craft

The home of Mrs. W. E. Dameron, a charter member of Music Study Club who has twice in its 56-year history served it as president, was the scene of the annual Past President's luncheon Thursday at noon.

A traditional prelude to the club year, the luncheon is held immediately before the start of fall meetings. First of the regular meetings will be at a luncheon in Dickie's Restaurant at noon Monday, Mrs. Wesley Fisher, current president, announced. The luncheon, to which each of the group contributed a special dish, was served at beautifully appointed tables after an invocation by Mrs. S.O. Wilson.

Mrs. H.A. Close of Lubbock was given a special welcome; she was the club's president from 1953 to 1956, while she was a Hereford resident, and is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Close this week. Another luncheon guest was Mrs. Floyd Coleman.

Past presidents at the luncheon and informal afternoon were Mmes. J.D. Neill, Dale Young, T.W. Roberson, J.R. Allison, Ellis Coombes, W.T. Carmichael, Jesse Stanford, J.A. Schroeter and Bill Brady, and Dale Young.

Each member of Cultural Home Demonstration Club made a cameo plaque Friday afternoon at a meeting in Pioneer Gas Flame Room, to practice the craft they learned in the day's demonstration.

Yearbooks for a new season were distributed at this first meeting after the summer vacation. Members were reminded of the Sew Fair Tuesday, and all-day program on new sewing techniques sponsored by the state Extension Service, to be held in the County Bull Barn.

Mrs. J.D. Love presented the opening thought titled When Children Grow up. Also present were Mmes. Burke Inman, J.C. Price, Joe Skelton, Grady Parsons, M.H. Wiseman, E.T. Tumlinson and Kenneth McClean.

Prepare For Coming Season

The fall hunting season is fast approaching and Texas sportsmen will want to get "geared up", as far as their equipment and physical condition are concerned.

"A little time and effort devoted to getting your field gear and physique 'in shape' can be a big plus for that upcoming hunting adventure," contends Dr. Milo Shult, area wildlife specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A good beginning for the equipment check is your firearm. Clean the piece carefully, giving special attention to the bore and the action.

"Carefully sight in all rifles and handguns," suggests Shult. "This will not only prevent disappointment over a missed shot but also will help the shooter get the 'feel' of his weapon again."

To sight in center-fire rifles, use the bullet weights and powder charges that you expect to use in the field. Determine sighting distances by the type of game to be hunted and the likely terrain. As a rule of thumb, shot groupings from 50, 100 and 200 yards will prepare the hunter for most situations.

The specialist suggests that handguns be sighted in for distances up to 60 yards. Accuracy is difficult at greater distances. Remember, range safety is of critical importance with all firearms but especially with handguns, cautions Shult.

For the shotgun enthusiast, the specialist suggests getting in a little trap or skeet shooting.

Another good practice is "patterning" the shotgun. This can be done by firing at large sheets of paper or cardboard at distances of 15, 25 and 50 yards. Thus the hunter will know how his weapon performs at those distances with whatever load he is using.

For the hunter with a double barrel, slide-action or semi-automatic shotgun, it's good to fire more than one round to get used to getting off a second or even third shot.

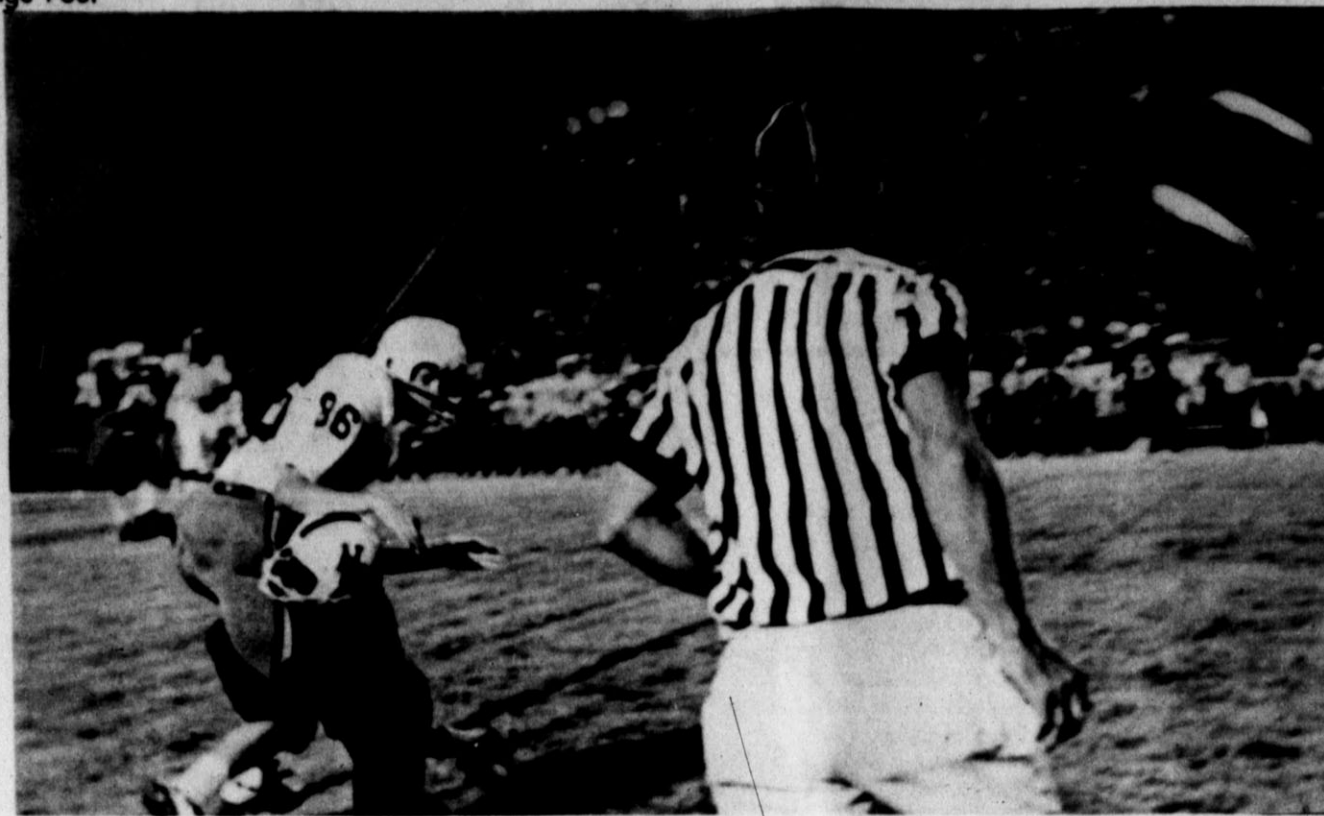

An equipment check is also in order for the archer. For instance, broadheads may need sharpening. Shult suggests practicing with silhouette field targets rather than bullseyes, since this gets the archer accustomed to firing at "vital spots" rather than just "at the deer."

Most hunters carry some type of cutting tool for dressing game. These knives, hand axes and bone saws should be checked and sharpened.

Shult emphasizes that wearing apparel also needs checking. Footwear is especially important as a painful blister can ruin an otherwise enjoyable hunting experience. Boot stitching should be oiled or treated for comfort and protection. It is a good idea to break in new boots before starting out on a long day's hunt.

In addition to checking his gear, the smart hunter prepares himself physically for the field, notes the specialist. "Many of us work at jobs which don't allow us to stay in shape for that one-a-year hunting trip. Perhaps the best solution is to start early with sensible exercises. This may mean just walking every day or it may include jogging and dieting off a few pounds. Remember, more hunters die from heart attacks brought on by over-exertion than from firearm mishaps."

The sportsman who begins preparing his gear and his body now will have a much more rewarding experience in the outdoors when hunting season rolls around, contends Shult.

Boxers To Meet Monday Night

Boys interested in participating in the local boxing association are asked to be at the Little Bull Barn at 7 p.m. Monday. Harold Wheeler, manager announces.

Wheeler said boys who want to start boxing Monday should bring a copy of their birth certificate with them. Also, participation forms will be made available at the Monday gathering and these must be signed and notarized before any boy is allowed to participate in the program.

Wheeler, who is a notary public, said boys can bring their parents with them Monday, fill out the forms, and he will notarize the certificate at that time. This, he said, will prevent any delay in getting into the program.

HIGHWAY SAVINGS

The 42,500 mile Interstate Highway System will save motorists $107 billion by 1979, $30 billion more than the estimated cost of the system, through improved travel times and lower operating costs.

JVs, Sophs Lose Openers

Hereford's junior varsity and sophomore teams were defeated in opening games Thursday night at Pampa and Nazareth.

The Longhorns lost a 26-16 decision at Pampa, while the Shorthorns absorbed a 33-0 shutout at the hands of the Nazareth varsity.

The Herd JV trailed by 26-0 at halftime, then rallied for two scores and held Pampa scoreless in the last half. Chuck High got both of the Hereford touchdowns, breaking loose on 20 and 40-yard scoring runs.

Coach Jim Arthur cited the team for doing a fine job on defense in the second half. Outstanding performances were turned in by Jerry Brock, Chip Guseman, James Kilgore and Mike Munnerlyn. The Longhorns host Borger's junior varsity at 4 p.m. Thursday.

Six fumbles and two pass interceptions hurt the sophomores cause at Nazareth. Coach Aaron Bourland credited his team for a "good effort" but added that too many mistakes proved costly.

The Shorthorns travel to Canyon Thursday for a game at 7 p.m.

Bowling League Plans Meeting

Men interested in participating in the Tuesday Night Bowling League are asked to attend a meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. at K-Bob's Restaurant.

The meeting, previously set for the same night, but at Dickie's Restaurant, was changed due to a conflict in scheduling.

The league, only for men, will set up its schedule for the coming year and discuss other items of interest to the league. All interested persons are urged to attend.

Small Talk

BY SUE COLEMAN
Woman's Editor

WITH ALL THOSE HONORS Cox, who received his degree and scholarships he received last spring as the outstanding Texas Tech this year, is a HHS band student, Gary London has begun classes in Oral Roberts University at Tulsa. He won the Lions Club's John Philip Sousa award, you know, also the Rotary Club scholarship and one from Music Study Club.

It speaks well for the Whiteface Band, I think, as well as for Gary's musical ability, that he was one of the top 10 freshman music majors in his tests, because he has never studied theory! Maybe the HHS band members just absorb that.

Of course he is already a member of the university band which has 40 concerts scheduled including a Christmas trip to Europe and another, possibly to Hawaii, at Easter. Gwen and Baxton London are wondering when or even if, they will see their son this term.

IN ANOTHER FIELD, another smart Hereford student has a new job while she completes work on a masters degree. Irene Boardman, Route 3, has learned that her daughter, Linda, and son-in-law, Joe Cox, have moved to Houston from Lubbock.

Linda is a psychological associate to Dr. Richard G. Jones, clinical psychologist, under whom she is doing an informal internship in counseling and psychotherapy while she completes her master's thesis.

Its subject is interpersonal relationships and self-concept in juvenile delinquents. When it is completed she will be qualified to do counseling and psychotherapy under supervision of a psychologist with a Ph.D. degree.

Messenger Club Picks Its 'Friend'

Selection of a Senior Citizen of the Year, who is to be given special attention this year by Messenger Home Demonstration Club, was made when fall meetings began Friday at a luncheon in the home of Mrs. S.N. Thweatt.

Mrs. W.A. Campbell, a resident of Westgate unit of Kings Manor retirement home here, was selected. Club members will visit her and present her gifts on special occasions during the year.

Yearbooks were distributed and the year's programs discussed after lunch. Mrs. Bill Page and Mrs. Bob Moelius gave a demonstration on cameo craft plaques as the program for the afternoon.

Also present were Mmes. Gene Bradley, John B. Garnett, Leo Webb Elmer Northcutt, N.A. Brown and A.T. Hagar.

WHEN OLEN NELSON and his bride, Connie, appeared on the TV Newlywed Game several months ago, they apparently demonstrated a talent for that medium, as they have been picked for a special show in series, Best of the Newlyweds, to be seen Wednesday.

A California resident the last few years and member of a musical group, Olen is a Hereford man who was a member of musical groups around here while he was in high school and college. His parents are Hejen and Glen Nelson.

An executive committee meeting of Texas CowBelles, a group now in the process of organization, is scheduled Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Marcus A. Hoelscher, 145 Mimosa, Mrs. Jack Carrothers, state president, has announced.

CowBelles Committee To Meet Here

One item of business is discussion of a division into regions of the state organization. The size of Texas is one reason attributed for slowness of forming the group in this state; many states already have CowBelles, a national organization made up of wives of men in all phases of the cattle industry.

Officers were elected at a meeting last month; and in another preliminary session Wednesday at Amarillo more than 100 women were present when approximately half that number had been expected.

Such a show of interest has encouraged the officers to attempt the enrolment of eligible women from every part of the state, Mrs. Carrothers says.

SEPTEMBER BEAUTY SPOTS — Plagues designating Hereford Beauty Spots of the Month have been placed by the beautification committee of Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce Women's Division on a home and business place. The residential beauty spot, right, is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taylor, 106 Mimosa, and the non-residential spot is the Texas Highway Department building on North Highway 385.

Along The Frio

The Elza Warricks, Mrs. Grace Henson, and the Floyd Neils were visiting relatives in Colorado and hunting during part of last week, Neil and daughter remained longer with his brother and sister-in-law, the Les Draves near Alamosa, for more hunting this week. The Warricks brought their grandson home with them and Mrs. Warrick planes to go back this week.

Rev. Billy Rex Irwin, from Oklahoma, has been invited to be guest preacher at Frio on Sept. 17. Billy Rex was born while the family, the Leonard Irwins, lived in this community. They moved from here about the first of 1955 and now live near Purcell, Okla.

Dueward Taylors and Jimmy Bymans, of Friona and the Jim Brooks spent the Labor Day holidays at Ute Lake.

The H.E. Lindleys went to Wellington, Friday, to attend the Pioneer Day Celebration.

Among those attending the Boys Ranch Rodeo, on Monday, were the Bill Struves, the J.E. Warricks, the Clifford Hargroves, and Eugene Warrick.

Among recent visitors of the Sam Ogans were relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Claude McCain, of Field, came to stay with them for awhile. The Nelsons lived in Frio community a few years and now farm the Carl Wimberly place at Dawn.

Visiting Mrs. B.H. Baldwin Wednesday night were a sister-in-law and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis West, of Albuquerque. Others of the family come in to be with the Wests during the evening.

Miss Alma Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Charles King spent Labor Day weekend at the Andrews vacation home at Lake Meredith. Miss Andrews remained in Amarillo with the Kings a few days longer.

Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, hero of the Battle of Corregidor, was found safe in a Japanese prison compound on Aug. 19, 1945.

Fiesta Supper Is Club Event

A Mexican fiesta was the gay entertainment that launched a year for Hereford Study Club Thursday evening when members met in the home of Mrs. B.F. Cain with only two absent.

Dressed in colorful Mexican costumes, yearbook committee members greeted guests as they arrived for a supper. Hostesses with Mrs. Cain were Mmes. Art Stoy, Ed Wilson Jr. and R.N. Yarbrough.

Red peppers arranged with red light bulbs made a striking tree lamp to center the table where supper was served buffet style. Guests sat at quartet tables decorated with sombreros trimmed in red peppers.

Presentation of yearbooks was made by the committee, and the group discussed programs scheduled for a year of varied themes. Subjects range from witchcraft to music, and tours of an unusual Hereford home and business, as well as a style show-dinner, book review and holiday parties are included.

Prayer halts debate at Demo convention

Throughout convention history, there have been many maneuvers to halt or recess convention business. One of the more unusual came at the Democratic convention of 1844, when debate was halted for prayer.

More Plans Announced For Knox City Event

More plans for the field day at the Soil Conservation Service plant materials center at Knox City on Wednesday were announced this week by Soil Conservation Service State Conservationist Edward E. Thomas.

The center serves Texas and Oklahoma and the public from both states is being invited to the event.

Harvey Davis, executive director of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation Board, will be the principal speaker. Davis will speak at 11:00 a.m.

Guided tours will be conducted through the 70-acre center located on FM 1292, 2 miles north and 2 1/2 miles west of Knox City, Thomas said. Tours will run from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Sandwiches will be on sale by the Knox City FFA Chapter for those who wish to eat lunch at the center.

Seed or rootstock from plants that show promise for solving specific soil and water conservation problems are collected, then grown and evaluated at the Knox City center. The more promising ones are then grown under field conditions on farms of soil and water conservation district cooperators under a wide variety of conditions. Selections that prove superior to other strains available are then released by conservation districts to commercial seed growers. There producers then grow seed and sell it to the public.

More than 700 strains of grasses are being grown at Knox City. Some 465 selections of legumes, forbs and woody plants thought to have value for wildlife or livestock are also under evaluation.

Some of the more promising grasses being evaluated at the center and across the two-state area includes a grass called old world bluestem collected from an arid region west of the Mediterranean Sea; a desert strain of sideoats grama; a blue grama selection adapted to the redbed soils of western Oklahoma and Texas; and a western wheatgrass selection which has potential for use in bottomland and waterway plantings in west central Texas. Several forbs are not only valuable for livestock forage but are also highly relished by many species of wildlife. Unfortunately, seed for these plants are not currently available from commercial sources. If ways can be developed so seed producers can grow them profitably for seed production, it will make it easier for land users to establish them in grass planting mixtures.

Selections from two choice native forbs—englemannidaisy and Maximilian Sunflower—have shown up especially well at Knox City. Both are so relished by livestock and wildlife that they are now hard to find except on well managed rangeland or in areas protected from grazing. Other promising forbs include bushsunflower, western indigo, and halfshrub sundrop.

Legumes being evaluated include trailing wildbean, least snoutbean, prostrate bundleflower, and prairieclover. Shrubs or woody plants being grown at the center include selections of wild plum, littleleaf leadtree, pistache, sawtooth oak, Texas kidneywood, little flowered peachbush, russianolive, autumnolive, and winterberry.

A new grass variety, Mason sandhill lovegrass, was certified and released this year as a result of work done at the center and in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Selection 75 kleingrass was released in 1968. Other grass strains proven and put into use by SCS include El Reno, Uvalde, and Vaughn sideoats grama; King Ranch bluestem, Grenville switchgrass; and green sprangletop.

Promising plants being evaluated in Texas and Oklahoma include strains with pollution abatement values; plants that will thrive under saline or droughty conditions; selections that will prevent wave action damage on earthen dams; and plants that will stabilize sand dunes.

Some of the groups who cooperate with SCS in its plant materials work include the Agricultural Research Service, soil and water conservation districts, agricultural experiment stations, universities and other state and federal agencies.

63 Get Military Service Calling

Approximately 63 men from the four-country area served by local selective service board number 18 are expected to be up for induction or pre-induction physicals in September and October.

Colonel Melvin N. Glantz, State Director of Selective Service, has announced that the lottery number cut-off induction of non-volunteers for the remainder of the year is 95.

The Department of Defense has asked for 15,000 men from all states to be inducted during the last three months of 1972. This will require raising the lottery number for induction from 75 in September to 95 for the last quarter of the year.

Glantz said projections indicate that approximately 1,100 men will be inducted in Texas during the last three months of this year. Local selective service board statistics show 39 men up for pre-induction physicals in September. Two others were up for induction, but one of these has enlisted and the other's induction has been postponed.

Three men from the area will be up for induction in October, while 21 will be expected to report for physicals. Induction orders will go to men who are available and fully qualified for military service and who are in the 1972 first priority selection group, which is made up of men born in 1952 and men who lost a deferment in 1972.

Orders for pre-induction Armed Forces Examinations will continue for men in the 1973 first priority selection group with lottery number 75 or below during the remainder of this year. This group is made up of men born in 1953 who are not currently in a deferred status.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to express our grateful appreciation for the many tokens of sympathy and the kindnesses shown by Dr. Johnson and nurses, the First Baptist Church, the Elizabeth Sunday School Class and all the many friends during the illness and our loss of Elizabeth Ann Kemp.

Library, Museum Are Cultural Assets

BY SUE COLEMAN
 Brand Staff Writer
 (This is the last of a series of weekly stories about community organizations which depend to a greater or less degree upon the work of volunteers to carry out their programs.)

FIELDS FOR VOLUNTEERS service in Deaf Smith County, in which hundreds of man-hours are given every month for community betterment, include two institutions which further educational and cultural values. One is the county's historical museum, relatively new and operated entirely by a volunteer staff. The other is its library, begun by volunteers when Hereford was a new town but having very little volunteer assistance now although more could be used.

Limited space is a factor in expansion of the library's service; there simply is not enough in room in its County Courthouse quarters for programs which Lorene Newman, librarian, and Gwen London, her assistant, would like to see in operation.

WEEKLY STORY HOURS for children, for instance, are conducted in many libraries no larger than the one here, often by a women's club or by individual volunteers.

But children's books here fill shelves crowded into one end of the library where there is hardly room for the young readers to choose the books they want to check out, and no space at all for story telling and special displays.

Possible summer story hours on the courthouse lawn or other place outside the library might be sponsored by a club, Mrs. Newman suggests, and help could be given the librarians with the summer reading program which is popular with children each year.

CHILDREN THROUGH SCHOOL age are consistent users of library facilities, including the various reference sections. The rush of library patrons each day comes after school is dismissed, and each year in vacation months.

In June and July this year, more than 17,000 books were checked from the library; Mrs. Newman estimates that three-fourths of these were to children.

Two part-time workers assist the librarians after school hours; these are students. Volunteer help would be welcome in cataloging books, mending and keeping them in repair. The staff tries to do the latter task regularly, so books do not accumulate to be mended before they are returned to the shelves.

ALSO, MRS. NEWMAN says they would be glad of help to keep the local history file up-to-date.

"We constantly add to this, and are proud of it. It is very useful on many occasions to county residents and we want to keep it current. We can easily train helpers for all these tasks and would like the help of those who can give any amount of time."

Especially needed, she adds, are volunteers who will learn enough about the library's operation to substitute occasionally for a librarian, when one is absent in an emergency or to attend a professional meeting.

Hereford has no Friends of the Library organization, which in many cities spearheads the aid of volunteers in promoting and operating a library.

Early-day women's clubs in this county sponsored the start of a library, but little aid is given by clubs now, except for maintenance of a music library shelf by the Music Study Club.

DEAF SMITH HISTORICAL MUSEUM, on the other hand, is supported by many community organizations in addition to the County Historical Society, whose officers and members form an unpaid pool of leaders who not only direct work but do most of the actual labor themselves.

Palmer Norton is president of the society. Women who are past and present officers, Mmes. Henry Sears, Austin Rose Jr., Justin McBride and George Turrentine, have literally put shoulders to wheels and hands to plows in collecting, preparing and arranging displays. So have other women in less degree.

Standbys in building, repairing and maintaining the exhibits are Bill Hacker and Harry Lomas, who open and close the building, raise and lower the flags daily in addition to the hard work of construction and arrangement.

John Turner has also worked many hours, especially in his specialty of windmill building.

SINCE EXHIBITS ARE changed at intervals, and new ones added like the General Store replica which was opened this summer, there is often hard work to be done when volunteers can be of great help without any training.

For one such task Kiwanis Club members have offered some strong arms for the next project, rearranging the basement storage and work space to make room for more display cases; those on the main floor have become too crowded. More volunteers for this type of work are often needed.

Another continuing job, cleaning and repair of exhibits, usually requires a certain skill in handling valuable antiques, but sometimes nothing more than the ability to polish a stove or remove layers of old paint from wood.

HOSTS WHO TAKE TURNS greeting visitors during open hours and serving as guides, are members of organizations including women's study clubs, Campfire Girls, Association of Retired Persons, Knights of Columbus and Rainbow Girls.

Women of Bay View Study Club have received training to act as tour guides for groups which frequently visit the museum. Not only local groups, but those from Clovis, Friona, Dimmitt, Amarillo, Pampa and other cities have been shown through the exhibits.

Assistance to the secretary, at present Mrs. Rose, can be given in cataloging, correspondence and record-keeping by individuals who will volunteer specified time and receive instruction.

Persons who would like to help in any of these tasks, from common labor to conducting VIP tours, may learn the requirements from any of the Historical Society officers, who all express hearty appreciation for community cooperation and hope more volunteers will join them in their hobby of giving the county a museum that rates high in the state.

COUNTY LORE AND NEW BOOKS — Serving Deaf Smith County residents in two ways, the local museum and the library offer a storehouse of local history and a wide selection of reading and reference material. Volunteer workers have established the museum and now staff it. Mrs. Austin Rose Jr., left above, is currently secretary of the sponsoring County Historical Society. Harry Lomas and Bill Hacker, at right above serving as guides to a Cub Scout troop, have from its beginning given many hours of work on exhibits. The two who carry most of the responsibility for operation of Deaf Smith Library are Lorene Newman, lower right, and Gwen London, at work cataloging and placing new books on the shelves.

Reaction To Light Related To Cancer

As any summer swimmer knows, too much sun causes the skin to burn, but the sun is blamed also for other skin ailments — diseases and sometimes cancer-like symptoms in man and animal.

The cause isn't the sunlight alone, however, according to a Texas Tech University chemist, but the reaction caused by light upon minute substances which lodge on the skin.

Dr. Pill-Soon Song, who is internationally recognized for his research in photochemistry, described his research at the 164th National American Chemical Society meeting in New York.

A variety of plants produce furocoumarins known as psoralens which cause skin diseases and sometimes cancer-like symptoms in man and animal when these compounds are deposited in trace amounts on the skin and exposed to light, according to Song.

One of the most biologically potent coumarins, he said, is xanthotoxin which is produced by grasses, other range and desert plants, and is found in significant amounts in figs.

With Thomas A. Moore, Dr. Song has been studying the behavior of the xanthotoxin molecule under the influence of light.

Xanthotoxin possesses a high reactivity toward the genetic molecule, DNA, Song said, because of the unusually reactive structure of the molecule when it is excited by light.

When xanthotoxin absorbs light, essentially all of the absorbed light energy accumulates in a double bond at a specific location within the molecule. Reactions with DNA take place in this double bond where the light energy is accumulated. The speed with which the reaction takes place depends upon the environment, the amount of the compound and the abundance of light, Song said.

Oxygen quenches the reaction, he explained.

Song said that a high resolution study of the phosphorescence spectroscopy of coumarin and xanthotoxin confirms that the high localization of the absorbed energy in a specific region of the molecule is characteristic of skin-erythral psoralens in their excited triplet states.

L'Allegra Plans Benefit Lunch

The ranch home of Mrs. Bobby Veigel was the meeting place for L'Allegra Study Club as members began 1972-73 season programs with a brunch. Mrs. Gary McQuigg was hostess with Mrs. Veigel.

Final plans and reports for the tasting luncheon which the club will sponsor as a fund-raising project on Election Day, Nov. 7, were the principal items of business, discussed with Mrs. Bill Warrick Presiding.

Mrs. Cal Garrett was appointed to serve as club reporter after the resignation of Mrs. Jerry Parker, who will teach at West Texas State University this term and be unable to fill the place.

Mrs. Veigel, yearbook chairman, presented the new books which list programs on the general theme, Joie de Vivre. Yours of interesting places in this area, including homes at Dimmitt, the Amarillo Art Center and Garden Center, and Elm Tree Inn at Tulia, are scheduled for some of the meetings.

Present for the brunch were Mmes. Buddy Bloomer, Jim Carnahan, Terry Caviness, Steve Coneway, Jim Conkright, Dennis Farley, Dale Furr, Cameron Gault, Garrett. Also Mmes. Burns Hamilton, Dennis Lomas, Don Lowder, David Gibson, Danny Martin, Rudy Metz, Gerald Payne, Alex Schroeter, John E. Smith, Eddie Reinauer, Marshall Wilson and Hazen Woods.

CLUB OFFICERS NOW — Installed to offices in Sweet and Fancy Decorating Club as meetings were resumed Friday morning after a summer recess, leaders for the new year are, from left, Mrs. Dale Henson, vice president; Mrs. J.A. Crofford, treasurer; Mrs. Joel Lytal, president; and Mrs. Carlton Richardson, secretary.

Yard Tour Made By Garden Club

A tour of grounds at the hostess' home was made by Hereford Garden Club members before a coffee and business meeting Friday morning in the home of Mrs. Ray. L. Johnson at Summerfield. Mrs. W.C. Hromas and Mrs. R.L. Wilson were co-hostesses.

They are members of the committee who have compiled 1972-73 yearbooks, which club members received at the coffee, Mrs. Johnson, chairman, outlined programs based on the theme, Through the Seasons in the Magic Triangle.

Flower show plans were reported by Mrs. Ben Childers, general chairman for the club's annual fall show to be held Sept. 22. She announced a workshop at Pioneer Gas Flame Room Sept. 15 in preparation for the show.

Mrs. D.N. Garner was elected secretary for the coming year, to succeed Mrs. J.V. Pickens whose resignation was accepted.

Mmes. O.G. Hill Sr., L.W. Norvell and Hromas, the Garden Center committee, reported work done through the summer on the grounds and said the building will be ready for use as a club meeting place as soon as inside painting is finished.

Members voted to request the mayor and city manager to take action for a city-wide campaign to eradicate webworms and bindweed, pests endangering trees and lawns in Hereford.

In their inspection of Mrs. Johnson's yard, members noted her lavish use of groundcover and vines, and admired a lacevine climbing up the tower of an old windmill behind the house. Coffee was served from a table set in cool green and white, centered with gladiolas and sedum.

Mrs. Don McCullough of Amarillo was a guest. Other members present were Mmes. Alfred Smith, W.S. Fluit, G.W. Newsom, Ralph McCullough, Art Stoy, R.W. Mitchell, C.D. Kelton, Margaret Shown, R.L. Ethridge and Art Manjeot.

Announcement was made that Mmes. Hill, Ethridge and Manjeot served as judges in a flower show at Clovis Wednesday.

TIRE TALK
It is estimated that Americans will spend a record $1.9 billion to purchase 148 million new replacement auto tires this year — enough to equip a third of all cars in the U.S.

People have failed for every reason—except lack of advice.

Contract language defined

By E. J. DEMSON, J.D.
Copley News Service

Contracts were used to establish the rights and duties among traders doing business with each other in Egypt and Mesopotamia three thousand years before Christ.

Today this legal device is being used as a treaty between nations in negotiations not confrontations to arrest wars.

Q. A Pennsylvanian asks: What are the basic elements of a simple court-enforceable contract? A brief description on how such a contract is put together would add to your readers' knowledge. If you agree, please use every-day words.

1. Meeting of the minds. One party makes an offer, a promise to do or not to do something; the other party, usually after some negotiation, accepts the offer. The meeting of their minds on the rights and duties of each party is contained in their expressed words, oral, written, or implied by conduct in what each is to do or not to do.

2. Reality of consent. A mutual mistake by the parties about a subject matter, for example — a seller offers a race car called Slick to a buyer who thinks it is another car. There are two cars named Slick. Each is thinking of a different car. There is no reality of consent, no meeting of the minds, no contract.

3. Consideration. To create a contract each party bargains for an exchange of this for that: money for work, a promise for an act; after default, I'll not sue to recover a debt, if you'll pay me more interest, forbearance; a purchase of merchandise, money for goods, a promise for a promise.

Without a consideration, a contract is void.

4. Capacity to contract. Natural persons are presumed to have full capacity. Aliens, corporations and some convicts do not have full capacity. Minors, called infants by law, can enter voidable contracts with adults, but the minors have a right to avoid them. Adults do not have that right, if they contract with minors.

The contracting age for minors is, with a few exceptions, 21, but that is being changed to 18 by the states to conform with the U.S. Supreme Court right-to-vote decision. Insane person's contracts are voidable unless they are adjudged insane, then they are void.

5. Illegality. An attempt to make a contract, called a bargain, is illegal if its formation or its performance is against statutory law or public policy, for example to commit a crime, a tort, civil wrong, that which is injurious to the public.

Q. We have a letter from a subcontractor threatening to file a lien on our new home if he is not paid the balance the general contractor owes him. Can he do this to us?

A. The law in the District of Columbia (109 A.2d 779) says: Unless you supervised the building of your home, and the general contractor was your agent, you are not liable. If your budget cannot afford a lawyer see your first mortgagee or the office of Legal Aid. They will help you.

Other failures to meet reality of consent: fraud, a misrepresentation, knowingly made to induce action; undue influence — excessive pressure; duress — threats of physical harm; unconscionableness — taking advantage of a mentally helpless person.

A. First, contract and agreement mean the same thing. They are used interchangeably. To lawyers and judges, contract generally means a formal written instrument arrived at through piecemeal agreements of the parties. Agreement is the usual word used in day-to-day transactions.

ABC setting records with Olympic coverage

HOLLYWOOD — Ah, the Hofbrauhaus! It stands solid in downtown Munich, this glorious monument to the Bavarian national sport of beer-drinking, and there, one historic day, a waitress with the arms and hands of a shot-putter set a house record by holding 16 steins at one time.

It is a record that will perhaps never be broken. But other records will undoubtedly fall during the two weeks of the 20th Summer Olympiad in Munich with ABC providing 61 1/2 hours of satellite coverage. No other sporting event in television's history has ever been so extensively under the camera's gaze.

There, in this ancient city by the Isar River, will assemble 12,000 top athletes — "humanity's healthiest specimens," according to Willi Daume, head of the German Olympic Organizing Committee. ABC, meanwhile, has practically set up its own electronic city, complete broadcasting center in the heart of the Olympics grounds.

Some months ago, Roone Arledge, president of ABC Sports, pointed at the broadcast site and shook his head bemusedly. "It boggles the mind," he said. "Five hundred miles of cable in there — just so Howard Cosell can come here and work out his aggressions."

Sure, Humble Howard will be there, with his veritable plethora (as he might say) of words and opinions. Cosell is one of the network's commentators assigned to the event, along with Chris Schenkel, Jim McKay, Bill Flemming, Keith Jackson, Frank Gifford and Bob Beattie.

The expertise will come from Bill Toomey, the decathlon gold medal winner four years ago in Mexico City; swimmer Donna de Varona, Bill Russell, Murray Rose, Ken Sitzberger.

Acupuncture is still an unknown quantity

By IRWIN J. POLK, M.D.
Copley News Service

My nurse looked at me mischievously. "Next you're to see Mr. Lee in Room 2."

I entered the room behind the patients' chairs and saw two figures there, Mr. Lee and another in the chair next to him. The second figure turned out to be a doll about 4 feet tall, standing on its pedestal on the chair. The doll was a nude human figure with dots running up and down the entire body. The dots were connected by a series of lines. I asked Mr. Lee what the doll was about.

"That's my acupuncture doll," he said proudly. "I'm taking a course in acupuncture. Can you help me with it?"

I don't know much about acupuncture and said so. Then Mr. Lee handed me a book. "This book tells all about the way to do it," he said. "According to the book, the body organs are divided into two groups. Diseases are caused by imbalance between the groups. Life energy flows from organ to organ along the lines drawn on the doll. If the patient is sick, that is because his life forces are not flowing properly. We apply needles into the skin at special points to balance the flow of the life forces and cure the disease. It's really very simple."

"Now, doctor, here's where you come in. I have had a sinus problem for some years now and I'm sure acupuncture will help. According to the book, if you put these gold needles into this place on my palms, my sinus trouble will get better. Can you do that for me? It's all here in the book."

I noticed that the book was in Chinese, so I asked, "Suppose something goes wrong while I'm doing this? What do I do then, — especially if you pass out and can't read the next instructions to me from the Chinese acupuncture manual."

"Well," said Mr. Lee, "no reason for you to worry about that."

There's plenty of reason for me to worry about that. If there's anything I don't need, it's a patient lying unconscious in my treatment room with golden wires in his palms, or his chest or his head. I said that to Mr. Lee.

"That's the trouble with you Western physicians; you're never willing to try anything new."

I've known Chang San Lee for many years. He's an electrical engineer, trained in Hong Kong and Harvard and considered by many to be a genius in his field. Why should he go overboard about an unknown aspect of medicine? So far as is known, there is no way that Western medicine can explain the success of acupuncture in relieving pain. There is no evidence that acupuncture cures diseases.

Yet people flocked by the hundreds to the Acupuncture Center of New York before it was quickly closed by the state government because it was not fulfilling the laws about medical treatment. Even our National Institutes of Health have shown interest in acupuncture. They recently announced a commitment to study the use of acupuncture for anesthesia and for relieving pain.

Health fads come and go. There have been health spas from the time of the Romans, healing waters until today. Food fads have come and gone and come again. The sauna is still with us, and Serutan, and chiropractic, and high doses of vitamin C, and copper bracelets. There's no end to what people will do while trying to find an easy way to stay well.

I gave the doll and book back to Mr. Lee. There's still not enough known about acupuncture in the West for me to risk anyone's health with it. But I kept the golden needles — just in case.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

BY CRAWFORD C. MARTIN
Attorney General of Texas

The typical American home is a potential death trap for the unsuspecting child and the unwary adult. According to the Public Health Service, each year 500,000 children swallow a poisonous household product which has been left within their reach - and 500 die.

A recent move by the Food and Drug Administration is a step in the right direction to overcome this hazard. After September 13, 1972, manufacturers of certain liquid furniture polishes will have to package their products in childproof containers.

The regulation covers liquid furniture polishes that contain at least 10 per cent mineral seal oil, which is a crude form of mineral oil used to put a shine on furniture. When swallowed by children such polishes can cause lung disease.

Furniture polish packages must pass two tests under the new regulations. First, a sample of children under five years old must not be able to open the package 85 per cent of the time, but a panel of adults must be able to open it 90 per cent of the time. The second test stipulates that opening of the container must restrict the flow of polish so that only about a half teaspoon can be obtained from one shake or squeeze of the opened container.

The FDA is moving to require childproof containers as these for toxic products containing turpentine or petroleum distillates, methyl alcohol and sulfuric acid. Common substances that would be affected include paint thinners, solvents, auto gasoline antifreeze and certain liquid drain cleaners. These toxic or caustic products, if accidentally consumed can cause serious injury or death. Severe damage to throat and stomach, permanent blindness, and lung disease often result. Some are dangerously caustic if merely dropped on the skin. The warning labels now attached to these products aren't very effective in alerting inquisitive toddlers and pre-schoolers. Also, the appearance, color, and sometimes masked fragrance can trap a child into a fatal error.

The new FDA ruling in regard to furniture polish containers and others they may propose will reduce the danger to the consumer - but only the consumer himself can eliminate hazards. When you use toxic products, read the directions and warning statements carefully before each use - don't rely on your memory. Use only as directed, as experimenting can be dangerous. If you must transfer the contents into a new container, label it clearly; never put poisons in food or beverage containers. It's a good idea to destroy empty containers and not leave them around for children or pets to discover. Children are experts at finding household hazards, so store them out of their reach and keep all poisons under lock and key.

SPOTLIGHT ON Education

AVOID THESE COMMON BACK TO SCHOOL PROBLEMS

How times have changed. Years ago, when you went to kindergarten, you probably spent most of your classroom hours playing with toys. Many of today's kindergartners, however, are not only learning their A,B,C's, but how to add and subtract as well!

Yet, because today's kids are learning more and faster than we ever did, they're also faced with problems in school that we never faced. Here, then, is a list of contemporary pitfalls, and how you can help your children to effectively avoid them:

1. Society's outcast. That's what your child will become if you don't let him dress like the other kids. So for the sake of his peer group acceptance and better grades, let him have a hand in selecting his clothes.

2. Homework hater. There are many ways to discourage a child from doing his homework assignments properly. One of the worst things you can do is to make him buckle down right after school, because he needs that time to unwind and relax. It's a much better idea to set up regular homework hours after he's loosened up and had a good dinner.

3. Sick and tired. Because today's kids do so much, and at such a fast pace, they seem especially prone to illness and fatigue.

Economic Questions and Stabilization Answers

Q. If a roadside stand sells eggs, lettuce, tomatoes, and other raw agricultural products of the type sold for ultimate consumption in their original form, are the sales exempt?

A. If the stand is operated by the farmer, who grows or produces the products, they are exempt as the first sale. However, if the stand is operated by someone who has purchased the food products from the farmer, his prices are controlled, unless he is exempt under the small business exemption.

Q. Can an employer automatically increase an employee's wages to $2.75 under the Stabilization regulations on exempt wages?

A. Yes. Under the new regulation, persons now making less than $2.75 per hour are permitted to receive increases which will bring their pay up to that level. However, if such increases amount to 5.5 percent or more of the previous base pay to the unit, further increases are not permitted unless a special exception is granted by the Internal Revenue Service or the Pay Board. If an increase of less than 5.5 percent is required to reach the level of $2.75, the total permissible increase is 5.5 percent above the base pay level (but not a full 5.5 percent above $2.75).

Q. Can my landlord increase rent because he started furnishing services not called for in my lease? A. Your rent may be increased for the use of property or services not called for in your lease. For example, a group of tenants might ask their landlord to hire guards for the doors on their street. After your landlord hires the guards, he can increase your rent to cover the cost. However, he cannot raise rents until a majority of tenants who will benefit by the services give their written consent to the increase. This cost may be passed on to tenants in addition to the automatic 2 1/2 percent rent increase allowance.

Q. Because rents on commercial property are exempt from controls, landlords who rent such buildings can pass on increased labor costs to tenants. Can building service contractors, who provide the same cleaning and maintenance services as these landlords and follow the same wage settlements also pass on their labor costs?

A. Yes. Under a new Cost of Living Council rule, building service contractors may increase charges for services based on all legally incurred increases in labor costs to the extent that the increased charges do not result in increase in the firm's profit margin over that of the base period.

For a building service contractor to be eligible for this special rule, the pay of its employees has to be set under a historical tandem relationship to the pay of maintenance personnel employed directly by owners of non-residential buildings.

The pattern of life seems that men become crusty after they accumulate lots of dough.

Space-age fibershave many uses

There are a number of fibers that we use everyday but few people are aware of them. The names may seem technical but they are the chemical names given the fabric.

The tradenames will be more familiar to you, but actually, the chemical names aren't any more technical than the names acetate, polyester, nylon, etc.

Polytetrafluoroethylene (Teflon) is most commonly known as a coating for cooking utensils. However, this substance is also made into fabrics. It's used for household webbing, filter fabrics, upholstery, stopcocks in laboratories, pump packings, etc.

Polytetrafluoroethylene (PTFE) has good heat resistance and is very water repellent. It's not a strong fiber but it is tough. The non-stick property makes it inert to chemicals and stains.

The only problem with PTFE is its ability to change its shape. When PTFE is placed under pressure, it will change its shape enough to ease the pressure. Thus it will "stretch" out of shape if pressure is applied to it. An example would be upholstery when someone is sitting on it. Since there is no recovery from this stretching of PTFE, replacement is necessary.

A popular fabric for indoor-outdoor carpets and other end uses is polypropylene. It's inexpensive to manufacture so it should be low priced as an end product.

It's strong and resists moisture. The melting point is very low making the fabric unsafe to iron. Due to the moisture resistance, polypropylene is very difficult to dye.

While the fabric will resist moisture, it holds onto oils making them hard to remove. Polypropylene should never be drycleaned. The extreme heat used in the pressing process will destroy the fabric.

Besides indoor-outdoor carpets (Ozite), polypropylene is also used for stockings (Vectra); tennis courts; upholstery; garments such as sweaters, socks; and industrial fabrics such as ropes, cords, twine, etc.

Tradenames of polypropylene are: Vectra, Herculon, Revon, Gerfel, Gertex, Nypol, and Polypycel.

Another fabric which has numerous end uses but is not very well known is polyvinylchloride (Vinyon). This fabric has a high resistance to moisture. Chemicals and sunlight have no effect on the fabric. It's nonflammable and will not rot or mildew.

It's a weak fiber and is very sensitive to heat. Dyeing is hard due to the resistance to moisture. Polyvinylchloride is used for chemical clothing; underwear; outerwear that doesn't need ironing; baby garments (plastic pants); therapeutic items such as rheumatism blankets, bandages; tents; tarpons; awnings, etc.

Tradenames of polyvinylchloride are Rhovyl, Thermalvyl, PeCe, Avisco (American Viscose Co.).

Polyvinylidenechloride (Saran) is a weak fiber that is very hard to dye so is usually found in its natural color of off-white. If it is dyed, sunlight will damage it. Polyvinylidenechloride gets a sustain just like we do.

Polyvinylidenechloride is very resistant to abrasive wear. It has good resistance to heat too. It's even nonflammable.

Polyvinylidenechloride is used for screening, outdoor carpeting, auto upholstery, lawn furniture, plastic food wrap, and wigs for dolls.

The trade names of polyvinylidenechloride are Saran, Bolta Saran, Velon, Rovana, and Lus-Trus.

Mrs. Smith Makes Top Score On Test

Rose Ann Smith of Hereford was one of the two top students among 90 graduates of Northwest Texas Hospital School of Nursing in Amarillo this summer, scoring 96 on a state test.

Mrs. Smith, 710 Lee, was a member of a class of licensed vocational nurses fulfilling requirements for registered nurse diplomas in a new program at Northwest School of Nursing, which gave credit for their year of LVN training.

The class graduated last May and the tests were taken in July. Results were announced this week.

Area Head Is From YHT Here

Mrs. Jim Culpepper of the Hereford Chapter, Young Homemakers of Texas, was elected Area I president at the fall convention Saturday in Plainview. Another Hereford member, Mrs. Bud Kelly, was named parliamentarian.

The 1972-73 officers were chosen in the business session of the annual convention, which several members from this chapter attended.

Awards announced at the meeting went to Roosevelt, Hale Center and Ralls as outstanding chapters and Lisa Fowler of Childress as recipient of the Little Sister Scholarship.

A. Many newspapers have a section called the financial and business section. Here the reader can find all sorts of information about business and investment conditions. For example, he frequently can find columns written by or quoting economic experts. In most cases these experts study a vast number of facts gathered from many sources and then give their opinions of what the facts mean.

However, the experts don't always agree, and the reader must be careful to differentiate between the facts and the opinions.

By FRANK CORRICK
Copley News Service

Concert Association To Enrol Members During Week

THE ANNUAL CAMPAIGN for enrolling members of Hereford Community Concert Association, held for one week once a year, begins Monday. Mrs. Richard Ottesen, right above, is chairman, here discussing drive plans with Ken Rogers, a vice president. She directs the efforts of a score of captains, each of whom has enlisted a group of workers to conduct the drive. Memberships are still priced at $10, with at least three concerts by nationally-known artists to be scheduled. Admission to concerts is by membership card only.

KICKOFF LUNCHEON for the drive will be held at 12 noon Monday in the Caison House, replacing the dinner which has been customary here. A representative of the national organization will be present to explain purposes and methods of the drive to workers, and answer their questions. Mrs. Ruby Metz, left above, is a member of the luncheon committee which is headed by Mrs. J.H. McCrary. With her is Mrs. Melvin Hoover, who assists her boss, Jeff Carlile, CCA treasurer, in keeping the Hereford Association's financial records.

'HOLD' ATTRACTION for this year, the only concert booked before the membership drive, is The Young Americans, a singing group which will appear in Hereford High School auditorium January 27. This photograph suggests the singers' coast-to-coast travels for appearance in concerts over the nation, as well as on television programs where they have been heard by many Hereford residents. All CCA concerts here are given in the school auditorium and memberships are limited to its seating capacity, 1100.

HEADING OFFICERS of Hereford CCA for the second year is Hazen Woods, an attorney here who is board president. Vice presidents are Mrs. Wesley Gulley, Mrs. Ottesen and Rogers; Mrs. Roy Hartman is secretary. Headquarters for the membership drive will be the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce office.

WORKER ORIENTATION was given at a coffee recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Reinauer Jr. Captains who helped give instruction and campaign material to the volunteer workers included Mrs. J.C. McCracken, left, and Nancy Richie.

Once Student Teacher Now Makes Home Here

BY LORI HOPSON
Staff Writer

Since her arrival here in mid-August from Canadian, Mrs. Charles Morehead has grown to like her new home. The family moved to Hereford when Morehead was appointed to the post of administrator of Kings Manor retirement center.

"The people here are extremely friendly—everyone's made us feel right at home," she says.

Mrs. Morehead spent some time in Hereford in 1963 when she was doing student teaching as she attended West Texas State University and majored in business education.

While attending WTSU, she met her husband, and the couple was married August 24, 1963. Morehead was majoring in Social Studies.

Mrs. Morehead was born in Plainview and grew up in Floydada. Morehead hails from Canadian. The couple has two daughters, Melanie, 5 and Melinda, 2. Gidget, a red-brown dachshund, completes the family circle.

Morehead is experienced in administration, and was an administrator of the Abraham Memorial Home in Canadian before moving to Hereford to take the Kings Manor post.

He was selected for the position by the Kings Manor Board of directors, and his duties will include actual administration of both the nursing home and retirement center.

Mrs. Morehead plans to join the First United Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service, of which she was an active member in Canadian.

She was also pianist for the youth choir of the Canadian First United Methodist Church, and played for the church's weekly services.

She taught piano lessons in Canadian, and was a member of of Epsilon Sigman Alpha, a social sorority for women which selected her as its Outstanding Young Woman of the year.

When Mrs. Morehead is not busy with her music, she finds time to enjoy other hobbies, which include reading and cooking. ("I love to cook!" she says.)

Morehead finds entertainment in his spare time in fishing and photography, two of his favorite pastimes.

As a family, the Moreheads enjoy cookouts and family picnics and outings.

"We go fishing a lot," says Mrs. Morehead. "Charles and the children love to fish and I go along for the ride."

Morehead is now a Kiwanian, and was a member of the Lions club in Canadian. He was chairman of the Canadian branch of Opportunity Plan, which provides financial aid for students who wish to attend college, and was chairman of Canadian's Red Cross blood drive.

The family is active in First United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Morehead mentions the Hereford school system as impressive, and describes the Kings Manor complex as "...one of the finest institutions of its kind in the country."

"Hereford's fortunate to have it," she continues, "and it's fortunate to be located in Hereford."

Her reaction to Hereford itself is equally enthusiastic: "I like it," she says, "very well!"

Program For Year Viewed

A preview of programs for the 1972-73 year was given American Legion Auxiliary members at this week's meeting in the Legion Hall when Mrs. Milton Adams reported for the yearbook committee. Mrs. Jim Pavlicek and Mrs. Nora Paetzold were hostesses.

Working with Mrs. Adams on the committee which prepared the new yearbooks were Mmes. Leroy Williamson, S.T. Wiseman and Ira Ott.

Delegates were elected to a district meeting to be held later this month in Amarillo. They are the president, Mrs. J.G. Gandy and Mmes. Gaylon Bryan, Elbert Vance, James Jesko and Tom Draper.

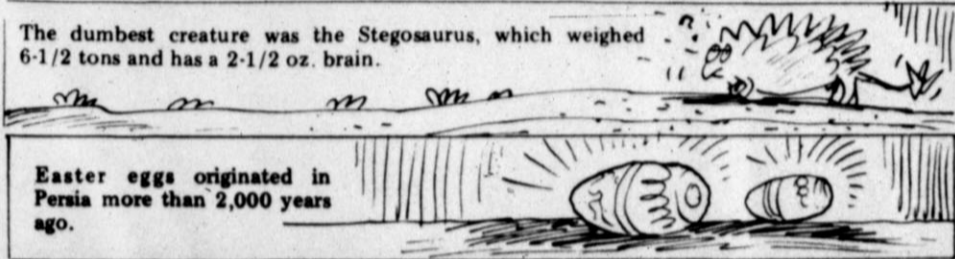

Committee reports included one on the recent Harvest Dinner, project to raise funds for Auxiliary activities including a scholarship. Mrs. Ott was the speaker, giving rules on how and when to display the United States flag.

French leader Napoleon Bonaparte was born on Aug. 15, 1769.

Mrs. Vigisl is a 1972 graduate of Hereford High School and is employed in the county attorney's office. Her sister is an HHS student. Both men are employed on the Dee Taylor farm in Frio community. Vigil graduated from Hereford High in 1971 and Rodriguez with the class of 1972.

Dresses Of Dolls Depict Study Topic

Dolls dressed in costumes of peoples around the world centered tables where lunch was served Wednesday to First United Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service. They pointed to the program theme, World Culture and World Community.

Mrs. Robert Josserand was leader of a panel discussion on cultures of various parts of the world. Mmes. Earnest Langley, Carroll McDonald, Norman Gray and D.N. Garner formed the panel of speakers.

Mrs. Garner, vice president, conducted business. A district CWU meeting beginning at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 6 in the Salvation Army Center at Amarillo was announced.

Members were invited to attend the churchwide mission study titled Validity of the Christian Mission, to be conducted in Sunday evening services during October.

Hostesses were from Nettie Price Slaton circle of the society, with Mrs. Garner as chairman. They included Miss Mildred Elliott, Mmes. Bill Walden, W.C. Hromas, and Baker Womble.

Club Elects Officers

Election of officers for the ICT-VICA Club of Hereford High School was held at the first meeting of the year.

Leo Urias was chosen president, Roy Messer vice president, Ricky Riggan secretary-treasurer, Paula Haug reporter, Clifton Carlton sergeant at arms. Paula Haug was also selected as club sweetheart.

Another meeting will be held later this month to plan a float for Homecoming.

Sisters Are Brides In Double Wedding Service

Married in a double wedding ceremony in the home of the brides' mother, Mrs. Margarita Valdez, two couples will make their homes in Hereford. Miss Angie Valdez and Fidel Vigil, Miss Genodeva Valdez and Hector Rodriguez exchanged wedding vows the morning of September 2.

Justice of the Peace Glen Nelson performed the double ceremony, with families of both couples present. Vigil is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Vigil of the Frio community, Rodriguez the son of Mr. Mrs. Santana Rodriguez of Hereford.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pena served as witnesses for the Valdez-Vigil marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Galvan for the other couple.

Both the Misses Valdez wore bridal gowns in white, formal length, and carried white folwers.

A reception in the home for approximately a hundred guests followed the wedding, then the two couples left for short trips. Several relatives and friends from other cities as well as local guests were at the reception.

Mrs. Vigisl is a 1972 graduate of Hereford High School and is employed in the county attorney's office. Her sister is an HHS student. Both men are employed on the Dee Taylor farm in Frio community. Vigil graduated from Hereford High in 1971 and Rodriguez with the class of 1972.

Effective Ways

How should we judge the performance of our criminal justice system — by its success in 'punishing' the criminal, or by its success in protecting society?

I think most of us are more concerned with the protection of society. If harsh punishment is necessary to that end, so be it. On the other hand, if punishment does not seem to work, then we'd better keep our eye on the ball, and find something that does.

There is very convincing evidence that new ways of dealing with some criminals can pay off in a reduction of the crime rate and a net savings in the cost of rehabilitation as well.

Consider what often happens today with a first-time offender. He may be acquitted on a technicality, which is another problem in itself. Or, he may be placed on probation, rather than being sent to prison.

If he gets probation, chances are the probation officer assigned to supervise him will have a caseload so large that no real supervision will be possible. If he goes to prison, he will enter a criminal 'finishing school.' He will learn — from more experienced criminals — how to avoid the mistakes that got him caught. He will learn new lawbreaking techniques. His bitterness, his anti-social attitudes, will be reinforced by constant exposure to a like-minded population.

He will have to be released some day...98 per cent are. And when he is, chances are that he will come out an even greater danger to society than he was when he went in. If he is released on parole, in most cases he will get scant attention from overworked parole officials. If he has completed his full term, he won't be under any supervision at all.

When he returns to the community, he will probably have great difficulty finding honest work, because of his criminal record (and the same government that certified his debt to society 'paid' is just as likely as the businessman to discriminate against him on this basis).

In short, the way the system works now, we are almost guaranteed that an ex-convict will return to crime after he gets out — and 70 per cent do.

Is there a better way? Yes. The experts acknowledge that some criminals must be separated from society — these are the violent ones, who would be a serious danger to others if left at large. About 30 per cent of the present prison population falls into this category. But the rest — the other 70 per cent — would be better off remaining in society, under close supervision. That last phrase is the key. No one pretends that such treatment of offenders will work with today's overloaded probation system. What's needed is a probation officer for every 25-35 probationers, rather than one for every 100-150, as is often the case now.

With that kind of ratio, the probation officer can help the convict find a job (with a little bit of help and understanding from his own community), help him get his personal life straightened out, and stay close by to guide him past temptation until living an honest life becomes a habit. 'Work-release' programs are an interesting and successful variation on this general approach. In these, the convict works at a regular job by day and returns to 'jail' at night.

Coddling? Perhaps. But the key point is, it works. Is the alternative — the 'finishing school for crime' — better for society?

Expensive? Surprisingly, no. In fact, it costs the taxpayers about $11,000 a year to keep a man in prison, but only about $365 to give him adequate probationary supervision. And on probation, he is holding down a useful job and paying taxes as well.

Republicans Eye Congress Control

By Bert Mills
Washington, D.C. — Landslide fever has infected Republican leaders, who now nurse the hope that President Nixon's coattails will prove long enough on November 7 to produce the first Republican controlled Congress since 1954. All polls show the President leading Senator McGovern by so wide a margin that the landslide dream could conceivably come true, despite Nixon's track record of winning or losing elections only by a narrow margin, and despite the fact that there are more Democrats than Republicans. No presidential candidate, since scientific polling was invented, has ever lost after holding such a long lead as a campaign began. The last time there was anything like Nixon's 2-to-1 edge over McGovern President Lyndon Johnson won by a landslide over Senator Barry Goldwater in 1964. Politicians regard anything over 55 percent of the popular vote as a landslide, because the electoral vote system tends to inflate the margin of the winner. Although capturing only 43.3 percent of the popular vote in 1968, Nixon swamped Senator Hubert Humphrey in the Electoral College, 301-191. The absence of a strong third party threat this year, such as was presented by George Wallace in 1968, increases the chance for a landslide in 1972. And if this is to be a landslide year, nobody doubts the winner will be Nixon.

Best Chance in Senate
Republican chances in Congress are better in the Senate than in the House. There are 33 Senate seats being contested, 19 now held by Republicans and 14 by Democrats. G.O.P. planners figure they need a net gain of five to organize the Senate. If the Republicans do gain five Senate seats, the party split would be 49-49. Senator James Buckley of New York, elected as a Conservative but an enrolled Republican, could be counted on for the 50th vote. Vice President Spiro Agnew would then break the 50-50 tie to allow the Republicans to organize the Senate and name the committee chairman.

Another possibility is that Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia, elected as an Independent but a former Democrat who often votes with the Republicans, could be persuaded either to turn Republican or vote with the G.O.P. to organize the Senate while remaining an Independent.

In the House, the Republicans have only an outside chance to gain control. It would take a net gain of 40 seats, a tremendous task. An improvement of 20-25 House seats would appear to be a more reasonable estimate.

Some Democratic officeholders in both the Senate and House are anti-McGovern and are running independent campaigns. A few Southerners in that group are being eyed by Republicans as possible prospects for a post-election switch of parties, assuming McGovern's defeat.

Nixon Seeks 'New Majority'
President Nixon has called for a 'new majority' to back his candidacy. He has also expressed his hope for a Republican majority in Congress so "we could have responsibility for leadership." However, he has conceded that it will be "tough for us to elect a Republican majority."

Nixon has been frustrated during his first term because the Democratic Congress has refused to pass major White House programs. If he does win a resounding victory in November, he will deserve the chance to work with a Republican Congress.

Many voters will be splitting their tickets this year. Some anti-McGovern Democrats and Independents will vote for Nixon but not for Senate and House candidates on his team. This will be too bad because if Nixon wins by a landslide, he will have earned the right to a sympathetic Congress.

Talk Of Texas

By Jack Maguire
FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY — East Texas pine trees furnished the first "gas" used for lighting in Texas.

In 1871, J.M. Thomas incorporated the Jefferson Gas Light Co. and began making the artificial fuel from short lengths of pine logs and knots. These were placed in iron retorts seven feet long and two feet wide with one end tapered to form a mouth like a jug. Pine was inserted through a door in the bottom of the retort, then was subjected to intense heat.

The burning wood produced a steam-like substance which rose through the mouth of the retort and into a network of iron pipes. Thus it was delivered to customers.

The artificial gas was forced through the pipes under pressure. This was accomplished by the use of a large drum which would be raised each day and then allowed to sink gradually by the force of gravity. Its weight forced the gas through the pipes, and on to the merchants who were the customers.

PAGING-DR. KILDARE — If you're sick in one of 22 Texas counties, you'll better feel well enough to make a long trip to the nearest doctor.

There is not a practicing physician in these counties: Borden, Briscoe, Carson, Glasscock, Hartley, Hudspeth, Irion, Jeff Davis, Kenedy, Kent, King, Kinney, Lipscomb, Loving, McMullen, Oldham, Real, Roberts, San Jacinto, Sherman, Stonewall and Terrell.

ECOLOGISTS AT WORK — The Texas pistachio, the Anacacho orchid, the Madrone and at least 100 other native Texas plants and trees are on their way to extinction.

This is the word from the Rare Plant Study Center at the University of Texas — the only agency attempting to save and propagate the state's native trees, shrubs, wildflowers and grasses.

The pistachio, whose natural habitat at the juncture of the Rio Grande and Pecos Rivers disappeared under the rising waters behind Amistad Dam, may be the first to go. Only seven pistachios are known to exist now.

The Anacacho orchid, always rare because it has never grown anywhere except in the Anacacho Hills west of Uvalde, is faring a little better. The Austin Rare Plant Study Center has grown about 150 of the trees and will transplant them in environments where they can be expected to propagate with care.

The Texas Madrone, a native evergreen made especially beautiful by its red bark, is heading toward extinction also. This is because the young trees are a favorite food of deer and other animals.

Hereford schools will open Monday, Sept. 11, under conditions which point to the best year in their history. Extensive improvements at both buildings, new equipment, and addition to the faculty of two members, can mean only one thing — increased efficiency. Hereford has long been famous for its cattle and its irrigation system, but there is rapidly arising on the horizon a rival for a place in the sun of the local economic standbys. The mayor's salary was reduced from $100 per month to $50 per month and the commissioner's salary dropped from $40 a month to $5 per meeting, and not to exceed $25 per month the officials read the section, approved the item — and took their medicine with a grin....

Will-O'-The Wisp

As it stands, the office of Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is one that will frustrate and finally do in any occupant who starts with the assumption that it is possible for the federal government to save the central cities.

In just such a fashion George Romney has been done in. Where his predecessors failed he assumed he could succeed by a mixture of organizational skill and evangelical zeal. But the most he could do was to make HUD better organized for a job that can't be done. Now, with the White House unwilling to string along with Mr. Romney in his desire to pursue a will-o'-the-wisp, he has announced he will leave government after the elections, presumably to continue his pursuit within the private sector.

Still and all, Mr. Romney has made an important contribution to the future of America's cities. Building on the foundation laid by his predecessors, he has conclusively demonstrated the futility of trying to solve "the urban problem" by pouring federal housing subsidies into the inner cities. Despite isolated instances of progress, the expensive and scandal-ridden low-income homeownership scheme and the continuing failure of urban renewal and Model Cities have on net been federal contributions to the plight of the cities.

But while Mr. Romney has more or less acknowledged this, wondering if the central-city housing programs shouldn't simply be cancelled from here on, he hasn't been able to abandon the notion that somehow there is a federal solution. What tore it with the White House was his idea for a combined urban-suburban approach to the problem — the scattering of low- and moderate-income housing in the suburbs.

Although the idea has as much political appeal in middle-class America as does massive cross-busling, and is thereby fanciful, it does have some simple logic. It recognizes that federal housing aid to the inner city only concentrates the problems of crime, drug addiction, unemployment.

"The time will come," Edward Banfield wrote four years ago in "The Unheavenly City," "when cleared land in the depopulated central city will be worth less than vacant land in the heavily populated suburbs. When this time comes, the direction of metropolitan growth will reverse itself: The well-off will move from the suburbs to the cities, probably causing editorial writers to deplore the "flight to the central city" and politicians to call for government programs to check it by redeveloping the suburbs."

We're not suggesting the time has come, and the salvation of the cities is at hand. We do suggest that in the life cycles of cities the primary forces are powerful and complex economic ones, which the federal social engineers have neither the resources nor understanding to reverse. The pursuit of the impossible can often do more harm than good, and perhaps the best thing the next Secretary of HUD can do to help the cities is to avoid the notion that if only he looks hard enough he can find a federal solution.

THE BOOTLEG — Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm goes overboard this week over a new discovery.

Dear editor: Since it apparently is impossible to keep people from throwing cans and bottles out of their cars, science has just about come up with a solution, according to an item I read in a newspaper somebody threw out of his car near this place yesterday.

A scientist claims he has invented a plastic container which can be scheduled to self-destruct. Exposed to sunlight, it melts into nothingness, but the time of its melting can be regulated over days or months by changing the formula, so you suddenly find yourself on a picnic holding nothing but a handful of sodawater.

But beyond solving the litter problem, this idea has far more practical uses. For example, all television and radio tapes of political speeches should be made of this self-destructing material. Say a man is running for Justice of the Peace on a platform of increased trade with China. It's embarrassing to have his opponent play a recording of his denunciation of all dealings with China when he ran the time before.

Or a judge comes out on the steps of the courthouse and in the glare of television lights says he's for a thousand dollars for everybody, and three months later says he's not.

Some smart alec for the networks is always going back and digging out these tapes and playing them side by side, and if Congress is on it's toes it'll pass a law immediately requiring all such tapes to be made of material that'll melt away. The right formula for the time shouldn't be held responsible for what he said a year ago, some say three months would be a more realistic figure. If it works, would certainly be ideal for notes you sign at the bank. And there may even be editors who wish some of their last-year's opinions would melt away when exposed to sunlight.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

By the Garden Gate

With Glad

By Mrs. Art Manjeot

September brings the beginning of fall and cooler weather. The pattern of our garden efforts change from emphasis on planting and maintenance chores, to stressing activities connected with preparation for harvesting of fruits and making jellies, pickles, relishes and preserves, saving late greens and other vegetables for winter needs.

Propagation of numerous kinds of plants, shrubs, favorite flowers, and selecting cuttings of plants which we wish to ready for planting. Now is the time to take cuttings from roses.

The following are notes that I took while Mrs. O.G. Hill Sr., demonstrated how to raise roses from cuttings. Mrs. Hill has been very successful with roses, and her garden has a number of excellent roses which she has grown from cuttings selected from her yard, and those of friends.

First step: Assemble mechanics which will be needed; they are clippers or sharp knife, Root-tone, and a container of water. This container should be tall enough to support the length of the cutting.

Second step: Select strong well-grown stem (this year's growth). Qualities of stem are well-matured, with some hard wood, full grown foliage with healthy conditions.

Break stem at the first joint, going down towards the main plant. Care should be used to not tear the stem. After breaking it, carefully cut loose from plant at the node. A clean cut is needful so the plant will not be injured.

Third step: Clip off the bottom node and faded bloom. Remove lower leaves so they will not be in water when the selected cutting is placed in the container of water. Leave in water until ready to plant. Mrs. Hill stated that cuttings can be made of roses which have been received in an arrangement.

Fourth step: Prepare soil by spading and deepening the hole in which the cutting is to be planted. The cutting should be planted in the location where you want the rose to grow permanently.

The location should have good drainage (roses do not like wet feet) with at least sunshine for a half day or longer. Should have good air circulation, and compatible plants growing nearby. Good garden soil which is friable is necessary. Sand sharp) and pea moss added to good top soil will make for good growth.

Fifth step: Take container of water, root-tone, and cuttings to selected location. Remove cutting from water, cut leaves from stem for at least 6 inches of the stem (can be longer. Mrs. Hill often plants cuttings 12 inches in depth.)

Dip the cut end of cutting in the root-tone and place in the prepared hole. Firm the soil well to the cutting. Cover with a glass jar which has height sufficient to completely cover upper part of cutting. A gallon glass jar or jug can be used successfully.

If desired the bottom of jar can be removed by glass cutter, and the jar then placed securely over cutting with screw-top up if a large mouthed jar is selected, the screw-top part of jar can be placed at bottom, leaving the jar bottom at top of cutting.

The reason for having the solid bottom of glass cut off, is that in early spring when weather is warm, the screw lip can be removed for air and sunshine, then replaced before night or during cold weather.

Mrs. Hill uses both and stated that usually she left the solid glass bottom on, and during winter and hot sunshine she placed a board cover on top of jar and weighted it down securely so that it wouldn't fall off and cause damage to the cutting.

Sixth step: Leave glass cover until damage of freeze or frost is well past. When growing season is right then remove glass jar and the cutting will soon respond to growing conditions, making a nice rose bush.

Mrs. Hill showed me numerous plants which she had planted. Also gave me names of those which she recommends for cuttings:

Hybrid tea roses: Crimson Glory, White Knight, Sutter's Gold, Peace, Chicago Peace, Mohave.

Floribundas: Vogue, Guss-An-Aachen, Fashion (this is the variety of rose which grows so beautifully at Mrs. Ralph McCullough's on Texas Ave.) Goldlocks (Mrs. H. took a blue ribbon on a specimen at the judges show in the garden center last week), Pink Pinocchio, and Red Pinocchio.

Grandi-florias: Queen

Elizabeth and Carousel, an old favorite, are of quality for good cuttings. Mrs. Hill has successfully grown numerous cuttings from Queen Elizabeth. The roses growing on the south side of the Hereford Garden center are Queen Elizabeth, which she grew from cuttings. The climbing roses on the north side are Blossom Time and they have bloomed from early spring. They are dainty and sweet and a very sturdy climber.

Climbers can also be raised from cuttings. Dr. Nicholas has been grown by Mrs. Hill from cuttings. This is an old rose which is still popular, is a very pretty pink, having strong canes which makes it wind resistant.

Other plants can be successfully grown from cuttings. Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Mitchell and I are growing some front ivies. They are Pixie, Needle-point, and English. These were given us from the Amarillo Garden Center. Betchold ivy can also be grown in this way, and it is a beautiful hardy ivy. It grows well on brick walls; there is some on the south wall of the memorial rose garden at First Baptist Church, and also in Sugarland Mall. The ruffled edge is lovely and foliage color is excellent.

THIS AND THAT: This is the month for flower shows. The following garden clubs are having their annual fall flower shows; Clovis, with Mrs. Jack Eshleman as chairman, Lubbock Garden Clubs, with Mrs. Carroll Anderson serving a chairman ship, Pampa Garden Club, Bud to Blossom Garden Club of Hereford, and The Hereford Garden Club. There are busy days ahead for all club members, and some extra duties for national flower show judges.

During the month of September, Christmas cherries and Christmas peppers should be lifted from the garden and carefully potted. Caution...do not use too large a pot, space which will contain comfortably the entire root system is large enough.

If the ground is dry where they are growing, soak it thoroughly a few hours before the plants are dug. Keep the newly potted plants in a cool place away from sunshine and drafts. In a week or so gradually accustom them to more air and light.

Roses should be groomed. All fallen leaves and other debris should be removed. All diseased parts should be pruned out and weak wood shortened. Apply a dressing of fertilizer. Use care in applying this and do not over feed. Excess stimulation could prove harmful.

Continue to feed chrysanthemums until the bud shows color, then lighten the feeding and continue to water thoroughly. Check for buds which should be removed thus giving strength and growth to the exhibition blooms.

Dahlias should be watered consistently and buds carefully removed so the blossoms will be good exhibition material. Dahlia stalks should be groomed. All discolored foliage and any part of the plant which has dried and deteriorated should be pruned away.

Place the seed which you plan to plant for summer bloom in the refrigerator for a couple of weeks before sowing. Calendulas, snapdragons, larkspurs, and pansies are some of the annuals that should be planted now.

Radishes and leaf lettuce can be planted now, and will give an added zest to the menu.

Manor Auxiliary Group Told Of Proposed Class

FIVE GENERATIONS — A birthday celebration this week brought together five generations of a family, culminating in twins, the 10-month-old daughters of the Lenny Petrees. Oldest in the group is Mrs. Sally Briscoe of Dimmitt, seated, who was here on the birthday of her daughter, Mrs. Zane Foster, right. Mrs. G.W. Petree and her son, Lenny Petree, hold the twins, Mende and Melanie.

A new program to help residents of Westgate unit at Kings Manor retirement home 'add life to their years,' was explained when the health, activities and auxiliary committee of Kings Manor Auxiliary met recently. Fall activity was planned and other work of volunteers reviewed.

Enlistment of more workers in the residents' aides program, after a decline during summer vacation days, was cited as an immediate need.

Specifically, instructors in crafts and china painting are needed at Kings Manor; Mrs. Virgil Dodson is conducting classes in oil painting.

A report on the success of Saturday afternoon teas at Westgate, begun this summer with Laura Gibson as chairman, included the request that the teas be held every Saturday. Auxiliary members are asked to provide cookies for refreshments.

Mrs. A.T. Mims announced that draperies have been made for the activities room and sunrooms at Westgate under direction of the sunshine committee.

The new program, explained by Charles Morehead when he was introduced as the recently arrived administrator of Kings Manor, is a novel concept called Reality Orientation, a series of daily classes designed to counteract senility and 're-educate the most reluctant students in the world, our elderly, and help them continue useful lives.'

Auxiliary members and other willing persons are being asked to serve in this project, and if possible to attend a training session at Roswell Oct. 2 and 3.

Morehead was introduced by Dr. John English, executive director of Kings Manor, to the committee members, Mrs. W.L. Davis Jr., chairman, and Mrs. H.R. Cocanougher, Don Davidson, Don Martin, Carroll McDonald, Wes Fisher, David Gibson and Earl Harkins.

First GOP convention held in December, 1831

At the first major-party convention ever held, by the National Republicans in Baltimore, Md., in December, 1831, the weather was so bad that straggling delegates continued to arrive throughout the proceedings.

According to the Encyclopedia Americana, some didn't make it until after the nominations were over. And that was the last time a national major-party convention was held in the winter.

Stuffed vegetables can support entree

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

Stuffed vegetables can lend glamorous support to the entree. Though easy to prepare, they lend a gourmet air to the menu star. And they can even take the star's place, when stuffed with a protein food.

Green peppers are stuffed with frozen Spanish rice, canned tomato soup and ground beef in an easy stuffed vegetable meal headliner. The peppers are topped with slices of American cheese, which melt to a golden topping. Savory Stuffed Squash features acorn squash with an unusual sweet-tart combination of croutons and mandarin orange sections seasoned with an envelope of seasoning mix for Sloppy Joes.

RICE STUFFED PEPPERS—OLE!

- 6 medium green peppers
- One 12-oz. package Spanish rice frozen in the stay-perfect pouch
- 1 pound ground beef
- One 10½-oz. can condensed tomato soup
- ½ cup water
- ½ cup chopped celery
- 2 tablespoons

- Worcestershire sauce
- 1 to 1½ teaspoons chili powder
- ½ teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 3 slices American cheese.

Remove tops, cores and seeds from peppers; cook in lightly salted boiling water about 5 minutes; drain. Cook rice according to package directions only until thawed. In medium skillet, brown ground beef and onion; drain off excess fat. Stir in rice, soup, water, celery, Worcestershire sauce and seasonings. Spoon meat mixture into peppers; place in flat baking dish. Bake in preheated 375 degrees oven for 25 minutes; place cheese slices on top of peppers and bake for an additional 5 minutes. Serves 6.

SUPPORTING CAST — Stuffed green peppers are easy to make with such convenience as frozen Spanish rice and canned tomato soup, along with ground beef. Slices of American cheese lend a golden topping.

Fossil assemblages

In 1798, William Smith, an English engineer, discovered that certain layers of rocks contained fossils unlike those in other layers, and that rocks of the same age could be identified by their similar or related fossil assemblages.

Through this process geologists are able to match strata of the same age throughout a large region.

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY W. F. FOSTER.
Our Story: A BRIGHT DAY FOLLOWS THE STORM AND PRINCE VALIANT AND DASH GO HUNTING AGAIN, LEAVING THE BOATMEN TO BAIL OUT THE BOAT AND DRY THEIR THINGS IN THE SUN.

THE LIONS ARE NOT HUNGRY, MERELY CURIOUS. BUT THE KING OF BEASTS KEEPS A KING AND A PRINCE IN A THORN TREE MOST OF THE DAY.

THE RIVER WINDS SLOWLY THROUGH A GREAT MARSHLAND AND THE SPORTSMEN TRY THEIR HAND AT DUCK HUNTING.

THEN ON THE NORTHWIND COME THE WILD GEESSE CALLING. FLOCK UPON FLOCK THEY COME ON HIGHROADS IN THE SKY THAT THEY ALONE KNOW. TO VAL THEY BRING A MESSAGE: WINTER HAS COME TO HIS HOMELAND.

HUNTING IS FORGOTTEN. INSTEAD COMES A GREAT LONGING FOR THE MOUNTAINS AND FJORDS OF HOME, CAMELOT AND THE GALLANT KNIGHTS, THE VAST OAK FORESTS OF BRITAIN. IF HE STARTS NOW HE MIGHT BE HOME BY SPRING.

DASH, TOO, IS ANXIOUS TO RETURN TO HIS THRONE, FOR HE HAS LEARNED MANY THINGS ON THIS HUNTING EXPEDITION. THE LITTLE TYRANT WOULD NEVER BE THE SAME AGAIN.

THEIR HOLIDAY ENDS AT A LITTLE TOWN NEAR THE MOUTH OF THE RIVER. HERE THEY WILL TAKE HORSES FOR THE RETURN TO ATHELDAG.

THE GOVERNOR TREATS THEM AS VAGABONDS UNTIL DASH SHOWS THE ROYAL SIGNET RING. AFTER WHICH THERE IS NO TROUBLE AT ALL.

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
For some time I have collected a wild assortment of plastic materials such as bottles, containers of all sorts, and plastic lids.

I try getting as many small petal-like pieces out of these as I can. Some pieces can be glued together to create candle sconces which, when finished, have the appearance of carved ivory. Using large coffee can covers as a base, you can mount some pieces to form jigsaw puzzle-like art when glued together.

I also save all sorts of aluminum pieces such as throw-away pie tins and TV trays. I use these in amateur sculpture practice and the colored pieces are used for jewel accents.

Any young child can mold a dog, cat, house, etc., out of the aluminum, and the practice helps to give them a crea-

Thanks for enlightening us with a real corker of an idea.

DEAR HELOISE:
I needed a lazy Susan or relish tray for a church supper and since I didn't have one, here's what I did.

I used an old plastic silverware tray divider. It had four rectangular compartments, three lengthwise and one across the end.

We neatly covered all the inside with felt and filled it with pickles, olives, celery, hot peppers and radishes.

Everything in the tray looked delightful and it didn't take much room on the crowded buffet table.

SEW LONG!

BABY BANANAS

DEAR HELOISE:
When our baby started to eat finger foods, fresh banana spears were his favorite. But picking up a slippery piece of banana is so difficult.

I discovered that rolling the little spears in graham cracker crumbs solved the problem perfectly. He could pick up the pieces as easy as could be.

HANG ON, GIRLS!

DEAR HELOISE:
This is a hint for Junior and Cadette Girl Scouts. It's a place to store your tie, belt, sash and patrol leader cord.

Take a laundry hanger, the kind with paper around it. With scissors, cut a hole about 4 1/2" x 1" in the center. Put your sash through that. Then cut a hole about 1" long and 3/4" wide. Put your

DEAR HELOISE:
We always had trouble finding our maintenance instructions for such items as the lawn mower, water sprinkler, lawn edger and other household items.

Then we found that hanging a clip board in the tool area of our basement solved this problem easily. I simply fasten them on the clip board. There they are, with the tools, ready to be of service when needed.

Here's my idea for making cute stationery:

Some of us have cotton shift dresses that are out of style now. Mine were all lined with a very fine cotton fabric.

DEAR HELOISE:
Want a slick way to make stuffed cabbage so it really stays stuffed without using toothpicks?

The usual way is to place the meat mixture on the thick edge of the cabbage leaf, roll it over, tuck over the sides, roll it over again and fasten with toothpicks.

I've used the following method since I was 12 years old—I really think I invented this method:

Put the meat mixture in the thick edge of the cabbage leaf, then roll it up all the way. Now you have two open ends. All you do is stuff them into the meat mixture—just poke them into the meat.

It's really very simple and much easier than using toothpicks. And I guarantee you'll have a cabbage roll that won't come apart. It really works. Try it!

● How can you walk out of a room with two legs and come back with six? It's easy when you know how. When you return, bring a chair (or a kitten, etc.) with you.

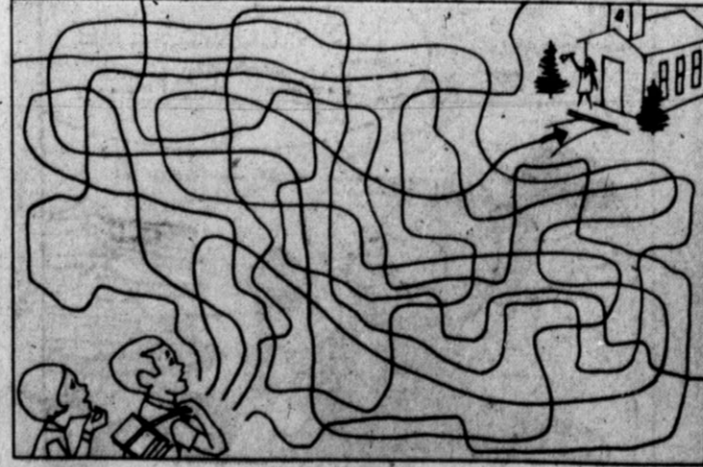

● Put on your thinking cap for this: What is the smallest number that you can spell using any letters from D to N inclusive?

THIS is a trick with which to "stick" someone. It calls for a conspiracy, as follows:

When someone suggests a round of refreshments, a "game" is played to see who'll serve. Each participant places his right hand palm up on the table.

Then, at the count of three, the last person to flip his wrist and slap the table loses.

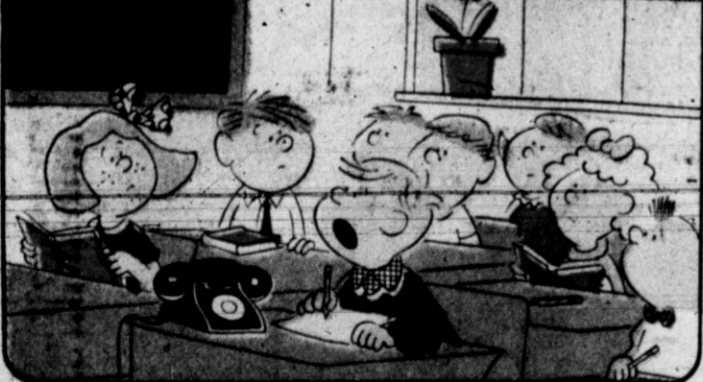

When the count is sounded, however, the conspirators simply pull their hands away. The "victim" is the first and last to slap the table, and therefore stuck.
