The fate of a $1.39 million school bond issue will be decided Tuesday when school district residents will be asked to vote on a three fold issue for massive improvements throughout the school system.

Branding Time

By Speedy Nieman

The feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says there is no greater obstacle in the way of success in life than trusting for something to turn up, instead of going to work and turning up something.

Time cannot wither Christmas, for it belongs to eternity.

The unusually cold weather hasn't slowed the Christmas shoppers much in Hereford. All indications of traffic around town reveals that local business firms are doing a good job of serving the shopping area that centers in this community.

There is one good thing about winter — he brings Christmas. Through the bleak December the thought of the coming festival is pleasant — like the reflection of a fire on our faces. We taste the cake before it is baked, and when it is actually before us we find that it is none the worse for the fond handling of imagination. — Alexander Smith.

City and county officials were anxious to learn the amounts of the revenue-sharing checks they were to receive, possibly by Monday. Treasury officials had reported this week that some "very substantial shifts" had been made between the amounts expected and the amounts sent.

Some will get up to 50 per cent more than anticipated; some will get up to 50 per cent less. The changes result from a special Treasury survey this summer to determine the tax effort of localities during 1971. Local officials think this could mean a decrease in what was anticipated here, since the economy is so healthy in the area.

Voters in the Hereford Independent School District have an important decision to make Tuesday in the $1.39 million bond election. We urge voters to study the issues of the proposed improvements, make a decision based on sound reasoning, and go to the polls.

There has been some discussion around the country recently about which is the most reliable news source — a newspaper, radio, or television. A TV news reporter last Saturday unwittingly gave a testimonial to the printed word. He was giving football scores and came across one that surprised him. "I won't believe this one until I see it in print," he exclaimed.

A lady called me this week to inquire about movie ratings, and I didn't know the answers at that time. She was concerned after seeing "a lot of high school kids" at an "R" movie here.

Scott Brewer, local theater manager, tells me that the ratings are: G — general audience; PG — parental See "Branding", Page 2

Water Importation, Crops Is Agricultural Day Topic

Water importation and crop production problems — two of the major ingredients in the economy of Deaf Smith County — will be discussed Thursday during a special "Agricultural Day" to be held at the Bull Barn.

The day-long session is being sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Water Association and the Deaf Smith County Crops Committee. The session, open to the public, will feature a variety of speakers along with a free barbecue luncheon catered by the Hereford Rotary Club.

A special table will be set up at the session to renew memberships and solicit new ones in the Deaf Smith County Water Association.

This is being done as part of the push to increase the membership of the association so it can retain a director to serve on the Water, Inc. board.

According to the latest figures from Water, Inc., Deaf Smith County had only 91 members in good standing in Water, Inc. At least 100 members are needed to maintain a director from this county on the water board.

If the figure is not reached by Dec. 15, the single county district of Deaf Smith County will cease to be a single county district unit and the term of the district director now serving on the Water, Inc. board will be terminated.

The morning session of the "Agricultural Day" festivities will begin with registration at 10:30 and the welcome will be given at 11 a.m. by Charles Hoover, chairman of the Deaf Smith County Water Association. He also will serve as moderator for the morning session.

From 11 to 11:25 a.m., Dr. John Shipley will discuss "Looking to the Future for Maximizing Water Use Efficiency." He will be followed by a discussion on "Irrigation of

Herd Lands Four On District Team

Champion Monterey landed the most players on the 4-AAAA, all-district teams, but Lubbock High, Hereford and Snyder also came away with some top honors in the annual voting.

Glenn Yarbrough of Monterey and Keith Kitchens of Hereford, two standout quarterbacks, tied for "Player of the Year" honors as named by district sports writers. Named as unanimous selections by writers were Welton Cobb of Snyder as "Sophomore of the Year", and Tommy Stone of Lubbock High as "Coach of the Year".

The district coaches picked the offensive and defensive teams, with Monterey landing 5 on the 16-member offensive squad and 4 on the 15-member defensive unit. The Westerners, who rallied to a second-place finish in the district, had 7 players represented on the two teams, and Hereford claimed 6 positions. The other three schools landed 3 players each on the teams.

The Herd landed four players on the offensive team — seniors Keith Kitchens and Wesley High in the backfield, senior Terry Champ as a split receiver, and junior Jim Marsh as a tackle. The Whitefaces had only two on the defensive squad — linebacker Winston Short and halfback Barry McNutt, both seniors.

High was the top rusher in the district with 997 yards, averaging more than 5 yards a carry, and he tied for the scoring leadership with 8 touchdowns. Kitchens had the most yards passing and was second in the total offense. This marked the second year for him to be tabbed for "Player of the Year" honors, winning the title as a junior when he guided the Herd to the state quarterfinals.

Marsh, 6-3, 200, who played both ways some of the time, was one of the key men in the Hereford offensive line — a group which helped the team wind up as the top offensive unit in the league. He was one of three juniors named on the offensive squad.

Short, 5-9, 205, was the "heart" of the Whitefaces defense and one of the team's co-captains. He missed two and one-half games with a broken foot but still managed to rank among the top tacklers in the district. McNutt, 5-10, 145, was another veteran of the defensive unit for the Whitefaces and was the smallest player picked on the all-district teams. He also played both ways, catching 8 passes and scoring twice from his split-end position.

The offensive team selected by coaches had two centers, three tackles, three split receivers, and five backs. Joining Kitchens and High in the backfield were Yarbrough and Bobby Pipkin of Monterey, and Arthur Wooley of Plainview.

There were 13 seniors and 3 juniors on the offensive team. The defensive team was more divided, having 7 seniors, 7 juniors and 1 sophomore.

Snyder failed to place a player on the offensive team, but had three on the defensive squad despite yielding more yards than any other team in the district.

Signs Must Have Permit

Owners of advertising signs within 660 feet of Highway 60 and other U.S. and major state highways must apply for permits required under the Texas Highway Beautification act by Dec. 31, according to Texas Highway Department officials.

The act requires that anyone erecting or maintaining signs along the routes must have a license to do so, and controls all signs, large and small, with the exception of those advertising on-premise activities or offering the property for sale.

In addition to a license, sign owners must have permits for each sign now standing and those to be erected in the future.

Sign owners must first obtain a state license and post a bond. The license fee is $25 and the license is valid for an indefinite period.

The license application must be accompanied by a bond in the amount of $2,500 for each county in which signs are located, or a maximum bond of $10,000 for owners with signs in more than three counties.

Both license and bond applications may be obtained by writing the Right of Way Division, Texas Highway Department, P.O. Box 5075, Austin, Texas 78763.

After he receives the license, a sign owner may obtain permits for individual signs along the affected routes from the Right of Way Section of the Highway Department district

Cable Tower Construction Starts Soon

Construction on Hereford's CableVision tower will begin sometime between Christmas and the New Year, according to Clint Formby, president of Hereford CableVision.

Though Hereford's cable television franchise has not yet been granted by the Federal Communications Commission, Formby said that Hereford CableVision is under contract now for the erection of the tower, and will go ahead with that part of the project as soon as possible.

"We're hopeful that we'll receive approval for construction very soon, he said. "Within 90 days after we receive this certificate of approval, we should be taking subscription for CableVision service."

Will Present Program Concert

The Boys Ranch Roughrider band will perform in concert Friday at Sugarland Mall for one of many of the Mall's scheduled public presentations. The 60-member band will play Christmas music, beginning at 8 p.m. and continuing until about 9 p.m.

The public is invited to the Mall to hear the band.

Jury Returns Two Murder Indictments

The Deaf Smith County Grand Jury returned thirteen indictments, two of which were for murder charges, during a session which lasted more of the day Friday.

Indicted on murder charges for the Nov. 7 shooting death of his wife was 38-year-old Luis Garcia of Lubbock. Garcia was charged with murder with malice after testimony by the discovery of his wife's body on the outskirts of Hereford.

Roberto Rodriguez, 34, of Barracks 31 in the Labor-Camp, was indicted on murder charges in the Nov. 25 shooting death of another Hereford resident, 54-year-old Manuel Zavala.

Other indictments were returned against Kenneth Lax, 41, of 800 Monroe in Amarillo, and Richard O. Dean, also of Amarillo, for theft of false pretenses; Robert M. Eaton, 39, of Blue Water Garden apartments, felony Driving While Intoxicated; Juan Ybarra Enriquez, 26 of 411 Ave. B, and Manuel Ybarra Mendiola, 20, of 307 Ave. F, for theft.

Re-indicted were three Hereford residents charged in connection with what sheriff's officers said might be an "areawide forgery ring."

The indictments were returned against Lupe Crespin, 20, and her husband, Johnny Crespin, 21, of 205 Jowell, forgery and passing forged instrument; and Frank Crespin, 18, of Dimmitt, also for forgery and passing forged instrument.

Frank Crespin received four years probated sentence, while Lupe and Johnny and Johnny Crespin are being held other needs over the past several years, pointed out to voters that these items are only the things needed to keep the Hereford school system one of the most current and up-to-date in the state and nation.

"These things are essential for the best possible educational programs for our children," Superintendent Roy Hartman explained.

"We feel we are not meeting the job responsibilities if we are not making every attempt possible to keep our educational program up to date with the rest of the country."

If the bond issue fails, officials say, the program and the children will be the ones to suffer.

"If the bond issue does not pass, the programs are going to suffer and because of inadequate facilities, some children are going to suffer more than others. Which would amount to a discriminatory practice being carried out in our school system," Hartman said.

Assistant superintendent Bob Holman echoed the same thoughts, saying the veto of the bond issue would result in the "curtailing of the educational opportunities of the pupils."

"The answer to what if the bond issue fails, then what, is a hard one, but we could probably operate in a tin barn if we had to," Hartman said.

"But, we don't feel this is what the people want. We could rest on our laurels and not really be looking at the future, but this really what the people want? — I don't think so."

"The total program has moved along very smoothly because we have been involved in long-range planning in our curriculum and organization. I don't think the people want it to stop now."

In pointing out the needs for the passage of the bond issue, Hartman said the overcrowdedness of the school system now will face an even greater problem in the next six years when it becomes mandatory for schools to offer kindergarten programs set up by the state.

The state has said that all schools must offer the kindergarten program by the 1977-78 school year, for children 5 years of age and older. Hartman added that the construction of a new elementary school to replace Central would work well into that plan because the new structure would not be occupied until the 1974-75 school year.

Under the state ruling, children will be worked into a system each year with the oldest coming first, by the younger down to age 5 years 0 months.

"Our kindergarten program will be expanded next September, which means additional students," administrative assistant Bill Phillips pointed out.

"This means all students 5 years and 7 months — and not just the educationally deprived — will fall into this new plan."

Absent Voting 'About Normal'

Only 23 Hereford School District residents had voted absentee for Tuesday's bond election at the close of absentee voting Friday.

Over 100 absentee votes were cast in the school-board's June bond election.

O.L. Click, school district tax assessor-collector, said that the absentee voting turnout for Tuesday's upcoming election was "about normal", and attributed the large June turnout to the vacation season.

guidance recommended; R — restricted, 17 and under to be accompanied by parents; X — no one under 17 admitted.

The "PG" rating, says Brewer, means that the movie might contain some scenes which parents wouldn't want youngsters to see. Regarding "R" movies, adds Brewer, some parents come to the box office and ask that their children under 17 be admitted. "We try to watch ages and are stricter than most theaters on admission to 'R' movies," he stated.

Dogies Capture Two From BR

The Stanton Dogies won two of their three games Thursday as the freshmen whipped Boys Ranch, 43-35, the eighth grade lost, 35-26 and the seventh grade won in a close one, 33-30.

All three Stanton teams will host Dimmitt Thursday for their next games then will have its seventh grade send one team to the Boys Ranch Tournament and another seventh grade team to the Canyon Tournament, both scheduled Friday and Saturday.

The Dogie freshmen ran their season record to 1-2 with the win over Boys Ranch. They jumped out to a 31-19 halftime lead, but went cold in the third period as the Roughriders pulled to within four points.

However, the team settled down in the fourth period to preserve the win.

Albert Gonzales was the high pointer for the freshmen with 13 points.

Scotty Taylor hit for eight points in the losing effort by the eighth grade in a game in which turnovers spelled the difference. The game was close throughout, a cold final stanza and a number of mistakes allowed the Roughriders to take the win.

The eighth grade record now stands at 1-2.

Greg Hennington had six points, Kelly Kitchens and Randy Marrs eight each and Albert Del Toro nine in leading the way for the seventh grade win. The Boys Ranch team ran a zone on the Dogies and forced them to shoot from the outside, but Stanton was able to make enough points for the win.

Their record jumped to 2-1 on the young season.

KIDS' CHRISTMAS PARTY—Children of Hereford Kiwanians were special guests at the club's annual Kids' Christmas Party, where Santa was a surprise visitor. The children's reactions to Kris Kringle were varied, with some eager to 'talk it over' with Santa, and others a little more reluctant.

LP Freshmen Still Unbeaten

La Plata's freshmen Mavericks captured their second straight basketball triumph Tuesday, scoring a 47-32 win over the Dimmitt freshmen.

La Plata's 7th and 8th grade "B" teams lost two decisions to Dimmitt. The "A" teams did not play. The 8th and 9th grade teams are entered in the Muleshoe Tourney Dec. 14-16, while the 7th graders go to the Canyon Tourney the same dates.

In the freshman game against Dimmitt, Dave Charest and Davis Ford tallied 12 points each for Hereford. La Plata led by 27-14 at halftime.

The 8th grade B-team lost a 24-16 decision to Dimmitt. Mike Oglesby and Dennis Artho led Hereford with 7 and 6 points, respectively. Dimmitt led at halftime by 16-5.

The 7th grade B-team lost a 25-13 contest, with John Clark leading La Plata with 5 points. Dimmitt led by 10-2 halftime.

Whitefaces Into Championship

The Hereford Whitefaces, after two opening round wins in the Amarillo Invitational Basketball Tournament, were scheduled to meet the winner of the El Paso Burgess-Lubbock Coronado game in the championship game at 8:45 p.m. Saturday.

Hereford rolled to an opening round win over pre-tourney favorite El Paso Coronado, 62-54 then went on to defeat the Odessa Permian quintet, 61-42 in the second game Saturday morning.

Terry Scott and Keith Kitchens paced the win over Permian as they both connected for 12 points. David Duval contributed 11 more, followed by David Hicks with 7, James Harris with 6, and Dan Vander Zee with 5.

In the opening game, the Whitefaces used a balanced attack to slip by the El Paso team as Kitchens and Vander Zee each collected 13 points and Duval and Harris followed that up with 12 point productions of their own.

The Herd took advantage of the poor shooting of the El Pasoans then combined that with a strong defense to win their opener.

Center Prepares Migrant Children For School

The public will have opportunity to observe the many facets of a community service in Hereford Sunday afternoon at St. Joseph's Child Development Center, South of the City, next to St. Joseph's Church in the Labor Camp. Open house will be held from 2:30 to 5:00 p.m. at the Center which instigates learning for Spanish speaking migrant children.

Now in its second year, the program provides five school days a week in an effort to prepare three-year-old disadvantaged children for elementary school.

The three Center sites in this area are Hereford, Plainview, and Lubbock, and all operate under the Panhandle & South Plains District Venture Inc., with its main office in Amarillo. Sister Mary Reyes of Plainview is Executive Director of all three Centers and Mrs. Colette Edwards of Amarillo is secretary-bookkeeper for the three Centers. Funds for the entire program come directly from the Migrant Division of Health, Education, & Welfare Department in Washington, D.C.

With a maximum capacity for 60 children, the bilingual school selects its students from migrant families on the basis of income and needs. Two teachers head each classroom of 15 children. An additional classroom was added this year to give a total of four classrooms. Half of the children are from families who base their home in the Hereford area and move north seasonally, while the other half come from South Texas for the harvest season.

A normal school day for children in the Center begins with a bus ride in which the custodian-bus driver and a teacher start picking them up at 7:00 a.m. in order for the first bus route to arrive at the Center by 8:00 a.m., where they are personally greeted at the door by their teachers.

The second bus route arrives at 9:00 a.m., where again this next group of children are individually greeted at the door. For some of the children the day begins earlier, children on the first bus route begin to have some of their lessons shortly after their arrival. Following the arrival of the second bus route the children are provided with a hot breakfast free of charge.

After breakfast, all the children join in a short morning group greeting which includes singing and other group interactions. They then are directed into individual play areas where there are blocks, books, manipulative toys, house playing equipment, and art materials.

With each of the eight teachers at the Center instructing five students, classes begin early. Three separate lessons focus on ideas and concepts, visual, and motor or auditory topics. Rotating from one lesson to the next, each child participates in each of the areas. Three-year-olds are encouraged to learn English during class work and in independent play as a preparatory step toward elementary school.

Teaching is based on a written curriculum from Southwest Educational Development Laboratory in Austin, especially prepared for the disadvantaged Spanish-speaking child.

Recess, story telling, art and music periods precede lunch. After lunch children clean up, brush teeth, and by 1:00 p.m. the children are taking a nap. The child is given a snack before he is dismissed at 2:30. Often a field trip enters the curriculum, as children visit such places as the fire station, museum, feed lots, farms, and other times are taken out of town to see things that are not available here, such as a zoo, or circus.

Operational standards concerning dismissal for holidays follow the same schedule as the Hereford Public Schools.

Another of the Center's services is health care. Each student is given vitamins daily, and instructions on personal health care. The Public Health Department provides immunizations for the children. At the beginning of each year eye, teeth, and general physical examinations are given.

Parent involvement is stressed by the Center staff to help them realize "the importance of their own role as a teacher." Teachers visit with the parents in their homes once each month. Frequently, the students perform for their parents at Parent Meetings.

The school board is composed of 50 per cent of parents of the children at the Center, while the other 50 per cent are community leaders which together compose the Parent Advisory Board.

Moreno, Miss Graciela Gonzales, Mrs. Petra Mendoza, Miss Yolanda Ramirez, Mrs. Minnie Romo, Miss Rosie Galvan, Miss San Juana Beltran, and Miss Angie Carrasco.

LEARNING SKILLS—Three-year-olds at St. Joseph's child Development Center learn new skills by working both together in groups, and independently as individuals. They learn such skills as determination of different colors and the use of the their hands.

Double Party Is Holiday Event

Invitations printed with green in Christmas tree silhouette asked friends of Mrs. Elmore Rains and Mrs. Jimmy Mercer to a holiday party Saturday in Mrs. Rains' home.

Callers were greeted for a coffee in the morning, and again during afternoon tea hours, in the living room where a white-flocked tree with red lights and clusters of candies based in holly made a cheerful setting

Presiding at the table in the den were Mrs. Gilbert Sims of Lubbock, Mrs. Mercer's daughter, and Mrs. Gary Thompson of Plainview, Mrs. Rains' niece who is the former Nannetta Clearman of Hereford.

They were assisted by Mrs. Oree Skinner of Plainview, mother of Mrs. Rains, and her daughter, Elizabeth Rains.

Candles in votive cups, set on pedestals of varied heights, were in the center of the table, surrounded by sprigs of holly. Pine cones and holly, tied with wide gold ribbon, made an outside decoration on the front door.

Look Who's New

Mr. and Mrs. Ruben F. Flores are the parents of a daughter, Lydia, born Dec. 6. She weighed 7 lbs. 8 oz.

Mr. and Mrs. Ricki J. Ward are the parents of a son, Arik Shane, born Dec. 6. He weighed 7 lbs. 0 oz.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Clayton are the parents of a daughter, Linda Kaye, born Dec. 7. She weighed 5 lbs. 3 oz.

Wayne Keeter Named Kiwanian For November

Whiteface Kiwanis club president Gene Brock recognized Wayne Keeter as the club's Kiwanian of the month of November. Wayne served as director of the club's popcorn sale. He announced that the sale is still in progress and that all proceeds will go to worthy projects. Keeter was named Kiwanian of the month at the club's weekly meeting Monday.

Nearly 2½ million of Kashmir's total 4.6 million people live below the poverty line with only about $2.62 per month to spend on food, according to recent government figures.

Despite an antipoverty program, the number of those below the poverty line is expected to rise to 3 million in 1974.

Breakfast Served By Rainbows

Aprons in bright colors were worn by girls of the Order of Rainbow Saturday morning as they acted as waitresses for a benefit breakfast in the Civic Club Center, to raise funds for various projects.

Girls who worked were Denise Strange, Sue Roberts, Patty Johnson, Patricia Brownlow, Lanna Clark, Leta Nunley, Dalene Henson, Lynnette Cawthon, Melissa Johnson, Janet McWhorter, Joan Josseland, Janann Bullard, Debbie Fletcher, Laura Clark and Staci Robinson.

Adults assisting included Mrs. J.A. McWhorter, mother advisor of the Hereford Rainbow Assembly, Mmes. Jack Nunley, Rodger Ruland, Bud Cawthon, Bill Hutson and Charlie Brown. Members expressed special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hanna, operators of the Civic Club Center, for their help.

DE STUDENT OF THE WEEK—This week's Distributive Education student of the week is Rodney O'Rand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie O'Rand, of 803 Brevard. He is employed at Gastons under the supervision of Gaston Baer. After graduation he plans to attend Texas A & M.

Service Planned At Church Today

Under optimum irrigation, minimum tilled grain sorghum produced yields equal to conventionally tilled sorghum under a double-row system, according to results of a three-year study at the High Plains Research Foundation.

However, it is a different story under reduced irrigation operations.

According to Jim Valliant, research director, available water becomes a limiting factor with reduced irrigation due to lack of water penetration in the minimum tilled area. "The minimum tilled area, which is extremely mellow in the top two to four inches, has a compacted area below this point which reduces lateral water penetration. Even though vertical penetration can be improved by deep chiseling, the effectiveness is reduced because of compaction caused by tillage operations after chiseling and before irrigation," he said.

Over a three-year period in the grain sorghum minimum tillage study, Valliant said that under an optimum of three summer irrigations, the minimum tilled sorghum produced 6648 pounds of grain per acre with a return of $93.98 per acre while the conventionally tilled area produced 6740 pounds with a return of $92.95 per acre.

Under two summer irrigations, yields were 6899 pounds conventionally with a return of $99.21 per acre while the minimum tilled area produced 6179 pounds per acre with a return of $88.05, a reduction in adjusted gross return of $11.16 per acre.

"These studies indicate that on grain sorghum irrigation, more frequent irrigation based on stage of growth and not necessarily total amount of irrigation produced higher grain yields," Valliant said.

Complete information and results of the Foundation's minimum tillage grain sorghum study will be part of the 1972 Annual Research Report.

Mrs. Kimball Is Coffee Honoree

An autumn bride, Mrs. Lee Kimball, who was Gayla Winburn before her marriage here Nov. 14, was honoree at a pretty coffee and shower Saturday morning in the fellowship hall of First Baptist Church.

Hostesses were Mmes. Clyde Cave, Ken Waiser, Ray Barber, Keneth Gooch and Glen Thomas, also Beverly Barrett and Linda Wilhite.

Mrs. Kimball greeted guests with her mother, Mrs. J.D. Winburn, and sister, Mrs. Ron Strinase, both of Sayre, Okla., and her husband's mother, Mrs. Elmer Kimball.

The honoree wore a black blouse with a long skirt in multi-colored flower print. She and others in the receiving line were presented holiday corsages.

Mrs. Taylor Holland and Miss Barrett served cake, coffee and hot punch from a table covered with green and ornamented with a ceramic tree lighted with tiny red bulbs.

At a table with red and white cloth and a large red candle, Jean Barber invited callers to register. Rex Barber at the piano played during the party.

CLUB TEA SCHEDULED
Ceramic Arts Club will meet in the home of Mrs. W.C. Hromas, 307 Sunset, at 3 p.m. Wednesday for a holiday tea.

Comings and Goings at King's Manor

Dinner guest of Mrs. Beulah Wright recently was Dorothy Wright of Dimmitt.

Evadna Cox spent Thanksgiving with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Don Bagwell in Claude.

Anne Higgins' guests Sunday were Mmes. Margaret Jane Upshaw, Hazel Nobles, Alma Dodson, J.W. Williams, Ethel Terrell, Zel Barton, Jack Burgess, Margaret Gilbreath of Amarillo and Ruby Hewett, Frieda Coneway and Jessie Boardman of Westgate.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Wade of Amarillo and afternoon guests, Mr. and Mrs. R.B. Wade of Albuquerque.

Mrs. E.W. Detman gave a very interesting and inspirational book review to King's Manor residents and guests in Lamar Garden Room Nov. 28.

The book was The Hiding Place by Corrie ten Boom. The story is built around the ten Boom family of Harlem, Holland during World War II. The entire family made, mended, and repaired watches. Corrie ten Boom made the home into a haven of retreat for the homeless and the needy. The daily family prayers or family altar was a never-failing part of the day.

When Holland was completely doomed the home became an underground or hiding place for Jews and others fleeing Hitlerism. The key room was the top most room in the three-story home.

At length the entire surviving members of the family were put in German concentration camps. Of the sisters, Corrie and Betsy managed to stay together.

They endured serious illnesses due to exposure, malnutrition, unsanitary environment, unbearably crowded conditions, hard labor insults, and indignities. Betsy had flu in long sieges and Corrie developed T.B. Betsy being a saint always admonished Corrie, "Remember we have to love everyone!"

By stealth and subterfuge they managed to keep their Bible which they shared with other prisoners in secret. A fine paradox is drawn between the sordid and dreadful hardships endured and the faith and love of the ten Booms, which resembles a lovely flower growing up into bloom in a dump heap.

Islands' proof set valuable

Copley News Service

The Cayman Islands introduced the first four coins of their new National coinage into general circulation earlier this year. The new coins were quickly followed by four additional coins, all minted of solid sterling silver.

According to Mr. V.G. Johnson, financial secretary of the Cayman Islands, all eight of the new coins are now available to collectors in an elegantly packaged proof set.

Many a sterling character has been saved by golden silence.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
I will agree with your Thursday Brand, "Sound bodies do make for sound minds."
I wonder if the Hereford school voters are aware that our athletic program does not include all the students who wish to participate in athletics. Our present athletic program is run where only 10 per cent of the athletes receive 90 per cent of the benefits.

The top 10 per cent of the athletes get to play all the football games, all the basketball games and all the other sports activities. Many times only a half dozen top athletes get to play in all the sports events just because they are the top athletes. In the past, a boy who is in athletics but not in football has no coach at all. All the coach's time is spent on football. This boy is not even allowed to take calisthenics or use the dressing room of the football boys. It seems he might contaminate the football boys with some rare disease like human decency. The important thing is to win the game. This is the only way the coach can get his full glory.

Another thing that is policy at Hereford schools is the head coach, Mr. Dipple, can declare any student unworthy to participate in sports activities because he has heard some scandal about the student. He can decide by himself who is worthy or unworthy to participate. He can judge the student without ever listening to both sides of the story. He declares himself the right to judge because sports is a privilege that the school offers. This makes it sound like the school is giving the student something, if you call it a "privilege." It is no greater privilege to be in school sports than it is to be in an English or math class. It is all paid for by the taxpayers.

Of course this rule is certainly unconstitutional. The Bill of Rights of the Constitution guarantees every citizen of the United States the right to trial by jury, and rules against cruel and unusual punishment. In the United States no school official or any individual has the right to judge another and take action against the person. Nowhere does the Constitution exempt these rights to students or teenagers. Even a judge does not have the right to decide the guilt of a person. However one can plead guilty before a judge and the judge can sentence the person. In Texas a boy 17 years or younger cannot even declare himself guilty before a judge without his parents or guardian to declare guilt for him.

The school only teaches human rights and feels it does not have to practice it. This rule or what ever you will call it is the most unconstitutional, unamerican, unchristian, senseless thing I have ever heard of, I wonder if anyone is stupid enough to think you can help a student by making an example out of him and driving him into the ground. This kind of dirty, senseless, radicalism has no place in our school or any other place.

First of all I think the school board should declare the rights of each student to participate in sports activities without being judged worthy or unworthy, and leave the judging to someone else whom the taxpayers have hired to do this job; and the school should stick with the job of education and education only. Second, I think the school board should adopt policies in athletics and other activities of the school which are of the best interest of the students and not which wins the most games or receives the most glory for the work of a few top athletes.

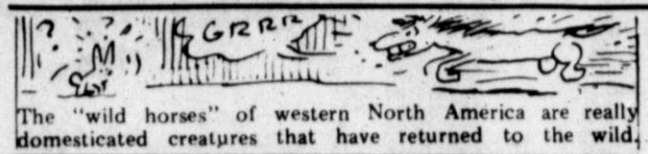

Third, I think school board should set up the coaching and extracurricular programs so that all students who wish to participate in sports or other activities can be assured of a fair part of the time of the coaches as well as play the games and compete in sports activity to each of the students' God-given abilities.

Until the school board assures the taxpayer of some equality in our athletic program, I will vote against all proposals to increase their program.

Sincerely,
Charles Schlaba

A Farmer Speaks Out

Hearing Scheduled Feb. 1 In Grain Suit

Defendants in two multi-million dollar class-action suits filed in U.S. District Court in Amarillo have been given a Feb. 1 deadline for appearance in court.

Defendants have 20 days under normal circumstances to file answers to civil suits in federal court.

The delay was granted by Judge Halbert O. Woodward at the requests of the defendants who cited the magnitude of the suits and the distance involved.

Joe Zinser, 36, a Deaf Smith County farmer, filed the first suit Nov. 16 on behalf of some 30,000 Texas wheat farmers who sold wheat between May 1 and Sept. 1 of this year. Zinser seeks $150 million in damages.

The second suit, filed four days after Zinser's suit, seeks $180 million for a class represented by seven Panhandle farmers.

Both suits allege violations of the Sherman Antitrust Act in that the U.S. Department of Agriculture was aware of the Russian wheat crop disaster and that advance information was given to the defendant grain corporations.

Defendants in the Zinser suit are Clarence Palmy of New York city, former Department of Agriculture official and a present vice-president of Continental Grain Co.

In addition to Palmy and Continental, defendants in the second suit are Garmac Grain Co. and Bunge Corp. of New York city, Cargill Inc. of Minneapolis and Cook Industries of Memphis, Tenn.

The defendants allegedly bought wheat at low prices before the magnitude of the Russian wheat sale became public knowledge, according to the plaintiffs.

Zinser said that in his opinion, most of the area wheat farmers involved would have held their grain until the outcome of these actions was determined had they known or been aware of what was taking place.

"The secret handling of this transaction enabled the international grain companies to buy cheap and sell high," said Zinser. "The farmer needs all the help he can get. The price which the farmer receives for his produce, including wheat, has been under parity for a long time."

"The farmer is entitled to the price advantage on foreign negotiated sales, as the brokers, warehousemen, buyers and sellers of grain do not have the risk that the farmer has," he continued. "The farmer's risk is great in growing and harvesting, even though the price should happen to be on parity, which has not been the case for many years, and the warehousemen and handlers of grain make their profit just the same with very little risk compared to the farmer." Zinser added that it is not fair that these persons get the advantage in the marketplace over and above ordinary and customary handling expense and charges.

"It doesn't look like anything will be accomplished by the Justice Department or by committee hearings, talk, the writing of articles or the making of speeches," said Zinser. "The only way that the wrong can be righted is by a suit in court."

"I am proud to represent the farmers," he added, "and I want the courts to decide the right and wrong about this situation."

Although several similar suits have been filed, Zinser's was the first to go on record in Texas. Zinser said that it is his understanding that similar suits have been filed by farmers in the states of New Mexico and Oklahoma, and that these may be consolidated with his suit in Texas.

"The suits should be tried where the grain is raised in the Panhandle of Texas," said Zinser, "and not in some big city where people do not know anything about farming."

Another similar suit was filed Nov. 16, the Bryan Poff suit, in behalf of all wheat farmers in Texas.

Zinser said that numerous farmers, bankers and businessmen had expressed their desire and willingness to assist in the payment of court costs.

Carolyn Skaggs, Michael Martin To Marry Today

The marriage of Miss Carolyn Yvonne Skaggs and Michael H. Martin of Muleshoe will take place immediately after noon today in Greenwood Baptist Church with the Rev. Prentice Smith, pastor, officiating. Miss Skaggs is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl T. Skaggs of 117 Star, the bridegroom's father is Charles Martin of Muleshoe. Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Parker will attend the couple as matron of honor and best man. The bride will wear a white double knit street length dress with a V-neckline, empire waistline and short sleeves. Covering her head will be a shoulder length veil held with a bow of seed pearls, and she will carry a pink and white carnation bouquet. Mrs. Parker will be dressed in a double knit shirtwaist dress, and carrying pink carnations. A reception in the home of the bride's parents will follow the wedding. The wedding cake is three tiered with a bride-and-groom figurine topping it. As her traveling costume she bride will wear a two piece green and white jersey pantsuit. A short trip to Lubbock is planned by the couple. The bride was formerly employed with the Caison House and is a 1972 graduate of Hereford High School. Martin attended high school in Muleshoe.

HELPING HAND

Small Talk

BY SUE COLEMAN
Woman's Editor

IT'S NICE TO KNOW that Lucy Moore and Ed Warren won't move from Hereford, although they have sold their place on the corner of West Park and Centre where they lived so long. They've just moved across town, to 128 Ave. D. It was a hurry-up move, after the Buryl Fish family bought the Warrens' home and then to just stay here and continue to take trips to the lake in their small camper. We can hope that they really like Hereford so well they weren't too eager to leave us. Lucy Moore says they certainly like their new smaller home, with a smaller yard, and are happy to know the Fish family can enjoy the big older house.

WHEN RAYNOLD HERR graduated from Texas A&M Saturday he was probably the only one in the class with a dozen brothers and sisters in the audience to applaud his accomplishment.

Page Nine
His four sisters and eight brothers, as well as his parents, went to College Station to see him receive his degree.
KATHRYN BENEFIELD and Ruth Budlong are back home, I hear, after visiting relatives in Mexico and enjoying travel in that region to the south while the rest of us were enjoying the snows. Might as well say we enjoy them; there's nothing much we can do about them and seems like they are a part of this winter.

EVERYBODY TO HIS OWN taste about the weather, of course, but I'm taking the risk of being committed to a nice, quiet asylum by saying the kind we've had the past month suits me better than a month of 90-plus days in the middle of a dry summer. Since we get both kinds here in the Panhandle, over the years, maybe the best thing we can do is relax and take what comes, soothing ourselves with the old West Texas motto, "If you don't like our weather, just wait a minute and we'll have another kind."

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Upstairs Neighbors
Madge had always been a restless sleeper. But matters went from bad to worse when a young couple with a baby moved into the apartment upstairs. It seems the baby was teething. To keep her quiet at night, the parents would trundle her around their apartment in a baby carriage, causing sounds that were plainly audible to the wakeful Madge. Finally she went to court for an injunction. But at the hearing, the baby's father said there was no other way to keep the child from crying. Besides, he pointed out, their carriage had rubber wheels and their floor was carpeted.

The court thereupon tossed out Madge's complaint, saying that a moderate amount of noise must be accepted by those who choose to live in apartments. "Where people indulge their inclination to be gregarious," said the judge, "they must not expect the quiet that belongs to solitude." Courts generally take this hands-off attitude in disputes between apartment dwellers. Nevertheless, a court may well intervene if the noise gets out of hand. In another case, an upstairs tenant—a do-it-yourself enthusiast—decided to install new parquet flooring. This time, when the tormented people downstairs went to court, the judge ordered the man to work on weekdays only, from nine to five, and to keep the noise and vibration to a minimum. What role does the landlord play in these conflicts? Must he take action if the downstairs tenant asks for his help? In most cases, the answer is no. Take this example: A downstairs tenant, disturbed by relentless piano playing from the apartment upstairs, asked the landlord to enforce a house rule against such conduct. But the landlord refused to mix in—and his refusal was upheld in a court hearing. The judge said the rules in a lease are put in primarily for the landlord's benefit, to be enforced or not according to his discretion.

3 Couples Play Holiday Hosts

Holiday open house, a favorite form of entertaining in Hereford this Christmas season, was held in the Hugh Clearman home on the Dimmitt Highway Thursday evening, with the Armon Lauderbacks and the Gid Browns as other hosts.

The three couples greeted friends who called through the evening hours to enjoy informal visiting.

Christmas in the Country was the theme of decorations in all rooms of the home, with traditional symbols of the holiday displayed in varied ways.

Lynette Clearman, daughter of the Hugh Clearmans, and Monica Herring poured coffee and punch at the refreshment table, which was covered with a cloth of hollyberry red.

Frosted red candles and a Christmas angel figurine were arranged on a base of greenery and baubles for the centerpiece.

President Juan Peron of Argentina was ousted from office by army and navy revolts on Sept. 19, 1955.

Meet Your Brand Distributors

Both Mr. and Mrs. Jim Simon help with the distribution of the Hereford and Sunday Brands. They also help their son, Don, with his newsroute, and the Simons family is in charge of two Brand routes. The live at 329 Cherokee, and Simon is employed by Southwestern Public service.

ENTERTAINMENT—Tanya Jayroe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Jayroe, was the featured vocalist with a high school group that performed for the Lions Club at its last meeting.

Lions Present Xmas Turkeys To Law Officers

Musical entertainment and the annual presentation of Christmas turkeys to local law enforcement officers were highlights of the Hereford Lions Club weekly luncheon meeting at the Civic Club Center Wednesday.

Lions president Nolan Grady presented turkeys to four officers who represented all law enforcement agencies in the county. On hand were Travis McPherson, sheriff; Don Brush, chief of police; Roger Hagood, Department of Public Safety; and Chuck Cosper, Parks and Wildlife. Turkeys were to be distributed to all officers with the agencies.

A high school group presented entertainment for the weekly meeting, and they were introduced by program chairman D.C. Kinsey. Tanya Jayroe was vocalist for the group, and the band was composed of Jim Aiken, Eric Fowler, Rick Long and Tom Barber. Miss Jayroe sang a variety of pop songs for the Lions.

Grady reminded Lions of the club's annual Christmas party, set Thursday in the Bull Barn. Special guests will be girls from Girltown, U.S.A. The club will not have a meeting on Wednesday, nor on Dec. 27.

Along The Frio

MRS. OWEN ANDREWS
Visiting the J.L. Brooks here Saturday night were the Earl McClennens of Comanche, Okla. and the Carol McClennens of Nocona. They were here to attend the funeral of Wiley Sims, a relative, in Amarillo.

Saturday.
Also here for the Sims funeral were Mrs. Sims sister, Mrs. Richard Simpson, Mr. Simpson and their son, James, of San Diego, Calif. Also, sisters, Mrs. Glen Cruse, of Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. J.C. Stephenson, of Leslie, Ark. Mrs. Cruse daughters, Mrs. Jack Webster, also from Dayton Mrs. Norman Capbell and Mrs. Campbell, of Albuquerque also came.

These members of the family spent a day or so with their mother and grandmother, Mrs. D.O. Benson of Hereford.

Husbands Guests At Dinner

Snowmen roared Santa Claus and his elves in miniature figures which decorated tables for Hereford Study Club's annual Christmas dinner Thursday evening. Husbands of the members were guests at Pioneer Gas Co. Flame Room.

After dinner gifts were exchanged from a lighted tree, then games of bingo amused the group.

Mmes. S.L. Garrison, Sam Long and Maurice Tannahill were on the hostess committee. Especially welcomed to the party was Mrs. R.P. Conaway, the club's honorary member.

Dining at quartet tables were Messrs. and Mmes. Don Robinson, Bob Poston, Merlin Kaul, Noble Howard, Labry Ballard, Roy Hartman, Bob Work, N.D. Bartlett, Cawthon Bryant, Joe Story, O.Z. Golden.

Also Messrs. and Mmes. B.F. Cain, W.H. Gentry, Art Stoy, Ed Wilson Jr., Melvin Thompson, T.E. Braddy, C.R. Winget, the hostesses and their husbands.

Just about the time you think you can make both ends meet a break shows up in the middle.

The Floyd Coles were hosts to a Sunday school party on Friday evening for members of their class. The main attraction of the evening was watching pictures made by the Bill Struves last spring when they were in Germany. They went at that time to be with their daughter, Mrs. Clifford Hargrove and Mr. Hargrove and baby, who were stationed there with the Army. Hargrove has since been released. Bill was in that area during World War II. The party were Billy Warricks, the J.E. Warricks, the Frank Robbins, the Andy Axes Nell Miller and the Struves.

The Ronnie Andrews were visiting with her brother, Mark Simpson, on Sunday. Simpson, who is in the Air Corp was visiting his parents, the M.L. Simpsons, and others of the family during the weekend. He was transferring from Lackland Base, San Antonio, to Sheppard Air Base, Wichita Falls, following completing of basic training.

The James Dobbs were visiting her mother, Mrs. Walter Jay, at Elk City, during the weekend.

How can we show new color stereos in black and white?

We know it's a problem, but use your imagination. Just look at all the different colors and models. Models 337, Li'Lavender and Yankee Doodle, have a "Stere-O-Matic" changer, "Shadowlight" tone arm, solid state amplifier, and two round speaker enclosures. Models 346, Orange Peel, Green Goodie, and Music Box give all that, and more. Color matching, tinted dust covers, a headphone jack and switch, and 4-speaker capability. You can buy an extra set of speakers and have sound coming from every direction. And the best feature is the price.

Service To Church Cited In Award Presentation

Presentation of a life membership pin to Mrs. Bert Boomer was a feature of the program at a First United Methodist Women's Society luncheon Wednesday in the fellowship hall.

Mrs. Earnest Langley made the presentation, citing Mrs. Boomer's work as teacher of second grade children in the Sunday School and as counseling teacher, as well as service to the Women's Society, conducting district and conference training.

Alice Ward Circle members were hostesses at the lunch, and decorated tables in Christmas theme.

Announcement was made of open house at the church parsonage Sunday. Members were reminded to bring to circle meetings next week, dress material in two and three-yard lengths, to be sent to Wesley Community Center at Amarillo for use in sewing classes.

Mrs. Elmer Kimball presided and reported on a recent district meeting at Bovina when changes soon to be made in structure of the Women's Society were outlined.

A love offering was made for Naomi Hare, a Hereford woman serving as a missionary teacher in Chihuahua, Mexico, after Mrs. H.L. Benefield told of visiting Miss Hare during a trip to Mexico last month.

Mrs. Bill Walden directed the program on Christmas in the News, assisted by Mmes. Boomer, Norman Gray, Charles Morehead, Carroll McDonald, and Frank Ford Jr. Music was by Mrs. Buddy Peeler, vocal soloist, and Mrs. J.C. McCracken, pianist.

Statute of limitations 3-6 years on tax cases

By E. J. DEMSON, J.D. Copley News Service

If you're keeping old income tax records, you'll be interested in this question on the statute of limitations on tax prosecutions.

Q. When does the federal government abandon prosecution of a criminal violation of the federal income tax laws?

A. Title 26, Ch. 66, Sec. 6531 says: "No person shall be prosecuted, tried or punished (for offenses) under the Internal Revenue laws unless the indictment is found or information instituted within three years next after the commission of the offense."

Exceptions, in which the period is six years, are: When the offense is fraud, willful evasion of a payment, willful preparation of a false return, willful failure to pay or make a return when required, making a false statement or presenting false documents, intimidation of U.S. officials, offense committed by IRS officials, or conspiracy to defeat tax or payment.

Q. My father, 85, has misplaced his will and we can't find it. We have a copy from the lawyer's files, and the lawyer says it will be accepted for probate by an Arizona court. Is he right?

A. Yes. Arizona law says that an exact copy, when supported by oral testimony that it is an exact copy, is admissible to establish the making and contents of a lost will (351 P2d 173 Az).

the house she had deeded to her daughter) constituted retention of interest by the mother. Thus the house had to be included in the estate. If there had been a specific agreement to the contrary, or no agreement, the tax might have been avoided.

Q. Is an auto manufacturer liable for damages when defective equipment inside a car breaks during an accident and causes injuries to be more serious than need be?

A. In a South Carolina case, a 17-year-old girl was thrown against a gear shift knob in an accident. The knob shattered, and the shift lever penetrated to her spine, causing permanent paralysis. Her lawyer presented evidence in court that the knob material would not withstand impact.

When the court ruled for the auto manufacturer, the case was appealed. The Supreme Court of South Carolina ruled that a manufacturer must be expected to anticipate the environment which is normal in the use of his product, including possible collisions. He must protect the user against foreseeable risks of using his product in that environment. Judgment was made in favor of the injured girl (Mickle v. Blackmon, 252 SC 202).

Q. My mother deeded her house to me four years before her death. It was agreed that she should live with us in the house for the rest of her life. Now, two years after her death, the estate still isn't settled. The federal tax office insists that the house must be included in her estate, and estate taxes paid on it. I say the house is mine. Must it be included in her estate?

A. In the Kerdliff case (57 Tax Court No. 66), the court ruled that the agreement between a daughter and her mother (that the mother was to live for the rest of her life in

For what the law says about your legal problem, write E. J. Demson, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Kids need to know the limits

Q. My little girl keeps losing one friend after another. I finally went over to see one of her ex-friends to find out what had happened. She said that my child is just too "bossy." I have heard this about our daughter for several years. How can I help her control her bossiness?

A. Usually a child tries to "boss" others when he isn't completely at ease with them. One of his objectives is to "get there first," to exert influence before others try it out on him. Of course, it isn't all planned with any precision, but just falls into place as a youngster feels or anticipates his insecurity.

The child with real leadership ability has no need to boss others. His leadership just seems to come to the surface naturally.

Reassurance, a feeling of accomplishment, a sense of being able to do at least some things well - factors like these will all help scuttle the need for pushing others around.

So what can you help your youngster learn to do well? In what kind of achievement can she take real pride?

Don't expect changes to develop swiftly. The feeling of security needed to overcome the bossy attitude may come slowly, but it's obviously worth working on.

Writers, beware of the garbage

By ANN RUDY
Copley News Service

It seems that William Hoffman, columnist for the Delaware State News, was hard up for column material. So hard up, in fact, that he took to rummaging through Gov. Russell Peterson's garbage cans looking for news tidbits.

I recently read about another man who wrote a book about what he found in the garbage cans of celebrities.

Really, fellows. Being a writer myself, I feel it only right that I ask you to cease and desist from such tactics.

In the first place, once the public gets the idea that most of what you write originates in the garbage can, you are going to become known as trashy writers. Your works will be considered garbage and people will run out and buy them because it is the public's duty to read all garbage in order to protest it.

I mean, how can a body be shocked and outraged if he hasn't read the garbage first? This will make you a lot of money which you will need in order to buy new clothes to replace your old ones which are in sad shape from going through all those garbage cans.

You will also have to take a long sea voyage to avoid your neighbors who have taken to leaving their garbage on your front porch in hopes of becoming celebrities through one of your books. You will have to buy a second house in Palm Springs where the really good garbage is.

And when you go out to dinner and ask for a Doggy Bag, the waiter will assume you want everybody else's garbage too. The whole thing can get way out of hand very quickly, and I'd advise you to quit while you still can. Put the lid on, so to speak. Otherwise, you'll be stuck with fame, new clothes, luxury vacations, second homes and all sorts of things you've never had to cope with before.

And if you think that will make you happy, just remember what Basil Rathbone said as he looked out his window at the now-polluted Thames: "Rubbish."

Capt. Nathan Hale was hanged as a Revolutionary spy by the British on Sept. 22, 1776.

POINT OF VIEW

Cavett 'baffled' by show concept

By DON FREEMAN Copley News Service

NEW YORK — For Dick Cavett the new year will institute a sweeping change and he was pondering its implications.

Under ABC's new format, Cavett will work one week each month, the other months going to Jack Paar and a series of variety and dramatic shows. How it will all evolve remains a puzzle.

"Right now, I'm baffled by the concept," said Cavett, sitting in his office. "I can't quite picture it. I think of the oddities, the problems, the positives and the negatives. I think of the added pressure to be extraordinary. On the other hand, with only five shows a month, there's more time to be good. Or will we lose that invaluable sense of continuity?"

He shook his head and shrugged. "When you do a show every night, you can't be proud of every one of them. You get caught in a maelstrom. In some ways, the new schedule will be better. I'm looking forward to it — and yet, I just don't know."

So we talked instead about the nature of comedy and of how comedians develop and Dick said: "As a kid, I remember being surprised at the number of people who thought I was funny. I know I liked it, the idea of getting laughter. But I wasn't a compulsive clown, the classroom cutup. I didn't say, hey, this is it, a way to get attention, but I guess I must have had that small dose of neurosis that any comedian seems to have."

"Back in Nebraska, as a teen-ager I did a magic act and I was hypnotized by the idea of being Bob Hope. I went around walking like Hope, trying to talk like Hope. Hope was a big influence. But I think everybody influenced me because I've never had an original, dynamic style. Today I'll find myself saying something with a Jack Paar inflection or maybe I'll be doing a quick Groucho Marx or a Bob Hope inflection."

"But there is a Cavett style, isn't there?" I asked.

Cavett nodded uncertainly. "Maybe," he said. "But if there is one, I'm not aware of it. Once I asked Groucho how one goes about developing a style and he put it all in five words. Groucho said: 'Constant exposure becomes your style.'"

"The longer I'm in this business the more I realize how difficult it is to explain what's funny or why some people are funny. It doesn't add up. It's easier to explain the symptoms than the cause except to say that some people are born funny. You can put on the Groucho mustache and walk and leer like Groucho but you're still not Groucho."

Some months ago, at Carnegie Hall, Groucho Marx appeared in a concert. He was introduced to an enthralled audience by Cavett.

"It was an unbelievable event," Cavett recalled, warmly. "The hall was filled with young people, some of them dressed like Groucho and one or two, for some reason, like Harpo. And how they roared at Groucho. Just why he appeals to the kids today is something that delights him, but he's still puzzled by it. He's also truly moved by it. Groucho told me that the kids feel some anarchic sense in the old Marx Brothers movies that was never intended. Groucho says that all he and his brothers tried to be was funny."

Cavett was always on hand for a reception when Charlie Chaplin was in New York, on his way to Hollywood for the Academy Awards last spring. We turned to that.

"It was a thrill, of course, meeting Chaplin just for a moment," Cavett said. "But it was an eerie experience, too. I thought of the way he looked, as a very young man, in his old movies and of how hilarious he was, a lean and dashing figure. Now he was white-haired and plump and pink-cheeked. If you squint you can see the old Chaplin in his face today but you have to look hard and it is touching to look deep into that face that once meant laughter to the world and see a very old man with moist eyes."

Do dogs think — or react?

Q. Everyone who is supposed to know maintains that a dog is not capable of original thought. If that is the case you explain this act of my 13-year-old beagle and terrier mixed breed of dog?

I do not carry my billfold around the house but do, of course, put it in my pocket before going to the store or using the car. Often I take Bugle, the beagle, with me.

A few days ago I pocketed my billfold before going out in the car. Bugle watched me and immediately ran to where his leash was hanging on a doorknob and hit the strap with his nose.

I thought, at that time, that his action had followed mine by coincidence.

Last evening my wife and I were preparing to go out in the car. Bugle was watching us. I told my wife of the dog's action of a few days previously and wondered if he would repeat it when I pocketed my billfold.

I put the billfold in my pocket and Bugle ran out and again hit his leash with his nose!

What's your opinion? Is this a thinking process? — J.T., Salem, Oregon.

A. Be thankful your dog isn't a pick-pocket; you'd be in big trouble then.

The question of whether animals actually can develop thought processes such as humans are capable of devising is an interesting topic of conjecture which could better be explained by animal and/or human psychiatrists. Most likely, however, your dog associates the physical action of your placing your billfold in your pocket with another often-repeated action on your part of taking your pet outside. Notice I used the word association, meaning a form of mental conditioning whereby one act, if frequently followed by another act, will cause a specific response.

Do you not often take your dog outside after placing your billfold in your pocket? This is the basis of a noted scientist's experiment, whereby repetition of one act will elicit the same response by an animal every time the act is repeated. Pavlov proved this conditioned response behavior in dogs by ringing a bell and then immediately feeding the animal. This action was repeated many times until Pavlov once rang the bell but offered no food to the animal. Yet, the animal actually began salivating and "licking his chops," even though no food was offered.

This very incident that has developed with you is the basis of training of animals: repeated action to cause the same reaction by the animal every time.

Interpreting brings light to the blind

By REV. W. LEE TRUMAN Copley News Service

Albert B. Caldwell was born blind. Both of his eyes were covered with thick cataracts. The doctors knew of no way at that time to treat this condition. Al never saw a glimmer of light all the time he was growing up.

His parents made his life as rich as possible by all the love and faith that they could give him. He was so well protected that he didn't know he was different.

When Al was 5 years old and playing with his visiting cousin, Rex, he was thrown a ball. Rex had forgotten that Al was blind. "Duck," Rex yelled. "It is going to hit you!"

The ball did hit Al. He was not hurt, but he was totally dazzled. He asked his mother, "How could Rex know what is going to hit me before I know it?"

The moment that she had put off, and dreaded, was there. She had to tell her son in words that he could understand that he was blind. She used a method that I have never forgotten. She took one of his hands in hers and started counting the fingers.

"These fingers are the same number as what we call our five senses," she said. "This finger is for hearing; this finger is for touching; this one is for smelling; this one is for taste."

And then she went on more slowly: "This little finger is for sight. Each of these senses like your finger sends a message to your brain." Then she closed the little finger which she had named sight and taped it so that it would be next to the palm of Al's hand.

"Al, you are not the same as other little boys," she explained, "because you only have four senses like four fingers, but you do have the four. What you do not have is your eyes to see with."

She had her son stand up, and picked up a ball. She told him she was going to have him catch it and have him stretch out his hand and the moment that he felt something hit his hand, for him to close his fingers tightly around it.

He did this, and she ended by saying that he could catch and hold a full happy life with four senses instead of five if he kept on trying.

He remembered that he had four fingers instead of five. At times when he became discouraged, or was caught in a deep disappointment, that was his touchstone to get him moving again.

But Al's story does not end there. While in high school his father found that the doctors had a way of operating on congenital cataracts. During the next three months several operations were performed, and after the last surgery he lay in the hospital room with bandages over his eyes.

With all the drama that goes with these kinds of moments, the doctors unwound the gauze from Al's eyes, and there was only a blur of light. He was still technically blind, but then the doctor placed glasses over his eyes, and the blur became color, form and a figure.

The form which he saw but did not recognize said, "Al." Only then did he know that what he saw was his mother. Al had learned something which is important to any person who is going to be very alert to life.

He never forgot the day he first saw his mother standing in that hospital room. He did not know who she was or even what she was until she spoke.

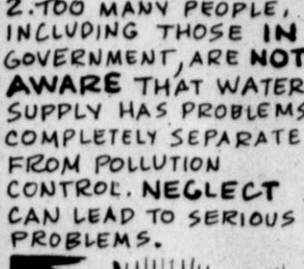

"Whatever you and I see," Al is quick to tell me now, "has to be interpreted by the mind. We have to train the mind to interpret the facts of what we see as well as what we hear and touch."

Al did not know that the form he saw at the foot of his bed was his beloved mother or a piece of furniture until she spoke. He had a memory of love to interpret what he saw when he heard the familiar voice. Your place of worship is for that purpose — to interpret.

SHOPPING Glass is versatile material

By JOYCE ROARK Copley News Service

One substance that is very versatile in our lives is glass. It is strong enough for car bodies and delicate enough to be fashioned into elegant glassware.

For many years scientists have been experimenting with glass. It has many properties which make it an excellent choice for industrial and home furnishings products.

The most important recent development in the fiber glass industry is the development of "Beta Glass." It is an ultra-fine, continuous filament that is stronger than other glass yarns and is more flexible.

Glass has very good sunlight resistance. Drapes made of glass can be used on a west or south exposure with no weakening of the fibers. If the drapes are solution dyed rather than printed, the dye will also be fast to sunlight and washing.

Smog and other air impurities have an effect on many fibers, however, glass is unaffected. Glass furnishings will hold their shape almost indefinitely.

Fire resistance is an excellent property of glass. The only times that glass has been found to be flammable is when it has been treated with flammable resinous finishing materials.

The only glass fibers that are resistant to abrasive wear are continuous filament fibers such as Beta Glass.

Glass articles need little care to keep them looking new. However, special handling is necessary. Glass should never be dry cleaned.

Machine washing glass is permitted provided a very gentle action is used and the tub rinsed out thoroughly before loading it with other clothes.

Glass should never be spin dried, twisted or wrung.

The best way to clean glass articles is to wash by hand. Use a mild detergent, mix thoroughly with warm-hot water. Squeeze gently after 15 minutes of soaking.

Drip dry until most of the moisture is removed, then hang on rods to finish drying.

If you purchase glass drapes, be sure they hang so that they don't touch the floor or window sill.

These cautions are very important because glass dust and particles will break off the fibers whenever abrasion is applied to the fabric. These particles are microscopic in size but can cause severe medical problems. If they come in contact with the eye, they can cause eye damage. If they are inhaled or swallowed, lung and stomach damage may occur. Extreme caution must be taken when handling glass fabrics.

I do not recommend glass drapes or curtains being used in a house where small children or pets are present.

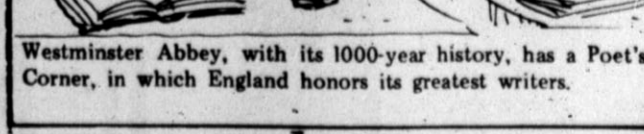

Trade names to look for when buying glass fabrics or household articles made of glass:

Beta Glass, Fiberglass, PPG, Vitron.

Dear School Patrons:

When you elected us to the Board of Trustees, you charged us with providing the best educational opportunities for all the children in this district. But you did not completely relieve yourselves of total responsibility; in an election scheduled for Tuesday, December 12, 1972, you have an opportunity to vote for improvements we feel are necessary in our school. We can only plan; the decision to construct these needed facilities rests--as it should--with you, the voter.

The following descriptive information about our needs and the facilities to be provided in the bond issue is offered for your benefit in being an informed voter. Should you desire more information, please feel free to contact the Superintendent of Schools or a member of the Board. We want you fully informed about what is involved in the election.

The well-being of this community, the quality of our school program, and the future opportunities for our children rest in your hands on December 12. The Hereford School is recognized throughout the Tri-State area as one of the outstanding systems in all this region. The school needs your support, but your support is meaningless without your vote. Be proud of your community and school.

WHO CAN VOTE

All qualified voters in the Hereford Independent School District are entitled to vote at this election. Separate ballot boxes will be provided for those who own taxable property and who have duly rendered the same for taxation.

The Board and school administration have carefully and thoroughly analyzed the present facility requirements of the district. The following is a description of the three propositions appearing on the ballot for your consideration. A brief statement on reasons for each issue is included.

PROPOSITION NO. 1

A. The state now requires 7th and 8th grade science to be a laboratory course. Science facilities at Stanton Junior High, which were constructed in 1925, are inadequate and substandard to current state requirements. Present science rooms will be used for regular classrooms helping to relieve crowded conditions at Stanton.

B. The capacity of present P.E. dressing rooms, shower, and storage facilities at Stanton Junior High School is less than one-half of what is needed to take care of present enrollment.

C. Electrical wiring in old portion of Stanton Building is obsolete and inadequate for operation of present teaching equipment, and is hazardous.

D. Media center and additional classroom space are vitally needed at Shirley Elementary. Present facilities will not accommodate the enrollment on this campus. Three classes are currently meeting on the stage area, and three Special Education classes now meet in a school-owned house and the First Christian Church. Being the second oldest elementary building, no facilities are available for testing, speech therapy, counseling, and storage.

E. Minor improvements are needed at all campuses such as replacing a number of window units at Stanton Junior High, re-roofing of outside walkways between buildings at Stanton, replacement of numerous plumbing fixtures at Hereford High School and other schools.

F. The High School Library does not meet the Southern Association standards for accreditation. The present library would be converted to needed classrooms. Six classes are now meeting in portable buildings constructed by high school building trades classes.

PROPOSITION NO. 2

A. Site acquisition and construction of a new elementary building to replace Central School.

The original structure at Central has been in use for the past 62 years with minor renovations. The building, in many ways, is obsolete with inadequate restrooms and other plumbing facilities, very limited playground area, substandard lighting and electrical system, and unavailability of space for other educational activities. Central School has outlived its usefulness and the present location isolates a minority ethnic population.

PROPOSITION NO. 3

A. All-weather physical education instructional areas at elementary schools. This would provide for a more effective physical education program meeting state and national standards at each elementary campus. This type of area has been proven successful in allowing for a wide range of activities especially during bad weather.

Field House Addition:

Present fieldhouse is completely inadequate to accommodate the 120 plus athletes that now use these facilities. In addition, visiting teams in football and baseball must use La Plata Junior High dressing rooms, which interferes with the program in operation at that school.

All-weather Track:

No district track meet can be scheduled for Hereford with present track facilities. An all-weather track will enable Hereford athletes to improve skills while performing in track events that carry over into all other sports.

The track will be utilized by not only high school athletes, but by both junior high schools and the six elementary schools, as well as numerous outside individuals.

Additions and improvements will, of necessity, cost additional tax dollars; however, the increase will be of minimal proportions for the value received for our children and the community.

Christmas Craft Is Learned

Some unlikely material was used to create Christmas ornaments at a meeting of L'Allegria Study Club Thursday morning, with Mrs. Bill Warrick as craft instructor in her home.

All the members present worked with breadcrumbs and glue to mold ornaments of various shapes, and brighten them with ribbon and flowers. Some of the more ambitious made figures of Raggedy Ann, Smoopy and other fanciful characters.

In a brief business period, a contribution to Project Christmas Card was voted. Plans were made for the club's Christmas coffee to be held in Mrs. Danny Martin's home Dec. 21.

Members present included Mmes Gerald G. Payne, Rudy Metz, J.H. McCrary, Don Lowder, Dennis Lomas, Burns Hamilton, Wesley Gully, Dennis Farley, Jim Conkwright, Steve Coneway, Tommy Carnahan, Hazen Woods, Bobby Viegell, Eddie Reinauer Jr. and Alex Schroeter.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Brewer of Goodnight announce the engagement of their daughter, Glenda Sue, to Albert Thomas Bezner, formerly of Hereford, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Bezner, now of Dalhart. The wedding is planned for Jan. 19 by the couple, who both reside in Amarillo. Both attended Amarillo College after graduation from Dalhart High School, and Bezner also attended Texas State Technical Institute at Waco.

The chachalaca bird is so named because it screams "chachalaca" at dawn and dusk.

Club Will Donate To Girlstown

Sims Study club, in a short business meeting Wednesday, decided to donate a sum of money to Girlstown, rather than sponsoring a single girl. The meeting was held during their Christmas party and luncheon at the Sims Community Building.

Members welcomed four guests, Mrs. A.W. Self, Ruth Pinnell, Judy Chism, Mrs. Cord Hammock and Mrs. Glenn Hetzler, to the luncheon.

Each member took a dish for the meal, and exchanged gifts as part of the party program.

Hostesses for the party were Mmes. Terry Creitz, Willis Duggan, and Arliss Edwards.

Other members present were Mmes. Tommy Blasingame, John Gorman, Ray Brorman, Tom Bullard, Leland Burns, Jim Cavin and Toby Cunningham.

Also Mmes. Dan Guseman, Edgar Hartley, Lawrence Jackson, Robert Loyd, Julian Perry, Jerry Roberts, Oliver Wann, Tommy Wells, Emmett Young and Lennon Young.

Cowbelles Lunch Slated Tuesday

Hereford CowBelles have scheduled their December luncheon at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday, a change from the regular meeting day, Dec. 19, to avoid conflict with Christmas activities. Lunch will be served at the Music Stand.

Suggestions for Christmas gifts as well as information on the nutritional qualities of beef will be given by Mrs. Joe Frank Huckert, who will be the speaker.

Party For Newcomers Scheduled

Newcomers Club will be hostess at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to new residents of the community and their families, with a party in the Flame Room of Pioneer Gas Co. Games and refreshments are planned to help the guests get acquainted.

All families who have lately moved to Hereford are invited, Mrs. Ronald Bridges, club president, emphasizes. Children will be welcome with their parents, and there will be gifts for the young guests.

Couple Will Make Home Here

Mr. and Mrs. John Charles Hays, wed Saturday evening in a ceremony in the home of the bride's grandparents at Lubbock, will make their home at 431 Western, Hereford, after a wedding trip to Santa Fe.

The bride was formerly Miss Carolyn Anna Hudson, daughter of Mrs. Sidney C. Hudson of Waco. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Hays of Dimmitt.

The Rev. William F. Ferguson, the bride's grandfather, a retired Baptist minister, officiated for the ceremony in his home.

Mrs. Randall Fields of Dallas the bride's sister, attended her as matron of honor and the father of the bridegroom acted as best man.

The bride was dressed in a candlelight crepe gown, featuring a high neckline and dolman sleeves with a belted waistline. Inverted tucks formed the yoke, with self covered buttons down the back. She carried a single white camellia.

Following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Hudson hosted a dinner at the Sirloin and Ale Restaurant in Lubbock.

Mrs. Hays was employed at the Medical Surgical Intensive Care Unit at Baylor University Medical Center in Dallas where she received her bachelor of science degree in May of this year. She was a member of Alpha Omega Women's Social Club at Baylor University in Waco. She is a graduate of Richfield High School in Waco.

The bridegroom is associated with his father in the ranching and cattle business in Hereford. He received his bachelor of business administration degree in August from Baylor University where he was member of Tryon Coterie men's social club.

Miss Carpenter Feted At Shower

Miss Nancy Carpenter, bride-elect of Lowell Wiggains, was honored at a bridal shower Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the home of Mrs. A.R. Dillard.

Miss Carpenter greeted guests along with her mother, Mrs. S.C. Carpenter; her sister and maid of honor, Sylvia Carpenter; and the prospective groom's mother, Mrs. Chester Wiggains.

Angela Carpenter, another sister of the bride-elect, registered guests.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated in the bride's pink and white colors. A white satin cloth with a tulle overlay covered the table, which was centered by an arrangement of pink carnations and candles in a silver candelabra. Other appointments were of silver and crystal.

Hostesses were Mmes. Fred Fox, Alton Hollingsworth, Don

Robinson, Lloyd McGee and Allen Cansler.

Others included Mmes. W.P. Axe, Zearl Cansler, J.T. Marlin, N.D. Bartlett, Maurice Tannahill, Troy Newman, Denzil Pulliam, D.C. Allmon, James Hale and Dillard.

The couple plans a Dec. 16 wedding at the Broadway Church of Christ Chapel in Lubbock.

Miss Carpenter is a student at Texas Tech University. Wiggains will graduate from the Tech school of engineering at mid-term this year.

A real eye-opener to electric heating costs

Electric heating operating cost estimates usually surprise our customers. They expect electric heat to cost a good bit more. A factual, easily understood, written estimate opens their eyes to the fact it can cost little more than they've been paying. Thousands of our customers are heating electrically now because they asked for the facts about electric heating costs. Phone us today for an estimate. It's free. It's accurate. And, it's a real eye-opener.

Don't Cut Corners

Patrons of the Hereford Independent School District face an important decision in the Dec. 12 bond election. It is not a "do-or-die" matter, but one that vitally affects adequate facilities for our children.

Although you may have heard statements to the contrary, we believe there are basically just two questions before us. Do we think these capital improvements are needed, and are we willing to pay for them?

Keep in mind that the men we elected to the school board don't like higher taxes, either. They have determined what they think are real needs of our schools and are asking us to approve them at a slight increase in taxes. They have grouped these needs into three areas, giving voters an opportunity to pick and choose—but we find no "frills" in any of the issues.

What will it cost? If all three issues are approved, it has been determined that no more than 2.5 percent hike would be needed. For example, if your tax bill was $200 last year, it would be raised only $5.

The ever-rising tax burden is a problem for all, but we don't believe our local education system is the place to start cutting corners. We urge your support of all three issues in the school bond election!

Pitiless & Inhuman

Terrorism, from whatever source or for whatever reason, is a pitiless and inhuman act. Bred from fanatic fear and blinded by hatred, it reveals man in his most evil nature.

It is a tribute to man and fortunate for society that terrorism has not attracted more advocates throughout history. That it exists at all, however, is an ugly reminder of man's imperfections. Moreover, it is stark evidence of how passions unrestrained by reason can defile civilization's essential asset, the rule of law.

The shocking brutality of recent terroristic acts conducted on a global scale was focused for many to witness through the gripping television coverage last September of the XX Olympiad. The senseless drama which claimed the lives of athletes there awakened people everywhere to the horror of terrorism.

Expressing the outrage shared in many capitals throughout the world, the Congress of the United States swiftly adopted a resolution sternly condemning "...any people or any nation giving sanctuary, support, sympathy, aid, or comfort to acts of murder and barbarism such as those at Munich."

The President responded to the challenge of these events by creating a Cabinet-level committee within the executive branch to combat terrorism. As a member of that committee, I have most carefully examined the FBI's responsibilities to insure that every precaution is taken in our investigations in order to expose terrorists and their plans.

Our first line of defense against lawlessness of all degrees is — as it always has been — the alertness and decisiveness of the thousands of dedicated local and State law enforcement agencies across our land. The energy and devotion they display in fulfilling their manifold duties are the best means of detecting and deterring terrorists in our midst. You may be sure that in matters outside FBI jurisdiction we will extend to our brother law enforcement agencies at all levels every assistance within our authority in the intensified effort to bring prompt apprehension and certain punishment to any engaging in terroristic acts.

Terrorism is by no means a solely foreign menace. Sadly, our country has had its share of those who practice this loathsome art. The nationwide awareness must concern itself with terrorists of every persuasion and from every quarter. We cannot afford to do less, for they challenge the very heart of law enforcement duty — protection of the community.

When terrorism succeeds, society loses more than lives or ransoms — it loses respect for itself and confidence in its law enforcement sentinels.

Guerrilla Tactics

We note that the New York Civil Liberties Union is up in arms about the police department's "Operation John," in which an undercover policewoman loiters in a neighborhood frequented by prostitutes and arrests anyone who makes a pass at her. The union thinks the very presence of a policewoman is "entrapment," and offers to defend those arrested.

Now, the police department's plan probably is a moderately silly activity for it to spend much time at. But it will be a lot more effective thanks to the unwitting help from the CLU, which has insured a lot of newspaper stories by involving itself. This certainly will advance the police objective of scaring away the prostitutes' customers, though whether it's in the best interest of those arrested is another matter entirely.

What intrigues us, though, is the remark by Ira Glasser, executive director of the NYCLU, that the group is interested not only because of its entrapment theory but because it doesn't like laws providing criminal penalties for prostitution and other victimless crimes. In other words, their court campaign is only incidentally interested in insuring that civil liberties are not infringed by police tactics. What the CLU really wants to do is change the law, or second best, come up with legal theories that make it impossible to enforce.

Changing the prostitution law may or may not be a good idea, but it seems to us that trying to change it by guerrilla war waged in the courts can only debate the judicial system, which after all is the ultimate protection of all civil liberties. What the CLU really ought to do is pack up its lobbying and take it up to the legislature where it belongs.

Public TV Strayed Down Wrong Path

BY BERT MILLS

Washington, D.C. — Public television, formerly known as Educational TV, is a needed service that had done a lot of good in its short life until it strayed down a leftward path and forced a Presidential veto of a measure for a substantial increase in Federal funding.

President Nixon's veto last June brought to a head a festering situation. Holdover Democrats appointed by Lyndon Johnson, who had pushed through Congress legislation to establish the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, had been running the show until then. Now a new team is in charge and a restructuring is under way.

New Chairman of the Corporation board is Thomas Curtis, former Republican Congressman from Missouri, an avowed conservative. New President of CPB is Henry Loomis, a wealthy man who has been in and out of government since 1950, and was moved up from Deputy Director of the U.S. Information Agency and Director of its Voice of America.

CPB brought together what had been a loose-knit Educational TV network. Two years ago, CPB established the Public Broadcasting Service, which linked together a chain of 227 public TV outlets, plus hundreds more public radio stations. The expansion was fostered by Federal funds for equipment and programming.

PBS became controversial in a hurry. An early move was to plunge into public affairs programs and to hire Sander Vanocur, a liberal commentator formerly with the National Broadcasting System.

When it was revealed that Vanocur was receiving $85,000 a year in tax dollars, even Democrats in Congress screamed in protest.

Even Stations Protest

Theoretically, public TV is supposed to supply cultural and educational programs which are not feasible on the commercial networks. Several notable successes, such as the hit show for children, "Sesame Street," demonstrated a possibilities of public TV. "The Advocates," a debate series, was another widely acclaimed hit.

But PBS soon went overboard with liberally-oriented programs from Washington, and as early as October, 1971, a Nixon spokesman registered a protest. Public TV had become a political issue, and so it remains today. Liberals in Congress pushed through a $85 million PBS authorization bill, annually for two years. Nixon wielded his veto pen and succeeded in cutting the authorization to $45 million, for one year.

Even some local station managers became disenchanted with PBS. An executive of a Minneapolis outlet called the Nixon veto "not only justified but necessary." He complained of unbalanced public affairs programs and charged Washington officials with interpreting their mission "as one of providing to an important segment of the American public an extreme left-wing view of both domestic politics and our international dealings."

Another criticism of PBS is that it is trying to compete with NBC, CBS, and ABC for a mass audience, instead of fulfilling its intended role as a supplementary service stressing cultural programs aimed at the minority who find commercial shows too bland, as well as over-commercialized.

Public Pays the Bill

That $45 million Uncle Sam is devoting to support of public TV gives John Q. Citizen the right to have his say about public TV. Those dollars are not plucked from a money tree but come from the pockets of taxpayers. It is scandalous when even a part of that money goes to promote one ideological view, whether that view be liberal or conservative.

It is to be hoped that the restructuring of public TV now being undertaken by the Administration will get this national experiment back on the right track. Federal funds should go for innovative but non-political programs. The Nixon appointees now in command should resist the temptation to swing the pendulum to the other side.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Talk Of Texas

BY JACK MAGUIRE

THE INDIANS ARE COMING — If a 1967 decision by the U.S. Court of Claims is allowed to stand, the Federal government may give Texas back to the Indians.

Not literally, of course. But unless the decision is reversed, it will mean that Indian tribes who can prove aboriginal title to Texas' soil eventually will have to be compensated for their ancestral lands.

According to W.W. Newcomb, Jr., the University of Texas resident expert on Indians, the red men were done out of their claims to any real estate when Texas entered the Union. The resolution that made Texas a state instead of an independent republic specifically gave the new commonwealth ownership and control of all of its public lands.

When Texas became a state in 1845, about 20,000 Indians (all wards of Uncle Sam) were living on these lands. The statehood resolution rendered them legally homeless, except for the Alabama-Coushattas. Texas provided this tribe with a reservation in 1854 in Polk County. They still occupy it.

In 1967, another Texas tribe, the Lipan Apaches, took their problems to court. The Court of Claims ruled that Indians did have title to Texas land and had the right to seek legal redress. Since then, several tribes have put their lawyers to work. The 1967 decision is on appeal.

If the Indians win, they probably won't be handed title to a lot of valuable real estate. Instead each tribe probably will get a cash settlement.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — St. Francis of Assisi usually is depicted as a gentle man surrounded by birds and animals, but not at the San Antonio mission which honors him.

The statue of Francis at the Mission San Francisco de la Espada depicts him holding a warrior's sword.

Historians believe that the mission was built in honor of a Spanish soldier named "La Espada," which means "the sword." When Francis was chosen as the patron saint of the mission, the sculptor of the statue placed the sword in his hands only to identify him with the house of worship.

TRAVELING TEXAS — Signs along the highways approaching Ennis now proclaim the Ellis County seat as the "love capital of the world."

Residents are quick to point out to tourists, however, that the signs don't mean exactly what they say. Romance is not necessarily on the rise in Ennis and dalliance is still frowned upon.

The signs are intended to tell the world that Ennis native Bob Banner produced a national television show several months ago called "Love, Love Love." Some of the sequences were filmed in Ennis.

HOW IT BEGAN — Johnson grass, which ranchers today regard as a problem akin to the plague, was brought to Texas from Turkey in the 1860's.

William Caruth, one of the early developers of Dallas and a large landowner, imported the grass because he thought it would be an ideal feed for his cattle.

Sammie Vinson Repeats Vows With Jeff Massie

A wedding ceremony Saturday evening was conducted for Miss Sammie Ann Vinson and Jeffrey N. Massie, with Dr. Gerald Mann, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating and the Rev. John Kiesling, associate pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, at the First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Vinson of 227 Star, the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Massie of Gonzales, former Hereford residents.

The couple will be at home after a short wedding trip at a cottage on Lake Wood, near Gonzales.

Miss Carol Scott was maid of honor with Ted Coleman as best man. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Wayne Betts of Euless, and Miss Carleta Vinson, sisters of the bride. A younger sister, Pamela Vinson, was junior bridesmaid.

Groomsman were Tim and Scott Massie, brothers of the bridegroom, and Brad Jones, all of Gonzales. Wayne Betts of Euless and Danny Massie of Amarillo, cousin of the bridegroom, ushered and lighted candles.

Red tapers lighted the center arrangement of white gladiolas, Fuji mums and red carnations which backed a kneeling bench at the church altar. On either side were branched and spiral candelabra and palm trees.

Wedding music selections were Lords Prayer, All of My Life and Till, sung by Miss Sherry White with Mrs. Joe Shultz accompanying.

The bride wore her sister's wedding dress which was designed in empire style with an A-line skirt. The gown was of nylon organza and chantilly lace, with long sleeves and detachable train. Clipped medallions of lace were scattered on the V-shaped insert rising from the bottom of the skirt.

A chapel veil held by a pearl tiara was bordered with wide lace to frame her face. Her bouquet was a cascade of red roses, white carnations, fugi mums and holly leaves.

Her attendants were dressed in red polyester, high waisted, ankle length dresses, with fitted bodice. A standing collar with braid trim, accented the neckline. Full length sleeves with tucks were gathered at wrists to form ruffles. The skirt was gathered, with self ruffles and braid trim.

They carried red votive candles, with teathered white carnations.

The reception was in the fellowship hall with Miss Mona Gale Gibson and Mrs. Richard Warren of Muleshoe alternately registering guests.

Miss Gibson also served the cake, a three tiered colonade with bride and groom figurines topping it. Miss Martha Ann McBride ladled punch. The table had a silver candelabra with red votive candles. White fugi mums and red carnations with two white doves accenting it.

The bride wore a winter white mohair and nylon knit pantsuit with red accessories as her traveling costume.

The bride has been employed by the Hereford Meat Market after receiving a certificate in the CCTB Program from West Texas State University. She is a 1971 graduate of Hereford High School.

Massie is now employed with Poe Electric in Gonzales; he attended Stephen F. Austin University in Nacogdoches, and is a 1969 graduate of Hereford High School.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Vinson of Milwaukee, Wisconsin; The Clinton Massie and Tyler Vance families of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Beckman and family of Texline; Mr. and Mrs. W.T. Beckman of Sedan N.M.

Bay View Club, Husbands Dine

A round-robin exchange was a humorous entertainment for Bay View Study Club members and their husbands after dinner Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Ansel McDowell, then the group sang Christmas songs with Mrs. J.R. Allison at the piano.

It was the club's annual holiday party. Hostesses with Mrs. McDowell were Mmes. Homer Garrison, Bill Griffin, Keith Simmer, Robert Josseland, R.W. Eades, Pat Malone, Jimmie Gillentine, John Gilliland and Jack Gilliland. The gift exchange was directed by Mrs. Simmer.

The buffet dinner was served from a table laid with sequined gold net and centered with white chrysanthemums, each with a tiny gold ball in its center. Gold and white colors were repeated on quartet tables, including gold-banded china and crystal.

Guests were Mrs. Fern Arp of Midway City, Calif., Mrs. Griffin's house guest, and Mrs.

Hazel Davis of Rule, mother of Mrs. Garrison.

Members and their husbands dining in addition to the hostess couples, were Messrs. and Mmes. R.B. Miller, Bruce Burney, Earnest Langley, Si Darling, Jack Wilcox, Herman Ford and D.N. Garner; Mmes. W.E. Golden, Juston McBride and H.L. Benefield.

Review Feature

A book review and an exchange of gifts from a Christmas tree made up the program at the December meeting of Summerfield Study Club Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ray L. Johnson.

Mmes. Thurman Atchley, George DeLozier and L.H. Lookingbill were other hostesses, in rooms decorated for the holiday season.

Mrs. Clayton Sanders reviewed the book, Life Was Simpler Then, which takes a nostalgic look at family life of the past.

Refreshments were served to guests, Mrs. Tandy Legg, Mrs. Leroy Wilson, and Mrs. Johnson's sister, Mrs. William Mantiply, a visitor from Louisiana.

Also to members, Mmes. Lee Curry, J.R. Euler, R.B. Baker, J. E. Woodward, Earl Lance Sr., Earl Lance Jr., Guy Walser, Mack Noland, and L.B. Lookingbill.

President Johnson signed a bill raising the minimum wage to $1.60 an hour by 1968, on Sept. 23, 1966.

Help The Land, Help The Wildlife

With the 1972 pheasant season already underway and running through Dec. 17, hunters will be looking for the good hunting areas.

There are several soil and water conservation practices which aid in pheasant population, according to local Soil Conservation Service officials.

Pheasants must have food and a place to live. Food, cover and water for wildlife are by-products of soil and water conservation practices and this is why crop residues, grassed waterways, windbreaks, field borders and many other conservation practices are signs of good pheasant hunting.

Soil and water conservation practices give conservation farms distinctive patterns of trees, shrubs, grass, cultivated crops and water areas that make good wildlife habitat. Alternate bands of crops and grass provide a lot of edges where wildlife food and cover are close together. They are favored habitats of quail and pheasants.

Fields protected from erosion by stubble and other crop residues furnish waste grain and weed seeds which are preferred food of pheasants, geese and quail. Grassed Waterways move water gently down slopes and help keep streams and borrow ditches free of sediment. Grassed waterways produce food for wildlife, and their edges are nesting places for pheasants and quail.

Irrigation reservoirs are stopover spots for migrating ducks and geese and are used by other wildlife.

These are all good conservation practices which help the farmer's land and help provide wildlife cover and food.

To have good hunting, you also have to have good sportsmanship. There are rules that should be observed and followed while hunting. These include the following:

- Ask for permission to hunt.
- Show appreciation for hunting privileges.
- Respect private property.
- Leave fences and gates as you found them.
- Do not damage crops.
- Do not litter fields.

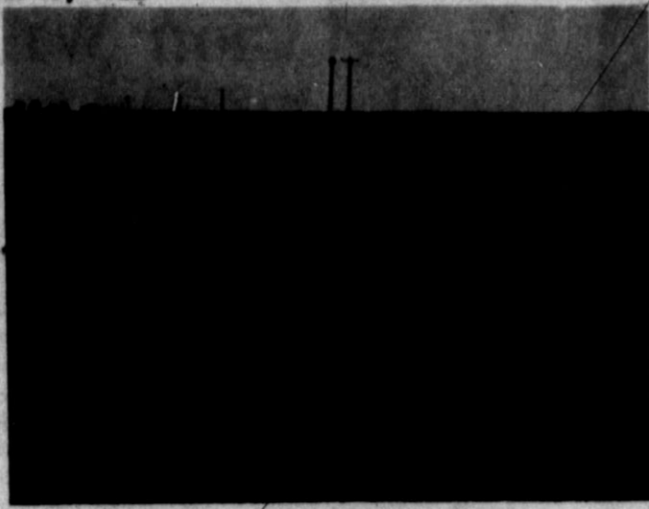

These are just a few of the rules of sportsmanship that should go hand in hand with good hunting during this pheasant season.

HONEY SHORTAGE

England faces a honey shortage because too many breeders have neglected traditional British bees in favor of weaker foreign strains, according to a recent statement by the British Isles Bee Breeders Association.

Finally, in addition to its rate-making authority, the State Board of Insurance determines policy rules and methods of appeals from decisions of the Commissioner of Insurance. It also licenses insurance agents, and supervises the administration and enforcement of the Insurance Code.

In the area of insurance, the State Board of Insurance is the agency which is charged with the protection of the Texas consumer.

The bird Titmouse lines its nest with hair it snatches from squirrel's tails, and has even been known to tug hair firmly attached to human heads.

Genghis Khan conquered an empire larger than all of North America.

Lost boy survives on acorn diet

A Spanish boy, aged 3, who had been missing four days was found hungry but well, sheltering in a cave near the town of Badajoz. He had survived several heavy rainstorms and lived on a diet of acorns.

WILDLIFE AID—Grassed waterways such as this one provide areas for protection and food for wildlife. By helping the land, farmers and ranchers also can help the wildlife, according to local Soil Conservation Service officials.

Tall people face earlier baldness

Tall people are more likely to lose their hair prematurely than those of below-average height, a London clinic specializing in diseases of the scalp has disclosed after studying records of 2,000 patients.

Mrs. Betty Roney, chief of Roney Clinic, said recently, "We have always suspected that tall people were particularly prone to early hair loss, but it is only recently that we have had statistical proof." ...

By Crawford C. Martin
Attorney General of Texas

The Texas State Board of Insurance is charged by law with the promulgation of uniform rates and uniform coverages in the major property casualty lines of insurance. The three member board has direct supervision over the ratemaking functions.

The rates for fire, windstorm, hurricane and hail insurance on every insured home, commercial and public building in the State of Texas are set by the Board. It also determines liability, fire, theft, and collision rates on every insured automobile and truck in the State as well as setting workmen's compensation and liability rates for virtually every Texas employer. "Every twelve months the Insurance Board resurveys these rates measuring each for reasonableness, fairness, and adequacy.

The rates must be adequate to enable the companies to operate and make a reasonable profit. On the other hand, insurance rates must not be so high as to be unfair to the policyholders.

If an insured purchases fire and windstorm insurance on his home or its furnishings, the form or language of the policy and the rules under which the form must be written will be prescribed by the Insurance board. If an insured elects to buy workman's compensation insurance on his employees, the rates per $100 of payroll will be published by the State Board of Insurance, as will be the rules and the form of the policy. If an insured buys a title insurance policy on his home or property, the form as well as the rate must be uniform and prescribed by the Board. Automobile insurance companies must charge the rates prescribed by the Board, but they may reduce the premium by payment of a dividend. This dividend allowance also applies to insurance companies which write fire and windstorm insurance

Economic Questions and Stabilization Answers

Q. Is it true that landlords with only a few apartments are exempt from rent controls?

A. Yes. Rental units are exempt when the owners and members of his family do not own or control, directly or indirectly, more than four units.

Q. Are social security recipients exempt from paying rent increases?

A. No. Although the Internal Revenue Service has launched a nationwide "rent watch" to make sure that social security recipients do not receive illegal rent increases, these individuals are not exempt from legally justifiable rent increases. The IRS has a special "Rent Watch" publication explaining to tenants how they can determine if their rent increase is legal. Write your Internal Revenue district office and ask for a free copy of IRS Publication S-3053, "Rent Watch" For Social Security Beneficiaries.

Q. May a hospital treat an employee a physician who works on a contract basis and pay him a 5.5 per cent increase in compensation under the terms of his contract?

A. No. For the purposes of Economic Stabilization regulations, hospital-based physicians on contractual arrangements who are not subject to the direction and control of the hospital as to the means and methods of accomplishing the results of their work are generally considered to be independent contractors. They are not employees and thus would be subject to the same restrictions as any noninstitutional health provider. The increase to the physician on the contract may not exceed the 2½ per cent limitation and must be based on allowable costs.

Q. Are frozen seafood products exempt from price controls?

A. No. Although the first sale of raw, unprocessed seafood products is exempt from controls, the sale of frozen seafood products, whether the first or a subsequent sale, is subject to price controls. However, the first sale of fish which is "iced" by the fisherman for the purposes of preserving the catch until he returns to port is exempt.

Q. When the IRS publishes an Economic Stabilization ruling stating that a certain practice is not permitted under the regulations, does this mean that the practice was permissible up to the date the ruling was published?

A. No. The practice was not permissible from the time of the effective date of the regulation. A published ruling represents the application of the existing law as expressed in the regulations to the particular facts involved. Unless otherwise indicated, a published ruling is to be applied with retroactive effect. In appropriate circumstances, however, a ruling may indicate specifically that it is to be applied without this retroactive effect.

Q. I've heard the term "base rent." What does it mean?

A. Base rent is the highest monthly rent a landlord can charge for a residence before making any allowable increases. Generally, it is the approximate market level rent for a housing unit before the Freeze began on August 15, 1971. In figuring a rent increase, you always start with base rent.

Lion Will Become Father For First Time In Years

Werewolf, Lion Country Safari's aging old simba, for the first time in 14-years, will soon become a father.

Last June the lionized relic garnered a degree of notoriety by undergoing cosmetic surgery to repair a face his mother couldn't love. Because of the lip injury suffered in a zoo years ago, the cat couldn't eat properly, roar, grow a mane, or breed.

Now, five months later, and following enough trials and tribulations to make the Book of Job read like a kindergarten primer, the over-the-hill old simba has chosen a mate.

The svelte young lady's name is Climber, and although accused of being slightly nearsighted, she has changed the old cat's lifestyle and personality so completely that, excluding outward appearances, it is difficult to recognize Werewolf — even for Werewolf.

During the post-Climber era, game rangers at the 485-acre African wildlife preserve attempted everything from outright subterfuge to reading excerpts from the "Sensuous Male" in order to mate the old cat. And, after five months of subsequent failures, threw up their hands in utter frustration.

Shortly thereafter, nature took its course and Werewolf discovered Climber, or vice-versa. It was quite by accident that the two, following regular physical check-ups, were placed in adjoining recuperation huts. And, in true soap opera fashion, they fell in love.

When Rangers turned the pair out on the grassy savannah, they stood with mouths agape in total disbelief as the newly acquainted twosome headed for the privacy of a nearby bush.

Although Werewolf's first attempt at mating was understandably as suave as a chimpanzee eating split pea soup with chopsticks, the problem was soon overcome and an aura of blissfulness reigned over the mating pair.

Since that historic event (for Werewolf, at least) the two spent the majority of the Indian Summer days purring, nuzzling, mating and generally smiling at park visitors driving through the lion section.

And a smile from Werewolf is an unforgettable sight, since he closely resembles a discarded Halloween mask. Surgery could not totally rectify the dangling lower lip and, as a result, he gives the distinct impression of having been run over by a herd of irate gnus.

However, since ugliness is not hereditary, Lion Country personnel are anxiously awaiting the world's very first Werewolf Jr. to be brought into this Texas-size patch of Africa around Christmas.

Sheriff's Painting Is Relaxing Hobby

BY LORI HOPSON
Staff Writer

"When I was about five years old," says Sheriff Travis McPherson. "I was always drawing. I saw a man painting a mural on a wall when I was about eight, and I thought I just had to do that."

The sheriff, a member of Hereford's Art Guild, has been painting and drawing ever since.

"I've been drawing on just about everything—even on desk tops at school—I was always getting into trouble for that."

While in school at Texico, N.M., the sheriff received several honors for art work he had done for the school yearbook. He also designed the school flag.

"One thing I'm particularly proud of—I designed the school flag, and I guess they still fly it now."

"I tried my hand at water color at one time," he says, but I never did go any further with it than that."

The sheriff says he began to work sincerely on his art when a friend encouraged him to try oils.

"I've had no formal training," he says. "A friend of mine sort of insisted that I get some oil paints and try it, and I've been doing that ever since."

"My first two or three attempts didn't turn out too well, but with every painting since then, I've seen some improvement, though I've never finished a painting yet that I've been completely satisfied with."

The sheriff says he tried doing some semi-abstracts, but was not too interested in doing them.

"I like to see a picture as true-to-life as a person can make it," he says.

His favorite work is western art, and he says that most of the time he uses photographs to paint from.

"I'm not much of a photographer," he says, "so I have to rely on other people's photography to get ideas. There have been several times when I would combine several photographs to get a single picture."

Sheriff McPherson says that he recently tried wax sculpture, and adds that if he ever gets the opportunity, he would like to learn the techniques involved in bronze casting.

"Most of my painting I do at night and on week-ends. I try to paint for two or three hours every night if I can—it's relaxing, and takes your mind off everything else," he says.

"There have been a lot of times when I'd get started painting and have to stop because something came up at the Sheriff's office," he continues.

Although he doesn't use the word "inspiration," the sheriff says there are times when he sits down to paint and nothing comes to him.

"There have been days when I haven't really seemed to be in the mood, but I feel like I need to get it done. I sit down and just don't get anything done. At other times it seems I can't do anything wrong," he says.

"You can't explain it," he continues. "But you just sit down to paint and something happens. At times I've started on a painting and finished it in no time, without having to really work on it. It just happens."

Sheriff McPherson says that he did black and white sketches for some time before he attempted to do oil paintings.

"For a long time I would just sketch and use India ink. I also did a lot of charcoal, but I never was satisfied with that because I couldn't make it real enough."

"I like to try and capture the natural beauty in this part of the country," he says. "Because I'm afraid someday we may not have it."

The sheriff has had several of his works displayed by local businesses, and his work was included in the recent Hereford Art Guild showing at Sugarland Mall.

"Several of the business places here have been kind enough to display my work, which I've been really flattered about. It's very flattering when I see my picture in the same building with Carl Smith and Montague," he says.

"I feel extremely fortunate to have a talent," he says. "I've always wanted to take lessons, but it seems I've never had the time. It's just a lot of fun. I think everybody should have a hobby, something to help them relax when they get off work."

Joint Services Set For Churches

Congregations of St. Joseph's and St. Anthony's Catholic Churches will join Tuesday in a worship service to observe the closing of the solemnity of the Virgin of Guadalupe. The celebration will begin at 7 p.m. in St. Anthony's parish auditorium.

Recitation of the rosary will open the service, the decades to be alternately in Spanish and English. There will be a scenario depicting the apparitions of the virgin to Juan Diego, followed by a procession to the church for the mass in Spanish liturgy.

Parishioners from both churches will meet for fellowship together in the auditorium after the celebration.

Correction

Pheasant hunters are breaking the law if they followed to the letter the "can dos" published in the Thursday Brand.

An error in the pheasant season story on page one Thursday had a mistake in the part about hunting from a motor vehicle. It said a person could hunt from a vehicle on a road.

However, this is not altogether true. A person can hunt from a vehicle on a road, but the road must be on someone's private property.

Veteran's Affairs

Q.—My wife served in the Marine Corps during World War I. She passed away several years ago, but her illness and death had nothing to do with her military service. I hear there is some kind of new law allowing widowers like me to get a VA pension. Is this true?

A.—Yes. This is Public Law 92-540. But there is an income limitation for the pension.

Q.—My husband was killed in the Army in Vietnam and I would like to enroll in a well known university in Paris, France. Will VA help me do this?

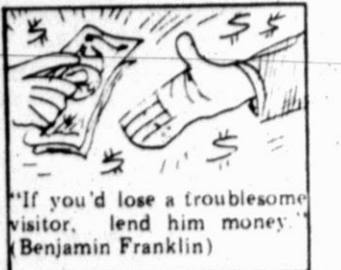

A.—Yes. If you are eligible for assistance under the Dependents' Educational Assistance Program, you may now attend approved foreign institutions of higher learning.

Q.—My brother is blind from a Vietnam war injury. He's home now but we can't seem to get him interested in living again. Isn't VA doing anything about young men like him?

A.—VA recently entered into an agreement with the Blinded Veterans Association for B.V.A. representatives, themselves blind, to augment VA services to blinded veterans.

Q.—My husband was totally disabled as the result of an accident while he was in the Air Force. With him and the children to look after, I can't leave home to go to school so I can get a job. Can VA arrange for me to go to school at night or take a correspondence course?

A.—Yes: Women in your situation are eligible for education benefits under more liberal rules under the new education law. Please discuss this with the veterans assistance officer at the nearest VA regional office.

The Aerospace industry is one of the largest and most rapidly changing industries in the country. Some 1.25 million persons were employed in the manufacture of aircraft, missiles and spacecraft in 1970, many of them involved with developments in supersonic flight and space exploration. These, and other activities in research and experimental planning, add to the excitement of the industry.

A logical outflow of entering the field of aerospace and missile development is through the U.S. Army. The strong similarity among aircraft, missiles and spacecraft is very helpful in switching your career experience in the Army to a civilian position in aerospace.

One Army job in aerospace is that of a Hawk missile crewman. Crewmen assist in missile assembly and checkout, in organizational maintenance, and in command and control of the firing element of the missile battery.

You learn disarming procedures, march order, emplacement of launchers and associated equipment and to assist in planning and organizing required defenses of security areas. You are actually pre-trained for the aerospace industry. You're also getting $288 a month to start, free room and board, all benefits and 30 days paid vacation each year.

In this industry there is a choice of many finished products on which to be working. And the finished products can use a variety of different types of engines, electronic systems and other components. Missile engines are jet or rocket. Spacecraft are rocket powered because rockets are the most powerful type of engine and can operate in airless space.

Today's rockets are powered by chemical propellants, either liquid or solid. In the future there will be the opportunity to work on developing such new sources of rocket propulsion as nuclear or electric energy.

Missiles and spacecraft vary greatly in the purposes for which they are made, and in their size and capabilities. Missiles are produced chiefly for military use and generally carry destructive warheads. Some can travel only a few miles and are intended for such purposes as the support of ground troops and defense against low flying aircraft. Others, such as the Atlas, Titan and Minuteman have intercontinental ranges of 7,000 miles or more.

Some of the more important jobs in aerospace fall into three main categories: professional and technical; administrative, clerical and related occupations; and plant occupations.

Occupational needs vary among establishments in the industry. Manufacturers, universities, independent research organizations, and such government agencies as the Air Force and NASA operate research and development laboratories which support technical and craftsmen.

On the other hand, production operations in factories employ more plant workers, such as assemblers, inspectors and machinists.

Aerospace plants range from the large factories of major manufacturers, each with thousands of employees, to the shops of small subcontractors and suppliers that employ only a few.

Jobs in aerospace work may be found in practically every state, although approximately one-third are concentrated in California. Other states with large numbers of aerospace jobs include New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts and Maryland in the East; Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Texas in the South; Ohio, Missouri and Kansas in the Middle West; and Washington on the Coast.

Aerospace is the future and jobs in it will have a promising future. Young men and women seriously interested in aerospace careers should give some thought to Army training and schooling. It's just about the very best in this and countless other career areas.

BROTHERS IN ARMY—Fidel and Ray Vigil, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Vigil of Frio, are now serving together in the Army. Fidel is engaged in his basic training at Ft. Ord, California, and Ray is a Private First Class, now serving in Korea. Fidel's wife, Angie, lives with his parents in Frio. Both brothers are graduates of Hereford High School.

Swedish scientists transplant teeth

The Karolinska Institute in Stockholm has announced the successful transplanting of teeth by a new method involving keeping the tooth in a cell culture in a test tube for months before the transplant is made, giving the root membrane and any infection time to heal.
The new method was used in 35 cases, and in each instance the teeth rooted.

Recycling Becomes Big Part Of Everyday Life

"Reclamation" is a word long used in discussion of nature's resources, but an environmental conservation term of the present is "recycling". When it comes to the solid waste problem in Texas — and there is a big one — recycling comes to the fore as being the way of conserving once-used products by making them into new products.

In this way, it's possible that your old car could come back as your new refrigerator. Aside from providing an economic value to your refuse, recycling can cut down on the one-way flow of materials from the assembly line to the consumer to the junk heap.

It could also help alleviate the collection and disposal problem for governments and citizens of our country, and health hazards produced by the very nature of the refuse.

In Texas alone, approximately five pounds of solid waste are produced daily by each person. More than $55 million are spent annually by communities for the collection and disposal of domestic solid waste, not including industrial and agricultural wastes.

Look at the solid waste problem this way: In Texas there are approximately 900 organized land disposal sites for municipal refuse which occupy 40 square miles of land. In addition, it is estimated that there are more than 1,000 promiscuous dump grounds.

Some of these disposal sites meet State Health Department operational requirements, but many are deficient in meeting minimal health standards.

Here's another view of solid waste: As many as 20 million junk and abandoned automobiles are estimated to be lying around the United States — and some seven million cross the line from transportation to junk each year. It is estimated that more than 200 million tires are discarded each year. Had a soft drink recently? More than forty-eight billion cans and 26 billion bottles are produced annually in this country — most of them throwaways.

Yet, in all of these discarded items there are reusable materials. Most constituents of solid waste — steel, aluminum, glass, rubber, paper — if separated and cleaned could be used almost as easily as virgin materials...and at great savings to our natural resources.

At present, some of the most successful recycling is in the areas of paper and metal, lessening the annual consumption of raw materials.

Basically, there are three commonly accepted methods of waste disposal: sanitary landfilling, incineration and composting. In Texas, there are fewer than 20 incinerators and composting plants.

The most practical form of solid waste disposal in Texas has been the sanitary landfill. In a properly operated sanitary landfill, refuse is disposed of by burial, often on land which can be filled and reclaimed for some use such as a park or golf course. The wastes are systematically dumped, compacted and then covered daily by a thin layer of dirt. In this manner, the landfill is kept free of health hazards.

But proponents of recycling argue that we are spending literally millions of dollars to bury treasure, treasure that lies dormant underground or deteriorates. Researchers are hopeful of finding the economical answer to conversion of waste plastic materials, including rubber, into wax, grease, useful liquids, or even fuel. Research is revealing innumerable possibilities for salvaging glass as a prime constituent in the production of bricks, asphalt, building blocks, glass wool insulation, sewer pipes, reflective materials, costume jewelry and chicken grit. Cullet (crushed waste glass) also is being recycled for use in manufacturing new bottles.

Costs of collecting, separating, transporting and recycling wastes are high. Until these problems have been worked out, our affluent society seems likely to continue its wasteful and polluting ways. The State Health Department, through its local health departments and its environmental health office, will continue to monitor the way in which our refuse is handled in order to safeguard the health of all Texans. The Texas Solid Waste Plan has a long-range goal of complete recycling so that solid waste, as we now know it, will cease to exist and all materials will become links in an endless chain of resource conservation, utilization and recycling.

SCHOOL PATRONS

Dear School Patrons,

December 12th is a very important and decisive day for Hereford and its future. December 12th is the date for the School Bond Elections and whether it passes or not is going to depend on citizens like yourself.

The future of Hereford's continued growth depends on providing facilities for quality education; and this, Hereford schools have done and will continue to do. Now there is a need for a new school building to replace Central School. The increase in taxes is a very small price to pay for what we will get in return — better facilities for quality education.

1. Who is eligible to vote?
Any person who is registered and owns property in the County of Deaf Smith — such as owning a car, a boat or trailer house. You do not necessarily have to own a house to be considered eligible to vote. There will be a ballot box for non-property owners.
2. What if I have lost my voter registration receipt, can I still vote?
Yes, you can by signing an affidavit.
3. What if I am eligible to vote but cannot read English?
There will be Spanish speaking people there at the polling place to interpret the ballot for you — so that you can vote according to your desire.
4. Do I have to be 21 years of age to vote in the School Bond Election?
No, if you are 18 years of age and registered in Deaf Smith County, you may vote in the School Bond Election on December 12th.
5. Where do I go to vote?
Go to the Community Center at Park Avenue and Ave. C.

You as parents and school patrons of this district should consider this Bond Election on December 12th as a very important project not only for your children but for the community and the future of Hereford, educationally and economically. On December 12th get involved — go to the polls and vote in this important School Bond Election.

IT'S A WONDERFUL WORLD AT CHRISTMAS.

As I drove home from church Sunday night and was reflecting on the sermon, I was made to feel the quietness of the streets and the stillness in the air. As I passed by homes that had their Christmas decorations, there crowded into my mind many reminders that there is a great change about to take place in the world about us.

The twinkling of the stars above seemed brighter, the magnitude of the sky was magnificent, the colorful lights added beauty to the scene which will long be remembered.

Yes, to the gardener and those closely associated with the earth, something great was happening. Mother Earth, is putting her children to bed for the long sleep that comes with the bitter cold of winter.

She is patiently and carefully tucking the brown earth about the roots of trees, plants and other growing vegetation, preparing them for the dormant period. It is a great thought, and one which should make us all more mindful of the greatness of the Master Gardener.

In keeping with the thought of nature, may I suggest that your Christmas list include some of the Christmas plants. List cut flowers, potted plants or a gift certificate for plants or shrubs. They convey love, extend best wishes, show admiration and demonstrate good will.

Potted plants have a longer life than cut flowers (cut flowers do speak a special language at Christmas time) like true affection, plants grow with time, they have a great appeal that makes them ideal Christmas gifts.

The following are some of the plants which make ideal gifts at the Christmas season. Yes, Mother Nature can be a problem-solver for the Yuletide shopper.

CHRISTMAS PEPPER: Late in the year this small tropical shrub is covered with ornamental red, yellow, and green fruit. To make the most of the plant's good looks, give it warmth and even moisture and shield from direct heat and drafts.

This plant is easy to care for, and does add a bit of cheery color to most any room. The small peppers may be used for seasoning after they ripen. I have grown them for years, and in the garden they make a very colorful border. If you should receive a Christmas pepper save some of the matured peppers and plant in the new growing season.

AZALEA: With good light and no hot afternoon sun, this lovely plant will bloom several weeks. Add approximately 1/4 cup of water to the plant daily. Should be tepid water.

Do not keep in a room where the heat is higher than 65 degrees. Feed every two weeks with liquid houseplant fertilizer. The colors of the azaleas are beautiful and varied enough that they will fit into most any decor.

NORFOLK ISLAND PINE: Here's a hardy choice for that someone on your list who has trouble growing things. This easy-care plant resembles a full-sized tree in miniature. It reaches two to five feet, requiring moderate light and reasonable watering.

At Christmas time it can be decorated with tiny clever decorations, adding a bit of Christmas cheer and beauty. It requires some full sun and if soil is covered with dried moss the moisture will be more even and will aid in creating humidity.

HOLLY: Always considered a sign of friendship, holly is now a traditional holiday decoration. A male and female plant are both essential if berries are ever to grow. Holly needs light and should be kept moist and cool. Most potted hollies can be transplanted outdoors in the spring.

CYCLAMEN: With colorful flowers and handsomely shaped leaves, this is an excellent Christmas house-plant. Give good light but not afternoon sun and it will bloom until Easter. Tender loving care is needed.

DWARF ORANGE: This is an excellent plant that produces flowers and fruit intermittently, and an excellent example of the changing seasons. To keep plant healthy, give it light and even watering.

Feed with liquid fertilizer biweekly; if in full fruit when received do not feed until the bloom period starts. This plant can be killed by over-watering and by shifting from one location to another.

POINSETTIA: Often called Christmas Star because of its showy, starlike bracts (the bloom is the seed-like formation in the center of the plant). One author stated that if properly cared for the poinsettia can bloom up to six months. This is not the general rule, but usually the exception.

However the poinsettia I purchased last Christmas was still in flower and very lovely in June when I placed it outdoors. I think the secret (if there is one) was that the house had regular heat, and was kept at 70 degrees.

Also had morning sun; poinsettias need warmth and light. Do not overwater, consistent watering is recommended, but not excessive. Approximately 1/4 cup is sufficient at one watering (depending on the size of the plant, this is for the ordinary sized plant with one to three blooms).

AMARYLLIS: These can be purchased in flower, or a potted bulb that has just begun to show its leaf tips. The unfolding of the plant in its growth cycle and the excitement when the gorgeous blooms open, is most exciting especially for children.

This too is a plant which is an excellent gift for a shut-in.

They may be purchased in several shades of red, also bicolors and pure white. All of these are lovely and add glamour to the Christmas decorations.

ALL FOLIAGE PLANTS: The greens of the various foliage plants, add beauty in most any room. They respond to consistent, loving care and as a usual thing they have a long life span of growth and beauty.

CHRISTMAS CACTUS: This is a plant that is not usually found in flower shops, but is grown by the home gardener. Mrs. G.P. Owen has one of the loveliest Christmas cactus that I have seen in years. It is in full bud, and by Christmas day will be a bower of beauty.

The formation of the flowers is fascinating and the color is a pleasing fuchsia, very lovely. She also had a large bowl filled with narcissus, which had been forced, and the first flower had, just opened and other buds were showing. Will make a beautiful centerpiece for the Christmas dinner table. Not only pretty, but very fragrant. The aroma is a tantalizing-haunting fragrance, remindful of Biblical plants.

In purchasing potted plants they can be made more attractive if they are potted in an attractive-utilitarian container. A bit of Christmas "dressing" is an added touch.

CHRISTMAS PLANTS have a way of saying, "It's a wonderful world at Christmas" if we have the ear to hear.

Chemical method controls bugs, weeds

A way to control insects and weeds with a nonpersistent herbicide or pesticide dissolved in natural or synthetic rubber was announced recently.

The small application of nonpersistent chemical would be released slowly to maintain a low level of chemical in the environment.

Letters To Santa....

Dear Santa
How are you doing? I am doing fine. I am in sixth grade. I go to Tierra Blanca School. I don't like it but I go anyway I am 11 year old. I will be 12 February 23. I won't a lot of stuff for Christmas but I know I can't have it all. I won't a moldel and a pair of pigs. I am going to watch all of the Christmas movies because they are good. Well it is getting late so I had better go and get ready to go to school. So expect another letter next year. Merry Christmas and a happy new year HO HO HO

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: TEMPERS FLARE, HATRED KINDLES IN THEIR EYES, AND THEN SUDDENLY JACQUES FINDS JOAN SOBBING IN HIS ARMS.

THE FAMOUS TROUBADOUR, RENOWNED FOR HIS ELOQUENCE, FINDS FOR THE FIRST TIME, THAT HE IS WITHOUT WORDS. "I GUESS I LOVE YOU," HE STAMMERS.

"I KNOW YOU DO," SHE ANSWERS, DRYING HER TEARS. "BUT LOVE IS A SWEET AND QUIET THING THAT DOES NOT NEED THE HELP OF HIGH-SOUNDING PHRASES."

"SAIL HO! OFF THE PORT BOW!" CALLS THE LOOKOUT. AND ROMANCE IS PUT ASIDE AT THIS THREAT OF DANGER. FOR THIS IS THE BEGINNING OF THE DARK AGES WHEN THE LIGHT OF CIVILIZATION BURNS LOW AND EVERY MAN MAKES HIS OWN LAWS. ONLY THE STRONG SURVIVE.

PRINCE VALIANT ORDERS THE CREW TO STAND BY THEIR ARMS. THEN HE HOISTS HIS BANNER AND THE CRIMSON STALLION WAVES AT THE MASTHEAD.

ARN JOINS THE LOOKOUT. THERE IS SOMETHING FAMILIAR ABOUT THE APPROACHING SHIP. THEN HE GIVES A GLAD CRY: "IT IS MOTHER'S SHIP! I CAN SEE HER CREST ON THE SAIL."

BUT WHY IS SHE HEADING SOUTH FOR BRITAIN? THE LOOKOUT GIVES THE ANSWER. TWO VIKING SHIPS APPEAR OVER THE HORIZON, THEIR OARS CHURNING THE WATER IN SWIFT PURSUIT!

AS THE TWO VESSELS CONVERGE, VAL CALLS: "FOLLOW ME. LAUNCELOT'S CASTLE IS ONLY HOURS AWAY AND WE CAN FIND SAFETY IN ITS HARBOR."

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Gift flowers seem to fade so quickly. Recently, I received a dozen red roses for my birthday and thought of this way to preserve them forever.

When the petals had wilted, I carefully separated them and put them in a paper bag in a dry place.

While they were drying, I cut two pieces of white linen I had left over, seven inches square.

Then on one piece of linen I embroidered the date, on the other the message on the card that came with the flowers.

Next, I sewed up three sides with right sides facing each other, turned it inside out and had a six-inch pillow case (made with one-half inch seams).

I put the dried petals inside, sewed up the fourth side, turning both raw edges under, using a small blind-stitch.

Now I have a rose sachet for my underwear drawer and a permanent remembrance of a lovely thought.

—Jane C. Hibbard

... a really great idea! I was just thinking... now that the younger generation is taking up embroidery again, they'll really go for this... think of the flowers they receive!

They can embroider the date on one side, the name of the event on the other... so many events they receive corsages for, especially in their junior and senior years in high school.

You know what? When you've finished sewing up the fourth side of the sachet, you can do a small blanket stitch around all the edges in the same color as the date and message were done. Helps to disguise that last edge you sewed up after filling it.

And, gals, when your husband finally gets around to sending you that dozen roses for your anniversary (husbands, take note!) just look what you can do with 'em.

Bless you! Love... Heloise

STUFF 'N' SUCH!

DEAR HELOISE: We had polyurethane foam solid pillows that were just too solid.

So we shredded the foam by tearing it up into the size of walnuts and refilling the zip pillowcases.

Now they're much lighter, airier and fluffier. And such fun the kids had doing it!

—Joan Henry

LETTER OF LOVE

DEAR HELOISE: I am just wondering how one person could be so lovely looking and at the same time be so nice to her readers.

I would like to have you as one of my many nieces, or even as a granddaughter.

—Age-Over-80

DON'T PAN IT!

DEAR HELOISE: For years I used my good pans for boil-in-a-bag foods, to boil eggs, etc.

Then I woke up and decided to use an inexpensive teflon saucepan, set aside just for that purpose.

Now there's no more discoloration on my good pans.

R.M.

ALL THAWED OUT?

DEAR HELOISE: Today I must be inspired—or finally awake. I have a hint to share with you and your readers...

We have a kitty who sometimes forgets her table manners... anything thawing for supper is fair game. Sound familiar?

Tonight the meat went into my plastic colander which has a cover with holes in the top. With the lid secure, the meat thawed in record time without banning kitty to the basement.

—A Hoosier Admirer

TIME TO STOCK UP!

DEAR HELOISE: I know both my elderly grandmothers had difficulty fastening stockings and couldn't wear garters because of their circulation.

I wonder if other elderly ladies are aware of the existence of the knee-high stockings intended to be worn under pants? They are just like regular stockings in appearance but require no fastening. The elastic in the top of most brands isn't tight enough to stop the circulation. Also, they're a lot cheaper.

Since most older ladies wear below-the-knee dresses, they won't show.

Nellie

ALL BOOKED UP!

DEAR HELOISE: For those who find it hard to keep up with pasting trading stamps in books, I've found the "stone" to kill two "birds."

I save my trading stamps, separating them by brands in plastic bags, until I am going on a fairly long trip with the family.

Then I pick up enough stamp books, fill a small jar with water and place one sponge per person in another plastic bag, including one for myself.

As my husband drives, the children and I use that time to fill the stamp books.

If the sponges appear to be drying out, I moisten them with the water in the small container. No mess and no waste of time.

Plus, it does keep some peace and quiet in the back seat.

—Mrs. A. W. Eaton

Oh, yes! You're a love to pass that idea on.

Heloise

AND SEW FORTH!

DEAR HELOISE: First of all, thanks for your most interesting column which I follow faithfully.

Now here's a little hint

some of your sewing friends may find helpful.

For your own little measuring device, cut a few inches off the ruler printed on all the pattern envelopes. Reinforce the cut-off portion with a bit of plastic tape and cardboard, which can be cut from a card of buttons or snaps.

I cut mine small enough so that it will fit in my pin box. If you lose it—no big deal—there's always another one on another pattern envelope.

—Amy Ogrin

PARTY PARFAIT

DEAR HELOISE: What to do when you need a quick, delicious, and attractive parfait dessert?

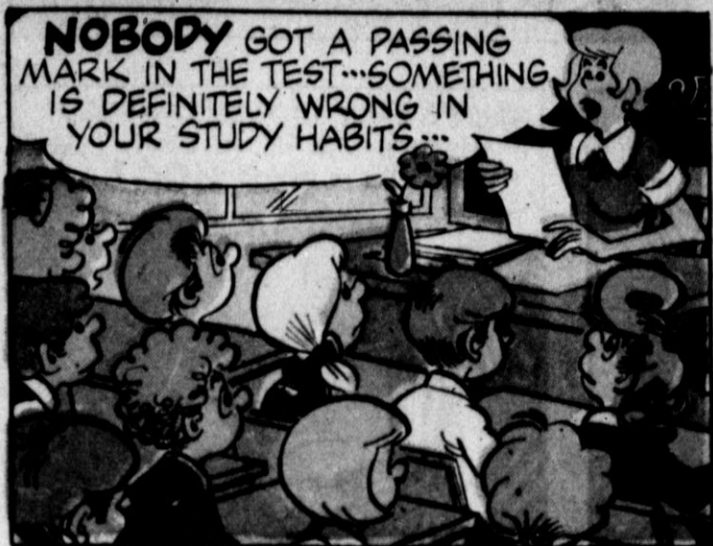

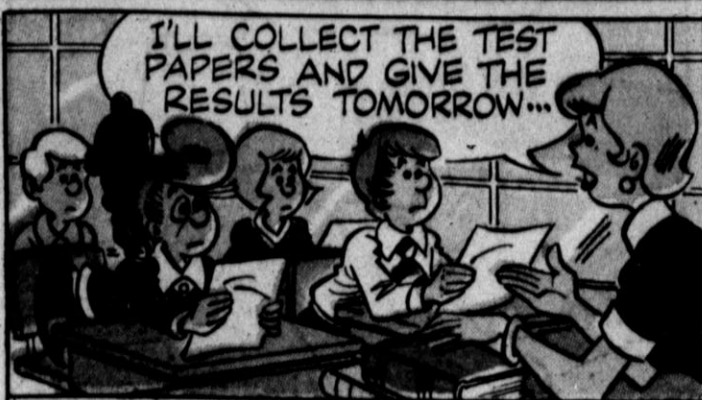

I always keep canned vanilla pudding, plus various frozen fruits on hand.

This sure has saved the day for me when I've had to fix a hurry-up company meal. And it looks like I've spent hours fixing dessert!

—"Non-Pro"
You smartie pie. Why didn't I think of that years ago?

Hal Kaufman's JUNIOR WHIRL BULLETIN BOARD

FIDO'S HANG-UP! Last year, Fido, the pup, hung up his stocking and nothing happened. This year, he thinks he has found a place where Santa can't possibly overlook it--or can he?

To see where Fido's stocking is hung, simply draw a continuous line from dot to dot in numerical order--from dot 1 to dot 2, to 3, and so on.

Where two numbers are beside one dot, use dot for both.

- ALL STEAMED UP! At Christmas, when it's cold, there's steam on the windows, steam in radiators, steaming plum puddings, etc. Maybe you think you know the color of steam. Do you?
Steam is colorless. What's visible is condensed water vapor.
- What is the sum of the Roman numerals in the words CANDY CANE? Answer in 30 seconds.
Seven hundred.
- You are not likely to get one of these as a Christmas gift. What's that?
One shoe (you'd get a pair, huh?).
- A Christmas tree that is 15 feet shorter than a flagpole that is three times as high is how tall? Careful; this is a stickler.
It's seven and one-half feet tall.
