"The American people are living in a society in which only 16 per cent of their dollar earned goes to the purchase of all food. No where else in the world can this be done. Wages in many industries have risen in the last few years as much as 300 per cent, while beef prices were at a standstill. Yet, when beef prices did increase in recent months, the very people who have been receiving yearly salary increases complained that beef was out of reach.

Small Talk
BY SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

THERE WERE TWO GIRLS from Hereford among nominees for Woman Of The Year title at West Texas State University, when the award was made Thursday night at the Associated Women Students' banquet.

The title went to a student from Slaton, although a lot of Linda Merrill's and Jane Zinser's friends would disagree. It is quite an honor, though, to be nominated because it means a campus organization picks the nominee as its Woman Of The Year.

Jane was chosen by both Cousins Residence Hall and Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, music organization. Linda's nomination was from Kappa Delta, social sorority which she serves this year as intramural chairman and magazine chairman. Both the girls are seniors at WT.

LINDA, DAUGHTER OF THE Joe Merrills, 411 East Third, was named Who's Who in 1973, is president of Gamma Sigma Sigma and secretary of the Women's Physical Education Majors Club, also a House of Delegates representative, active in AWS, Young Democrats and Delta Psi Kappa.

Attending WT on a piano scholarship, Jane has been listed on the dean's honor roll three semesters, and has served the student government Senate as secretary three years. She has held several offices including that of rush chairman for Chi Omega, social sorority.

Other memberships are in WTSU Chorale I, Mary E. Hudspeth Honor Society, AWS, Alpha Chi honor society, United Campus Ministry Board and Panhellenic Council. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zinser Jr.

A SURPRISE VISIT was paid this week to Guip and John Torbit, 404 Roosevelt, when John's three sons flew in from Salida, Colo., after first carefully phoning to check on things like wind velocity and snow density in this area.

In the party were John of Camarillo, Calif., piloting the plane; Claude of Salida and Gerald of Pueblo, also Gerald's

Beauty Spot Selections Will Resume

Selection of Beauty Spots of the Month will be resumed this month as an activity of the beautification committee in the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division.

From April through October and the month of December a residential and a non-residential beauty spot is cited each month by a secret committee of three selected by the chairman, Mrs. T.J. Carter.

Spots are scored on the basis of general appearance, 50 points; over all harmony, 25 points; and beauty, 25 points. Under the first requirement, neatness and cleanliness counts 20 points, relation of plantings 20, balance and unity 10.

Under harmony, color counts 15 points and harmony of architecture 10. Beauty is judged by eye appeal, 15 points, and overall effectiveness, 10 points.

It is not necessary that landscaping or architecture be expensive, but the scoring points must be met.

Ag Committee In Opposition To Consolidation

Opposition to the consolidation of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices has been expressed to the Department of Agriculture by the ag committee of Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce.

Bob Josseland, ag committee chairman, forward a letter to the USDA this week which expressed opposition to a rumored move which would combine the local ASCS office with others to form a regional office.

The letter, in part, stated: "It is our position that agriculture would be better served from a local office is now being done. Further, we do not see any benefit from the standpoint of economy. It has been stated several times that the USDA is quite concerned about the small rural town. Certainly if the local ASCS office is removed, we are adding just another empty office to our small town. We would appreciate your help to keep the ASCS offices local."

Plans Finalized For Organizing Sheriff's Posse

A Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Posse to be organized in connection with Hereford Riders Club was discussed by club members with Sheriff Travis McPherson and Deputy Leon Gorrell at a meeting in West Texas Rural Telephone building Thursday evening.

Actual formation of the posse is scheduled at the May meeting of the Riders Club.

Advancement of Jacky Messer, vice president, to the club presidency was effective when Cliff Johnson resigned as president; he is moving to Perryton soon.

Plans were discussed for a donkey ballgame which the club will sponsor here April 24 to raise funds for coming activities.

The Sabinal Canyon area (1,280 acres) in Bandera and Real Counties has been purchased by the Parks and Wildlife Department for $512,000.

August and September primary election dates received Senate approval.

City officials are urging Governor Briscoe to recall a bill granting collective bargaining rights to policemen and firemen for amendment.

You Want Control?

A sure way to provoke criminal assault, such as the recent attack against Sen. John Stennis, is to disarm law-abiding citizens.

Crime statistics suggest that localities which have laws that unilaterally disarm peaceful citizens also tend to have high homicide rates.

Conversely, areas which respect the right to bear arms generally have fewer killings. It is, after all, only logical that criminals are emboldened where they know intended victims are least able to defend themselves.

New York City, which has almost prohibitive restrictions against ownership of handguns, witnessed a doubling of its homicide rate in the decade of the 1960s.

After New Jersey passed a rigid gun-control law in 1966, the state crime rate shot up from less than 1,400 offenses per 100,000 people in 1965 to over 2,400 three years later.

Statistics which disprove the argument in favor of unilateral disarmament of potential victims of crime are conveniently forgotten by the gun-confiscation lobby whenever someone of the national stature of Sen. Stennis is shot.

Instead of making the logical point that, if potential victims are armed, they have a better chance of warding off assault, gun confiscators seek to strip law-abiding citizens of the right of self-defense.

The emotional antigun campaign, which is heating up again, refuses to face the cold fact that every day in this country law-abiding people protect themselves from assault because they possess firearms.

The more certain criminals are that possible victims are armed, the less likely they are to attack, a point in favor of more law-abiding people owning firearms.

The assault on people's right to self defense has failed to win major support from President Nixon. "What we need," advises the President, "is a precise definition which will keep the guns out of the hands of criminals and not one that will impinge on the rights of others to have them for their own purposes in a legitimate way."

Gun control operates precisely opposite to what Nixon proposes. Antigun laws don't disarm criminals, but they do impinge on the constitutional right of law-abiding citizens to bear arms.

If the gun-confiscation lobby wants to reduce crime, as it says, it should redirect its campaign toward mandatory legal punishment for people who use guns to commit crimes and elimination of court tolerance toward criminals.

A basic problem in the public's war against crime is that the courts are growing increasingly reluctant to penalize criminal behavior.

This attitude runs from the United States Supreme Court right down into the judicial system of Westmoreland County.

Local judges in particular seem more intent on protecting criminals from society than in protecting society from criminals. Indulgence of criminals is nowhere more apparent than in juvenile court.

Criminals will be disarmed only when penalties for using guns to break laws are both severe and certain. That way law-abiding citizens would be free to own firearms for self-defense.

Paying The Price

An editor I know—who runs a big national magazine—says he got where he is not so much by "working harder" as by "working smarter." That, in a nutshell, is the secret to improving productivity.

"Productivity" is the current buzzword for increasing the efficiency with which we use our resources, including our human resources. Improving it means learning to do more with less.

Why is that important? It's not just important, it's absolutely essential if we are to maintain our present standard of living, or gain a better one in the future. Our way of life is very expensive, in terms of the resources that are required to support it. With an increasing population (and it will continue to increase for years, even with the birthrate leveling off) we will need more resources just to stay in the same place. But some raw materials are getting scarce. So we cannot afford waste—in anything.

Some people think "productivity" is just a code word for making workers work harder. That may be involved—especially if the workers have been featherbedding. But most workers work hard enough already. The biggest productivity improvements come from working smarter, not harder.

In fact, historically, the dramatic gains in productivity have actually reduced human drudgery, not increased it. Take farming, for example. In 1700 it took 186 men to harvest and thresh 60 acres of wheat in one 10-hour day. By 1910, the same job could be done by seven men. Today it takes one man. Obviously that man is not working 186 times harder than the men of 1700. He is working 186 times smarter.

We can improve productivity in four ways: Better workers, better tools, better materials, or better systems.

An exhibit on productivity at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington illustrates the four methods in application to "Mom's apple pie." We could send Mom to baking school (better workers), get her a new oven (better tools), buy better apples (better materials), or find a better recipe (better system).

Over the years, we have used all four of these approaches—often in combination—to win a better way of life. The American economy today produces six times as much per man-hour as it did 100 years ago. But the American worker does not have to work as long or as hard as his ancestors of 1873.

Do we want "more"? Some Americans say no, what they want is more leisure time. Well, that's "more," isn't it? Leisure time is a commodity, too. It must be earned, too. We can see that if we go back to basics: The primitive farmer has to labor from dawn to dusk to get enough food for his family. If he wants any time off, he must find a way to produce the same amount of food in less time. That is, he must "earn" his leisure time by becoming more efficient, by working smarter. The principle is more difficult to see amid the complexities of modern society, but it is exactly the same.

Our greatest gains have come—and will continue to come—from improving old tools, inventing new tools, and finding new and better ways to do things; from working smarter. These gains usually require a lot of seed money.

PUTTING THE LIGHT UNDER A BUSHEL

City Looking At 100 Per Cent Vote Mark

BY BERT MILLS
Washington, D.C.—DePere, Wisconsin, where at least 96 per cent of registered voters cast their ballot in Presidential elections, claims to be "America's Votingest Small City" and all 11 members of Congress from Wisconsin have joined in co-sponsoring a Joint Resolution to so designate DePere.

Actually, DePere's voting record in 1972 was 96.06 per cent. There was 6,479 registered and 6,353 did vote. That was not a record for DePere. Twice before in the past 20 years, DePere has topped the 99 per cent mark. Its worst record in six elections has been 95.9 per cent, back in 1956. These records, if such they be, did not just happen. Since 1952, DePere has had a goal of a 100 per cent turnout of registered voters in Presidential elections. The quadrennial crusade is directed by a 100 Per Cent Vote Committee which has the assistance of four service clubs, the city government, local media, schools, churches, and the business community. The committee obtained lists of all registered voters. The Kiwanis took one ward, the Lions another, Rotary a third, and the Optimists the other. Every registered voter was telephoned. Those away from home, at school or in the service, were contacted and sent absentee ballots.

Disabled and elderly citizens unable to make it to the polls, even with a free ride, also received an absentee ballot.

Youths Did Vote 100 per cent

1972 was the first national election in which most under-21 youths were eligible to vote. DePere made sure they did, and chalked up a 100 per cent record in that age bracket. The few defections were among their elders, some with valid excuses such as a broken arm, the flu, or a newborn baby.

DePere is not some isolated community out in the boondocks which happens to be hipped on voting. It is a close-in suburb of Green Bay, Wisconsin. Like many suburban communities, it has enjoyed a phenomenal growth. In 1940, its population was 6,373. By 1970, it had more than doubled to 13,309.

DePere boasts a college, St. Norbert, which makes the sports pages regularly each summer because the Green Bay Packers hold their pre-season practices there. DePere is also the home town of Miss America, Terry Anne Meeuwse. She is the brown-eyed beauty who sang "He Touched Me" for a national TV audience last fall, and will earn $125,000 as a result before her year ends next September.

DePere was discovered by a French explorer in 1671 and was named "Rapides des Peres," meaning "Rapids of the Fathers." Over the years the name was simplified to DePere.

Freshman Boosts Community

DePere is represented in Congress by a freshman Republican, Harold V. Froehlich, from Appleton, Wisconsin. He is a 40-year-old attorney, certified public accountant, and real estate broker. He served 10 years in the Wisconsin legislature and was Assembly leader when elected to Congress last November.

Froehlich is confident DePere is "America's Votingest Small City" and he hopes Congress will make it official by adopting H. Con. Res. 162, or S. Con. Res. 17, the Senate counterpart. He realizes the title will last only until the next election in 1976, when DePere will have to earn it all over again.

However, the Congressman has made a public pledge that if any comparable small city can beat DePere, he will co-sponsor another resolution to transfer the crown to the winning city. He doubts that will be necessary. He also appears confident he will still be in Congress four years hence.

Talk of Texas

BY JACK MAGUIRE

SACRIFICIAL ART—Frederic Remington, whose drawings and paintings of the Old West are world famous today, spent a lot of time researching his subject in Texas—and apparently hated every minute of it.

On July 1, 1888, he had stopped off in Henrietta, Clay County, while en route to Fort Sill, Okla. From there, he wrote a letter to his wife in which he gave some of his impressions of Texas.

"The mosquitoes like to have eaten me up—there is not a square inch on my body that is not bitten," his letter said. "And oh, oh, oh how hot it is here. I have sweat & sweat my clothes full—I can fairly smell myself. This is a miserable little frontier town with a little hen coop of a hotel. I am nearly starved to death.

"I fully agree with Phil Sheridan, 'If I owned Texas and Hell, I would rent out Texas and live in Hell.'"

Today one of the largest collections of Remington's work is in the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth—95 miles by highway from Henrietta.

IT COULD ONLY HAPPEN HERE—Texas, which once had a general store owned by Jesus Christ (at Waller, Harris-Waller Counties), also boasts a western wear emporium owned by a horse!

The Cutter Bill Western World in Houston is owned by a golden palomino cutting horse who pastures at Denton. His name? Cutter Bill, of course.

TRAVELING TEXAS—The man who sang that he was "a ding dong Daddy from Dumas" soon may have a street named after him in the Moore County town that he made famous.

Phil Baxter, a Dallas song writer, stopped off in the Panhandle town of Dumas in the 1920's while en route to Denver. He liked the friendliness of the people and continued to visit Dumas at every opportunity.

Later he wrote the song, "I'm a Ding Dong Daddy from Dumas," and it became an all-time hit number. The people in Dumas have never forgotten their town's principal claim to fame, so when Phil Baxter died not long ago, they decided to name a street for him.

GHOST BUILDING—Lubbock's tallest skyscraper has been unoccupied and unused for almost three years now.

The 22-story Great Plains Life Building, once the city's pride, has not been habitable since a tornado struck the area on May 11, 1970. The storm damaged the building so severely that it cannot be used without extensive repairs. Thus far the owners have not considered it economically feasible to restore the structure.

RECORD-HOLDER—Allan Shivers, who became governor of Texas on the death of Beauford Jester in July, 1949, held the office longer than any other person.

In addition to serving out Jester's unexpired term, Shivers was reelected to the office three times. Two other governors—Price Daniel and John Connally—also served three elective terms for a total of six years in office. Shivers was governor, however, for more than seven and a half years.

By Mrs. Owen Andrews
Revival services at Frio Baptist Church closed out Sunday night. Rev. Clyde Hankins, evangelist and missionary, conducted the week-long series of services. Mrs. Hankins, who had visited the couples daughter, Mrs. Dennis Schultz and family at Hartley, during the week, came on Saturday for the weekend services.

A dinner on Sunday was attended by a large number, probably more than 100 persons, including several visitors. The Shultz family of Hartley, and visitors from Amarillo as well as the surrounding area were here for Sunday morning and the dinner. At various times during the week visitors attended.

Jesse Sutton, music director for the revival, also had guests from Amarillo, including several young people from Trinity Baptist Church, where he directs music. Mrs. Sutton and two of their daughters visited on Friday evening, also.

The church acquired a new piano and new organ early in the week, adding to the quality of the song service, also.

Mrs. Carlton Dobbins and Robert Dobbins went to Waco, on Monday, to be with relatives and attend funeral services for Albert Baker on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Baker, a brother-in-law of the late Carlton Dobbins, was at Frio to conduct Mr. Dobbins funeral in 1968. He was a Methodist minister. Mr. Baker, 68, passed away on Sunday afternoon, after a lengthy illness. The funeral was in Austin Avenue Methodist Church, in Waco.

Tony Vigil, who is receiving treatment at a Veterans hospital in Ft. Lyon, Colo., was home with his family during the weekend. Their son, Fidel, who is stationed at Colorado Springs, with the Army, brought his father home. A friend, Hector Rodriguez, who is also stationed in the Army there came with them. They were stalled in the snow storm near Boise City on Friday night. Hector's father, who lives at Dimmitt, and Joe Vigil, went to help them get out and on the road home, on Saturday.

Mrs. H.D. Allman, of Gramms, Ark., who with her late husband lived in Frio and Westway communities for many years, is planning to visit friends in the area the weekend of April 14-15. A basket dinner is planned on Sunday at the REC community Room for all who want to come visit.

Flower Language Is Club's Topic

A program entitled The Language of Flowers was given by Joe Frank Clark to Bay View Study Club Thursday when the club met in the home of Mrs. Bill Griffin. Clark discussed the art of flower arranging and demonstrated several spring arrangements. One arrangement was sent to the club's charter member, Mrs. A.M. Jones.

Two guests, Mrs. C.O. Taylor and Mrs. Joe Frank Clark, were honored at the meeting. Mrs. R.W. Eades, president, appointed a committee to work with the Diamond Jubilee Committee, during the annual business meeting. Those chosen for the committee were Mmes. John Gilliland, Howard Gault and R.W. Eades. Also during the business session members volunteered to act as guides for educational school tours of the Deaf Smith County Museum, which the club sponsors each spring. The club's next meeting will be a luncheon at the Hereford Country Club, May 3, at 12 noon. This is the final meeting of the year and the Elu-Can-Da Horizon Club girls will be honored as guests at the dinner. Mrs. Earnest Langley, a member of the club, is the group's leader and the club has sponsored the group for a number of years.

Plans for the 4-H Bean-Ham Hock Supper are ready. We've seen some excellent committee work and cooperation from so many friends of 4-H. The 4-H leaders and the executive committee of program building are taking the lead.

Linda Welty, Emily Ogle and Hilrey Aven are on the steering committee for the money-raising projects for the 4-H Center at Brownwood. They are supported by other 4-H leaders: Dorothy Barrier, Bruce and Polly Terry, Jigger Rowland, Helen Rose and Nell Cotten.

At the kick-off meeting on the 30th, Dick Montgomery, Hugh Clearman, Charles Schlabs, James Hull, Nell and Aubyn Hodges were enthusiastic about the program.

This supper is going to be a festive affair, casual dress in Western wear and for everyone. Tickets are $1 each. 4-H families will make cobbler to be served with the beans, slaw, onions and cornbread.

So watch for 4-H members selling tickets and telling the 4-H story.

Clint, thanks for this expression. It is very good advice and we plan to practice it. On second thought this does give a person a lot of confidence.

'Time To Run' Is Set To Show Wednesday

"Time To Run," a new film that is a mixture of problems and solutions, is scheduled to open at the Star Theater Wednesday. The full-length feature, filmed in Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures, is scheduled to run through Saturday.

Shot on location in the Southern California area, "Time To Run" stars Ed Nelson, Randall Carver, Barbara Sigel, Joan Winmill and Gordon Rigsby. Ed Nelson is perhaps best known for his portrayal of Dr. Rossi on television's "Peyton Place." In "Time To Run," Nelson plays Warren Cole, a hard driving success-oriented industrial and scientific engineer who, because of over-involvement with his work, has failed to communicate with his wife

Fran, played by Joan Winmill, or their son Jeff, played by screen newcomer Randall Carver, a former Hereford resident.

"Time To Run" allows the viewer to become involved on any one or more of three different levels. Viewed purely as entertainment, it's the suspenseful story of Jeff's attempts at sabotage in the nuclear generating plant, conceived, designed and managed by his father. Jeff strongly feels that the plant is a threat to the environment, and he puts his feelings in action.

Viewed on an emotional level, "Time To Run" is the deeply moving drama of the conflicts that are tearing a family apart—conflicts that develop between husband and wife, and between father and son. In an attempt to find freedom from the ever-growing hostilities, Jeff takes to the road, hoping to discover some meaning in his confused life.

Approached from a religious perspective, "Time To Run" is also a story of friction between Jeff and his girlfriend, Michelle, played by Barbara Sigel, who is a familiar face to television viewers. Michelle has discovered a spiritual dimension in her life, and this aspect is very confusing to Jeff, who has little time for "a God who would allow war, hatred, and suffering on earth." But his life is shattered by an avalanche of personal problems, and he finds himself at a Jesus people gathering with Michelle, where he glimpses the possibility of a new life-style based on love and understanding.

Regardless of what the viewer draws from the film, "Time To Run" is a film that can help strengthen love relationships between people. It's a film that was made for families to attend together.

HISTORIC MESSAGE
On Oct. 22, 1915, the first message by wireless telephone was sent across the Atlantic, from American Telephone's tower in Arlington, Va., to the Eiffel Tower, Paris.

NEW FILM DUE IN HEREFORD—A group of young people gather to share their love, faith and music during a "Jesus Rally" in a scene from the new World Wide Pictures release, "Time To Run". The film which deals with problems facing both parents and young people opens at the Star Theatre Wednesday and continues through Saturday.

Lobbyist Speaks To Noon Lions

Walter Richter, executive assistant for the Texas Electric Cooperatives, explained and elaborated on the process of lobbying when he appeared as guest speaker for the Hereford Lions Club regular luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Civic Center.

Richter, who serves the TEC as a lobbyist in Austin, complained that, too often, people derive bad definitions for the words "lobbyist" and "politician." He defined "lobbying" as the process of trying to influence the Legislature to make the right decision.

"Actually," emphasized Richter, "all good citizens are lobbyists." He added that it's "high time more good guys got involved in lobbying for good government!" Stressing that the only way to reform government, at any level, is to elect good people, Richter said citizens don't start working soon enough.

"Citizens should start getting involved before the filing deadline for offices, and be assured that good candidates will be on the ballot," he suggested. "It's a great American pastime to point your finger—maybe you should ask yourself what you've done lately to get better government," the speaker noted.

Richter is a former state senator from Gonzales and now resides in Austin. He urged citizens to support higher pay for state legislators. "Would you hire a $400 a month clerk to help run a big business?" he asked the Lions. The speaker was introduced by program chairman James Hull.

One new member—Doyle Fletcher—was introduced at the weekly club meeting. Several other guests and visiting Lions were also recognized.

By the Garden Gate

With Glad

By Mrs. Art Manjeot

When Art and I were in Frankfurt, Germany we decided to do some sightseeing early one lovely spring morning. We came to a very beautiful garden and decided to stroll through it.

Upon entering the garden we were thrilled at the great spread of the trees and the many blossoms of the spring flowering bulbs. The fragrance of the hyacinths filled the air.

The vivid colors of the tulips added that certain accent of color so important to a garden. The laughing faces of the pansies in rich velvety array, and the well placed benches all made us feel welcome.

The axis of the garden was a time mellowed statue of Goethe. We approached the statue and read the inscriptions thereon. The following is one that we both liked very much. "Every day look at a beautiful picture, read a good book, listen to wonderful music, and, if possible, say some reasonable thing."

This is good advice and if we cannot do all the mentioned things, we can at least dream about our gardening even though the weather has of late been pessimistic. Very typical of plains March weather.

In the face of weather uncertainty, the list of essential and urgent garden chores is growing and we are all getting itchy fingers to get busy on them. A good policy is to remain as calm as possible and if some sunny days come to seize each opportunity to spade a bit, plan a lot and ready the tools etc. for chores ahead.

I would like to caution all to be patient, and to prepare the ground thoroughly during this waiting period. Remember that seed, plants and shrubs will do much better if the ground is warm when they are planted.

Cold winds chill plants if set now. However if it must be done now, then plant, but do be careful to give protection to the tender plants set out. Cold blowing winds can kill them. Seed will be slow to germinate until soil becomes warm and of the right textural quality.

In reality we will save time by waiting until the soil is ready, then plant and the seed germination will be faster and the plants will grow off better.

THIS 'N THAT: How many plants to plan for when buying is a question all of us face as spring approaches. Here are some figures that may be helpful: 50 plants set out six inches apart cover about 12 square feet; at 10 inches they cover 35 square feet; 12 inches apart, 50 square feet; and 18 inches apart, 110 square feet.

Converting fertilizer amounts: For each ton of organic material such as compost, manure, etc., figure 50 pounds for 1,000 square feet or 5 pounds for 100 square feet.

For individual plants 1 pound of fertilizer is recommended for 100 square feet., this would mean using 2 inches per plant when spaced about 30 inches apart, in rows the same distance apart, or 1 ounce each when plants are 24 by 18 inches apart.

A packed bushel of manure weighs about 30 pounds. Dry straw or leaves, tightly packed, come to approximately 15 pounds in a bushel. (Information is from Organic Gardening Magazine and refers to organic materials only.)

I am using organic materials this year. A friend of mine secured some for me. It is well matured barnyard manure, which has been treated for weed seed. Am entering the garden season hopefully. For roses and special feedings, I will use tested plant foods which I have previously used.

THREE BASIC PEATS: Peat moss is being shown in practically every market where garden products are being shown. The use of peat adds humus to the soil, making it more pliable. This is an important factor.

Peat is the organic remains of plants accumulating in swampy areas where ordinary decay has been retarded by immersion in water. It may require from 100 to more than 500 years to produce a layer of peat a foot thick.

While in Virginia, I learned about a fabulous gift of swampy land to the state of Virginia. Also saw some of this land gift (or swamps) One is made to wonder what it can be good for.

Later I read in one of the newspapers, that in taking inventory of the acquired property the explorers found great masses of moss accumulation, and when made available on the market it will net the recipients of the swampy land gift a huge sum of money.

Gardeners should inform themselves on the types of peat and also use it properly. Since its chief use is for an increase in the organic substance of the soil, it does add productivity to plants.

There are three major types of peat offered by retailers; moss peat, reed-sedge peat and peat humus. Since any of these may be referred to as peat, the home gardener is sometimes confused unless he has some knowledge of the different types available.

Moss peat is formed chiefly from sphagnum moss. It is very acid, with a pH of 3.6 to 4.2. The color is tan to brown. Moss peat is light in weight, porous, high in moisture-holding capacity and low in nitrogen. (0.16 per cent to 1.4 per cent.) It is an excellent soil conditioner but will require some lime when used with anything other than acid-loving plants.

Reed-sedge peat is formed primarily from reeds, sedges, marsh grasses, cattails and other swamp plants. Many of the native peat bogs found in this country are of this type; only a few contain sphagnum moss.

The reed-sedge peats can have a wide pH range, depending on the water source in the bog as well as the vegetation. Some have pH range value of 4 while others may be highly alkaline. The nitrogen (which promotes foliage growth) range can vary from 1.3 per cent to 3.5 per cent.

Peat moss is actually peat humus. It is an advanced stage of decomposition and the original plant remains are not identifiable by visual means. This type peat is usually dark brown to black. The moisture retention capacity is rather low. It has a high nitrogen content and the pH range is usually 5 to 7.5.

The markets will offer other organic materials. They may be referred to as sedimentary peat, topsoil, muck or black humus. These are often very poor quality, and their use is sometimes difficult to justify. Therefore it would pay to read descriptions, percentages and other information given on the wrapper.

Any of the three major types of peat are acceptable for increasing the organic content of the soil. To be effective, use at least a 2-inch layer spread over the soil and work it thoroughly into the upper 6 to 8 inches of soil. Where good drainage is needed and the soil seems to be very clayey, then use approximately an inch of peat in the trench or hole, before planting.

The planting of spring flowering bulbs in full blossom at the O.G. Hill Jr. home, on Douglas is very pretty. The combination of narcissus and hyacinths is lovely and the fragrance is tantalizing.

A very lovely bed of hyacinths is in full flower at the south entrance of First Baptist Church. Some of the bloom stalks are approximately 8 inches tall. Colors, are blue, purple, pink, rose and white. These were planted so that the senior adults would have an attractive entrance.

REMINDER: Start seed for flowering, in jiffy pots, they will

Drop Is Seen In Farm Labor

A dramatic drop in the amount of hired farm labor is reported in Texas by John C. White, Commissioner of Agriculture.

"Increased mechanization and improved efficiency in operations are given as reasons for the decline in farm labor. These are positive aspects. But the negative side is that farm people are giving up and moving to the cities, which already are too crowded," Commissioner White said.

aid in getting the plants off to a good start and prevent transplanting shock when you set them in the garden.

For better results in planting bluebonnet seed I would suggest that they be planted in soil which is not too rich; for quicker germination and higher percentage of seed growth, pierce each seed with a sharp needle and soak overnight.

Hired farm labor has declined 53 per cent during the past 12 years, thus dropping the total of Texas farm workers from an average of 423,000 in 1960 to a low of 275,000 in 1972.

"Farmers cannot meet the rising labor costs; therefore, more laborers, unskilled for urban jobs, are moving to cities," White said.

Since 1960 the number of Texas farms declined from 247,000 to 209,000, a decrease of 15 per cent.

"These facts point out again the need for rural redevelopment. The growth of the size of farms is a fact of modern farming, but there is still room for the small farmer in today's markets," White contended.

As the farm numbers decline, the average size of farms has increased substantially. The average farm in Texas is now 678 acres compared to 619 acres in 1960.

Family labor on farms has also shown a 35 per cent decline during the past 12 years.

"Emptying of rural areas in Texas is one of the most tragic events in our history. Our nation's strength lies in private ownership of the land, especially in the family-owned farm. Rural areas must be helped to strengthen their economy and the attractions of rural life. It is essential if our cities and rural areas are to survive."

"A hospital is a place where a private room has nothing to do with privacy." (Changing Times)

Testimony On Agriculture Is Given To Committee

Arnold E. Paulson, executive director, and Harlan Vander Zee, president of the National Organization of Raw Materials, Inc., were in Washington, D.C. this past week to present information on NORM to interested lawmakers.

Following is the full transcript of testimony which Paulson presented to the U.S. Senate Committee on Agriculture:

MR. CHAIRMAN and members of the Senate Agricultural Committee. My name is Arnold E. Paulson, Executive Director of the National Organization for Raw Materials, Inc., called N.O.R.M. Our organization is legally chartered under the State Laws of Texas. We are chartered for the purpose of research, education and public information.

NORM is an organization composed of people from all walks of life, the professions, clergy, educators, bankers, businessmen, and individual members of the raw material producing family.

NORM's primary goal is to establish a sound, stable, solvent economic system for our nation, that will provide and protect the maximum freedom and independence for its people and to attain the highest possible standard of living for all groups and segments of our economy, as well as to assure human dignity and economic justice for all!

NORM is vitally interested in the field of agriculture, "NOT" only from the viewpoint that the producers of our nation's food and fiber are entitled to their fair share of the national wealth, but mainly because of the fantastic IMPACT that Gross Agricultural Income has on the TOTAL ECONOMY.

American Agriculture still remains to be the largest Basic Industry in the world and the most vital energy producing industry necessary to sustain all life. Agriculture is the only raw material industry that can replenish itself year after year without end, and all of mankind must quickly learn to respect this mighty industry that controls the destiny of all life.

The world is rapidly depleting all other forms of raw materials and each passing day makes the role of agriculture all the more vital. Depletion of other Raw Materials, continued increased cost of production, and the reproductive cycle of agriculture is very possibly the main reason the conglomerate structures have zeroed in for the take over of the entire Agriculture Industry.

The paramount question all mankind must ask himself is this: Can civilization afford to turn over the most vital industry the world has ever known to the profiteering conglomerates at the sacrifice of the greatest food and fiber producers the world has ever known — the family owned units?

The American people already should have learned their lesson from the exploitation man has been subjected to by the giants that control other segments of business and industry. We have been told that bignessism-becomes unmanageable as we have seen so often in Metropolitan government; and the price collusion already uncovered in many industries.

The American food and fiber producers have never in history let our people down. They have always come through, even in times of severe crisis and provided this nation and the world with the highest quality and ever abundant supply of food and fiber of any nation in the world.

The American people have a moral obligation and responsibility to themselves and their future to preserve the economic system of incentive and opportunity for the little people to play the game, and not only the giants who seemingly want to control the entire universe.

Although the name NORM is relatively new on the national scene it does not mean its purpose or concept is new. The roots of NORM grows deep, dating back to the 1930's. NORM is actually the rebirth of many other groups that pioneered the philosophy and research that we are now so vigorously promoting.

involved in Agricultural economics for many years with other organizations and groups, or as individuals.

NORM was formed for the purpose of bringing together all of these dedicated people to concentrate almost exclusively on research and educational programs. These programs are based upon the concept that real wealth must be produced and cannot be created from the expansion of debt through government printing presses, or lead pencil bank deposit entries.

Many warnings have been sounded, but the Monetarist still continue to believe prosperity is the result of deficit spending, and mortgaging the vast national assets accumulated since the birth of our nation. They evidently fail to realize that the interest costs on nearly $2,400 billion of gross public and private debt contributes heavily to inflation and now denies the consumers over $120 billion purchasing power that feeds the interest mill.

The National Organization For Raw Materials, Inc. wants to make one specific statement at these Hearings - and in the form of a challenge. Lasting solutions to problems can never be forthcoming until the cause of problems has been identified.

Everyone it seems takes the Economic situation in motion and completely ignores the cause, they stand bewildered as each new solution they apply to sooth the effects of cause brings on another crisis.

What about structural balance? It is here where we will find the cause of all our national and international problems.

What about our domestic balance of payment and trade deficits between urban America and Rural America?

What about our domestic balance of payment and trade deficits between urban America and rural America? All we seem to hear is the deficits of International payment and trade. When do we begin to zero in on the fantastic imbalance, or dislocation of trade between geographical areas within the United States?

It seems all the Monetarists are concerned about is shoring up the dollar in International Trade to protect the International Financiers so they never take losses from the exchange of currencies.

What about the exchange equation that is so vitally necessary for every segment of our economy to produce goods and services and exchange them with one another?

Our major towns and cities and our 50 states are all in serious financial trouble. They can't balance their books, nor can they meet the needs of their people. Our Federal government continues to operate on perpetual deficit spending. When will we start searching for the real answers to these problems of crisis and begin to identify cause and effect?

Annual per capita income for the 33 agricultural states: Each year the Survey of Current Business published by the U.S. Department of Commerce lists the per capita income for each of the 50 states. NORM recently made a comparison of the income on a per family basis for the 33 agricultural states in ratio to the others.

By averaging 4 people per family, we discovered that the annual per family income of the people living in the 33 agricultural states is $4,500. per family less than those living in the industrial states. Yet we find these states are in very serious financial trouble too. We found only one basic contributing factor for the disparity of income for the agricultural states — low gross farm income.

When we brought all farm commodity prices up to full 100 per cent of honest parity, then the income of these 33 states increased to the level of the other states.

What does all of this have to do with agriculture? Agriculture happens to be the major source of income for all of Rural America and its millions of people that inhabit our towns and cities. We have conducted Balance of Payment and Trade Surveys on the rural economy and have discovered that thousands of towns and cities are almost totally dependent upon the gross income of agriculture for their survival, raw material income, especially agriculture, provides the communities with their bank accounts, the income to meet taxes, payrolls and support of churches, and schools.

We have surveyed and analyzed communities, counties and even states and placed an imaginary wall around them in order to determine where they receive their annual income to sustain themselves. It's no secret that their survival and standard of living depends upon the number of gross dollars drawn from the commercial banks and placed in circulation throughout the rural areas in exchange for agricultural commodities. The rise and fall, growth, or death of entire areas depends upon the flow of income — New Wealth — to agriculture.

This is why honest parity prices for agriculture and all raw material production is so vitally necessary, not for agriculture alone, but for the well being of the entire nation.

Economics simply means the production and distribution of goods and services. However, fully as important as a nation's ability to produce goods is its ability to create, or generate the earned income from production so every segment can exchange their production with one another. This is called balance — and it is impossible to have a stable, and balanced economic system without every segment receiving its fair share of the national income for its production, risk work.

What has happened over the years is we have made economics the flow of money, debt, and interest, rather than the production and distribution of real wealth — goods!

It is the disparity of equity prices for raw materials that has made the United States a "Financiers Paradise," and the people their economic slaves.

NEW WEALTH: This all boils down to what is called annual New Wealth. Where does New Wealth come from, and what is it worth? Until man discovers the real source of real wealth, and monetizes real wealth rather than to continue the perpetual monetization of debt to cover up shortages and losses, then there is no hope. The nation will merely continue its journey of false prosperity down the road of economic suicide.

New wealth has to originate from some specific source, but where? Our research proves that new wealth must originate from something new. The only thing new that comes into being during the course of a year is our Raw Material Production. Yes, we know the economists will argue against this point, but they cannot disprove it, nor do they dare to challenge. To cover up their blunders that has created our economic crisis, they merely ridicule and say, conditions have changed, it doesn't work that way anymore. We say, it's time for these so called experts to prove what does work! We can no longer afford to accept their Utopian theories that have never worked and never will work.

What is all this new wealth worth? It is worth only the monetary price society pays itself for it. Everything is measured in terms of dollars, so New Wealth, our Raw Material production must be measured and valued by price. There is no sound business reason that can justify why our nation's raw material producers are not entitled to honest parity prices for their production in exchange for the goods and services they must pay other segments. If the nation underpays itself for its annual raw material production, then the nation loses the difference in national income.

The administration is advocating free markets for agriculture: If the markets are to be free, then everything must be freed, including wages and prices. It seems strange to hear the Administration talking about Free Trade for Agriculture when all of the other segments are frozen, or controlled. Will the Administration dissolve the Labor Unions too?

The nation must create sufficient new wealth annually in order to operate a solvent economic system. Whatever that amount of New Wealth must be is the price that must be paid for all of our raw material production. If not, shortages set in and the loss has to be covered by excessive debt expansion and increased interest costs.

Let's take a look at the record: We have reproduced a table from the February, 1973 Economic Indicator, U.S. Government on farm income. We encourage you to note the total Cash Receipts for 1972 of $58.5 billion and then deduct the Production Expenses of $47.2 billion. This leaves a Net Earned Income for all agriculture of $11.3 billion from actual farming, not including government subsidy payments. This is an increase of $4.3 billion over the $7.0 billion earned in 1971. We know these figures are highly exaggerated and possibly overestimated by at least two billion or more. They have always been overestimated and there is no reason to believe this year to be an exception.

Net Farm Income is deceiving: Unlike the corporations, Net Farm Income is before personal taxes and includes all payments for their labor and management and the return on investment. The farmers must pay all of their mortgage debts out of this net, their living costs and purchase new machinery and equipment.

Corporation net income is after taxes, after payment of all wages and salaries, and payments on debts and other deductions.

Included in the net income for agriculture is built in house rent benefits and many other Department of Agriculture addons to make agriculture look prosperous.

Our Agricultural International Trade Policies have created surpluses for the purpose of forcing down prices. We import red meat and dairy products and lose the consumption of our feed grains, thus creating feed grain surpluses and depressed prices.

Why? So the American farmers can provide cheap feed grains for the world markets to pay for Volkswagens that destroy our domestic labor markets and automobile industry.

Now the Administration proposes to make the farmers the international whipping boy to pay for our international deficits in trade.

Our State Department is placing pressure on the common market to lower their tariffs so cheaper U.S. farm commodities can destroy their farmers. The Europe Common Market meanwhile wants the United States to increase its farm prices so we don't have to pay the tariffs and destroy our own agriculture or theirs.

Why doesn't the United States increase our farm prices rather than lower them and save the tariffs? How can the highest standard of living nation, with the highest wages and prices participate in world trade on equitable basis unless the high income nation pays other nations their prices for imported goods in exchange for their goods at their prices. One of two things are certain to happen. Either the United States must reduce its economy, wages, prices to the world market level and destroy itself in the process, or retain its own market level wages and prices and pay other countries our price for their goods in exchange for our goods at our price and wage level.

To expect the American farmers to pay for the high wages and inflationary manufacturing costs of business and industry is going a little bit too far. Why not force business and industry to become competitive in world trade by cutting their prices, wages, and profits, rather than always taking it out of the hide of the American farmers? We know the consequences if this should happen, so why force such conditions on agriculture?

Included with this report are several supplementary tables and a magazine article. We would like to call your attention to an interview on a farm program proposal on pages 15, 16, 17 and 18 of Acres, U.S.A. magazine included with this material. This program is not complete, nor does it provide all of the answers to questions that will surely come to mind, but we would be most happy to discuss the program in complete detail at your convenience.

Operating loss statement of the U.S. Economy: This balance sheet and Operating Loss Statement has been prepared on an annual basis ever since the late 1930's. The entire analysis of this report should be found by comparing the increase in Total National Income in ratio to the increase in Wage and Interest Costs to operate the economy.

When Wage and Interest Costs continue to increase at a greater rate than total national income, it certainly should sound the disaster bell. Something has to give. It is the private segments of the economy that must meet all of the wages, taxes and interest costs; private enterprise cannot survive unless these costs are covered. Is it any wonder the nation has been forced to add nearly $1,700 billion to the gross public and private debt since 1950 under the disguise of prosperity.

Wholesale commodity price index and consumer cost of living price index is not reliable.

The dislocation of prices paid and received by farmers are not realistic. The consumer's cost of living is much higher than the government reports. Why? In 1962, the Consumer Price Index base was changed from the years 1947-1949-100. In doing so, the farm commodity price index was moved up to 100, while the consumer price index was brought back to 100. The two were brought into balance with a lead pencil, but the dislocation between the two was lost.

Again in 1970 the Price Indexes were changed to the year 1967 - 100. Again farm prices were brought up to 100 with a lead pencil and the consumer price index reduced to 100 with a lead pencil. The dislocation again covered up by manipulations of records.

The current cost of living index only offers a relationship of today with the costs during 1967, but completely hides the dislocation that existed during 1967. The American farmers have actually taken a much worse beating in Income and Prices than the government records indicate.

Agricultural Loan Support Program: NORM takes a positive stand for the retention of Agricultural Loan Supports. To abandon this program would be a disaster for the majority of operators, as they would be forced to market their production at harvest in order to meet their obligations. With a full year's supply and one day demand for these commodities, and without a replacement program to replace the loan support program — farm commodity prices at harvest, or anytime during the year, could drop to depression levels. Until such time as the producers of agricultural commodities have their own program to protect themselves against the speculative markets, the loan support program is essential to avert farm price disaster!

The law of supply and demand fallacy: The Law of Supply and Demand factor cannot work for agriculture as in other basic industries. First, agricultural procedures up to now do not have any pricing power for their products for most commodities.

Agriculture, because of nature, produces almost every commodity, one full year's supply in advance with normally a one day market. Even with only a half a year's supply, there remains a 180 day supply, with a one day demand at the market-place. Agriculture, unlike other industries, cannot shut off production once a crop has been planted. Nature controls the sunshine, rain and productive elements. From planting time through harvest, the producers are at the mercy of weather. Bumper crops can be snuffed out by flood, storm, or hail, merely days before harvest, so there is no guaranteed factor of certainty until crops are safely stored.

Free Markets For Agriculture: The Law of Supply and Demand cannot guarantee agriculture equitable prices at the free market place until such time as agriculture can control its distribution to the markets on the exact same supply demand basis as the markets demand. To turn agriculture loose to the Free Markets would be just disastrous as turning new born babies over to a pack of wolves.

Strategic food and fiber reserve: NORM cannot stress strongly enough the need for a national Strategic Food Reserve, not only for the protection of human life, but for the insurance and protection of our nation's largest basic industry - Livestock. Livestock is the largest industry in the world. Livestock is the processing plant for our nation's billions of bushels of feed grain production. Nearly 60 to 65 per cent of the total gross income of agriculture is derived from livestock and livestock products.

This mighty and most essential industry must be protected from disaster resulting from a drought, floods, wind, hail and other weather uncertainties.

A food reserve for our nation's livestock industry is even more essential to our nation's safety and the health of our population, than a fuel supply, or energy reserve is for our automobile, steel, or manufacturing industries.

NORM strongly recommends that a national priority be adopted establishing a strategic food and fiber reserve to adequately protect both human requirements, as well as livestock requirements in the event of a national emergency, whether it be for national security in time of war, or weather.

NORM strongly recommends that the national strategic food reserve be insulated from domestic markets by not permitting any of these reserve commodities to be sold or used for any purpose other than a declared national emergency, and that none of these reserve commodities be sold for less than 145 per cent of the domestic market support prices.

NORM recommends that the strategic food reserve become the property and responsibility of government for the people. That all costs of maintaining the Strategic Food Reserve be born by the public as an insurance policy for the general welfare of people against food shortages or famine.

NORM recommends that this strategic food reserve be rotated each year, replaced by fresh commodities to assure these reserves of never going out of condition. That each year these reserves be replaced with new crop production.

NORM recommends that the strategic food reserve be held on farms and ranches rather than in government controlled warehouses or graineries. That every producer be given a quota percentage of the Strategic Food Reserve requirements and that each producer be held responsible for its care and condition. That each producer will sell from the reserve, but replace immediately with new crop production. Every producer will be held responsible for this reserve and if it goes out of condition due to carelessness, or failure to abide to the agreement by contract, the producer to be held liable and that stiff penalties be applied.

In the event the producer does not desire to remain responsible for the commodity, that said producer may hire others to produce this service for him, but the producer will still be held responsible for the commodity and its condition and pay the cost of storage, etc. from his contract with the government. The Federal government shall pay each producer participating in the strategic food reserve program a fee for annual storage costs, supervision and responsibility of caring for these strategic food reserves. This cost must be born by the general public as the program is for the protection of all people and not merely protection for the producer.

NORM cannot recommend strongly enough the need for this strategic food and fiber reserve. We stockpile energies for our nation's industry. The most vital commodity of all to sustain life is our food, fiber and water. This program is long overdue and the time has come for the American people to realize the dangers of not protecting themselves with an ample reserve of food, fiber, and water, for both human consumption and livestock.

The National Organization for Raw Materials, Inc., desires to go on record stating that the C.E.D. adaptive program for agriculture has already proven itself a complete failure and if the policies of the C.E.D. are continued, it will not only lead to the total destruction of our independent private enterprise system, but, eventually force a change in our form of government.

Most of the problems of our towns and cities can now be traced directly to-and as previously predicted - to the C.E.D. mass out-migration of farm and rural people. We have flooded our cities with people who have been forced to abandon homes in rural areas. They have been forced from their land and into the cities like cattle. In the process, we have forced the closing of schools, churches, community centers; all for what purpose?

The gigantic building boom advocated by some of the C.E.D. members was the direct result of forcing people from their homes and land into the jungles of the cities for the profiteering and exploitation by builders, contractors, and financiers.

Restore equitable prices for all Raw Material commodities and millions of new jobs will open up in rural America. Millions of families can return home from the over crowded cities and find gainful employment. This will relieve the tax burdens and relief rolls that are strangling our cities. Then, and only then, will this nation restore full employment and economic stability. Restore full honest parity prices for agriculture, and this nation will prosper like we have never seen before. Then Rural America will provide for its own needs; build its own schools, churches, hospitals; pave its roads and streets; and Washington can keep its redistribution of wealth programs to balance the Federal Budget and Liquidate the Federal debt.

Greatest producers of goods and service in history: The American economic system has proven to be the greatest producer of goods and services the world has ever known. It is quite obvious that our ability to produce is not our problem.

Our problem has been our ability to exchange our production of goods and services with one another without the need of excessive debt expansion. Why? Because as a nation we have failed to create the New Wealth — annual earned income necessary to operate a solvent economic system.

Why have we failed to create sufficient New Wealth? Primarily because the nation has made an efficiency factor out of creating New Wealth. We have continually pushed down the prices of the New Wealth — Raw Material Products — and covered up the shortages with debt expansion. Economic Profits: The Key to Economic Growth is Economic Profits, but it seems man has completely forgotten even the meaning of Economic Profits. All man seems to know is the term business profits.

1. There can be no new net business profits in the aggregate without first developing Economic Profit for the system.

2. Economic Profits are the Net Profits earned annually by the entire economic system and added to all of the previous profits. Trade profits, or business profits account for no more than the transfer of existing wealth.

3. Economic Profits can come only from New Wealth added to the system. Economic Profits, unlike Debt Constructed Profits never have to be paid back, nor is there any interest obligations attached.

Nature — only source of economic profits: It may be true that brick and mortar continue to stand once created, regardless of monetary value. Values may be increased through inflation or wiped out through depressions. What remains, remains. That alone is profit — the Economic Profit.

Debts have to be paid or repudiated. They cannot grow ad infinitum. When they are repudiated they vanish in the same way as they were created. They came from noting and reduced to nothing.

Our gross public and private debt today exceeds $2,400 billion. Simple 5 per cent interest on this debt costs $120 billion per year. The interest on debt alone exceeds the total gross income of all of our nations Raw Material Production from agriculture, mines, fishery and forests. In other words, the interest on debt alone exceeds all of the New Wealth the nation creates each year. Is it any wonder we are trapped and headed for monetary chaos?

The national economy has failed to price nature's goods — raw materials — to balance with wage and capital costs. Accordingly, the national economy has failed to create New Wealth from production in order to exchange production with earned income and has in turn substituted Debt Expansion.

Historically, DEBT has created inflation, poverty, and eventual collapse, always first funneling the wealth of the nation into the hands of the few.

Rural America has been underpaid over $900 billion since 1950 for its agricultural production alone. Had these dollars flowed through the arteries of the national economy, the nation would have created the earned income needed to finance its system.

We have but two choices:

1. The nation can cut back debt expansion, and choke the economy with the result of lost buying power. This will result in more unemployment, business failures and a liquidity crisis for business and industry.

2. The nation can continue to monetize debt. This will bring on more inflation and push more people into poverty, and saddle the government with greater deficits. Inflation creates a greater demand for operating capital to meet the increased wages and capital costs. Neither of these approaches can be recommended. Both represent frustration economics, and an attempt to live with devices that will not work.

It is therefore recommended, instead, that the administration act in accord with the powers granted to congress by the constitution and to maintain the stability of money and its value thereof, and regain full and complete control of our nation's money system.

This makes monetization of Raw Materials at full honest parity a prime requirement. If the economic profits brought into being with production of Raw Materials is priced at only 50 per cent of its real economic value to the rest of the economy, then the nation enjoys only 50 per cent of the new economic profit.

As a result of underpricing the Economic Profit, the nation loses the total monetary gain. This results in the immediate need to borrow the loss via monetization of more debt to cover the loss. If the later is done, the nation lacks the income to buy the goods and services production has accounted for. Either the nation earns the income to exchange its production of goods and services or the nation must borrow the shortage to exchange its production.

... We can monetize debt, or we can monetize Raw Materials!

During the past twenty years we have failed to monetize New Wealth on par with wages and capital costs. As a result the interest debt now exceeds all annual New Wealth, so we have had no Economic Profits - only Trade Profits.

The key that is missing in the economic formulas is economic profit - New Wealth - and we have substituted trying to buy perpetual prosperity with Debt.

Freezing agricultural prices into its present posture constitutes the most inflationary approach possible. Steps to cool inflation and repair economic ruptures in the system depend upon agriculture being restored to Full honest Parity as a first move. Without that move, we can look for runaway inflation regardless of any price regimentation that might be invoked.

Yes, we know the economists will shout that increasing farm prices will be inflationary. It will be the exact opposite - relief. When has creating new wealth ever been inflationary? When has restoring earned income as a substitute for debt expansion ever caused inflation?

The economists will also cry, increased farm prices will price us out of the world markets. Yes, that's true if we plan to continue the same old game of exploitation. However, if the United States adopts honest International Trade Policies based on Equity of Trade we will open the doors to world trade such as the world has never known before. American agriculture under a new policy of Equity of Trade will very possibly never again ever to produce enough to supply the demand.

When people have money they buy. When other nations have buying power, they buy. Nations like people, cannot buy goods unless they also receive honest parity prices for their production in exchange for the goods and services they demand.

The United States must become the World Leader and establish Equity of Trade Policies. Then and only then will the United States regain its lost prestige and rightfully regain its position as a world leader. If the rich nations cannot pay the poor nations equity prices for goods, then how in the world can the poor countries pay the rich countries higher prices for goods and ever

Membership In Auxiliary Sets Record

Growing membership of the Hereford American Legion Auxiliary was emphasized in its meeting this week, when an adult and three junior members were initiated, and medals were presented to Mrs. Ira Ott and Mrs. James Jesko, each of whom has secured as many as 10 new members this year.

Announcement was made that the local Auxiliary now has 98 members, leading this district.

Mrs. J.G. Gandy, president, gave pins, flags and emblematic poppies to Mrs. Herman Hollenstein, Jennifer and Bernadette Jesko and Regina Bryan, as they were initiated in a ceremony directed by Mrs. Ott.

A report was made on a recent bingo party given by the Auxiliary at the Veterans Hospital in Amarillo, with 36 patients attending. Further assistance was planned to the local Satellite Center, after the recent gift of a large clock to help teach pupils to tell time.

Mrs. Micheal E. Brown ...nee D'Ann Duke (Bradly photo)

Duke-Brown Marriage Vows Spoken Saturday

Miss D'Ann Duke and Micheal E. Brown were married in a Saturday afternoon ceremony in First Baptist Church with the Rev. Steve Graham, assistant minister, officiating.

Miss Duke is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett P. Duke of 621 Ave. G., and Brown is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Brown of Tucumcari, New Mexico.

The couple stood beneath an archway with two candelabra on each side. A bouquet centered with white roses stood on a pedestal near the steps.

Miss Duke was given in marriage by her father. Miss Nancy Carter of Claude was the maid of honor and Michael Page of Tucumcari served as best man.

Teresa Frost, cousin of the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Frost of Tucumcari, attended the bride as flower girl. Lori Steinkruger and Rawlene Duke, cousins of the bride, serves as candlelighters. Mrs. Bill Bradley played traditional wedding marches and other selections including More.

The bride wore a fitted gown of lace over satin with a short train. Her fingertip length veil fell from a Juliet cap with seed pearls around the edge. Lace bordering the veil matched that around the squared neckline, cuffs and hemline.

The bride carried a bouquet of white daisies and yellow roses trimmed in babybreath. As good luck pieces she wore her Mother's single strand of pearls and a diamond ring of her grandmother's, Mrs. G.L. Lotspeich of Adrian.

Miss Carter wore a floor length gown with long sleeves, made of aqua chiffon gathered at the empire waist. She carried yellow daisies.

Mrs. Wallace Steinkruger, the bride's aunt, served cake decorated with white daisies and yellow roses, with satin bells on top and kissing angels under the first layer. Miss Janie Duke of Clovis, cousin of the bride, poured punch from a table centered with white roses, at the reception in the church fellowship hall.

Linda Brown, sister of the bridegroom, invited guests to the registry, and Kandy Brown, also sister of the bridegroom, handed out rice bags.

As her traveling costume, Miss Duke wore a coordinated searsucker pantsuit of red, blue, and yellow.

The couple will be at home after a short wedding trip, April 11 in Tucumcari.

The bride is a 1972 graduate of Hereford High School and Brown is a 1972 graduate of Tucumcari High School.

Out-of-town guests included grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Lotspeich of Adrian and Mrs. Zella Duke of Tucumcari.

Comings and Goings at King's Manor

Dr. and Mrs. L.N. Tedford of Plainview were guests of Emma Jean Smith Sunday afternoon.

Dinner guests at Kings Manor April 1 were Nadine Wade of Hereford, guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson; Mr. and Mrs. Joiner of Clovis, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart; Leroy Hutton, guest of his mother, Mrs. Lonie Hutton.

The 1973 Spring season was delightfully presented to the residents of Westgate at a tea Saturday afternoon, March 31. A personal uplift was experienced through the view of the attractive dining room. The center round table was graced by a plate of large strawberries, mounted on toothpicks. There was also dainty sweets, delicious punch and the very favorite pound cake, and the usual fellowship with Westgate friends and others.

For this pleasing time all are indebted to a group of ladies, the Kings Manor Auxiliary, to whom appreciation was expressed and all look forward to another such occasion.

Patrolman Talks To Junior Law Enforcement Club

Highway patrol procedures in stopping cars, in daytime and at night, for traffic law violation or for investigation of possibly more serious crime, were discussed by Patrolman Don Samuels as he spoke to Junior Law Enforcement club Tuesday evening.

Samuels also gave members some facts concerning the Mafia, saying that organization is only a small part of organized crime in the U.S. regardless of the popular idea of its scope. Coming club activities were discussed in a business session. The next regular meeting is scheduled for April 23.

Pointing out the record number of deaths of law enforcement officers in the United States last year, Samuels said that stopping a car poses a danger to a lone patrolman or even when two patrolmen are together.

The man who kicks about the high cost of living doesn't worry about cost of his vices.

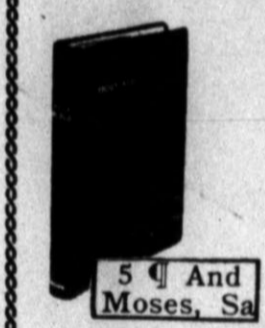

He described safety procedures taken in such cases, especially at night when danger is greater.

At The Library

Adventures Keys Two New Novels

Deaf Smith County library is featuring two new books this week. High Hunt is a superb novel of adventure and the out-of-doors. It is a true American novel which focuses on some of the great themes of American literature which are woven into its plot.

Ears of the Jungle tells of a war which is being fought in the jungles of Southeast Asia. Plot and suspense thrive in this tropical swamp.

The library is open to the public until 5 p.m. on weekdays and until noon on Saturday.

HIGH HUNT

By David Eddings
High Hunt is truly an American novel. Its hero and narrator is Dan Alders just returned to his native state of Washington after serving with the U.S. Army in Germany.

On an impulse he calls his brother, Jack, from whom he has been estranged, and finds himself drawn into an uneasy camaraderie with Jack and two of his friends—Lou McKleary, an ex-Marine sergeant who has been in Vietnam, and Cal Sloane, a turning-to-fat wheeler-dealer whose money bankrolls the group's boozing and womanizing.

When the four of them, along with Stan Larkin, whom Dan knew in college, decide to go deer hunting above the timberline in the Washington mountains, hidden antagonisms behind their relationships are suddenly and dramatically revealed, finding their focus in an albino deer whose uniqueness ensures its own destruction.

Beginning with the story of an old hunting dog that Dan and Jack's father told them when they were children and reaching its climax in the vastness of the Western wilderness, High Hunt is a superb novel of adventure and the out-of-doors.

What is most impressive, however, is the way that some of the great themes of American literature are woven into its plot: the good man as the man who is at home with nature, the quest for the fabulous animal, the American fascination with guns—the literal gun as an adjunct of killing or of sport, the metaphorical gun as a weapon of lust or of love.

For the men who go on the high hunt are men with women, and it is their attitudes toward these women that help bring about what eventually befalls.

Much that underlies the book is timeless, but there is also much that is purely contemporary. Here is a seldom-offered view of the trailer courts and roadside bars of Middle America, a statement about the sustained adolescence of so many American males and a comment upon conflicting views of the Vietnam War.

High Hunt marks the debut of a first-rate story-teller who is always mindful of the fact that a successful story contains more than just a plot.

EARS OF THE JUNGLE

By Pierre Boulle
In Ears of the Jungle, Pierre Boulle returns from the Planet of the Apes to the Scene of The Bridge Over the River Kwai: Southeast Asia.

This time he is writing of another war—a war being fought in the jungle, where not even the dense undergrowth or the blackness of overhanging vegetation can hide man's inherent foibles or those that grow out of his great technical achievement, the computer. As in Kwai, not only irony, but plot and suspense thrive in this tropical morass. What—or who—are the jungle's ears that can hear and transmit with such deadly precision every move of the enemy? And who, for that matter, is the enemy: the army to which the ears belong, or the one that best uses them?

On what side is the mastery intelligence, the artful and subtle woman Madame Ngha, who understands so well the nature of the natives and its value of expediency in a landscape rank with ideologies, fervor, and stupidity?

As with all M. Boulle's work, Ears of the Jungle has a special pertinence to our time, when many may wonder if their own country's jungle ears and computers detect and interpret the signals of war accurately.

Noel Sims, John Hagar Wed In Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Noel Louise Sims and John Carroll Hagar was solemnized Saturday evening in First United Methodist Church, with Dr. W.A. Appling, the pastor who is a cousin of the bride, officiating.

Miss Sims is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Sims of 211 Douglas and Hagar is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.P. Hagar of 603 Ave. K.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The church altar was decorated with white stock and carnations. Spiral candelabra entwined with greenery were placed each side. A white kneeling bench in the center. Each pew was marked with a bow in the aisle.

Kay Hagar, sister of the bridegroom, was Miss Sims' maid of honor and Kenneth Hagar, his brother, served as best man. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Billy Wall and Mrs. Ed Robinson. Kenneth Sims of Riverside, California, brother of the bride, ushered guests to their seats, with Paul Hagar, brother of the bridegroom, and Gary Sims, brother of the bride, acting as groomsmen.

Merrill Spiller of Albuquerque was flower girl, with Georgia Solt of Roswell and Sam White lighting the candles.

Mrs. Tony Calkins played wedding selections including the Bridal march on the organ. The bride was gowned in white satin, fashioned in empire style with A-line skirt. The trim was Venice lace, stitched in rows down the length of the sleeves and on the skirt to form a panel effect.

Her veil, with matching lace border, fell in tiers from a headpiece of pearl-trimmed petals, the lower tier rounding into a chapel train.

She carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis accented with a few yellow mum daisies. As a good luck charm she wore a gold coin placed in her slipper by her father.

The maid of honor wore a floor length, long sleeved and Puritan collared gown of white eyelet over yellow satin, and a band of yellow daisies in her hair.

The bridesmaids dresses were yellow, with white eyelet overlay on Puritan collar and cuffs. They also wore daisies in their hair. The flower girl's basket held yellow daisies, she and the candle lighter wore yellow satin floor length gown with empire waist and puff sleeves. Their headpieces were daisies.

The reception was in Ward Parlor of the church. Mrs. Kenneth Hagar served a four-tiered colonnade cake ornamented with yellow sugar roses while Mrs. Paul Hagar poured punch.

Betty Solt of Roswell invited guests to register. Donda Hagar, Kelby Hagar and the candlelighters handed guests yellow net rice bags from baskets tied with yellow bows.

Mrs. Joe P. White and Mrs. Jack Brown assisted at the reception.

The table was laid with a yellow skirted cloth, a silver candelabra holding five white candles with greenery entwined in the center.

As a wedding trip the couple went to El Paso. For a traveling costume Mrs. Hagar wore a tangerine and blue plaid knit pantsuit with matching accessories.

The couple will be home after Jake Beidler of Albuquerque. Also the John Reynolds of Stillwater, Okla.; the Walter Clingmans of Oklahoma City, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hoff Jr. of Amarillo, the Bill Wyches of Goldsmith; the James B. Blackstones of San Diego, the Bert Minkers of Howard, Colo.

Also the Al Sims of Springerville, Ariz., the Bob Whites of Dalhart, the Floyd Shaws of Clovis and Wayne Youngblood of Lubbock.

District Meeting Report Is Given For Wyche Club

Five members of Wyche Extension Club who attended the district convention of Texas Home Demonstration Association at Boys Ranch last week, reported on its program at the club's meeting Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. C.F. Newsom was hostess in her home, and gave her report with Mmes. J. H.

Holden, Frank Duncan, E.C. Hewitt and Ira Ott. They took part in skits presented by Deaf Smith County women at the convention.

Argen Draper, county extension agent, was the speaker Thursday on Nutrition And Health. She listed vegetables, meat, fruit, cereals and milk as daily needs for food fitness. Members named new food fads and discoveries in nutrition at roll call.

Saleeta Brink was a guest; others at the meeting were Mmes. Leroy Bodkin, H.L. Ward, W.P. Axe, L.B. Worthan and Charles Packard.

Hot dog war brewing over use of offal

A major controversy has broken out in the United States over whether the meat in the great American hot dog should or should not be allowed to contain offal.

The state of Michigan bans the use of offal. But this conflicts with the federal Wholesale Meat Acts, which allows offal, and forbids states to establish standards differing from the government's.

Reserve established to guard rare flower

The fritillary, a rare wild flower of the lily family, has come under the protection of the British Nature Conservancy which recently purchased 86 acres of old pasture in Wiltshire, England.

The area has Britain's largest growth of wild fritillaries, also called snakes-heads, and will be a national nature preserve.

Cheap air conditioning is no bargain.

Servel Gas Air Conditioning is a Bargain.

The bargain comes in smaller utility bills, fewer maintenance calls and the longer life of a Servel system. But you'll never buy one cheap.

The Servel goal has always been: "Build it like the Swiss." That's why the units are precision-made. And that's why they contain more stainless steel than any other air conditioner on the market. They're built to last and to perform dependably. This and the economy of natural gas energy saves you every month.

Quality construction is the reason you pay more for Servel initially. Because quality doesn't come cheap. Long, economical operation is the reason you'll save in the long run. Because quality pays off.

Most people can afford quality when they know all the facts. Especially when they're concerned with a cool, restful, healthy home environment - when there's a permanent meaning.

Think long and hard before you invest in central air conditioning. Then install Servel.

Prince Valiant
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: IN A FEW DAYS HEIDMAR WILL BE CROWNED KING OF HOLVIK AND THEREAFTER BE BOUND BY CUSTOM TO SIGN DOCUMENTS, ATTEND CEREMONIES AND BE BORED.

BUT IF HE DOES NOT WANT THE THRONE, HIS COUSIN, GRIMNER, DOES, NEXT IN LINE. HE LUSTS FOR THE POWER OF KINGSHIP. ONLY HEIDMAR STANDS IN HIS WAY AND HE IS DANGEROUSLY IMPATIENT.

ALSO THERE IS FRIEDA, THE FAIR PRINCESS, WHO IS TO BE MARRIED TO HEIDMAR AFTER THE CORONATION AS A MATTER OF POLICY. SHE NEVER LAUGHS AT JOKES, CONSIDERING HUMOR MERE FLIPPANCY. IN FACT SHE NEVER SMILES AT ALL.

GRIMNER AND FRIEDA HAVE LOVED EACH OTHER SINCE CHILDHOOD, BUT THEY MUST BOW TO ANCIENT CUSTOM..... OR WILL THEY?

"ARN, I MUST HAVE ONE MORE DAY OF FREEDOM BEFORE THE WEIGHT OF THE CROWN CRUSHES ME. LET US RIDE OUT INTO THE HILLS AND CATCH SOME TROUT!"

"FROM NOW ON I MUST WALK THE TRODDEN PATH AND PUT ASIDE MY DREAMS OF SEEING THE FAR PLACES, FOREIGN LANDS AND STRANGE CITIES. I MUST RULE A DOUR PEOPLE WHILE OTHERS FOLLOW AFTER THEIR DESIRE.... OR MUST I?"

IT IS STILL A LONG WAY BACK TO THE PALACE WHEN HEIDMAR'S HORSE GOES LAME. "WELL," HE SAYS, "I WILL AT LEAST LEARN THE HARDSHIPS OF TRAVEL."

hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
As a grandmother I feel I can do very special things for my grandchildren. Mothers offer love and attention, true, but grandmas can offer a different kind of attention.

I'm always looking for new and different things that would especially please my precious ones.

On a recent trip, I enabled my grandchildren to "travel" right along with me by collecting place mats from the various restaurants and writing short notes on the back of each one.

The front of the place mat would tell the story for me—the place I was staying each day, the towns I traveled through, the food I was eating, etc.

These, plus any pictures I was able to take, gave my grandchildren a travel log of my adventure—plus some education on the different parts of the country.

They were so proud and pleased to be thought of, and maybe even love their old grandma just a little bit more for all the effort!

Mrs. Jessie Stranathan

TURKEY, BY HOOK!

DEAR HELOISE:
"Fools rush in where angels fear to tread."
During a recent illness, I took over my wife's sacred domain, her kitchen.

After preparing and stuffing a turkey, blessed if I could find the skewers. Being frightened of needle and thread, as invariably a missed piece of thread ends up on a guest's plate, I was in a quandary.

Searching through the junk drawer (doesn't everyone have one?) I found a package of small stainless steel drap-

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

SPARE THE ROD!
DEAR HELOISE:
If you have a hollow metal curtain rod that sags like that old horse Nellie, listen to what I did.

I just took a 36-inch long dowel rod and inserted it inside of the hollow rod itself and put it back together. Even if I had bought a new rod it would have sagged eventually as the curtain is too heavy.

Mr. L.D.C.

ROCKABY BABY
DEAR HELOISE:
"It is better to give than to receive," and all I've been doing is receiving from you. So, let me share this little idea with you.

In two weeks we should become parents for the first time. In preparing the room for Our Precious One, I found the crib unattractive; the edge of the spring bugged me.

I got the idea of making a white ruffle to cover it.

First of all, there is an old sheet placed on the spring to protect the new mattress. I pinned the ruffle along the front edge of the sheet. It hangs down about five inches.

It gives the crib a new and dainty look.

And, in case some wonder, the ruffle does not interfere with the movable side that goes up and down.

Thank you, Heloise, for everything.

Mrs. L. Bergeron

MAKE IT GLEAM!

DEAR HELOISE:
Don't ever throw away an old powder puff after it's been washed regardless of what it has been made of—rubber or otherwise...

They are absolutely perfect for cleaning silverware!

They are usually so old or worn out, all we think of is to toss them in the wastebasket. But, oh, are they perfect for this purpose—just the right size.

Sylvia Rogers

Sylvia, you are so right. I never even thought about that before. Bless you always, Heloise

P.S. And so are the toes of old socks!

GIVE IT THE GATE!
DEAR HELOISE:
Thought I'd share my conversation piece with you. In this case—an old baby gate.

We have a small hall between a bedroom and a bath; I had my husband put the gate on the wall, about waist high.

Then I bought permanent green vines to go all over it. With a mirror hanging above, it really looks great.

I've gotten so many compliments that I found another gate and hung it on a kitchen wall. Very pretty.

It's almost like having outdoors inside and gives my morale a big boost.

Betty H.

A STICKY PROBLEM
DEAR HELOISE:
This is a helpful hint for the teachers.

If you happen to have a roll of tape without a holder—take a paper clip and stick it under the end. It helps you keep the end free and you can always find it in a hurry.

It really works!

Your happy reader,
Ellison Stollenwerk

SAVE THAT CORD!
DEAR HELOISE:
To save repair bills on my ironing cord where it rubs the ironing board, I wrap it well with adhesive tape either around or straight up and down the cord.

This saves the cord and makes it last and last.

It is only necessary to wrap the upper two or three feet, not the whole cord!

Penny Pincher

SOCKS APPEAL!
DEAR HELOISE:
When washing my husband's socks I soak them, then use a small plumber's friend, thus saving my hands.

Squishing through three choruses of "Zippity-Do-Dah" and one of "Smiles"—I'm through!

A loyal fan

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:
I hunt through all magazines for recipes exotic, then clip them and file them till I'm almost neurotic.

When the chore is completed I sit down for a rest, but wonder and ponder which recipe's best.

What's for dinner? hubby asks as he opens a brew.

Oh, well, I reply, how about some beef stew?
