Moscow demand may make weapons bargaining tough

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz says negotiating nuclear weapons reductions with the Soviets will be "tough and probably drawn-out" because Moscow wants to hold off agreements until all issues are settled.

But Shultz said Monday night the U.S. anti-missile program and a buildup of U.S. nuclear and conventional forces would force Soviet military planners to consider reducing their nuclear arsenals.

While Shultz was counseling patience in a speech at the University of Chicago, a U.S. official in Washington disclosed that senior American and Soviet negotiators had tentatively agreed to meet early next month in Geneva.

This means the two sides will not put their talks on reducing nuclear weapons and on the controversial U.S. "Star Wars" missile defense program on hold until mid-January.

The United States and Soviet Union are known to be in virtual agreement on dismantling their medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe, but the Soviets want that to be part of a broader agreement that also limits the U.S. anti-missile program to laboratory research.

Shultz, describing the Soviet position in his Chicago speech, said: "Make no mistake about it. Tough, and probably drawn-out negotiations will still be required if we are to nail down any formal agreement on offensive force reductions. For example, the Soviets are now linking agreement on anything with agreement on everything."

The Reagan administration has rejected any such deal. Shultz said the Soviets wanted to restrict U.S. research on anti-missile defense "in a way that would cripple the American SDI (Strategic Defense Initiative) program. This we cannot accept."

His description of the Soviet stance suggested Moscow had hardened its position on missile reductions even though Reagan and Gorbachev "set a new arms control agenda" in Reykjavik.

The Soviets in the past had tried to restrain the U.S. anti-missile program. But Shultz suggested Moscow was linking all arms control issues that are under negotiation to their stance on Star Wars.

The last round of negotiations in Geneva ended last week without agreement. But the Soviets proposed the three principal negotiators for both sides meet Dec. 2-5 in the Swiss city.

The U.S. official, who demanded anonymity, said this represents a "de facto" extension of the formal negotiations. "It's kind of perplexing because basically they gave us stonewalling through the last round," the official said.

Chief U.S. negotiator Max M. Kampelman and his two principal deputies, Ron Lehman and Maynard Glitman, will hold the Dec. 2-5 session with a Soviet delegation headed by Viktor P. Karpov, the chief Soviet negotiator.

Meanwhile, Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said Monday night the United States would never trade Star Wars or balanced conventional strength in Europe for a new arms control accord with the Soviet Union.

In an address to a symposium in Washington on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Weinberger said the United States and its European allies desired deep reductions in offensive ballistic nuclear missiles.

Regardless of whether such an accord is negotiated, the Western alliance must continue improving its conventional strength, he said. The Soviet bloc holds a large edge over NATO in conventional forces in Europe.

Commissioner Sworn In

Loran Nixon, left, is sworn into office as a city commissioner by Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher during a regular meeting Monday night. Nixon was recently appointed to replace Joe Reinauer who moved to Florida to take a position as an airline pilot.

Bi-district tickets on sale

Tickets for Saturday night's bi-district football game between Hereford and Big Spring in Texas Tech's Jones Stadium were put on sale today at Troy's Sweet Shop, 1003 E. Park Ave.

Advance tickets are priced at $5 for adults and $2 for students. Tickets will remain on sale until Friday afternoon. All tickets at the gate will sell for $6.

Hereford has been designated as the home team and will sit on the west side of Jones Stadium. Kickoff for the big game is set at 8 p.m. Saturday night.

Student tickets will be available at the junior high schools and Hereford High this week, according to Larry Wartes, assistant superintendent. There will be plenty of tickets available for the spacious Jones Stadium, but Wartes urged students to get their tickets here as they will cost $6 at the gate.

The game is expected to attract many football fans outside of Hereford and Big Spring. Texas Tech will be playing Houston on Saturday afternoon, and the bi-district schoolboy game is the only playoff tilt scheduled in the area for Saturday night.

For Social Security

Gramm proposes tamperproof card

WASHINGTON (AP) — By the time the new law banning employers from hiring illegal aliens goes into effect in May, Sen. Phil Gramm wants a provision to prevent businesses from being punished unfairly.

Gramm, R-Texas, said Monday he would introduce an amendment to the immigration law calling for creation of tamperproof Social Security cards and a telephone system to verify their validity.

He said the system would serve as insurance for employers who face criminal and civil penalties for hiring illegal aliens when the revamped immigration law goes into effect on May 1.

"As of now we really have no effective means to try to help employers who are trying to comply with the law and not hire illegal aliens," Gramm said in a news conference.

"We have no effective measure to enable people to identify themselves. And I am deeply concerned that unless something is done quickly, that ... we're going to have a lot of employers who are going to be in violation of the law," Gramm said.

Gramm's Immigration Fairness In Reform Amendment Number One calls for four specific provisions aimed at making the law more practical, he said.

The first would establish a telephone system an employer could use to verify the legal status of any worker he was considering hiring, "just as the authenticity of a credit card can be verified at a retail store," Gramm said.

Gramm gave no indication of how much he thought it would cost to create such an extensive computer verification system, but said the Social Security Administration is currently working out the details.

Employers would be charged $1.50 to $2 per call when using the system to verify the status of a person, Gramm said.

Secondly, Gramm's proposal would require the Social Security Administration to create a new tamperproof card within a year in an effort to eliminate counterfeit cards and give the new card reliability.

"The amendment requires that this card be made available at cost to any person who either applies for a new card" or has an old one, Gramm said. "According to the Social Security Administration, this card cannot be counterfeited."

He displayed a sample card printed on blue paper similar to that used to make currency, but with raised lettering. The cost of making such a card is $12, but could drop to as little as $1 if it became widely used, Gramm said.

The senator's proposal would require the General Accounting Office to investigate the feasibility of having all American workers carry such a card "so that everyone would have a tamperproof Social Security card."

The amendment would also require by law that all applicants for cards provide evidence of citizenship and identity, now only an agency regulation, Gramm said.

Finally, Gramm's proposed amendment establishes penalties for those people caught forging the documents or possessing fraudulent cards.

Pat Higgins wins puzzle contest

Pat Higgins, 333 Stadium Drive, was the first winner in The Brand's Photo Puzzle Contest, as he correctly pieced together the picture clues and identified Tom LeGate, local businessman and city commissioner, as the mystery guest.

There were 69 entries in the contest last week and all but two of the entrants had the correct name to the puzzle. A drawing was held from the correct entrants, and the name of Higgins was drawn as the winner of $25 in Hereford Bucks.

At least one piece of the puzzle is printed in each week's issues, Tuesday through Friday, and the object is to clip the piece and paste them on a piece of paper to form the completed picture. After the final piece, or pieces, are published in the Friday paper, put together the complete puzzle.

Even though an entrant can identify the mystery guest before all the pieces are collected, each entry must have the complete photo pasted together. An entry form is published in Friday's paper and it must accompany the photo puzzle. Entries can be brought to The Brand office by 9 a.m. Monday, or must be received in the mail by Monday morning.

Join the fun and look for the puzzle pieces starting today. You could be a winner of $25 in Hereford Bucks by pasting the pieces together and correctly identifying the person!

Nixon assumes duties

Loran Nixon was sworn in as a city commissioner for Place 1 Monday night during a regular meeting of the city commission.

Nixon was appointed to fill the position vacated by Joe Reinauer during the last meeting of the commission.

Commissioners also granted permission to L'Allegria Study Club of Hereford to place a sign in front of the Community Center.

The study group will pay $1,500 for the sign, and the city will pay $1,000.

The sign will be used to display events that are taking place at the Community Center.

North Korean leader appears after days of death rumors

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — North Korean leader Kim Il Sung, who had been reported slain or ousted in a coup, made an official appearance today in Pyongyang, greeting the Mongolian premier, the official North Korean news agency reported.

A photograph also distributed by the Korean Central News Agency showed the 74-year-old Kim shaking hands with Zhambyn Batmunkh in an airport welcoming for the Mongolian leader.

An Asian diplomat in Pyongyang, contacted by telephone from Peking, told The Associated Press that he had seen Kim at the airport and "he is in absolutely good health."

"Everything is all right in this country, the situation is absolutely normal ...," the diplomat said, speaking on condition that he not be identified. "There seems to be nothing correct about these reports (of an assassination or power seizure)...."

The photo, and an earlier report by the Korean Central News Agency and Radio Pyongyang on the airport greeting, dispelled rumors about the fate of Kim and a struggle for control of this communist country of 19 million he has led since its creation in 1948.

Radio Press, a Tokyo-based private monitoring service, quoted broadcasts as saying Kim was accompanied at the airport by Deputy Premier and Foreign Minister Kim Yong Nam and officials of the ruling Koran Workers Party.

It said 100,000 people lined roads leading from the airport to the city to welcome Batmunkh, who is communist Mongolia's head of state.

A flurry of reports that Kim had been killed or deposed began Sunday when the defense ministry in Seoul said broadcasts from North Korean loudspeakers along the demilitarized zone that separates the two Koreas said Kim had been shot to death.

Japan's Kyodo News Service said in a dispatch from Hanoi Monday that Vietnamese sources reported Kim had been killed, and South Korea's defense minister, Lee Ki-Baek told the National Assembly in Seoul that "judging from all such circumstances, it is believed that Kim has died or a serious internal power struggle is going on there."

Admendment sparks Hispanic protest

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A GOP resolution asking the state to adopt English as the official language has sparked protest from some Hispanics, but the state Republican Party chairman says the proposal is not intended to stifle "ethnic cultures."

The resolution was adopted Saturday by the State Republican Executive Committee. The vote had been postponed since August.

Ruben Bonilla Jr., chairman of the Mexican American Democrats of Texas, said Monday that public proceedings and documents already are undertaken in English and that the resolution tends to split Hispanics.

"The Republican Party position reflects an ideological rigidity that will splinter and polarize our state along ethnic, racial and regional lines," Bonilla said.

The resolution calls for amendments to the Texas and U.S. constitutions to make English the official language.

If designated the official language, the requirements for bilingual ballots and other official documents could change.

State GOP Chairman George Strake said, however, the resolution is intended to unite the country, not divide it.

"This has nothing to do with cutting our ethnic cultures," Strake said. "It's an easy thing for opponents to demagogue on and I expect that."

Texas Education Commissioner Bill Kirby said a law already is on the agency books designating English as the official curriculum language.

He said bilingual education could be affected and that could mean trouble.

Voters anti-White, not pro-Clements

HOUSTON (AP) — When Mark White was elected governor in 1982, about 39 percent of Texas voters said they had voted against Republican Bill Clements. Two weeks ago, voters said they were against White when casting their ballots to elect Clements, a recent poll says.

Another factor in White's defeat was the demise of the straight-ticket voter, according to a poll released Monday by Houston-based Tarrance, Hill, Newport and Ryan.

In a state that is traditionally Democrat, only 29 percent of the 600 Texas voters surveyed said they voted straight ticket. That was down from 47 percent two years ago.

"It was shocking to see how many conservative Democrats went for Bill Clements," said Lance Tarrance, president of the polling firm. According to the poll, 45 percent of the voters who label themselves conservative Democrats voted for Clements, and 41 percent of them said they specifically were voting against White.

The poll, which has an error factor of plus or minus 4.1 percent, indicated voters believed White was wrong on the issues and lacked leadership.

"It's quite a comment when the incumbent lacks leadership in the electorate," Tarrance said.

The statewide survey of 600 voters shows negative voting accounted for 36 percent of Clements' support in the election two weeks ago.

Dogs may have saved child

KEEDYSVILLE, Md. (AP) — A 2-year-old boy wandered more than a mile from home in 35-degree weather, wearing only a thin blanket sleeper, but was kept warm by four family dogs that huddled around him, police said.

Sean Ryan Keyton may have walked out of his house after he or one of the dogs pushed the kitchen door open, state police Trooper Harry Smith. Sean was found early Monday after a four-hour search by police, friends and neighbors.

The child was suffering from exposure, Smith said. He was in stable condition at Washington County Hospital.

The dogs "were just mongrels, really," said state police Sgt. Donald Stottlemeyer. "The family has all sorts of dogs and cats."

He would not speculate on whether the dogs saved the boy's life.

NASA plans mock liftoff

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Five astronauts who flew the last successful shuttle mission were ready today for a mock liftoff aimed at maintaining launch team sharpness in the long flightless period since the Challenger explosion.

The astronauts were to climb aboard Atlantis on launch pad 39B for the final two hours of a countdown rehearsal that began Monday night and was set to end with simulated firing of the three main engines.

The crew members are commander Robert Gibson, pilot Charles Bolden and mission specialists George Nelson, Steven Hawley and Franklin Chang-Diaz.

They manned the shuttle Columbia on a flight that ended just 10 days before Challenger was launched on its tragic mission Jan. 28. The spacecraft exploded 73 seconds after liftoff and all seven crew members died.

Two non-astronaut members of Columbia's crew, Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Fla., and RCA engineer Robert Cenker, were not participating in today's test.

On Thursday, another team of seven rookie astronauts will be on board Atlantis to participate in an emergency crew escape exercise.

The drills conclude seven weeks of launch pad tests for Atlantis, which will be transported back to a hangar on Saturday.

They mark the last chance that astronauts and launch teams will have to sharpen their skills with a shuttle on the pad until Discovery is rolled out of storage to be readied for the next shuttle liftoff, now set for Feb. 18, 1988.

Renault president gunned down

PARIS (AP) — Police today said they suspected two women, believed to be left-wing terrorists, shot and killed the president of the state-run Renault automobile company as he returned home from the company's headquarters in suburban Boulogne-Billancourt.

After interrogating witnesses all night at the scene of the Monday shooting on Boulevard Edgar Quinet near the Montparnasse railway station, police said they suspected Georges Besse was shot by one woman, who was protected by another.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the killing, which occurred about 8 p.m. just one door down from Besse's home in Paris' 14th district.

But a left spokesman said "it is undoubtedly Direct Action," the extreme left French terrorist organization, which carried out the attack.

Police said they were looking for two women described as between 25 and 30 years old, who spoke French without an accent. Earlier reports had quoted witnesses as saying they believed Besse's assailants were a man and a woman.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new immigration law has not caused widespread firings of Hispanics, a survey shows, but a New York councilman says there's already a "chilling effect" on hiring anyone with a foreign appearance.

A random check by The Associated Press shows dismissals of Hispanics have only occurred in isolated instances — Houston and Dallas, for instance — even though the law has sown confusion about penalties for employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens.

In Houston, a counselor for Hispanics, Maria Allen, said clients told her one company informed workers it "was the law now to speak English. Another company has been telling them that it is now illegal to hire undocumented workers."

But, in a typical survey finding, the counselor at Houston International University — an immigrant-aid institute — could not confirm the accusations, and one firm specifically denied them.

In the Bronx, New York, city councilman Fernando Ferrer said he believes the new law has had a "chilling effect" on hiring Hispanics, commenting, "You see it in the coffee shops, you see it everywhere in this city."

Rene Martinez of Dallas would probably agree. The 18-year-old, who fled El Salvador in 1983 with his 16-year-old brother and his mother, a maid, has been unable to find work.

"I feel bad because I'm not working and because I had the idea of not having my mother work," he said. "You can't make ends meet."

The immigration bill has two cornerstones: amnesty for illegal aliens who arrived before 1982 and lived in this country continuously since then and penalties against employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens.

For the next six months, the Immigration and Naturalization Service is to conduct a public information campaign on the sanctions program, during which no enforcement actions can be taken.

HHS runners place in top 20 in state

Hereford High School's participants in the Texas state class 4A cross country meet Saturday in Georgetown both finished in the top 20 of their respective divisions.

Benny Carrasco of the HHS boys' team placed 14th in a time of 18:18, and Nancy Garza of the HHS girls' team placed 20th in a time of 13:05.

"I'm really pleased, especially since Benny is a sophomore and Nancy is a junior, and it was their first time running in the state meet," said Hereford High School Coach Martha Emerson.

"It's a tough course down there. I was pleased that they finished ahead of most Canyon and Dumas runners," she adds.

Just one District 1-4A runner finished ahead of the Hereford runner in each race. A Levelland runner, Mario Sanchez, placed sixth in the boys' race, and a Canyon runner, Kendra Reeves, placed fourth in the girls' race.

There were 100 runners competing in each race at the state meet.

Tony Gilliam wins Brand football contest

Four games missed by Tony Gilliam was the best entry in last week's Brand football contest, enabling Gilliam to win the first place prize of 25 Deaf Smith County Bucks.

Nine people each missed five games, which meant that the second and third place prize winners were decided by the tie-breaker.

Ruben Vargas emerged as the second place finisher. He predicted Hereford to defeat Borger, 18-13, just one point off on each team's final score.

The actual final score was Hereford 19, Borger 12. The third place prize went to Joy Stagner, who predicted Hereford to beat Borger by a score of 21-14.

Prizes must be claimed within five working days or else the prizes become null and void.

The other contest entrants who missed five games each were Raymond Lueb, James L. Hillwig, Debi Lewis, Jim Hillwig, Wayne Amstutz, Roy Herrera, and Keith Kalka.

Eleven people each missed six games, and 118 people entered last week's contest.

See the football pages in today's issue of the Brand for this week's games.

Rockets sign Olajuwon through 1998 season

HOUSTON (AP) —

The Houston Rockets have signed Akeem Olajuwon, one-half of the Twin Towers, to a contract extension that will keep Olajuwon in a Rockets uniform until 1998.

Now owner Charlie Thomas can start preparing to sign 7-4, Ralph Sampson, whose $1.1 million per year contract ends this season.

Olajuwon, in the third year of a six-year contract that pays him a reported $882,000 per year, received an 8-year extension Monday from Thomas.

"When you have a player with his talents, you want him to be around a long time," Thomas said. "There's no place but Houston where Akeem would rather be and this contract extension solidifies this as his home."

Olajuwon said he went to Thomas in the off season to negotiate a contract.

"I'm very happy with Houston and the Rockets are a team of the future," Olajuwon said.

Olajuwon is off to his best start as a pro.

He leads the NBA in rebounding with a 14.9 average, ranks fifth in NBA scoring with a 26.4 average, second in steals with a 3.14 average and second in blocked shots with a 3.86 per game average.

"Charlie Thomas knew what he wanted and Akeem knew what he wanted," said Olajuwon's agent, Lee Fentress. "They both executed their game plans perfectly."

Was sacked league record 12 times

Pelleur 'survived' against Chargers

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry said he gave quarterback Steve Pelleur the game ball for "surviving" and scoring the game-winner after being sacked 12 times by the San Diego Chargers.

Although Pelleur earned a place in Cowboy and league history for suffering a record number of sacks, the Cowboys scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns Sunday that erased an 11-point deficit in a heart-stopping 24-21 win.

"This is the most I've ever been hit, including college ball," Pelleur said.

He was treated in the locker room for a hip injury in the fourth quarter, but he didn't miss a play.

"We were calling plays just to get the ball off," Pelleur said. "I wasn't playing that well, but I knew if we got the opportunity to get back in the game I had to be in the right frame of mind."

The win gave Dallas a 7-4 record and kept the Cowboys in the National Football League playoff chase. A loss would have dropped Dallas three games behind the Eastern Division-leading New York Giants.

"We were born again today," Landry said after the game. "We were almost dead."

"The confidence of your team make a great difference," Landry said. "Our team would have been really down had we lost that game, not that we couldn't have recovered from it."

After Pelleur scored what proved to be the game-winner on a 2-yard run, giving the Cowboys a three-point lead with 1:37 remaining, Dallas held San Diego on four downs. The Cowboys got the ball back deep in San Diego territory with 58 seconds left.

On Dallas' first play, Pelleur dropped to one knee, which carved only five seconds off the clock. The Chargers then used their first time out.

On second down, Landry called for a pitchout to running back Tony Dorsett, who fumbled at the Charger 10.

San Diego recovered the fumble with 42 seconds left. That gave Chargers' quarterback Dan Fouts one more chance to do what he does best: move the ball quickly through the air.

Fouts moved the Chargers to the Dallas 37, and the Cowboys had to watch as Rolf Benirschke just missed sending the game into overtime with a 55-yard field goal.

Benirschke then tried his 55-yarder, two yards longer than his career best. The kick was long enough but sailed just wide to the left, missing by not more than a couple of feet.

Hell raiser has change of heart

By JEAN MCNAIR
Associated Press Writer
VIRGINIA BEAC, Va. (AP) — Ben Kinchlow, the serene, smiling co-host of "The 700 Club" show on the Christian Broadcasting Network, has changed from hell raiser to heaven praiser during his 49 years.

In the 1960s, he wanted to make war on white America and devote his life to the Black Muslim religion. He once plotted to kill a man who had been involved with his wife, tried to kill himself and spent a lot of time drinking, womanizing and railing against society in general.

"I didn't believe in a personal God," said the snowy-haired, 6-foot-5-inch Kinchlow. "I thought God was probably white and therefore he had it in for black people. I was extremely hostile and bitter at this time in my life."

That all changed one afternoon in 1970 when Kinchlow was working as a test driver for General Tire Company near Uvalde, Texas.

Instead of humming the pop song playing on the car's radio station, Kinchlow found himself singing a Negro spiritual, "My Heavenly Father Watches Over Me."

"One minute I was smoking a Lucky, planning on shacking up with somebody down the road, with my mouth filled with curses and the next minute tears were streaming down my cheek and I'm saying 'God, I'm sorry. I just didn't know,'" he said.

With that born-again encounter, Kinchlow became faithful to his wife, stopped smoking and cursing and switched to the ministry.

The turn in the road brought him a few years later to the Christian Broadcasting Network, where he is watched on "The 700 Club" in an estimated 16.3 million households monthly and helps run the cable network as an executive vice president. He sits beside a man who is said to have aspirations for the White House, CBN's founder and his co-host, the Rev. Pat Robertson.

Following the practice of many born-again Christians who have spoken openly of their sinful lives before they turned to God, Kinchlow has written an autobiography,

"Plain Bread," in which he admits to everything from theft to homosexuality, incest and bestiality in his early life.

Kinchlow said he wrote the book to let viewers know that he understands their problems.

Born to a farm laborer and a teacher, Kinchlow grew up in the segregated Texas town of Uvalde. He dreamed of playing football for the Uvalde High School Coyotes, but couldn't even attend the school because he was black.

He graduated from a Catholic high school in San Antonio and spent 13 years in the Air Force until his refusal to go to the Far East for what he called an "imperialistic white man's war" earned him a discharge.

After his born-again experience, Kinchlow counseled drug addicts in Killeen, Texas. His work led to a guest appearance on "The 700 Club," a call back to be a guest host and a move with his wife and three sons to Virginia Beach in 1975 to become a full-time co-host.

Group lobbies for Israel

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — A Baptist minister and about 30 Christians have formed a caucus aimed at garnering political support for Israel.

The group of Christians teamed with the American Israel Public Affairs Committee, a political lobbying group, to try to ensure that Israel remains a Middle East power.

The caucus, formed in September, is believed to be one of the first such groups in the nation with a Christian chairman and a primarily Christian membership.

Members say their spiritual interest in Israel leads naturally to practical, political support of the country.

Dr. James Miller, pastor of Park Heights Baptist Church and the caucus' chairman, said his involvement is spiritual, not political. He said he perceives a link between Judeo-Christian interests and enabling Jews to build a strong Israel.

"It's just good politics to support a democratic government," said caucus member Kay McDonald. "Israel is the only democratic and stable government in the Middle East. It is our only reliable ally. It keeps us from having to keep a strong military presence in the area, which would cost us more than financial aid."

Politics prompted the organization of the pro-Israel caucus in San Angelo, said Merrie White, a Christian community coordinator for AIPAC.

She said the 21st Congressional District race between Pete Snelson and Lamar Smith drew AIPAC's interest.

The influence of the group's caucuses is more subtle than an outright endorsement, she said, and either candidate would have been pro-Israel.

"The purpose is for them (candidates) to know people in their home district, and not just Jews, want them to support Israel," Ms. White said.

Ms. White said she launches a caucus in a new area first by calling ministers to ask if they are interested in Israel.

"I appeal to them (ministers) in terms of political interest and in terms of, 'We, as Christians, have said so long we love Israel and we don't do anything about it. This is your opportunity to do something tangible that is very, very easy and incredibly effective,'" Ms. White said.

"At first I was a little put off because I try not to use my influence for overt political reasons," Miller said.

French kings and English royalty have played billiards, as did American presidents Washington, Lincoln, Garfield and Cleveland. Homemade bomb

A Molotov cocktail is a homemade bomb, consisting of a bottle filled with gasoline or an alcohol mixture. It usually has a rag wick. Originally devised by Russian civilians fighting against the invading Nazi army during World War II, the bomb was named for foreign minister V.M. Molotov.

For heart valve defects

Doctors use balloon technique

DALLAS (AP) — Physicians at medical centers nationwide are rushing to adopt a new technique using tiny balloons to open valves inside the heart, a safer and cheaper procedure than valve-replacement surgery, doctors say.
In the year since the procedure was first attempted in the United States, at least 15 medical centers have begun using it experimentally, said Dr. William Grossman of Harvard University.
Doctors in 1980 began using balloons to open clogged arteries, a procedure now done on 50,000 Americans a year instead of bypass surgery, Grossman said.

Woman's Health

STRESS AND WOMEN

By Harry S. Jonas, M.D., President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

Today it would be hard to find a woman who has not seen her doctor at some time for a medical problem and was told that some or all of her illness is caused by stress.

Stress—it's something we all live with in American society. And like exposure to the sun, a little bit won't hurt you but too much can be dangerous.

Doctors have long recognized that many medical problems are indirectly or directly caused by stress. Heart ailments, stomach problems, and some forms of mental illness are all stress-related. In gynecology, problems such as irregular periods or some types of pelvic pain are linked to stress. Unfortunately, while your doctor may be able to diagnose a specific medical problem and treat it, he or she may not be able to do much about the source of the problem—the stress in your life.

If you think that your medical problem could be stress-related, it is important that you let your doctor know. Together, the two of you can look at what part stress plays in your life and find ways to eliminate the negative stress.

There are some warning signs that will alert you to rising stress levels. Changes in sleep patterns, chronic fatigue, weight changes, irritability, headaches, and stomach upsets are all common physical reactions to stress.

While it's sometimes difficult to pinpoint stress as a problem, it can be even harder to do something about. But the first step should be talking about what's troubling you. Once you know that, you and your doctor can work on the best way to tackle your medical problem and your stress. If you have no choice—and there almost always is a choice—in removing the direct cause of stress, you may want to look at ways to make other parts of your life easier.

Stress is part of women's lives, and in some cases, it may not be bad. A recent major study showed that women with the fewest chronic health problems were working women with or without families. But if stress is making you sick, you need to do something about it.

The new technique, called balloon valvuloplasty, is an important advance that takes the balloon inside the beating heart.

It could eventually replace surgery for many of the 50,000 to 70,000 Americans who suffer severe narrowing, or stenosis, of heart valves each year, Grossman said Monday at the American Heart Association's annual meeting.

The procedure provides new hope for the many victims of valve stenosis who are too old or too sick to undergo surgery, he said.

Grossman's first balloon valvuloplasty patient was a 75-year-old man who had a 50 percent chance of dying from valve-replacement surgery, and had refused it. The procedure succeeded.

The second was a 30-year-old woman considered too old for surgery. A balloon was threaded through blood vessels into her heart and the defective valve was opened. "Within three days, her heart failure symptoms improved, and within two months they disappeared," Grossman said. "She's now 34."

He said he has successfully used the procedure on 76 patients in the past 13 months. Three died within a week of treatment, but not because of it, he said. "We feel that we were too late with too little in these three patients."

Dr. Charles McKay of the Los Angeles County Hospital and the University of Southern California said he has used the technique on 22 patients with only minor complications.

Grossman warned that the procedure is still experimental. "There have been deaths and there will be more."

In the procedure, a wire is inserted into a vein in the leg and is threaded into the heart, under the guidance of X-ray images of blood vessels.

A balloon is then threaded along the wire until it is inside the narrowed valve. The balloon is then inflated with fluid to a pressure about twice that of the air in automobile tires, forcing the valve open.

Narrowing, or stenosis, of the valves occurs when fibrous material and calcium deposits build up on them, decreasing their flexibility and interfering with their ability to allow blood to pass in and out of the heart's chambers.

Valve disease can be caused by malformation of the valves at birth, rheumatic heart disease, or a buildup of calcium over the years for no apparent reason, Grossman said.

The disease occurs most commonly in the aortic valve, which opens to allow blood into the aorta, the heart's principal output. It can also occur in the mitral valve, which allows blood into the heart's main pumping chamber.

Both valves have been treated with the procedure. McKay reported improved success with mitral valves if two balloons are inflated simultaneously inside the valve.

Some 25,000 to 30,000 valve-replacement operations are performed in the United States annually, in which diseased valves are replaced with mechanical substitutes or valves from pig hearts, Grossman said.

Balloon valvuloplasty may require a hospital stay of only two or three days and can be done at about one-third the cost of valve-replacement surgery, he said.

"It's not going to replace valve surgery, but our surgeons are a little nervous about this," Grossman said. He noted that the balloon technique cannot be used to repair leaky valves, which must still be surgically replaced.

A 4,000 YEAR-OLD PROMISE—STILL VALID!

The High Priest asked Stephen, "Are these accusations true?" This was Stephen's lengthy reply: "The glorious God appeared to our ancestor Abraham in Iraq before he moved to Syria, and told him to leave his native land to say good-bye to his relatives and to start out for a country that God would direct him to."

"So he left the land of the Chaldeans and lived in Haran, in Syria, until his father died. Then God brought him here to the land of Israel, but gave him no property of his own, not one little tract of land. However, God promised that eventually the whole country would belong to him and his descendants—though as yet he had no children!"

"But God also told him that these descendants of his would leave the land and live in a foreign country and there become slaves for 400 years. But I will punish the nation that enslaves them; God told him, 'and afterwards My people will return to this land of Israel and worship Me here.'"

"God also gave Abraham the ceremony of circumcision at that time, as evidence of the covenant between God and the people of Abraham. And so Isaac, Abraham's son, was circumcised when he was eight days old. Isaac became the father of Jacob, and Jacob was the father of the twelve patriarchs of the Jewish nation."

"These men were very jealous of Joseph and sold him to be a slave in Egypt. But God was with him, and delivered him out of all his anguish, and gave him favor before Pharaoh, king of Egypt."

Man in white delivers bouquet bomb

By STEVE BREWER Associated Press Writer SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

A man in a white tuxedo and derby wearing a phony beard and moustache delivered flowers containing a bomb that injured two women in an office, but a suburban couple refused a similar delivery, police said.

The suburban couple were the parents of one woman injured Monday afternoon in the federal General Services Administration office, and the man was a friend of their daughter and her estranged husband, according to a published report.

Police did not disclose the name of a suspect they were seeking or his possible relationship to the bombing victims or the couple.

The bomb-laden bouquet of dried flowers was brought to the downtown GSA office by a man wearing a white tuxedo jacket, a white derby, eyeliner, and a beard and moustache that appeared fake, witnesses told police.

The same man apparently tried about two hours later to deliver flowers to a couple in El Cerrito, 20 miles northeast of San Francisco. The couple refused delivery, and the man left in a cab, said El Cerrito Patrolman Marty Knight.

Ken King, a San Francisco police inspector, said investigators believed the suspect was carrying a second bomb in the flowers for the El Cerrito couple.

The couple were the parents of one of the injured women. The Tribune of Oakland reported today the couple, who weren't identified, said the suspect showed up at their house dressed entirely in white with a delivery of flowers.

They told The Tribune the suspect was a man who had become friends with their daughter's husband 12 years ago, and had lived in their daughter's San Francisco home and worked as a handyman. The daughter and her husband are now estranged, the couple said.

The FBI and federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms were investigating the matter, said ATF agent William McNulty, adding he was unaware of anyone claiming responsibility for the explosion.

Authorities were investigating whether a personal grudge was involved in the mid-afternoon bombing at the GSA office, on the 33rd floor of the 38-story Tishman Building, King said.

"Apparently the bomb was directed at an individual. It was sent by someone to a specific individual," said Sgt. Manuel Barretta, a police spokesman.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Cream of tartar soaks out stains

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — A friend told me that she read in your column many years ago that you can bleach stains out of delicate fabrics with cream of tartar. Is this true? How is it done? — MRS. F.C.

DEAR MRS. F.C. — You can make a whitening pre-soak from cream of tartar that is very helpful for removing stains from delicate fabrics, synthetic knits, baby clothes and other items that you do not want to subject to harsh bleaches. Simply dissolve two tablespoons cream of tartar in one gallon of hot water, then let the mixture cool to lukewarm. Soak the items to be whitened for several hours or until stains are gone and whiteness is restored. Launder as usual. The pre-soak may be used on light colors as well as whites.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter, "Homemade Soaps and Cleaners," which includes this delicate pre-soak as well as a heavy-duty bleach-based pre-soak for tougher stains and fabrics, a recipe for homemade laundry soap, and formulas for various household cleaners and furniture polishes. Others who would like a copy of this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's my solution for blood stains. I wet the stains with slightly warm water and rub in brown soap (such as Fels Naptha). I repeat the wetting and soaping cycle, rubbing the stain vigorously with my fingers until the blood stains are gone. — GEORGE

DEAR POLLY — Have you ever opened a bag of cookies or a box of crackers and found they were stale? It's not always convenient to return them, especially if it's the last bag of cookies and the kids are looking for a snack. The way I handle stale cookies or crackers is to freeze them. This may sound strange, but they become crisp in the freezer and taste fresher. — CAROL

DEAR POLLY — To make defrosting on older types of refrigerators easier and quicker, place a towel in the bottom of the freezer section and it will absorb the dripping water and chunks of ice that fall off in the process. Catch the corners of the towel and pour the water into a pan close by. Wring out the towel and repeat the process until all is gone. — MABEL

Ann Landers Mysophobia

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is there a medical name for a disorder that causes a person to be unduly concerned with germs and cleanliness? If there is I have it.

I am obsessed with cleaning and talk about it all the time. I rinse my glasses and cups before I use them even though they have been washed with soap before I put them in the dishwasher. I always use the sanitize cycle.

I clean the homes of relatives and friends when I am a guest even though I've been told not to do it because it makes them uncomfortable. I just can't help myself, Ann. Everything around me must be in perfect order.

I imagine I have every symptom of every disease I hear about and worry constantly about being contaminated by unclean persons in public places. I could go and on and on about my strange behavior, but I think you get the picture.

I can't admit these things to anyone but I know they are true. Also, I am extremely convincing when I tell my doctor I have the symptoms I've heard on TV. I know he must think I am some kind of a nut. Every week it's something else.

Please let me know what I can do to break this crazy pattern. It is as annoying to me as it is to others. I need help. — ANTISEPTIC AND SICK OF IT with the stick when my father's will was read. All I can do now, after 32 years of dedication and hard work, is start over.

My advice to children involved in family business is to ignore promises. Tell your father you trust him but you want everything in writing. If you can't get it, leave.—TOO LATE SMART (N.Y.)

DEAR T.L.S.: If all the men who wrote to relate the same story were laid end to end they'd reach from Maine to California. (Are you listening, students?)

Unless your father is willing to relinquish some of his authority after you've been around for 10 years, it's safe to assume he intends to remain in the driver's seat until senility sets in. Face the facts and act accordingly.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior - where to draw the line, how to say now, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. For a copy, send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Early detection is vital

Breast cancer will develop in one of every 11 females, according to the November issue of Texas Medicine.

However, breast cancer can be cured if found early. A continuing effort at public education is needed to make women aware of the importance of breast self-examination, writes Dr. Ray W. Gifford, Jr., former chairman of the American Medical Association Council on Scientific Affairs, Chicago.

A monthly breast exam, about one week after menstruation, is recommended, according to Dr. Gifford.
