After White writes letter

DOE postpones hearings in Texas

BY BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

A letter from Texas Governor Mark White to U.S. Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel has apparently forced a postponement of hearings about the possibility of locating a high-level nuclear waste repository in the Panhandle.

White's letter, dated April 4 (last Monday), informed Hodel that the governor has "become gravely concerned about the future health and welfare of the citizens of Texas and other states currently under consideration as potential repositories."

"It seems as if the site selection will be based on expediency rather than scientific data. Texas must not be selected as a repository site based on adherence to an unrealistic, arbitrary timetable," the letter continued. "When clear, technical standards are not set, the likelihood of nuclear accident is increased. At this time, the Department's lack of specific criteria is jeopardizing the health and welfare of the populace."

Len Arzt, a Department of Energy (DOE) spokesman, said Thursday that as a result of the letter, hearings tentatively scheduled in Texas have been delayed. Those hearings were to have been held in Hereford and Tulla on April 25, and in Austin April 26.

However, he said that hearings will go ahead as planned in Mississippi, Louisiana, and Utah on the possibility of locating the repository in one of those states.

Arzt added that the DOE hopes to hold the Texas hearings in mid-May, but said that Texas officials had not agreed to any hearings and that it is unlikely that they would be held without such agreements.

White's letter is just part of a sudden influx of interest into the repository question by state-level officials, a group of which visited Hereford Tuesday afternoon to "talk strategy about beating this thing," in the words of Texas Ag Commissioner Jim Hightower.

Hightower, Texas Secretary of State John Fainter, and State Sen. Bill Sarpalus met with concerned citizens here Tuesday, pledging to join in the fight to keep a repository out of the state of Texas.

The governor, who sent Fainter as his personal representative to the meeting Tuesday, charged in his letter to Hodel that, "first of all, the department has not established fixed and acceptable geologic screening criteria. The criteria are being developed to fit

Astronauts begin to pack and head home

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Elated by their "smooth" and "clockwork" space walk, Challenger's astronauts began packing up today as they neared the end of an inaugural mission marred only by problems with a satellite they carried aloft.

The four crewmen were awakened for their last full

City gets two more inches of snowfall

The Hereford area officially received two inches of snow over the past 24 hours, raising the city's winter of 1982-83 snowfall total to 52 inches according to KPAN radio, the city's official weather reporting station.

The snow left .28 of an inch of precipitation on the ground, and the National Weather Service called for a 70 percent chance of additional snow today, with a 20 percent chance of more white stuff tonight.

Yesterday's low in Hereford was 28 degrees, with the high at 38 degrees. The forecast called for partly cloudy skies on Saturday, with the highs to be in the 40's in most areas.

day in space by Mission Control playing a recording of a folk song with the refrain "I'm a lousy co-pilot and a long way from home."

Maybe they didn't like the choice of music, but whatever the reason, the astronauts were unusually slow to acknowledge Mission Control's greetings. It wasn't until capsule communicator Mary Cleave's third try, a half-hour after wakeup, that Commander Paul Weitz responded.

"They were apparently just reluctant to answer as they got their breakfast on," explained NASA commentator Terry White.

Much of today's relatively light flight plan called for cleaning up the spaceship and checking systems for the return to Earth. The only other items were some medical experiments and the pursuit of a phantom space target in a rendezvous exercise.

Weitz and pilot Karol Bobko are to guide Challenger to a landing at 10:49 a.m. PST Saturday at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. America's second shuttle has performed near-flawlessly on its inaugural flight.

While looking toward home, mission specialists Story Musgrave and Donald Peterson were expected to provide Mission Control in Houston with additional details today on their double space walk into the ship's open cargo bay on Thursday — an excursion they long will savor.

"The EVA (extra-vehicular activity) was really smooth; it went really like clockwork," said Flight Director Harold Draughon.

NASA was especially pleased with the performance of the spacesuits — the same $2.1 million outfits that developed technical bugs dur-

Red Cross supper tonight

The annual American Red Cross chili supper is scheduled from 5 to 8 p.m. today at the Community Center. Volunteer of the Year will be honored.

The public is invited to attend. Tickets are $2.75 for adults and $1.50 for children six and under. All proceeds will go for disaster relief.

Just Another Spring Day

While the winter of 1982-83 will certainly go down in the record books as one to remember, and folks will talk about the more than 50 inches of snow in the years to come, the blanket of moisture left by Mother Nature has provided many memorable scenes such as this one just north of town. A warming trend is expected for the area this weekend, however. (Brand Photo by Bob Nigh).

Flood evacuees describe frustrations, losses

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Babies slept on tabletops as evacuees described their frustration, loss and terror from the surging waters that forced them into impromptu shelters in flood-stricken central and southeast Louisiana.

"It's terrible. You're so isolated," said Jeanne Sanders, 55, whose home near a canal in New Orleans' Gentilly section was inundated.

Ms. Sanders and her father, William, 88, spent Thursday night high and dry with about 70 others in a cafeteria at Our Lady of the Sea School, set up as a shelter by the Red Cross. The Sanders had to be rescued at the height of flash flooding.

"The water was up to here," said police officer Tom Phillips, waving his hand just below his neck. "It was sad. She was crying and he was half-paralyzed, lying in bed, and the water was rising."

"The mattresses were floating and the cedar chest was floating around the living room."

Up to 20 inches of rain left thousands of homes in southern Louisiana under water as rivers rose to record levels. Rain continued today, and forecasters warned that more was on the way.

Other evacuees told their stories with the calm acceptance that comes from seeing many floods hit Louisiana's low-lying regions.

Rose Hushfield of the New Orleans suburb of Arabi said it was the third time her house was flooded.

"You get to where there are no more tears," she said. "You take it as it comes."

But for most, the effects of the drenching rain came as an unwelcome surprise.

"I was lying in my bed when all of a sudden I felt the water coming into it," said Herman Kirk of Marrero, a suburb of New Orleans.

He said he and his mother, Gertrude, immediately left their trailer home and slept in a service station before shifting to a Red Cross shelter at Lincoln Elementary School.

Children and babies slept on tabletops or camp cots, some entertained by Red Cross volunteers.

Many evacuees were lucky to get out with a suitcase — often wading through water several feet deep as cars proved less useful than boats.

In Denham Springs to the northwest, where longtime residents have seen many a flood, people were shocked nonetheless as water came sloshing into their homes and businesses.

Lia Higgins, owner of Fine Line Design, a furniture store, said she and her husband had been in the store since 1 a.m. Thursday getting merchandise off the floor.

'Coalition' pushes for prison reform package

AUSTIN (AP) — A "historic coalition" says its package of prison reform bills will take Texas prisons "out of the dark ages, out of the era of bricks and mortar."

Speaker Gib Lewis, flanked by six state representatives and three senators, told a news conference Thursday about nine different proposals.

"I will do everything within my power to see that this package becomes law," the speaker promised.

He said Gov. Mark White and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby were "fully united" behind the program, along with the director of the Department of Corrections, William Estelle, and the state prison board.

"We've been working for 10 years for this day," said Charles Sullivan, executive director of Citizens United for the Rehabilitation of Errants.

Lewis said the package was not "get soft on the crooks" or "turn 'em loose on the streets" legislation. "It puts those convicted of violent crime where they belong, in prison under maximum security," he said. "On the other hand it provides one new stopping point — just short of prison — for certain non-violent offenders."

"It forces them to repay their victims while in community restitution centers."

Lewis stressed that most of the cost of the changes would be paid by diverting $97 million from the prison construction program into other agencies "for this program and nothing else."

Highlights of the package, some of which have already been acted on by at least one house, include:

— Texas prison management giving the governor authority to deal with prison overcrowding. When inmate population reaches 95 percent of capacity, the governor could award 30 days good time to each well-behaved inmate who is not a violent offender. The Board of Pardons and Paroles could advance parole eligibility for 30 days. If overcrowding still existed about 60 days, the board could advance parole eligibility another 30 days.

— Removing the governor from the parole process and leaving the process to the Board of Pardons and Paroles with more money for parole officers and community services.

— Allowing model prisoners to be transferred to community centers 90 to 120 days before the actual date for parole.

— Making non-violent, non-sex offenders eligible for restitution centers where they would live but hold a job outside. The center director would receive their paychecks to pay for their room and board, money for their family and for payment of restitution to the victim of their crime.

— Allowing judges to order persons on probation to perform community service work.

Watt eats crow over Beach Boys

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Watt has learned that he can antagonize the environmentalists, the preservationists, the Democrats and the Indians — but not the fans of the Beach Boys.

Eating crow in a drizzle on the White House lawn, the secretary of the Interior withdrew his suggestion that rock groups would no longer be welcome to perform on the Mall.

The Beach Boys and another pop group, the Grass Roots, have been the warmup act for the Fourth of July fireworks displays that drew hundreds of thousands of people to the Mall for the past three years.

To make the point that he had shot himself in the foot, Watt carried a plaster of paris foot with a hole in it, a present, he said, from President Reagan.

It turned out that both Ronald and Nancy Reagan are Beach Boys fans — or maybe they, too, had heard the nationwide razz when Watt disinvented rock groups for Fourth of July. Without mentioning the Beach Boys specifically, he claimed rock groups that performed on the Mall the last two years attracted "the wrong element" — drinkers, muggers and drug users.

Watt said he still wants Las Vegas singer Wayne Newton to perform on the Mall before the fireworks, but he said the Beach Boys would be invited to perform "as soon as we can get that worked out."

Watt's disclosure that he had substituted Newton and the U.S. Army Blues Band for rock groups on the Mall was made public Wednesday.

By Thursday, after Watt's musical tastes had provoked chatter on radio talk shows across the country, Washington got the message.

Watt was invited to see the president, then sent out to meet the press on the White House lawn for a chorus of mea culpa.

"The president is a friend of the Beach Boys and he likes them, and I'm sure when I get to meet them I'll like them," said Watt.

When Vice President Bush was running for the GOP presidential nomination, the group known for its "surfin' sound" gave a fund-raising performance for him. Their support was considered a coup. The Beach Boys also performed at a youth ball during Reagan's inauguration.

Rev. Peter J. Marshall

Rev. Marshall to lead 'enrichment series' here

The Rev. Peter J. Marshall Jr., Presbyterian minister from Cape Cod, Mass., will lead Christian enrichment services this weekend in two local churches.

Hosting Rev. Marshall are the First Presbyterian Church, 610 N. Lee, where services will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. and Sunday at 11 a.m., and the First United Methodist Church, 501 N. Main, where services are scheduled at 7:30 p.m. today and Saturday, and at 7 p.m. Sunday.

The Hereford Chamber Singers, under the direction of Bill Devers, will provide special music during the service Sunday evening.

Marshall led weekend services on Christian growth and maturity last year at the First Presbyterian Church and was well received by local residents. He travels widely conducting preaching and teaching missions, emphasizing what he feels is the urgent need of American Christians to press beyond shallowness and superficiality in their spiritual lives.

Born and raised in Washington, D.C., he is the son of the late Dr. Peter Marshall, chaplain of the United States Senate from 1947 to 1949, and the late Catherine Marshall LeSourd, author of many best-selling books.

He is a graduate of Yale University and Princeton Theological Seminary, and served as an assistant minister in West Hartford, Conn., for several years before becoming the pastor of East Dennis Community Church on Cape Cod, where he served from 1967 to 1977.

Marshall now resides on Cape Cod with his wife, Edith, and their three children, where they are members of the Community of Jesus.

He has co-authored a book entitled "The Light and the Glory" with David Manuel which deals with the founding of this nation and its subsequent settlement and war for independence from a Christian perspective.

Engineers order picketing at sites

HOUSTON (AP) — Talks between a construction contractor group and a union local representing heavy equipment operators have stalled and union members planned picketing for the first time in the three-day-old strike.

N.F. "Burt" Renaud, business manager for Local 450 of the International Union of Operating Engineers, said Thursday management representatives had turned down the union's offer of a 30-day "cooling-off" period.

He said the union proposed to use the time to discuss non-wage issues, including the right to strike and agreeing to reductions in coffee breaks and in pay for days when inclement weather stops work.

"The mediator had no choice but to declare the talks stalemated," Renaud said. He said picketing was to begin today.

Local 450 members walked off construction projects in Houston, Texas City and Freeport Wednesday after wage talks with contractors were called off.

Renaud refused to disclose how many workers were on strike.

Illegal alien arrests

lowest in Arizona

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Although there is an increase in the number of illegal aliens being arrested in Arizona, the figure is still well below the rate for the rest of the U.S.-Mexico border, according to authorities here.

The U.S. Border Patrol's Tucson sector, which covers all of the border in the state except for a small part near Yuma, reported a five percent increase in the number of arrests last March over March 1982.

Meanwhile, other Border Patrol sectors along the border reported increases averaging 45 percent for the month.

In March, 3,298 people were arrested for being in the country illegally — compared with 3,111 in March 1982. But the March 1983 figures represent an 18 percent increase from February, officials said.

The statistics change according to the health of both the Mexican and the U.S. economies, officials said. The influx of job-seekers from Mexico may increase as the U.S. economy recovers or many Mexicans may adopt a wait-and-see attitude before they make a move, said Jerry Chandler, assistant Border Patrol chief in the Tucson sector.

This, along with the fact that the Sonora-Arizona border does not have sprawling urban areas such as Juarez-El Paso or Tijuana-San Diego, may be some of the reasons that illegal immigration is lower here, officials said.

Arizona's rugged terrain also may make it more practical for undocumented workers to travel along the border until they get to California, authorities said.

More than 95 percent of those apprehended are simply returned to Mexico without a formal deportation hearing, Chandler said.

San Antonio chosen for minority pilot program

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A select group of Hispanic businessmen will participate in a pilot program in San Antonio aimed at teaching them more about banks and financing.

Chicago is the only other U.S. city selected to participate in the program, funded by the Small Business Administration and operated by the National Association of Bank Women, according to Sandra L. Cook.

Ms. Cook is educational services director for the association.

The pilot series here will be limited to 20 Hispanic women who have been in business at least three years, are majority owners in their businesses and wish to expand, Ms. Cook said.

The Chicago program will be limited to black businesswomen, she said.

"What we're trying to do is help the owner understand the questions she needs to be asking herself and her advisers, whether it's her banker, her accountant or her lawyer," Ms. Cook said.

Local bankers and accountants will hold workshops to discuss designing a business plan, accounting and cost control, financial management, sources of financing and negotiating a loan.

The program begins in May.

Soviets expel two

Britons in retaliation

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union today expelled a British military attache and a London newspaper correspondent from Moscow in what the Foreign Office said was unjustified retaliation for the expulsion of three Soviets from Britain.

Squadron Leader David Williams, assistant air attache at the British embassy in Moscow, and Financial Times correspondent Anthony Robinson were given one week to leave, the Foreign Office in London said.

Britain last week expelled two Soviet diplomats and a Soviet journalist for suspected espionage.

"This Soviet action is clearly in retaliation for the expulsion of three Soviet officials in London last week," the Foreign Office said in a statement. "We are considering seriously the new situation it has created."

The British ambassador in Moscow, Sir Iain Sutherland, was called to the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Affairs this morning and informed of the expulsions.

"The ambassador protested strongly at this totally unjustified action," said the Foreign Office.

Priorities

If your heart is burdened most by the starving babies of Biafra, I will respect that.

If you lose sleep worrying about brutality within our prisons, I will respect that and do what I can to help.

If you are most anguished by the world's ceaseless wars or by the prospect of one nuclear one, our preoccupying priority defends itself.

Will you then allow me mine?

My nightmares relate all of man's inhumanity to man — to our willing acceptance of cruelty to the other animals.

Somebody recently sent to my attention a "humane mousetrap." The label promised that the "mouse dies in his sleep without pain or suffering."

Before recommending it, I researched it.

I learn that the mouse smells peanut butter inside, enters the plastic box and is trapped inside.

A spokesperson for the product said that 2½ years of testing had proved the mouse panics and dies of fright.

Or — because the area is so tiny the mouse from hyperactivity works up a sweat and dies of heat prostration.

This the label describes as "without pain or suffering." So much for truth in advertising.

I am going to try to be as dispassionate as possible about this.

I do not mean to suggest that it is but one step from suffocating animals to putting people in ovens.

It's not.

It is several steps. The first step begins with tolerating any pain which we cannot ourselves feel.

Anguish is anguish. It knows no gender, no race, no species.

Pain is pain. If it is your own child who is suffering, you relate especially to his or her hurt. Any hurts to others — yourself included — are comparatively insignificant.

It is not that your child is suffering any more... Perhaps your child is suffering less...

Than a mouse suffocating in his cramped dark coffin. Your child is tortured, that is "hideous — a high crime!"

A mouse dies in agony — that is "pest control."

And there are options. So somebody allowed it to happen. Confronted with the options of allowing the mouse to die in peace or in pain, somebody had to say, "What's the difference?"

There are equally effective options. And civilization should have reached the point at which we should care which is which.

When it comes to suffering, the only thing which separates the smartest of us from the dumbest of them is our vocal cords.

If we allow them to hurt only because they cannot speak may God have mercy on them — and us.

Has even jumped out of cars

HOUSTON (AP) — Jim Alexander has flunked tens of thousands of driver's license applicants but one failure stands out — a prospective bus driver who flattened a parked pickup truck.

"He just looked at that pickup," Alexander said. "He didn't have much to say."

Another failure could have been even more spectacular.

That driver came within a split second of causing a pileup on Interstate 45.

"I finally got her stopped on the shoulder and she was already crying," Alexander said. "I preferred to walk back to the office, and I was proud to have the chance. She just wanted to sit in the car and cry until someone from her family came and drove her home."

"The main thing in this job is to be as patient as a good parent," he told The Houston Chronicle. "Even your tone of voice is important. There's 'Watch out' and there's 'WATCH OUT!' If you get too excited, you make a dangerous situation worse."

Alexander, a 50-year-old trooper with the Texas Department of Public Safety, has been testing drivers since 1967. He said he has come to recognize signs that things might not work out for some applicants.

"You'll ask them to hit the left turn signal and they'll hit the windshield wipers," he said.

"That's when I know I need to start worrying about my safety. I've jumped out of a few cars over the years when the drivers forgot about their clutches."

About a fifth of the drivers tested by Alexander fail, but he said he is not troubled by having to break the news to them.

"I've done them a service. I've let them know they aren't prepared yet to drive," he said.

"Over the years I've learned to communicate a little in Spanish, but I don't know any Vietnamese," the trooper said. "You'll be in a car with a Vietnamese who doesn't speak English and then tell him to turn right to miss a big truck. You never really know for sure if he understood what you told him to do."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Fellow Texans:

If you're like most Texans, your biggest investment is your home, and since you bought it its value has probably increased substantially.

But did you know that Texas laws say you can't use that increased value, or equity, for anything but home improvement? That's right—you can borrow money against your home to build a hot tub or swimming pool, but not to pay for your child's college education.

You can borrow money using your equity to put a wet bar in your den, but not to start or invest in a business. And if you had a real emergency, such as large medical bills or funeral expenses, you'd have to sell your home to be able to use its value! That's right—you'd have to sell your home!

What if you're retired? If your pension and Social Security aren't enough, the only way to use your home's equity to live better is to sell your home!

Is this fair? Do you believe the state government should deny you the right to choose to use your home's value, your asset, as you want?

If you agree that we Texans should have the right to choose to use our homes' equities for worthwhile purposes, I hope you'll join "Texans" for Home Value Access."

We're a non-profit organization working to pass an amendment to the Texas Constitution to get this right to choose. However, it must first be approved by the Texas Legislature, then voted on by all Texans.

You may not want to draw on your home's equity today. But you and your family may someday need to make use of your home's equity.

Together, we can guarantee Texans the right to choose. If you are interested in joining the T.H.V.A., or if you would like more information, please write to me in care of the address below.

Sincerely,
R.L. Knox

KKK asks to march at Alamo

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The Ku Klux Klan has asked San Antonio officials for a permit to march outside the Alamo on May 1 to defend the Texas shrine from "Communists."

Imperial Wizard James Stanfield and another Klan member formally requested the permit in a meeting with city officials Thursday morning.

"We don't know if they're going to be allowed to march," said Deputy Police Chief Marion Talbert. "There have been too many problems in other cities."

Twelve people were injured and six were arrested during a Klan rally in Austin on Feb. 19. Six people were arrested none injured when the group marched Saturday in Houston.

Talbert said he and Police Chief Robert Heuck laid out "ground rules" with the white supremacist group.

"They originally wanted to just stand around in front of the Alamo, but we determined that an art group has booked the area the entire day of May 1," he said. "Now they want to march two blocks near Alamo Plaza."

The deputy chief said he could not estimate how long the city would take to respond to the request to march at the Alamo, which is located in downtown San Antonio.

Mayor Henry Cisneros said the city has an obligation to allow the Klan to use public streets "if they meet the requirements for a parade permit."

He cautioned San Antonians "not to react in such a way that they the Klan accomplish their objectives — which are to generate hate, to incite people to reaction, to get publicity and to generally divide communities." A committee calling itself the Texas Committee to Defend the Alamo has obtained a permit for a candlelight vigil on Alamo Plaza the night of April 30.

"Nobody seems to know anything about the group," Talbert said. "It's possible it could be a Klan group."

Stanfield told the San Antonio Express-News the committee is a right-wing organization that invited the Klan to participate in the vigil.

ing a flight of the shuttle Columbia in November, forcing cancellation of a space walk.

The suits functioned so well this time that Mission Control gave Musgrave and Peterson permission to stay outside 45 minutes beyond the intended 3½ hours. They needed only an extra 17 minutes and re-entered Challenger's airlock after a walk of 3 hours 47 minutes.

Musgrave and Peterson had a ball, romping effortlessly in the airless 60-foot-long cargo bay as they practiced with tools, pretended to free a stuck satellite, maneuvered a winch with a 100-pound load and carried a 50-pound object the length of the bay and back.

Bundled in the bulky white suits, they soared twice around the globe during the space walk, enjoying two sunsets and two sunrises. Below and surrounding them was a breathtaking vista of sky, sun, stars and the Earth.

They were energetic, at times almost acrobatic as they tumbled, floated, bounced and swung through their routine in the vast weightless world. When they first ventured out through the airlock hatch, Musgrave nearly swung himself over the side of the ship, doing a handstand on the rim.

The techniques they practiced will come into play next April when another Challenger crew rendezvous with a sun-study satellite which has been ailing in space for three years. The task of the 13th shuttle flight is to bring the satellite into the cargo bay, fix it, and put it back in orbit.

Hearing

characteristics which are found by ongoing studies when, instead, the studies should be directed by knowledge of specific criteria."

White said another cause for concern "is that other geologic criteria (again not quantitative) are not able to be applied for reasons seemingly resulting from insufficient time to gather the necessary data for screening."

Finally, the governor charged that the DOE is "planning to proceed with scoping hearings for nominating environmental assessments and site characterization plans without benefit of the final siting guidelines ... on behalf of the people of Texas, I protest and oppose the activities of the Department of Energy to locate a potential repository for high-level nuclear waste in this or any other state without regard to the public's health and welfare. We will take whatever steps are necessary to obtain compliance with the letter and spirit of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982."

Under a 1982 law, the department must by Jan. 1, 1985 recommend to the president three possible repository sites for further detailed study. However, department officials have said they want to complete the recommendations by next fall.

From among the three recommended sites, the president is required by March 1987 to choose one as the location of the repository.

The DOE has already held hearings on the issue in Washington and Utah. Arzt said hearings are expected to be held in Mississippi on April 28 and 29; Utah, May 3 and May 4, and Louisiana, May 10.

White's letter appeared to represent a marked hardening in the Texas government's attitude toward the repository.

Last month, Steven A. Frishman, manager of the state's high level nuclear waste office, indicated that Texas was prepared to cooperate with the DOE on hearings in April, though Frishman said he was aware that the site selection process was being accelerated.

However, Frishman said at the time that public opposition to the repository was mounting in the Panhandle.

Film shows changed lives of criminals

"God's Prison Gang," a newly released film featuring Al Capone's getaway driver, the last member of Bonnie and Clyde's gang and two other notorious criminals who have become Christians will be shown at Palo Duro Baptist Church, six miles south of Wildorado or 14 miles, north of Dawn, on Sunday.

The film, shot behind the walls of New York's Attica prison, is hosted by Art Linkletter. It tells the story of how the work of International Prison Ministry is accomplishing what more guards, higher prison walls and greater financial expenditures have failed to do — keep released inmates from returning to lives of crime.

Telling their stories in the 44-minute film are George Meyer, Al Capone's favorite driver; Floyd Hamilton, (Public Enemy No. 1) the last of the Bonnie and Clyde Gang; Jerry Graham, the "robber king" of California; and Ted Jefferson, convicted of crimes from drugs and robbery to murder.

Also featured is "Chaplain Ray," whose Dallas-based International Prison Ministry has changed the lives of thousands of inmates over the past 18 years.

The Rev. Cliff Hargrove, pastor of Palo Duro Baptist Church said he hopes all area residents concerned about the problem of rising crime will attend the free screening of the film.

At the party, senior girls will be told how they can register for rush at their prospective college and through the local Panhellenic Association.

College girls who are presently in sororities have been invited to attend and will answer questions and speak on sisterhood, scholarship, finances, and extracurricular activities of sororities.

It is essential that those girls who are interested in going through rush next fall register through Hereford Panhellenic so that recommendations may be sent to all the sororities represented at the college of their choice.

The earlier information can be received and recommendations sent, the better chance the girls will have in pledging the sorority of their choice.

Registration through Hereford Panhellenic and through the college does not obligate a girl but it can be invaluable in the event that she decides to go through rush.

The Hereford Panhellenic

Association was organized in 1977 to help educate Hereford's college-bound girls about sororities and to help them join the sorority of their choice through the recommendation of local women.

Approximately 50 local women belong to the Hereford Panhellenic Association, representing 14 national Greek letter sororities from 11 colleges and universities in four states.

Three meetings are held annually, including a business meeting in January, a rush registration party for senior girls in the spring, and a rush information party for the new graduates in June.

Any woman holding membership in a Greek letter sorority is invited to join. The 1983 officers include Susan Shaw, president; Rhonda Nieman, vice-president; Delores Foster, secretary; Judy McCarter, treasurer; Marsha Winget, rush and recommendation; and Janice Carr, publicity chairman.

Local distributor attends convention

Debbie Tardy of Hereford, distributor of Success Motivation Institute, recently attended the international convention of that organization in Fort Worth.

Theme of the meeting was "Get Carried Away," which emphasized the company's approach to marketing its motivational programs of achievement and goal setting for 1983.

A highlight of the meeting was the presentation of the Valley Forge Freedom Foundation Award to Paul J. Meyer, founder and chairman of the board of Success Motivation Institute. The award is presented to one who has made outstanding contributions in the areas of patriotism, free enterprise, and individual initiative.

The meeting was attended by more than 1,000 distributors, associates and guests from across the nation and more than 15 foreign countries.

Mrs. Tardy represents Success Motivation Institute locally and is presently in the process of expansion.

Girls State delegates selected by auxiliary

American Legion Auxiliary Unit NO. 192 met Tuesday evening in the Legion Hall. Alice Gilliland, president, opened the meeting with the opening ritual and then introduced Dee Wiseman, who presented the Girls State candidates who had been recommended by the high school committee.

The girls each gave a talk on the activities and qualifications during their school years. All girls must be juniors in high school and must meet qualifications set by the American Legion Auxiliary Department.

Delegates selected by the group were Jennifer Jesko, Crystal Finley, and Melissa Brumley, alternate.

The auxiliary will distribute memorial poppies May 25 and a bingo party will be held in the King's Manor Lamar Room at 7 p.m. April 14. A recreation party will be hosted by the unit Monday evening in the V.A. Medical Center.

The unit will have several regularly scheduled volunteers honored at a banquet April 19 hosted by the V.A. Medical Center staff.

Delegates were elected to attend a district meeting April 30 in Memphis, Texas. They include Alice Gilliland, Beverly Jesko, Troyce Hanna, Pet Ott, Clara Trowbridge, and Edwina Thomas. Alternates are Dee Wiseman, June Koelzer, Kay Hallows, Carol Odom, Ruth King, and Mary Williamson.

After the meeting, refreshments were served to 25 members and members of the Legion in attendance.

Members turn in Girl of the Year letters

Girl of the Year letters were turned in when members of Xi Epsilon Alpha met Tuesday night at the Reddy Room.

Lynda Brown presided as members were reminded of the social at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the home of Brenda Thomas. The chapter voted to help with the arthritis door-to-door campaign to be held in May and members began planning a tupperware party for the ways and means project. The date of the party is tentatively set for May 3. Hostesses for the evening were Ronna Howell and Rose Marie Robinson. Other members present were Nan Gauthreaux, Jody Blackwell, Jimmie Middleton, Debbie Walker, Illajeon Brinkman, Oleta Tisdale, and Margie Waddell.

Phyllis Neill and Opal Glenn will serve as hostesses for the next meeting on April 19. Ms. Thomas will be in charge of the program.

Club members to tour Canyon museum April 19

La Afflatus Estudio Club met in the home of Pet Ott Tuesday afternoon. Eleven members and two guests, Marie Carroll and Gene Holden, were welcomed by Ms. Ott.

The club will tour the Canyon museum on April 19 and will close the club year with a luncheon on May 3.

Eva Gilliland, program chairman, introduced Doris Morgan, who is employed with the Home Health Agency of Texas located at 508 S. 25 Mile Avenue in Hereford.

Ms. Morgan gave an interesting and informative program on the activities and assistance given to people who need health care in the home. She believes that this care makes hospital trips less frequent and allows for shorter hospital stays. To be eligible for these services, a patient must meet the requirements and be approved for home care.

Healthy diet doesn't have to be dull

A healthful diet doesn't have to be dull. In fact, variety is the key to obtain needed nutrition.

A person needs about 40 different nutrients to stay healthy, notes the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. Nutrients include vitamins, minerals, amino acids (from proteins), essential fatty acids (from vegetable oils and animal fats), and energy sources (calories from carbohydrates, proteins and fats).

Most foods contain more than one nutrient. Milk, for example, provides proteins, fats, sugars, riboflavin (vitamin B-2) and other B vitamins, vitamin A, calcium and phosphorus—among other nutrients. However, milk contains very little iron or vitamin C.

An easy way to get the variety of foods needed is to think in terms of food groups, nutritionists say. Here are the groups to remember to include in the diet each day:

Fruits and vegetables—Good sources of vitamins A and C, fiber and some minerals. Low in calories.

Breads and cereals—Important sources of the B vitamins as well as iron and fiber. Also provide some protein. They're high in nutritional value in relation to calories.

Milks and cheeses—Basic sources of bone-building calcium. Also provides vitamin A and is a good protein source. Low-fat dairy products contain less cholesterol and fewer calories.

Meat, poultry, fish and beans—High-quality sources of protein, iron and other minerals and vitamins. Lean cuts of meat contain less fat and cholesterol.

It's also good to remember to maintain a good weight. Overweight people have a greater chance of developing health problems such as high blood pressure, increased levels of blood fats and cholesterol, and diabetes.

As for losing weight, crash diets should be avoided. And even while dieting, eat a variety of foods but cut down on fats and fatty foods, sugar and sweets, and alcohol (a high-calorie source), and reduce portions. Any diet that calls for less than 800 calories a day should not be undertaken without consulting a physician. Exercise also helps.

Vitamin and mineral supplements are generally not needed by healthy people, many experts agree. However, not all women of childbearing age can get enough nutrients from the foods they eat. Likewise, the elderly and habitual dieters may not get enough of the recommended amounts of vitamins and minerals.

For more information about your diet, contact your nearest FDA consumer affairs officer at 1200 Main Tower, Room 1545, Dallas, Texas 75202.

Rain postpones 2nd round of Masters tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Heavy rain and a forecast of day-long showers forced postponement of today's second round of the 47th Masters Golf Tournament.

Hord W. Hardin, tournament chairman, announced the postponement this morning and said he would take another look at the course at 5 p.m. to make decisions for the rest of the week.

The unofficial plan was to get in the second round only on Saturday and then play 36 holes Sunday.

The forecast called for a 90 percent chance of showers the rest of the day and a 60 percent chance Saturday morning, tapering off in the afternoon.

"So many greens are under water and the forecast is so bad for the rest of the day that we simply can't play," said Hardin.

A huge gallery that normally swells to 30,000 was ready to watch the resurgence of an old hero for the second consecutive day.

Arnold Palmer, the 53-year-old champion of this event four times, put together an impressive 4-under-par 68 in Thursday's opening round and was only one shot behind a trio tied at the top — former champion Raymond Floyd, Gil Morgan and Jack Renner.

Dan Yates, one of the Masters media committee members, said it was hoped the second round could begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, or possibly at 11 a.m. with threesome going off on the first and 10th tees.

Palmer, the 53-year-old living legend who built his popularity by winning this event four times, brought Arnie's Army back to life Thursday.

Their noise and enthusiasm virtually drowned out the 5-under-par exploits of the leaders — former champion Raymond Floyd, Gil Morgan and Jack Renner, who tied at 67.

THE HEREFORD BRAND SPORTS

The Hereford Brand—Friday, April 8, 1983—Page 5

Palmer was one shot back at 68, his best round on the 6,905-yard Augusta National Golf Club course since posting a similar score in 1965.

"Damn right," Palmer said when he was asked if he could win a record-tying fifth Masters title.

"I want to win, or not play at all," he said, alluding to the status of his overall game. "Either get on, or get off."

He got it on Thursday

because of a new driver and some advice from Tom Watson.

He said the driver was helping his distance an average of 25 yards and that Watson helped him correct a flaw in his hip movement during a practice round Tuesday.

"I'm not eliminating the possibility I'll have a poor round tomorrow, but I feel more confident about going out and playing," Palmer said.

The round was interrupted by a 40-minute rain delay, but the swirling winds that normally test the Masters field never developed.

Because of those conditions, half of the 82-man international field came in at par or better, 28 of those with sub-par rounds.

Five-time Masters champion Jack Nicklaus wasn't in the top half of the field.

Neither was Gary Player, nor Sam Snead, the 70-year-old star of another era who had announced this would be his final fling at Augusta.

Nicklaus never got anything going and struggled in with a 73, a figure matched by Player, the South African who has three Masters titles.

Four other players were grouped with Palmer at 68 — amateur James Hallett, 1980 champion Seve Ballesteros of Spain, J.C. Snead and Charles Coody, who won this event in 1971. Defending champion Craig Stadler and Bruce Lietzke were deadlocked at 69.

Legends die hard

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Legends die hard.

Arnold Palmer, 53, squinting through gold-rimmed spectacles, thinning silver hair framing that boyish nut-brown face, has reached down and pulled new miracles from a reservoir of what had been only stirring memories.

And Arnie's Army is running amok again.

"For me, the loyalty and encouragement of the fans are bigger and better than ever," the old charger from Latrobe, Pa., said after shooting a 4-under-par 68 Thursday in the opening round of the Masters golf tournament.

"I get more letters, I sign more autographs, I have more commercial commitments than I ever had back in the 60s.

"I feel great."

It was immaterial that Ray Floyd, Dr. Gil Morgan and young Jack Renner shared the tournament lead with 5-under-par 67s.

It was Arnie's day, and apparently it is not his last.

Asked pointedly if he felt capable of winning a fifth Masters title, he responded huskily:

"Damn right."

Then Palmer began explaining how his once robust power game had begun to deteriorate after he reached into his 40s, how he himself had become discouraged and bored and several times contemplated retirement.

The last of his 61 tour victories came in the Bob Hope Classic in 1973.

"After a few disappointing tournaments, I thought I might just hang it up," he said, "and get my exercise by running."

Then suddenly something happened that brought an astounding renaissance.

Just before the Los Angeles Open in January, a friend introduced him to a new driver with a head soaked in oil and the Arnie of old emerged.

"I was getting 25 yards and more, sometimes up to 50, on my drives," he said. "I led at LA with nine holes to play before getting tired."

He dropped into a tie for 10th. But at San Diego in mid-February he had 19 birdies and an eagle.

"I was encouraged and inspired," he said. "I was sure I could be competitive again."

Arnie said he felt fresh and strong when he checked in for his 29th Masters. He also said his determination to succeed has been fed in part by the intense enthusiasm of his multitude of fans, who stuck by him when he was down.

Winter won't let go

Whiteface activities postponed

Old Man Winter simply won't let go, and as a result most activities involving Hereford athletics have been postponed this weekend.

The final round of the District 3-5A girls' golf tourney was to have been played today at the John Pitman course, but, snow and wet weather have delayed that.

The 3-5A girls' track meet, scheduled for today in Plainview, also has been postponed.

ed. Officials will try to run the meet off Saturday, if possible.

The baseball team, which has been plagued by bad weather throughout, was scheduled to host Amarillo High today and then travel to Plainview tomorrow. The AHS-Hereford game has been postponed, and will be played at the earliest possible date.

Normally, the teams would have tried to make up the game Monday, but AHS already has scheduled a makeup game against Caprock for that day.

And, it's likely, with present weather conditions, the Hereford at Plainview game, scheduled for tomorrow, will be postponed as well.

The District 3-5A girls' and boys' tennis tournament, slated for Lubbock, has simply changed format. The girls will move indoors, while the boys will play at a later date.

Triumph clinches Western title

Worthy leads Lakers past Phoenix Suns, 117-108

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Although guard Norm Nixon was sidelined with a sore knee, the Los Angeles Lakers had a worthy source for some extra scoring help.

Rookie James Worthy has been brought along slowly by the Lakers this season, but he broke loose by hitting 11 of 13 shots from the field and scoring 25 points Thursday night as Los Angeles defeated the Phoenix Suns 117-108.

The triumph clinched the National Basketball Association's Western Division title for the Lakers, 55-20. They lead the second-place Suns by 8 1/2 games with seven to play.

Worthy, an All-American forward at North Carolina last year, said he was "just trying to take up the scoring slack" with Nixon out of uniform. Lakers center-forward Bob McAdoo also is sidelined with an injury.

Worthy had 23 points in the second half, 15 of them in the fourth quarter to help the Lakers break away from an 85-85 tie after three periods.

"We had a couple of bad runs where we could have cracked," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley, referring to a Phoenix comeback in the third quarter. "I thought James Worthy came back for us. He was a sleeper for us."

In other NBA games Thursday, Milwaukee whipped Cleveland 100-87, Seattle defeated San Diego 102-96 and Golden State beat Portland 118-107.

Phoenix's six-game winning streak and its 11-game home unbeaten string despite 29 points from Walter Davis, 22 from Larry Nance and 21 by Alvan Adams for the Suns.

The Lakers had lost their last two games and Michael Cooper said "we came in here to win. We needed to gain back the momentum heading into the playoffs."

Adams scored 12 points in the third quarter to rally Phoenix from a 60-55 halftime deficit.

Worthy scored nine points in the first 2:31 of the final quarter to rebuild a five-point lead for the Lakers, but Davis countered with six points in two minutes to give the Suns a 97-96 edge, their first lead since the first quarter.

A dunk by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who led the Lakers with 29 points, gave them the lead for good at 105-103 with 3:41 left. Worthy and Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who finished with 23 points and 13 assists, sealed the victory with four points each down the stretch.

"LA had a tremendous first half and fourth quarter," said Phoenix Coach John MacLeod. "They played excellent defense and forced us out of things we wanted to do and, consequently, we weren't as sharp as we wanted."

The Lakers shot 61 percent from the field and outrebounded the Suns 44-26. Abdul-Jabbar, Johnson and Worthy had eight rebounds apiece.

"They beat us on the boards because we were concentrating on stopping their fast break and they got the position underneath," said Suns forward Maurice Lucas. Bucks 100, Cavaliers 87

Sidney Moncrief scored 12 of his game-high 21 points in the first 6 1/2 minutes of the third quarter to help Milwaukee break open a close game with Cleveland.

The score was tied 50-50 at halftime, but Moncrief's spurt enabled the Bucks to go ahead 67-58.

Milwaukee led 79-68 after three quarters, but then went scoreless for the first 4:20 of the fourth period. But Cleveland managed only four points in the same span and never got closer than seven points.

Sonics 102, Clippers 96
Gus Williams hit eight of nine shots, including six in a row during his 15-point third quarter, to lead Seattle to its sixth straight victory and its 11th in a row over San Diego.

The Clippers, playing without star rookie Terry Cummings, who was undergoing a heart examination, led 44-43 at halftime. But the Sonics outscored San Diego 36-22 in the third period for a 79-66 lead and increased their margin to as many as 23 points in the fourth quarter.

Michael Brooks, who led the Clippers with 23 points, helped San Diego score 15 straight points late in the game to make it close at the end.

Williams finished with 23 points for the Sonics, one less than teammate David Thompson.

Warriors 118, Blazers 107
Rookie guard Eric Floyd scored a career-high 27 points and reserve forward Lewis Lloyd added 24 as Golden State defeated Portland.

The game was tied 60-60 in the third quarter, but a 37-15 run by the Warriors turned the game into a runaway.

Jim Paxson led the Blazers with 21 points.

Olson top attraction

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — When you consider what makes Billy Olson afraid, it's a wonder he ever summoned up the courage to pole vault.

Olson, the first American to clear 19 feet, has acrophobia, or a fear of heights.

Take him up to a two-story building and his knees turn to jello.

Get him on a ferris wheel and his stomach gets tied into knots like a fishing line.

"I'm OK when I'm vaulting but if I get into a tall building and look out my knees get weak," says Olson, America's prime pole vaulting hope in the 1984 Olympics.

All the experts figure Olson to be the top performer in the 56th Texas Relays as long as he can propel himself from the ground.

However, Brad Pursley, a former Abilene Christian University teammate, has served recent notice that is capable of upsetting Olson.

Olson vaulted 19-feet and one-fourth inch at Toronto in February for a world indoor best.

Pursley of ACU set the American outdoor record of 18-10 1-2 two weeks ago at Abilene.

Pursley's effort broke the mark of 18-9 1-2 set by Dave Volz of Indiana on June 26, 1982. Pursley then failed trying to make 19 feet.

Other top pole vaulters entered for Saturday's competition include Larry Jessee (18-8 3-4), Earl Bell (18-6 1-2), Jeff Buckingham (18-7 1-2), Joe Dial (18-4 3-4), Don Baird (18-4) and Tim Kuusisto (18-2 1-1).

"I think I can jump at least six inches higher than I have in the past," said Olson. "However, for someone to go 20 feet there is going to have to be an advancement in the equipment. And the person who does jump 20 feet is going to have to be a brave man."

Olson set a Relays and Memorial Stadium record of 18-3 last year, vaulting in a tricky wind.

Some 1,650 athletes representing 175 schools were expected to compete in the Texas Relays.

Preliminaries in collegiate and junior college nning events, qualifying in college field events, and finals in the collegiate 3,200 meter relay and distant medley relay were set for this morning.

There was a full schedule of events tonight. On Saturday, the pole vault competition begins at 10 a.m. with Olson expected to begin jumping around noon.

Also competing will be world class Southern Methodist triple jumper Keith Connor and Texas-El Paso high jumper Milt Ottey.

Connor's winning jump of 57-7 3-4 at last June's NCAA championship set the national collegiate standard and ranks second on the all-time world list.

Caulkins wins 43rd national swim title

Kostoff, defended his national short course victory in the 1,000-yard freestyle with an American record time of 8 minutes, 48.57 seconds.

Carey, broke his own American record with a time of 1:44.43 in the 200-backstroke. His former record of 1:45.21.

Colt QB involved in gambling charge

Schlichter's NFL status very much in doubt

BOSTON (AP) — Baltimore Colts quarterback Art Schlichter's status as a National Football League player was in doubt after a published report said he had gambled heavily on sports events and lost more than $350,000.

The Boston Globe reported in today's editions that when the former Ohio State star failed to cover all his losses and was threatened by the alleged bookmakers, he helped the FBI investigate four men who were charged Thursday with illegal gambling. The newspaper said its information came from sources close to the FBI probe.

An NFL official, while declining to confirm that Schlichter was the player involved, said the league was aware of the investigation and was cooperating with federal authorities.

"We have no further comment at this time, due to the pending status of the case," said Joe Browne, a public relations spokesman for the league.

Clauses in player contracts and league regulations specify that punitive action can be taken against players for gambling. Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers and Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions were suspended indefinitely before the 1983 season for betting on league games. Both sat out the entire season.

The same year, five other Detroit players were fined $2,000 each for betting $50 each on Green Bay to beat the New York Giants in the 1962 title game.

The Globe said Schlichter started placing bets with the four bookmakers in late 1982, but the paper said it could not learn whether the bets involved his team.

The Baltimore Evening Sun in a story Thursday did not identify Schlichter, but said an NFL player had lost $389,000 in bets on basketball games.

Efforts to locate Schlichter Thursday night failed. His father, Max, said at the family farm at Bloomingburg, Ohio, that his son was in Columbus, but he did not know how to contact him.

The Globe reported that when the 1982 season was over, Schlichter returned to the Columbus area, where he lived and had starred at Ohio State for four seasons, and continued to place bets by telephone to Baltimore. When the player could not cover his losses, the bookmakers threatened him, the paper said.

The Evening Sun said the player was told that his team would be informed of his gambling activities.

The Baltimore paper said the player had told FBI agents that the men were charging him at least $10,000 a week in interest on his losses.

Schlichter contacted law enforcement officials in Columbus and the FBI entered the case, suggesting that Schlichter offer to pay his debts as part of a scheme to trap his creditors at the Columbus airport on April 1, the paper said.

It is not known whether Schlichter was wired with a microphone or equipped with marked bills, as is customary procedure in such investigations.

But the Globe reported that the FBI was watching the airport rendezvous and arrested Harold E. Brooks Jr., Joseph Serio and Charles T. Swift at the scene after Schlichter allegedly passed the money to them.

The three, indicted along with a fourth man Thursday by a federal grand jury in Columbus, were to appear today in U.S. District Court in the Ohio city. The fourth man, identified as Samuel R. Alascia of Catonsville, Md., was picked up Thursday in Baltimore and was scheduled to appear in court on April 20.

Max Schlichter, asked if his son gambled, said, "Not that I know of. He went to the horse races like a lot of other people do."

He said he knew nothing about the reports and that, "I'd have thought the Colts would have called if they thought something was wrong."

Yankees batter Seattle, 8-1

Augustine relieved following win over Angels

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

Milwaukee's Jerry Augustine, a relief pitcher, found himself in an unaccustomed role against the California Angels — as a starter. When the game ended, nobody was more relieved than Augustine.

"You can't say enough about Augustine tonight," said Yount. "He hasn't gotten much of a chance in the past, and he pitched a great game."

Yankees 8, Mariners 1

Dave Winfield's third homer of the season, Steve Kemp's second and Butch Wynegar's first helped the Yankees win their first game of 1983.

"This feels good," Manager Billy Martin said. "The first one seems to be the hardest. Now, hopefully, we'll be on a roll. After you win a ballgame, you'll be a little more relaxed."

Dave Righetti pitched three-hit ball for 52-3 shutout innings and left with a 5-0 lead and George Frazier mopped up, allowing Seattle's only run in the ninth on a double by Julio Cruz.

Indians 9, A's 1

Andre Thornton had two singles, a double and a homer and drove in four runs — he has eight RBI already — as the Indians mauled Oakland. Len Barker scattered six hits in seven innings while Cleveland chased Tom Underwood after 11-3 innings.

Thornton had an RBI single in the first inning and another one in a five-run second and ripped his two-run homer in the fifth.

Twins 5, Tigers 4

Larry Herndon didn't have the best of days in left field for Detroit.

In the first inning he watched John Castino's shot sail over the wall for a homer. And in the third when Ron Washington hit a fly ball he could get his glove on, Herndon dropped it for a three-base error and the two runs that gave the Twins their victory.

Kent Hrbek and Gary Gaetti walked and Hrbek went to third on Randy Bush's forceout. Hrbek scored on a wild pitch and after Jerry Ujdr issued his third walk of the inning, Herndon dropped Washington's drive for the pivotal error.

"It was about time we got a break," said Minnesota Manager Billy Gardner. They got all the breaks the first two days."

Red Sox 7, Blue Jays 3

Carl Yastrzemski got back into the swing of things for Boston, along with Dave Stapleton and Dwight Evans.

Yaz, starting what will be his final season in the majors, hit a two-run single in the first inning and Stapleton followed with a three-run homer that started the Red Sox on their way to a split of their season-opening series with Toronto.

Evans contributed a two-run homer in the fourth inning as Boston built a 7-3 lead, but John Tudor, struggling from the opening inning, couldn't last the minimum five innings for the victory. Bob Stanley took over and was the winner. Tudor gave up homers by Cliff Johnson and Jesse Barfield.

"I was tired late. I hadn't gone this far in a long time," said the Brewers' left-hander after pitching eight shutout innings and surviving a shaky ninth before walking off the mound Thursday night with a complete-game 5-3 victory.

In other American League games, the New York Yankees battered Seattle 8-1. Cleveland routed Oakland 9-1. Minnesota nosed out Detroit 5-4 and Boston beat Toronto 7-4. Kansas City's game at Baltimore was rained out.

Augustine, who started only two of his 20 games in 1982 and against the Angels was starting for only the eighth time since being made a reliever in 1979, wound up back in the Brewers' rotation when Pete Vuckovich, last year's AL Cy Young Award winner, was discovered in spring training to be the victim of a torn rotator cuff.

Swan hurls Mets past Phils, 6-2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Craig Swan threw the Philadelphia Phillies a curve — in more ways than one.

Swan, a fastball-slider pitcher until he developed shoulder problems several years ago, said he developed a curveball during the off-season "just to show it, and here we are getting batters out with it."

Although he issued six walks, the New York Mets' veteran right-hander held the Phillies to three hits in 62-3 innings Thursday before giving way to Neil Allen, who preserved a 6-2 victory.

"I was throwing a curveball and I finally got some confidence in it," said Swan. "My fastball was so erratic I got into some trouble situations and the curve came through for me for the first time in my life."

In the day's only other National League games, the Montreal Expos downed the Chicago Cubs 7-3 and the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the Houston Astros 3-2.

Expos 7, Cubs 3

Tim Raines and Andre Dawson drove in two runs apiece — all unearned — in Montreal's four-run fourth inning, while Bill Guletskion scattered eight hits and struck out eight.

Although the season has just begun, the Expos are all fired up over their pennant chances.

"In the past, I've picked the teams we had to beat," said Dawson, "but this time I think the rest of the division has to chase us. We feel we have a decent starting rotation and they can get the job done. There is no question about our capabilities on offense. Give us an opening and we'll take advantage."

Pirates 3, Astros 2

Pittsburgh's Dale Berra led off the ninth with a game-tying home run. Lee Mazzilli drove in the winning run with a single.

Rod Scurry, the third Pittsburgh pitcher, earned the victory with 12-3 innings of scoreless relief. He struck out Tony Scott, Omar Moreno and Dickie Thon after Alan Ashby opened the Houston ninth with a double.

Ann Landers

Controversy over religion

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been married for two years. He is Jewish. I am Catholic.

Before we married we agreed that we would teach our children about both religions, not committing them to either. When they became old enough, they would be permitted to choose.

Now that we are starting a family I realize it would hurt me deeply if my children did not grow up as Catholics. My husband, who always said religion didn't matter, now tells me he has the same feelings. We need to know how to deal with the situation. Whenever I broach the subject, he starts talking about divorce. I see trouble ahead. Can you help? — New York is Our Battleground

DEAR N.Y.: You don't say if you were married in a Catholic ceremony. If so, your husband agreed to raise the children in that faith. If he is today at

Chamber office

Today is the deadline for entering the Little Miss Hereford Pageant. Forms may be turned in at the Chamber of Commerce office.

According to co-chairmen of the pageant committee, Mary Herring and Marsha Winget, the event will be held April 23 with the theme, "Under the Big Top."

There are four divisions: Cutest Miss, 4 years to kindergarten; Miss Petite, first through third grades; Little Princess, fourth through sixth grades; and Miss Junior High, seventh through ninth grades.

Local woman returns from California

Gladys Smith, a local resident, recently returned from California, where she attended her great-granddaughter's wedding and spent eight weeks visiting relatives.

Her great-granddaughter, Janet Caudill, was married in Brawley, Calif., and four generations of the family were present for the wedding, including her grandparents (Mrs. Smith's son) Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith of Descanso, Calif., former residents of Hereford.

Janet is also the great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C.O. Wilkins, who lived in Hereford for many years.

Paper drive

this weekend

St. Anthony's Parent Teacher Organization will hold its monthly paper drive this weekend.

Bundled newspapers and other non-glossy papers may be brought to a truck parked at the St. Anthony's School parking lot anytime Saturday or Sunday.

The trouble with super sales is that scarcely anyone can find a use for a super.

has changed his mind, he is violating a sacred oath.

I suggest you talk to both a rabbi and a priest and see what can be done to resolve the impasse. Yours is the classic example of what can happen when this question is not settled before the wedding. Bringing children up in both faiths and allowing them to choose is a bummer. Somebody always ends up mad.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This topic isn't very important to some people and I am only 14 years old. So you probably won't print my letter, but I have to tell somebody.

Today I read in the paper that a dog, part German shepherd and part Doberman, attacked and killed a seven-month-old baby girl. The radio reporter said the dog had bitten some people before but never seriously. Max, the dog, was destroyed, even though two people had phoned in and said they would take him. They were told, "We don't release dangerous dogs to civilian homes."

Personally, I think what happened to Max wasn't his fault and that he should have been allowed to live. He could have been a fine guard dog. There is no justice in killing a dog because he acted on instinct.

The child was visiting her grandparents' home and it was their dog who killed her. Max was probably upset because she was in his territory and getting all the attention. The little girl should not have been left alone with a dog that size.

Why can't people understand that dogs are only as dangerous as people allow them to be? They use their canine instincts only when they feel threatened, and this is what happened to poor Max. — Feeling Sad In Chicago

DEAR SAD: You sound like a warm-hearted, bright 14-year-old girl, and I'm glad you wrote. Granted, Max behaved instinctively, but his record was not good. We know he had already bitten people, then he had killed a child, in my opinion the decision was just. Given Max's history it would have been too risky to grant him a parole.

Divorce

The United States ranks first in the world in the number of divorces. In 1979, there were 1,170,000 divorces, a rate of 50.5 percent of all marriages.

Deciding whether deformed infants live or die

NEW YORK (AP) — Parents should not have the sole authority to decide when to withhold medical care and hasten death for deformed infants, according to legal and medical ethics experts.

Instead, hospitals should establish guidelines for doctors and parents — and lawyers and government officials, if necessary — to jointly make such decisions, participants in a symposium agreed Wednesday.

"We need a framework that involves parents but does not give them the predominant view," said Nancy Dubler, the lawyer who heads the medical ethics division at Montefiore Medical Center here.

The symposium on "Which Babies Shall Live?" gathered lawyers, doctors and other health care professionals to discuss several controversial cases in which treatment or food was withheld from deformed or retarded infants after their parents decided to let the newborn babies die.

Most of the speakers at the Yeshiva University conference said they prefer a case-by-case, hospital-by-hospital procedure. A presidential commission last month made similar recommendations in finding that it is sometimes ethical to withhold care to severely deformed babies.

Those recommendations, however, are at odds with new Department of Health and Human Services rules — also announced last month — aimed at preventing doctors in the nation's 6,800 hospitals from denying food or medical care to any handicapped infants.

The new rules are subject to a court challenge by the American Academy of Pediatrics, which says they represent government meddling in the doctor-patient relationship and the practice of medicine.

There are about 3.5 million births each year in the United States. About 250,000 of those babies require intensive care after birth. And about 125,000 are so severely retarded or deformed that they have no hope of living a normal life or surviving without special care, according to Dr. Alan Fleischman.

Fleischman, a pediatric professor at Albert Einstein College of Medicine, said many parents and doctors agree — in hurried, whispered bedside and corridor conversations within minutes of birth — to let the child die.

"It's extremely common, it happens every day," he said.

Studies in New Haven, Conn., and Washington, D.C. indicate that as many as one of every seven infant deaths in hospitals may involve cases where care has been withheld.

Several speakers noted that the problem is growing as medical advances allow doctors to do more to prolong life. For instance, one of every 20 babies died during the first month of life in 1915, compared with only 1 of every 115 today.

Margaret O'Brien Steinfelds, executive editor of the periodical "Christianity and Crisis," said the new technology pressures parents to reject deformed children.

"We as a society signal some parents that their children are undesirable and unwanted," she said.

The Department of Health and Social Services said hospitals denying care to deformed infants risk the loss of federal funding for discriminating against the handicapped.

Officials also a 24-hour toll-free telephone number will be posted in every pediatric unit to receive reports on cases where food or care is being withheld.

It was an anonymous telephone tip in Bloomington, Ind., a year ago that began the "Baby Doe" case cited several times at the symposium. In that case, the Indiana courts refused to order doctors to care for a severely retarded and deformed infant. The baby died six days after birth.

Ms. Dubler said that case is not part of the traditional legal view that parents have near-total authority in child rearing. "There's a big difference between what kind of school a kid goes to and whether a child should live or die," she said.

Ms. Dubler said hospitals should appoint certain officials to consider and make such decisions, and set up a medical ethics board to review them.

John Arras, a philosophy professor at Columbia University, said the question in each case should be: Is life with these defects worse than no life? "Clearly, that is a difficult decision," he said.

However, he added, the new federal rules may protect some deformed infants who might really be better off dead. "For example, they might be kept alive against everyone's better judgment in order to avoid a cutoff of funds to hospitals," he said.

Alan Weisbard, a Yeshiva law professor, said that besides specific hospital guidelines, parents of deformed newborns should be provided with information about what kind of life their child might have and told that they can give up the child for adoption rather than let it die.

David Smith, a professor of religious studies at Indiana University, summed it up: "I conclude that loyalty is what we owe a defective baby. We owe him respect and hope, care and comfort for his body, fair play and due process. Sometimes this will mean that we have to kiss him goodbye; but never without having made him welcome, never without a hug and never without regret."

Student, bus driver rescue drowning tot

LA GRANGE, Texas (AP) — A toddler who was resuscitated by a high school student and a school bus driver after she was found face down in a creek played about her home unaware of her close brush with death.

Allison Krapf, 1, was unconscious when her mother pulled her from the creek Monday after Christopher Krapf, 3, ran to their house yelling, "Allison is in the deep water."

"She didn't seem to be breathing at all and her face was a dark color," her mother, Joanne Krapf, said. "I got a couple of little peeps out of her, but then she quit even that."

It was time for the afternoon run of the school bus and Krapf, who had no car to take the child to a hospital, decided to flag down the bus.

As his school bus made its way along the narrow country road two miles out of La Grange, driver Craig Griffin saw the woman with the child in her arms.

"I thought maybe she wanted to tell me one of the other children with her was starting school and would be riding with me," he said. "But then she said, 'Please help me, my baby drowned in the creek' and she asked if anybody knew CPR."

Tommy Martin, 18, a student at La Grange High School who remembered seeing films about cardiopulmonary resuscitation in a health class, thought maybe he could help. Jonathan Brookins, 18, another student, ran two miles to phone for an ambulance because the Krapfs' phone was out of order.

Griffin lifted the unconscious child from her mother's arms and put her on the floor of the bus, which had 35 other students on it.

"I started helping the mother breathe into the baby's mouth and when she couldn't do it anymore, I just took over and 'did it,'" said Martin.

Griffin, who learned CPR in first aid classes, massaged the baby's chest as Martin breathed for her.

"All the time, I was thinking about my own little girl, Lakitia, just three months younger than this little girl, and I knew we had to get this child breathing," Griffin said.

When Allison coughed and started crying, the watching students broke into a cheer.

"It was heaven hearing her cry, wasn't it?" Krapf said Wednesday as she and Martin, Griffin and Brookins visited with Allison.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Cards come clean

DEAR POLLY — I have a beautiful deck of playing cards that have become soiled with use. Please tell me how to clean them. — MRS. J.V.A.

DEAR MRS. J.V.A. — You might try rubbing them with a dough-type wallpaper cleaner, or even an artist's kneadable eraser. Or, dampen a soft cloth with baking soda and gently wipe each side of the card. Rubbing the cards with a tiny bit of talcum powder or cornstarch after cleaning them will remove any stickiness and make the cards slick and easy to deal. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When making a macrame project with beads, a crochet hook works well to pull the jute or cord through the bead.

When a toddler gets a sticker or sliver in their skin, rubbing a little baby teething lotion on the spot numbs the pain when pulling the sticker out. — DEBBIE

DEAR POLLY — Many times when I travel to a different part of the country, the water tastes and smells bad. Most motels supply a small plastic bucket to fill at the ice machine. I fill a bucket with ice cubes and let them melt down to water again. In most cases, the taste of the chemicals in the water disappear when the ice has melted, and the water is drinkable. — STANLEY

DEAR POLLY — I had two red polyester blouses I hadn't worn for years because of unremovable stains on the front of each. Finally, I took one more stab at cleaning them. I was standing at the bathroom sink using a heavy detergent (unsuccessfully) when I spied a tube of toothpaste and decided "Why not?" I squirted a bit of toothpaste on the spots, rubbed them a bit, and out the stains came! I was amazed. — PATSY

DEAR POLLY — When you don't have a match book to strike a light, an emery board will work just fine. — H.M.K.

HEALTH Exercising the heart

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 69 years old and with my doctor's encouragement have always done a lot of exercise. Then a few weeks ago I began being tired after walking and being short of breath, even doing my housework. I went to my doctor, who is an internal medicine specialist, and had a complete checkup.

He found that I have an enlarged heart and mild congestive heart failure. My blood pressure was excellent and my laboratory studies were fine except for a slight elevation of triglycerides and cholesterol.

My doctor began treatment and from all indications intends to go on treating me. I'm sure he is a good doctor but is a specialist in internal medicine qualified to treat me or should I see a cardiologist?

DEAR READER — Most internal medicine specialists do treat patients with heart problems. Cardiology is a sub-specialty of internal medicine. The internist usually refers patients with heart disease to a cardiologist when the patient has unusual or difficult problems or requires special procedures. Congestive heart failure is a common heart condition in older people and a good internal medicine specialist is fully qualified to manage such problems.

Exercise is good for the heart and circulation under normal circumstances. But as the heart becomes diseased to the point that it cannot pump strongly enough, then exercise is limited to avoid overworking the heart. Your previous exercise program was probably good for you. It may have delayed the problems you now experience.

When the heart "fails" or congestive failure develops, the weakened heart is not able to pump the blood out of the lungs fast enough and fluid accumulates in the lungs causing shortness of breath.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please explain just what you mean by autoimmune disease? I have seen this term in articles about different diseases. What happens when the body becomes immune to one of its own products?

DEAR READER — Let's start with the regular immune system we all have. When a germ or foreign substance is introduced into the body, by entering the bloodstream or tissues, your body recognizes it doesn't belong there and reacts to it as a potential threat. So the body forms antibodies to it. In the future when that foreign germ or substance enters the body, these antibodies from your immune system attack it and try to destroy it.

In an auto-immune reaction the body reacts to some product of the body itself as if it were a foreign substance and attacks it. The foreign substances are called "nonself" and your tissues "self." When your immune system first develops, it learns to differentiate between "self" and "nonself." That distinction may be lost and cause auto-immune responses. There are a number of diseases in that category. Rheumatoid arthritis may be one. So are diseases such as lupus and some diseases associated with blood destruction. The response can be quite varied.

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — A technique adapted from an old Scottish lacemaking process has resulted in a medical advance — a new artificial artery.

The woven polyester artery will allow quicker recovery time for patients, says Dr. John Pollock of Glasgow Royal Infirmary. He and 14 other European surgeons have successfully tested the new arter for about a year. For these surgeons, it has meant easier surgical procedures than with existing knitted ones.

YOU LIVE YOUR FAITH WHEN YOU SHARE WITH OTHERS

There is no greater expression of faith than the translation of it into good deeds; the sharing of our blessings with those less fortunate than ourselves. However, the concept of sharing goes far beyond the mere distribution of our material wealth to the poor; it also includes the gift of your time, patience, understanding and friendship. Visit the old and the sick; talk to them, read to them, run errands for them, give a ride to someone who is in need of it. Remember that the finest gift of all is that of yourself, given quietly and without fanfare; and you will be the better for it. Learn more about the true spirit of giving by attending your Church.

"He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given will he pay him again."
— Proverbs 19:17

Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others cannot keep it from themselves.
— Sir James Matthew Barrie
