Bentsen Confronts Abortion Dissenters

Discussing the Facts

Senator Lloyd Bentsen holds a serious talk with Right to Life supporters in Mothers Park Thursday evening. Although he doesn't agree with the group's anti-abortion legislation stand, he said he could understand their feelings even with the complex emotional circumstances involved. Bentsen addressed a group at the Country Club later in the day.

A minor skirmish with "Right to Life" amendment supporters, a handshaking tour of downtown and candid dinner talk greeted incumbent U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen when he ended a day of Texas Panhandle campaigning in Hereford Thursday.

After arriving at the Hereford Municipal Airport at about 5 p.m., the 55-year-old legislator, who is battling Alan Steelman, Republican from Dallas, for his senate seat, proceeded in a three-car escorted caravan into Hereford. He commenced quickly up and down Main Street greeting shoppers and merchants concerning his re-election effort.

EARLIER IN THE DAY he had campaigned in Amarillo, Pampa, Perryton, Dumas, Dalhart and Vega. He traveled this morning to Tulla, where he met supporters. His next visit is into the deep forest of East Texas according to Bentsen.

The highlight of the local whistle stop was a confrontation with Right To Life group members at Mothers Park at the intersection of Main Street and Park Ave. With about 50 persons present, Bentsen discussed the pros and cons of abortion and the need for an amendment of the U.S. Constitution to prevent them.

The senator told the crowd, the largest he met except at the evening dinner at the Hereford Country Club, that he would not make efforts to interfere with the last ruling on abortion by the U.S.

Supreme Court. Essentially, it states that teenager and wives do not need the consent of their parents and husbands to seek an abortion.

"He urged strict interpretations of the law and expressed sympathy with their cause. 'I understand the issue even though I don't agree with you,' he told the listeners. 'It's the toughest issue I've had to confront.'"

Several of the Right to Life members, each of whom wore small roses as symbols of their cause, voiced strong opinions on the issue. They said only God has the right to decide life and death, not humans.

One woman present said, "Who's going to be next...old people and retarded persons?"

WHEN QUESTIONED on his opinion of Equal Rights Amendment (ERA), he said "My wife and I don't agree sometimes, but I have her on a pedestal and I want to keep her there."

Again, he said the law had to be interpreted as written. He supports it. At a question and answer session following the Country Club reception and dinner, Bentsen touched on numerous topics ranging from the energy shortage to the depressed cattle market.

In his opening speech, he told about 55 supporters present that he favored the recent tax bill passed by the Senate and which is now in a conference committee of the house and Senate.

It dropped the estate tax exemption from $60,000 to a value of $120,000 for persons passing on land in an inheritance. This would progress to $200,000 in five years.

"This is accomplished through a $30,000 tax credit, which has a net value of $120,000," Bentsen said. "With the average farm valuation at $300,000 farmers need a higher exemption to keep ranches and farms in the family."

He noted that 25 per cent of all farms are sold for tax purposes.

Also, the bill helps middle income families through extended tax cuts and aids the small businessman with $25,000 to $50,000 tax exemptions. "I think this will stick in the conference with the house," he added.

DURING A SHORT INTERVIEW with The Brand following the speech, Bentsen said he didn't think his presidential withdrawal affected his senate campaign much. "Those who wouldn't vote for me for president say they will vote for me for Senator."

He characterized his opponent Steelman as a fairly good legislator, but noted that he tried to change his image more toward conservatism before running against Bentsen. The senator was confident of victory in November, but claimed he would not take anything for granted and work for it.

Sunset legislation, which would require review of federal government agency existence, is favored by Bentsen. "We need to cut back government programs that don't function," he said. "I learned in business that expect what you inspect."

The bill would demand that federal agencies be reviewed by Congress every five years to reconsider the need for a particular arm of government. Along this line, he said that $18 billion a year is spent on paper forms and red tape. He help to create a paper commission to investigate where this expense can be cut back. Presently 50 pages of regulation result from one page of legislation.

He recommended that foreign beef producers be required to meet the same inspection grade standards as are required of domestic cattle raisers. "They (foreign producers) must be put on an equal footing with our producers."

A raw spot with local farmers is the high cost of natural gas and the senator was asked why it is sold interstate at 52 cents an MCF and $1.45 within the state.

The senator said federal intervention through the Federal Power Commission should be lessened and that costs of exploration should be split equally among all states. "Others shouldn't be able to pay a third of what we have to pay."

He suggested extensive investigation into energy alternatives such as coal and solar energy. "We're the Saudi Arabia for coal and we should develop it."

"THIS COUNTRY HAS short memory of the long lines at the gas station."

Republicans Support ERA, Under Pressure On Other Platforms

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - The Republican Platform Committee reversed a preliminary decision and voted to support the Equal Rights Amendment. Now it is under pressure to switch again in favor of tougher stances on such issues as the Panama Canal and diplomacy in Africa.

Ronald Regan supporters and others dissatisfied with platform subcommittee actions on defense and foreign policy have their last chance to get their views into the document being drafted for the convention opening Monday. The draft platform must go the printer today so delegates can have copies on arrival. The convention has the final say on the platform.

The committee has worked into the early morning twice to meet the deadline. A subcommittee decision to omit a call for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment - a platform fixture for 36 years - brought furious reaction from feminists and their supporters. The full

Butz Told To Find Out Facts Of Retail Meat Sales Profits

PARK RIDGE, Ill. (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz should find out why beef producers aren't sharing in retail meat sales profits, the president of the nation's largest farm organization says.

School Hit By Burglars

Incidents of theft and vandalism kept Hereford police occupied Thursday afternoon as a local school and apartment complex were victimized.

Shirley Elementary was hit by burglars who took a cassette tape recorder, football, microphone, radio and electronic calculator. Total value of the items taken was approximately $85.

Vandals poured sand and oil in the washing machines and dryers at the laundromat at Bluewater Gardens apartments sometime Thursday. No estimate was available from police on damages.

Allan P. Grant, president of the 2.5-millionmember American Farm Bureau Federation said in a statement that "feed cattle prices have been depressed for 2 1/2 years, with feeders suffering losses which currently run as high as $100 or more per head."

Grant said he asked Butz in a letter to step up an investigation to learn why cattle raisers are getting less at the market than it costs to raise the animals.

"Prices for live fed cattle are seriously below the cost of production, particularly for animals which started their feeding period as yearlings," the letter says. "This situation has been reflected back to the cow-calf producers, who are also in a loss position."

Grant said the USDA had reported in June 1976 that a selling price of $46.44 per 100-weight would be required to cover all feeding costs on a choice-grade feeder steer placed on feed in the corn belt at 600 pounds and finished at 1,050 pounds, U.S. Choice Grade, during the January-August 1976 feeding period.

"Yet," he wrote Butz, "U.S. Choice Grade steers weighing from 1,050-1,225 pounds were selling for $36-$37.50 per 600 weight on Aug. 9, 1976" in the Midwest.

"USDA estimates of production costs indicate that feeding losses are even higher in the Great Plains than in the Midwest," he wrote. "Some forecasters are now saying that cattle feeders will continue to lose money through 1976, unless demand improves, and a greater effort is made to sell fed beef."

He cited questions farmers have asked the federation.

"Do food retailers reflect lower prices paid for animals as quickly as they increase the prices at the meat counter when prices for live animals move up?" Grant asked.

Grant asked for a General Accounting Office or a Justice Department investigation of beef prices and asked Butz what could be done to eliminate labor rules by some meat cutters' unions which prohibit supermarkets from selling meat cuts after 6 p.m.

He said evening sales in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Houston and eight other U.S. cities might result in more meat being sold.

Fighting For Life

The Right to Life group awaits Bentsen's visit to Mothers Park, located near the intersection of Park Ave. and Main Street. With a sign that explains the group's position on the abortion issue, about 50 persons, discussed the pros and cons of the issue with the senator. They held a ceremony shortly before in which roses were pinned on each other to signify their slogan of "Rose for Life."

Explosion Rips Building, Kills 11, Injures 10

CHALMETTE, La. (AP) - An explosion ripped through a 30-story tower at the Tenneco Oil Co. refinery, mashing the men and metal inside it. Eleven workers were killed and at least 10 injured.

Authorities said they believed two more men were dead in the wrecked tower after the Thursday night explosion, but their bodies had not been recovered.

A crew worked through the night moving metal plates by hand, searching for the bodies.

A spokesman for Tenneco said the cause of the blast was not known. One workman said welding was being done and there might have been a gas leak.

Manson Receives Package

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) - Charles Manson, convicted mass murderer of actress Sharon Tate and others, received a package of prison officials initially feared was a bomb - but turned out to be a teddy bear and a Polish travel book.

A checking device at a state hospital indicated Tuesday that the package contained wires. Then, a "bomb-sniffing" dog went into a "classic alert" position that suggested a bomb.

The five-by-eight-inch package, with a return address in Poland, was carted to a nearby orchard.

Idi Amin Challenged

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) - President Idi Amin of Uganda has been challenged to a duel with pistols while hanging from parachutes. The challenge came from a Danish journalist who says Amin insulted him during a July 5 telephone call after the Israeli raid on Entebbe airport.

"Amin used four-letter words and bawled me out in a way that did not correspond to his high office. Now I have formally challenged him," newsmen Jens Thomsen, 51, said Thursday.

committee voted 51 to 47 Thursday night to include the endorsement. The committee voted to retain a statement supporting "the efforts of those who seek enactment of a constitutional amendment to restore protection of the right to life for unborn children."

Even after the abortion plank was nailed down, members continued to argue as to exactly what they had committed their party to do. Advocates of the plank said it is broad enough to accommodate the positions of both candidates. President Ford has said he opposes abortion but would leave the decisions to the states and Reagan has advocated an amendment against abortion in all but extreme cases.

Moderate and conservative Republicans shared successes Thursday.

The platform writers recommended consideration of ending federal aid to education and instead eliminating federal taxes on tobacco so the states could pick up that revenue, estimated at $2.3 billion annually.

They came out against busing children to schools on a basis of racial balance and for constitutional amendment if needed to stop the practice.

Another constitutional amendment was proposed to allow local communities to have prayer in schools.

Compulsory registration of firearms was opposed in another plank.

The platform writers also opposed efforts to repeal the federal provision under which states may prohibit union shops, with workers required to join labor organizations.

They called for reform of the welfare system, with tougher regulations of food stamps.

Discussing taxes and government spending, the platform draft denounces the Humphrey-Hawkins bill pushed by Democrats as a way to put the unemployed into jobs, some at government expense.

The platform draft endorses tax changes to encourage investment, especially through employe stock plans and easier taxation of dividends.

Tax credits for expenses of college and technical education also won approval, as well as credits for private school costs.

Explosion--

It was the second explosion in the tower within a week. An explosion last week caused no injuries, but damaged the tower. At least two dozen men were working in and around the tower Thursday night, repairing the damage, a spokesman for the St. Bernard Parish sheriff's office said.

"There's no way of telling what happened to the guys inside," said Larry Cupit, who was working in the area of the explosion. "It looked like it blew at the top and everything just came down side it."

The shock of the explosion was felt as far as two miles away. There was no fire.

Bentsen noted. "If another embargo occurs from Arab countries, we will go directly to gas rationing."

He opposed the Humphrey-Hawkins Bill, which attempts to solve the unemployment by offering government created jobs.

"I think the emphasis should be placed on the private enterprise, not government," he said. "I favor a 10 per cent tax credit for private industry when it hires persons during times of high unemployment."

This, he said, would provide guaranteed jobs that would last and not allow the unemployed to collect freely off the government.

SHIRLEY GARRISON, a local agriculturalist, asked Bentsen if a balanced budget was possible by 1979 as predicted by Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter.

"Yes. I think a balanced budget is feasible by 1979. If not, then by 1980," he said.

This would occur through a budget system being used by the Congress for the first time this year. So far the federal deficit has been cut to about $51 billion and this year's deficit is below expectations, a trend Bentsen sees as continuing.

"It will take a very popular president committed to it (balancing the budget) early in his term of office," he concluded.

Why Not

'Energy Stamps?'

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) - The idea came during a sleepless night. Food stamps help people who can't eat, reasoned Charles Hopkins, but what about people who go cold because they cannot pay fuel bills?

The answer was "energy stamps," and the Lorain County Community Action Agency, which Hopkins heads, now is taking applications.

Low income residents pay $25 for stamps worth $75. The money comes from a $7,500 trial grant from the federal Community Services Administration.

The stamps will provide stamps for 650 to 200 persons. Fifteen people signed up Thursday, the first day of the program. Quite a few other "obviously ineligible" people showed up, said Hopkins.

To be eligible, one first must meet the federal low-income standard, an income of less than $5,500 a year for a family of four. The next decision is whether an actual emergency exists, Hopkins said.

For example, he said, there is an actual emergency when a family has shut off notice in hand or a major overdue gas bill that means shut off will get them the corner.

The stamps will be accepted at their $5 face value by Columbia Gas of Ohio, which provides service in this largely rural and agricultural county of 28,000 on the Lake Erie shore. They will be sold in booklets of 15 for $25, but those who cannot afford that will get them free.

Many of those who will receive the stamps will be elderly, as were about half of the first applicants, Hopkins said.

"I think they are the hardest hit," he said, recalling a woman getting Social Security benefits of $220 a month and a gas bill of $110.

Hopkins said the energy stamp idea stemmed from two winters filled with calls for financial help in meeting fuel bills. His agency could provide no assistance.

"So one night I thought of the food stamps that help people who have trouble paying for food, so I figured we needed something like an energy stamp," he explained.

The Community Services Administration agreed it was worth a try. The agency, a unit in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, directs the program that remains from what was formerly the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Showdown Vote On Gas Supplies Prompts High Tempered Emotions

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - Emotions flared again Thursday as elected officials in the nation's 10th largest city prepared for a showdown vote on whether to sue and possibly bankrupt its natural gas suppliers.

The leader of a militant citizens' organization, Committee on Public Service COPS, was ejected from a City Council meeting. About 30 more COPS members stalked out afterwards.

City Council members must decide whether to accept a proposed out-of-court settlement of the city's $200 million suit against Coastal States Gas Corp., its chairman Oscar Wyatt Jr., and its Lo-Vaca Gathering

Co. subsidiary. Trial of the suit is scheduled to begin in district court here Aug. 23. Five of the nine councilmen already have stated their opposition to the settlement proposal.

Mayor Lila Cockrell ordered policemen to escort COPS leader Ramon Castillo from council chambers after he persisted in questioning council members about reports of a secret meeting on the settlement plan.

Castillo asked the council to reject the proposed settlement and pursue the lawsuit.

When the mayor told him there probably would not be a vote Thursday on the subject, Castillo grew angry. He demanded to know more about the alleged secret meeting. When no explanation was offered, he became angrier.

Finally, Mrs. Cockrell ruled him out of order. Saying "Anarchy will not rule here," the mayor ordered policemen to remove Castillo. He was not arrested.

The exchange was the latest in the heated battle over whether the city should accept the settlement proposal. Some officials estimate it could bring the city up to $65 million.

At a public council hearing Wednesday night, most of the more than 60 speakers blasted the settlement plan and called for a court trial of the lawsuit.

The city alleges in the suit that its gas suppliers breached pricing agreements of a long-term supply contract. Most of the city's electricity is generated from gas-fired boilers. San Antonio's utility bills are among the highest in the nation, largely because of the so-called fuel pass-through charges.

Castillo, at Wednesday night's hearing, said the lawsuit should be pressed and he wondered if some persons had not sold their souls to the devil.

Bill Greehey, Lo-Vaca president, would not comment for or against the settlement proposal, but told the hearing he was concerned about the long-term deliverability of gas to San Antonio in the event of Lo-Vaca's bankruptcy.

Coastal States and Lo-Vaca officials have said Lo-Vaca will be forced into bankruptcy unless the settlement is accepted.

Lo-Vaca customers, besides San Antonio, have lawsuits totaling more than $1 billion pending against the company.

Ford Campaigner Gets Postal Job

WASHINGTON (AP) - A real estate developer who serves as a campaign fund-raiser for President Ford is being handed a "plum" job on the Postal Service board of governors, five years after politics was supposed to have been eliminated from the Postal Service.

Hung Wai Ching, finance chairman for Ford's campaign in Hawaii, is being named to the board at least partly because of his efforts on behalf of the Republican party, according to Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, who recommended him for the post job.

The post could pay Ching, a Honolulu developer, up to $13,600 a year for attending 12 meetings. Ching was confirmed by the Senate without debate last week.

Fong, asked about his part in the Ching appointment by Ford, said, "I did recommend him. That's politics. I have known him since high school and I know him to be a man of integrity."

Fong, who five years ago was one of the supporters of a bill designed to remove the Postal Service from the influence of politics, was asked if politics had anything to do with the selection of Ching as a member of the board of governors.

"Oh, yes," Fong replied. "He's worked very hard for the party. That was one of the things I thought of, along with his other activities."

Fong, in urging Senate approval of the bill to reorganize the Postal Service in 1971, vowed in an Aug. 30, 1970, Senate speech that "this bill will eliminate politics from the Post Office Department as we have seen it operate."

Since then, Fong, the ranking Republican on the Senate postal committee, has acknowledged selecting White House nominees to the board and to the Postal Rate Commission.

Fong, in a January speech, boasted of "recommending and helping place qualified people from Hawaii in high government posts."

He included in this group Dr. John Y. Ing, a Honolulu dentist and real estate developer who served two stints as a Postal Service governor. Ing failed to attend 17 of the 20 board meetings during his tenure, board records show. The meetings he did attend totaled 14 hours and 15 minutes, for which he was paid $17,066, records show.

Ching replaced Ing on the board.

One of the stated goals of the postal reorganization of 1971 was to remove politics from the mail service.

On The Turnrow

By Jim Steiert
Brand Farm Editor

IT'S HIGHLY OUT OF the ordinary for my usually farm-oriented "Turnrow" column to appear on the society pages of this paper, but I'm making a "guest appearance" here on the eve of what will be the wedding day of Miss Kerrie Womble and myself.

I'm sure a lot of grooms-to-be have mulled over a wide variety of subjects on the day before their weddings, and more than one has engaged in a "last fling of freedom."

Well, I don't have any "last fling" planned, but there is a question which has hung in the back of my mind for the past several months. As time has brought us closer to our wedding day, I've found that the question has perplexed me more and more. It's a hard one to answer.

---HOW DO YOU PAY tribute to the raw courage of a young woman who has never comprehended giving up?

To a special lady, small in stature, but possessed of a heart so filled with fortitude that she towers over those about her in her will to make the best of life, regardless of its obstacles.

---What can you say to a lady who saw her hopes for a May wedding day taken from her by an untimely illness, with no way of knowing if she would ever be able to name another date?

I WATCHED THAT lady fight back fear when she learned that the pain coursing through her arms and neck might well be caused by a spinal tumor, and that the operation to remove the tumor could leave her paralyzed, or even end her life.

We were lucky. The "tumor" turned out to be a ruptured disc in her neck, but the fact that it was a disc didn't make the long nights of pain following surgery any easier.

I saw that lady hover near despair during one of those long nights when the pain was almost too much, but she drew on a reserve of courage deep within her being, cast the moment of despair aside for the treacherous thing it was, then gritted her teeth and set out on the long journey back.

SURGERY HAD CONFUSED her nerves. The legs she had spent so many years training to help support her suddenly were numb and would not function.

Somehow, it didn't quite seem fair that she had to return to therapy and once again learn to walk and use her hands.

But she ignored the disappointment, and without complaint, she went through the grueling daily routine of muscle stretching sessions that often left her trembling with exhaustion.

SHE ENDURED THE braces, the frustration, the uncertainty and the pain,---and got back on her feet.

I guess the bride's entry at a wedding is always quite a sight, but when Kerrie walks to the altar tomorrow night, it will be a very special moment to observe.---A moment of triumph for a brave lady, a moment made possible by the grace of God.

---Maybe I will never find a way to pay fitting tribute to her.

But even if I never quite find the way, I am grateful that God, in His infinite wisdom, allowed us to find one another and discover love, and that in His mercy, He blessed me with a lady filled with courage and guided us through a time of trial.

MY TRIBUTES TO MY special lady may fall short of what they should be, but no man could be more proud of the woman he takes to him as his wife.

Coffee Honors Resident

Mrs. A.J. Phillips, who recently moved to Hereford from Midland, was honored at a coffee Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. Joe Lambert, 124 Oak.

Mrs. Phillips will be teaching at Shirley Elementary School this fall. The coffee was held to introduce Mrs. Phillips to the school's faculty.

Cinnamon rolls, fruit balls, coffee and juice were served from the refreshment table covered with a green linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow daisies and strawberries.

There were 16 guests present.

Writers To Meet Next Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. George Malouf, 219 Fir, will be hosts for the monthly writers' workshop at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 17. Writers both men and women, are invited to bring manuscripts on which they may be working for reading and evaluation.

Readers at recent meetings have ranged from elementary students to senior citizens and from poets to feature writers.

Currently the writers' group is informal, with no elected officers or dues. Those who write or wish to write are given a cordial invitation to attend, according to Mrs. Malouf, August hostess.

DEAR ANN: We would appreciate it if you would print the enclosed story. It is our fervent hope that two special people will read it and think of us.

Thank you for your consideration, Ann. -- No Identification, Please

NINE YEARS OF DIVORCE

Once upon a time there were:

1. A mother and a father.
2. Two sets of grandparents.
3. Two sets of great-grandparents.
4. Bunches of aunts and uncles.
5. A whole lot of cousins.

We remember your first puppy, your letters from camp, putting your first bikes together, having your picture taken, your tonsillectomies, your teddy bears, your two summers in Florida, the family birthday parties, the holiday gifts and your excitement at opening the packages.

But when you were in the third and fifth grades there came the "divorce."

After that there was only:

1. One mother and a stepfather.
2. One father and a stepmother.
3. Two stepbrothers.

But none of the "before" people were around because your mother divorced EVERYONE, not just your father. Your "before" memories vanished. They were replaced with new things. All the past was turned into "bad times" and "bad people."

Now you are 18 and 20, and your "before" folks pray that one day you will realize your mother's words were not true and those "before" people never left you in thought, prayer or heart when you kids were taken away from all of us.

We're still hoping for a happy ending -- even after nine long years.

DEAR HOPING: So am I. Please keep me posted if and when there is a reconciliation. Time can be a great healer.

DEAR ANN-LANDERS: A few years ago Paul and I went to Tijuana, Mexico, and engaged a Mexican lawyer who said he could get Paul a divorce and marry us all at once. It sounded very uncomplicated and we were delighted.

Paul filled out a long questionnaire and signed it. The lawyer declared Paul officially divorced the moment he affixed his signature to the questionnaire. We were then married by the same man.

Eighteen days after Paul and I returned to California, we received the divorce papers and the wedding certificate. On the wedding certificate was stamped "Married By Proxy."

Paul and I would like to start a family but we want to make sure we are legally married. We also want to make sure Paul is officially divorced from his first wife. My mother said from the beginning that it sounded phony and now we are beginning to think she might have a point. Can you enlighten us?

Bilked Maybe?

DEAR MAYBE: If it's a curbstome opinion you want, the South-of-the-border quickies smell fishy. You need a U.S. lawyer -- and I hope you get one immediately.

Teaching you kids about the facts of life can be easy or awkward. Ann Landers' new booklet, "How, What and When to Tell Your Child About Sex" can spell the difference. Send 50 cents in coin, along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request, to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120.

Be A Friend, Have A Friend

BY: JOAN DWYER
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Hereford

The so-called experts have thought for years that trauma occurring during the formative years of childhood was debilitating.

A group of researchers of the Human Development Institute at Berkeley, Calif has decided differently. Their idea is that children who have suffered death or divorce of parents can actually benefit from these experiences.

They found that people who had the most difficult upbringing have turned out to be the most productive adults.

Some famous Americans did not have what we call "normal" childhoods. Gerald Ford's parents, for example, were divorced when he was quite young. Eleanor Roosevelt's dad was an alcoholic and Thomas Edison was beaten so severely as a child that his hearing was affected.

A friend of mine who has been through one tragedy after another says that she figures that nothing will happen to her greater than what she can handle. This is probably true, because she has been building inner strengths that enable her to cope with the next situation.

On the other hand, I have known people who had "ideal" childhoods and as adults can't seem to understand, cope or even tolerate anything other than the ideal.

The kids that we associate with at Big Brothers-Big Sisters start out with a few liabilities, but with our encouragement and support, we can turn these liabilities into assets. We can help them to become useful and productive human beings.

The cyclone that hit Darwin, Australia, on Christmas Day, 1974, reached wind speeds of up to 160 miles per hour. The storm killed 50 people and destroyed 90 per cent of the city on Australia's remote north coast. An airlift evacuated half the 45,000 population. The code adopted for Darwin's rebuilding now bars structures incapable of withstanding cyclone-force winds.

MRS. BOB NIGH ...likes Hereford

Petite Newcomer Sports Enthusiast

Glenda Nigh, wife of Bob Nigh, new sports editor at the Hereford Brand, shares her husband's enthusiasm for athletic competition.

The Hereford newcomer, who recently moved here from Marlin, says she enjoys playing tennis and bowling. She also added that she likes being a sports spectator especially when she watches her husband play in the city softball league.

A native of Muskogee, Okla., Mrs. Nigh is currently employed at Helen's Youth Shop. She graduated from U.S. Grant High School at Oklahoma City in 1969 and majored in home economics education at Central State University at Edmond, Okla.

In summing up her impressions of this community, she commented, "In comparison with Hereford, Marlin is a small town. Bob and I have found that Hereford offers more of a variety of activities."

Other hobbies enjoyed by the pretty petite blonde include sewing, indoor gardening, and macrame. She plans to transfer this fall to one of the local Beta Sigma Phi Sorority chapters. While living in Marlin, she was a member of Alpha Kappa Sigma Chapter.

The Nigh's are residing at 110 W. Sixth and are members of First Baptist Church.

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The National Portrait Gallery says it has been presented a portrait of Sarah Porter which was painted in 1896 by Robert B. Brandegee.

Miss Porter was founder of Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., and "was a pioneer in the secondary schooling of young women in this country."

Kuhn Approves DH For World Series

PHOENIX (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn cast the crucial vote in a decision to permit use of designated hitters for the first time in the 1976 World Series.

Then Kuhn came up with an encore later Thursday with another tiebreaker vote at the summer baseball meetings here to endorse bonus payments for the players, "subject to discussion with the Players Association."

Kuhn's first shot came when American and National League club owners emerged from their separate caucuses with opposite views on use of designated hitters. The AL, which has used an extra hitter for the pitcher since 1973, wanted to use them not only for the series but for all postseason, all-star and exhibition games with NL clubs. NL owners opposed it altogether.

Kuhn couldn't buy the whole AL platform, but went along with the DH rule for the World Series in alternate years.

"I cast a vote with the American League proposed to use designated hitters in alternate years in the World Series, beginning in 1976," said Kuhn.

Kuhn named a six-man committee consisting of the league president and four others from both leagues to "come up with a formula for uniform use of the designated hitter throughout both leagues."

The AL owners had proposed using the designated hitters in World Series games in their own parks.

"Designated hitters will be used in every game of the 1976 World Series," Kuhn declared.

He said the DHs would not be used in the 1977 series, but would return in 1978 and in alternate years thereafter.

Kuhn also supported the AL proposal, over solid NL opposition, for expanded performance bonuses to deserving players.

Kuhn said the performance bonuses, subject to player approval, would be allowed for batters, based on hitting average, runs batted in, homers, slugging percentage, stolen bases, runs scored, total bases and bases on balls.

For pitchers, the bonuses would be tailored to games won, earned run averages, saves and winning percentage.

The 24 club owners also endorsed a resolution to compensate Kuhn and other baseball officials in a case a federal court awards a judgment to Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley. Finley filed the suit after Kuhn blocked his $3.5 million sale of players Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers and Vida Blue.

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—The "Mad Bomber" has struck again.

Reserve Dallas Cowboy quarterback Clint Longley, who gained the nickname after a errant pass bounced off a coaching tower, aimed a not-so-errant right at the head of team captain and starting quarterback Roger Staubach Thursday.

Roger said he reeled against the standup scales in the training room, sustained a gash requiring stitches over his left eye. He called Longley's assault a "gutless deal."

"He waited 'till I had my shoulder pads up over my head and couldn't even see him," recalled Staubach from Dallas' training camp. "He hit me over the eye...I got the cut when I hit the scales. I was stunned, then some teammates held me back from going after him."

Staubach said Longley's frontal assault was strictly a hit-and-run affair.

"It was his way of saying goodbye for now. He had his bags already packed and all his money with him," said Staubach. "It's unbelievable and it was premeditated. He had refused to attend a team meeting earlier and had refused to answer any questions."

'New' Weiskopf In Lead At PGA

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

BETHESDA, Md. (AP)—Tom Weiskopf said he was stalking off the course in the Westchester Classic last month his fourth pullout of the year—when his attention was arrested by a small boy walking behind him.

"There was this kid—it wasn't anything he said or did," explained the talented but highly volatile pro from Columbus, Ohio, "but I made a vow to myself right there I would never walk out of another tournament unless I was very ill or badly injured."

"I thought of my two kids 5 and 3 years old. I realized I was a man in a fish bowl. I am in the public eye. I have to be careful what I say and do."

"I made another resolution—I would never backhand a putt again as long as I live."

It's a new Tom Weiskopf— all the tempests, temper tantrums and blowups behind him, he says— who carried a one-stroke lead into the second round of the 58th PGA Golf Championship today over the long and exhausting Congressional Country Club course.

"I don't know whether I will win or not," he said. "But I assure you I am playing this tournament with an entirely different attitude. I have prepared in a different way. I have not practiced much. I have worked on my concentration, armed myself with positive thoughts."

Longley had been quoted as saying Staubach provoked Thursday's one-punch fight by pushing some chairs at him.

"That's a complete lie," responded Staubach.

The two strong-armed quarterback had also engaged in a round of fisticuffs Tuesday, with Staubach declared the winner. He was on top of Longley when assistant coach Dan Reeves intervened.

Staubach said Tuesday's encounter occurred because of something Longley said to Drew Pearson, a wide receiver.

"I wouldn't even repeat it," said Staubach. "Drew couldn't even hear him and I confronted him Longley about it. That's when it really started."

However, Staubach revealed that the storm clouds had been gathering for some time, between the two literally battling quarterbacks.

"Clint started off in June and refused to communicate with me or Danny White," revealed Staubach referring to the first-string punter and the now second-string quarterback. "He wouldn't work out with us in Dallas and he refused to communicate with me."

Staubach said Longley went through the non-communication routine with other players last season.

"This year he pulled it on myself and Danny White," said the former Navy star and Vietnam veteran.

Staubach said he thought Longley might be affected by pressure from White.

"This guy's going to be one of the premier quarterbacks in the National Football League," said

Staubach.

White will get a chance to strut his stuff Saturday night when the Cowboys entertain Denver in Dallas' home opener.

Cowboy Head Coach Tom Landry said Staubach, sporting stitches, will start the contest, with White scheduled to replace Longley as the second-half quarterback.

"Danny White will, of course, play the second half instead of Longley," stated Landry before commenting on Longley's immediate future.

"Longley has apparently made his feelings clear as to what he wants, that is, to be traded," said Landry. "If that is so, I will try to accommodate him."

As he stormed out of camp, Longley said, "My fight is with Roger Staubach not with the Dallas Cowboys. Staubach's a player just like I am. He's not a coach. He's been on my case since camp started."

"All I've got to say to the Cowboys is play me or trade me."

"In the past we have always taken into consideration the feelings of a player who expresses a desire to be traded," said Schramm.

Staubach said his conflict with Longley has not affected team morale and is not directly responsible for the team's 0-2 exhibition record.

"I told him Longley that any time he wants to break the ice it's fine," Staubach said. "Clint has chosen this path."

Indians Sloppy, But Ambush Rangers, 5-4

By WAYNE R. COFFEY
Associated Press Writer

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians didn't do anything right Thursday night—except win.

Their performance was fraught with shoddy fielding, poor bunting, and untimely hitting, but they managed to score two runs in the bottom of the ninth inning to overcome the Texas Rangers, 5-4, in spite of themselves.

Manager Frank Robinson, who pinch-hit a long single off Mike Bacsik, to win the game, said, "These are the kind of games you see yourself losing. We just didn't do any of the little things."

"Just once I'd like to see us get out to a big lead and have a cake-walk victory," he said.

Moments before his game-winning hit, Robinson attempted a suicide squeeze bunt with Larvell Blanks cruising in from third. The bunt was nearly perfect, and the Rangers had no choice but to hope the ball would roll foul, which it did-by inches.

"That's the first time I ever tried a squeeze bunt in 21 years," Robinson recalled.

Prior to their last-minute heroics, the Indians graciously handed the Rangers a 4-3 lead in the top of the sixth.

Errors by Larvell Blanks and Patt Dobson gave Texas two runs and the lead without the aid of a base hit. Blanks made an errant throw, but Dobson's misplay was out of the ordinary.

He ran to first when first basemen Boog Powell fielded a grounder, anticipating a relay throw from second. Powell pivoted towards second, but changed his mind, and as if making a pump fake, pitched the ball back to Dobson.

"I thought the ball was in left field," Dobson said. "The last place I was looking for it was from Booger."

And then he appraised, "Some strange things have happened this year in Cleveland."

The Rangers mounted a legitimate rally in the second, bunching four hits off Dobson for two runs. But the Indians came back in the third when Powell hit a three-run homer over the center-field wall, only his third of the year.

In the ninth, John Lowenstein broke a personal 0-23 stretch with a leadoff pinch-double, and Blanks and Rick Manning followed with a single an double respectively, setting the stage for Robinson.

Dave LaRoche, who pitched three solid innings, won his first game of the year. "I'm glad I finally got one," he said.

Grudge Match Tops Wrestling Lineup

Wrestling returns to the Bull Barn Saturday night with an explosive grudge match as the main event. Swede Hanson, 6-5 325-pound North Carolina grappler, will again take the measure of Mexico's 222-pound speedster, Ricky Romero, in Lions Club wrestling.

"Hanson's partner, Rip Hawk, has been barred from the Bull Barn on the fourteenth, and his appearance will mean an automatic disqualification for Hanson."

"Hawk's interference cost Romero some bruises the last time he encountered the big Swede, but cost Hanson the decision. Hanson broke one of Romero's fingers in a bout in San Angelo recently, and cost him both bookings and money."

Super Destroyer will meet popular young Scott Casey in the semi-main. Casey recently returned from a successful tour of the Orient, including Japan, Korea, and Okinawa.

Braves Rookie Gets First Win

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Frank LaCorte was a frustrated young man. The Atlanta Braves pitcher was 0-6 with a 7.14 ERA.

LaCorte recalled how he'd go home at night and say to his wife, "Honey, I know I can pitch. What's wrong? She'd say she didn't know, and I'd get mad."

Well, nothing was wrong for the 24-year-old LaCorte Thursday night. He limited the Philadelphia Phillies to four hits and two runs in 5 2-3 innings, and two relievers protected the lead for LaCorte's first major league victory, a 4-3 decision.

There were just two other National League games played Thursday. Cincinnati rocked the Chicago Cubs 8-3 and San Diego blanked the New York Mets 3-0.

The Braves built a 4-0 lead in the first three innings off Phillies' loser Jim Lonborg. 12-8. Singles by Jerry Royster and Darrel Chaney and a double play ball accounted for a first-inning run. Cito Gaston had an RI double and Willie Montanez socked a two-run homer in the third.

The 6-foot-1 LaCorte game up a run in the fifth on a single by Larry Bowa and pinch-hitter Bob Boone's double.

In the Philadelphia sixth, LaCorte got in a jam and was relieved by Mike Beard. Garry Maddox opened the inning with a single. LaCorte got the next two outs, but he walked Ray Johnstone and Tommy Hutton and that was it. Beard walked pinch-hitter Ollie Brown, forcing in the run and making it 4-2.

LaCorte retired to the dressing room where he lived and died with each play as Beard and then Adrian Devine battled to save the rookie's first big league win. The ninth was a lifetime for LaCorte.

It was the kind of an innings

Sept. 1 as coach of the Gamecocks, according to an announcement Thursday by Harold "Bo" Hagan, the school's athletic director.

Raines, 37, succeeds Bobby Richardson, the former New York Yankees' star second baseman who has resigned to run as the Republican candidate for Congress from South Carolina's 5th District.

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings will open their National Hockey League season October 6 with a home match against the Washington Capitals.

MONTREAL (AP)—The Hamilton Tiger-Cats have claimed running back Doyle Orange from the Toronto Argonauts, a spokesman for the Canadian Football League team said Thursday.

Orange, who gained 1,005 yards for the Argos last year, was dropped from their roster to make room for Anthony Davis.

LATROBE, Pa. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers have traded rookied guard Jim Kregel to the Denver Broncos for an undisclosed future draft choice.

Kregel, a 6-foot-1, 245-pounder from Ohio State, was Pittsburgh's 10th-round pick in the 1974 National Football League draft. He spent the past two seasons in the World Football League.

His trade left the Steelers with 61 men in camp, including three College All-Stars who don't yet count against the NFL roster limit.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—A University of South Carolina graduate with 17 years in professional and collegiate baseball has been named head baseball coach at his alma mater.

FAITH LEADS US OUT OF THE MAZE OF SUPERSTITION

Whenever we are scheduled for a Friday the 13th, the thought of it recalls all the traditional fears, bugaboos and omens of bad luck such as black cats, broken mirrors, etc., as well as their good-luck antidotes in the form of horseshoes, four leaf clovers, etc., many of little-known origin, that have persisted throughout the ages. However, as people turned away from superstition and toward faith in God, the truth about their destiny began to emerge: that their good fortune did not depend on any charms or circumstances, but on God's love and guidance. You too can learn the truth about superstitions such as Friday the 13th at the Church of your choice, and Sunday the 15th would be a very good time to start.

"I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious."
— Acts 17:22

I hope good luck lies in odd numbers.

Guard-Prisoner Ratio 'Very Dangerous' Says Texas Prison Director

DALLAS (AP)—The president of the American Optometric Association says large corporations in the ophthalmic industry are motivated by profit and not quality eye care in their support of a proposal to permit advertising of eye glasses.

The FTC is considering a proposal to permit advertisements dealing with the price and availability of prescription eye-glasses. Fair said large corporations, in which there is "a potential for the profit motive," need advertising to attract enough patients "to sell high volume, low quality, mass produced ophthalmic materials."

He said, however, traditionally eyeglass advertising deals only with low quality products. Among those testifying earlier in behalf of the proposal was Dr. Gordon Black, a market analyst from Rochester, N.Y., who said "There is no evidence that current advertising practices...have led to a lower quality of services or products."

Eyeglass Advertising Hit By AOA President

AUSTIN (AP)—The guard-inmate ratio in the Texas prison system is a "very dangerous" 1 to 12, prison director J.W. Estelle said Thursday. And under some circumstances it is worse than that, Estelle told a Legislative Budget Board hearing.

then. "Nineteen," the warden said. In the Attica prison riot in New York, Estelle said, the prisoners took 43 hostages. "They couldn't have gotten 43 hostages at Coffield as they did at Attica," he said.

inflation increases, Estelle said, he can save the state $9 million to $10 million if he gets all of the construction budget at once. Estelle said he will gladly compare the record of Texas prisons with those of any other state on escapes, assaults or homicides even though the guard-prisoner ratio nationally is 1-5.

Ada Resources Income Up

HOUSTON—Ada Resources, Inc. (OTC—ADAR) has reported first quarter net earnings increased 19 per cent over the comparable period of a year ago. Ada operates two local feedlots.

year ago, the company reported revenues of $21,346,000 and net earnings of $531,000, or 10 cents a common share. The company reported that the higher net earnings resulted primarily from increased operating profits in oil and gas operations due to larger volumes of natural gas sold and better prices for both oil and gas combined with a decrease in dry hole expense. The company's increased revenues resulted principally from increased cattle sales in the company's feedyards operations. Ada Resources, Inc., based in Houston, is primarily engaged in the marketing of refined petroleum products; exploration for and development of oil and gas; transportation of petroleum and other bulk commodities; and operation of cattle feedyards in West Texas.

Visitors Had More Fun, Spent Less

AUSTIN—Last spring's auto visitors to the Lone Star State enjoyed Texas more but spent less, according to the state's quarterly visitor industry report. Based on a tabulation of more than 10,000 questionnaires completed by travelers from out of state who came to Texas during the spring quarter, spending per person per day was down 18 per cent from the same period last year. However, the unexpected frugality of those tourist and business visitors was partially compensated for by an increased length of stay that averaged 9.9 days. Although the number of questionnaires returned was almost double that of the comparison period in 1975, total visitor volume is not measured in the quarterly reports. Such totals can be determined only on an annual basis, and are reported in the state's year-end visitor industry survey. Except in the categories of spending the length of stay, other data in the report show almost identical parallels between the two springtime periods. Origins, destinations, purpose of visits and other details are very similar. To see if reduced spending is a continuing factor, tourist industry watchers will be awaiting the summer-quarter report which covers the greatest surge of the state's visitor year. That report will be issued in September.

DPS Not Required To Disclose Results From Blood Samples

AUSTIN (AP)—The 1973 Open Records Act does not change a 1972 attorney general's opinion that the Department of Public Safety is not required to disclose results from blood samples taken from alleged drunken drivers, Atty. Gen. John Hill said today. DPS director Wilson Speir requested Hill's opinion. Criminal investigation files traditionally have been held not to be public records, Hill said in the earlier opinion. Since there was no law to the contrary, the common law governed that question.

The only thing the 1973 law did on this point was to recognize and preserve the common law rule, Hill said.

State Clayton Wants Consolidation Of Water Agencies

The Hereford Brand
Friday, August 13, 1976

AUSTIN (AP)—Speaker Bill Clayton said Thursday that Texas' three water agencies should be consolidated into one agency that would be efficient but not monolithic. "Such an agency can assure that our citizens are not faced by the same person that wrote or enforced an agency rule when the substantial rights of that citizen are being determined under that rule," Clayton told a luncheon of a water utility workshop.

He said a study group on governmental operations was expected to recommend the reorganization to the 1977 legislature. Clayton also urged support for the two constitutional amendments that will be voted on in November. One would authorize an additional $400 million in Texas Water Development Board bonds and the other would increase authority for Texas Water Quality Bonds from $100 million to $200 million.

Work Comp Insurance Limit Up

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Insurance Board announced Thursday it has boosted the weekly payroll limitation for determining a business worker's compensation rate from $200 to $300 per worker.

insurance industry spokesman said. Industry representative had sought for years, with opposition from the Texas Association of Business, to raise the rate base. The insurance industry had said the $200 limit had kept premiums unreasonably low as actual wages had increased. The increase in the limit will take effect Jan. 1, the date on which the board expects to put a new manual of workmen's compensation rates into effect. A hearing will be held in November.

TRICENTENNIAL-LIFE
FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP)—What will life be like 100 years from now? According to writer Isaac Asimov, as he looks ahead to "July 4, 2076," the title of his article in a recent issue of Connecticut Magazine, here's some of what the future has in store:

—Childbearing will be governed by a birth code and children may not be born without a permit.
—Space colonies, circling the earth, will be the dwelling places for 50,000 earthlings.
—The three most important professions will be education, entertainment and computer operation.
—Chief energy sources will be nuclear fusion and solar energy.

By BOB HILL

I used to think that the only thing which would make it too expensive to drive a car was the price of gasoline, or perhaps even the cost of the car itself. That didn't bother me too much because I knew that the good oil American ingenuity would develop some kind of motorized transportation that would serve my mobility needs adequately. But, now the big bugaboo isn't fuel or cost of wheels. It's the cost of insurance. This has already happened to home ownership where insurance premiums have gone out of sight if replacement coverage is required. There just isn't any way a home owner can afford honest replacement protection.

Car prices have jumped 35 per cent over the past four years. Gasoline prices have jumped 50 per cent. Now the prospects for automobile premiums costing us $1000 a year is a reality. It may be helping; a troubled automobile insurance industry out of a tight spot, but it is putting the driver in another financial hole. The nation's largest insurer of private automobiles has hiked car insurance rates 18 per cent since January, 1975. Starting August 18, New York drivers will have to go up another 18.9 per cent on top of the earlier increase. Premiums have jumped as much as 53.6 per cent in New Jersey, 50 per cent in Florida, and 48 per cent in New York.

The problem isn't going away. As long as there is a 5 per cent to 8 per cent inflation rate in our economy, the cost of repairs and replacement parts will continue to soar. The result is a shift from a market where many companies were fighting to get the car owners business to one of the reducing activities in car insurance or even getting completely out of the market. Claims and expenses on automobiles were 7 per cent higher than premium income last year and the automobile insurance industry had underwriting losses of over $2 billion last year. The rate increases have helped but they will have to increase sharply above present levels to offset the tremendous repair and medical costs. Another innovation is the $200 deductible which helps hold down premium increases.

The heart of the problem is our present personal injury system. More and more people are finding that excessive damage awards are becoming standards in lawsuits arising from automobile accidents.

Rome Site Of Numerous Attacks By Terrorists

ROME (AP) - Palestinian terrorists have hijacked planes and staged bloody attacks in the past at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport, through which, police say, two terrorists claim they smuggled grenades and guns for an attack Wednesday at Istanbul.

Transit passengers and their hand luggage are subject to electronic search at Rome, officials said, but suitcases checked through from originating points are transferred to ongoing flights on the understanding they were checked at original board points.

The worst terrorist attack at the Rome airport occurred in December 1973 and took 32 lives. Five Palestinian commandos shot their way into the airport, firebombed a Pan American jetliner and hijacked another plane.

Authorities increased security after that slaughter, raising the number of guards from 50 to 200 and putting two light armored cars on an around-the-clock watch inside the airport grounds.

In September 1973, police foiled what they said was a rocket attack on an Israeli airliner. On a tip from Israeli authorities they arrested five Arabs in an apartment near Ostia, not far from the airport.

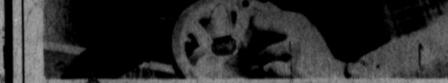

Police said they seized two Soviet ground-to-air rocket launchers loaded with rockets the Arabs planned to fire at Israeli airliners landing or taking off from the airport.

In August 1972, an El Al airliner took off from Leonard da Vinci for Tel Aviv with 140 persons aboard. A bomb exploded in the plane's baggage compartment a few minutes later, but the jetliner was able to turn around and land safely at the Rome airport.

Police arrested two Arabs and charged them with giving two British girls a booby-trapped phonograph and two airline tickets for Tel Aviv. The girls proved they were unaware the record player contained a bomb, police said.

Turkish police said the Palestinians killed four persons, including an American, when they lobbed a grenade Wednesday at passengers waiting to board an Israeli flight to Tel Aviv. They then sprayed the transit lounge with gunfire, wounding 26 other including two American women.

In 1900 the Foraker Act gave civil government to Puerto Rico and was amended in 1917 to provide U.S. citizenship.

Women Traveling In South America

By MARY LENZ RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) -

"I would never travel in South America by myself because the men are impossible."

The woman traveler, who refused to give her name, knows what she is talking about. She was raped while traveling by herself in Bolivia.

American women who live and travel alone on this continent face difficulties and dangers their male counterparts don't even think about.

Yet women do come to South America alone and find jobs, friends and a romance to life they say has been homogenized out of existence in the United States.

They are women like Jean Smith, 30, a former book editor in New York who backpacked by herself along the Inca Trail from Machu Picchu in the Peruvian Andes. Jean later talked herself into a job as a maid on a tourist boat, getting paid to travel from Tierra del Fuego to Antarctica.

Linda Louk, a woman in her early 30s, came alone to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, after five years of travel in other countries. Within a month she found a job as assistant editor on the country's only English business magazine.

Rosie Kelburg, 29, a freelance artist in Rio who also works for the city's English language newspaper, said she came here because life in the States is "too depersonalized, too dehumanized."

But the life of a woman traveler isn't easy. As Linda explained, "When you find yourself alone and it's three o'clock in the morning and you have 40 pounds of luggage under your arms and every man on the street is hassling you, you can't fall apart."

This kind of life apparently attracts a special kind of woman, and most women travelers interviewed share these characteristics: they are white, middle class and college educated, though they might have dropped out a couple of times to travel before finishing school.

They are willing to take dull, low-paying jobs (most often teaching English) in order to live in colorful places. Although they usually live on the money they make in foreign countries, they also have savings in the United States or parents who could be depended on to send money for a ticket home in an emergency.

Women travelers are not oriented toward careers, academics, money or stable family life. Linda explained, "I think about people settled in the same place and the same job for ten years and I cringe."

Most of them had lived in several different countries before tackling South America. Linda, a social worker in the States who said she needed the "constant stimulation" moving from country to country brings, has worked as an English teacher in Japan, a high school teacher in Kenya and a nightclub hostess in Hong Kong.

Living in a foreign country at what most middle class Americans would consider poverty level does not disturb these women. "What are you going to do with the money you make in the States?" asked Rosie. "I used to save it to travel."

Accused Sniper Termed Quiet, Deeply Religious

SAND SPRINGS, Okla. (AP) — A "deeply religious boy," quiet and no trouble to anyone, those were the words of home town friends and relatives describing Michael Soles.

No one could offer any explanation when Soles was captured by police in Wichita, Kan., after allegedly killing two persons and wounding seven others with rifle fire from the top of a downtown hotel.

"He's a real good boy," said Helen Soles, an aunt. "I'm just flabbergasted and can't believe he'd have any part in anything like this."

Relatives here in his home town said Soles, 19, chunky and red-haired, had gone to Wichita several months ago looking for work. He had attended school in this Tulsa, Okla., suburb of 15,000 and planned to return.

His father, James Soles, said his son had telephoned recently to report that he had been accepted at a Wichita college. The younger Soles planned to return home "as soon as he could tie up some loose ends," his father said.

James Soles said his son, a welder by trade, may have been dejected at not being able to find a job in Wichita. "I just won't know until I talk to him, though," he said.

Soles described his son as deeply religious and said that a year ago he had considered entering the ministry.

Helen Soles, the aunt, said young Soles regularly attended the San Springs Church of Christ with his family. She said he had no history of trouble.

Linda Soles, another aunt, said, "I just pray to God it isn't true," she said.

Soles graduated in 1975 from Charles Page High School. The yearbook lists a choral group as his only school activity.

He grew up in Sand Springs, the youngest of four children.

"I've known him all his life," said Kewis Kibbe, former principal of Central Junior High School. "He was very quiet. He caused no disciplinary problems in school at all. He was slightly introverted. He wasn't social minded."

Another of Soles' aunts, Aubrey Soles, said her nephew was living in Wichita with a minister who was a friend of the family.

"He went to church and he was very quiet," she said. "He was a religious boy. He wasn't violent."

Ford To Take Command Of Campaign Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will assume personal command of his campaign forces at the Republican National Convention when he arrives in Kansas City on Sunday night, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said today.

Ford will operate out of a command post on the same floor of the Crown Center Hotel where he will be living during the convention, Nessen said.

Ford has been directing operations by telephone from the White House to his supporters involved in the pre-convention battles, including platform and rules controversies, Nessen said.

Nessen also said, "the President has directed his people to make the effort to have an women's equal rights amendment plank in the platform."

Nessen said it was "a little premature," however to indicate whether Ford would make a personal appeal to include the women's rights plank that was voted down 8 to 7 Wednesday by a platform subcommittee.

Ford is to arrive in Kansas City around 6 p.m. Sunday local time, about three hours after the

'Hot Air' Sales Set At Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of young entrepreneurs is hoping to turn by peddling "Washington Hot Air" at the Republican National Convention in Kansas City.

Their product comes in aerosol cans with red, white and blue labels that carry a picture of the Capitol. The instructions say to "Hold hot air six inches from scandal and spray for two seconds. Hot air will immediately begin a cover-up, and will also mask any unpleasant stink. If an irritation develops, discontinue use and consult your lawyer."

Four 21-year-old buddies from suburban Arlington, Va., pooled $1,500 to buy 1,904 cans of "Hot Air," and began peddling them to novelty shops here last month.

Two of them now are in Kansas City, where they claim to have sold four cases of Hot Air to a gift shop in the hotel where President Ford will be staying during next week's convention.

Jonathan Rintels, who has $900 invested in the venture, said Wednesday he came up with the idea in June while taking final exams at Northwestern University.

Rintels and his friends were unable to find summer jobs, a fact that led to their business. The others put up $200 each.

"It's sort of like a pet rock," copartner Roger Tweed. "The whole idea is the label."

Hot Air retails at $2 a can, Tweed said. Actually, he admitted, the cans contain not air, but freon. And it's not hot.

HAPPY BRIDE
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "I never thought I'd be a bride again," said Annie Mae Slayton Smalling, who, at 76 made a second trip to the altar recently.

Widowed three years ago after 52 years of marriage, she was wedded to Noah Ervin Smalling, an 80-year-old widower, and long-time friend of her and her late husband, Coy Slayton.

The bride wore a floor-length blue dress and a corsage of pink roses for the ceremony.

"The minister's wife played the wedding march even though I've told them we didn't need anything like that at our ages," the new Mrs. Smalling said.

Mine Didn't Claim Maine

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is no evidence that a Spanish mine blew up the battleship Maine in Havana harbor in 1898 and a Navy court of inquiry that blamed the explosion on the Spaniards apparently was bowing to the inevitability of war, says Adm. Hyman Rickover.

The destruction of the Maine and the loss of 266 of the 354 men aboard the vessel helped touch off the Spanish-American War.

Rickover, the head of the Navy nuclear propulsion program, draws his conclusions in a new book published by the Government Printing Office but copyrighted in his name. He says he asked two Navy experts to review the Maine incident and reported that the investigation found no evidence that the 6,682-ton battleship was struck by a mine.

And Rickover wrote that an 1898 Navy court of inquiry, in blaming the loss of the Maine on the Spaniards, "appears to have been guided less by technical consideration and more by the awareness that war was not inevitable."

A Spanish inquiry six weeks after the explosion blamed it on an internal blast, and Rickover said that appears to him to have been the cause.

The Maine had been sent to Havana to protect American interests during the civil war between Cuba and Spain. The loss of the ship helped touch off the war between the United States and Spain under the battle cry: "Remember the Maine."

Javits Staff Aid Slain By Terrorists

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A staff aide to Sen. Jacob Javits was among four persons killed by a grenade tossed by Palestinian terrorists whose apparent attempt to hijack an Israeli airliner was foiled by police, the U.S. consulate said Thursday.

The attack Wednesday ended with the surrender of two Palestinian terrorists. Officials said 26 persons were wounded, two of them American women. The El Al jet flew safely to Tel Aviv.

The congressional aide was identified as Harold W. Rosenthal, 29. Contacted in New York, Javits called Rosenthal's death "a stunning, awful and senseless tragedy." The New York Republican denounced the hijacking attempt as part of a "spreading vicious insanity which must be stamped out."

He said he would try to get the Republican party to adopt a "strong plank against terrorism."

Rosenthal, 29, a Philadelphia candidate of Minnesota, was on his way to a seminar on the Mideast sponsored by the Van Lehen Institute at Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Rosenthal came to work for Javits eight months ago from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. He had transferred there from Mondale's staff after beginning his Washington career as an aide to Hugh L. Carey, now governor of New York, but a congressman at the time.

In Plains, Ga., Mondale called the death of his former foreign policy staff adviser "unbelievably tragic." He said Rosenthal was a man of "vision," great intelligence and a promising future.

"This reminds us again that the world simply has to do something about terrorism," Mondale said as he arrived in Plains for meetings with his running mate, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter.

ConRail Reports $34 Million Loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — ConRail, the quasigovernmental railroad formed from six bankrupt lines, Thursday reported a loss of $34.2 million in three months of operation.

ConRail, which was backed by government loans, came into existence April 1. It was designed to consolidate the freight operations of the six railroads. ConRail carries no passengers.

Total operating revenues in the first quarter were $835.8 million and the loss per share was $1.38 for 25 million shares of common stock outstanding. The figures were announced at a news conference by Edward Jordan, chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Jordan said the figures were "better than anticipated" but noted it is difficult to assess them since there are no other figures for comparison.

ConRail consolidated the operation of the Penn Central, Reading, Erie Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley, Lehigh and Hudson River and Central of New Jersey railroads.
