Plane Crash Injures Two Local Men

Clyde (Davie) Sorrells, 31, an employee of Arrowhead Mills, and Joe Davis, employed with Southwestern Bell Telephone, were seriously injured in a single-engine plane crash near Pampa Saturday evening.

The two men were taken to Pampa for emergency treatment and transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo last night. At a late hour, Sorrells was reported in "fair" condition, but Davis' injuries were believed more serious.

According to reports, the small plane had attempted to take off, apparently hit a thermal and crashed from a low altitude about 6 p.m. Saturday. There was no fire but the plane was destroyed.

Davis, a former plant foreman in Hereford for the phone company, was recently transferred to Canyon. The family still resides in Hereford, however.

Kidnapped Kids Reach Home In Safe State

Chowchilla, Calif. (AP) - Shivering and dazed, 26 children and their school bus driver came back from a 36-hour journey of terror Saturday and told of being buried alive by mysteriously silent kidnappers. The victims of the unprecedented mass kidnapping told of a nightmarish descent into an earth-covered truck which they believed was fashioned as their coffin.

"We thought we'd had it," said the shaken bus driver, Frank Edward Ray, 55 who related to reporters the ordeal in which he and "my kids" dug out of a stifling underground cell in a remote gravel quarry.

The quiet kidnappers - three masked men with guns - barely spoke to their victims, Ray said, ignoring the children's desperate cries of "Why?"

"The kids kept hollering, 'Why'd they do this to us,'" Ray said. He added: "I don't know, either."

Investigators, too, seemed baffled. The kidnappers' motives and actions were unexplained.

At dawn, when the youngsters were carried home by tearful parents, the abductors were still at large. An all-points bulletin was issued for three unidentified men.

New Postal Rates Become Effective Starting Today

The new permanent postal rates, which include 13-cents for first class mail, are effective today according to Nolan Grady, Hereford Postmaster.

This action followed approval by Postal Service's Board of the Governors of the permanent rates recommended by the Postal Rate Commission June 30.

While current first-class postage of 13 cents and the nine-cent post card are not changed, there are a number of departures from the existing temporary rates and fees.

There are decreases for regular bulk third-class and increases for second-class publications and most special service fees.

In third class the permanent bulk regular rates will be 7.5 cents per piece for the first 250,000 pieces mailed in a calendar year and 7.7 cents for pieces in excess of 250,000. These minimum per piece charges contrast with the current temporary rates of 7.7 and 7.9 cents, respectively.

The pound rate for bulk third class regular advertising, and books and catalogs will be 36 cents and 30 cents, respectively, instead of the 41 cents and 32 cents under the temporary schedule.

For second-class matter, the average increase in the permanent step 5 rates will be two per cent more than the current temporary rates.

During the month of July there will be two rate changes for those classes of mail entitled to a phasing of rates, such as second-class publications, books and records and the nonprofit classes. On July 6 the temporary postal rates were adjusted upward from step four to step five. On July 18 the permanent rates become effective. (See attached table of phased rates.)

For a typical weekly news magazine, postage will be 5.1 cents, on the average, after July 18. Under the former step five of the temporary rates the cost was 5.0 cents.

Postage for a single-piece, third-class letter will be 14 cents for the first two ounces instead of the old-13 cent rate.

The fees for nearly all of the Postal Service's domestic special services will also be increased. The charge for a Special Delivery letter goes to $1.25 from 80 cents, the minimum money-order fee will be 50 cents instead of 30 cents, and the address correction charge will be increased to 25 cent from the present 13-cent level. Certain international special service fees will also increase substantially.

Local Charges Against Raidt Are Dropped

Possession of marijuana and conspiracy charges filed against John C. Raidt, 27, of Murray, Kentucky have been dropped by the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's office.

According to McPherson, the local charges were dropped since other charges will probably be filed against Raidt before a federal grand jury.

A preliminary hearing in the case had originally been scheduled to be held here Friday afternoon, but the hearing was cancelled after the charges were dropped.

McPherson explained that the local department did not wish to release information pertaining to the case in a hearing at this time, thus promoting the move by the local law enforcement agency.

The sheriff's office is collaborating with the federal Drug Enforcement Administration in its investigation of a drug smuggling operation which was discovered June 10 when a twin engine airplane loaded with marijuana made a forced landing in rangeland northwest of Hereford.

Raidt was arrested in Kentucky on a warrant issued by Deaf Smith County, and had remained free on $100,000 bond since he was arraigned here June 23.

Did 'Uncle Tom, Legree' Live?

NATCHITOCHEs, La. (AP) - One of the graves is believed to be that of "Simon Legree" and the other the burial place of "Uncle Tom," fictional antagonists in Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel.

Only broken stones attest that there are other graves in the old plantation cemetery overlooking the Red River.

Robert McAlpin, a New England bachelor, owned the plantation in the 1840s and '50s. Local folklore insists that McAlpin was the model for the cruel

Simon Legree in the antislavery novel "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

McAlpin is buried in one of the graves. Less than 30 yards away is the grave of one of his slaves, Tom.

Texas rancher Sterling C. Evans, 76, bought the plantation in 1955, became intrigued with the legend that marked it as the setting for "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and then became a believer.

He hung a sign at the front gate of the 11,000 acre pecan farm: "Little Eva Plantation, Home of Uncle Tom."

With the help of longtime area residents, he found the old slave cemetery, verified the graves of McAlpin and the slave, marked the graves with heavy bronze plaques and surrounded them with an iron fence.

In 1892, D.B. Corley of Abilene, Tex. visited the plantation and carted off a neglected old slave cabin. He took it to the Chicago World's Fair, reassembled it and billed it as the original Uncle Tom's

Harvesting Progresses

Workers cull out clods and small potatoes on this potato harvester which was operating east of the E.C. Reinauer & Sons packing shed here Friday afternoon. Workers were harvesting Norgold Russets when this photo was taken. The produce market, which perked up a bit after harvest began, has remained rather sluggish for the most part, and the harvesting of potatoes is just sluggish for the most part, and the harvesting of potatoes is just beginning to gather steam now. Growers and processors are hoping for an upturn in the vegetable market soon. [Photo By Jim Steiert]

Potato Harvesting Continues Despite 'Zipless' Market

Brand Farm Editor

Spokesmen for two local produce sheds report that there's not much zip to the produce market these days, but at least it's better than it was two weeks ago.

GROWERS FACED severely depressed markets as they prepared to begin harvesting early this month, and the first week of harvesting was greeted by sluggish demand.

Conditions in the marketplace have improved somewhat over the last week to ten day period, although some local onion growers may yet be faced with the tough decision on whether to plow up their crops and take $500 an acre losses or take their chances on an improved market.

Local potato growers were still harvesting Saturday, taking advantage of the moisture supplied by recent rains, but those same rains brought onion harvesting to a halt.

Bud Snyder of E.C. Reinauer & Sons indicated that the moisture helps cut down on clods in the potatoes during harvest, and growers were going ahead with harvesting operations. He pointed out that hot dry weather is required for harvesting onions, however.

"WE'RE ACTUALLY just getting off to a good start on the potato harvest now. The quality of the crop is good and the yields appear to be good too, although enough potatoes haven't been harvested to give an accurate indication yet," said Snyder.

Snyder explained that the onion harvest has been at a virtual standstill during the past few days, although the market for the vegetables has improved somewhat.

Ken Klechak of A&P Tea Co. was optimistic about the chances for improvement in the vegetable market within the next two weeks.

"The market hasn't had much zip the past few days, but at least it has been holding steady," Klechak commented.

HE REPORTED THAT No. 1 Norgold Russet potatoes are currently selling for $5.25-6.00 per cwt. and No. 1 red potatoes are going for $5.50-6.00. No. 1 premium reds were listed at $6.50 per cwt.

Klechak also had optimistic news for carrot growers who will begin harvesting their vegetable in August.

"The market on carrots looks good right now. Carrots are bringing $4-4.50 in California, and the local market could hit $5 at harvest time," he said.

U. S. Reminds South Africans Of Home

BY BOBBY TEMPLETON
Brand News Editor

Landlocked Hereford is the complete opposite of water surrounded South Africa, but the Stuart Jones family of Cape Town, S.A., were not unfamiliar to the Texas Panhandle before they visited here this past week.

Even though the United States far off from the southern tip of Africa, the Jones including Stuart's wife Cecilia and four children were not treated to a cultural shock here since the South African country possesses much of the same freedom and atmosphere. They were in Hereford visiting the U.S. after a six and a half year absence here. The children, though, have lived in South Africa for most of their lives even though all were born in the U.S.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones grew up in this part of Texas and so felt very much at home in the flat lands of the Panhandle. Stuart was raised in Hereford along with his brother Lynn Jones of 332 Douglas Street, where the visiting Jones stayed while here. Also still living here are parents Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wester of 311 Ave. J.

"WE FEEL MUCH MORE relaxed than the last time we here (in the troubled 1960's)" Stuart said. "The social situation is much better and we feel rested."

Cecilia agreed with the observation since the family lived here in 1968 and 1969.

Unlike most Americans living abroad, the Jones immigrated into South Africa as self supporting missionaries of the Church of Christ. This allowed certain tax advantages but committed the family to becoming totally settled in the African nation. Since they are citizens there, they are limited on the amount they may take out ($2,300 a person) and are not employed as foreigners, which would make mandatory trips back to the U.S. possible at the expense of the employing company.

The primary goal was to go as missionaries and then find employment. Stuart hired on with the Mobil Oil Corp.

The trip back here was financed through contributions supplied by the Church of Christ denomination, with congregations all over the country donating funds including the Hereford church.

THE CHILDREN WERE elated at the chance to miss two or three weeks of school in their homeland since school terms there run all year round. Holiday breaks are taken periodically between the four regular school terms.

"I really like it here," said Dana, the oldest of the Jones children at 16-years-old. She noted in crisp English accent that customs here were a bit different but that all the same popular songs, eating places and youth activities were much the same.

"We don't usually start dating until about 16-years-old," she said. "But we can't get a driver's license until we are 18-years-old."

Then who takes them on dates? "We either ride the bus or our parents take us," she answered bashfully.

The Jones said the fashions are fairly much like the fashions in the United States but men's clothing is not as flashy. Crime in South Africa is far less rampant than in the U.S. due to hard sentences such as loss of all property for any drug offense. Marijuana or Dagga is punished severely with houses and cars being repossessed for violations.

Africans

Traffic accidents are high there due to the unawareness of bikers and pedestrians. Stuart claimed that enforcement should be tightened.

He refrained from any political thoughts since any wrong statements to the press might affect his position in South Africa, he said. "However, South Africa is not a police state. We enjoy as much freedom as here," he added.

No mention of the rioting problems in Africa were discussed, but the Jones felt very comfortable about the situation there. Stuart attacked the U.S. media for creating false impressions of the country.

THE ECONOMY there is measured in Rand, one of which is equal to $1.14. Imported items are expensive compared with the domestically manufactured items. The country does produce its own cars under popular brand names which keeps those costs low.

The cost of gas though is $1.10 a gallon.

Generally, the economy is in good shape since a large demand for immigrant workers in qualified fields are valued. Stuart said that as many as 30,000 to 40,000 persons a year come into South Africa and have no trouble getting jobs. Unemployment is about three per cent.

The educational system is much like in European countries where the students wear uniforms and take final exams after high school to qualify for university level education.

One of the favorite foods there is Botic, a variation of meat loaf.

The family travels back to their homeland in two weeks and welcomes the thought of returning to familiar soil.

"We enjoy life there and have no desire to return to the U.S.," Stuart said. "We feel real settled."

cabin.

Corley also published a book, "A Visit to Uncle Tom's Cabin", in which he included statements from neighbors and former slaves who testified that McAlpin was the inspiration for Simon Legree, that his kindly old slave Tom was indeed Uncle Tom and that the dilapidated old cabin was the slave's residence.

The little book includes charges that McAlpin once sewed a slave into a sack and drowned him in the river, that his chief delight was in torturing his slaves and that he once beat a cook to death because the dinner she served didn't please him.

Evans had the Corley book reprinted and used a sketch of the transplanted windowless cabin as a model for building a replica that now stands where the original one is believed to have been.

One thing he doesn't have at the Little Eva Plantation is a copy of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." His wife won't allow it in the house.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says a successful leader has a sense of urgency about getting things done.

HIGH ON THE list of pet peeves for Hereford citizens has to be the drive-up mail boxes at the post office. They're like the weather: everybody talks about the poor system but nobody does anything about it.

A reader offers one solution. He says there is space to cut a driveway through the post office property, where the sidewalk now runs. Cars could enter from the east; deposit the mail on the driver's side, and exit in the right lane of W. 4th Street. There would still be space for a sidewalk and some lawn by the post office, according to our amateur surveyor.

Another suggestion would entail only the erection of a few signs. That would be to make W. 4th a one-way street, perhaps for two blocks—from Miles to Sampson.

Any other ideas?

JIM REESE, Republican candidate opposing Congressman George Mahon, visited in Hereford Thursday and spoke to the Jaycees. While we have been a friend and supporter of Mahon's for 25 years, we find that Reese has some opinions and views with which we are in complete agreement.

Reese proposes that Congressmen be limited to terms in office. He thinks representatives should be limited to something like two 4-year terms, senators to two 6-year terms, and the President to one 6-year term. The framers of our constitution didn't have in mind that a man be elected to office and retained as a professional politician.

Reese brings out an interesting observation, and campaign fodder, about Mahon's tenure in office. He says that more than half of the voters in the district have never had a chance to vote against Mahon. He points out that Mahon hasn't had an opponent since 1964, and that his last "serious" challenger was Hop Halsey of Lubbock in 1946.

The challenger from Odessa is attacking the "go-along to get along" practices in Congress and claims Mahon has lost some of his effectiveness for that very reason.

But Mahon has compiled an enviable record for his district, state and nation over the years. We doubt that Reese can unseat the dean of the Congress.

Party roles in the national conventions seem to have been completely reversed this year. Usually, the incumbent party has a closed convention with everything decided, and the challenging party has a wide-open affair. But this year, everything was decided at the demo convention and the Republicans appear to be the ones headed for a free-for-all!

THE CARTER-MONDALE ticket should be a strong one for the Democrats, even though a lot of southern Demos don't care for the labor-loving Mondale. Politics remains an issue of give and take.

With all the varied views across our nation, party leaders feel they have to "balance" the ticket.

However much Carter, or Ford or Reagan, promise reform and cutting federal spending, we feel the solution lies in Congress—not with the President. And, it is unrealistic to expect senators and representatives to give up their profitable arrangements.

Trimming the government is a fantasy, according to Herbert Kaufman, who recently completed a study for the Brookings Institution. The major reason says Kaufman is that "safe seats and the seniority system in Congress" keep the same members in key posts for years, fostering cordial, comfortable personal relations with similarly entrenched leaders of administrative agencies.

Agency officials and key Congressmen and congressional committee staffs work up cozy arrangements for their mutual benefit. Each protects the other. The influence with agencies does more than help senators and representatives with the voters. By using their influence with a captive agency, they can do favors for other congressmen, who are then in their debt.

There are other reasons. Kaufman found that of 175 federal agencies going in 1923, 85 percent were still going strong in 1973. Only 23 disappeared and some 246 were added.

Tax Limit Raise Hoped

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. John Tower told Texas cattlemen Saturday that with their "concern and participation, we will succeed in opposing attempts to kill the spirit of individualism in America."

Tower, R-Tex., said he hopes Congress will raise the estate tax exemption from its present $60,000 limit and that it will permit farmers and ranchers to value land for estate tax purposes on its productive value.

Big Brains
Both orcas (killer whales) and dolphins are two mammals that have unusually large brains in proportion to their bodies. Moby Doll, a young Vancouver aquarium killer whale, tipped the scales at slightly more than a ton. His brain weighed 14 pounds. A seven-ton elephant has a brain of only about 12 pounds.

For the Birds
Ornithologists searching for precise nomenclature have devised many colorful birds' names. Among them are the great racket-tailed drongo, yellow-bellied waxbill, black-spotted bare-eye, red-whiskered bulbul, turquoise-browed motmot, rufous-browed pepper shrike, and blue-faced booby.

State Mails July Rebates

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - State Comptroller Bob Bullock mailed checks totaling $13.4 million to 535 Texas cities and town Thursday as their July rebate of the one cent city sales tax.

Bullock said gross retail sales "Show the Texas retail economy is growing as fast as a Waller County watermelon." He said a computer analysis showed $28.3 billion in gross retail sales in Texas during the first three months of this year, an increase of $3.4 billion from the same period in 1975.

City sales tax rebates this year totaled $158.8 million, an increase of $18.2 million over the same period last year.

Judge Halts Attempt To Auction Control Of Bank

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - State District Court Judge Robert R. Murray has halted temporarily an apparent attempt to auction off control in the sole remaining bank at Carrizo Springs in Southwest Texas.

Enrique Salinas, owner of the Union State Bank of Carrizo Springs, won a temporary restraining order late Wednesday against First National Bank of San Antonio.

Salinas, reportedly a wealthy Eagle Pass businessman, also owns controlling stock in Citizens State Bank of Carrizo Springs. Citizens State, however, has been closed by the State Banking Commission and its assets are in the process of liquidation.

Judge Murray set a hearing on Salinas' temporary restraining order for 9 a.m. July 23 before 131st District Court Judge Fred Shannon.

At issue is a 24,003-share block of Union State stock, which represents about 60 percent of the bank's ownership.

Salinas alleged in petitions filed Wednesday that First National Bank planned to auction the stock at 9 a.m. Friday on the Bexar County Courthouse steps.

Salinas said he pledged the stock, valued at $1 million, to First National in return for a $645,000 loan made in April.

Salinas claims he isn't in default on the loan and has paid it down to $520,000. His petition said First National officers led him to believe the note wasn't due in full until Oct. 12.

Glenn Biggs, board chairman of First National Bank, said he could not comment on the allegations by Salinas.

Salinas obtained control of Union State Bank in April from a Dallas-based group of businessmen. The Dallas group has filed a suit against Salinas and Gross National Bank of San Antonio in connection with the sale.

University Funds Given Other Uses

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - A legislative and citizen study committee recommends allowing public universities to use money from and valorem taxes or the Available University Fund for things other than construction.

A subcommittee of the Joint Advisory Committee on Government Operations, meeting Thursday, adopted several other recommendations, too, but Harry Provenca, chairman of the College Coordinating Board and member of the subcommittee, called proposal on constitutional funds the heart of the whole matter. Those funds are restricted to construction and land acquisition.

The subcommittee called for a constitutional amendment that would permit schools to use the money for major repairs, remodeling, library materials and capital equipment.

Provenca noted that Allan Shivers, chairman of the University of Texas System regents, testified against the proposal. Nevertheless, notwithstanding the recommendation of the chairman of the board of regents, we recommend it, he said.

The subcommittee also recommended:

- That a constitutional amendment be submitted to the voters authorizing all public universities to participate in one of the constitutional building funds.
- No new public senior or upper-level colleges be built.
- That interest from money from constitutional funds not needed for bond retirement be used for academic enrichment.
- That student fees for construction be banned.
- That all public university projects that cost more than $500,000 first be approved by the coordinating board, regardless of the source of the money.
- That no new medical school be authorized at the present time without coordinating additional family practice residency positions be created at present medical schools by 1980.

Mondale Brings Memories For Texans

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - State GOP Chairman Ray Hutchinson said Friday the selection of Sen. Walter Mondale as Jimmy Carter's running mate suggests to him a Democratic campaign slogan: "Carter: Southern Fried McGovern."

"The people of Texas will remember that Sen. Mondale is not new to the state," Hutchinson said in statement.

"He is the same fellow who came to Texas within the farm workers-strikers to let the cantaloupe to rot in the fields. The farmers, indeed all the people of this state need to take that into account," Hutchinson said.

Hutchinson also rapped provisions in the Democratic platform such as "divestiture of the oil companies, common situs picketing, repeal of right-to-work provisions, socialistic health care and a guaranteed annual income for everyone."

"All of this leads me to believe that the national slogan for this campaign will now be U.S. District Court Judge Adrian Spears has asked the 5th

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) - Officials of the family-oriented Six Flags amusement park were red-faces today because of an adult film star.

It's not because they indulge in X-rated movie watching. They learned Thursday that unknowingly booked a rock singer who doubles as an adult movie actress for a performance at the park Saturday night.

Andrea True wrote and starred in the recently released X-rated movie "Once Over Nightly." She will be appearing at Six Flags as the star of the rock group "Andrea True Connection."

Six Flags spokesman Bruce Neal said Thursday he was surprised to learn Miss True's background and said he was sure no other officials of the park were aware of it when she was booked.

"But that appearing in X-rated movies is not what she will be doing here Saturday night," Neal said. "She will be singing and it will be suitable for the park."

U.S. Attorney Calls For Civil Rights Charges

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - The U.S. attorney's office has recommended that the federal file on former Castroville City Marshal Frank Hayes be closed.

Hayes was convicted by a state court jury San Angelo on July 8 of aggravated assault in connection with the slaying of Richard Morales in September 1975.

Hayes was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

John M. Pinchey, assistant U.S. attorney here, said Wednesday he has written a letter recommending that no federal civil rights charges be filed against Hayes.

He said a final decision would be made by Justice Department officials in Washington.

Ruben Sandoval, attorney for the Morales family, said he had asked this week that the Justice Department file criminal civil rights charges against Hayes.

Testimony at the trial showed Morales was in Hayes' custody when he was killed.

Some Mexican American groups have criticized the verdict against Hayes. Morales' widow said she was disappointed and had hoped Hayes would be convicted of murder and sentenced to life in prison.

Bookstore Planned For Houston

HOUSTON (AP) - The nation's largest Government Printing Office GPO bookstore has opened in a Houston shopping center.

Thomas F. McCormick, public printer of the United States, said Thursday the store is the largest of the GPO's 24 bookstores scattered across the nation.

Others stores in the network, including five in the Washington, D.C. area, are in federal buildings. The only other bookstore in Texas is in Dallas.

The Houston facility, in College Center on the busy Gulf Freeway, has 5,000 square feet of floor space.

McCormick said the objective of making the store more accessible to the public could cause some older stores to be relocated.

"If the results of the Houston venture turn out well, it may influence whether we will relocate some existing bookstores and where new ones might be situated," he said.

Exemption Dismissed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The application of Southland Paper Mills Inc. for an exemption to a Railroad Commission order restricting the use of natural gas to fire boilers has been dismissed on the Lufkin firm's own motion.

The commission had set a hearing for July 21.

Southland had asked that Intratec, Houston Pipe Line and Southland Energy Corp., a subsidiary of Southland, be allowed to deliver gas to the mill in excess of the limit of 3,000,000 cubic feet a day.

By Bob Nigh

Got a call from well-known columnist Putt Powell of the Amarillo Daily News just the other day welcoming me to the area...and that's just one of several examples of Panhandles friendliness I've encountered in my first week here in Hereford.

Well, now that I have that mushy stuff out of the way maybe we can have some fun tossing about ideas, opinions, and experiences in the rest of my columns. See ya' next time.

KENT, Ohio (AP) - The Cleveland Browns say offensive guard Billy Corbett will be sidelined for about 10 days because of a sprained knee suffered during practice Wednesday.

The injury to the veteran of Canadian pro football was at first feared serious. But tests proved negative.

The 6-foot-6, 280-pound Corbett has a history of knee problems, but could be a key factor for the Browns' offensive line this season if he can shake that stigma.

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) - A. J. Foyt, three-time winner of the Indianapolis 500, again is planning to race in the Talladega 500 stock car race on Aug. 8, officials of Alabama International Motor Speedway said Thursday.

In the last couple of years, Foyt has entered in several races at the 2.66-mile trioval, but family illnesses and rainouts have always forced him to cancel his plans to race.

The Houston, Tex. resident is to drive a Chevrolet owned and prepared by Hoss Ellington of Wilmington, N.C.

The Grand National race now has 46 advance entries for the $201,045 in prize money. Forty cars will start the race.

CHICAGO (AP) - Five players, including three linebackers, have been cut after tryouts with the Chicago Bears of the National Football League team.

Linebackers Jack LeVack, Andre Jackson and Wayne Womack, place-kicker Tom Kluban and running back Jim Pooler were released Thursday, a spokesman said.

The spokesman also reported that fullback Champ Henson and wide receiver Ron Shanklin missed the Bears' Thursday afternoon practice because of minor injuries. Henson has a leg bruise and Shanklin has a sore knee, the spokesman said.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) - The Tampa Bay Buccaneers haven't found a way to beat the heat of the Sunshine State. But they're trying. They drink about a quarter-ton of liquid during practice.

In the broiling 90-degree weather they consume 20 to 30 gallons of water; 10 gallons of fruit punch; and 20 to 25 gallons of a Gatorade-type solution.

TWO PITCHES, THREE OUTS NEW YORK (AP) - Relief pitcher Larry Hardy relieved for Jim Richard in the ninth for the Houston Astros. After Bud Harellson singled, Hardy fanned pinch hitter Joe Torre. After the third strike, Hardy got Bruce Boiesclair to hit into a double play on the first pitch to beat the Mets, 5-4.

Hardy actually got the final two outs on two pitches.

County Net Meet Kicks Off Friday

Competition in twelve divisions will begin bright and early Friday, July 23 as the 1976 Deaf Smith County Tennis Tournament gets underway at the Hereford High School tennis complex.

The tournament, sponsored by the sports committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, is open to all persons living in the county or within the boundaries of the Hereford School District.

Steve Thomas will be the director for the tourney which is to run from Friday through Sunday, July 25.

Eight divisions will be open to area youngsters, both male and female. Groups for age 12 and under, 14 and under, 16 and under, and 18 and under will be included.

For the adults there will be open divisions for both men and women, a Junior Vets division for men 35 and over, and a mixed doubles division.

Entry into the tourney must be completed by 5 p.m. Tuesday, July 20. Fees must accompany the entry form when it is returned to the chamber office. Entry blanks are available at Western Auto downtown, Pro Honda Sports Center at Park Plaza, Spangler Jewelry at Sugarland Mall, Gibson's Discount Center, or at the chamber office.

Junior events will start at 9:00 a.m. Friday, July 23, while the adult events will begin at 9:00 Saturday, July 24. Trophies will be awarded to the winner and runner-up in each division.

Saints Cut Gilliam Briefs

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Joe Gilliam, the talented but troubled quarterback who said five days ago he only wanted to play football, now may not get the chance.

Gilliam was cut by the New Orleans Saints Friday after a brief tryout marred by two long absences from practice.

The action leaves his pro football future in doubt since Gilliam was passed over by 14 National Football League teams last month when he was waived by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

"I don't know whether anybody will give me a second chance now," said Gilliam shortly after hearing the news.

"I don't have any hard feelings...but I set the house on fire in practice and I'm waived the next day," he said, voice breaking during a telephone interview before leaving camp.

Head coach Hank Stram refused to discuss the specifics of the decision but Gilliam said he missed a mandatory breakfast Friday morning. However, that may only have been the final straw. The former Tennessee State star was arrested near his alma mater in Nashville last month and charged with possession of cocaine and a weapon.

The arrest came three days after Stram, who says that in brighter days he once offered a first round draft pick for Gilliam, acquired him from the Steelers for the standard waiver price of $100.

Gilliam arrived early for training camp but borrowed a teammate's car on opening day and disappeared.

Four days later, when he returned, Stram said only that he was gone for "personal reasons" and fined him $1,000.

Mickey Lolich of the New York Mets broke into baseball in 1959. That season he pitched for Knoxville in the Sally League and Durham in the Carolina League for a combined 4-8 record.

Tom Seaver broke in with Jacksonville in the International League at age 21 in 1966 and compiled a 12-12 record.

Manager Dave Bristol of the Atlanta Braves began his baseball career with Welch in the Appalachian League in 1951 as a second baseman.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Minnesota Twins broke into baseball as a shortstop with Durham in the Piedmont League in 1943.

Good Attention Key To Fishing Success

Just as in anything else -- if you want to be a truly successful fisherman you've got to give it the attention it requires.

Expert fishermen contend that failure to pay close attention to the fishing line has caused many a jumbo bass to be lost. Usually a loose line does it.

Once a cast is started the line should be kept taut all the way to the water. Neither should there be slack in the line during the retrieve, for the angler must be able to "feel" any and all contacts made with the lure, be they ever so light.

There must be something to what they say because many a fish strikes at the bait the instant it hits the water, and before the angler has taken up the slack in his line. Some fish have been known to smack the bait before it even lands on the water -- which means that the fisherman is often caught unaware since he is not yet ready to set the hook. That is, unless he has cast a taut line.

More fish are lost from loose lines than most fishermen realize, and some were actually hooked fish that got away before the angler even knew they had grabbed the bait.

Lots of fish follow the lure and hit the bait from behind, on the retrieve, as it moves toward the caster. When Mr. Bass feels the sharp point of the hook he expels the bait immediately.

Since there was no tug on the line the fisherman does not realize there has been any activity -- unless he had his eye on the line, which sometimes moves only a tiny bit.

Too many anglers cast the bait out, then reel in with the butt-end of the rod handle resting firmly against the hip. As a consequence, they seldom get the feel of the strike.

Landry 'Pleased' With Camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry seemed highly pleased Saturday with his fleet of running backs although Duane Thomas is hobbled and No. 2 draft choice Jim Jensen is not in camp.

"It's probably the best set of backs-as a group-that we've ever had in a training camp," Landry said.

He mentioned Preston Pearson and Robert Newhouse, last year's starters, Doug Dennison, Scott Laidlaw and Charlie Young, the back-up people with experience, and Ron Johnson, acquired from the New York Giants.

Sunday will be an off day for the club, and is the first break for the rookies who have been having two-a-day workouts for two weeks.

The Cowboys will have another six days of two-a-days before trimming down to just one drill a day.

They open the seventh round draft choice from Michigan State, and Harry Goden, a free agent who has been in a Dallas camp before, left camp voluntarily, a spokesman said Saturday.

THREE STOOD OUT NEW YORK (AP) - In more than 100 years of thoroughbred racing only three fillies are on record as never having been beaten by colts. They are Regret, who won all five races in 1914-1915 including the Kentucky Derby; Top Flight, who won all seven starts including the 1931 Futurity, and the ill-fated Ruffian, a winner of all 10 starts before breaking a leg in Belmont Park's match race against the colt Foolish Pleasure in 1975.

Astros Win One ; Rangers Lose 10th

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) - Graig Nettles pounded three hits, including a double and a homer, and drove in three runs as the New York Yankees beat Texas 7-5 Saturday night for their fifth straight victory and the Rangers' 10th consecutive defeat.

Nettles doubled to climax a two-run first inning, singled and later scored in the third and hit his 13th homer with a man on in the fifth.

Nettles' homer down the right field line came off Texas reliever Mike Bacsik, who replaced starter and loser Steve Barr, 2-5, in the second inning.

Dock Ellis, 11-4, pitched 61-3 innings of five-hit ball to notch the victory, his seventh in a row.

after four straight losses. Dick Tidrow picked up his third save in four-games by retiring Jeff Burroughs with the base loaded in the seventh.

John Montefusco threw a five-hitter to lead San Francisco to its second straight victory over Philadelphia, a 4-1 decision Saturday, and nearly missed shutting out the powerful Phils for the second day in a row.

Montefusco, 8-8, struck out five hitters without allowing a walk and held the Phils scoreless until two were out in the sixth, when he gave up a single to Dave Cash and a triple to Larry Bowa.

Philadelphia had gone scoreless for 17 innings before getting their run off Montefusco. Ed Halicki had shutout the Phils 1-0 on Friday.

Larry Herndon had a bases-loaded single in the second inning, driving in two runs.

In other National League day games, Atlanta shelled Pittsburgh 10-2, St. Louis downed San Diego 7-1, and Houston shutout the New York Mets 1-0 in the only American League day game, Kansas City edged Boston 2-1.

Ken Henderson hit a three-run homer and Atlanta pitcher Dick Ruthven snapped Pittsburgh's four-game win streak by scattering 10 hits. It was the first victory this season for Ruthven, 11-8, over Pittsburgh.

Right-hander John Denny threw a four-hitter to spark St. Louis past San Diego, which has lost seven in a row. Denny, 5-4, struck out three and walked two.

Mike Tyson led a 13-hit Cardinal attack with four singles and an RBI.

Cesar Cedeno smacked a solo homer, his 15th of the season, with two out in the first inning, and Houston rookie Joaquin Andujar outduelled Tom Seaver for the victory. Seaver allowed three hits in his eight innings on the mound, while Andujar, 6-5, gave up five hits in going the route.

The American League's leading hitter, George Brett of Kansas City, homered off Louis Tiant to lead off the ninth, lifting the Royals over Boston. Mark Littell, 6-3, got the win in relief.

Bubba Smith Signs Contract With Oilers

BY MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) - After several long discussions and a morning parking lot conference, Bubba Smith signed his 1976 contract Saturday to get the Houston Oilers' training camp off to a successful start.

All it cost Oiler assistant general manager Tom Williams was a parking ticket.

Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips put the Oilers through the first practice at Sam Houston State University while Bubba Smith and Williams huddled one last time over Smith's contract.

Williams, who still has to sign Tody Smith and rookie Mike Barber, considered his day successful despite getting a parking ticket, moments after signing Smith.

"I might have held out to miss more workouts at another team," Bubba Smith said jokingly. "But I couldn't do that to Bum."

"Heck, he had to sign," Phillips said. "The players wouldn't get off his back during the workout."

While Bubba Smith was scheduled to be in uniform for the afternoon workout, five other players, including Tody Smith and starting linebacker

Robert Brazile, failed their physical exams.

Phillips said Brazile had to retake a blood test and Tody Smith had a swollen knee.

"All players, about two days before camp, decide they have to get in shape," Phillips said. "So Tody went and got 500 pounds of weights and did some squats and 500 pounds is too much. He could have practiced today but we'll take another look Monday."

Hereford Whallops Bonham

Three other players were not as lucky, however, and were waived after failing their physicals. They are quarterback Charles Napper, running back Jim Strong and defensive end Mike Walker.

"We saw 82 eager football players trying to do what they are supposed to do," Phillips said of the first workouts, held on a side practice field because Friday night rains had washed out the regular facility.

Bubba Smith, who backed up his brother Tody at defensive end and curly Culp at middle guard last season, said there were no serious problems with his contract despite the last-minute signing.

Smith, Phillips and Williams met in a dorm parking lot Saturday morning shortly before the first workout and still were discussing contract. Williams and Bubba Smith appeared at practice a short time later.

"It was just a matter of terminology," Smith said. "I'm very happy with my contract now."

Concerning Williams' parking ticket, Phillips said "As a law-abiding citizen I think he deserved it."

Hereford's Girls Major League All-Stars grabbed the consolation trophy of the Amarillo Junior High Tournament Saturday afternoon with a convincing 28-13 win over Bonham Junior High of Amarillo.

Louise Mays was a ball of fire at the plate for Hereford as she collected a home run, two doubles, and a single in four trips at bat. Lori Albracht and Terri Harkins combined on the mound for the win for the locals.

Hereford took a 13-0 lead after one inning of the contest, but Bonham rallied in the second to trail only 14-10 after Hereford had added another run in the top of the inning.

After three frames Hereford held a 16-13 margin, and they put the game away with twelve more runs in the fourth, holding Bonham scoreless in the bottom of the inning to end the game.

The Hereford Girls Pony League All-Stars open their post-season play Monday night as they take on Tascosa at 7:30 p.m. at Fair Park Field in Amarillo. Fourteen teams are entered in the tournament.

Blakeley Coach Of Year

DALLAS (AP) - Bill Blakeley, who led North Texas State to national prominence in basketball last season, was named Saturday as Senior College Coach of the Year for Winter Sports by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

It was Blakeley's first season as coach at the Denton school. He had been out of coaching for four years. He added only one player to a 1975 team which only won six of 26 games and his club finished with a 22-4 record. The 16-game turnaround was the best improvement among all NCAA colleges last season.

"It's quite an honor, but it's an honor that was won by the men on the North Texas State basketball team," Blakeley said. "They're the ones who had the successful season. I never scored a point all season; they never even let me shoot a free throw."

Blakeley received 30 first-place votes in the TSWA balloting and 642 points in the preferential balloting to beat out Texas Tech basketball Coach Gerald Meyers, who scored 570.

Texas A&M basketball Coach Shelby Metcalf was third with 460 points, followed by St. Mary's basketball Coach Ed Messbarger with 398 and Howard Payne basketball Coach Bob Darryberry with 393.

Abe Lemons won the honor in 1975 when he was the basketball coach at Pan American.

When the British were established in the New York City area, they tempted colonists with the gains to be derived from bartering agricultural products for officially boycotted European goods. Surprises Won't Work For Cowboys

The Dallas Cowboys surprised almost everybody, including themselves, when they bounced back from an 8-6 season in 1974 to earn a trip to the Super Bowl last season.

This year, however, the Cowboys won't be able to sneak up on many National Football League rivals.

Dallas lost the Super Bowl to the Pittsburgh Steelers in a thriller at Miami, 21-17, after a 10-4 record. "Three of the losses were by a total of 11 points, the fourth to the St. Louis Cardinals by 14.

But now comes 1976. "We won't surprise many people this year," says Coach Tom Landry as he herds the Cowboys at their summer camp at California Lutheran College.

The reason, Landry says, is because any squad coming off a Super Bowl appearance will command great respect from its peers in the NFL.

The current prospects, however, are quite unlike 1975 at this stage of training.

Last summer Dallas had lost through retirement such proven stars as Bob Lilly and Cornell Green. Calvin Hill had jumped to the World Football League and several others were headed to the NFL.

Offensively, the Cowboys now appear set, with quarterback Roger Staubach the key. Staubach's supporting cast includes Drew and Preston Pearson, Robert Newhouse, Golden Richards, Doug Dennison, Jean Fugett, Billy Joe DuPree and prodigal Duane Thomas.

It is the defense and the kicking game that concern Landry, who, since the retirement of Cincinnati's Paul Brown is the dean of NFL coaches.

Age is the villain. Landry hopes that it hasn't suddenly caught up with three of his defensive standouts, linebackers Lee Roy Jordan and Dave Edwards and cornerback Mel Renfro.

There was some concern about the three a year ago in camp, concern which disappeared as the campaign wore on.

"The real key," Landry says, "is whether you can take these veterans and bring them back for another year, or do you have to replace them with younger players."

Dallas wasn't overjoyed with its kicking game last year, but there is hope that at least the punting woes may be cured by the Cowboys' third string quarterback, Danny White, late of the WFL and Arizona State.

Landry isn't promising another Super Bowl team, but after last year, he probably won't be bowled over if the Cowboys make it to another one, in Pasadena's Rose Bowl next January.

The Olympics: an expert's opinion

By Murray Olderman

EUGENE, Ore. — (NEA) — In 1932, when he was 10 years old, Roberto Quercetani was walking down a narrow, cobbled street of his native Florence, Italy, when he saw an electric sign flashing on the side of a building.

It announced, for all Italians to beam over, that one Luigi Beccali had won the 1500-meters race in the Olympic Games being held in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

From that moment on, Roberto was hooked on track and field as a sport and as a passion.

There is in the press boxes, when any track and field meets of national or international class are held, an elite group of savants. They are men such as Jesse Abramson, who once wrote for the defunct New York Herald Tribune and now works for the U.S. Olympic Committee; Bob Steiner of the International Track Association, the stadium announcer at the U.S. Olympic track and field trials; Art Hoffman, an oracle from Los Angeles.

But even among the cognoscenti, Roberto Quercetani (ker-chet-ahn-ee) occupies a special niche. He is the most knowledgeable men's track and field expert in the world.

While he watched the During World War II, he remembers, his hobby was listening to foreign language broadcasts beamed from neutral Sweden, describing the intense rivalry between the great Swedish milers, Gunder Hagg and Arne Anderson.

Roberto was working as a bank clerk then, but his interest in track was already obsessive. The big moment of his life had been in 1938 when a U.S. track team came to Florence and he met high jumper Mel Walker and sprinter Perrin Walker. He marveled over George Varoff, a pole vaulter from Oregon, jumping over 14 feet with a bamboo pole.

In the post-war period, Quercetani worked for five years in the foreign department of the Florence tourist office and then decided to make track and field his life.

He is a free-lancer who serves as the track correspondent for La Nazione and Il Messagero in Rome, also the Finnish newspaper, Furun Sanomat, in Paavo Nurmi's home town of Turku. He is the European editor for Track and Field News, published in Los Altos, Calif., and a commentator for Swiss-Italian Radio.

He has been to 22 countries in pursuit of track and field. "You are young," a Cardinal in the Vatican City told me," notes Roberto. "He has been to 104 countries." The Italian authority keeps extensive files, helped by his wife, Maria Luisa, so that no outstanding feat — whether in distant Siberia or deep in the African continent — escapes his attention.

To prepare for the forthcoming Olympics, he has interviewed personally more than 100 world-class athletes, including the Russian sprinter, Valery Borzov. "He is, as you say, cool as a cucumber," says Roberto. "The greatest progress in track and field is the role of medicine in sports, even to doping. Borzov was trained by a physiologist."

knowledge gives Roberto Quercetani a perspective on the future. What follows are the predictions for the XXIst Olympiad in men's track and field, prepared especially for Newspaper Enterprise Association by the Italian expert, the top authority in the field. "Montreal is more difficult to predict than any other Games," he says. "There are more and more people in high ranks. Not just two or three, but a baker's dozen."

The chauvinism of the male intrudes in track and field. Quercetani doesn't hesitate to make predictions in the men's events. He disclaims knowledge to forecast the women's events. A roundup of opinion finds several American women given a chance to win medals at Montreal.

In the sprints, Brenda Morehead will challenge defending champion Renata Stecher of East Germany in the sprints. Kathy Schmidt won a bronze medal in the javelin in 1972 and is a contender for a gold medal. Joni Huntley is a long shot to unseat world record holder Rosemarie Ackermann of East Germany in the high jump but could win a silver or bronze. Kathy McMillan has a chance in the long jump. Jane Frederick is among the leaders in the pentathlon. The American women's relays teams are also in contention for medals.

SELF DEFENSE HANDGUNS
Even before David laid Goliath low with his trusty pet rock, peacelov' folk have needed "equalizers."

Today, with the crime rate pacing inflation, handgun sales are soaring. The buyers? Worried home and business owners, and women who walk dark streets after work.

A PERSONAL PISTOL, one slathed in purse or pocket, is out for most citizens. There are laws against carrying a concealed weapon and the genders aren't overly friendly about passing out permits. A Buscadero Bell draped around a Brooks Brothers suit or office frock may not be the height of fashion, but "legal" it is in most parts, anyway.

For home or business, select a handgun you're not afraid to practice shoot. It's surprising how many small-statured types want something in the baby bazooka class. Well, target practice with one's eyes tightly closed counts little when the chips are down.

THE VALUE OF A HANDGUN can be psychological, but don't bank on it. There may be a time when it's either shoot first, shoot back, or curtail. Here, handgun "power" has some validity, though it isn't as critical as accuracy. Stopping power equates with energy.

MANY CUSTOMERS, impressed with the ballistics of the 22 WMR (equal to the 38 Special), wonder why they need a centerfire handgun. The reason? Those awesome performance figures are with a 26 in.-rifle barrel. The same bullet, when propelled from a handgun, delivers only about half its potential velocity and energy.

Most people shoot passably well with handguns of the 38 Colt Special genre. If, however, the moderate noise and recoil preclude accuracy, remember a flock of accurately aimed 22 rimfire pills, staccatoed out of a semi-auto, will do more to discourage an aggressor than dust drifting down from big holes in the ceiling.

Party or Man?

When I first became aware of the world politics, I can remember grand-dad, while praising Franklin Roosevelt, explained to me that it's not the man... it's the party. I think I'm finally beginning to see the light.

Just about everybody is agreed that Jimmy Carter is a nice guy and comes across great on television. We do not worry about the man himself, it's the platform of his party that concerns us.

The Democratic platform states in strong terms that there should be national health insurance and free medical care for American, that the federal government should provide jobs for everyone who will work, that there should be a guaranteed annual income, that the Taft-Hartley Act should be amended so that it is mandatory to join a union in order to get most jobs.

It is a platform that calls for more government spending and a stepped up "transfer payment" system which moves money from taxpayers to recipients who do not or cannot pay taxes. It may be that most Americans want this type of platform, but we are considerably disturbed about it.

There is a great difference in Democrats. The Texas Demos have long been controlled by conservatives and we feel comfortable with them. On the national level, however, the liberals are in command—in the party and in Congress, and we don't like the results. That doesn't necessarily mean we are Republican, either, because they may come up with a similar platform.

It appears that we are among those in the political minority, and we are going to be concerned about what happens this fall.

—O.G. Nieman

Handgun Question

Gun control legislation is due to be voted by Congress soon, and a local gun dealer warns that the bill (HR-11193) is much more than a proposed ban of "Saturday night specials."

The firearm and ammunition dealers feel, according to industry sources, that the bill is the first step in outlawing the sale of all firearms. The broad and severe restrictions included in the bill might eliminate 75 per cent of all dealers, according to the report.

Some of the provisions of the bill which dealers are concerned about include the new restrictions on issuing licenses to wholesalers and dealers, increased license fees, increased reporting requirements, and a requirement for "adequate security devices."

Firearm industry sources say the ban on handguns that do not meet certain criteria would eliminate about 75 per cent of all sporting and target handguns. They also report that a 14-day minimum waiting period is required of purchasers, with delivery of a firearm permitted after 28 days if there is no negative response by government authorities.

The local gun dealer urges citizens to write their congressmen concerning the broad restrictions written into the bill.

Talk of Texas

By Jack Maguire

By Jack Maguire

HOW IT BEGAN—Texans should start a movement to get an historical marker erected in Lamesa, Dawson County, on the spot where a restaurant called Ehel's Home Cooking once stood.

It was there, on December 14, 1911, that an itinerant short order cook named Jimmy Don Perkins misread a waitress' order. In so doing he accidentally created a dish destined to become a star in the Texas culinary firmament.

Perkins was an excellent cook but he lacked formal education. He especially had trouble reading handwriting. So when a waitress turned in an order reading "chicken, fried steak" Perkins misread it. He grabbed a piece of thin beefsteak, rolled it in flour and fried it in deep grease.

The waitress had wanted an order of chicken and an order of fried steak. In misunderstanding the order, however, Perkins had created a delightful new dish. Today chicken fried steak, cooked correctly and served with thick cream gravy, is a delicacy treasured by gourmets in the country over.

FABULOUS TEXAS—Neiman-Marcus, the famed Dallas store, has one item for sale which carried a price tag of $1 million.

It's a pair of 13 x 24-inch screens containing four panels carved from jade. The screens date from the Ch'ien Lung dynasty (1736-1795) and were a gift from the Czar of Russia to the Emperor of China.

State sales add another $50,000 to the price tag.

THE READER'S WRITE—Mention of the now extinct Waco, Beaumont, Trinity & Sabine Railroad in "Talk of Texas" (May 30) brought mail from nostalgic readers all around the state.

Bob Bowman of Lufkin, an authority on East Texas history, wrote that the railroad was famed for its variety of nicknames. He says that most of the people who lived along the line never knew its official name.

To them it probably was best known as the Wobbly, Bobbley, Turnover and Stop—a sobriquet resulting from its frequent derailments.

During Prohibition, when bootleggers used the line to distribute their moonshine whiskey, the road was often known as the Wine, Beer, Tequila and Shiny.

Bowman says that the road's habit of running trains that were usually late got it still another nickname: Won't Be Back 'Til Saturday.

THE LAST MAN—Enrique Esparza, who died in 1913 at the age of 89, was the last survivor of the Battle of the Alamo.

As a child of 12, Esparza had been taken to the Alamo by his father who fought with the Texans. On March 6, 1836, when General Santa Anna and his Mexican troops overwhelmed and slaughtered the Alamo's defenders, the lives of the noncombatants were spared. Mrs. Enrique Esparza and her four children were among those to escape death.

Later Mrs. Esparza was given 1,920 acres of land by the Republic of Texas as a gesture of appreciation for her husband's service. Enrique grew up on the land grant and continued to live in San Antonio until his death.

Views Of Other Editors

For the past several years, this column has been reserved, in the graduation edition, for my personal message to members of the graduating class.

I've chosen, instead, to speak to parents. And if the graduates would like to follow along, as future parents, it possibly will be beneficial in the future.

We parents are going to be the ruin of our children.

That statement has been a long time coming, but maybe it's not too late. But some of us are doing what we feel is the best for our offsprings, except it is working in the exact opposite.

What it is we're doing, is to be overprotective of our little darlings... making sure we give or get for them what we always wanted for ourselves.

With our actions, we may be accomplishing what we seek, but impairing the opportunities for those to follow.

For instance, we are giving people fits who are trying to work with our children. It doesn't seem to make any difference if it's a Little League Coach or game official, a Girl Scout leader, a teacher or what. We either take advantage of them or mistreat them, all in the guise of talking care of our children, and their rights.

Check with someone who works with volunteer organizations which benefit children. You will find it is almost impossible to find a team coach, an umpire, a leader, just anyone to accept responsibility.

That's either because we've given them so much trouble in the past no one wants to serve, or we turn our children over to them and go on our merry, not offering to assist.

I had a teacher to tell me just recently of quitting the business, because there was no respect for teachers and no authority for teachers to care for those without respect.

Parents, not the students, almost caused the abolishment of cheerleaders at the junior high recently. They raised so

Thanks Doctors Comments Carter

"Oh, how my back hurts. I haven't felt right ever since I caught the flu. I think I'll make an appointment at the doctor's office," says the ailing victim.

"Hello; can I make an appointment with the doctor for Friday at 3 p.m.," asks the patient.

"No, we don't have an opening for three weeks," says the medical receptionist.

"You mean I can't see him for that long. By then I will either be cured or die," the patients exclaims.

"I'm sorry, but the doctor is too overloaded until then. You'll have to wait," the receptionist concludes.

Although fictionalized, the foregoing conversation has been frequent recently in Hereford. With the critical doctor shortage resulting from the death of Dr. Clarence Hicks and the discontinued practice of Dr. Hugh McCrary, our community has been hit harder than most Panhandle towns, which have experienced the doctor shortage problem for years.

Any attempt to make an appointment with some local clinics may not result in a visit for as long as a month depending on the severity of the case or the patient load of the doctors.

At one clinic, all the doctors were unavailable for one reason or another. All the cases of the clinic fell on the shoulders of one physician, who was already scheduled to all practical limits with emergencies, deliveries or accidents.

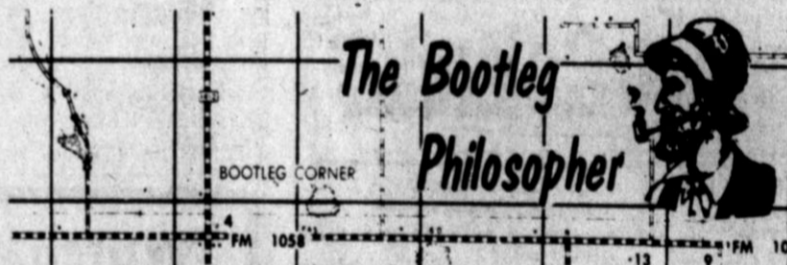

It is no wonder more doctors don't leave faced with this situation, but they have maintained a devotion to the medical profession in Hereford and decided not to leave. They are to be commended for this as they are in no way to blame for the lack of rural medical care.

If anything, they are more determined to solve the situation to relieve their practices. With luck, visible results may be seen by January 1.

Perryton, in the northeast part of the Texas Panhandle, has been hard by the doctor shortage with the announced departure of one of their four physicians. He is Dr. Ansel McDowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Ansel McDowell of 207 N. Texas. They are the owners of McDowell Pharmacy in Downtown Hereford.

Harold Hudson, publisher of the Perryton Herald, wrote this week that Dr. McDowell's move will result in an apparent crisis. While not able to offer any solutions, Hudson expressed the hope that the remaining doctors could provide the town with proper care and that the community as a whole would remain healthy.

Like Hereford, Perryton has made contacts with possible physicians, although it may take at least a year to obtain one after medical schools graduate new students.

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith grass farm on Bootleg Corner watched the Democratic National Convention on television, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

It's too late to do anything about it now, but during the Democratic National Convention the main problem it seemed to me, since the platform and nominee were settled on ahead of time, was getting the delegates to stay in their seats and be quiet.

The TV cameras kept showing the delegates milling around and talking while the chairman pounded his gavel. Part of this I suppose was due to the upbringing of the delegates, most of whom I'm convinced had parents who kept telling them to be quiet when they were children and couldn't make it stick. I kept expecting a voice on TV to come on saying "Do not adjust your set, this is a political convention you're watching."

Some of the inattention was of course caused by the speeches, some of which were so dull you knew for sure the speakers had written them themselves.

Regardless of the difficulty, the problem ought to be solved. Such a spectacle going out on the air could damage a party's image, and would much fuss... one teacher was even accused of falsifying voting totals... that they were told to drop the argument or there would be no more cheerleaders.

This happened a few years ago at the high school, concerning twirlers. It's my feeling that we should help those who work with our children, all we can. Along with that, we should teach our children respect for those who work with them. Let's help our children by have if it had gone into more homes, which it would have if there hadn't been regular programs on other channels.

Therefore I have rolled up my sleeves and tackled the problem. Oh I know people will say it can't be solved, that it's like trying to solve inflation, when any thinking person knows the way to stop inflation is to make other people reduce their prices and leave mine alone.

But I have the solution. It came to me during the first two hours of the convention.

The answer to the million-around delegate problem is seat belts. Lock 'em in. When the chairman's gavel falls, it hits a button that makes every un-fastened belt in the hall shriek with that awful buzzing sound car owners know about. With two-thirds of the belts buzzing away, the noise will be so fierce and earsplitting the delegates will sit down and buckle up to keep from going insane. Once buckled up, the release button for all is maintained at the chairman's podium. First-aid people will have to be stationed around the hall to take care of over-enthusiastic delegates who try to leap to their feet and pull their seats up by the roots. This won't cost much. There are thousands of unused seat belts available in cars all around the country.

Yours faithfully,

J.A.

Kiwanis Club Promotes Krazy Koupon Project

Hereford's Noon Kiwanis club will embark Monday on a money-making project designed to benefit consumers of Hereford. Krazy Koupon booklets will be sold by all Kiwanians for a two-day period this week.

Ed Coplen, Kiwanis president, says the booklets will be a real value for the persons who purchase them. The booklets contain 59 coupons that are redeemable at many Hereford merchants. The coupons are good for free meals at participating restaurants, discounts on clothing, free services for automobiles and many other services provided by Hereford merchants.

"Anyone buying one of these booklets can save the cost of the booklets just by using two or three of the coupons. The remaining coupons are just added values of which the consumer can take advantage. The more coupons the consumer uses, the more money he saves," said Coplen. Cost of the booklet is $10.

Kiwanians will be selling the booklets in a door-to-door campaign beginning Monday night. In addition, several businesses in Hereford will be selling the books. Krazy Koupous can be purchased at Western Auto, Abbie's Mister Shop, First Printing, Pioneer Fertilizer and The Brogue. There will be no telephone soliciting according to Coplen.

The project could be on of the biggest money-makers of the year for the Noon Kiwanis Club.

The club sponsors many civic activities throughout the year, including a summer youth track program through the AAU, a college scholarship for a deserving HHS senior, camperships to Camp Wigwam for retarded children and many other community-related service projects.

The project was brought before the Kiwanis Club by David Loerwald, a Hereford resident now attending Stephen F. Austin College in Nacodoches. Loerwald asked the Kiwanis club to sponsor the project by selling the booklets. Working as Key Advertising, Loerwald did all of the preparation of the booklet, calling on local merchants to participate in the program. Loerwald will use the profits he makes from the project to further his college education.

Coplen was quick to point out that the Krazy Koupon project would be of great benefit to Hereford consumers, and to merchants as well. The coupons should bring added traffic to the stores as well as added business. The coupons will be effective only through a specific date, which will be printed on each coupon.

The following Hereford merchants are offering coupon savings in the booklet: A&W Drive-in, Abbie's Mister Shop, Angel's Photography Studio, Ashley's Outlet Store, Big Burger Drive-in, Big Daddy's Restaurant, Bill Bradley Photography, Etc., The Brogue, Caison's Steak House, Candy Cane, McCaslin Lumber Company, C.R. Anthony's, Christian Book Store, Clark's Spring Crest Draperies, Cowan Jewelers, Dickie's Restaurant, Edwards Pharmacy, El Toro Restaurant, Flowers West, Gaston's Popular Store, Gaston's-Sugarland Mall, Gray Mule Boot Repair, Harman's, Gattis Shoe Store, Gibson's Discount Center, Gutierrez Premier, Harold Close Walgreen Drug, Hawaiian Refreshments and Snacks, Helen's Youth Shop, Heritage Candle Shop, Hobo's Fried Chicken, J.C. Penney's Auto Center, Kester's Jewelry, Latham's Tree House, Little's, McDowell Drug, Melrose's Nursery, Merle Norman, Lil Charro Too, Mr. Burger, Norman Kerr Mobil, Pants Cage Plus, Pizza Inn, Pro Sports Center, The Range, Sherwin Williams, Spangler's, Star Theater, Susie Short's, Texas Gahery and Frame, TG&Y Family Center, The Rafter Shop, Top Dollar, The Vogue, Warrick's Shoe Shop, Western Auto, Yocum Decorators, First Printing.

Krazy Koupous Sold

Pauline Howard purchases a Krazy Koupon booklet from Kiwanian Bartley Dowell. The Noon Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the sales of the booklets as a money-making project. Dowell and Ed Coplen, far left, will serve as field generals as the Kiwanians sell the booklets Monday and Tuesday nights. Chairman of the project is Danny Boyer, far right.

Measure The Air

More and more communities are moving to install air monitoring devices in order that inhabitants can be aware of the pollution they're forced to breathe day by day. Industries which pollute the water and air have long enjoyed circumstances which made it almost impossible for the average citizen, or community, to accurately measure pollution.

Periodic pollution of streams so severe that fish are killed causes concern but gradual pollution, with the same long-term effect, and pollution of the air, which causes bronchitis, lung cancer and early death have been largely unrecognized.

The only way elected community leaders can fulfill today's obligation to the general public is to acquire both adequate measuring equipment and experts capable of reading the data therefrom (who aren't susceptible to being bought off).

10 Highway Accidents Investigated

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 10 accidents on rural highways in Deaf Smith County during the month of June, 1976, according to Sergeant W.E. Wells, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in one person killed and five persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first six months of 1976 shows a total of 48 accidents resulting in one person killed and 22 persons injured.

The rural accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for June, 1976, shows a total of 549 accidents resulting in ten persons killed and 336 injured, as compared to June, 1975, with 572 accidents resulting in 25 persons killed and 335 persons injured. This was 23 less accidents, 15 less killed, and 19 less injured in 1976 at the same period of time.

The ten traffic deaths of the month of June, 1976, occurred in the following counties: three in Jack; two in Potter; and one each in Deaf Smith, Hutchinson, Wheeler, Clay and Parker.

Carrillo Faces 4 Years In Prison

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Defense Lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes said he will file a motion for a new trial and will appeal the case.

District Court Judge Joe B. Evins allowed Carrillo to remain free on bond pending the outcome of the appeal procedure.

HATBORO, Pa. (AP) — Bob McFadden is a railroad tycoon in the dream world. He has a collection of 5,000 rolling stock models which range from an inch-long antique toy to an 85-foot, real dining car. The value of his collection is estimated at $65,000.

"It may not be the largest collection around, but I have 95 per cent of a major manufacturer's regular production in the 20-year post-World War II period."

Eager to work around trains, McFadden, a 29-year-old school teacher, has worked as an engineer for a railroad and once served as a ticket clerk at a terminal.

Amarilloans Indicted For Cheating Phone Co.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) - An Amarillo couple was indicted Thursday by a federal grand jury on charges of cheating a telephone company through a scheme to avoid long-distance charges.

Authorities said Clayton J. Logan, his wife Lucille and their trucking company, Logan Motor Lines, Inc., were named in an 11 count indictment charging them with defrauding the General Telephone Co.

The indictment charged that in the scheme interstate drivers for the company would place collect calls to a terminal in Macomb, but the person answering would refuse to accept the charges.

Then the driver would leave a message to call back, including an area code, which would disclose the location of the driver and indicate whether he needed to speak to anyone at the terminal, according to a spokesman for the FBI.

Maximum penalty upon conviction is a $1,000 fine or five years in prison on each count, the spokesman said.

HOT WATER
WASHINGTON (AP) - "You can't properly clean dishes without hot water or phosphate detergents," Dr. G. H. Watrous, Jr., recently told the International Water Quality Symposium, "but if your water is hard and you soften it you can cut the use of detergents about 50 per cent, and reduce the amount of phosphorus needed to one-sixth."

Hot water is essential, he said. He recommended its temperature be at least five degrees Fahrenheit higher than the melting point of the fats soiling the dishes, but not so hot that it hardens milk and other protein soil.

Watrous is professor of Food Science and Industry at Pennsylvania State University. The symposium was sponsored by the Water Quality Association.

Space Shuttle Astronauts To Train At White Sands

ACROSS FROM THE POST OFFICE IN DOWNTOWN HEREFORD.

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE (AP) - Astronauts chosen to take reusable shuttlecraft into space will be trained at this southern New Mexico missile range, a spokesman said.

Pilot training for the NASA space shuttle program will begin at White Sands next month and continue through the life of the project, the spokesman for the Johnson Space Center in Houston said.

He said a jet aircraft, modified to simulate the shuttlecraft's "drag and lift characteristics," will be used in the training. Descent and landing approaches will be practiced at Northrup Strip, known locally as Alkali Flats, near the center of the range.

The spokesman described the shuttlecraft as a "reusable launch vehicle resembling a high-speed aircraft." It will have tanks and solid rocket boosters.

After use on space missions, he said, the craft will re-enter the earth's atmosphere and coast to its landing site like a large glider.

Training project manager Charles Haines said descent will be complicated because the shuttle craft has no normal aircraft engines. The White Sands project will be designed to give pilots experience in making their final approach at "just the right speed, altitude and sink rate," he said.

Engineers at NASA's White Sands Test Facilities have graded and marked a runway 20,000 feet long and 300 feet wide, the range said. Easily visible from earth orbit, the strip is an ancient dry lake bed northwest of White Sands National Monument.

The special aircraft will be flown to Holloman Air Force Base at Alamogordo for servicing between-missions and astronauts and instructors will be billeted at Holloman, the spokesman said.

Summer Camps

Many parents send their children to summer camps every year unaware that safety regulations governing the operation of such camps are often almost nonexistent.

In New York State one parent, who lost a son at summer camp sometime ago, began a campaign to acquaint parents of this unacceptable condition, and also government officials at the town and country level, and state legislators.

Summer is the time for outdoor living and summer camps offer many benefits to young and old. Like every other facility dealing with the public, however, they should be required to conform to safety and health regulations—carefully designed regulations enforced by the authorities.

Along The Frio

By MRS. OWEN ANDREWS

The Lubbock paper carried a story this week of the death of Mrs. Maxine Jenkins of Wolfroth. Mrs. Jenkins, 58 years of age, was a native of Hereford, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Tice. The Tices were a pioneer family here and lived in this community while Maxine was growing up and she received her education in the Hereford school.

She was married to Myron Jenkins June 12, 1936 and the couple moved to the Lubbock area where they lived since. She is survived by two sons and four daughters, 2 grandchildren and her two brothers, Lloyd Tice of Mineral Wells and Walter Tice of Sacramento, Calif.

Her funeral was Thursday at 2 p.m. at Wolfroth Church of Christ with Jerry Hestand, minister, officiating, and burial was in Lubbock Resthaven Memorial Park.

Mrs. Adolph Knabe and two younger sons, Raymond and Adolph Jr., have visited several days with relatives, including Mrs. Knabe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clem Reiter, all in the Muenster area. Their husband and father, Adolph Sr., had been here with the family a couple of weeks and they took him back to the V.A. Center at Temple, as they went down for the visit at Muenster.

Visiting the Lloyd Shultz and Ray Shultz families this past weekend were their sister, Mrs. Frank Padak and Mr. Padak of Buffalo, N.Y. and brothers, Jinks Shultz, of Houston and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Shultz of Roscoe.

Visiting the Earnest Harders this week were her brother Art Schmidt and Mrs. Schmidt, of Burlington, Colo. and their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Rex Mahlman and baby daughter of Dove Creek, Colo.

Mrs. Clayton Jobe accompanied her sisters, Mrs. Jane Williams, Amarillo, and Mrs. Glee Williams, Canyon, to Carlsbad N.M. last weekend. The sisters visited their two sisters there, Mrs. Joy Own and Mrs. Lola Stewart.

Mrs. D.O. Benson, Hereford, Mrs. Dueward Taylor, Friona, and Mrs. Jim Brooks attended a family gathering of Mitchell and McClendon relatives last weekend. The reunion was in Nocona.

Mrs. Harlan Barber and her cousin, Mrs. Weldon Sage.

of Lubbock took their aunt, Mrs. Laura Franklin, Lubbock, to Waco and Belton to visit her sisters and a brother. Mrs. Franklin remained for a longer visit, Mrs. Barber and Mrs. Sage staying only this weekend.

The Lon Conners visited relatives in the Dallas area several days last week. Bob Brown of Canyon preached at Frio Sunday. Mrs. Brown came with him Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D.F. Yandell attended a gathering of Daves relatives at the home of a brother, Dan in Odessa, Sunday. Two other brothers and families were there as was their sister, Mrs. Joe Autry, Jodi, and Mike. Their other brother, Jimmy, who has lived many years in Vanzuela, is returning to this country to live bringing his family and will be in Houston.

Their mother Mrs. AN.N Yandell, who lives in a nursing home in Odessa, was also able to be with them. The Autrys are also former residents of this area. Jodi, who was graduated from high school at Odessa, this spring, just returned from a months visit with the Jimmy Yandells, in Venzuela.

Genie Robbins of Follett, visited her parents, the Frank Robbins during last weekend. Also, visiting there was Genie's guest, Allen Burkhalter of Dalhart.

Gerry Robbins, of Austin, was visiting his parents, the Robbins, also. Gerry now lives in Austin and is employed as a test driver for new vehicles for a Ford distribution center, there.

Visiting the John Warrens, this week, is a niece Jeanie Ackers of Canyon.

Reconsideration Against Bell Sought

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to Spears has asked the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to reconsider its order to return to federal court a $29.2 million lawsuit against Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The Supreme Court has extended abortion rights to unwed minors and held that a married woman who wants to terminate a pregnancy cannot be forced to obtain her husband's consent.

Spears said he has sent a strongly worded petition for rehearing to the appeals court at New Orleans. Spears said he wants all 15 judges of the circuit to reconsider the case, not just the three-judge panel that decided the issue last week.

Spears had ruled earlier this year that the Bell suit belonged in state court where it originated in 1974. Bell appealed the decision and won backing from the 5th Circuit.

Judge Spears said in his petition that the appeals court does not have jurisdiction to return the case to federal court after he sent it back to state court.

He cited a U.S. Supreme Court which, he said, was designed to prevent manipulation of the court system.

The suit was filed in November 1974 by ousted Bell executive James Ashley and the family of T.O. Gravitt of Dallas. Gravitt was of Bell's Texas operations at the time of his suicide in October 1974.

The Gravitt family claims Gravitt was driven to his death by the company and that Bell libeled and slandered Gravitt during an internal investigation. Ashley makes similar claims against the company.

Trial in the suit was to have begun in state district court here this week, but the appeals court ruling last week nullified that schedule. No date has been set for a federal court trial.

Bell claims the suit should be in federal court because it is a Missouri-based company.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

I would like to tell you and your readers of a National Organization that is battling to stop Secretary of State, Henry Kissinger, from giving up our rights to the Panama Canal.

This organization is called "Save the Panama Canal" Club and is located at 1110 S. Pomona Ave. Fullerton, California 92632. The National Chairman is Jim Townsend Editor and Publisher of the National Educator.

The Panama Canal will be one of the major issues in the coming national elections, so I urge all in favor of keeping our property, to join the Panama Canal Club. Please don't let Henry Kissinger give away this vital link in our national defense.

The politicians will hear us if we are strong. As members of the Panama Canal Club, we can speak with a voice strong enough to be heard in Washington, D.C.

All who wish to join in this vital effort should send a membership fee of $5.00 to the above address immediately, as time is short now.

Sincerely,
Cora Johnson

Skyjackers Given 100-Year Penalty

HOUSTON (AP) - A federal judge sentenced three convicted skyjackers to 100 years in prison Friday and ruled the sentences were not to run concurrently with other sentences.

Charles A. Tuller, 52, and his sons, Bryce, 22, and Jonathan, 21, were convicted June 24 by a jury of six men and six women on air piracy and kidnaping charges.

U.S. District Court Judge Allen B. Hannay sentenced each to 50 years on each of the two counts.

The Tullers were indicted after an Eastern Airlines ticket agent was shot to death Oct. 29, 1972 as four men skyjacked a jetliner from Houston Intercontinental Airport to Havana.

William White Graham, 21, Alexandria, Va., also was indicted with the Tullers. He is believed to be still in Cuba.

The Tullers returned to the United States last July after spending nearly three years in Cuba. All three are under life sentences in Virginia for the murders of a police officer and a bank employe during an attempted bank robbery there shortly before the Houston skyjacking.

Tuller and his sons also face Texas murder charges in the fatal shooting of Stanley E. Hubbard, 34, of Humble, the airlines ticket agent.

Hannay said his ruling against concurrent sentences applied to sentences the Tullers are now under or may receive in the future.

During the June trial, Asst. U.S. Atty. Donald Lambright described the elder Tuller, a former Department of Commerce employe, as "probably the most dangerous man in the United States."

Hannay pronounced sentence after hearing Tuller's former wife, Edith Tuller, plea for mercy for her sons.

Black Marshal To Fight Dismissal

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) - A deputy U.S. marshal, the first black to serve in that position in the U.S. Western District of Texas, says he will fight his dismissal by the Marshals Service.

Frank Percy lost his job Thursday when U.S. District Court Judge William Sessions dissolved a temporary restrain-ing order issued in June that allowed Percy to keep working. Percy, who had been assigned to the El Paso office for about two years, said he had been accused of insubordination.

In Washington, Frank Schimaneck, general counsel of the Marshals Service, said Friday Percy had violated the agency's regulations in performing his duties.

"Percy picked up a female prisoner at the El Paso airport and transported her to a jail without having another marshal with him," Schimaneck said. "He is also accused of not using proper restraints in the handling of the prisoner."

"We consider Percy's actions to be very serious offenses especially considering a female prisoner was involved," he said.

Percy said he will take his case to the federal equal employment director of the Marshals Service.

Wellington Chew, Percy's lawyer, said Sessions' decision will be appealed to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Churches Fail

After five years of negotiations in Geneva between Protestant and Roman Catholic officials, talks have broken down with no appreciable progress having been made toward unity and doctrinal agreement.

The study commission resulted from the late Pope John's move toward more democratic and reformed thinking in the Catholic Church but the actual negotiating sessions of the study commission established by the churches were carried on under the direction, on the Catholic side, of present-day Pope Paul, a more inflexible pontiff.

The result is disappointing to all who have so long hoped for more church unity among Christians and who have urged confederation and an acceptance of some differences, and compromises, to achieve that unity.

It is a poor reflection on the mentality of church leaders that in the nuclear world of 1976 they still cling to narrow versions and human interpretations with such bitterness and inflexibility that the world's Christians must remain divided at a time when the Communist challenge is greater than ever before in history.

A life span of 47.6 years was average for white Americans in 1900, but that figure had climbed to 71.7 years by 1970. The life expectancy for other races went from 33.0 to 65.3 years.

The West & July

Not only is summer a good time of year to vacation in the western states; it is also an historical time of year in many. July is an especially important month in the West's history, partly because this was the first month of summer, after the snows and colder weather of spring.

It is Pioneer Day in Utah on the 24th of July and Mormons observe the day in other states nearby and in Utah itself. Brigham Young and his followers arrived in the Great Salt Lake Valley on July 24th, 1847. They had departed from Illinois, after the murder of one of the faithful, seeking a safe place, a promised land. They suffered hardship the first year or two but soon became prosperous.

In nearby Wyoming, Frontier Day has become a major event of the summer and in Colorado there is the Central City festival of opera and music and outdoor events in many parts of the state, as is the case in California, Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho and other states.

INTERN PROGRAM
WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Endowment for the Arts says the 10th session of its Work Experience Internship Program begins Sept. 20.

Nancy Hanks, chairman of organization, says, "Our goal is to provide educated, talented young people with practical work experience so that they may enter administrative positions in the arts where trained personnel are very much in demand."

How a bank measures money is the measure of a bank

We don't go by the numbers in the best of all possible banks. No. We're interested in the number of services - large and small - that we can provide with our money. So it isn't how much money we have that's important. It's how much we can cover for you that counts.

The American aircraft industry produced nearly three times as many planes in one four-year period as it did in two other periods with a combined total of 44 years. Between 1941 and 1945, almost 304 thousand aircraft rolled out of the factories, 97 per cent of which were destined for U.S. military use in World War II, while in the periods 1913-1940 and 1946-1963 together, only 114 thousand military airplanes were manufactured.

HUMUS ORGANIC PRODUCTS OF TEXAS INC. Hereford, Texas

Supplement with Humic Acids now for better soil fertility. PREPARE FOR YOUR WHEAT CROP EARLY!

What is Humus Organic Products? Humus is defined in the Webster Dictionary as; Decayed vegetable matter, important to the fertility of soil.

Organic is defined as to or derived from plant and animal matter, containing carbon.

Humus is more of a soil conditioner than a fertilizer. It is as important to soil as nitrogen, Phos., potash. Soil with a good content of Humus of 4 to 5% is usually good fertile soil.

The following is why the soil needs Humus:

1. Natural Organic Chelating. Humus releases elements "locked up" in the soil and forms biological complexes with minerals and traces elements so plants can pick them up.
2. "Crumbles" Soil. Humus flocculates and opens heavy soil to give better penetration of water and oxygen. It offsets the packing of soil caused by running heavy equipment in the field.
3. Decomposes Stalks. Stalks, leaves, or manures which have been spread in the field, will break down more rapidly when Humus is applied.
4. Develops Roots. Provides greater, healthier and cleaner root structure than "Commercial" alone.
5. Conserves Water. Soil improved with Humus holds water better and longer. It activates the bacteria of sponges.
6. Improves Crop Quality. Humus improves the firmness, color and sheen of crops. Vegetables will ship and "carry" better.
7. Tree Crops. Trees respond rapidly with better color and growth to produce larger yields of better fruit.
8. Easily Applied. Humus is applied with a dry spreader like the dry commercial fertilizer.

"But never forget, chemical fertilizers can neither add to the Humus content nor replace it."

We have had 5 year programs with Humic Acid

'Old Ideological Battle' Labeled On Carter, Mondale

NEWARD, N.J. (AP) - Ronald Reagan said Thursday the Democratic party's Carter-Mondale ticket will be "waging the same old ideological battle" this November as Democratic candidates before them.

Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential candidate, announced a few minutes earlier in New York that Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota was his choice for the vice-presidential spot on the ticket.

Reagan, the Republican presidential challenger trailing President Ford by 33 delegates, said Carter's choice of Mondale was "right in the Democratic leadership philosophy."

He said it showed Carter was devoted to the Washington establishment.

"We all knew it would happen," he said when asked for his reaction to Carter's nomination as the Democratic presidential candidate.

"Liberalism is pretty much out of fashion. They will be waging the same old ideological battle," he said.

Reagan and his wife, Nancy, shook hands with a dozen supporters at Newark International Airport before leaving for a day of meetings with Republican delegates in Harrisburg, Pa.

Reagan had received a friendly welcome Wednesday from New Jersey's delegates, most of whom are publicly pledged to support President Ford. He said some of the 67 delegates were "sincerely uncommitted."

"I saw a few Reagan buttons before I left," the former California governor said.

Reagan said Carter and Mondale represent a big government philosophy, while he would rather turn over much of the power vested in Washington to state, county and municipal leaders.

"I've taken my case to the people," he said. Reagan met Wednesday in a closed session with delegates from New Jersey and Delaware. His comments were applauded several times, but there were no announcements of any new Reagan support.

Earthquake Kills 233, Injures 2,300

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) - An earthquake on the island of Bali has killed at least 223 persons and injured 2,300, officials said Thursday.

The quake, measuring 5.6 on the Richter scale, hit far from the tourist areas on the island. It destroyed 90 per cent of the homes in the Buleleng district on the island's northern tip and Seririt in central Bali was almost totally destroyed, said Bali Gov. Sukarmen.

Sukarmen said more than 100 persons, mostly children, were injured in Buleleng by falling buildings. He said 10 children died in Seririt when a school building fell.

The dimensions of the disaster three weeks ago caused by another quake and landslides on Indonesia's remotest island remain uncertain.

Estimates of the death toll in Irian Jaya, 2,400 miles east of Jakarta, are still fluctuating widely. First reports after the June 26 quake put the number killed as high as 9,000. But Irian Jaya Gov. Sutrisna says 369 are known dead and 5,000 missing. Missionary sources and relief officials put the toll at over 450, with 5,000 missing.

A West German research team in the area reported that many survivors were suffering from exposure. Low clouds and rain hampered relief efforts Thursday; one diplomat said. Helicopters are the only effective way to reach the valley.

Britain Names New Envoy To Uganda

LONDON (AP) - Britain Thursday named a new envoy to Uganda to look after the 500 Britons still living in the former East African colony as relations between the two countries deteriorated.

While strain increased between Britain and Ugandan President Idi Amin over the disappearance of an elderly British-Israeli woman, a deadlock ended the four-day United Nations Security Council debate on the Israeli raid that rescued 102 other hijacked hostages from Uganda.

In Jerusalem, the Israeli government said it would introduce legislation to bar from Israel any airlines that lack sufficient security against terrorists.

And in Paris Air France said it was still waiting for permission from Amin to inspect the hijacked Airbus which was left behind when the hostages were freed. The Ugandan president placed it under Ugandan army guard and refused to release it or let Air France representatives inspect it and make any repairs necessary.

Britain-named Estate Gibbs to replace acting Ambassador James Horrocks, ordered expelled Wednesday after Amin alleged he had advance knowledge of the hostage-freeing Israeli raid at Entebbe airport 11 days ago. The Foreign Office has denied the accusation but said Horrocks will leave the Ugandan capital of Kampala anyway on Friday. Gibbs, a member of the Foreign Office inspectorate, is

PAUL HARVEY NEWS

Before The Boil Breaks

Most scandals fester a long time before the boil breaks.

In the case of Nixon White House excesses it was that silly burglary of Democratic headquarters which broke the dam. Yet that was but a symptom of a much larger sickness.

Now it's Congress on the defensive.

It was some party girls on the payroll who brought congressional excesses to a head--yet they were but a symptom of a much larger sickness.

On Capitol Hill, "pay roll" is now spelled with two words. But once the rock was rolled aside revealing the sex scandals, when the rotten apples had been identified and separated from the rest, we discovered there's still an unbecoming smell in the barrel.

If only a comparative handful of senators and congressmen were spending your money to purchase sex for themselves--all of the members of Congress have been using your money to lavish on themselves such other "fringe benefits" as would have made Rome's most indulgent emperors envious.

Four members of the House Banking Committee which drafts banking legislation are themselves stockholders in banks.

Two members of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee are bank directors.

More than 80 members of the House are making money on the side from the practice of law or diverse other interests.

Congressmen, campaigning for re-election, are talking about "saving taxpayers' money" though most of them just last year voted for themselves generous automatic pay raises plus a so-called "office stationery allowance" which works like a cash drawer.

A while back The Wall Street Journal traced the evolution of a lawmaker; how he comes to Congress all filled with eager resolve to do good--and that if today's lawmakers are lesser "public servants" and more self-indulgent it is because the temptations have multiplied.

Twenty years ago the population of Capitol Hill was no more than 5,000. Its aim was to improve on earlier law and to produce quality legislation which average three or four pages per bill.

Those days, in Washington and back home, a congressman was "somebody."

Today with the legislated expansion of government, which is as much our fault as theirs, we have continued to vote for and elect only those lawmakers who promised to do for us more of the things that we used to do for ourselves.

And to perform those increasing services, government had to get bigger, until today the population of The Hill is 20,000 and still never gets caught up with satisfying all our wants.

Legislators, lacking the prestige and affection they enjoyed in yesteryears, seek other rewards for themselves--"getting while the getting is good."

And so in 20 years--sit down for this--the cost of supporting Congress, not including salaries, has climbed from $71 million to a thousand million dollars a year.

And today, even to the most casual observer, Ziegfeld girls are running the Senate and Goldwyn girls the House.

Additionally, lobbyists--seeking to influence legislation--have more and more used women to win votes and influence congressmen.

The House and Senate Ethics committees are now being forced to police some of the behavior standards which they were created to police--but we're told those meetings are going to remain secret and those records sealed, at least until after the elections.

So any real reformation in Washington is going to have to come from where the erosion of our national character began--back home.

For it was we, demanding more and more something for nothing, who set this example.

Blind Players Get Help From Beeping Ball

By TONDA RUSH Lawrence Journal-World LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) -

On a Sunday school picnic sort of afternoon, in a park, a group of dignified-looking adults were swatting at a sound.

Some hit it, some didn't. It flew by at moderate speeds in an oversized softball that emitted a little beep like one might expect from a flying saucer, or a telephone left too long off the hook.

Abner Doubleday would have barely recognized his game. The players were blind -- some permanently and some because they were wearing blindfolds.

They were playing beep softball, a variation that allows the visually handicapped to compete with skill and safety.

The Lawrence team included five men and women with little or no sight and five sighted friends who blindfolded themselves at the beginning of the game and remained blind to the end.

The organizer and spokesman, a Korean War veteran named Charlie Vassallo, plays with a patch over the one eye in which he has light perception. With the help of several coaches who can see, Vassallo prods his teammates into proficiency at hitting and fielding, purely on the basis of sound.

He explains the game on a

Suit Filed Against Mo Udall For $124,170

ALEXANDRIA, WVA. (AP) - The American Express Co. has filed suit in U.S. District Court in Alexandria to recover $124,170 it says Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., owes from the use of a charge card issued last October.

A Udall aide said the amount owed American Express is for purchase connected with Udall's unsuccessful campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. Most of it, he said, is for hotel rooms and air transportation.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in Virginia because Udall lives in McLean, Va. It says Udall's card was revoked April 26 after Udall failed to pay for most of the items charged during the previous six months.

Fred Palmer, an attorney for Udall's campaign, said Udall has a total of about $200,000 in debts and plans to pay in within six to eight weeks.

Palmer said Udall is due about $200,000 in matching funds from the Federal Election Commission on July 30.

Ronald J. Greenen, an attorney for American Express, said the company has a policy of not opening accounts in the name of campaign committees. He said the card was in Udall's name only.

presently in Uganda as part of an East African inspection tour, a Foreign Office spokesman said. He will temporarily take charge of British affairs in Kampala, the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, there has been no indication that Ambassador James Hennessey, Britain's chief envoy to Uganda, will return to Kampala.

MRS. JESSE RAY LEE
...nee Andi Sue Askew

Couple Wed In Friday Ceremony

Miss Andi Sue Askew became the bride of Jesse Ray Lee in an evening ceremony Friday in the First Christian Church of Hereford. John Goodwin, pastor of First Assembly of God, officiated.

An arrangement of blue carnations and daisies decorated the main altar of the church with two candles flanking either side.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Askew of Rt. 1 and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harris of Rt. 3.

Attending the couple were Miss Cindy Crider as maid of honor and Charles Harris, step-father of the bridegroom was best man. Leigh Askew and Bruce Lee ushered guests to their seats.

Miss Donna Kendall, accompanied by Miss Amy Cox, vocalized "Colour My World" and "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white satin overlaid with organza, designed with an empire bodice and round neckline. The long fitted sleeves were trimmed in lace and a circular ruffle. Her floor length veil was made of organza and trimmed in lace matching her gown.

She carried a handkerchief that belonged to her great-grandmother and wore her mother's wedding garter; her bridal bouquet was made of daisies with white streamers.

The maid of honor wore a dress of baby blue dotted swiss designed similar to the bride's gown.

A reception following the ceremony was held in the Church parlor where Miss Lanna Clark served the heart-shaped three-tiered wedding cake from a table centered with a silver candelabra. The cake was trimmed with blue sugar daisies. Mrs. James Tice served punch and Colette Hartley and Gayle Bridwell also assisted with the reception.

For a wedding trip to South Dakota, the bride chose a white skirt ensemble, fashioned with a "V" neckline and trimmed in blue.

The bride was a May graduate of Hereford High School and is employed by Hereford Cash and Carry. The groom graduated in 1974 and is employed at Big T Pump Co.

4-H Dress Revue Scheduled Friday

The Deaf Smith County 4-H Dress Revue is scheduled from 1-4 p.m. Friday and the contest judging will be from 1-3 p.m. that day in the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room.

Announcement of the winners and the public revue will be at 4 p.m. Friday in Sugarland Mall. Everyone is invited to attend this awards program.

A requirement to enter the dress revue is completing a 4-H clothing project. Currently 62 4-H'ers are enrolled in such projects. A variety of activities have been included in the project work such as tours of Sue, Ann Industries, Penney's and Suzy Shorts.

The Meric Norman business has also given programs to several groups with complementary facials and make-up and Mrs. Jan Ferris conducted a county-wide workshop for the girls on modeling.

The leaders who have organized the projects include Mmes. Phyllis Dawson, Elizabeth Kendrick, Jackie Edwards, Kathleen Gorman, Wanda Page, Wilma Doris Dobbs, Corda Glover, Kathy Christie and Dixie West.

The project participants are reminded to return to the county extension office three forms on Monday, July 26, to prepare for the Revue. Those forms are the Design For Discovery Record, financial insert and the information sheet for the Dress Revue. These are needed to finalize plans for the contest.

Quilting Party Held

The Vega Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J.E. Cupell, Route # 1, Hereford, for a cover-dish luncheon and an all-day, old-fashioned quilting party.

Mrs. Ralph Slutz, president, conducted the short business meeting. Elected delegates to the State Texas Home Demonstration Association Convention, in September, at College Station was Mrs. Leona Brandes with Mrs. Clara Slutz as alternate.

Members present were Mmes. Elizabeth Brockman, Cloraetta Lowery, Nancy Spinhirne, Clara Slutz, Louise Cranmer and two guests, Pauline Blasingame and Marge Cook, Oldham Co. Clerk, who was to give a program on her Bicentennial trip.

THE BEST OF THE BRIGHTEST

The National Gem Collection at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C. consists of over 1000 items representing all known gem materials. Beauty created by nature and enhanced by man's skill is celebrated here.

The collection began as an exhibit at the New Orleans Exposition in 1884. Over the years the exhibit was expanded through donations and bequests. Dr. Leander T. Chamberlain became honorary curator of the collection in 1897. Upon his death, he left an endowment fund which has been used to purchase items for the collection.

Many breathtaking gems have been obtained by the Smithsonian. The Eugenie Blue Diamond is a remarkable 31 carat, bright blue, heart-shaped gem surrounded by diamonds and mounted in a ring. Another beautiful item on display is a 12 carat canary (bright yellow) diamond ring. The Star of Asia is a 330 carat star sapphire, specially noted for its deep blue color and sharply defined 6-rayed star. One of the finest quality chrysoberyl cat's eyes in existence is the Smithsonian's 58 carat Maharani from Ceylon. A soft blue 3273 carat topaz came from Brazil. The American Gem Society donated an unusually cut, flawless 177 carat kunzite fashioned from California material. The star attraction of the collection is the Hope Diamond which deserves a column of its own.

If you are as fascinated by gems as I am, you must visit the National Gem Collection. It is truly awe-inspiring. You might also be interested in the collection I carry at Cowan Jewelers. I have a wide selection of diamonds and colored stones and would be happy to answer any questions you might have about them.

If any one thinks he is religious, and does not bridle his tongue but deceives his heart, this man's religion is vain. Religion that is pure and undefiled before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their affliction, and to keep oneself unstained from the world. — James 1:26,27.
"Everything for which democracy stands is based on religious faith. Neither enlightened self-interest nor practical ethics can make an effective substitute." — Elbert D. Thomas, former U.S. Senator.

Wallcoverings Give Rooms New Look

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Thoughtful use of wallcoverings can make a dreary room bright, a long room look short and a dull room interesting.

And, for those with limited budgets, a change in wall-covering can achieve an impression of total decoration at a fraction of the cost.

Here are some tips for re-decorating with wallcovering from Mrs. Bertha C. Nickel, housing interiors specialist at Oklahoma State University here:

—A boldly patterned wall-covering with large flowers, graphics or the look of tapestry can make a sparsely furnished room appear more cozy.

—High ceilings can be lowered with dark colors, or dramatic designs on the walls, and low ceilings can be raised with vertical stripes.

—Ugly pipes and ducts can be camouflaged by covering them with paint or wall-coverings to match the walls or ceiling.

—For a room without a view, add one in the form of a mural. —In the kitchen matching vinyl wallcoverings on cabinets, ceiling, and window shades create a festive atmosphere.

—For a small, dull room, select a stunning wallcovering and use matching fabrics for curtains and slipcovers. But limit colors and quantity of furnishings because when a small room becomes too busy, it seems smaller.

—Wallcoverings in cool blues and greens or in silver foil will make a room seem cool; or coziness can be introduced through calico or gingham in dark browns, yellows and oranges.

Stretch home decorating dollars even further by learning to hang wallcoverings yourself.

"You'll find it easy and fun," Mrs. Nickel says.

NEW YORK (AP) — For lovers of sailing ships, as well as landlubbers who wouldn't know a mizenmast from a marlin spike, there's a gallery in Manhattan that has all the answers.

The Kodak Gallery's summer exhibit traces the voyage of American sailing ships from 1776 up to the present. Entitled "Tall Ships", the show offers more than 175 photographs, four slide shows, and three movies, along with ship models, actual bow figureheads, and other artifacts.

Among the displays in the exhibit are a cutaway model of the 90-year-old merchant ship Balclutha, which is permanently anchored in San Francisco Bay. The show runs through August 7.

At Wit's End ...

By ERMA BOMBECK

Do you know what the trouble is with families today? No one answers anyone. Every time someone asks a question, the person responds with another question.

A reader in Chenoa, Ill., noticed it too. He said the other day his 16-year-old daughter yelled from upstairs, "Has anyone seen my new sweater?"

He yelled back, "You mean the one that cost $20?"

Sister replied, "You mean the one you won't let me wear?"

Brother responded, "You mean the stupid one that makes you look fat?"

Grandma responded, "You mean the one with the low neck?"

Mom grumbled, "You mean the one that has to be washed by hand in cold water?"

Everyone was talking about the same sweater, but no one ever really answered the question.

If anyone gave me a straight answer, I'd drop dead!

Talking to my son is like a quiz show.

"How late did you come in?"

"How late do you think it was?"

"Was it later than midnight?"

"Did I say that?"

"Aren't you going to answer me?"

"With food in my mouth?"

"Is your mouth any other way?"

"Why do you always yell at me?"

"You don't need it?"

"Why can't we just talk?"

"We're not talking? What are we doing? Hatching eggs, maybe?"

"Are you going to use your car today?"

"Do I need permission from you to use my own car?"

"Will you be back by three?"

"Why?"

"You should have to ask?"

"Am I expected to remember everything? So where are you taking the car?"

"If you must know, I was going to the barber shop and surprise you."

"What kind of a question is that? You want me to drop dead, right?"

"You're asking?"

RECIPE

TERRACE REFRESHER
Cucumber Canapes
Swiss Cheese Tarts
Fruit Punch
CUCUMBER CANAPES
3-ounce package cream cheese, at room temperature
3/4-ounce can brisling sardines, well-drained
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons finely grated onion, pulp and juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Small fresh bread rounds
Thinly sliced cucumber, pared if waxed Mayonnaise
Pimiento cutouts

Beat together the cream cheese, sardines, lemon juice, onion, salt and Worcestershire until as smooth as possible.
Chill, tightly covered, overnight to blend flavors and have firm.
Makes a couple of tablespoons less than a cup. Shortly before serving, spread sardine mixture on bread rounds; top each with a slice of cucumber, a dot of mayonnaise and a pimiento cutout. (Tiny canape cutters make pretty cutouts in varied shapes.) The number of canapes made will depend on how thickly the sardine mixture is spread. The bread rounds should be a little larger than the largest slice of cucumber.

Ann Landers Teenager Needs Help

DEAR ANN LANDERS:
Some time ago I went to my daughter's house for dinner.
She also invited her in-laws who brought their 15-year-old son.
We had a pleasant evening but when I got home, I discovered $70 was missing from my wallet.
I phoned my daughter to tell her of the incident. I was certain the young boy had taken the money and wanted to warn her. She couldn't believe it and insisted I must have lost the $70 elsewhere.

Last evening, the in-laws were guests in my home. Again they brought the boy. This morning I left for the store, thinking I had $14 in the purse.
When I attempted to pay for a purchase, I discovered only small change. My wallet was empty. Now I'm sure that the boy is a thief.

In two weeks I will be entertaining the entire family at my home. The in-laws will be there, including, of course, the boy. How can I safeguard the purses of my guests? (The women usually put them on the bed or on the dresser.) I don't want to embarrass anyone. -- Up Against It

DEAR UP: engage a sitter (stensibly as a maid) to help the ladies with their wraps. Ask her to remain full-time in the bedroom and keep an eye on the purses. (No details need be given.) That boy needs professional help -- and soon.
Let's hope someone has the courage to suggest it to his parents.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A nutty divorced woman moved next door. She has a son, six, and a daughter, seven. The son can't play with girls and the daughter can't play with boys, because their screwball mother says all the trouble in the world starts with sex and she doesn't want her children to "get involved."

What can we say to our youngsters when this woman orders them to stay away? -- K.T.B.

DEAR K.T.B.: Tell your children they shouldn't go where they aren't wanted. No other explanation is necessary.
But let's hope those unfortunate neighbor kids get enough wholesome exposure at school to offset the crippling effects of their sick mother.

DEAR ANN LANDERS:
Yesterday my wife announced right after dinner, "I saved you $105 today." I was very eager to learn how she did it because this woman has always been a big spender. This is what she said:
"As you know, Harry, I always watch the paper for sales. Well, today I was really lucky. I bought three dresses at half price. They were originally marked $75. Can you imagine THREE $75 dresses for $105?"
I really got sore. The woman has a closet full of dresses that she bought at sales and she's never put them on her back.

They don't fit right, they are too short or too long, or she is "waiting for the style to come back."

We are in debt up to our necks because my wife can't resist a bargain. I talked to our minister last year and he said,
"Close all the charge accounts -- she's a charge-a-holic." Tell me what to do. -- Poorhouse
Here I Come.

DEAR POORHOUSE: Take the clergyman's advice -- NOW.
You'd be doing your wife a favor. Some people need protection from themselves and compulsive buyers are at the top of the list.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers,
P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

couple will exchange wedding vows at the First Baptist Church, Sudan on August 14, 1:30 p.m.
The bride-elect is a 1976 graduate of Hereford High School and is employed in Littlefield. All relatives and friends of the couple are invited to attend.

Powder absorbs ink on wallpaper

By Polly Cramer

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY -- Could you please tell me how to remove ink marks from light colored wallpaper? I have tried a couple of things, but both spotted the paper. -- MRS. M.T.

DEAR MRS. M.T. -- I wish you had told us whether or not yours is washable paper. Since it has already been tampered with and so much time has elapsed I cannot hold out much encouragement. When ink first gets on wallpaper it should be blotted up immediately so as not to spread further. Then an absorbent powder should be applied and brushed off, as it absorbs the ink. Continue until no more is absorbed. Ink eradicators and any sort of bleach will remove color, from the design. It seems your best bet would be to get another roll of paper, or perhaps you had some left over, and replace the spotted strip with a new one. -- POLLY.

DEAR POLLY -- I save all my egg shells and crumble them into the bottoms of my flower pots. This holds the soil back and provides good drainage. -- ETHEL.

DEAR POLLY -- My Pet Peeve is with the chrome on windshield wipers, mirrors and rear view mirrors on cars.
They shine in the sun or headlights of cars and thus blind the driver. It seems manufacturers of cars and trucks could use some sort of non-glare material for this as a safety item. --

As we said last week,
designed to permit you to sue for relatively small amounts (from $100 to $3,500) when you believe you've been cheated in some way by a retailer, landlord, employer, etc.

court, unlike an ordinary lawsuit, won't cost you an arm and a leg because you act as your own lawyer.
Here's the procedure:
First, exhaust all other means of complaint. If your new washer is defective, for example, write the retailer and demand that it be fixed, or replaced, or get your money back.
If the retailer refuses, go to small claims court and file suit. This will only take a few minutes, and you pay a small filing fee -- usually between $3 and $8.

Comings And Goings At Kings Manor

By Fay Gauggel

Scott Allen of Amarillo visited his grand aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Dodson, all last week.

Mrs. Roxie Travis and Mrs. Ruby Jennings attended the Bicentennial celebration and homecoming at Dawson over the weekend.

NEW RESIDENT

On July 8, a new resident came to us Manor people. She is Mrs. Alpha Dugger from Lamesa where she has lived since 1905.

She occupies suite 316 which she has furnished and appointed attractively.

Mrs. Dugger's husband was a heroic victim of World War No. 1, having received the high honor of "Croix de Guerre".

Mrs. Dugger now has one son living in Albuquerque, N.M. We welcome her and hope she feels at home. She bids fair to make a good member of our family.

PARTY FOR MANOR FOLK

Thursday evening the Homemakers Class of Hereford First United Methodist Church sponsored a party for Manors. It was really a table-game affair where 8 tables of 42, 84, dominoes or whatever were in session. Homemade ice cream and cake were served.

The Homemakers Class is made up of married couples of course. Art Stoy is president and his wife, Mary teaches the class. About 16 members were active at the party. Our own Dr. and Mrs. Grooms attended.

Before disbanding Mrs. Davidson honored two Manors. One was Morgan who was celebrating a birthday. We sang and cheered for him; then our latest new resident, Mrs. Duggers was introduced.

Hereford folk are always so kind to us. Thanks to the Homemakers! We bid them God speed in their work of improving homes where so much of our future welfare is at stake.

Last week we were helping a new resident at the Manor. The lady stated that she feared she'd left or lost her two Indian-made rings of silver set with turquoise. We offered to call the Plains Motel where she had stayed her first night in Hereford. The proprietor knew nothing of the rings and while he was yet talking we broke in saying, "Sir, she's found her rings! She's found her rings! Mr. Proprietor yelled back with much gusto, "God Bless America." How is that for "Bicentennial Trivia"

GUESTS

Friday we had seven lovely members of the United Methodist Women's group of Tulia as our guests for lunch.

Their pastor, Rev. Bruce Parks, was here with the following ladies: - Mrs. O.K. Woodall, Lyla (Kittie) Robinson, James Hawthorne, Roy E. Devin, Irene Jordan, and Nadine Story.

Being from Tulia, we also had Beth Casad and Avis Thompson of Westgate and of course our own Virginia Rose of Tulia was hob-knobbing along with all the guests.

Mrs. Robinson sat at our table and we learned that her daughter is doing Missionary Work in Liberia, Africa. Then we thought of the dedicated Juanelva Rose, Virginia's niece who is representing Methodism in Tiwan. We'd like to know what it goes on at Tulia Methodist that inspires so many young people to go into life service. We're impressed and inspired!

There is surely some "rhyme and reason" for the whole business. Whatever it is we congratulate you, and bid you God speed in your success for God with the youth.

WESTGATE NEWS

By Bea Nolan

The big event of the week was the birthday party for the July honorees and they were: Irene Ballard, Pearl Dickerson, Aubrey Bell, Emma Payne, Minnie Evans, Jessie Boardman and Vada Barton.

Hostessing the party were a large group from the Palo Duro Baptist Church. The honorees were seated at the birthday table and their names were inscribed on the birthday cake which was in red, white and blue decorations.

All of the resident enjoyed the delicious punch and cake. The program was given in the lobby by a group of Youngsters singing some favorite choruses.

Thursday-morning Bible study was well attended. Rev. Don Larkin and Mrs. Larkin sang a duet accompanied by Mrs. LeRoy Edwards. Rev. Don led the group in bible study which all the residents enjoyed.

Friday afternoon Mrs. Ellis Coombes gave the residents an hour of good listening music as she played the piano in the lobby.

Mrs. L.P. Vaughan of Amarillo was a recent week-end visitor of Louise Vaughan.

Louise Vaughan was in Waco and Corsicana over the July Fourth Holiday. An Autograph party was held for her at the Annual Homecoming at Chatfield where her book, "The Houglass" was first presented for sale. Chatfield was the site of the first of her ancestors to arrive in Texas and it was fitting that her book be shown there first.

The UMW of Wellington had an Autograph party introducing Mrs. Vaughn's book, "The Houglass" Saturday, July 10th. She enjoyed seeing many old friends and neighbors and attending Sunday School and Church services, before returning to Hereford. She stopped over in Amarillo to visit the Robert Strong's before returning home.

Mrs. B.C. Bartlett of Mr. Pleasant, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Esterhay of Dallas who are cousins of Louise Vaughan, visited her recently and had the "grand tour" of King's Manor and of Hereford. They were impressed with all they saw and with all those they were privileged to meet while here.

Louise Vaughan gave a brief resume of her book, also an account of her recent Bus Trip to members of AARP at their meeting, Thursday evening in the Community Center. She was a guest of Mrs. McCutcheon, and is a former member and office of the organization.

Couple to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Lynell H. Johnson of Dallas announce the engagement of their daughter, Melinda, to Wesley Newell Owen of Hereford. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Weslie B. Owen of 109 Douglas. Wedding vows will be spoken in the Lakeside Baptist Church, in Dallas on December 31. The bride-elect was a 1975 graduate of Bryan Adams High School while the prospective bridegroom graduated in 1973 from Hereford High. Miss Johnson is a student at Texas Women's University and Owen is attending North Texas State University in Denton.

Planning Helps Protect Plants During Vacation

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — If you're going on vacation and you want to make sure you don't lose your plants while you're gone, there's a variety of plant watering systems you can easily set up in your own apartment, according to Dorothy Kalins, executive director of Apartment Life magazine. If you're fortunate enough to get a friend to water your plants, you'll want to make it as easy as possible. Tape watering instructions on each pot and group them in the middle of the floor where it's cooler and where your plant sitter won't miss any, advises Miss Kalins. Make sure there's air circulation to keep pests down, and remove the flower buds on your plants while they're under minimum care.

If you don't want to leave the watering up to a friend, you can line your bathtub with plastic, fill the bottom with a layer of soaked newspapers and place your pots directly on top. You may want to clip a lamp with a timer over the curtain bar to give your plants 10-12 hours of light daily and fill the sink with water for humidity.

"Close the door and you'll have an instant greenhouse in your bathroom," says Miss Kalins.

How To Eat To Live To Be 100

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
From 1970 to 1975 an American anthropologist, Dr. Sula Benet, made frequent trips — some lasting as long as four months — to do field work in the Soviet Caucasus. That region of the world, a bridge between Asia and Europe, is known for the longevity of many of its people. As Dr. Benet notes, in 1974 she had the pleasure of meeting and knowing a delightful Caucasian woman 139 years old — probably the oldest woman then alive.

In a new book, "How To Live to Be 100," Dr. Benet discusses the factors that make for the longevity. She writes that this group's "rhythmic regularity of life" and their concerned family relationships seem important. In her studies she found that, "Order in daily routines and in the entire arc of life from cradle to grave contributes to the security of the individual and the group. Continuity and regulations in diet, work, sex life and leisure appear to lessen the strain on the body by avoiding sudden discontinuities and changes . . ."

"Children, adults and old people all consume the same diet and seem to have no interest in trying new foods. It is not a matter of having no alternatives, or being confined to locally grown foods; they truly love their traditional foods and see no reason for changes or variety." She found that the long-living persons eat moderately and have "an extremely high intake of natural vitamins" from fresh vegetables, both cultivated and wild. She discusses their wide use of beans as a high-protein food; their extensive use of spices and herbs — some cultivated and some wild; their common use of nuts and yogurt; their cultivation and enjoyment of fresh fruits as well as fresh vegetables. Their methods of cooking meat, roasting and broiling, tend to eliminate excess fat. "Candy and sweets are not common in the Caucasus, since granulated sugar is something of a novelty there."

Let's face it

Cosmetic puffery adds up to profits

NEW YORK — (NEA) — If the merchandise isn't moving, puff it up.

Just listen to the alarms in this letter from the Softness Group, Inc., a public relations firm representing the company.

We should interview Shirley Lord, vice president of corporate relations at Helena Rubinstein, the letter says,

"because she is prepared to discuss some startling information concerning the effects of environmental pollution on health and beauty."

Everyone knows, it continues, "how technology is rapidly destroying our native natural resources. However, the constant assault of pollutants has taken its toll on human life as well. For example, skin and hair have no means of repelling the airborne hazards."

what he will from the last two sentences.)

The letter continues about how the company is "investigating the problem to develop new products which will protect us from these environmental changes."

It certainly sounds serious. By all means, let's talk to Shirley Lord.

A former English newspaperwoman, Ms. Lord is one of the beautiful people, a globe-trotting "expert in beauty and health care," her

All right, Ms. Lord, let's have that startling information.

"The American woman," she says, "lives in a punishing environment. Because of air conditioning and overheating, there is a constant stealing of moisture away from your skin. And all light, not just ultra-violet rays, ages the skin. Pollutants have deleterious effects on skin because the dirt and grime attack it."

However, she continues, with Helena Rubinstein's new skin and hair lotions, The Protectors, the American woman is safe from all that.

"The Protectors is the most superlative sunscreen on the market, though we were worried about positioning it as that. It's a barrier, a preventive measure for the skin."

It happens, though, that the Hair Protector is moving better than the Skin Protector, and that's where the press comes in. "We hope people like you will help spread the word about the need for a woman to protect her skin."

"Yes, but you haven't given us any startling information yet; 'the toll on human life' and all that. We're not making a case for air pollution but what research have you done with everyday pollution and skin?"

Ms. Lord suggests we view a promotion film on The Protectors she shows to stores around the country.

Against typical shots of smoke stacks, car exhausts and garbage heaps, the announcer's voice intones, "We can no longer escape it. It's everywhere — the threat to beauty and health."

those atmospheric acids have done to that marble monument.

Cut to the laboratory. Here, shielded by The Protectors, skin and hair samples, even "protein-coated paper approximating human skin" survived desert-like conditions, ultra-violet light and corrosive acids and chemicals. Unprotected control groups, however, fared badly.

End of promotional film.

Okay. We know ultra-violet light is harmful. But those other tests — most of us don't live in the desert, and is the concentration of chemicals and acids used in the lab the same as we encounter daily?

Perhaps Dr. Jack Mausner,

vice president of research and development for Helena Rubinstein worldwide, can help.

"As far as pollution is concerned," Dr. Mausner concedes, "we don't have enough information of the effect on the skin, but we approach this from the point of view that it is very likely to be harmful."

"There are infinitesimal amounts of impurities in the atmosphere we think cause slow damage. By accelerating these conditions in the laboratory — and, okay, you can call them very severe — we proved The Protectors will protect."

CowBelle Beef Bits

Presented By The Hereford CowBelles

[EDITOR'S NOTE - The following article contains information concerning a product of the beef industry which is little-known or understood, -- boxed beef. Information for the article was taken from the Cattle Economics Report published by the American National Cattlemen's Association and Cattle-Fax.]

Boxed beef and its possible effects on the market have been drawing more attention in recent months with the increased volatility of the dressed beef and cattle markets.

Theoretically, a longer possible storage period should cause boxed beef to add stability to the market, and boxed beef may just do that in the long run. But, in the short term, it seems to present a dimension in the market, as it is another significant factor affecting short term supplies and market movement.

Not enough is known about boxed beef's volume or movement to give it adequate consideration as a market indicator.

The dressed beef market and cattle market experienced sharp price rises last spring, but the price of cattle quickly dropped off again, and it now appears that part of the early demand represented boxed beef going into storage rather than into consumption.

The beef in storage eventually had to come out again, and the strong pressure on the cattle market resulted in price declines.

What appeared to be tight supplies of carcass beef were supplemented by ample supplies of boxed beef.

What It Is

Boxed beef is generally described as primal and subprimal cuts which are vacuum-packaged in a protective "wrap" and then put into boxes for storage and shipment to retail stores or distribution centers.

For a time, there was an increase in use of "naked" or wrapped (but not vacuum-packaged) primals and subprimals. However, because of greater sanitation and longer shelf-life, vacuum-packed, film-wrapped boxed beef recently has represented an increasingly significant factor, and the proportion of non-vacuum-packaged cuts has been declining.

Beef may be boxed at central cutting facilities operated by retailers, or it may be boxed by packers or breakers.

It is stored at close to freezing temperatures but is not actually frozen. It generally is sold at retail within not more than 21 days of slaughter.

Most boxed beef comes from Yield Grade 2 or 3 carcasses. These carcasses obviously provide more retail cuts than Y. G. 4's, and they afford the greater uniformity that is desired with boxed beef.

A large percentage of the beef going to the restaurant trade generally is fabricated, or broken down, into final cuts and then frozen; so it can be stored for a longer period than can fresh, boxed beef.

Why It's Important

Daily and weekly slaughter has traditionally been used as an indicator of beef supplies. However, as boxed beef increases in use, slaughter alone is a less accurate indicator. This, of course, is because of the longer storage period for boxed beef. Compared to carcass beef, one can figure an extra one or two weeks before the beef is sold at retail. Storage space for boxed beef at packing plants and retail distribution centers is not large, but the longer period available prior to retail sale increases the amount of beef which may be in the trade channels at any one time.

When one is analyzing the market situation and outlook, an obvious question is how much boxed beef there is in addition to carcass beef. If this were known, we would have a better picture of supply, and we could make better decisions about marketing fed cattle.

In determining the value of their cattle, feeders use carcass beef prices as an important reference point. However, as boxed beef becomes more important, and as carcass beef decreases as a proportion of total beef being moved, the carcass price will become less significant. At some point in time, it may be necessary to seek to reconstruct a carcass price from the prices for the primal-and-subprimal cuts in order to know where one should be trying to price fed cattle.

Trend to Boxed Beef
Prefabrication and boxing of beef can bring efficiencies in handling and transportation, as well as resulting in a more sanitary, more attractive product.

There now seems to be more willingness on the part of packers to meet the varying requirements of different retailers, and this has added to interest in boxed beef. At first, with very few packers providing the product, there was more reluctance on the part of retailers to become committed to one supplier who would offer only a standard set of cuts.

One major advantage over carcass beef is the opportunity for retailers to buy greater volumes of specific cuts which they may want to feature at a given time. They don't have to buy an entire carcass and wind up having to dispose of excessive cuts which they did not want in the first place.

While the total volume of boxed beef is growing, a number of factors will slow the trend to movement of boxed beef directly from packers to retailers. For one thing, there are basic economics and pricing situations for the individual to consider. In addition, many retailers have large centralized cutting or prefabricating facilities which represent large investments, and they obviously will not move rapidly to doing all of their purchasing of primals or subprimals, or even retail cuts, directly from packers.

Another important factor in some, but not all, areas is union contracts. Some contracts permit cutting of carcass beef only at the retail store; others permit central cutting, but only in a given area or in a specific retail firm's facility.

Survey Results
Industry surveys show the trend to less carcass beef and more pre-fabricated primals and sub-primals being received by retailers. Receipt of beef in carcass form—sides and quarters—decreased from 47% in 1972 to 31% in 1974, and it will continue to decline.

Counting both stores and central warehouses of retailers, the volume of primals and sub-primals increased from 51% of retail volume in 1972 to 69% in 1974, with a prediction of 79% by 1980.

The shipment of primals and subprimals to retail stores naked, or without any wrap or cover, has dropped sharply. The volume which is wrapped but not vacuum-packaged also is now declining. As of 1974, about 55% of beef received at retail was vacuum-packaged, and this may go to 77% by 1980. At the packer level, an estimated 30% of the carcasses now are fabricated and boxed.

The preference for the vacuum package indicates the growth of centralized beef fabrication and the boxed beef idea.

A more recent survey indicates that about 20% of the retailers are committed to boxed beef alone, and about 60% of the beef going into retail stores is received in boxed form. There also is a strong trend to centrally prepared ground beef. Incidentally, ground beef now accounts for almost one fourth of all beef poundage sold at retail.

Eventually there may be more preparation of retail cuts in central plants, but at present the volume is small, as is the volume of frozen beef. According to one recent survey, here's how fresh beef was received at retail stores:

Category	%
Carcass	28.1
Primals	27.3
Subprimals	34.6
Central Consumer Cuts	0.9
Central Ground Beef	9.1

The survey did not show how much of this was vacuum packed and boxed. However, it is clear that in-store meat processing plants gradually are being changed into merchandising departments. And by 1980, in spite of all the obstacles, retailers think that about 90% of their beef will come in prefabricated form.

Longer Storage?

Initial information indicates that packers, processors and retailers do not have the facilities, capital or desire to store large supplies of boxed beef for extended periods. The basic concept in meat packing and food retailing is high volume and low margin, and this requires fast turnover in order to get an adequate return on investment.

In some instances, boxed beef can be, has been, and will be financed and stored for at least short periods, but this does not appear to be a general practice or trend. In general, retailers do not want to speculate on commodities in storage, and with perishables like beef (as opposed to items like sugar and flour) they are not likely to use the futures markets to hedge. The main aim of retailers is to be able to compete in meat sales, and not to seek inventory profits or risk inventory losses.

The institutional (hotels, restaurants, etc.) trade may purchase beef well ahead and store it in frozen form, but, under most circumstances, retailers want to buy and sell the fresh product as rapidly as possible.

There are indications that storage facilities at both packer and retailer level are limited to 1 or 2 days of production, so storage of large volumes of boxed beef for extended periods seems unlikely at this time.

Some packers are increasing their storage space so that they can accommodate increased boxed beef processing capacity, but they do not appear to be seeking to develop a capability to store several days' total output for an extended time.

Storage space is available in private and public cold storage warehouses, but this is not a major factor for fresh beef.

Availability of Information

Information is available on prices of the various primal and sub-primal cuts, and eventually it may be possible to reconstruct a carcass price from these prices in order to relate back to fed cattle prices.

However, at this point, and for the foreseeable future, there is very limited information on volume of boxed beef.

The government has a cold storage report based on surveys run at the end of each month. This provides data on meat in storage at that time, but it does not provide the continuous type of information which is desired.

Categories of beef in the report are frozen boneless beef (a high percentage of which is imported); frozen beef cuts (mostly for the restaurant trade), government-owned beef in coolers, and total fresh beef in coolers. This latter category is basically fresh boxed beef in warehouses. As of May 30, beef in coolers represented only about 2% of all beef in storage.

Thus, it appears that current government reports, based only on end-of-the-month surveys, are of very little use in indicating boxed beef volume.

Ideally the industry should have a daily inventory or estimate (such as estimated daily slaughter) of the amounts of boxed beef and carcass beef. In addition, it should have data on amounts in storage or transit—assuming there is a point where supplies can be tallied through the government inspection process.

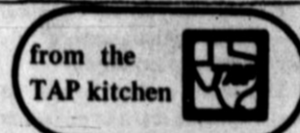

In order to cut down on expenditures, USDA has a mandate from the Administration to reduce surveys by 10%, and development and implementation of a new reporting system seems unlikely at this time. At best, USDA may be able to initiate only a report on the percentage of beef slaughtered which goes into boxes at the packer level each day. However, this would represent a good starting point, and eventually it might be possible to determine volume of various cuts and length of time in storage.

At any rate, determining the volume of boxed beef appears to be only the first step in an increasingly complex but important part of the cattle industry's effort to develop better information and do a better marketing job.

Conclusions:

1. Carcass beef volume and prices are one of the most important price indicators for cattlemen marketing fed cattle. However, carcass beef now represents a minority share of the beef received at retail. Obviously, more information on boxed beef prices and volume is needed in the cattle industry.

2. Only very limited information is now available from government sources. It is imperative that additional information, as available, be obtained from government reporting sources and that the industry itself, through organizations like Cattle-Fax and ANCA, develop the necessary facts, and the programs to obtain the facts. If this is not done, the industry's marketing position will be further weakened.

OVEN BARBECUED BEEF BRISKET

- 5-6 lb. boneless beef brisket
- 1 tsp. onion powder
- 1 tsp. garlic powder
- 1 tsp. celery salt
- 1-1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. black pepper
- 1/2 cup liquid smoke
- 1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
- 1 cup barbecue sauce

Place brisket in heavy duty aluminum foil and sprinkle on both sides with liquid smoke. Then sprinkle with onion and garlic powders and celery salt. Place in covered container in refrigerator and let marinate overnight (at least 8 hours). Next day, sprinkle both sides with salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Wrap securely in aluminum foil and bake covered at 275 degrees for four hours. Uncover and pour barbecue sauce over the brisket. Cover and bake one hour longer. Cut in 1/2-inch slices and serve with additional barbecue sauce. Can be served hot or cold. Yield: 8 to 10 servings.

For additional beef recipes send a postcard request to Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

Ford Deplores Nation's Waste, Calls For Wiser Resource Use

BY MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

HEREFORD, Tex. (AP) - It was the wise and wily Pogo, said food specialist Frank Ford, who best diagnosed the nation's ills: "We have met the enemy and they is us."

It is Ford himself who said: "We as Americans can no longer ignore the fact that millions of people on our planet are starving while we continue to lead the world in the waste of natural resources, including energy."

The afternoon was hot and humid across the High Plains of Texas as Ford, 43, invited a visitor into his office to discuss natural food and nutrition. Ford is lean, tanned, handsome, intense, curious, personable, articulate and unquestionably Christian. He is a farmer, businessman, author and spokesman for natural nutrition and conservation.

He also is founder of Arrowhead Mills, a once humble processor of natural Foods and now a multimillion dollar fixture in the food industry.

"We treat food with respect, not chemicals," says one bit of Arrowhead advertising, which could stand as the company slogan.

"We produce food the way God made it," Ford said. "It's that simple."

Those foods include grains, beans, seeds, nuts, cereals and flakes, flours, unrefined oils, even vitamins and pure peanut butter. Arrowhead's unprocessed wheat bran is grown on the richly irrigated plains without pesticides, herbicides or artificial fertilizers.

Ford's message is not a pleasant one. "This nation is squandering its natural resources, wasting its soil, over-refining its goods, and jeopardizing the health and welfare of its people."

"By violating the laws of nature we've got ourselves into a heck of a mess," he said. "The only solution is to work with nature instead of against it."

The big majority of Ford's food sales are by mail, all over the United States. There is no retail operation in Hereford. Arrowhead products can be purchased also in specialty food stores around the country.

It is when Ford talks of the earth and its natural products that he visibly turns on. The words flow:

"...A few inches of topsoil on a rapidly shrinking portion of our land must support the exploding populations of the 20th Century. Yet we have mined this topsoil as we simply did not care about those who will follow."

"For example, in order to boost agricultural production, American farmers have used synthetic fertilizers and pesticides, depleting our soil rather than improving it."

To stop wasting the soil, he said, farmers must turn to compostable material to improve the biological life of the earth. Farmers must also increase their reliance on beneficial insects rather than cumulative poisonous pesticides to control pests.

Turning to a second area of waste, he said:

"If Americans would stop buying over-refined, denatured results of our modern food processing industry, the problem would solve itself.

FRANK FORD
... A believer in the natural

"The giant food processors have proven they have no respect for the consumer or for the natural, whole foods which God has created for our enjoyment."

"Instead, they have refined out half the nutrients and substituted instead coloring agents, preservatives, chemical additives, hydrogenated oils and wasteful procedures."

This waste can be curbed, he said, if people learn to enjoy the taste of whole natural foods.

While organic farming will stop waste of the soil, and use of natural foods will stop waste of the food supply, he said man has less control over a third threat; drought.

He quoted a spokesman for the National Center for Atmospheric Research as saying a major and potentially catastrophic drought appears overdue on the Great Plains of America.

Although scientists say an inadequate food supply could result, about all that can be done is preparation, Ford said. "We must," he stressed, "establish food reserves where the people are and provide for home water purification in case of emergency."

In China, he explained, the government is storing grains in the cities, providing a food supply convenient to the people in the event of a crisis.

And American? "Although we are more vulnerable to the effects of trucking strikes, earthquakes, oil embargoes and other threatening situations, the only action being officially taken so far by the government is the training of some police forces in food riot control."

Perhaps Pogo was right.

State 4-H Horse Show Scheduled This Week

Patty Johnson and Linda Walker of Hereford are among some 280 4-H boys and girls who have qualified for the 1976 State 4-H Horse Show in Amarillo this week.

The show will begin Wednesday and continued through Saturday, featuring open invitational competition as well as the regular show for 4-H youth who qualified.

Those qualifying for the regular show class competition qualified through competing at the county and district shows. They will participate in classes which include halter, showmanship, Western pleasure, reining, polebending and barrel racing.

An additional 150 youth are expected to compete in the open classes which include cutting, breakaway and judged roping, hunter hack, working hunter and jumping while another large group will compete in precision riding and drill team.

The open invitational portions of the show begins Wednesday, July 21, at 8 p.m. while the regular show begins with preliminaries in showmanship at 6 p.m. Thursday.

Horses will be judged at halter beginning at 8 a.m. Friday.

Preliminary competition in Western pleasure, reining and pole bending will continue throughout the day and evening.

Preliminary competition in Western pleasure, reining and pole bending will continue throughout the day and evening.

Preliminaries in Western horsemanship and barrel racing will be conducted Saturday morning, and final competition in all classes of the regular show will begin at 2 p.m. An awards program will conclude the show.

Yeates and Doug Householder, also an Extension horse specialist, will serve as show managers.

Show judges will be Mike Ross of Pinehurst, N.C.; Bob Johnson of Santa Rosa, N.M.; John Trimmer of Hale Center; Marcy Stimmel of Midland; Mrs. H.B. Freeman of Wheeler; and Dwayne Stoddard and Bob Middleton, both of Amarillo.

A horseman's handicrafts show will also be a part of the total program, adds Yeates.

TEXAS PANHANDLE AND WESTERN OKLAHOMA RANGE AND FEEDLOT WEEKLY SUMMARY CONFIRMED: 21,180 LAST WEEK: 21,000 LAST YEAR: 17,170

COMPARED TO THE CLOSE OF LAST WEEK: Slaughter steers 1-100 lbs lower, slaughter heifers 1-100 lbs lower. They were slow early in the week, active at midweek, but slow again late. A slow unsettled carcass beef trade was the main factor in the slow lower live trade. Local packers continued to buy the bulk of the sales with only scattered spots of heifers sold for shipment to the Midwest and Southeast. The average live weight of most cattle slaughtered in area packing plants last week was 1069 lbs. Sales on 24,500 slaughter steers, 6000 slaughter heifers. Around 2000 head sold on rail basis. NOTE: All live cattle prices based on net weights FOB the feedlot after 4 ear cent shears. Grade and Yield prices usually based on carcass beef price on day of slaughter.

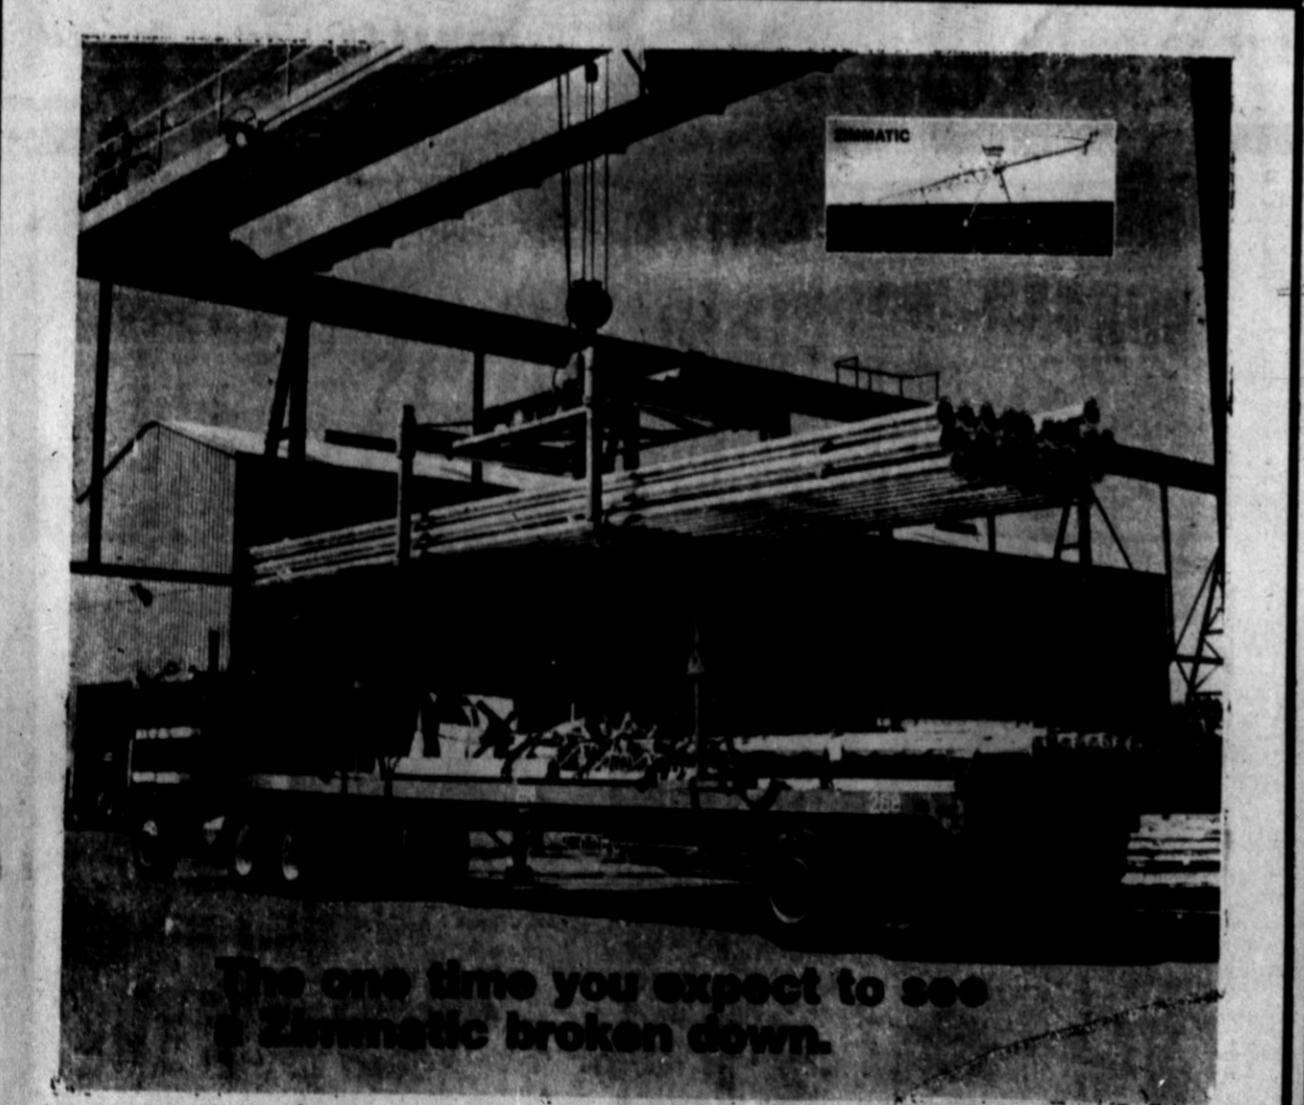

SLAUGHTER STEERS: During the week Good and mostly Choice 75-85 per cent Choice 2-400 lbs 27.50-30.00, mostly 27.00-29.50 late in the week. Mixed Good and Choice 2-1000 lbs 26.50-29.00, mostly 27.00 and down. Few loads Good and Choice 2-400 lbs 27.50. Local Good and Choice 2-400 lbs 27.00. Good and mostly Choice 2-400 lbs 26.50-29.00. PANHANDLE AREA CARLOT MEAT TRADE (FOB THE PLANT) AS OF 2:30 P.M. (KEEP TRADE-TEXAS PANHANDLE, WESTERN OKLAHOMA AND NEW MEXICO)

Demand for steer and heifer beef moderate, trading rather limited however as supply fairly well cleaned up. Choice steer and heifer beef generally 1.80 higher. No sales any other class reported.

Make Safety Happen

Reduce farming costs with accident prevention. Be informed. Read safety articles. Study operator's manuals. Routinely inspect machinery, buildings, and work sites for hazards, then correct them. Use needed protective equipment. Teach others to work safely. Keep up on laws and regulations concerning safety and health. Post safety rules and insist they be followed.

About the only time you expect to see a Zimatic broken down is when it leaves one of Lindsay's plants. Once assembled in your field, it seldom causes a problem. Those big, sure-footed towers power their way around the field, carrying water to crops.

Hour after hour, day after day. Until you decide to shut down. That kind of performance doesn't just happen. It's the result of constant testing — both in the plant and in the field. Lindsay puts these rigs through the most punishing conditions — loads on more stress in a week, usually, than they're likely to see in a lifetime of normal use.

But we know that no system is 100% perfect all the time. That's why we're ready to help with an extensive parts inventory and factory trained servicemen if you ever have a problem. Panhandle Needs Moisture, South Has Too Much

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) - The Texas Agriculture Extension Service at Texas A&M reports that too much rain in southern sections of the state is causing some problems to farmers.

Service director Dr. Daniel Fannstiel said cotton bolls are beginning to rot and sorghum heads are sprouting. In addition to these problems, the siege of moisture that has covered much of South Texas and the Coastal Plains has brought harvest operations to a standstill, Fannstiel said. Harvest of corn and sorghum along with the rice harvest had started in Southeast Texas and the Coastal Plains while hay harvesting had been widespread. Crops are generally making good progress in other sections, with irrigation continuing heavy in the High Plains. Some western areas have gotten scattered rains but more is needed for dryland crops, said

Pfannstiel. Watermelons and cantaloupes continue to move to market, with the Pecos cantaloupe harvest about to get into full swing. Vegetable production continues in most sections except in southern counties where preparations are in progress for fall plantings. Screwworms, ticks and flies continue to plague livestock in southern sections while in some western areas livestock conditions are somewhat below average.

Reports from district Extension agents showed the following conditions:

Panhandle: The wheat harvest is over, with dryland yields generally better than expected. All crops are making good growth although some were planted late. A good general rain is still needed for crops and ranges.

South Plains: The area's crop picture has improved due to recent rains, especially in the dryland areas. However, irrigation continues in parts of the area. Pasture and range conditions should improve with recent rains.

Rolling Plains: Some crops are in critical need of moisture with cotton fruiting and sorghum heading. Most of the sugar crop has been planted. Farmers are busy plowing wheat land and baling hay crops. Alfalfa has been producing excellent yields. North Central: Small grain harvesting is complete, with yields ranging from fair to good: Corn, sorghum and cotton are making good growth, with peanut planting about complete. Hay baling continues along with the peach harvest. Prospects for the pecan crop are poor.

Northeast: Crops are making good progress due to a good supply of moisture. However, insect numbers are increasing in many fields, especially in sorghum. Peach crop continues to produce good yields. A light pecan crop is in prospect. Far West: Most parts of the area received rain during the past week, with heaviest amounts falling east of the Pecos River. The moisture should give a big boost to dryland crops and pastures and ranges.

West Central: Much of the area has received rains of up to eight inches, boosting crops and pastures and ranges. Cotton and sorghum are growing well. Livestock are in good shape although markets are weaker.

Texas Watermelon Crop Plagued by Bad Weather

AUSTIN—Having survived less than ideal growing conditions, the state's watermelon crop is now being harvested.

"Harvest began in South Texas, and then moved to the Coastal Bend and the Lower Rio Grande Valley. It is now underway in Central Texas and Winter Garden fields," Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported.

Tonnage is expected to be somewhat lower than usual, although planted acreage in the state is the same as the last two years, at 55,000 acres, White said.

Quality is reported excellent in most areas. Most growers in South Texas, the Coastal Bend and Lower Rio Grande Valley report that the growing season this year was too cool and wet, resulting in shorter tonnage.

Unofficial reports received from commodity traders and exporters indicate that Brazil may be nearly sold out of soybeans, with only about 1.5 million metric tons or 55,110,000 bushels left from this year's production available for export. Some reports indicated that CACEX, Brazil's government controlled exporting agency was not going to grant additional licenses for export out of Rio Grande Do Sul, which is Brazil's major soybean producing state. Of the 10.75 million tons of soybeans that Brazilian authorities estimate to be harvested this year (their crop year runs counter to those countries in the northern hemisphere), 6.75 million tons are supposed to be consumed domestically, leaving about 4 million tons for export. So far 2.5 million have been booked by foreign buyers, notable Russia, Eastern and Western Europe, Japan and recently the People's Republic of China, a country that had in previous years been a net exporter of soybeans.

Trading volume on the Chicago Board of Trade set new record for any single month period during June, as well as reaching record levels for the second quarter and the first six-months of the year.

Soybeans established a new record volume of 682,712 contracts with corn second at 586,892. The largest increase in volume came in soybean meal at 219,917 contracts versus 52,313 traded in June, 1975.

The January-June 1976 volume reached 8,694,502 contracts, worth an estimated $175.774 billion.

World wheat production for 1976 is forecast between 365 million and 385 million tons compared with 353 million tons in 1975, the International Wheat Council, which is located in London, England estimated on Wednesday July 7.

Most of the increase will probably occur in the USSR, where last year's crop was disastrous. However, higher levels of production are also expected in other countries, particularly the U.S.A which is expected to produce the second highest wheat harvest on record. If there is no severe crop failure in a major consuming or producing country between now and harvest time, exports of what could take a serious drop. This occurrence could lead to another increase in combined carry-over stocks of the five major exporting countries—Argentina, Australia, Canada, the European Common Market and the U.S.A.

Flour Mill Located

PASCO, Wash. (AP) - A Texas firm has selected Prosser as the site of a new flour mill to process a special type of wheat and grain, Triticale Industries, Inc., President Charles Briggs announced Thursday.

Briggs told reporters that the mill will process triticale, a grain combining the qualities of wheat and rye.

About 8,000 acres of triticale was planted in the Mid-Columbia region this year, but the grain must be shipped to Texas or Kansas City to be milled.

Briggs said the $500,000 facility will employ 10 persons.

The president of the Amarillo firm said a stock-sharing plan will allow grain producers to own as much as 20 per cent of the stock in the operation.

He said Triticale Industries will own 50 per cent of the stock and the remainder will be sold to other interests.

A Triticale Industries spokesman said the mill will produce about 15 million pounds of flour a year.

"That may not be too large, but it could be expanded as the industry grows," said Kay Carrick.

Mel Ammerman of Prosser, president of the Triticale Producers Association, said "this year's crop looks great."

He said the harvest should begin in about two weeks. Ammerman said triticale may be sold as an animal feed.

Life would be much simpler if we didn't try to make people think we're what we're not.

On The Turnrow

By Jim Stolert

THIS IS OUR first appearance since The Brand has gone daily, and although it's been about two weeks since we took the big step, this writer is still trying to get settled enough to figure out just what is transpiring.

We have had some decisions to make as to which local features and special pages will run when with the new five-day daily schedule.

We have strived and continue to attempt to provide the best farm coverage we can for the local area, and our theory on the farm pages has been quality in quantity.

WE COULD PROBABLY have farm pages more often, but we would rather run farm pages a little less often and have good solid farm stories than see our quality drop.

For that reason, we'll be maintaining the same basic format for the Brand's farm pages with featured agricultural news appearing on special pages in Thursday and Sunday issues.

TURN

BRUCE COLEMAN OF the Walcott community was in last week posing a question I'm sure has perplexed plenty of agriculturalists both locally and nationally.

Bruce referred to the recent meeting of the Arab oil cartel in which the rich oil sheiks opened that they would probably be raising oil prices sometime in the near future.

"Those guys get together and agree on a price on their product, they all benefit from the prices they receive," said Coleman.

"Yet, we farmers, who also have something to sell, can't seem to get together and place a high price on our product like the Arabs do. Instead of selling for all we can get, we're forced to produce so that our products sell as cheaply as possible, and then we suffer for it."

Realtor Roundup

Presented by Hereford Board of Realtors
Jeane Coker, President

How do you recapture value of your home through remodeling or modernizing it? Remodeling of buildings subject to out-of-dateness will be found to result in returns far in excess of the costs involved.

Buildings, like automobiles, wear out, despite the fact the average owner likes to think that his structure of fifteen or twenty years of age is still worth what he paid for it and even as much as it would cost to build it new.

Buildings, like automobiles, wear out, despite the fact the average owner likes to think that his structure of fifteen or twenty years of age is still worth what he paid for it and even as much as it would cost to build it new. Appraisers contend that an average frame building has a normal economic life of about 35 years, while a brick building will not stand up physically and give service for much longer periods. It does mean that they suffer from obsolescence (out-of-dateness) to a degree that, for all practical purposes, they must be discounted as economic assets in such periods...unless they are completely overhauled and brought up to date from time to time through modernizing processes.

Remodelling from time to time is the best way in which to maintain any building. A residence should be rebuilt in some particular way every ten to fifteen years. This can be done by the installation of new plumbing or lighting fixtures, replacing a roof, re-siding exterior walls, or by adding structural additions such as bedrooms, sunrooms, or bathrooms. The things which become obsolete most quickly are the plumbing fixtures, the tile work, the heating plant, the kitchen, the lighting fixtures, and the interior trim. New decorations help from time to time, but the mere application of paint and paper does not fully overcome the out-of-dateness which constantly creeps up on an old building or home.

Home builders and designers; have caught the system used by auto and clothing manufacturers. They have found that by changing some significant features they may cause a five or six year old house to appear up-to-date. For example: new closet doors, new style "glide and fold" doors, glass doors, new windows. Even the architecture of a house can be modified, with new windows added, roof lines changed or added to by new rooms provided, thus making the home into a dwelling that will be satisfactory and serve for another generation.

Lifting the face of almost any kind of building can now be profitably engaged in by any owner who is wide awake enough to observe and realize that it is profitable to remodel and modernize. This almost insures you a 95 percent new house price when you sell your home at a later date. The other factors that would effect this percentage would be the location within the city limits and the neighborhood that surrounds your home.

Professional building modernizers operate in nearly all cities. These may be used if you have no desire to do your own remodeling and modernizing. They will give you a cost estimate for a turn-key job or will do your roughing and you can do the finishing. You can also get bids on your job if the job is clear-cut. In extremely older homes, a bid is an approximate due to unlooked-for conditions that may be encountered and may increase costs materially. This may lead you to decide on a cost-plus type of contract.

The builder will do the work, the owner will pay for all materials and labor, and allow a fixed fee of say 10 percent upon the final cost involved. If you chose this method, you should observe great care to have complete specifications to cover the entire work, otherwise extras can enter the picture and involve a good deal of unexpected expense.

Financing your modernization work may be accomplished in various ways. Your Realtor is familiar with these and can be a good source for helping direct your steps to financing.

The New York Islanders picked six players in the National Hockey league's 1976 amateur spring draft.

The 1975-76 pro basketball season was the longest ever. On June 6 the Boston Celtics won their 13th title in 20 seasons, beating the Phoenix Suns in a sixth game.

When Forego won the 1976 Metropolitan mile-at Belmont Park he increased his career earnings to $1,245,176. He moved up to eighth place ahead of Carry Back and Damascus.

Air Force Academy pistol coach Bobby Tiner went to Switzerland this spring to compete in the annual military pistol and rifle championships.

Don't forget to include in your planning, the celebration of the 100th anniversary of Deaf Smith County! Ceremonies will be held on Saturday, August 21 - 9:30 a.m. at the Court House. All organizations are being invited and everyone is welcome and encouraged to attend this very significant event.

SHOP HEREFORD FIRST
The annual Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Tennis Tournament is shaping up into the biggest and best yet. It will be played on the new tennis courts and will be held July 23rd thru 25th. Registration forms are available at Western Auto in Downtown Variety Park, Gibsons on Park Avenue, Pro Sports Center at Park Plaza and Spanglers in Sugarland Mall. Registrations must be returned to the Chamber office by Tuesday, July 20th. - Better Hustle!!!

SHOP HEREFORD FIRST
Have you noticed two or more newspapers lying on driveways and lawns - shades drawn and a general look of "nobody home". What could be more inviting to someone who wants to have the things that are yours and that you keep in your home?

There's a national program called "Crime Can Be Your Fault" and it really can. Example: "If only I'd locked the car" or "If only I'd left the lights on" or "If only I'd told the neighbors" or "If only I'd called the police" - these and many others are simple - easy common sense actions to help prevent crime. You can help!

SHOP HEREFORD FIRST
We're looking for some good things to happen - one will be a "driveup mail deposit," where a person doesn't have to get out of the car to deposit a letter; another is a camper park where travelers can hook-up and stay over night in our community; some real attractive advertising which will attract visitors to our town from off I-40 and I-27; and finally we'll probably be seeing a new four color map of Hereford and Deaf Smith County which will be disturbed by various Hereford businesses in the near future.

Every little improvement shows some measure of progress and marks our town as one that runs on lots of HUSTLE, HUSTLE, HUSTLE!

ON DEFENSE BILL
The House has approved a $105.6-billion defense appropriation bill. The House rejected an effort to hold up BI-production money.

ON JURY REFORM
Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi has challenged a proposed congressional reform of the federal grand jury system that would allow witnesses to bring legal counsel into the room while giving testimony.

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. -Abraham Lincoln.

Different Ways To Sell A House

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures
It should be an easier task to sell a house in summer. Nature seems to cooperate in making our homes more saleable. The environment can provide irresistible inducements. But some houses might not sell for reasons that ought to be reviewed by a family wanting to sell. One woman who managed to sell a house within a few days after the family re-considered its offering and got

Give your house personality: Put flowers or plants in every room. If there are flowers to be had from your garden or your neighbor's, put fresh ones in the bowls each day. Otherwise use flowering plants. It is worth the investment.

Scents leave pleasant impressions: Spray cologne in each room every day. Keep it cool: If it is hot outdoors, cool the rooms. Do not open the windows, and keep shades drawn on the sunny side until just before the arrival of the prospective buyer. Use air conditioning if you have it. Set a beautiful mood: Soft, romantic music can set the stage. Avoid making it look like a prop whether it is a stereo or a record player. Don't clutter rooms: It will make rooms look smaller than they are. If there are too many pieces of furniture in rooms, pile them in the corner of an unused bedroom or sewing room or den, explaining the things are to be sold or whatever. Better to have too little furniture making the room look bigger, even if you must sacrifice your decorating scheme. Keep the outdoors trim: Keep the lawn mowed, trim overgrown bushes. If you haven't enough color in the garden, buy some plants and sink them into the ground. Light is important: If some rooms are dark put on some lamplight. If a staircase to a family room or basement is dark, make sure you find some way to light it before the house is shown. Inexpensive outdoor carpet in a bright color can make a flight of dreary stairs seem more pleasant.

Be available, but not pushy: If you happen to be in the house when it is being shown, take the visitors in stride. Bake a pie or loaf of bread or whatever without messing up the kitchen and provide a homey atmosphere that may have buyer appeal.

Know your real estate people: Sometimes they unwittingly lose sales. This owner found a real estate broker agreeing wholeheartedly when a potential buyer remarked the dining room was small. On another occasion a broker killed a sale by agreeing the house might be too near a contemplated highway (which might never be built and is still in a controversial stage.)

If there is a lot of competition in your community, selling a house might be a drama that the entire family is involved in. Each should be primed for his role.

Definitions of 'Being Born Again' Vary

BY GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Since Jimmy Carter says it has happened to him, many people are wondering just what being "born again" means. Those versed in the New Testament know, of course, but studies show there's considerable illiteracy in that area these days, even among Christians.
Some don't understand - or misjudge - the concept.
Like various other religious terms, it is "puzzling to modern minds," says the Rev. Dr. Henlee Barnette of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. "Even some Christians have vague notions as to what the phrase actually means."
Sometimes, they associate it only with revival tent emotionalism or a momentary, crowd-induced "high," bereft of rationality. But that wasn't its original Biblical context. Instead, it was the subject of a thoughtful, private conversation between Jesus and fellow rabbi, Nicodemus.
"That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit," Jesus says in John 3:6-7. "Do not marvel that I said, 'You must be born anew'."

Actually it's sort of a point of discovery about a person's place and purpose in life, how it all hangs together in the province of God, has direction and makes sense personally and universally, and an inner affirmation of it.
It's a little like Archimedes realizing the law of material mass and exclaiming, "Eureka! - I have found it!"

In spiritual rebirth, a person gains "a whole new perspective of the world," says Dr. Barnette, a professor of Christian ethics. "While it is the same old world, he sees it through new eyes."
It is an act of mind, will and emotion - and a definite new commitment to its impact. It can happen suddenly or through an extended period of cumulative experiences, deepening awareness and determination of the will. It is an awakening to meaning, in God's universal design; it is being "saved" from futility and meaninglessness.

"Salvation is a much more common experience among contemporary Americans than many people seem to think," says the Rev. Dr. James T. Baker, a religious historian of Western Kentucky University.

"All in all, it's a perfectly natural experience that answers perfectly normal needs ... It is being called by God and responding."

While the experience often caricatured as a cultic trait only of holiness groups, he says "this is not really the case."

He cites material from scholars of Roman Catholic and other high liturgical churches to show they all embrace the concept, if not the particular terminology.

Sometimes it's called a "spiritual conversion" or "turning point" in a person's life by an act of will. The Rev. Dr. Frank H. Crumper, evangelism secretary for the Virginia Baptist General Board, says it occurs when a person "Voluntarily submits himself to the Lordship of Christ" and "determines that in the power of God's Spirit, he will live the Christian life day by day."

Ban On Hanging Penalty Expected By Canadians

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) - A ban on capital punishment for all except some military crimes is expected to be on Canada's statute books by today.

The Senate scheduled three meetings today to debate the Liberal government's bill passed Wednesday by the House of Commons. Speedy approval in the upper house was expected, followed immediately by royal assent from Governor General Jules Léger.

Canada's present laws permit hanging for persons convicted of killing policemen on duty and prison guards. But no Canadian has been executed since 1962, when two men were hanged in Toronto.

The Commons voted 130 to 12 to eliminate capital punishment except for some offenses under the National Defense Act. These include spying, desertion, leading a mutiny, being drunk or asleep on guard duty and willfully surrendering to an enemy, provided the offenses were committed under traitorous circumstances.

The vote saved the lives of three police killers scheduled to be hanged Wednesday and eight other condemned men. Solicitor-General Warren Allmand said all death sentences were commuted immediately after the house acted.

"This is not something to celebrate," said Allmand. "There is a lot of work to be done on prevention of crime."

Conservative opponents of the ban said they would campaign for its repeal in the next general election, expected in 1978. Throughout the long debate they cited polls showing that 75 to 80 per cent of the public favored retention of the noose.

It was the third attempt by a Liberal government to abolish capital punishment. Attempts in 1967 and 1972 failed.

The new law provides a maximum sentence of 25 years for first-degree, or premeditated, murder and 10 years for second-degree murder, committed without forethought.

West Texas Tourism Map Includes Hereford

The Tourist and Travel Development Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has announced intentions to publish the fourth annual edition of the "Wonderful West Texas" Fun and Adventure Map promoting tourism and travel in West Texas. The map is scheduled for release in March 1977.
Hereford's Cowgirl Hall of Fame, feedlot industry, and large agriculture production levels are advertised on the map for promotional tourists.
R.D. Woolter, WTCC Committee Chairman and President of Community Public Service Company headquartered in Fort Worth, stated that a minimum of 100,000 of the full color maps representing tourist and travel attractions throughout the 132 counties of West Texas would be printed for free distribution to the vacationing public. Participation in the popular Fun and Adventure Map is open to all chambers of commerce, museums, tourist attractions, colleges and universities and tourist and travel related businesses on a first come basis. A charge is made for space reserved and material included is subject to the approval of the WTCC Tourist and Travel Development Committee.

The map is designed to enable a visitor to West Texas to plan a weekend outing or a full vacation with plenty left over for future visits. Sixty-nine attractions are listed in the current edition.
Complete information regarding inclusion in the 1977 edition and a free copy of the current "Wonderful West Texas" Fun and Adventure Map may be obtained free of charge by writing: Travel Department, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 1561, Abilene, Texas, 79604.

Here's the Answer

Q-I saw some beautiful paintings hung in a restaurant the other day. The man in the restaurant said they had been done by a customer of his. All he knew about the unusual effect was that it had been achieved with skim milk mixed with dry colors. He didn't know the exact procedure. I would like to try this myself, since I have had some success with charcoal drawings. Can you tell me how it is done?
A-He told you about everything there is to know. Add dry color to the skim milk until it is fairly heavy - about the consistency of those nondrip paints. Then go ahead and paint. Allow to dry for four or five days and the finish will become very hard, after which it can be waxed if desired.

Q-The cypress fence on the property of an old house we bought is in sound condition, but appears to be very dry. How can we perk up its appearance?
A-Apply wood preservative to it. You can get the clear liquid or that with color in it, as you wish. The preservative will not only improve the fence's appearance, it will lengthen its life.

Q-You recently suggested to someone that he should use a sand finish interior latex paint to cover a pattern wall. I'd like to try the same thing, but wonder if it is difficult to apply.
A-No. But don't forget the warning that was given to the questioner. If you ever decide at some time in the future that you want a smooth wall, you'll have one tough job leveling it.

Q-I'm interested in buying some particle board I saw recently in the display office of a building supply dealer. I forgot to ask the salesman there what it was made of and whether it can be cut with a regular saw and now I am embarrassed to go back and question him. Can you give me the answers?
A-I can, but I'm puzzled as to why you are reluctant to return and ask the dealer. You're the customer and you are entitled to ask all the questions you want to be sure you know what you're buying. Anyway, if you should decide to ask him, he will tell you that particle board is made of waste pieces of wood bonded together to form panels and that it can be sawed even more easily than solid wood.

The average number of coal mine workers in the United States hit a high of nearly 863,000 in 1923 while the low was 133,000 in 1969, according to the Census Bureau's "Historical Statistics of the United States." Man-hours worked went from 1.5 billion in 1913 to 234 million in 1968.
