"We will not be able to control every situation," said City Manger Darwin McGill. "There will be outof-city residents who might get by, but we will get to about 90 percent of them."

Commissioners said they were implementing the rate in order to defray the cost to run the landfill. The rate will go into effect Oct 1.

Commissioners also elected to deny a zoning change request filed by Rosa Fitchett for the property located at 609 West third.

Fitchett was requesting that the lot be zoned "E-Central Business" from "D-Restricted."

In other busines the commission: -Canvassed returns from Saturday's elections and swore in Emory Brownlow and R.W. Eades for two-year terms. -Discussed the possibility of forcing roofers to obtain permits from the city in order to do any work in the city. Lewis Lea of LeaWay Roofing told the commissioners this would be a form of protection to the homeowners and would prevent "flyby-night" contractors from working in the city. # GAO says DOE violated law when it dropped search for second dump site

Bentsen vows to correct situation

WASHINGTON (AP) - The General Accounting Office says the U.S. Department of Energy violated federal law when it dropped its search for a second possible site for a high-level nuclear waste dump earlier this year.

That finding prompted Sen. Lloyd Bentsen to vow to correct the situation. Deaf Smith County in the Texas Panhandle is on a list of three sites being considered for the nuclear waste. The Energy Department said in May that Deaf Smith County, along with sites in Nevada and Washington state, would be tested as possible sites for the nation's first nuclear waste dump.

At the time, Energy Secretary

John Herrington said a search for a second site had been halted.

The GAO informed Bentsen of its finding, and Bentsen vowed Friday to try to correct the situation when Congress convenes in January.

Bentsen said he believed the

"It is clear from the ruling, though, that further action by Congress is needed," Bentsen said.

The Energy Department plans to run exploratory drilling in Deaf Smith County to determine if the area should become a nuclear waste storage site.

The dump would hold up to 70,000 tons of spent nuclear fuel and highly radioactive defense wastes.

Local UW drive at 19 percent of its goal

The United Way of Deaf Smith County has reached 19 percent of its goal of $110,000 after the first week of the campaign, it was announced Monday at the first report meeting of UW volunteers.

Contributions and pledges totalled $20,843 after division chairmen reported their totals and recognized workers at the luncheon meeting in the Community Center. Bobby Owen, UW vice president, presided at the luncheon and Helen Langley, campaign chairman, introduced the division leaders.

Owen presented special awards to Leona Kimball and J.O. Robinson as outstanding volunteers for the first week. Mrs. Kimball had turned in the most cards and her division, Golden Age, had reached the highest percentage toward its goal. Robinson was cited for his work in two different divisions.

The Golden Age division reported a total of $3,450 for the first week, or 68 percent of its goal of $5,100. The Major division, headed by Buddy Peeler, reported the most money at $6,033. That represents 15 percent of its goal of $39,000. The Whiteface division, headed by Tony Calkins, turned in $1,544 toward its goal of $3,600-accounting for 43 percent of the goal.

Other division totals: Metro $2,558 reported by Carol Sue LeGate; Pacesetters-$2,319 reported by Margaret Bell; Professional-$1,850 reported by Marjorie Mims; Special-$1,639 reported by Donnie Houle; Agriculture-$1,235 reported by Peaches Reinauer; General-$215 reported by Betty Drake.

The United Way campaign is featuring a car wash project this week with the cooperation of the Sonic Drive In. Workers from several UW agencies are washing cars at the Sonic, beginning yesterday and continuing through Thursday. The crews are at work from 4 to 6 p.m. and will accept donations for washing the cars while the customers are getting an order at the drive in.

Raymond White, one of the "loaned-executive" volunteers. reported that his group is calling on larger firms and seeking new pledges as well as larger pledges from those who have been participating in the past.

The United Way volunteers will have a Monday luncheon each week to report their totals. The campaign is scheduled to end Oct. 10.

State ****** Lawmaker: Parole system 'dishonest'

AUSTIN (AP) - Saying the state is being dishonest by requiring criminals to serve a fraction of their prison sentences, a state lawmaker wants reform of parole laws to require inmates to serve at least one-third of their time.

Rep. Dan Morales said his survey of state parole laws indicates that Texas has the most liberal good-conduct rules in the nation, allowing too many prisoners to spend too little time behind bars.

"The problem is, we in state government simply have not been honest with regard to the true situation," Morales told a news conference Monday.

"Judges and juries believe they are doing one thing, and the public believes they are doing one thing, when in reality they are doing something very different. A 5- or 10- or 15-year prison term realy means a 1- or 2- or 3-year prison term, and that to me is dishonest," Morales said. Under state law, felons may receive up to nine days of goodconduct time for each calendar day they spend behind bars, Morales said, meaning felons may be released after serving as little as 10 percent of their sentences.

The average felon can expect to serve only 21 percent of his sentence before being released, Morales added.

Cash least liked among contestants

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - The new Miss America says she has no idea why anyone would say she was the least-liked contestant in the pageant and denies that she traded on her famous relative's name.

Miss Florida Molly Pesce, a loser in Saturday's contest, said the winner, Kellye Cash of Tennessee, was unpopular and arrogant and won in part because she is the grandniece of country singer Johnny Cash and because the judges didn't appreciate feminism.

"Honey, between you and me, that girl was the least-liked girl around. ... She acted like she knew she was going to win," Ms. Pesce, who failed to place among the 10 finalists, told The Orlando Sentinel in a story published Monday.

'The judges were looking for a different type of girl than I am," she added. "They wanted a sweet kind of non-aggressive Soluthern belle. The judges apparently wanted country. All those girls in the top 10 were alike."

Miss Cash, contacted at her New York City hotel, said Miss Florida might have been quoted out of context.

"I do not think I was the least liked," said Miss Cash. "I made a lot of friends at the pageant. I don't know why or if she said that. I do not think my relation with my uncle had anything to do with my winning. "It wasn't Johnny in the swimsuit who won, it was me," Miss Cash said. "He didn't get up on the stage. I did. #### U.S. says Daniloff before summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration says plans for a superpower summit must take a back seat to U.S. demands that the Soviet Union unconditionally release American journalist

The administration on Monday put Daniloff's case at the top of the agenda for meetings Friday and Saturday between Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevard-

The sessions originally were intended to try to fix a date for a meeting this year between Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gor-

"I just don't know how far they will get on that matter (the summit)," said White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes.

"We'll start with Daniloff and see where it goes from there." However, there were indications the administration is not backing away from hopes for a superpower meeting.

Vice President George Bush told reporters that Daniloff "fortunately is not rotting away in a KGB jail. And, I don't understand this linkage in peoples' minds about the summit" and Daniloff.

du Pont declares candidacy

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) - Former Delaware Gov. Pete du Pont declared his candidacy today for the 1988 Republican presidential nomination, advocating mandatory drug testing for teen-age school children and jail sentences for adult drug users.

In remarks prepared for his announcement, du Pont referred to "the graceful, confident leadership of Ronald Reagan" and added:

"Sooner than we realize, he will step down from the presidency; so we must begin to think about who will next lead this country, and in what direction."

Du Pont, descended from of one of the nation's foremost corporate families, announced his candidacy in the du Pont Hotel not far from the headquarters of Du Pont Co., the giant chemical firm.

After his announcement, du Pont was heading for a campaign swing through New Hampshire, the state that holds the first presidential primary, and Iowa, which holds the first caucuses of 1988.

As the first major candidate to announce for the the White House, du Pont proposed a solidly conservative program that built on initiatives of the Reagan presidency. His strongest proposals were directed at combatting drug use.

"The only way we'll ever guarantee drug-free classrooms is comprehensive drug testing of teen-agers in our schools," said du Pont. "If we can require vaccinations before kids go to school, we can require drug testing while they're in school."

Arrests ordered in Aquino case

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - A judge Tuesday ordered the arrest of former armed forces chief Fabian C. Ver and 25 others whose acquittals in the 1983 assassination of President Corazon Aquino's husband have been overturned by the Supreme Court.

Justice Francisco Garchitorena, head of a court that tries government personnel, said it would be decided Friday which of the court's three divisions would conduct a retrial.

Last Friday, the Supreme Court ordered a new trial for Gen. Ver and the others, saying their December acquittal in the killing of opposition leader Benigno Aquino was a "sham" orchestrated by then President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

Aquino, a former senator, was gunned down at Manila airport Aug. 21, 1983 as he returned from self-imposed exile in the United States to lead the opposition against Marcos.

The trial that ended in December ruled Aguino had been killed by an alleged communist agent, who was shot dead on the airport tarmac by soldiers.

A popular revolt following Aquino's assassination, culminating in nationwide protests over the fraud-tainted Feb. 7 presidential elec-tion, led to Marcos' ouster on Feb. 25 and Corazon Aquino's installation as president. Ver fled to Hawaii with Marcos a day later.

It was not immediately known how many of the other former defendants were still in the Philippines.

Mrs. Aquino is currently on an official visit to the United States.

Bobby Owen, left, and Helen Langley look over the totals after the United Way of Deaf Smith County held its first report meeting Monday. Owen, UW vice president, was optimistic that the campaign goal of $110,000 will be reached this year. Mrs. Langley, campaign chairman, reported 19 percent of the goal was reached the first week.

School discipline bill signed

AUSTIN (AP) - Legislation giving teachers and school administrators added power in dealing with troublesome students will help carry the war on drugs into classrooms, Gov. Mark White says.

"Today, our teachers are getting another tool to help them combat the problem of drug abuse among teenagers and maintain discipline in our schools," White said as he signed the legislation Monday.

Police arrest eight

City police arrested eight individuals during the past weekend. Five of the arrests were alcohol related. Four individuals were arrested for public intoxication and one arrest was made for being drunk while in control of a motor vehicle. One arrest was made for assault, and one arrest was made for no driver's license and no insurance.

One arrest was made on a pending warrant.

Three assaults were reported to police. One in the 200 block of Jowell, and the others were in the 400 block of Sycamore and at George and Blevins.

A bicycle was stolen from the 600 block of Stanton and $145 worth of damage was done to a unit at the Lynette Apartments.

Police also heard nine cases of criminal mischief, criminal trespassing in the 100 block of Centre St., a domestic dispute in the 400 block of Ave. I, a domestic problem in the 100 block of Hermisilo Street, a prowler in the 500 block of McKinley, a dog bite in the 300 block of Ave. F, attempted suicide in the 100 block of Hickory, a loud party in the 500 block of Irving, a domestic dispute in the 200 block of Star, a stolen purse valued at $140 was taken from the high school parking lot, and an attempted suicide was reported in the 100 block

Police also issued 33 citations and were called to six minor ac-

White said the pill would help keep classrooms free of drugs, alcohol, violence and the disruptions caused by misbehaving students.

"No teacher can teach, no student can learn, in an environment where one problem student can disrupt an entire class or where drugs and alcohol are present," he said.

The bill was passed during the first special session.

White said the new law will give administrators and teachers clear authority to suspend or expel students who create disturbances, bring drugs or other illegal substances to school, or who present a threat to others.

Officials said that under current law, educators must place unruly students in "alternative education programs" in school before suspending or expelling them. In order to suspend a student, it must be shown that the child was "incorrigible."

Under the new law, schools could suspend students without trying the alternative first. The State Board of Education would set the procedural

ABC's 'Jack and Mike' to air tonight

NEW YORK (AP) - Ken and Barbie finally got married, found fabulous careers and landed on ABC.

ABC likes to call its drama series that opens tonigh "Jack and Mike," but the Yuppie couple, played by Tom Mason and Shelley Hack, are dead ringers for America's most famous plastic sweethearts.

Although the attractive humanoids on the screen appear to be anatomically correct, much of the Miss Hack's character definitely is not patterned after Chicago's grizzled Mike Royko. With Jackie, journalism never looked so chic or so easy, except the night she was working under deadline in her office while never bothering to turn on the lights.

Her motivation for getting into journalism makes her sound like somebody who loves going door to door peddling encyclopedias: "I'm in this business because I need to know why. I got to find the truth and write it."

She offers that journalistic manifesto after some anti-First Amendment types try to hit her with their van so she'll lay off a story. She's convinced that a man convicted of rape, TV's favorite crime, is innocent.

Additional threats are made against her husband, Mike (Mason), who runs three restaurants in Chicago. Somebody charcoal broiled his beef before he did, firing bullet holes into his meat.

Hey, nobody said being married to reporters was a picnic.

But Jackie perseveres and manages to solve the crime and write it without ever mussing her

"Jack and Mike" is insipid, transparent TV, designed only for the looking, like a department store window. Yet many on Madison Avenue predict it will be a hit, since it follows ABC's popular "Moonlighting" on Tuesdays.

The bickering couple on 'Moonlighting," David and Maddie, also spend a lot of time in extensive foreplay, but at least their verbal jousts sometimes are worth hearing.

Child's problem needs diagnosis

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT - A TV program I saw discussed a boy who had a disorder called "dysfunction." He couldn't control his behavior. I have a grandson who seems to have this problem, but his parents just beat him when he gets out of hand. Where can I get more information on this condition?

I'd like to educate his parents.

DEAR READER — The term "dysfunction" refers to the improper functioning of any body organ. I am not aware that it is a specific disease of behavior. If your grandson is showing inappropriate (dysfunctional) behavior, he may have one of many possible diseases. I believe that he should be examined by a physician in order for a proper diagnosis to be established. Perhaps the parents should have counseling, because child abuse is in-excusable behavior in any circumstance.

DEAR DR. GOTT - My husband and I have been trying to have children for two years. The doctor said that the sperm my husband produces do not reach full maturity. Do you know of any research in this area? Is there any hope?

DEAR READER - Immature, fragmented or poorly moving sperm can be a troublesome cause of infertility. The condition is often difficult to treat, although a hormone deficiency can sometimes produce such an abnormality. I suggest that your husband see a urologist for a thorough evaluation. DEAR DR. GOTT - I would like to know more about multiple myeloma. What are its first signs, and is it like leukemia?

DEAR READER - When one type of blood cell, the plasmacyte, becomes cancerous, the resulting dis-ease is called multiple myeloma. Plasmacytes are formed in the bone marrow, so myeloma is actually cancer of the bone marrow. As malignant plasma cells grow, they invade sur-rounding bone and spill into the general blood circulation. Therefore, patients with myeloma have bone pain, elevated blood calcium, anemia, kidney failure and susceptibility to infections. Chemotherapy can help patients with the disease Although myeloma may behave like leukemia (causing fatigue, anemia and weight loss), it is not classified as leukemia because the malignancy originates in the bone marrow instead of in circulating blood cells.

DEAR DR. GOTT - My hus, and read an article which implied that yogurt, if eaten over a long period of time, causes blindness. Is this true?

DEAR READER - No, it's untrue. Yogurt is a cultured milk product that, in one form or another, has been used for centuries in many parts of the world. It's true that some modern, commercially manufactured yogurt contains food coloring, flavoring and additives.

Night 364-2225

ABILENE, Texas (AP) -In his last sermon, the Rev. Dr. David Ray used humor to exhort churchgoers to attend an evening service.

"But if He tells you it's all right to stay home and watch TV, I want you to know I'm going to pray that your TV tube blows up," Ray told the congregation at South Side Baptist Church.

After they laughed, he added, "I did that in another city once and between 7 and 8 p.m. that night, the cable went out and no TV in town worked. You think the church

night?"

Those who heard the sermon Sunday morning said there was no indication of internal turmoil that would cause Ray to take his life a few hours later.

Friends said, however, that the 53-year-old evangelist had been depressed by the death of two close relatives in the past two weeks, and that he expressed dissatisfaction with his own preaching that about it, and they're not always that attentive in 'big church,' " one distraught member said.

Ray, a former Hardin-Simmons University official who had been a fulltime evangelist since 1978, was found dead of a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the driveway of his parents' home near the Wylie community in south Abilene shortly after 4 p.m.

The body was found in the driveway near a mobile home that served as "traveling during their far-flung evangelism ministry. They moved the headquarters of his ministry in 1984 from Abilene to Ruidoso, N.M.

Justice of the Peace Clarence Collins ruled the death a suicide. He said Ray placed a 12-gauge shotgun under his chin and pulled the trigger. Ray had opened a four-day revival Sunday morning and was scheduled to preach at the church again at 7 p.m. The Rev. Dale Hill announced the death to a hushed congregation Sunday night, then led a brief meditation. Ray was pastor at Trinity

Baptist Church in Fort Worth from 1961 to 1965: Haltom Road Baptist Church, 1965-67; and First Baptist Church in Lubbock, 1967-72. Ray was only 33 when he was called to become pastor of First Baptist Church of Lubbock, then the second largest congregation in the Southern Baptist Convention.

There were more than 5,000 additions to the church during his pastorate, but the "administrative and executive duties of a church of that size took their toll on David when his great love was preaching," said Dr. Elwin Skiles, chancellor of HSU and president when Ray was a member of the HSU staff.

Ray took a leave of absence to regain his health in 1971. but resigned the following year, officials in Lubbock

Skiles praised Ray's work as an assistant vice president for development at HSU from

He is survived by his wife: one son, David Michael of Houston; two daughters. Janet (Mrs. Rick) Spurlock of Miamisburg, Ohio; and Kelle (Mrs. David) Vanderberg of Coppell, Tex.; one grandson, Joshua Spurlock; and his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Lem Ray of Wylie.

His only sister, Joyce Saur. died Sept. 2 - the day before Ray's 53rd birthday - in Irving after an illness of 12 years, and his aunt, Bessie M. Jackson, was buried Saturday in Coleman.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Pioneer Drive Baptist Church in Abilene.

Alcohol abuse a bigger problem than drugs

NEW YORK (AP) -Authorities disagree over whether widespread screening will help prevent illegal drug use, and some say alcohol abuse is a far more important and widespread problem.

On Monday, President Reagan ordered the heads of federal agencies to establish mandatory drug testing for employees in sensitive positions as part of a national crusade against drug abuse. The action was criticized by Arthur McBay, chief toxicologist in the North Carolina medical examiner's office, who said he has just completed a study of drug testing and found it isn't cost effective.

To be cost-effective, testing should be limited to people who show some sign of deterioration, he said in a telephone interview Monday.

He also was critical of the president's action on the grounds that it didn't include alcohol testing.

"Alcohol has a greater effect on health, safety and performance than all of the other drugs," McBay said. Furthermore, he said, "Adequate personnel, procedures and instruments are available for testing alcohol. ... This is not true for the widespread testing of urine for other drugs."

NOTE: The Recorded Commodit

Update Phone Number has been changed to 364-1286.

McBay, who has testified on behalf of unions opposing the drug testing of federal workers, mentioned a study done for the government's Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration that found that the social cost of alcohol abuse was roughly twice that of all other drugs combined.

An author of that study, Henrick Harwood of Research Triangle Institute in North Carolina, said, Alcohol affects more people than do other drugs, and it affects them more seriously."

The study, which estimated the social costs of alcohol and other drugs in 1983, found that alcohol abuse cost the nation $117 billion that year. Most of that was due to lost productivity, amounting to $65.6 billion, Harwood said.

The cost of drug use was $60 billion, including $33 billion in lost productivity, he said.

Harwood also found that the loss in productivity from drug abuse came entirely from only the heaviest drug abusers - those who had used drugs daily for at least a 30-day period at some time in their lives.

There was no significant loss of productivity attributable to drug users who used drugs less regularly, he said. "There are literally millions of Americans who use psychoactive drugs throughout the year with no detected impairment."

A report released in June by Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., found that the drug testing of federal workers was costly and useless.

Five percent to 20 percent of workers tested were wrongly found to be drug users, she said. And the testing cost up to $100 per employee, she said.
She criticized the drug testing programs because the "testing procedures of many labs are sloppy," and said workers have the right to be "protected unreasonable intrusions into their bodily functions."

Dr. Robert Lewy, director of employee health programs at New York's Presbyterian pital, said the accuracy of testing has improved significantly since 1963, when he did a study suggesting that pre-employment drug testing was not cost-effective.

"I don't think we're at a stage where we can eliminate all of the false positives, but we can make them a min insideration," said Lewy, those hospital recently legan routine drug testing of

Decorating club members plan classes in October

The first meeting of the Sweet 'n' Fancy Cake Decorating Club was held Thursday at the Community

President Karen Martin asked all members to make a list of cake pans that they are willing to share and to give that list to Teresa Paetzold.

Club members voted to give a cash donation to the Satellite Center in Hereford.

It was announced that cake classes will be held on the first four Mondays of October at the Community Center. All members were asked to attend. A film "The Art of Cake Decorating" will be shown to the students at the first lesson. Students should bring a cake and a recipe of icing to the first King's Manor cakes were assigned through Marcy. Karen Martin and Isabel Cervantez will be responsible for the cakes for this month.

Beckie Fry gave the program on the construction of graham cracker houses byusing buttercream icing and various borders for decoration.

Members present included Elida Balderez, Isabel Cervantez, Evelyn Crofford, Beckie Fry and daughters Katherine and Rebecca, Carol Kelley and son Christopher, Alice Koenig, Karen Martin, Mary McCutchen, Teresa Paetzold, Nora Perez and Hope Torres.

Robert H. Harman will be the assembly overseer assigned to this assembly by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York. Hartman came to this area after serving 161/2 years, as a missionary, in Alaska and Canada. He had been an ordained minister of Jehovah's Witnesses since 1951.

Assisting him with the Circuit Assembly will be Ernie Morris, now serving the interest of Jehovah's Witnesses in the Texas Panhandle and parts of Oklahoma and New Mexico, as Circuit Overseer.

Both Hartman and Morris have been working with the Dalhart Texas Congregation this past week and will arrive in Amarillo Friday to finalize arrangements for the assembly. At the Kingdon Hall in Dalhart, Hartman spoke of the coming event. He said the program for both days will be designed to help Jehovah's Witnesses to apply the Bible in their lives. One highlight Saturday will be the baptism of many new ones. Hartman will be the feature speaker Sunday, at 2 p.m. His topic will be "Acts of God, What Are They?" A special invitation is extended to interested people to hear this talk.

Saturday's program begins at 9:55 a.m. and concludes at 4:15 p.m. Sunday's program last from 9:55 a.m. to closing at 4 p.m. All sessions are open to interested people.

Ann Landers Bodies are needed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a letter from "Still in the Closet" in which you quoted Anthony S. Fauci, M.D., as saying, "All practicing homosexuals should resign from the Living Bank." I would like to ask if practicing homosexuals can safely donate their bodies to colleges

Is it possible that the bodies of people are "Still in the Closet" could still help the living? Dissection is essential for students. Who knows what a student might one day discover as a

I thought perhaps homosexuals, or others who cannot donate organs to the living, might find this an equally rewarding alternative. - I PLAN TO IN CHICAGO

DEAR PLAN TO: I've received several letters from medical schools asking me to make it plain that practicing homosexuals can indeed make a meaningful contribution to medical science by donating their bodies to the Living Bank.

Of course, they could not be organ donors, but learning dissection is vital to surgery and bodies are needed for this type of training. The address of the Living Bank is P.O. Box 6725, Houston, Tx. 77265.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There should be a sign in every eating place that says, "PARENTS, NOT THE RESTAURANT, ARE RESPONSI-BLE FOR THEIR CHILDREN."

I work as a waitress in a very busy cafe. Waiters and waitresses are constantly carrying pots of hot coffee, trays loaded with food and dirty dishes that can be knocked out of our hands by youngsters who jump off their chairs with lightning speed and run around the place with no concern for their safety.

One busy weekend, with a standing-room crowd in line, I picked up a heavy tray of dirty dishes to take to the kitchen. My vision was at eye level so I could weave around everyone. Suddenly I happened to see a flash of movement on the floor. Luckily I stopped and looked down just in time to see a 2-year-old on all fours, crawling out from under a table. Had I taken one more step I would have stepped on her or tripped over her and Lord alone knows what would have become of that child.

The parents and their guest continued talking until I said (trying not to sound hysterical), "The baby is in the aisle." The father replied, "That's OK, she's not bothering anybody," and continued his conver-

This is not an isolated incident. It happens frequently. Parents let their children run around the restaurant because they are too lazy to control them and they don't feel like going home yet.

Why should the restaurant owner have to pay damages to customers because of THEIR neglect? Why should waiters or waitresses have to be deprived of their income when they have to stay home because they are injured?

Parents are responsible for their children, not the restaurant. Sign me-A CONCERNED READER

DEAR READER: I couldn't agree more. Since there will always be parents who are a lot like the ones you described, I believe the person in charge of the restaurant should speak up on a no-nonsense manner and risk the wrath of some customers rather than take a chance on a serious accident.

Art work explained by Fine Arts Association

The Hereford Fine Arts Association met recently at the Caison House Restaurant for a dinner to open the new club year.

Each member brought a piece of their art work and told something about it as it was presented.

The next meeting was planned at 7 p.m. Oct. 14 in the Hereford Community Center. The program will be presented by Lawanda Calton of Portales, N.M. who will demonstrate landscape oil painting.
