Bond approval will prevent tax hike

Voters in Deaf Smith Hospital District will be asked to approve a $1.5 million bond financing issue in a special election Feb. 28, but board members explained Tuesday night that the unique issue will prevent a tax increase rather than calling for

At a public meeting in the Hereford

State Bank meeting room Tuesday night, hospital board members and administrator Jim Bullard explained the advantage of the refinancing would be to convert short-term payments to long-term, thereby increasing the hospital's cash flow.

Due to investments in equipment and expanded hospital services, in addition to reduced Medicare payments, the hospital has reached a point where the cash flow will not take care of operating costs.

"By increasing our cash flow, we would feel comfortable in sustaining our facility without a tax increase or significant increases in charges," Bullard said. He said the financing proposal is based on a 12-year-

Bullard added that the board chose this action because a new type of bond financing has been made available to the hospital. The funds come from a "pool fund" which health-care providers can use, and Deaf Smith Hospital District is the first district in the state to become eligible for this type of bond refinancing, said Bullard.

The hospital district has secured a letter of credit for the $1.5 million from Texas Commerce Bank of Amarillo, and it is contingent upon revenues being pledged from the hospital. The special election is necessary in order to legally pledge thse revenues, the board explained.

Of the total $1.5 million, a sum of $1,029,665 is projected for refinancing note payments on capital improvements. The remaining $470,400 would be set aside as reserves for investment in other equipment and repairs to the roof of the hospital facility. Some of the items include an automated chemical analyzer, a Coulter counter, colonoscope, bronchoscope, a new and updated computer system, advanced urological equipment, and a fetal heart monitor. Some of the capital and structural investments which are proposed for refinancing include: complete renovation of existing patient rooms in part of the building, a complete new emergency room, a recovery room and outpatient surgery facility, six recovery room beds, renovation of one section to accommodate a physician's office and home health services, x-ray equipment to replace a 1940-vintage x-ray room, orthopedic equipment to provide the practice of orthopedic surgery in the hospital, an ultrasound system necessary for obstetrics and other practices, and addition of a full-time pathology service.

About 36 persons attended the public meeting, designed to introduce the plan to community leaders. The board said a number of public meetings would be held and programs will be provided for civic clubs or other organizations to fully explain the bond issue.

Charles Threewit, hospital board chairman, presided at the meeting. Other board members present were Hap Cavness and Frank Zinser.

raise vote WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Congressman Larry Combest (R-Texas)

today blasted the House Democratic leadership for its failure to allow a straight up-or-down vote on a proposed congressional pay raise before the salary increase is to take effect. The proposed 16 percent pay hike for members of Congress automatically goes into effect at midnight February 3 since the House did not pass legislation disallowing the raise.

"Through parlimentary maneuvering and political finagling, the House Democratic leadership is attempting to fool the American people. A vote on the pay raise after it is in effect is basically worthless and will not halt the salary increases," said Congressman Combest.

The House Democratic leadership has scheduled a vote on the measure on Wednesday, February 4, one day following enactment of the pay increase, by tacking the non-biding resolution onto Aid to the Homeless legislation. "This is manipulation at its best," the Lubbock congressman said. "Members of Congress can now return to their districts with a fattened wallet claiming they opposed the pay raise and voted against it."

"The Democratic House leadership cannot hide behind smoke and mirrors. The American people, and the citizens of West Texas, will not be tricked by such cunning tactics and they desrve to know the truth," stated Combest.

"I am hopeful that those members of Congress who truly oppose this salary increase will join me in urging the House leadership to reconsider their actions and allow us a recorded vote on this issue," said Combest.

Gov. Clements proposes 'no growth' state budget

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements, saying "the days of free spending are gone," today proposed what he called a no-growth state budget that would maintain total tax income at the current level.

who as chairman of the Environment and Public Works Committee will play a leading role in the House-Senate conference committee that will iron out differences in the bills, said the higher speed limit might be used as a bargaining chip.

State Bankers study Mattox ruling

AUSTIN (AP) - Lawmakers and bankers are studying an attorney general's opinion which says out-of-state banks can purchase Texas institutions but must be careful about trying to operate them. The opinion issued Tuesday said the the new law allowing the purchases is constitutional.

"It's legal, but they had better be careful," Mattox said. "They had better abide by the letter of the law, or we think they will be found to be in violation of the (Texas) Constitution."

The Texas Constitution was amended in 1904 to prohibit out-ofstate banks from operating banks in Texas, Mattox said.

In his opinion, Mattox said the interstate banking law approved by the Legislature last summer "authorizes foreign ownership, not foreign operation" of the Texas institutions.

"Ownership ... of bank stock by an out-of-state bank holding company does not violate per se the (constitutional) prohibition against a foreign corporation exercising banking and discounting privileges,"

"If, however, the holding company acts in a way to disregard the separate corporate existence of individual banks, then we think that courts would conclude that (the constitution) had in fact been violated," he said.

Senate to debate early release

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Senate is ready to tackle the problem of prison overcrowding by considering measures to give quicker paroles when prison units get almost full. An early release bill, endorsed by Gov. Bill Clements, was approved Tuesday by the Senate Criminal Justice Committee.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said the bill would be considered as an emergency matter by the full Senate today. "The 6-1 committee vote indicates the strong support it has in the Senate," Hobby told reporters afterwards. Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, who was the sole opposing vote, said he likely would try to amend the bill during Senate debate. Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, told the Senate committee the measure had been worked out with the cooperation of Clements, Hobby, the House speaker, attorney general and appropriate agencies in response to federal court demands.

U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice has threatened to fine Texas up to $24 million a month beginning April 1 if it does not make prison improvements ordered by his court.

"This bill increases the pool to 10,000 inmates that could be considered for increased good conduct time credits or parole if the prison system reaches 95 percent," said McFarland. Under current law, the prison system can accept no more inmates from counties when the 95 percent limit is reached. A key portion of McFarland's bill would automaticlly award up to 90 days of good time credit toward possible parole for non-violent inmates serving less than 10 years, if the 95 percent limit is reached. The attorney general would notify the governor, who would declare an emergency overcrowding situation, and the Texas Department of Corrections would credit each of the eligible inmates with good time. McFarland said a full 90-day credit could move up time for an inmate's parole up by at least 30 days.

Rider Scott, general counsel for Clements, said the governor did not advocate early release of inmates.

Bombing investigation continues

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) - A car bombing that bore the earmarks of an underworld assassination continued to baffle authorities, who went so far as to stop traffice and query passing drivers for help.

Federal, state and local officials pooled notes from their investigations Tuesday night but still had no suspects, motive or a firm description of the bomb, city police spokesman Earl Cox said.

He would not deny, but said he couldn't confirm, reports that a remote control device triggered the explosion Monday night that obliterated or damaged eight cars and rattled windows up and down Texarkana's busiest street, State Line Avenue.

Daryl Crouch, a 36-year-old civic leader and president of Walsh-Lumpkin Drug Co. Inc., died when his Mercedes-Benz exploded.

Crouch's daughter, 10-year-old Sandy, was hurled from the car by the bomb's impact. She was hospitalized in fair conditon Tuesday night with burns on her face, hands and back, and was expected to be released today, Wadley Regional Medical Center spokeswoman Ann Beaty said.

Crouch's wife, Jane, 35, was in her own car when the explosion went off in the Walsh-Lumpkin parking lot. She required brief hospitalization from burns suffered when she frantically tried to pull her husband from the flaming wreckage.

Nationa | IIIII 257,000 reserves to be called up

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Army and Marine Corps, with little public fanfare, have launched the nation's largest peacetime military call-up by preparing orders to some 257,000 inactive reservists to report for a single day of active duty.

The call-ups are part of a Defense Department effort to improve the readiness of the Individual Ready Reserve by screening reservists medically and reminding them they still have a military obliga-

All four branches of the military have been directed by Congress and Pentagon brass to begin mandatory one-day musters of their ready reserves during the current fiscal year. But the Army and Marine Corps are the first two services to launch the effort on a nationwide basis.

The Army, whose ready reserve force of more than 300,000 is by far the largest, got its program off to a rocky start in October thanks largely to a delay in congressional passage of the Pentagon's budget. But it is now sending out a stream of some 16,000 to 20,000 notices a month, ordering reservists to telephone recruiting stations and schedule their one-day appearance.

Reservists who report for screening are eligible for one day's pay and reimbursement of travel expenses.

International U.S. warships are near Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - The United States sent additional Marines to join a battle group in the eastern Mediterranean, and some warships were reported within 50 miles of Lebanon in apparent response to rising tensions in the region and kidnappings in Beirut.

The Moslem kidnappers have threatened to kill American hostages if the United States attacks, but Pentagon sources in Washington stressed Tuesday that the battle group did not have orders to prepare for any military operation.

The sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the carriers Kennedy and Nimits and a Mediterranean Amphibious Ready Group of about 1,900 Marines were steaming on a "routine patrol pattern" south of Cyprus. Cyprus is 100 miles northwest of Beirut.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitshak Shamir said Tuesday that Israel would consider helping the United States launch a military operation in Lebanon if asked.

"I don't think we will be asked, but if we will be asked, we will conder it," Shamir told The Associated Press on a visit to Kiryat Gat, miles south of Tel Aviv.

The U.S. force consists of about 22 warships. On Tuesday, 1,000 are Marines were moved out of Spain to join the fleet.

Texas rep supports 65 mph speed limit

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Congressman Larry Combest (R-Texas) has introduced legislation that will permit states to increase the maximum speed limit to 65 miles-perhour on rural interstates and fourlane highways.

Unlike similar legislation pending in Congress, Combest pointed out his bill would allow states to raise the speed limit on rural four-lane highways. In addition, following a safety study, the Governor of a state could increase the speed limit without receiving prior approval from the Secretary of Transportation.

"This legislation is long overdue. The current 55 mph national speed limit fails to provide any flexibility in areas, such as West Texas, where distance and visibility conditions are greater than in highly-populated, urban areas," said Combest.

"We are no longer faced with the gasoline shortage of the early 1970s, and vehicle and road conditions have improved, enabling the 55 mph speed limit to be relaxed without hurting safety," said the Lubbock congressman.

The resolution allows the Governor to increase the speed limit on rural interstates and four-lane highways after conducting a safety impact study and determining highway safety will not be adversely affected. The Governor must also report his intent to increase the speed limit and his safety assessment to the Secretary of Transportation 150 days prior to raising the limit.

Combest's bill would require the Secretary of Transportation to submit his findings on safety conditions for those selected highways to the Governor. The Governor, however, would not have to adhere to the Secretary's recommendation.

"My bill would allow us to retain the major benfits of the national speed limit, while providing some flexibility and state input over our highways," said the two-term representative.

"In the 19th District of Texas and in many Western states, motorists spend endless hours driving on good, flat roadways. There is increasing support to relax the 55 mph speed limit and bring it up-to-date," Com-

Combest co-sponsors 'workfare' legislation

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Calling for reform of the nation's welfare system, Congressman Larry Combest (R-Texas) has cosponsored legislation to require able-bodied welfare recipients to work for their

"The welfare system is long overdue for serious reform. It is time for those on the welfare rolls to work for their benefits just as taxpayers labor to make them possible," said Congressman Combest.

'We must break the poverty trap and change the welfare system from its present state of dependence and guarantees to one which provides incentive, opportunity and a strong work ethic," said the Lubbock Congressman.

The "workfare" legislation requires those receiving AFDC, food stamps, and public housing to work in public service oriented jobs at the minimum wage rate in return for their benefits.

Exemptions would be allowed for those individuals who are disabled, those under age 18 or over age 65, cluded.

those who work at least 40 hours per week, and those who are responsible for caring for a small child. In addition, participants would have up to eight hours per week to search for permanent work.

"We should not abandon those people who truly need our help. We must, however, extend the opportunity for a meaningful and rewarding work experience to those who want to break out of the welfare trap," Combest stated.

Welfare spending has soared from $21 billion in 1960 to $132 billion in FY 1985. Today, some 52 million Americans, one in five, receive some type of welfare assistance each year.

"Our current, centralized welfare system contributed to the unending poverty cycle by undermining the willingness to work and become selfrelient," said Combest.

"Instead of creating solutions to poverty, we have escalated the problem through long-term, unwanted dependency. This system continues to weaken the family structure and our communities," Combest con-

Reagan losing battle of clean water bill

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, lustily cheered by Congress last week when he urged restraint in federal spending, is losing his first big fiscal fight as the Democraticcontrolled 100th Congress moves to override a $20 billion presidential veto.

The president took a lopsided wallop Tuesday when the House voted 401-26 to override his second veto of the popular Clean Water bill to reauthorize and strengthen the nation's fight against water pollution.

Despite a plea by Reagan for party unity, 147 of 177 House Republicans joined with 254 Democrats to oppose the president, who says the cleanwater spending plan is too costly. He had offered a $12 billion compromise. The 26 votes to uphold the veto came from Republicans.

There was no reaction to the House action from the White House on Tues-

The veto-override focus shifts today to the Senate. There were no indications Reagan would fare any better there in what he has called "the first great battle of the (budget) deficit in the 100th Congress."

"Congress is going to land a onetwo punch with this override," Sen. Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., chairman of the Environment and Public Works Committee, said following the House vote.

He and oher lawmakers said there has been no heavy lobbying by the White House to save the veto.

To win in the Senate, Reagan needed the support of one-third of the members present and voting.

The dispute between Capitol Hill and the White House centers on $18 billion authorized by the bill to provide assistance to the states through 1994 to build wastewater and sewage treatment plants. An additional $2 billion covers administrative and Reagan, who last year called for $6 billion in state aid, last month unsuccessfully offered Congress the $12 billion compromise. But his foes say that even $18 billion will leave states far short of the $108 billion the Environmental Protection Agency estimates will be required for plant construction by 2000.

BUDGET

"I can go along with a lot of these proposals, not all of them, but some. I don't think the Senate can go along with many of them," Rudd said.

Clements said he doesn't believe lawmakers can continue to raise state spending during a time of economic recession when people across Texas are being forced to tighten their belts.

"The simple fact is that we must live within our means," he said.

"If the average Texas household can only spend the income it receives, then why can't state government. If, in times of economic distress, the average Texas household tightens its belt, then why can't their state government?"

The governor also said he would propose spending an additional $520 million to help ease problems in Texas prisons.

He proposed constructing regional detention centers to add another 10,000 beds for low-risk inmates. He also proposed funds to purchase the Michaels Unit and trusty camps now in progress, which would add 4,250 new prison beds. Besides offering a chance to reform the state tax system. Clements said lawmakers also have an opportunity to streamline state government by merging agencies which currently overlap. "Let's merge some state agencies.

We have overlapping and duplication in the some 240 state agencies," he Clements used his speech to touch on a number of other areas as well. Among his proposals, Clements urged the Legislature to:

- Oppose any state personal or corporate income tax. - Preserve the state's right-towork law. Make it easier to do business in Texas.

 Overhaul the teacher career ladder that was designed to reward 133

If you think I've said anything of value, please feel free to print my letter. - Feeling Sexy Again in Loui-

DEAR SEXY: Success stories are always inspiring. Thanks for the upbeat letter. I'm sure you've helped many women today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to share an experience with your readers that might prevent the loss of many lives. Here it is:

Last year I was driving and had to pull out fast onto a busy highway. Naturally, I pushed the gas pedal to the floor. I thought my brakes had failed because I couldn't slow down. The car kept going faster and faster. When I realized the gas pedal was stuck I nearly became hysterical. Luckily, my husband was with me and shouted, "Put the car in neutral and turn the key off!" I followed his instructions and the car slowed down and came to a complete stop. I'm sure my husband's quick thinking saved our lives.

My garage mechanic told me the next day that this could happen to any car at any time, and that the gas pedal has to be unstuck from under the hood. Please print this, Ann. -Lucky Lady in Philadelphia

DEAR PHIL: Your husband gave you good advice. I appreciate your sharing it with my readers. I love each and every one of them and don't want to lose any.

Gem of the Day: If you keep your mouth shut you'll get credit for knowing what you don't say.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Differece." For a copy, mail 50 cents and a long, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611.

Winning America's Cup is sweet revenge for Conner

By SID MOODY Associated Press Writer

FREMANTLE, Australia (AP) -Dennis Conner, the man who lost the America's Cup, won it back today as Stars & Stripes completed a 4-0 sweep over Australia's Kookaburra III to raise Old Glory over the Auld Mug again. It was sweet revenge for the 44-year-old San Diego sailor who dedicated three years of his life to reclaiming yachting's biggest prize, which he lost to Australia in 1983 at Newport, R.I. Conner was the first American to lose the cup, which had been held by the New York Yacht Club since the schooner America won it in 1851. "It's a great moment for America, a great moment for the Stars & Stripes team and a great moment for Dennis Conner," the victorious skipper said. "My heart goes out to Iain Murray," he said of Kookaburra III's skipper, who was in the same position Conner was in three years ago - a loser of the cup.

'It's hard to explain, but it's a great day to be an American," said tactician Tom Whidden, who lost with Conner in '83. "I think we showed that not only are we the best nation technologically, but we have the sailors to go along with it."

"I'd like to say it was all skill, but we had the best boat.'

Murray said he hoped the Australians could do in 1990 — when cup racing resumes — what a sign simed as he sailed off on his nal race: "What goes up must come

"He just had a bit more (speed an we had," he said of Conner boat just hasn't got what he's and that's it. We thought we sailing better than we've ever and a better team on this occasion. and they accept that.

"We're very happy. We're disappointed but happy," he said.

Conner received a message of congratulations from President Reagan via U.S. Ambassador Laurence William Lane Jr., in a telephone hookup.

Prime Minister Bob Hawke, who declared a national holiday when Australia won the cup, also phoned his congratulations to both sides. Hawke owes Reagan an Aussie bush hat for a bet he made with the presi-

Spurs score 111-103 win over Warriors

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — San a pair of free-throws to make it 88-79 Antonio Spurs Coach Bob Weiss says he'll take it one game at a time now that the Spurs have extended their winning streak to six.

The Spurs, 17-29, beat the Golden State Warriors 111-103 Tuesday

'It's a great feeling to keep on winning," Spurs guard Johnny Dawkins said. "We felt we had lost a lot of early games when we should have won. It seems to be turning around for us now.'

Center Artis Gilmore scored 24 points and pulled down 18 rebounds and teammate David Greenwood added 18 points and a career-high 23 rebounds to lead the San Antonio at-

Seven-year veteran Greenwood said, "If we keep working hard good things are going to happen to us."

The Spurs have won eight of their last nine. San Antonio hasn't won six in a row since March-April of 1983. The Warriors fell to 25-23.

"I think we're playing better and I think it's infectious," Weiss said. "I had hoped we didn't have so far to come from, but I knew we could turn it around."

'We'll just take it game by game," Weiss said.

The Spurs looked like they were going to run the Warriors out of the Arena when they built a 16-point first-quarter led, but Golden State fought back to within five at halftime, 55-50.

The Spurs slugged the Warriors again in the third period, building up an 18-point lead, but again, the Warriors roared back to within four, 83-79, with less than nine minutes left in the fourth period.

But Alvin Robertson cashed in a three-point play and Gilmore added

The Atlanta Hawks needed a pickme-up before the All-Star break and they got it from Dominique Wilkins.

Five days before making his first start in an All-Star game, Wilkins scored 41 of his 54 points after halftime Tuesday night as the Hawks defeated the Boston Celtics 126-123 in overtime.

"We really needed this one," said Kevin Willis, who had 18 points and 21 rebounds for the Hawks. "We needed to win a big game and a close game. We played smart; we played hard. We needed to win one going into the All-Star break, to finish on an up note."

Rockets' Sampson is injured again

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Rockets thought they'd weathered the worst of a bad-luck season-until Tuesday night.

After surviving the loss of guards Mitchell Wiggins and Lew Lloyd because of drug usage, Twin Tower forward Ralph Sampson dropped to the floor with a knee injury in Tuesday night's 107-105 loss to Denver.

He'll be out at least six weeks and possibly for the rest of the season.

"It's par for the course for this season," forward Jim Petersen said. "It seems like Ralph's injury fits right in with all that's happened to us this season."

The Rockets moved into the elite group of top NBA teams last season by battling their way to the NBA finals before losing to Boston 4-2 in the championship round.

They reported to preseason training camp expecting a return to the

But Sampson missed 11 of the Rockets' first 13 games with ankle injuries.

The Rockets lost only five games in The Summit last season and Tuesday's loss marked their 11th this season

"Ralph will be out for from six weeks to the end of the season," Rockets Coach Bill Fitch said. "Hopefully, it won't take him out the whole season.'

Sampson's injury effectively eliminated him from the starting lineup for Sunday's NBA All-Star game in Seattle, Wash.

But the Rockets didn't have an exclusive on sad news. Denver Coach Doug Moe said All-Star forward Alex English and guard Mike Evans suffered injuries against the Rockets.

"Alex has a hamstring pull and Mike pulled something in his leg or knee," Moe said. "They both might be out."

Sampson, who started the season on the injury list with an ankle injury, fell to the floor with six minutes to go in the first quarter and had to be helped from the court.

He returned for the start of the second quarter with a brace on his left knee but he played less than one minute and then left the game for good.

"The only thing we have to do is go out and play a perfect game Thursday," Fitch said. "We have to get this monkey off our backs. We have to win our first game without Ralph Sampson."

Petersen is the likely choice to replace Sampson in the starting lineup Thursday night when the Rockets host the Golden State War-

"We've got Pete, who will be starting and I'll be learning more plays," said Cedric Maxwell, obtained last month in a trade with the Los Angeles Clippers. "I have the mechanics downs, I just need to learn more of the system and options off the plays."

Before the latest bad news, Fitch already called this season the most trying of his coaching career.

'This basketball team has to come here Thursday night and forget everything that's happened and win against Golden State," Fitch said. 'We haven't beaten them this year."

NEW YORK (AP) — "I guess you could say I turned it up a notch" was the casual explanation given by high-flying Michael Jordan of the Chicago Bulls after an amazing performance against the Knicks in November.

All Jordan did was to score all 18 of his team's final points in a 101-99 decision over the New York club. The winning shot was an 18-foot

NEW YORK (AP) - What better role for the aging, flamboyant actor Sir Laurence Olivier than an aging, flamboyant artist in "The Ebony Tower" on PBS this Friday?

In the 90-minute screen version of a John Fowles story, Olivier plays Henry Breasley, a lusty old painter who abhors abstract art as evidence of modern society's lack of virility. He tosses it into his "ebony tower," a mental dumping ground for that which he considers useless.

Breasley enthusiastically delivers this opinion of modern painting to David Williams (Roger Rees), a young art critic and abstract painter who has come to Breasley's farm in the French countryside to gather material for an article.

Williams says that, while he disagrees with Breasley, he "respects" the old artist's opinion.

"Stop bloody well respecting everything!" Breasley explodes. "Hate if you want to! Can't hate, can't love, can't love, can't paint!"

Breasley and Williams are soon clinched in a duel that has much to do with male egos and little to do with Williams arrived at Breasley's estate to find the old painter ensconced in a private little world, attended by two attractive young women with a tendency to lounge about in the nude. (The nudity is tame, as PBS cut the more explicit scenes for American television audiences.)

Thanks to subtle performances from the rest of the cast, Olivier is free to go over the top as the blustering but vulnerable Henry, and the production - shot on location in France - manages to evoke creepy claustrophobia amid the pretty, rural scenery.

What is untypical about this Sunday's episode of "Valerie" on NBC is that the teen-ager has purchased a package of condoms.

In the end, despite his purchase, David decides against having sex with a teen-age girlfriend.

Feature Writer As the whistle blows, basketball players in the YMCA youth league gather around their coaches for words of advice on baskets, free throws, fouls and defense. As the next quarter begins, coaches McPherson and Murphey encourage their sons and teammates in pursuit of goals.

Sounds like a great activity for companionship between father and son doesn't it? But the coaches are named Karen and Jackie, mothers who donate their time and energies and get just as much fun out of it as the dads who serve as volunteer coaches.

A ntural athlete, Karen McPherson states, "I like working with kids. They are fun and it is a challenge to teach them new skills and to be good sports."

Karen and her husband Gary, who is employed with the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation, have two sons. Garrick is a 14 year-old student at LaPlata Junior High and Wade is a nine-year-old third grader at St. Anthony's where the family attends church.

Many summer weekends will find the McPherson family packing for their favorite activity. "We go to Ute Lake, N.M., where we have a trailer," comments McPherson, "We all love to water-ski.

It is a great way to spend some time together and the skiing is so relaxing for me, until I get out of bed the next morning so sore I can hardly move."

A YMCA "Earlybird" aerobics class four mornings a week helps keep McPherson in shape for her active lifestyle. After the 6:15 a.m. class she gets her family off to work and school and then spends long working hours as a hairdresserstylist at A-I Beauty Salon.

She graduated from Hereford High School with a license she obtained through the vocational education programs the school offers. She has established a faithful clientele of women, men and children over the years she has spent at A-1.

BE ON GUARD

THE BEST of the living experience requires us to 'be on guard' all of the time, to the extent that this is possible. This must and can be done, without keeping us in a strain, and without our being overly suspicious of everybody and everything. We have the responsibility and the privilege to make our lives just as effective and as satisfactory as possible. This is to be done from the standpoint of our personal thought, talk and general behavior; and also from the standpoint of the possible in-

TO STRENGTHEN our guard, we must eliminate carelessness in our thinking, our talking, and in our actions. We must remain alert to all of the important considerations pertaining to the living experience. We should be well enough informed so that we will be neither naive nor gullible. All of this is to be done without letting ourselves become skeptical and dis-illusioned about life. In other words, being on guard becomes very much part of the fluence of other people upon us.

Along with co-workers Phyllis Neill, Louise Armstrong and Shawnay Sparkman, McPherson keeps her professional skills current through classes on hairstyle trends. She has attended classes in the panhandle region as well as in Las Vegas, Nevada, Long Beach, California; Dallas and most recently in New Orleans.

Many nights after working late McPherson has volleyball games scheduled, she has been a member of the Oglesby Equipment team for 11 years, and so meals must be quick and easy to fix. Here are some of her favorite recipes.

Colds not necessarily transmitted by kissing

Washing your hands rather than refraining from kissing may be the best way to combat the spread of the common cold.

Kae Hentges, patient education and health promotion coordinator of the Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center Department of Family medicine, said contrary to popular belief, colds are more often transmitted through hand contact rather than kissing or by sneezing.

"People with colds touch their noses where the viruses are heavily concentrated and get germs on their hands," Dr. Hentges said. "The germs are passed around when they touch other people or objects. So, frequent handwashing is one of the best ways to prevent the spread of colds."

The common cold is caused by more than 200 viruss that attack the linings of the nose, throat and ears. These 200 viruses account for 60 percent of all common colds. Unfortunately, Hentges says, scientists cannot identify what causes the other 40 percent.

"There are limitless varieties of cold-causing agents," she said. "That is why people never become immune to colds.'

While most colds confine themselves to the nose and upper throat, some viruses can result in severe illness for children and older people. A cold can result in croup, bronchiolotis (an infection of the small airways in the lung) and pneumonia. Young children are susceptible to infections of the middle ear and sinuses because the passages in their ears and nose are small and can fill up with mucus allowing bacteria to multiply, Hentges said.

As people grow older, they usually become more immune to colds, Hentge said, but the ones they do get are often more severe.

"For those people with chronic diseases such as heart problems and diabetes, a mild cold can become a life-threatening infection," she said. While time is the only cure for the help alleviate the symptoms. Sufferers should rest, if at all possible, and drink plenty of warm liquids. "The old wives tail about eating chicken soup is a good idea. It seems cold, Hentges said a few things can to be especially good for promoting nasal drainage," Hentges said. There are several over-the-counter remedies that will reduce drainage, relieve blocked nasal passages, stop coughs and reduce fever and body aches. But, Hentges said, it is best to take medications for specific symptoms only and not take a "shotgun approach" to your cold with a remedy that treats everything.

"Take just enough medicine to relieve your symptoms, make you comfortable and get you through the 10 days or so that it will take for your body to heal itself," she said.

Hentges also stressed that antibiotics are not helpful against the common cold because viruses do not respond to antibiotics.

'A doctor may prescribe an antibiotic for a related infection of the ears or sinuses or for older people or those with chronic diseases to prevent secondary infections," Hentges said. "But most people shouldn't press their doctor for a shot. It will not help. While the discomfort from a cold is very real, there are insufficient medical reasons and real risks of adverse side effects to give antibiotics for an uncomplicated cold."

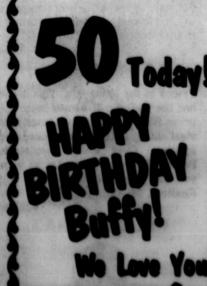

Pennsylvania

When William Penn, the quaker, was made full proprietor of his American colony by King Charles II of Britain in 1681, the king suggested it be named "sylvania," for woodland. The king's government had owed Penn's father, Admiral William Penn, money: the land was granted as partial settlement. The king added "Penn" to the title, in honor of the father. Voila: Pennsylvania.

When it comes to their health, many Americans can be hypochondriacs. As most of us know, a hypochondriac is someone who believes he is al-our nation's health is in jeoparfood, and cancerous chemicals in the environment. The truth is that as a nation, we are living longer and are in better health than any other time in history.

Diseases that used to ravage

WHAT'S YOUR HEALTH RISK?

X-rays are an important tool doctors use to diagnose health problems. but some people wonder about the risks of excess exposure to x-rays.

The Texas Medical Association says most diagnostic x-rays such as chest x-rays produce very low amounts of radiation exposure in comparison to the amount of radiation people are exposed to naturally from such sources as the sun. And the risk of an undetected disease may be far greater than the risk one female cancer killer. While the number of older Americans who smoke is declining, large numbers of young women are

TMA suggests the following guidelines for the wise use of medical x-rays:

1. If you do not understand why x-rays are being ordered, do not hesitate to ask your physician.

2. If you are concerned about the radiation you may receive from any x-ray study, your radiologist or technician should be able to provide you with information. They may compare the dose to that received from a chest x-ray, for instance.

3. Elective (not urgent) abdominal x-rays in women of childbearing age should be restricted to the first 14 days of the menstrual cycle to avoid the possibility that a woman may be pregnant and not yet aware of it.

4. Pregnant women should avoid all non-essential medical radiation, especially of the abdomen.

5. Young adults should avoid repetitive x-ray exposures of the sex organs unless medically necessary.

6. Keep track of the dates and locations of previous x-rays. If your doctor can use a recent, available x-ray, you may save time, money, and a small amount of radiation exposure.

7. Remember that no diagnostic x-ray study gives "too much" radiation when there are important medical reasons for it.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Blueprints for a modern electronic energy management system at a 57-story of-fice building in Minneapolis involve the use of wells that were originally dug at the site some years ago, reports Energy User News.

According to the industry journal, plans call for the building's energy system to be controlled by the latest state-of-the-art equipment when it is completed in 1988.

But an important part of the building's design will utilize the wells to deliver up to 2,400 gallons of water per minute at 53 degrees to a series of water-to-water heat exchangers. There they will cool the single heat recovery chiller that will provide baseload heating and cooling for the structure.

Thus, chilled water - the oldest cooltem known to man part of a modern electronics system to provide a comfortable environment for office workers.

Demand for blood increasing despite of AIDS epidemic

The days are all but gone when people can expect risk-free blood transfusions to be readily available when they need them.

The Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) epidemic, the corresponding fear of giving and receiving blood and increasingly more sensitive tests to detect tainted blood are resulting in smaller and smaller supplies of good blood.

At the same time, the demand for blood is increasing. In the U.S. alone, 12 million units of blood are given each year during emergency treatment and surgeries.

Mario Feola, professor of surgery at Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center School of Medicine, has perfected a substitute hemoglobin solution using cattle blood and is now working to scale up production of the artificial blood so that other researchers can test it.

"People have taken for granted that blood transfusions of a good quality will be available when they need them, but that is no longer a safe assumption," said Dr. Feola. "Researchers are developing more and more sensitive tests to detect antibodies and other foreign substances in blood. Thousands of people who received blood several years ago thought they were getting good blood.

"But, now we have more sensitive tests which show that the donors had AIDS antibodies. The people who received the blood are now living in great anxiety about whether they will contract AIDS."

Feola's blood substitute is pure cattle hemoglobin which is stored frozen and thawed and mixed with a saline solution to administer. In powder form it can be stored for months at a time, while human blood becomes useless after several weeks of storage. "The substitute blood can be given immediately to anyone because there is no need for cross-typing," Feola said. "This has tremendous implications for emergency situa-tions. Someday, substitute blood could be given any time blood is needed and that is becoming ex-tremely important as the risks of receiving human blood increase."

receiving human blood increase."

Hemoglobin, the oxygen-carrying protein in blood, is similar for all mammalian vertebrates, he said. The other proteins in blood account for different blood types and necessitate cross-typing to avoid severe immunological reactions when whole blood is given.

Feola's bovine hemoglobin solution, which he has perfected over the past 10 years, carries no risk of viral disease, hepatitis or other infections because bacteria and viruses are removed during the process of preparation and purification.

'Hemoglobin is the only natural substance capable of picking up oxygen from the air and carrying it to all cells and tissues in the body," Feola said. "Carrying oxygen is the immediate essential function of blood. When people lose a lot of blood they don't die because of losing hormones and other substances in blood, but because they lose the red blood cells which carry oxygen."

Bovine hemoglobin actually transports oxygen a little more effectively than human hemoglobin, Feola said.

Animals which have lost up to twothirds of their blood have regained their health and built up a normal supply of blood within a few days after getting the bovine substitute. Individual animals have been subjected to trauma several times and resuscitated to make sure they do not develop reactions to the artificial blood and that organs, such as the lungs, liver and kidneys, are not damaged.

Feola said that an abundant quantity of blood from cows, which have around five gallons of blood each. could be available from beef packing houses. Slaughtering operations sell some cattle blood for use in garden fertilizers, but most of it is simply allowed to biodegrade in huge mounds at the plants, he said.

Feola makes a unit of blood substitute for about $8 while a unit of whole blood costs around $80.

The major hurdle now in Feola's work is to set up a laboratory to produce mass quantities of the solution. The purification and separation processes have been developed, but expensive equipment is needed to conduct the processes on a large scale, he said.

"Early on, my idea was criticized because researchers thought there would be an adverse immunological reaction, but there isn't," Feola said. "Some researchers have tried chemical solutions which were found to be toxic to human organs. Others have tried to develop a substitute using human blood, which is not very logical since the reason we need a substitute is because of the shortage of human blood and because of the risk of disease in human blood.

"If we can't develop a substitute from animals, I don't think there is much hope of developing one," he
