

Woman Has Baa-d Experience; Police Investigate Strange Call

BY PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

The reason for the sheepish grin worn by Mrs. Bobbie Cooper Tuesday was the early morning accident she had in front of Sue Ann, Inc., where she works as a buttonholer.

Witnesses told Hereford police Mrs. Cooper was about to turn off Forest Street into the parking lot of Sue Ann, when a large sheep lunged at her car, crashing into the fender, then running off.

"I just pulled off of Forest and had my signal light to turn into the parking lot when I saw a small sheep and a big one with a little boy and a dog chasing them," Mrs. Cooper said.

"The big one looked like it wanted to jump right at my car. It came down on the fender then it ran across the street. It just went around the car and kept going."

The two sheep, a male and female, had escaped from the yard of Joe Griego, who lives on Forest. The female was the sheep jumping into the car.

The sheep was temporarily shaken from the incident but not injured.

Mrs. Cooper phoned police following the collision.

"I had never seen a sheep that close before. This was a big one. It dented the front fender real good," Mrs. Cooper said, admitting the incident startled her.

"I wasn't expecting anything like that."

Patrolman Jose Meza Jr. answered the call for the Hereford police Department.

"I didn't really believe it at first," Meza said. "That's the first call I've had where a sheep hit a motor vehicle."

Meza said no charges have been filed.

"It's a question of whether the sheep got out themselves or if they were let out."

Mrs. Cooper says she has learned something from the incident.

"I know now that sheep can jump."

Other Hereford police business

Tuesday was on a more serious note.

The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department reported the theft of a Bell and Howell eight millimeter movie projector, valued at $80, taken between Thursday and Saturday.

Police investigated the burglary Tuesday. No charges have been filed.

Police also investigated the theft of a wheel cover from a car owned by William E. Allen, 203 Sunset. The three wheel covers left on the car were kicked and sustained approximately $40 in damage.

Police Tuesday arrested Victor Orzuna, 18, of 325 Adlito Calle and charged him with the burglary of an automobile in connection with the theft of two Motorola private channel radios.

The radios were taken from a pickup and truck owned by Freddy Barrera of 202 Lake.

Ozuna remains today in Deaf Smith County Jail, with his bond set at $500.

Clayton Hopes For School Bill Passage

AUSTIN (AP) Speaker Bill Clayton, a man who often gets his way, hoped the House would vote today on his $950 million version of a school finance bill.

Clayton said he wanted representatives to read the bill, then cast the necessary two-thirds vote to take it up for action after lunch.

It would be a substitute for the $943.5 million measure passed by the Senate on Tuesday, 27-1.

"We should be in conference Thursday," Clayton said.

Sen. Oscar Mauzy, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, has said repeatedly he hoped the House and Senate could agree on a single bill without the need for a conference committee.

But Clayton said that was not likely.

The Senate's bill and the one approved Tuesday afternoon by the House

Public Education Committee are polls apart on the issue: expenditures to equalize rich and poor districts versus reduction of local tax burdens for the Foundation School Program.

The House bill provides $131.4 million in additional funds for equalization and $354.8 million to cut local fund assignments. LEA for the foundation program.

But the Senate bill allows $235 million to reduce LEAS and $210 million for equalization. Roughly the figures recommended in Gov. Dolph Briscoe's address to the legislature on Monday.

The two bills are close on teacher pay—roughly $340 million, counting additional teacher retirement contributions, based on a percentage of the salary increases.

Sen. Walter Mengden, R-Houston, was the lone dissenter on final passage of the Senate bill.

Mengden objected to several features, including a new state agency that would set standards for appraisal of taxable property and review each local district's valuations to assure they are accurate.

"I am very fearful that this bill will destroy local control over school taxation," Mengden said.

Senators had voted down 16-12, an amendment by Sen. O. H. "Ike" Harris, R-Dallas, to eliminate the proposed School Tax Assessment Practice Board.

A $15 million amendment by Rep. Bill Blanton of Carrollton, widening distribution of equalization aid, apparently was what it took to get Clayton's school finance bill through the education committee.

It was approved, 8-2, but the rest text was a 6-4 vote against substituting a bill by Rep. Ron Coleman, D-El Paso, which was stronger on equalization.

Three who had been considered uncertain voted to table Coleman's substitute. Blanton and Reps. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, and T.H. McDonald, D-Mesquite.

School Board To Discuss Policy Manual In Meetings

BY PAUL SIMS
Managing Editor

The Hereford Independent School District Board of Trustees, Tuesday evening in their regular monthly meeting scheduled the first of several special meetings on development of the school policy manual for 7 p.m. Thursday, July 21.

The public is invited to attend the special meetings at which the manual will be discussed, page by page, until its approximately 300 pages concerning policies of the Hereford Independent School District are covered.

The HISD sent its school policies two years ago to the Texas Association of School Boards. The TASB in turn worked the Hereford policies into a manual of TASB standard policies.

"We've gotten the results from the Texas Association of School Boards and now we've got to go through the complete manual and see that everything is okay," said James Gentry, president of the HISD board of trustees.

Gentry told the Board he is not sure how many special meetings will be necessary.

The school board Tuesday in other business hired the following teachers:

Johnny Lee Clark, Asher Isaacs, Bobby Kunkel, Donald Nall and John Nino at La Plata Junior High; Don Clements, Vikki Labrier, Richard L. Sorenson and Mary Lou Ward at Stanton Junior High; Cheryl Betzen and Charles Lyles at Aikman; Sharon Johnson, Margaret Smith and Rhonda Whitfield at Northwest; Marie E. Lair at Shirley; Bonnie Decker and Carolyn May at Tierra Blanca; and Mary Kathleen Isaacs at the high school.

The board accepted resignations from Royce Coatney, orchestra teacher; Ann Bowling, Aikman; Beverly Lambert, Shirley; Dixie Williams, West Central; Daria Hodgson, Stanton; and Wayne Hodgson, high school.

Leaves of absence were granted to Elaine Rowan of Tierra Blanca and Kay White of West Central.

The trustees accepted a bid from B.H. Cain of Austin of $1,060.60 to sell a 48-passenger school bus and a bid from Borden's Milk to purchase milk in the 1977-78 school year for use in school cafeterias.

Bank depository bids were discussed and the board voted to adopt a form compiled by Superintendent Dr. Harrel Holder for taking bids.

Holder had recommended in the regular board meeting in June that selection of a depository bank be postponed until the August meeting in order for him to have time to compare the rates in area school districts that receive competitive bids.

Mrs. Wilma Braddy, high school counselor, presented a report to the board on a follow-up study of the senior class of 1976. There were 299 graduates in 1976 and 290 were contacted in order to compile the report.

Mal Manchee presented educational goals of the Hereford Independent School District in a report to the board. The board approved the goals and philosophies.

The meeting was in the high school cafeteria portion of the administration building. The next regularly monthly meeting, scheduled for Aug. 9, tentatively will be in the new board room.

Dr. Holder told the board he hopes to have construction of the new administration facilities completed by the next regular meeting.

The annual budget hearing of the board is scheduled for Aug. 16.

WTSU Regents

May Pick New

President Soon

A West Texas State University regent's presidential search committee will meet Friday on the Canyon campus to review any additional applications and select a list of nominees to recommend to the board of regents.

Jim Lovell, board of regents chairman, announced last week that State Sen. Max Sherman and Dr. Charles Smallwood, dean of agriculture at WTSU, will be asked to appear before the search committee at the Friday meeting.

Lovell reported the search committee had reviewed 52 applications. "They've come from all over the United States and Canada and have included some very impressive credentials." No other names were mentioned, however.

McBride Tabbed For Award

Juston I. McBride, of Hereford, who has served as Deaf Smith County Extension Agent for 13 years, has been selected to receive the Distinguished Service Award for 1977.

The award is the highest given by the National Association of County Agricultural Agents. It is presented annually to county agents throughout the nation who have made "outstanding contributions to agriculture and have improved the quality of rural living over a period of 10 or more years."

Announcement of the selection was made this week by Billy M. Collier of McLennan County, president of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association. McBride was one of eight Texas county agents to receive the award.

The Texas award winners will be recognized at the state association's annual meeting July 31-Aug. 3 in Corpus Christi and presentation of the awards will be at the national association meeting Oct. 2-6 in Hartford, Conn.

McBride began his career with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in Oldham County where he served as county agent for two and one-half years before moving to Deaf Smith County.

Through his leadership in agricultural programs, Deaf Smith County has been among the top counties in Texas in agricultural income the past decade, holding the top spot on a number of occasions.

The county agent has given outstanding educational leadership to the agricultural industry of Deaf Smith County, particularly relating to water development and irrigation water efficiency. He helped organize the Deaf Smith County Water Association and later Water, Inc. to bring water to dryland farming areas.

He also has worked long and hard in the area of energy conservation, and this work led to the formation of the annual High Plains Irrigation Conference which is designed to reduce irrigation costs.

The agent also played a leading hand in the organization of the West Texas Vegetable Growers Council and the Deaf Smith County Sugar Beet Growers Association. Through his efforts, a soil testing program was begun to combat low sugar content in sugar beets caused by high soil nitrate content.

Based on his exceptional work in educational programs relating to water management and conservation, McBride was presented the Texas Superior Service Award in 1970, the highest honor bestowed by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

McBride has served as a director of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association for four years and has been active on both the state and national committees, in particular the Public Information Awards Committee.

McBride holds a bachelor's degree in animal science from Texas A&M University and a master's degree in education from the same institution.

Other Texas Agents selected for the award include Greg Gerngross, Callahan County; Albert Ware, Lamar County; Don Kachuk, Orange County; Elwin Havard, Newton County; Henry Smith, Wharton County; Hayden Haby, Edwards County; and Lucian McCarroll, Cottle-King Counties.

San Quentin Riot Leaves Convicts Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Two wild battles among inmates using knives and clubs left three convicts dead and five others injured as waves of racial violence swept San Quentin prison Tuesday, authorities said.

Officials at the state prison said one white inmate was hurled to his death from a third-story prison tier and another white inmate was stabbed to death by Black Muslims who apparently were under attack by members of a Nazi group, the American National Socialists.

Yarbrough Hopes Proceeding Delayed

A black inmate was killed Tuesday morning in a separate battle between Nazis and Muslims, officials said.

Senate To Decide In Weapons Feasible

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate is preparing to decide whether more defense dollars should be spent to develop controversial neutron weapons, designed to kill people while inflicting minimal destruction in a blast area.

Opponents of the neutron weapons planned to carry their fight to the floor of the Senate today, despite President Carter's declaration that the warheads are needed for the defense of western Europe.

Led by Sen. Mark Hatfield, Ore., opponents of the weapons planned to urge the Senate to delete funds for the nuclear devices from a public works appropriations bill.

A vote on the issue was expected today.

Yarbrough Hopes Proceeding Delayed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Supreme Court Justice Don Yarbrough wants the legislative "address" proceeding against him to be delayed to give him time to present his defense.

The legislature is scheduled to meet as a committee of the whole to consider the address resolution Friday morning.

Yarbrough's lawyers filed 10 documents with the House and Senate Tuesday, claiming among other things, he cannot be removed from office because the allegations against him are sufficient to bring impeachment proceedings against him.

Weather

West Texas - Mostly fair through Thursday except partly cloudy with widely scattered afternoon and night thunderstorms extreme southwest portion. Low tonight 64 to 63 except upper 50s mountains. High Thursday mostly in 90s.

Hereford Pilot Is Promoted

Joseph P. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Walker of 122 Beach St., has achieved the rank of captain in the U.S. Air Force, according to a news release from Fairfield, Ca.

Capt. Walker is a KC-135 Stratotanker co-pilot at Travis AFB, Calif., and served with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

The captain, a 1968 graduate of Hereford High School, received his BS degree and commission in 1973 upon graduation from the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Col. His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wissler of Monument, Col.

Texas Panhandle Community Action Corp. Region 3 coordinator Baker Duggins (l) and vocational coordinator David Duncan carefully explained the assorted "do's and don'ts" of getting a good job as approximately 30 Deaf Smith County youths attended a career orientation program held Tuesday at the county library. The youths are part of the county Comprehensive Employment and Training Act participants who train and receive public service jobs locally. (Brand Staff Photo)

Instrumental Music Camp Underway At West Texas

WTSU - Sounds of music are filling the air as 1190 students grades 8-12 have converged on the campus of West Texas State University for the 24th annual West Texas State Instrumental Music Camp July 10-22.

Students from eight states began auditioning for placement in one of the nine bands and two orchestras at noon Sunday.

Dr. Frederick Fennell, professor of conducting and director of ensembles at the University of Miami, Florida, will be the conductor for the Honor Band of the camp and for the Concert Band Workshop July 11-21.

Instructors include 50 visiting staff members. Guest conductors include Dr. Fennell, Larry Moore, director of bands, Lafayette High School, Lafayette, Kentucky, marching band; Harry Lantz, Baylor University, Waco, orchestra, and Donna

Nail, Odessa, baton twirling. Elective offerings include music theory, music appreciation, choir, conducting, ensembles, marching band, beginning piano, twirling, guitar, sight singing, double reed making, stage band, brass choir, two reading bands and a course entitled, "Development of Popular Music." Private lessons are also available.

Recreational activities include dances, movies, sports competition, bingo, swimming, a watermelon feed, a night at Wonderland Park and a trip to Palo Duro Canyon to see "Texas".

Concerts are scheduled July 15 and July 22 beginning at 1 p.m.

The Concert Band Workshop is held in conjunction with the instrumental music camp. Directors may earn two hours of graduate or undergraduate credit. Classes will be held from 1-5 p.m. daily and include viewing films of marching band drills, attending daily band seminars, attending daily clinics by experts on the various band instruments and participating in the Directors' Band.

The Reading Bands will sightread 100 of the most recent band publications and the Director's Band will perform in concert the evening of July 20.

Directors may attend the special marching band clinic presented by Moore for a $4 registration fee. Three sessions are scheduled July 16 and two sessions July 17.

The instrumental camp director is Donald Baird, assistant professor of music at WTSU. Dr. Joe Nelson, associate professor of music, is assistant director.

CAROLINE Kennedy, 19, whose family has been the subject of much news copy is going into the news business herself. She will be working as a copy girl on the New York Daily News during the summer.

CETA Has Career Orientation

The Deaf Smith County Library was the scene Tuesday of a special career orientation program for approximately 30 county Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) participants.

Those participating in the CETA federally-funded summer jobs program range in age from 14 to 21 and the program is restricted to lower income or underprivileged family members.

The orientation consisted of both group and individual career counseling. A "self-directed" career test was administered to determine individual career preferences and job skills. The results of the test will be used by both the Texas Panhandle Community Action Corp. and public school counselors to help the students throughout their remaining school years.

The emphasis of the orientation program is placed on training in securing the jobs for the youth, according to David Duncan, Texas Panhandle Community Action Corp.

(TPCAC) vocational coordinator. "Many of these students have never even established a reference for future job applications and this program is one of the few opportunities many of them will have to obtain a little spending money, training, and also acquire the vital reference," Duncan said.

During the program, Duncan explained that the funds for the summer jobs come from the federal government, "which is nothing but the taxpayers—your parents and your neighbors." He added that there is a general misconception that CETA is a federal welfare program.

As opposed to welfare, CETA participants are performing services and jobs for their communities in return for a fair salary," Duncan said.

Funds for the program are administered and distributed by county judges and commissioners' courts in each county. Participants receive $2.30 per hour for 40 hours per week.

TPCAC Region 3 coordinator Baker Duggins said during the program that he supervises approximately 250 participants in his five county region. The youth work in various non-profit organizations such as schools, hospitals, county offices, nursing homes, and other public service offices.

The orientation program was developed so that the CETA program will have a more lasting and beneficial effect for the participants. The students were presented with demonstrations and pamphlets on the proper way to apply for a job, resume preparation, personal hygiene, and various other topics to help the students get a good job.

A similar program will be presented throughout the Panhandle to approximately 1,000 CETA summer job participants.

"Ultimately, the objective is to prepare the enrollees for a vocation in which they will excel and enjoy, so that they can enter the labor market prepared to become productive, tax-paying citizens," Duncan said.

The regents are scheduled to meet Saturday. Then, according to Lovell, a list of possibly no more than three applicants will be recommended for the regents' consideration. He added that the board of regents doesn't necessarily have to abide by any suggestion made by the search committee.

Regents could make their decision Saturday on who will replace Dr. Lloyd Watkins, who has gone to Southern Illinois as president. The Canyon News reported Sunday that Sherman's candidacy surprised campus observers who believed that Dr. Smallwood was the leading contender.

Board members present at the Tuesday meeting were Gentry, David Pruitt, David Hutchins, Clark Andrews, Jim Arney, Sally Strain Mack Tubb, the other board member, reportedly was out of town.

Finance

The Blanton amendment made it palatable to Blanton. It also helped a lot in Austin and with Mr. McDonald. So you'd have to say it was significant," said Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, committee chairman.

Coleman said he would again offer his proposal as a substitute when the bill hits the floor.

"I think we have a chance of winning on the floor," he said, recalling that a similar proposal received 66 votes, 10 short of a majority, in the regular session.

He reasoned that some members might join those 66 in the current special session since they have no bills that could be "held hostage" in Clayton-controlled committees to secure their votes.

Briscoe's special session call allows only school finance to be considered, although he indicated he might expand it to other subjects once that bill has been passed.

Mauzy's SBI would base local fund assignments on the average of a district's market value of taxable property and a figure evaluating rural acreage on its potential productivity. A 21 cents per $100 tax rate would be applied to the average to obtain the LEA.

Clayton's HBI would let districts choose whether they wanted their LEAs based on market values or agricultural values.

If they chose market value, the higher figure, an 18 cent rate would be applied. A 20.5 cent rate would be used if the lower ag value were selected.

The teacher pay portions of both bills would provide beginning teachers a raise in their state-supported minimum salaries from $8,000 now to $8,460 in September. Experienced teachers would get larger raises.

Witherspoon, Formby Named To Art Board

HOUSTON - James W. Witherspoon and Clint Formby of Hereford have been named to the prestigious governing board of the Texas Arts Alliance according to chairman Steve Oaks.

The alliance is a non-profit organization of over 2500 who seek to unite cultural, community and business leadership to promote the arts in all parts of the state.

It cooperates with the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities as an independent ally in expanding the opportunities and programs in the arts statewide.

TAA sponsors a four point program which includes the Texas Arts Showcase. Showcase spotlights outstanding talents and contributions Texas artists have made both to the arts and to the state.

Annually presented at Showcase are the Texas Arts Awards which are bestowed upon those dedicated volunteer leaders in the arts, and to individual organizations which have made outstanding contributions with major impact on the cultural life of their community, area and state.

Another major program is the "Texas Art Journeys" a series of nine cultural tours over the state, similar to the Texas Travel Trails.

"Journeys" will include regional calendar maps of the cultural events and attractions for travelers which will direct visitors to museums, theatres, arts and crafts show, concerts, dances and other art happenings throughout the state.

Thank you, Jerry R. Dean, Brandon, Fla.

Dear Editor:

We wish to thank all of those wonderful people in Hereford for the warm, helpful, and friendly assistance given during our all-too-brief stay in your beautiful city.

My trip entailed research on Judge J.R. Dean, the first county judge there. We were rewarded with much more than expected, including some very well preserved material.

We hope to stop in again soon and stay longer. You can be very proud of your Museum, Library, County Clerk's Office, and other just "helpful citizens".

Sincerely,
Jim Conkright

The Lighter Side

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - The food at the Virginia State Penitentiary may not be gourmet cooking, but an inmate who must eat it isn't being subjected to cruel and unusual punishment.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals made that ruling Tuesday as it dismissed a suit filed by an inmate who contended that his constitutional rights were being violated by being forced to eat the food.

State officials acknowledged that there were deficiencies in the penitentiary's food service operation, but they said they had moved to correct them.

The plaintiff, prisoner Russell B. Vinnette, admitted in his appeal that there were improvements in sanitary conditions. But he said he still didn't like the food.

Harvey bit six people and was turned over to the Manhattan branch of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Among Jo Jo's favorite phases is one not suitable for family listening. Officials say Jo Jo's owner thought it was cute at first but then became bored with the repetitious vulgarity.

In both cases, according to the local ASPCA's executive director Duncan Wright, the animals were well cared for physically but "there are other forms of abuse."

Responses to news reports about Harvey included a letter from Pedro the Rabbit in Phoenix, who is owned by a doctor.

Pedro, who pointed out in "his" letter that his name is Spanish for Peter, as in Peter Rabbit, told Harvey to pay a visit to his air-conditioned home for some counseling. Pedro claims he's "a well adjusted rabbit," Wright said.

Wright said the rabbit will be sent west for a trial, two-day visit "as soon as it can be scheduled."

Wright has more than a passing interest in getting Harvey on his way since on Saturday, while enjoying a piece of freedom in the executive director's office, Harvey bit a chunk of Wright's $20 sports shirt.

As for Jo Jo, scores of people have offered to adopt the trash-mouthed creature, but Wright said he'll stay with the ASPCA. "We know how he's being cared for here. If someone else takes him it'll probably be because they think he's cute and then they'll get bored of him just like before," he said.

In an attempt to capitalize on the humorous aspects of the Harvey case, and to raise funds to increase the society's annual $4.5 million budget, "Harvey the Attack Rabbit" T-shirts will go on sale soon at the ASPCA. Kids shirts will sell for $3, adults for $4.

An ASPCA spokeswoman said no decision had been reached on whether to fill requests for autographed photos of Harvey.

Helpful Hints For Shoppers

COLLEGE STATION—Refrigerator shoppers, think "operating economy"—since operating costs will be greater than purchase price during the 15-16 year life of a refrigerator.

This reminder from Lynn White, family resource management specialist, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Her guidelines include shopping points and at-home practices to keep operating costs at their lowest.

SHOPPING

To compare efficiency features of models, study the literature and owner's manuals.

Shop for such features as thicker insulation, especially in the freezer section, and switches to deactivate the dehumidifier when it is not needed.

Avoid excess freezer space. An empty or loosely packed unit costs more to maintain than a filled one.

AT HOME

1. Locate the refrigerator out of direct air flow from air conditioning and heating vents. Use cabinet space as a buffer between the refrigerator and any heat source, such as a range or dishwasher—and don't place the unit directly across from a range.

2. Put foods that are most difficult to keep cool, such as milk and vegetables, in the lower section. This avoids use of higher settings.

3. Place food to allow cool air to circulate around foods.

4. Open the unit only when necessary. It uses less energy when the door is open less often, even if it stays open longer. Plan to return several items at one time.

5. In a manual defrost model, defrost the freezer section when frost is more than one-half inch thick. Frosty ice takes up space and "ice-o-lates" foods, making it more difficult to keep them cold.

Sidelines
DEAR SEETHING: You must be a new reader. Landers' Law of Exploitation goes like this:

In order for a person to be abused two elements must be present: An inconsiderate clod (the abuser) and a person who will allow himself to be taken advantage of. Unless both elements are present, exploitation is impossible.

Ann Landers Updated Data

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You've have a lot of flak in your column from people who think everybody on welfare is trying to rip off the hard-working taxpayers. I read something last Sunday that gave a different set of facts.

It is the combined findings of 18 major private social service agencies in New York City. It is called "Myths and Realities of Welfare in New York." I hope you will print it.

I am a Brooklyn reader, physically handicapped, and I can't tell you how pleased I was to read this. Please share it with the world.

"The maximum monthly welfare grant in New York City for a family of four, not including rent allowance, is $258, or about $15 per week for each family member's basic necessities—a survey of welfare mothers in New York City in 1974 found that 56 per cent were spending less for food than the cost of a nutritionally adequate diet; 86 per cent of the families reported running out of food at the end of most check periods; and 41 per cent said that their families experienced varying degrees of hunger at all times... More than 60 per cent of the welfare clients in New York City are children under the age of 18 who do not enjoy the advantages afforded their peers in working families.

"The popular misconception that all welfare recipients are lazy is widespread.

"Says the report: 'Only 3 per cent of people receiving welfare are able to hold a job. Most clients are young children, mothers who try to care for them, and people with severe health problems. Some able-bodied adults who receive welfare are on the relief rolls because they can't find jobs for which they were trained. What's more, their education has been so poor they are semiliterate.'... N.Y. Reader

DEAR N.Y.R.: I'm sure your letter will anger a great many people who enjoy believing everyone on welfare is lazy or crooked, but the facts are correct and I am happy to print them.

DEAR ANN: I know I'm out of season but please help me anyway.

I am one of those "lucky" ones who was born on December 25th, Christmas Day. I feel honored, but I also feel cheated.

My friends and family always combine my Christmas present with my birthday present. If I receive anything for my birthday, it's usually a card.

Those with whom I exchange gifts receive TWO from me.

Question: Would it be OK if I sent these people a card on their birthdays and a gift at Christmas: Thank you--from all the Christmas babies--Two In One

DEAR TWO: Yes, it would be perfectly OK. I recommend it.

Carew Tops List

Five AL Stars Top Three Million Mark

NEW YORK (AP) - Maybe it was Rod Carew's near-.400 batting average. Perhaps the close races in both American League divisions caused it. Or maybe major league baseball is just more popular than ever.

Whatever the reasons, more than 12 1/2 million fans cast votes in All-Star balloting and that enabled five American League players to top the three million mark in votes. The biggest beneficiary of the voting increase was Carew.

The Minnesota first baseman, having his greatest season in an already illustrious career, gathered 4,292,740 votes, more than any player in the eight-year history of the fan balloting, according to the final tabulations released Tuesday by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Carew easily outdistanced first base runner-up Chris Chambliss of New York, nearly doubling Chambliss' 2,373,906 votes. Carew received 15,005 votes more than National League leader Steve Garvey, the Dodgers' first baseman.

Before this season, just three players had reached the three million mark in selections. The two next highest vote-getters in the AL were catcher Carlton Fisk of Boston with 3,476,028 and Thurman Munson of the Yankees with 3,362,177.

Outfielder Carl Yastrzemski of Boston and third baseman George Brett of Kansas City also topped the three million plateau.

Joining Yastrzemski in the starting outfield for the game, which will be played July 19 at Yankee stadium, are Reggie Jackson of the host team and Richie Zisk of the White Sox, who was elected to the AL squad in his first season in the league.

The Yankees' will have another starter in the AL lineup in second baseman Willie Randolph, an easy winner with 2,846,479 selections to 2,053,642 for Don Money of Milwaukee.

In the closest race in five years, defending league champion New York just missed having another starter at shortstop when Rick Burleson of Boston edged out Bucky Dent of the Yankees by 3,426 votes. It will be the first start in the game for Burleson.

George Scott, who leads the AL in home runs, finished third in the balloting at first base and RBI leader Larry Hise of Minnesota was a somewhat-overlooked sixth in the outfield voting.

The pitchers and the reserves for the American League team will be announced later this week.

The starting squad for the National League was announced Monday. In addition to Garvey, the Dodgers placed Ron Cey at third base. The defending World Champion Cincinnati Reds had four starters: Johnny Bench behind the plate, Joe Morgan at second, Dave Concepcion at shortstop and George Foster in the outfield.

Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia and Dave Parker of Pittsburgh join Foster in the outfield.

Net Entries Due July 19

Entries for the Hereford Closed Tennis Tournament are due Tuesday, July 19 tournament directors have announced. The tournament will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday July 22-24 at the Hereford High School courts.

Directors for this year's tourney are David Zinser, Charles Allison, and David Rudder. The directors have announced that four players or teams must enter each division or that division may be cancelled.

Junior events in the tourney include brackets for both boys and girls singles and doubles in 12-Under through 18-Under. Adult divisions include men's and women's open singles and doubles. Men's and women's over 35 singles and doubles, and novice divisions for both men's and women's singles and doubles.

In addition, mixed doubles will be held for men and women in both open and novice classes. Novice divisions are for inexperienced tennis players who do not have any tournament experience.

Junior events will begin at 9 a.m. Friday July 22, while adult and novice play will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 23. Matches will consist of two-out-of-three sets, with a nine-point tie breaker at six all. No add scoring will be in effect, and players will be responsible for checking their own starting times.

Cost of entry is $4 for junior singles, $8 for junior doubles (per team), $4.50 for adult and novice singles, and $9 for adult and novice doubles. A player may enter as many as three events.

Entry blanks for the tourney are available at The Hereford Brand, Gibson's, TG&Y, the local country club, the John Pitman Golf Course club house, at several local grocery stores, and at the tennis courts at 200 Avenue F.

Fees must accompany each entry. No entry will be placed in the draw unless fees are received. Checks may be made payable to David Zinser at Route 5, Hereford, Texas 79045.

HOUSTON (AP) - With training camp nearing for the Houston Oilers, center Carl Mauck says he's been impressed with the hard work of disgruntled quarterback Dan Pastorini during drills at the Oiler practice field.

Mauck said the Oiler offense will be improved this season and he thinks Pastorini will be big part of it.

Dorsett Lists Limits; Voices Expectations

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - "Some people think I'm a Superman," said a certain Heisman Trophy winner recently. "I'm not. Some people in Dallas think I can lead the team to the Super Bowl alone. I can't."

That's Tony Dorsett talking down the super-expectations others have been puffing up for him.

"If I'm starting, I'm hoping to surpass 1,500 yards this season."

That's also Tony Dorsett, puffing up a few expectations of his own.

Dorsett, the Dallas Cowboys' million-dollar baby from Pitt, doesn't like to talk about championships - those are the doings of teams, not hotshot rookies. What he has been talking about here in the Cowboys' training camp is what Tony Dorsett expects of Tony Dorsett this season. Such things as:

- Beating veteran Preston Pearson out of a job.
- Gaining 1,500 yards.
- Making the NFL forget such folks as O.J. Simpson and Walter Payton.

Here's how he plans to do it. "First I want to make the starting unit," he says. "Pearson is an 11-year veteran. I'm young and full of go. Everyone's job is on the line. Whoever is there, I'll be pushing him for a job."

Next, he says, "I want to stay healthy-if I do, I think I'll have a successful first year. One-thousand yards would be a good year. With the personnel here, I feel I can have a good year and gain 1,500 yards something O.J. didn't accomplish until his fifth NFL season. But I've got to start."

Crawford Relieves Bird; Receives Crowd Accolade

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Jim Crawford felt like Mark Fidrych, the way the crowd saluted him. He also looked like Mark Fidrych, the way he pitched.

"It was a nice feeling," the lefthander said in reference to a Fidrych-type ovation he received after Detroit's 2-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays Tuesday night.

The crowd of 25,000 at Tiger Stadium had originally come to cheer "The Bird," but the Detroit pitcher here suffered a sore shoulder and was gone from the game with merely two outs in the first inning.

Crawford came in at this juncture and established his commanding presence right away, silencing the Toronto batters on four singles and no runs the rest of the way.

The Tiger Stadium audience then turned their affection toward Crawford.

They chanted for Crawford to show himself after the game, yelling: "We want Crawford! We want Crawford!" The pitcher eventually came on the field to acknowledge the applause.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Cleveland Indians routed the Boston Red Sox 7-1; the Kansas City Royals turned back the Chicago White Sox 8-3; the New York Yankees beat the Milwaukee Brewers 5-2; the Texas Rangers edged the Baltimore Orioles 4-3; the Oakland A's trimmed the Seattle Mariners 3-2 in 10 innings and the California Angels blanked the Minnesota

Twins 3-0.

Indians 7, Red Sox 1

Charlie Spikes, homer highlighted a four-run fourth inning that carried Cleveland over Boston.

The Indians raked Boston starter Reggie Cleveland, 7-5, for 10 hits and six runs in 51-3 innings, while Dennis Eckersley picked up his ninth victory against seven losses with relief help from Rick Waits.

Royals 8, White Sox 3

Amos Otis drove in five runs with a two-run homer and bases-loaded triple and John Mayberry hit a towering homer to lead Kansas City over Chicago. Dennis Leonard, 8-9, coasted to his ninth complete game behind the lusty attack while Steve Stone, 9-7, took the loss.

Yankees 5, Brewers 2

Willie Randolph scored the decisive run in the third inning, and blasted a two-run homer in the eighth, leading New York over Milwaukee.

Don Gullett, 8-3, and Dick Tidrow, who relieved in the seventh, held the Brewers to four hits as the Yankees broke a three-game losing streak. Milwaukee has lost seven of its last eight games.

Rangers 4, Orioles 3

Toby Harrah lined an RBI single in the bottom of the 10th inning to lead Texas over Baltimore. Harrah's single off Baltimore reliever Dick Drago, 2-2, came after Bert Campaneris walked and moved to third on a perfectly executed hit-and-run play by Juan Beniquez.

The Orioles, who had won 10 of 11 games going into the game, lost a chance to gain first place in the American League East. The victory was the sixth straight for the streaking Rangers.

A's 3, Mariners 2

Jim Tyrone's infield single scored Marty Perez with the winning run in the 10th inning as Oakland defeated Seattle. Enrique Romo, who took over for starter Gary Wheelock, hit Perez with his first pitch. Mitchell Page sacrificed the runner to second and Wayne Gross was walked intentionally. Winning pitcher Vida Blue, 7-11, fired a seven-hitter.

Angels 3, Twins 0

Nolan Ryan joined teammate Frank Tanana as the American League's only 12-game winners, recording his fourth shutout in pitching California over Minnesota with a four-hitter. Ryan, 12-8, passed Juan Marichal on the all-time strikeout list by fanning eight to boost his career total to 2,307, good for the No. 1 position.

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston Oilers assistant general manager Pat Peppier said Tuesday contract negotiations with second round draft choice George Reihner and third round pick Jimmy Giles are the only remaining problem areas.

"The rest are pretty much resolved but I'm a little superstitious about it (announcing the plays) until they are actually signed," said Peppier, who is in charge of negotiating Oiler player contracts.

Nine of the 14 players the Oilers took in the National Football League draft remain unsigned, including first round pick Morris Towns of Missouri.

Cubs' Lead Decreases; Dodgers Expand Theirs

BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Jim Fregosi pulled the third-place Pirates within six games of first-place Chicago in the National League East Tuesday with a 12th-inning homer that lifted Pittsburgh to a 5-4 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Fregosi, obtained by Pittsburgh from the California Angels June 15, has been in 19 of the Pirates' 27 games since then with a .341 batting average and 11 runs batted in.

While the Pirates were winning, the frontrunning Cubs were losing to the New York Mets 4-2 and the second-place Philadelphia Phillies were moving within four games of first place with a 5-4 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals.

In the NL West, the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers increased their lead to 9½ games over runner-up Cincinnati with an 8-0 romp over Houston Astros while the Reds were bowing to the Atlanta Braves 4-3. In the other game, the San Diego Padres ended San Francisco's six-game winning streak, whipping the Giants 7-3.

While Fregosi has expressed delight at being with the Pirates, outfielder Dave Parker has not. Parker, one of the league's leading batters, said Tuesday he was having a problem with the club's management, and if it could not be solved, he wanted to be traded after the season. He did not elaborate.

In addition to Fregosi, Phil Garner homered for Pittsburgh, connecting with one on.

Mets 4, Cubs 2

"It's good to be back on the list of the living," said New York's Jon Matlack after ending a seven-game losing streak with his first victory in two months, against Chicago's Rick Reuschel, the NL's only 12-game winner.

Rookie Steve Henderson's two-run homer-only the fourth off Cubs' reliever Bruce Sutter in 78 innings, provided the winning margin. Henderson's drive followed a single by Lenny Randle off Reuschel in the eighth.

Phillies 5, Cards 4

Philadelphia rookie Randy Lerch also gained his first victory in two months, allowing nine hits against St. Louis. Afterward, he said, "How I needed this one. Every game means a lot, but they were getting bigger and bigger each time, trying to break what I call a curse."

The curse seemed to be haunting Lerch again when he surrendered a two-run homer to Mike Tyson in the ninth inning, tying the score 4-4.

Players Say Swann Hit Not 'Unusual'

BY BILL MARTIN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lynn Swann shouldn't have been surprised when he was clobbered from behind by George Atkinson, former All-Pro receiver Lance Alworth has testified.

"When you do the things Mr. Swann has done, you almost become a marked man," Alworth said during the second day of Atkinson's $2 million slander suit against the Pittsburgh Steelers and Coach Chuck Noll.

"Mr. Swann for the rest of his career in going to be a marked man and will receive a lot more blows," Alworth added. "Football is a violent game and a lot of blows are passed that are almost superhuman."

Alworth, who played 10 years for the San Diego Chargers and Dallas Cowboys, was called to the stand before a U.S. District Court jury to explain what receivers come to expect from the men who defend against them.

"They try to intimidate you in a couple of ways, verbally, in hopes that you will respond and lose your concentration, and physically, by hitting you as much as they think they can get away with," said Alworth, who retired five years ago.

"The better I got the dirtier the players tried to get with me. I thought it was a compliment."

Atkinson filed suit after Noll charged he tried to maim Swann and linked him to a "criminal element" in football. Noll's remarks followed a Sept. 12 Pittsburgh-Oakland National Football League game in which Swann was injured when hit from behind by Atkinson. The Steelers have filed a million-dollar counterclaim for injuries Swann suffered.

Alworth and Atkinson's teammates, Phil Villapiano and Gene Upshaw, all testified Tuesday that there was nothing unusual about the forearm blow Atkinson used to deck Swann.

"I've observed that kind of hit many times," said Alworth. "I don't feel it was any different from many others. That was almost a commonplace hit."

"This is a game where we hit each other," said Upshaw, a 10-year veteran offensive guard. "That's what we're in the game to do. It's not a kissing contest."

"The hit by Atkinson was not unusual," added Villapiano, a linebacker for six years. "I've seen plenty worse than that."

Earlier Tuesday the six-member jury had viewed four film clips of Pittsburgh players committing violent acts against opposing players and saw two versions of Atkinson's hit on Swann.

Oakland backfield coach Bob Zeman, who described the film clips, said the Atkinson smash and those by Pittsburgh players were "all part of football ball" nothing unusual.

The trial is expected to last two to three weeks before U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti.

Canal treaty trouble

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The fate of a new Panama Canal treaty may depend upon President Carter's ability to persuade the Senate to tackle the politically ticklish pact before it adjourns for the year this fall. Top administration officials are increasingly fearful that attempted ratification of the treaty may have to be postponed until January or February if Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd continues to insist upon adjourning the Senate by Oct. 8. And that, from the viewpoint of treaty advocates, spells nothing but trouble. Carter and his foreign policy advisers have recognized all along that the Panama Canal is an explosive domestic political issue. No matter how carefully qualified, any new treaty ceding U.S. control of the canal to Panama will face extremely rough going on Capitol Hill. To entrust such a pact to the tender mercies of Congress in an election year is an invitation to disaster. Obtaining Senate ratification by the constitutionally required two-thirds margin of 67 votes will be difficult enough. Persuading the infinitely more volatile House to approve implementing legislation that will accompany the new treaty could be next to impossible in an election year. U.S. and Panamanian negotiators are nearing final agreement on the outlines of a new treaty, although another month or so may be needed to nail down the fine print details. Congress will be in recess the entire month of August, which means it will be after Labor Day before a completed treaty could even be submitted to the Senate. That would leave just five weeks for Senate consideration of the most controversial foreign treaty in years if Byrd sticks to his Oct. 8 adjournment target. And during that five-week period, the Senate will be debating and voting on Carter's energy program. Thus far, Byrd has displayed little interest in taking up the Panama Canal treaty this year. "The Senate is not ready for the treaty even if the treaty is ready for the Senate," he reportedly has told associates. State Department lobbyists concede they do not yet have enough votes in the Senate to ratify a new canal treaty. "If we had to take a vote today, cold, we couldn't get more than about 50 votes for it," one nose-counter said. But treaty negotiators Ellsworth Bunker and Sol Linowitz, along with Gen. George Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Army Chief of Staff Gen. Bernard W. Rogers have been patiently briefing small groups of senators on the contents and importance of the new treaty. So far, the administration team has met with more than half the members of the Senate, and Capitol Hill sources say the briefings have been extremely effective. Gen. Brown's wholehearted support for the new treaty has been especially helpful, these sources said, since many congressional and public fears about the pact center on defense issues. Nonetheless, said a Senate Foreign Relations Committee source, "the time pressures are just becoming excruciating at this point." Carter and his strategists are preparing a concentrated campaign to drum up public support for a new Panama Canal treaty once the diplomatic negotiations have been concluded. They know it will be difficult to persuade members of Congress to vote for the pact as long as their constituents remain so emotionally opposed to it. But the true test of Carter's commitment to a treaty may lie in his willingness to lean on Byrd for speedy Senate action, even if that means annoying the powerful majority leader. There is absolutely no compelling reason why the Senate must adjourn by Oct. 8, apart from Byrd's determination to keep to the timetable he outlined early this year. If the president really considers a Panama Canal treaty vital to U.S. interests, he had best be prepared to fight for it now instead of risking an election year brawl over the proposed pact.

Carter Treads Softly Over Nuclear Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is walking softly through a discussion of possible U.S. use of nuclear arms. At one point during a nationally televised news conference on Tuesday, Carter seemed to move U.S. policy toward the position that use of a single nuclear weapon would bring worldwide devastation. But then he added that the wouldn't say exactly what his policy would be in any specific situation. "My guess is, and no one would certainly know, that the first use of atomic weapons might very well quickly lead to a rapid and uncontrolled escalation in the use of even more powerful weapons with possibly a worldwide holocaust resulting," said the commander-in-chief. "This is a prospect that is sobering to us all." But he prefaced his comments by saying: "One of the concepts that must be avoided is an exact description ahead of time of what I as President would do under every conceivable circumstance." The first statement seemed to put Carter on one side of the decades-long debate over whether a "limited" nuclear war would be fought, or whether the use of one nuclear weapon would trigger full-scale nuclear exchanges. In the past, U.S. policy has seemed to consider, at least, the possibility of a limited nuclear war. But Carter's statements were not unequivocal. Herman Kahn of the Hudson Institute and a leading expert on nuclear war and escalation, says Carter is "playing both sides of the fence," trying to talk to the Russians and U.S. allies at once. "He's saying to the Russians: 'Don't try it. We might use it.'" Kahn said. "He's saying to our side: 'Don't worry. We won't.'" Closely connected with the issue of a "limited nuclear war" is the question of a first strike: would the United States be the first to use nuclear weapons? Carter said at his news conference: "I believe that the nation that uses atomic weapons first would be under heavy condemnation from the other people of the world unless the circumstances were extremely gross, such as an unwarranted invasion into another country."

Subsidies Would Boost Adoptions

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration today proposed federal subsidies to encourage the adoption of children who otherwise might grow up in foster homes or institutions. Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, told reporters "this program obviously is an alternative to abortion."

they now get under foster care programs. The Medicaid funds pay for the treatment of serious medical and emotional problems. Yugoslavia Newspaper Promises Suit BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) - The Belgrade newspaper Politika is ready to go to court to prevent an American television film from depicting Lee Harvey Oswald holding a copy of the paper, a Politika spokesman said Tuesday. Since Newsweek magazine published a picture of John Pleshette, an actor playing Oswald, with a copy of Politika in his hand, the newspaper has been inundated by phone calls from people wondering how Politika was linked with the assassin of President Kennedy, the spokesman said. Politika was linked with the assassin of President Kennedy, the spokesman said. Politika, a Serbo-Croatian newspaper, is the oldest daily in Yugoslavia and is the organ of the Serbian Communist party. The Newsweek report concerned the filming of "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald," a movie for ABC television by producer Lawrence Schiller. Newsweek published a photo of the real Oswald, taken in his garden, showing him holding a gun in one hand and copies of newspapers called The Militant and The Worker in the other. The story also included the picture of Pleshette, holding a gun in one hand and a copy of Politika in the other. The Politika spokesman said the paper would file a lawsuit against Schiller if the complaint is not settled out of court. He suggested that the use of Politika in the film might be a deliberate attempt to slander the internationally known daily and Yugoslavia by linking the newspaper with the Kennedy assassination.

Responding to a question, Califano said the administration plan, for example, would provide funds for medical care for women preferred to have their children rather than turn to abortion. Another aspect of the program, announced by Califano and Vice President Walter F. Mondale at a news conference, would encourage the return of children to their natural families wherever possible. "We believe," Mondale said in a statement, "that a special effort should be made at both the federal and state level to ensure the right of every child to a loving, stable family. And we believe that we can actually save money, state as well as federal dollars, over the massive cost of institutional care, by providing the special help needed to reunite existing families, or place these children in permanent adoptive homes."

Building on legislation already passed by the House, the administration program contains two key proposals: "Adoption subsidies would be available to low- and moderate-income families who provide a home for hard-to-place children. The money would come from the current foster care program, which costs nearly $2,000 a year per child, or a total of close to $200 million. Under present law, adopted children are no longer eligible for federal maintenance assistance. "Adopted children would not lose the Medicaid assistance and 11 states have acted to legalize its use within their own boundaries. Houchens and Ovejera submitted their findings this week to the cancer institute. "The results were negative," said Dr. David Houchens, copincipal investigator with Dr. Artemio Ovejera. "The drug had no effect on the growth of the tumors," Houchens said Tuesday. "It was neither positive nor negative. We saw no toxicity. I would have to say in this particular test system, the drug is not effective under standard testing procedures."

As with past presidents, Carter refused to rule out absolutely a first strike, in line with his refusal to outline his responses in various situations. Carter's worries about the escalation of a nuclear exchange seem to limit the flexibility of a U.S. response to a massive invasion in Europe or South Korea, for example. Pipeline Worker Remains Puzzled ANCHORAGE (AP) - A trans-Alaska pipeline worker who remembers closing the valve that sprayed oil and fumes into a pump house before it exploded says he can't understand how the blast occurred. "Everything had been tried and tried and tested and tested," said Herbert Robson, a worker on loan to Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. from British Petroleum-Alaska. "We did nothing else for the past 10 weeks but check the system out." He was interviewed at Fairbanks Memorial Hospital, where he was recuperating from lacerations and bruised back muscles suffered when last Friday's explosion threw him against a truck and trapped him under a section of a wall. Robson said he was removing an oil suction filter in Pump Station No. 8 when the valve opened and began spraying North Slope crude oil into the room.

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Wednesday, July 13th, the 194th day of 1977. There are 171 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: "On this date in 1863, rioting against the Civil War military draft broke out in New York. Some 1,000 people were killed in three days of disorders.

On this date: In 1878, the U.S. Congress enacted an ordinance for the government of the Northwest Territory.

In 1822, the Greeks defeated the Turks at Thermopylae Pass in Greece.

In 1878, the Russo-Turkish War ended.

In 1919, the first dirigible to cross the Atlantic, Britain's R34, completed its round trip.

In 1960, a Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles nominated Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts for president.

In 1970, the FBI described the Black Panther party as the most dangerous and violence-prone of the extremist groups in the United States.

Ten years ago: Newark, N.J., officials asked for National Guard and state police assistance as violence and looting continued for a second night in a ghetto area. There also was racial rioting in Hartford, Conn.

Five years ago: At the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach, presidential nominee George McGovern picked U.S. Senator Thomas Eagleton of Missouri as his presidential running mate.

One year ago: Twelve nations concluded a meeting in Paris on exploitation of minerals in the Antarctic after 1989.

Carter Aides Turn To Webster To Understand His Speeches

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is causing problems for those who edit his public pronouncements for official publication. He uses unfamiliar words that send them to their dictionaries. A veteran editor of the "Weekly Compilations of Presidential Documents," published by the Office of the Federal Register, said in an interview that Carter's vocabulary eclipses that of any other president since the first issue came off the presses at the Government Printing Office in August 1965. By her measure, Carter has a greater command of language than Lyndon B. Johnson, Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford. One can only speculate how she would have rated John F. Kennedy, who had an impressive way with words. The editor, Margaret Donohue, credited Carter with eliminating one problem that was commonplace in some other administrations - finding an appropriate heading to place above each separate question-and-answer in news conference transcripts. With some presidents, she related, there often was a tenuous relationship between questions and responses. "Do you base the heading on the question that was asked or on the question that was answered?" she mused. In Carter's case, she related, the response is usually closely related to the question, so there's no problem. Without mentioning names, she said some others seemed to prefer to respond to a question they wished they'd been asked, but weren't. Reporters often found that to be the case with LBJ and, at times, Nixon. The "Weekly Compilation" contains all of Carter's public remarks, selected documents such as messages to Congress, his daily schedule and a digest of White House announcements. Anyone can order a subscription from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, for $15 a year. The publication is in the news now because starting this month, it comes out in a smaller format - 9 1/4 by 6 7/8 inches instead of 11 1/8 by 8 1/2. There's a reason for the shrinkage, but not the one you might guess. The aim is to save type, not paper. It seems that many of the items printed in the "Weekly Compilation" also appear in annual hardcover volumes of collected presidential papers. By having the page size of weekly issues match that of the books, the government saves a lot of typesetting. I took Uncle Sam only 12 years to discover the fact.

Haig Presses For Bomb

CASTEAU, Belgium (AP) - Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., allied commander in Europe, Tuesday pressed for the neutron bomb as part of the allied arsenal to deter an attack on Western Europe. The bomb kills people by radiation but causes little property damage. Haig said that President Carter will decide next month whether the weapon is to be manufactured. He emphasized that authority over its use would remain in the President's hands. He said the weapon was presented a year ago to the nuclear planning group of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization - NATO - and met with "enthusiastic support." The group consists of ministers of defense from some of the leading countries in the alliance, including Britain, West Germany and Italy - but not France. "In other words," Haig told a news conference, "we have a vested interest in seeing this system provided to the alliance in order to modernize our theater nuclear capability."

He will face. He added: "This evolutionary system, which represents an improvement in technology, provides us with additional flexibility in decision making, with the ability to apply power in a more discriminating and flexible way, and in that context it enhances our deterrent." Haig said military authorities of the allies had agreed on 140 short-term measures to improve defense, as a result of a new impulse given by President Carter at the London summit conference in May. Of these, he added, 20 are designed to improve defense against tanks, 40 to increase stocks of military material and 80 contribute to the readiness of troops and the ability to reinforce them. He said that because of security, details could not be given. Hereford Medical and Surgical Clinic is happy to announce the association of David G. Results Negative On Cancerous Mice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Two Battelle Laboratories researchers say that in research they conducted with mice, the substance Laetrile - thought by some to be a cancer cure - had no effect on the disease. "The results were negative," said Dr. David Houchens, copincipal investigator with Dr. Artemio Ovejera. "The drug had no effect on the growth of the tumors," Houchens said Tuesday. "It was neither positive nor negative. We saw no toxicity. I would have to say in this particular test system, the drug is not effective under standard testing procedures."

Group Sues Over Workers

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Rural Legal Aid has filed a class-action suit in federal court claiming President Jimmy Carter used his political pull to pave the way for Mexican laborers to work in the Presidio Valley of Texas which deprived Texas migrant farmworkers of attainable employment.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, Immigration and Naturalization Service INS Commissioner Leonel Castillo, INS Deputy Commissioner Mario T. Noto Griffin and Brand, Inc., a McAllen-based firm which purchased crops in the Presidio Valley, are named as defendants.

The suit was filed Monday afternoon and lists 27 migrant farmworkers and plaintiffs and "at least 250 farmworkers whose contracts were canceled by defendant Griffin and Brand, Inc. as a result of the defendants' unlawful submission and approval of visa petitions for temporary foreign workers."

The suit claims Griffin and Brand, Inc. and the Presidio Valley Farmers Association "conducted an intense campaign to obtain approval of the visa petitions for Mexican labor through political and extralegal contacts."

"This effort culminated on June 9, 1977, when President Jimmy Carter, at the request of Congressman Richard C. White of Texas, personally contacted Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall. Secretary Marshall then passed the President's wishes onto the Justice Department. On the same day, the visa petitions were granted by INS Acting Commissioner Mario T. Noto."

The suit asks for a preliminary injunction "restraining defendants from approving no-nimigrant visa petitions which have been submitted by an employer where said employer has failed or refused to observe the employment policies of the Department of Labor." Although the suit acknowledged temporary work visas to foreign workers after receiving a petition from the prospective employer, the suit maintain this can only be done if domestic workers cannot be found.

Young People Need Boundaries

COLLEGE STATION—Teenagers need clearly defined boundaries—with some freedom, says Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

"Parents have the right, as well as the responsibility, to establish guidelines that might help to reduce their teenager's vulnerability to peer pressures," Miss Taylor says.

"Young people want, above all, to be accepted among their own families and friends and, of course, as long as they 'follow the leader,' there is peace at home and with friends.

"But failure to conform or to 'do as we do' subjects the teenager to name-calling, ridicule and outright snubbing, especially by other teens.

"It is here that parental boundaries can save the teenager from hurtling in a foolish or even dangerous direction," she advises.

Meanwhile, teens yearn to escape the confines of home. They need to feel a part of their generation and to show their "belonging" in obvious ways—dress, slang, behavior imitation, and all the "in" ways, the specialist says.

"Youthful 'in' ways may even include noisy disregard for family standards and discipline," Miss Taylor explains.

"Teen pacesetters may demand rejection of parent, teacher, or church value systems.

"War against 'the establishment' is often a reflection of ideals set by the peer group. Recognizing these signs as bids for independence, wise parents give their teenagers freedom—but it is necessarily limited. Without some limits, teens face confusion and chaos."

Parental limits—beyond which a teen is not allowed to go—can protect against peer pressures that would otherwise restrict ultimate growth, the specialist says.

"Family guidance and its support can help offset peer pressures and help teens become responsible for their own behavior."

Denim Gets 'Good Marks' Around World

COLLEGE STATION—Denim is "getting good marks" in school, on the fashion front—and worldwide, according to Mrs. Becky Culp, area clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

In a recent survey of college women, three-fourths said they wear denim more than half the time because of its practicality and comfort, Mrs. Culp said.

Denim production has increased two and a half times in the past decade—and, as one of the nation's leading exports, it has become an American symbol worldwide, she added.

Looking at denim's place in fashion, the specialist said versatility describes it best.

Its two-tone diagonal weave—and its traditional indigo color—appear in a wide variety of other "denim-looking" fabrics from lightweight knits to sheers or corduroy.

Newest fashion looks for denim are brushed for surface interest and patterned in ticking stripes.

Denim-like belts, bags, shoes, hats and even buttons also are available to complete the picture—or add a denim touch, the specialist said.

"Real" denim fabrics are a sturdy twill weave in all-cotton or a blend of 65 or 50 per cent cotton—and polyester. Other denim-like fabrics and products are made from almost any fiber or fabric construction, she explained.

up in the fields and the crops were overripe.

Brand added that a "substantial salvage" of the pepper, onion and melon crops was possible "as a result of Commissioner Castillo's decision to permit the entrance of foreign workers."

The McAllen mayor also said he had spoken with the Department of Labor and to one of Congressman White's aides on behalf of the Presidio farmers but "I was only one of 100 voices."

Oscar Spencer, a Presidio area farmer, said earlier that growers needed about 2,000 persons to work the harvests in the area.

Spencer said, "We tried to get some help. We explained our problem to people in Austin and Dallas to make them see that their requirements would not apply here and that we were about to lose our crop because we could not get anyone on this side Texas to help."

Spencer also said the workers would be paid $2.20 per hour to harvest canteloupes, one of the most perishable crops grown in the area.

The suit claims the farmers should have been made to pay "the adverse affect wage rate for Texas of $2.83 per hour."

They're in love, on the run, getting famous and getting even.

Group Flies Suit Over Workers' Hiring

BY W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Employers should be prohibited from requiring workers to take lie detector tests, and federal funds should be withheld from schools that violate student rights to privacy, a federal study commission says.

In addition, the commission said today, there should be new rules to regulate how the government uses individual tax returns.

The three recommendations were among 162 listed in a 654-page report released Tuesday by the Privacy Protection Study Commission after a two-year, $1.75-million study.

The seven-member commission, created by Congress in 1974, also called for establishment of a new government agency to safeguard the privacy of individuals.

"Government has enormously broadened its opportunities, both to help and to embarrass, harass and injure the individual," the commission said. "Recent history reminds us that these are real, not mythical, dangers."

The commission also looked into abuses of privacy by private firms. Commission chairman David F. Lionowes said the most serious problems found by the student were misuse of personal financial records and snooping into medical records for insurance purposes.

Most of the restrictions recommended by the commission would be mandatory and require action by Congress. The proposed curbs on misuse of mailing lists, however, would be voluntary. Lionowes said industry appeared to be willing to cooperate.

He said the polygraph industry, however, had expressed opposition to the proposed ban of the use of lie detectors to gather information from employees or job applicants. An estimated 300,000 persons submitted to such a procedure in 1974, according to a report by a Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights.

The commission also recommended that arrests records of employees or job applicants not be made available in most cases.

The commission said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare needs a "more credible and flexible sanction" to back up its policy of seeking voluntary compliance by schools and colleges with the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act passed in 1974.

It recommended a change in the law that would allow withholding of federal funds from any institution which fails to comply voluntarily. The 1974 act gives students over 18, and the parents of younger pupils, the right to inspect and correct educational records and to control access to the information in them.

The commission also urged

Congress to prohibit federal prosecutors from obtaining tax returns to determine whether prospective jurors might be biased against the government because they have been audited by the Internal Revenue Service.

It also recommended that the IRS be barred from disclosing tax information about prospective federal appointees.

If the commission's recommendation is adopted, an individual who can prove a violation of the Privacy Act could collect up to $10,000 without showing that the violation caused him any financial loss. Under present law, he can recover only money he can prove he lost because of the violation of his right to privacy.

Transitions Go Slow

NEW YORK (AP)—In the two months following Independence Day, when the days are humid and customers are vacationing, the cares of business sometimes take a siesta.

This little midsummer nap of buyer and seller often appears clearly in the mix of retail sales, in the number of corporate announcements, in business decisions postponed, in the pace of stock market activity.

One day this week an oldtime broker on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange was sitting at his post, knees crossed, the daily newspaper crossword puzzle occupying his attention.

A slip of paper was presented to him, perhaps an order, which he accepted without looking up from his puzzle and, without turning, handed back over his shoulder to a clerk. The empty blocks on the puzzle were more important.

But the sometimes dull days of summer do not mean businessmen cease worrying. Not everything is put off until Labor Day. No, they ponder, for example, what is to become of OSHA. And they busy themselves with its paperwork.

OSHA is the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, and according to some of its many critics, it has brought more harassment to business than safety and health to workers.

The Bureau of National Affairs a private Washington based group that publishes legal, economic and other information for business, recently conducted a survey of 124 personnel executives to determine the impact of the act.

It concluded from the answers:

"To date, OSHA's impact has been in the costs of protective equipment 'thousands of dollars on guard rails' and in the additional reports and record keeping to conform to government requirements.

"As far as any noticeable effect on safety performance is concerned, however, less than one quarter of the companies represented...indicate OSHA has had any impact on their safety record."

While laboring over OSHA's paperwork, retailers all across the country are concerned about another puzzle: Just what is the significance to them of all those houses that are being sold?

If you combine the sale of existing homes call them resales if you prefer with those for new homes, you come up with figures that have never been matched. During the cold first quarter, the annual rate was 4.3 million.

In the past, manufacturers and retailers of carpeting, draperies, appliances, furniture—even grass seed—could expect strong sales to follow a surge in housing, because those homes must be made liveable.

However they are now being told by some economists that the consumer has already extended himself too far and probably won't want to—or maybe cannot—take on additional debt. He'll need to build savings instead.

Liddy Gets Parole

WASHINGTON (AP)—Watergate mastermind G. Gordon Liddy, who stuck to his code of silence through more than four years in prison, was granted a parole today to take effect Sept. 7.

The early release of the man who sought political dirt on the Democrats in the 1972 election was made possible through the intervention of a Democratic president, Jimmy Carter, who cut Liddy's 20-year sentence to 8 years.

The U.S. Parole Commission set the release date today. Liddy got the word at the minimum security prison at Allenwood, Pa.

By Sept. 7, he will have served 52 months, nearly two years longer than any of the other 24 men sent to prison for Watergate and related crimes.

"He's happy to have a definite date," said Peter Maroulis, Liddy's lawyer. "But he's disappointed he won't be with his wife and children this summer. By the time he gets out they will be back in school."

The Liddy's who live in the Washington suburb of Oxon Hill, Md., have five teen-aged children. Mrs. Liddy had kept that family financially afloat by working as a school teacher.

The parole commission coupled the released date with a demand that the $40,000 fine that was part of his sentence "is paid or otherwise disposed of according to law."

Maroulis said, "That means to me if the funds he must pay them or he must file an affidavit or indigency, indicating he doesn't have the funds. He doesn't."

Eighteen months of Liddy's prison time was for refusing to testify before the Watergate grand jury, where he had been granted immunity from prosecution for any criminal admissions. The rest of the imprisonment counts toward satisfying a one-third minimum.

of financial success.

Liddy's term began on Jan. 30, 1973 when a jury convicted him and James W. McCord Jr., of conspiracy, burglary and wiretapping. He was sentenced later by U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to serve 6 years, 8 months to 20 years. In the interim, Liddy had been free 99 days while his lawyers pressed one of their many unsuccessful appeals.

The state's 261 district, domestic relations and special juvenile court judges each disposed of an average of 1,262 cases last year.

Judges Write 2,000 Opinions

AUSTIN (AP)—If the state ever starts paying appellate judges by the number of opinions they write, the judges on the Court of Criminal Appeals could be millionaires, and the Supreme Court justices could be paupers.

The criminal court judges wrote 2,177 opinions last year, the Texas Judicial Council reports. That's an average of 242 cases for each of the five judges and the four commissioners.

The Supreme Court's nine justices wrote 115 opinions, an average of just over one a month.

The Supreme Court also disposed of 667 applications for writs of error, but these frequently are stamped simply "N.R.E."—no reversible error.

By law, the criminal court judges must write an opinion in each case. In an effort to help the court with its workload, the legislature modified this to allow the judges to issue a "certificate of affirmance" instead of an opinion.

But Judge Truman Roberts said such certificates require as much work as an opinion because they must state that all five judges have read the briefs and they must cite the legal authority on which the certificate is based. He recently tried to dispose of a case by means of a certificate, Roberts said, but after working on it a considerable length of time finally gave up on it.

Neither the state's district attorneys nor its defense attorneys will agree to support legislation allowing the criminal court to dispose of routine cases without formal written opinions, Roberts said.

"They want us to write them all," he said.

A constitutional amendment to be voted on this November would provide some relief. It would authorize the court to sit in three-judge sections in the less serious cases. Roberts estimates 80 per cent of the cases could be handled by three-judge sections.

The 14 three-judge courts of civil appeals wrote 1,562 opinions last year, an average of 37 per judge. Add those to the Supreme Court total and it still adds up to 615 fewer opinions than the number written by the criminal court.

rate on the scope of the sins or whether or not he planned to resign from the bench of the state's highest court.

Yarbrough's confession came at a press conference called in the Supreme Court chambers amidst tight security and with his wife and three small children looking on.

He stuck strictly to the terse, if somewhat confusing, prepared statement, refused to answer reporters' questions afterwards, and reportedly left town with his family immediately following the short session.

Yarbrough was indicted June 30 by a Travis County grand jury on felony charges of forgery and aggravated perjury.

One day earlier, Houston Dist. Atty. Carol Vance, disclosed tapes he said were of Yarbrough plotting the murder of a Victoria banker who gave testimony against the jurist in another proceeding.

Armed with these tapes and the record of the grand jury, the Judicial Qualifications Commission met July 2 in a closed door session and announced later it would proceed with efforts to have Yarbrough removed from the Supreme Court bench.

At the same time, House Speaker Bill Clayton announced a removal hearing would be held by the House of Representatives on July 15 during the special session.

The resolution introduced by three House members, calls for Gov. Dolph Briscoe to remove Yarbrough from office. The governor has no choice but to comply if the resolution is adopted by a two-thirds majority of both houses of the legislature during the session.

The removal hearing, at which Yarbrough can testify in his own defense, may be held before a select committee or by the full House membership acting as a committee of the whole.

The 35-year-old former Houston attorney also faces disbarment proceedings. He is the first sitting judge of the Supreme Court to ever be indicted.

More Money

State Comptroller Bob Bullock announced last week he is revising upwards by $64.1 million his estimate of state revenues for 1978-79, raising the state's total projected income to $16.5 billion.

The $64.1 million increase includes $60 million that will be available for general use and $4 million in earmarked funds.

The additional $60 million in general revenues means the legislature will have $959.8 million with which to work during the special session in writing a public school finance bill.

Homeowners Insurance

The State Board of Insurance staff has recommended a 3.7 per cent state-wide reduction in property insurance rates. The recommendation was prepared as part of a re-hearing requested by the insurance industry in opposition to a 2.8 per cent rate-cut ordered by the board in March.

The industry had requested a 6.6 per cent increase.

The industry requested increase could result in an estimated $45 million increase in premiums paid by policyholders, while the staff's recommendation would cut premiums by an estimated $25 million.

Oil Production

Oil production in Texas continued to decline in April, down 16.52 per cent under the 110,023,058 barrel allowable for the month.

Reported Texas oil production averaged 3,057,488 barrels daily in April, down from 3,074,296 barrels daily for March.

AG Opinions

Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill held last week a former district judge is eligible for assignment as a special judge if he fulfills certain requirements without regard to whether or not he is eligible for retirement.

He also held a former district judge who has not yet retired and is assigned as a special judge accrues additional creditable service toward retirement during the time he is on such assignment.

Floating Spirits

Ancient Hawaiians believed canoes were built under the guidance of the gods. The vessel was regarded as possessing spiritual power and was welcomed by the people as a living member of the community. When a tree was about to fall, the priest shouted: "Now you are a tree. Soon you will be a man."

FORMER South Korean intelligence chief Kim Hyung Wook puts a price tag of millions of dollars on the efforts of his country's President Park Chung Hee to influence the U.S. Congress. He says $3 million alone went into the financing of the exclusive George Town Club to which key Washington political figures belonged.
