Our Citizens Should Spare No Effort to Have a College Established Here

VOL. I. NO. 21

HEREFORD, DEAF SMITH COUNTY, TEXAS, JULY 12, 1901

$1.50 PER YEAR

REV. RANDOLPH CLARK

Impressed Favorably With Hereford.

IDEAL PLACE FOR A COLLEGE.

He Says Conditions at Hereford, a New Town, Surprise Him from a Moral Standpoint.

Rev. Randolph Clark, an educator of national repute and until recently the president of Randolph College at Lancaster, is now at Hereford giving a series of sermons and lectures at the Christian church.

Rev. Clark came here at the invitation and request of G. R. Jowell, a prominent ranchman living just east of town, and as this is his first visit to this section of the country it is a flattering compliment to the country, its climate, Hereford and her citizens when he says that this is a most ideal place in which to establish an educational institution which would be second to none in the west. He marveled that Hereford should be so absolutely free from the lawless element usually so conspicuous in a new town and where large cattle shipments are made.

Messrs. Clark and Jowell paid this office a visit yesterday and a conversation was carried on concerning the advisability of establishing a college at this point. Upon reading an editorial which appeared in the REPORTER in the issue of March 23 concerning a project of that kind, Mr. Clark said that he could endorse every reason set forth in that article why a college should be established at this place.

While no definite plan has been proposed in that line as yet, it would be a good time for our citizens to work up the matter, inasmuch as Mr. Clark is here and could be consulted on the subject. We believe that if proper inducements were made that gentleman a college could be established here with Mr. Clark at its head, which would insure the success of the institution both from a financial and an educational standpoint.

If anything in that line is to be done negotiations should be commenced immediately. The value of such an establishment to our town would be inestimable.

Think it over and be prepared to make or consider a proposition.

THE HEREFORD REPORTER and Chillicothe Times are among the prettiest and brightest exchanges that come to this office. In the editorial utterances of both of these papers one can see refinement, culture and modesty. If these two editors are not good men, their editorial expressions belie them.—Dalhart Sun.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Where Are the Cuban War Bonds?

GEN. GOMEZ IN WASHINGTON.

Senator Tillman and Col. R. M. Johnson Express Themselves on the Political Situation.

(From our regular correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, July 10, 1901.

"Bonds, bonds, where are the bonds?" is a sort of game, something like "Thimble, thimble" etc., that numerous persons are engaged in playing. The bonds in the case are those alleged to have been issued by agents of the republic of Cuba, and the proceeds to have been expended in fighting Spain. Where those bonds are and how many of them are out is a question that is the key to the game and not likely to be fully answered until the holders of them make a demand on the Cuban government, soon to be established. One man, who probably knows about all that is to be known about those bonds, and maybe has a big block of them himself, was in Washington this week, conferring with Secretary Root and Mr. McKinley. That was Gen. Maximo Gomez, who commanded what the Cubans were pleased to call an army when the Americans took possession of Cuba, and he came straight from the man who knows even more about the bonds than he does, because all that were sold had to pass through his hands. This man is Tomaso Estrada Palma, who was at the head of the Cuban junta in New York, where he still makes his home. Gen. Gomez talks a lot of rot about gratitude bringing him to Washington, but some very clear signs indicate that his real object is to secure administration influence for a Cuban presidential candidate who can be depended upon not to turn the cold shoulder to Gomez and his friends who have Cuban bonds. But why he didn't fix it up with Gen. Wood in Havana without bringing the matter to Washington, is a little puzzling, although the fact that Gen. Wood's private secretary is with Gomez indicates that the visit to Washington was approved by Wood.

Senator Tillman passed through Washington this week, and he expressed some vigorous political opinions. For instance, he said: "It is stupid to talk about the democratic party being the enemy of the business interests. We did endorse the free coinage of silver, but events have proven that our contention as to the need of more money was correct. The prosperity which the country has experienced is simply due to the large increase in the supply of gold through new discoveries. We are riding now on the crest of the wave, but it will not be long before we get into a trough. Hard times will come, and then what are the republicans to do. They have enacted a high tariff and have given us a gold standard and when they find that neither of these will avoid disaster, they will seek to find some other remedy, the result of which will be to help the rich without regard to the poor." Of the future democratic policy, Mr. Tillman said: "We will be against a carpetbag government for the Philippines because we know the evils which such government brings in its train. I do not know that the money question will figure in the next campaign, but I do know that there will be plenty of vulnerable spots in the republican armor which we can attack." Of the probable democratic candidate

Senator Tillman said: "I do not yet see a candidate in sight, but I for one will not favor the nomination of any one who has not been identified with the party during the past four years. I do not see how it is possible for so-called democrats to expect the democratic party to endorse in 1904 the principles to which the republicans are now wedded, and yet they are solemnly discussing such a proposition. They expect the democrats to move side by side with the republicans and then win. That is not my way of making a fight."

Col. R. M. Johnson, Texas member of the democratic national committee, who passed through Washington this week on his way to New York said of the political outlook: "The democratic party is all right and it has fully recovered from the defeat of 1900. What we want to do to win next year is simply to take advantage of our opportunities. The republicans seem to be all at sea on the tariff question and in my opinion the tariff will again come to the front as an issue. But there will be other live issues besides the tariff in the the next campaign."

Senator Hanna sent his private secretary to Washington to impress upon the mind of Mr. McKinley the necessity for his presence among the Ohio republicans to prevent the present bickering growing into a regular cut throat fight, and the result was that Mr. and Mrs. McKinley left Washington Friday for Canton.

As Mr. McKinley left Washington without appointing a new pension commissioner, it looks as though he had decided to allow Commissioner Evans to keep that position, notwithstanding the hubbub against him that has been aroused by the skillful agitation of professional "old soldiers," on the ground that his construction of the law has not given the old soldiers all that was coming to them in the way of pensions. It is hinted that an attempt is to be made to force Mr. McKinley to act by carrying the fight against Evans into Ohio politics.

Mr. Ricketts Will Build.

Manager Newman of the Hereford Lumber company on Tuesday sold a large bill of lumber to F. W. Ricketts, who immediately commenced the erection of a fine residence on Thetford Heights. Lewis Smith secured the contract for building the new residence, which is an assurance that it will be well built. Mr. Smith, while a new comer to our hustling town, has done some fine work and is a first-class workman.
