Special session concludes

Clements, Doggett spar over letter

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Bitter political differences flared on the last day of the special legislative session, with Republican Gov. Bill Clements and a Democratic senator sparring over Texas' most sacred symbol — the Alamo.

The three-day session concluded Thursday with the passage of a proposal to borrow money from the federal government to keep Texas' Unemployment Trust Fund from going broke.

Democrats claim Clements brought on the "crisis" by failing to act on a Nov. 13, 1981, letter from Texas employment commissioners warning that the "reserve fund has become dangerously small" compared with benefits being paid to jobless workers.

"I do not view that as a form letter to be discarded and ignored," Sen. Lloyd Doggett told his colleagues Thursday.

Doggett, D-Austin, read the opening of Lt. Col. William Barrett Travis' famous Feb.

24, 1836, letter from the Alamo, which begins, "Fellow Citizens and Patriots: I am besieged by a thousand or more Mexicans under Santa Anna..."

Doggett said if Clements had received that letter, his response would have been, "Aw, shucks. There are not that many Mexicans."

"Well, you know, if Mr. Doggett had been in the Alamo, he'd probably jumped over the back wall," Clements responded.

In approving the bill to borrow federal money, Doggett said, Texans were "for the first time asking for a federal bail-out" that "violates the whole concept of pay-as-you-go-financing."

The bill to replenish the fund that has been drained by heavy employee layoffs during the summer months cleared the Senate 22-6 after the House had approved it 106-30.

Passage completed the work of the special legislative session, and lawmakers adjourned. They are not scheduled to meet again until the regular session in January.

Clements, who called the special session, said legislative "actions have saved Texas employers about $1.4 billion for 1983. That'll be a big boon to our Texas economy."

Doggett offered an amendment that would have authorized the state to borrow the money from its own general revenue fund, with employer taxes repaying the loan. The proposal was rejected 21-7. The same amendment failed in the House 68-68, with two-thirds needed for approval.

Senators also defeated, 24-4, an amendment by Sen. John Leedom that would have transferred $265 million from general revenue — or the state's checking account — into the unemployment fund, with no increase in employer taxes.

"There's a very small record of anyone borrowing themselves out of a crisis," said Leedom, R-Dallas.

He said the state could afford the gift to employers, because State Comptroller Bob Bullock has predicted the state will have a $1.3 billion surplus on Aug. 31.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, responded to complaints about borrowing from the federal government by saying it was "false pride" on the part of Texans not to accept a loan from a fund that was specifically set up to help states in similar situations.

The measure that passed the Legislature had the support of Clements, Speaker Bill Clayton and business interests who feared even higher employment taxes.

Clements called the session after hearing predictions that employers would have to increase their payments to the fund by as much as 2,700 percent under current law designed to raise employer taxes when the fund dips below $225 million.

The Legislative Budget Board estimated the state would need to borrow $239.7 million from the federal government, and interest on that loan would total $31 million with a payoff date of May 1984.

A surtax of 0.3 to 0.55 percent would raise an additional $147.8 million in 1983, and a tax of 0.5 to 0.75 percent would raise $250 million more in 1984. Total income to the fund over the next two years has been estimated at nearly $1.3 billion. In addition, a special tax of 0.3 percent in the last quarter of this year and a 0.1 tax in the first quarter of 1983 would raise a

Bullock rep to visit here Sept. 15

AUSTIN, Tex. — A representative of State Comptroller Bob Bullock will be in Hereford on Wednesday Sept. 15, 1982 to assist area taxpayers and answer tax questions.

According to Claudia Stravato, manager of the Comptroller's Amarillo Office, Forrest Skinner, Enforcement Officer will meet with Deaf Smith and Oldham County taxpayers in Hereford at the County court House from 10-12:00 PM. Questions about taxes, the filing of tax returns or assistance on returns can be answered quickly and efficiently in these face-to-face meetings. Bullock said.

Taxpayers who are not able to meet with the Comptroller's representative on Sept. 15, 1982, can still get their tax questions answered quickly by calling, from anywhere in Texas toll-free 1-800-252-5555.

Hereford's "Miss Steak"

Ms. Nieman wins 'Miss Steak' title

BY BOB NIGH
MANAGING EDITOR

She may not have time to fly to Atlantic City in time to make the finals for the Miss America Pageant Saturday evening, but "Sophie" Nieman rules the roost locally (with apologies to Miss Hereford Lisa Snyder) after being crowned "Miss Steak" Thursday night at the HHS cafeteria.

Ms. Nieman, a tall, slender beauty won the title over a field of 12 striking contestants at a fund raising event for State Sen. Bill Sarpalius as a crowd of some 125 looked on.

The re-election party featured Amarillo's Dean Kelley as Master of Ceremonies, a bean, cornbread, and cobbler meal, barbershop quartet music, and the fun-filled "beauty" pageant.

Several door prizes were also given away during the evening, which raised some $850 for Sen. Sarpalius, who is seeking a second term as District 31 State Senator.

Other finalists for the Miss Steak title included "Tessie" Abney, "Betty Ruth" Bostic, "Gertrude" Waddell, and "Billie Sue" Lyles. Also-rans in the pageant included "Inez" Graves, "Henrietta" Black, "Julie" Bodner, "Dolly" Garner, "Lilly" Laing, "Roxie" Lee,

Senate defeats abortion measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring personal appeal from President Reagan, the Senate has handed conservatives a defeat in their efforts to enact anti-abortion legislation this year.

The conservatives, led by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., fell 19 votes short Thursday of the 60 votes needed to cut short a liberal filibuster, now in its eighth day. Forty-one senators voted to limit debate to 100 hours; 47 voted no.

The outcome had been predicted. But the size of the margin indicated that liberals will block upcoming votes on the anti-abortion legislation drafted by Helms. Senate sources said Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., will probably schedule three more cloture, or debate-limiting, votes through next Wednesday and then move the Senate on to other issues.

The Helms abortion measure includes a non-binding congressional finding that the Supreme Court was mistaken in 1973 when it legalized most abortions.

It would also permanently ban direct or indirect federal payments for abortions and declare that human life begins at conception.

Another provision calls for expedited consideration by the Supreme Court of any new abortion cases.

Opponents say the Helms measure is an unconstitutional threat to the independence of the federal courts. "This amendment is an attempt to reverse the Supreme Court by statute rather than constitutional amendment," said Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore.

Additional attempts to close off the filibuster were scheduled for next week, along with a vote on a second anti-abortion measure proposed by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The news may be getting familiar but it's unlikely to seem stale to most Americans: Inflation is continuing but at a merely moderate level.

The Labor Department was releasing new figures on wholesale prices today. And economists said in advance that the August increase was probably little more than one-half percent — an annual rate still under the double-digit range that was common for several years through the spring of last year.

The department's Producer Price Index for finished goods — the official name for the wholesale price measure — rose 0.6 percent in July, an annual rate of 7.1 percent.

That report contained two striking figures that economists did not expect to be repeated in August: The biggest gasoline price hike in eight years and the sharpest food-cost decline since 1976.

Food prices were undoubtedly more stable in August, analysts said. And fuel prices, still helped by low demand and the remnants of last winter's oil glut, were expected to provide no new shocks the rest of the year.

Wholesale prices — one merchandising step before the prices seen at the grocery store or gasoline pump — rose 7 percent for all of last year, well under the 11.8 percent of 1980. And economists are unanimous in saying this year's rate will be even lower — perhaps about 5 percent.

Reagan administration officials cite this year's encouraging figures often as evidence of success for the president's economic policies.

But even they concede that part of the reason for the decline in inflation — in consumer prices as well as at the wholesale level — is the recession that has stifled the economy all year.

When companies and individuals find it hard to afford even basic goods, as is frequently the case in a recession, producers have little chance to raise prices for those goods.

Most economists say inflation could begin picking up more steam again when recovery from recession gets under way, a development some analysts say is already occurring. But none of them are predicting any new, big, long-lasting inflationary surge.

Price changes that show up in the Producer Price Index are a good barometer of how food, energy and other prices will move at the retail level, as measured by the government's Consumer Price Index. The CPI, though, measures costs for a broader range of items, including housing and medical care.

Consumer prices rose 0.6 percent in July, the same as wholesale prices. The CPI for August will be released in two weeks.

All of the figures in the reports are adjusted for normal seasonal variations in pricing.

Formby has exciting tales to tell school buddies

By JERI CURTIS
Staff Writer

Oh, the tales Scott Formby will be able to tell his buddies at Brown University this semester.

Since he last saw his school chums he was stared down by Russian customs agents, saw Princess Di and Great Britain Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, worked in Parliament during the Falkland Islands crisis and was accused of being a CIA agent.

Not bad for a student who just "wanted to do something different... take a break from classes" before his senior year.

Wanting something to tie in with his international relations major, Formby moved to London to be an assistant to a Labor Party member of Parliament and enrolled in two classes at City of London Polytechnic.

"I couldn't have picked a better time," Formby said. The country was still on a vicarious honeymoon with Prince Charles and Princess Diana, whose royal pregnancy was beginning to show, and was in the Falkland Islands conflict.

But first was the CIA scandal.

A conservative member of Parliament protested the hiring of 16 American students.

"He brought up in the House of Commons that we were a security threat," Formby said. "The press blew it out of proportion and then there was a rumor that we were CIA agents."

Students in Parliament are responsible for much more than students working in the U.S. Congress, thus they were more suspect to the Conservatives' finger-pointing last spring.

Formby was questioned by the two major London papers and BBC-TV about any connections with the CIA. After his denial of such, Formby said the journalists took somewhat of a tongue-in-cheek turn, asking him if perhaps he had at one time considered spying as a career.

The whole ordeal was almost a joke to the journalists, because a minor accusation became an issue overriding the Falklands crisis.

Formby said he saw the division of that conflict, but was aware that the British were concerned with projecting a unified policy of war to the world. The Labor Party, though adamantly against war, would simply abstain from voting rather than show the split of the sides.

"In the long run most weren't glad, but couldn't see an alternative," Formby said.

"Thatcher was fantastic," Formby observed from watching her handle the rowdy Parliament. Conservatives and Liberals sit across from each other and will, contrary to the English stereotype of mannerly protocol, yell and heckle at speakers. Thatcher did not let anyone run over her, Formby said.

One of the fringe benefits for Formby was access to Parliament's computer where he could call up a complete file on the Falkland Islands and read the latest details.

Information wasn't as free-flowing in Russia, where Formby and his group had experiences much like in novels of intrigue and espionage.

"The people there seemed more ignorant or unaware of what was going on than suppressed," he said, adding that he had problems explaining what he was studying in school. He told one of the Russians that his major was international affairs. When the friendly stranger did not understand, he told him "political science." Next he tried "government." Finally, "Reagan and Breshnev" was understood.

But anytime anything concerning government or affairs outside of Russia came up in conversation, the people would shy away. One man would ask questions, then scurry off as if he was being

Democrats open state convention

DALLAS (AP) — Thousands of Democrats are expected at the state party convention that opens tonight amid predictions the meeting will be the most peaceful one in years.

"I don't think you'll have the nastiness that you've had in fights in the past," said party Chairman Bob Slagle. "The debates won't get out of hand, and they will shed light, not heat. There will be some dissension and some political differences, but not the blood-baths we've had before."

Slagle said about 5,000 Democrats, including 3,600 delegates, are expected for the statewide meeting, which begins at 6 p.m.

For the first time in the history of the state party, all of the presumed Democratic presidential candidates were invited to address the convention, and all, except Sens. John Glenn of Ohio and Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts accepted.

Former Vice President Walter Mondale; Sens. Gary Hart of Colorado, Ernest Hollings of South Carolina, and Alan Cranston of California; and former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew are expected to address the meeting Saturday.

"We have more delegates come to our convention than come to the national convention," Slagle said.

Marines leave war-torn Beirut

By The Associated Press
Marching beneath a banner declaring "mission accomplished," the U.S. Marines left war-torn Beirut today after helping police the PLO withdrawal from the Lebanese capital. But in eastern Lebanon, Syrian-Israeli tensions heightened after two straight days of Israeli air raids on Syrian missile batteries.

The last of the 800 Marines who had guarded the port of Beirut as part of an international peacekeeping force left on the troopship Manitowoc, which pulled from the dock at 8 a.m. (2 a.m. EDT), exactly on schedule. Troops from France and Italy, the other two nations involved in the peacekeeping operation, took over the port. The 800 French and 530 Italian soldiers were expected to leave by Sept. 16, but Lebanon's state radio announced today that the government has asked France to keep its forces in (See MARINES, Page 2)

Pilot who flew in atomic bomb tests has suit

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A federal judge has dismissed a $5 million damage suit filed by a former U.S. Navy pilot who contends he contracted cancer after breathing radioactive dust during atomic bomb tests 36 years ago.

U.S. District Judge David O. Belew Jr. ruled Thursday that he lacked jurisdiction in the case.

Thurston W. Grubbs, who moved to Weatherford, Texas, after leaving the Navy 26 years ago, contended in the suit that the Navy inadequately protected him from radiation when he flew a F-6F Hellcat during the 1946 explosion of two atomic bombs.

Grubbs said he was assigned to fly near a mushroom cloud as he used radio signals to guide a drone, a small piloted aircraft, through the debris to collect samples.

Grubbs said he wore clothing contaminated during that July 1, 1946, test, called "Shot Able," as he prepared for the second test, "Shot Baker," on July 25.

Grubbs said he developed severe back pain 24 years after the Operation Crossroads tests and that doctors discovered that he was suffering from multiple myeloma, a cancer that had spread through his body.

But Belew agreed with Paul F. Figley, a U.S. Department of Justice lawyer, that the judge could not consider Grubbs' suit unless he had filed a claim with the "appropriate government agency."

Grubbs said he filed claims with the Navy and Veterans Administration but Figley said no claims could be found on record with those agencies or the Defense Nuclear Agency.

Lawyers said Grubbs could file a new claim with a federal agency or, if it is rejected, file another damage suit.

Navy plane crashes, killing one

GEORGE WEST, Texas (AP) — U.S. Navy investigators were looking into the crash of a training plane that crashed on a South Texas ranch, killing the only man aboard, authorities said.

The T-28 Trojan from the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station crashed and burned about 1 p.m. Thursday about 45 miles north of here, said Patty Standlee of the Live Oak County Sheriff's Department.

The name of the pilot was being withheld until his relatives were notified, said Ensign Debbie Rice, public information officer at the naval air station.

The owner of the ranch where the propeller-drive plane crashed, James Esse of Karnes City, said the pilot apparently tried to land in a small field but hit a fence instead, flipping several times.

"When we got down there the pilot ... was trapped in the plane. The plane was burning. You couldn't even see a body," Esse said.

Two Navy rescue helicopters were sent to the scene and Navy investigators began looking through the wreckage Thursday night to determine the cause of the crash, Ms. Rice said.

Esse said he and his son discovered the burning wreckage after his son heard a loud explosion and then saw smoke.

Debris from the wreckage was scattered 800 to 1,000 feet, Esse said. The tail section was still intact, but the wings and engine had been sheared off, he said.

Sheriff says purported hunger strike not effective

KARNES CITY, Texas (AP) — No one is starving in a purported hunger strike at the Karnes County Jail, according to Sheriff Bobby Mutz.

Mutz said some of the inmates stocked up on food at the jail commissary before the protest began, and that several of the jail's 15 prisoners also had begun eating jail food and drinking fruit juice.

The trouble started when jail officials halted the practice of relatives bringing food to inmates on visitation days, Mutz said Thursday.

The sheriff said when only three or four prisoners were being held at the jail, the inmates' families were allowed to bring in bags of food. But with the present population of 15, Mutz said there wasn't enough manpower to check all the articles.

Stanley Williams, jailed while awaiting a revocation of probation hearing, contended this week that vegetables and desserts were not served and that the food was not nutritious. Williams also claimed prisoners were not allowed out of their cells and that medical help was not available.

Mutz denied the charge and said the jail food has been approved by a doctor.

"I try to change the diet and offer variety," said Mutz, who became sheriff in January 1981.

He said prisoners are furnished clean uniforms and linens once a week, are allowed to use the jail telephone, and receive prompt medical attention.

Judge awards divorced man cat support

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A judge has signed an uncontested divorce decree that awards a man $5 a month from his ex-wife for cat support.

John Ross Nolan, 22, will receive the voluntary payment from his ex-wife, Karen L. Nolan, 23, Stone said.

Miss America Pageant names winners

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Although Miss North Carolina fought back tears and Miss Mississippi sang the blues, both were winners in the second round of preliminary competition in the Miss America Pageant.

"I always have a feeling of being overweight, but I guess the judges didn't see it that way," Elizabeth Gray Williams, Miss North Carolina, said Thursday night after winning the swimsuit competition in a green knit outfit.

"It's like a dream come true. I feel so honored," said the 1982 graduate of Converse College in Spartanburg, S.C., who plans to sing professionally. "I ran for six weeks. My father made me get out and run. I toned up 100 percent."

Miss Williams said that last year she finished in top 10 in the Miss South Carolina Pageant. This year she entered the competition in her home state and won the local crown.

When master of ceremonies Gary Collins announced the winners to the Convention Hall audience of 9,652, Miss Williams' eyes glistened with tears and she sighed deeply.

Miss Williams was picked by a computer specialist to win the 1983 crown. George Miller, a professor at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, fed statistics for all 50 contestants into his computer, and came up with Miss North Carolina as the odds-on favorite.

Meanwhile, Miss Mississippi, Dianne Evans, gave a sultry rendition of "Stormy Weather," drawing prolonged applause and the gold statue for the talent event.

After the winners' names were called, the 22-year-old from Taylorsville, Miss., calmly strolled down the brightly lit runway with Miss Williams and the reigning Miss America, Elizabeth Ward, who will relinquish her crown during the nationally televised finals Saturday night.

"I'm just overwhelmed," said Miss Evans, who wore a purple gown with a shimmering sheath. "It's like a dream come true. I'm always very self-confident. I love to perform and entertain."

"I was going for the emotion that song portrayed, of losing a love," said Miss Evans, who competed against nine singers, two pianists, two dancers, a baton twirler, a harpist and a ventriloquist.

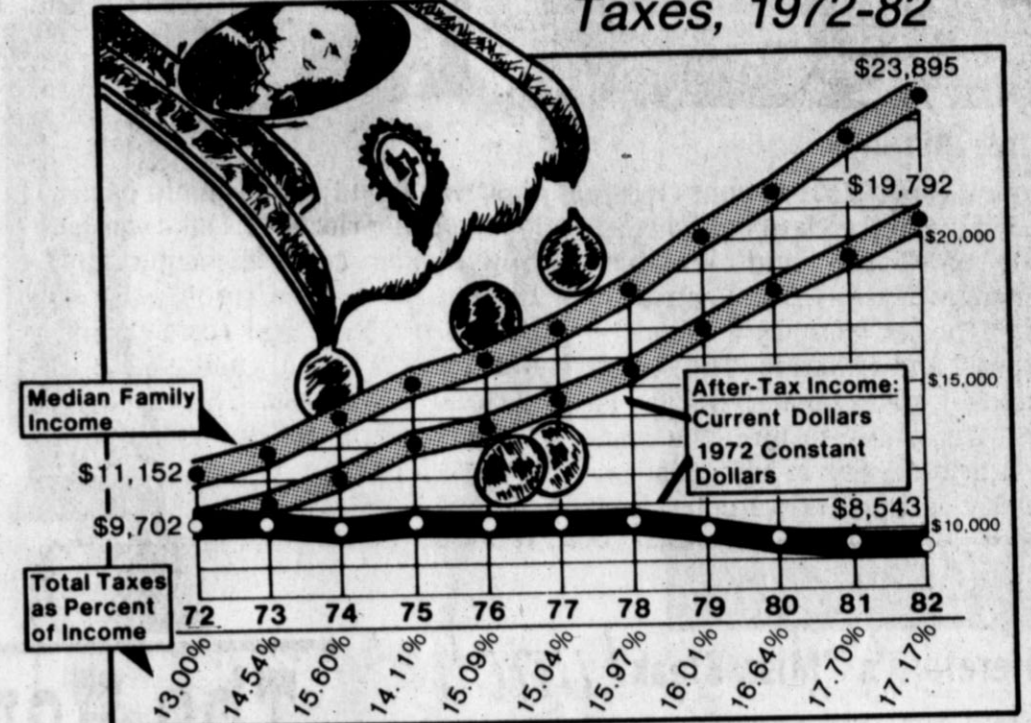

The seven judges also saw 17 contestants compete in the evening gown event, but their first choice in that category is kept secret until Saturday night.

After Thursday's awards, the two winners posed for photographers with Wednesday's winners, Miss California Debra Sue Maffett, for swimsuit, and Miss Kentucky Gwendolyn Suzann Witten, for talent.

The three events will be repeated tonight as the judges narrow the field to the 10 finalists who will begin the competition anew Saturday.

EARNING MORE, KEEPING LESS

American Incomes Before and After Taxes, 1972-82

SOURCE: Tax Foundation Inc.

The median income for an American family of four with one full-time wage earner is projected to hit a record high of $23,895 this year — a 114 percent increase in 10 years. But inflation and increasing federal taxes, including social security, have left the family with less to spend. Post-tax disposable income in constant 1972 dollars, adjusted for inflation, is down more than $1,000.

Bullock predicts $1.3 billion surplus for legislature state predicting AUSTIN Tex. State Comptroller Bob Bullock this week sent lawmakers a supplemental estimate of funds available for state spending. "We're expecting the same $1.3 billion surplus we predicted in July," Bullock said.

The Comptroller pointed out he had released his estimate of a record state surplus five months before it would have been due a regular session of the Legislature so that lawmakers would begin thinking and talking about how the surplus could best be used "in July instead of waiting for January."

Bullock's Tuesday estimate was submitted to the Special Legislative Session as required by the Texas Constitution. The estimate includes final revenue collection figures for the state fiscal year that ended the last day of August.

"This is the largest surplus our state has ever seen," Bullock said. "It means the Legislature will have $5.1 billion more to spend than was appropriated in our present budget.

"Clearly there is enough money available to finance responsible action in solving problems with the Texas Unemployment Compensation Trust Fund, maintaining Texas' healthy business climate and protecting the benefits of unemployed Texas," Bullock concluded.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor

Too often we hear of all the so-called "bad" things our kids are into and too little of some of the nice things they do.

On Wednesday Sept. 1, 1982 the Student Council of Hereford High School sponsored a special replacement blood drive for one of their teachers, Mrs. Diane Perkins, who is currently battling with leukemia. At present Mrs. Perkins has used over $3,800 of blood components during her private war for life.

Realizing that the blood being used needed to be put back on the hospital shelf, these students selflessly gave their special gifts of this human medicine which resulted in 92 donations altogether.

John Bunyan once wrote:

"You have not lived today until you have done something for somebody who can never repay you."

I feel we can truly say that these kids lived today, are "extra special", and are indeed a "brand apart". I know the Hereford Community must be extremely proud of them. We at Coffee Memorial Blood Center certainly are. It has to be a comforting thought to know that your kids are genuinely concerned and care enough for their fellow man to put their fears behind them and become vital parts of your community's lifeblood.

Thank you Hereford High School. We salute you!
Sincerely,
Bobby Thomas

An incident described as being just like in a movie occurred after the tour leader had been suspected of drug smuggling. Formby said the leader had some pills which were not illegal here, but had been banned from Russia, and was searched on the train entering the country.

Seven of the members were not allowed back into Finland and were returned to Leningrad, unknown of what fate awaited — since the Russian officer had taken away their train tickets home and they had no way of getting more. Within the five hours ride back to Leningrad, someone did some work.

A mysterious "litle lady in black" approached the group as they boarded, said only "Platform Four," and quickly left. The seven, calmly on the outside but trembling on the inside, walked to Platform Four. A mysterious man approached them and handed out new tickets, then left quickly.

Entering Russia was almost, but not quite, as exciting as leaving. Formby said the customs agents lined him up in front of a mirror, looked at his visa and then stared straight at his face for about two minutes without moving. Then the agent stared straight at the reflection. Formby said a few girls giggled, but the agents remained stoically unamused.

Returning to London was like going home, though Formby already had become comfortable there after about a month. He was able to tell "tourists' directions for taking the tube.

The constitutional amendment would split authority for regulating or prohibiting abortion between the Congress and the state legislatures. It is unlikely to attract the two-thirds vote needed to send a constitutional amendment to the states for ratification.

A few hours before the vote, Reagan telephoned half a dozen wavering senators, asking them to vote to limit debate. Nonetheless, such Republican stalwarts as John Tower of Texas, John Warner of Virginia and Assistant Senate Majority Leader Ted Stevens of Alaska voted with the liberals.

It was not known specifically who Reagan called, but his personal advisor, Steve Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan, "wants it understood he is very serious about the abortion issue and he would like to get it to a vote in the Senate and have this matter go forward."

On Wednesday, Reagan sent letters to nine wavering senators urging them to vote to limit debate and to support the Helms bill.

Both U.S. Ambassador Robert Dillon and Col. James M. Mead, the Marine commander, said they were "very proud" of the job the Marines had done.

The pullout came nine days after the completion of the U.S.-sponsored evacuation of Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas from their west Beirut stronghold. The guerrillas withdrew and scattered to eight Arab countries in the face of a threatened Israeli invasion of their enclave.

In a related development, leaders meeting in Fez, Morocco Thursday issued the first collective Arab proposal for peace with Israel since creation of the Jewish state in 1948. The plan was promptly denounced by Israel.

It called for creation of an independent, PLO-governed Palestinian state in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, incorporating the Arab-populated sector of Jerusalem, which Israel considers a part of its capital. Until 1967, Arab East Jerusalem was controlled by Jordan.

must remain in Israeli hands.

The Marines, stationed at the port of Beirut since Aug. 25 to oversee the evacuation of the PLO guerrillas, spent Thursday loading trucks, forklifts and trailers in landing crafts. No U.S. casualties or injuries were reported during the Beirut operation.

The last Marine presence on foreign soil was in May 1975 with the expedition to rescue the crew of the cargo ship Mayaguez and regain control of the ship from Cambodian pirates on an island off Cambodia. Four Marines were killed and 41 wounded.

Although the Japanese government tried to secure an Israeli troop withdrawal to coincide with the Marines' departure, Israeli forces maintained positions in Beirut and its jets bombed Syrian missile batteries in eastern Lebanon on Wednesday and Thursday.

The back-to-back attacks on Syrian missile positions marked an escalation in the Syrian-Israeli confrontation. Both sides have troops positioned in eastern Lebanon.

Cameras allowed in courtroom

HOUSTON (AP) — Three Harris County judges have allowed cameras into the courtroom, less than one year after a state judicial conference rejected plans to allow broadcasting of trials.

But State District Judges Michael McSpadden, Richard Trevathan and Doug Shaver insisted the defendant's right to a fair trial was never violated because the cameras only recorded the verdict or formal sentencing.

Last month, McSpadden allowed photographs to be taken as a jury convicted millionaire attorney William Chanlor of trying to obtain a lethal, hard-to-trace poison that would kill his invalid wife.

Shaver also let cameras into the courtroom a week ago as Coral Eugene Watts, who admitted killing 13 young women in Texas and Michigan, was sentenced to 60 years in prison on a burglary charge.

Trevathan allowed cameras when fired Harris County Deputy William Gordon was convicted of violating the civil rights of a 17-year-old burglary suspect.

The code of judicial conduct, which was adopted by the Texas Supreme Court, says a judge "should" prohibit broadcasting, televising, recording or photographing in the courtroom and adjacent areas during trials.

Ann Landers Must change eating habits

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Dr. Art Ulene on NBC's "Today" program said a person under a doctor's supervision could safely lose a great deal of weight on the Cambridge diet.

Why did you knock it when a reader asked what you thought of it recently?—Fat And Frustrated In Galesburg DEAR F. AND F. IN G.: I knocked it because most people will NOT go to a doctor when they embark on a diet. They read the instructions and think that's enough. Consequently, they may not be aware of high blood pressure, cardiac problems, hypoglycemia, a chronic infection or other physical problems that could get the Cambridge dieter into serious trouble.

The only way to keep weight off permanently is to change one's eating habits—and precious few people are willing (or able) to do it.

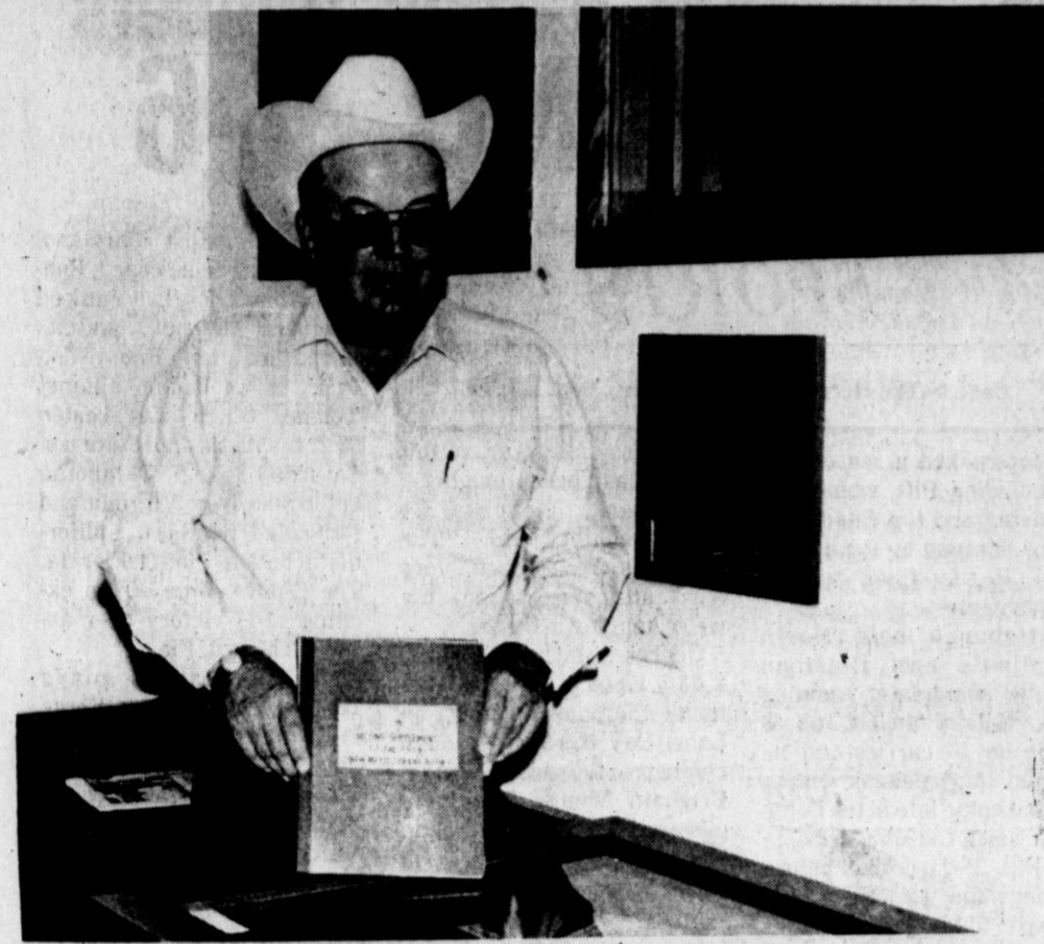

The literature that comes with the Cambridge diet states clearly that you may NEVER go back to normal food. How many people will stick to THAT directive? If you listened to Dr. Ulene's closing remarks, he said, "The same people who are losing weight on the Cambridge diet today were on the Scarsdale diet last year, the Last Chance diet the year before and the Beverly Hills diet the year before that. They gained back every ounce they had lost and added a few."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been going with a wonderful man for over a year. He is hard-working, honest, faithful, and has many good qualities. He loves me deeply and I am sure I love him. The problem: My mother says love doesn't last and that if I marry him I'll be sorry because he is only 5-4 (I am 5-7). Also, he is not good-looking. She says our children will be undersized and unattractive.

As an example she pointed out my cousins, who are really the homeliest people in town. Their mother is beautiful and their father is an ugly little runt. Does any of this make sense to you? Please advise.—Very Anonymous, Of Course

DEAR VERY: Every birth is the result of genetic roulette. It is impossible to predict which genes will predominate. We all know of instances where both parents were gorgeous and the kids were homely—and vice versa. I can't think of a worse reason for deciding in favor of or against a spouse.

Brand Display

Emmet Duke of 621 Avenue G, has on display at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center his collection of brand books from New Mexico, Kansas, and Colorado. The oldest brand book Duke has on display is 1934. According to him, the first book printed was in 1895. Also on display is an XIT running iron

Panthers receive scare

Pitt edges UNC, 7-6

SPORTS

Page 4—The Hereford Brand—Friday, Sept. 10, 1982

PITTSBURGH (AP) — It appeared that Pitt's number was up — at least its number one college football ranking.

Instead, North Carolina's days of being a national title contender apparently were numbered.

And while he didn't put together the kind of numbers he's accustomed to, senior quarterback Dan Marino directed a third-quarter touchdown drive that gave the top-rated Panthers a nationally televised 7-6 victory over the fifth-ranked Tar Heels Thursday night.

Marino's 4-yard touchdown pass to running back Bryan Thomas midway through the quarter ended a 69-yard drive — the Panthers' only sustained drive of the night. Included were Marino completions of 19 yards to Dwight Collins and 15 yards to Thomas.

But Marino, despite completing 15 of 28 attempts, threw for just 125 yards. It was the first time that Marino, who passed for nearly 2,900 yards last season, has thrown for less than 200 yards since the final game of his sophomore season.

"It wasn't very pretty, was it?" said rookie Pitt Coach Foge Fazio, who replaced Jackie Sherrill. "It was a game of field position, and I didn't want it to happen that way. We wanted to get the lead early."

The Panthers didn't. The Tar Heels took a 3-0 halftime lead on Brooks Barwick's 39-yard, second-quarter field goal.

It looked like Pitt might be the next victim of the jinx that has plagued No. 1 ranked teams since last season.

Six teams were beaten almost immediately after being top-ranked a season ago — including Pitt, which was unbeaten and top rated until being stomped by Penn State 48-14 in its final regular season game.

Pittsburgh held North Carolina's own Heisman Trophy candidate, running back Kelvin Bryant to 58 yards on 16 carries. And he was on the sidelines with a twisted ankle late in the game when North Carolina drove to the Pitt 21-yard line before stalling and settling for a 48-yard field goal by Rob Rogers.

North Carolina Coach Dick Crum said his Tar Heels "had a chance to win," but were consistently crippled by penalties.

North Carolina was whistled for 15 penalties for 133 yards and Pitt drew 13 penalties for 97 yards.

Three intriguing matchups on Saturday have No. 3 Nebraska playing host to Iowa, No. 4 Alabama at Georgia Tech and No. 12 Michigan entertaining Wisconsin. Those three ranked teams all lost their openers last season — to the same unranked squads they open with this year.

"We felt our camp was a little too easy last year, so this camp has been tougher," Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler said. "The practices have been very hard and very tough, but we're hanging in there."

Georgia, which opened with a 13-7 victory over 1981 national champion Clemson on Labor Day, has another tough challenge Saturday against Brigham Young. The high-powered Cougars blanked Nevada-Las Vegas 27-0 in their opener.

No. 2 Washington begins play against Texas-El Paso, a perennial tailender in the Western Athletic Conference. UTEP did win its opener last year, though, 20-17 over New Mexico State.

No. 7 Penn State, fresh off a 31-14 whipping of Temple, is at home against Maryland, with its new head coach, Bobby Ross. Eighth-ranked Southern Methodist and its new head man, Bobby Collins, is at home against Tulane, which was beaten 30-21 by Mississippi State last Saturday. No. 9 Oklahoma entertains West Virginia and 10th-rated Southern California debuts at No. 11 Florida. The Gators come off an exciting 17-14 victory over archrival Miami, Fla.

No. 13 Arkansas plays Tulsa, which beat Air Force 35-17 in its opener; No. 14 Ohio State challenges Baylor, a 21-17 winner against North Texas State last weekend; Arizona State, rated 15th and 1-0 after blasting Oregon 34-3, plays Utah; No. 18 UCLA gets Long Beach State, and No. 19 Miami opposes Houston.

In an interesting game between non-ranked teams, Virginia and new coach George Welsh, entertains Navy, and new coach Gary Tranquil. Tranquil replaced Welsh at Navy this season.

Hereford netters launch district play

Boasting a total of six lettermen, and hopeful of breaking into the first division, Hereford's tennis team opens District 3-5A team play Saturday at home.

In a triangular event, featuring three schools, Hereford will take on Amarillo High and Lubbock Coronado Saturday at 8:30 and 11:30 a.m., respectively.

And, according to fourth-year tennis coach Robert Cox, AHS and Coronado figure to be among the top four teams in 3-5A this year.

"Year-in and year-out, Monterey and Coronado have dominated District 4-5A, while AHS and Tascosa have been the top teams in 3-5A."

"This year, with the districts combined the teams figure to stay near the top. Realistically, we're hoping to break into the top half of the district."

"I feel we have some good individual players who can compete with just about any other individual in the district. The key for us will be to get good play from our other individuals."

"For us to be successful, our senior boys are going to have to play well, and our girls must do well at the top matches."

The returning lettermen among the boys include Donny Anderson, Monte Hall and Brian Paetzold. Anderson is a junior, while Hall and Paetzold are seniors.

Letter winners from a season ago among the girls are Vanessa Sims, Sharon Mitts and Holly Veigel. Sims is a junior, while the other two are seniors.

Blair Rogers, a sophomore, plays at No. 1 for the boys. He's followed by Anderson, Hutto, Paetzold and Eddie Aguilar, a senior.

The girls' lineup, numbers one through five, includes Sims, Connie Zinser, a sophomore, Mitts, Veigel and Carol Estes, a senior.

This year, the fall tennis schedule will determine the district champion, according to Cox.

The team champion will be decided by early October," Cox related. "Then, next spring at the district tournament, individual titles will be decided. That's when individual players will qualify for the regional tournament, and eventually for state."

After hosting AHS and Coronado Saturday, Hereford will entertain Palo Duro Sept. 14.

The fall schedule is as follows:

Sept. 11 — Hereford vs. AHS at Hereford (8:30 a.m.) and Hereford vs. Coronado at Hereford (11:30 a.m.)

Sept. 14 — Hereford vs. Palo Duro at Hereford (3 p.m.)

Sept. 18 — Hereford vs. Monterey at Plainview (10 a.m.) and Hereford vs. Plainview at Plainview (11:30 a.m.)

Sept. 21 — Hereford vs. Caprock at Hereford (3 p.m.)

Sept. 25 — Hereford vs. Lubbock High in Lubbock (8:30 a.m.) and Hereford vs. Tascosa in Lubbock (10 a.m.)

Oct. 2 — MaKe up day for district matches.

Oct. 8 & 9 — Lubbock Fall Invitational Tournament.

Oct. 16 — Triangular match at Borger.

WTSU visits Louisiana Tech

CANYON — West Texas State, hoping to break into the win column after an outstanding offensive performance a week ago, travels to Ruston, Louisiana Saturday for the first of two consecutive road games.

The Buffs, 33-29 losers to Abilene Christian University last Saturday, take on Louisiana Tech Saturday at 7 p.m. in Aillet Stadium.

Saturday's meeting will be only the second ever between the two schools. WT won last year's encounter, 17-10 in the season opener for both clubs.

While the Buffs are winless in their only 1982 start, Louisiana Tech will be playing its season opener this weekend.

Last week against ACU, turnovers and mistakes led to the Buffs' downfall. Five lost fumbles, three pass interceptions and a pair of roughing-

Reeves back with Oilers

HOUSTON (AP) — Rookie quarterback Ron Reeves has been re-signed by the Houston Oilers and placed on the team's inactive roster.

Reeves, drafted in the 10th round, was waived Monday when the National Football League team trimmed its roster to 49 players.

Linebacker Gregg Bingham and safety Vernon Perry also were placed on the inactive list prior to Sunday season opener against Cincinnati.

Plainview, Monterey win district openers

Pre-season favorite Plainview and Lubbock Monterey, a club hoping to become a solid title contender, opened the District 3-5A football season Thursday night on winning notes.

Plainview took virtually no prisoners en route to a lopsided 55-28 triumph over Tascosa at Dick Bivins Stadium, while Monterey throttled Amarillo High, 24-0, in Lubbock's Lowrey Field.

Plainview's win was more one-sided than the final outcome might indicate. The Bulldogs now 2-0 this season rolled up a 48-7 bulge, before the Rebels (1-1) scored three more times against reserves.

Ironically though, the two teams weren't that far apart in total yards. Plainview amassed 322 yards overall, while the Rebels accounted for 305 — but much of that came long after the outcome was no longer in doubt.

The Bulldogs struck for three TDs within a four-minute span of the first period to open a 21-0 lead.

Tascosa got back in the game briefly, marching 80 yards for a TD which cut the deficit to 21-7. But, after that, Plainview scored 27 unanswered points to forge a 48-7 cushion.

In Lubbock, the Plainsmen (2-0 overall) put the clamps on AHS' running game, limiting the Sandies to 16 yards on the ground.

Tailback Jay Douglas rushed for 135 yards on 15 carries, and scored three times on runs of 5, 30 and 38 yards as the winners rolled up 231 yards overall. For the game, Monterey gained 297 yards, while the Sandies (0-2 this season) managed 141.

The first week of district play continues tonight with Palo Duro taking on Caprock in Amarillo and Lubbock High meeting Coronado at Lowrey Field.

Hereford, the loop's defending champion, is at Canyon for a non-district clash. The Her opens league play next Friday at home against Lubbock High.

Season opens Sunday barring strike

Fate of Lions, Giants, Bills hinges on running backs

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

The fate of the Detroit Lions, New York Giants and Buffalo Bills — three teams considered prime National Football League playoff contenders — may hinge on their star running backs. At least the Lions know where theirs is.

As the NFL regular season opens Sunday — barring a players' strike over the lack of a collective bargaining contract with the league — the Giants and Bills — both wild-card playoff teams last year — will be without the men their running attack are built around. New York's Rob Carpenter and Buffalo's Joe Cribbs are holding out for renegotiated contracts.

While the Giants will try to make do against Atlanta with rookies Butch Woolfolk and Joe Morris in place of Carpenter and the Bills search for a replacement for Cribbs against Kansas City, the Lions are all smiles now that Billy Sims is back in town.

Sims also was holding out but, after missing the entire preseason, he reported to the team earlier this week and is expected to start Sunday against the Chicago Bears.

"Sunday should be OK," said Sims. "I know the running game fairly well. I don't know all the pass plays yet."

Sims returned following a private meeting Tuesday with club owner William Clay Ford. Sims said Ford assured him the Lions would negotiate the fourth, or option, year of his contract as soon as possible.

"I think I achieved something (with the holdout)," Sims said. "I was well pleased with my conversation with Mr. Ford."

"It took a lot on Billy's part to come back," said Lions Coach Monte Clark. "I think it took a lot of loyalty. It shows what kind of man Billy is."

The Lions will be operating with a new set of kickers. After punter Tom Skladany and placekicker Eddie Murray walked out of camp, Detroit signed punter John James and placekicker Bob Thomas, then suspended Skladany and Murray.

Elsewhere Sunday, it will be Houston at Cincinnati; St. Louis at New Orleans; Tampa Bay at Minnesota; Washington at Philadelphia; the Los Angeles Rams vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee; New England at Baltimore; Miami at the New York Jets; Cleveland at Seattle; San Diego at Denver, and the Los Angeles Raiders at San Francisco.

On Monday, Pittsburgh is at Dallas. Of course, the weekend schedule could be disrupted if the Colts and Seahawks go through with their walkouts to protest the release of their player representatives — Baltimore's Herb Orvis and Seattle's Sam McCullum.

One of the more interesting matchups Sunday involves the Raiders and 49ers. The defending Super Bowl champion 49ers have added even more pass-catching power to their already potent array with tight end Russ Francis and wide receiver Renaldo Nehemiah, the world-record high hurdler. Their opponents are their former Bay Area rivals, the Raiders, who moved to Los Angeles this season after a protracted court battle with the NFL.

The NFL's two worst teams last season, the Patriots and Colts, square off in Baltimore. The Colts only two victories last year came in the opening and closing games of the season — both against New England. Frank Kush will make his debut as Colts head coach and Ron Meyer does likewise for New England.

The only other new head coach will be the Bears' Mike Ditka.

The Bengals, who lost the Super Bowl to San Francisco, face the Oilers, who promise a more balanced attack. In other words, Earl Campbell won't carry the ball on every down.

The Browns are hoping to unveil a new, stronger defense led by linebacker Tom Cousineau. After being selected first in the 1979 draft and spurning the Buffalo Bills to play in the Canadian Football League, Cousineau joined Cleveland as a free agent for this season.

In U.S. Open tennis tourney

Connors meets Lendl in semifinals

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Connors thinks his game is peaking at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships and it couldn't come at a better time for the three-time champion now that the tournament is heading into its final stages.

Connors advanced to the Open semifinals for the ninth consecutive year Thursday with an easy 6-1, 6-3, 6-4 victory over amateur Rodney Harmon and was joined there by Argentina's Guillermo Vilas, who eliminated Tom Gullikson, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3. Those two will meet Saturday, while defending champion and top-seeded John McEnroe meets No. 3 seed Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia in the other semi.

The women's semis were held today with No. 7 Pam Shriver, conquerer of top-seeded Martina Navratilova, meeting No. 5 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia and No. 4 Andrea Jaeger going against five-time champion Chris Evert Lloyd, seeded second.

The first title of the two-week tournament was settled Thursday when Kevin Curren of South Africa and Steve Denton rallied to defeat Victor Amaya and Hank Pfister 6-2, 6-7 (4-7), 5-7, 6-2, 6-4 for the men's doubles crown.

Connors did a workmanlike job on Harmon, the Southern Methodist undergraduate who came into this tournament as a wild card entry, ranked 221 by the ATP computer. He dropped the first game of the match to Harmon's service but then raced through the next six, capturing the first set in 22 minutes.

Harmon toughened in the final set when he fought off double match point on Connors' serve to force a ninth game, and then avoided another match point to win that one and keep the set going to a 10th game. But eventually, he ran out of shots and surrendered the set and the match.

Vilas made fast work of Gullikson, breaking him in the first game and controlling the match throughout.

"Now I start thinking about Connors," he said. "I played consistently. I was serving well and running well."

The match was in stark contrast with the five-set survival test Vilas came through against Denton two days before.

"It's important to have tough matches," he said. "You get tested under pressure. I like that. I don't look forward to that because everytime you have a tough match, there's a chance you will lose."

Women's golf association plans couples tournament

The Hereford Women's Golf Association held a short meeting Tuesday evening, after their regular scramble tourney to finalize plans for the couples 18-hole golf scramble this Sunday. Tee off time is 8:30 a.m. at the city golf course.

A fun tournament has been planned with mulligan shots selling for $1 each, and other surprises are in store for the teams. The cost per team is $40 and this includes the cart fee and barbecue lunch catered by Caison's at 1 p.m. Sunday under the shade trees near the Pro shop. Prizes will also be awarded to tournament players.

During the meeting, Helen Ann McWhorter gave out prizes for playday for the month of August. Golf balls were given to Pat Goforth.

The next scheduled meeting will be Oct. 5 at the Pro Shop after scramble playday. All interested persons are encouraged to sign up for golf lessons at that time.

The lessons are Oct. 18-22 and cost will be $15 per person. The lessons will be given by Mike Horton, City Golf Pro starting each day at 5:15 p.m. Monday thru Friday.

Teams participating in the scramble Tuesday were Karen Marsh-Lola Faye Veazey and Revella Skypala-Thelma Marsh; Nell Miller-

Therese Albracht and Mary Harman-Norman Hendon; Pat Goforth-Billie Sonnenberg-Randy Hamilton and Helen Ann McWhorter-Mary Shelton and high gross-Therese Albracht and Nell Miller. Each participant received a Wilson "Ladybug" golf ball.

LaPlata 8th shades Canyon

Pampa 9th edges LaPlata, 18-14

PAMPA — Pampa's ninth grade pushed across a fourth period TD on fourth down with just over two minutes to play to outlast LaPlata's ninth grade football team, 18-14, Thursday afternoon here.

The loss evened LaPlata's season record at 1-1. The ninth graders opened the season a week earlier by downing Plainview, 14-0.

LaPlata running back Bobby Martinez scored on a short plunge to cap a 25-yard drive in the opening quarter, but the point-after was blocked, leaving the score deadlocked at 6-6.

Pampa took a 12-6 lead in the second period, and that score held up until Bruce Walterscheid picked up a blocked punt and ran it for a TD to give LaPlata a 14-12 lead in the third quarter, after Patrick Phibbs hit Danny Castillo with a two-point conversion pass.

"Defensively, our linebackers (Geroge Bermudez, Brad Clements and Curtis Cotten) played well," coach John Nino said.

"And, offensively, our standouts were running backs Castillo and Martinez."

LaPlata will host Amarillo Bowie next Thursday at 5:30 p.m. in its next start.

Bobby Medina's short touchdown run and Chris Urbanczyk's subsequent two-point conversion run proved to be the difference as LaPlata's eighth grade football team opened its season Thursday afternoon at home with a 8-6 triumph over the Canyon purple team.

"We scored in the third quarter to break a scoreless tie," LaPlata coach Kelly Adams scored.

"Then, Canyon came back to score the tying touchdown a few minutes later, but we held them on the two-point conversion run, and that was all the scoring."

"We'd only worked out three or four days prior to the game, so I was really pleased with our performance," Adams added.

"Conrad Rodriguez intercepted a pass for us to stop a potential Canyon scoring opportunity," he added.

Thursday's game was the LaPlata eighth grade's first of the season. They will host the Canyon White team next Thursday at 4 p.m.

Sophs lose to Caprock, 12-0

Mario Garcia scooted 12 yards in the opening period and Freddie Watts gathered in a 55-yard scoring toss from Todd DeSpain in the second quarter to boost Caprock's sophomores past Hereford, 12-0, Thursday afternoon in Amarillo.

The loss was Hereford's first, after opening its season with a 7-6 victory over Amarillo High.

The sophomore team will return to action next Saturday when it travels to Clovis for a 7 p.m. clash.

The Hereford junior varsity will host Clovis tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. The JV is 1-0, after blanking Pampa, 13-0, in its opener.

Handwriting on the wall

NEW YORK (AP) — Though the league's chief negotiator says "the handwriting is on the wall" for a players' strike, and two teams are threatening walkouts, National Football League club owners are standing by their pledge not to implement a lockout.

With the start of the NFL season just two days away and the Baltimore Colts and Seattle Seahawks players saying they are prepared to stage job actions over the release of their union representatives, the executive committee of the NFL Management Council Thursday reaffirmed its previous decision not to lock out the players.

Jack Donlan, the executive director of the Management Council, said that the owners were chagrined that union boss Ed Garvey and the NFL Players Association had rejected their latest offer on a new collective bargaining contract.

"They (the owners) were very disappointed at the arrogance of the union leadership," said Donlan of the six members of the executive committee. "The owners are very disappointed at the reaction of the players. They thought they had given a very significant and expensive proposal, over $600 million in new money and there was discussion that they might have made a mistake in may be withdrawing their opportunity to have a lockout.

"Garvey said two years ago we would have a strike. He has not responded to any offer that we have made, he didn't show up even to take a look at the (new) proposal. He said he's going to have a strike and then he rejects mediation. I think the handwriting is on the wall."

Players Association leadership was not taking a hard line regarding the possibility of a strike this Sunday, when all NFL teams except Pittsburgh and Dallas — who play Monday Night — get started. In fact, they were not pushing for any strike action this weekend.

"Our executive committee last night (Wednesday), in a conference call, decided they were not going to call selective strikes, that there was not going to be any action taken during the first weekend," Frank Woschitz, press spokesman for the union, said from Washington. "We are trying to hold off the teams (Seattle and Baltimore). We've told them, 'When we strike, if we strike, we'll do it together.'"

HEALTH Help for osteoarthritis

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like to know more about osteoarthritis. I have it in my hips and back and one ankle. I'm 75 years old and overweight by about 30 pounds. I take Ascriptin tablets and use Aspercreme. Does this really help or is it in my imagination? Is there anything better?

I have tried dieting but don't have much success. I would like to lose 30 to 40 pounds. I also have a stationary bicycle I try to ride. Is that OK?

DEAR DR. LAMB - The location of your arthritis is typical. Notice it involves weight-bearing joints. Osteoarthritis, or degenerative joint disease as it is now sometimes called, is wear and tear arthritis. If a person lives long enough he will have it. Often the first evidence of it is noted by X-rays when the person still is free of symptoms.

Aspirin remains one of the most effective medicines, whether it is in a preparation such as Ascriptin or in the Aspercreme you are using. Yes, the Aspercreme is very helpful in relieving local pain and discomfort. The salicylate it contains is absorbed through the skin.

There are other medicines that have a similar action. These all tend to neutralize prostaglandins that are the body's pain-producing chemicals. But they all decrease factors that protect the stomach lining, causing irritation of the stomach. That is why they should be used under a doctor's direction.

You do need to lose weight, which will decrease the load on those overworked joints. Exercise is important in losing weight and in maintaining function of a joint. BUT, many people wrongly think that exercise is good for arthritis. It is not, other than maintaining range of motion and flexibility. Rest for an overworked joint relieves pain and leads to improvement.

That is why jogging and running activities are not the best form of exercise for people with osteoarthritis. A bicycle is less of a problem. Swimming and water exercises are best because they support your body weight.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My fiancée recently went to a gynecologist for a pelvic examination since she is on the pill. The examination was fairly normal until the gynecologist probed her rectum with his finger. She has been through numerous pelvic examinations before but an incident like this has never happened.

She is now both upset and depressed and has lost a lot of respect and trust in the gynecologist. She believes he went too far and refuses to go to a male gynecologist again.

Is such an examination a routine and valid part of a pelvic examination and, if so, what is it meant to determine?

DEAR READER - Your letter reminds me of how great the gulf of knowledge is sometimes between the attending physician and the patient. Your fiancée should have asked her doctor about it. Otherwise, how would he know that a routine part of a complete pelvic examination had not been understood.

It is done to reach higher to feel for a retroverted uterus, and other problems that cannot always be determined without it. About half of all rectal cancers can be felt by the finger. Her doctor gave her a better examination than the one she has seen who failed to do a complete examination.

DEAR DR. LAMB - What would you consider to be the best and safest treatment of a hormonal imbalance in a 21-year-old woman that is resulting in an increased and noticeable hair growth on the face, chest and arms? Do you recommend some sort of estrogen treatment, nutritional treatment or electrolysis?

DEAR READER - My first recommendation would be to find out what kind of hormone imbalance, if any, exists. If it is caused by a hormone imbalance problem then it should be corrected.

You may be interested to learn that in women who produce an excess of androgens (such as testosterone) a diuretic, spironolactone (Aldactone) has proved to be remarkably successful. Your doctor may want a reference which is the Journal of The American Medical Association, volume 247, page 1295, 1982.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Is there a medicine to dissolve kidney stones? A urologist told my son that the stones he has could not be removed by surgery. That was three years ago.

If a new treatment for this condition is available I will urge him to get further medical attention. He is 33 years old and works in a highly skilled job and has been in good health otherwise, as far as I know.

DEAR READER - Yes, there are several medicines that either stop the progressive enlargement of stones, prevent new stones or will dissolve stones that are present. It depends a lot on the type of stone a person has. Stones are made up of many different minerals.

It is fair to say the treatment of kidney stones is in a state of flux. I don't know why the surgeon didn't want to operate on your son but it may be that the stones were in a location in the kidney that would not create a problem - that is, dislodge and start to pass or obstruct the urine flow. In other words, he may have thought surgery wasn't necessary.

The one thing most specialists agree on is that it is important to drink enough water to keep your urine dilute, 24 hours a day. Some physicians instruct their patients to measure the specific gravity (concentration) of their urine with instructions to drink enough water to keep it dilute.

Today medical kidney specialists are more likely to let a person use milk and milk products in moderation and reduce the calcium intake only if it is excessive. Urologists still tend to restrict calcium for calcium kidney stones.

FAITH TEACHES RESPECT FOR A GRANDFATHER'S WISDOM

In this age of the ever-widening generation gap, in which youth is thoroughly convinced that it alone has all the answers to the world's ills and even a father often has trouble gaining the attention and respect of his children, a grandfather is that much farther removed from what they consider reality. However, we must realize that our grandparents could not possibly have lived long enough to be succeeded by two generations without accumulating a vast store of knowledge and gaining an enviable perspective on the mysteries of life itself. The faith you acquire at the Church of your choice will teach you to honor and respect your grandparents, because there is much of value that you can learn from them.

Age... carries in it an authority which makes it preferable to all the pleasures of youth.
—Sir Richard Steele

"Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations: ask thy father and he will show thee; thy elders and they will tell thee."
—Deuteronomy 32:7
