Jumping from one action to another in rapid succession, the Deaf Smith County Commissioners Court Tuesday approved a contract with the State Department of Public Welfare, discussed briefly the gasoline supply situation of county precincts, awarded a hefty workmen's compensation policy to Plains Insurance and decided on uses for Revenue Sharing funds for the next 12-month entitlement period beginning July 1.

The commissioners also tabled a request by Criminal District Attorney Andy Shuval for air-conditioning in his office, turned down a second telephone for the Veteran's Service Office, discussed needs for a tennis complex at the High School, okayed a kitchen for the basement of the library, and decided to draw up specifications for bids on electrical wiring for the Little Bull Barn.

MOST OF THE ACTION at the second regular Commissioners Court meeting of the month came during the morning session as all three matters on an 17-item agenda were approved.

Concerning the welfare contract, Mrs. Jewel Smith, county welfare director, reviewed specifics with the court including the possibility of saving money by cooperating in the state program. The purpose of the contract is to help finance necessities of foster care children, who were involved in child abuse situations.

Essentially, costs formerly handled solely through the county will be reimbursed by the state. The county will establish a fund to pay the initial costs to parents.

Robbie Edwards, of the regional welfare office in Amarillo told the commissioners at a meeting a month ago that the program could save the county up to about $750 a year. The only objection raised then about the program was in its administration.

THE CONTRACT sets up a separate board to administer the funds and supervise individual cases and it was suggested that the present county Juvenile Board double as the Child Welfare Board. This satisfied the need of the Court as it was not forbidden by the state. Mrs. Smith also was appointed to serve in an advisory capacity on the board.

Bud Eades and Marvin Coffey of Plains Insurance said the county would not be overlapping any insurance coverage if continuing with a Blue Cross-Blue Shield policy since the county is required by state law to implement a workmen's compensation policy by July.

County Judge Sam Morgan said the commissioners went with the local insurance agency for coverage rather than with a state association plan because both cost about the same and said that "spending money locally was better for the community." Plains Insurance also offered an alternate plan to their regular one to meet the benefits included in the state plan.

The county will receive a guaranteed income dividend of 25 per cent of the total premium—13 1/2 per cent at the beginning of the policy period and 11 1/2 per cent at the end. The policy will cover all accidents while county workers are on the job. Elected officials are not included at a savings of $1,064. The total policy costs is $18,902.

Burns Hamilton, chairman of a committee to study tennis court needs asked if the court would be willing to participate in an effort with the city and schools to build new tennis courts next to the four courts behind Hereford High School and resurface the present four.

"We need the courts to host tournaments here since the other courts in town are spread out too far," Hamilton said.

The Commission was receptive and agreed to set up a meeting with the parties involved to discuss the matter.

THE REVENUE SHARING fund use, starting this year, by law must be determined in advance with proper public input. Since the county had to turn in a Planned Use Report to the federal government, the following allocations were decided: $100,000 for public transportation (roads), $50,000 for recreation, $10,000 for social security and old age benefits, and $74,175 for multi-purpose items.

Morgan said the report is only tentative and that the public is invited to comment (See COUNTY, Page 2A)

Sacrifices Needed To Solve Problems, Mahon Says Here

By O.G. NIEMAN

Congressman George Mahon, visiting around his 18-county region during the Memorial Day recess, was in Hereford Monday afternoon and talked informally with news representatives during his brief stay.

Rep. Mahon spoke at a Memorial Day ceremony in Plainview Monday morning, and made appearances in Farwell, Friona and Bovina Tuesday. He spent the night in Hereford Monday.

In the brief salute to area servicemen at Plainview, the influential chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, echoed President Ford's Memorial Day message which called for continued military strength. Mahon maintained that none of the estimated 50,000 war casualties died in vain despite the fall of an American-backed government in Vietnam.

"The confidence of Americans has been dampened by inflation and by the Vietnam situation," commented Mahon.

"Our economic problems are complex and are not easy to solve, but we must remember that the problems are man-made and we should have the capacity to deal with them.

"We won't get out of our present situation without some sacrifices on everyone's part." Mahon added that he believes most Congressmen have heard the message from their constituents and have been involved in a "self analysis" of how they can best serve the nation.

"Basically, we are still the greatest and most powerful nation in the world...we've got to pull ourselves up by our boot straps."

The Lubbock lawmaker, who has been the Congressman for Deaf Smith County since it was added to the 19th District in 1972, remarked that it was good "to come back home and visit around my district."

He said he was surprised to see how far along some of the crops had progressed. Mahon encourages people in his district to contact him on national issues which concern them, or on any problems they may have with the federal government.

Mahon's chief interests since he has been in Congress have been in the fields of agriculture and national defense. He has been a member of the U.S. House of Representatives since his election in November, 1934. The 19th Congressional District now includes Andrews, Bally, Castro, Cochran, Dawson, Deaf Smith, Ector, Gaines, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Martin, Midland, Parmer Terry and Yoakum counties.

Mahon has been chairman of the House Appropriations Committee since 1964. The largest committee in Congress, consisting of 55 members, it screens requests for funds for the operation of the federal government. The chairmanship of the committee is one of the most important posts in government, and Mahon has been an outspoken advocate of economy and pay-as-you-go policies throughout his House tenure.

He is author of a pending bill to provide additional funds for Farmers Home Administration operating loans, and is confident the measure will be approved.

Mahon has expressed grave concern over the livestock situation. He is supporting the legislation which passed the House recently amending the Emergency Livestock Credit Act of 1974.

The Congressman was also active in the successful effort to secure a change in the regulations of the FHA and the Small Business Administration to increase the availability of credit to feedlots. FmHA officials have agreed to include cattle-feeding operations in their Rural Development Program.

Mahon joined in the effort to override the President's veto of the Emergency Agriculture Act, feeling that passage of the legislation would have provided some stability into ag markets while encouraging increased production to aid both consumers and our national balance of trade.

Rain, Award Surprise Commencement Crowd

Commencement exercises for 230 Hereford High School seniors was conducted at La Plata Gym Tuesday night, with three surprises climaxing the graduation program.

The faculty named valedictorian Shyla

Thomas as recipient of the "outstanding senior" award, and secretary Rob Lomas announced the class gift would be money to repair "Lampighter," the school mascot. The Whiteface steer head is mounted in the halls of HHS.

The third surprise was the site of the graduation ceremonies. Officials decided at the last moment to move the commencement exercises from Whiteface Stadium to the protective gymnasium across the street. Parents and friends complained about the packed, warm gym until the rain began to pour just as graduates lined up to receive their diplomas.

Both Shyla Thomas and Gary Landers, in their valedictory and salutatory addresses, reminded their classmates to "be thankful" at this great moment in their lives "for parents, teachers and friends." Miss Thomas told seniors: "There's a new world waiting for us...and our teachers have prepared us not only to be scholars but to be citizens."

Jim Conkwright, president of the school board, presented the diplomas. Principal Jerry Don George, in his presentation of the outstanding senior, pointed out that Conkwright himself was recipient of the award 15 years ago. Supt. Roy Hartman presented the class to Conkwright before diplomas were conferred.

The Hereford High School Concert Band played the traditional processional and recessional marches. Graduating members of the band joined the concert group during the program to play "Finale, from Symphony in G Minor." The concert band was under direction of Danny Vaughn. Senior class president Doug Charest voiced the invocation and Miss Thomas gave the benediction.

The coveted "outstanding senior" award has been an annual presentation for many years at Hereford High, and the student is selected by a vote of the faculty. Miss Thomas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Thomas. Her brother, David, was recipient of the award three years ago and was also valedictorian of his class.

Shyla, vice president of the senior class, was a member of the National Honor Society, the Drill Team (serving as captain and lieutenant), Leo Club, Future Teachers of America, Tri-Hi-Y, student council, and had a role in a school play, "The Wizard of Oz."

She was selected as Most Intellectual, a student of the six weeks, was a basketball queen attendant, and listed in Who's Who. She was cited for her work and involvement in senior class projects. Shyla plans to attend the University of Texas.

Surprise Award

Shyla Thomas, valedictorian, receives the most outstanding senior award from HHS principal Jerry Don George at commencement exercises

Tuesday night. Seated behind Miss Thomas are Jim Conkwright, school board president, and salutatorian Gary Landers.

If at first you don't succeed, you'll get a lot of unsolicited advice.

COMMENCEMENT exercises, moved indoors because of the weather, went off without a hitch Tuesday night, but there was mass confusion and a lot of wet and muddy feet afterwards. The parking situation was bad enough before the rains came, but those who parked across the street from La Plata Gym on the dirt parking areas really had a problem when they returned to their cars.

Many people had to wade back to their cars, and the muddy parking area was dangerous to navigate with all the traffic. School officials missed a good bet by not having a bond election Tuesday night for paving the parking areas. It would have passed by a landslide!

AS THE TEXAS Legislature moves toward its June 2 deadline for adjournment, Gov. Briscoe is sticking with his vow of no new taxes and no special session this year. However, history could be in the making for a special session.

For the first time in history, the House is facing impeachment proceedings and this is the only exception for having a special session without the governor calling for one. A special committee is studying the possibility of recommending impeachment articles against District Court Judge O.P. Carrillo of Duval County.

If the study is not completed by the mandatory adjournment date of June 2, the House is automatically called back into session. Should the committee recommend—and the House adopt—articles of impeachment against the Duval judge, the House then could adjourn but

Modern Man Telephones for Time, Temperature

Checking Time and Temperature...

Checking the "time and temperature machine" which gives the exact time, the temperature, business messages and civic announcements when the correct number is dialed, is Chris Castaneda, a repair clerk in the telephone office.

By JOE LACKEY
Brand Staff Writer

Early settlers of Deaf Smith County who wondered what time it was, or what the temperature was, probably had to gauge the temperature from the feel of the hot sun on the back of their neck, and had to guess the time by staring up at the sun.

But the modern resident of Hereford expects more sophistication, and gets it from the telephone time and temperature service offered by Southwestern Bell through the sponsorship of the Hereford State Bank.

Dialing 364-5100 results in a recorded message relating the time and temperature, and presenting business and civic announcements.

THE SERVICE is offered to the community by the Hereford State Bank. "This public service benefits both the community and is excellent advertising for our bank," said Mrs. Irene McKinster, a receptionist at the Hereford State Bank.

The service was started on November 14, 1969, according to Lee Donaway, wire chief of the local office of Southwestern Bell. The idea for the service originated at the bank.

Contrary to popular belief locally, the voice which gives the time and the temperature and related message is the voice of a professional announcer, and is recorded.

"Many people think it's my voice, but it's not," Mrs. McKinster laughingly stated.

Donaway explained that the "Time and temperature machine" contains a different recording for each degree of temperature, from -40 to 120 degrees, Fahrenheit.

The machine, located in the local Southwestern Bell office, works something like a record player, he explained. The machine is connected to a monitor on top of the Southwestern Bell building, which determines the accurate temperature.

THE TELEPHONE OFFICE dials the Naval Observatory at least once each day to check on the official time. The office keeps the machine within thirty seconds of the correct time.

Audichron Corp. of Atlanta Georgia owns the time and temperature machine, which is rented for local use by the Hereford State Bank. The bank pays a fee each month to the telephone company for use of the lines involved in the service.

The five lines connected to the service are kept busy, especially during severe weather, during periods when the weather changes, and during August and September when school is getting started, according to Mrs. McKinster.

From January through April of 1975, a total of 475,240 calls were made from local residents for the time and temperature. This amounts to an average of 3,960 calls per day, 165 per hour, and three per minute.

"I THINK IT'S AMAZING that the service is used this much, considering our population," said Mrs. McKinster.

Donaway said that a light on the machine lights up when all five time and temperature lines are busy. He said that this light stays on for long periods of time during inclement weather, or during periods just before local youngsters go to school.

Since there are five lines connected to the service, the machine can handle up to five calls at a time, Donaway said.

The messages which are presented by the service are of considerable variety. They include commercials for the bank, and civic messages, such as those promoting the Museum.

Donaway said that the machine can be placed on automatic, and that it will then change messages automatically every hour.

Each time change results in a voice change, he said.

If all five lines are busy, a busy signal will result. The person dialing in this case should hang up, and dial back in a short time to receive the time and temperature.

Mrs. McKinster said that new commercials are sent to Atlanta, Georgia to be recorded.

Each time the service is dialed, the machine records the occurrence. This makes possible the developing of a figure relating to total calls per month to the service.

The Hereford State Bank invites all local residents to take advantage of the time and temperature community service.

Airport Needs Topic of Talks

Airport development needs of the general area will be discussed at a Texas Airport System joint planning conference, to be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Deaf Smith County Library here.

Participating in the meeting will be representatives of the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, city and county elected officials, airport board members, airport managers and other citizens.

Airport development needs of Castro, Deaf Smith, Oldham, Farmer and Swisher Counties will be discussed.

All area citizens with an interest in air transportation and airport development are invited to attend.

The Texas Airport System Plan is being developed for Texas and the Federal Aviation Administration by the Texas Aeronautics Commission. Technical assistance is provided by the Texas Transportation Institute of Texas A&M University.

Major activities of the Plan include inventory of existing aviation facilities, forecasting of aviation demand, comparison of present capacity with forecast needs, evaluation of alternative airport systems, developing schedules of required improvements, and identification of alternatives for financing system growth.

Benefits of air transportation to a community are not always well understood. General aviation airports will be examined at the conference in relation to community and county development goals.

No Malpractice Insurance Crisis To Hit This Area

The board of directors of the Deaf Smith General Hospital met in rather routine session Tuesday morning as they passed a new medical audit program for doctors at the hospital, discussed the malpractice insurance crisis facing the nation and heard a report on operating statistics for April.

Dr. A.T. Mims, medical Staff representative, reviewed the audit program, which implements new requirements of the Medicaid and Medicare programs. It is an ongoing formalized program to monitor doctors.

Ron Welty, hospital administrator, told the board that the operations for April were normal including both admissions and expenses.

Welty also said that the malpractice insurance problems brought up at an earlier meeting of the board were not going to affect this area and the rest of Texas as they have in other parts of the nation. "It appears there is not going to be a crisis in Texas," he explained.

Doctors who perform obstetrics at the hospital had considered stopping drop-in deliveries because of the insurance premium costs. However, further investigation by the hospital and the doctors indicated it was not so serious especially with new state and national legislation being debated.

Also the board members were given new information in the form of record tapes on new trends affecting the medical field. It was for orienting the board on new regulations facing medicine.

Commerce Study Notes Family Changes

(Sp.)—There has been a marked change in the makeup of Deaf Smith County families in the last few years.

The proportion of husband-wife families has dropped, with the result that more households are now headed by women.

That has been the trend, also, in most other sections of the country. A recent Commerce Department study indicates that the number of families headed by women has been rising rapidly, especially since 1970.

At that time there were 5.6 million such families in the United States. The number has increased by more than 1 million since then.

In Deaf Smith County, in 1970, there were 246 families that were led by women, the census count showed. That represented 5.5 percent of the total.

It is estimated that this figure has grown to approximately 6.3 percent at the present time, based upon a national sampling survey conducted by the Commerce Department.

Throughout the nation as a whole, the average is 12.4 percent. It is somewhat lower than that for the white population but considerably higher among black people.

The rapid change in household composition is attributed, to a large degree, to the rising rate of family dissolutions, via divorce or separation.

Since 1970, the number of women who have become heads of families because of such breakups has increased at the rate of 270,000 a year. Between 1960 and 1970, in contrast, the increase was only a third that fast, 91,000 a year.

The other major situation in which women have had to take charge was created by the death of their husbands.

Whichever it was that led to their present status, these women had thrust upon them the responsibility of running the home, making a living and, if there were children, raising them alone.

Nationally, it is brought, 1 out of every 7 American children under the age of 18 are being raised solely by their mothers. This compares with 1 out of 12 in 1960.

O the families in Deaf Smith County that are headed by women, the latest official tabulation shows that 159 of them have children under 18 and that 51 of that number have children under 6.

That Vacation

This is the time of year to take a vacation. It can be as tiring as any event of the year—and as dangerous.

The energy crunch, thankfully, has lessened the death toll on our highways but in many states the June and July fatalities begin to rise again.

Aside from the danger of accidents, congestion, hot weather, rushing to and from holiday choices can wear out a family quickly—and make mom and dad happy summer comes but once a year.

Summer can be great fun—if one can escape the heat. And escaping it might mean planning this year to avoid the rush, long trips, fast schedules, congested highways, cities, and activities in the middle of the day.

Light Moisture Received Here

A line of thundershowers stretching eastward from Hereford deposited small amounts of moisture within the city and surrounding areas Tuesday night.

KPAN radio recorded .35 inches of rainfall for the city. Reports from Greenwood and Avenue C listed .60 and .40 inches respectively.

The J.E. McCabe farm located east of Dawn received .49 inches.

Only light rain fell to the south of the city with Easter Grain reporting .10 inches.

Bruce Coleman reported that the Walcott community failed to receive any moisture in Tuesday's thunderstorms.

Summer School Program To Begin Here Monday

The first session of summer school will get underway at Hereford High School Monday morning at 7:45.

Although pre-registration for the summer classes has already been held, students will actually enroll in the classes when they appear Monday.

The first summer school term will run from Monday through Jun 17. The second session is set for June 18 through July 2.

and their session will be held July 22.

A tuition fee of $20 will be charged at the beginning of each summer session.

Classes scheduled for the summer include Drivers Education, American and world history, government, free enterprise and health.

Classes will run from 7:45 a.m. to noon each day during the summer term.

Hereford Man Charged In Sunday Shooting Incident

Abel Zepeda, 24, of 618 Blevins, remained in Potter County jail at presstime Wednesday in lieu of $50,000 bond on charges of murder in connection with the shooting of an Amarillo man at a lounge in that city about 1:10 a.m. Sunday.

Charges against Zepeda's brother, David, 18, also of Hereford, were dropped Tuesday during proceedings in Justice of the Peace Roy E. Byrd's court.

The Zepeda brothers were arrested by Hereford police about 6:30 Sunday morning following a shooting incident at the Casa Del Ray Lounge in Amarillo.

Eliasio Olivarez III, 19, of Amarillo was killed in an altercation at the lounge and Francisco Galindo, 31, suffered a bullet wound to the chest and a stab wound to the abdomen. He remained in serious condition at Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo at presstime.

According to police reports, Olivarez and Galindo were sitting with two women in a booth at the lounge and became involved in a scuffle with two other men when getting up to dance.

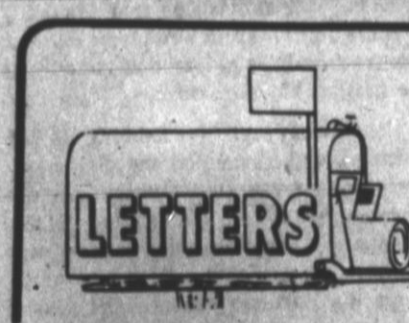

Two spent .25 caliber casings were found on the floor of the lounge by investigating officers.

Hereford police reported that an individual brought a pistol to the police station Sunday and told officers that he had shot and killed Galindo and Olivarez.

The Hereford men were taken to Amarillo by Potter County sheriff's deputies and an Amarillo Police Department homicide detective Sunday afternoon.

Roy Byrd, Potter County justice of the peace has ordered an autopsy in Olivarez's death.

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are two letters from readers concerning a letter to the editor in Sunday's Brand. We join the letter writer in making a retraction of a statement which referred to the skating rink. Any erroneous reflection on the standing or reputation of the Play House Skating Rink was not intended. In fact, the Hereford Brand held a skating party for its carriers at the rink last week and we were very happy with the event.

Dear Editor: I would like to make a public apology to the Hewitt brothers, who own the roller rink.

I did not mean to intimate that they have anything to do with, or condone, what takes place outside their rink or any public place.

They have the same goal as I—a place of entertainment for not only our teenagers, but our sub-teens, too.

Helen Owens

Dear Editor:

We are deeply concerned and offended by a portion of the letter to the editor, signed by Helen Owens, which appeared in Sunday's paper. As owners and operators of the Play House Skating Rink, we want to protest being referred to as a public place which some parents have declared as off limits to their children.

We believe we have earned a good reputation during the 16 years we have operated our skating rink. Last year we had 155 group parties at the rink, and we expect to have larger number this year. We have had 20 parties this month.

These parties are usually made up of school classes, church groups, birthday groups, and such things as family get-togethers. We have some of the finest youth in the community as regular customers. We operate the rink under strict supervision and do not allow rowdiness.

We now have second generation customers—that is, we have people who came here as youngsters and are now bringing their children. We think that speaks well of our reputation. Skating provides a healthy recreation, helping youngsters get exercise and gain skills and poise. Our accident rate has been very low at this rink. Our doors are always open for parents to come in and observe our supervision of the activities.

In conclusion, we feel the undesired reference to the skating rink was unfair and unjust, and we wish to request a retraction of the statement.

the Senate would have to stay in session to try the case.

Most legislators are eagerly looking forward to that June 2 date. They've been going full blast for several months and it shows. If the session closes, most of the 4,000-odd bills will die either in committee or on the uncalled calendar. It's a fate that might make a lot of taxpayers very happy.

on the uses at the June 23 meeting of the commissioners court.

The gas situation of the county is relatively the reverse of that during the "energy crisis" since it is more available and the individual precincts aren't cornered in dealing with just one distributor. While no action was taken, the commissioners decided informally to seek supplies through distributors more accessible and convenient for them as opposed to all precincts getting supplied through the same source.

The county now gets gas through G.W. Simmons of the Ford Community, who was the only supplier able to help the county during the energy shortage.

Commissioner Bruce Coleman felt he could get better and faster service through other dealers as well as possibly better prices. The court now pays 42.8 cents for premium, 39.9 cents for diesel.

Commissioner Austin Rose Jr. concurred and commissioner James Voyles felt he was adequately serviced by Simmons.

THE AIR CONDITIONING request for the District Attorney's office was delayed until it could be dealt with by an air-conditioning professional. While the court was not enthusiastic about the request, they agreed it needed consideration for those possibly suffering from heat.

The extra phone for Benny Womble, county veterans service director, was denied because it was felt one satisfied his needs. However, it was agreed that his business number would be listed as the Veterans Service Office in the next directory.

The kitchen for the library was approved to facilitate needs of clubs meeting in the library. The county will pay the plumbing cost and appliances will be funded through civic club resources. The estimated total cost is $2,550 according to the only bidder Carl McCaslin Lumber Co.

Also the commissioners approved to pay five per cent for the cost installing two railroad crossing signals. The total cost is $66,000 with the state paying 90 per cent and the railroad paying five per cent.

The crossings are at the Caviness Packing and Armour Foods cross overs west of town.

In other action, the commissioners court:

—Approved the use of the Bull Barn for a Mexican Fiesta on Sept. 12 and 13.

—Heard a report from Librarian Gwen London on the participation in the Panhandle Area Library System.

—Discussed a meeting of the Aeronautics Commission at 10 a.m. Friday in the County Library. It is for the development of a plan on the airport needs of the Texas Panhandle.

Retirement Dangers and Ironies

By Bernard E. Nash

Although I am strongly opposed to mandatory retirement, I must confess that I have mixed emotions about the Supreme Court's recent decision upholding the government's policy of forcibly retiring federal employees at age 70. While I cannot fault the decision on narrow legal grounds, neither can I overlook the ironies to be found in it.

The policy had been challenged on age discrimination grounds by Martin O. Weisbrod, a Department of Health, Education and Welfare lawyer, who had been retired at 70—but who is still working at his old job, thanks to another federal policy permitting some employees to continue working beyond retirement age. Still, because he is obviously a man of principle, Mr. Weisbrod used to overturn the retirement rule.

After being dismissed by a lower federal court, Mr. Weisbrod's case was appealed to the Supreme Court, which—with Justices William O. Douglas and Thurgood Marshall not participating due to illness, and only Justice Harry A. Blackmun voting to review the matter—turned the challenge down.

On legal grounds, there is little doubt that the Supreme Court's decision is correct, but it is ironic—and one cannot help being aware—that the justices themselves have life-time tenure and are thus personally unaffected by any retirement policy. In a way, this is good for it contributes to the unbiased nature of their decisions, but many people have been wondering nonetheless how the justices would have reacted if they themselves had not been exempt from the effects of their ruling. It's the kind of question that makes for great midnight musing and prolonged Monday morning quarterbacking.

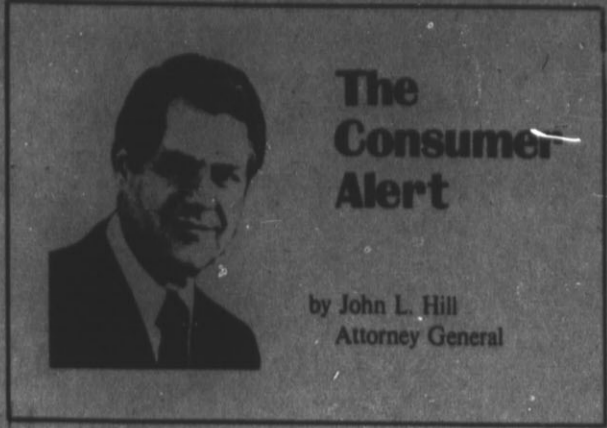

At the same time as the Supreme Court decision was being handed down, the financial future of retirees was being debated in other parts of the capitol—and increasingly across the country—as serious concern continues to intensify about the stability of our nation's Social Security system.

For the moment, let's forget about how many billions of dollars are or aren't on reserve in the Social Security trust fund, and concentrate instead on how the system transfers funds from when they were active, contributed to the exchange. Presumably, when today's active workers retire, tomorrow's workers will contribute to their support.

The catch is that, if present trends continue, there are going to be considerably more retirees in the future. As recently as 1955, there were seven active workers for each person collecting benefits. By 1960, there were four and, as of this past summer, only three.

Of course, with unemployment having risen so dramatically in recent months, it is possible that—since unemployed workers do not pay Social Security taxes—the ratio of contributing workers to retirees may already be somewhat lower. In any event, it has been estimated that, by shortly after the year 2000, the ratio will be reduced to no more than two-to-one,

Attorney General

AUSTIN—As summer approaches, so does the traditional job-hunting time for many thousands of high school and college students.

With so many other students on the job-hunting trail, the competition has always been stiff. This year, though, it may be even more difficult, since students may be competing with older, more skilled unemployed workers.

Our Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division lawyers caution students who need to work but cannot find jobs to be wary of possible deceptive trade practices in the employment industry. In their anxiousness to find a job, students could be easy prey for unscrupulous businessmen.

Some classified newspaper advertisements aim at such students with offers such as this: "Students! Want to make more money than you thought possible? Call us for a fantastic summer job—but hurry! Only six positions left!"

If a student answers the ad, he or she may find out that the "fantastic" job opportunity consists of a chance to buy a supply of a product and sell it door to door. The student's salary is to be whatever amount is taken in from daily sales—often nothing at all.

Or the job may be to sell an item by telephone, with the salary to be a commission on whatever orders are placed.

So be wary if you are a job-hunting student. Our Consumer Protection attorneys say that you may be your own best salesman if you analyze your capabilities and assess the job market carefully. If you haven't worked before, some of your hobbies could serve as experience. If you like sports or animals, can repair your own bicycle or car, or enjoy being with younger children, you might turn these into jobs. You could work in a recreational center, for a veterinarian or pet store, help out in

TEXAS PARKS AND WILDLIFE DEPT.

The Texas Attorney General recently approved a cooperative program between the Parks & Wildlife and Texas schools with the approval of the Texas Education Agency.

School superintendents are authorized to enter into mutual agreements with the P & W to conduct hunter safety instruction as part of the approved curriculum.

ment hunter safety training films.

This hunter safety program will provide the student with a thorough knowledge of firearms handling, safety and cleaning. Also an in-depth study of survival, first aid, conservation and hunting ethics would be included.

Over 100 districts across the state have expressed an interest in making hunter safety instruction a part of their classroom.

Students and parents interested in this program should contact their school superintendent now.

"The P & W department has trained over 16,000 students since the safety program began in 1972," T.D. Carroll, hunter safety coordinator said today.

"We hope to top the 50,000 mark in 1976," he said. "The 1,200 volunteer instructors in Texas have been responsible for strides made in hunter safety education in the last three years."

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Muhammad Ali didn't win any new prestige with his turn-about defeat of Ron Lyle May 18th, but he proved once again he can still extricate himself from threatened disaster with a devastating display of power and accuracy.

Lyle fought a better fight than anyone thought he would. Had he not run out of gas, he might have won on points. That would have been the sensation of the boxing world but no doubt All would have obtained his revenge, in time.

Mays Aids Raiders In SWC Track Competition

Luther Mays, former Hereford High School cinderman and a member of the Texas Tech track team helped the Red Raiders score an unprecedented 41 points in the Southwest Conference Track Meet in Lubbock over the weekend.

He went to Tech on a basketball-track scholarship and dropped basketball following his freshman year.

"I had the third fastest qualifying time in the conference Friday," Mays commented. "After that, I felt like I was halfway there, I just kept hoping I could turn in the same kind of performance on Saturday," he added.

The 41 points compiled by the Raiders in the weekend meet was the most Texas Tech has ever scored in the Southwest Conference meet. The previous high scored by the Raiders was 30, scored in 1967.

Mays, son of Rev. and Mrs. L.V. Mays of 432 Barrett finished sixth in the 880 Saturday and also ran the second leg on the mile relay.

Mays qualified in the 880 Friday in a time of 1:52.5, and finished in 1:51.7 Saturday, his personal best time.

He also ran a 47.9 leg in the mile with the team turning in a 3:12 flat performance to best Texas Tech's school record by four-tenths of a second.

Mays ran a 1:53.9 to finish fourth in AAAA competition in the 880 at the state track meet in Austin in 1973.

Girl Wrestlers To Appear Saturday

The Hereford Lions Club offers a double main event at the Bull Barn Saturday in a wrestling program that features the return of girl wrestlers to Hereford.

In a preliminary match Bobby Backlund will meet Vic Nichols. Backlund is a former NCAA wrestling champion who was All-American in wrestling four times, and football once.

Nick Kozak, the "Burt Reynolds" of wrestling, returns to clash with Don "Body Beautiful" Fargo, in one main event. Fargo, from the Bronx in New York City, has expressed a strong dislike for Texas cowboys and nearly everyone else in the Panhandle.

Undefeated in track and field events in high school in his native Minnesota, he is a noted weight lifter. Nichols was formerly with the team known as the "Scuffin' Hillbillies."

In another main event newcomer Johnny Starr, a sensational mat man from music city Nashville, Tennessee, takes on Zodiac, a huge masked man from parts unknown. Starr has, in just one week, caught the fancy of local wrestling fans by his speed and constant drive in Wrestling action starts at 9:00 p.m. at the Bull Barn in the program sponsored by Hereford Lions Club.

Walleye Stocking Sets New Record

In January of this year, fisheries biologists at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department set a goal of stocking 22 million walleye fry and fingerlings in Texas lakes this spring.

Aid by May 19 walleye fish culturist Larry Campbell, project leader Joe Krahl and others met and surpassed that figure.

Last year, eight Texas reservoirs received some 20,130,000 fry or larvae, but of that figure some 17 million were from out-of-state sources.

This year Texas' Lake Meredith walleye yielded almost 17 million larvae. The big disappointment was the loss of 40 quarts of eggs obtained from San Angelo Reservoir walleye.

On May 19, Campbell and crew stocked the last of some 2,582,200 fingerlings in a total of 13 lakes. Already, 20,450,000 smaller fry have gone into 10 reservoirs for a total of 23,032,200 fish stocked.

A prolonged period of cold weather kept Iowa lakes frozen over and prevented gathering enough eggs to produce an estimated seven million larvae.

Campbell's report states that lakes receiving fry this year included Amistad, Texoma, Palestine, Cedar Creek, Eagle Mountain, Possum Kingdom, Towns, White River, Fort Phantom Hill and Tawakoni.

"In all," said Campbell, "we produced or procured a record total of 33,305,000 walleye larvae. The 23 million walleye larvae and fingerlings stocked in state lakes this year represent to my knowledge the largest stocking of any species of fish during a single year."

Lakes receiving fingerlings included Moss Creek, Buchanan, Abilene, Arlington, Stillhouse Hollow, Somerville, Grapevine, Bridgeport, Wright Patman, Rayburn, Waco, Town and Falcon.

Of the total production figure, 12,505,000 fry were placed in department hatchery rearing ponds to be raised to fingerling size. Some 20 per cent of the fish survived to be stocked as fingerlings.

PLANADA, CALIF. — A constable and a deputy sheriff arrested a 57-year-old man and charged him with drunken driving. He was riding a horse but was slowly slipping from the saddle. There were no charges against the horse.

According to Campbell's report: "It is readily apparent that in spite of several damaging circumstances the personnel participating in the Statewide Walleye Production Program have already broken several records for the state."

Greenbelt is furnishing some excellent fishing for other species such as largemouth bass, crappie and catfish right now." Warden Hunt continued.

Greenbelt reservoir, located in Donley county, is a watershed project lake covering over 1900 acres with some excellent habitat for freshwater fish. N. pike along with bass, catfish, crappie, sunfish, and walleye round out the variety of fishing available to the sportsfisherman. The walleye were stocked last year and should furnish catchable size fish in the near future.

Team To Help Red Wolves

endangered species that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service selected for priority treatment. If is a close relative of the gray wolf (Canis lupus) and the domestic dog (Canis familiaris).

extend its range eastward, resulting in some interbreeding between this animal and surviving red wolves. These initial crosses set in motion the massive hybridization which eventually spread throughout much of the former range of the red wolf.

Heading the team is Russell Clapper of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Other members are Pierce B. Uzzell, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and Joe L. Herring, Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission. Aims are to refine a detailed plan which has already been put into effect to save the red wolf.

Originally, it was found throughout the southeastern quarter of North America, from Central Texas to the Atlantic, and from the Gulf Coast north to the Ohio Valley and Pennsylvania. The species was largely eliminated because of its threat to domestic livestock. By the early 1970s, when it was legally protected, the red wolf was thought to survive only in a narrow strip of coastal marsh and prairie in extreme southeastern Louisiana.

The presence of the coyotes and hybrids led to belief that the red wolf still survived. Examination of many old and new specimens, however, enabled biologists to trace the decline of the true red wolf across the continent. By 1970, the only known pure red wolf population was found in Jefferson and eastern Chamber Counties, Texas, but now studies show this population is in immediate jeopardy.

in the early 1970s there were hopes that a remnant population of red wolves in extreme southeastern Texas could be stabilized and saved from interbreeding with the coyote. Specimens collected in 1974, however, indicated that the hybridization process now has spread even into this population.

Despite human persecution, the red wolf might have been able to survive in a few remote areas had it not been for the hybridization problem. The range of the red wolf had been largely separate from that of its western relative, the coyote (Canis latrans). As settlers advanced they inadvertently opened the way for the coyote to Federal biologists and field technicians in southeast Texas have for years been attempting to slow the tide of interbreeding by trapping coyotes and hybrids on and near red wolf range and live-capturing stock-killing red wolves in order to moderate ill feelings by local stockmen, as well as to establish a captive breeding pool. The recovery team will refine these operations.

The red wolf (Canis rufus), the only of its kind in the world (all other wolves are subspecies of the gray wolf), is one of six rules for submitting a possible record fish.

J.D. Bennett, Amarillo, caught a 17 lb. 5 oz. northern pike while he was bass fishing last week. This fish was verified by Gary Hunt, Texas game warden from Clarendon.

All fish submitted as state records must be documented as follows, preferably on the standard "Form for Submitting Record Fish" available from waterfront businessmen or the Texas Parks & Wildlife department; the weight, length, where caught, tackle used, other details of catch, name of angler, permanent address, home and business telephone, location of scales, Texas Department of Agriculture certification number and date, weightmaster's name and address and signature; names, signatures and address of two disinterested witnesses to weighing; notarized statement signed by the angler that the fish described was hooked, fought, and landed by him personally without assistance and that all information submitted is true and correct, and a clear photograph showing full length of fish in relation to angler or other recognizable object must be submitted.

"I am sure that this fish will be approved by the fish records committee in Austin," Hunt said today.

Send proposed record entries to Texas State Fish Record Committee, Texas Parks & Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Bldg., Austin, Tx. 78701.

Farm Bureau Seeking Extended Cotton Loans

Texas Farm Bureau President Carol Chaloupka has asked the U.S. Department of Agriculture to rescind the May 23 action on cotton loans and extend the loan period on the 1974 crop from 10 months to 18 months.

"This would allow our cotton producers to work that cotton onto the market and not be forced to compete with Commodity Credit Corporation inventories," Chaloupka said in a message to Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz.

Chaloupka made the request following Friday's announcement by USDA that the loan period would not be extended. Many outstanding loans on the 1974 cotton crop are coming due June 1, the state farm leader said.

"The USDA decision not to extend the loan period is a great disappointment to Texas cotton producers," the Farm Bureau leader said. "The cotton industry faces continued disaster if some measure of assistance is not provided."

Chaloupka said the loan program has given producers an alternative to taking great losses in the marketplace in recent months.

The Texas Farm Bureau first asked the CCC in March for an extension of the loan period, saying at the time that recovery of domestic and foreign markets for cotton was unlikely before

Teen Choir To Present Gospel Here

The New Dimension, teen choir from First Church of the Nazarene in Plainview, will present the gospel through music as they deliver "Life in Christ," Sunday, 6 p.m. at the First Church of the Nazarene, 16th and Blackfoot.

The public is invited to attend.

Do you know why the first big drops of a thundershower are usually so widely scattered? Have you ever noticed this at the beginning of a thundershower?

The first drops of a thundershower, falling from the summer cumulonimbus, must fall through a very strong updraft, which is always present in the leading edge of the thunderstorm. Most of the drops are caught up in this updraft and carried far aloft.

The bigger, heavier raindrops fall through the rising wind currents, but only the largest are heavy enough to maintain their downward fall against the wind. Therefore, standing on the ground, or pavement, you will notice that the first big drops are widely scattered and probably the largest raindrops which will fall during the thunderstorm.

Many of the others are carried upward to the freezing level and frozen into hail. Only occasionally does this hail survive in frozen form until it strikes the ground.

WASHINGTON NOTES

ABUSES IN MEDICARE

The Social Security Administration says the Medicare program was overcharged $27-million by doctors, hospitals and nursing homes over the last five years.

ON CONSUMER AGENCY

The Senate has voted to create an agency giving consumers a strong and independent voice inside the federal government.

WELFARE ERRORS

A Government report released recently shows that about half the errors in the nation's welfare caseload are caused by welfare agencies themselves.

Billion Dollar Constitution Possible For Texas Voters

Austin—Comptroller Bob Bullock expects the proposed new constitution to cost Texas taxpayers a billion dollars a year.

In fact, Bullock said, if some provisions such as water projects were carried out to the fullest the total costs could run more than $1 billion.

The cost report by Bullock's office was requested by five state senators.

The report showed that proposed revisions would directly cost state government $100 million a year in actual expenditures and would cost taxpayers another $53 million a year in new taxes on such intangible property as bank deposits and stocks.

Local taxpayers could get hit for an estimated $771 million a year under provisions calling for local property tax equalization and increased homestead exemptions for the elderly, according to the report.

"For the past several years everybody and his dog has been hollering for a new constitution. Now it's obvious everybody and his dog would have to pay for it," Bullock said.

Bullock said in a letter to the senators who asked for the study that "this evaluation of costs does not in any way reflect on the merits or demerits of any provision of the proposed document."

"But obviously we are talking about big money at all levels," Bullock said.

He listed some of the larger direct costs to the state as including annual legislative sessions $2.25 million, additional appeals courts and upgraded salaries $3.52 million.

textbook aid expansion $20 million, a new higher education fund $14.7 million, state employee retirement changes $34 million, a state building fund $6.33 million, and establishment of statewide tax appraisal standards $6.3 million.

The request for the cost study was made by Senators Peyton McKnight of Tyler, William T. Moore of Bryan, Walter Mengden of Houston, Ike Harris of Dallas and Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells.

Tech Prof Warns Of Tornado Danger

A tornado is a vicious wind that can not only snap a utility pole but also send it hurtling through the air as a missile.

One computer model of a tornado—based on post storm inspections made by Texas Tech University's Institute for Disaster Research—indicates that a utility pole could travel as fast as 100 miles an hour at the height of the wind.

Dr. James McDonald of Texas Tech University's civil engineering faculty discussed design criteria for both critical facilities—hospitals, fire stations, and structures containing chemicals or radioactive materials—and other buildings when he addressed participants in a short course on engineering for extreme winds and tornadoes.

One of the heavy missiles he described was a 500-pound air-conditioning unit blown off the top of one building and hurtled 150 feet before it smashed and became wedged into the wall of another building.

"Critical structures can be designed by engineers to withstand missiles of this type," McDonald said. Texas Tech's Institute for Disaster Research also has developed designs for in-residence shelters to protect life, and these can withstand the impact of any missiles which might reach the center of a home, he said.

The institute's studies of tornadoes throughout the United States and of the 1974 Darwin, Australia, cyclone do not indicate, McDonald said, that it is economically justifiable to protect homes and most buildings from all hazards of tornadoes.

The Abundant Life

Staying Power

By BOB WEAR

WE CANNOT DO EVERYTHING, and should not assume that we can; however, we can do some things, useful and important things. We can identify these things, and do what is worth the doing.

With all of this consideration, there is always one thing we can do; we can live, and this means that we can do all of the things essential to living. We probably will do more than the essentials, and thus add to life enrichment. Some people do give up, but this is a mistake.

Historically, we know that human beings have great capacity for the life element of persistence. This is, of course, persistence in what should be done; or what has to be done; as it concerns the living process. It is the quality of "not giving up"; "not surrendering"; "not accepting defeat". It may, and probably will, include the spirit of trying again; after we have suffered a setback; getting up and moving on, when we have been knocked down. This is the spirit that meets the challenge of life head-on. SUCH ACTION IS NOT FOOLHARDY, or, in any way, associated with recklessness; but will be controlled and guided by the greatest degree of wisdom available to us. We will go on with firm determination; in spite of opposition, difficulties, or discouragement. We will make the best possible preparation, and use good judgement; but we will not quit.

"Nothing in the world can take the place of persistence. Genius will not; unrewarded genius is almost a proverb. Talent will not; nothing is more common than unsuccessfulness men with talent. Education will not; the world is full of educated derelicts." - C. Coolidge.

"Staying power" will enable us to do our best, because it is the characteristic which equips us to make the most of our talents; and our education; and whatever else we may have to apply to the art of living. This is the "power" that gives to each person the life dimension that makes life worthwhile. WE MUST KEEP TRYING. Of course, some specific things are not possible for us. In most instances, by using good judgement; we will be able to identify the things which are out of our reach. If we should not make this wise evaluation, and realize that we are trying something we should never have tried; it will be necessary to admit that we have made an error, and wisely back off. This however, does not mean that we are short on "staying power".

When we do back off, it will be for the purpose of moving ahead along more practical and more reasonable lines.

We will do better in some endeavors than we do in others; and we will accomplish more some days than we do on other days; but, when we continue putting forth sensible efforts; we have not lost our "staying power".

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

Compromise was the dominant theme of the House-passed school finance bill May 16.

After three days of floor debate, the House approved and sent to the Senate a $775 million school finance bill which would start Texas on the road toward completely equalizing educational opportunities in public schools.

The bill provides $76 million for state equalization funding. If passed by the Senate, this money would be pumped into poor school districts which are unable to raise taxes equal to that of wealthier districts.

In an effort to further equalize education, the bill provides for a board to assess the full market value of property within each district. The acquisition of this data would enable the state to easily shift to the full market value tax system in 1977.

Matched with equalization funding is $47 million in aid for compensatory education aimed at disadvantaged children and $7.4 million for extending bilingual education to the kindergarten level.

School districts would also get a 75 per cent expense hike for their transportation systems and a 25 per cent increase in transportation allotment for students in isolated areas.

Pay hikes would be granted to teachers for each year of experience up to 10 years. A teacher with a bachelor of arts degree and 10 years experience would make a minimum of $12,150 a year under the bill.

Teacher salary increases were probably the most controversial item in the bill. Had more money been available for school financing, we could have better addressed the needs of teachers and poor school districts. However, it was our effort to try to agree upon a school finance package which could be certified by the State Comptroller and provide teachers with a decent living wage and our poor school districts with a chance to upgrade their schools.

Within a limited budget, I believe we have done that. We have particularly tried to provide for quality education without putting undue burden on the local taxpayer.

The local impact of this bill was far below most other proposals introduced to the House.

It is now up to the Senate and the Governor to accept, amend or reject the House bill. Whatever the final outcome, the House has voted out a vehicle which would move Texas in the direction of complete school finance reform. It may be several years before we completely address ourselves to all the inequities of school financing as first brought to our attention by the Rodriguez court case in 1971. Major reform of this kind cannot be accomplished in one session, but with the groundwork laid, future sessions can better solve the issue.

School financing is only one of the major issues the House has considered this session. As of May 19, 547 House and Senate bills had passed through the House. About 350 House and Senate bills passed last session. A brief outline of some of the more important bills which have passed the House are as follows:

1. Creation of a public utilities commission. This bill, passed by the House and pending Senate action, would create a 3-member commission with powers to regulate all gas, electric, telephone, water and sewerage companies. Cities would have the power to regulate utilities in their own jurisdictions if voters approved.

2. An article-by-article revision of the Texas constitution. A statewide referendum on a new constitution is set for Nov. 4. It has been signed by the Governor.

3. Creation of Health Maintenance Organizations. An HMO provides a full range of medical services, including check-ups and hospitalization, at a fixed fee similar to insurance premiums. It has been signed by the Governor.

4. Reapportionment of legislative districts into single-member districts. Passed by the House and Senate, this bill would only affect Tarrant, Jefferson, Galveston, McLennan, Travis, Nueces, Hidalgo, El Paso, Lubbock and Harris counties.

5. Establishment of a one-time presidential primary for the 1976 election. Under this new law just signed by the Governor, Texans will elect 75 per cent of their delegates to the 1976 convention. The other 25 per cent will be selected by state party conventions.

6. Establishment of only four days a year for all local and state elections. It has passed the House and is pending Senate action.

7. Creation of a State Elections Commission which would oversee campaigns and elections of state and local governments. The seven members of the commission would be appointed by the Governor. It has passed the House and is pending Senate action.

8. Provision for single, countywide, full market tax appraisals of property in the state. The bill has passed the House and is pending Senate action.

9. Increase in the maximum punishment for rape from 10 to 20 years. Other provisions of this bill make it easier to prosecute rapists by restricting questions about the victim's sex life and allowing prosecution for implied as well as expressed threats toward the victim. It has been signed by the Governor.

10. Creation of a Governor's Energy Advisory Council and Advisory Committee to study energy-related matters and how they affect Texas.

11. Prohibition of the sale of natural gas on state-owned lands out of the state except by permission of the Railroad Commission. It has been signed by the Governor.

12. House passage of an omnibus tax bill which would decrease state revenue generated by taxes by about $2.2 million.

13. Creation of pilot community-based correction centers for law offenders. Passed by the House, the pilot program would be run by the Texas Department of Corrections.

14. An $11.9 million general appropriations bill to finance state government operations the next two years passed the House. The Senate passed a bill about $200 million higher than the House version. A conference committee will adjust the differences.

The House has many more vital issues still to debate. Bills concerning oil spills, strip mining, the superport and medical malpractice insurance are still pending. Some of the bills we have passed will require conference committee action and final approval by the House before they can be sent to the Governor.

For only the third time in the history of this Legislature, the House is now considering whether to recommend articles of impeachment to the Senate to remove State District Judge O. P. Carrillo from office. An 11-member committee should recommend action in about one week.

I encourage your participation in the outcome of these vital issues. The last weeks of the session are always filled with major decisions. I, as well as your legislator, appreciate your views and encourage your involvement.

Bentsen Proposes New Foreign Policy to Face Future Challenge

EDITORS NOTE: Because the Senate will be in recess, you will not receive my weekly column next week.

Depending on how we respond to it, the end of the Vietnam war can mean either deliverance or disaster for our country.

I think it will be deliverance. Deliverance, from a decade where both domestic and foreign policy were over-shadowed by a divisive preoccupation with the conflict in Southeast Asia. Deliverance, from a foreign policy that needs changing to meet the changing needs of today's world.

We have both an opportunity and an obligation now to reassess our entire foreign policy—to look at the concepts on which it is based, the goals it attempts to achieve and the tactics used to meet those goals. We can bring it in line with the realities of today's world politics. We can make it more responsive to the complex demands to the global economy. We can and should redraw our relationship to the rest of the world in terms that the American people can understand and support.

With this as our goal, I have called on the President to launch the post-Vietnam era by convening a White House Conference on Foreign Policy. A broad spectrum of Americans would be invited to participate—representatives from Congress, from business and labor, from the academic community, from other concerned segments of our society. And we would work together in shaping a foreign policy that is truly bipartisan and truly national.

I have introduced a resolution in the Senate calling for such a conference to be held as soon as possible. We must act now to develop a foreign policy that a broad cross-section of the American people can fully understand and fully support. We must act now to leave behind certain premises that no longer fit and certain tactics that no longer work. We must get on with the job of forging a new approach to international politics.

Among the premises that no longer fit is the idea that the world is based on a balance of powers among the so-called "Big-Three": America, Russia and China.

I support detente with Russia and China, given adequate safeguards, but the "Big-Three" approach to foreign policy leaves out too much. In pursuing detente we must not neglect our relationship with the vast array of other nations that make up the world. We must not neglect our long-time allies such as Europe or Japan, or our hemispheric neighbors such as Latin America and Canada, or the many other less-developed but rapidly progressing countries of the world.

And as we work out new, healthier relationships with these nations, we should focus also on the new and complex economic issues that are beginning to dominate international affairs.

We can begin this approach right in our own backyard. Recently I advocated the development of a hemisphere energy strategy based on a cooperative relationship with Canada, Mexico, Venezuela and other Latin American countries. They need our trade, our scientific know-how, our business experience, our management expertise and our investments. We need their good will, their markets for our exports and the raw materials that our industrial economy demands, including oil.

This idea is gaining headway in the Administration and, in a recent study, the Defense Department concluded that such a strategy should be developed. The report conceded that America would be dependent on foreign energy sources for some time. And that being the case, it simply makes good sense for us to develop sources of supply that are more stable and closer to home than Arab oil.

Even as we develop new foreign policy approaches such as this, we need to work out a quick and effective means of translating these ideas into reality.

Shaping foreign policy is a duty currently scattered among the jurisdictions of some 26 Congressional Committees and at least 17 agencies in the Executive branch of government. There is little or no coordination among these various agencies and committees. Foreign economic policy is similarly disjointed, with a new Council on International Economic Policy so far unsuccessful in its attempts to coordinate this important policy.

And as we work to carry out needed foreign policy reforms, we must also strive to define in clear and understandable terms just what role America, as a nation of many different people, is going to play in the world.

We are not slipping into the twilight zone of one-time great leaders. We are not going to become a passive on-looker, watching the new realities of the world develop and facing its challenges with a foreign policy that is no longer viable.

We still represent the last and best hope for world leadership. But we are going to have to work to make that hope reality.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

The Democrats N.Y. or L.A.?
Madison Square-Car Sales-

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Most Democrats have assumed Los Angeles—with its new civic center—would be the site of next July's Democratic National Convention.

However, New York City is pushing a strong bid, hoping Democrats will agree to meet in Madison Square Garden. At first glance, the much smaller Garden, with limited floor space, would appear to have little chance.

But city fathers have agreed to put up a million dollars or more to restructure the Garden for the convention—hopefully two conventions.

Architects are already at work on this project and party boss Robert Strauss was recently enticed to visit New York to look over the Garden. Strauss says "it's do-able." Thus the campaign is on.

While there seems little chance Republicans would meet in the Garden, even if only one party convenes there, it would mean a considerable boost for local business.

Mayor Abraham Beame thinks the city would benefit far in excess of the million dollar cost to restructure the Garden. The biggest handicap remains the Garden's 26,000 square feet, in the main area, compared to the Los Angeles civic centers 210,000!

April car sales were highly disappointing to Detroit—the 517,837 total was the lowest April figure in 14 years. For this reason May sales will be closely watched by the industry and Washington—as an indication whether the recession has bottomed out, as the optimists believe.

The real concern is the still rising percentage of foreign-built sales, which indicates U.S. producers have hiked prices too sharply in the past year.

EMPLOYEES ON THE HILL

The House Civil Service Committee has sent to the floor a bill that would restrict the number of employees the White House can have and how much the President can pay them.

POOL AT WHITE HOUSE

President Ford has ordered construction of a swimming pool at the edge of the White House South Lawn near the Oval Office. The heated pool, roughly 20 by 50, is being built with voluntary contributions.

Give the other man credit for some sincerity of purpose and you might be able to understand him better.

Tech Workshop Studies Military Base Closings

Planning for the future and preparing for possible economic crises will be the theme of a workshop for area local government leaders Friday at Texas Tech University.

The half-day workshop will deal with "Planning for Community Adjustment to the Possibility of Military Base Closings or Reduced Base Employment."

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. in the Continuing Education Building (Bldg. X-15, across from the Municipal Auditorium). Workshop sessions will begin at 9:15 a.m.

"Military bases are important to the economies of many communities in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico," said Dr. James Clotfelter, associate professor of political science and director of the Center for Public Service at Texas Tech, coordinator of the Workshop.

"Dealing with military base closings or reductions in base employment is not pleasant," Clotfelter said. "But by looking realistically at the likelihood, nationwide, of future base closings or reductions in size, community leaders can be ahead by planning ways to cope with what might happen."

The workshop will include practical discussions of how communities can adapt to base closings or reductions, how communities can plan ahead to make use of base facilities, and what steps to take to deal with economic distress, according to Clotfelter.

Workshop sessions include a discussion of "Dependence on Defense Spending—Potential Problems," led by Clotfelter; "The Base is Closed—What Do You Do?" a case study of Amarillo, Tex., by F.V. Wallace, Amarillo Area Foundation; and "The Base is Closed—What Do You Do?" a case study of Roswell, N.Mex., by R.M. Starkey, executive vice president, Roswell Chamber of Development and Commerce.

"Both Wallace and Starkey can provide realistic discussion of experiences in their respective communities which have dealt with military base closings in recent years," Clotfelter said.

The workshop is one of a series conducted by the Texas Tech Division of Continuing Education in cooperation with the South Plains Association of Governments.

The next workshop in the series will be June 13 at 1:30 p.m. on "Changing Legal Responsibilities for Local Health Departments and Health Officers in Texas." For Workshop information, call the Division of Continuing Education at Texas Tech at (806) 742-1176.

McDonald's Seeking Top High School Musicians

McNamara never had it so good. For that matter, neither did John Phillip Sousa. They might have had 76 trombones, but they didn't have 102 of the finest high school musicians in the country.

That's what McDonald's All-American High School Band can boast and the search is on for these 102 virtuosos. With the opening of the 1975 McDonald's All-American High School Band competition, the annual search for this country's outstanding high school musicians is underway. Sponsored annually by McDonald's restaurants, the 1975 All-American High School Band is marking its ninth anniversary.

Directed by Paul Lavelle, internationally renowned music director, the Band will play and march in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City and in the Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day in Pasadena, California. Each appearance will be broadcast on the NBC-TV and CBS-TV networks.

Lavelle believes the purpose of the Band is to single out America's outstanding high school musicians and honor them in much the same way all-star teams salute athletes.

Calling band-playing "the greatest sport of them all," Lavelle said, "high school musicians deserve recognition just as much as athletes. Young people make the McDonald's All-American High School Band in the same way athletes make All-American teams—on performance."

"The band whose pants don't match"—so called because the musicians wear their own high school band uniforms topped with special All-American Band overlays and caps—also perform in an outdoor concert at famed Rockefeller Center in New York and parade through Disneyland during the California trip.

Each high school band director in the United States—more than 30,000—has been invited to submit nominations of his best two musicians. Lavelle and members of the All-American Band Advisory Board will make the final selections. The board includes Dr. William Foster, Director of Bands, Florida A&M University; George A. Christopher, New York State Music Association; and other distinguished band directors.

Task Force To Seek Import Limits

AUSTIN--A 13-man Livestock and Dairy Industry Task Force pushing for a federal meat import agreement to ease economic declines will take its proposals to Washington this month.

According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, task force coordinator, the group is composed of cattle and dairy leaders and heads of major farm groups across the state. White has urged all other state departments of agriculture to form groups and join Texas at the April meeting.

"The government has been up to its hips in the beef business for years," White stated. "We've got to be realistic about the resurgence of the federal government into the livelihood of cattlemen."

White cited excessive imports of meat into the U.S. market as the major stumbling block to fast movement of beef in the market. "It has been suggested that a limit of 500 to 750 million pounds of imports might be tolerable," he said.

The commissioner sees "no real relief in sight from government action against damaging imports. The 30 million-pound reduction proposed for this year is a drop of only two and a half percent, about 1.1 billion pounds before controls will even be considered."

"The government's position is that imports must be maintained so that friendly relations will continue. However, 75-80 percent of our imported beef is coming from Australia, a nation with whom we have no reciprocal trade agreement at this time."

MBPXL Reports Smaller Sales

David J. La Fleur, President, announced today that MBPXL Corporation had sales of $314,301,000 and profits of $1,936,287 in the half-year ended April 26, 1975. The profits are equal to $1.08 per share.

The sales were smaller than the $399,473,000 of the first half of the preceding year for the combined results of the pooled business of Missouri Beef Packers, Inc. and Kansas Beef Industries, Inc. The lower dollar sales in 1975 were primarily caused by lower prices through February for beef products, but were also due to lower physical volume and an increased amount of inter-company transfers.

A comparison of profits between 1974 and 1975 shows that the first quarter profits were higher in 1974 and the second quarter profits were higher in 1975. The first quarter of 1974 was an extremely profitable period for beef packers because it included the period after the Federal Government's efforts to impose ceiling prices on beef products. The resulting withholding of live cattle by feeders provided a unique combination of pent-up demand and pent-up supply.

OUTDOOR GARDEN FUN

While you're in the garden checking out the buds and other new growth, consider some of these fun ideas for this season's garden.

How about nasturtium? Did you know you can eat them? The leaves have a peppery taste and can be used much as one uses watercress. Cut a few off, rinse them well in cold water and try them in salads and sandwiches. Actually, you can make a nasturtium salad using flowers and leaves whole - with a dressing of freshly squeezed lemon juice and a little oil, plus your favorite salad seasonings. And, the flowers and leaves together in a salad bowl look lovely and make an exotic conversation piece for an outdoor summer luncheon. Also, unripened seed pods, picked when green and chubby, can be pickled in vinegar and enjoyed as one would capers. The taste is only slightly and delightfully different from that of the caper.

If you have a cat whom you adore and want to let him know, plant a little catnip as a border. Even if you don't have a feline friend, catnip is a lovely low-spreading border plant which bears perfumed flowers of a delicate lavender-blue. Cats go nutty rolling around in it, but the plants don't seem to suffer at all from this treatment.

Now, almost everyone with any sense and any space outdoors is growing vegetables this year, but you know you really don't have to hide your pea patch in the backyard. Growing vegetables themselves are often attractive and you can dress up your bed by adding flowers. Marigold rows between rows of potatoes look great and keep away both insects and rodents. Iceland poppies are lovely growing among the lettuce.

Registration Friday For Youth Program

Enrollment for classes in the Summer Youth Program, which will begin June 2, will be conducted from 9:30 a.m.-12 noon and 1-3 p.m. tomorrow at Community Center.

Art, crafts, needlework, volleyball and a funtime are among the offerings in the SYP which is sponsored annually by the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division. This year's director is Mrs. Bill Allen.

The SYP curriculum is also aimed at secondary school students. These teenagers will be invited to participate in courses which will qualify them to officiate at Little Dribbler basketball games. Also, the CC gameroom will be open for organized games such as football, ping pong, volleyball and pool or for informal gatherings. Added to the teen program will be cheerleading and twirling classes.

The gameroom will be open from 8-11 p.m. each Friday and Saturday night through the responsibility of the noon Kiwanis Club.

Summer activities will culminate July 25 at an Open House in the Community Center where youth projects will be displayed and volunteer workers will be honored guests. Plus, due to the successful response gleaned last year, another pet show will be held during September under auspices of the SYP.

All SYP classes are offered free and each youngster has the choice of which activities he or

Jehovah's Witnesses Return From Assembly

"Mankind is rightfully concerned about the future. Global problems are apparent. Some leading experts warn that human existence many soon come to an end but Bible evidence shows that human existence on this earth will continue," an audience of 2523 was told Sunday afternoon at the Carlsbad Civic Center.

The speaker, John R. Heckman, a traveling representative for Jehovah's Witnesses, spoke on the subject "Stand Still and See the Salvation of Jehovah".

Heckman recalled, "The system of man's making will not collapse as a result of its own weighty problems. Its end will be at God's hand. (Matt 24:1). It is also made clear that God can and will make a dramatic change, soon, in earth's affairs."

Other features of the two-day conference included a baptism ceremony Sunday morning for newly dedicated ministers.

"Water Immersion, as in the case of Jesus, is a symbol of personal dedication to the service of God", said Allen Mayo, presiding overseer of the Hereford congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. "We are happy to see 68 join the ranks of Jehovah's Witness now numbering over two million world wide," added Mayo.

The convention theme, "Have We Kept Our Senses and Been Watchful?" "Aided us to more on the alert to Satan and his agent's opposition," explained Mayo. "There are economic and moral enticements, verbal abuse, even physical violence. By being watchful, each potential snare can be rendered harmless by practical application of Bible principles," continued Mayo.

Meetings at the local Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses will resume their regular schedule this week.

Housewarming Given At Eades Residence

Sandwiches, cakes, coffee and cold drinks were provided by the host couples, Mr. and Mrs. Lynton Allred and Mr. and Mrs. Justin McBride.

Scribbles and Scratches

By Karrie Womble
Women's Editor

Calla Mountz, who was named Pioneer of the Year for 1975 on Saturday, says that the plaque she received exemplifies at least sixty years of her life.

"I just want to say thank you," she stressed Tuesday. "I'm not sure who all were responsible for this, but it was a wonderful surprise which I'll never forget."

Talking with Calla, hearing her reflect a good, and basic philosophy, is a kind respite from a world which can appear calloused. Reviewing the plaundits bestowed on her, Calla laughed as she commented, "Now honey, you know that I don't have a beautiful voice."

The nominating letter which described the exceptional quality of Calla's voice was not only referring to pitch and tone, but also to the ways she used it to minister to this community.

"Please say a special thank you for me," she asked. "This has meant another song in my life."

2.6 average while her sister Paula was recognized for earning a 2.4 mark. Each of the trio graduated from Hereford High School.

PHILIP BARKLEY OF 821 S. 25 Mile Ave. welcomed his daughter, Beverly Van de Voorde of Seattle, Wash., as a guest recently. The pair traveled to Sarcosie, Mo. for a brief stay.

FROM THE "WOMEN in America" record book, honors this week go to Nelly Bly, who at the age of 22 went around the globe in 72 days, 6 hours and 11 minutes. The historic excursion was backed by Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the New York World newspaper.

On November 14, 1889, Ms. Bly set sail on the Augusta Victoria from Jersey City. Her progress was marked from place to place with a circular chart appearing each day in the World. The country was brimming with excitement over the tales of her journey.

She departed from Yokohama on January 7, 1890 and a special train awaited her in San Francisco. To welcome her back to New York, ten guns boomed at the Battery and Brooklyn. Ms. Bly had travelled 24,899 miles.

THE THREE daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J.N. Grady, 116 Ave. J, have been cited for scholastic excellence during the spring term at West Texas State University. Joan, a senior majoring in art, was included on the President's Honor Roll for achieving a 3.0 average on a 3.0 grade point scale.

Donna, a junior, was listed on the Honor Roll for maintaining a

HHS Alumni Reunite

Members of the 1930 and 1931 graduating classes of Hereford High School were reunited this weekend at a reception in Community Center and a supper at Dickies Restaurant.

John Gilliland entertained those present with a magic show that evening. Highlight of the party was presentation of prizes to class members coming from the farthest distance: Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell of Southwest City, Mo., and Mrs. Monte Montgomery of Dallas. Also an award was given to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Benson of Dimmitt, who have been married the longest.

Ehridge, Frank Cogdell, Deward Roberson and A.B. Higgins and Homer Brumley.

From out-of-town were Mrs. Montegomery; Lloyd Bowler and Paul Barnett of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. David Harrison of Colorado Springs, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Benson; Mr. and Mrs. John Anthony of Elida, N.M.; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Witherspoon of Albuquerque, N.M.; Clyde McMahon of Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Rogers Orr and Mrs. Opal Dixon, all of Lubbock; Mrs. Olen Fuqua and daughter Sherry, of Tucumcari, N.M.

Europe has pledged millions in Indochina aid.

West Europe protests U.S. uranium stoppage.

Soviet to send food aid to Vietcong.

The reunion is an annual event and the next one is scheduled in May 1976.

Attending from Hereford were Messrs. and Mmes. Henry Kuper, Guy Walser, R.L.

Bridal Courtesy Received

June Bride-Elect Feted

Rainbow colors decorated Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room Saturday morning for a miscellaneous bridal shower for Miss Melissa Johnson.

The honoree will be the bride of Larry Sanders June 6 at Temple Baptist Church. Guests were greeted by Miss Johnson, her mother, Mrs.

Julian Johnson, and her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Ray Sanders, all of Hereford.

Pink, yellow and blue flowers adorned the white cake which was served by Mrs. Ronnie Nunley and Mrs. George Fuller. A centerpiece of yellow and pink flowers with doves and lighted votive cups was the focal point on the refreshment table which was covered with a lace table cloth backed with blue.

Miss Patsy Brownlow and Miss Patti Johnson, sister of the bride-elect, presided at the guest registry.

Hostesses included Miss Connie Schwertner and Mmes. Reece Lawson, R.B. Hutson, Bill Frazier, Bill Wells, Bill Thompson, Bill McDowell, Bill Shore, O.C. Curtisinger, Floyd Eubanks, Oskar Schwertner and Eddie O'Rand.

Turkey Supplies Lower At Market

Turkey supplies are "adequate" but below last year's levels, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reported this week.

The consumer marketing information specialist also termed fryer chicken prices "comparable to most other meats" and pronounced their quality "excellent."

"Egg supplies are ample and prices are lower than a few weeks ago—grade A, large offer the best combination of quality and economy," Mrs. Clyatt, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

At produce counters, prices on fresh corn are trending downward as supplies increase.

Other economical vegetable buys include cabbage, carrots, potatoes, squash and cooking greens.

Fruit economy centers on oranges, bananas, avocados, strawberries and pineapples.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Nonfat milk is less expensive than fresh milk and takes little space to store.

Memorial Day Breakfast Set

Hereford VFW Post 4818 will sponsor a free Memorial Day breakfast tomorrow (Friday) beginning at 6 a.m.

The breakfast will be held at the VFW post in Veterans Park, and the public is invited to attend.

New Monster Club Lurks At Library

Beginning June 2, Deaf Smith County Library will sponsor "The Monster Club" for children through the sixth grade.

The summer reading program will encourage youngsters to read at least 12 books during the two-month period and will feature special programs throughout the summer. A children's film will be shown free each Monday afternoon.

The only requirement to join "The Monster Club" is to have a library card, which can be obtained from the library. Gwen London, main librarian, stated that one highlight will be a clown's show at 4 p.m. June 13. Entertainers for this activity will be secured by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Cosmetic Advertisements Also Governed By Rules

Regulations governing other advertising also govern cosmetics, according to Margaret Ann Vanderpoorten, clothing specialist.

Firms that advertise falsely—promising permanent rejuvenation—may be penalized and forced to retract any false ideas presented to the public.

"Cosmetics contribute greatly to appearance and morale—that's their purpose. But the effects are temporary," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, pointed out.

The Federal Trade Commission enforces the regulation concerning advertising and will receive complaints from consumers if the manufacturer doesn't give satisfaction when asked to uphold its claims, the specialist said.

"Another concern is safety of aerosol products. Considerations are the ingredients used, frequency and nature of use, susceptibility to misuse, and the safety of containers.

"No immediate regulations are expected, but consumers should remember that aerosol containers hold a great deal of pressure and will explode if overheated."

Miss Vanderpoorten reported that soon all cosmetics will be labeled with a list of ingredients, except for flavors and fragrances. This will help consumers with allergies.

"Cosmetic manufacturers need to know about any defective product or adverse reactions from using a product."

She said that consumer complaints about use should be written directly to the company, and "send the product back for testing," she advised.

Cosmetic products can be dangerous if misused. Always wash hands before using any cosmetics—especially those being applied to the face.

The specialist noted other safety rules to remember.

—Read the label carefully and follow directions.

—To determine possible allergic reaction to a product, test it on the inside forearm for 24 hours. If a reaction occurs, don't use the product.

—If any cosmetic causes redness, burning, or other irritation, stop using it immediately.

—Report any adverse effects to the manufacturer.

—Don't let children play with cosmetics.

—Be especially careful to avoid damaging the eyes when using eye cosmetics.

Depression Is Form Of Mental Illness

Everyone feels sad and gloomy at some time or another—but depression that is extended or acute is a serious mental illness, Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist, pointed out this week.

The National Association for Mental Health defines depression as an emotional state of dejection and sadness, ranging from mild discouragement and downheartedness to feelings of utter hopelessness and despair, the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said.

"Depression is the most common form of mental disorder, according to the American Psychiatric Association," Miss Taylor reported.

Frustration, disappointment and personal loss or boredom can lead to a depressed state. Because depression is usually a temporary state of being, most people maintain productive lives, she said.

"Another interesting aspect of depression is that it has no age barrier. Infants to older adults can be depressed. Depression seems to peak in adolescence, drops off between ages 20-35, then slowly rises thereafter.

"Mild bouts of the blues, such as those related to loneliness, a social or business setback, or loss of perspective due to extreme fatigue or stress, usually disappear as events take a happier turn. Most moderate depressions respond to short-term treatment."

Miss Taylor said that depression is better understood today. Since most patients respond to mood-elevating medication, the outlook for this state of mental health is quite hopeful.

"Individuals who are mildly depressed can help themselves by facing the reality of being depressed. Listening to music, laughing, cooking, improving appearance or hard physical exercise help many overcome mild cases of 'the blues'."

Because our emotional machinery is so adaptable and resilient, time and regaining self-esteem usually help us bounce back from depression to good mental health, this specialist pointed out.

Computer System Used At Supermarket Now

Space Age technology has come to the supermarket in the form of that small rectangle of thick and thin bars and spaces on food package labels, Sally Springer, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, noted this week.

"This Universal Product Code (UPC) indicates manufacturer, price and other identifying characteristics of the food product," she explained.

What about its use in the supermarket? At the check-out counter, the UPC can be read by an electronic cash register hooked up to a computer. Instantly the consumer will have a register tape indicating price and description of items purchased.

This computerized check-out will provide consumers fast service and accurate and detailed records of food purchased.

"But one disadvantage is that supermarkets may decide not to price mark food products for consumers since the computer picks up the symbol price.

"However, if consumers will insist, they can still have price markings to help in comparison shopping," she said.

At The Library

Judy Garland,
Quinn Animated
By Authors

Judy Garland, brilliant film star scarred by personal tragedy, and a fictional crime reporter named Quinn are central characters of two books being featured this week at Deaf Smith County Library.

Baby Frances Gumm, later christened Judy Garland by George Jessel, and a brimming career which eventually devastated her, are illuminated in the biographical book, "Judy Garland" by Anne Edwards. A child actress with a unique, charismatic voice, Garland catapulted to fame and was exploited by the fans she craved and the moviemakers who owned her. Falling from a pinnacle of wealth and success, she landed in a pit of drug addiction, divorces and suicide attempts. Through this definitive book, Anne Edwards has re-created the life of a legendary woman—Garland the star and Judy the Woman.

"Two Late For Tears" by Harry Carmichael unravels another classic puzzler probed by ace crime reporter Quinn. Baffled by a missing person case, an insurance assessor seeks the aid of the journalist-sleuth.

Deaf Smith County Library is open to the public free from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday and Thursday; from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. weekdays and until noon Saturday.

JUDY GARLAND
Anne Edwards

Never before has any performer so captured the hearts, the minds, the devouring love and the destructive curiosity of the public as did Judy Garland—child actress, singer, entertainer and always—STAR.

Her own career was the stuff of legend—the primal American star-myth acted out for real: Baby Frances Gumm, born in Grand Rapids, Minn., daughter of a stagestruck mother, the child singer who learned what show business life was like in the gangster-owned theaters of Chicago's Midway (where a headliner named George Jessel invented the name "Judy Garland" for her); the overweight, awkward girl who found herself singing "Zing! Went the Strings of My Heart" to Louis B. Meyer at the age of 12.

Soon she was MGM's most successful star, completing 22 films in ten years (including the Wizard of Oz, Babes in Arms, and Meet Me in St. Louis), forced by Mayer to work to exhaustion on a starvation diet, kept going by a regimen of diet pills, sleeping capsules and amphetamines at the age of 14.

Nobody worked harder than Garland; nobody equaled her magic hold over her audience; nobody was ever so loved by her public—and nobody ever needed, craved, and lived off that love as Judy did. The lost child who looked to her millions of fans for the approval, affection and love Baby Frances never found in her mother and Judy Garland never found in Meyer or MGM or the sharp ambitious Hollywood men who abused and exploited the ugly duckling turned rising star.

Her private life was lived out in a glare of publicity—marriages, divorces, dramatic illnesses, suicide attempts, drug addiction, the perpetual struggle with food that drove her back and forth from ballooning fat to skeletal thinness. Her financial woes, the extraordinary contracts that chained and eventually destroyed her (in one of which she was assigned like a chattel as part of a package deal including an old film script and some coal deposits in Tennessee), made her life an endless heartbreaking tragedy which she faced with a courage that made the very being alive, of her appearing onstage, an electric performance that bound her every more firmly to her fans, until her concerts were as much a blood sport as an entertainment.

In this brilliant, deeply human and glittering book—the definitive biography of Garland the star, Judy the woman—Anne Edwards has re-created the life, the loves, the sorrows, the joys and the disasters of a legendary woman.

Drawing on a wealth of previously unavailable material, on the intimate revelations of those who knew and loved Judy, on her own meeting with Judy Garland, on the memories of friends, fans, strangers, and contemporaries, she has written a book that is sensational in its revelations of the truth behind the Garland legend and the Garland headlines, and at the same time hauntingly, heart-breakingly moving and compassionate. At last, the great, major book that Judy Garland's life deserved, and that all those who were fascinated by her have been waiting for.

TOO LATE FOR TEARS
by Harry Carmichael

Harry Carmichael, master of the surprise ending, does it again in a new puzzler for crime reporter Quinn and insurance assessor John Piper.

On Tuesday, March 27, Gregory Whittle left his home in London before six o'clock in the evening. By 8:30 his wife had received two phone calls—the second one alarming. That was the beginning. In the events which followed, death plays an inevitable part.

John Piper is hired by the Cresset Insurance Company to hold a watching brief. When Quinn of the Morning Post learns of the circumstances, he suggests that things may not be quite what they seem.

Harry Carmichael's "Too Late for Tears" is another classic example of detection by the author of "Naked to the Grave" and "Most Deadly Hate."

Crop Insurance Reduces Farm Production Risks

With all the violent weather that has plagued Texas farmers in recent weeks, more thought should be given to federal crop insurance, believes an economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Federal crop insurance can reduce production risks for farmers as their costs continue to rise sharply," points out Dr. Wayne Hayenga. "Such insurance protects working capital committed to crop production."

Although crop insurance provides only limited coverage, it does cover out-of-pocket production costs in most cases, notes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

"About 90 per cent of all federal crop insurance is of the 'all-risk' type," says Hayenga. "This type of insurance is available in 84 Texas counties from the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, with coverage limited to cotton, sorghum, corn, peanuts and citrus. Its main purpose is to protect farmers from a total crop failure. It covers losses, when unavoidable, due to adverse weather conditions such as drought, hail, high winds, floods and freezing temperatures. Unavoidable losses from insects and disease infestations are also covered."

The insured producer is usually guaranteed a specified yield. When the harvested yield is less than this, the storage is covered at a price selected from a price options list before the growing season starts. Coverage usually ends at harvest time, points out the economist.

"Crop insurance premiums are generally based on indemnities within certain areas. For instance, hail insurance premiums vary by crop, with sorghum rates from about 1.5 to 8 per cent of the coverage while cotton rates usually start at 3 to 4 per cent of the coverage. In some hail prone areas, premiums may be as high as 18 per cent," says Hayenga.

Since applications for most crop insurance must be made prior to planting time, it may be too late to obtain insurance coverage in most counties. However, Hayenga urges interested producers to contact the county Extension office for details.

WT Chamber Wants More Funds For Ag Research

In a resolution to the Texas State Legislature, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has asked that the legislature support increased allocation of State funds for bonafide, needed and relevant agriculture research projects.

The resolution points out that Texas farmers and ranchers are an integral part of American agricultural production efficiency who support themselves and 46 others, and the return to management from such versatile and broadbased enterprise is marginal. The agricultural industry obtains goods and services from a wide variety of commercial and industrial sources, and furnishes food and fiber materials to a variety of businesses for resale or processing.

Agriculture research has contributed significantly to the efficiency of Texas agriculture which furnishes an abundance of food and fiber at a relatively low price. It also furnishes an amount of financial support is being furnished by commodity groups and other elements of the private sector," says Mr. Yeager.

Dick Yeager of Vernon, chairman of WTCC's Agriculture and Ranching Committee, says "that agriculture research expenditures have made significant contributions that have resulted in the control of the fever tick and screwworm fly; developed a hybrid grain sorghum that produces a commodity for industry and trade channels; has relocated the focus of the vast feedlot industry from the Midwest to the High Plains of West Texas."

"Agriculture research has produced storm proof cotton varieties that grow and yield better under demanding West Texas conditions," Yeager points out, "and animal breeding research has produced animals which yield heavier carcasses with a higher proportion of quality meat. Other research projects on basic materials to support other industries and frees a large labor force for our industrialized society.

and have improved the environmental quality of the range."

"Agricultural research traditionally has been financed by public funds, but an increasing amount of financial support is being furnished by commodity groups and other elements of the private sector," says Mr. Yeager.

The resolution states that support is needed for quality water for irrigation, industry and municipalities; more balanced human foods more balanced in protein; eradication of undesirable insects, diseases, weeds and brush; management systems for the production of marketable livestock in competition with other outlets for feed grains; alternative and more efficient sources of energy for agricultural production; genetic and physiological studies for plants and animals to tolerate temperature extremes, diseases and other limiting factors; providing farmers and ranchers with a more stable income from their products; human resource needs for space and recreation; and marketing and promotion of agricultural products.

Milk-Fat Calves Are Excellent For Freezer

Milk-fat calves make excellent eating, and families may want to consider having one processed for the home freezer.

"Select a calf that is still nursing and weighs 400 to 600 pounds. The calf will be 7 to 9 months of age and still gaining weight rapidly, which improves the quality of the meat. It should be carrying as much fat as possible," says Woodrow W. Bailey, livestock and meat specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. It is recommended that a calf not be weaned and fed for 30 to 40 days. If a calf has not been eating feed while nursing it will take 30 days or more to regain weight loss in the weaning and learning-to-eat period, Bailey adds.

Calves will be available from ranchers, at livestock markets or from your local custom processor.

The calf should be processed in 3 to 5 days after slaughter; for it does not "age" well in coolers, cautions Bailey. There is not enough fat to prevent drying of outside lean.

A 500-pound calf will yield a carcass weighing about 330 pounds. The carcass should cut out about 240 pounds of retail cuts ready for storage in a home freezer. Most custom slaughter plants charge about $50 to slaughter, chill, cut, wrap and freeze for a home freezer.

Cuts from this size calf will be about half the size of heavy beef cuts. A T-Bone or rib steak cut one-half to three-fourths of an inch thick is just about right for one serving.

"Beef from these young animals does not charcoal broil, as well as heavy choice beef, but it is excellent for all other cooking methods. It is unsurpassed for pan-frying," Bailey adds.

For a chart showing yields of different cuts from a carcass, contact your local county Extension agent.

Food losses through waste, erosion, spoilage, disease, pests, and improper storage claim fully one-half of the world's food supply.

Increase In Beef Prices Here To Stay, Says Ball

"Increases in beef prices are here to stay a while, which should be good news for producers and consumers alike." So says Charles E. Ball, executive vice president of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, whose members last year fed 3.8 million head of cattle or 17 per cent of the U.S. total.

Retail beef prices turned around in early May, because the demand for fed beef was strong and the supply was critically short, according to Ball. Average retail prices in Chicago, a benchmark market which is reported each week by the Texas Cattle Feeders Association, averaged $1.52 per pound this week, compared to $1.38 a month ago, $1.34 a year ago and $1.62 at the peak in February 1974.

When will prices come back down? "Not in the next few months," believes this cattle feeding association executive, "because the supply of fed cattle will remain short."

It's a paradox, he admits, that we have a shortage of quality fed beef when U.S. cattlemen have a record 131 million head of cattle on hand—20 per cent more than 10 years ago and 36 percent more than 20 years ago.

The problem, according to Ball, is that cattle feeders have lost money for 20 consecutive months (the losses started when the government price freeze was lifted in September 1973), causing many feeders to go out of the business or reduce numbers. On April 1, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported 8.4 million head on feed in the 23 major feeding states or 31 percent fewer than a year ago. While more non-fed cattle are going to slaughter, they are lighter in weight and lower in quality than the traditional fed animals.

"Looking ahead, the supply of fed cattle isn't likely to improve soon," says Ball. "That's because the number of cattle placed on feed during the first quarter of 1975 was down 19 per cent from the same period a year ago. And if they aren't placed on feed, they won't come off feed (for slaughter) six months hence."

Prospects look good for increasing the Texas calf crop in young or thin cows that are slow to breed or do not rebreed each season.

This is the opinion of an animal scientist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, who is testing two techniques that appear to be getting immediate results in returning cows to the estrous (heat) cycle.

Dr. Jim Wiltbank, researcher in beef cattle reproduction, who is headquartered at the Experiment Station at Beeville, has conducted experimental studies with four herds involving approximately 315 cows. Each group of animals contains many cows nursing their first calves, or cows that are too thin, or others that normally calve late in the season or fail to rebreed because they don't resume the estrous cycle. Graduate student Michael Smith is assisting Wiltbank in the study.

"There is hope for increasing the calf crop in these kinds of cows. In the initial study, pregnancy diagnosis indicates about 50 per cent of the cows were pregnant after one-day of breeding," says Wiltbank, one of the nation's leading cattle reproduction scientists, who came from Colorado State University last year to join the Experiment Station staff.

The research study involves two techniques—separating the calf from the mother cow for 48 to 60 hours, and a hormone treatment consisting of an implant of progesterin (hormone in "the pill") for nine days, and an injection of a progesterin and an estrogen, the scientist explains.

Most cows used in the four studies had not shown heat because they were too thin or had calved quite recently. Calf removal for 48 hours resulted in 19 to 22 per cent of the cows showing heat by four days after removal.

"Hormone treatment has resulted in 56 to 58 per cent of the cows showing heat by four days after removal.

"Additionally, 64 to 85 per cent of the cows that received both the hormone treatment and had their calves removed for 48 hours showed heat within a four-day period. Most of these cows showed estrus by 42 hours after the implant and calf removal," the scientist reports.

Wiltbank emphasizes that the results are preliminary.

Removing calves from the mother cows for 48 hours did not cause any serious problems for the calves. Calves were kept on a highly palatable calf feed during the time they were kept away from their dams. Calf scour problems did not increase, and the calves did not show any stress problems.

"The calves, as a matter of fact, resumed nursing as soon as they were returned to their dams, and have shown no additional problems," emphasizes the animal scientist.

The studies are underway on the Lou Cartwright Ranch at Dinero, in Live Oak County, using mostly Hereford or Hereford-Simmental crosses; the Jim Tobe Atkinson Ranch near Kenedy, in Karnes County, using crossbred cows; the League Ranch at Benjamin, Knox County, using Hereford and crossbred cows; and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station herd at Beeville, composed basically of crossbred cows.

Collection of data on the cows will be completed in July, said Wiltbank.

Additional trials are being set up by Wiltbank.

"Preliminary results have wide application for producers and consumers as well, for improved efficiency and increased calf crops result in savings to both groups," emphasizes Dr. Billy Conrad, TAES beef cattle scientist who is in charge of the Experiment Station at Beeville. The research facility is operated as a satellite of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Corpus Christi, where Dr. Tom Longnecker is resident director of research.

Cattle Display Set In Dimmitt

A show and tell day displaying Pinzgauer cattle will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. in Dimmitt. The program will be held at the Castro County steer barn at SE 4th and Stinson.

Hiley Boyd of Lubbock and L.C. McLain and Jerry Bonsal of Hart will host the activities.

Ben Livingston, Alamosa, Colo., president of the American Pinzgauer Association and Stanton Brown of Benjamin, Tex., manager of the League Ranch will conduct an informal discussion.

Three 18 month old Pinzgauer bulls from Colorado, two half-blood yearling heifers and half-blood calves will be on display.

Individuals desiring additional information on the cattle display may call 938-2156 or 938-2186.

Wheat Record Anticipated

AUSTIN—Dry conditions on the Texas High Plains have forced winter wheat projections to 137.5 million bushels, a decline of 2.5 million bushels below the April forecast.

Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said this figure still exceeds the previous record of 116.9 million bushels set in 1947.

Most of the production decrease occurred on dryland acreage in the High Plains, the state's leading wheat producer.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Lyndell Williams

AUSTIN—The 64th Legislature is deep into its last final week of activity, with all of its remaining Big 3 assignments still incomplete. Conference committees have drawn the jobs of adjusting differences between House and Senate versions of these measures: —The $12 billion all-time record appropriations bill for 1976-77. There is really little controversy, and the budget will be ready for final approval by adjournment deadline Tuesday. —Public school finance reform. There is plenty of controversy here, with the outcome likely to remain in doubt until near the final gavel. Gov. Dolph Briscoe shows every sign of being determined to veto any measure which overspends revenue in sight. —Utility regulation through a state commission. Again, there are strong differences between the House and the Senate majority. House leaders insist they have compromised enough in getting their bill passed and want nothing weaker. They are backed by a well-organized citizens group which has served notice it will have the House bill or nothing. Conference reports can be passed by a bare majority, and they are subject to no amendments.

Oil Increasing For the 39th straight month, the Texas Railroad Commission has set a wide-open 100 per cent statewide oil production allowance. Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey said indications are Texas production is "beginning to stabilize and possibly show a slight increase." The big East Texas field, a deviation from the all-out production pattern, will be held to 86 per cent.

Appointments Governor Briscoe has appointed former State Rep. Menton J. Murray of Harlingen to the Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, replacing Paul Leonard of Fort Worth who resigned. Briscoe also announced his intention to appoint Joe R. Carroll of Snyder to Texas Water Rights Commission. Carroll will succeed Otha Dent of Austin who resigned before expiration of his term.

Industries Slow Only 15 new industries located in Texas during April, compared with a 25-per-month average in 1974. Jim Harwell, executive director of Texas Industrial Commission, said the 15 will have an annual impact of $137 million on the Texas economy and create nearly 4,000 new jobs.

Charges Refused Charges that $500 million in erroneous payments were made to Texas welfare recipients due to clerical errors were challenged by State Welfare Commissioner Raymond W. Vowell. Vowell disputed statements of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare concerning mistakes of state and local welfare officials.

HEW said another $500 million was spent in error because recipient's provided incorrect information on factors determining eligibility for aid and size of payments. Vowell said 70 per cent of welfare mistakes are due to recipient error or falsification. He said efforts are being made to cleanse Texas welfare rolls of ineligible recipients.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals turned down Atty. Gen. John Hill's request for re-hearing of an effort to stop a $45 million Southwestern Bell Telephone Company intrastate long distance rate hike. Hill's motion to modify judgment to prevent the increase going into immediate effect also was rejected. The Attorney General has promised to appeal. Texas Supreme Court turned down a suit by Amarillo, Berger and Pampa against Canadian River Municipal Water Authority over distribution of costs for operation and maintenance of an aqueduct, dam and reservoir. Plainview, Lubbock, Brownfield, Levelland, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Slaton and Lamesa sided with the Water Authority.

AG Opinion A bill which would permit distribution of state-owned textbooks to pupils of non-public schools "probably" is constitutional, Attorney General Hill held. In other recent opinions, Hill concluded: Domestic relations courts may appoint masters in chancery, but only in exceptional cases for good cause. An educational and recreational fund administered for benefit of state prisoners may be invested or spent for prisoners' benefit in any manner consistent with purposes of the trust, law and proper prison system management. A bank holding company may own a majority of the stock of more than one bank without violating the constitution or laws.

In the coming year we will take in more than $200 million in motor vehicle sales taxes—more than the entire state budget of 1941. The four per cent tax is figured on the sales price of a vehicle when there is no trade-in. Where there is a trade-in the four per cent is figured on the difference between the sales price and the trade-in. Earlier this year when the national car manufacturers started giving cash rebates to new car buyers we had to adopt rules to fit the situation. We decided simply that the amount of the rebate should be deducted from the sales price in figuring the tax. This ruling followed policies adopted by the Internal Revenue Service. Mobile homes, motorcycles and trailers are considered motor vehicles for the purpose of the motor vehicle sales tax. The motor vehicle sales tax law also includes provisions for a four per cent tax on motor vehicle renting and leasing. This tax on rental and lease charges will bring in about $4 million of the total $200 million in motor vehicle tax revenue. The actual collections of the motor vehicle sales taxes are handled by the 254 county tax assessor-collectors. For performing this service for the state, the county is allowed to keep five per cent of its total collections. Certainly neither the times nor the motor vehicle tax are as simple as those good old days of 1941 when it all started.

Comptroller Bob Bullock issued checks totaling $18.9 million to Texas cities in the second round of monthly city sales tax payments. Payments were up from $16.1 million in April. The Senate refused to lower the misdemeanor penalty for possession of small amounts of marijuana. The House voted to raise the state inheritance tax exemption from $25,000 to $80,000, for a revenue loss of $87.5 million if the Senate goes along.

Raquel Welch guest stars on "Cher."

Cher welcomes guest stars Tatum O'Neal, who won an Academy Award for her performance with her father, Ryan O'Neal, in the motion picture "Paper Moon," Wayne Rogers of "M-A-S-H" on the Network, and special guest star Raquel Welch, on a rebroadcast of "Cher" Sunday, June 1 (6:30-7:30 p.m.), on the CBS Television Network.

Musically, Cher performs "You're Nobody 'Till Somebody Loves You," "Long Train Runnin'," and "I Love the Way You're With," sings "Let Me Be There" in a duet with Rogers, and agrees in a song with young Miss O'Neal that "Girls Are Smarter." Cher, Miss O'Neal, Rogers and Miss Welch don white tie and tails for a music-and-dance production number of "Top Hat."

In comedy sketches, Cher, as the less-than-sympathetic complaint department lady, lends off Rogers when he tries to return a broken toaster; Miss O'Neal consults a divorce lawyer (Rogers) about her short-lived marriage; Miss Welch causes a commotion when she drops in at Kenny's (Rogers) Coffee Shop and meets the ever-tasteful Laverne (Cher), and Donna Jean Brodine (Cher), the pitch lady, appears with another once-in-a-lifetime mail-order offer.

Employee theft compared to robbery on white collar crime special

The president of a firm that specializes in security for retail stores, interviewed on the NBC News special TV program, "White Collar Rip-Off" (Sunday, June 1, 9:00-10:00 p.m.), offers his comparison of employee theft versus robbery.

"I think that any man who goes out with a gun in today's day and time is very foolish," says Maurice Griffin, President of Continental Protective Service. "All he's got to do is get himself a job in a retail store, work for a couple of months, get it friendly with the vendors and other employees and he can steal thousands upon thousands of dollars, and the chances of him ever getting caught are very remote."

The special, produced for NBC News by Emmy Award winner Elliot Frankel, with Edwin Newman as anchorman, explores the phenomenon of white collar crime—people who are caught stealing, sometimes large sums of money, but serve little or no time in prison.

Producer Frankel and his staff have uncovered some dramatic figures concerning the apprehension and conviction of white collar criminals. "The best estimate we have is that maybe 5 percent of white collar criminals go to jail," Frankel says. "Many people get off because they make restitution, or the company, fearing bad publicity, makes press charges."

Other areas the program will investigate are insurance fraud, kickbacks and bribes in business, computer frauds, investment frauds, industrial espionage and how fraudulent operators prey on the young.

ABC Looks At The CIA

"It should be said first that the people who work for the Central Intelligence Agency are like most other Washington bureaucrats," observed ABC News Correspondent David Schumacher, reporter-narrator for the upcoming documentary special, "ABC News Closeup: The CIA."

The special airs Friday, May 30 (9:00-10:00 p.m.), on the ABC Television Network.

"They fight morning traffic jams, plan vacations, worry about retirement," Schumacher commented. "But the paper that CIA bureaucrats push topples some governments—destroys others, saves some lives—destroys others."
