

School Tax Increase Formally Adopted

Taxes were raised Tuesday night as Hereford Independent School District board members unanimously voted to bring the maintenance and operation tax to .88 on $100 value and the debt service tax to .06.

The 13 percent increase in property taxes was mandated by the board due to a decrease in the tax base which formerly allowed taxation on cattle in feedlots.

on the amended budget is set at $10,923,916. Local revenues total $3,439,910; state revenues, $5,859,987; and federal revenues, $1,855,962.

granted two insurance contracts with Lone Star. Policies for general liability and vehicle coverage will cost the district $12,150 (without dividends.) Plains insurance bid $12,789.

tion policy will be $38,487 through Lone Star, which is cheaper up to 40 percent claims, although Texas Association of School Boards offered a $30,458 policy. The TASB policy is based on any schools in the TASB group and the Lone Star policy based on HISD claims history. Board president James Gentry named Simons and Bill Townsend to serve with two from the city and county officials on a committee studying the development of a community complex.

Sallie Strain was appointed to serve temporarily on the long range planning committee of the board in place of Simons.

4,655 Students In Class Tuesday

The Hereford Independent School District welcomed 4,655 students to the nine local schools on the first day enrollment of 4,829 recorded in 1981.

While the number of students at Hereford High School was down somewhat, the overall turnout of students was "better than anticipated" according to a school spokesman.

HHS had 944 students in class Tuesday, down from 1,041 a year earlier, a difference of 97.

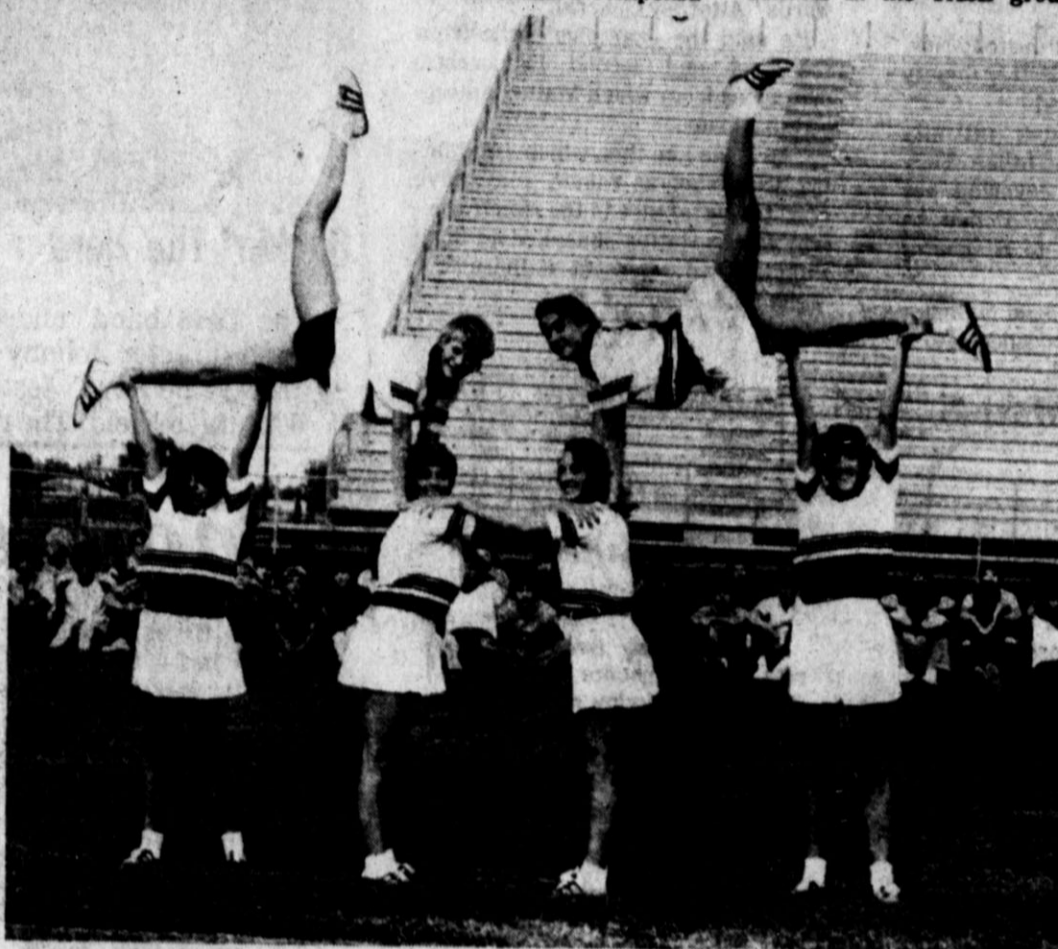

Enrollment in the two junior highs was up 40 students with 573 at La Plata and 527 at Stanton for a total of 1,100. The first day enrollment at those schools last year was 1,060.

The six primary schools saw a big jump the first day this term with a total of 2,611 students showing up for classes. That's 359 more primary students than the 2,252 which attended classes the first day of the school year in 1981.

The HISD closed out the 1982 spring term with 4,678 students enrolled. The enrollment figures as of May 17, 1982 showed 2,155 primary school students, 1,063 junior high students, and 997 at the high school.

Storm Dumps .24 of An Inch

Brilliant flashes of lightning and earth-trembling rolls of thunder accompanied a thunderstorm which moved across the area Tuesday night, dropping .24 of an inch of rain on the city according to KPAN, official weather station.

A report of .60 of an inch was received from a resident about 10 miles northwest of the city, while .90 was reported from an area to the south. A resident near Bluebonnet School reported .70 of an inch, while a report of .35 of an inch was received from the south.

The area forecast called for a 40 percent chance of additional moisture today and a 30 percent chance tonight. The high temperature was expected to be only near 80 today, with the low tonight expected to be in the low 60's.

Local Accounts Need 596 Pints

The Coffee Memorial Bloodmobile will be at the Hereford Community Center today from 4 to 6:30 p.m. Everyone is urged to come by and give blood.

A total of 596 pints need to be replaced this month. Breakdowns are as follows:

At High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo: Diane Perkins 404 pints; Thelma Watson 8 pints; Frances Ayala 12 pints; Lee Conklin 4 pints; and John Wyssman 8 pints.

At Deaf Smith General Hospital: Josephina Gumm 16 pints; Oscar Schwertner 24 pints; Patricia Sajas 16 pints; Frank Duncan 16 pints; Geneva Ivie 12 pints; Zelma Southern 8 pints; Mary Thomas 8 pints; George Millard 8 pints; Sandra Lewis 12 pints; Darlene Stovall 24 pints; and Ernest Britt Clark 16 pints.

Deaf Smith REC Has 42 Percent Hike

Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative this week informed its members that an average 42 percent increase in the retail cost of electricity is necessary between now and Nov. 1, 1982.

A.W. Anthony Jr., president, in a letter to members, reported that the wholesale power costs and inflationary operating expenses are the main factors bringing about the rate hike.

He said the board of directors and management "have exerted every effort possible to keep electricity costs in line," but added that "inflation, increased government regulations, fuel costs, interest and taxes have contributed to rising electrical costs."

Anthony pointed out that the 10-year wholesale contract under which the cooperative operates will expire in October. He said that wholesale power costs, depreciation, interest, and taxes account for 83 percent of the total cost of electrical service.

"We realize that an average of 42 percent increase is considerably more than Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative members have ever been asked to accept," said Anthony, "but we are forced to it if the cooperative's financial integrity, quality of electrical service, and payment of capital credit accounts remain at their present level."

800 Marines Land in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The U.S. Marines landed and took up positions in the port of Beirut today as 500 Palestinian guerrillas prepared to embark for North Yemen.

But Israel announced the start of the evacuation of guerrillas by land to Syria had been called off, reportedly because the Palestinians were afraid of attack by Lebanese President-elect Bashir Gemayel's Christian militiamen.

Israeli television said a representative of U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib was trying to arrange for the guerrillas to go to Syria by ship.

Habib, the architect and negotiator of the Palestinian withdrawal from the Lebanese capital, was on the dock at dawn, wearing the Marine Corps emblem on a lapel, to greet the 32nd Marine Amphibious Unit and its commander, Col. James Mead, 47, of Boston, Mass.

Landing craft brought the 800 Marines ashore from five 6th Fleet ships. Armed with M-16 rifles, M-60 machine guns, mortars and Dragon anti-tank missiles, they landed 700 yards from the so-called Green Line dividing Moslem Beirut and the Christian sector on the east.

Mead told reporters they weren't "anticipating any use of weapons because we are here as peacekeepers." But "obviously we'll use whatever we have in the unlikely event that we must defend ourselves," he added.

In a brief ceremony, the Marines relieved 350 paratroopers of the French Foreign Legion, the vanguard of the multinational force who had been guarding the port and supervising the daily embarkation of the guerrillas since it began Saturday. The French were moving to new positions midway along the north-south Green Line, around the National Museum and the race course, one of the three main crossing points between west and east Beirut.

U.S. officials said the Marines would be confined to the port area until the evacuation of the guerrillas ends in about two weeks. Asked how long they would stay in Lebanon, Mead said: "I have no idea. We were told it is going to be about 30 days or less, but of course we are here to obey orders."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters in Los Angeles the Marines could stay 60 days under the War Powers Act, but the Reagan administration expected to withdraw them "in 30 days or less."

A U.S. military spokesman, Navy Capt. James Mathews, said the troops had been "thoroughly briefed" on the situation in Lebanon and "know their job is to ensure safe evacuation of the PLO, guard the port and maintain stability in the area."

Judge Okays Settlement

Ma Bell 'Gives Up Children'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has formally approved the antitrust settlement between the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the government, setting the stage for the largest corporate reorganization in history.

In other words, Ma Bell is giving up her children. U.S. District Judge Harold H. Greene on Tuesday signed the settlement requiring

AT&T to spin off its Bell System operating companies in what will be the breakup of the world's largest company.

The judge's final approval was almost anti-climatic because the Justice Department and AT&T had announced their willingness to accept a series of conditions laid down by Greene last Thursday.

Under the order, AT&T must set free its 22 wholly owned operated companies by Feb. 24, 1984 — 18 months from Tuesday.

Those companies provide local service to more than 80 percent of the nation's telephones and represent two-thirds of AT&T's assets — $80 billion. More than one million workers and three million stockholders will be affected.

Within six months, AT&T must present the Justice Department and Greene with its detailed plan for accomplishing the breakup.

"The court's action is truly good news for everyone and the uncertainties are now behind us," said AT&T spokesman Pic Wagner.

In exchange for giving up the local monopoly companies that the Justice Department maintains provided the means for anti-competitive behavior, AT&T will be allowed to keep the Long Lines Division, the Western Electric Co. and Bell Laboratories.

Long Lines provides long-distance service, Western Electric manufactures equipment and Bell Laboratories develops new technologies.

The settlement also allows AT&T to enter new, unregulated businesses like data processing. AT&T has been seeking that right for years, arguing it could not take advantage of new technologies.

For the consumer, the settlement holds the promise of more competition — thus possibly lower prices — in the long-distance and equipment segments of the telephone business.

The Bell companies will still provide consumers with local telephone service as they do now. But the Bell companies AT&T and a host of other firms will vie to sell consumers their telephones.

Moreover, AT&T will be one of several companies that can handle long-distance telephone calls.

The settlement is also designed to keep the Bell companies financially strong, despite the loss of AT&T's protective umbrella. They will retain, for example, the lucrative Yellow Page directories.

Grandma Surprised With Pot Conviction

HOUSTON (AP) — An elderly grandmother says she was "surprised" a jury convicted her of growing marijuana in her vegetable garden after she testified she intended to use the illegal weed to make an arthritis lotion.

"I wouldn't have smoked it. I wouldn't have chewed it. I was going to do what the doctor told me to do — soak the leaves in alcohol and put the juice on wherever I hurt," testified Laura Clark, 82.

Blaze Attributed To Lightning

Hereford Fire Marshall Jay Spain said that crewmen arrived at Dick's Auto Store just in time to keep several thousand dollars worth of smoke and heat damage from becoming a total structural loss early today.

One display case inside the store was completely burned and according to Spain the fire was "just fixing to get going when we got there." The cases held odds and ends of paint, batteries and oil.

A CB radio antenna atop the building at 228-230 Main was apparently hit by lightning around 2 a.m., causing the fire.

The business is owned by Dick Gholson.

Spain was grateful to city police, who were on routine building patrol, for reporting the smoke escaping through the top of the building at around 5:45 a.m. He said the building may not have been saved had the crew been any later.

Spain said the building structure was not burned, however there is substantial smoke and heat damage. With temperatures 10 feet off the floor at 700 degrees, many plastic items had melted. Firemen were at the scene 2½ hours.

School is a building that has four walls... with tomorrow inside. — Lon Watters ooo

School started in Hereford Tuesday, launching one of the busiest periods of the year for many folks in the community. School signals the start of many other activities and events, so fasten your seat belt for a quick ride to the Christmas season!

It doesn't seem as though we've had much summer weather, but football season is less than two weeks away and fall can't be far around the corner. Other school-related activities, the beginning of a new year for various study clubs, the harvest of fall crops, the opening of the Swift packing plant... all these and more will soon have folks hustling to keep up busy schedules.

Hereford's Town & Country Jubilee was bigger and better the second time around, and it will be a hard show to top next year! People around town were still talking this week about the success of the event.

All this didn't just take place, either, and many folks in the community deserve credit for helping make the Jubilee a great event. It was truly a community effort.

While it would be impossible to list all the people who made big contributions, we think the members of the Town & Country Jubilee committee should be mentioned once again.

City Councilman Charged

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — City Councilman Richard Goodman was charged Tuesday with discharging a firearm in the city limits after he told police he repeatedly fired a high-powered rifle at snakes in his apartment.

Police reported they found no snakes but a green garden hose had been pierced by an apparent gunshot and the front left tire of Goodman's 1977 Buick had been pierced by a gunshot.

Officers seized a .30-30 rifle, a 12-gauge semiautomatic shotgun and 19 spent .30-30 shells.

Goodman, 33, a councilman since 1977, refused to comment.

An aide said Tuesday Goodman was taking a leave of absence for three weeks and would be out of the city.

The three-term councilman's wife said he has been under stress lately because of the illness of his son and mother.

Jury To Begin Hearing Testimony in Trial

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A jury of eight men and four women begins hearing testimony today in the trial of a man accused of raping, beating and then fatally strangling a 76-year-old Roman Catholic nun.

Johnny Frank Garrett, 18, was arrested in November and charged in the attack on Sister Tadea Benz.

Nuns discovered Sister Tadea's body on the floor of her room after she missed a sunrise mass at the St. Francis Convent on Halloween morning.

Prosecutors said the state's case against Garrett will take about four days to present.

State District Judge George Dowlen said an FBI witness in the case has conflicting trial dates and may cause a delay during the trial.

Garrett was taken into custody Nov. 9 and has been held in Potter County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

Police said the nuns initially thought Sister Tadea had fallen. They said there was blood covering her face, and they wrapped her in blankets and sent her to a funeral home for embalming.

The nuns attributed blood on Sister Tadea's face and on bed sheets to a hemorrhage, police said.

Meier Takes Mattox To Court

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Sen. Bill Meier of Eules said today it was dirty politics for Congressman Jim Mattox, Democrat, to mislead voters into thinking he is the present attorney general.

"He implied in his advertising that he was the incumbent attorney general in a blatant violation of the election code," Meier, the GOP candidate for attorney general, told a news conference.

"The voters have a clear choice in this race. They should not be confused by fraudulent advertising," Meier said.

He said he had filed a civil suit in a Dallas district court today asking for an injunction to stop Mattox from using any political advertising that implies he is currently the attorney general.

A hearing on the petition was set for Sept. 3.

Meier held up several copies of advertising that carried Mattox's name and immediately below it the words "Attorney General."

He said the examples came from the first and second Democratic primaries from which Mattox emerged the winner.

"An issue like this, which Jim Mattox will label as minor, may have been the difference in the runoff election where Mattox squeaked by John Hannah by 1.5 percent of the vote," Meier said.

7 Indicted on Alien Smuggling

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — A grand jury has indicted five leaders of an alien smuggling ring that operated for nine years without arrest and brought 400 illegal aliens across the border each week, a federal official says.

The five, plus two others believed to be drivers, each were indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury on 28 counts of conspiracy to violate immigration laws, said William Seizer, chief patrol agent of the U.S. Border Patrol in Laredo.

The indictment came after a two-year investigation. Seizer said the ring charged $350 to take a Mexican illegally into Texas to either Houston or San Antonio and for $900 would illegally transport a South American across the border.

Seizer said Border Patrol agents also are "confident" that the seven indicted are part of a ring that smuggled seven aliens found slain last month in the Houston area.

Four Salvadorans were found dead in Brazoria County and another Hispanic was found shot to death in Houston, Houston police have said.

They apparently were killed in a "shakedown" by smugglers demanding an additional $100 from the aliens, police said. A grand jury in Fort Bend County returned 90 sealed indictments implicating about a dozen people in the four deaths in that county.

The seven named in Tuesday's indictments in Laredo were Arturo Martinez Herrera, 26, Guillermo Martinez Herrera, 29, Augustine Martinez Herrera, 42, Daniel Martinez Herrera, 48, all brothers from Nuevo Laredo, Jose Martinez Martinez, 21, of Laredo, Heriberto Martinez Vallejo, 22, of Nuevo Laredo, Jorge Alfredo Munoz Rodriguez, 25, of Nuevo Laredo.

For Hopeful Steelworker

Recession Dumps Double-Whammy

MIDLAND, Pa. (AP) — The recession dumped a double whammy on steelworker Harold Taylor, who left the depressed Ohio River Valley only to find the Sunbelt strewn with more pink slips and a ticket back home.

"In six months, it went from boom to bust, literally. It's like the bubble has burst," said Taylor, 40, the father of two children.

"I couldn't afford to pay my mortgage up here and be down there. If I'm going to starve, I might as well go back home and starve," he said after returning from Texas this month.

Taylor, who lives in nearby East Liverpool, Ohio, was laid off 13 months ago from the Crucible Stainless Steel and Alloy Division which Colt Industries Inc. is closing on Oct. 15.

In February, the week he got his final unemployment check, Taylor took a job in Liberty, Texas, with National Pipe and Tube Co. The company, a subsidiary of National Steel Corp., made pipes in the oil well drilling boom and promised guaranteed work without layoffs.

Taylor got a pair of $500 bonuses, a month's free housing and board. With such a bright promise of a new life, he jumped at the opportunity. His family stayed behind, planning to move down later.

"What did I have to lose?" said Taylor in a recent interview arranged in a Midland tavern.

"I was reluctant to leave. But with guaranteed no layoffs, I expected to work the rest of my life. Now, I've resigned myself to something less. Things down there are as bad as up here," he added.

When the drilling boom went bust, Taylor was furloughed on May 1 despite the guarantees.

There was still no reason to fret. Houston newspapers had helped wanted sections that filled over 100 pages and were bulkier than entire newspapers up north.

He took another job as a millwright with St. Regis Paper Co. But the sweet promise continued to turn sour. There was talk of more layoffs and shutdowns. Finally, Taylor decided to come home — one week before he was due to be furloughed again.

In the meantime, there was a rash of personal problems for Taylor, who lost 50 pounds.

He lived alone for four months in a scene reminiscent of "The Grapes of Wrath," John Steinbeck's novel on the Great Depression. He drove back north to get his family in June.

Two days before he was supposed to close on a house in Texas, it burned to the ground, forcing the family to live in a two bedroom trailer with no air conditioning in the Texas summer. His German shepherd died two days after moving to Texas.

In Ohio, his house was originally for sale at the appraised price of $42,000. Taylor ultimately dropped the asking price to $18,000.

but still never found a buyer in the depressed housing market.

While the family was gone, someone broke into his home and ransacked the place. His mother, who lives two doors away, suffered a heart attack at the news.

"It was like every day you wonder what's going to happen next," said Taylor, wearing a T-shirt and Lone Star belt buckle. "I finally said we're not living like this anymore. I felt like a gypsy. It wasn't the way I wanted to raise my kids."

Taylor did have another job offer, working as an electrician for a company that unloaded shipments of foreign steel from a Texas harbor. He turned it down flat.

"It was a matter of principle. Under different circumstances, I may have taken the job," he said.

Back home now, Taylor is working odd jobs until something breaks in the job market. He has two years of college and has attended a number of trade schools, so he's confident of finding work.

"I'll weather the storm. Things are going to get better. I don't think they can get any worse," he shrugged. "If worst comes to worst, I'll go somewhere else but just until something opens up here. There's no idea of picking up and moving my family again. It would be a last resort," Taylor added.

"Besides, I'm lucky. I've worked in the last six months. There are some real hard luck stories out here."

She said a doctor in Mexico gave her the seeds and told her they were herbs. But she acknowledged that after the plants were about a foot high a friend who saw them in her garden told her they were marijuana plants.

Jurors deliberated 20 minutes before finding her guilty Tuesday of felony possession of a controlled substance. She was sentenced to two years of unsupervised probation, the most lenient penalty allowed under the law. The maximum would have been 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

"As many nice letters as I got and then to turn out like this — I'm surprised," Mrs. Clark said after the two-day trial. "I don't care about marijuana anymore. I don't want to have a thing to do with it, not one thing. I know now what the seeds look like, so I'll never plant any more of them."

District Judge Mike McSpadden told Mrs. Clark, a great-grandmother, "the only condition on your probation is that you give me a call every couple of months and tell me how you're doing."

Mrs. Clark previously turned down the state's offer of probation in exchange for a guilty plea, insisting "I have done nothing wrong."

Her attorney, Bill Portis, dropped to one knee during final arguments and begged jurors to find the woman innocent. Portis said later there would be no appeal.

Two plainclothes narcotics detectives said they arrested Mrs. Clark after they went to her house May 4, acting on an anonymous tip, and found five or six marijuana plants standing four to five feet tall in her vegetable garden.

Mrs. Clark, who testified she was reared in the Ozark Mountains of Arkansas and always had gardens, said when she planted the seeds,

"I thought they looked like radish seeds. I knew when they came up they weren't."

As the plants grew, she said she thought they would turn out to be the same as some bushes in her front yard. She said she liked to show off her garden to friends, and when the plants were about a foot tall, "Somebody said, 'Oh, That's marijuana. I didn't know till then.'"

So weeks later, when detectives Joe T. Dugger and Ted Bell came to her door and told her they had a report that her son was growing marijuana in her back yard, "I said, 'No. It's me,'" Mrs. Clark testified.

Dugger said she then led the him to the illegal plants in her garden and pointed them out.

"They were up to my chest," said the 6-foot-2 officer. "She said she would destroy them for me if I wanted her to, but I was trying to explain to her she was in trouble."

During a recess, Dugger said he had no choice but to arrest Mrs. Clark.

"If we went out there and ripped up that marijuana and burned it and simply told her, 'Don't do it again,' the person who complained could call the FBI and they could indict us for destroying evidence," he said.

A chemist testified the marijuana taken from her garden amounted to 506 grams, or about 16.8 ounces — or enough to roll about 1,500 marijuana cigarettes.

"I thought it was all right for me to grow a little for myself," Mrs. Clark testified.

She told jurors her only previous trouble with police was a few years back when a neighbor complained her rooster was disturbing the peace. Mrs. Clark said police asked her to get rid of the rooster and she did.

Ann Landers May Not Have a Case

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Some lovely people we know gave their daughter all their savings (over $40,000) with the understanding that in later years they would move in with her and always have a home.

Her $40,000 dwelling is now worth about three times as much. The parents did move in last October, but after four months were told they would have to leave. They are now living in a trailer court and are very unhappy.

The question: Can parents sue their children? - Concerned In Oxnard.

DEAR OX: Today anybody can sue anybody. The situation you describe, however, sounds as if the parents don't have much of a case unless the daughter signed an agreement stating that in return for the $40,000 her parents would receive housing for the rest of their lives.

Your casual statement that after four months they moved into a trailer suggests they didn't get along. This leads me to suspect there's a lot to the story you didn't tell me.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing to you after 20 years of raising children. I have never written to you for advice, but you have been a source of strength and I have learned a lot from your columns.

Now I am asking a favor. Today, when so many people are confused about values, with families breaking up and couples living together without marriage, will you please print once again your definition of love? - J.A., Mpls., Minn.

DEAR J.A.: Here it is - with pleasure.

Love is friendship that has caught fire. It is quiet understanding, mutual confidence, sharing and forgiving. It is loyalty through good times and bad. It settles for less than perfection and makes allowances for human weaknesses.

Love is content with the present, it hopes for the future and it doesn't brood over the past. It's the day-in-and-day-out chronicles of irritations, problems, compromises, small disappointments, big victories and common goals.

If you have love in your life, it can make up for a great many things you lack. If you don't have it, no matter what else there is, it's not enough.

DEAR ANN: As a college senior who has spent many summers waiting tables, I cringed when you encouraged the practice of leaving a one-cent tip for poor service.

Leaving pennies is calculated to insult. It hardly constitutes constructive criticism. Waitresses aren't trained animals doing tricks for a reward. We are human beings, and most of us do the best we can.

If a customer feels the service is poor, he should voice his complaint instead of leaving a penny under the plate and sneaking out like a wimp. I'm - Mad At You In Jew Jersey

DEAR N.J.: The waitress who is told the service is poor is not likely to say, "Thank you for the constructive criticism." Her response would, in all probability, make reference to a phenomenon of nature - like having only two hands.

Waiting tables is very hard work, especially if there are no busboys to clear and carry the heavy trays. Demanding, unreasonable customers who are rude in the bargain make it even harder. I have said repeatedly that a cheerful, efficient waitress is entitled to a 15 percent tip, but I still believe a penny under the plate is an effective way to convey the message that the service was miserable.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - How should I clean and season a new bread board or cutting block? - ROBERTA

DEAR ROBERTA - It's simple and takes only a few moments, but this easy treatment and continued proper maintenance could prolong the life of your wooden board or for board that's served you well for many years is a real pleasure to use. First wash the board in lukewarm, sudsy water. Do this quickly, rinse well and dry as thoroughly as possible with a clean towel, then allow the wood to finish air drying completely before storing. Don't let the board soak in the water and don't let it sit around wet for any length of time; this can warp the wood. To condition the wood, rub it with a light coat of oil. I prefer mineral oil because it has no flavor and won't rancid the way vegetable oil might. Rub the oil in well with a soft cloth. And that's all there is to it. After each use, wash the board quickly in cool or lukewarm water and a mild detergent. Occasionally re-oil lightly, if necessary. However, after using your board to cut raw meat, scrub it very thoroughly with soap and water or a little chlorine bleach in water, rinse, dry then definitely re-oil. NEVER put your board in the dishwasher. A well-cared for board can last for many years. And here's an extra Pointer: To easily clean sticky pastry dough from your board, sprinkle it with salt. The gooey stuff will rub right off. Wash as usual, of course. - POLLY

Young Homemakers, Farmers Host Convention Saturday

The Area I Young Homemakers and Young Farmers will host their annual conventions and award banquet at the Amarillo Civic Center on Saturday. The separate meetings will be held during the afternoon and the banquet at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. Jerry Annen, Area Young Homemaker president from Dimmitt, will preside, assisted during the program by other area Young Homemaker and Young Farmer officers, including Ray Schlabs of Hereford, vice-president of Area Young Farmers, who will give the invocation during the afternoon young farmers meeting.

Awards to be presented during the banquet are outstanding chapter, Young Homemaker and Future Homemaker, best chapter exhibit, and honorary membership. The awards are sponsored by the Young Homemakers, Southwestern Public Service, and Energas.

The Young Farmer awards include the outstanding chapter, associate member, area officer and new chapter, agri-business, radio-TV, newspaper publicity and the star Young Farmer. The sponsors of these awards are Southwestern Public Service Company, Farmland Industries, Inc. and Production Credit Association of Texas.

The sponsors of the meal for the banquet are 16 electric cooperatives and businesses that serve these young adults.

The Young Homemakers will elect new officers during the morning and install them later in the afternoon.

Featured speakers at their meeting will be Mrs. Rita Welch of Dimmitt, who will demonstrate and discuss "What's Under Your Hat" and Mrs. Joyce Cheatham, homemaking teacher at Monterey High School, Lubbock, who will help the audience understand "Cents that Make Sense". Both are very popular with audiences in West Texas.

During the afternoon session, the Young Farmers will hear Dr. Ray Simmons, TAMU, discuss computers in agriculture. An auction of door prizes will be to raise money for a FFA scholarship. Ronald Groves, Area Young Farmer president of Hale Center, will be presiding. Scotty Belew, Winters, Texas, young Farmer president will be an honored guest.

The Area officers for the Young Homemakers are president Mrs. Jerry Annen, Dimmitt; vice-presidents, Mrs. Ronnie Sherrad, Hale Center, and Mrs. Weldon Simmons, Wheeler; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Dudley Wooten, Dimmitt; and parliamentarian, Mrs. Lee Hibler, Wheeler.

Mrs. Ina Dora Halle, Consultant for Homemaking, Texas, Education Agency, Plainview, serves as the area advisor.

The officers for the Area Young Farmers are president, Ronald Groves, Hale Center; vice-president, Ray Schalbs, Hereford; secretary, Larry Robb, Nazareth; reporter, Bill Reed, Silverton; and state officer, Teddy Smithson, Dimmitt.

The area advisor is Jay Eudy, Agriculture Consultant, Texas Education Agency, Plainview.

Scott Receives Degree

SAN MARCOS - Michele Scott of Hereford was among the 939 Southwest Texas State University students who filed for degrees awarded recently in the university's summer commencement ceremonies.

Miss Scott, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scott of 236 Centre, received a bachelor of fine arts degree with a major in studio art. She will be attending graduate school this fall at the University of Iowa, and recently exhibited some of her work in the Terrence Gallery in New York and the University of Wisconsin in Superior.

August graduates received diplomas in joint ceremonies in SWT's new Strahan Coliseum. Commencement marked the first official function held in the new multipurpose athletic and special event facility.

Keynote speaker was State Rep. Wilhelmina R. Delco of Austin, who is serving her fourth term in the Texas House of Representatives. A prominent Travis County civic leader, Mrs. Delco was the first black elected official from District 37. She is chairman of the House Higher Education Committee.

Today In History

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 25, the 237th day of 1982. There are 128 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Aug. 25, 1718, French immigrants founded the city of New Orleans in Louisiana.

On this date: In 1883, the Krakatoa volcano erupted in the Dutch East Indies, creating a tidal wave that killed 36,000 people.

In 1941, British and Soviet troops invaded Iran during World War II.

In 1965, a massive avalanche roared down from a glacier in the Swiss Alps, burying 108 people at a hydroelectric construction project.

In 1973, the U.N. Security Council voted to condemn Israel for what it called a "premeditated air attack" on Lebanese villages.

Ten years ago: Communist China cast its first veto in the U.N. Security Council, blocking Bangladesh's membership in the United Nations.

Five years ago: Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan declared his opposition to President Jimmy Carter's plan for the Panama Canal's eventual turnover to Panama.

One year ago: The U.S. Voyager 2 spacecraft came within 63,000 miles of Saturn, transmitting photos and other information about the planet to Earth.

Today's birthdays: Composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein is 64. Actor Sean Connery is 52. Former Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus is 51.

Thought for today: I never made a mistake in my life - at least never one that I couldn't explain away afterward. - Rudyard Kipling, English writer (1865-1936).

Our neighbor is charitable when his frau starts to throw laundry equipment - he says she's trying to iron out their differences.

Henderson Close to Steals Record

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland speedster Rickey Henderson is about to become baseball's all-time stolen base king. Right now, he'll just have to settle for being the most frequently apprehended base thief in the history of the game — a 39-time loser.

Henderson moved within one base of Lou Brock's all-time major league record of 118 stolen bases in a single season Tuesday by stealing his 116th and 117th bases in the first inning of the Oakland A's 3-0 victory over Detroit.

The fleet outfielder attempted to equal Brock's 1974 record in the eighth inning, but Tiger catcher Bill Fahey threw him out on a controversial play at second base. It marked the 39th time this season Henderson has been either picked off or caught stealing, breaking the rather dubious standard established by Hall of Famer Ty Cobb in 1915 when the "Georgia Peach" stole 96 bases.

"I'm just glad he broke Ty Cobb's record today, not Lou Brock's," said the embattled Fahey, who threw out just two of seven Oakland baserunners who attempted to steal in the game.

Henderson found little consolation in umpire Durwood Merrill's call in the eighth inning. "I thought I was safe at second," said Henderson, who was ejected from the game along with A's Manager Billy Martin, Coach Charlie Metro and center fielder Dwayne Murphy for protesting the call.

Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson agreed with Merrill and even alleged the A's may have had Fred Stanley, who walked and moved to second on Henderson's single, purposely picked off second in the eighth inning to give Henderson a chance to steal the base.

"It's a travesty," said Anderson, when questioned about the play. "Stanley should be given the biggest fine in baseball history. This thing is bigger than the Black Sox Scandal."

Oakland Manager Billy Martin said Stanley and Henderson had intended to pull a double steal when Stanley was picked off second.

Fahey, who had caught only 17 runners attempting to steal this season, didn't expect to play Tuesday. But when regular receiver Lance Parrish went back to Detroit before the game to be with his pregnant wife, Fahey was put into the lineup.

"We talked about the pitcher and catcher before the game," said Henderson, who will try to set the new record

Thursday night in Milwaukee. "To be honest, we didn't think he (Fahey) was too good a catcher."

Rookie pitcher Jerry Ujdur, 7-7, walked Henderson on five pitches to open the first. Henderson then easily stole second on the first pitch to Wayne Gross. After Gross walked bringing Dwayne Murphy to the plate, Henderson swiped third on the front end of a double steal and then scored on a wild pitch.

Murphy walked and stole second. And Tony Armas drove home Gross with a grounder before Murphy scored on Dan Meyer's sacrifice fly.

A's hurler Matt Keough, 11-16, stopped Detroit on six hits in pitching his 10th complete-game and second shutout.

Ujdur allowed only three hits in the game, but walked seven.

Hogs, Ponies, Aggies, Coogs Top 1982 SWC Grid Outlook

DALLAS (AP) — In 1981, the Southwest Conference produced the nation's No. 2 and 5 teams. It sent four teams to the bowls.

In 1982, the league could be even better and wilder.

Southern Methodist earned the title last year (the only loss was 9-7 to Texas) but couldn't reap the reward of a Cotton Bowl visit because of probation.

The Mustangs finished 10-1 and took the fifth slot in the final Associated Press poll.

Texas came on strong, once Robert Brewer was inserted into the lineup at quarterback, and defeated Alabama in the Cotton Bowl. The Longhorns were voted the No. 2 team in the final AP balloting.

Arkansas lost to North Carolina in the Gator Bowl, Texas A&M downed Oklahoma State in the Independence Bowl, and Houston lost to Oklahoma in the Sun Bowl.

SMU lost a coach — Ron Meyer went to the National Football League — and eight starters.

However, the Mustangs gained highly regarded Bobby Collins of Southern Mississippi as coach and retained 14 starters, including an All-SWC backfield that has two 1,000-yard gainers.

SMU has again drawn the favorite's tag.

"SMU should be excellent, and Texas A&M shouldn't be far behind," said Arkansas coach Lou Holtz.

"I like SMU," said Texas Christian coach F. A. Dry.

Rice coach Ray Alborn put what is expected to be another wild race into perspective.

"On paper, the top four teams appear to be Arkansas, SMU, A&M and Houston, but don't bet money on it," said Alborn, who has upset the forecasting charts each year with his Owls.

Eric Dickerson was on The AP second-team All-America list and was SWC Offensive Player of the Year. Craig

James, who shared tailback duties with him, also gained over 1,000 yards and was All-SWC.

Lance McIlhenny, the all-league quarterback, returns for his junior season.

There's a new regime at Texas A&M headed by Jackie Sherrill, who left Pittsburgh for an attractive money package.

The Aggies return nine offensive and eight defensive starters from the team that trounced Oklahoma State.

Sherrill has the runners in Earnest Jackson, Johnny Hector and Thomas Sanders and the passer in Gary Kubiak to field a dangerous team.

Arkansas has an experienced team, but the fate of the Razorbacks hinges on how well defensive lineman Billy Ray Smith recovered from hepatitis over the summer.

Baylor loses wondrous Walter Abercrombie from the backfield, but the Bears could surprise with 16 returning starters.

Talented quarterback

Lionel Wilson heads nine offensive starters at Houston, but coach Bill Yeoman needs proven performance at running back before the Cougars threaten for the title.

Even Texas Coach Fred Akers does not rate his team among the top four in the SWC but says the inexperienced Longhorns are a "fiery bunch" and could surprise some teams. End Kiki DeAyala and 258-pound middle linebacker Jeff Leiding should lead the defense, and Brewer returns for his senior year to guide the offense. Much of Texas' success could depend on whether halfback John Walker recovers from a spring knee injury.

Texas Christian, Rice and Texas Tech are longshots at best.

TCU has one of the best receivers in the country, Stanley Washington. The Horned Frogs, who upset Arkansas last year, return five offensive and six defensive starters.

Rice brings back Michael Calhoun, who passed for a SWC record-tying 21 touchdowns.

Tech coach Jerry Moore hopes redshirt quarterback Jim Hart will be the cure to the Red Raider 1-9-1 woes of last season.

Big Brains

Like dolphins, killer whales have unusually large brains in proportion to their bodies. Moby Doll, a young killer whale in a Vancouver aquarium, tipped the scale at slightly more than a ton. His brain weighed 14 pounds. A seven-ton elephant has a brain of only about 12 pounds.

Sign language

The United Nations has supported adoption of international traffic signs that use standard shapes, drawings and symbols to overcome language barriers, so motorists can recognize road hazards and regulations wherever they drive.

Win Titles

Trinity Baptist Church and the Toujour Amis Study Club took titles in the Hereford & Vicinity YMCA's Almost Anything Goes competition at Dameron Park last weekend.

The event was held in conjunction with the Hereford Town & Country Jubilee, and was held during Jubilee Junction Saturday afternoon.

The baptist men outclassed the field in their division, with the Hereford State Bank team coming in second, and the Hereford Volunteer Fire Dept. Team placing third.

Finishing behind Toujour Amis in the women's division were the YMCA team and Hereford State Bank.

Perry Out For 10 Days

SEATTLE (AP) — Gaylord Perry is hotter than a major league fastball over his suspension for allegedly doctoring a pitch — something the Ancient Mariner has been suspected of doing for much of his 21-year career.

A 10-day suspension was ordered in New York Tuesday, but Perry and the Major League Baseball Players Association quickly followed up with an appeal, which stays the suspension.

Perry said he had a 20-minute telephone conversation with American League President Lee MacPhail Tuesday morning. But he wasn't very pleased with the result.

"He's a ... weak human," the venerable right-hander said of MacPhail. "I told him I'd played this game 20 years and I never saw anybody out to get somebody like Monday night."

"They'll have so many appeals that MacPhail will have to hire 10 assistants," Perry said.

"He don't know what to do. He takes advice from somebody else," Perry charged, implying that MacPhail was giving in to home plate umpire Dave Phillips. It was Phillips who ejected Perry during Monday night's game with the Boston Red Sox.

Perry said he has taken no action so far, but vowed, "Phillips ain't heard the last of it, believe me."

Mariners' Manager Rene Lachemann said, "We're going to see what evidence they (the American League) have. I guess that's what you appeal this on."

The 43-year-old Perry has been suspected for years of being among the sport's best doctors of baseballs.

Phillips had warned Perry about throwing an illegal pitch in the fifth inning. And, in the seventh, with two outs, runners on first and third and a 1-0 count on Rick Miller, Perry threw a pitch that dropped drastically.

Without asking for the ball, Phillips ejected Perry. It's the second time he's been thrown out of a game, the first coming early in his career for bench-jockeying.

Perry will be able to pitch for the Mariners until the appeal is heard. But an accompanying $250 is payable immediately, said Bob Fishel, an aide to MacPhail.

Fishel also said the fact that Phillips had not asked for the ball did not matter. "In his opinion it was an illegal pitch," Fishel said. "He doesn't have to find something on the ball."

The suspension is the second in three years for a Seattle pitcher. In 1980, Rick Honeycutt, since traded to Texas, was found to have a thumbtack taped to his glove, apparently for defacing a ball.

Curious biologists have sought to determine the speed of snails. Experiments with garden snails have measured sluggards crawling along at .00036 mph and speedsters racing at .0313 mph.

Henderson Sets Record For Being Thrown Out

By MIKE EMBRY AP Sports Writer

Oakland speedster Rickey Henderson finally cracked the record book for stolen bases. But it wasn't the theft mark he was shooting for.

After stealing two bases in Tuesday's game against the Detroit Tigers to move within one of Lou Brock's all-time record of 118, Henderson was caught by catcher Bill Fahey going for tying mark in the eighth inning of Oakland's 3-0 victory.

It was the 39th time this season that Henderson had been thrown out in his quest for the record, breaking the major league mark of 38 set by Ty Cobb in 1915 — a season

Cobb stole what appeared to be an untouchable 96 bases.

"I thought I was safe at second," Henderson said about the call made by umpire Durwood Merrill. "He didn't have the right position on it and never saw the tag. I had my hand on the bag when the tag was made on my back."

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City downed Texas 5-3, Minnesota beat New York 5-0, Baltimore defeated Toronto 7-3, Milwaukee trimmed California 7-3 and Boston edged Seattle 5-4 in 12 innings.

The biggest disappointment for Henderson, however, was not equalling or breaking the record before the home crowd at Oakland Coliseum. The A's go on a 10-day road trip and Henderson is a cinch to break Brock's record.

Henderson wasn't the only person in Oakland's Coliseum who thought he was safe. A's Manager Billy Martin, Coach Charlie Metro and teammate Dwayne Murphy disagreed and where thrown out of the game for disputing the call.

Oakland scored all its runs in the first inning off Detroit start Jerry Udjour, 7-7, as Henderson had two thefts. Matt Keough, 11-16, pitched his 10th complete game and second shutout of the season.

Royals 5, Rangers 3. Kansas City's John Wathan also got in on the base-stealing act, logging his 31st stolen base to set a major league record for catchers.

Hal McRae also drove in three runs, raising his major league-leading total to 112, on a double and two singles to lead the Royals at the plate.

Larry Gura, 16-8, was the winning pitcher, getting relief help from Dan Quisenberry, who earned his 28th save of the season. Frank Tanana, 6-14, was the loser.

Artist Producing Vases for Athletes

DALLAS (AP) — Ceramics professor Dan Hammett is churning out "Greek" vases for top athletes the American way — five vases a day.

It took a Greek master potter and a team of apprentices at least two weeks to make a single red clay vase in 523 B.C., but to do it that way today would cost $2,000.

So Hammett, a 35-year-old University of Dallas professor, is using modern techniques to mass produce 300 "Greek" vases to be presented to top United States amateur athletes.

It would have taken him the rest of his life to make the pots in the Greek way.

"I didn't have that much time," Hammett said.

The design on the traditional "amphora" was usually a picture of the goddess Athena and people competing in different athletic events. It was done by hand, but Hammett's silk screen melts into the vase when it is fired. He says his pots will last for centuries — at least as long as the Greek originals.

His vase is baked in an electric kiln at 1,850 degrees Fahrenheit for 10 hours. Hammett turns out an average of five pots a day when he's working on the project full-time.

The project is underwritten by Southland Corp. of Dallas as part of its sponsorship of the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles. The two-handled "amphorae," which cost $145 each, will be Southland's "Olympia Award" to encourage participation in amateur sports.

A dozen pots will be handed out monthly. The vases are modeled on the Greek vases awarded to winners in the Panathenaic athletic festival in 556 B.C.

Hammett wasn't enthusiastic about the project when he was first approached by Southland's creative projects manager Hans Streich. Hammett thought the company would want a "down-and-dirty project," he said, and he just wasn't interested.

He referred Streich to other potters.

Weeks later, Streich, unable to find another artist, called on Hammett again, this time bringing along a prototype produced by a California company. That did the trick.

"I was thoroughly disgusted," Hammett said. "My fear was that they would settle for this piece."

"I don't think it looked like ancient Greek pottery. It looked more like a Mexican contemporary piece."

Southland officials let Hammett set his own standards.

His clay comes from Ranger Hill, and he pours the stuff into three-piece plaster molds, which he sets to dry in empty Kentucky Fried Chicken buckets.

Imperfections are buffed off on an electric wheel. Then Hammett attaches handles and a base for each vase, glazes the black sections, and silk screens on a design decal.

Bass Tournay Set Oct. 1-2

The Whitney Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a two day Striped Bass Tournament at Lake Whitney Oct. 1-2. A $10,000 prize will be awarded to anyone who enters the Tournament and catches a striper that exceeds the official state record. The record is now slightly above 38 pounds according to Don Maloney, President of the Whitney Chamber of Commerce.

Roger McCabe of the Texas Game and Wildlife Commission who is in charge of the Texas Striped Bass Program stated that when stocking the waters in the Lake Whitney area he personally has observed at least one "40 pound plus" striper and feels that conditions at Lake Whitney make it one of the top striper lakes in Texas.

Charlie Greenway, Project Engineer for the Corps of Engineers at Lake Whitney, stated, "I feel there are 40 plus pound stripers at Lake Whitney. The striped bass grows around 5 pounds per year and have been in the lake 10 years. So who knows? There may be a 50 pounder swimming around out there."

The October Striper-Fest will be held in conjunction with the town's annual Pioneer Days Celebration. An entry fee of $5 will be charged and all entries will be eligible for the $10,000 cash prize as well as other cash prizes for the next three heaviest fish; whether or not a sate record is set.

Juniper Cove Marina and Campground is the official host marina and site of the weigh-in. All fish must be weighed in by 6 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 2. Prizes will be awarded at the closing of the Pioneer Days Celebration in Whitney.

Lake Whitney is located 5.5 miles southwest of Whitney, Texas by way of State Highway 22 near Hillsboro, Texas.

Stabler Signs Pact With New Orleans

By TOM CANAVAN Associated Press Writer

The Snake is back in the National Football League and has no intentions of spending the year on the bench.

Ken Stabler returned to NFL Tuesday, agreeing to join former head coach Bum Phillips with the New Orleans Saints.

"I've never walked on the field when I thought I was going to be a backup quarterback, said the 36-year-old signalcaller who was released earlier this year by the Houston Oilers. "I may wind up being (a backup quarterback) one but I'm not taking that approach."

Stabler, who is the most accurate passer in NFL history, hitting 60.32 percent of his passes, will challenge incumbent Archie Manning and Bobby Scott for the starting job, while second-year pro Dave Wilson recovers from

The Hereford Brand Sports Sportsathon Relay Sept. 8

Exciting sports action returns to Plainview, Texas, as the second annual Sportsathon Relay takes place Saturday morning Sept. 18. Sponsored by the Nichols Health - Fitness Center and radio-station KVOP, the Sportsathon invites five-person teams from communities across the South Plains and Texas panhandle to compete in a relay race that will splash through water, ride and run over city streets, and rollerskate around a gymnasium floor before it's all over.

Each five-member team will consist of a swimmer, bicyclist, rollerskater, and two runners.

Boys, girls, men, women and co-ed teams will compete in nine competitive divisions. Age divisions have been set at 17 years and under, 18 to 29, and 30 and over.

The relay race begins at the Plainview YMCA Pool with each team's initial member swimming 150 yards. Teammate No. 2 will leave the YMCA as the swimmer finishes, running 1 1/4 miles to the Wayland Baptist University Campus.

Team member No. 3 will bicycle (2 miles) from WBU to the First Baptist Family Life Center where the fourth member awaits in rollerskates to complete a 10-lap course on the gymnasium floor.

The anchor-leg will be a runner who will return across town 2 1/2 miles to the finish line at the Health-Fitness Center.

Team entry forms and additional information are available by contacting the Health - Fitness Center, 3019 W. 10th, Plainview, TX 79072 (806-296-5412). There is a $10 entry fee. Individuals unable to secure teammates can contact the H-F Center in order to be paired up with others to form a team.

Individual trophies will be awarded to members of each division's winning team. The silver-plated Nichols Cup will be presented to the team representing a Plainview business or industry that posts the best time. Many other awards will be presented to participating teams.

Teams from the same division will be grouped in heats beginning at 8:30 a.m. The course will be well marked with traffic control provided by the Plainview police department. The awards presentation is set for 10 a.m. at the Health-Fitness Center following the competition.

According to Sportsathon Director Tom Siekmann, this year's Sportsathon "will be more spectacular than last year" when 24 teams raced the clock and rival competitors through the five events.

"The Sportsathon Relay first of all is exciting fun for all participants and spectators, secondly it is a race," commented Siekmann. "It is a natural group activity for school clubs, church groups, co-workers and sports enthusiasts. Many enjoyed forming the team, and selecting a team name (some even put together 'uniforms') just as much as the competition itself."

(A final note: UIL officials in Austin were contacted and high school athletes can participate in the Sportsathon without jeopardizing their athletic eligibility.)

Braves Rally Past Carlton, Phils, 9-7

By DENNIS D'AGOSTINO Associated Press Writer

You're trying to hold on to first place, at least for one more day. The other guys get four runs in the first inning. The man you have to come back against is named Steve Carlton.

Pretty grim, huh? "I didn't like it at all," said Atlanta Manager Joe Torre, whose Braves found themselves behind 4-0 against Philadelphia's ace left-hander Tuesday night. "But we had a five-game winning streak, have been playing aggressive and then Jerry (Royster) got us going again with the home run."

And before the night was over, the Braves had blasted Carlton from the mound during a six-run fourth inning as they took a 9-7 victory from the Phillies. Atlanta's sixth consecutive victory enabled it to stay on top in the National League West, one percentage point ahead of Los Angeles.

In other NL games, Los Angeles beat St. Louis 5-2, Pittsburgh staged a gallant late-inning comeback and downed San Diego 6-5 in 11 innings, Montreal topped Cincinnati 5-1, Houston edged New York 5-4 and Chicago topped San Francisco 8-4.

Royster's first-inning homer made it 4-1. Bob Horner belted his 25th homer of the year in the third inning to close the gap to 4-2.

"I'd rather face anybody than Carlton when he's on," said Horner. "I've seen him throw better."

The big fourth inning was highlighted by Dale Murphy's two-run homer, his league-leading 31st of the season.

Carlton, 16-9, has been hit hard in his last three starts, allowing 29 hits and 18 earned runs in 211-3 innings and watching his earned run average soar from 2.95 to 3.56.

Veteran knuckleballer Phil Niekro, 12-3, picked up the victory for Atlanta.

Dodgers 5, Cardinals 2. Bob Welch, 15-8, fired a four-hitter and Ken Landreaux tripled twice, singled and scored three runs to lead the Dodgers.

"I was throwing the ball pretty good. I was fluid, and I was moving the fastball around. They (the Cardinals) have got some jackrabbits, and they'll run you to death if you let them," said Welch.

Landreaux, meanwhile, came out of a 3-for-33 slump. "You just keep it in perspective," said Landreaux. "You just keep hitting the ball hard. I've been hitting the ball well. I just hadn't been finding any holes."

Despite the loss, the Cards maintained their three-game lead in the East as second-place Philadelphia lost to Atlanta.

Pirates 6, Padres 5. Tony Pena's RBI single in the 11th off Juan Eichelberger scored Lee Lacy with the winning run and capped a stirring Pirate late-inning comeback.

The Pirates trailed, 5-1, going into the seventh inning. They picked up two runs in the seventh and one in the eighth to close the gap to 5-4. Then, with two out in the ninth, Bill Madlock tied it with a solo homer off Gary Lucas. "I was definitely looking for a homer," said Madlock. "That's the only thing I could do. I was looking for a fastball up and he gave me one."

That set the stage for Pena's bases-loaded, two-out single two innings later.

Astros 5, Mets 4. Phil Garner lashed a two-out eighth inning double down the left field line to drive home Dickie Thon with the winning run as the Astros sent the Mets to their ninth straight defeat.

Victims of a poor start, the Astros have now won 11 of their last 15 games.

For the Mets, last in the NL East, their frustrations were symbolized as Hubie Brooks was called out at the plate in the eighth inning on a play that would have given them a 5-4 lead. Brooks was then ejected after vehemently arguing the call with umpire Ed Montague.

Cubs 8, Giants 4. Bill Buckner smashed a three-run homer and drove in four runs, while Bump Wills drove in three runs with a pair of singles to lead the Cubs over the Giants.

Friona Industries Generate Earnings

FRIONA - Improved profitability from the sale of company-owned cattle, particularly in the fourth quarter, and continued expansion of meat processing and distribution operations enabled Friona Industries, Inc. to generate net earnings of $3,425,000, or $1.57 per share, on sales $205 million for its fiscal year ended June 30, 1982.

This was a 51 percent increase in net earnings and 8 percent higher sales than in the prior fiscal year.

"All of our industry segments achieved good profitability," said Ron Davenport, chairman, president and chief executive officer.

"The main difference between fiscal 1981 and fiscal 1982 was in the Company-owned Cattle segment," he explained.

"In fiscal 1982 the Company sold about 17 percent more cattle, or 74,000 head versus 63,000 head last year. The cost of purchasing and fattening the cattle was 6 percent lower than in fiscal 1981."

Operating profits from the marketing of Company-owned Cattle amounted to $2.3 million, compared to a $392,000 loss reported in the prior fiscal year.

Meat Processing and Distribution more than doubled its operating profits ($2.7 million compared with $1.3 million in the prior year).

The average number of Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburger Restaurants serviced with hamburger meat and other products increased by 19 percent, from 571 to an average of 682 restaurants in fiscal 1982.

"Throughout most of the fiscal year, occupancy in our feedyards and others in our operating area was below the prior-level, which affected some aspects of our business," commented Davenport.

In the Custom Feeding segment operating income in fiscal 1982 was $2.9 million compared with $3.5 million last year.

The manufacture and sale of commercial feeds declined about 20 percent for an operating profit of $1.2 million as tonnage sold decreased some 14 percent and average sales price was down 5 percent.

Operating profit from Animal Health Supplies in fiscal 1982 was $694,000, down 3 percent from the previous year.

Grain operations had operating profit of $399,000, a drop of 35 percent because of a 10 percent decrease in pounds sold and a lower average sales price.

"The fourth quarter brought dramatic improvement for most of our major operating segments" said Davenport.

Net earnings of $1.7 million, or 80 cents per share, on sales of $57 million compared with net earnings of $654,000, or 29 cents per share, on sales of $46 million the fourth quarter of fiscal 1981.

"Continued gains in profit margins of cattle created optimism among livestock raisers which in turn contributed to the placement of more cattle in feedyards," he said.

During the quarter the Company sold about 21,400 head of its cattle, or 35 percent more than in the same quarter of fiscal 1981, for an operating profit of $1.5 million. This compared with a loss of $27,000 in the same quarter of the previous year. Prices were up 4 percent while costs decreased 7 percent.

Operating profits from Meat Processing and Distribution gained 48 percent, totaling $1 million as the average number of restaurants serviced increased by 96 to 691.

Average occupancy at the Company's four feedyards was 26 percent ahead of the fourth quarter of last year and totaled 88,300 head. The 31 percent more feed sold raised operating profits from Custom Feeding to $938,000, or 7 percent higher than in the same quarter last year.

Commercial Feeds and Animal Health Supplies also benefitted from favorable cost-price relationships. Operating profits from Commercial Feeds more than doubled on a quarter-to-quarter basis, $428,000 versus, $207,000, while Animal Health Supplies operating profit of $193,000 was up 45 percent.

Lower grain prices were chiefly responsible for a 54 percent decline in operating profits, $89,000 this year compared with $196,000 in fiscal 1981's fourth quarter.

In the Other category business segment, operating profits both for the fourth quarter ($90,000) and the entire fiscal year ($451,000) were down 14 and 34 percent, respectively. Sale of the Poarch Bros., Inc. steel fabricating subsidiary and a decrease in hauling activities by Friona Transport contributed to this decline.

"We consider the Company to be in an advantageous position," said Davenport. "Stability or increases in cattle prices would present a good opportunity for profitability in the sale of company cattle. Our inventory at fiscal yearend of 50,600 head was almost 47 percent higher than a year ago.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The debate over the death penalty nearly ended and the state's new death by injection policy put into practice last week when a 26-year-old Houston man came within less than seven hours of being executed.

Charles Bass, who has been sentenced to die for the murder of a Houston city marshal, came closer to being put to death than any other condemned murderer in Texas since the last execution here in 1964.

With a federal judge in Houston turning down a request by Bass' attorneys for a stay of execution, Gov. Bill Clements was set to fly home from a vacation in Taos, N.M., to be on hand to make a last-minute decision on a reprieve.

Both Clements and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby were out of state, leaving Houston Sen. Walter Mengden, president pro tem of the Senate, in charge. But Clements said he did not want to put such a heavy burden on Mengden's shoulders.

However, before the governor's plane ever reached Taos to pick him up, a three-judge panel from the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted the stay.

Attorney General Mark White—in what Clements' campaign staff described as a purely political action—went to two U.S. Supreme Court justices seeking to overturn that stay. White is Clements' Democratic opponent in this year's gubernatorial race.

However, the matter eventually was referred to the full court for later consideration.

The 5th Circuit Court action means that Bass cannot be executed for at least 30 days because of a state law that grants an automatic 30-day reprieve to any prisoner whose execution is not carried out on schedule.

Polls and Polls
How much credibility do voters give to so-called "latest poll results" released by candidates during campaigns?

A recent faux pas on the part of Republican Congressman and U.S. Senate candidate Jim Collins must have caused some perplexity among voters, and it surely made Gov. Bill Clements steaming mad.

Collins held a press conference last week to release a poll which he said showed him now only 10 percentage points behind incumbent U.S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen, but also revealed that his poll showed Clements trailing his opponent Mark White by four points.

The press corps perked up at that information, since Clements claims his own polls show him leading White comfortably.

Clements campaign staffers spent much of the week discrediting Collins' pollster, Arthur Finkelstein of New York.

Finkelstein, the chief pollster for the National Conservative Foundation (NCPAC), also came under fire from Bentsen himself last week. Bentsen wants the Federal Election Commission to investigate Finkelstein's relationship with NCPAC for alleged impropriety.

While NCPAC in the past has claimed credit for knocking off such liberals as U.S. Senators George McGovern, Frank Church and Birch Bayh, the East Coast group is viewed with suspicion by many Texans as an outsider group... and especially hated by Democrats. Republican arch-conservative Clements has avoided the NCPAC aid, but GOP lieutenant governor hopeful George Strake reportedly is using NCPAC help.

The November election may well serve as a litmus test revealing whether the Virginia-based NCPAC can bring its style of rough and tumble campaign tactics and survive in rough and tumble Texas politics.

Comptroller Criticisms
And while Collins was slipping up, another Republican, comptroller candidate Mike Richards, was making even a bigger blunder.

Richards, a state senator from Houston, called a press conference to disclose allegations that incumbent Bob Bullock was using state employees in his re-election bid.

Richards released a tape recording he said proved that workers in the comptroller's office were searching out information on a computer system for Bullock's campaign.

The first-term legislator, however, must have forgotten to read the Texas Election Code prior to making the accusations because he later found himself in hot water for the methods he used to obtain the tape.

Richards' campaign workers, posing as employees of a computer consulting firm, called the comptroller's office and taped the conversation without revealing their true identities or that the call was being recorded. Bullock criticized Richards as "sleazy," said he was "getting into a slime pit" and cried that the Republican's tactics amounted to entrapment.

Vote Tabulation
On further election issues, Secretary of State David Dean announced that his office definitely will be taking over the chore of adding up the votes this November from the Texas Election Bureau.

Dean praised the bureau for its work in tabulating election results since 1916, but said it was time for the state to assume that function.

The result, Dean said, will be "minimize the opportunity for election fraud" and "maximize the flow of election results" to the public and candidates.

The bureau, a consortium of news media, will continue to assist the secretary of state with the vote count.

Bell Rates
The Texas Municipal League has asked the Public Utility Commission to grant Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. less than half of the $47.5 million rate hike it has requested.

Bell asked for an almost identical increase last year, but only received about half that amount.

Once-Booming Mexican Trade Dries Up Along Border

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A year ago American border businesses reported rich Mexicans buying expensive cars, condominiums and merchandise with suitcases full of cash from Mexico's oil boom.

This week these same businesses are suffering in the wake of the second peso devaluation of 1982.

Malls along the border that as late as December were teeming with the nouvelle riche from Mexico were almost devoid of Mexican customers who normally take shopping vacations in the United States during July and August.

"No Acetamos Pesos (We Don't Accept Pesos)" read signs hung on smaller businesses from Brownsville to El Paso. Bigger stores that were accepting the Mexican currency were doing so at extremely high rates of exchange pending the setting of a stable rate.

One San Antonio real estate agent reported she lost $1 million in condominium sales to Mexicans since the devaluation, and a local magazine that went into business a year ago to lure wealthy Mexicans shoppers to the United States confirmed it is folding.

"They just haven't got the money," said W.F. Pape, comptroller at Richter's Department Store in Laredo's nearly desolate Riverdrive Mall, situated on the banks of the Rio Grande and catering to Mexican customers. Mall sales dropped 65 percent.

"Plus along the border the exchange rate, if it exists, is bouncing like a rubber ball," Pape said. "There's just nobody in town. Our parking lot is pretty empty. Traffic is pretty slim. I haven't had a firm exchange rate from the banks since Aug. 12. It's just a wild guess where it is going. Nobody knows. Everybody's praying day by day that things will settle down," Pape said.

Pape said his store's business dropped 30 percent when Mexico devalued the peso last February, decreasing its value from 27 to the U.S. dollar to 48, but fell 60 percent after the second devaluation.

The latest devaluation drove the peso's value down to a low of 130 pesos to the dollar, until it gradually began leveling off this week in the range of 90 to 97 pesos.

That delivered a killing blow to virtually all trade from across the Rio Grande, Pape said.

"It was like there was a little panic," said San Antonio realtor Gail Gilliam who sells expensive condos. "I lost a million dollars worth of contracts in the first week" when the devaluation and accompanying money-exchange restrictions were imposed.

Ms. Gilliam said many of her customers, however, have reinstated their deals since the first week of Mexico's monetary crisis, but will carefully watch their cash flows in the future.

Pat Ehler, another San Antonio real estate agent, said Mexicans who last year purchased $150,000 to $200,000 condominiums at posh Mission Trade development on San Antonio's north side were having problems making their payments because of the crackdown on the dollar flight from Mexico.

"The ones who paid cash for their property in Mission Trade are in good shape. The ones that have a mortgage are in bad shape. They cannot get their money out to make mortgage payments and they are anticipating foreclosures," Ms. Ehler said.

"We don't want to exacerbate Mexico's problems," said John Ziller, publisher of "Ventana USA," a U.S. shopping guide that boasted a circulation of 235,000 in Mexico where it was inserted into Mexican newspapers. "Obviously we reach a market that's composed of flight capital. Flight capital is considered to be one of the prime reasons that Mexico is having problems, and we don't want to make things worse."

No border point was immune from the economic disaster.

Said Jerry Markham of a J.C. Penney store in McAllen, "Our Mexican trade is gone."

"You could walk up and down the mall and find the pesos anywhere from 85 to 130 to 1," said Markham, general merchandise manager for the store in La Plaza Shopping Center in the border city of McAllen. "We're looking at probably 60 percent" decrease because of the lack of Mexican shoppers, he said.

Customs broker Arthur Brewer of Laredo said the restrictions imposed by the Mexican government to halt the flight of capital to the United States were particularly worrisome to people in his business.

"I've got two checks in my pocket right now and I can't collect them," Brewer said. "You can turn them in to a Mexican bank and they will cash them for pesos and then buy dollars. You might wind up with $4,000 back out of a $5,000 check. I prefer to hold them. If they'll do away with these exchange controls... I think they're even worse than the devaluation. If people cannot freely exchange money, I think they've got problems."

Roy Phillips, manager of Dillard's department store at Brownsville's Amigoland Mall, acknowledged the peso business was down but said they were getting some Mexican customers who "evidently have dollar accounts here in the United States."

Phillips said his store was accepting pesos at a 90-to-1 rate, hoping the currency eventually would stabilize in that range.

Al Cisneros, director of the Port of Brownsville, said the two peso devaluations coupled with the U.S. recession have contributed to a loss of about 1,000 jobs this year at the facility. The port and associated industries divide business 50-50 between shipments to the United States and to Northern Mexico, which does not have its own port.

Joe Lopez, head of the Downtown Merchants Association in Del Rio, said that he anticipated it would take longer for border business to get back to normal this time.

"They've adjusted to all the other devaluations so I don't see any reason why they won't adjust to this one. Of course, it'll probably take longer because it's a bigger drop than any one before and it happened more recent to the last one," Lopez said.

Although many business leaders along the border expressed optimism that Mexico's economic problems would be worked out and the Mexican trade would return, one merchant representative in Houston said he feared the worst.

"We did not have the effect from the first devaluation that the border cities did," said the Houston official, who did not want to be identified. "The frightening thing is the United States had to give them $1 billion. The country is practically bankrupt; let's call it the way it is."

San Antonio banker Tom Frost Jr., whose institution makes millions of dollars in loans to Mexican government and private corporations, disagreed.

"Mexico is not going to fall off the face of the earth," Frost said.

Alden Schiller, manager of McAllen's Chamber of Commerce, echoed Frost.

"It's a temporary crisis of confidence in the Mexican government caused by cash flow problems," Schiller said. "I don't see the institutions as being too weak to handle it."

Schiller and others played down rumors that the monetary crisis in Mexico could lead to political instability, viewing it as a purely economic situation that is being well handled by the Mexican government.

"Mexico is a socially stable country with quite stable institutions. What this probably is going to do is force the institutions to change and accommodate some necessary change in terms of making the government a little more accountable for its actions," Schiller said.

"I think it's important to understand that the peso needed to be devalued in order to have a realistic value vis a vis the dollar," Cisneros added.

Otis Parchman, chairman and executive officer of the First National Bank of Brownsville, added, "We're optimistic long-term. We think that Mexico is taking the type of measures to get things under control and over a period of time, Mexico has the resources to do that."

ABC, CBS Tie for First Place

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC and CBS tied for first place in the latest television ratings, with six of the Top 10 spots going to CBS and four to ABC.

The two networks each had a rating of 13.6 for the week ended Aug. 22. NBC was in third place with a rating of 11.0. The networks say this means in an average prime-time minute 13.6 percent of the nation's homes with TV were tuned to ABC and 13.6 percent to CBS.

It was only the third time that "Too Close for Comfort" had made it to the top, although the two-year-old comedy had been consistently in the Top 10. It first made it to No. 1 for the week ended May 16 when it tied with the Miss U.S.A. Pageant. It was in sole possession of first place for the week ended June 6.

The other shows in the Top 10 were the usual series favorites except for "The Barbara Walters Summer Special" on ABC.

Here are the Top 10 shows: "Too Close for Comfort," a rating of 19.8 or 16.1 million households, ABC; "Filthy Rich," 19.2 or 15.6 million, CBS; "The Jeffersons," 19.2 or 15.6 million, CBS; "Three's Company," 18.5 or 15.1 million, ABC; "Fantasy Island," 18.0 or 14.7 million, ABC; "The Barbara Walters Summer Special," 17.9 or 14.6 million, ABC; "Trapper John, M.D.," 17.7 or 14.4 million, CBS; "M-A-S-H.," 17.5 or 14.3 million, CBS; "Alice," 17.4 or 14.2 million, CBS; "60 Minutes," 17.3 or 14.1 million, CBS.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am impotent and I'd like to cure myself if it is possible. I can be right in the middle of the act and then boom, it's gone. It is really frustrating. I am 30 years old and in good health. I noticed it when I was 17 years old. Then I went to prison and got out at age 25. I've had this problem ever since. I'd appreciate it if you would help me. I am 5 feet 10, weigh 220, not fat; I have big bones. Please tell me what to do to overcome my problem or to understand it better.

DEAR READER - I have made it a point to stress in columns in the past year that most cases of impotence are NOT due to psychological factors. Usually a man is not impotent because he hates his wife or resents his mother. Most impotence is because of a medical problem, commonly diabetes, alcohol, depression, a hormone imbalance with too much prolactin from the pituitary or a reaction to a medication.

However, there are cases of impotence that are on a psychological basis. Where as impotence in middle-aged and older men is more often caused by disease, impotence in young men is more often from psychological factors. I do not know if you have a psychological problem, but you should first be carefully evaluated in case you do have a medical problem. That should include a measurement of testosterone levels, prolactin levels and blood glucose levels.

It is hard for me to accept that your height and weight are normal. Perhaps that is a clue that you have some imbalance in hormones.

If you prove to have no underlying medical problems then you need psychological counseling. The most common psychological problem causing impotence in young men is fear of failure. Your prison term and lack of sexual opportunity at that stage of life may have caused you to lose confidence in yourself. But don't guess, get some professional help.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I recently read a nutrition book that said if you followed its diet you could retard the aging process six to 12 years. The diet is high in nucleic acids, seafood, asparagus, spinach, onions, mushrooms, oatmeal, wheat germ or bran plus two glasses of milk, four glasses of water, one glass of fruit or vegetable juice and chicken liver. Can the fountain of youth be found in a sardine can? Is aging caused by inherited factors or can such a diet help?

I've been eating spinach every day and would like to know if I should go on. Spinach in the freezer, spinach in the vegetable bin, spinach in cans on the shelves. Ugh.

DEAR READER - I wish the problem of aging could be solved that easily. The diet doesn't sound like it contains anything that is harmful, but chicken livers do contain lots of cholesterol. A high nucleic acid diet could increase your uric acid level, particularly if you have any susceptibility to gout.

Yes, inherited traits have a lot to do with how soon you age. But a sensible diet, staying slim, keeping active and avoiding fatty foods and tobacco help a lot in getting the most out of what you inherit. But you will have to look beyond sardines and spinach for optimal results.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Do you have any suggestions for hay fever victims? The ragweed season is upon us and my nose runs constantly when that happens. I've had the problem for years but I am fortunate that it's just ragweed I'm allergic to. I understand you can also have this reaction to grass and trees.

Do you think it would do any good for me to take the series of shots some people take to prevent hay fever? I take antihistamines, sometimes one after another but they just don't do the trick. I understand there is no ragweed in Europe and have suggested to my husband that we take a trip but it is a little too rich for our finances.

DEAR READER - You could visit the Northwest

United States as there is little ragweed pollen there. And you might enjoy it that time of year.

If you can't escape you can close up the house. That means you will want to use air-conditioning. The thin filters in window units are not thick enough to filter out pollen, so be sure to close the fresh air vent if you use them. If you have a central unit an electrostatic precipitator may help. Room electrostatic filter units are not nearly so effective.

Desensitization shots are often very effective for hay fever (allergic rhinitis) but it is a little late to expect much help from that for this year's ragweed season. It is best to start six to nine months before the season for best results.

Antihistamines are still a major medicine in controlling symptoms. But you must take the antihistamines before your symptoms appear. That usually means a regular schedule whether you have symptoms or not.

There are some steroid nasal sprays. Decadron is one but it should not be used regularly or for a long time. Beclomethasone used to treat asthma is not approved for hay fever in the United States but is used in Canada. It is less likely to induce steroid effects if you use it for a period of time.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I would like some information about margarine, as compared to butter. Is it possible to use margarine to excess, as one can butter? Does it make any difference which margarine you use? Do margarines contain cholesterol?

DEAR READER - There are many different brands of margarine. You need to look on the label. Most of them today list the amount of saturated fat, mono-unsaturated fat and polyunsaturated fat. You should look for one that contains the least amount of saturated fat and the most polyunsaturated fat.

Since margarines are usually made from vegetable products they do not contain cholesterol. That is one of the big advantages they have if you need to limit cholesterol intake.

Of course the type of fat the margarine contains, saturated or polyunsaturated, is important but don't forget that the total fat intake in your diet is important too. If your goal is to restrict calories you should know that you will get the same number of calories in an ounce of margarine as you will in an ounce of butter. If you need to restrict your total fat you may wish to limit margarine just as you would butter.

DEAR DR. LAMB - In one of your columns you wrote about how bad posture can cause a problem of a protruding abdomen. You mentioned posture training and exercises to strengthen back muscles as an aid for good posture that would help.

I am 37 years old, male, weigh 160 pounds and am 5 feet 10. I have always had a protruding abdomen because of poor posture. I have always been very athletic and am exceptionally strong as a result of extensive weight lifting, but evidently I have not trained the right muscles in my back enough to support good posture.

Would you tell me what exercises I should do that would help with my posture and how I can reduce my protruding abdomen? Is it too late for me to correct this problem?

DEAR READER - I do not know that the cause of your protruding abdomen is from poor posture. Regardless of your posture, if you happen to have too much fat inside your abdominal cavity you will not be able to eliminate a protruding abdomen.

Men are more prone to develop fat deposits in and over the abdomen than are women. A good program for you will involve eliminating any excess fat you may have. Remember you can't see or feel that which is inside the abdominal cavity.

Strong abdominal muscles are a must. That includes the lower abdominal muscles. You may have developed these if you are an exercise buff. In addition you need to have muscles along your spine strong enough to prevent rounding and loss of the normal lumbar curve. General back-strengthening exercises, and particularly for the lower back, help here. But you consciously must not slump, rounding your lower lumbar curve and letting your abdomen hang out. Bending your spine is like bending a bow. The bent bow allows a slack bow string and similarly a bent back allows slack abdominal muscles.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Can you tell me what might be the cause of bleeding silently from the digestive tract? Will it heal eventually?

DEAR READER - There is a long list. You can bleed from esophageal varices (varicose veins of the esophagus) commonly associated with liver disease. Or there may be an ulcer in the lower esophagus, sometimes associated with a hiatal hernia. Then there are bleeding ulcers of the stomach and the duodenum. Bleeding from the small bowel can occur without symptoms and so can bleeding from diverticula (pockets of the colon).

Often bleeding is painless. If there is pain, it is because of the associated condition that caused the bleeding, such as pain from an ulcer. The bleeding is not why the ulcer causes pain. Medicines may increase the likelihood of bleeding from the digestive tract. Aspirin belongs to this category. There are many other medicines.

Frequently the first sign of bleeding is a low hemoglobin or anemia that suggests bleeding from somewhere. Then, digested blood may cause tarry stools. The treatment and the outlook depend entirely on the cause.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am enclosing a copy of the New Mayo Clinic diet. It strikes me that your column on our paper that said grapefruit juice didn't help burn off calories and, in fact, contained calories, is just the opposite of this diet. I have been on the Mayo Clinic Diet and I lost 11 pounds in 15 days. It is difficult to believe your comment, as the results are to the contrary. I'd be interested in your answer, as would quite a few people around here. Yes, I have been to the Mayo Clinic.

DEAR READER - You may have been to the Mayo Clinic but you didn't get that grapefruit diet there. It is well known among informed professionals that the "Mayo Clinic Diet" with "12 eggs and 12 slices of bacon if you like" has nothing to do with the Mayo Clinic. It is a promotion gimmick to label it as the Mayo Clinic Diet. So I am already wondering about you and your letter.

The so-called Mayo Clinic Diet is just another low-carbohydrate diet. It is not recommended by competent dietitians or nutritionists. The fact that you lost weight on it is not very important. You can lose weight on lots of unsound diets that are bad for your health.

The diet you sent me is a horrible example of dangerous dieting. Your weight loss wasn't even fat. A good portion of it was your normal body water that was washed out because of the absence of sufficient carbohydrate in your diet. I would compare such responses to a wilted plant that needs water. And as soon as you return to a normal sensible diet your body will regain the water it needs and you will have your pounds back.

Even if you ate nothing you would only lose about a pound of body tissue in a day, one half-pound of fat and one half-pound of needed body protein.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture food values, a half of a medium grapefruit contains 55 calories. That's not a lot, but don't assume it is the grapefruit that is causing a person to lose weight. The weight loss is from water loss and the decrease in calorie consumption. I'm sorry but calories do count.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I find it inconvenient to do much walking in the winter because of the subzero temperatures and snow. Is the exercise bike a good substitute? I would especially like to know if it is beneficial to the heart muscle.

DEAR READER - There are many different types of stationary bicycles available. You can get one that you can adjust to increase your work by cycling against resistance. Any of these will help train your heart. The heart-training effect depends upon increasing the need to deliver more oxygen to working muscles. It follows that any exercise that requires lots of energy and hence oxygen will condition the heart.

Of course not everyone should do vigorous exercise. Individuals with heart disease should follow sensible programs designed for them on an individual basis.

As a guide to calorie use, cycling outdoors usually uses about half as many calories per mile as walking. After all, the wheel was invented to make things easier. Of course, if you increase the resistance provided by your stationary bicycle you can increase the calorie use.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 30-year-old man and have been dating a divorcee of the same age. Although sex has not entered the relationship yet, it most likely may, along with marriage. She would like to have children. She has told me that she has venereal herpes.

I understand this is an incurable viral disease and that it is only infectious during a flare-up. I'm extremely impressed that she told me in advance of any potential exposure. I'm sure that was very hard to do.

Can we reasonably avoid the infectious periods so as to prevent infecting me?

DEAR READER - Just recently a new medicine has been approved to help control herpes simplex 2, sometimes called genital herpes. It is acyclovir, marketed as an ointment called Zovirax. It will not cure herpes but it will shorten the time required for healing of sores caused by the initial attack and will shorten the time live viruses are present in the sores. That should mean it will shorten the time the lesions are contagious. There will be much more learned soon about its effectiveness and limitations since it will be widely used.

THEY CONTROL YOUR MONEY

AUSTIN — We all like to think we control our own money, and to some extent, we do. But there are some state agencies in Texas that also have a great deal of say over what happens to our funds, particularly when we deposit those funds in a financial institution.

Several of these agencies are up for Sunset review this year. The Finance Commission, which controls the Banking Department and the Savings and Loan Department, as well as the Office of Consumer Credit, is one of them. Review by the Sunset Commission, of course, will decide whether these agencies are worth continuing as they are or whether they should be changed or abolished.

The Finance Commission appoints the commissioners for the Banking and Savings and Loan Departments, and the commissioner for the Office of Consumer Credit. It also reports to the Legislature on legislation concerning banking and related topics.

The Banking Department examines all state-chartered banks and monitors banks that may be getting into financial trouble. It enforces the banking laws, which prevent unsafe and/or unsound banking practices.

For some reason, the Banking Department also regulates sellers of pre-paid funeral contracts and regulates perpetual-care cemeteries. We doubt these functions are related to banking, and we probably will transfer these functions to a more appropriate agency.

Bank charters are approved by the Banking Board. The Board also can close state banks, on the motion of the Banking Commissioner. Of course, the Banking Commissioner is on the board of the Banking Department and the State Banking Board, so the two agencies are closely related.

The Savings and Loan Department charters and monitors savings and loan associations much like the Banking Board and the Banking Department do with banks. This is a very important function these days because of the hardships many traditional savings and loan associations have seen recently.

The Office of Consumer Credit licenses finance companies, pawn shops and pawn shop employees. They also examine the licensees and enforce the consumer credit code.

So although we all have some control over our own money, so does the state. That's why these agencies under review are so important. We are fortunate to have a seat on the Sunset Commission, but only if we use it. We hope you will send us your complaints and suggestions about these agencies so we can improve them. Please write Senator Bill Sarpalius, P. O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

Musical to Head For Texas in November

MILFORD, N.H. (AP) — If you like Gilbert and Sullivan you will love "Sullivan & Gilbert," a musical merriest about the Victorian team that wrote the words and music to the most infectious songs in the English language.

"Sullivan & Gilbert," by Kenneth Ludwig, a young Washington, D.C., lawyer who gets up at 4:30 a.m. to write plays before going to work, is having its world premiere through Sunday as the last production of the American Stage Festival's eighth season.

The production moves to Dallas and Fort Worth, Texas, in November.

"It is fortunate that neither of us ages," declares William Gilbert, the quarelsome and sometimes pompous word-smith to his partner, the genteel and aristocratic composer Arthur Sullivan. With that truism, Gilbert sets the tone for the play.

The music of Gilbert and Sullivan never ages, performed by amateurs and professionals from high schools to Broadway productions with rock stars in the leads.

"Sullivan & Gilbert" takes place in December 1890, the day of final rehearsal for an evening's revue at London's Savoy Theatre for a command performance for Queen Victoria.

Thus the play delves into the explosive relationship between Gilbert and Sullivan, the contribution of impresario Richard D'Oyly Carte and the Savoyards and serves as a wonderful excuse for songs from "Princes Ida," "Patience," "Iolanthe," "Mikado," "Pinafore," and "Ruddigore."

The cast, especially in ensemble, and small orchestra, were so rousing that at times members of the audience were swept up in a sing-along of Gilbert and Sullivan's greatest hits.

The words and music of Gilbert and Sullivan get along perfectly, but Sullivan and Gilbert's relationships as people and artists were far from perfect.

They even argued about the number of operettas they had written. Sullivan loved to annoy Gilbert by calling him by his middle name, Schwenk. Sullivan complained that their work was ordinary. He wanted to write operas, symphonies.

Gilbert ridiculed Sullivan's "serious" aspirations and insisted on perfection of their art. But despite their different temperaments, they produced immortal theatrical music.

With the exception of some corny jokes — "You're flat," says one singer to another. "I know," she replies, "that's why I'm not married" — Ludwig peppers the play with witty dialogue worthy of Gilbert, played with the proper bluster by George Ede, and Sullivan, played endearingly by Jonathan Moore.

The play has romance, royalty and even a duet with Sullivan and Gilbert singing a song from "Patience."

The love interest comes from Violet Russell, a former dance hall performer who has won the heart of Sullivan, but who's also chased by Prince Albert, who literally gets into the act and sings!

Soprano Kay Walbye-Cadiff, who plays Violet, sings most of the female leads well, but the best singing by far comes from baritone Michael Connolly and bass-baritone Floyd King who play the Savoyards George Grossmith and Rutland Barrington.
