TCGA Head: Gasohol Plant May Be Built in Area

Brand Form Editor

Area farmers learned of the possibility of construction of a plant for converting corn into fuel-grade alcohol, to be located in the Dimmitt or Hereford area, and heard Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Reagan V. Brown emphasize that the days of "cheap food" are gone forever during the sixth annual membership meeting of the Texas Corn Growers Association in Dimmitt Monday.

Reading from a statement authorized by the Texas Agriculture Department, Carl King of Dimmitt, president of the association, reported that the city of Dimmitt has "a 50-50 chance" of landing a gasohol project.

King, a member of the Texas Energy Advisory Council, reported that a pilot plant project has been discussed extensively, and added that the state agriculture commissioner has indicated a desire to get such a plant constructed in Texas this year.

In conjunction with the discussion of the gasohol plant possibilities, King reported that officials of the Amstar Corporation's corn wet milling plant in Reagan Brown Also Speaks, Blasts Cheap Food Policy

Dimmitt have a meeting concerning such a project scheduled for sometime in the near future in San Francisco.

Gasohol received heavy emphasis as a market of the future throughout the morning session of the meeting.

Doug Lappins of the Dimmitt Amstar plant addressed the gathering of producers on the possibilities of a gasohol plant in Dimmitt.

"On the plus side, we already have a plant here in Dimmitt that can produce gasohol cheaper than a regular fermentation plant, and this looks good for Dimmitt. The question at this point is exactly what to do with it after we get it. We have to locate markets for the product, in the event we produce it. There are many unknowns in converting to production of gasohol that make it expensive to us and farmers, and conversion of materials to alcohol can't consume more fossil fuels than they produce. It gets really involved the farther you get into it. We are interested in gasohol, however." Lappins stated. Brown, in a laid-back style that has become his trademark in public addresses to farm gatherings, told his audience that Americans still only pay food in this country anymore. We simply can't afford it. I think one approach to get agriculture on an even keel with the rest of the economy is to up the amount of disposable income Americans pay for food. Disposable income for food is gonna' have to go up to 30 percent in this country for agriculture to ever survive," Brown emphasized.

18.6 percent of their disposable income for food, the lowest percentage anywhere in the world except Canada. "There ain't never gonna' be cheap

"We simply must put a profit back in farming. We are facing a disaster and nobody listens: In the last two years, food went up $41 in this country. The farmer received $2 of that increase." Brown continued.

The agriculture commissioner drew an ovation as he stated, !'Farmers and ranchers can no longer subsidize a cheap food policy."

Brown called for upgrading facilities across the state for handling agriculture commodities bound for export trade, and explained that cultivating export markets is becoming an important responsibility of the TDA.

"We have 3 million farmers and Russia has 56 million, yet we are selling them grain. There has to be something good about our system," Brown commented.

"Agriculture is the only thing America has left, and we desperately need a national food and fiber policy. We can't change the rules with every new President," he continued.

Brown also gave high priority to a water import project for Texas, indicating impatience with the pace at which the massive undertaking has proceeded.

"We have worlds of stuff on paper, but no action. If you rolled up all the damn paper used in these studies, you could put a pipeline clear to the Arctic circle and bring the water in here. Millions have already been spent on plans on paper, but there's been no action."

Brown opined.
In the business session of the association meeting, King was elected to another term as TCGA president, Jim Dowdy of Dumas was selected as vice president, and Harold Bob Bennett of Hart was chosen as secretary-treasurer.

Glenn Odom of Dimmitt presented a cost of production report which revealed a startling gap between current market prices for yellow corn and the amount farmers spent over the past year to produce it.

Odom's report indicated total production costs of $491.80 per acre, or $6.27 per cwt., including an input of $143.78 per acre or $1.84 per cwt. merely for

Women's Division Officers Installed at Annual Banquet

Despite the wintery, conditions last night, 61 members and guests of the Chamber Women's Division gathered at the Community Center for the installation of officers and the naming of the "Chamber Woman of the Year."

The latter coveted award, presented as the climactic conclusion of the annual banquet, went to Susie McGee, who has assisted in the Miss Hereford pageants, the Cowgirl Hall of Fame, the Hereford

Follies and the Fun Breakfasts, to cite a few. A lifetime resident of the Panhandle, Mrs. McGee received an engraved silver goblet as a symbol of the award, which was presented by Margaret Formby as she ended her term as Women's Division

Mrs. Formby received an engraved plaque and scrapbook from the incoming president, Mary Herring, in recognition of her service to the Chamber and community during 1978. Mrs. Formby expressed regrets that her term as president was ending because, "I had a great time and loved every minute of it." # March 1 Set as Date For Tax Relief Action

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Floor action on bills implementing the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment to the Texas Constitution is just over a month away, according to House Speaker Bill Clayton.

Clayton said Monday he and Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, had agreed that March 1 was a reasonable target

"If we are going to get school finance settled by the end of the session, we have got to get it out of the way." Clayton told reporters following a 22-minute session of the House.

School finance formulas are directly related to the Tax Relief Amendment because of changes it makes in local tax

He said Davis told him March 1 seemed practical but "it wasn't any particular deadline. I just wanted a date we felt like could be met." Davis announced to the House that his committee would begin hearings next week on legislation putting the Tax Relief Amendment into effect. The amendment was approved by the voters in November.

He said first on the agenda will be establishment of a formula to evaluate agricultural land according to its ability to generate income, not its value on the real

Next, Davis said, the committee will hold hearings on how to deal with intangible property such as bank accounts, stocks and bonds.

The amendment dropped the requirement that intangibles be taxed, but existing school finance law includes intangibles in determining each district's need for state aid, starting with 1979-80.

Rural areas want a generous agricultural value formula, while urban areas want intangibles dropped from the state school aid formula. If intangibles are counted, large urban districts would lose virtually all their state aid.

Clayton said no decision has been reached whether to deal with the tax relief legislation in one bill or a package

But, he said, "it would probably cause less suspicion" if both intangibles and agricultural values can be handled together.

Other features of the tax relief amendment that must be implemented by the Legislature include special homestead exemptions, up to $10,000, for the elderly and disabled and exemption of family autos from property taxation.

movement, including a number of tractorcades from different parts of the country, is scheduled to begin a series of demonstrations and protests here in early February.

Bergland told the Senate Agriculture Committee last week that net farm income - the amount farmers nationally have left over after paying for production expenses - jumped 40 percent in 1977, from $20.1 billion to $28.1 billion.

A reporter asked Bergland whether such general figures might be infuriating to some farmers who had a tough year in 1978 and did not share in the overall gain

"It can be, and we're careful to point out that we have to deal in averages," he and that means s well and some are not."

Bergland also said that while he expects China to be a significant buyer of U.S. grain in the future there is no plan for a formal agreement calling for it to make regular purchases each year.

"We have no plans for any formal (See BERGLAND, Page 2)

Susie McGee Named C-C Woman of Year

Susie McGee, whose varied background includes work on a cattle ranch, a professional music career and a stab at the Miss Texas title, was named "Chamber Woman of the Year" for 1978 during last night's Chamber Women's Division banquet.

The crowd reacted to the announcement with a standing ovation, honoring Mrs. McGee, who was selected for the citation by an anonymous committee. As the eighth local individual to be recognized as "Woman of the Year," Mrs. McGee received a sheath of long-stemmed red roses and an engraved silver goblet.

Mrs. McGee has been active in a number of Women's Division projects, but her greatest involvement has been in the Miss Hereford Pageant, of which she has been co-director for four years. Having personal experience as a pageant contestant, she has assisted the local entrants with stage poise and performance. "I played instruments during the shows," said Deaf Smith County's pipe-smoking judge. "It's where I really got interested in performing."

The medicine was Tate-Lax, the doctor's name was Moore. The shows were in Oklahoma.

"He said it was good for coughs, colds, moles, sore nose and pimples on the eveball. Did it work? It didn't hurt anybody," Nelson said.

"He also sold snake oil. He got his formula from an old Indian. At least Nelson played--and still plays--the fiddle, guitar, banjo, string bass and harmonica. After he was graduated from high school in El Dorado, Okla. (he grew up at Hollis, Okla.) Nelson organized a six-piece orchestra, which he called the "Swingsters." seven-piece group called the Wayfarers. He worked in the mail-order department of Montgomery Ward at Fort Worth at the time.

"We picked up a lot of our stuff from Wills and Milton Brown and the Lightcrust Doughboys. I sat in for O.C. Stockard with the Lightcrust Doughboys a couple of times and played the banjo."

Nelson, who married shortly thereafter, got out of the band business and began playing for only the amusement of himself and friends. Last November, he strummed a banjo solo in the "Follies,"

Ex-Houston Chief Earns 12 Years

HOUSTON (AP) - Former Houston Police Chief Carrol Lynn, still smiling and insisting he was innocent, was sentenced to 12 years in prison and a $10,000 fine Monday for perjury, obstruction of justice and extortion

Lynn, a veteran of 22 years on the police force, said, "I am still free; I'm innocent; I'm healthy."

Interviewed as he left the federal courtroom and walked with his wife to a nearby parking lot in downtown Houston. Lynn was asked if he feared for his life if placed in prison. He answered:

"I have never put anyone in prison who didn't belong there. So, I have no fear. Right now I am free."

Defense attorneys said they would file an appeal.

In addition to the sentence on the charges of perjury and obstruction of justice, U.S. District Judge Carl Bue said Lynn must serve five years of probation on the extortion charge. The probation will be denied if Lynn fails to pay the fine. at a rate of $2,000 a year.

The former officer could have received a maximum of 35 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Lynn will remain free under $50,000

Before Bue handed down the sentence, defense attorney James Pape argued that the Lynn "would be subject to daily danger if imprisoned, or he would have to be kept in virtual isolation."

U.S. Dependents

Ordered from Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - The U.S. Embassy today ordered the evacuation from Iran of all dependents of U.S. government employees, and again urged all non-essential American citizens to get out of the country following attacks on three Americans.

The order was issued after a shooting attack on an U.S. Air Force major Sunday night in Tehran and the beating of U.S. Consul David C. McGaffey and an American employee of Bell Helicopter International in the central Iraniancity of Isfahan on Monday afternoon.

U.S. Consulate sources in Isfahan said the trouble there began about 4 p.m. Monday with an altercation between the Bell Helicopter employee and an Iranian taxi driver near the city's Khoroush Hotel. The sources said a shot was fired during the dispute and the taxi driver had been hospitalized with a facial wound.

Details on the attack on McGaffey were not immediately available.

Iran's airports were supposed to be open today, but only one commercial plane was reported to have landed. Troops turned outgoing passengers away, and Ayatullah Ruhollah Khomeini continued to delay his return from exile.

Mobs of Khomeini's supporters hit the streets of Tehran again, attacking a police officer, setting fire to a brewery and clashing with security forces at least twice. Peaceful demonstrations were reported in the towns of Sanjan and Rezavieh.

"I haven't made any plans right now. It came as such a surprise that it will take some time to adjust to it," the elated newspaper heiress said Monday after President Carter commuted her bank robbery conviction.

She is scheduled to leave the Federal Correctional Institution at Pleasanton on Thursday, four days before the fifth anniversary of her kidnapping by members of the Symbionese Liberation

Among those expected to accom-Miss Hearst when she is released is her fiance, Bernard Shaw, 30, a San Francisco police officer who once was her bodyguard.

The couple had planned a Valentine's Day wedding, but Shaw said Monday they were postponing the wedding until they could be married in a church

The Rev. Ted Dumke, who led the campaign for her clemency, said Monday the couple were not considering marrying on St. Patrick's Day.

Meanwhile, prison officials said Miss Hearst was transferred Monday to an isolated room, away from the 300 other women at the prison.

Police Report

John Campbell and Renee Williams, of the Plains Motel, Apt. No. 27, reported Monday that they loaned out a stereo and two speakers to a man with the understanding he would return it.

Police said the man apparently did not bring back the stereo, valued at $65. Western Union, 202 N. Main, was burglarized Monday of $2,103. Police said the burglar apparently hid inside the business until it closed, then stole the money from a cash drawer.

At Wits End BY ERMA BOMBECK

The Hereford Brand-Tuesday, January 30, 1979-Pa

This winter, a lot of you people out there are going to be using your fireplace a lot. As some of you may or may not have already discovered, there is an art to starting a fire. Here are some observations which might prove helpful. Do not count on a careless smoker to start your fire. There is never a careless smoker around when you need one. I've seen them on television a million times and so have you. The smoker who simply flips a cigaretic but into a field and seconds later 300,000 acres of forest are abiaze. All it would take to start your fire is one careless cigarette, but it'll nev

Old newspapers never burn. You can feed your fire 50 to 60 pounds of newspapers that are taking up space in your garage, but they won't burn. The only paper that will catch on at all is the one just delivered which no one has read and which still has a rubber band on it.

Cereal boxes, milk cartons and cracker boxes are excellent fire starters, but you lose momentum when you have to stop and wait until the kids eat up their contents. Everyone in the room watching you struggle to build the fire will know that your wood is unseasoned but you. The builder of the fire is always the last to know.

Half of the people in the room watching you struggle to build the fire will know that you are giving the fire too much oxygen, thus creating a draft and blowing it out.

The other half of the people in the room watching you struggle to build the fire will know that you are not giving it enough oxygen, thus smothering it and blowing it out.

Do not be proud when members of the family offer old rulers, yardsticks, shoe supports, wooden hangers, birdhouses and Popsicle sticks. Every little bit of kindling helps.

Do not assault people who say they installed a gas conversion burner for under $14.00, use the prepared logs at the store for 98 cents, or who sit around all summer having the kids roll logs out of old newspaper that burn for 30 hours.

Never spurn the help of an eight-year-old scout who once built a fire out of wet wood by rubbing two Boy Scout leaders

Never go to bed on a fireplace of darkened ashes. The moment you turn your back and say, "It's too late for a fire anyway," flames will leap out toward the screen, wood will crackle and pop and you'll have smoking embers for three

Ex-Houston Chief

Earns 12 Years

HOUSTON (AP) - Former Houston Police Chief Carrol Lynn, still smiling and insisting he was innocent, was sentenced to 12 years in prison and a $10,000 fine Monday for perjury, obstruction of justice and extortion.

Lynn, a veteran of 22 years on the police force, said, "I am still free; I'm innocent; I'm healthy."

Interviewed as he left the federal courtroom and walked with his wife to a nearby parking lot in downtown Houston. Lynn was asked if he feared for his life if placed in prison. He answered:

"I have never put anyone in prison who didn't belong there. So, I have no fear. Right now I am free.'

Defense attorneys said they would file an appeal.

In addition to the sentence on the charges of perjury and obstruction of justice, U.S. District Judge Carl Bue said Lynn must serve five years of probation on the extortion charge. The probation will be denied if Lynn fails to pay the fine, at a rate of $2,000 a year.

The former officer could have received a maximum of 35 years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

Lynn will remain free under $50,000 bond.

U.S. Dependents

Ordered from Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - The U.S. Embassy today ordered the evacuation from Iran of all dependents of U.S. government employees, and again urged all non-essential American citizens to get out of the country following attacks on three Americans.

The order was issued after a shooting attack on an U.S. Air Force major Sunday night in Tehran and the beating of U.S. Consul David C. McGaffey and an American employee of Bell Helicopter International in the central Iraniancity of Isfahan on Monday afternoon.

U.S. Consulate sources in Isfahan said the trouble there began about 4 p.m. Monday with an altercation between the Bell Helicopter employee and an Iranian taxi driver near the city's Khoroush Hotel. The sources said a shot was fired during the dispute and the taxi driver had been hospitalized with a facial wound.

Details on the attack on McGaffey were not immediately available.

Iran's airports were supposed to be open today, but only one commercial plane was reported to have landed. Troops turned outgoing passengers away, and Ayatullah Ruhollah Khomeini continued to delay his return from exile.

Mobs of Khomeini's supporters hit the streets of Tehran again, attacking a police officer, setting fire to a brewery and clashing with security forces at least twice. Peaceful demonstrations were reported in the towns of Sanjan and Rezavieh.

Carter Commutes Term For Patty Hearst

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Patricia Hearst will be free for her wedding. blessed by a presidential decree cutting short her 7-year prison term.

robbery conviction.

She is scheduled to leave the Federal Correctional Institution at Pleasanton on Thursday, four days before the fifth anniversary of her kidnapping by members of the Symbionese Liberation

Among those expected to accompany Miss Hearst when she is released is her fiance, Bernard Shaw, 30, a San Francisco police officer who once was her bodyguard.

The couple had planned a Valentine's Day wedding, but Shaw said Monday they were postponing the wedding until they could be married in a church.

The Rev. Ted Dumke, who led the campaign for her clemency, said Monday the couple were not considering marrying on St. Patrick's Day.

Meanwhile, prison officials said Miss Hearst was transferred Monday to an isolated room, away from the 300 other women at the prison.

The public is invited to attend the class, which will be conducted at 1 and 7 p.m. A $5 fee is required of persons attending the class.

Ms. LeMay has been instrumental in perfecting many of the simple new clothing pattern alterations which replace the "slash and overlay" method of adjustments used on commercial patterns. As a result of extensive research with es, each with individual pattern fitting problems, Ms. LeMay has devised easy techniques of altering for fit, called Sequential Pattern Fitting (SPF).

Ms. LeMay has authorized courses in fitting and pattern design for men's, women's and children's clothes. She is currently working on a course dealing with do-it-yourself clothing design for the home seamstress. Because of increased interest now being shown by women in pants fitting. Ms. LeMay is devoting a large part of her time lecturing on this specialized subject.

Regents Slash WT Athletic Budget

By MARC HERRING

CANYON - The West Texas State University Board of Regents slashed the number of available scholarships from 121 to 73, cut the budget $236,000 and fired Athletic Director Dick Dietl in action to put the school's athletic future on more stable ground in their meeting

The scholarship cuts came in the area of football (85 to 43). basketball (15 to 12), track (11 to 4) and tennis (5 to 4). The available scholarships for women athletes were increased from five to 10. Hardest hit was the track team, which was a top contender in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Defense Keys Raider Win Over TCU

By GARY GARRISON Associated Press Writer

It was the same song, another verse as the Texas Longhorns rolled to an easy 79-53 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Houston Monday night.

It was the same because Texas coach Abe Lemons criticized the officiating and chided sports writers, telling them people should say Houston had a "bad game."

McBath said in a statement. While I presently have a 3.39 grade point average out of a possible 4.0, the average is less than competitive for admission to the medical school I want to attend."

McBath made a 3.9 average in the fall and said he is taking a heavy load of 19 hours this semester, including organic chemistry, genetics and microbiology. He plans to take 20 hours of pre-med courses next fall, as well the Medical College Aptitude Test.

He figures he needs at least a 3.6 grade average for medical school. He said he will apply to three or four state schools.

McBath started nine games in three years at Texas, and the Longhorns won seven. Three were celebrated - and possibly pivotal contests.

He was the No. 1 quarterback during the final three games of his freshman year, including a 29-12 victory over Arkansas that enabled Darrell Royal to finish his 23-year college coaching career without a losing season. McBath raced for 118 yards

He sat on the bench this past season until Baylor wallop Texas 38-14 in an embarrassing loss that Texas coaches considered potentially damaging to recruiting.

McBath halted the brief skid the next game, however, by directing Texas to a 22-7 victory over Texas A&M in the regular season finale. He scored once and threw a 47-yard pass to Johnny "Lam" Jones for a touchdown.

In the Dec. 23 Sun Bowl at El Paso. McBath ran for a touchdown and passed to Jones for a score as Texas trounced Maryland, 42-0, and climbed to No. 9 in the Associated Press poll. It was the first bowl victory for Coach Fred Akers.

"I was pleased with the offense," McBath said in an interview. "The pitches to 'Ham' Jones were coming back real good - it was a lot of fun." In each of those three major games, McBath played before a national television audience.

which was expected to sign the contract at a two-day meeting here, showed signs of irritation as the two American bodies were still not ready.

Juan Samaranch of Spain, chairman of the IOC press commission, presided over a news conference at which both the LAOC and the USOC were represented.

A reporter asked: "Do you not think that people interested the Olympic movement around the world will feel that two irresponsible bodies coming here to sign a major contract and then failing to agree on the wording are wasting time and money?"

"I agree." Samaranch said tersely. But USOC President Robert Kane jumped up and tried to restore confidence in the plan to stage the Olympic Games in the United States for the first time in 48 years. "I've never thought for a moment that the Games would not come to Los Angeles in 1984," Kane declared.

'There's no substantial disagreement between the parties. We're in the stage of finalizing our agreement. We're not wasting time or being irresponsible."

The two American bodies share financial responsibility for the Games in Los Angeles. They have agreed on a share of the profits - if there are any.

But recently the USOC also #### demanded a share in the permanent assets - stadiums and other buildings - as a guarantee of possible loss. This is the issue holding up the contract once more. Monique Berlioux, Director of the IOC, tried to quash talk of an ultimatum.

"This is not an ultimatum." she said. "A decline for signing the contract has already been set, and we were simply extending it."

Nevertheless, if the contract is not signed by March 1, the IOC will look elsewhere for a host city. The situation is almost back to that of last summer, when the IOC game Los Angeles two months to agree on a basis for running the games.

"I'm feeling great . . . this capped off a very nice week with a lot of nice guys." said Minnesota's Ahmad Rashad after helping the National Conference to a 13-7 victory over the American Conference in the annual Pro Bowl extravaganza at the Coliseum Monday night. "One of the highlights of my career was just being here. The most valuable player award was just gravy."

Rashad caught five passes for 89 yards and was one of at least a handful of players who were MVP possibilities in the nationally televised game played before 38,333 fans. More than a third of those who purchased tickets - 13,310 either stayed home or went elsewhere.

It was a requirement of Los Angeles Rams' season ticketholders to purchase a ticket to the Pro Bowl.

The NFL kicked off its 1978 seasons, seven operations and exhibition season last July 29. Following were four preseason than any other player in games. 16 regular-season National Football League hisgames, three weeks of playoffs and the Super Bowl.

The victory was the fourth for and the fifth in nine games overall since the all-star contest changed formats to pit the two conference against each other.

There were only 20 points - on three touchdowns and two extra points - scored in a game where the teams combined for 616 yards in total offense. It was a far cry from the Pittsburgh Steelers' wild 35-31 triumph over the Dallas Cowboys in the Super Bowl eight days earlier.

"This was not the Super Bowl, it doesn't ease that loss. but it's nice to win all all-star game," said running back Tony Dorsett, who has helped the Cowboys to two Super Bowl berths in as many NFL seasons. "It's been a long year, but a good year. I've enjoyed it.

Roger Staubach, a teammate of Dorsett's, rifled a 19-yard touchdown pass to yet another Cowboy, wide receiver Tony Hill, with 3:43 remaining in the third quarter to give the NFC its victory.

The only score of the second half followed a 16-yard punt by Oakland's Ray Guy and capped a 45-yard, five-play drive.

The winners took a 6-0 lead after 7:06 of the second quarter on a 2-yard run by Philadelphia's Wilbert Montgomery. The touchdown came on a fourth-and-1 play.

Distributing Tickets

Bessie Story, special events chairman with the American Heart Association, is shown distributing tournament tickets to Oiga Tannahill, a member of Hereford Study Club. The study club will be sponsoring a bridge tournament as a benefit for the Heart Association on Thursday, Feb. 15, at the Community Center. Prizes will be presented to the first and second place players and door prizes will be given. Tickets are available at $2 each from study club members and both local banks. This is the second year that Hereford Study Club has held a benefit tournament for the Heart Association. Mary Stoy is tournament chairman and Beverly DeBoer is club president. What Price For Gasoline?

Dollar a gallon gasoline is now in prospect for us--the United States-within the year.

The nations which have their oily hands ever deeper in our They are forcing us to concentrate on accelerating the sources of energy. Can you believe that the United States is still "subdidizing" overseas oil producers? It involves a practice as complicated as it is silly which is known as the "entitlements program."

Also the United States is allowing itself to be hamstrung by homefolks in the development of our own resources. Meddlesome interference by environmental radicals has become ludicrous.

The United States must promptly agree on reasonable environmental safeguards and then require unreasonable obstructionists to get out of the

In contemplating the appropriate response to any illness, physical or economic, one must balance potential risks against potential benefits.

There is no longer any doubt that the major threat to our nation's economic solvency is foreign oil. While there are other inflationary pressures shrinking our currency, this is the worst and most immediate.

While foreign oil producers blackmail us for another staggering 14.5 percent increase, our government continues to hold down the prices of gasoline and crude produced in the United States.

Price controls in effect right now in this industry are keeping pockets are doing us a favor. oil company profit margins at the same level as 1972-through the costs of producing and refining petroleum have con tinued to escalate.

> The Energy Department officials of our government have wanted to lift gasoline price controls, but elected members of Congress have been reluctant to identify themselves with anything that sounds like higher

Thus, in throttling the prices for the domestic product they have discouraged stateside production, thereby forcing us to become increasingly dependent on foreign suppliers.

At least two things can and must be done by Congress to rescue us from the blackmailers:

Officials said the unborn baby

About eight hours after turning away fire department paramedics summoned by her husband, Delaine Gaines, 28, was pronounced dead on arrival Sunday at Loretto Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

The woman, mother of seven children aged 4 to 12, was taken there by a fire ambulance.

An autopsy was scheduled for Mrs. Gaines died while missionaries" of the Bethel Apostolic Church looked on, refusing to summon a doctor, said fire department Capt. Thomas O'Donnell.

Mrs. Gaines, who gave birth to her last two children by Caesarean section, evidently knew that her life was in danger, O'Donnell said.

However, she refused help from the paramedics, police "The paramedics saw scars on her stomach and knew that she had delivered previous children by Caesarean section," said O'Donnell. "They performed no service on her and she refused to be hospitalized. All they could do was warn her that she could die during a natural childbirth."

The Apostolic Church disdains medical treatment in favor of faith healing, said Bishop D. McCullough, head of the church.

Sgt. Rocco Rinaldi, a Chicago police homicide investigator. said an investigation would begin following an autopsy. He said police plan to interview McCullough and church members who were at the home when the woman died.

A Town?

A town is a group of people.

It is schools.

It is city government.

It is churches.

It is industry and jobs.

It is retail businesses.

They all have to work together. All must have the support of the people. Or there is no town.

Give your local merchant a chance for your business. You shouldn't spend your hard earned money with him unless his selection is adequate and his price competitive. But give him the first opportunity to make the sale.

For the local retailer pays the highest percentage of local taxes. He most often is the civic leader who dedicates his time and talents to his town. He is contacted first for contributions to charitable projects. He provides jobs. Without his store you have no town.

Sears Files Against U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) - In recent vears Uncle Sam has been portrayed as the wise but scolding parent who, having discovered right, dutifully admonished his charges for wrong, and sought to point out truth.

He was particularly concerned about the nature of the work force, insisting on equality for minorities, veterans and women. He never let up; his aides spent millions of hours studying the job statistics.

And they enforced their views: The Attorney General, the housing, education, health, labor, commerce secretaries, the Census Bureau, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and others, laid down the law.

And now comes Sears, Reobuck and Co., saying in effect that Uncle Sam's very own efforts created the workplace he now declares is inequal, and that Uncle Sam is fighting none other than himself.

The stunning accusation is contained in a class action suit against Uncle Sam by Sears, in which it claims the government created the white male dominant workforce through its various regulations.

It named the G.I. Bill of Rights, veterans preference laws, selective service, and restrictions on the number of women and blacks in the armed services and in vocational and educational programs.

And then, says Sears, it blames us and other employers who attempted to live up to the law and, with growing frustration, to the sometimes conflicting opinions made by all those aides in all those offices.

Among other things, the suit seeks to have Uncle Sam himself live up to his laws, and to tell Sears and other retailers how to resolve sometimes conflicting obligations to veterans, women, the elderly and to minorities.

Because of conflicts, Sears feels it was unfairly charged with violating the law. It maintains it has led other companies, and even anticipated Uncle Sam, in employing veterans, women minorities.

But, it continues, Uncle Sam scattered obstacles in its path. An employer of 400,000 workers, it suggests that statistical inequities were bound to appear.

In spite of a government legacy of discrimination, Sears says its own employment files show that employment of blacks, minorities and women rose sharply between 1965 and

1973, and even more sharply

The government, it said, failed to enforce civil rights laws intended to provide industry with a well-qualified workforce, and that it then "blamed private employers for the government's failures."

It seeks court orders to 'prohibit the use against employers of any statistical disparities from the civilian labor force traceable to compliance with veterans acts and the Age Discrimination

Sears is angry, insofar as a corporation can become angry, and to the extent that the cold legalese of a complaint can convey it. Uncle Sam did it, Sears says, and now he pontifically blames us.

there are any health measures that will prepare my body for surgery? Also, after the operation? Is there anything in the line of vitamins, diet, or exercise that will help me in recovery? I am 62 years old and in good exercise, jogging, swim-ming, golf and yard work. DEAR READER — It sounds to me like you are already prepared. Surgery is a strain on the body. The better your reserves and the better your physical condi-tion, the more likely you are to tolerate surgery with the least amount of difficulty.

If a person has the oppor-tunity to eliminate fat, it is better not to be fat before surgery. If a person is obese, the surgery is much more difficult. The likelihood of complications during or af-ter surgery are definitely Increased.

I would suspect from your letter which indicates you are relatively active that this is not a problem for you. I would caution against any crash diet, severe diet or rapid weight loss just before surgery.

surgery.

For people who have the time and the opportunity and are physically able to do so, it is good preparation for managery to gradually imsurgery to gradually im-prove your physical fitness level. That means to gradu-alfy build up your exercise capacity to an optimal level and maintain it.

and maintain it.

What you should do after surgery depends a lot on what kind of operation you have had. Unless the nature of the operation limits your ability to do it, the person who resumes normal daily living patterns, including normal daily activity, is the one who recovers the fas-test. Now, this has to be tempered with reason and you don't need to be exercis-ing muscles that have had recent incisions. For example, in your case, I certainly wouldn't recommend any sit-ups or anything that would put a strain on the abdominal muscles until they have completely recovered and your doctor has told you it's all right to do this sort of thing. Post-operatively, one of the best exercises most peo-ple can do is a gentle walk. Being able to get outside and walk around and enjoy life is a good tonic for speeding up recovery. I am sending you The Health Letter, number 11-4, The Pancreas: Your Enzyme Organ. It will give you more information about pancreatitis and what causes it. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Gallstones are a frequent cause of pancreatitis. The stone coming down the bile duct from the liver can lodge at the opening of the duct at the opening of the duct that drains the pancreas. This is how the whole thing starts.

Although it seems logical that stones would be the cause of your pancreatitis, it is important that you follow good health habits to prevent any future attacks that might occur.

In my opinion, anyone who has had an attack of pancreatitis should never drink a cocktail or use alcohol in any form ever again. This can contribute to further damage and may be a factor in chronic reoccurring pan-creatitis, which you cer-tainly want to avoid.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 37-year-old male and have arthritis. I have found that by keeping my body weight down I feel better. I am 6 foot 3 with a large frame and weigh 190 pounds.
I am interested in jogging.
My stress test was OK The problem is that there is too much stress on my legs for ogging. Since strokes are common Since strokes are common in my family, I'd like to stay as light as I can and still be healthy. I would also like to be active to the extent that this might prevent problems later on. Is my calculation of an optimal weight of 170 pounds correct? Because of my arthritis, I should do exercises that work my exercises that work my heart and develop my circulation but ones that do not stress my joints. Are there any that I could do at home?

DEAR READER — Regardless of how tall you are or how big your frame is, the rule is always the same. The way to find out if you are too fat is by measuring the fat under the skin. That means literally getting hold of your skin around the waist. If you have a half inch or more, you could lose. you could lose.

Since you are only 37, the probabilities are that you have rheumatoid arthritis. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-11, Rheumatoid Arthritis, to give you more information about this condition. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long. 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed en-velope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. You're absolutely right about your concepts of exercising. One of the best exercises I know for people who have joint disorders of who have joint disorders of any type, whether they are from osteoarthritis, rheu-matoid arthritis or osteoporosis is swimming. The buoyancy of the water helps to support the body and eliminates the undestrable strain on the joints. At the same time, swimming is a good endurance exercise and learners and learners and learners and learners and learners are learners.

This Year's Tax Forms Virtually Unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP) - This is the year of the tax form break. That's right, tax form break, not tax break, although some taxpa yers may have that.

There probably has never been a year in recent memory of taxpayers when there have been so few changes in the forms. The only changes in both the 1040A short form and the 1040 long form have been to simplify some of the wording.

The taxpayer will find it easy to use last year's form to help fill out the 1978 returns.

"We had a good experience with it last year," said Robert Brauer, assistant IRS director for tax forms. "The largest surgie comment we had from the public was to leave it alone this year."

The colors will even be the ame, blue shading for the long 1940 form, and pink for the short 1040A.

The forms were received by lost taxpayers in the last week December, and they will be e on April 16, since the 15th falls on a Sunday this year.

Employers are supposed to give workers their W-2 forms by Jan. 31. As always, taxpayers who file early will get heir refunds faster than those who file later.

Taxpavers should get refunds within about four weeks if they file returns in January, or about eight weeks if they file in

Not only is the format similar this year, but so are the tax tables. Taxpayers who received a cost-of-living pay adjustment shouldn't be surprised if they end up paying a higher per-centage of their income in taxes.

That's what inflation does. The new tax reductions Congress approved late in the year will apply to 1979 taxes. There also will need to be wholesale changes in the 1979 forms, because of other changes in the tax law, but that's next year.

There are three changes in the 1978 tax returns that may affect many taxpayers: -Some of the costs of home

nsulation and energy improvements can be taken as a tax -The amount of long-term capital gains excluded from taxation has been increased from 50 to 60 percent effective Nov. 1, 1978.

-Home owners over age 55 can take a one-time exclusion of up to $100,000 on any profit from the sale of their personal residence on sales occurring after July 26, 1978.

The one almost universally approved feature of the tax returns that was introduced last year and is being kept this year, is that the returns can be filled out from top to bottom, on both sides, so no flip-flopping of the forms is required.

The IRS has included separate instructions in the instruc-tion booklet for each line of the tax return, an innovation that it hopes will make things even simpler.

If things are simpler for the taxpayer, of course, they are also simpler for the IRS - fewer errors means less work in checking and correcting the forms. There was a dramatic

The expanded tax tables that made possible greater use of the short form last year are being retained for 1978 returns. The IRS says increased use of the short form resulted in a decline in the percentage of tax-payers seeking outside help last year from 47 to 42 percent.

"The greatest simplification possible is to keep the form the same year after year," Brauer said, although he added that changes by Congress in the tax law often makes this impos-

Taxpayers can count their blessings as far as the forms are concerned this year. It will be a different story next year.

The report does not say what action was taken next, but noted that the entire $5.8 million had been repaid by March 1978. Interest on $2.5 million of the money was 21/2 percent above the prime rate - the rate a bank charges its best customers.

Gradually, the rate was reduced to the prime rate "at the direction of Lance as an inducement to persuade the Carters to bear the additional expense" of a new accounting firm to audit the peanut business, the report said.

Although banking authorities consider it improper for

The report said of Lance, "It appears clear that Lance used his position at NBG to cause NBG to make loans to members of his family, friends and associates substantially as alleged."

The directors said the bank had little experience with agribusiness loans and handled a $3 million line of credit to the Carter warehouse poorly.

They said the warehouse often was paid for peanuts by farmers' checks drawn on insufficient funds.

Congress Short In Ethics Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) - of time to investigations of There's talk that Congress may have to set up its own peacetime draft to get members to serve on House and Senate ethics committees.

All committees in the House and Senate are filled and preparing to start work, except for those dealing with ethics.

There are five vacancies still to be filled on the 12-member House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct. The Senate is faced with filling all six spots on the Select Committee on Ethics.

"Everybody wants off," said Ron McMahan, spokesman for Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee. "The senator says we may have to institute a peacetime draft."

"I don't think anyone wants to be on the committee," said Rep. Charles Bennett. D-Fla.. who is in line to head the panel. "The people you get are the people who thing you need an ethics committee.'

Several reasons are given for the scarcity of volunteers for the committees. Some members do not want to judge their colleagues. Others are more interested in serving on committees that can reap benefits for constituents.

The lack of committee members may slow the Senate probe of Sen. Herman E. Talmade, D-Ga., who is accused of converting campaign contributions to his own use, of falsely claiming expenses that he did not incur and of other improprieties. Senators currently on the committee are being asked to stay on until the investigation is finished.

In the House, Republicans plan to ask the ethics committee to decide what action, if any, should be taken against Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., who is appealing a three-year prison sentence for padding his office payroll and having certain employees kick back part of their salaries to him.

AUSTIN-New Gov. Bill Clements asked the legislature to strengthen the governor's powers substantially to deal with growth of the government and bureaucracy.

Clements, in the "first chapter" of his messages to lawmakers, asked for budget supervision authority and gubernatorial power to remove state agency members "for stated reasons" and with Senate consent.

Highlights of the new Republican governor's recommendations included:

A repeat of his call for a $1 billion tax reduction. -Power for the governor to appoint chairmen of state boards and commissions "from time to time." A freeze on state hiring and an "attrition policy" to reduce the number of state employees by 25,000 over four years. -Initiative and referendum powers for citizens to pass or veto laws. -A constitutional ban on state corporate or personal income taxation. -Power for local voters to ratify or reject tax increases by election.
