NUMBER 16

Personally Speaking

By E. M.

Thoughts while travelling along dusty highways:

There must be some Romany mixed in with my Swiss-German, Scotch-Irish, Dutch-English ancestry somewhere. There's nothing I like better and do less of than to go gyping along a highway, eat hamburgers, (with onions) from a paper sack and juicy dripping chunks of red watermelon cut with a pocket knife. Unless it is to finish off the informality with a watermelon-seed spitting contest with the kid sis.

It's interesting to find out what a lot one can learn about the psychology of watermelon salesmanship from a motor trip. We passed stand of watermelons advertised as only by the shouts of the kids stationed there. We wondered why they did not put up signs so that travelers would have time to stop.

A little farther on down the road, some enterprising seller had done that very thing. But when we reached the stand, we found it empty. Nary a melon was to be seen. "A-ha advertising has sold all the melons for him," was the immediate thought probably unreliable conclusion reached by my journalistic sense.

Another interesting study that can be made along the highway when a dust storm for a minute perchance does not interfere too much with the scenery, is that of the different methods of travel used. Means of transportation varied from saddle ponies to wagons, from Fords to Packards, and airplanes to hitchhikers.

No less than four different covered wagons were seen. A common means of travel a generation ago, they are now a curiosity to be marvelled at and stared after. With the best of luck, the covered wagon can go only as far in a day as an ordinary auto can go in 30 minutes.

Hitch hikers were numerous and pathetic. Whole families were seen along the highway—hoping to "get a break" and find a home somewhere ahead.

One couple with their five small children were seen hiking along. Another couple was observed, both the man and woman carrying a small child. In addition the man was staggering under the burden of a heavy suitcase.

I decided that the position of an Indian squaw seen riding on the floor of a wagon was far to be preferred to that of her white sister afoot on the highway.

(That's practically all. Somehow I never did like to write this column by the doubtful light of a rather dim flashlight. At some uncertain hour at night with the highline off playing truant somewhere.)

Two opposing camps, the Red Feathers led by Chief Alberta Reger, and the Green Feathers under Kenneth Jenkins, are determined to have each others' scalps dangling at their belts by 1 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon.

The Redskins had temporarily smoked the peace pipe and decided to determine the best tribe of braves by the number of magazine subscriptions brought in by the end of that time. A sizeable per cent of the proceeds from selling the Country Gentleman, The Saturday Evening Post, and The Ladies Home Journal will be contributed to the school fund.

Records of each day's sales will be made on a brilliantly colored totem pole placard. Tiny celluloid plumes are worn by the warriors to distinguish the warring camps.

Booker Man Trampled To Death By Horse

After being badly trampled by a vicious horse on Monday evening at his home south of Booker, C. M. Mounts died at the Shattuck hospital at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Mr. Mounts who was well-known in Darrouzett had been here on business Monday morning. On his return home he had been at work cutting feed until late in the evening. He then drove from the field to his home in a wagon loaded with cut feed. When he got out to open a gate at his home, the horse became frightened and crowded him against the fence. When Mr. Mounts fell to the ground, the animal trampled him underfoot.

His skull was crushed and nearly all the ribs in his body were broken.

His son, Ross Mounts, who was with his father when the accident occurred finally succeeded in getting the horse away from his father. Mr. Mounts regained consciousness for a few minutes when he was taken to the house. He was immediately rushed to the hospital at Shattuck. He again lost consciousness and remained in that state until his death early Tuesday morning.

Mr. Mounts was about 52 years of age at the time of his death.

Burial will be made at Winfield Kas., where the family lived for years. Mr. and Mrs. Mounts came to this section of the country in 1913 from Kansas.

Hawk Visions Fair As Among Nation's Best

Faith, Hard Work Given Credit for Progress Of Tri-State

Special to the Darrouzett News.

AMARILLO, Sept. 15—Vision of its leaders, faith of the Panhandle-Plains pioneers, and hard work on the part of its backers today were given credit for the unprecedented strides made by the Tri-State Fair Exposition since its birth less than ten years ago by Wilbur C. Hawk, president of the Association.

Mr. Hawk became the head of the fair board in 1927.

"A few years from now, citizens who have moved away and returned to the Plains—as they always do—will find the Tri-State Exposition occupying a position with and competing with the leading state fairs of the country," said Mr. Hawk.

Can't Be Whipped

"There is a certain determination, a civic pride and an unconquerable desire to accomplish things here in the Panhandle that is unmatched anywhere else in the United States," declared Mr. Hawk, in placing the credit for the progress of the Tri-State Fair where he believes it belongs.

"That same spirit that conquered the old west and made of it a modern civilization of progressive homes, schools, churches and industry, is evident in the actions of the fair workers, and only a catastrophe can call a halt."

Free Gate As Usual

The Tri-State Fair this year will be held from September 21 to 26, inclusive, and its now famous free gate will be wide open.

More than $15,000 in cash prizes is being offered, and early entries indicate that, despite economic conditions, the 1931 fair will surpass all of its predecessors.

Mr. Hawk believes the attractions this year will eclipse all previous attempts at entertainment, which, together with competition between towns and bands for attendance and attention at the fair will help to set up another attendance record.

Helen Montgomery Leaves for Norman

Miss Helen Montgomery left on Saturday for Norman, Okla., where she will enter the University of Oklahoma as a junior this fall.

She plans to continue her study of art and education. She had previously attended the Oklahoma College for women at Chickasha for two years.

During the summer she was reporter on the News.

A. H. Montgomery and Misses Doris and Elsie Montgomery accompanied Miss Helen to Norman. They returned Sunday night.

Miss Helen Gadberry and Walter Gadberry of Follett plan to leave on Tuesday night for a week's trip to Colorado. They will visit their sister, Mrs. R. W. Perry, here for a short time before leaving.

At Pueblo, Colo., they plan to visit their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gadberry. They will then go on to Denver and other points in Colorado.

Arthur Frazier of Milan, Mo., came last Wednesday to visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reger.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Reger and children spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Belle Frazier at Follett.

New Mexico Co-ed Arrives At Tech A La Tom Mix

The Perryton boys who are planning to pay their expenses at Texas Tech by moving seven Jersey cows to Lubbock with them and selling milk to the college dormitories may have a good idea but a girl from New Mexico has a still more original one, thinks J. E. Speer who paid a visit to the college this week-end.

The co-ed recently arrived in Lubbock on horseback herding a string of saddle ponies from a dude-ranch in New Mexico. She plans to earn her way thru college by renting the horses out for riding purposes and by giving riding lessons.

Gandhi Knows How To Keep Cool

Hot days such as Darrouzett residents have been suffering during the past week would work no hardship on Mahatma Gandhi of India to whom all eyes are turned just now.

At London this week where he had gone to the meeting of the federal structures committee formed to draw up a new constitution for India the mahatma appeared wearing his customary loincloth and shawl. From the standpoint of comfort he assuredly had an edge on others present for the sun was shining brightly and the day was hot.

If long-hoped for rain and cloudy weather do not arrive here soon, the adoption of Gandhi's custom wouldn't be such a bad idea.

Americans Patient In Jobless Days

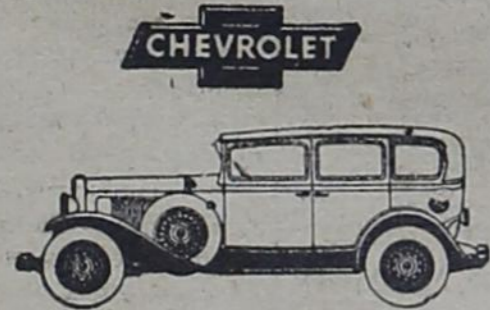

It has often been remarked that the unemployed of the U. S. have proved to be the most patient people in the world. While much has been tried, little has been accomplished for them, and yet we are singularly free from such outbursts as are occurring almost daily in the countries of the old world.

The numbers of workers who have not had steady jobs for more than a year must be very great. But from all outward appearances, and especially from the standpoint of restlessness and violence, they seem to be small. Up to this time the American has refrained from demanding a "dole," which is just another name for gift or pension from the government. Somehow or another the jobless in this country manage to make a living of some kind and even though it is meager it serves to prevent them becoming objects of charity—the very thing the average American citizen dreads.

The unemployed of this country realize, as do the ones who still have jobs, that past and present conditions are beyond individual control, and they make the best of things. They know that agitation and demonstrations are not going to help things any. They realize such tactics only make matters worse. Every citizen of America deplores the fact that there is not work for everyone. You need not leave Darrouzett to find such sympathy. But they are proud of the patience shown by the unemployed, and proud of the fact that, like true Americans, they are making the best of it, and with an optimism that is certain to be rewarded before many more months have passed.

THE COUNCIL AT JERUSALEM

LESSON TEXT—Acts 15:1-35.
GOLDEN TEXT—For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Christians Working Together.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The First Missionary Convention.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christian Freedom.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christianity at the Crossroads.

I. The Controversy in the Church at Antioch (vv. 1-5).

This difficulty was a most serious one, for it threatened the disruption of the church into Jewish and Gentile divisions. It was not a question of the admission of the Gentiles into the Church; that had been settled some years before when Peter received Cornelius and his household. The question now was, On what ground could they be received? Should Gentile converts be required to keep the Mosaic Law as a condition of salvation? This issue was brought on by the coming of certain men from Jerusalem who declared, "Except ye be circumcized after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved" (v. 1). The question was so difficult that Paul and Barnabas were unable to put them to silence. These Jewish legalists had the letter of the Scripture on their side. They could point to the command enjoining this rite upon the male children of the covenant people (Gen. 17:10-14). Paul could not point to any scripture where this obligation had been abrogated. If Paul should plead that Abraham was justified before he was circumcized, his antagonist could answer, "Yes, but after justification the rite was divinely imposed." The brethren at Antioch decided to refer the matter to the mother church at Jerusalem. Accordingly, Paul and Barnabas and others were sent as a deputation to Jerusalem.

II. The Deliberations of the Council (vv. 6-21).

1. Peter's speech (vv. 6-11). He argued that God had borne witness to the acceptance of the Gentiles by giving the Holy Spirit to them as unto the Jews (Acts 10:34-47). Since, therefore, God had not put a difference, it would be folly for them to do so.

2. Paul and Barnabas rehearsed their experience (v. 12). They told how that God had set his seal of approval on their preaching of salvation by grace through faith apart from the works of the law by the working of signs and wonders through them.

3. The argument of James (vv. 14-21). He took the fact declared by Peter and showed how it harmonized with the prophecy of Amos (Amos 9:11-15). He showed that the reception of the Gentiles was not in conflict but in strict harmony with God's plan. As set forth in the speech of James, God's plan is as follows:

a. To take out from among the Gentiles a people for his name (v. 14). This is what is now going on—the preaching of the gospel to the ends of the earth, and the calling out of the Church.

b. After the Church is completed and removed, the Israelitish nation will be converted and restored to their land and privileges by the Lord himself at his return (vv. 16, 17).

c. Following this will be the conversion of the world through the agency of converted Israel (v. 17 cf. Rom. 11:15-17). He showed that there is no conflict when the Scriptures are rightly divided.

III. The Decision of the Council (vv. 22-29).

The mother church came to a unanimous agreement and accepted the resolution offered by James. They not only sent a letter stating the decision of the conference, but took the wise precaution to send influential men along with Paul and Barnabas to bear the same testimony by word of mouth. This letter denied the authority of the Judaizing teachers (v. 24) and declared the method by which this decision had been reached (vv. 25-27). They put the Holy Spirit, first. They were positively instructed to abstain from meats offered to idols, from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication.

IV. The Decision Delivered to the Church (vv. 30-35).

Upon their return to Antioch, the church was called together to hear the report. Its reading brought great rejoicing. Judas and Silas, who had been sent as confirmatory witnesses, being prophets, now exhorted the brethren with many words, confirming the decision of the Jerusalem church.

Abiding in Christ

Abiding in Christ does not mean that you must always be thinking about Christ. You are in a house, abiding in its enclosure or beneath its shelter, though you are not always thinking about the house itself. But you always know when you leave it.—F. B. Meyer.

Child Tithing

At what ages should children be taught to practice tithing? Very early in life, the earlier the better.

What are the reasons? Because thereby the child enters into a practical, commonsense partnership with God in building his or her character. God furnishes the material, the child is the learner and doer. In the early years when the brain is plastic, memory retentive, and impressions permanent, is the time to commence. Any child who can count up to ten and make figures can practice tithing, and keep a tithing account book. The tithing child intuitively puts God first. Later he realizes that he has been, perhaps unconsciously, obeying Christ's command, "Seek first the Kingdom of God."

Let's not forget! The Wickersham Commission, after eighteen months study stood (1) for the retention of the Eighteenth Amendment, and the National Prohibition Act (Volstead Law); (2) against government sale of liquor; (3) for substantial increase in the appropriated.

"Sand, sand everywhere and not a grain we need." If you don't believe it just inspect school most any day now—if you aren't lost in a wind storm and blown away coming. Everything is certainly sizzling too, with the thermometer boiling out 99 to 102 degrees regularly.

Aw, bird seed! Will somebody please donate Mr. Mullings a canary. Who broke down the fence post anyway and why does Mr. Speer think Doris is a careful driver. Houses Constructed By Geography Class

The sixth grade geography class has been making a study of the different kinds of shelter in different climates. They have been modeling some houses out of clay, and have made one house of straw.

The fifth grade is having spelling races. We have a map of the United States on the wall, and we are starting the race at New York and shall end up at San Francisco. When we make one hundred we may go one hundred miles; when we make ninety five we may go ninety-five miles and so on.

The fifth grade is studying about the importance of the heart, and about how to make and keep straight bodies.

Mrs. Hennigh teaches the writing class of both the fifth and sixth grades. We are making three space ovals; later we will make three space letters. After we have completed this we shall make smaller ovals and letters.

In citizenship we are learning how we may improve the streets of our town, and what we should not do in church or in a crowd.

Third, Fourth Grades Have Many Activities

The third and fourth grades have started to working hard. Much interest is being shown among the students in spite of hot weather and wind.

The third grade has completed the making of an Indian Pueblo on the sandtable. The Pueblo was made of clay which was brought to school by some of the students. The class invites everybody to come see it.

Jack Phillips is health inspector for the third grade this week, and Ross Montgomery for the fourth grade. Both grades are taking special interest in their health work. All but two or three in the room are drinking milk each morning; for doing this the student gets a slip of paper with the word milk written on it. He places this slip in his cup on the milk chart, and at the end of the month counts his milk slips. If he has received one every morning of the month he gets a gold star on the cup.

Both grades are coloring pictures autumn leaves during busy work period. We are going to put these on the windows when we get them fixed.

The fourth grade students hope to have better spelling lessons from now on; a cross country race from New York to San Francisco is to start tomorrow. A red car represents one row of students, and a yellow car another row. A car moves an inch or one-hundred miles if all the row make one-hundreds. A map of United States was drawn on the blackboard, and the paper cars are held in place by small pieces of adhesive tape.

Freshmen Pick Their Colors, Flower, Motto

"Not at the top but climbing," was the motto chosen by the freshmen at their class meeting held on Monday afternoon.

Oreoid and white were selected as Class colors. The class flower is a white carnation.

Hen Strolls Into Church Services And Contributes

Buttons, round pieces of metal and other fictitious coins may sometime be contributed at church collections, but it took a hen to leave an egg at an offering at the Mt. Sterling Presbyterian Church in Ohio.

A WEEKLY SERMONETTE

OF MY OWN FREE WILL
By Arthur B. Rhinow

"Do you believe," I asked a boy scout executive, "that some day the public schools will teach scout craft and so end the need of a boy scout organization?"

"I hope not," he answered, "for I am afraid something very valuable would be lost. School work is compulsory, but when a boy joins a scout troop he does so of his own free will, and that is important in character building."

I was impressed with the reason. True, compulsion may be an aid to character building, as a sapling's growth is steadied and directed by a support; but character will never enjoy a healthy development unless youth is given the opportunity to choose the good and spurn the evil. Compulsion and character are not on close terms.

An almighty God can place us in an environment that is almost irresistibly conducive to the forming of perfect character; but finally we have the choice of accepting his kindness. Without that choice we would be just mechanisms; with it we are mortal beings. And that gift of free choice is indeed, a precious possession. Pity the man in whom the power to choose the right has been dulled by sin; pity him most in whom it is dead. They are slaves of a hard master.

Divine love recognizes the normal man's freedom of choice by continually pleading: "Come unto me." The experience of the ages, the Bible, Sinai and Calvary, they all plead with us to choose the right and abundant life.

Levelland—Community canning kitchen opened in Stroud building.

Pampa—Controlling interest in Pampa Times Publishing Company purchased by E. E. Manney of Amarillo.

Jefferson—X-ray equipment to be installed in Dr. C. R. Mauzy's offices.

Crystal City—Fairbanks Morse and Company to install electric light and power plant and distribution system for town at cost of $123,000.

Amarillo—$75,000 coliseum building to be dedicated during Amarillo Tri-State Fair this fall.

Littlefield—$60,000 railroad depot being erected here by Panhandle Santa Fe Railway Co.

Lubbock—Paving completed between this city and Plainview.

Post—Local cotton mills running on full time schedule for first time in two years, employing 200 people with annual payroll of $250,000.

Tahoka—Telephone system of this town being completely rebuilt at a heavy expenditure.

Crosbyton—Fire house enlarged and remodeled.

San Juan—Large packing shed under construction on north side of railway tracks for Valley Box and Crate factory.

Crosbyton—Gas rates for city this winter will be reduced approximately 15 per cent.

Lampasas—Public square to be paved.

Franklin—Robertson county fair will be held here September 23-26.

Wharton—New airport completed.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS— AFTER THE MORATORIUM

By Paul L. Heard
All Rights Reserved

Some people, who are not in favor of the moratorium, have argued "why wait a year if Germany will still owe the same amount of money that she does now?" Others think it is bad policy to help a nation whose aspirations for power seem to lead them into foreign territories a little too often. Then too, there is the possibility, some say, that Germany will use the moratorium to strengthen her armies. Summing it all up, no one knows what the outcome will be. And most certainly there is no one who would dare to predict the outcome.

However, there are a good many things in favor of the moratorium, as evidenced by the great powers who accepted it. When the holiday is over it is evident that there will be a Germany, whereas, if it had not been adopted and put in force there might not have been. The war debt money right now, will be worth many times more to Germany and to the struggling population than to any other nation in the world. The German people have been poverty stricken. They could not have borne the taxes imposed on them and they would have revolted in the name of humanity.

As to Germany's using funds for preparation of war at this time, it would be absurd. Germany is too wise for this. They are thinking more about recuperation now—it would be silly to advocate another conflict at the present—unless it be the conflict to supply bread and food for the poor and jobless.

As to where and how Germany uses this money, it is up to all the other nations, creditors of Germany, to know that it is used as it should be under the circumstances. But I dare say it would be necessary to attempt to supervise this. Germany it seems, is willing to do all she can for her own people for it was to the people of Germany that statesmen addressed their pleadings.

When the holiday is over we hope that Germany will be in much better position to pay her debts—for that is the prime reason of the moratorium. And further, if the moratorium is successful Germany's credit will be good. Foreign trade will be re-established with countries able to supply each others need for material. And the whole state of things should be on the upward trend.

One thing in addition to the moratorium which our statesmen might devote time to right at this time is the size of the payments they require Germany to make. This business is getting to be more like the payments on your automobile that you purchased in good times and the notes have continued over into the hard times at the same monthly rate. If they are too much for Germany at the end of the moratorium, why not do the only logical thing to do—reduce the payments to a reasonable sum that Germany can pay. Of course, this is for our statesmen who are on the ground floor of this international controversy to decide.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. James went to Woodward, Okla., on Thursday.

Mrs. I. M. Roper and son, Len, of Perryton were in town on Monday.

Because of the large number of applicants in this examination and because of the volume of the work of the Civil Service Commission at this time, it was estimated that it will be at least two or three months before reports of rating will be ready. It was pointed out that 8,500 persons competed in the statistical clerk examination held on September 9 and will be approximately two or three months, it is said, before reports of this examination can be mailed to competitors.

The Commission has instructed its examiners throughout the country to request competitors for Government positions not to make premature inquiries about their ratings inasmuch as such inquiries increase the volume of the work. Rating reports are mailed in every instance as soon as possible.
