Vegetable growing is becoming an important money crop in the West Texas area according to stories in the press and other reports.

The Fort Worth Star Telegram Sunday carried a lengthy article of vegetable harvesting in the western areas of the state which said that in the high plains areas alone approximately 53,000 acres of vegetables would be marketed adding many millions of dollars to the income of the area.

Big increases in vegetable acreage are taking place in many areas of the western and central part of the state, with irrigation being used in most of the areas. There is a considerable acreage of tomatoes, winter-planted cabbage, carrots and squash in the Brownwood irrigation area and smaller acreage of melons, tomatoes and other produce crops in Eastland County.

Throughout the western part of the state and in other areas also, there has been a trend toward vegetable growing, with produce being commercially grown for the first time in many areas.

The Rising Star Chamber of Commerce has undertaken to encourage development of commercial produce crops suitable to this section as another source of income in a program of diversified farming. A group of local business and agricultural leaders where vegetables and other produce growing is being successfully done as one means of stimulating interest and discovering proper methods of growing and marketing such crops.

The Amity community — along with Newburgh, state winner, and Soda Springs, also of Comanche County — will receive its awards in the Rural Neighborhood Progress and Pasture Improvement Contests at a barbecue at Eanes lake Monday evening, June 16, sponsored by the Comanche Lions Club. Amity, a fifth place winner, will collect $105 in cash awards.

Earlier, at 10 a. m. Monday morning, June 16, the Nimrod Club northwest of Rising Star and in Eastland County, will receive cash awards for winning third places in the two contests.

The Rising Star Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring attendance of as many Rising Star business men as can go to Nimrod for the program. The Nimrod Neighbors Progressive Club will be hosts at a community dinner at the Nimrod Clubhouse at noon.

Landrace, New Hog Type, Brought Here

Another new type of hog — a type known as the bacon variety — is being introduced to the Rising Star area. It is known as the Landrace, a variety developed in England and brought to Texas about three years ago from the northern hog growing areas.

It is similar to the Yorkshire, also a white hog, with a long body, a preponderance of lean and a small amount of fat. It finishes at about 250 pounds. First of the breed to be brought here are now at the H. L. Callaway farm east of Rising Star. Mr. Callaway obtained five half-breed gilts and one registered boar from a De Leon breeder. He plans a considerable foundation Landrace project.

Some time ago Bill Tyler and George Hill obtained a number of bred registered gilts from the Flat Top Ranch at Walnut Springs and other breeders, which are being housed in ultra-modern hog raising facilities being installed at the Tyler farm just north of Okra.

He is a successful fruit grower who has demonstrated to the people of this area the practicability of fruit, particularly peaches, as a money crop.

Brownwood Men Buy Two Pecan Orchards

Another large real estate transfer recently completed involved the sale of the G. B. Goss and the W. M. Tompson pecan orchards three miles south of Rising Star to Roy Zioc and J. W. Bishop of Brownwood. Mr. Bishop formerly of Rising Star, is operating the two orchards which, adjoining, have been made into one orchard of about 115 acres, by removing the fence between.

A great deal of work has been done in bulldozing, pruning and cleaning the orchard.

The orchard has about 700 trees 150 of them 30 years of age and the remainder from 20 to 25 years old. Two varieties, Burket and Halbert, make up the orchard. The Burket crop is excellent, Mr. Bishop said, the Halbert only fair.

To Mansfield

Rev. R. A. Brooks, Jr.

Robert Cook New Methodist Pastor Succeeding Brooks

The First Methodist Church had a new pastor this week. He is the Rev. Robert E. Cook, young minister who comes to the church from the pastorate of the Copperas Cove Methodist Church where he served three years.

He succeeds the Rev. R. A. Brooks, who goes to the First Methodist Church at Mansfield, 19 miles south of Fort Worth, after three years of a highly successful pastorate of the local church.

The new pastor will be in his pulpit for the first time Sunday morning, and Rev. Mr. Brooks will assume his pastoral duties at the Mansfield church at the same time.

The two ministers were classmates in Texas Wesleyan College and later at Perkins School of Theology, SMU, Dallas. Each has two children. Rev. and Mrs. Brooks have a daughter, Leigh Ann, 3, and a son, Stephen Glenn, one year old. Rev. and Mrs. Cook have two daughters, six and seven years of age.

Before coming to Rising Star, Rev. Brooks held pastorates at Coleman, Venus, Everman and Alvarado. His tenure here has been marked with unqualified success, and his leaving was accepted by the local church with much regret. He and his family have many friends both among their own church membership and without, who wish them well. Their new church has 374 members and is carrying out an ambitious building program.

The new pastor comes to Rising Star highly recommended as a good pastor, and the members of the church this week eagerly awaited his coming.

Despite the fact that the pastorate of the Rev. Mr. Brooks covered some of the worst years of the drouth, the church maintained its membership, cleaned its roll, revitalized its young people's department and its Sunday School, increased its budget to beyond $10,000 a year, every penny which has been paid on time, purchased and paid for a $3,000 church organ, remodeled the basement and paid for it, and carried on an enlarged and successful program of spiritual growth.

Most of the other churches in the area had no changes in pastors.

Light Rain Gives Brief Heat Respite

Cool northerly winds following top-crust-softening showers Sunday evening, brought respite to this area from a several days of burning heat which reminded folks hereabout of last year's — and the seven preceding years desert-making drouth.

Grain farmers, looking at fields heavily ripe for the harvest, were hopeful that there would be no more rain until combines could put the crop safely away, while garden growers and peanut farmers, with new seed in the earth, were thankful for the moisture that mellowed the soil down to the already good season that exists in the sub-soil.

The city gauge measured .27 of an inch of moisture which fell Sunday evening in a great deal more gently than the boiling black clouds sweeping up on a northwest wind had promised. The cloud broke a heat wave which registered a high of 92 degrees Sunday afternoon, and which had extended from late May through the first week of June. Temperatures ran as high as 99 degrees, according to the city records, that reading occurring late in last month.

June 1 the reading was 94 degrees; June 2, 95; June 3, 96 and June 4, 97.

Monday morning a low of 67 degrees was recorded.

WMU MEETS FOR STUDY

The W. M. U. of the First Baptist Church met for Bible study with Mrs. W. W. Faulkenberry teaching the lesson, on Monday, June 9.

The Average Individual . . .

. . . gives little thought to the question of values when he should measure them in terms of personal worth in everything he buys, enjoys or does. For example, some folks will buy real estate without an abstract, disregarding the fact that the principal value of the purchase is in the title, not in the land itself or the improvements thereon. This kind of thinking costs property owners thousands of dollars annually which loss could be saved and the savings wisely spent for abstracts of title.

Now and Forever...

The sacred promises are made—and their new life together begins. Learning to live together may pose many problems, and the adjustments to marriage may be difficult.

How good it is to know that at the Church or Synagogue where they made their sacred marriage vows, they can always find the help they need to keep these promises. Not just the kindly help of their minister, priest or rabbi—not merely in the meeting with other young people facing the same problems—but in the closeness of worship every week they find the encouragement of hopes and dreams... they find the strength for their lives.

A marriage that starts in the worship of God... that continues to receive the support of faith through joys and sorrows... will last for them in happiness, in security, in deep faith in themselves and their futures.

Find the strength for your life...

worship together every week!

Pecan Prospects Good In Most Areas Of State

College Station, — In most commercial pecan producing areas of the State, possibilities are good for a crop this year, says B. G. Hancock, extension horticulturist. But, he warns, pecan nut casebearers are already on the job and unless control measures are applied, the crop could be a small one.

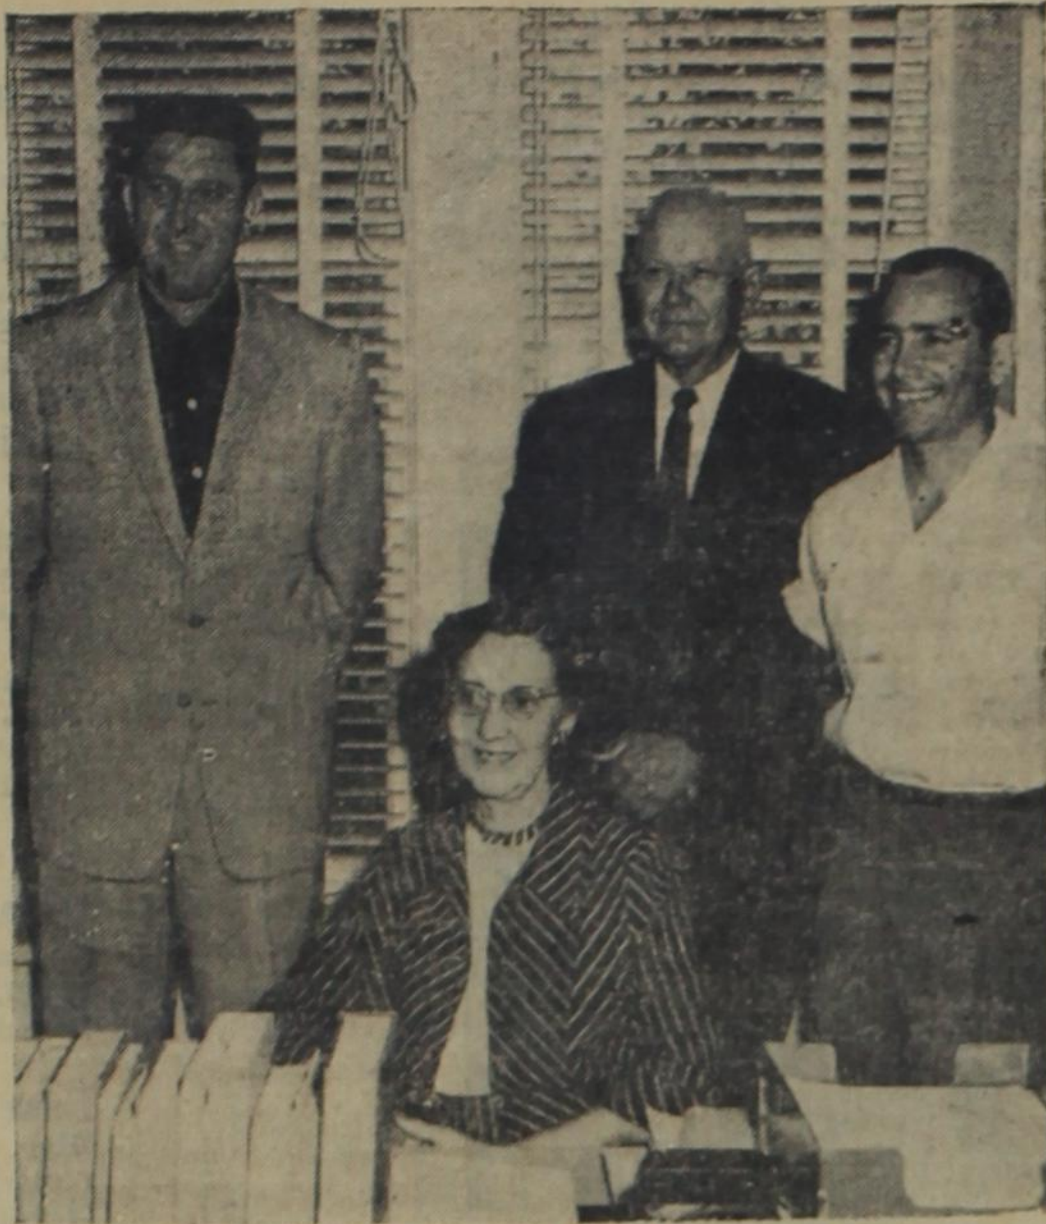

South Texas producers are spraying and those in all other areas in the State are warned by Hancock to be ready to apply the needed insecticides any day. The usual pattern of casebearer development is off schedule and the "smart thing to do, says the specialist, is to watch the orchard every day. The three essentials in obtaining satisfactory casebearer control are listed by Hancock and C. F. Garner, extension entomologist, as correct timing of spray application, proper application of spray material and use of the correct insecticides.

To be sure of timing, the specialists urge pecan growers to check the nut clusters closely and regularly for the appearance of the casebearer eggs. The eggs are usually deposited singly on the tip or blossom end of the small nuts; are pearly white with a bluish cast and about a third the size of a pin head. They hatch in four to five days. After hatching, the small worm moves down below the pecan cluster and feeds on the buds in the leaf axil. The buds are hollowed and the tell-tale webbing and black frass around the bud can be seen. After four or five days of bud feeding, the worm now much larger, moves back to the cluster and bores a hole at the base of the pecan and enters to feed.

Because of the short period of time the worm is exposed, timing of control measures is of utmost importance. Long residual sprays can be applied when a number of eggs are found in the orchard. If fairly short residual sprays are used, it is best to wait until some of the eggs have hatched and worms are found feeding in the buds.

State Program For Teachers Insures Balanced Training

Contrary to some popular opinion, Texas school teachers are receiving much more training in subject matter, or "what to teach," than they receive in so-called "how to teach" courses.

So says the TEXAS OUTLOOK, the Texas State Teachers Assn. magazine, in an article in its June issue. The story quotes Dr. Emmitt Smith, director of teacher education for the Texas Education Agency.

Balanced training for teachers is insured, says the article, under a new state-supervised program begun in 1955. Planning for it began in 1952, long before Sputnik spotlighted education.

Under this program, no more than one-fifth of a student teacher's training may be devoted to education, or "how to teach," courses. Before that, nobody bothered officially about a balanced program.

A typical student studying to be a teacher in Texas, Smith explains, will follow a course which includes:

Two fifths (or about 45 hours) devoted to liberal arts (social sciences, science and mathematics, the humanities, the arts, etc. Much of this includes potential subject matter material.)

One-fifth (24 hours) for specialization, or subject matter field

Proper application of the insecticide must include a thorough wetting of the nut clusters and the stems immediately below. Hancock urges pecan producers to check with their local county agent for details on a good control program. Also ask for a copy of L-245, Guide for Controlling Insects and Diseases on Fruits and Nuts in Texas.

(above the liberal arts level) in the student's major teaching field.

One-fifth (24 hours) for professional education (human development, school organization and curriculum, history and philosophy of education, and practice teaching.)

One-fifth (24 hours) for electives. A student may use this to develop a second subject-matter teaching field with a minimum of 18 semester hours.

Practice teaching, which makes up six of the 24 hours allotted to professional education, involves both "how" and "what" to teach, so no more than half of it should be charged against "how to" courses.

"Critics agree with me," explains Dr. Smith, "when I say that no teacher should go into a school without knowing something of the organization of a school and its curriculum."

"And," he adds, "they agree that a teacher should have a sort of 'internship' which practice teaching provides. They just haven't realized that these are the things which the maligned 'how to teach' courses include."

Much responsibility is placed on the colleges who train teachers under the new program. State agencies exercise "open skies inspection" to keep them on the right track, assisted by people from public schools and other colleges.

Under the program, colleges must: (1) Train teachers within quality standards set by the State Board of Examiners for Teacher Education; (2) screen out unqualified students; (3) certify that the student has completed the total approved program; and (4) recommend him for certification to teach.

Before a college program is approved, a team of Texas educators visits the campus to study the program. Each team includes: a superintendent of schools, a public school teacher, a college dean, a professor of education, and a professor from an academic department such as government or mathematics.

At present, 543 separate teacher training programs in 46 senior colleges and universities in Texas are operating under temporary approval, subject to the "visiting team" re-examination which began in eight colleges this spring. The remaining colleges will be checked by the spring of 1960.

No training program is automatically approved, and not all win approval, Smith declares. Neither does one "visit" constitute the final exam for the program; follow-ups will come periodically.

Overseeing the entire program is the State Board of Examiners for Teacher Education, first appointed in 1952. It is an advisory group of educators appointed by and responsible to the State Board of education, a board of laymen elected by the public. The examiners include seven representatives each from colleges, school superintendents, and public school instructors.

Development of such an important program has taken time. The new teacher training standards went into effect in September, 1955, so the full effects won't be felt until the 1959 crop of "new law" teachers graduates.

The teacher shortage can be blamed in part for charges "teachers don't know enough about what they teach," the CLOOK points out. State standards require that every teacher work in his major or minor subject field. But the teacher emergency has forced exceptions to the rules, and at times teachers must teach subjects for which they are not adequately prepared.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble A. and daughters, Theresa and ta, and son, Allen, of Sulphur, spent with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Crisp and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Love, sons, Eric and Allen, of Plains, visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Crisp Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Les Carr and son, Leslie Craig, of Baytown, were here this week, the guests of Mrs. Campbell's parents and Mrs. Bill Maynard. Campbell returned to his home at Baytown Monday while Campbell and baby will remain here for a week.

INSTALL THE All Electric YEAR 'ROUND AIR CONDITIONER

Scientists have known for years that enough natural heat exists in outdoor air, even in the coldest weather, to heat every home in the world. If this heat could be extracted . . . concentrated . . . and brought indoors — what a solution to everyone's heating problem!

But that's just what a summer air conditioner does . . . in reverse. It extracts and concentrates indoor heat and moves it outdoors.

The All Electric Heat Pump Air Conditioner is an air conditioner that can reverse itself automatically to cool or heat as needed to maintain indoor comfort at an even level. An improved reverse-cycle valve, sensitive to indoor temperature changes of even a few degrees, switches from cooling to heating and back again automatically . . . to maintain the comfort level at which you set the thermostat.

COMPLETELY AUTOMATIC

The Electric Heat Pump is completely automatic. During changeable weather, even if it is within the hour, the Heat Pump will switch from heating to cooling and or back again as the temperature changes require.

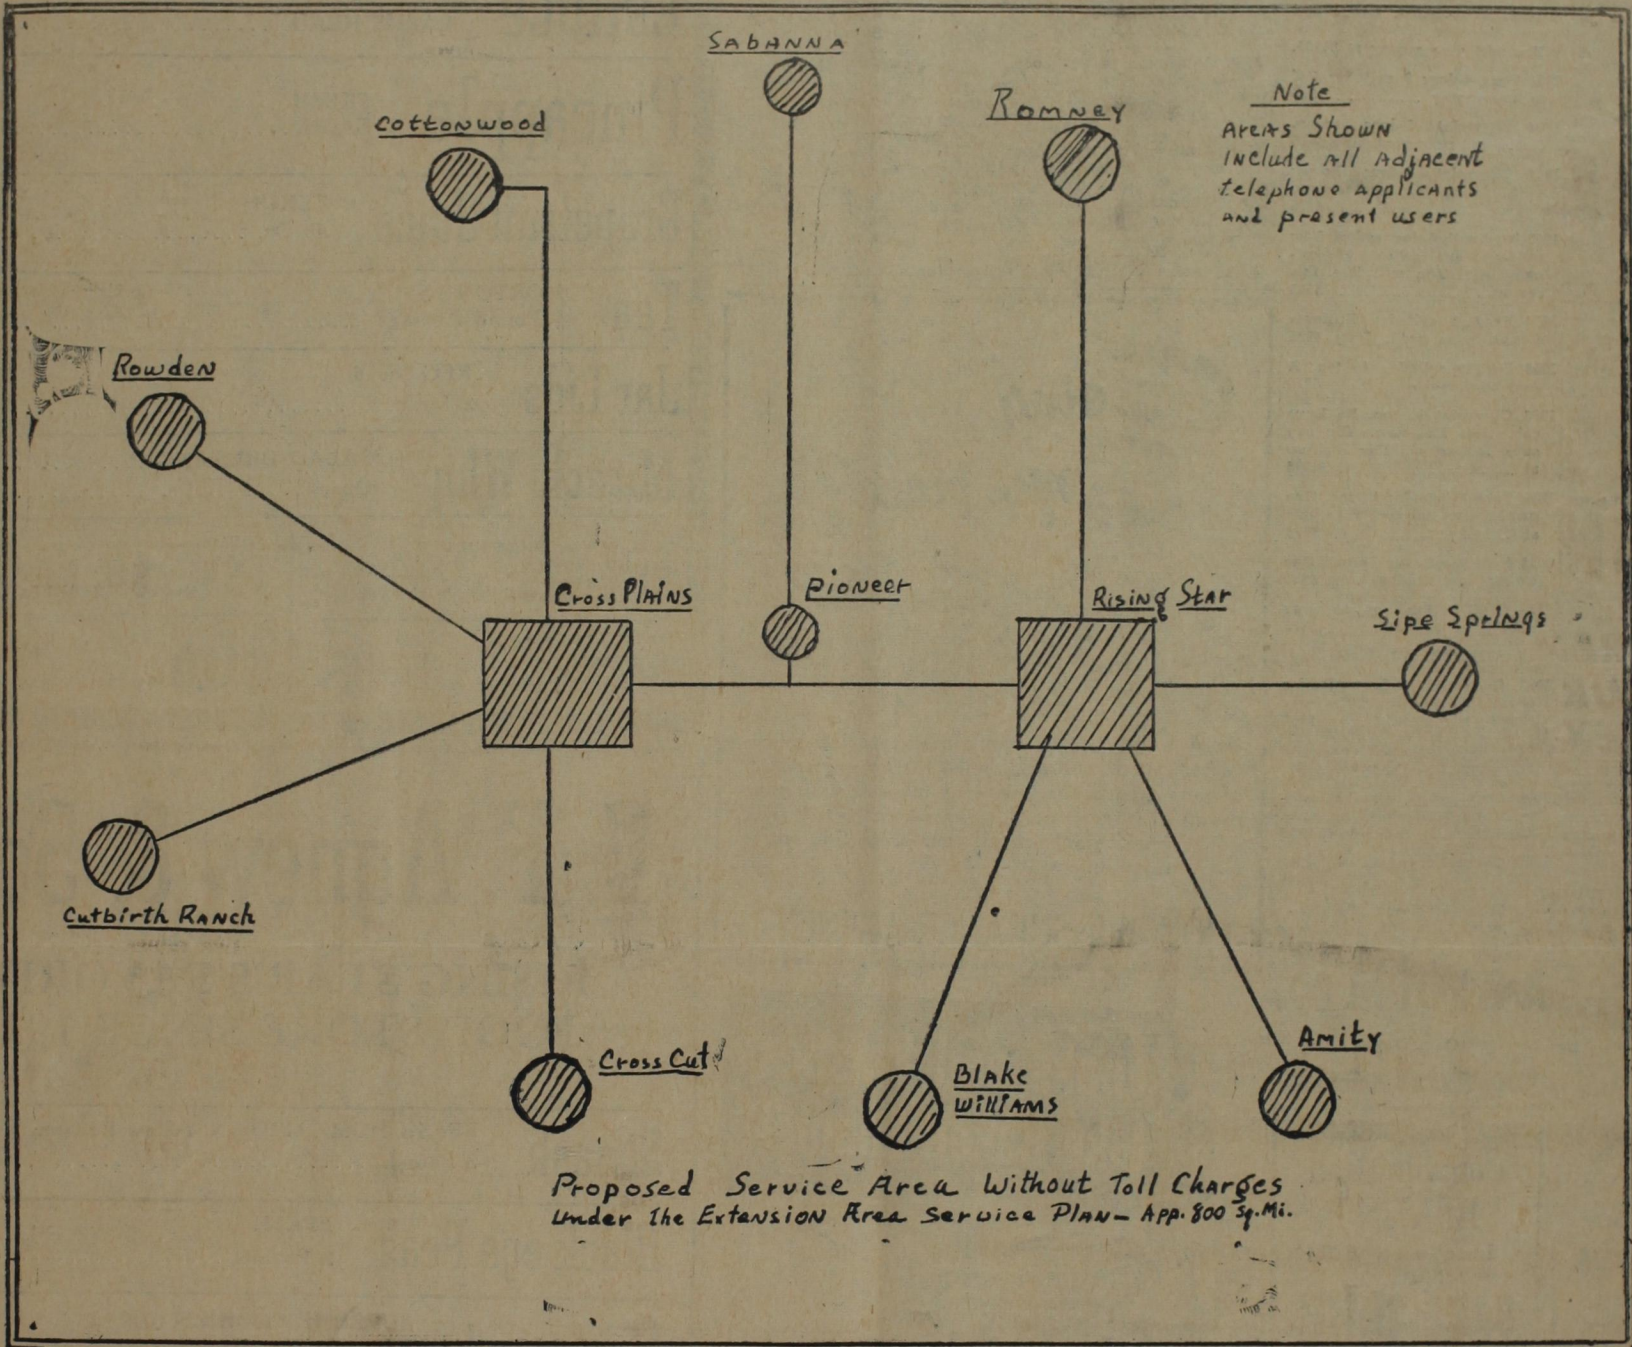

You do not need to change the temperature dial, you just set the thermostat for the temperature you desire and forget it. The Electric Heat Pump is the ONLY completely automatic Air Conditioner.

We, the undersigned citizens of this area; favor the proposed Extended Area Service Plan of the Kizer Company and urge its approval

The benefits of automatic dialing, toll-free service between all telephones in the area mapped above will more than offset the small increase in rate required. The fact that any patron within the area may dial a hospital, a doctor, a school, a minister, a business house or other institution in the area, without calling long distance and paying a toll will greatly increase the efficiency and the convenience and even the safety of our communities and people

It will have a beneficial effect upon business activity, upon property values, upon better schools, churches and living values.

It will be a step for progress.
