At Holder Motors in Cisco Monday morning, Jack Anderson showed me an old magnetophone ringed telephone acquired from Mrs. Charlie McClelland. It has the status of an antique now, but it was not so long ago that such a box was standard telephone service equipment in Rising Star, Cisco and elsewhere in this area.

Its range was limited and its reception and transmission often resembled a miniature Fourth of July fireworks display. Even between Cisco and Rising Star one had alternately to shout and strain at the ears in order to communicate.

In contrast last Sunday Mrs. Beulah Stodghill of Rising Star picked up her telephone receiver, dialed an "access" number assigned to her station, followed it with the area code of a portion of California and then with the number of her daughter's telephone in that area, and almost before you could say, "Gimme the operator," she was talking easily with her daughter in the Golden State.

No operator was called upon to put through the call; it was done electronically, in a world of magic that began haltingly some 200 years ago when Ben Franklin put a key on a kite line and got a few sparkles out of a thunderstorm, thereby proving to himself that lightning and electricity are the same. If the old wizard had really known what he was dealing with, he might have been more careful. It's a wonder his part in the American Revolution wasn't finished before it even had begun.

But thanks to him, and many others of a daring curiosity we have at our command a genie to make the tales of Aladdin merely prophetic—such things as talking in seconds across a continent that our pioneering forefathers took arduous months to travel over.

Even the record-keeping and the billing are done electronically.

It is a little awesome to consider that a telephone user in a small mid-Texas town can sit at home and talk to people in any of 60,000 towns and cities in the continental United States, Canada and parts of Mexico merely by twirling a dial on the base of his instrument.

It is all very miraculous and very convenient. Unfortunately it is being purchased at a considerable economic cost to our small community and others to which its benefits in automation are being extended. It means a significant reduction in the payrolls that used to be earned and spent in these towns, because the gadgets and whirr and click in the ghostly isolation of banks of electronic equipment are taking the places of the girls who used to respond to our signals with "Number, please."

But that is progress, and the smaller communities are not alone in its gain and loss. It remains to be seen if, in their case, the benefits provided are great enough to balance what must be given up.

There is one fact to keep in mind: people are more important even than the communities they build. It is also true that people usually have survived change in better circumstances than before.

Out in Santa Barbara, Calif., they are wondering perhaps what change is leading to when the campus of a fine college, provided by the foresight and sacrifice of pioneering people is invaded and desecrated by a mob of hoodlums and a bank building burned to the ground.

None of the rioters seems to have any definite idea of what they are "protesting"

Census Blanks Due 4 Days Before April 1

With the official opening of the U.S. district census office in Waco last week the active phase of census taking in the 21 counties of the district—including Eastland county—got under way.

About 66 crew leaders and census takers will be selected

Joe Gray Is Candidate For District Clerk

Joe T. Gray has announced that he is a candidate in the forthcoming Democratic primary for the office of District Clerk.

Gray is a native of Eastland, a graduate of Eastland High School and Texas A&M University and a practicing public accountant in Eastland. He said he hoped to be able to see every voter in the county before the primary.

Gray said that if elected he would conduct the office in the same highly efficient and friendly manner as has been done in the past, with the emphasis on public service.

He said he would have a more formal and complete statement for the voters in the near future.

USDA Food Dates Are Announced

Leo Clinton, administrator, announced these dates for distribution of USDA food at the Food Center, 301 South Mulberry in Eastland.

Monday, March 9: Eastland, Olden, Ranger.

Tuesday, March 10: Pioneer, Rising Star, Carbon, Gorman, Okra, and Desdemona.

Farmers and Ranchers Busy Planting of Improved Pastures

BY RAYMON A. WADE, SCS RISING STAR, TEXAS

Farmers and ranchers in this area of the Brown-Mills and Upper Leon Soil and Water Conservation districts are busy planting improved pastures. Several methods of seedbed preparation are being used. On old field areas clean firm seedbeds are being used. These seedbeds can be prepared with equipment owned by landowners. Usually direct harrows, one way and section harrows. Custom seedbed preparation is available through local contractors. On stands of timber local contractors are dozing and piling oak. Then using a heavy drag to smooth and firm seedbed. Another method that is being used on much of the brush area is to pull a roller chopper weighing over 39,000 pounds over the brush and seeding grasses from the crawler tractor all in one operation.

Some of the landowners who have recently completed planting pasture grasses are: Curtis Alford; Billy Zirkle; B. D. (Bud) Linney; Lenham Burkhalter; Alfred Schaffner and Pete Roberts.

A good rule of thumb for successful pasture planting is prepare a good seedbed, put down the correct amount of fertilizer, use good sprigs from Coastal Bermuda grass. Use good seed with a current analysis showing Pure Live and trained. Detailed arrangements will be made to enumerate people in institutions, jails, hospitals, colleges, and places other than in home, all in preparation for April 1 when the actual enumeration begins.

Beginning four days before April 1, mail carriers will leave census questionnaires at each residential mailbox. Each family will be asked to fill out its questionnaire and hold it for the census taker. The enumeration of the district is expected to be completed in about five weeks after the census takers begin making calls on April 1.

There are 180 other census districts throughout the country where this method of enumeration will be used. The Census Bureau estimates that about 40 percent of the U. S. population live in these districts.

There are 212 other census districts in which the remaining 60 percent of the population live. These districts, for the most part, include the large cities and their suburbs. Households in these districts will also receive census questionnaires in the mail to fill out, but they will be asked to mail them back to the census office in a postage-free envelope that will accompany the questionnaire. No census taker will call at these households from which completely filled out questionnaires are returned.

The Census Bureau says that having the questionnaire in the home for several days gives the family time to assemble information about each member of the household, thus speeding up the census and providing accurate statistics.

Shults to Host John Deere Show Tues., March 10

Shults Implement Company will play host to farmers and their families and guests at the annual John Deere Show at the American Legion Hall Tuesday, March 10.

The program will start at 6:30 p.m. and there will be entertainment and a showing of new John Deere equipment.

A self-propelled lawn mower will be given away and there will be door prizes.

There will also be free eats, Cecil Shults said.

Everybody is invited.

Pecan Budding School Is Set For April 17th

The date for the 17th annual Eastland County Pecan Budding and Grafting School will be April 17. The date was set and other decisions made at the mid-winter meeting of the Eastland County Pecan Growers Assn. in Cisco Feb. 24.

Anton White of Cisco was re-elected president of the association for 1970. Other officers elected during the meeting were Dale Carlile of Cisco, vice-president; DeMarquis Gordon of Eastland, secretary; Ben McKinnis of Eastland, treasurer; C. T. Barton of Pioneer, director; and W. C. (Check) Smith of Gorman, director.

The members voted to have the pecan spring field day on May 23 in Rising Star.

The budding and grafting school will be held at Cisco Jr. College for the 17th consecutive year. This event is usually attended by pecan growers throughout Central and West Texas. It is recognized as the largest school of its kind in Texas. Each year between 100 and 150 people attend from about twenty-five counties and a few from other states reports county agent DeMarquis Gordon.

Samuel Eakin, Oil Producer, Buried Sunday

Funeral services for Samuel Harrison Eakin, 68, were held in the Higginbotham Funeral Chapel Sunday afternoon, March 1, at 3 p. m. with Rev. Hierholzer of Kilgore, Texas, officiating, assisted by Rev. Tom Flippen of Rising Star. Burial was in the Pioneer Cemetery under the direction of Higginbotham Funeral Home of Rising Star.

Mr. Eakin died at his home on Rt. 2, Friday, Feb. 27, at 4:30 p. m., after an illness of four months.

Born January 27, 1889, at Brookhaven, Texas, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Eakin, both deceased, he had lived in Eastland County most of his life.

An oil operator and one of those responsible for the discovery and development of the famed Pioneer oil pool, he had been active in his profession until four months ago. He was a member of the Hodnett Grove Baptist Church. He married Grace Curry at Blake on April 19, 1917.

Pallbearers were R. D. Needham, Mack Gray, Russell Calhoun, O. R. Shults, Herbert Freeman and H. H. Lawson.

Survivors include his wife, two sons, R. C. Eakin of Burksville, Ky. and Ben Eakin of Wichita Falls; a daughter, Mrs. Elaine Ratcliffe of Rising Star; one brother, Doug Eakin, also of Rising Star, a sister Mrs. Lessie Chilton, Decatur, seven grandchildren and sixteen great-grandchildren.

Gorman Short Course To Talk Peanut Production In Detail

Peanut production will be discussed in detail at a short course to be held in Gorman March 11 and 12. County agent DeMarquis Gordon said six Texas A&M Extension specialists will discuss crop fertilization, disease, insect and weed control and marketing.

The short course will be held in the Gorman High School auditorium beginning at 7:30 p. m. each evening. In addition to the six specialists, Wayne Eaves, Secretary of the Texas Peanut Producers Board, will give a report of the new check-off program. Ross Wilson, Manager of Southwestern Peanut Growers Association will give a report on the association activities.

D. B. Warren, chairman of the county peanut committee, reports that door prizes, furnished by local merchants, will be given. Refreshments will be served courtesy of the Pioneer Farmer's Cooperative and the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association.

On Wednesday night Dr. Wendell Horne, Plant Pathologist, will discuss peanut disease control. Wayne Keese, Agricultural Engineer, will speak on peanut irrigation. The third speaker will be James Denton, Area Farm Management Specialist who will speak on marketing.

Phil Hamman, Entomologist, will discuss lesser cornstalk borer and other insect control on Thursday night. Dr. John Chapin, area Agronomist, will discuss fertilization and Ben Spears, Agronomist, will speak on weed control.

Gordon said the peanut committee planned this short course to help all producers in the area increase income through more efficient production of a higher quality product.

1970 Census Expected To Show A Population Of 19,000 For County

Every ten years the government finds it necessary to count its population so that it may better serve the people. This year, the first of the decade, on April 1, Americans will once more be asked to count themselves and their families and inform the government. Also on the census are questions about how Americans live, their health, finances, and occupations.

"Every question asked in the 1970 census has a national purpose," says Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans. "Government programs for welfare, education, housing, veterans, senior citizens, minorities, and many others, depend on accurate counts of our people and how they live. Schools, businesses, our state, cities, and citizen groups all use Census figures to plan their work and to measure our country's problems and progress."

President Richard Nixon states, "A good society, like a good individual, must begin by knowing itself." The census helps Americans to know themselves.

Each census becomes more complicated at the nation, and Eastland County, continues to grow and progress. The first census was taken in 1790 for the United States, but, according to the 1970-1971 Texas Almanac, the first census in Eastland County was not taken until 1880 when 99 persons were counted.

The population of Eastland County decreased in the next ten years, perhaps a result of the Civil War, and in 1870 there were only 88 persons in Eastland County. By 1880 the population had grown to what then was considered a tremendous number, 4,855,000. Eastland has 105 businesses and reached its peak 4,500. Ranger has a population of 1,920, when 58,500 persons of 3,840 and 85 businesses were counted. This was during the oil boom. Other towns, their business and population are as follows: Rising Star 39 business and 886 population; Carbon, four businesses and 1,920 population; Gorman, 36 lowest since 1900. The estimated population in 1969 was 18,266. The 1970 census should show 19,000 population, show a figure close to this. No businesses and 37 population.

Although the number of citizens in Eastland County has decreased, industry and business has continued to grow. According to the 1960 census there are 389 businesses, recognized by Dun & Bradstreet of New York, in the Eastland County.

Present records, in the 1970-1971 Texas Almanac, show living in general it relates the mood of the county with and living conditions of the 120 businesses and 4,950 citizens.

Direct Distance Dialing Now A Reality In Rising Star Area

Long distance calling became faster and cheaper on March 1, 1970, for telephone customers in Cross Plains, Rising Star and May. On that date, Direct Distance Dialing began.

Jim Fryar, district manager for Texas Telephone & Telegraph Company, urges customers to read page 3 of the current telephone directory to become familiar with DDD procedures. "But," he cautioned, "we have had to make one change since the directory was printed."

"A DDD Access Code is necessary to let our control office equipment know the call will be a long distance one," he said. "The telephone directory indicates this code is always the Number 1."

"We've had to change that to a 3 digit code. The code will vary from subscriber to subscriber because the equipment requires a different access code to be dialed by each party on a line. Each Access Code is '11' followed by the last digit of the telephone number; like 112."

This week DDD information and Area booklets were mailed to each customer. Complete and up-to-date instructions are outlined there. The proper Access Code for each customer calls must be placed with the

A HARD DAY
 It started off wrong. I woke up with a headache. I did not have anything to wear. I had a run in my stocking. The car stalled at the red light, and I was in a traffic jam. I arrived late at work. I was tardy at school.

Everywhere I went, people came at me with questions I could not answer, deadlines that could not be met, hope and expectations that frustrated me. I failed that important test.

I spilled my purse on the steps. On the way home I had a flat and had to walk a mile; I think I caught a cold.

I burned supper. The electricity went off and I could not watch television. I read the paper by candle light while devouring a leftover cold drumstick. I read of babies starving in Biafra. I read that a senator threatened to throw another senator out of a restaurant. I read about a thousand-dollar-a-plate dinner. I read of the orphans of Vietnam and of children who refused to be abused in school. A teenager ran away from home. I read of fear and pains of our boys across the sea; then, the article about the student take over of a nearby college caught my eye. A draft card burner gained attention. The people in ghettos were starving to death, while our government appropriated money to plant trees.

I looked back upon the happenings of the day. Yes, it had been one of those bad days, a very hard day — but — for whom?

LEADERS OF TOMORROW

In Civics we are studying about the cities. This gives us a bird's eye view of the government of urban America.

In H. E. III we took a few days off from our knitting and crocheting to study a little about home first aid. B. J., what did she say we would do?

English IV class has brought us to the study of transitive and intransitive verbs, active, and passive voice.

We ordered our invitations last week. They should be here in four to six weeks.

The Senior Class discussed our caps and gowns for graduation last week.

JANET

THERE'S ROOM AT THE TOP

The Junior class was pleased with the money received from the Outsider's Tournament. Lately we have been trying to figure out how much we are doing in the class funds; we have done very nicely.

English class is about the same. We have taken a test over vocabulary words. We are moving right along in American History. Tomorrow we are taking a test. In Bookkeeping we are working on adjustments, and in Typing we are still trying to complete

WILLING TO LEARN

This week in Homemaking, all the girls went on a field trip to Brownwood. We saw the most beautiful house. The walls were covered in red velvet, and the master bedroom was decorated in black and white velvet.

In history, we are beginning with the growth of democracy and nationalism; finally, we begin to learn what everything is all about.

In English, we are being drilled on adverbial nouns and indirect objects. We are not worried; after all we have three months left to learn it. In Algebra we are furiously studying fractions with polynomials in them. It takes a lot of brains and that's exactly what the class of '72 seems to have but fails to use.

In Biology this week, we are dissecting clams or mussels; next week it may be a starfish or something even more fascinating.

We get our report cards this week, and we hope our parents will go easy on us.

MARTHA

TOWARD NEW HORIZONS

Hi there! In Homemaking I the girls are still sewing. While waiting their turn at the sewing machines, the fish are learning to knit or embroider.

Homemaking II girls cooked apple fritters and baked cookies for the FHA meeting last week. Now they are

DO-RE-MI

From the vibrations that have been coming from the band hall, it sounds as though everyone has been practicing and individually playing their scales for a six week's grade; for some it is easy while others find it difficult.

We have had another color change from the orange book to the purple book. I tell you; they do have some weird colors for books.

Reporter, Jerrilyn

IN THE FISHBOWL

Hello! Last week we got our report cards! Believe it or not, most of the grades were fairly good.

Come on, Freshmen! Let's get the calendars sold! If any of you people would like to, buy a Community Birthday Calender or even if you wouldn't like to, but you will, please let us know. Sooner or later we will come to your house and ask, but you could

"Building Solid Growth Through Better Service"

IT HAS BEEN

By Vada Arnold

Rising Star has never failed in her contribution to the armed services of our nation. During the four wars, World War I, World War II and the Korean War and now the war in Viet Nam, the cream of young manhood have shown their loyalty, their patriotism and their bravery on battlefields around the world.

Samuel E. Graves, Jr. son of Mrs. Florence Graves spent 13 years in the U. S. Army Air Corps. He entered service in November 1940 shortly after he became 19 years old. His basic training began at the Army Air Field at Carsbad, New Mexico. From there he went to Westover Field, Mass. While at Carsbad he received his wings and was commissioned Lieutenant. At Westover Field he was assigned to overseas duty and spent a number of years on foreign soil.

E. H. Ramsey, Jr., was a senior in Baylor Dental College at Dallas, in December 1940, he completed his work there and was approved by the State Board of Dentistry and assigned to overseas duty with the United States Navy as an officer in the Medical Corps. During his high school days in Rising Star he was a valued member of the Wildcat football team.

H. Mearlyn Jones, son of Mrs. Olice Jones, joined the U. S. Navy in December 1943 and was sent to the West Coast for training, he was assigned to duty aboard ship in Pacific waters.

Calvin Foster participated in the North African, Sicilian and Italian campaigns and with the U. S. forces in France, serving with an Anti-craft cap Unit. He entered service in 1942 and did overseas duty for more than two years and saw some of the toughest action in the war. He was decorated with the Silver Star.

Martin E. (Little Humpy) Crossley attended A&M University for three years before entering service in January, 1943. He trained at Ft. Eustis, Va., Camp Davis, N. C. and Camp Hulen Texas. He was sent to Officers Training School at Ft. Benning, Ga., and received his commission as lieutenant. He was assigned to duty in Germany. He saw much action in different battle fronts. He was with U. S. troops in Bergtesgarden Germany for a time.

Two sons of Leonard Harris did their part in World War II. Lee Harris was on duty with the Marines in the Pacific Islands he took part in some of the hottest campaigns in taking islands from the Japanese. J. O. Harris was with an anti-aircraft unit in Germany and other fields of combat.

Timmy Johnson an aircraft engine specialist, was a member of Troop Carrier Service wing. His unit was responsible for keeping the troop carrier and planes and gliders in operation.

Norman Claborn entered the U. S. Air Corps in November 1942. Ike Hiskman was a Captain in the Quartermaster Corps and did duty in North Africa.

Col. M. L. Joyce was awarded the Bronze Star for meritorious achievement in the South Pacific, theatres with the 93rd Infantry Division, in support of combat operations on Moratai Island in the Dutch East Indies. He was also awarded two major battle stars, received in Bougainville and New Guinea.

Richard C. Brown was one of the most highly trained men in the army Air Forces during World War II. He had special training in dead-reckoning navigation as well as standard bombardiering.

Donald J. Joyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Joyce, was awarded an air medal while serving as a liaison flyer on duty in the India-Burma Theatre. From a copy of the citation accompanying the presentation of the medal. "For meritorious achievement by participating in missions totaling more than one hundred hours over enemy territory of Northern Burma during which exposure to enemy fire was probable and expected. These flights were made in unarmored single engine aircraft performed for the purpose of evacuation of battle casualties. Search and reconnaissance missions of mercy, artillery adjustments and supply missions were accomplished with untiring energy and devotion to duty above and beyond that normally expected."

Joyce was a staff sergeant Air Corps pilot from December 1944 to February 9, 1945.

Charles (Mutt) Carroll entered the Navy in December 1941 and was sent to San Diego, Calif., for boot training. From there to Seattle, Wash. for training in a radar school, he was sent back to San Diego to finish training in radar operations.

It would take days, weeks in fact, to list each Rising Star boy who fought for us in the time of wars. A few more names are added to the list: Lane Wells, John Charles Small, Jack Gibson, Perry Tom Valliant, four sons from the Roy Rutledge family, Edward Watkins, R. T. Ezzell, Ray and Roy Butler, Three Nunnally brothers, from the Tom Nunnally family. Larry Earp, Gaston Alford, John Henry Nunnally, Travis, Bill and Weldon Roach, three Starkey brothers, Albert, Walter and Clarence.

May we always remember these our own boys with a sense of gratitude and appreciation.

First Baptist Church News

A covered dish supper will be served at the First Baptist Church dining room on March 11, beginning at 6:30 p. m. Everyone is invited to come and bring a covered dish.

Special guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Leon Woods of Brownwood, Rev. and Mrs. Ed Jackson of Abilene, and the new pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Vic Allen. Everybody is invited to come and get acquainted.

March 8 will be Home Mission Day and a special offering will be taken.

"Courage" Theme Of WSCS Meet

The Womens Society of Christian Service met Monday afternoon in observance of the "World Day of Prayer." The meeting was opened with singing, "What a Friend We Have In Jesus".

Mrs. W. C. Witt gave the prayer. Mrs. H. S. Switzer told of the beginning of the day of prayer, and the preparation of the World Day of Prayer. The theme was "Take Courage". Mrs. J. R. Bucy gave the story of Courage. Mrs. H. B. Sone talked on the subject of "Meditation on Lent and What it Means". She read scripture from the book of Matthew.

Mrs. Switzer told the story of "The Praying Hands." The Lord's prayer was said in unison. Mrs. Stock dismissed the meeting with a prayer. —Mrs. May. Pearl Hull, Reporter.

save us some time if you would buy in advance.

Most of our classes are going fine. The girls are having a bad time in science. We are studying all about electricity and magnetism. Unfortunately this has to do with motors and we're completely lost.

Ag I is going great. The boys are judging dairy cattle, not really judging; guessing is a better word.

In Home Ec. most of us have finished our sewing; I hope we all get good grades.

So, long,
B. J.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Mrs. John Stock was pleasantly surprised on her birthday, Sunday, March 1, when her daughter, Mrs. G. C. Rigdon, Mr. Rigdon and children of Big Spring, and her son, Calvin Easterling of Abilene came with a birthday dinner already prepared. The day was spent in visiting and reminiscing.
