ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

With increasing emphasis on physical fitness, not only for our youth, but for persons of all ages, thousands of words have been written and hundreds of illustrations displayed showing what we can do about it.

One of the best illustrated guides to overall fitness has been prepared by the American Medical Association's Department of Health Education, entitled "Seven Paths to Fitness". It is a fold-out pamphlet skirting burdensome detail, leaving the actual decisions up to the individual.

First of seven paths to fitness is proper medical care with the individual asking himself three questions: what kinds of medical care does he need; how are such services best obtained; and now can he get the best possible medical services? The questions are answered in essence, but allowing personal choice.

Nutrition was number two on the list. What are your daily food needs in relation to type need? The four basic food groups — meat, milk, bread-cereal, fruits and vegetables — plus extras based on caloric needs are listed.

Dental services and all that it implies was third, stressing dental care and regular visits to the dentist.

The fourth path to fitness was right exercise; how much exercise do you need; and what does exercise do for you?

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

By Omar Bureson, M. C. 17th Texas Dist.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — in a recent public speech by Dr. Willis Tate, President of Southern Methodist University, he said there are five particular reasons to cause Americans to be nervous and concerned. He said that any one would have been enough to have disrupted any period in American history.

He lists them as (1) Atomic Energy and what it means; (2) Outer Space and its experimentation; (3) Electronics and Devices of Radiation; (4) Emergence of the undeveloped countries which claim world citizenship without having gone through any of the maturing process; and (5) The Population Explosion.

Dr. Tate said that people are not at home in change and they react to these rapid and unprecedented developments with fear, distrust, hate and sometimes hysteria.

A few days ago I attended a briefing on plans for reaching the moon within the next seven or eight years. The story is fantastic and sounds like something out of the stories of Buck Rogers.

At first, it was conceived that a capsule carrying two men would be placed in orbit, and later, another capsule would be sent up in the same orbit to rendezvous with the first. After connecting, one would be propelled to the moon by a blast-off in space.

The plan now is to send three men in a connected missile into orbit around the earth. For technical reasons, the men transfer from the lead capsule into the second, which will detach itself and travel to the moon. Since there is by far less gravitation on the moon than the earth, they will have the power to take off from the moon back into the same orbit, rendezvous with the detached capsule which had been orbiting the earth, re-connect and blast back to earth with rockets in the second capsule.

All this is fantastic, but Dr. Walter R. Dornberger seems to have no doubt of success. Dr. Dornberger was head of the Ordnance Experiment Station in Germany during World War II. His Assistant was the 18-year old Wernher von Braun, who, together with other scientists, has had much to do with changing the future.

These changes do create certain frustrations. There will likely be more nervousness to all peoples of the earth, and nuclear weapons be orbited with controls around the earth to turn them loose at any spot desired. Discussions have been held with outer space for peaceful purposes only, but like other agreements, how can we know that, since they have the capability, they will not arm their orbiting vehicles with nuclear weapons.

Although it is the policy of the United States that outer space not be used for military purposes, at this time we have no other choice but to spend huge sums of money to be certain that we have at least the same, if not a greater capability, than do the Russians. It becomes, not a matter of whether we can afford it, but rather a matter of affording not to.

The moon shot and related experiments will cost billions of dollars. It is a perfectly legitimate question as to what we accomplish by landing men on the moon. That alone would be somewhat ridiculous, but everything done relates to the conquest of outer space, and we are one of two contestants for it.

In December the Mariner II Spacecraft, launched at the end of August, will pass in 9,000 miles of Venus. Scientific data will be sent back to the earth as it probes the mysteries of that planet. Traveling 180 million miles, it will be another fantastic breakthrough if successful.

Most of us still do not understand how the human voice can travel over the wire from the old hand-cranked telephone.

Recent guests in the C. N. Huddleston home were C. A. Wells and daughter, Mrs. C. A. Keanon, Jr., and son, Charles, of Fort Worth. Mr. Wells is a brother of Mrs. Huddleston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Faulkenberry accompanied her brother and his wife on their return trip to California. They were Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Barnes who live in Grass Valley, Calif. The Faulkenberrys plan to be gone ten days or two weeks.

WHAT ABOUT GOALS?

The 1962-63 school year has begun; we have already started writing themes, taking tests, and going to football games. Amid all this activity are we forgetting the real significance of high school? The years that we spend in high school are vastly important. Our character is being molded into the adult of tomorrow; we start making records that will stay with us all of our lives. In short, how well we do in high school determines our future successes. We must take full advantage of our priceless heritage of high schools; however, we must also recognize high schools as a means to an end, that end being choice. One should be thinking, planning, and deciding about all the way through high school. Students who neglect this will find themselves perplexed after graduation. "What shall I do?" they ask. We must set goals for ourselves; remember, the higher our goals are, the higher or better our rewards will be. A comparison to this is a football game. The team has its eyes on the goal, ever pressing toward it; the quarterback uses different plays and strategies to achieve the goal. It is like that in our lives; we should set our goals, ever press toward them and use high school as a means of attaining them.

WITH THE SENIORS!

As usual, when Mrs. Claborn checked to see how much news was still to be written, guess who was missing? So, here I am.
 It seems impossible to see the title, "Seniors" in front of our names, but I guess it is so. We Seniors got off to a rolling start this year by electing our officers. They are as follows: President, Don Donham; Vice-president, Kenneth Pittman; Secretary, Carol Burns; Treasurer, Mary Alford, and Reporter, Kay Lewis.

We kept our class colors, brown and gold. Our class flower is the bronze mum.
 This week has proved a busy one for the Seniors. We started planning for our school annual, and I think it is going to be one of the best this school has ever had. We senior start our school spirit off this week by attending the pep rally given for the football boys to pep up their spirits against Melvin. It was a rather dreary day, but we made the effort by paddling our canoes from the building to the gym. Ha! Ha!

There isn't much news this week as far as lessons go. We have begun the study of the foundation of our government in civics. The chemistry students are finding Mr. Gray a good teacher and chemistry a very challenging subject. We have completed the study of "Beowulf" in English IV, after studying the prelude to English literature.

That seems to be the biggest part of it for this week. (There was more of it than I thought).
 Bye for now,
 —Katy.

"UPWARD AND ONWARD"

The Junior class of 62-63, officially organized on Sept. 4th. We are all glad to be back together and had many summer experiences to tell each other. Jimmy Rutledge is our president. Other officers are Rodger Goodwin, vice-president; Judy Lewis, secretary; Loretta Pittman, treasurer; Patricia Burns, sergeant-at-arms, and Harriet Schmitt, reporter.

Loretta Pittman We kept our motto of "Upward and Onward," but we changed our colors to blue and white with our flower the carnation. Our class dues will be 25 cents a month.

 Our room mothers, whom we appreciate very much, are Mrs. Dubie Jones as chairman; Mrs. A. D. Schmitt, Mrs. June Harris, Mrs. F. W. Pittman and Mrs. Helen Donham.

There are three Junior boys coming out for football this year. They are Bill Clark, Roger Goodwin and Randy Lewis. We are proud of them and hope that God is always near them when they are on the field. That goes for any player, though.

Our class has decreased in number. Patsy Stevenson has married and Lloyd Wright has moved back to Wink. We sincerely wish we could have them back.

"KNOWLEDGE COMES BUT WISDOM LINGERS"

Hello, everyone! We are back at Rising Star High School working hard on a new year. We all seem to have had exciting summer vacations. All of this pleasure is over now, but we now have the "pleasure" of making this the greatest year ever.

Our Sophomore football boys are working hard and getting some very pleasing results. Everyone agrees on the prospects of an excellent team; and our boys are certainly included in these prospects.

We had a few conflicts to arise during the first week of school; we know how you freshmen feel and want to help you in every way possible. By now we have our schedules and problems worked out and are well on our way to greater learning.

Our class has increased with three new students this year. Janice Page came from Midland High School to join our class. Janice is well-known around Rising Star as an excellent barrel racer. Carolyn Stover has come from Oklahoma to join us and is well liked by everyone who became acquainted with her this summer and those who met her for the first time last Tuesday. And, last and perhaps least in height but not in importance, we have Mike Pruett from Cross Plains. He has made many friends with his smile and great personality. These three are now a part of "us"; we are glad to have you and will do whatever we can to help you along.

Our class officers for this year are as follows:
 President — Sandra Teague
 Vice-President — Terry Geyte

Secretary and Treasurer — James Cox
 Sponsor — Eddie Henry
 Reporter — Charlene Vermillion

"LIVE AND LEARN"

The start for another school year has begun. We as the freshmen class of 1962-1963 have enjoyed it thoroughly. At first it was very confusing-finding the right room in which to go, but with the help of friends and teachers we usually arrive on time.

Our schedules were given to us and our books issued; we were next introduced to our teachers.

Our officers for the year are as follows: President, Franz Pittman; vice-president, Letha Clark; Secretary, Sharon Lewis; Treasurer, Earline Reed; Sergeant-at-Arms, Davy Jones.

Our colors are green and white and our sponsor is Mr. Frank Gray.

The freshmen who are taking algebra are having fun learning equations-right, Caroline.

The freshmen in General Science will soon be studying the dissection of animals.

The freshmen girls are working out in P. E. Mr. Henry is having us do push-ups and chin-ups. Most of us are sore and know what football boys go through. The freshman class hopes to make this the best year ever. So long until next week.

CHEERLEADERS NEWS

We have started our season with a bang this year! Our new cheerleaders of '62 are: Sharon Donham, President; Loretta Pittman, Vice-President; Harriet Schmitt, Secretary-Treasurer; Deana Jones, Reporter. Besides having totally new cheerleaders this season, we are going to be dressed in completely different outfits. We will wear royal blue sweaters with the emblem in blue and white; our wool pleated skirts are white. Blue tennis shoes and gold megaphones set off the suits.

Starting our year early, we went to S. M. U. on Aug. 5-10 to a cheerleading school. We had a swell time and learned new yells, routines, and students. We are also proud to say we won a ribbon for honorable mention the first day after trying out in competition.

We had our first pep rally last Friday, and we believe it was a success. We want to invite everyone to come not only to the football games but to the pep rallies, too. We are going to have a great team, and we are counting on you to come and support it.

 Deana

BAND NEWS

The members of the Rising Star Wildcat Band want to welcome you to another year of our "swinging" music. We started the year with our newly elected officers and majorettes. Our officers are as follows: Captain-Don Donham; First Lieutenant, Tommy Alford, Second Lt., Charles Wade, Treasurer, Vondell Atwood, Secretary, Sharon Donham, Librarian, Kenneth Pittman. The majorettes are: Drum major, Judy Lewis; head majorette, Sharolyn Roach; majorettes are: Vondell Atwood, Mary Alford, Sherry Jones, Janet Shults, and Virginia Bishop. We hope that each of these officers and majorettes will enjoy their positions.

The members of our band want to thank our Band Parents for the very nice job they have done on our Band Hall. Last year they put up curtains and now they have put in a tile floor and painted the inside. It looks very nice and we hope to keep it that way.

We hope the Wildcats have a wonderful season this year and we will be backing them all the way.

So long for now,
 Mary Alford, Reporter

Hybrid Sorghum Yields Forage and Residue

PAT AGNEW AND MICKY BLACK show good growth of hybrid forage sorghum on the Ray Agnew farm north of Rising Star. These new hybrids produce high quality forage and hay crops, and when managed properly return high amounts of crop residue to the soil for improvement and protection. Soil cover such as this did most to prevent major flooding in Rising Star during last week's storm.

showed moisture penetration of only 30 inches where the soil was bare and in poor condition. Land having a good cover of Johnson grass showed a moisture penetration of 52 inches. Had all the land in the watershed been bare, poor condition cropland major flooding in the city would have occurred. The soil is the best place to store water. Good vegetative cover on the land is the best and easiest way to get water into the land and "it takes cover to make cover". With the farmer and rancher "its the rain he keeps that counts".

North Star Club All-Day Meeting Set For Sept. 26th

The North Star Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting on Sept. 4.

An all-day meeting will be held on Sept. 26, with each member expected to bring a sack lunch. Quilting will be done on the double Irish chain quilt which will be given away at the club's Achievement Day program next month. Members unable to quilt, will paint chairs.

Individual report sheets were distributed and are to be filled out and returned on Sept. 18. This report covers what each member has canned, dried, preserved and frozen this year, and also the family health records kept.

New officers were elected for 1963 as follows:

Mrs. Lee Burkhead, president; Mrs. W. W. Shults, vice-president; Mrs. Jesse O. Perry, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. W. V. Fenter, council delegate.

A good response is being received to our call for useful articles, such as used clothing, toys, dolls, school materials, spoons, buttons, magazines, etc., to be sent to the Travis State School at Austin. There are 2,600 retarded people at this school which is one of nine schools for the retarded in Texas. Contributions may be taken to the club house or some member of the club will pick them up.

Our quarterly gift exchange was held at this meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. E. Barker and Mrs. Rufus Pierce. —Reporter, Mrs. Jesse O. Perry.

Soil Cover Is Key To Flood Prevention

JOHN LEE

Soil cover is the key to flood prevention in any watershed. Adequate watercourses to carry run-off water from high intensity rainfall coupled with structures designed to retain floodwater, help to prevent major flooding in the lowlands. With good vegetative cover, however, it is impractical if not impossible to control major flooding.

Many Rising Star folks expected major flooding in the city during the heavy rains of Thursday and Friday of last week. The official city gage measured ten and four tenths inches of rain during this storm. According to Mayor Smith, flooding has occurred in the city during this storm. Channel improvement work carried out by the city last winter and spring had a great deal to do with this. Good vegetative cover on the land in the watershed, however, was the one condition more than any other that prevented major flooding.

Water intake rate on tightland having a ton or more of deep rooted grass cover per acre is seven times greater than it is on land having poor cover of shallow rooted grasses. Slowly permeable cropland in good condition and with a ton of crop residues per acre on the surface has a water intake rate 28 times greater than poor condition cropland with no surface cover.

One inch of rainfall will wet a sandy loam soil about nine inches. Soils in the Rising Star watershed are mostly sandy loams. Moisture penetration on a deep sandy loam soil in the watershed with a good cover of perennial grasses had reached a depth of 62 inches on Monday, September 10. This means that about 7 inches of the rainfall went into the soil and only 3 inches ran off.

Cleaner Sample

Farmers have said that all they have to do is look in the bag or the bin and they can tell whether a Lilliston's done the work.

If it did, the nuts are as clean as a soap-maker's thumbs. Lilliston Combines have long been noted for such efficient results.

This year they'll be even cleaner. Reason: a new separating system that eliminates practically all trash before the nuts reach the stemmer saws. With just two simple adjustments to make you can be sure of the

Another thing: on the tank models, the bottom of the tank is perforated. Dirt that is knocked off the peanut hulls during the filling operation filter out before the load is dumped.

These are more of the advantages that make the Lilliston Peanut Combine the finest in the field.

Come by and look it over as soon as you can. We'll show you exactly why this is the biggest money-maker in peanut harvesting history.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

The U. S. Constitution sets up three separate branches of our government, each with special powers. Actually each branch works closely together with the other.

But sometimes the executive branch has facts or papers which Congress or the courts would like to have. Suppose the executive refused this information to the other branch. Can the courts make it give this evidence?

For generations arguments have gone over the extent of "executive privilege." Even President Washington refused the Senate information from his cabinet about negotiations for treaties. President Washington said that disclosure would hurt the public interest. Aaron Burr tried to compel President Jefferson to produce papers and testify about government affairs. Jefferson first refused but later cooperated in part with the court to avoid a conflict.

Since then, the courts have protected the executive from prying into the workings of the executive branch. The president seems to have almost unlimited powers to say what might be inimical to the public if disclosed although some have criticized the overuse of the rule.

In an anti-trust suit, the government refused to give the defendant reports it held, though he needed them to defend himself. In another case the government did not give a landowner copies it had of appraisals though it was his land that was being condemned. In other suits the government has refused to show copies of contracts, instructions to officials, or other government reports, needed in law suits.

More recently, the courts have liberally allowed "discovery" of facts from the government. If the government is prosecuting or bringing the lawsuit, a court can prevent the with its case unless it gives the facts to the other side.

Government information subpoenaed by a court is difficult to enforce. The court must fine or jail the official for his disobedience. Courts hesitate to do this if the official genuinely is privileged which the court cannot determine until the court sees it. This could destroy a legitimate claim of privilege because the judge has to review it and decide.

The executive has said that privilege will not be used to cover up mistakes or to promote political or personal gain. To get a fair trial and promote justice in a lawsuit, full information may be necessary. Yet full disclosure may be against public interest. The courts and the executive have tried to balance the interest of the government and the litigant.

This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise — no person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)
