

Primary Gets More Interest As Day Nears

14 Boxes In County Open Saturday From 8 A. M. To 7 P. M.

From U. S. senator to constable, officials are to be named by democratic voters of Howard county as they go to the polls Saturday in what promises to be a spirited primary despite the war.

On more absentee vote had trickled in, bringing the total to 305, County Clerk Lee Forter reported. This portended a comparatively heavy vote, possibly up to 4,000 ballots, observers believed.

Polls will open at 8 a. m. in 14 voting boxes of the county and will close at 7 p. m., according to L. S. Patterson, chairman of the county democratic executive committee. Those with poll taxes and exemption certificates, and those who reside outside the city limits and who are entitled to over-exemptions will be entitled to vote in the primary provided they are registered for the precinct in which they intend to vote.

As is customary, banks will be closed on primary day. And, by law, sale of whiskies and alcoholic beverages is prohibited on election day between the hours of 7 a. m. and 8 p. m.—an hour before and an hour after voting hours.

Chief interest here centers in the U. S. senator's race as it does all over the state. This may prove the big factor in getting out the vote.

Interest has been mounting, too, in some of the contested races on the local ballot. These include W. S. Morrison, incumbent, and J. S. Garlington for county judge; Hugh W. Dunagan, incumbent, and George C. Choate for district clerk; Anne Martin, incumbent, Herschel Summerlin and Walker Bailey for county superintendent; and George T. Thomas and H. C. Hooser for county attorney.

In precinct competition, the contested places are J. E. Brown seeking re-election over Walter Long and Roy Williams in the No. 1 commissioners race. H. T. Hale, incumbent, is pitted against W. W. Bennett in No. 2 and Akin Simpson, incumbent, against C. E. Frather and E. E. Edens in No. 4. The constable's race has J. F. Crenshaw, incumbent, seeking the place along with J. A. Adams and L. A. Coffey.

All other county, precinct and district places are uncontested for the democratic primary, which also is tantamount to election. Democrats also will name their respective delegates and their chairmen Saturday, and republicans nominally regard the day as the time for selecting their precinct delegates to the county convention. Usually this proves only a formality.

US Navy Task Force Active

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—Rear Admiral Robert C. Giffen, commander of a U. S. naval task force with the British fleet, disclosed today the force had been in action against enemy aircraft.

Admiral Giffen described the operations as "just the usual thing."

Units of the American force have had flurries with planes but so far have not brushed with enemy naval craft, he said, adding that no severe damage has been suffered.

"Everything is all right so far," he said. The American fleet units were operating "in the north—against polar bears or something," before the United States entered the war, Admiral Giffen disclosed.

Official arrival of the task force was on Easter Sunday morning, April 6. "Morale of the men in the force is fine and 'the kids love their jobs,'" he declared.

ELECTION RETURNS

Through the facilities of KBST, The Herald on Saturday night will report prompt returns on all county contests in the democratic primary, and as complete reports from state contests as are permitted over the radio.

As soon as first appreciable returns are in, the tabulation will be broadcast from The Herald office. The quickest, most convenient way of getting results will be to keep tuned to the local station.

PLEASE DO NOT TELEPHONE THE HERALD OR THE RADIO STATION. TELEPHONE FACILITIES WILL BE TIED UP IN THE GATHERING OF RETURNS. THE OFFICE PERSONNEL WILL BE TAXED IN COMPILING RESULTS, AND ANNOUNCEMENTS CANNOT BE GIVEN OUT BY PHONE.

The Herald will have a special leased wire of the Texas Election Bureau, over which it will gather returns promptly on all state races. Under regulations of this Bureau, the newspaper is not permitted to give out results other than through its columns. Special correspondents will assist in gathering results, and the cooperation of judges in Howard county is being requested for a prompt report on local races.

SUNDAY MORNING'S HERALD WILL HAVE THE LATEST COUNT ON ALL CONTESTS, WITH TABULATION ON LOCAL RACES AND COMPREHENSIVE REPORTS ON THE STATE RACES. TUNE IN ON KBST FOR SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS SATURDAY NIGHT. SEE THE SUNDAY HERALD FOR A COMPLETE ACCOUNT OF THE ELECTION.

The defendants have been taken into custody in their own localities and all will be brought to Washington for trial, Biddle said.

The indictment alleged that the defendants conspired to urge up members of the United States armed forces that the United Nations were ineffectual, the United States was safe from attack and that confidence in American public officials was misplaced and unwarranted "for the purpose of obstructing, and designed and intended to impede, obstruct and defeat the preparation of our national defenses against aggression and invasion and the nation war effort."

The defendants were charged also with having carried on "a systematic campaign of personal vilification and defamation of the public officials of the United States government" in order to convince members of the armed forces that "such public officials are traitorous, corrupt, dishonest, incompetent, un-American, and mentally unbalanced."

At the same time, the defendants were alleged to have organized the armed forces to show that the Axis powers did not constitute a real danger to the United States, had no intention of threatening the United States, that expansion of the armed forces was unnecessary, and that American public officials sought to "provolve" war with "peaceful nations, such as Germany, Italy and Japan."

In all, 10 fires were kindled in the harbor area, a communique said in a recapitulation of the damage done by the fighter-escorted bombers last Monday at the river port southeast of Hankou.

The attack was carried out without the loss of an American plane. A Chinese army spokesman said the invaders were massing troops around Kailang and other points on the great plains of Honan province on the northern flank of the Chinese battlefield, possibly for a westward drive against Chengchow.

Pounding Axis—British troops opposing Marshal Rommel's axis forces in Egypt fire a medium artillery piece. Reports from Cairo July 23 said most of the actual desert fighting the day before was confined to artillery fire. This picture was sent from Cairo to New York via radio.

Japs Gain New Meat Shortage Foothold In New Guinea

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, July 23 (AP)—The Japanese, in the first aggressive thrust toward Australia since their smashing Coral Sea defeat, have gained a new foothold on the southeast New Guinea coast, 100 miles across from the vital American and Australian garrisoned allied outpost of Port Moresby.

Under a terrific bombing and strafing assault from Allied planes, the enemy put ashore a force of between 1,500 and 2,500 troops Wednesday at Gona Mission, near Buna on the Papuan peninsula coast and 180 miles southeast of Japanese-held Salamaua.

General MacArthur's headquarters announced that this landing, in an area where there are no allied forces, cost the Japanese heavily in casualties, a large transport and a landing barge sunk and a seaplane shot down. The allies lost two fighters.

Allied airmen first spotted the small, southbound Japanese convoy picking its way along the island-dotted New Guinea coast just before dark Tuesday. They attacked immediately, scoring hits on the transport which later sank, and resumed the assault when the invaders started going ashore early Wednesday.

Commenting on the landing Prime Minister John Curtin in Canberra said the Japanese had been working like beavers to carry out further incursions. The breathing space which followed the battle of the Coral Sea was all that the allies could have expected, he added.

The landing may easily be the signal for an intense flareup in air activity on both sides, but the allies will have one advantage in that their fighting planes can accompany their bombers to Buna.

Stainback Named Governor Of Hawaii

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—Ingram M. Stainback of Honolulu was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be governor of Hawaii.

If confirmed by the senate, he would succeed Joseph B. Pendergast, whose terms expired March 15, but who has been serving since pending a new appointment.

Stainback is 59 years old. He was born in Somerville, Tenn. He is now United States attorney for the District of Hawaii. A graduate of Princeton, he took his law degree at the University of Chicago and has practiced law in Honolulu since 1912 except for the time he served as a major in the army in the first World War.

Texas Traffic Deaths Decline 20 Percent

AUSTIN, Tex., July 23 (AP)—Traffic deaths in Texas the first six months of 1942 were fewer than during any similar period since accurate records were started in 1935, State Police Director Homer Garrison announced today.

For the half year, Texas recorded a flat 30 per cent reduction in traffic fatalities, from 868 in the 1941 period to 609 this year. Leading the safety race were cities and small towns, with reductions of 30 and 29 per cent, respectively. Highway deaths were down 17 per cent and those on county roads 14 per cent.

Highway Patrol Chief Hill Foreman reported that arrests and warnings by the highway patrol increased 23.5 per cent over last June, from 18,327 to 22,460.

For cities of over 100,000 population, Dallas led in city motor vehicle traffic fatality ratings with a population rate of 7.5. The population rate is the number of deaths annually per 100,000 population and is computed on the assumption that fatalities will continue to occur during the remainder of the year at the same monthly average as they have for the period covered by this report.

In the 50,000 to 100,000 population bracket, Amarillo recorded

Nazi Horde More Than Half Way on Caucasus Drive

MOSCOW, July 23 (AP)—Soviet Russia faced her gravest crisis in the 13-month-old German-Russian war today as Nazi armored columns closed in for the second battle of Rostov, spearheaded toward Stalingrad and pressed upon the lower Don between those cities in an effort to isolate the Caucasus.

Not since the Mongols were driven from southern Russia 562 years ago had there been such a threat to the military security of the nation, observers said.

Red army men fought bitterly to stem the invasion tides, aware that the Germans were more than half-way along on drives which might split the Russians' southern and trans-Caucasian commands.

Rostov was menaced from three sides—at Novocheboksak, 20 miles northeast of the city; from the north by a large force, including Italians, striking from Voroshilovgrad; and from the west by Axis divisions which wintered at Taganrog, 40 miles away.

Similarly a three-directional threat developed against Stalingrad, 250 miles by air northeast of Rostov. The central and most advanced column was astride the Stalingrad-Likhaya railway line slightly more than 100 miles west of the Volga city.

By the light of a bright half moon, Soviet heavy bombers and fighter-bombers pounded long columns of German reinforcements moving into the Don river area last night.

Scores of troop-laden trucks were smashed and others fled in confusion, field reports said. Another column was said to have suffered simultaneous bombings at head and tail.

Russian dispatches disclosed that a spearhead of Field Marshal Gen. Fedor Von Bock's 1,000,000-man army had engaged the defenders of Rostov, a Don Delta port from which the invaders were driven by the combined firepower of Russian soldiers and guerrillas after a brief occupation last November.

The German high command said Tuesday that Rostov was in flames and under attack from west, north and east.

Amid these grave developments, however, Russian counterattacks persisted against the Nazi left wing at Voronezh and said 8,000 Germans were reported killed in the savage fighting.

Some 6,000 invaders were listed as slain in a successful drive to recapture a large settlement south of that city.

A powerful German drive to recross the upper Don west of Voronezh was repulsed and 15 tanks were destroyed, it was announced.

The Germans declared that their forces reached after a brief occupation Stalingrad, an industrial center at a lower oblique to repeat from another direction last November's swift but short-lived conquest of that city guarding the estuary of the Don. Berlin said the advance continued today.

The Vichy radio quoted Stockholm reports as saying that the Germans had commenced "a massive attack" on Stalingrad, an industrial center at a lower oblique to repeat from another direction last November's swift but short-lived conquest of that city guarding the estuary of the Don. Berlin said the advance continued today.

Egypt Battle Mounts; Axis Driven Back

CAIRO, July 23 (AP)—General Sir Claude Auchinleck's army of the Nile, attacking simultaneously on all sectors of the El Alamein front for the first time, was reported today to have driven back the axis center in violent fighting mounting steadily in intensity.

A communique from Auchinleck's headquarters indicated that the British assault had pushed steadily retreating enemy forces from some of their positions on the El Ruweisat ridge and that the gains had been consolidated.

To the north and south the battle apparently still was raging inconclusively, with British imperial striking savagely at the axis flank in a see-saw melee.

Fighting in the coastal sector, the British communique disclosed, centered mainly around Tel El Eisa, El Makh Khad ridge three miles to the southeast and Metelaha, three miles farther south.

Semi-official advice from the front indicated that the British had gained some ground both in this area on the southern flank, although Auchinleck's headquarters was not specific on this point.

In London, military experts said it was obvious that the British chieftain had been heavily reinforced in armor and artillery and was moving forward in all sectors with the intention of forcing a decisive battle.

While cautious about making predictions, these quarters believed that Auchinleck had achieved a good measure of surprise and they appeared quietly optimistic of the outcome.

Eden Sketches Plan Of Peace

NOTTINGHAM, England, July 23 (AP)—Sketching the outlines of the future peace "at one of the gravest hours of the war," Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said today that Britain is ready to meet and work with the United States in shaping the post-war period.

In a speech which was generally regarded as the most definite pronouncement of Britain's after-war policy that has yet been made by a British statesman, Eden echoed ideas previously expressed by Vice President Henry A. Wallace and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, and appealed to Britons to give a generous welcome to American soldiers and airmen in this country.

Making no mention of a second front, he nevertheless praised Russia and asserted "we, together with our allies, are in this war to the victorious end."

"With the United States, the Soviet Union, China and other nations, we shall take our part in working for the development of a great world-wide civilization," Eden continued, naming three urgent problems of peace:

1. Complete disarmament of the aggressor powers.

2. Feeding of the starving populations.

3. Enabling the devastated, impoverished and economically un-developed countries to restart their industry and agriculture.

Two principles which should govern the solution of these problems he listed as follows:

1. Receipt of financial and economic aid "must not result in the loss of the independence of any country."

2. Any assistance or guidance given a country "unpracticed in the art of self-government must be such as to help it achieve its own development."

Missionary From China Wants to Go Back When World Is Settled Again

Even though she went through air raids and saw her city taken by the Japanese, Mrs. Charles Culppeper, Baptist missionary from North China, wants to go back when the world is cleared up again and Americans can go back to China.

Mrs. Culppeper and her daughter, Mary, are attending the Baptist encampment this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Culppeper were located in Hwangshien, Chantung province, and worked from here until the fall of 1939 when the Japanese occupied the province. Even though they were never in any of the heaviest air raids their town was frequently bombed.

The inhabitants are poor but industrious and their poverty is attributed to the crowded conditions in which they live. The social life is very different from that in our country and Mary contributes the knowledge that boys and girls don't have dates there. Indeed, their wives and husbands are selected for them by their parents. However, she says, some of the men getting around that by picking out their choice, and then through a friend get the word around to their parents of the desired one's better points.

Mrs. Culppeper and Mary came to the states in the fall of 1940 but Mr. Culppeper remained and was among the group who were being repatriated. She has had no word from him since December 10 although she has heard indirectly that he is on his way home.

The Culppepers have a son who has a degree from Baylor University and is now studying in theological school in Fort Worth. Mary will be a senior at Paschal High this fall.

Recipes With Cheese, Now a Plentiful Market Commodity

With more cheese available for consumers than ever before, government food supply experts are advising Americans to eat more cheese.

A year ago it was doubtful whether production of American cheese could meet the demands for shipment abroad. Now, in addition to the quantities bought by the government for feeding our overseas armed forces and our allies, civilians at home will have plentiful supplies for their dinner tables.

The same things that make cheese an ideal food for shipment abroad recommend it for greater use here at home. Cheese is a concentration of all the food values that make milk a "must" in any diet, and can be used as part of the daily milk allowance. Cheese contains the proteins needed for building strong muscles; it has many of the vitamins and minerals necessary for health and growth, and is rich in energy-giving fats.

When cheese is plentiful, the housewife who uses it in her meals is providing her family with nourishing food at low cost. And she is making a contribution to the war effort as well, when she buys food that is abundant rather than scarce.

Cheese Vegetable Dish

2 cups diced cooked potatoes
1 cup diced cooked carrots
1 cup peas
1 medium onion, finely chopped
Put vegetables in buttered baking dish, cover with cheese sauce, set in a pan of hot water, and heat thoroughly in a moderate oven.

Cheese Sauce

2 tbsp. butter or other fat
2 tsp. flour
1 cup milk
1-2 lb. cheese, finely sliced
Make a white sauce of butter, flour and milk. Add the cheese and stir until it is entirely melted.

Macaroni Cheese Loaf

1 pkg. macaroni, broken into small pieces
1 cup soft bread crumbs
3 eggs slightly beaten
1 cup milk
1 heaping tbsp. finely chopped parsley
4 tbsp. butter or other fat
1 cup finely grated cheese
1 tsp. salt
1-8 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. finely chopped onion

Cheese With Rice and Tomato

2 cups boiled rice
1 cup tomato sauce
1 cup finely shredded cheese
Butter or other fat
Put a layer of boiled rice in a well-greased baking dish. Add a layer of cheese. Alternate rice, tomato sauce and cheese until the baking dish is full. Add small pieces of butter and cheese for the top layer. Bake about 1-2 hour in a moderate oven.

Teacher Who Left Big Spring In 1904 Returns For a Visit

Back in 1900 when Big Spring was definitely a one horse town and the high school or perhaps "the school" was a frame building where the postoffice now stands, Miss Birdie Canon came to this town to teach.

"Miss Birdie" is now Mrs. Fowler and at present is visiting her old friends, Misses Pearl and Jo Cole who reside with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cole. She came here from Bandera but has not made a permanent home since the passing of her husband.

In the summer of 1900 Mrs. Fowler, her mother and sisters came to Big Spring to make their home and lived on the site where the B. O. Jones grocery is now located. Approximately 1,500 people resided here down in a bunch as near to the railroad tracks as comfort would permit.

B. Reagan was teaching then and Mr. Thompson was principal. When Fox Stripling got his first teaching certificate Miss Birdie was on the board of examiners. Dr. C. T. Hall was just preparing himself to enter college and he got his qualifying credits okayed by this board as the local school was not affiliated. Mrs. Kate Phillips, now Mrs. W. W. Rix of Lubbock, was on the staff during Mrs. Fowler's last year here.

In 1904 Mrs. Fowler was offered a place on the faculty of the Van Horn school at a salary which exactly doubled that that she received here so she accepted the position. With the exception of two or three visits of a day during the past 38 years this is the longest visit she has had here since she left for Van Horn. Her sister, Mrs. Ora Cross, lives on a ranch near Lomax.

Mrs. Fowler is a charming person with whom to talk and still has the charm that made her a popular teacher here. She and her hostesses have had a gay time this week visiting with the few old timers that are left and looking over the changes in new Big Spring. She plans to leave Friday.

Cargo Planes Proposed As Answer To U-Boat Warfare

Conversion Of Shipyards Is Considered

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — Air-minded congressmen are asking admirals and merchant marine chiefs whether manufacture of cargo planes by the thousands would be the best way to beat the submarines.

They are studying a proposal by Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder and engineering authority, that several existing shipyards be devoted to construction of 5,000 giant flying boats, capable of carrying big cargoes on transoceanic flights.

Rep. Mott (R-Ore), a ranking majority member of the house naval committee, said he thought Kaiser's plan was "entirely feasible" and that he intended to ask several admirals appearing before the committee today to outline the navy's stand on it.

His opportunity to get the navy's views came as the naval committee called on high officers for an outline of steps taken to oust the Japanese from three islands in the western Aleutians.

Meanwhile, Rep. Bland (D-Va.), chairman of the house merchant marine committee, said that there was a "definite probability" that his committee would call in Kaiser and War Shipping Administrator Emory S. Land, probably late next week, for discussion of aerial freighters.

Bland's plans to have the merchant marine committee inquire into the flying question won immediate, enthusiastic support from Rep. Peterson (D-Fla.), chairman of a subcommittee investigating cancellation of a ship-building contract at a New Orleans yard, and from Rep. Boykin (D-Ala.), chairman of a subcommittee studying the shortage of steel for ship construction.

Georgia Doughboy Wins Safety Medal

MELBOURNE (AP) — Private John C. Boggs, Point Peter, Ga., has been awarded a safe-driving medal for driving 5,000 miles in Australia without an accident.

The contest was started several weeks ago to reduce the number of automobile accidents. It was open to all Army transport drivers, including Australians. Boggs' award was entered in his service record. He was also given three days' leave. Officers were instructed to consider the awards as a basis for promotions.

Rome Claims 130 British Tanks Destroyed

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts), July 23 (AP) — The Italian high command declared today axis desert forces destroyed 130 British tanks and captured 800 prisoners in stubborn fighting yesterday in the El Alamein zone.

A 10,000-ton ship in a convoy northwest of Port Said, at the Mediterranean entrance of the Suez canal, was sunk by aerial torpedoes, the high command declared.

Fighting in the Egyptian desert was officially reported to have "assumed a character of particular tenacity."

"The enemy has been repelled everywhere and counterattacked and has sustained grave losses of men and material," it was announced.

Crop Progress In State Normal

AUSTIN, July 23, (AP)—Favorable conditions continued in the state as a whole for the progress of crops and seasonal farm work for the week ended July 19, the U. S. department of agriculture and the Texas agricultural extension service reported today.

Cotton and peanuts developed at normal rate or better, but the weather was rather hot and dry for corn and feed crops, in the northwest particularly.

Harvesting of small grains nearly reached completion, having continued under favorable conditions, except in the upper coastal section, and harvest of corn and grain sorghum was under way in the South.

Planting of stubble and cultivation of late row crops went forward rapidly in many sections. Subsoil moisture was generally ample, but surface moisture was short in much of the northwest. Intermittent rains kept fields wet in some upper coastal counties.

Midland Building New School Units

MIDLAND, July 23 (AP) — Construction is under way on two additional units to public school buildings, both to be ready for use when school opens in September, the school board has announced.

A two-room tile and stucco unit to accommodate the music department and band, and the arts and crafts classes, is being erected just west of the football field. Two rooms are being added to the negro school.

Work has already begun on the foundation for the unit at the junior high school, and materials are being assembled for the negro school addition.

Save Cooking Fats For Uncle Sam

Waste fat homemakers save in their kitchens for the nation's salvage campaign may one day sink an enemy battleship or help crumble axis fortifications on fronts the world over. Grease makes glycerine, and glycerine makes gunpowder, explains Louise Bryant, specialist in home management for the A. & M. college extension service.

fat wasted in American kitchens every year would provide two hundred million pounds of glycerine Uncle Sam badly needs, according to the Bureau of Home Economics.

Recently the War Production Board arranged with meat dealers to receive some of this waste fat from housewives, and the A. & M. extension service will cooperate with the state and county salvage committees in helping every rural family in Texas know its part. Cooperation in the national fat-saving campaign is in line with the war-time extension program—the Victory Demonstration—to which thousands of rural Texans are pledged. Howard county women are anxious to do their part in this matter, according to Fionilla Johnson, county home demonstration agent of A. & M. extension service.

The homemaker's part in the campaign is to use grease wisely in cooking and take her surplus fat to her nearest meat dealer or freezer locker plant. She will probably receive five cents per pound. Fat should be strained and poured into clean, wide-mouthed cans, such as a coffee can. Keep the fat in the refrigerator or some other dark, cool place until you have a pound or more.

Use fat drippings in preparing food will help in the movement, since it will prevent drawing on commercial stocks of fats and oils. Every tablespoon used means buying less fat.

Some makers have mistakenly feared a soap shortage would make it necessary to save their fats for making soap at home. But soap is a by-product of glycerine, Miss Bryant explains, so large supplies will be available.

Cotton Insects Are Always A Threat

It looks like the drouth about has the insect problem solved. However, farmers of Howard county do not give up because the weather gets dry. They will be on the watch for flea injury when it rains again. Some are not dusting their cotton with sulphur to kill the flea hoppers, so the cotton will have a chance when rains come again. The cotton leaf worm is on its way, and may need attention during the next thirty days. We think calcium arsenate can be had for this purpose. All growers could help out in getting poison by purchasing enough to poison at least one time.

The cotton leaf worm does not pass the winter in this country. They come up from Mexico each spring. Their march northward and eastward is watched by entomologists at A. & M. extension service and experiment station. This year they are a little earlier than common and may be expected to show up during the next two weeks, but they may not be in such numbers as to injure the cotton and again they may. In order to assist in getting poison, farmers are requested report the first leaf worms they find. You see, poison is rationed to some extent to the different localities to make it available at the places where it is needed most.

Hogs Should Be Fed For Early Market

By O. P. GRIFFIN County Agent There is a tendency in Texas to bring hogs to maturity in mid-winter. This is done even with pigs farrowed the winter before. That has been all right so far as the market was concerned. But this year Texas has a big increase in the number of hogs that will go to market. If all of them are marketed within a few weeks in mid-winter, the facilities of the packers will be strained to take care of them, and though they are all badly needed, a decline in price will result from crowding them all on the market at one time.

Keep Supply Of Seeds For Next Year's Garden

Under the present world condition, it is necessary that the supplies of vegetable seeds be conserved for the growing needs of our own country and others dependent on us for vegetable seeds. One must first remember that a seed is made largely of living material. Increased seed moisture increases the life activity of the stored seed, even though the moisture content is far below that required for active growth and germination. An increase in temperature also increases the life activity of seeds. Consequently, too much heat and moisture may increase the rate of these life changes very rapidly and thereby produce the percentage of germination in the seeds, or provide unfavorable conditions during the period of ripening, harvesting or curing of the plant after harvest.

Unfavorable storage for a period ly affect the germination of seeds, but a period of one year may take its toll. Low temperature and low moisture of the air surrounding the seeds are essential for successful storage. These conditions are more essential than the age, although only seeds with plenty of vigor and vitality should be stored for another year's crop. Most seeds if kept at above 70 degrees F. should be stored at a relative humidity of not more than 60%. The more sensitive types of seeds, such as onions, peanuts, celery and sweet corn, an average temperature of 80 degrees F. plus the relative humidity of the surrounding air should not be more than 45%. It is generally understood that it may be well to dry seed by exposing them in thin layers in the open on a sunny dry day or in a normally heated room. When they are thoroughly dried, place in an airtight, moisture-proof container, and store in a cool place.

Seeds can be placed in cold storage but care is necessary after removal from storage unless they are planted at once, because it is necessary to avoid condensation of moisture on the cold seeds.

In this locality, cold storage of seeds will likely be little used, consequently, one would be safe to expose the seeds at a temperature of about 80° F. and 45% air humidity or maintain the seeds at approximately the same percent moisture content.

Why not choose the healthy, well matured seeds from the year's garden, dry them, and place them in an air tight container in a cool place. Next year you will not need to purchase many seeds and can start your garden from seeds that have proved good for your locality.

Parochialists get extra pay

From where I sit....

by Joe Marsh

You ought to meet my friend, Will Dudley. I suppose Will must be seventy-eight or nine... but you'd never know it. He's tall and lean and hard as a hickory. And although the only formal education he ever had was a few winters in the old red schoolhouse, I think that he's the wisest man I know in many ways.

For one thing, Will taught me the value of what he calls "Just a-settin'!"

Come upon Will in the evening, when his hard day's work is done, and you'll find him "just a-settin'." In a rocker on his porch. In one hand he'll have his old briar pipe and in the other, a tall cool glass of beer.

"Wholesome, appetizin' beer," says Will, "is standard equipment for proper settin'! Puts a feller in an easy-goin' peaceful mood."

You see, Will holds the theory that in our present mixed-up world, a man needs a quiet hour every day. An hour in which to sit down quietly and restore his strength and courage.

Will thinks, and I agree with him, that a man ought to forget all his own and the world's worries during that hour-of-peace. And Will feels that a glass of fragrant mellow beer helps most to bring you quiet relaxation.

Show me the man who sits down quietly on an evening with his glass of beer and I'll show you a man who is wise in the ways of living. Such men, like Will Dudley, live to a ripe old age, unembittered by the troubles of the world. They seem to remain, all their lives, sweet-natured and kindly.

Time has a way of rendering accurate judgments on the value of the things men use and enjoy in the world. And time... thousands of years of it... has handed down the verdict that beer is a pleasant and worthy companion for all men of good will.

Oil Drilling Off Sharply

TULSA, Okla., July 22 (AP)—United States oil field operators have slumped sharply this year, due to wartime transportation difficulties and the shortages of drilling materials.

Drilling activity this month may show a decline of more than 20 per cent since July last year, the Oil and Gas Journal will say in tomorrow's edition.

Three areas showed signs of increasing activities — California, where more heavy oil is needed; Illinois, where production has been dropping slowly but steadily; and West Texas, where additional oil is not required.

In view of the trends of production now apparent, the Journal suggests that the industry faces two major problems in connection with getting the oil to market.

"The first is to get oil from the east central states to the Atlantic seaboard and the other is to insure a supply to the western end of this system."

"In meeting the demands of a dislocated system during the war, the postwar requirements should also be borne in mind . . . getting oil into the east central states will be a major problem after the war when normal tanker movement to the east coast can be resumed."

In the field, the Journal reported 855 completions in the week ended July 18, compared with 840 in the preceding week and 687 in the corresponding week last year.

Convict Plunges To Death After Slaying Man

JACKSON, Mich., July 22 (AP)—William Tomczak, 46-year-old southern Michigan prison lifer, plunged to death from the top of the 150-foot prison water tower about daybreak today after having spent the night there in hiding following a killing.

The convict, who had climbed the tower in flight after slaying Andrew Faust, 65-year-old operating engineer of the prison power plant, was killed instantly in his fall.

Lieutenant Howard Freeland, in charge of the night detail of guards at the prison, said Tomczak apparently had jumped from the high tower deliberately. He gave no outcry or other warning, Freeland said.

Before leaping to his death, Freeland said, the convict threw down a 12-inch knife which he had carried with him to the top of the tower and which he wielded, along with a hatchet, in killing Faust.

Gasoline Stocks Still Declining

NEW YORK, July 22 (AP)—United States gasoline stores continued to decline for the week ended July 18 and heavy fuel oil supplies which advanced the previous week, again were down, the American Petroleum Institute reported today.

Stocks of finished and unfinished gasolines decreased 1,580,000 barrels to 84,069,000 at the end of the week. In the previous week, 85,659,000 barrels were reported on hand.

Residual (heavy) fuel oil supplies were 77,390,000 barrels, a decline of 661,000 from last week. Distillates (light fuels) increased 784,000 barrels to 35,176,000.

Daily average crude oil production for the week amounted to 5,713,400 barrels, an increase of 50,000 from the previous week.

Refineries operated at 78.5 per cent of capacity, indicating a crude run averaging 5,582,000 barrels daily. The same figures were reported the previous week.

Gasoline production for the week was estimated at 10,963,000 barrels compared with 10,675,000 last week.

Active Bidding At Livestock Sale

Volume in dollars and number both were off Wednesday in the regular weekly sale at the Big Spring Livestock Commission Co. sale, but bidding generally was more active than in recent weeks.

During the day about 400 head of cattle went through the ring, the smallest number since April 8, and the turnover was for $15,000, smallest dollar total since June 2.

Although prices for some classes were down slightly, there was more bidding than ordinary and at times the offerings were strong.

Fat cows brought up to 8 and 8.50. Cutters drew 4.00 to 7.50 and canners 4.00 to 6.00. Bulls were up to 9.25.

Fat butcher yearlings were firm to 11.50 and stockers stood steady at 11.00 to 12.50.

Mitchell Test Is Drilling At 930

W. M. Fentrice is drilling the E. L. Wilson No. 1 1/2 miles south of Colorado City, and reports said Wednesday that a depth of 930 feet had been reached in a 10 inch hole.

The drilling is in the NW one-fourth of the SW one-fourth of section five, block 28, T&P.

According to samples run by geologists the well is 25 feet higher structurally than any other well drilled in that area.

This block of acreage was assembled by Lockhart, Robbins, and Dockrey.

License Office To Be Closed Saturday

The drivers' license office in Big Spring will be closed Saturday, democratic primary day, and also on the second primary day, August 22, Perry Dawson who is in charge of the office said Thursday.

He also said that the office will be open for the next two weeks only for the renewal of licenses, and that no examinations will be given for new applicants during this period.

Litvinoff Confers With Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Maxim Litvinoff and members of the Pacific War Council came to the White House today for separate conferences as grave developments appeared on the Russian front and in the shipping situation.

President Roosevelt had an opportunity also to discuss with his callers the sharpening warfare in the Aleutian islands so far to Siberia.

In the bitter Russian fighting, Stalingrad and Rostov both were imperiled by fresh German advances and it appeared likely that Litvinoff had high on his list the urgency of creating the second European front for which he has repeatedly called.

There's Golf Play, All Sorts Of It, At Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Without much doubt the most confused golf tournament in history, the Tam O'Shanter open and amateur, unlimited, proceeded today into its fourth or completely unintelligible stage—the one just before they bring out the padded wagon and say, "take it easy, pal, sure you're Napoleon."

On today's program, as someone explained it, was the first 18 holes of the Tam O'Shanter $35,000 Medal Play Open. Also scheduled were two rounds of match play in the All-American amateur championship, these being the third and fourth rounds of this particular championship. The man who explained this disappeared before his name was obtained, but his version may be taken as fairly authentic.

George S. May, president of Tam O'Shanter club and the man who thought up all the strange events that have been taking place on his acreage this week, said that his general understanding of the situation, too. He would not, however, consent to being quoted directly.

Looking back somewhat dazedly upon everything that happened yesterday at Tam O'Shanter, several pictures pop into mind. Probably they didn't actually happen. They couldn't have, of course.

For instance, is anybody going to believe that Gus Moreland, who was a very well known amateur a few years ago, finished his "morning" match against John Phillips of Highland, Ind., at 4:17 p. m., and then went out to lose to Lieut. Dick Chapman? See what we mean?

And is it possible that Pat Abbott of Pasadena, Calif., the new Western amateur champion, was knocked out in the first round of the amateur department by Gus Novotny of Chicago?

Or that seven professionals went out in virtual darkness to play off for the one qualifying berth remaining open in the $15,000 tournament, each of them having shot an 82 on his regular test?

It was 4 p. m., what with the amateurs battling each other all over the layout for 14 solid hours and a couple of hundred professionals trying to qualify when, and as, they found the first tee vacant.

Today, 138 professionals began battling for $2,500 first money in the 72-hole open championship. The 18 surviving amateurs from yesterday's shambles tied up in two match play rounds, while at the same time competing in the open. All of the amateurs who were eliminated yesterday—48 of 'em—continued to compete in the open, boyboyy!

Abbott was the only major casualty among the amateurs. Corp. Marvin Bud Ward, the National champion, faced today a worthy opponent in Earl Stewart, the 1941 intercollegiate king.

Yankees Take Another, But DiMag Stopped

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Editor

All the people who for weeks devoted themselves industriously to trying to solve the slump of the New York Yankees probably are busy now figuring out reasons for the sliding of the Boston Red Sox and the Detroit Tigers.

This is a thankless task, but nevertheless a form of endeavor in which there never is any unemployment. Somebody always is in a slump and right now both the Red Sox and the Tigers have it bad. Boston has lost four in a row and nine of its last 11 games while Detroit has dropped 11 out of 14 and has fallen from the first division.

The Red Sox were shut out 2-0 yesterday by Lee (Buck) Ross of the Chicago White Sox.

The Tigers were tamed 2-1 by the Washington Senators on the fifth-inning hurling of Sid Hudson.

Meanwhile the New York Yankees squeaked to their 11th consecutive victory and extended their American league lead to 12 full games by blasting across four unearned runs in the tenth inning to beat the Cleveland Indians 5-1.

Joe DiMaggio's hitting streak was stopped at 18 games by Lefty Al Miller.

Aitley Donald's nine-hit hurling was bolstered by four double plays as the Yankees boosted their total to 125 for 91 games.

The St. Louis Browns blew a 6-0 lead attained in the first four frames and lost an 11-8 decision to the Philadelphia Athletics.

In the National league, the Brooklyn Dodgers disposed of the Cincinnati Reds without trouble, 5-1, with Kirby Higbe pitching five-hit ball and he and his teammates tagging Ray Starr and Gene Thompson for twice that many.

This kept the Dodgers six and a half games ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals, who slammed out a 7-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phils, who were unable to score on ten hits off Johnny Beazley.

The Chicago Cubs evened their score with the Boston Braves in the day's other game as Claude Passeau pitched a masterful two-hitter for a 2-1 verdict. It was Passeau's 14th triumph of the year.

Looking 'Em Over

With WACIL M'NAIR

City softball finalists swing into action in their final series at city park tonight and play in determining the 1942 champion is expected to be heated all the way. ABC-Lions proved to be the dark horse of the league in the regular season of play and it is hard to predict how they will stack up against the potent WOW crew. WOW held the upper hand all season and then went on to eliminate the State Hospital team in two straight games in the playoff's first round.

It was generally supposed that Radford would triumph over the ABC-Lions in their first round series. Radford's showed surprising strength in the late stages of the regular season, and at end of their schedule were rated about even in strength with WOW. They still looked good in the first playoff game, but gradually faded out as the service club team won two in a row and went into the finals.

Stock of Johnny McFarland, the former West Texas-New Mexico league southpaw, took a decided jump after that tenning one hitter he tossed at Shreveport Sunday. It was the first time McFarland has gone a full game since donning a Dallas uniform, although he has done plenty of pitching, starting and needing relief and relieving other pitchers.

Could it be the magic of a Yankee uniform that causes ball players in Gotham to build fat batting averages? Rolfe Hemsey was hitting the ball at a mere .113 when he was out loose from Cincinnati, but the first day for the Yankees he got five safeties in eight trips. Inspiration caused by visions of the long green of world series money may have had something to do with it.

The Texas conference only has six teams now ready to start with entries in the 1942 football chase. Trinity University, recently merged with the University of San Antonio and moving to that city, has decided to pass up the gridiron sport this year in favor of a broad physical fitness program. Along with the announcement that Trinity is suspending football is another telling of appointment of Dale Morrison as

The string of fish were hooked in the belt of Staff Sergeant Kennedy of Fort Screven. The surprised sergeant regained his balance and started fighting back. His belt finally broke, and the sergeant got away.

Sports Take Another From Fort Worth

By The Associated Press

Shreveport is only half a game behind second-place Fort Worth in the Texas league as the result of last night's 2-0 Sport victory over the Cats, featured by the two-hit pitching of 20-year-old Doyle Laska.

The young hurler had fine aid from his mates, who completed three double plays as Shreveport made it three in a row over Fort Worth.

Good mound work also featured San Antonio's 4 to 1 win over Tulsa. Clarence Jott and Manager Ralph Winesgarner of the Mustangs allowing the Oilers only three safe blows.

It was San Antonio's seventh straight win and gave them a clean sweep of the four-game Tulsa series.

Jott stopped the Oilers for four and a third innings, retiring three after with a blister on his hand. San Antonio gathered eleven hits off Julian Cobb.

The Houston Buffs took two from Oklahoma City, 3-2 and 3-0. In the first, the Buffs came from behind to score two runs in the seventh. In the other, Dale Clay hit a round-tripper in the second for two runs, and another Houston tally was added in the fourth.

Paul Dean went to the hill in the sixth and finished the game with seven pitched balls. He first threw resulted in a double play, and six tosses retired the Indians in the seventh and last inning of the contest.

The Dallas-Beaumont game was postponed.

Knows Baseball From 'Days When'

By KEITH KING

Wide World Features
KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—The museum at the national baseball shrine at Cooperstown, N. Y., would like very much to obtain scrap books owned by Robert G. (Colonel) Allen, dean of minor league baseball club owners, but Allen is holding onto them for awhile.

Allen's books are treasure troves of baseball history and well they might be because Allen's 55 years in the game is exceeded only by Connie Mack.

On July 10, Allen, operator of the Knoxville club of the Southern Association, observed his 75th birthday but he appears as active as he ever was.

Allen, who has seen baseball survive two other wars, admits he is worried over this one. At the start of the season he predicted a slow death for minor league baseball and now he fears that if the war is a long one it may take years for the big leagues to bounce back to normal when the war is finished. His reasons: lack of equipment, which in turn affects the younger generation, the reservoir of future baseball talent.

Allen first broke in as a shortstop in 1887, playing for Mansfield, Ohio. After two years in the minors he went to the Pirates. Released by Pittsburgh he got his first managerial job with Davenport in the original Three-Eye league.

Payed Own Hospital Bill In 1900 he was drafted by the Phillies and stayed until 1904 when he was hit by a pitched ball. "I had to pay the hospital bill myself," he snorts. "Imagine the kids today getting treatment in the big-time."

"Col." Robert G. Allen . . . dean of minor league owners.

A run-in with the front office kept him from managing Detroit after signing for the job in 1897 and he went to Boston which won the National league flag that year, with Allen setting what was then a record for number of chances handled by a shortstop.

He finally retired in 1901 after managing Indianapolis and playing another spell for Cincinnati. He was in business until 1914 but he couldn't stay out of baseball. He bought the Montgomery, Ala., Southern Association franchise and took it to Little Rock. He sold it in 1930 and then successfully bought and sold the Nashville club and then bought the Mobile franchise for transfer to Knoxville.

The newspaper boys started calling him "Colonel" when he came here in 1932 and the name stuck. Allen scoffs at war-enforced day coach rides and other travel inconveniences brought on today by the war.

"It's a luxury compared to what we had in the old days." In the "old days" Allen knew them all—McGraw, Mack, Willie Keeler, Ed Delahanty, Kid Gleason, Billy Sunday, and ad infinitum.

He still has the small glove—not much larger than a handball glove—which he used. It has no padding or webbing, "and I have a hard time convincing these kids I set a fielding record with it," he complains.

His Funniest Sight "The will to win was the big thing those days," he recalls. It reminded him of the funniest incident he ever saw.

"It was while I was with the Phillies in the 90s. We were playing Baltimore. It was common practice for infielders to bump base runners at every chance, and we had a pitcher named Carsey who vowed to break Hughie Jennings, Baltimore shortstop, of the habit.

"Carsey was small and wiry but he was something of a boxer. He drove a long ball to the outfield and as he rounded second Jennings moved into his path. Carsey, without breaking his stride, clipped him neatly on the chin and he went down."

"As Carsey neared third John McGraw, Baltimore manager, edged toward him and his intention was evident. This time Carsey slowed up and swung and McGraw went down.

"When Carsey reached home he had to step over the Baltimore catcher, Wilbert Robinson (later Brooklyn manager). Robinson had collapsed with laughter at the sight of Jennings and McGraw on the ground, and the relay to the plate went into the stands.

"Those were the days," Col. Bob sighs, shaking his head.

Don Pierce Signs For Pro Football

KANSAS CITY, July 23 (AP)—Don Pierce, 23, all Big Six conference football center at the University of Kansas in 1940 but unable to pass army physical examinations, has accepted an offer to play pro football.

He'll report to the Princeton, N. J., training camp of the National League Brooklyn Dodgers August 9, he said. He was barred from the army by asthma but the breathing disorder has not interfered with his gridiron performances.

Pierce has been a reporter on the staff of the Kansas City Star for the past year.

Street-That Food Budget

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
 Wide World Food Editor
 When the budget starts sending up warning signals, it is time to call a halt and do more figuring on your menu.

Switch over to main dish salads featuring hard-cooked eggs, peas, lima beans and seasonings. Count on more fresh vegetables for plenty of minerals and vitamins and go heavier on one-dish casserole meals and broiled plates with tomatoes, cheese and savory sauce.

Fresh berries, fruits and melons are ideal desserts, plentiful, moderate in price and just right for summer meal sign offs.

SAUSAGE LINKS AND RICE
 1 cup rice
 2 quarts water
 2 teaspoons salt
 1 lb. tiny link sausage
 1 onion, chopped (1-4 cup)
 1-4 cup celery, diced
 1-4 cup condensed tomato soup
 1 cup rice liquid
 1 tablespoon parsley, chopped.
 Wash rice and cook 15 minutes in boiling salted water. Drain through a colander, reserving 1 cup of liquid. Brown sausages in skillet. Drain off most of the fat; add chopped onion and celery and brown. Put rice, sausage, onion and celery in greased glass baking bowl. Add rest of ingredients and bake 45 minutes in moderate oven. Serves 6 or 8.

Mix ingredients and pour into buttered pan — about 2 inches deep. Add filling.

Filling
 1 package cherry gelatin
 1-2 cups boiling water
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 cup seeded red cherries
 1-2 cup cubed marshmallows
 Dissolve gelatin. Add lemon juice. Chill until thick and syrupy. Beat until fluffy. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into the ginger-crumbs crust. Chill until firm. Beat with fork until thoroughly blended, then add 1 beaten egg. 2 1-4 cups flour, 2 1-4 teaspoons baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Pour into loaf pan, lined with waxed paper. Bake 45 minutes in moderate oven—about 350 degrees. For extra nutrition add 1-2 cup chopped prunes or dates or raisins.

SARATOGA LOAF: Mix together 3 cups chopped cooked ham (or any other leftover meats), 1 cup bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons each finely chopped onions, celery and parsley, 2 eggs, beaten, and 1 cup milk. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake 50 minutes in moderate oven. During the last 15 minutes of baking, spread the top several times with 3 tablespoons honey blended with 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish, 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard and 1-4 teaspoon cloves. Serve the loaf hot or cold. Thinly sliced it is good in sandwiches and cut into inch cubes it combines nicely with creamed peas.

MANHATTAN SAUCE on hot, seasoned spinach, green beans, peas, carrots or boiled rice. To serve 4, melt 4 tablespoons butter and add 4 tablespoons flour, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon each celery salt and paprika and 1 teaspoon chopped parsley. When blended pour in 2 cups milk, 1-2 cup grated cheese, 2 hard-cooked eggs, sliced, and 1-4 teaspoon poultry seasoning. Cook slowly, stirring constantly, until thick and creamy. Add a beaten egg, mix and serve at once.

The budget and nutritionists will okay WESTERN SALAD for the main part of a summer dinner. Mix 1 cup cooked peas with 2-3 cup each cubed cheese (1-2 inch pieces) and celery. Add 2 tablespoons chopped pimientos, 1 teaspoon minced parsley, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika and 1-2 cup salad dressing. Chill and serve in a bowl lined with crisp salad greens. Top with more than dressing.

Night Class In Sheet Metal Work Is Suspended

Graveyard shift (12 midnight to 6 a. m.) for aircraft sheet metal workers has been suspended due to lack of trainees, Bill Dawes, director of national defense training, said here Thursday.

At the same time the United States Employment Service renewed its plea for additional trainee applicants. The defense class set-up, however, understood that some trainee inquiries had been referred to the army airport for jobs currently open.

The opportunity to make a contribution to the war and at the same time hold down a good job exists through the medium of the free national defense school training program, said O. R. Rodden, local USES manager.

Graduates of national defense training schools are needed in war industries such as aircraft manufacturing, shipbuilding, munitions manufacturing and other existing in Texas. Schools are operated here for the former two.

This, pointed out Rodden, through whose office all applications for training must be submitted, is remarkably convenient to people of this area, especially since it is virtually impossible to get a war plant job without training.

Only cost to the trainee is that he be able to support himself during the training period. Instructional services and other expenses are borne jointly by the state and national governments. Those interested in either a course in welding or aircraft sheet metal work should see Rodden at 105 1-2 E. 2nd street to make application.

Tank Factory Busy Again

FLINT, Mich., July 23 (AP)—The tank arsenal of General Motors' Fisher body division, idle for a week because of a strike precipitated by workers' smoking and resultant layoffs, has rushed back into action in the war effort.

Settlement of labor-management differences was achieved Wednesday after mass meetings of CIO and AFL unionists and conferences with the war labor board's top mediator, Tifford Dudley, who arrived here only yesterday.

Disposition of the smoking issue was left to a temporary grievance procedure provided in the settlement.

The strike began July 15 when 30 men were laid off for having left their jobs to smoke. Smoking periods are allowed at other General Motors plants in accordance with union contracts. The new tank plant, however, has no recognized union.

Complicating the dispute was the fact that affiliates of the CIO's and AFL's United Automobile Workers Union insisted on being parties to any settlement.

The strike-ending agreement, signed by the management and representatives of both striking groups, provides for a plant election as soon as possible to determine the bargaining agent.

Scrap Into Bales

LAREDO, July 23 (AP)—A junk yard dealer here employs a compressor which converts loose scrap iron into tightly-formed bales 16x16x33 inches in dimension and weighing about 100 pounds each.

Scrap iron compressed into bales allows for compactness in shipping thus saving space which otherwise would be lost by shipments of loose scrap, the dealer explained.

Gen. Claire Chennault Followed In Service By Sons And Nephew

SWEETWATER, July 23 (AP)—Brigadier General Claire (Flying Tiger) Chennault, whose exploits with the AVG have made heroic history in the Chinese defense is in danger of losing some of his laurels to other fighting members of the family, his brother believes.

The brother is William S. (Bill) Chennault, who came here from Lubbock in 1917, and whose job with the Western Union Telegraph Company deals with electrically re-energizing messages on the long transcontinental wire journey. For the last seven years he has been manager of the important automatic relay station at this West Texas city.

Bill Chennault is refreshingly modest and he won't talk about the exploits of his famed brother Claire unless asked directly, and he answers just as directly: "Certainly the Chennaults are proud of Claire."

"We feel that he is doing his share for the family in fighting the Japs—but we also feel that he may lose some of his laurels to other members of the family if he is not careful."

"His oldest son, Jack, is in the army. Jack was recently cited in a magazine article for his contribution to the defenses of Alaska. Another son, David, a seaman, has been in the navy for more than seven months."

"Both Jack and David have been inspired by the example set by their father."

Bill Chennault's son, young Bill, is also in the navy and looks on his uncle's doings with great admiration.

Chennault, whose hobbies include growing dahlias and reading history, science, military science and extraordinary dabbling into astronomy, has been in the telegraph business 25 years, 22 with the same company. He has been active in developing instruments for high speed telegraph operation. He worked as a telegraph operator for the Santa Fe and Texas Pacific at Lubbock, Abilene, Colorado City, and Big Spring. Chennault was briefly in the real estate and newspaper business here.

YOUR SUGAR RATION

When quantity is limited, quality is more important than ever. Today you want to get full sweetening value from every ounce of sugar you buy. You want to be sure the sugar you buy is 100 per cent pure cane. To be sure of getting highest quality pure cane sugar demand Imperial Sugar. Be sure to get Imperial whether you buy in the factory sealed sacks and cartons or in a paper sack. Imperial sugar is extra fine granulated. It dissolves quickly and completely—doesn't settle to the bottom of the cup or glass to be washed away and wasted.

Dan Moody Is The Man Best Qualified

In ordinary times the task of making up your mind as between rival political candidates is simple and easy; you just vote for the man you like best.

The fruits of our victory in the first world war were lost in the senate of the United States, when "a little group of wilful men" numbering no more than a dozen, undermined the work of our fighting forces and our statesmen and thereby made the second world war inevitable.

Moody is the best-qualified man for the junior senatorship would give him their votes on July 25, he would win beyond question. We honestly believe he is the best qualified and therefore we are for him. Not only the best qualified man in this race, but one of the best qualified ever to announce for the senate from Texas.

These are our opinions, and we accord to everyone his privilege of differing with us. Only in Berlin and Tokyo and Rome is the expression of adverse opinions forbidden. We believe the sound common sense of the people of Texas will on July 25 give Dan Moody the commission to represent them in the United States senate.

Washington—Glider Training Has Been Swift Development

By JACK STINNETT WASHINGTON—One of the better stories of World War II can't be written in detail now and probably won't be until post-war historians dig into the annals of today's aviation.

It's the story of glider flying. There are a few announced facts that give some hint of just what is going on.

A little more than a year ago, no army pilot was allowed to soar around in a sailplane. The reasons are a little obscure. It was too dangerous. It was a fad, a sportsman's hobby, that had no military significance.

Then came the German invasion of Crete. Now there are 27 army training stations for glider pilots. There's a new army rating for men who earn their wings in motorless planes. The Civil Aeronautics Administration has 15 schools where potential glider pilots are given the same kind of training that non-combat flyers get.

In South Carolina, the marine corps has found its initial glider group and just recently announced three other glider training centers will be established.

Out at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, the army is experimenting with a device by which planes in flight can pick gliders off the ground. It works on a principle somewhat similar to the contraption for mail-pouch pickups.

Glider trains already have been proved practical and four, five- and six-glider trains towed by twin-motored planes are no longer a Jules Verne dream.

Brig-Gen. Harold L. George, newly appointed head of the aviation and air transport command, made a special point of the importance of development of glider trains as freighters and passenger carriers of tomorrow.

The production of gliders is one of our more closely guarded secrets. The few glider plants in operation when the invasion of Crete demonstrated the military importance of motorless planes were not necessarily the potential producers of gliders for war. Army gliders are strictly utilitarian. The sail-

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE by George Harmon Coxe

Chapter 34 DEALING KENT IN Joyce sat down. She put her head back and shook her blond hair, pushing it back from her eyes when she finished. Then she looked at him and smiled.

"You're not angry, really. You're hurt."

"I'm sore," he said. "All right, you're sore." "And disgusted."

"You were watching him, her eyes concerned and still faintly smiling. When he saw that look he melted a little and with some reluctance, said:

"All right. Forget it. "Don't mind us," said Fenner. "Go ahead and sleep."

"Shut up!" "Maybe the reason Della didn't want to tell you was because of Hester," Joyce said.

"Hester?" "Murdock's frown bit deeper. "How does Hester—" "Della knew you'd been married to her. You must have loved her once, you know."

"Look," Murdock said gently. "If Hester was the killer—and she wasn't but suppose she was—and I found it out, you're wondering if I'd turn her in, is that it?"

"Well, would you? Be honest now." Murdock thought it over. "If it was only a question of Perry Clarke, probably not. With a guy like that you generally figure he had it coming and you hate to see anybody hang for the job. I don't know. It's funny about murder. I've been mixed up in a couple, but never by choice, and if I ever helped the police it was because of any moral obligation to society. At least I don't think it was.

"Two men have been killed. I still don't know much about it but I do know it's time for you to stop fooling around. You saw Raeburn come out of that building. You told the police. You're the one who, on a witness stand, can practically pin the crime on him. Okay, now suppose he saw you."

"Oh—I don't think he did," Joyce said. "You hope he didn't. But anyway, that's what I mean. That's what I was trying to tell you last night. People always figure that murder is something that happens to somebody else. Right now it can happen to you. Right now you're a potential victim."

"Nonsense." "Why do you think Hardacker was killed? Because he knew too much, wasn't it?" "I suppose so."

"Your testimony will convict Raeburn, won't it?" "Yes, but—"

"I mean it, Joyce," he said. "Stay out of it. So far you've been lucky. Don't fool with it any more. And don't worry about Hester. If she—or anyone else—is covering up and I happen to find out about it, I'm going to do some uncovering." He grinned up at her. "If I don't give it a try, I suppose you will."

She made a face at him and Fenner spoke up. "I've got a little stake in this too, now." He was looking in his glass and his voice was cold and quiet. "Hardacker was a nice little guy. A little dumb, but a regular. I'd sort of like to get a crack at this lad Raeburn."

Fenner's mood reached out across the room. The knocking which followed came as a relief. Joyce opened the door. "Come in," she said, and Della Stewart entered, greeting them with a tentative smile.

"I heard you," she told Joyce. "When you didn't come back I thought I'd get up too."

She took a chair and curled up with her bare feet under her. The cream-colored robe was too large for her but she had wrapped it tightly about her young body and was using the sleeves for a muff. "We were just talking," Joyce said.

"Do go on," Della said. "I'm not intruding, am I?" "Indeed you're not."

Cooked Out Murdock found enjoyment in just watching her. The long part of her hair had angled across her forehead and the flush of recent sleep was still in her cheeks. She smiled at him, her eyes wide and friendly and he thought: "She's cute. And she's not afraid any more."

"I thought you were my pal," he said. "Oh, I am, Kent." "Couldn't trust me, huh?" "Leave her alone," Joyce said. "He's right, though," Della said. "I was stupid and it was a shabby trick, Kent."

"But everything is all right now, isn't it?" he said. "Oh, yes. About tonight, you mean, don't you? Yes, because War couldn't have been mixed up in this; he was still in jail." Joyce stood up. "I think I want something." She looked at Della. "A hot chocolate, maybe. It'll make us sleep."

"Yes," Della said. "I'll help you. ...No, I really want to." She got up. "You'll go get your slippers then," Joyce said. "Make mine beer," Murdock said. "And if there's any crackers—"

"I know," said Joyce. Murdock hesitated; then asked something that had been on his mind since Joyce had interrupted them. "The police have any line on

Hollywood Sight and Sounds—Leading Men Once Kept Families Secret; War Changes All That

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—Glamour factory at war: Not so many years ago a young actor came to town with a deep dark secret. Five secrets, in fact—his wife and four children.

He was launched as a romantic hero. As such, his name was inevitably linked in publicity with various of the town's romantic heroines. This made fair reading for the who-gets-with-whom departments, but nothing like the reading made when it was revealed that our hero really lived the life of a family man in un-

Hollywood Pasadena—his five secrets willingly staying in the background because a screen hero with four children might not cut a romantic figure.

That was the tale of Phil Regan. It harked back to the old days of pictures when movie heroes, or their bosses, considered marriage and children a deterrent to box-office popularity.

The tale comes back today with ironic chuckles. RKO, having seen about half its recent young men contractees receiving long-term offers from the keenest talent scout, Uncle Sam, lets it be known that it is looking for male prospects who have bona fide dependents—in other words, for fathers!

A handsome papa may not have the pull of an eligible bachelor, but at least he stands a chance of making a couple of pictures to repay the studio for its grooming trouble before Uncle Sam calls him for sterner training.

Meanwhile, despite the war's severe inroads on the ranks of leading men, the sound stages today do not begin to present the preponderantly feminine aspect which casting directors anticipate for the future.

Some of them are sighing over the good old days when they thought there was a shortage of leading men—meaning a shortage of the top fellows all their rivals wanted at the same time. (Gable, Cary Grant, Ty Power, Robert Taylor et al.)

One expedient suggested has been a concentration on "feminine" stories—to be carried by women stars. (A cycle of "Bird in a Gilded Cage" themes, perhaps, with heroines dawdling over "an old man's gold.") Or endless variations on "The Women"—with its all feminine cast?

Uncle Sam, let it be known that it is looking for male prospects who have bona fide dependents—in other words, for fathers!

Transportation—The appeal for conserving tires, and the proposal to enforce that conservation by rationing gasoline, have been put almost entirely in terms of the country's 25,000,000 private automobiles; there were so many of them, and they were so obviously related to the life of the individual American.

But the country has approximately 4,825,000 trucks and buses in use, and in proportion to their number they use up rubber at a greater rate than do the private cars.

Although outnumbered by more than seven to one, these commercial vehicles account for approximately 28 per cent of all vehicle miles which come under the classification of "necessary driving" or "travel for business purposes."

Probably less than two per cent of all truck and bus mileage is not strictly initiation, whereas 45 per cent of private car mileage is run

Man About Manhattan—Novel On Paul Revere, A Labor Of Love, Hits The List Of Top Sellers

By GEORGE TUCKER NEW YORK—Either Forbes does not take after the ancestor who was convicted as a witch and who conveniently died in Cambridge jail before they got around to burning her.

Miss Forbes is the one who wrote "Paul Revere and the World He Lived In." This is perhaps the summer's big book, a Book-of-the-Month choice, and a labor of love. Miss Forbes wrote it because she got tangled up in it—she had put in many months on a novel of the period before she changed her mind and started "Paul Revere."

She didn't think the book would make money, and when her dignified Boston publishers (Houghton Mifflin) wrote her they would spend $10,000 on advertising she went to bed with a headache. She used to work for them, and thought they'd lost their heads.

Then the sages of the Book-of-the-Month Club met. Miss Forbes knew they were meeting, and instead of driving from her Worcester, Mass., home to Harvard (also Massachusetts) to get some apples, she pretended she was tired and took to bed. She was afraid to confess that she was waiting for a call.

"The call came, and because I knew the switchboard operator in my publisher's office I could tell I was lucky. Then I heard the receiver go up in the editor's office, and a lot of giggles. Then they told me.

"I found out later that the giggles came out of a bottle of liquor that had been hurriedly imported. I couldn't find anybody to tell the news to, so I took a good hot bath."

"Paul Revere" is a good-humored, careful, social history of Boston and New England before, during and after the Revolution—as well as a biography of the silversmith, engraver, bell caster, printer of guncurrency, expert in gunpowder, maker of false teeth and the man who rode the Larkin horse down the Concord road.

Most difficult thing, aside from the meticulous research, was being fair to Sam Adams in the book. Adams is an ancestor of Miss Forbes, but she doesn't approve of everything he did.

Most helpful thing was the fact that her mother, more than 80 years old, loves research. Mrs. Forbes put in many 10-hour days sleuthing through town records, diaries and such. She also is a writer—she wrote a book on New England gravestones, and has catalogued more than 2,000 New England diaries written before 1800.

Humor is a Forbes stand-by. Some fifteen years ago the Book-of-the-Month Club, then a very young organization, accepted "O Gentle Lady," her first published novel. In those days the club liked to bind its books in imitation leather. There was something wrong with the stuff, however, and it was more than sticky—it smelled.

Glefully, Miss Forbes reports, "They called it the 'Best Smeller of the Month.'"

MacArthur Praised As Censor In 1917 NEW YORK.—Newspapers of April 7, 1917, carried dispatches under Washington, D. C. dateline that brought one Douglas MacArthur, then a major in the U. S. army, into the headlines 25 years before Bataan.

Twenty-nine newspaper correspondents assigned to coverage of the war department, the dispatches said, paid a joint call on War Secretary Newton D. Baker to present a commendation of "Major" MacArthur's work as military censor.

The commendation expressed the reporters' thanks and appreciation of the services of the military censor in expediting release of war news to the correspondents.

War Production Affected By Strike
 ST. LOUIS, July 22. (AP)—An Army officer of the St. Louis ordnance district said today production had been affected at most of the 200 vital war plants in the St. Louis area by an unauthorized strike of 3,000 AFL truck drivers employed by trucking companies. The officer, who declined to be quoted by name, said probably by this afternoon a score of plants would be forced to shut down because of inability to get shipments of strategic materials. Strikers, rejecting a wage increase of $3 a week, were demanding $6 over their old scale of $30 to $40 for a 48-hour week.

THE WAR TODAY: Navy Shy Of Power For Aleutian Move

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Public concern over the continued Japanese occupation of Aleutian Islands appears to have mounted rapidly during the past few days, and increasingly one hears the question of just what it is that the invaders of American soil haven't been evicted.

Representative Coffey of Washington added fuel to the fire yesterday when he demanded that forces be sent to oust the Japs immediately. He declared that the invaders intend to occupy Alaska, and Alaskan Delegate Dimond, who has complained that we are being too complacent in this matter, says he has received reports that between 20,000 and 25,000 Japanese troops have been landed in the Aleutians already.

This growing anxiety undoubtedly has been stimulated by the knowledge that the Nipponese occupation of Aleutian bases not only threatens Alaska but is intimately connected with the possibility of an attack against Russian Siberia at this crucial time when the Reds are fighting for their lives (and ours) at the gateway to the Caucasus. A collapse of the Bolshevik defenses in the present fierce battle might inspire the Japs to repeat their favored trick of striking without warning. The Aleutians of course lie close to Russian soil and cut across our line of communication with our ally.

Well, there certainly is an answer to the continued presence of the enemy on the three western-most islands of Attu, Kiska and Agattu, but I doubt if it is what the reader would expect. One well known reason is that the weather over the Aleutians is about as filthy as you can find, and it has been bad lately. Defense fogs have shielded the Japs from air or sea attacks.

However, I believe that a more vital reason why we haven't taken stronger action is that we simply haven't had the naval force to spare.

That may seem like strong mustard, and it is, but the position is quite understandable. The ousting of the Japs is essentially a naval task, for the army can't walk on water, and while the air force can and has done great things up there in the bleak north, it can't drive the Japs out alone.

Now the navy can't be expected to undertake such a mission with a handful of ships; the job calls for a very considerable force. Thus far we haven't been able (or so I believe) to mass enough ships for the operation. Still, that shouldn't cause public surprise. We possess the ships all right, but they are spread out over the seven seas, performing mighty tasks to keep the wheels of the allied war-machine turning.

And why don't we call in some of these ships and clean out the Aleutians? Presumably because while the authorities fully recognize the danger of the Jap occupation, that danger is less pressing than other perils which have to be met.

Applications to drill offsets south and east from the Ray Oil Co. No. 1 Willard Read were being made Thursday following completion of the outcrop test in eastern Howard county for 221 barrels on a 24-hour railroad barrel-pumping gauge.

At the same time, Coltex Oil Corp. of Colorado City was preparing to extend its lines to the new well, which lies nearly two miles north of nearest production in the Dodge-Denman pool.

Wednesday morning when the test run was completed, the well was still pumping a full stroke through an inch and three-quarter cylinder in two-inch tubing, operators reported. They expressed belief that the well could have made a higher potential through a larger string. Word is expected soon from the railroad commission's oil and gas division on whether the test will be considered an outcrop or a new pool. It yielded 22.6 gravity oil, higher than in the nearest fields. Location is 330 feet out of the southeast corner of section 37-30-1n, T&P.

In Martin county, the Magnolia No. 1 E. B. Fowell, section 18-35-1n, T&P, drilled ahead at 6,425 feet in dark lime after having a slight show of gas in a five-foot core of dark, shaly lime from 6,405-10 feet. It also logged a slight show of gas in three feet of a core from 6,410-20 feet. Location is in section 18-35-1n, T&P, eight miles north of Stanton.

Amon G. Carter No. 1 Walter M. Claer, 1,380 feet from the south and east lines of labor 22, league 26S, Kent county school lands in northwestern Martin county, drilled below 3,755 feet in anhydrite after having topped the Yates quartz sand grain at 2,830 feet, 87 feet above sea level.

One Blackout Error

MT. PENN. Pa., July 22. (AP)—Only one error was charged against this town of 3,000 in a statewide, half-hour blackout.

A gas station operator went home when the sirens screamed and forgot to disconnect his pin-ball machine.

The "tilt" light showed.

Robbed And Ticketed

NEWARK, N. J., July 22. (AP)—It wasn't enough that thieves stole three tires, two wheels and the battery from Francis Murphy's car and drained the gasoline tank dry. He also found a police summons for overtime parking attached to the windshield.

Sergeant York Back On The Ritz Screen

What, from all indications, will be a favorably received return showing is that of "Sergeant York," which is at the Ritz theatre Friday and Saturday. The widely heralded biographical tribute to one of the World War's greatest heroes is regarded as one of the motion picture triumphs of the year. It played to packed houses at an earlier showing at advanced prices, and is expected to attract as large a response this time, when the tariff remains at the customary levels.

To accommodate all who wish to see "Sergeant York," the Ritz is opening its doors early—at 11 a. m.—Saturday, so there will be an extra screening on that day.

Gary Cooper stars in the title role. The lanky star of "Meet John Doe" and countless other triumphs plays his greatest role to date as the Tennessee mountaineer who "got religion," became a conscientious objector, yet emerged as one of the greatest heroes of all time!

The war sequences of "Sergeant York" are unparalleled, and rival war sequences from any other film. Opposed to these thrilling moments are the tranquil scenes showing Alvin York's life in Tennessee, and the metamorphosis from renegade to a soldier-hero.

York is regenerated when a bolt of lightning rips his rifle from his hand and melts it into a heap of twisted metal. From then on he becomes a churchgoer, and with the aid of Grace Williams, his lovely mountain sweetheart, and faithful Pastor Pile, attempts to own a piece of rich bottomland.

Undoubtedly the film's greatest sequence is that one delineating York's capture of 132 Germans. The feat remains in war annals as one of the most amazing of its kind.

At that time he was principal and coach of the school during Robnett's regime. Robnett will be vocational agriculture teacher in the Garden City schools.

Siamese Twins Have Good Chance To Live

DUBUQUE, Ia., July 22 (AP)—Siamese twins, born at a hospital here to Mrs. Floyd Babers, 26-year-old farm woman living near New Vienna, Ia., were said by the mother's physician today to "have a good chance to live."

The girl babies, born Tuesday night, were joined at the base of the spine. Normal in every respect, they weighed a total of nine pounds, 10 ounces.

Farm Mules To Race In Mississippi

GREENWOOD, Miss., July 22. (AP)—A hundred mules, fresh from the cotton rows, race here today for charity and the owners, whether sharecroppers or plantation proprietors, compete on equal terms.

Some of the owners, including negroes from the city's Catfish Alley and planters from manstons built by cotton fortunes, will ride their steeds to the races, what with the tire rationing and the like.

This fast growing Mississippi sport, drawing negroes, white plantation operators and tenants from all over the delta, is sponsored by the Junior auxiliary, county cousin of the city junior leagues.

There are no handicaps for riders and the give events—junior, open novice, gentlemen jockey and acceptakes—get underway with a yell from the starter and the use of whips and heels by the jockeys.

But the jockey doesn't have much to do with the mule's direction. The first mule off at the start is likely to be the winner, unless he should balk or decide to run out and jump the rail. Once the animal makes up its mind to run or not to run, the jockey just hangs on and hopes for the best.

New Orleans normally is the greatest port in the world.
