TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

Retired taxpayers over 65 years of age get several breaks under the law. They have an extra $600 exemption provided for age. Retirement Income Credit is also a very important benefit. The Internal Revenue folks report that some taxpayers who appear to be eligible for Retirement Income Credit don't claim the credit. They also point out Texas Community Property Law gives Retirement Income Credit to both the husband and the wife in many cases. This can be worth as much as $304.80 a year. If you feel that you are entitled to extra Retirement Income Credit contact your IRS office.

Facilities and consultants will be provided for bands to hold pre-school marching drills, and rehearsal facilities, new music and clinicians will be provided for rehearsals by stage bands. The camp fee will be $23, including room, board, tuition and insurance. Commuting students will pay only the tuition charge of $11, and will find meals available in the college dining room at 75 cents per meal.

BACK FROM COLORADO VACATION TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fox have returned from a trip to the Rocky Mountains National Park in Colorado, during which they found it cold and snowing in contrast to the hot weather at home.

They spent five days at Mesa Verde, Colo., visited the cliff dwellings and drove to Four Corners, where four states join. "We found it dry in many places, although there was a lot of snow on the mountains," said Mrs. Fox. We drove across Mexico to Albuquerque, and the trip was very hot until we reached the mountains. We spent 2 days at Durango and drove to the little town of Silverton, Colo., where they told us they had had only five nights during the year when it didn't freeze."

TOWN BENEFACTOR Kenneth W. Pollock (right) of Fort Scott, Kan., emerges from the basement fallout shelter area of the city building where extra ventilating equipment (see vents in background) made it possible to protect about 1,000 persons—many more than could be accommodated otherwise. Using data on the best available local shelter areas in existing structures provided by the Defense Department's National Fallout Shelter Survey, Pollock has spent about $18,000 so far to improve shelters for 6,600, and will go to $50,000 if necessary to improve fallout shelters for the town's 10,000 inhabitants. AUSTIN — Without the sun we would all die. But use of the sun, like anything, can be carried to extremes.

The sun is necessary for growth processes of all man, animal and vegetable. Sunshine is a source of vitamin D, as most people know. But what apparently is misunderstood is that the ordinarily healthy people can get all the D. vitamin they need through routine activities such as hanging out the family wash, mowing the lawn or walking to the store.

As some of our senior citizens will tell you, the skin hue of choice fifty years ago was a fragile, pale white. One elderly Texas resident tells how she never went to the barn or field without protection from a sun-bonnet. And she tells of spending hours trying to bleach her skin with lemon juice and buttermilk.

Today, the skin hue of choice by many is a golden brown. And many a person sweats out a frequent sun bath to attain a coat of bronze.

Overdoing a good thing—trying to acquire a suntan in a day's time—is where the problem begins.

The sun, as a heat source, can give the body first, second and even third degree burns. The medical term for sunburn is "erythema solaris." It's the ultraviolet light in sun rays which does the damage. Since clouds don't remove all ultraviolet rays, it is possible to get burned even on overcast days in mid-summer.

There are other dangers, too. Ultraviolet is associated in many minds with cancer. The rays overstimulate cells to divide and sometimes the cells 'forget' to stop, thus becoming cancerous. It's likely, they say, that this could happen from an ultraviolet source — either the sun or sun lamps. Of course, only a person subjected constantly to large amounts of ultraviolet is in danger. For example, farmers who work under sunlight are frequent victims of skin cancer.

Ultraviolet may also harm the eyes — even when they are closed. The skin of the eyelids is the thinnest on the whole body, and the light can go right through causing sunburn of the

School Age Marriages May Be On Increase

COLLEGE STATION—School-age marriages may not be wise, yet after one becomes a fact, adults working with the couple have a responsibility to help them succeed. Indications are that they will continue to increase in numbers.

So says Patsy Reynolds, Extension specialist in family life at Texas A&M University. Marriage is always a time of adjustment, she explains, regardless of the age of the couple. "Add to the normal problems of this period the disapproval and often bitter incursions of parents and the love becomes almost impossible for the young couple to carry."

According to a study made by Dr. B. J. Fallon, Executive Secretary of the West Texas School Study Council, school-age marriages have a divorce rate two to four times greater than for those who marry at age 20 or older. Dr. Fallon directed the survey in 238 Texas schools in 1962.

Conclusions of the research indicate that schools should educate for a "balanced social perspective" if these school-age marriages are to be reduced or those which occur are to succeed, the specialist says.

The parents and community can give the young couple practical education for dealing with problems such as budgets, house cleaning and care and use of household equipment, and preparation for earning a livelihood.

In the event of a school-age marriage, the students should be encouraged to complete their education if at all possible. Human potential is rarely maximized without the benefit of formal education. Less than full realization of human potential constitutes a loss for the individual, the community, and society at large, the study concludes.

Rev. and Mrs. A. D. Kyle returned from a vacation spent with relatives in Carthage, Beaumont, Baytown and Denton. They reported a very pleasant trip. Mrs. Kyle has a sister who is a senior in North Texas University where she is majoring in English and Spanish.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hull, Linda and Robbie of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Burnett, Kelly and Lorie, Austin, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burnett, of Asheville, N. C., were recent guests in the Ervin Hull home.

What do we mean in saying that in the United States we have a "government of law" and not a government of men? Basically we mean that we have certain individual rights, guaranteed by our federal and state constitutions and laws, which may not be denied by any governing body.

The early American colonists had their fill of government by men, and the Declaration of Independence, signed 188 years ago, set out their complaints against that type of government and revealed their belief in a principle which we now accept as basic to our American way of life.

The indictments set out in the document against King George III of Great Britain charged him with numerous violations of that principle. Among the complaints enumerated are the following:

"He has dissolved Representative houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people."

"He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent for laws for establishing judiciary powers."

"He has made judges dependent upon his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount of payment of their salaries."

"He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good."

"He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution and unacknowledged by our laws; giving assent to their acts of pretended legislation: . . . For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury; for transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses . . . For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever."

Our forefathers who subscribed to the principles of the Declaration of Independence were willing to fight for their beliefs. The Revolutionary War followed, dragging through weary years of suffering and suspense. Each of us takes pride in their eventual triumph over gigantic obstacles.

In 1787, when the framers of our Constitution met at Independence Hall in Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence had been signed 11 years previously, they set to work to create a system of checks and balances in government which was to perpetuate the fundamental theory mentioned in the preamble of earlier documents.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; . . ."

Some five years later, the first ten amendments to our Constitution were adopted at one time, specifically detailing various basic civil rights stemming from the underlying theory of the Declaration of Independence.

Our courts day by day guard these rights for us.

PERSONALS

Visitors in the J. R. McKinnerney home during the week-end were their children, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McKinnerney of Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. Bill McKinnerney and two children of Tuscola, and Mr. and Mrs. Don McKinnerney of Commerce.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, Sr., were their son, Floyd Lee Smith, his wife and two daughters, and their daughter, Mrs. S. A. Olive, all of Brownwood.

Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Leonard and two children are now at home in the Clark Estate residence on West Pioneer Street.

Highway accidents in the U. S. took a record number of lives in 1963. Some 42,700 persons died on the nation's highways last year and more than 3,460,000 were injured.

PATTERNS FOR PROGRESS

A Community Survey can chart the road to community development

Community development is one of the fastest growing activities in America today. Many communities, both large and small, are attacking the problems with new vigor and vitality.

While there is no easy road to success, no simple formula to follow, one thing is certain . . . a community must start with a thoughtfully planned and soundly developed Community Survey. It assesses and evaluates both favorable and unfavorable economic and civic factors which affect community growth, and discloses factors which can be used to solicit new business and industry.

To be fully effective it must be a continuing study, since conditions change as economic handicaps are eliminated and economic advantages multiply. The survey has the added value of helping to clarify a community's aims and objectives in the field of improvement, growth and development.

Such a community survey then becomes the PATTERN FOR PROGRESS.

WTU's area development representatives will assist growth-conscious communities in planning a continuing community survey for economic development. This service is available on request through your WTU local manager.
