Rising Star has a link with the newest nation in Africa, the erstwhile British protectorate of Bechuanaland, which this week became the independent nation of Botswana.

The link is a young Rising Star man, Jimmy Warfield, who has been accepted as a Peace Corps volunteer and is now working in the new African nation as a teacher of mathematics.

Prior to his acceptance in the Corps, Jimmy underwent special training at the University of Syracuse in New York (the same school which Baylor defeated so badly in football at the start of the season).

Although the new country is a nation of black people, in some respects it is akin to our own, and Jimmy will no doubt find it familiar in these. It is a cattle country, as is ours; it is a dry country, as is ours (until we make a bumper peanut crop and get ready to harvest it) and the traditional greeting means "rain."

There must be a great deal of satisfaction in carrying the seeds of civilization into a new and primitive land, and all of us here at home in Rising Star wish Jimmy well in his mission.

No doubt the Peace Corps is a great institution; it shares with the underprivileged of the world—those millions of human beings who live in a marginal relationship between savagery and civilization,—the techniques of our own prosperous society. It helps them to solve the problems of production; it shows them how to control diseases; to fill their bellies with food and their minds with visions of the Great Society.

How wonderful it is that we have among us youth with a missionary spirit, to go forth into the hinterland of doubt and distrust of our great country, and win its peoples to their own welfare and our friendship.

And how wonderful it would be if some as dedicated would come to us and show us how to solve our own problems.

I see by the Cross Plains Review that the City of Cross Plains has paid off its last tax bond ahead of time and still has money in the bank.

I had always been led to believe that Cross Plains as a city was broke and that Rising Star was the only community within the hearing of our own voice with cash in the bank and a good municipal digestion. It just goes to show how insular and ignorant one can become in his own conceits, even in a community as enlightened as this.

Seems that Cross Plains hasn't been doing any boasting but quietly investing in its own futures until now it has no more tax bonds of its own to buy. Only last week it reached ahead seven years and bought the only one outstanding.

The recitation of the Cross Plains solvency as published in the Review would make a banker drool. After spending $4,000 for the last tax bond, it had a general fund balance of nearly $10,000.00 in the bank, a nice surplus in the gas improvement fund, almost $1,100.00 in an interest reserve, and $5,000.00 in meter deposits. And on top of these statistics, it collects over $4,000.00 per month in utility revenues and is right now anticipating over $12,000.00 in tax income.

Did I hear something about sharing the wealth?

STUDENT PARTICIPATION

A wholesome interest in group activities is what makes a school thrive; student participation creates a place where there is room for fun and excitement rather than the drudgery of constant study.

Football games climax each week-end when our local high school team challenges a team from our neighborhood area, however, this could not be were it not for the aid and interest of coaches, teachers, competitors and fans. Too, the team would not succeed in its matches if it did not feel an urgency to win for the benefit of an interested student body.

The same holds true in any type of activity. Class projects must be supported wholeheartedly by the entire mass of members, else the drive will fail.

Each individual has separate ideas and he should use these ideas to the fullest advantage in promoting the beliefs of his organization. Whether it be a football team, a school project, or an individual aim, each person will gain greater satisfaction from his efforts and, most likely, better results in his work if he applies himself completely and willingly to his task.

BUILDERS OF TOMORROW

Homecoming for 1966 is over! All of us at one time or another get that funny feeling inside to think that next year when we come to Homecoming—it really will be our Homecoming, and we will be R.S.H.S. Exes. Whether it is conceit or what, we all agree our float did look fairly nice. Maybe it is because we are seniors? I hear all seniors are conceited but fail to see it.

Karen Harris was crowned Wildcat Football Sweetheart for 1966-67 on Saturday night at our homecoming game and looked very attractive.

The six-week tests are starting to pop and here we sit, amazed how we managed to let the six weeks slip by without getting such-and-such accomplished. Well, there is next six weeks 'if you try harder!

Boys, fighting Wildcats, that was a good game; lots of luck Saturday night against Bangs. and, Cheerleaders, you are doing a great job, too.

Kathy.

NOT FINISHED, JUST BEGUN

At last, the Junior Class has finished the first six weeks. The exciting moments of the Powder-Puff football game, the homecoming, and picture day are only memories.

The dreaded day of report cards has left its mark on us for we are working harder for improvement.

Our term themes on American authors are due this six weeks. We will certainly be glad to finish them.

Pegs.

WITH THE SOPHS

The members of the Sophomore class have used this week to study for six weeks' tests. It seems like they came in a hurry.

We have been so busy since school started that we have not noticed the time slipping away. We are all hoping for good grades to begin this new year.

I believe the subject we find most fascinating is World History. We are studying about the Greek and Roman Empires and find that we get many of our customs from them.

So long until next week. Katie.

WILLING TO LEARN

Our first six weeks are past history, and we have found a place for us in high school; in fact, we know now that the Freshmen are a vital part of the organization!!?

We are anxious to receive our first reports on grades to learn if we are applying ourselves as we should.

We have been so busy this period with pictures, fairs, projects, and organizations—we are wondering if this second six weeks could be so alive with different interests.

The Freshman class will sponsor a car wash on October 8 from 8:00 to 2:00.

We will be working at the following stations:

Mr. Crisp's Humble Station,
Mr. Carroll's Mobile Station,
Mr. Butler's Texaco Station.

The Freshmen will call for the cars if it is inconvenient for you to bring them to any of these designated stations.

Carter.

All the Way, Cats!!!

The first part of this week was spent cleaning and resting from the Homecoming activities; however, we are now back on our feet preparing for this week's game.

We would like to congratulate the Wildcats on the fine game they played against the May Tigers.

The cheerleaders thank everyone who helped with a float to make this one of the best Homecoming padades ever. We would especially like to thank Holley Chevrolet of Brownwood for allowing us to use their beautiful blue car for the parade.

The Wildcats meet the Bangs' Dragons this Saturday night at Bangs. We would like to see every Wildcat supporter out to help us cheer the Cats on to another victory.

Sally

GIRLS' SPORTS

Sports fans—I am proud to announce the girls around RSBS are recovering quite nicely from our latest athletic endeavor, the Powder Puff Football game! Mr. Hounscel informed me our first basketball game is scheduled for November 1 with DeLeon. It looks as if we will be practicing basketball very hard from now on.

Lint-free Adding Machine tape at the Star

It Has Been

By VADA ARNOLD

Gold was discovered in a deep water well at Romney in 1910, on a farm owned by John Stephan.

Mr. Stephan had a well-drilling machine moved into his back yard and had a well drilled for water. At a depth of 97 feet the drill struck what was thought to be a lime rock, but signs of gold in the slush led Mr. Stephan to believe it was gold ore.

Just under this formation a weak vein of water was found. The drill went on down to a depth of 125 feet where a harder formation was encountered and much more gold showed in the slush.

The driller quit the job on account of this formation.

A few months later Mr. Stephan sold the farm to his son-in-law, A. F. Luker, with the verbal developed they would each share fifty to fifty in the net proceeds. For ten years they were on the lookout for someone who had the capital to develop the project.

In 1923 Theodore Schmidt of Winchester, Texas, a childhood friend of Mrs. Luker, became interested in the development and sunk a shaft three and one fourth by five feet, about twenty five feet from the water well. At a depth of 97 feet the hard formation was reached and drilled into about two feet.

The ore that was brought out of the shaft or large well "plainly" showed gold, and the acid test proved it to be pure gold.

Plans were to carry the test down to the 125-foot strata, and then take samples of the ore to the Colorado School of Mines, where the percentage of gold could be determined, also Mr. Schmidt wanted recommendations as to the kind of smelter in plant would be needed in developing the mine. He believed the deeper strata would be profitable.

The well was blasted with dynamite and broken stones were drawn out in a bushel box with a pulley.

It was thought that at the depth at which the ore was found in the test on the Luker farm would not require a very heavy percentage of gold to be profitable.

Searching for days for more information on further development, So ends the "gold rush" at Romney. Who knows there may be gold in them thar wells to this day."

Dramatic new styling marks the 1967 Ford which has received a major sheet metal change for the third time in three years. Pictured here are the X/L Convertible (above) and the X/L 2-door Hardtop, both of which offer Ford's Select Shift Cruise-O-Matic transmission as standard equipment. Featured only on the Fairlane GTA in 1966, Select Shift permits the driver to shift manually or automatically. Ford's new styling features sculptured side panels and a gull-wing design grille that is die-cast in the X/L, LTD and Country Squire series. Engineering improvements give the 1967 Ford an even quieter and smoother ride. All Ford models will be on display at Ford dealer showrooms Friday, Sept. 30.

As It Looks From Here

By Omar Burleson, M. C. 17th Texas Dist.

THE CONCENTRATION of burning books for what they do not contain. THERE HAVE been those in the past who have made great issue of eliminating books and literature because of their content, but nothing has yet been heard from these same people on eliminating texts which do not express a certain viewpoint.

THE QUESTION now is how much control is to be applied in the administration of the many Federal programs.

THE ONE SINGLE legislative enactment which has granted the most power to Washington is not contained in any of the grant-in-aid programs and, in fact, in the case of Federal Aid to Education, certain sections of the Law disclaim the intent to control.

THE KEY TO the power of control is contained in Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. This Section authorizes the withholding of funds under all programs if the local authorities fail to comply with conditions laid down by the Federal Government. This Section of the Law becomes the silent partner to Federal grant-in-aid programs but has only been applied thus far to any considerable degree, to public education.

TITLE VI of the 1964 Act gives broad powers to any Agency of the Federal Government which approves funds in support of State and local programs. Local Administrators who fail to comply with directives called "guidelines" in the administration of such programs can have funds withheld or withdrawn. The authority is in the law for Agency officials to actually exercise dictatorial powers not envisioned by many when the law was passed.

DIRECTION AND "GUIDELINES" are issued from Washington purportedly for the purpose of assisting local officials in the drawing up of plans for compliance. It is a simple matter of saying to officials as if they had the force and effect of law. The directives are not, in fact, spelled out in the Law, but are derived from such phrases as "under such Rules and Regulations as may be formulated." This simply means that local officials must follow the Rules and Regulations to be able to secure Federal funds.

GUIDELINES HAVE been issued to school officials as to what they must do if they are to receive funds, and unless they can comply, funds will be cut off.

THERE ARE signs that more stringent and exacting directives will be forthcoming in the not too distant future.

THE EDUCATION and Labor Committee of the House of Representatives recently held a series of hearings which point to greater demands from Washington that certain things be changed to conform to the Federal view and contrary to local custom and State Law.

THE HEARINGS before the Committee were presumably to investigate the extent to which textbooks and library materials used in public schools failed to accord proper reflection for minority groups. It is plain that the hearings began under the assumption that not enough emphasis and credit has been placed upon the contribution of various minority groups to our society. The real purpose was to conclude ways should be devised to rewrite textbooks for public schools in such a way as to change meaning and impressions from those now being used.

THIS WOULD seem to be a sort of reverse book-burning proposition. Apparently there is no
