People Are Easy to Forget Says Slick Reed in Brady Standard Last Week

"Slick Reed, our advertising impressario, says you gotta keep telling 'em. In case you've forgotten the repetition in advertising . . . surveys show that 25% of the people forget anything they are told in one day . . . 50% in two days . . . and 97% forget in one week. Moral: Repeat your advertising message again and again."

The above was taken from the Brady Standard.

How true you are brother "Slick"—if this was not true the cigarette advertisers would not spend millions telling of the wonderful things their wares will do. Automobile manufacturers could save barrels of long green by cutting their messages in half. The soap people, cosmetics, mechanical refrigeration and all the rest send their messages in the newspapers, radios, magazines and television every day. About the first thing that enters into the mind of those who do not study advertising is to cut out their newspaper advertising—it will save a dollar or two a month—how false is this premise. There is no substitute for your home town newspaper when it comes to getting your message over to the people you are trying to make customers.

The paper is an invited guest into the homes of the people who patronize our home town merchants. It is never thrown into the waste basket—did you ever check the post office some morning when a lot of circulars are sent out to the people—a lot of this sort of advertising will be found there. But not your home town newspaper.

Another thing your newspaper boosts everything that is good for Rising Star. It tells of the deaths and heartaches—the people you know. It chronicles the marriages of our boys and girls and loudly boosts the births into the families of our people. In short it merits the support of all the people all the time.

Help your home town newspaper to boost Rising Star—in this way you will help your own business. Your town is judged by the newspaper you support.

Think it over carefully. The Record today goes into more homes in and around Rising Star than ever before in its history. The list is being increased at the rate of 15 to 20 new readers each month. If you have something to sell and want to reach the people who can buy your merchandise try a message consistently in your home town newspaper.

KNOWS LOTS OF THUGS IN RISING STAR Man Writes Letter from Ysleta Where Land Doubled Value Because Irrigation

Ysleta, Texas
June 25, 1953
Rising Star Record

Dear Mr. Hicks:

As to the irrigation project being a paying proposition. Here is what it means in this part of the country. The increase in the value of the land from seventy or eighty dollars per acre to one thousand per acre and it will really sell for one thousand and one hundred dollars per acre. A place sold two weeks ago for a flat twelve hundred per acre. Not bad.

As to production. Cotton from one and half bale Pema or long staple per acre. The price support has been up 'till this year $1.25 per lb. A yield of over $600.00 per acre and the cost of completion of this crop per acre is between $125.00 per acre and $150.00 per acre. Now the short staple makes all the way from two to four bales per acre, four bales being exceptionally good.

Some have planted cotton and onions getting two crops in one. The onions are gathered early and the cotton is left. They are planted side by side on the same bed. It takes no more water to do this than for just one crop but most of the farmers could increase the value of their land from the present price to three or four times higher.

The average times they water out here is about six times per crop or about every 18 days. The farmers back there would only have to water about every 30 days to increase their production to three times as much.

The average well costs the farmer out here, where things are at the peak, about $9,000.00 complete. I think they are really putting the bristles on the farmers on this deal, but they must be working under the instruction of John Lewis. I would certainly like to see this project go over because I am out here is no sign that I have in love with the idea. I have a special longing in my heart today and every day.

Yours very truly,
Burette Gray
P. S. For your information I know all those "thugs" down there as I lived there.

B. G.
Editor's Note — Thanks, Mr. Gray—Our people are definitely interested in irrigation. Our big problem is to find out how much water we have and if it can be used over the years for irrigation. There must be a way to find out and the Record is doing its best to interest the people in their own water problem. Talk will never do any good. It is going to take work and intelligent planning. The next thing is are we big enough for the job?

Ranger Chamber of Commerce Aids Farmers in Efforts to Save Burning Crops

Ranger Chamber of Commerce furnishes silage machine to help farmers save their crops in trench silo. Here is the story taken from the Ranger Times:

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," is an old saying and one that applies to the farmer who have corn and other crops which are burning up before the ears mature, for the group of seven farmers and dairymen around Ranger who have prepared trench silos, are anxious to buy these crops and harvest them for silage. So reports R. V. (Rip) Galloway, secretary-manager of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce.

The first of such corn crops was harvested last Saturday and was purchased by the group from Thomas M. Fox, consisting of six acres, which harvested better than one ton per acre.

Doubtless there are many more farmers in this immediate area whose corn or other green crops will not mature and this group of men would like to purchase any green crop that is suitable to put up for silage, Galloway said.

The silage harvesting machine which was made available to the group through the efforts of the agricultural and livestock committee of the Chamber of Commerce, got its initial workout last Saturday in harvesting the corn crop bought from Mr. Fox, and reports are that the machine performed perfectly.

Morris Newnham, chairman of the agricultural and livestock committee, states that he believes this arrangement will prove beneficial to both the farmer who has a crop to sell and to the group who have prepared trench silos. If the drought continues members of the group who have prepared silos will have difficulty in getting sufficient crops suitable for silage to fill their silos, and their willingness to buy the failing corn and other green crops should be helpful to all concerned, Newnham states.

Only row crops can be harvested by the machine, and farmers having corn or other green crops for sale are asked to notify the Chamber of Commerce, telephone 31, or the Owen Implement Co., telephone 556, and they will be put in touch with the members of the group who are anxious to get the crops.

Water Is More Important to Texans Than Oil Says Att. General Shepperd

An address by Attorney General John Ben Shepperd to the Ninth Annual Fish Fry of the Fraternity of the White Heron, Fort Anahuac Park, Anahuac, Texas, June 20, 1953, 12:00 noon. Read the speech carefully. It will be completed in the next issue of the Record.

All of us are interested in our terrific water problem in Texas or we wouldn't be here. I wish I had the time to talk to you about various phases of it—about the Deweyvilles and Laredos, the gyp water and the withering corn, the farms and cities right here along the Trinity that are crying for water while almost six million acre feet of it flows past on its way to the Gulf without their being able to use it. I'd like to talk about the 60 million acre feet that evaporates unused, the 62 million that runs down our 11 major river systems, and the mere 7 1/2 million we capture and turn to a good purpose. But these things are water under the bridge and not in the reservoir; you know as well as I that we have a serious and complicated problem of conservation.

It is hard to get any real action on the matter. Interest in water is like interest in citizenship—as soon as we hold an election the public issues are forgotten, and a good rain has ruined almost as many water conservation programs as indifferent people.

I wish I had time to talk to everyone of you, and to get your ideas about several basic questions. It is within the state's obligation to provide its citizens with a drink of pure water and a clean bath? Is the city dweller more entitled to water than his country brethren? Is one entitled to a green lawn and the other an irrigated strip? Are Texas industries entitled to enough water to operate at a profit?

I think the answer is clear. With an average 30 inches of annual rainfall, Tex. gets enough water to give every man, woman, child, farmer and industry a full share—unpolluted, unrationed, and inexpensive. But we do not have the means to catch it and hold it.

It is easy to look ahead to a better day in Texas when we will be purifying salt water in large quantities, recharging and replenishing underground supplies, making secondary recovery, turning the rivers off and on at will with dams and reservoirs, and pumping water thru pipelines criss-crossing the state—or the day when we will know enough about our underground strata to transport water from one section to another without pipelines. But these things are all down the road. Our problem today is what to do about the Laredos, the falling water tables and the withering corn.

The number one urgent necessity today is a clear-cut understanding among the various water authorities and agencies on all levels as to who is going to do what. There is too much bickering between the Federal and State governments, between the water districts and the River Authorities and the Board of Water Engineers. Somebody in authority ought to call them together within the next 10 days, sit down, lock the door, and thrash it out. Too many cooks spoil the broth unless we understand clearly who is going to cut the potatoes, who will scrape the carrots and who will wash the dishes.

It is imperative that we formulate an iron-clad policy toward the Federal government. Our water and our problem are inseparable; we cannot send the problem to Washington and hope to keep control of our water at home. There are some things we cannot do without Federal help, but we must know where to draw the line, and draw it.

Laredo has shown us that the State of Texas is lacking an agency with the power to act in water emergencies. It is hoped that the Board of Water Engineers, with its long-overdue reorganization authorized by the 53rd Legislature, will have the power to establish rules for emergency procedures. If it has not, some state agency should be given that power.

The 53rd Legislature passed eight water bills, among which was a bill authorizing the appointment of a nine-man Water Resources Committee, charged with taking a complete inventory of all our water resources and promulgating a long-range water policy for the state. Unfortunately this committee has very limited funds, but its formation has crystallized our problem into one paramount and immediate need: a complete, comprehensive, statewide water survey. How can we ever cope with our dilemma until we see how much water we have and how much we need? The committee is allowed four years to recommend legislation. But our problem cannot wait four years. We must have the information now that a survey would give, and the only way it is to get it.

To begin with, the committee will need additional funds to pay its administrative expenses and to hire the necessary experts to evaluate information. We'll have to get them. In Texas there are hundreds of endowed foundations, industrial research agencies, organizations and private citizens who want good water enough to help pay for finding it. There are ways of raising money besides taxation. To be Continued next week.

Check Up on Physical Assets and Liabilities Are Important, Says Cox

Austin.—If you have not had an audit made recently of your physical assets and liabilities, go to your doctor now and have it done, is the advice of Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, to grown-ups in Texas. It is quite as important to check up on your physical resources as it is to look into the state of your financial possessions. By regular care under your physician's directions you can conserve your physical assets and avoid an accumulation of destructive liabilities.

Everyone starts with a certain amount of physical capital and as a personal business proposition it is worthwhile to preserve. In infancy and childhood our physical resources, as a rule, are safeguards for us. As we grow older, the responsibility for doing so rests upon the individual. The critical period for many comes in middle life with the sudden realization that the physical capital is yielding diminishing returns in the way of physical well being.

The records of health departments and of insurance companies show that from 10 to 15 years have been added to the average length of life. But the same records show that a majority of the deaths are due to the degenerative diseases of middle age.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Joyce, of Pioneer families in Rising Star, graciously presided throughout the evening seeing that every guest was greeted and well taken care of.

Demonstration on W. B. Starr Farm Friday, July 3

Eastland County farmers are being invited to attend a demonstration of applying Anhydrous Ammonia fertilizer to peanuts on the W. B. Starr farm, July 3 beginning at 1:30 according to an announcement today at the County Agent's office in Eastland.

Although it has been tried under smallgrains the new material has not been applied under peanuts, one of the major crops of the county.

An Eastland implement dealer is cooperating in putting on the demonstration it was said. A dealer from Abilene will bring the equipment to apply the material.

The new material is about 82 percent nitrogen. A ton of it has 1,640 pounds of available material compared to 660 pounds of nitrogen in a ton of 33% Ammonium Nitrate. It combines with the soil particles when applied from 5 to 7 inches deep when properly sealed in and is readily available for plants to use.

Starr is one of the veteran peanut growers in the county and was one of the original organizers of the Southwestern Peanut Growers Ass'n. and was its manager for a time. He is well known in farm and ranch circles and organizations in central west Texas.

Letters have been mailed out from the County Agent's office in Eastland inviting farmers to the demonstration.

The OASIS on your route

The traveler of ancient times sought rest and refreshment at an oasis on his route.

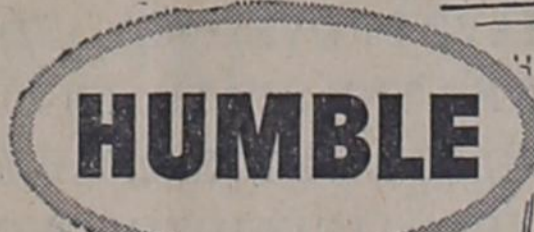

So does the traveler of modern times... he stops at an oasis that prepares his automobile for another hundred miles or more of driving... at an oasis that provides ice water and a chance to stretch... at an oasis that offers clean and sanitary rest rooms... at an oasis where our traveler can give and get a friendly greeting.

Today's oasis is the service station on the American highway.

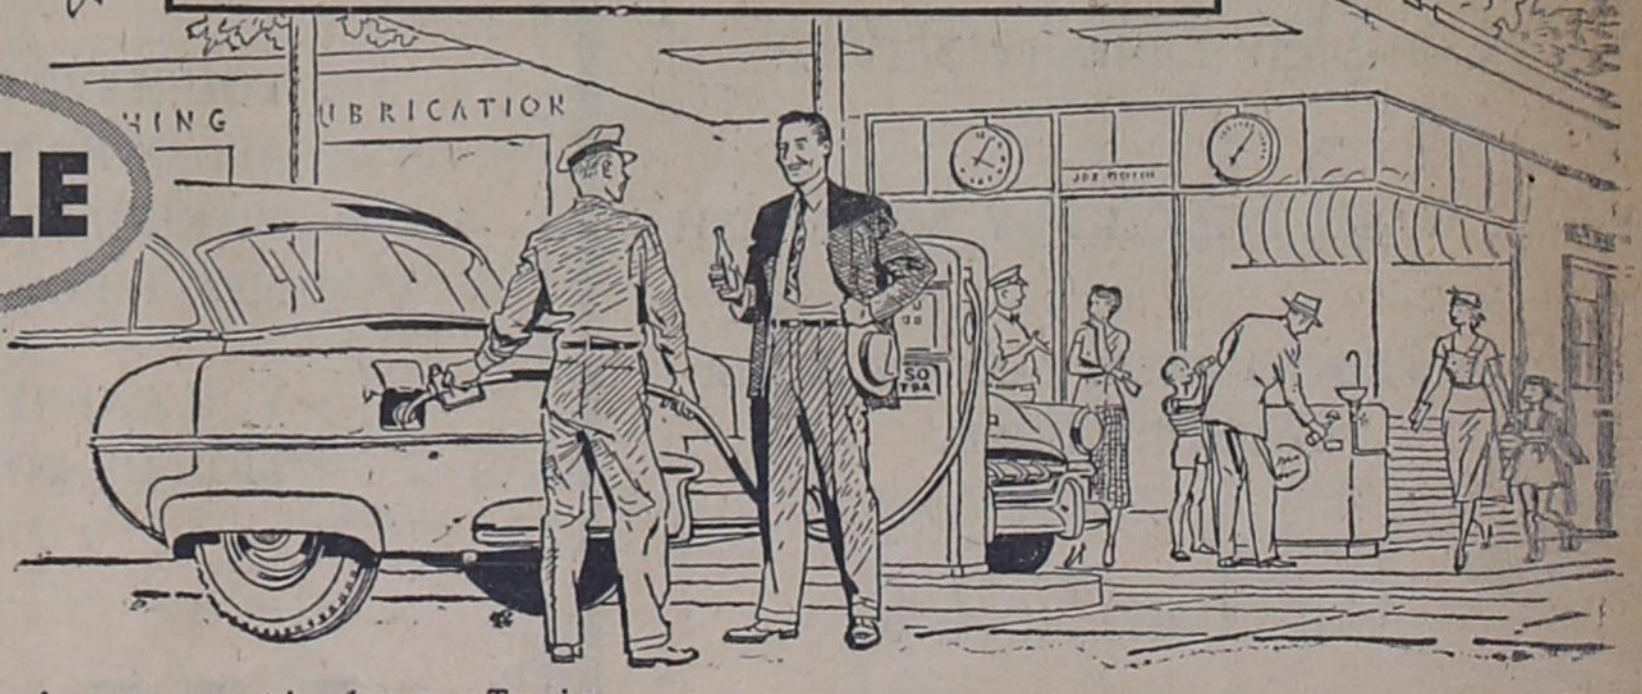

It makes your trip. It provides your contact with the country through which you're driving. On its driveway you feel at home; you get the impression wherever you stop, that this is your America.

Not one service station, but thousands of them. All along the highways you'll find them staffed and equipped to give your car the expert care it requires, to make your brief visits on their driveways comfortable and pleasant.

The service station where you buy gasoline and motor oil is your chief contact with the American oil industry. It is probably an individual enterprise; and it competes to give you better service and better products than another station down the street or on the other side of town. No small part of the oil industry's progress in the service of the motorist finds final expression on service station driveways.

Let Humble Touring Service map your trip. Secure a Touring Service request card at the Humble sign in your neighborhood, and use it to tell Humble Touring Service where you want to go. TO BUILD COUNTY WIDE GOLF COURSE NEAR STAFF

Al Larson and T. C. Wylie of the Ranger Country Club met with a group of Gorman golfers at the Fire Hall Tuesday to discuss memberships in a proposed Country Club to be erected on the former A. C. Nelson place just off the Ranger-Staff road. The proposed club will have lake privileges plus a golf course and will be approximately 18 miles from Gorman. This looks like a good opportunity for the sportsmen in Eastland County who are interested in this type of entertainment to develop something worthwhile. —Gorman Progress

"We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

Ever Thought of This?
 . . . If you buy real estate without an abstract the chances are good that you will be required to furnish one when you sell or borrow money. It is customary for seller to furnish buyer with an abstract as he usually adds cost of same to the sale's price. So for many reasons all in your favor get an abstract and have it examined by your attorney when you buy real estate.

ELITE CAFE HAS A NEW FACE LIFT

The popular Elite Cafe, owned by Mrs. Sadie Brizendine and Mrs. May Pearl Carter, has a new paint job on the front of the building.

The Elite Cafe is now the official name. Morris Cafe, the name of the previous owners, has been painted over.

This cafe is small but very popular due to good cooks, cheery furnishings and the friendly atmosphere.

Many tourists find the cafe and when they return through here a year later, look it up. They remember the food and the friendliness of Sadie and May Pearl.

AMITY COMMUNITY HAS PLAY NIGHT FRIDAY

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for the beautiful flowers, words of sympathy and so many other expressions of understanding in the loss of our dear beloved husband and father, Jeff Gales, who departed this life on May 26, 1953. May God bless all of you.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our darling husband and Daddy, Jeff Gales, who passed away May 26, 1953.

Dear Daddy, it is so sad and lonely without you. Without your sweet smiling face and loving words. That we can never see or hear again.

But we know, dear Daddy that you are waiting for us. In a home where there are no heartaches or tears. And we all trust to be with you some day. Where there will be no sad hearts or goodbyes, Daddy. Sadly missed by wife and all the family. Mrs. Jeff Gales and Family.

COMANCHE COUNTY ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE GET PLANS STARTED

The Comanche County Electric Cooperative is already making preparations for their annual meeting of members to be held August 28, at Comanche.

Friday evening, June 19, the State Coop entertained electrical appliance and farm machinery dealers with a dinner at Lawrence's Steak House in Comanche to work out plans for the displays to be shown at the August 28 meeting of the members.

Plans were laid for a preview showing of the electric fair to be held August 27, at about 6:00 P.M. for the benefit of those in the surrounding area who might not be able to attend the all-day session the 28th.

Manager Parks reports that this year's program will be greatly expanded and improved and urges all members of the Comanche County Electric Cooperative to lay their plans now to attend the meeting August 28.

Mrs. Hugh Childress had her sister, Mrs. Eva Venable of Dallas with her last week end. Her brother, O. V. Venable, who has been here for several days returned home with her.
