

German Airmen Back Off From US Fortresses

AT A U.S. BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, March 13 (AP)—American Flying Fortresses, with a big Allied Spitfire escort, today roared over the channel for the second straight day and bombed the railroad yards at Amiens, behind the French coast.

In thick cloud cover they fought a stiff battle with German fighter planes on their way back home. Goering's Focke-Wulfs, which had stayed at a respectful distance during the two previous Fortress-Spitfire raids this week, took advantage of the thick atmosphere to pounce on the Allied armada just as it left the target.

The initial German attack drew some blood and battered up some of the Fortresses but soon the Allied fighter pilots were chasing the Focke-Wulfs right through the bomber formation and Fortress gunners were spraying them with 50-caliber fire that took the starch out of the Nazi defense.

Two of the day's heroes are Fortress Co-pilot Lloyd Patterson of Ontario, Calif., and Bombardier Lieut. Paul V. Williams of Dublin, Tex., who managed to bring their Fortress back to a safe landing at the base after a German 50-millimeter shell crashed against the corner of the cockpit, injuring the pilot.

Patterson took over the plane while Williams crawled up from the nose compartment and treated the wounds in the pilot's face and shoulder. Williams also helped Patterson, who was out on the face by flying debris.

"He ought to get the distinguished flying cross," said the navigator, Lieut. Charles Spare Jr., of Hollywood, Calif. "He was there helping two wounded men with no oxygen at 18,000 feet (an altitude in which oxygen is considered essential) to maintain consciousness."

"I talked to the pilot and told him to answer me by nodding his head or shaking his," said Williams, who before the war drove a truck for a wholesale grocery firm in Dublin.

"I put bandages on his face and on his shoulder and held them on very tight. I would say 'nod your head if your shoulder is still bleeding' or 'shake your head if your face is still bleeding' and in that way I worked on him until he was as well off as we could make him."

"Two Focke-Wulfs came up on us all of a sudden," Navigator Spare said, "the first one before I had a chance to see him. Then I heard a crash and knew we had been hit by a 50-millimeter shell. Then the second one came at us. I couldn't get my gun to cover him in time but I held down the trigger and let a stream go in his direction and he went off."

"Patterson did a wonderful job bringing the ship back. The pilot knew enough about what was going on to tell him to bring it in on the proper runway."

It is quite a trick to land a Fortress single-handed because usually the pilot has the co-pilot reading the diminishing altitude out to him every few seconds.

"All Pat said as we were coming down," Williams related, "was: 'Are you sure this is the right field? ... are you sure this is the right field?'"

Patterson brought the ship into a smooth landing. In spite of his injuries the pilot was able to climb out of the ship and walk to a bar.

REVIEWING THE BIG SPRING WEEK

BY JOE PICKLE

In a way, we sort of hate to see sliced bread come back, for butcher knives will be dull again before tomato slicing season really gets here.

The local chapter of the American Red Cross Saturday could look upon a job that had been so well done that receipts were nearly a thousand dollars beyond the $13,500 war fund quota, and likely rise a couple of thousand over. It took a third of the time to raise three times the largest quota we have ever had before. People do respond when they are informed of a need.

Whoever succeeds Col. Sam L. Ellis, who died suddenly Monday afternoon, as commander of the Big Spring Bombardier School will have a doubly exacting job in not only operating the field but in measuring up to the high figure in which not only military but civilian personnel held the late commander. Col. Ellis was the sort of man whose actions built confidence in the army.

Howard county was more than $20,000 over on its bond job in February, but it's going to take some mighty big licks to attain the quota on 11 series alone in March. Which raises this question:

ANTHONY EDEN

Anthony Eden Has Talk With Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Warning that "we've got a long way yet to go" on the road to victory, Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, hastened to get together with President Roosevelt tonight on the vast problems of war and global security.

The president invited Eden for dinner and a talk, the White House announced. Another guest was John G. Winant, the American ambassador to London who has been in this country for several weeks.

This afternoon the British foreign secretary conferred with ministers of the British dominions, Canada, South Africa, New Zealand and Australia following a luncheon with Winant and Lord Halifax, the British ambassador.

His initial meeting with Mr. Roosevelt was arranged after the courtly emissary of the British government told a press conference that the several weeks of talks ahead will cover all aspects of the war and the peace—that military as well as political considerations will receive attention.

Eden indicated that he came direct from Prime Minister Churchill, the military leader of Great Britain as Mr. Roosevelt is commander-in-chief here. He said that he conferred with the prime minister only Wednesday. Eden gave assurances that Mr. Churchill, who has been ill, now is in "top form."

The British foreign secretary made clear that this planning for the post-war world does not mean he anticipates an early end of the war.

"We are beginning to feel our strength and to make the enemy feel it, too," he said, but he added quickly that "setbacks and disappointments" certainly lie ahead and that "the only safe thing is to proceed on the assumption we've a long way to go yet."

Wichita Rejects Legal Beer Sale

WICHITA FALLS, March 13 (AP)—Wichita county voted down the return of legal beer sales by a 45-vote margin in a hotly contested election today.

A total of 4,943 votes were cast against legalizing beer and 4,898 for.

Wichita county went dry last September.

Meat Ration To Be Eased When Situation Permits

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—OPA Chief Prentiss M. Brown promised today that tight ration restrictions on meat will be eased whenever possible while two other developments brightened the food outlook.

1. The Office of Price Administration made it possible for persons living in areas remote from grocery stores to get the canned and dried goods they need. Sheepherders, fishermen, forest rangers, lumbermen and others will be issued ration coupons to cover their requirements.

2. Secretary Ickes put forth a program for expanding the aid given to producers by the bureau of his interior department which, he said, would result in increasing the nation's total supply of certain foods within five years "by an amount sufficient on a calorie basis to feed ten million persons for one year."

Brown said that after meat rationing has been in operation a week or two he expected the supply to spread more evenly among consumers.

NAZIS GAIN IN KHARKOV FIGHTING

Axis Doomed, Yanks Told By Eisenhower

Fighting in Tunisia Is Limited To Patrol Activity

By DANIEL DE LUCE

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, March 13 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has told his troops that German and Italian forces in Tunisia are doomed to be pushed into the sea and eventually destroyed now that three of their efforts to break out of the encircling Allied ring have been smashed.

Actual fighting as reported today in the Allied communique was confined to vigorous patrol activity all along the front and a repetition of smashing Allied aerial blows directed particularly at Tunis and Sousse.

Gen. Eisenhower's order of the day, which was released for publication today, was dated March 9. The communique said Eighth army lines remained unchanged, and an 11-day tour of the battlefield which I have just concluded left the impression that the Allies are faced with a tremendous task in ejecting the axis from North Africa. Veteran fighting men at the front speak of it as a job that will take months, not weeks.

Heavy and medium U. S. bombers gave the docks and railway yards at Sousse, 45 miles south of Tunis, and the road junction of Enfidaville, 25 miles north of Sousse, a fiery bath of explosives yesterday, the communique disclosed.

Then last night RAF Wellingtons showered the docks of Tunis with two-ton blockbusters which left the warehouse district a pattern of flames.

Scouring the Sicilian straits for axis convoys, Mitchell medium bombers escorted by Lightning fighters fell upon a flotilla of barges crammed with war equipment and sent three of them to the bottom. They damaged a number of others and shot down two Italian three-motored bombers as well.

And, just as he had planned it, the passing of the 75-year-old banker brought no upheaval in Wall Street and no shakeup in the House of Morgan, the institution through which he had carried out some of the largest transactions of this, or any other, century.

Morgan for three days had been in a coma induced by the recurrence of an old heart ailment, coronary thrombosis, and contributing complications.

The tall, heavyset financier lay in cottage on the grounds of the Gasparrilla Inn in this island, to which he had come Feb. 25 to fish. There was no excitement in this exclusive resort when Dr. H. S. Patterson, the banker's personal physician, announced the death.

The quiet-spoken banker would have liked that, because he always avoided publicity.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday at St. George's Episcopal church in New York.

In 1940 the House of Morgan started making preparations for carrying on after the chief's death. The firm took out papers of incorporation to replace the partnership arrangement which had existed so long under the first J. Pierpont Morgan and, after his death 50 years ago, under the Junior Morgan.

Associates explained the change was made because otherwise it would have been difficult for the institution to keep its capital intact.

The financial markets took Morgan's death in stride today, stocks and bonds showing none of the reaction which might have resulted without careful forethought. Great Britain never forgot that it was Morgan who in 1915 formed a syndicate of 2,200 banks to handle a $500,000,000 loan to the Allied governments, then hard pressed for funds with which to carry on the first World war.

He was known too as a product of an era of rugged individualism, who nevertheless managed to keep his firm operating smoothly during the days of the post-war depression and the period when government stepped in to take more and more control of business.

War Spending At 253 Million A Day

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—War spending hit a new high rate of $253,400,000 a day in February, the War Production Board reported today.

The total expenditures for war purposes in the month were $6,081,000,000, which was 2.8 per cent less than the amount disbursed in the longer month of January but two and one-half times the outlay of February 1942.

Allied Airmen Hit Jap Convoy Off Guinea Coast

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Sunday, March 14 (AP)—A convoy of eight Japanese ships near Wewak, New Guinea, has been bombed by Allied planes and a transport and cargo ship have been hit, the high command announced today.

The enemy convoy consisted of three destroyers and five merchant ships covered by Japanese fighter planes, and was discovered shortly after noon yesterday by an Allied reconnaissance craft as it was nearing Wewak in northern New Guinea.

Allied bombers reached the scene near dusk, scoring "a direct hit on an 8,000-ton transport which was left in flames, and another direct hit and near hit on a 4,000-ton cargo ship," the communique said.

Despite bad weather and hampering distances, it added, Allied airmen are endeavoring to continue their attack in an effort to wipe out the convoy.

Wewak is 370 miles north of the Allied base of Port Moresby on the southern side of New Guinea.

A 22-ship Japanese convoy was wiped out recently in the Bismarck Sea far to the southeast of Wewak. The Japanese also lost approximately 15,000 troops and scores of airplanes in that three-day running battle.

Aside from the action of Wewak yesterday Allied airmen were again active over a wide area, attacking a medium cargo ship at Raaf Bay in the northwestern sector of Dutch New Guinea with unbroken results in the Salamaua area, and attacking airdromes and installations at two points in New Britain.

The strafing of Japanese positions in the Mubo area below Salamaua has resulted in the killing of 237 more Japanese, the communique said. Allied ground patrols have been active in the Salamaua area, and attacking airdromes and installations at two points in New Britain.

HUNDREDS OF TANKS, THOUSANDS OF MEN THROWN INTO LINES

LONDON, Sunday, March 14 (AP)—German troops gained fresh ground in the flaming fight for Kharkov a midnight Moscow bulletin announced today, and Russian field dispatches frankly termed the situation "serious" as the Nazis threw hundreds of tanks and thousands of infantrymen into an assault on three sides of the Ukraine citadel.

The German high command declared that Elite SS guardsmen had "shattered enemy resistance" and advanced to the main railway station, but did not claim the recapture of the city where it said a violent street struggle still was going on.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio said occupation was "almost complete," with the Red army defenders falling back slowly but steadily.

The Moscow bulletin recorded by the Soviet monitor said the Russians had absorbed heavy counterattacks on the north and south sides, but acknowledged another withdrawal "to new positions" in the west where it said "large enemy tank and infantry forces succeeded, after repeated attacks and at the cost of severe losses, in pressing back our troops."

"Taking up new positions, our forces withstood the onslaught of the enemy's numerically superior forces, repelling the Hitlerite attacks and causing them enormous losses."

Heavy fighting raged also north of the city, this communique said, and to the south the Germans were said to have thrown dozens of tanks against the Soviet lines without breaking them.

"After losing 10 tanks and about 500 officers and men, the Hitlerites fell back to their initial positions," it said of that sector.

The Russians officially have acknowledged four withdrawals in the last two days.

Squadron after squadron of German planes were reported to have further devastated Kharkov's central section—already heavily damaged by two previous assaults for the city.

The Russian army newspaper Red Star termed this aerial attack a non-stop affair, and also said that in some narrow sectors the Germans buried as many as 150 tanks against the Red army lines. In one case, it said, Russian cavalrymen had to pit themselves against tanks, destroying 15 of them.

The Soviet German comeback in the Kharkov area extended on a line running southeast into the Donets Basin, and the midnight bulletin said six German tanks were wrecked and 200 Germans slain in the repulse of numerous tank attacks in the Izyum sector, 75 miles southeast of the Ukraine steel city.

On the central front, however, the Russians were advancing steadily upon Smolensk, 230 miles west of Moscow, in an offensive which might do much to nullify a recapture of Kharkov by the Germans.

The latest Russian communique said the Germans were offering stubborn resistance, but were being flung back. Four hundred Germans were killed in one battle; prisoners were taken, and six guns, 27 machine-guns, nine trench mortars and a large quantity of ammunition captured, it was said.

Employment Should Level Off By Fall

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Word from Donald M. Nelson that war production will reach its peak next fall, slackening the demand for workers, was studied hopefully today by senators concerned over the manpower problem.

The War Production Board chairman told a senate appropriations sub-committee, it developed today, that attainment of the production peak not only will level off the calls for workers but will reduce employment somewhat because of great efficiency.

Moreover Senator Hayden (D-Aris) hinted in questioning Nelson that the committee has received some assurance that the operation goal of 8,500,000 men for the end of the year will not be boosted further, although Lieut. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, testified that military leaders "have not yet determined the size of the army we will ask for in 1944."

Hayden said the committee had been told that 70 per cent of the men who have left the farms had gone into industry and only 30 per cent into the armed forces.

Texans Tapering Off From Record Buying Spree

DALLAS, March 15 (AP)—Texas is tapering off from probably the most hectic buying spree in its history.

In 20 Texas department stores reporting to the federal reserve bank here sales were up 68 per cent for the four weeks ending March 6 compared with the like period of 1941.

An executive of a large store here, where dollar sales were up 71 per cent for the period, said he couldn't remember a comparable rush of customers to buy. The flurry started snow-balling in February. This source, which asked not to be named, attributed it to "the fear and panic" generated when shoe rationing was imminent.

Now that panic buying is subsiding, he said, and the reserve bank's figures so indicate.

The statistics showed: percentage change in department store sales for the four weeks ending Jan. 30 the rise was 22 per cent over the same period of 1941; for like periods ending the first week in February, the rise was 28 per cent; for the second week, 47; third week 58, and fourth week, 70 per cent. The drop is noted in the 68 per cent figure for four weeks ending March 6.

The bank amplified these with figures showing how the public sharply increased its purchases in February. For four weeks ending Jan. 30 the rise was 22 per cent over the same period of 1941; for like periods ending the first week in February, the rise was 28 per cent; for the second week, 47; third week 58, and fourth week, 70 per cent. The drop is noted in the 68 per cent figure for four weeks ending March 6.

Waste Results In Loss Of Social Security Card

"Every time an American worker loses, destroys, or mutilates his social security account card, he is wasting as much money as it costs to provide 13 bullets to an American soldier," Elliott W. Adams, manager of the Big Spring Social Security Board field office said. He asked that holders of social security cards safeguard them as a wartime conservation measure.

Nearly 2,000,000 duplicate account cards were issued by the Social Board in the last 12 months, Adams said. They were issued to persons who had lost or destroyed the ones originally given them.

"The money spent for printing, processing, and mailing the 2,000,000 duplicate account cards could have purchased more than 300 jeeps for the Army, or 25,000,000 rounds of ammunition," Adams said. To illustrate the wastefulness of failure to safeguard the original cards, "If taken care of properly," he added, "the social security cards will last a lifetime," and gave the following tips:

"Don't carry your card with you unless you must. Put it in a drawer, safe, or other place where you keep valuable documents. Know where the card is. Before putting it away, place it in an envelope and mark it: 'My social security card.' Then you will be able to find it in a hurry, if necessary.

"If you change jobs frequently, and need to carry your card with you, don't just stuff it in a pocket. Try to protect it against loss, wear, or mutilation. Never keep your card in your overall or shirt pockets. Many losses occur because the shirt or the overalls—together with the card—are tossed into the laundry tub."

Boycott On Jail

PORTLAND, Ore.—Sixteen city jail prisoners told Judge J. J. Quillin—who released them to take war jobs—that they wouldn't be back.

"Jail ain't what it used to be," they complained. "It's too crowded for comfort."

Little Moisture During February

February went down in weather history here as among the driest on record and kept in force a not-too-unusual winter drought.

Precipitation totals released by the U. S. department of commerce weather bureau showed the month produced only .08 of moisture. This was no local condition, either, for Soil Conservation Service gauges scattered over the area had a similar experience. Those at the Currie ranch on the central Martin-Howard line, the Brunson ranch in northern Glasscock, the Pierce place near Ackerly and the Earl Hull farm near R-Bar had nothing at all. The Wolcott ranch recording gauge noted .06, but SCS men said this likely was produced from effects of a sharp sandstorm.

The month showed a substantially higher mean temperature, being 51.1 degrees as compared with 47.8 and 47.3 the two preceding years, but there was less sharp variation. Eight days were freezing or below while there were only seven where the minimum was 40 or above. Seven days produced what is recorded as high winds and four of these cooked up pretty fair sandstorms. Army pilots found the going good with 15 clear days, 11 partly cloudy and only two cloudy.

Baseball Players, Diamond Cutters, Fishing Guides In New Cadet Class

There is variety in the newest of bombardier classes at Big Spring Bombarrier School. Professional baseball players, diamond cutters, fishing guides, radio announcers, tropical plantation workers and "amiable fellows" all reported for duty with class 43-B. New York again led the other states in the number of representatives while Illinois and Texas fought for second position. Colorado and Ohio likewise ranked high in the number of representatives.

But it was on the matter of civilian professions that the greatest variety was found. There is Vincent Palumbo, Midfield, Mass., who will be tossing strikes at Hitler soon instead of opposing batsmen. He was a pitcher, belonged to the Boston Braves.

Donald R. Ross, Curtis, Neb., was a worker on a tropical fruit plantation in Guatemala, Central America. Leonard Rosen, New York, N. Y., was a diamond-cutter. Herbert C. McKee, Freeport, Ohio, was an assistant at Ohio State while Jerry E. Brian, Rexbury, Idaho, was a fishing guide and Gustav E. Johnson, Brockton, Mass., a sailor on yachting boats.

Many of the men have other members of their family in the services. Remy Bourque, Opequas, La., has three brothers and a sister in the armed services. One brother is in Africa, the sister is in WAACs. M. E. Glass, Jr., may soon be saluted by his father who is a private at Scott Field.

There were many writers and radio men in the class. Ramiro, Calderon, Nuevo, Laredo, Mexico, made an announcement at the Laredo station. George L. Amberg was a writer for KROD in El Paso. Newspapersmen in the class are Michael Robba, Pittsburg, and Francis E. Boyd, Mertson, Texas. Bernard G. Keough, Pipe Bluff, Ark., was a free lance writer in civilian life.

One cadet listed just one special talent. Modesty Nell C. Allen, Lincoln, Neb., noted that he is an "amiable fellow."

Bernard Van Hefte is first tenor, Shelby Stewart second tenor, William Conroy baritone, and Walter Hardwick, bass. Harry Pussey is pianist and accompanist.

Male Chorus Here Tuesday

The Master Singers, noted male ensemble, will appear before the high school student body Tuesday in another of the series of musical and other entertainments made available through the schools here. The unit is under the direction of Walter Hardwick of Chicago. He has developed a varied repertoire from the libraries of male choral literature, and outstanding compositions have been chosen and arranged for the appearance in Big Spring.

According to the program, the songs will be from Friml's "Donkey Serenade" to Hummel's "Who Built de Ark?", and from Rachmaninoff to Cole Porter. There will be stirring songs from the opera and whistling tunes from light opera and popular musical comedy tunes.

Solos, ensembles and sparkling piano interludes will be woven into the program, which the public is eligible to attend the same as students.

Bernard Van Hefte is first tenor, Shelby Stewart second tenor, William Conroy baritone, and Walter Hardwick, bass. Harry Pussey is pianist and accompanist.

Paint is now being packed in specially-treated paper containers, because of the metal shortage.

They Work At New Fields This Year

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Spring training for ten of the 16 major league baseball clubs will start Monday.

The lineups of every club have been riddled by cuts to military service and to essential war work.

The teams getting under way tomorrow and their training sites are: Cardinals at Cairo, Ill.; Reds at Bloomington, Ind.; Tigers at Evansville, Ind.; Browns at Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Giants at Lakewood, N. J.; Dodgers at Bear Mountain, N. Y.; Yankees (batterymen only) at Asbury Park, N. J.; Phils at Hershey, Pa.; Senators at College Park, Md., and Indians at Lafayette, Ind.

Other clubs will start in this order: March 15—White Sox at French Lick, Ind., and Pirates at Muncie, Ind.; March 20—Athletics (batterymen only) at Wilmington, Del.; March 21—Cubs at French Lick, Ind.; March 22—Braves at Wallingford, Conn., and Red Sox at Medford, Mass.

Most of the clubs will spend only two or three weeks at these bases and face the prospect of curtailed workouts subject to the vagaries of the weather in the area north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers to which the major leagues have limited themselves.

The clubs are going to camp with 25 or 30 players instead of the 40 they used to take and some of the gaps in the rosters are of awesome size.

The world champion St. Louis Cardinals have to fill vacancies left by pitcher Johnny Beasley, their world series star, and by outfielders Enos (Country) Slaughter and Terry Moore. The New York Yankees, American league pennant winners, must replace outfielders Joe DiMaggio and Tom Henrich, infielders Buddy Hassett, Red Rolfe and Phil Rizzuto, and pitcher Red Ruffing.

The Boston Red Sox must look to the future without outfielders Ted Williams, Dom DiMaggio and Lou Pinney and infielder Johnny Pesky.

Other clubs have been hit equally as hard right down the line and some of them have situations complicated by other factors.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, for instance, have seen outfielder Pete Reiser and infielder Peeves Reese enter the army and are not certain whether outfielder Dixie Walker, a recreation director for a war plant, will play ball.

The New York Giants have lost first baseman Johnny Mize, and catcher Harry Danning has been reclassified 1A in the draft.

The Cardinals and Yankees appear likely to reach the inaugural games next month again favored for the titles, but naturally there is no way to predict which of their important players may be called to service during the season.

Arky Vaughan Says He Will Report

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Arky Vaughan, veteran infielder, today notified President Branch Rickey of the Brooklyn Dodgers that he had arranged his farm affairs in California and would report at the club's Bear Mountain training camp early in April.

He will make the trip east with first baseman Dolph Camilli, another California farmer.

Girardeau Quint Annexes Title In K. C. Tournament

KANSAS CITY, March 13 (AP)—Jack Behrens' long one-handed shot gave Cape Girardeau Teachers a thrilling 94-83 victory over Maryville, Mo., Teachers in the championship finals of the National Intercollegiate basketball tournament here tonight.

There were only six seconds remaining when Behrens aimed, fired and swished the ball through the net for the points that brought the MIAA title holders the tournament championship.

Maryville's Ed Johnson frantically heaved the ball to a teammate from out-of-bounds but the game ended before the Bears could attempt a shot.

Hitch-Hiking Soldier Cops Spotlight In Laredo Meet Aggies, Paced By Henderson, Are Winners

LAREDO, March 13 (AP)—Howard Pope's first and last love, in the athletic world is track and field.

He'll hitch-hike his way over countless miles to compete despite the fact that his hip slips out of place nearly every time he runs or jumps.

Howard just gets somebody to pull the hip back and he's ready when his next event rolls around.

Pope, now a physical instructor in the army air force at Columbus, Miss., came here last night for the seventh annual Border Olympics.

He hitch-hiked his way from Fort Worth after his plane was grounded and got here in time to win high point honors of the night.

Howard competed for Texas Christian university last year. He finished out his string by winning some points in the Southwest conference meet between hip-pulling stunts. Before that he had hitch-hiked to Laredo to compete in the Border Olympics.

Back again via the thumb route Pope hung up 15 points last night in the olympics, showing the way in the military division where his winning included first place in the 100-yard and 50-yard dashes.

His total total was the best of any individual of the meet. Hondo Hurricane to a Sugar Bowl bid and earned him the spot as the Missouri Valley conference's best all-around athlete in an AP Features' poll, is a member of the basketball team.

TULSA, Okla.—Glenn Dobbs, the University of Tulsa's all-American fullback, admitted it with some hesitation—he would rather play baseball.

And the six-foot, four-inch Dobbs hopes to get a chance to covart in the outfield of some minor league team this season.

He worked out with the Tulsa Oilers last summer as a means of getting in shape for the football season. He has played sandlot ball and fancied himself as a shortstop. But Oiler officials said that because of his size, speed, and potential hitting ability, he's a better outfield prospect.

Dobbs is a member of the Army Air Force reserve and will be graduated this spring. If he isn't called up for service, he plans to try baseball—if there is any baseball. He has little hope that he still will be in civilian life by the time football season rolls around again. But if he is, he should rank up near the No. 1 position in the pro league draft.

"As for the air force, when I get called, I'm going to try to make the grade as a pilot for one of those two-engine bombers," he said.

A blond, blue-eyed quiet fellow, he has been married a little over a year. His attractive wife, June, works for an oil company. For Dobbs, school and marriage was a good mixture, he says.

They live near the campus. Both like to read, and a movie or two usually is on the weekly schedule.

Dobbs, whose passing and kicking sparked the Tulsa Golden Hurricane to a Sugar Bowl bid and earned him the spot as the Missouri Valley conference's best all-around athlete in an AP Features' poll, is a member of the basketball team.

He also has filled in on the golf team, shooting in the high 70s. Before coming to college he went in for swimming and tennis, but spring football practice has since kept him out of those sports competitions.

Dixon Captures Columbian Mile

NEW YORK, March 13 (AP)—Frank Dixon, national mile champion from New York university, won the season's "rubber" meeting of the middle-distance hot-shots tonight by coming home four yards in front in the Columbian Mile, feature of the 34th annual Knights of Columbus track meet in Madison Square Garden.

Dixon challenged when he was ready, took over about as he pleased, and "kicked" home to the wire in 4 minutes, 2.8 seconds, duplicating his time in the national championships two weeks ago.

AAU Trophy Might Go To College Team

DENVER, March 13 (AP)—Why shouldn't this be a good year for a college team to win the National A. A. U. basketball title?

On college entry, Wyoming, has dropped only one contest in 24 this season and holds two one-point wins over the strong Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla.

The collegiate Cowboys are co-favored with powerful, independent Twentieth Century-Fox of Hollywood to win the 39-team race which opens tomorrow and ends next Saturday night.

Only one man of last year's championship Denver American Legion squad, Ace Gruenig, is wearing the Legion uniform this year. The rest of the 1943 Legion players are Colorado University men, who practiced this season but didn't play a schedule because the navy is using their fieldhouse as a barracks.

Two 1942 legionnaires, Bob Marsh and Art Unger, are playing for Dow Chemical of Midland, Mich. this year, and the other Legion player—Coach Jack McCracken, is playing-coach of the Phillips Oilers.

Tourney officials seeded these teams today: Upper bracket—Denver Legion; Fort Lewis, Wash., Reception Center; Wichita, Kas., Cesna Aircraft, and Wyoming.

Lower bracket—Hollywood Twentieth Century-Fox; Alameda, Calif., Coast Guard; Midland, Mich., Dow Chemical, and Bartlesville, Okla., Oilers.

Tomorrow's schedule: (Central War Time) 3 P. M.—Fort Collins, Colo., Poudre Valley vs. Colorado Springs Airbase.

4:30—Greeley, Colo., Lions vs. Colorado Springs Martin Jewelers. 6:00—Denver American Beauty vs. Midland, Mich., Dow Chemical. 7:30—Fort Wayne, Ind., Eagles vs. Norman, Okla., Airbase.

NEW ORLEANS, March 13 (AP)—Riverland, the big black gelding which conquered both Alasab and Whirlaway last fall in less than a week, returned to top form here today with a victory over four of the best thoroughbreds at the fair grounds in a mile and a sixteenth $5,000 handicap.

Valinda Orphan from Emerson Woodward's string was second and C. S. Howard's Midland finished third followed by Marriage and Midland's stable mate, Porter's Cap.

The winner covered the distance in 1:44 just a fifth of a second above the track record, and paid $5.80 for each $2 win ticket.

COAST TITLE SEATTLE, March 13 (AP)—The University of Washington won the Pacific Coast conference basketball championship tonight, winning 53 to 45 over the University of Southern California for the second straight night.

Men In Girl Scouting

In Oklahoma a state committee of men has taken upon itself the job of finding women to lead Girl Scout troops, and sponsors meetings at which leaders' groups are organized. The men, whose names comprise a virtual Who's Who in Oklahoma, work in cooperation with the regular Girl Scout women's committees.

Anniversary Opens Campaign For More Girl Scout Leaders

Girl Scouts of the United States are celebrating their 31st anniversary, which actually was Friday, by opening a nation-wide campaign for more troop leaders. Mrs. Boyd McDaniel, commissioner, announced Saturday.

The campaign will be the first step in the Girl Scout program of expansion to "A Million or More by '44." Additional leaders, committee members and other adult volunteers are needed to organize troops to take care of the thousands of girls who are asking for Girl Scout training. According to Mrs. McDaniel, government officials and students of child psychology in wartime have urged the Girl Scout organization to expand its services to reach as many girls as possible.

March 12, the day the campaign began, is the anniversary of the day on which Juliette Low organized the first Girl Scout troop in Savannah, Ga., thirty-one years ago. It is the first time in the history of the organization that the birthday has been used to open a campaign of any kind.

Mrs. Low, who was the first Girl Scout leader as well as the founder of the movement in the United States, became interested in the Scout program through her friendship with the late Lord Robert Baden-Powell, originator of Scouting for both boys and girls. On her return to her home in Savannah from England she began her campaign to bring Scouting to the girls of America by telephoning her friend, Miss Nina Pape, headmistress of a girl's school, saying "Come right over. I've got something for the girls of Savannah, and all America, and all the world, and we're going to start it tonight."

Miss Pape came, helped make plans and three days later the first Girl Scout troop was organized. From then on the Girl Scout movement spread rapidly. In 1927, when Mrs. Low died, membership had reached 157,525. Today there are nearly 600,000 girls, and more than 140,000 adults enrolled as troop leaders, assistant leaders, consultants and members of councils or committees. For some time the waiting list of would-be Girl Scouts has been outgrowing the number of available adult volunteer leaders. Since Pearl Harbor this situation has become even more acute, with thousands of girls writing to councils, national headquarters, The American Girl magazine, and individual leaders asking to be admitted to the Girl Scout program of training and war activities. The leadership campaign is the result of this increased demand, Mrs. McDaniel stated.

Girl Scouts and Child Care Child care is generally recognized as an essential war activity—and by none more keenly than the Girl Scouts. In 1943 the number of Girl Scouts who completed training entitling them to child care badges was up 100 percent over 1941. Health and safety, which includes child care, proved to be the year's most popular field of interest. Nearly 125,000 Girl Scouts earned health and safety badges.

Biggest Need In Girl Scout Program: More Leadership

Leadership is one of the major problems for Girl Scouts in Big Spring and this week an intensive effort is to be made to interest adults in volunteering their services for places of responsibility.

Girl Program Put Before The Public

Observance of the 31st anniversary of the Girl Scouts of the United States is being seized upon here as an opportunity to acquaint the public with the movement.

First and one of the outstanding moves in this direction was the Court of Awards program held Friday evening at the high school gymnasium and in which participated more than 150 Girl Scouts and several leaders.

Those attending witnessed in pageant, in demonstrations and pledges the objectives of the Girl Scout program, and heard an inspirational talk concerning the work.

During the week those who shop downtown will be reminded of the work Girl Scouts are doing by means of window displays being arranged by the various troops of the city.

Moreover, service club members are due to give space on their luncheon programs to Girl Scouts who will briefly outline the purposes of their organization.

Although there are approximately 150 active members of the movement in Big Spring, it can be accounted less than a year old for practical purposes. Thus, the public is not generally informed as to what it offers girls from seven through 18 and thus what it contributes to the making of the community.

Adult Council Directs Work Of Girls

Girl Scout activities in Big Spring are headed up by a council of adults, most of whom are assigned to supervise specific activities.

Heading the council is Mrs. Boyd McDaniel, commissioner for the Big Spring area. Dan Conley is deputy commissioner and Mrs. Virginia Swarzenbach is secretary. Registration is directed by Mrs. Imogene Lloyd and Mrs. Louise Conley is treasurer.

Mrs. Jean Whittington is to be program chairman and will select her committee later. Heading the task of organization is Mrs. Alan E. Partridge, who has Mrs. Warren Edson as one of her committee members. Horace Reagan is chairman of camping, Lawrence Robinson of finance, and Mrs. Mildred Orme of public relations. Boyd McDaniel and Dr. J. E. Hogan are serving on the council in an advisory capacity.

Matters pertaining to policy and to general supervision of the major activities of the program in Big Spring are to be handled by the council.

Only A Third Of Girls Now Are Reached

At the best, the Girl Scout program in Big Spring is reaching about one out of three girls who would like to be included in the movement.

This is the conclusion to be drawn from a survey made by Mrs. A. E. Partridge, in charge of organization, in visiting the various schools last week.

The survey went only to the eighth grade and made no attempt to check girls of age levels calculated to make them eligible for the senior Girl Scout program.

On the days Mrs. Partridge made the survey, there were 93 girls in the various schools who were Girl Scouts and there were 41 others who were Brownies, or 134 in all. But when she raised this question, "How many who are not now members would like to be Girl Scouts or Brownies?" she got a real response. There were 108 who said they would like to be Brownies and 133 who wanted to be Girl Scouts.

The load was particularly heavy in some schools, and in some areas there were enough for new troops, provided they could get sponsors and adequate backing to insure the girls uniforms, etc. East Ward had 27 who wanted to be Brownies and 19 who wanted to be Girl Scouts. West Ward had 17 who wanted to be Brownies and 28 who wanted to be Girl Scouts.

Other returns showed these girls wanting in the Brownies and Girl Scout units, respectively: Central Ward 22 and 11; North Ward, 13 and 18; College Heights 26 and 11. South Ward had three who wanted to be Brownies. The eighth grade had 25 who wanted in the Girl Scout level.

Presbyterian Troop No. 1 In The City

To the group of Girl Scouts sponsored by the First Presbyterian church goes the honor of being troop No. 1 in Big Spring, and members have made an effort to maintain a rating in keeping with its number.

During the year Girl Scouts in the troop have learned their scout laws and promises, have studied in 10 other special fields of work, have studied for the Nature, Star Finder, Home Nursing, and Folk Dancing badges.

During the campaign to collect waste fats and hosiery, troop members took part with their wagons and pails. Moreover, they also assisted in distributing literature for the metal salvage campaign.

Assistance to the Red Cross was given by packing overseas kits or "ditty bags." In addition, the troop had its fun with several parties and picnics.

On the troop committee are Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Porter, Mrs. and Mrs. E. C. Bostler, and Mrs. A. E. Brown. Mrs. Roland Swarzenbach was originally leader of the troop and Mrs. H. H. Rutherford is now leader of the troop—which carries the name of Bluebonnet.

Members are Rosalya Beale, Joan Beene, Joyce Beene, Dorothy Ann Bishop, Bonnie Jean Byers, Marilyn Cormack, Coris Guess.

Additional Funds Sought To Expand Girl Scout Program

One of the immediate objectives of the Girl Scout movement in Texas is to provide a skeleton for a professional service which may be the means of furnishing more supervision to the program within the state. Typical of their readiness to respond to a need, leaders in the West Texas district, headed by Shine Phillips, Big Spring, have accepted a basic quota of $4,000 for the West Texas district. This is the area's share of a $60,000 fund to finance field workers in each of the eight districts of the state for a two-year period.

In addition, some councils are accepting more than their county quotas as a financial responsibility, and in Big Spring there is a definite objective of not only meeting the Howard county portion of the West Texas quota, but also of raising a sufficient amount to put on a Girl Scout executive in Big Spring.

The West Texas district is composed of 29 counties including Cochran, Hookley, Lubbock, Crosby, Dickens, King, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Stone, Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Scurry, Fisher, Jones, Andrews, Martin, Howard, Mitchell, Nolan, Taylor, Winkler, Ector, Midland, Glasscock and Sterling.

Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, Wink, Abilene, Merkel, Hamlin, Anson, Lambesa, Brownfield, Tahoka, Levelland, Lubbock, and Ralls are cities which maintain Girl Scout councils or Girl Scout troops.

Latest figures place the number of girl scouts in the four counties (Big Spring, Midland, Odessa and Lubbock), which are really active at 662 with an additional 339 in lone troops in the other cities mentioned. This is 1,001 Girl Scouts in the district, but the potential Girl Scout crop is 15,095 for the area.

Representatives of several of the counties were here March 3 for a district conference, and Horace Reagan, secretary-treasurer, announced that a second meeting would be called for April 30 by Phillips, district chairman, to check up on fund drives toward the district quota.

Meanwhile, the appeal for support in Big Spring is due to be headed by Lawrence Robinson, finance chairman for the local council and president of the Lions club, which has taken a leading part in the support of the movement.

Girls Mobilized For Any Aid In War Program

Girl Scouts are helping with several jobs of gathering up things needed for the war program and for maintaining morale.

Soon they are due to canvass the city in behalf of the Red Cross for all available clean, white rags. Several troops have been assisting the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary by collecting magazines, which are distributed by the VFW women to men on troop trains. They also have aided the VFW vital metals drive by collecting old keys.

Another job which Girl Scouts have agreed to undertake is the collection of trouser clips from various stores and cleaning shops. Under OPA regulations, trousers may not be sold with cuffs, and consequently most sales or alterations involve the clipping of a quantity from the bottom of the trouser leg. This material is used in making windbreakers that keep soldiers and sailors warm.

Well-Rounded Program Of Activity Is Followed By Red Robin Troop

From the moment of organization the Red Robin Girl Scout troop has lost no time in engaging in a program of well rounded activities.

For one thing, they voted to spend much time out of doors, and began working on the Foot Traveler's Badge, which requires walking 100 miles. Now some girls have about half of these. To meet another requisite of the badge, they had Jake Morgan, a Boy Scout scoutmaster and first aid instructor, help them with first aid for use on hikes.

During the summer, they engaged in swimming lessons under Fred Mitchell with many learning to swim and those who already could swim placed in advanced classes for different strokes and for diving instruction. Missy Brunson earned the Swimmer's badge.

Among other badges earned by the girls are insect finder, junior citizen, drawing and painting by Jean Pearce; hostess, Norma Jean Conley; hostess horsewoman, Mary Gerald Robbins; cook, scribe, drawing and painting; Lera Joyce Hale; hostess, Joan Pickle.

Stoney Henry gave the girls instruction in knot-tying so they were able to "tie knots just like a boy." The troop moreover has gone on many hikes, has learned how to build and care for a fire, how to carry canteens, first aid kits and Girl Scout knives.

Taking part in the war effort, the Robins assisted in collecting scrap metal, fats, silk hoses. They also donated money to the national fund for aiding Girl Scouts and families on the coasts in event of bombing or other war emergencies. The girls also assisted sector Air Raids warden in making house to house canvass for volunteer meat rationing pledges.

Currently they are working on scrapbooks for jokes and crossword puzzles to be used at the local USO.

Leader is Mrs. Wayne Pearce with Mrs. C. S. Edmonds, Jr., assisting. In the troop are Norma Jean Conley, Jean Pearce, Mary Gerald Robbins, Lera Joyce Hale, Joan Pickle, Evelyn Wright, Lindel Gross, Mattie Jean Queen, Patsy Ann Young, Viva Jean Apple, Diane Allen. Patsy Ann Young and Viva Jean Apple are two who have flown up from the Brownie Pack. Diane Allen has recently moved here from Springfield, Ill., and Missy Brunson, Helen Rutledge and Charlene Graves have moved away.

Girl Scout Birthday March 12 is celebrated every year by the Girl Scouts as the anniversary of the day on which Juliette Low organized the first Girl Scout troop, in Savannah, Ga., in 1912.

Clover Troop Is One Of Strongest Units Operating In Big Spring

One of the first to organize, the Clover troop (No. 6) of Girl Scouts also has the distinction of having engaged in many endeavors during the year and of being one of the strongest troops operating here now.

It was organized under sponsorship of the XYZ Club on May 1, 1942 with Mrs. Ennon Lovelady as assistant leader. Later Mrs. Vie Blankenship replaced Mrs. Thomas as assistant leader. Bobby Jean Hale, Virginia Hill and Charlotte Williams were elected patrol leaders.

Among outings and social events during the year were a picnic hike to the city park, a ride and swim party at the park, a buffet supper with the Homemaking patrol entertaining the Community Life patrol, a winter roast, a slumber party, Halloween party, a Christmas tree, and a Valentine party.

In the cookie sale, Mamie Jean Meador led with 85 boxes and Bernie Millhollan was second with 62, and 378 boxes sold averaged 12 to the girl. The girls also participated in the metal drive and fat and hosiery collections, and took part in the Field Day.

One of the earliest activities was an invitational to which parents were invited. Work was accomplished on the Flower, Bird and Tree badges. The troop voted to give a meeting each month to Red Cross work, and many members earned first aid badges.

For badge work, one patrol made a bus and train trip to Abilene. The troop earned $2.55 through a rummage sale. The Blue Bird troop voted to combine with the Clovers for the duration. Sponsors aided in the securing of uniforms by raising funds through a dance.

At the election of officers on Oct. 24, Mamie Jean Meador was named president, Clema Helen Potts, scribe, Virginia Hill, treasurer, Charlotte Williams, sergeant-at-arms, and Jane Stripling and Nelah Jo Hill, flag bearers.

Leaders Of Women's Military Units Praise The Girl Scouts

Women high in the councils of the nation and charged with responsibility of directing the four branches of women's military service all give hearty endorsements to the Girl Scouts movement.

Here is what they think of the Girl Scouts:
From the Director of the WAACS:
During all the thirty-one years of its experience the Girl Scout organization has trained girls in the fundamentals of good citizenship, among which the development of sturdy, self-reliant character is of prime importance, and for this work the country has cause to be grateful. Girl Scouts have an awareness of responsibility to community, to country and to themselves. This sense of duty has benefitted the WAAC directly for the former Girl Scouts who have come to our organization with discipline and authority, but in many cases have demonstrated valuable qualities of leadership attributable to their early Girl Scout training.

OVETA CULP HOBBY, Director.
From the Director of the WAVES:
The Navy named its women officers and enlisted personnel WAVES. That means Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service. The Girl Scouts are preparing girls to be the kind of women whose voluntary offer to give service in an emergency can be accepted. The organization thus merits the support of everyone interested in the future supply of recruits for community and government service.

MILDRED H. McAFEE, Lieutenant-Commander.
From the Director of the SPARS:
We, who have the responsibility of training women from all walks of life for wartime service in the SPARS, are deeply grateful to such organizations as the Girl Scouts who have given their members such excellent basic training.

To have Girl Scouts in our ranks is a great help in building up the spirit so every one likes to have, for these girls have been trained from childhood in such essentials as dependability, loyalty, taking orders and executing them efficiently, living and working in and with groups. The many skills they have learned make them confident and resourceful in emergencies. The value of this training in wartime is readily apparent, and your Marine Scout program for older girls provides an excellent background for service with SPARS. I hope many Girl Scouts will join our ranks, and that your organization will continue its fine work for generations to come.

DOROTHY STRATTON, Lieutenant-Commander.
From the Director of the WAFS:
Service in the WAFS has high requirements. Our recruits must be of high caliber, and we are always glad to find former Girl Scouts among them, for we know that they have been trained to meet these requirements. Loyalty, dependability, resourcefulness, efficiency, physical vigor and steadiness in emergencies, are very important in the service. Your new Wing Scout program for Senior Girl Scouts is of especial interest to us, because it will stimulate interest in aviation and will provide valuable training. We are grateful to the Girl Scout organization for the fine job it has done, and we hope will continue to do in the years to come. We'll need these same qualities when peace comes.

NANCY H. LOVE, Senior Squadron Commander.

Collectors—These Big Spring Girl Scouts proved themselves first class collectors when they went in quest of waste fats and old silk and nylon hosiery here in January. In one day they got well over 600 pounds of fat, which was converted into glycerine for explosives, and around 300 pounds of old hose. It was a walking job for they made the city with wagons borrowed from Little brother. Here are some of the girls, left to right, typical of scores who participated: Elizabeth Bond, Norma Jean Conley, Joyce Ann Howard, and Charlene Kelsey. Girl Scouts also participated in the metal salvage drive. (Kelsey Photo).

Community War Projects Find Girl Scouts Working

Exigencies of war are driving people and groups in communities together and out of this way come one of the blessings of the war, Mrs. Boyd McDaniel, Girl Scout commissioner, in Big Spring, believes.
Citing many problems requiring cooperation for solution, Mrs. McDaniel observed:
"The welfare of our children has always been a community problem but in wartime it becomes acute. Families are uprooted and disrupted; war production plants convert small towns into industrial cities overnight, with no provision for recreation or adequate housing; mothers go into war production plants and their children are left un cared for; and juvenile delinquency rises alarmingly. Splendid cooperative work has been done in many communities to meet these and other problems facing youth."
"The national organization of the Girl Scouts has recently made a check of cooperative community projects, and the reports are very heartening. Some splendid results have already been obtained."
"For example, in Bridgeport, an overcrowded defense city, Girl Scouts teamed with Boy Scouts, YMCA and others to provide the "lighted schoolhouse" project to take care of recreational needs in the crowded sections of the city and girls helped to train these leaders."
"In Providence, R. I., the OCD borrowed a page from the Girl Scout service bureau to set up a junior program for recruiting boys and girls for war work. This helped reduce delinquency as well as aiding in solving worker shortages."
"Girl Scouts always have been community-minded and when war

Start Of Girls' Organization Is Linked With That Of Boy Scouts

Both Boy and Girl Scouts have the same beginning—in the mind of Sir Robert Baden-Powell, English nobleman who conceived a program at first to help youths attain self reliance.

Mr. Baden-Powell arrived at a boys program, which he came to call the Boy Scouts. But it was a movement of such a character that it might better have been termed "scouting" for by the time he was holding a Boy Scout rally in London in 1909—two years after his first boys' camp—a few uninvited girls appeared. They wore wide-brimmed hats and khaki shirts and called themselves Girl Scouts.

In October of the same year the Boy Scouts Headquarters Gazette took cognizance of scouting for girls, for it gave in full "The Scheme for Girl Guides." The first girl guide company was organized Oct. 4, 1910 by Miss Agnes Baden-Powell.

Later that year Miss Juliette Low met Lord Baden-Powell and became intensely interested in the program. After absorbing all she could about the new movement and attending several camps, she sailed in 1912 for the United States. In March she invited 24 girls to tea in Savannah, Ga., to talk about scouting for girls and two troops were formed at a meeting in the Louise Porter home at Savannah on March 12.

Three years afterwards, the Brownies came into being, via England where they were called Rosebuds, and thus the program was extended in the United States to younger girls.

Boys have no monopoly on limitless energy in competition against one another, and last year's Field Day for Girl Scouts in Big Spring added further proof to the point. Approximately 200 girls were present for the affair, held last Sept. 25 at the city park.

The Rev. E. L. Kaspar, St. Paul's Lutheran pastor, was master of ceremonies for the day, and Doug Orme served as chief judge for the various events.

One of the most impressive spectacles was the mass pledge of allegiance to the flag, followed by some singing and games, one of them calling for a huge circle formed by the Girl Scouts.

There were competitive games between troops with divisions for Brownies, intermediates and seniors. One event which provoked considerable interest was the making of potato gargoyles.

There was a Court of Awards session in the open with badges being presented to 80 girls. After lunch, the Rev. C. L. Savage, then First Presbyterian pastor, reminded Girl Scouts of their part in the national defense program.

Following a period of swimming and then a sing-song, various troops staged skits, several of them developing the scrap collection theme. One troop formed a big V out of scrap.

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (UP)—A pass-key burglar, apparently intent only on preparing for a long-time hibernation in bed, passed up more valuable articles at the home of Mrs. Dick Edwards, in order to take only 18 pillow cases and 10 towels along with one case of Scotch whisky and one case of Bourbon.

June 1918 brought the movement to such a stage that it was incorporated under the laws of Washington, D. C., and a national council was formed with Mrs. Low as the first president. Membership then was only about 5,000. Today it has grown to 700,000 and leaders have adopted the slogan of "A Million or More by '44."

Serving As They Learn
Girl Scouts, during their 31 years of activity, have made an outstanding record of service — to their homes, their schools, their communities and their nation. This record in itself bespeaks the value of the Girl Scout organization and argues strong for full support from every citizen.
These girls serve while they learn—are serving their country now, in numerous ways on the home front in war time — and are learning the ideals and the practices that will make them better American women of the future.

Local Organization Makes Progress In First Year

Thirty-one years old in the United States, Girl Scouting is less than a year old in Big Spring. The program came to the city once about a decade ago and made some headway only to die out after a few years of struggle. It lay dormant until February of 1942 when Dan Conley, Lions club secretary, wrote to national Girl Scout headquarters in response to inquiries by members of the club. Mae Chrysler, national field representative, happened to be in the area and was instructed to stop in Big Spring. She spent four days here, counseled with Lions club leaders, contacted other service clubs and organized small groups who would serve as leaders.

It was at this point that the Lions auxiliary took over, and enrollment of leadership personnel gained ground rapidly.

In the two months from the time Miss Chrysler was in Big Spring early in March until Lucille Skewes, another national field representative, appeared, the working elements of 10 troops with around 200 membership had been established.

Things were ripe for a leaders training course and Miss Skewes immediately organized a 16-hour program and assisted in the organization of a council to direct Girl Scout activities in Big Spring.

Troops were formally registered with units for the Brownies (younger girls), the intermediates and the seniors. Girls went to work to relieve a financial restriction on the council through means of a cookie sale and disposed of nearly 3,000 boxes.

Soon they were having their field day, then observing Girl Scout week, distributing literature for salvage drives, aiding Red Cross, USO and VFW women in various programs, connected with the war effort, staging a waste fats and silk hosiery collection, and generally having a swell time along with it.

Membership naturally slackened after the initial success, but principal losses were in the senior division where girls were unfamiliar with the program and thus difficult to interest. However, a year after that first inquiry was sent in, the program is definitely on sound footing in Big Spring and on what leaders believe is the threshold of a great expansion.

Collection Of War-Needed Items Credited To Scouts

Two distinct contributions of Girl Scouts in Big Spring to the national war effort have been the collection of waste fats and of old silk and nylon hosiery.

Both were planned and effected exclusively by the Girl Scouts. While the fats collection is in a somewhat dormant stage at the time being, the hosiery collection goes right on.

The campaign started properly with good organization, the senior girls assisting leaders in the zoning of the city for the big drive.

On Jan. 9, members of intermediate and Brownie troops combed the city with little brother's red wagon in tow. In these they had pails and small containers. At each house they insisted on the "meat fryings" regardless how seemingly small an amount. They also picked up what hosiery they could.

By the time the day was over, the beaver-like effort had produced a total of 650 pounds of waste fat, enough to produce the required glycerine for firing many, many rounds of heavy artillery. It also netted troops $32.50.

Hosiery collected that day, together with what has come in since, amounted to more than 300 pounds. Of this amount 180 pounds were shipped to the proper center for various war uses, including making of gun powder bags, and about that much more held in stock here until a sufficient amount is received for new shipment.

This is an impressive record when it is considered that it takes 1,500 pair of silk or 2,300 pair of nylon hose to make a hundred pounds.

Local Girls Make $275 In Local Cookie Sale

Organized but without ample funds on which to operate, Girl Scouts in Big Spring last year at once went to work to remedy their financial plight with a cookie sale. Although this was the first undertaking by the Girl Scouts, they made good on it in a big way. Hardly a household in Big Spring was not visited by young cookie salesmen and some homes carried a supply of Girl Scout cookies for weeks after the campaign was over.

In all, the girls sold 2,850 boxes of cookies and received $275 for them. One girl sold 85 boxes to set a pace for members.

Quotas were established on the basis of 25 boxes per girl and funds thus earned over the quota reverted to the troop. Profits from quota sales went to the council to finance the program in general, but girls did their work so well that they earned a total of $78 which reverted to troops for their individual activities.

Rotary-Sponsored Unit Needs Leader

Minus a leader at present, but still maintaining its identity as a troop is the Girl Scout unit sponsored by the Rotary club.

Here's How Three Ages Are Occupied

Many adults are honestly unfamiliar with the Girl Scout program, with the activities it holds for girls of three age levels, and what it proposes to do.

They have a vague idea that it has something to do with little girls, middle sized girls, and big girls. Indeed it does, and here is how:

Little Girls

Would you like to discover a world in which every one tried to consider the other fellow's rights, and developed her own resourcefulness while working for the common good?

It can happen here. Girl Scout troop meetings and camps are non-sectarian, non-political size democracies; friends are made, self-reliance grows, problems in community citizenship and world understanding are worked out. Each girl has a chance to develop as a person as well as a member of her group through her interest in home making, community life, nature, the out-of-doors, international friendship, dramatics and literature, arts and crafts, music and dancing, health and safety, sports and games.

How do they do this? Brownie Scouts seven-to-ten-year-olds of Girl Scouting, do it their way; learn how little girls live in other lands, elect committees to carry out plans for a mothers' party, share the paste jar, keep yards and meeting places neat, and do hundreds of other interesting things.

Brownies' older sister, Girl Scouts from ten to about fourteen or fifteen years old, enjoy learning about themselves and about governing themselves. With their leaders they plan things to do ranging from camping trips to puppet shows, from cooking a dinner to making an abandoned ravine a pleasant park for the neighborhood, and they accept responsibility for carrying out their plans. They aid in safety and health campaigns, landscape neighborhood yards and vacant lots, give aid to welfare agencies.

Girl Scouts, as they become Senior Girl Scouts, do things in a more adult way. They are interested in the business of growing up—becoming attractive people, discovering a job, making a home, acting as intelligent citizens. They care for children while mothers vote, plan and construct model homes, hold discussions of jobs and current events.

Like all Girl Scouts they are developing some of the poise and wisdom that will be needed if they are to help build a saner, friendlier world. And, like all Girl Scouts, they are having such an interesting time that other girls want to be Scouts, too, and able leaders are constantly needed to supply the demand.

Against Rome Bombing
LOS ANGELES (UP) — Dr. Gabino A. Palmera, director of the University of Mexico, has written the University of California warning of the deplorable impression that would be caused in Latin America by the bombing of Rome. "The bombardment of Rome," he states, "would not only galvanize the will of Italy against those who would attack the capital of their country, but would create great resentment among all the Catholics in the world."

Nylon Collection Is Continuous

Collection of silk and nylon hosiery, to be used in the war effort, is a continuous process in Big Spring, thanks to the Girl Scouts.

Although they have collected better than 300 pounds of the material—which would be the equivalent of more than 2,000 pairs of silk hose and 2,300 pair of nylon ones or 5,300 pair in all — Girl Scouts have placed boxes in most Big Spring stores and attached signs so that women may know that here is where they can deposit their old hose.

Each troop is responsible for certain boxes and for seeing that the collection is made regularly from them. Material is used by the army and navy for many purposes and is accounted a vital salvage item.

Key Found, Lock Gone

INDIANAPOLIS — The absent-minded tourist who forgot to turn in his key when he checked out of the Bates House here—at some time between 1922 and 1931—has finally come across 43 years too late.

The key was to room 268, has just arrived in the mail, but the Bates House was torn down in 1902. The postman delivered the key to the hotel which now occupies the site.

The Girl Scout is helping to do her share of war time work.

This organization is to be commended ... it is deserving of support.

Miss Laneous Notes

MARY WEALEY

The little boy came hurtling down the sidewalk roller skating with the dash that only a small boy can manage and it made us want to throw away our grown up dignity and join him.

In days past we used to be "champeen" of the neighborhood except for the bigger boys who were more a dare devil than we. But we won our spurs to the extent that the big boys let us join in their roller skating games. This was a hard concession of letting a "girl" play with the boys.

We had a wonderful hill, not far from home, where we could start at the top and go for blocks without a stop. We posted guards at each busy intersection to warn us of city traffic. Surprisingly nobody ever got hurt.

Coming back up the hill was a complicated process of hitching a ride on the cars stopped for traffic signals. When we learned to "hook on" so the driver didn't know we were allowed to join the boys in such gymnastics as playing hockey on skates with tin cans for a ball.

Mother tried hard to dress us like a little lady but after a few such excursions, she gave up and let us wear overalls and discard the bows and ribbons.

When we saw the small boy the other day trying figure eights in the street, we had to bite our lip to keep from offering some good advice. We used to be able to do a figure eight that even the big boys thought o.k. And brother, that's praise when you are a girl trying to muscle in on the boys' fun.

This year—1943—will be a year in which women and girls in unprecedented numbers must take their places in industry, in military forces and in voluntary services that minister to community needs.

The Girl Scouts have an important role in all three phases of women's war effort.

Just as industry is called upon to expand production tremendously, so Girl Scouts are called on to expand their training of more girls with skilled hands, quick eyes, alert minds to meet our country's need.

We have been working with your Physician to protect your girl's health for more than 23 years.

Mrs. Rip Smith received an interesting letter from ex-Cosdenite Bob Hudson, now a pharmacist made 2nd class at the U. S. Naval hospital at San Diego, California.

Bob wrote that "on the 18th of January I was chosen to take one of our war heroes back to Philadelphia, Penn., to the naval hospital for treatment. He was Pvt. Albert A. Schmid of the marines. You no doubt have read about him in the newspapers and perhaps heard him on the March of Time program on the National broadcast. In California he was entertained by the movie stars, and Friday received the Navy Cross for bravery under fire. He was totally blinded in the fight. While taking him back to Philadelphia by train, everyone made such an effort to help me amuse "Smitty" and to see that he got to eat and did not trip over anything. It was really a pleasure. There was a marine officer's wife on the train, and when she told the rest of the passengers and the other service men on the train who the blind marine was, they couldn't do enough. When we arrived in Philadelphia we had our pictures taken then we got in the ambulance and went out to the naval hospital where I was relieved of my duty, turning Smitty over to the doctors there. Philadelphia has a world famous eye hospital, and that was the reason for taking Smitty back there. Have received a letter from his girl friend since I returned to California, and Smitty has made so much progress that he can now tell the color of her dresses, so he is really making progress. However, he has only one eye left to treat as the other one had to be removed as it was practically blown out of his head when he got a hand grenade in his face. We are all hoping that he will be able to recover his sight entirely in the one good eye left."

The Value Of Girl Scout Supervision And Training

Social, welfare and religious workers and other folk watching such trends have become concerned with the growing problem of juvenile delinquency which is spreading over the nation as one of the many outgrowths of a people at war. The problem, as would be expected, has become more acute in metropolitan areas, but there is not a community in the nation that is not feeling some effects from this unfortunate social trend.

Views differ as to the method of correcting this evil. Many towns, including some close neighbors in Texas, are seriously considering curfew regulations which would require all young people to be off the street and out of public places by a certain hour each evening. Others desperately are trying to work out a program of better child supervision and planned recreation programs, to keep the young people away from undue temptation.

As to the curfew, one editorialist has pointed out, and correctly so, that this is no solution, and at best nothing more than a temporary expedient. This writer says that the ultimate cure must be in a tightening of lines between the home, the school and the church.

This is correct, but these institutions, all pressed with an emergency condition, need help. There exist fine organizations which, with proper adult leadership, can go a long way toward not only halting juvenile delinquency, but in developing more worthwhile young citizens. These are the Boy Scout and Girl Scout organizations.

This week, the Girl Scouts observe their 31st anniversary, an occasion which in itself bespeaks the strength of the movement. This program for training girls is only two years younger than the world-wide Boy Scout organization, and is doing as fine a job with the future women folk of this country. Committed to such principles as working to make democracy work, serving community and country, promoting good health, preserving and strengthening our nation's joy and beauty, and strengthening faith in God and high ideals, this work with the younger girls cannot but erase for all time the sources of juvenile delinquency. Teach a young person the principles of good citizenship, the essentials of service to fellow-man and the ideals of Christian living—and keep that young person occupied in putting these principles into action—and you'll have no delinquent but a valuable young citizen.

This is the program the Girl

Scouts strive to carry on. In Big Spring and encouragingly. It steadily and encouragingly. It calls for and merits the support of every citizen.

Washington— Keeping 'Em On The Farm Runs Into Problem

By JACK STEINNETT

WASHINGTON—In those various agencies which have to do with motor car transportation and manpower they are singing a parody of an old World War I song. The song was: "How You Going to Keep 'Em Down on the Farm, After They've Seen Paris." The parody is: "How You Going to Keep Them Down on the Farm, After They've Been to Town."

In the last 30 years, American farmers and their families have developed the habit of jumping into the family jalopy and traveling whenever they felt like it or whenever the necessity arose.

It's the farm population variation of running down to the corner grocery or drug store—only sometimes it's ten, 15 or 20 miles, instead of a few blocks. Farm production and farm economy these days are built on the idea that spare parts, the family doctor, the grocery store, and so forth are only an hour or two away, at most.

The same holds for family entertainment. Farm sales, socials, dances, movies, county meetings and such aren't just around the corner as are their counterparts in the cities.

What is happening? Officially, it isn't being publicly discussed yet, but off the record, you can get several answers.

In the first place the limitation on motor fuel (and especially in those sections where pleasure driving is banned) is playing havoc with farm life, socially and economically.

Hired hands and youngsters, particularly, have an added incentive to leave farm jobs and go either into the armed forces or the high-pay wartime industries which provide urban diversions as well as the money to indulge them.

From the lower-income brackets come numerous reports of farmers being urged by their families to desert the land simply because farm isolation is too great a bore or too much of an economic sacrifice.

It's apparent that the farm gasoline situation is rapidly shaping up as a special problem that goes much deeper than just keeping the essential tractors and other machinery sufficiently fueled.

Some officials are beginning to wonder if a little extra gasoline poured into the farm stream might not turn the outgoing tide of farm labor.

Capital Comment House Not Ready To Change Committees

By GEORGE STIMPSON

Herald Washington Correspondent

The debate on the proposal to setup standing committees of House of Representatives on aviation was interesting; was first serious effort to streamline congressional setup to fit modern conditions; final vote was 257 against 142 for, bigger majority against than I had expected; although Republican Leader Joe Martin advocated, and Speaker Sam Rayburn opposed, it was hardly partisan issue; Dick Kleberg, of Corpus Christi, and Milton West of Brownsville, were only Texans for it.

Dick Kleberg, energetic member of the old special House committee on air accidents put up strong fight for the new committee, made two strong speeches on subject; said, "If this Congress does not have genius enough to recall the statement of the founders of our country that without vision the people will perish, we are in a tough spot;" thought commercial aviation will play major part in post-war and deciding part at peace table; asserted question resolved self purely and simply down to issue whether commercial and civil aviation of sufficient importance to warrant exclusive committee with time to give American people what they are entitled to on that subject.

But odds were against him and proponents; Congressman Luther Johnson, of Corsicana, ranking Democrat on foreign affairs and powerfully persuasive member of Congress, feared, new committee might unfavorably affect delicate foreign relations; might upset apparent, divide councils, hamper military operations, should not in legislative branch make mistake made by executive departments in duplicating, overlapping agencies and step on each other's toes, if any changes made should be reduction rather than increase in number of committees.

Luther was followed by heaviest artillery of all; Speaker Sam Rayburn, something seldom does, laid aside gavel, descended from rostrum, stepped into well of House, said: "I trust you will believe me when I say that I appear for nobody but myself and have no reason except reasons I have written down. This is not a leadership fight; because the gentleman from Massachusetts and I agree not to make it so. I trust that you will believe me when I say that I am not influenced by my love and respect for a committee on which I served for 24 years, six years as its chairman. I do appear and impose myself upon you for this brief moment to say that someone has said, 'Do not change horses in the middle of the stream.' Why change committees in the middle of this war? What has the great committee on interstate and foreign commerce failed to do that it should have this seeming reputation at this time by the House of Representatives? I think this is an unwise thing to do. In my opinion, if there were ever a reason for the formation of a separate committee, that should be taken up at some other time than a time like this. Therefore, I trust that you on both sides of the aisle, freed of prejudice, will consider this question well and long before you vote for this resolution, with all

Hollywood Sights and Sounds—

Lucille Ball Might Rate As 'Queen Of The B's'

By ROBBEN COOKS

HOLLYWOOD—Lucille Ball was told that she got plenty of votes for an Oscar nomination in the recent voting. People liked her in "The Big Street," which has been in fact her best role.

"Not enough votes to matter," she says, "but just knowing it made me feel wonderful."

You don't know how wonderful until you remember that once, after a year in a New York dramatic school, she was given up as "hopeless." And remember, too, that for nearly all her 10 years in Hollywood she has been a "utility star" or a "queen of the B's."

"I worked in picture after picture," she says, "but I got mainly the parts they meant for other actresses they couldn't get. I began saying to them, 'Oh, I'm sorry so-and-so is sick, but I'm glad to get the chance.'"

After her long apprenticeship at RKO, Lucille is getting star breaks at M-G-M. She's done "DuBarry Was a Lady," the big musical, and is now in "Best Foot Forward," another with tunes and steps. She has earned her breaks, and stardom can't go to her head. She knows what it's about.

She was born in Butte, Montana, but Jamestown, N. Y., was the town of her growing-up years. When she was 16, Lucille enlisted in the New York drama school — Betty Davis was star pupil and Lucille's idol — where she was hopeless.

Instead of going home she got a job in the line of a roadshow, "Rio Rita," lost it in three weeks. She jerked sodas until the next job came along—a model for a wholesale house, $25 a week. Within a few years she was modeling for Hattie Carnegie. She spent three years in a wheel chair after a crippling auto accident, walked again only because she made up her mind to, and resumed modeling.

Hollywood brought her west for Eddie Cantor's "Roman Scandals," after which she grabbed a series of small parts, and played extra roles. A role in "Roberta" led to seven years of steady work at RKO. Her best picture there was "Stage Door," her first important leads were in "A Guy, a Girl and a Gob" and "Too Many Girls." On the latter picture she met Deal Arnaz, and the same year (1940) married him.

She is five feet six and looks taller in her three-inch heels, her hair, naturally reddish, is now an incredible tangerine blase which looks fine in color pictures but startling off screen.

She's as regular as a T-square, though the old home town may not think so. Last time she was in Jamestown she was miffed because none of her old friends called her up. She waited, thinking surely someone would, and when the telephone finally rang she was plenty sore.

"Oke," she said, "if they expect a movie star I'll act like one." The one friend who called got a picture of an over-dressed doll with painted toe-nails and false eyelashes, false fingernails, and too much jewelry—all surrounded by too many dogs.

When Lucille does that, it's an act. She's a natural.

Isolation Island

By JOHN C. FLEMING and LOIS EBY

Chapter 7

In the dark shadows of her high vaulted bedroom with only two braces of candles flickering in the darkness Landa had slipped into her flame colored robe and thrown herself down on her chaise.

All was quiet except for the light breeze that stirred in the foliage outside her window and the distant pounding of the surf on the beach. Landa heard the slamming of the screen door and the low rumble of men's voices from the living room. The papaya buyers, Don and O'Shanessy had been over the entire island since early morning.

Landa rose quickly, brushed her hair, and slipped into her dress. As she entered the living room a moment later the soft candlelight caught her loveliness.

She smiled at the circle of men as they rose to their feet. They toasted her health and happiness with the wine Maria had already served them. Then Landa took Don's arm and they led the way to the dining room.

The long table was laden with food heaped in polished copper dishes that glistened like gold in the light of the candles. When they were seated Landa turned toward McCullough at her left.

"What do you think of our plantation?"

The buyer's face broke into a smile. "It's the likeliest supply of papaya we've found in Baja."

"We have never taken more than we needed for a comfortable living," Don said in way of explanation. "Eighty per cent of the trees have never been touched."

"It's a veritable buyer's paradise," Brown smiled.

"I sure wish I owned it!" McCullough said feelingly. "Why with the profit you take off this place in the next sixty days I could buy myself a swell farm in Ohio and live the life of Retly for the rest of my days!"

No one had noticed the dark cloud of disapproval that passed over the face of Mike O'Shanessy but all eyes turned at the heavy rumble of his voice. "The point is," he said, carefully weighing each word, "we are not interested in turning this peaceful island into a congested commercial venture."

There was a brief silence before McCullough recovered and found his voice. "You seem to misunderstand, my good man. Personal desires are being put in cold storage all over the world now for the duration. We are making acid medicine from papayas to fill government orders. You can make a handsome profit and still be of real service to your country."

"You forget I am Irish," the old man said acidly, "and my country has had sense enough to stay out of this war!"

The sympathies of the Irish are certainly with the Allies!" McCullough contested.

"Ah! yes, that is all right for those who have stayed in the homeland but here it is different. The war does not touch us here," the man said stubbornly.

"You might be surprised how quickly this distant jewel of yours would be taken away from you if the Axis should win," McCullough argued hotly. "Haven't you read what's become of the property of conquered France, in Belgium, Holland and Norway?"

"I know nothing of that and care less," O'Shanessy roared. "We take no papers here for that reason. They are full of just such fiddle!"

Small creases of concern crept into Landa's smooth forehead. She had never seen O'Shanessy so ruffled, so ogallant to a stranger.

The group finished their meal in silence as Maria shuffled about busily carrying out dishes, bringing in more heaping plates of food. Her dark eyes darted from face to face as she sensed the tension that hung over the diners.

Suddenly O'Shanessy pushed back his chair with a heavy scraping on the tile floor and stormed from the room. They heard the screen door slam as he went out into the garden. Don's face flushed.

"I hope you gentlemen will excuse my padre. He is old, you know, and has been under such strain these last few days."

"It's my fault," McCullough said apologetically. "I should have known better than to irritate him."

"If you will excuse me I will go and see if I can't calm him." Don pushed back his chair. "Don't hurry with your meal. I'll join you later in the patio for coffee."

As Don came out of the door he saw his father walking slowly in the path of yellow moonlight that flooded the garden.

"Padre," Don said gently. "You must not take these Americans' offer as an affront. They are our friends! They believe they are helping us."

O'Shanessy stopped short and turned a thunderous frown on his son.

"They are no friends of mine!"

Emergency Call

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—A police station switchboard operator, hearing unintelligible screams on an incoming call, dispatched a patrol squad to investigate.

Mrs. Jessie Hake met the officers at the door and explained that her baby had upset the telephone stand, inadvertently dialed police "emergency" in trying to extricate itself from the wire and "screamed bloody murder" in the confusion of it all.

Organizations As Sponsors Of Troops Needed

Sponsoring organizations shortly will be one of the needs of the Girl Scout program in Big Spring if an ideal of expansion is realized.

Currently the list of sponsors is varied, with emphasis on service clubs. It includes the Lions club (two troops), First Presbyterian church, Kiwanis club, Rotary club, American Business club, and Beta Sigma Phi sorority.

Formerly the South Ward P. T. A., Cosden Petroleum corporation and the Business and Professional Women sponsored senior girl units. At the present time this phase of the program has slackened due to the absence of a program in the city for a long time.

Girl Scout leaders, however, anticipate that soon there will be a larger number of girls coming up from the intermediate groups and eligible for senior membership—and that thus the need of sponsors for senior troops will again be felt.

Moreover, surveys have shown that there is a definite need of many more troops for Girl Scouts (intermediates) and for Brownies (small girls) in the city.

Any organization—fraternal, civic, service, church, etc.—is eligible to become a sponsor if it is honestly interested in a girl's program and if it will accept a limited amount of financial responsibility in seeing that the program is kept in operation.

Troop 17 Has Had Year Of Activity

Girl Scouts in Brownie troop No. 17 have found it fun to learn to do things during their year of activity.

Under the leadership of Mrs. H. E. Cully, assisted by Mrs. George R. French, the active membership of 16 girls between the ages of seven and 10 has engaged in many things, among them these activities:

Picnics and out-of-door games; learning folk songs, dances and new games; sewing, paper craft, piecing quilts for dolls, making string holders for mothers in kitchens; studying first aid and making first aid kits; learning the Brownie promise, and having secret works and ceremonies which usually close their meetings with the Magic Tunnel ceremony.

Promise And Laws Make Up Basis Of Scout Program

Girls from seven through 15 years of age have found for 31 years now that it is fun to be a Girl Scout—and those who have observed the movement have found that it contributes far more than wholesome recreation.

Girls who have been in the program for reasonable lengths of time have had character strengthened and their personalities rounded into better members of society.

This is no accident; rather it is the real objective of the program in action.

Here is why: The program is based on the Girl Scout promise and the law. All activities are conceived with the idea of contributing something toward the rooting of the promise and law into the girl's being.

The Promise
On my honor I will try:
To do my duty to God and my country.

To help other people at all times.
To obey the Girl Scout Laws.

- The Laws:
1. A Girl Scout's Honor is to be trusted.
  2. A Girl Scout is loyal.
  3. A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others.
  4. A Girl Scout is a friend to all, and a sister to every other Girl Scout.
  5. A Girl Scout is courteous.
  6. A Girl Scout is a friend to animals.
  7. A Girl Scout obeys orders.
  8. A Girl Scout is cheerful.
  9. A Girl Scout is thrifty.
  10. A Girl Scout is clean in thought, word and deed.

Tribute To Girl Scouts
"The Girl Scout are preparing girls to be the kind of women whose voluntary offer to give service in an emergency can be accepted." — Lieutenant-Commander Mildred H. McAfee, director of the WAVES.

he roared. "I have run this place for forty years without their help. Why should I need them now?"

"But we have something here that they can use—that the world can use. Why should we not sell it to them at a fair price?"

"You are forcing me to say this," the old Irishman's voice rang out. "I hoped it wouldn't be necessary. If you make one step in negotiating with these men, by heaven, I shall consider it my duty to expose your crime!"

"You can't mean that..." Don's voice was incredulous.

"I mean exactly that and more too. Landa is soon to be your wife. She will do what you say. You must advise her not to sell a bit of her papaya to those men in there!"

"But if she wants to sell," Don pleaded, "I don't see how I would have any right to stop her!"

"Her father left a sizeable estate. She needs no money, and it is up to you to see that she does not sell!"

Don's face went white. He knew now it was settled. His father never turned back when once he had made a decision. The two men turned toward the house, a rigid grimace stamped on their faces.

tory, when Paul Revere has ridden again, when once more the embattled farmers at Concord have fired the shot heard around the world, and Washington has revisited Newburgh, N. Y., may I take just a moment or two of your time to explain the pending resolution.

Eugene Worley, pushing his bill for government to take over war plants to guarantee continuous production: "For eight months I had the high honor and privilege of being on active duty with the U. S. Navy. In many of the widely scattered areas of the Southwest Pacific I saw with my own eyes how badly planes were needed. I know planes or the lack of them will mean the difference between life and death for millions of thousands of our men. It makes my blood boil to see a petty trivial dispute stop or even slow down the production of planes and it makes no difference whether such a dispute is the fault of management or labor. One day's production of bombers could have saved Java. A week's production at our present rate might have saved our raw rubber supply; says time to think of Hirohito and Hitler instead of fat profits; time to give up belief war can be won on part-time, spare-time basis, those guilty of stopping or slowing down production shouldn't go scot free, ought to give pieces of boys fighting on battlefields more satisfactory answer than strikes, stoppages, slow-downs at home, time to abandon philosophy of what can get out of war and think in terms of what we can get to bring war to speedy and successful end.

Window Displays Call Attention To Girl Scout Week

Downtown shoppers will be well aware of Girl Scout anniversary week observance this week, for at least six window displays are to be arranged.

Girls of the various troops have accepted the responsibility of installing these window decorations, which are to be in place no later than Monday.

They will follow several themes, and a few of them will develop the idea of Girl Scouts' part in the salvage drives.

Firms which have offered window space, and the troops and leaders, and themes (in cases where it has been announced) follow:

- Margie Gail's Book Shop—Mrs. M. A. Cook's Brownie troop.
- Swartz's—Mrs. Edmon Lovelady's intermediate troop; scrap.
- Fashion—Mrs. Hub Rutherford's intermediate troop; Red Cross.
- Montgomery Ward & Co.—Mrs. H. Cully's Brownie troop.
- C. R. Anthony Co.—Mrs. Wayne Pearce's intermediate troop; silk hose collection.
- A. M. Fisher Co.—Mrs. Florence McNew's intermediate troop.

Funds Raised By Denying Pleasures

A sacrificial note was injected into the observance of Girl Scout week last autumn as members took thought of their comrades who were or who might be less fortunate than they.

During the week, October 25-31, Girl Scouts denied themselves certain pleasures such as purchase of sweets, a picture show, or some similar enjoyment.

Proceeds from this saving went into the Victory Fund which is to be used in areas where Girl Scouts and their families have been made homeless. Much of it naturally will be held in readiness in event bombings or landing attempts be made on coastal points or cities.
