I am glad to note that one newspaper writer has risen in defense of the pecan. The name of this edible nut for which Texas and Eastland county are noted, is in danger of being perverted by the d... Yankees who seek to impose their standards upon everything in sight, particularly if it has a southern flavor.

"It's 'puh-kahn,'" writes Editor Walter B. Moore of the Texas Almanac, "and anyone who claims that it is 'pea-kahn' shouldn't be allowed to say the word on radio, television or in conversation."

The very sound of the Yankee pronunciation is suggestive and distasteful of the southern in whose affections the pecan holds a foremost place. It is an insult in ignorance.

Hurrah for Editor Moore. He is on solid earth in maintaining the authority of the southern pronunciation. It is a sound rule that says an individual's name is his personal property and that it should be spelled and spoken as he says it should.

It is our nut. We grow it. We ought to know what it is and what it should be called. Moreover, it won't grow in the North, a matter which may bring demands for federal intervention in the right of Mother Nature to choose the habitat and conditions under which she rears the varied membership of her great family. This refusal of the p-ean to integrate with the flora of the North may be hurtful to the Yankee pride, but it is evidence enough that the Yankee vulgarity is entirely gratuitous and unauthorized. As a matter of fact not many northerners, and certainly very few of the radio announcers and speakers who so shamefully mispronounce the name of this delicious nut, would know a pecan tree if it walked into their yards. What right have they to set standards about something of which they know nothing?

Which calls to mind a letter from a South Carolina editor to the New York Times worth reprinting in full if space allowed.

Calling attention to the rioting, lawlessness and crime which infest New York and make life unsafe on the streets, in the subways and even in Times square, and to the continuous outbreaks of racial violence in a city where civil rights laws have long "guaranteed" equal rights among the races, the writer asks:

"How can a paper like the New York Times, situated in a city where selfishness and the flouting of authority seem to be increasing every day, keep advocating federal legislation — and sometimes the use of federal troops — to 'improve' the South in general and the Southern Negro in particular?"

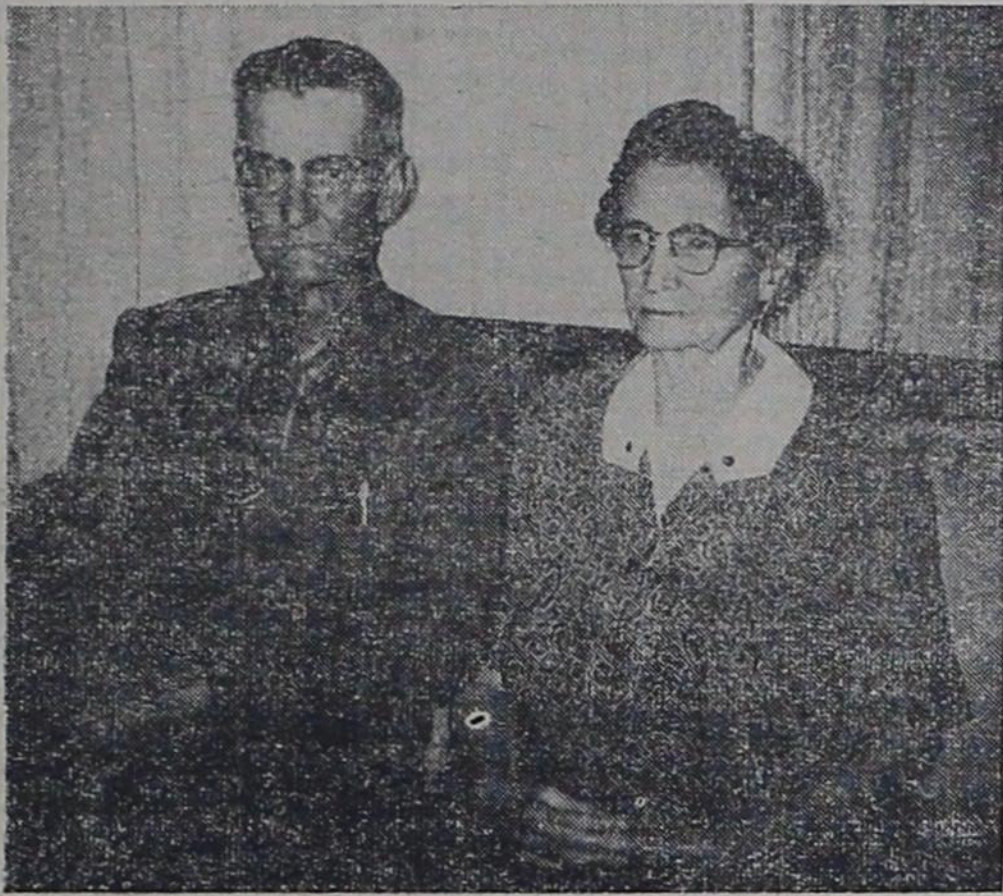

"How can delegations of white clergymen and others from New York come to the South, in good conscience, on holy pilgrimages, to impose New York's way of life upon us?"

"How can you try to impose federal 'civil rights' laws on the South, when you can see at first hand, right there at home, how little good such laws have done in your own segregated city?"

"It seems to me that the editorial policy of the New York Times, when it addresses itself to the South, is..."

County Judge Names July 19-25 Farm Safety Week

County Judge Scott Bailey has officially proclaimed July 19-25, 1964, as Farm Safety Week in Eastland County, according to Jack Cozart, president of the local county Farm Bureau. The local farm organization is coordinating activities for the special farm safety campaign.

President Johnson and Governor Connally have already designated that week on national and state levels as a period to call attention to worthwhile safety practices that can reduce disabling injuries and death.

The county farm leader said that farm accidents have been reduced in the past few years; however, farmers cannot afford to let down their guard against accidents. He emphasized that farming remains one of the most hazardous occupations in America today.

In his official proclamation County Judge Bailey said: "All the citizens of Eastland County are concerned about the safety and well being of farm families from whom we receive our abundance of food and other essential agricultural commodities."

Farm accidents result in over 150 deaths and thousands of disabling injuries in Texas each year.

Farm accidents are responsible for needless suffering and incapacity, and greatly affect the economic well-being and progress of our agricultural population in our county, state and nation.

"Throughout this special week, a statewide farm accident prevention and educational program will be undertaken by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Safety Association and the Eastland County Farm Bureau with the theme 'Safer American Families Everywhere.'"

County Farm Bureau President Jack Cozart said that a different phase of safety would be emphasized each way during the week: Sunday — reverence for life; Monday — safety begins at home; Tuesday — agricultural chemicals; Wednesday — prevent falls; Thursday — rural highway safety; Friday — farm machinery; Saturday — recreation safety.

Cattle Futures Market Suggested

COLLEGE STATION — A cattle futures market. Ridiculous, you say? Maybe not, according to Ed Uvack, Extension livestock market specialist at Texas A&M University.

The Chicago Mercantile Exchange has hired a private consulting firm to study the possibility of such a market. Although most segments of the livestock industry feel there is a need for a futures market on livestock, they do not fully understand how it can best be used, says Uvack.

There are many problems in establishing a livestock futures market because of the nature of the project. In live cattle trading, there is little difficulty in establishing specifications, carcass beef contracting isn't very appealing to either producers or buyers and boneless beef normally doesn't have the price variation needed for attractive speculation.

However eventually the difficulties will be worked out and the thing that couldn't work, a futures trading market on live cattle and beef, will be a reality, says Uvack.

Mrs. Francis Jones of May underwent surgery at Comanche Friday of last week. She was expected home within a few days.

Yanks Top Little League Standings By Half A Game

By Pat Williams

In Tuesday's night games of last week, the Indians defeated the Dodgers 6-4 behind the pitching of Michael Botts.

Jimmy Roach, pitching for the losers, was giving it all he had and pitched a very good game.

In the second game of the night, the Yankees took the Indians 5-4. Johnny Owens, pitching one of his best games, helped put the Yankees out in front and keep them there.

Dick Clark, pitching for the losers, also pitched a very good game, which kept the score very close right up to the end.

In the Thursday night games, the last games of the season, Jimmy Roach, pitching for the Dodgers, did a top notch job of winning the game, as the Dodgers defeated the Yankees 9-7 in their last meeting for the season. The Yanks used every pitcher they had, trying to win.

They were: Tnov Geye, Johnny Owens, Larry Alford and James Cook. All these boys are good pitchers, but just not quite good enough for this game.

In the second game of the evening and the last game of the season, the Dodgers defeated the Indians 21-3. The Dodgers used two pitchers to win the game — Harvey Harris and Brad Carroll. Both boys were really in there pitching. Harvey and Brad both also hit home runs which brought in several scores each time to help put the Dodgers far ahead.

Pitching for the losing team were Charles Murphy and Mike Duke. Both boys made very good showings and did their best, but just couldn't catch the Dodgers.

After the Indians lost their last game to the Dodgers, they dropped behind again which put the Yanks winners by half a game for this season.

Agriculture Is Still Giant Of Texas Industry

COLLEGE STATION — Although the number of people on Texas farms and ranches is declining, many of those leaving the country are not leaving the agricultural industry, says John G. McHaney, Extension economist, Texas A&M University.

Today nearly 40 per cent of all Texans derive their income wholly or in part from farming and ranching or connected businesses, reports the economist. These businesses supply the production needs of farmers and process and distribute agricultural products.

Many agricultural processes once handled on the farm are now performed by these businesses and much labor once needed on the farm is used by them, McHaney points out. For example, farmers today purchase most of their power in the form of gasoline and machinery instead of raising animals and feeding them.

Workers that supply these production needs perform a service for the farmer and are partially dependent on him for their living. About 96 per cent of the agricultural production in Texas must pass through the business firms of the state before reaching the final consumer, says the economist.

Agriculture and business are becoming more and more interdependent, says McHaney. Some reasons for this interdependence are that farming and ranching require a large capital investment, more cash is spent for living expenses and crop production today, and farmers are more dependent on the market place.

Increased efficiency in farm and ranch production has released much labor to the urban areas but much of this labor retains its connection with agriculture, McHaney concludes.

Mrs. Otis Wolf was visited by her son, Junior Wolf, his wife and two children of Midland, while they were on vacation. They accompanied Mrs. Wolf to Dallas where she visited her sisters.

Degree at North Texas State University with a major in home economics.

County Judge Scott Bailey said that Miss Dunn has been highly recommended to Eastland County and the extension service by all her former employers. Judge Bailey says that she will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Yvonne Lepley who resigned to become a home economics teacher in Jacksboro.

Does Bigness Mean Loss of Freedom?

"Our big trouble," pontificates the leftist editor of an Atlanta newspaper, "is that we live in a new environment. It is one of necessary bigness. As our populations grow so do our governments at the state and national level, so does business and so do the bureaucracies and municipalities that must provide the services for such bigness."

"This environment is more and more of machines and less of personalities, but all the wishful thinking that if somehow we were normal, and if government were less big, and if populations were back at the village level, life would be sweet, lovely and clean for all of us is a most naive business. There is certain pathos in it but not much of reality. The sweet city of Zion will certainly not thereby be attained."

What does he want us to do? Submit to the deluge? Lie down and take it like the passive populations of communist lands? Has not the whole American dream been one of social and political naivete within the sense of his own definition? Thank God, there are still people in this country who feel, deeply and sincerely, that no matter how big or involved our government and other economic and social organizations become, a way must be found to keep them subservient and the individual supreme, else there is no value in our society more than is offered by the communist philosophy. They are determined to find that way.

Under the currents of violence and extremism that sometimes trouble the surface of its new manifestation, that is what the revolt at San Francisco against the subservient counsels and leadership of the eastern liberals was about. If such a formula cannot be found, and we must submit to the futility advocated by this fellow, then even the demand of the Negro for his just social and political rights will be meaningless. For whatever he may gain in the exercise of these rights will as surely be overwhelmed by the institution.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boggs were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Broughton and two sons of Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Brassell of Brownwood; Mr. and Mrs. Benny Steel and two daughters of Bryan, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tunnell of Tahoka.

What here is counselled is communism in a negligible!

THE PIRACY PRINCIPLE

The colorful pirate of old captured your imagination but not that of the shipowners or the governments that lost their cargoes or treasures.

Pirates were "enemies of mankind." Their acts became crimes against that government as well as the "law of nations." A government would try to catch and to punish them no matter how and where the piracy took place.

From these early days, a rule of international law called the "piracy principle" came into being, as to crimes against mankind. Any nation might seize and punish such a person. He did not need to be one of its citizens. The crimes could be committed inside or outside its territory. Jurisdiction is worldwide.

Nations often punish their own people for crimes beyond their borders. Nations can punish aliens for crimes within their borders. They can punish aliens for crimes committed against that country when they later come into that country. A nation can also punish an alien for piracy under international law.

What about war crimes done on orders of superiors? The World War II allies have declared that certain Nazi leaders committed punishable crimes against nations.

Now and then some nations may allow a court to try a person "in absentia." Such trials without the accused present were once popular, but little comes from such trials, and they are not as highly regarded as trials in which a person has a fair chance to defend himself.

County HD Clubs Hear Advice On Use Of Credit

"Don't be afraid to use credit, but remember, an overload of credit can make your life miserable, while a reasonable use of credit can make your life more comfortable," Mrs. Beverly Nicholson, County Home Demonstration Agent, told the members of the Home Demonstration clubs throughout the county during June. Each of the nine home demonstration clubs met twice during June, with the agent presenting one program and members or special speakers giving the second program.

Mrs. Genoa Brown of Eastland, a member of the Flatwood Home demonstration Club, gave a program to her club on driving safety. Mrs. Webb presented a program, using her slides during the month, by securing a piano for the community building. Scott Bailey, county judge, talked to the Pleasant Hill Club on "Making a Will." During the month the club sent five boxes of clothing to the Abilene State School. The county judge gave a program to the Word Home Demonstration Club, located in Cisco, on "County Government." Mrs. Cora Plumlee, a member of the club, just returned from the World's Fair in New York and will give a program to her from her trip to Europe, to the Lake Cisco Home Demonstration Club in Cisco.

The North Star Home Demonstration Club, in Rising Star, sponsored a heart program for the interested people in Rising Star. Eddie Burroughs, Area Consultant, Texas Heart Association, from Abilene, presented the program. The club also sent a donation to the Travis State School in Austin, to be used toward the purchase of swings for the school.

The Olden Home Demonstration Club worked toward improving the Community Center on her trip. Mrs. H. C. Pounds, a member of the Morton Valley Home Demonstration Club, gave her club a program on "All About Texas." During the month, the club sent old sheets to the Green Acres Nursing Home in Eastland. This club works with the nursing home and visits and sends gifts to the patients as a club project.

Eight of the Home Demonstration Clubs sponsor an adopted boy in the Travis State School in Austin and each month they send their boy an allowance and remember him on his birthday and on special holidays.

The Morton Valley, Olden, Flatwood and Gorman clubs made plans to sponsor the "Medical Self Help Training program" for their club members and other interested persons. This program is being planned for September.

The clubs elected their nominees for the Texas Home Demonstration Association State meeting to be held in Houston in September and presented their names to Home Demonstration Council as follows:

Flatwood: Mrs. Ellen Horn, Flatwood.

Lake Cisco: Mrs. Arinn Bint, Cisco.

Morton Valley: Mrs. R. W. Gordon, Ranger.

Nimrod: Mrs. Barbara Bostick, Nimrod.

North Star: Mrs. Mabel Ralston, Rising Star.

Pleasant Hill: Mrs. Willie Hines, Pleasant Hill.

Word: Mrs. H. L. Short.

Mrs. Bint, Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Short were elected as the delegates to represent the county at the state meeting, during the July Council meeting. Mrs. Hines, Mrs. Ralston and Mrs. Bostick were elected as the alternate delegates to attend the state meeting.

The Home Demonstration Clubs will not meet during July or August, as these are vacation months. Several of the members will participate in the Basic Clothing Workshop conducted by the agent during July and during August the clubs have picnics for their members and their families.

Browsing With Bev

By Beverly Nicholson, County HD Agent

This year has been a good one for beef eaters. The market has been loaded with lots of top quality beef, and it looks like supplies will be plentiful throughout the summer and fall months.

Because of overflowing meat cases and attractive beef prices, more people are buying beef than ever before. And they're asking more questions about how to judge quality, how to cook beef, how to store it.

Q. When I buy round steak, it is sometimes red only on the outside and grayish brown on the inside. Why is this? Is the meat still good to eat?

A. Beef is always a dark, purplish red when first cut. After it is exposed to air for about 30 minutes, the color pigments outside and the dark pigment becomes oxidized and turns red. This accounts for the side. Such a condition is perfectly normal.

Q. How can I cook beef to keep shrinkage to a minimum?

A. Cook at low or moderate temperatures, 300 to 350 degrees Fahrenheit, for all or most of the cooking time. Don't overcook.

Q. How long can I safely keep beef that has been roasted?

A. Cooked meat and meat dishes will keep its high quality covered or wrapped loosely 1 or two days in a household refrigerator if the temperature is 38 to 42 degrees.

Q. Is all beef Federally inspected?

A. Only that which moves across state lines is required by law to be inspected. This however, totals 87 percent of all commercially slaughtered beef animals.

Q. What's the difference between inspected and graded beef?

A. Inspection, which is mandatory for all meat moving in interstate commerce, is for wholesomeness. Grading is for quality, and this service is voluntary. About 50 percent of beef is graded.

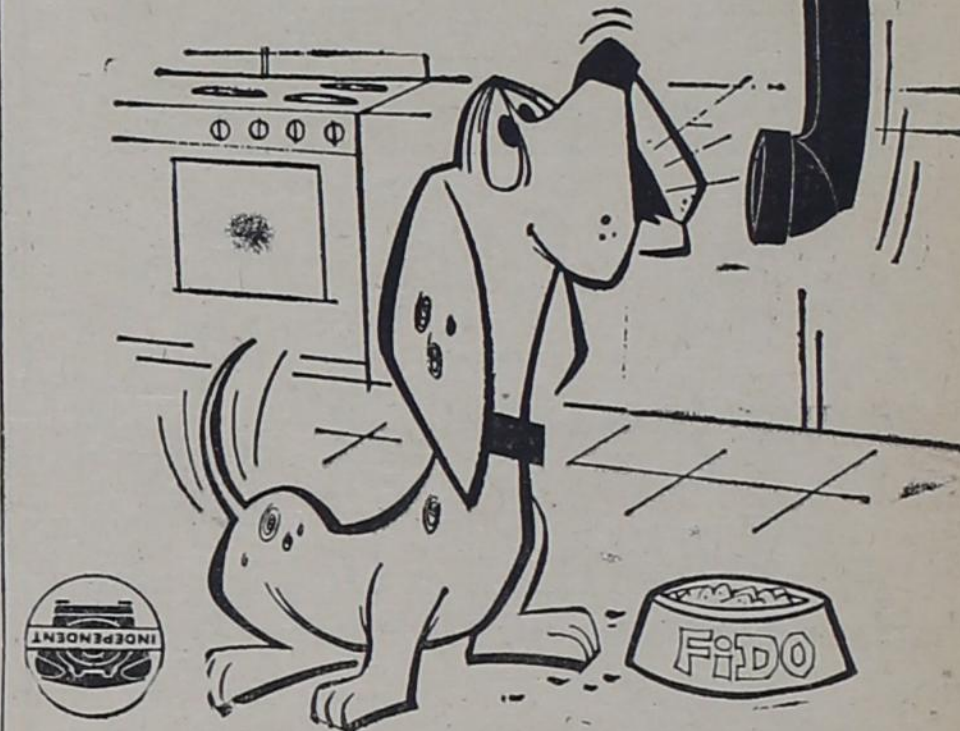

When buying beef for your family, you should figure about 3/4 pound per serving if there is no bone. If the cut has a little bone (say, it's a round roast), you'll have to buy about one-third pound for each. Buy about half a pound if there is a medium amount of bone such as in a blade chuck roast.

Mrs. Cole Nunnally of Causey, N. M., visited Mrs. John Roach and John Nunnally a few days last week.

Hollys Tour Most of Scenic West In Two-Week Vacation Trip To Coast

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holly and children returned last week from a two-week tour of western states during which they travelled by car 4,557 miles and visited most of the western scenic attractions as well as some celebrated for other than scenery — such as Las Vegas, Nev. With them were two brothers of Mrs. Holly, Larry and Kenny Tanner of Rule, Texas.

They followed the southern route to California, driving into Mexico at Juarez, thence through the mountain drives of Arizona where they visited the Indian reservations and the ruins of Indian villages. They spent three days at Las Vegas which they spent with a brother of Mr. Holly, Bill Holly, and family, and during which they made a number of side trips to interesting places.

In California they went to Marine Land, Disneyland, and many other attractions.

Returning home by the northern route they visited the great Hoover Dam and Mead Lake that it impounds, seeing the great installations of generating machinery in the dam. From there they went to the Grand Canyon caverns which rival the Carlsbad caverns in New Mexico and are being developed into a first class tourist attraction. They toured part of the south rim of the majestic Grand Canyon, visited the Navajo cliff dwellings, the Painted Desert, the Petrified Forest and other places of scenic and historical interest. They swung through Oklahoma where they visited Mr. Holly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Holly, and then came by way of Rule where they visited Mrs. Holly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tanner. Lubbock and Littlefield were also on their return route and there they visited other relatives.

Rising Star Bowlers . .

The reason for the slogan, "Bowl your average," for successful bowling team competition was dramatically demonstrated in last week's session.

The members of Team 4, A. L. Buchanan, Glen Henry and Irma Lee Jones, took first place in the league when they bowled 174 pins over their average, and Team 1, in first place last week, dropped to them four games by bowling 22 pins under its average, ending in third place in the league.

Team 3, H. M. Jones, Pete Buchanan, and Ima Yocham, moved into second place, claiming four games over Team 5 by bowling 241 pins (including 133 handicap) over their average, while Team 5, carrying the highest composite average of the league with 435, failed by 72 pins in bowling their average.

The three mens high series were A. L. Buchanan with 516, H. M. Jones with 498, and Glen Henry with 488.

The three womens high series were Gladys Mangum with 443, Dorothy Whiteside with 409, and Edra Butler with 392.

The three high individual games for men were A. L. Buchanan with a fine 213, H. M. Jones with 191 (his highest score ever), and Glen Henry with 168.

The three high individual games for women were Gladys Mangum with 162, Dorothy Whiteside with 149, and Edra Butler with 147.

Yet undefeated is Eddie Joe Henry's high mens series of 524 (196-149-176) bowled on opening night.

The three highest improvements of averages for men are Glen Henry for 25 points, H. M. Jones for 1.9 points and Robert Whiteside for 12 points; for women, Ima Yocham for 8 points, Irma Lee Jones for 7 points, and Lenell Henry and Dorothy Whiteside each for 6 points.
