

Let Us Remember

...as we bow our heads to give thanks for a table of plenty so may we help provide the world's tables of hunger.

...as we taste of the sweetness of abundant life, so may we bring the sweetness of freedom to others.

...as we welcome sunshine for beauty, so others welcome it for warmth.

...as we learn words for a thankful prayer, others learn oaths of forced obedience.

...as our children have learned to share toys, others have learned to share food and clothing.

...as we gaze unthinkingly at cities not ravaged by war, others are founding dreams on shambles and ruins.

...as our nation was founded on humbleness and hope, so must it stand for the high principles of freedom and justice.

...let us remember and be thankful.

The Sunday night telecast of N.B.C.'s White Paper "And Who Shall Feed the World" was one of the most moving and thought provoking programs this writer has ever seen, and with the season of Thanksgiving so near, the timing of this presentation was certainly appropos.

The political aspects of this issue are vast and varied, and I would not pretend any expertise on the subject. But there is one phase of the situation that is quite evident--people are starving to death--in a world where billions of tons of grain and an equal amount of beef are produced annually.

It is difficult to understand how people could be so illiterate and unskilled that they cannot produce enough food stuff to feed their own. India is a nation divided into numerous races and castes, 180 languages, countless religious beliefs, and more than 90% of these people can't read or write. Some of their religious beliefs forbid the eating of beef, and most forbid any form of planned parent hood. Therefore it would appear that the two contributing factors in this pitiful situation are illiteracy and over-population.

As previously stated the political and economical aspects of all of this is out of my depths, but the tragedy and pathos of starving babies and children is an all too vivid picture in my mind.

On a lighter and more pleasant train of thought, The Rising Star, had some interesting visitors this week--Grandmother Butler had an opportunity to show off her beautiful granddaughter, little Leslie McGowen when she and her mother Mrs. David (Sara) McGowen, paid us a visit on Monday morning.

Jack Smith and seven year old son Mark of Atlanta, Georgia, came by to say "hello". The Jack Smiths are here for a visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Curt Smith, and Mr. A.P. Smith.

Be a Thanksgiver this Thanksgiving.

Giving Thanks

— Elizabeth Chamberlain

As a babe, this American nation of ours was suckled and nourished on the food of faith--God's Word and prayer. Our forefathers were both strengthened and made humble by their religious faith. In a manner of speaking, it could be said that they trundled in the cradle which held our infant nation with one hand, while holding the Book in the other.

From the very beginning, those colonists who came early to these shores, came seeking religious freedom and spiritual fulfillment.

After more than four months of great discomfort at sea, enduring bitter cold and Atlantic storms, the first act of those colonists upon reaching Virginia's shores was to erect a tall wooden cross in the sands of the beach, there to kneel and offer prayers of gratitude for God's protection and watch care which had brought them safely to their destination. Always they sought guidance from the One "who neither slumbers nor sleeps."

Thus we see the important part which faith and prayer had played in the founding of our nation. Religious tolerance, granting the right to worship as one sees fit, providing that form of worship does not hinder the rights of others, was supported and became the way of life in most of the colonies. And it was uppermost in the minds of those great men who authored the Constitution.

Today, at the very mention of the word Thanksgiving, memories are called up of Grandmother's old farmhouse kitchen with the table and pantry loaded with good things to eat, the delights of the spicy aroma permeating the crisp autumn air, and ever returning the sweet memories of the whole family gathered there.

Mrs. Burkhead Over Blanket And Strawn Buried On Tuesday

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara Bell Burkhead, 83, of Rising Star, were held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Higginbotham Funeral Chapel. Rev. Hubert Taylor, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, officiated, with interment in the Rising Star Cemetery.

Mrs. Burkhead, the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. D.M. Jacobs, was a life time resident of the Sipe Springs, Rising Star area, having been born at Sipe Springs on July 2, 1891. She was married to E.L. Burkhead on Dec. 29, 1912, in Rising Star. Mr. Burkhead preceded her in death in 1965. Her 83 years were years of service to her family, friends, church and community. She was a life time member of the First United Methodist Church, a charter member of the North Star Home Demonstration Club, a member of the Order of the Eastern Star where she had served as Worthy Matron. She was named Outstanding Citizen of the Year by the Rising Star Chamber of Commerce in 1965. Mrs. Burkhead was also active in the work of the Old Settler's Reunion, of which she was a charter member.

Survivors include a foster daughter, Mrs. Juanita Maddox of Post; three brothers, Millard J. Jacobs of Los Angeles, Calif.; Frank Jacobs and Eli Jacobs, both of Rising Star; four foster grandchildren; and three foster great-grandchildren. Six brothers preceded her in death.

Local H.S.U. Student To Accompany Senior Recital

French horn player, will present two horn concertos with piano accompaniment; Mozart's French Horn Concerto, No. 4, and Richard Strauss Concerto, Op. 11. Woodlock is a student of Lawson Hager, director of University bands and professor in brass. James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Steel of Rising Star.

The first American Thanksgiving Day was observed during the second winter spent by the Plymouth colonists in the new world. The first winter had been a dreadful one in the colony of Massachusetts, with disease and other discomforts claiming the lives of nearly half the colonists. But, with the Spring and Summer of the year 1621, new hope sprang up in the hearts of the people, as they observed the growth, and later, the yield of their first crops.

There was great joy over the harvest of the first bumper crop of corn. There was great joy over other crops. The Massachusetts Governor, William Bradford, decreed that the day of Dec. 13, 1621, be set aside as a day of feasting and prayer--the show of gratitude of the colonists because they had survived the first dreadful year, had become more firmly established in the new world, and for the bountiful life-saving crops which had been produced.

Many days were spent in preparation for the feat by the women of the colony. They kept their children busy turning the roasts on the spits, at the open fires. More than eighty friendly Indians came to the feast, bringing wild turkeys and venison. The tables were set up outdoors with all the people gathered round, like one big family. Prayers, songs and sermons filled the air, as three days were spent in praise and thanksgiving.

The Thanksgiving custom spread to the other colonies. During the Revolutionary War, eight special days for giving of thanks and praise were observed for victories and for being brought safely through great danger. On Nov. 26, 1789, President George Washington proclaimed a day of thanks. It was in the same year that the Episcopal Church announced that the first Thursday in November would, yearly, be set aside for expressions of gratitude to God--unless, as they said, "another day be appointed by the civil authorities."

It was many years, however, before a regular day was set aside annually, for thanksgiving in all the states. It was in 1863 that President Lincoln issued a proclamation, setting aside the last Thursday in November "as a day of Thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father". A similar proclamation was issued the next year, and each year thereafter by the succeeding presidents.

It appears, therefore, from a glance through the pages of early American history, that the acknowledgement of the Heavenly Father's goodness and mercy, and the expression of appreciation for such providential care, was vital in the building of a great nation here. Sometimes, we are made to wonder how grateful we really are, today, to have been born in America, and to have this rich heritage which is ours. Are we grateful enough to spend at least one day each year in humble acknowledgement of our gratitude to our beneficent Heavenly Father?

MOODS

Peggy Perry
On a sunny day my heart will fly
Like a bird up in the sky
And my feet won't touch the ground
Until I see the sun go down.

The Algebra II students are studying stated problems. It seems they've gotten harder than Junior High "story" problems.
That's all for now. HAPPY THANKSGIVING!!
Marilyn

On a rainy, windy day,
My spirit droops and sighs
Until the fact of a friend I see
And happiness comes again to me.

MOVIN' RIGHT ALONG
Hi! Well, this week we have been really working hard in band, we went to contest Saturday. We did pretty good!

My life is full of smiles and sighs,
But not a change I'd make;
For I know I can't feel the joy
Until I feel the ache.

In Physical Science we are studying about absolute temperatures. In English we have been saying poetry and trying to stay caught up. Algebra is getting harder everyday. I really don't know what we're doing in it. In History we are studying about Indian and African civilizations. That's about all for this week.
See ya'

THANKSGIVING DAY

In the United States and Canada, a day is set aside each year as Thanksgiving Day. On this day, people give thanks with feasting and prayer for the blessings they may have received during the year. The first Thanksgiving Days were harvest festivals, or days for thanking God for plentiful crops. For this reason the holiday still takes place late in the fall, after the crops have been gathered. The American Thanksgiving Day probably grew out of the harvest - home celebrations of England.

"FISHBOWL"

Hello! Fish fans! Well the Wildcat Freshmen (and two sophomores) played a very strong game against Blanket last week. It was very surprising how well the boys did. The B team lost but the A team won. It was a very close game. The A team girls won but it was a rough game.

In the U.S., Thanksgiving is usually a family day, celebrated with big dinners and joyous reunions. The very mention of Thanksgiving often calls up memories of kitchens and pantries crowded with good things to eat. Thanksgiving is also a time for serious religious thinking, church services, and prayer.

Well after Wednesday we're out for a break. The teachers and everybody get a holiday. Yeah! Monday we come back and play Cross Plains!...Ugh! Well we need alot more fans so come on and see the Wildcats perform. Got to run!
Keep smiling,
Jeanne

Each year afterward, for 75 years, the President of the United States formally proclaimed that Thanksgiving Day should be celebrated on the last Thursday of November, but in 1939 President Roosevelt proclaimed Thanksgiving Day to be celebrated on week earlier. His purpose was to help business by making the shopping period between Thanksgiving and Christmas longer. Congress finally ruled that after 1941 the fourth Thursday of November would be observed as Thanksgiving Day and would be a legal holiday.

READY FOR EVERYTHING

Well it's gobble gobble time again. Everyone in the Senior Class is looking forward to the Thanksgiving Holidays.

TOWARD NEW HORIZONS

We are valiently striving to reach our new horizons. They seem to be growing brighter everyday. The Homemaking I girls are studying about eggs and have been making waffles and pancakes. Homemaking II girls have been talking about gelatins and are going to start making yeast breads.

In English IV we are reciting poetry and taking class notes. Hey Jene, didn't you say you liked 99 lines before you were complete. In Civics we are working very diligently on check - up problems.
Study Hall class finds us all very quite except for Taronna Dee...she is always talking about Jeff Samgo or is it Sewalt.

The Home and Family Living students are studying the meanings of homes and what meanings they hold for them. The H.E.C.E. class is still working on their individual lesson plans.

Next Tuesday the mighty Wildcats will play the C.P. Buffaloes at 7:00. We want everyone there to back us to victory so ya'll come.

The F.H.A. would like to express their appreciation to Mrs. Linda Caton who gave us a very informative interesting program on gift ideas for Christmas.

In chemistry we are still discussing the same thing we discussed six weeks ago. Sorry Frank - - maybe one of these days we'll catch on.

JEST A MINUTE

The Vo Ag I boys are going to the shop to learn the proper use of hand tools and will be making a project soon.

The vo Ag II boys are in shop and are learning the use of power tools and their safety.

The vo Ag III boys have learned all about these tools and welding. They are working on several different things and are making their own project. Watch the saw, T.R.

WILDCAT COUNTRY
Hello, Wildcat fans! I hope you got to see any of the three games we had against Blanket, Strawn, and Ranger. The Wildcats played well against all three of these. The B - team consists of freshmen and sophomores. The A team starters at this moment are Kenton Joyce, and James Thompson, forwards, Johnny Turner, center, and Mackety Elliott and Randy Woods, guards. Substitutes are Kevin Rust, forward, Mark Griffin, forward, and Tony Rimer and Ken Hounsel guards.

TODAY NOT TOMORROW
Hidy! Thanksgiving is finally here. Turkey and dressing sounds delicious. The Juniors have been looking forward to the holiday for a long time.

The Juniors are trying their hand at writing a play. If they are considered good enough maybe they will present it to the public. Come on girls we've gotta write a better play than the boys.

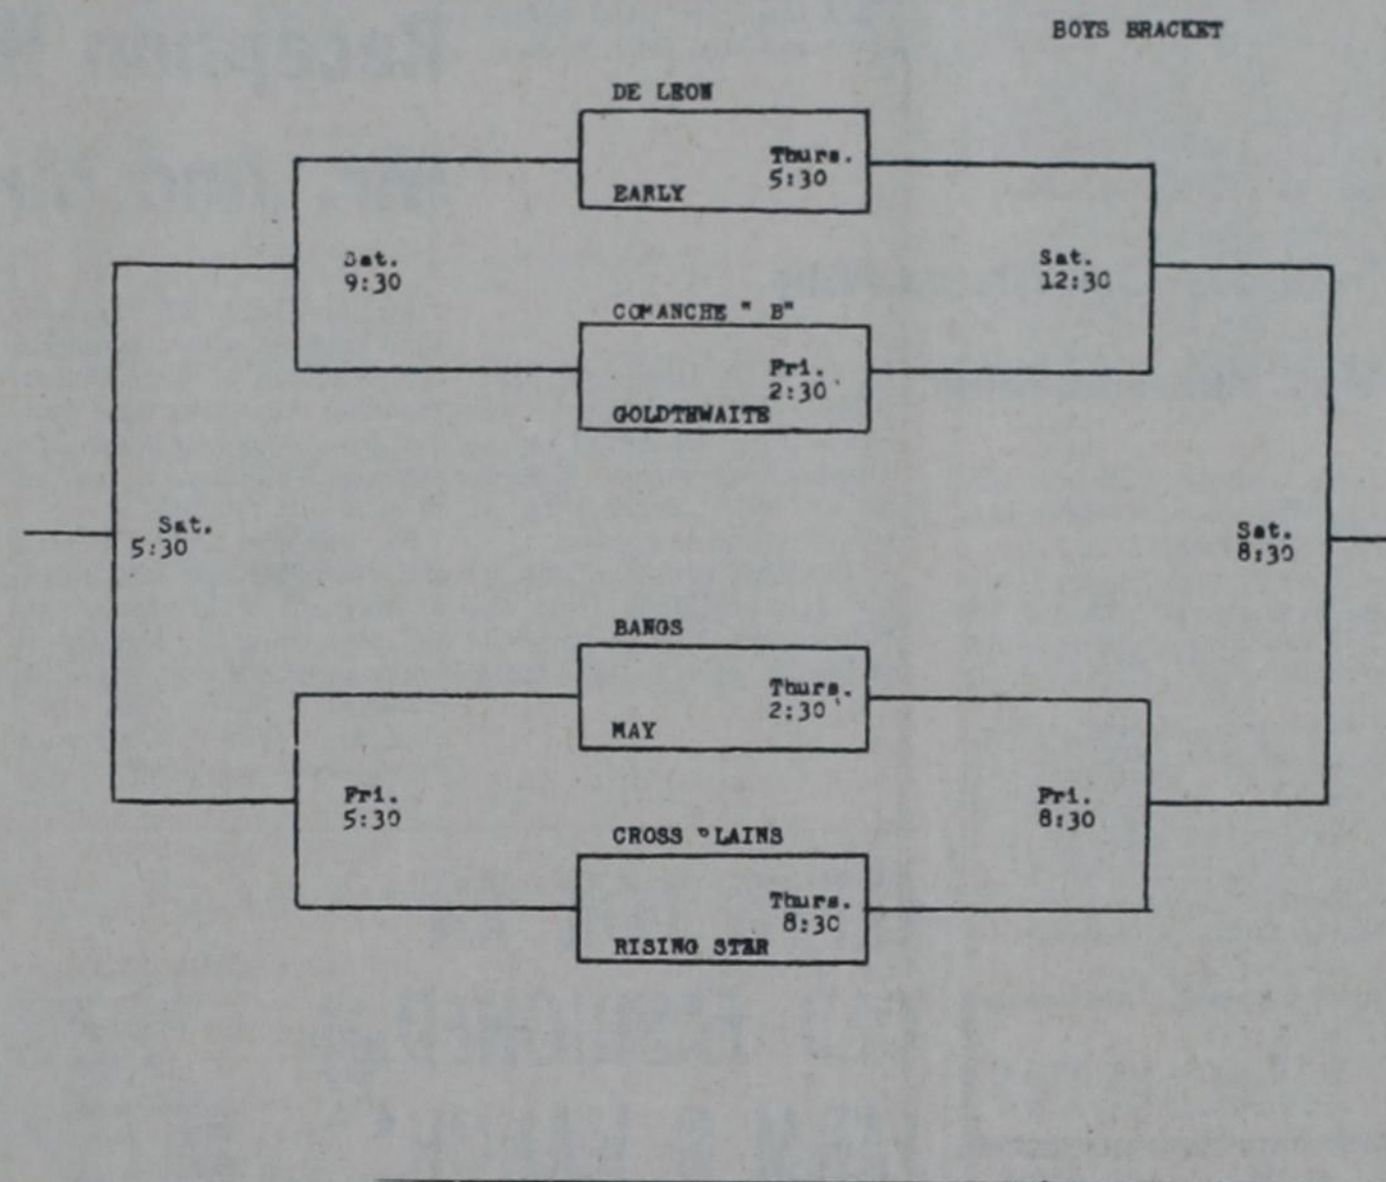

We had another debate in American History and it seems J.H. is in favor of child labor and a sixty hour work week. Just kidding, John!

"Specs" In A New Frame
By B.A.B.

If there is any moaning in the surf that rolls along the San Clemente beaches these days it is not a requiem for the fallen fortunes of one small man. It is a muted sadness for one great opportunity that was lost. Two million dollars in book royalties seems a poor reward for the almost unbelievable stupidities now revealed in Watergate-poor recompense indeed for a leader who failed a rare moment of destiny.

It is a poor situation in which to seek any substantial expression of the public will. It is a situation inviting confusion in all areas of political and economic life at a time when America never needed more a united and resolute front. As matters now stand we have a president denied the strong party presence so necessary to his ability to define administration goals and to attract a substantial and willing public support of measures often painful but essential to carry out these objectives. Such, for instance, as the conquest of inflation.

When Richard Nixon was re-elected in 1972 by an overwhelming majority he received, in effect, a commission to redefine and strengthen a two-party system that has served so well in effectuating the American political mind. The fact that his failure to do so occurred at a profoundly critical period in world history makes it all the more reprehensible.

The same loss of a visible national support threatens American influence in international affairs at a time when American strength and steadfastness are vital to a free world beleaguered on the one hand by the growing might of the communist powers and threatened on the other by a fragmentation of large areas of its alliance. It is a situation made even more ominous in the exercise of a brutal economic power by a group of oil-rich Arabian sheiks whose morals are best defined in a Judaeo-Christian concepts.

The election asserted a significant and conservative trend after the blunders and confusion of the Vietnam episode. It suggested that the nation had found its feet, so to speak, and that it was time to give that trend the leadership it needed. It was a mandate based largely upon Nixon's credible performance in the first term of his presidency. But the commission came too late; it was denied even before it was received.

It could have been different. For the United States it could have been a condition of greatly increased strength and influence. If Nixon had chosen to make the Republican Party organization the vehicle for his re-election campaign, if he had eschewed such devices as the Committee to re-elect the President and the characters associated therein, if he had made not his personality but his cause the issue of his campaign, most certainly all that Watergate now means would have been averted in the exercise of a superior, even magnificent statesmanship. The Republican Party could have seized upon the mandate of 1972 to become a stronger and definitive champion of important and disciplinary aspects of our American political faith. The Democratic Party, presented with its challenge, would perhaps now be drawn into a new unity of its own and the whole American political system revitalized in creative opposition.

A wise and foresighted Nixon would have entrusted his re-election campaign to the traditional and popular machinery of the Republican Party. Instead he had committed it to a self-worshipping cult within the framework of the party, thus making the party organization responsible for a record whereon it had little, if any, influence.

Perhaps another opportunity for such regeneration will come. But what one man must now be nearing in the surf as it rolls along the beaches of San Clemente is that irrevocable poetic lament:
"Of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these, 'It might have been'."

Isolated within a small, sycophantic enclave of questionable design he devoted himself with amazing egotism to an international result for which he had undoubted talent but which could not possibly be achieved short of the positive support of a people whose reality he seemed to distrust. He failed utterly to recognize the real meaning of the opportunity to which he had been called--an opportunity to awaken and express in positive action the underlying unity and resolution of the American people.

The result of his failure is now manifest in the wake of the November elections--a Republican party that could have been the vehicle for sound political conservatism, so attenuated in official presence as to be almost impotent, and a Democratic Party scattered among warring factions with no common denominator of political philosophy.

FROM OUR CHURCHES

First United Methodist Church Rising Star

Well another Thanksgiving Day is upon us, and what a meaningful day this could and should be for each of us. As you probably know, Thanksgiving Day is the first holiday instituted on the American continent.

But in the years that have followed that celebrated event in American history many of us have strayed somewhat from the significance given to the day by those God fearing ancestors of ours, and entirely too many of us seem to be inclined to think only of family reunions and turkey with all the trimmings.

Someone has said that gratitude and thanks giving is the memory of the heart. So, regardless of what our custom has been in the past, let each of us on this Thanksgiving Day be truly grateful.

Regardless of our condition, or circumstances in life, we have much for which to be thankful. Even though there may be many things wrong with our world, our community, which make us unhappy, we should always remember that it could probably be much worse with us than it is. And too, we may have received from life more good things than we deserve. I remember one praying to his God and saying, "Lord, we thank Thee that it is as well with us as it is."

The reason this prayer is remembered, the man was in very poor health, and was having a pretty hard time making financial ends meet. The man had little of this world's goods, no family and yet he was ever grateful and appreciative of what he had.

So, regardless of our circumstances in life, we too should and ought to be grateful for what we have. Let this day be truly Thanksgiving Day for each of us.

In reporting the sick of our church, there are two in the hospital. Miss Madge Bell is still in Hendrick Hospital in Abilene, room 279. Mr. Joe Bobben is still in the V.A. hospital in Temple. Mrs. Lessie Smith has returned home and was able to attend worship Sunday evening. She will soon be leaving to stay with her son in Denver, Colorado.

A special word of appreciation to the general public and to those who worked so hard in the success of our Country Store. Many fine things were displayed and sold, thanks to the generosity of many of our members and friends.

In loving memory of Artie Edith Boase and Clara Burkhead we extend our deepest sympathy to their families. May each be reminded of an eternal truth. "The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms." Deut. 33:27. "When the anxious hearts say "Where?" God doth answer, 'In my care'.

Were they frightened at the last? No, the dread of death was past. Do they need our tenderness? Where is love like mine to bless? Father, tell us where are they? In my keeping, night and day."

Hubert Taylor, Pastor

Church of Christ Rising Star

Most holidays are strongly nationalistic, in that they reflect some important aspect of a country's history. Today, Thanksgiving Day, is no exception. This uniquely North American holiday, celebrated in both the USA and Canada (but in October in the latter), recalls the incredible survival of a small group of 17th Century colonists, known as the Plymouth Colony, against the staggering odds of hostile elements and Indians.

It is significant to note that this national holiday sprang from a religious context, as do many of our other special days. The quality of "thankfulness" is, indeed, a central element in the entire Gospel structure. And there is so much for which to be thankful!

The Bible calls our attention to privileges and blessings believers enjoy. For instance, it tells us of God's creation and arrangement of a beautiful world and of his incomparable love for us (Genesis 1 and 2; John 3:16; Romans 5:8). It tells of Jesus, the Son of God, who "emptied himself" and submitted to the cross for us (Philippians 2:5-11; 2 Corinthians 5:21). It tells us of a life filled with love, joy, peace, longsuffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, meekness and self-control (Galatians 5:22-23; 1 Corinthians 13; Philippians 4:4-7; etc.). It continually stresses God's earnest care (Matthew 6:19-33; Luke 12:6-7; 1 Peter 5:7). It speaks of victory, even over death (1 Corinthians 15:57).

It is no wonder then that expressions like "Be ye thankful" (Colossians 3:15) are so abundant, especially in the New Testament.

Of course, Americans in general have so many things for which we should indeed be grateful: such wide-spread influence of the Gospel (although this now seems in danger of disappearing), freedom, abundant material blessings, etc. Let us not be like the nine former lepers: forgetful and ungrateful (Luke 17:11-19), but make today, and every day, - THANKSGIVING DAY.

To know more about God's rich blessings, join us in Bible study: on Sunday at 9:30 a.m., on Wednesday at 7 p.m., and in the Assemblies on Sunday: at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m.

We share the sorrow of several among us who have recently lost loved ones: Ollie Burns, Skeet Clark and Ellie Elliott, on the death of their aunt Mrs. Fannie Clark (Nov. 10); Mrs. Ora Jane White, at the passing of her last living sister Mrs. McCargue (Nov. 20); the Dean Baileys, on the death of her aunt Mrs. Clara Burkhead (Nov. 24).

As far as we know, we have none in the hospitals at this time and the other sick are doing very well, with most up and around now.

We congratulate several of our young people who were recently honored: Marilyn Clark (Representative to 1975 Washington, D.C. Congressional Seminars); FTA honorees: Randy Kinsey, Randy Bibb, Darren White, Marty Hill and Ken Housell.

On Wednesday, Dec. 11, at 9:45 a.m., Claudia Hindsley, who with her family, spent many years in mission work in France and French West Africa, is to speak to the Ladies Class. All ladies are invited.

The special studies on Satan are to be concluded this Sunday morning at 10:30 with a study on: God and Satan-The Glorious Triumph.

Have a good week. Call on us if we can be of any service. ---Owen Aikin

First Baptist Church Rising Star

"Oh, that men would praise the Lord for his goodness and for his wonderful works to the children of men!" So declares the Psalmist four times in Psalm 107.

We are told "in everything give thanks". I read of a child named Mary who was very naughty just before dinner. For her punishment her mother set her by herself at a small table in a corner of the room. The family and guests bowed their heads and the father returned grace.

As all heads were raised little Mary folded her hands, bowed her head to offer her own prayer which went as follows, "I thank Thee Lord, for preparing a table before me in the presence of mine enemies. Amen." Perhaps she did stretch the meaning of Psalm 23:5 a little, she was thankful.

Do we recognize our blessings?

Henry Ward Beecher said that if one should give me a dish of sand, and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes, and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through the sand, it would draw to itself the almost invisible particles by the mere power of attraction.

The unthankful heart, like my finger in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find, in every hour, some heavenly blessings, only the iron in God's sand is gold!

CONSERVE AND SAVE

DISH WASHER SAVER-TIPS

A dishwasher will usually hold a whole day's dishes. It takes as much hot water and energy to wash 1 dish as it does a full load. Stack your dishes out of sight in your dishwasher and wait until you have a full load to turn it on.
Use only detergents manufactured specifically for dishwashers. A wetting agent helps prevent water spots on glasses and silverware.
Clean the filter screen often. A clogged filter can reduce the efficiency of your dishwasher.

WATER HEATER SAVER-TIPS

It's amazing how much water a leaky faucet will drip in a month's time and if the leaking faucet is a hot water faucet, it will waste both energy and water needlessly. As an example, a faucet dripping 90 drops per minute will waste 300 gallons per month.

To assure long life and efficiency, the water heater tank should have a small amount of water drained periodically. Once a month should be adequate. The purpose of draining water from the tank is to prevent sediment build-up in the tank bottom.

The thermostat controlling the water temperature is usually pre-set at the factory to deliver hot water at 150° F. This setting has proven satisfactory from the standpoint of operating cost and household needs.

A water heater that's old, or too small for your family needs, can be wasteful, because it's working too hard and using too much energy to keep up with your hot water demands.
