NUMBER 19

County Tax Assessor-Collector Edgar Altom and three members of his staff were in Rising Star, Saturday, March 4, to sell automobile license plates.

When the day was over and they bundled up their records to take back to Eastland they had collected $4,942.32 in fees for the green and white tags that motorists will wear on their motor vehicles in token of having paid the required annual tax.

"And when the girls checked up on the day's sales back at the office in Eastland, they balanced out to a penny on the first run," said Altom. It is not always so. Most of the time a lot of rechecking is necessary to catch errors.

"I want you to thank the people of Rising Star for being so nice and cooperative," said Altom. "We never had a single word of complaint, even when it was not possible to issue the required plates there and we explained what had to be done, everyone involved was courteous and agreeable. We have never had a better reception, and we certainly thank the Rising Star people for their wonderful cooperation."

The new tags must be on the cars by April 1, less than three weeks away, and as yet not half of the licenses have been bought. If custom prevails, more tags will be sold during the last two weeks of March—one would almost say the last week—than are sold during all the rest of the two-month licensing period. "So far," said Altom, "we have received a single 'hot' check. But he indicated he was expecting some during the final week. A check for license tags that isn't paid means that an officer will remove the plates from the car."

Tags are issued to the counties in numbers based on the sales of the previous year. Eastland county received 9,010 passenger car tags, 3,200 for commercial motor vehicles, such as trucks, 1,390 for farm vehicles, 975 for combination trailers such as are attached to automobiles, 192 for horse trailers and 250 for motorcycles.

With the increasing number of motorcycles, Altom expects to have to reorder for these vehicles beyond the end of the summer.

Of the license fees received the county is permitted to retain all of the first $50,000. From that amount to $75,000 the proceeds are divided between the state and the county on a rather complicated formula, and above the $225,000 all goes to the state treasury except for small fees paid for handling.

Receipts from Eastland county sales usually total about $250,000 annually.

BULL O' THE WOODS—This big male channel cat is being taken from a brood pen for transfer to a fish pond at the Rankin Fish Farm southwest of Town. Ronnie Rankin, holding the 16-pound fish, explained, however, that the "cat" has outgrown his usefulness. Catfish family pairings must equate fish of equal size. Big males have been known to kill smaller females as they try to force them to deposit the eggs which the male covets as his responsibility in the perpetuation of the species, Ronnie said. Below are a view of some of the Rankin ponds and another of fingerlings being released to "plant" a pond.

Fish Farming Offers New Careers in R. S.-May Area

This is not, first in purpose, a story of how catfish are grown for the commercial market. The course in Aquaculture being taught at Texas A & M University — where Ronnie Rankin expects to get his degree next fall — does that in a detail far beyond the meager capacity of one or two newspaper columns. It is a story within a story, and its inner theme concerns the energy and imagination of a young man in developing a rewarding career in a home country that was thought to have lost its appeal to youth.

The "big idea" behind it occurred to Ronnie and dad, Ray Rankin, more than a year ago while they pondered the productive use of the four big tanks from which they pumped impounded well water upon 90 acres of irrigated peanuts.

The Rankin farm lies west of May in Brown county and eight miles southwest of Rising Star, and it represents a sizeable and integrated operation of cattle, peanuts and turkeys—and now fish. Ninety thousand turkeys per year have long been paying off as a fertilizer source as well as in direct income. But the impounded water was a part of the program that contributed nothing to help defray the high irrigation

County Livestock Show To Be Held This Week-End

Emphasis On Projects of Youth Clubs

The 1972 Eastland County Livestock Show is just around the corner and 4-H and FFA members in all parts of the county are making final preparations. Winford Fry, Eastland County Livestock Raisers Ass'n. president, said the show will be held northwest of Eastland at the County Livestock Show Barns on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 16th, 17th, and 18th.

The County Show is held each year for the benefit of 4-H and FFA members in Eastland County. Everyone is invited to purchase memberships in the E.C.L.R.A. for $1.00. This ticket is also good for a chance to win half a beef. A drawing will be held to select the winner on Saturday night.

Bill Claborn, general superintendent of the show, said that there are 457 animals entered.

The breakdown is as follows: 125 market hogs, 39 breeding hogs, 29 steers, 43 breeding beef, 7 dairy, 133 market lambs, 49 breeding sheep and 16 goats. Marking a first for the livestock show will be the addition of 16 breeding rabbits. This is the first time that rabbits have been shown in the Eastland County Show.

These animals must have been fed, fitted and cared for under the supervision of a vocational agriculture teacher or County Agent to exhibit in the show.

The program for the show will be as follows:

Thursday, March 16, 1972:

10:00 P.M.—All livestock to be on the show grounds and properly entered in their respective places. Hogs will be weighed upon arrival.

Friday, March 17, 1972:

8:00 A.M.—Classifying and sifting.

8:00 A.M.—Weigh steers.

10:00 A.M.—Judging Dairy Animals.

1:30 P.M.—Judging Breeding Swine.

3:30 P.M.—Judging Market Hogs.

5:30 P.M.—Judging Angora Goats.

6:00 P.M.—Judging Breeding Sheep.

Saturday, March 18, 1972:

8:00 A.M.—Judging Market Lambs.

10:00 A.M.—Judging Breeding Rabbits.

10:30 A.M.—Judging Market Steers.

2:00 P.M.—Judging Breeding Beef Cattle.

2:00 P.M.—Load market animals to be taken to sale barn for auction.

4:00 P.M.—Start removal of all other livestock.

7:00 P.M.—Auction and presentation of special awards.

The county show is made possible by the contribution of approximately 275 businesses and individuals throughout the county. These people have bought advertisements in the Official Catalog. The money from these sales goes to the exhibitors as premiums.

Official judges for the 1972 show will be:

Swine, Larry Osborne - Gooch Packing Company;

Beef Cattle, Frank Whitley - Farm Manager, Brownwood;

Goats - Sheep, Dennis Ellebracht - Agr. Teacher, Anson;

Fat Lambs, A.R. Wisenhant - Mullin School Superintendent;

Dairy Cattle, (will be announced); Rabbits, Byron Wilson - Tornado Rabbit Ranch, Abilene.

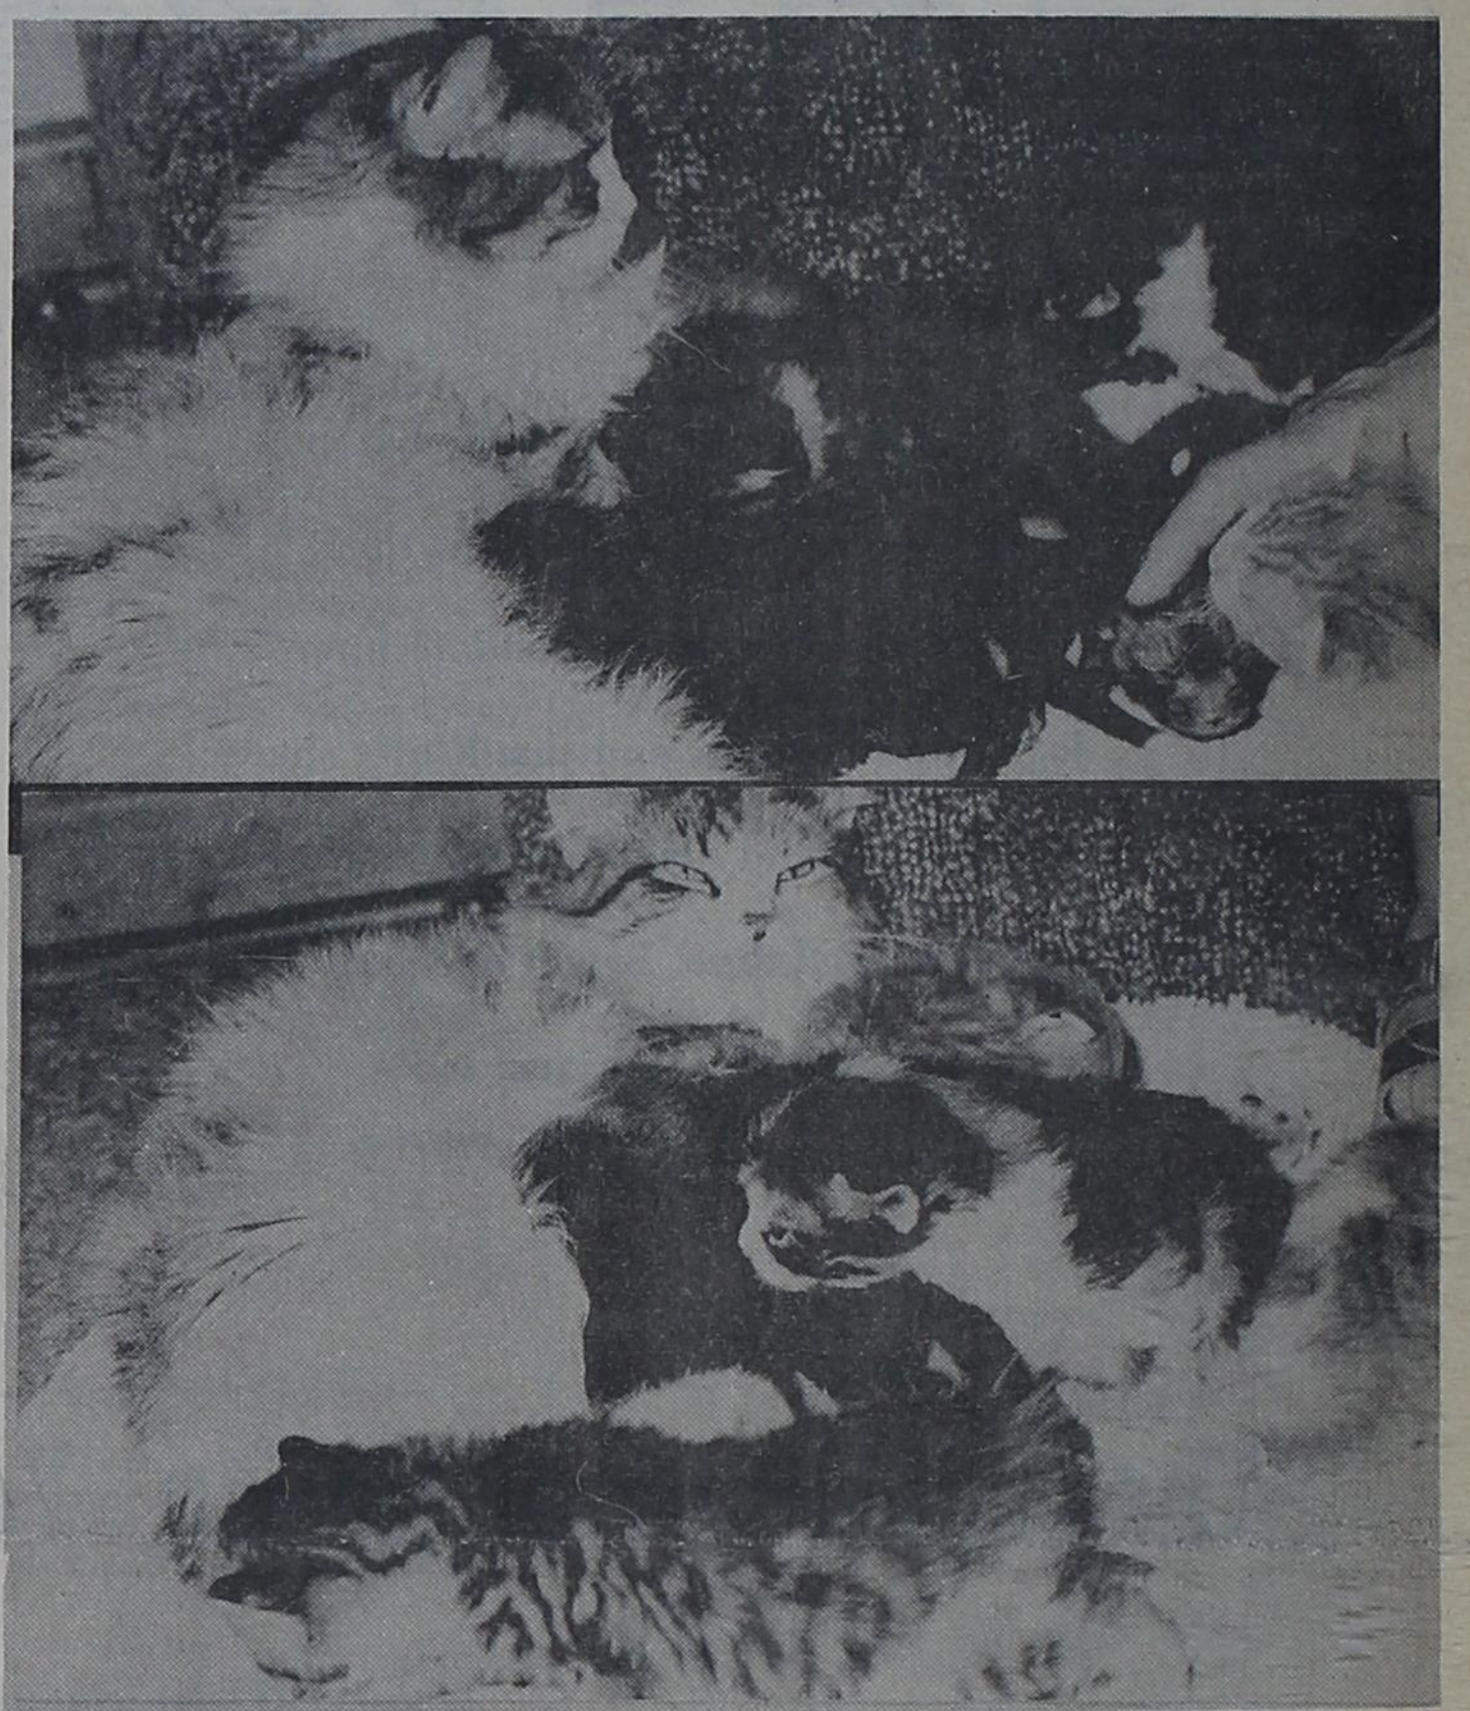

Stephenville-Fred J. Perkins, a Tarleton State College student from Rising Star, has been named to the B Honor Roll and the Distinguished Student List for the fall semester 1971.

In order to be a Distinguished Student, the student must post a semester grade point average of at least 3.25 on Tarleton's 4.0 system, and the student can have no grade lower than "C."

The B Honor Roll consists of those students who carry at least 12 semester hours and have no grade below "B."

Mr. Perkins is a senior general agriculture major.

Mrs. Florence Graves is a patient in the Comanche Hospital this week.

YOU GOT MY PLACE—There are not quite enough seats at the "dinner table" especially after "Missy", mother of four kittens, accepted four tiny foxes for adoption. Missy shows little partiality, however, and the eight babies of her family struggle for their dinners in the natural fashion of kits and kittens. Upper photo shows, at right, one of the tiny foxes not faring so well at the moment.

Motherly Instinct Is Key To Intergration Problem

An instance of integration is being accomplished in the Rising Star area without benefit of court order, busing or fiat of any kind.

It involves the motherly instincts of "Missy", a four-year-old cat of the "calico" strain, with Persian characteristics, who resides with the Dr. Billy T. Carpenter family, and four baby foxes that Jim Carpenter, eldest son of the Carpenters, dug from a den on a farm north of town while the mother fox was away.

Mealtime was a pretty bleak prospect for the fledgling foxes until Jim offered the four wild babies to Missy. Missy accepted them without hesitation and added them to her family of four week-old kittens. There are hardly enough seats at the dinner table for her expanded family of eight, but the energetic little wildlings and the equally energetic domestic kittens do a good job of sharing.

"Missy" has shown no partiality between her natural and foster children during the two weeks they have been together. But she senses a distinction, Mrs. Carpenter suggested, because in the early days of her fosterage she transported each clan separately.

Skip-Row, Not Strip Row, Meant; Peanut Vote Near

A great deal of confusion has arisen in regard to the new regulations governing USDA acreage computation of skip-row peanut plantings, according to Wayne Eaves, executive secretary of the Texas Peanut Producers Board.

Said Mr. Eaves: This pertains to skip-row planting only. The skip-row planting pattern is peanuts alternated with idle land. The strip-row planting pattern is peanuts stripped with a competitive crop. The current rules on strip-row planting remain unchanged.

"This has been thoroughly checked with the compliance department in Washington, and any reports to the contrary are erroneous. For further information or clarification, check with your local ASCS office."

Mr. Eaves also called attention to the forthcoming biennial elections for the purpose of electing three new members of the state board.

His announcement said: "The Texas Peanut Producers Board is required by law to hold biennial elections for the purpose of electing board members. At the first meeting of the board October 1, 1969, lots were drawn by members to determine the tenure of office of the initial board members. As a result of this drawing Lyndell Coan of De Leon, Billy Carruth of De Leon, and Ben Cook of May were elected for terms of two years. These members are all from District No. 1 which includes these counties: Brown, Comanche, Mills, Hamilton, San Saba, McCullough, Mason, Llano, Coryell, and Gillespie. Therefore, two members will be elected to represent this district and one to represent the state at large. Election of these members must be completed and tabulated by May 1, 1972.

"All producers of peanuts within the area defined, including owners of farms on which peanuts are produced, are eligible to vote in the election if such producer would be required under H.B. 525 to pay the assessment.

"Any producer of peanuts qualified to vote in the election who desires to be a candidate for membership on the Texas (Continued on Page Five)

"I Need Help," Said the Boy. "I Don't Know Who or Where I Am."

What would be your reaction if a nice-looking 18-year-old youth were to drive into your service station and, with a blank, troubled look on his face, tell you that he needed help, that he was lost, that he didn't remember his name, where he was from, or where he was or where he was going?

Probably just as S. C. Cotton did.

"It was my first experience with an amnesia victim, but I knew we had to start somewhere. So I called Constable W. H. (Hamp) Kornegay and the Highway Patrol."

It happened about 4 p.m., Thursday. The youth, an 18-year-old boy neatly dressed in slacks and sport shirt, drove into the Cotton Texaco station on West Highway 36, at the wheel of a 1963 Model Chevrolet.

"Where can I find a cop?"

"Do you have some problems?" asked Cotton.

"Yes, I'm lost; I don't know who or where I am, and I need help."

"Do you have any identification?"

The youth produced a billfold which held a driver's license with a name and photograph of the boy. The boy could read the name, said Cotton, but he couldn't connect it with himself, apparently. He was unable to tell Cotton the name of his parents, or where he lived.

Cotton, who operates a police band radio station in his garage, summoned Constable Kornegay and the Highway Patrol.

Using the address on the boy's driver's license, they called the sheriff at Aspermont in Stonewall county, who got in touch with the parents of the youth.

It developed during questioning — and as some features of memory returned — that the boy was a senior in Aspermont High School; that he remembered attending two classes Thursday morning, but after that and until he came to himself in a roadside park near Gustine, he could remember nothing of what happened. A sales slip folded about a Fina Credit card in his shirt pocket revealed that he had purchased gasoline at a Coleman station during the day, but he could not remember it. What routes he had taken and where he had been as he drove the car purely by reflexive action, were details of mere conjecture. "The boy only knew that he was lost and that he needed help," said Cotton.

"It was an act of God that he drove into the Cotton station where there was a radio and its quick contact with officers," said Kornegay. From 4 p.m. until 7:30 when his parents, accompanied by their 15-year-old son, drove in from Aspermont, the youth

HOME AND FAMILY HINTS

From
Higginbotham's

Barbara Williams

"Quiet in there; I'm trying to study!" . . . A familiar cry at your house? Or maybe it's "I'm trying to sleep," or maybe the two are synonymous!"

Whatever the complaint, the problem is the same. Sound waves travel more or less freely through walls and are even carried from room to room by the vibrations of the home structure itself.

Maybe you have a leakage problem. Heating registers and light switches placed back to back or small cracks between floors and walls are perfect channels for the passage of noise between rooms. Plugging these leaks by gasketing around doors and caulking around moldings will help.

There's not much to be done about electrical outlets and heating registers in an existing house, but when building a new home be sure they are NOT back to back for adjoining rooms.

If the unwanted sound comes through the walls themselves, muffle it. Sound-deadening boards, made of fiberglass and other materials, can be nailed or glued to existing dry wall. The most effective way to soundproof walls in an existing home is to add a new row of 2x2 studs along each wall, 1-2-inch from the old wall, and apply the sound-deadening boards to these studs. Then finish the wall with paneling or whatever.

In new construction the problem is easier to solve. You or the builder can install a sound-deadening insulation between studs and sound-deadening boards to the studs before installing the finished dry wall. The combination of insulation and boards practically doubles the efficiency of sound control.

If sound-proofing every room is not within the old budget, the most important rooms for which to consider sound control are the utility room and the kitchen. Another prime target is the joist space between floors of a multi-level house. Not only will overhead footsteps be muted, but you will reap the benefits of lower fuel bills and more efficient air conditioning.

Here's a quiet-plus decorating tip too: textured wall coverings can help with sound transmission and bouncing sound within a room. Felt or cork panels, for example, could add the perfect touch to a den or bedroom wall. Frame the panels with strips of finished wood or an imaginative finish of your own so it won't look like something you just stuck up there!

Noise pollution, like other pollutions, is a complicated problem. Watch for even more hints from Higginbotham's! Perhaps your pollution solution will be included!

Mrs. Williams, Higginbotham's Staff Home Economist, may be contacted through your local Higginbotham's store or by calling (915) 356-2545. She will be happy to assist individuals or groups with problems in home economics.

Wildcat Tales

TODAY NOT TOMORROW

Hi, again! Another week of school has gone by and many things have happened. The "Harlem Stars" have been here and left with a whirl! We hope that everyone enjoyed the game. Mr. Rust won the cake on which we sold chances.

Debbie T. seems to be very happy this week - I wonder why? Could it have anything to do with R. C.'s surprise arrival?

We finally finished our practice sets. We had our last test over them last week. Most of us are glad to be finished with them - right W. B.?

Civics finds us studying for a unit test - ugh! R. G., what's this about having good eyes? We gave book reports in English IV last Friday; Mrs. Claborn gave us a test last week, and now we are studying verbal phrases.

S. G., what about another wreck? That could become expensive! That's about all the news for this week, so until next time keep an eye on the Sober Seniors of '72'.

Paula

NOT FINISHED - JUST BEGUN

Hello!
Another week has gone by, in just about two weeks we will be having a short vacation. Easter. Yea, Easter! Is there any truth to the ugly rumor that six weeks' tests will be given before we get out for a vacation?

Does anybody know what Saralyn Buder has been so happy about lately?

We are studying verbal phrases in English III. Does everyone know the difference between a gerund and a participle? How about an infinitive? Did all pass that last Geometry test? It does seem that they would get easier instead of harder after while.

A warning: If Andy starts looking at you strangely, watch it!

Till next week,
Sharon

STRONGER BECAUSE UNITED

Hi, everyone! Things have really been busy the past week around RSHS. If you did not attend P.T.A. and Open House last Thursday evening, you are the loser.

All the girls are getting ready for try-outs; it won't be long until May 2.

Our classes are going smoothly these days.

In English II we have just completed our fifth book report and studying verbals.

World History class is working in notebooks and taking a unit test. We are glad to have Mr. Nunnally back with us; even though, he does not teach in the afternoons.

Home Ec. II girls are through sewing and will start in our textbooks with a new Phy. Science class is studying the use of lab equipment, their functions, and uses.

The Ag. II boys are getting ready for the Eastland Stock Show this Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

All for now.
C. ya next week.
Judi

IN THE FISHBOWL

Track has really started rolling. Last week we went to Robert Lee; this Saturday we go to Rochelle, and next weekend we have a meet at Co. ranch; practice meets in between. It will not be long until District. We have been working to build up strength and are ready to run. (Did I hear someone say, "Speak for yourself?")

Classes have been very smooth. In English last week book reports were due; thus, a lot of books were checked out last week.

Last Monday we started Driver's Education. There are twenty-eight students this year and Mr. Hill is our teacher; the schedule is from 4:00 to 5:30 after school.

We hope most of you enjoyed Open House last Thursday night. A few Fish who had finished their dresses in Home Ec. were in the style show for the P. T. A. By the way, have you been attending the P. T. A. meetings? That about wraps it up. See ya.

Sharon.

WITH THE FARMHANDS

This week our FFA chapter is getting its first experience of Mr. Claves McCary's teaching; he is a student teacher from Tarleton State. The Ag I boys are finishing their shoe boxes and prying as much information as possible from Guy Stewart; he went to Houston and was in a call scramble. He missed his calf but was awarded a hard luck calf for his great efforts.

The Ag II boys are preparing the chapter pigs for the county show this weekend.

The Ag III boys are finishing some shelves in the store-room; however, we are having trouble getting boards to fit. Your reporter, Stony Smith

"DO - RE - MI"

The ratings for the concert playing and sight reading at the contest really surprised us. We received a IV, fair in concert and a III-plus, good and almost excellent in sight reading. This is what shocked us because the ratings were exactly opposite to what we expected. Back in band Monday, we were really put to work cleaning and straightening the room. It just about looks like a brand new band hall should look; do you agree after seeing it at Open House? Mr. Gillum appreciates your visiting with him and viewing the room. We hope you enjoyed it as we did! Tootles,
Evanne Woody

"WHO'S WHO"

Mary Jane Kizer was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kizer on June 1, 1954, in Baird, Texas. The green-eyed brunette is now a very popular senior at R.S.H.S. One can tell she is popular by her honors which include being elected Cheerleader, Class Favorite, Most Attractive, Miss Betty Crocker, and "La Estrellita" editor her senior year. Some of Mary's favorites in the food section are steak and baked potatoes; her colors are yellow and green. "Love Story" is her favorite movie, while Haley Mills and Clint Eastwood are her favorite actors. Her hobbies are bicycle riding, swimming, horseback riding, and skiing. While watching T. V., she likes Big Valley and Night Gallery; she likes to hear "Thing Called Love" on the radio or tape deck. Charlie Pride singing "Kiss An Angel Good Morning" is another big favorite in the singer and song categories. She is undecided about her future plans right now, but her philosophy of life is one she practices a lot - Smile.

Best of luck to you always - Mary Jane.

"KITCHEN CARPETING"

Any homemaker who assumes that "indoor/outdoor" carpet would be ideal for her kitchen makes a serious mistake.

Conditions in a kitchen differ not only from those outside, but also from those in the rest of the house. Kitchen floors are subject not only to atmospheric dust, but also to continuous spillage of water, oil and grease as well as to other food stains.

So kitchen carpet must be constructed in such a manner that it can be easily maintained.

It should be either woven or tufted with low-level dense loop pile. Foam or sponge rubber cushioning should be bonded to the carpet rather than separate.

Felt-type needlepunch carpets should never be used in the kitchen. The densely matted, horizontal fiber construction of needlepunch carpet becomes a trap for grease and food particles which sift right through to the bottom. This type of carpet may be cleaned effectively only by flooding which is obviously impossible in a kitchen.

Tom Holmes is against taxes on feed, seed, fertilizer or farm machinery.

Tom Holmes is against taxes on feed, seed, fertilizer or farm machinery. He is a State Senator from the 1st District.

L. C.'S GOALFLINGERS

It seems as though that even in a season full of disappointment a little success has come. As you know, every year each district picks an All-District team. RSHS was pleased to have four representing our school. Ruthie Wilson and Cynthia Housel made All-District First Team for the girls, and Debbie Chambers was selected for Honorable Mention. Alvin Spencer was selected on the boy's Honorable Mention team. Cynthia and Ruthie made the All-Area Team, which is a real accomplishment since we were not district winners.

Track season is getting into the full swing of things. Robert Lee track meet was a real success. It will help us on the way to winning the district meet this year. The Rochelle meet is this Saturday in a boy and girls' track meet. Mary "Household Ecology" is the program that is being given in each of the Home Demonstration Clubs this month. This program includes such facts as... the average person produces more than 5 lbs. trash daily and by 1980 an estimated 8 lbs. daily. Ecology affects everyone, and the best place to start is at home!

tufted or woven carpet, on the other hand, can be home-shampooed as well as vacuumed. The backing acts as a barrier just below the pile, keeping any moisture and food particles from penetrating to the bottom of the carpet. March Busy Month For Home Gardeners!

Caladium tubers are now available in the nurseries and garden stores. Make your selections early to insure getting the colors you want. Do not plant out-of-doors until soil temperatures reach 70 degrees F. In College Station this is about May 1.

Gladiolus plantings should be completed this month. Ever popular are the hanging baskets for pretty color and baskets! Use cascade petunias in hanging baskets for pretty color and variety.

This is the ideal time to purchase and plant new perennials. Selections that are now available at garden centers and nurseries include phlox, thrift, Shasta daisy, hollyhock, platycodon, iris, and daylilies.

costs. Ronnie's studies at A&M led him to think of one high protein meat crop that can be fed out in water-channel catfish, a crop successfully produced in the states of the Mississippi delta country and in South Texas, and one, as he pointed out, still far from potential.

"It's like a cattle feeding operation," he explained—an operation such as Jerry Winfrey and Payton Scott, two other young Rising Star innovators in the cattle field, are carrying on east of Rising Star—only you do it in water."

On March 13, just about a year ago, Ray and Ronnie went to the Wichita Fisheries at Lake Kemp near Wichita Falls, and purchased 15,000 fingerlings which they placed in their ponds. A little later they added brood fish of their own, which they pair in a battery of special small pens.

To say that they did this is, for the economy of words, to telescope a lot of time, study and preparation into a sentence or two.

"It has proved a bigger job than we thought," said Ronnie. "There is a lot more to it than you could possibly imagine."

But he finds it rewarding, as testifies the fact that the original operation of four ponds has grown to 21 ponds and a planned production of 45,000 fish this year. The beginnings were in ponds dug simply as irrigation well reservoirs; the later series of tanks are designed also for fish culture—a design that permits bottom drainage, rich in fish manure, as the water is pumped onto the peanut fields through batteries of irrigation sprinklers.

Ronnie calls his project a modified "race-way" system. "Race-way" designates an operation utilizing clean stream water in a diverted flow through the fish farm ponds before it returns to the river.

In the Rankin operation, fresh well water is added to the tanks as the bottom water is drained away, creating a circulating effect.

The design is aimed at more than utilizing the fertilizer from the ponds. It is planned primarily to assist the greatest conservation of oxygen, so vital to fish culture. To this end the ponds are kept religiously free of algae, notorious as an oxygen robber and a promoter of the parasites that infest fish in most natural streams or untended ponds and give them an offensive smell and sleaziness. Fish from the Rankin farm have no odor; they are clean and "sweet." To guard against infestation, fish farm operators, such as the Rankins, sterilize their ponds with a formula based on formaldehyde.

But the real key to a proper oxygen balance and fish health is care in feeding the high protein, special fish food purchased from the big feed companies, Ronnie explained.

The Rankins are careful to feed no more than the fish will eat. Weather conditions, among other environmental factors, have a great influence upon fish feeding habits—and their biting.

Fish are among the most efficient food converters in the animal world.

A production ratio of one pound of fish to a pound and one-half of food is considered average. In comparison, cattle convert food to flesh at about an 8 to 1 ratio.

When the fish do not rise to the food, feeding is suspended until they are hungry and then they are fed all they will eat. Food that falls to the bottom is not only wasted; it is doubly costly in that it promotes the growth of algae and other organisms that upset the oxygen balance. Some fish farm operations have floundered upon this fact, said Ronnie.

Farm catfish need little water volume per pound of fish, provided the oxygen is available. One cubic foot of water under favorable conditions will produce a lot of fish, and a fingerling will grow to the favored market weight of one to one and a half pounds in a few short months.

Plankton, a tiny marine animal which grows naturally in fertilized ponds, giving the water a lucid, greenish hue, is the food of the fry. Fry are the tiny fish as they hatch from the gelatinous masses of eggs, deposited by the female and fertilized by the male, who guards them fiercely for the four or five days before the mass is removed from the brood pen to the hatching troughs. As the eggs hatch, the tiny germ of fish life feeds on the yolk until it is transferred to the fingerling pond and its diet of plankton.

This is the critical period for the baby fish; they are protected from the cannibalism of bigger fish, but many other dangers make the environment hostile. Fry are extremely sensitive to weather, and insects are a vicious problem. To guard against the mauling of striders, water beetles, etc., the Rankins do not fill the fingerling ponds until the fry is ready to be transferred. An interesting aspect of the developing fish culture—and one of particular appeal to the geneticist—is the methods now being explored to upgrade the breeding of the fish. For about ten years now, said Ronnie, fish culturists have been endeavoring to produce strains with less head, fins, etc. and more meat body.

Meanwhile you can fish well at the Rankin farm without a license, provided you pay for what you catch. And if you don't make a catch—which would label you a very poor fisherman indeed—the Rankins will catch the fish for you and deliver them, dressed or undressed—also for a price.

The Rankins are natives of their area, Mrs. Ray Rankin is the former Irene Guynes, whose home was "just over the mountain" from that of her husband. They have four children of whom the eldest is Ronnie.

Ronnie, last fall married a Rising Star girl, Shirley Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Smith, and a graduate of Texas Tech. Shirley doesn't put her English major to work raising fish—although it may come in handy in the selling end of the business—but, said Ronnie, "How that girl can handle a feed shovel."

"I Need Help—"

sat in a chair in the Cotton station office without response other than to answer questions. He continued to stare into space with a puzzled look on his face. But when his parents arrived, he recognized them.

They said that the boy had suffered a head injury while playing football last fall and that he had been under treatment by their family doctor and a specialist at Abilene, but apparently had recovered.

Cotton called the family Friday morning and the boy's mother said that he still could not remember what happened between school and the roadside park near Gustine, but that he was resting well. The doctor had put him back on medication, she said, and it was quite probable he would be placed under the care of the specialist again.

Cotton told the mother that the Rising Star people would like to keep in touch to know how the youth gets along. "They are a very nice family," he said.

Floyd Hardin of Ada, Okla., visited his mother, Mrs. A.G. Hardin, at Twilight Acres Nursing Home recently. He also visited Mr. and Mrs. James Armstrong.

Sen. Tom Creighton Seeks Re-election

Senator Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells has today announced his intentions to seek re-election from the 22nd Senatorial District to the Texas Senate for the term commencing January 1973. Creighton was first elected to the Senate in 1960 and is now fifth in seniority.

During his twelve years in the Senate, Creighton has been chairman of the important Water and Conservation Committee, Committee on Privileges and Elections, Committee on Finance, and the Senate Appropriations Committee. For the past three sessions, he has served on the Senate Appropriations Committee, as well as the House Conference Committee on Appropriations, as well as the powerful Legislative Budget Board. His conservative beliefs on spending have been evident during these years.

The newly constituted 22nd District includes Comanche, Cooke, Denton, Eastland, Erath, Hill, Hood, Jack, Johnson, Montague, Palo Pinto, Parker, Somervell, Stephens, Wise and Young.

Creighton and his wife, the former Mrs. Sparks, together with their three sons, Will, Kenny and Mark, reside in Mineral Wells where he is a practicing attorney.

In making this announcement, the veteran Senator said, "I believe that my re-election will prove to be of the utmost benefit to our District because of my past experience and seniority which will assure my appointment to the most important committees."

you forgot...

- You forgot the senior citizens...
- You forgot the housewives...
- You forgot the businessmen...
- You forgot the working man...
- You forgot the school children...
- You forgot the school teachers...

Despite the squeals of denial from your frantic, fading campaign... the record is clear... in official Senate records and in the newspapers... and while you forgot... the people have remembered that... You are the man who tried to ram the grocery tax down the throats of Texans last year in the Senate... You have said publicly that if you go back to Austin you will try again to tax groceries... and medicines and drugs... and school lunches... and meals served hospital patients... and rent on houses and apartments... and water we use on our lawns... and feed, seed and fertilizer... and farm machinery and livestock

Tom, the Tax Man, you forgot... but...

THE PEOPLE WILL REMEMBER

In 1970, Walter Steimel made a brave and almost-successful effort to defeat Sen. Tom Creighton and remove him from the position of power which he has abused so blatantly. During that campaign, Steimel ran the newspaper ad pictured above, right, in the May 1, 1970 edition of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. This ad speaks the truth.

In 1972, another effort is being made to retire Sen. Creighton from the State Senate. This time we will be successful. The man who is going to beat Creighton in the Democratic Primary on May 6th is also named Tom, but the similarity ends there. The "Other Tom" is Tom Holmes, who as a State Representative from the 51st District has consistently and vigorously fought any attempt to tax food, medicine, feed, seed, farm machinery and fertilizer... and he will always do so. So when you go to the polls on May 6th, remember to—

Vote For The Other Tom In The Race
TOM HOLMES FOR STATE SENATOR

The people will elect the good man who has pledged he never will tax these necessities. The people will elect

As It Looks From Here

By Omar Burleson

Washington, D.C.—Thousands of young men, the exact number unknown, evaded the Vietnam war illegally and are now living mostly in Canada and Sweden.

Should they be forgiven and granted amnesty? If so, should it apply only to draft resisters or also deserters? Should their forgiveness be tied to certain conditions of atonement or should these young men continue subject to prosecution, which would mean that most would remain in exile?

These are questions that touch the raw emotions generated by the war itself. These emotions run the full spectrum from the ennobling of the draft dodger as above the law to the furious portrayal of these men as self-indulgent cowards to be written off by their country, permanently or indefinitely.

There are estimated to be 70,000 to 100,000 young men living outside the United States, having left to avoid prosecution for draft dodging or desertion. Late last year the Department of Defense listed 35,249 deserters still at large.

Legislation introduced in the Congress distinguishes between the draft dodger and deserter and provides that amnesty be granted the draft resisters on condition that they return to the United States and serve three years as provided in a Senate Bill and two years in a House Bill, either in civilian or military programs. Deserters are not included in the proposed legislation.

Either the Congress by legislation or the President by proclamation can grant amnesty and there is precedent for it. The U.S. Constitution, Article II, Section 2, says, "The President...shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States..." The Constitution does not use the word amnesty but there is a long tradition of it being applied. George Washington granted this forgiveness to farmers who staged the Whiskey Rebellion in 1794.

On December 8, 1863, Abraham Lincoln issued a proclamation for general amnesty for persons who would sign an oath of allegiance to the Union. This was more than a year before Lee surrendered at Appomattox. Andrew Johnson declared three general amnesties, requiring an oath of allegiance, in 1865, 1867, and 1868. In 1924, Calvin Coolidge granted amnesty to men who had deserted since the World War I armistice.

Former President Truman appointed a board to look into the matter of recommending pardons for 15,805 men convicted of violating Selective Service during World War II. The board recommended 1,523 pardons and they were granted by Mr. Truman.

For whatever may eventually be the case justifying amnesty for deserters and draft evaders of the present war, the time is certainly not now and neither by legislation nor Presidential order is it soon likely.

The war in Vietnam is winding down but it is not over. We still have men in Southeast Asia and some are fighting and a few are dying. At least 55,000 American boys have already died in that unfortunate conflict. Other American men languish in North Vietnam prisons. To welcome home, at this time, the draft dodgers and deserters, as if what they did was guileless and incidental, would be a monumental affront to those who have performed their duty and continue to perform it.

The word "amnesty" derives from the Greek word amnesia, meaning "forgetfulness." In reverse, to grant amnesty at this time to the draft evaders and deserters would be forgetfulness of those 55,000 or more who have given their lives in Vietnam and the environs and forgetful of those prisoners of war whose condition and circumstances should be wringing the heart of America.

Time has a way of changing things but not enough now to make us forgetful.
