Are IRAs still a good idea?

If you're looking for a great way to save for retirement, then IRAs are still a good idea. Despite changes in the tax laws, many people can still deduct all or part of their IRA contribution. And even if your contribution isn't deductible, with an IRA, every dollar you earn grows tax-deferred until it's withdrawn.

I can give you the answers to your questions on IRAs. Call or stop by today.

Says...

"Recently, a longtime member of the House of Representatives (Austin) retired and put over $400,000 in his pocket!"

This was money he had received from campaign contributions. When Sudderth was a representative in the 1950s, a law was enacted which prohibited this despicable conduct!

"If you will send me back to Austin, I will sponsor legislation to once again prohibit this type of dishonesty in our state government. I will require that all campaign funds not spent be returned to the donor or given to charity!"

Ben Doyle Sudderth is not accepting any campaign contributions from lobbyists or any special interest group.

SHERIFF RONNIE B. WHITE AND FAMILY -- Ronnie White was appointed Sheriff of Eastland County by the County Commissioners Court Tuesday morning to serve the unexpired term of Dee Hogan who resigned. White was sheriff here during the mid-'70s. He is shown here with his wife Pam and son, Russell, now in the Air Force, and daughter, Mrs. Joe Don (Robin) McCollum.

Commissioners

the Sheriff or appointment of a new Sheriff.

A meeting was called for 10 a.m. Tuesday, when some action was anticipated.

Other matters were considered Monday by the court. Approved was a request by Reggie Pittman, Commissioner of Pct. 4, to advertise and purchase a new dump truck. This is expected to cost $23,500 and permission was granted for Pittman to borrow the money from the General Fund. This truck will be used to haul gravel, Pittman said.

Pittman also had a jail report. He said there were 15 prisoners in all, with 3 for TDC, 1 for the city and 11 for the county.

The Commissioners asked David Franklin when he expected the annual jail inspection from the Texas Department of Jail Standards.

Franklin replied that it would probably be some time in March, but he wasn't sure exactly when. He said plans for the inspection are going on right now, and he and Sheriff's Department employees are making sure everything is in order.

Quite a bit of time Monday was spent in discussing the implementation of the 9-1-1 Emergency System in the County, and the addressing of all homes.

Michelle Atterbury of the West Central Texas Council of Governments spoke on the requirements of rural addressing, in which each home in the system must be numbered.

Atterbury also said that a changeover to more complicated equipment would cause a delay of several months in 9-1-1 service here. It had been originally targeted to begin in Eastland County by Jan. 1, 1991 - now it will probably begin in March of 1992.

John Davis of Clyde, who has been involved with mapping and road signs in the county, said: "Everything on the map is not complete and will not be complete until we get a physical address at each house."

Michelle Atterbury stated she would supply the local newspapers more information on this matter.

RRC Chairman Nugent Briefs TIPRO On World Oil Supply

Railroad Commission Chairman James E. (Jim) Nugent summarized the world oil supply situation and the effect the Middle East war may have on production and demand in an address to the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association recently.

Nugent also outlined the growing importance of natural gas in the U.S. energy mix and Texas' advantageous position as the leading gas-producing state.

The text of Nugent's address follows:

Where Do We Stand As To Available Oil Supplies Today

OPEC strategic stocks (near consuming markets) held in storage and afloat are better than 100 MNL BBLs - about 60 MNL barrels above normal.

Oil in transit at the end of December was reported at steep levels due to long haul shipments out of the Gulf ahead of the January 15th deadline.

OECD (Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development - Western Europe) oil stocks on hand are at 110 year high of about 3.6 billion barrels.

Lower economic growth and warmer than normal winter weather have eroded demand in consuming nations.

DOE shows a sharp U.S. demand decline at the end of the year of 1.7 MLN BLS/Day. European demand down about 500,000 B/D. The Far East growth has slowed to a modest increase 100,000 B/D.

Present war demand may sweep to as high as 500,000 BPD from 250,000 BPD.

At the present time world oil production is from 200-500 thousand BPD above world usage and climbing. At the end of hostilities Iraq may be able to produce 3 MMBPD and Kuwait 1.5 MMBPD. Adding another 4.5 MMBPD to world supply. That means having about 5 MMBPD in excess of world usage and a very direct impact on world oil prices (maybe back to the $15-$20 per barrel range.)

Texas natural gas producers have a golden opportunity to expand into developing markets as new environmental laws take effect. The Texas Legislature has authorized the conversion of up to 750,000 government and school district vehicles this decade.

Many of these vehicles will be powered by clean-burning compressed natural gas, which costs about 70 cents per equivalent gallon of gasoline.

Meanwhile, the Federal Clean Air Act will spur the additional conversion of millions of fleet vehicles nationwide.

Thanks to our abundant gas reserves, thousands of new jobs will be created as Texans lead the way in mobilizing America's drive for clean air.

Natural gas is increasingly viewed in Texas and the United States as the premier fuel of the 90's.

There are new and expanding markets for natural gas as fuel-switching becomes a priority in the upper Midwest and Northeastern U.S.

Natural Gas is the fuel that can be most readily substituted for foreign oil, in industrial and electric utility markets and in transportation.

Environmental initiatives, like the recently enacted Clean Air Act, will boost applications for this clean-burning fuel.

Across the United States, industrial plants and electric utilities will be required to reduce emissions. To remedy this problem, natural gas is the answer.

Further, the use of compressed natural gas as an alternate motor fuel in fleet vehicles will open an attractive market. Indeed, if all the fleet vehicles that are centrally refueled in the United States were run on compressed natural gas, this would reduce our oil imports by another 140 million barrels per year.

With its economic and environmental advantages, natural gas is certain to win a larger market share of the U.S. energy mix.

For its current and new applications in our future, gas is nature's perfect fuel - its supplies are abundant, secure, and home-grown. And we want that market.

And now more than ever we need a national energy policy - one to stabilize or diminish or dependence on imported oil and with incentives to keep our oil and gas industry healthy and alive.

Over the last 4 years Texas oil production has gone down at the rate of 12,000 barrels per month.

NOW
For the period of July to November 1990 our latest preliminary figures indicate production has increased 33,000 barrels, or 8,000 barrels per month. A 20,000 barrel per month swing.

Lt. Governor Bullock Appoints Bob Glasgow To Committees

State Senator Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, has been appointed to five committees and three subcommittees by Lt. Governor Bob Bullock.

Glasgow will serve as Chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee, and as Chairman of the Subcommittee on Legislative Districts. Glasgow has also been appointed Vice Chairman of the Senate Jurisprudence Committee and the Subcommittee on Elections and Ethics. Glasgow will also serve on the Senate Education Committee, Senate Nominations Committee and Senate Administration Committee.

As Chairman of the 17-member Subcommittee on Legislative Districts, Glasgow will oversee the drawing of new State Senate and House of Representative districts. Redistricting is done at the beginning of every decade after the census count in order to protect the "one person - one vote" rule.

The Senate State Affairs Committee will handle a number of different legislative issues, including the omnibus ethics reform bill - SB 1 - filed by Sen. Glasgow last week. Other bills likely to be referred to State Affairs include legislation affecting utility companies, alcoholic beverage regulation, transportation, elections, and State agency regulation.

The Senate Education Committee, a committee Glasgow had not previously served on, will handle legislation relating to both public and higher education. Reforms to the State's current school finance system, passed last spring during Special Session, are currently under review by the Texas Supreme Court. Should the court find the system does not meet constitutional mandates, the Senate Education Committee will be charged with writing a new finance plan.

Glasgow's assignments also include another new committee assignment. The Senate Nominations Committee is charged with investigating each gubernatorial appointee and reporting to the entire Senate on their findings before the person is confirmed. Major appointments during the Regular Session include seats on the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, Texas Department of Commerce, Texas Parks and Wildlife, Texas Public Finance Authority, Texas Board of Health, Texas Board of Human Services and Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The top leadership of the Texas Legislature has agreed to offer a new state property tax to voters as a way to equalize public school financing.

Lawmakers dusted off the old state ad valorem tax, repealed by voters last decade, after the Texas Supreme Court declared the reformed system unconstitutional.

The Court said lawmakers must act by April 1 to install a fairer system of funding, or answer for a court-ordered cut-off of state funds to all Texas public schools on that day.

The orders have the top legislative leadership, all Democrats, squirming because it leaves them with no choice other than new taxes.

Senate Education Committee chairman Carl Parker came up with the idea of reviving the old state property tax, and he would like to sweeten it for voters by abolishing local school property taxes.

May Election

House Speaker Gib Lewis said if the Legislature doesn't stall in debate, the proposed amendment could be placed before voters as early as a May election.

Just what the Supreme Court justices will do if voters reject the new tax remains to be seen, and lawmakers are praying the Court would not wade deeper into the legislative process.

Parker warned the court not to get into the business of administering the public school system.

Speaker's Trial Postponed

Lewis won a legislative continuance on his trial for two misdemeanor indictments on ethics violations, but a series of special legislative sessions to handle the education finance issue plus any of a number of crises could lengthen the wait.

Austin District Atty Ronnie Earle, himself a former state representative, said he agreed with the continuance ruling, but added he will continue to probe Lewis on issues which could result in felony indictments.

Frankly, the House would relish a new speaker's election in the middle of the critical school finance debate, even if a slew of felony indictments were thrown at Lewis.

Speaker Lewis countered the prosecution team last week by filing a lawsuit against Earle for violation of civil rights.

What Took So Long?

Despite her strongest vows to clean up legislative ethics, Gov. Ann Richards emerged in a compromised position last week after she nominated Beaumont lawyer Walter Umphrey to the Texas Parks & Wildlife Commission.

Richards campaigned against government-for-sale and blasted her opponent as an anti-environmentalist, but she now faces the odor of political hypocrisy for several reasons:

■ Umphrey and his law firm put $350,000 into her election campaign, $200,000 coming in the desperate last days before the election.

■ Umphrey is not liked by environmentalists because he owns part of a hazardous waste disposal company which dumps on sites near environmentally sensitive areas.

■ He also has recent violations of state and federal hunting laws by guests on his land. The TP&WD regulates hunting.

Has she back-stepped into the same appointments-for-sale politics that she hung on former Gov. Mark White in the primary? Her detractors ask with a smile, what took her so long?

Other Highlights

■ In the special election for the state senate seat vacated by now-Congressman Chet Edwards, Waco state Rep. Betty Denton and former Waco mayor David Sibley are in a run-off election.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock last week campaigned for fellow Democrat Denton against Sibley, a Republican.

■ Lobbyists for pari-mutuel betting said they will support a proposed state lottery if lottery advocates will support lowering the state tax on their betting.

■ An Oklahoma U.S. Senate candidate last year, Virginia Jenner, criticized Ann Richards for trying to "legislate morality" with her plan to set up a state ethics commission.

"Setting up one group of politicians on an ethics commission to blacklist another group of pols is the pot calling the kettle black," she said, adding Ann's hero "John Henry Faulk must be spinning in his grave."

Farmers Being Contacted For 1990 Acreage Information

The Texas Agricultural Statistics Service will begin contacting farmers and ranchers across the state in late November for 1990 acreage, yield and production totals and end-of-year livestock and poultry inventories.

"Extreme weather conditions have certainly had an impact on Texas agriculture this year. From the heavy rains and flooding in East Texas last spring to this summer's prolonged hot, dry conditions, weather has been a major factor in Texas production this year. These surveys should help us summarize where the industry stands at the end of 1990," state statistician Dennis Findley explained.

"Information from these confidential surveys conducted by mail, telephone or in person will also help producers make their plans for the coming year.

"Sound production and marketing decisions require good, reliable information and some advanced planning, and our reports provide producers with solid facts and figures they can incorporate into their plans," Findley added.

As always, the Texas service will be trying to keep survey costs at a minimum, so Findley is urging producers to return their mailed questionnaires as soon as possible to avoid follow-up contacts.

"Remember, these are sample surveys, so if you are contacted it is important to provide the requested information, since one producer represents several other operations of the same type and size. Our estimates can be no better than the numbers producers provide," Findley noted.

Results of the surveys will be published in early 1991. Anyone wanting a copy of the results can write Information Section, Texas Agricultural Statistics Service, P. O. Box 70, Austin, TX 78767.

stored, and available for each emergency run.

No one in the whole organization is paid to do any of this service. It is completely volunteer work by busy people who are doing this willingly to provide emergency help to those who become ill or injured and require specialized equipment and personnel to transport them to the hospital requested by physician or patient. Rising Star Ambulance Service is described in license application to encompass an area within about a 30 mile radius. The Abilene Hospitals are an exception because many people here use the physicians and hospitals there. If an ambulance service is not absolutely necessary to take an individual to or from the hospital for emergency service and with physician order, it is possible the license provisions can not be met to keep your service operating.

There is no charge made for services because the agreement has been that this is an ambulance service by the people and for the people in our area. Contributions can be made through the Peoples' State Bank, Rising Star, Account No. 55-483-9. Further reports on regulations and personnel, finances and structure of the state regulated services will follow later.

Mediplex Opens Cross Plains Branch Office

Mediplex, a home health care business with headquarters in Abilene, has opened a branch office in Cross Plains. Linda Payne, a registered nurse, is one of the staff which offers 24-hour service; the number is 817/725-3132.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony at the office at 912 N. Main, where Dr. Sohn had his offices, is planned by Mediplex in the future.

In addition to the professional nursing care, therapy and other services it offers, Mediplex sets up health screening tests in area neighborhoods. Free blood pressure checks, a blood sugar test for a $2 fee and a cholesterol test for $5 are available at the City Office (formerly City Hall) in Cross Plains from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, February 3, and at Lake Brownwood Volunteer Fire Department from 7 a.m. to noon Wednesday, February 6. Any age person may take advantage of these health tests.

Home health care services may be funded by Medicare (with no deductible), Medicaid, Worker's Compensation, Veterans Administration, Champus or insurance companies, when appropriate, or by private means.

The services are particularly helpful following a hospital stay; for an illness or injury which does not require hospitalization; to teach you or someone else how to care for a sick person; as an alternative to nursing home care (in some cases); to care for an elderly loved one; when recovering from accidents, heart attacks or strokes; or to assist a terminally ill person and his/her family.

Fishing Outdoors

By Terry L. Wilson

Surveys Complete On Many Texas Lakes
Texas Parks and Wildlife Department fisheries biologists have completed fall surveys on many of Texas lakes and reservoirs. Listed below are the results from some of those lakes.

Sam Rayburn Reservoir
Hybrid stripers had the best showing in fall gill nets on this reservoir north of Jasper. Paul Seidensticker, biologist from Jasper, reported high catches of hybrid stripers 16-24 inches long, 80 percent of which were legal size (18 inches or longer). The fish, weighing 4-10 pounds, were caught in 10-20 feet of water near the dam.

"That's pretty good. The main thing is that most were legal size. That's unusual," he said. Most anglers wait for hybrids to school on top before fishing for them, but now is a good time because they're concentrated near the dam, which is accessible to bank fishermen. Once the dam is opened to release water, fishing will get even better.

Electrofishing surveys turned up 152 largemouth bass per hour longer than eight inches. Of those, 36 percent were longer than 12 inches and 17 percent were legal (14 inches), Seidensticker said.

Frame net samples produced good numbers of black and white crappie, too. Numbers were up slightly from 1989 and about 15 percent were larger than the 10-inch minimum length, he said.

Of those captured, 38 percent were adults (larger than five inches), 22 percent were between eight and 10 inches and 23 percent were larger than 10 inches, he said. The largest white crappie weighed 1.7 pounds.

Webb said most of the fish should reach legal size sometime during this year.

Lake Whitney
Netting operations on Whitney, west of Hillsboro, produced an overall catch rate considerably lower than 1989 but consistent with 1987 and 1988 samples. Biologists said crappie apparently had an excellent spawn in 1989 because 80 percent of those collected were young of the year and the total number collected during netting was about five times higher than in 1987, 1988 and 1990.

The number of five-inch and larger fish have remained stable from 1987 through 1990, but this year, eight- and nine-inch fish, those spawned in 1989, were abundant in net samples. These fish should be legal by spring and summer.

Tradinghouse Creek Reservoir

Recent samples on this 2,000-acre reservoir indicated a quality sunfish fishery. Biologists collected redear sunfish to eight inches and bluegills to seven inches. The catch rate for bluegills larger than six inches increased five-fold from the previous year while the overall catch rate more than doubled.

Tradinghouse Creek is east of Waco.

Purtis Creek State Park
Samples taken at Purtis Creek, southeast of Dallas, indicate the highest crappie catches recorded since sampling began in 1987, Storey said. Most of the crappie were in the three- to five-inch and eight to 11-inch ranges. Twenty-nine percent were legal size.

Fall creel surveys shows largemouth bass anglers have been more successful than ever, he said. Total catch rates were almost three times higher than the same time in 1989 while the time spent bass fishing dropped 25 percent. In all, 77 percent of the bass caught by anglers were shorter than 14 inches, 20 percent were 14-18 inches and 3 percent were 18-21 inches.

Anglers at this lake should be reminded that all bass caught must be released after capture.

Lake Lavon
Frame netting surveys on this 21,400-acre lake north-east of Dallas indicate an excellent crappie population, said John Moczygmba, assistant district fisheries supervisor from Denison.

Each net averaged 10.1 crappie and 47 percent were three inches or less, indicating a good 1990 spawn, he said. Legal sized crappie accounted for only 9 percent of the 151 crappie caught, down from 12 percent in 1987 surveys.

Moczygmba said overharvest could be the reason for a decrease in larger crappie. The 10-inch minimum length limit, which went into effect Sept. 1 should increase the harvestable population as the regulation has done on other lakes.

Lake Lewisville
December creel surveys on this lake northwest of Dallas turned up a 19-inch striped bass weighing 3 pounds and several 16- to 17-inch stripers, said Clell Guest, biologist from Fort Worth. These fish were among 120,737 two- and three-inch stripers stocked in the lake during spring 1989. Spring 1990 surveys show the fish had survived and grown to eight to 11 inches. Another 120,000 stripers were stocked during spring 1990.

Lake Worth
Frame net samples from this lake on Fort Worth's north-west side show crappie up to 14 inches long, according to Bobby Farquhar, biologist from Fort Worth. Of those sampled, 30 percent were 10 inches or longer, up from 17 percent in 1988.

Biologists also caught more crappie per net, 27 this winter to 11 in 1988. Farquhar said he believes one reason for the improvement is the new 10-inch minimum length limit and 25 daily bag limit.

Lake Texoma
Known mostly for its stripers, this 89,000-acre lake on the Texas/Oklahoma border has a steadily improving crappie fishery, according to fall frame net surveys.

Bruce Hysmith, district fisheries supervisor from Denison, said the crappie population has made subtle improvements since 1987 but there was a dramatic increase from 1989 to 1990.

In 1989, only 6 percent of crappie in the survey were longer than 10 inches, but in 1990, that total increased to 31 percent, he said, attributing the improvement to the new 10-inch minimum length limit. Reproduction results show that in 1989 only 6 percent of the population were young of the year crappie, but this year it jumped to 37 percent.

The following information concerning Poe's Cedar Wood lures is furnished by Steve Morgan of Poes.

Just a year after the successful introduction of the RC 3 and only months after introducing the RC1, Poe's introduces two new rattling versions of these Rick Clunn designed lures. All are made of select California cedar, the wood chosen by Poe's for all their lures because of its natural buoyancy strength and durability, and built with clear LEXAN diving lips.

The rattling RC 1 and RC 3 have a special sound chamber built crosswise into their slim bodies for maximum noise during the tight wobbling retrieve. The sound chamber is unique in that it has one metal and one wood end for an alternating high, lowpitch, noise rattle to attract all game fish.

The new rattling RC 1 and RC 3 are like the originals in size and weight. The rattling RC 3 weighs 1/2 ounce, measures 4 1/4 inches long and swims and suspends at 4 to 8 feet deep. The RC 1 measures 2 1/2 inches and weighs 3/8 ounce and swims 2 to 3 feet deep. The RC 3 is designed as a suspension live that will hold depth; the snag free running RC 1 designed and tested by Rick is a super crankbait for snaggy spinnerbait water.

Like the originals, the rattling RC 1 and RC 3 come in light fish producing colors and are excellent for bass Wallege Inland Stripers and catfish.

The crappie are still biting in area lakes with Hubbard, Daniels, and Brownwood being the top stops.

Poem

A MOTHER'S PRAYER

The average age is just the mid-wenties, Lord
With so much of their young lives still ahead,
Now they are somewhere in the gerat Saudi Desert
Just a little South of ancient Baghdad.

As I watch the news around the clock
I weep so many bitter tears,
And pray for our nations quick victory
And for the faith to calm my fears.

These children are not my flesh and blood
But they are mine just the same
And it breaks my heart that they might die
At the hands of the evil Saddam Hussein.

I do not now, nor will I ever
Accept the president's claim,
That this begins "A New World Order,"
Because to me it looks exactly the same.

We bear our children and raise them

To honor GOD, Country and Flag,
Then politicians take them from us
And return them in obscene body-bags.

But protesting, shouting and name calling
Has never hastened the end of a war,
Only prayer and believing in miracles
Will help our children endure.

GOD grant them strength and courage
And the will to survive the strain,
And bring them safely home to their families
So that we may love them through the pain.

So now I pray this in the name of JESUS
Asking GOD, our father above
To honor the prayer of this mother,
With an extra measure of Thy love.

AMEN

Dental Dialogue

Stain Solution?

Q. My teeth are so discolored! Is there something I can do at home to whiten them?
A. Maybe. There is now a new bleaching system for home use which can whiten discolored and stained teeth. The system is used under the supervision of your dentist, and a number of factors can affect the results. These factors include your age, the general condition of your teeth, and the color and type of stain involved. Also, the patient must be prepared to stick with program, which can be time-consuming and slightly uncomfortable. A complete examination by your dentist can determine whether home bleaching can brighten your smile!
