Pam Geye, a member of the Star High School annual staff, won first place with her layout for the Student Life section of an annual at the Texas Tech ninth annual Summer Publications Workshop at Lubbock last week. More than 400 high school students, including the entire staff of La Estrellita, the Rising Star yearbook, attended. The Rising Star group were located among schools of 750 and less students.

Congratulations, Pam!

I read that a noted doctor, whose opinions carry authority, has said that a certain amount of stress is conducive to a longer life. Instead of seeking absolute emotional and economic security and freedom from illnesses, he said, we should be grateful for the minor troubles, worries, and illnesses we endure.

They seem to condition us for the more serious invasions of microbes and all the other "natural shocks that flesh is heir to."

Persons who have been insulated against stress and worry become mental "softies", he warns, unprepared for the sudden emergencies of life, like meeting the overdraft at the bank when there isn't any money or the need to locate rest room facilities for the three-year-old on a bare stretch of highway.

Those parents who run for the doctor every time a youngster gets a rash or the sniffles, he says, may simply be "unconditioning" their offspring for the more serious illnesses against which their minor ailments should be allowed a chance to build antibodies.

Instead of being scared of our problems, we are told, we should face them with courageous expectations and a certain amount of joy in being equal to them. In that way, we are told, we develop backbone and stamina, instead of becoming spineless dependents looking to the next election to cure what we think ails us.

It won't be acceptable to the Anti-Poverty people, I am sure, but under this theory what they are aiming at is the removal of incentive from our society. There is nothing like the prospect of starvation to make a person spit on his hands and hoe cotton. That is if he isn't already spineless from too much dependency.

In that sense a certain amount of poverty is encouraging to the bank account or to whatever else a man uses for money. But it is also encouraging to a political ambition. This, of course, has always been true, but nowadays the definition of poverty, like the Supreme Court's interpretation of the Constitution, has undergone a radical change. It used to be that a diet of ham hock, butterbeans and cornbread was enough to send a man to bed with a contented mind. But that fare nowadays sends him into protest marches and White House demonstrations. Poverty has become a degree, not a condition.

But one thing has always puzzled me. Those folks who emulate the most, and earn the jealousies of the rest of us are those who can withstand a great degree of poverty. As a matter of fact

The schools application now being reviewed by the Texas Education agency.

The schools' application, now being reviewed by the appropriate state agencies, calls for about $14,700 from the federal government to be administered through the Texas Education Agency.

This fund, Mr. Watkins pointed out will be expended over and above the regular school budget. The program calls for remedial reading in grade school classes and remedial language arts in the High School.

"To implement this program," said Mr. Watkins, "it will be necessary to hire one remedial and one remedial language arts teacher and one teacher aid who will help the remedial teachers. Other expenses encountered will be to provide a testing program and additional supplies and equipment for the remedial classes.

He said that the remedial teachers and the aid will be hired soon.

Last year the local schools received about $16,000 in these funds a great part of which went to purchase the necessary supplies and equipment which it will not be necessary to buy this year.

This year the appropriation will be spent mostly for salaries, the superintendent said.

As It Looks From Here

By Omar Bursleson, M. C. 17th Texas Dist.

WASHINGTON, D. C. THE inquiry is often made as to why the United States does not formally declare a state of war in Viet Nam.

THERE ARE VALID considerations which weigh against a declaration of war. Such a declaration would validate and authorize a broad expanse of Presidential war powers which have been set up on a stand-by basis. This would include a much tighter control over the economic life of our nation and one must admit it is already considerable without this added authority.

THE PRESENT CONFLICT in Viet Nam occupies an agonizing unique status. There is nothing in our history comparable to it. Although our military forces have been locked in combat, no state of war has been declared to exist by the Congress. Therefore, the President, as Commander in Chief of our Armed Services, has had and will continue to have in the foreseeable future the responsibility of direction.

EVEN THE EVENTS in Korea do not serve as any precedent for the current situation. In that instance, the United States, acting under the consent and direction of the United Nations Security Council, declared the Communist invasion of South Korea a "threat to the peace" the officially authorized intervention by military forces of member nations. This action served as a substitute under International Law for official declaration of war by nations participating.

THE UNITED STATES takes the position that the present conflict is Viet Nam's war for independence and we are assisting them by their request. It is significant that the United States has repeatedly announced that it has no intention or purpose to undermine or overthrow the existing Communist Government of North Viet Nam. A declaration of war by the United States against North Viet Nam according to all historical precedents, would conflict with this announced policy of non-intervention with the political control by the Hanoi Government.

THERE EXISTS, HOWEVER, the possibility that new problems brought to the surface may require a reconsideration of whether the Congress should formally declare war to exist. Should such be the case, it would probably be defined as having started at the time the North Vietnamese forces attacked our ships in the Gulf of Tonkin.

WITHIN RECENT WEEKS the Communist Government of North Viet Nam has publicly threatened to control trials of captured American airman. Communist propaganda from Communist Viet Nam, Red China and other Communist nations has dwelled on "war crimes" trials, rather than to treat the captured as prisoners of war. They contend that under International Law they are entitled to mete out such treatment in the absence of a formal declaration of war.

OBVIOUSLY THESE threats of American Prisoners by Hanoi are used as a psychological weapon in an attempt to inhibit United States' bombing of targets in North Viet Nam. There is a very real possibility that the Communist may go through with the conduct of "trials" of Americans whom they hold prisoner, but more recent indications are that it is not an immediate prospect.

THE FACT REMAINS, however that captured Americans and particulary our airmen are used for political implication. Their lives and welfare must be the first concern. The treatment of captured Americans in accord with International Law requirements must be assured by our Government at whatever cost.

IT COULD WELL be that if the Red Vietnamese murder American prisoners under treatment as "was criminals" a dec-

Football Heat Deaths Preventable, Says AMA

CHICAGO—Heat deaths among high school and college football players could be a thing of the past if coaches and players follow recommendations made at a meeting here recently.

When football practice opens in a few weeks, the first hot days could be dangerous for players unless precautions to avoid heat illness are taken now, a panel of medical and sports authorities agreed.

Heat illness last year caused the deaths of one college football player and four, possibly five, high school players. It contributed to "close calls" and injuries of many more.

The five-man panel, appearing at a meeting sponsored by the American Medical Association's Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports, agreed that:

1. Prospective football players should get out of air-conditioned surroundings now and start getting accustomed to vigorous exercise in hot weather.

2. Coaches should abandon the old practice of withholding water from athletes during practice. Failure to replenish water and salt lost through perspiration increases the chances for heat exhaustion or heat stroke.

3. Athletes should be acclimated to hot weather by carefully graduated practice schedules. At least the first five days of practice should be devoted to non-contact workouts.

4. Both coaches and players should be alert for signs of heat illness, such as lethargy, stupor, awkwardness, or unusual fatigue.

University of Kentucky football coach Charles Bradshaw said his squad's practice sessions were improved by regular breaks for water and rest. Overworking players in hot weather only decreases their efficiency, he said.

Said Purdue University's team physician, L. W. Combs, M.D.: "Coaches used to think that if a player lost a lot of weight on the first day or so of practice, it was a good workout. Actually, all the player lost was body liquid—which is dangerous."

Allan J. Ryan, M.D., team physician at the University of Wisconsin, agreed with Dr. Combs. "Any player who loses more than three per cent of his body weight in a practice session is not getting enough salt and water," he said.

Excessive salt and water loss can result in heat stroke, an extremely dangerous condition, Dr. Ryan pointed out. Anyone can suffer heat stroke if he is active in hot weather and neglects to replace salt and water lost by perspiration. The result is a breakdown in the sweating mechanism and collapse.

If prompt measures aren't taken to get the heat stroke victim cooled immediately, the result can be death—sometimes within 15 minutes.

Approximately 850,000 boys in 14,500 U.S. high schools now play football, said Clifford B. Fagan, executive secretary of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations.

"The few deaths that occur in football can probably never be completely eliminated," Fagan said,

"but we can eliminate deaths due to heat illness—they are preventable."

Coaches can avoid trouble by keeping a close watch on their players for the first signs of heat illness, said William E. Newell, athletic trainer at Purdue University and executive secretary of the National Athletic Trainers Association.

Parents can help protect their athlete-sons by watching for signs of fatigue and emotional strain, such as loss of appetite and poor sleep habits, Newell said.

Fred Hein, Ph.D., director of the AMA Department of Health Education and secretary of the AMA's Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports, was panel moderator. Dr. Ryan is a member of the AMA Committee on Exercise and Physical Fitness, and is a past president of the American College of Sports Medicine.

PUBLIC NOTICE Proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER ELEVEN ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 8, 1966.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 19 proposing an Amendment to Section 49-d, Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas, declaring state policy regarding optimum development of water reservoirs; providing for the use of the Texas Water Development Fund under such conditions as the Legislature may prescribe by General Law in the acquisition and development of storage facilities and any system of works properly appurtenant thereto; providing for the sale, lease or transfer of such facilities under General Laws; providing for long-term contracts for water storage facilities; authorizing the issuance of an additional $200,000,000 in bonds by the Texas Water Development Board upon a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the elected members of each house; providing that anticipatory legislation shall not be invalid because of its anticipatory character; providing for the necessary election, form of ballot; and proclamation and publication.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That Section 49-d of Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended to read as follows:

"Section 49-d. It is hereby declared to be the policy of the State of Texas to encourage the optimum development of the limited number of feasible sites available for the construction or enlargement of dams and reservoirs for conservation of the public waters of the state, which waters are held in trust for the use and benefit of the public. The proceeds from the sale of the additional bonds authorized hereunder deposited in the Texas Water Development Fund and the proceeds of bonds previously authorized by Article III, Section 49-c of this Constitution, may be used by the Texas Water Development Board, under such provisions as the Legislature may prescribe by General

Law, including the requirement of a permit for storage or beneficial use, for the additional purposes of acquiring and developing storage facilities, and any system or works necessary for the filtration, treatment and transportation of water from storage to points of treatment, filtration and/or distribution, including facilities for transporting water therefrom to wholesale purchasers, or for any one or more of such purposes or methods; provided, however, the Texas Water Development Fund or any other state fund provided for water development, transmission, transfer or filtration shall not be used to finance any project which contemplates or results in the removal from the basin of origin of any surface water necessary to supply the reasonably foreseeable future water requirements for the next ensuing fifty-year period within the river basin of origin, except on a temporary, interim basis.

"Under such provisions as the Legislature may prescribe by General Law the Texas Water Development Fund may be used for the conservation and development of water for useful purposes by construction or reconstruction or enlargement of reservoirs constructed or to be constructed or enlarged within the State of Texas or on any stream constituting a boundary of the State of Texas, together with any system or works necessary for the filtration, treatment and/or transportation of water, by any one or more of the following governmental agencies: by the United States of America or any agency, department or instrumentality thereof; by the State of Texas or any agency, department or instrumentality thereof; by political subdivisions or bodies politic and corporate of the state; by interstate compact commissions to which the State of Texas is a party; and by municipal corporations. The Legislature shall provide terms and conditions under which the Texas Water Development Board to sell, transfer or lease, in whole or in part, any acquired storage facilities or the right to use such storage facilities together with any associated system or works necessary for the filtration, treatment or transportation of water at a price not less than the direct cost of the Board in acquiring same; and the Legislature may provide terms and conditions for the Board to sell any unappropriated public waters of the state that might be stored in such facilities. As a prerequisite to the purchase of such storage or water, the applicant therefor shall have secured a valid permit from the Texas Water Commission or its successor authorizing the acquisition of such storage facilities or the water impounded therein. The money received from any sale, transfer or lease of storage facilities or associated system or works shall be used to pay principal and interest on state bonds issued or contractual obligations incurred by the Texas Water Development Board, provided that when moneys are sufficient to pay the full amount of indebtedness then outstanding and the full amount of interest to accrue thereon, any further sums received from the sale, transfer or lease of such storage facilities or associated system or works may be used for the acquisition of additional storage facilities or associated system or works or for providing financial assistance as authorized by said Section 49-c. Money received from the sale of water, which shall include standby service, may be used for the operation and maintenance of acquired facilities; and for the payment of principal and interest on debt incurred.

"Should the Legislature enact enabling laws in anticipation of the adoption of this Amendment, such Acts shall not be void by reason of their anticipatory character." Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1966, at which election all ballots shall have printed thereon the following: "FOR the Constitutional Amendment authorizing the issuance of an additional $200,000,000 in Texas Water Development Bonds and providing for further investment of the Texas Water Development Fund in reservoirs and associated facilities." Bee Sting Can Be Fatal To Particular Sensitive Person

"Some persons are so sensitive to a bee sting they may die from only one sting unless a doctor treats them quickly," warns World Book Encyclopedia. It isn't unusual, but it does happen. In mild reactions, all that may develop after the initial pain is a large local swelling which may last for several days and itch very intensely.

But in moderately sensitive persons, a sting by a bee, wasp, yellow jacket, or hornet, may cause wide-spread swelling or hives, wheezing, faintness, dizziness, vomiting, abdominal cramps, or diarrhea. There also may be some shortness of breath nasal discharge or stiffness in the nose, and some tightness in the throat. Occasionally, there may be aching and swelling in the joints, and a bruised appearance may develop at some part of the body distant from the sting.

The highly allergic person can sustain one sting which can produce shock and prove fatal within minutes. Fortunately, these extreme reactions are rare.

The mechanism of allergic reactions to insect stings is not completely understood, but, frequently, the degree of sensitivity in the allergic individual increases with each succeeding sting.

In other words, if you once were stung by a bee and suffered little more than localized pain and swelling, your next bee sting may have more serious consequences.

Suntan lotion attracts bees and other insects, and so do perfumes, hair spray, hair tonic, and many other cosmetics. Don't dress your children in floppy clothing in which insects might become caught—and don't dress that way yourself.

Bright-colored clothing, flowery prints, and black clothing should be avoided. On the other hand, light colors, such as white green, and khaki, are believed neither to attract nor to anagonize bees. Children should be taught not to pick up toys without checking first to make sure that no insects are on them. Public trash baskets should be avoided.

If you are stung by a honeybee, scrape the stinger off immediately, World Book advises. This can be done with one quick scrape of the fingernail. Don't try to pick up the venom sac between your thumb and forefinger; this merely squeezes more venom into the wound.

If you or your child should be stung by a bee or other stinging insect, a trip to a doctor is a wise precaution no matter how mild the reaction.

The best way to avoid stings is to keep away from stinging insects—and see that your children keep away, too.

Mrs. Sherry Polk And S. C. Cotton Are Wed Monday

Mrs. Sherry Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Lipsey, and S. C. Cotton, son of Mrs. Hattie Mae Brown, recited wedding vows in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Fair Monday, Aug. 15, at 7:15 p. m.

Miss Lee Ann Chalk played the traditional wedding march. The bride and groom stood in front of a mantle decorated with pink and white gladioli and greenery.

The bride was given in marriage by her son, Mike Polk. Her daughter, Marissa, was ring bearer. Ronnie Cotton acted as his father's best man.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. J. W. Hodges, pastor of the First Methodist church.

The bride wore a pink dress and an illusion veil of pink. Members of the immediate families and about 30 guests attended the wedding.

A gift table was covered in pink satin with an arrangement of white carnations flanked by white candles.

The reception table was laid in lace over pink satin, centered with an arrangement of white carnations and pink gladioli. Mes. Erna Ford and Lola Hageman and Miss Lee Anna Chalk served the wedding cake and pink punch.

After a wedding trip to South Texas, the couple will be at home in the former home of Dr. and Mrs. Allen D. Schmitt, north of Rising Star.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

VISITATION RIGHTS

When Alice divorced Jim, she was given custody of their three-year-old son. However, Jim had visitation rights every Sunday afternoon. He would call for the boy at 3 p. m., take him out for a few hours and then return him at dinner time.

But one thing rankled Alice. "It's those between-meal snacks," she complained in a court hearing. "Jim never fails to feed the boy something while they are out. That is bad for his health. Therefore, I would like Jim's visitation rights ended."

But the court decided her complaint was not serious enough to justify such drastic action, that the "punishment" was too great for the "crime."

Generally speaking, the law prefers—primarily for the sake of the child—to keep parental ties intact. While visitation rights are often modified, they will not be cut off altogether without a compelling reason.

What is a compelling reason? Here are three cases in which the court decided to bring parental visits to an end:

1) an embittered father made a calculated attempt during these visits, to turn the child's love for his mother into hatred;

2) a quarrelsome mother used her visits to create violent scenes that left her small daughter in torment;

3) a hard-drinking father not only used vile language to his three young children but also plied them with whiskey.

But minor grievances such as a mother's complaint that the father's visits annoyed her—won't suffice. Furthermore a court that does cut off visitation rights may well restore them later if the offending parent mends his ways.

For example: A court revoked its ban a-

In fact, even if a parent has been barred because of flagrant adultery, visitation rights may be restored when there is enough evidence of reform and repentance.

Thus, an adulterous mother who remarried and led a blameless life for several years was able to regain the right to visit her children. The court said:

CREATIVE CAREERS

by Ruth Wade Ray
Ruth Wade Ray, Director of Ray-Vogue Schools, the oldest professional arts school in the U. S., now beginning its 50th year, answers high school seniors' questions about continuing their education in the creative arts.

Q. How can I tell whether I have creative talent?

A. You can test yourself or ask your high school counselor to give you a creativity test. Ask yourself: "Do I like to do things in an unusual way, bringing my own personality to bear on the project at hand? And: "Do I like to think up new ideas?" If the answer to both is "yes," you will probably do well in this field. In other words, if you feel creative you probably are creative.

Q. Where can a creative person make the most of his talents?

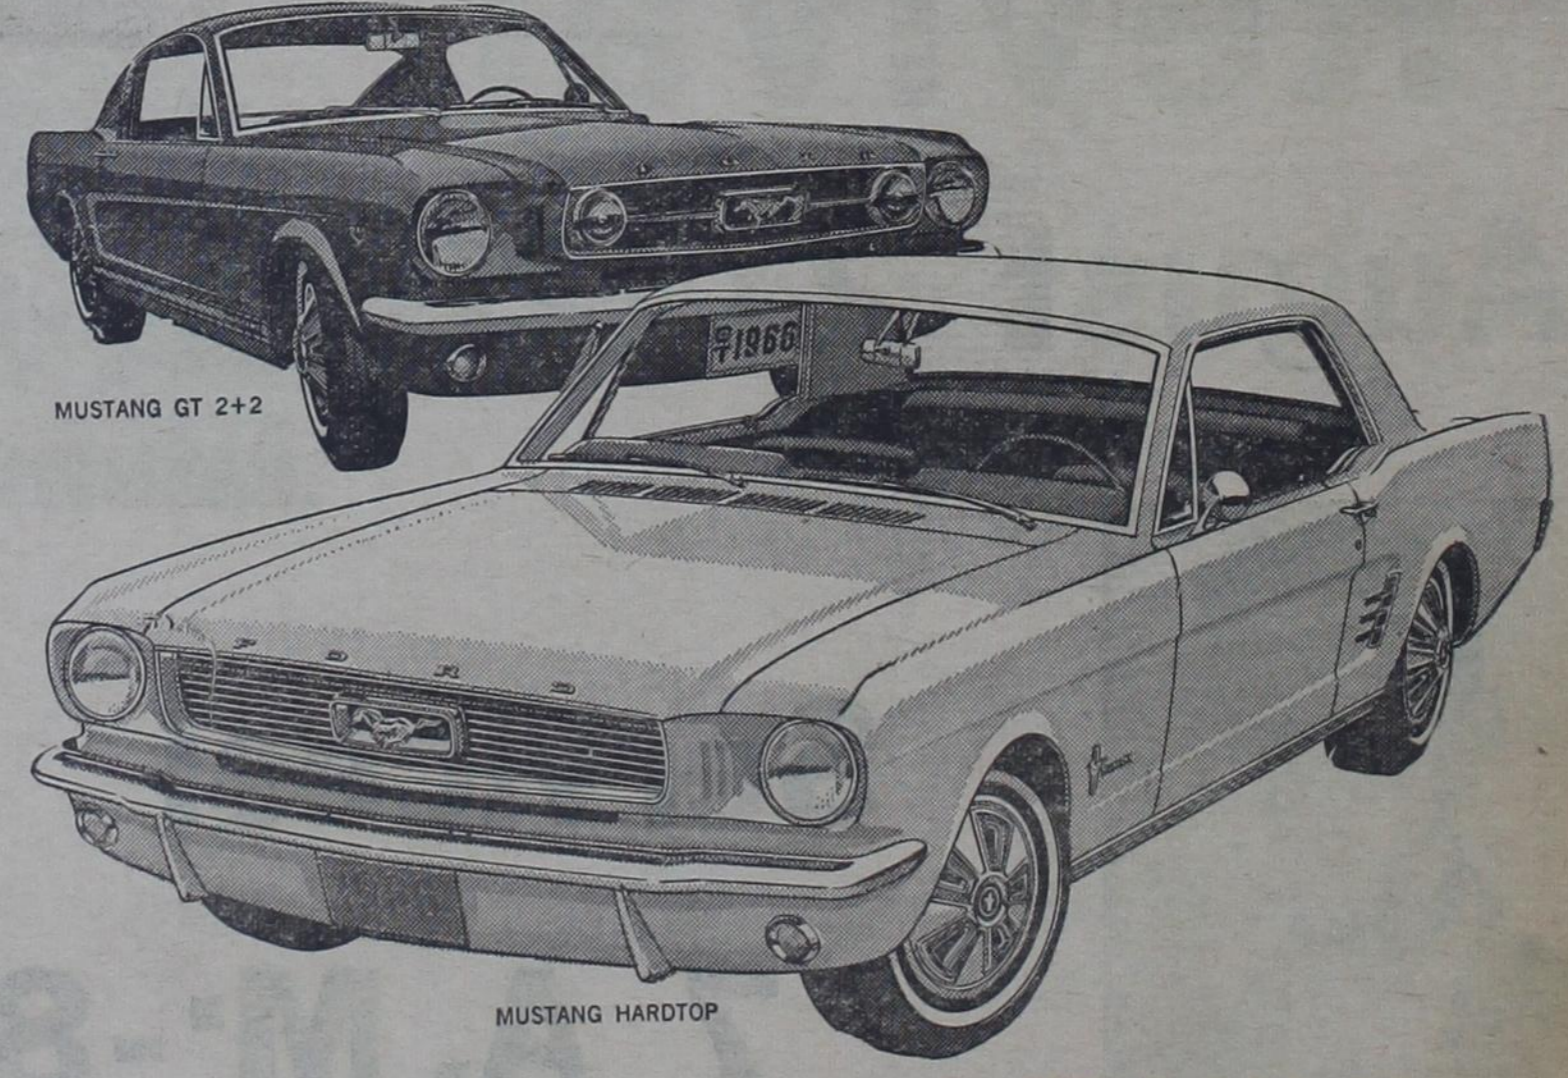

A. After a careful study of career opportunities for the creative person, our school concentrated on six areas that offer the best opportunities for immediate and long range financial rewards for graduates. They are shown on the chart below.

Q. If I decide on a creative career, how much schooling will I need after high school?

A. For most careers, two years of full time study. This is true in the fields of Interior Design, Dress Design, Commercial Art, or Fashion Illustration, Photography and Fashion Merchandising require only one year of full time schooling. Q. If I want more information on a professional arts career, where is the best place to find it? A. Your high school counselor will be able to help you. And, you can get help by writing to Student Counselor, Ray-Vogue Schools, 750 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Specify which area interests you—otherwise you'll receive general information.

No doubt our readers will be interested in stories this week of two pioneer settlers of this area.

Uncle John Joyce was an uncle of M. G. Joyce and a member of one of the oldest pioneer families of this section. He was one of eight children born to Henry and Sarah Posey Joyce. He was born July 12, 1844. He moved with his family from Georgia to Collin County, Texas, in 1849. He joined the Confederate Army in 1862, went through the war, and in 1867 he married Sarah Abigail Strain. In 1873 they moved to Parker County, south of where Weatherford is now located. Indians were plentiful and made raids every "light moon", stealing horses, killing and terrifying white settlers.

On one occasion his mother and a younger brother narrowly escaped capture by the Indians while on the road to a neighbor's house for protection while the men were away on business.

Once his uncle, Henry Maxwell, and his brother came upon four Indians in the area. An Indian shot a poisoned arrow through the chest of Mr. Maxwell, and he died that night. The brother escaped.

Mr. Joyce told interesting stories of how the settlers in the timberland attended church services when preachers came armed with guns and pistols for protection from the Indians. They would lay their guns on a table before them during the long services, attended by eight to 12 persons.

Mr. and Mrs. Joyce were the parents of nine children. Mr. Joyce died in 1927. Burial was in the Clyde cemetery.

I. L. Morris, lovingly known by his friends at Sipe Springs as "Grandpa" Morris, was born in North Carolina April 17, 1825. His family moved to Georgia when he was about a year and a half old. He grew up in Georgia and helped to build the first railroad ever built in the state.

He married Miss Nancy Sims when he was 21 years of age. In 1853 Mr. and Mrs. Morris came to Texas in an ox wagon, a distance of 800 miles.

In 1863 he joined the Confederate Army and saw service in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas.

The Morris family moved to Greenwood, Ark., in 1866 where they lived until 1890. They moved back to Texas and settled at Sipe Springs, living there until 1919. After the death of his wife, Mr. Morris made his home in Comanche, always claiming Sipe Springs as his home.

Mr. Morris was born in the second month of John Quincy Adams' administration, while Texas was a Mexican province. He was the contemporary of every president for the United States except the first five. He was 34 years of age when Abraham Lincoln was elected. He saw Texas annexed by the United States and the passing of slavery. The first steam railroad was built in America three years after his birth, and he was 45 years old when the first telephone was installed in America.

Matches, straight pins and coal oil lamps were luxuries in his lifetime.

The anniversary of his 103th birthday was celebrated at his old home in Sipe Springs. Hundreds of friends and relatives attended from all over Texas and other states.

Mr. Morris died November 9, 1927, at the age of 102. Had he lived until the following April he would have been 103.

Burial was in Sipe Springs cemetery with one of the largest crowds ever to attend a funeral service in the history of Sipe Springs.

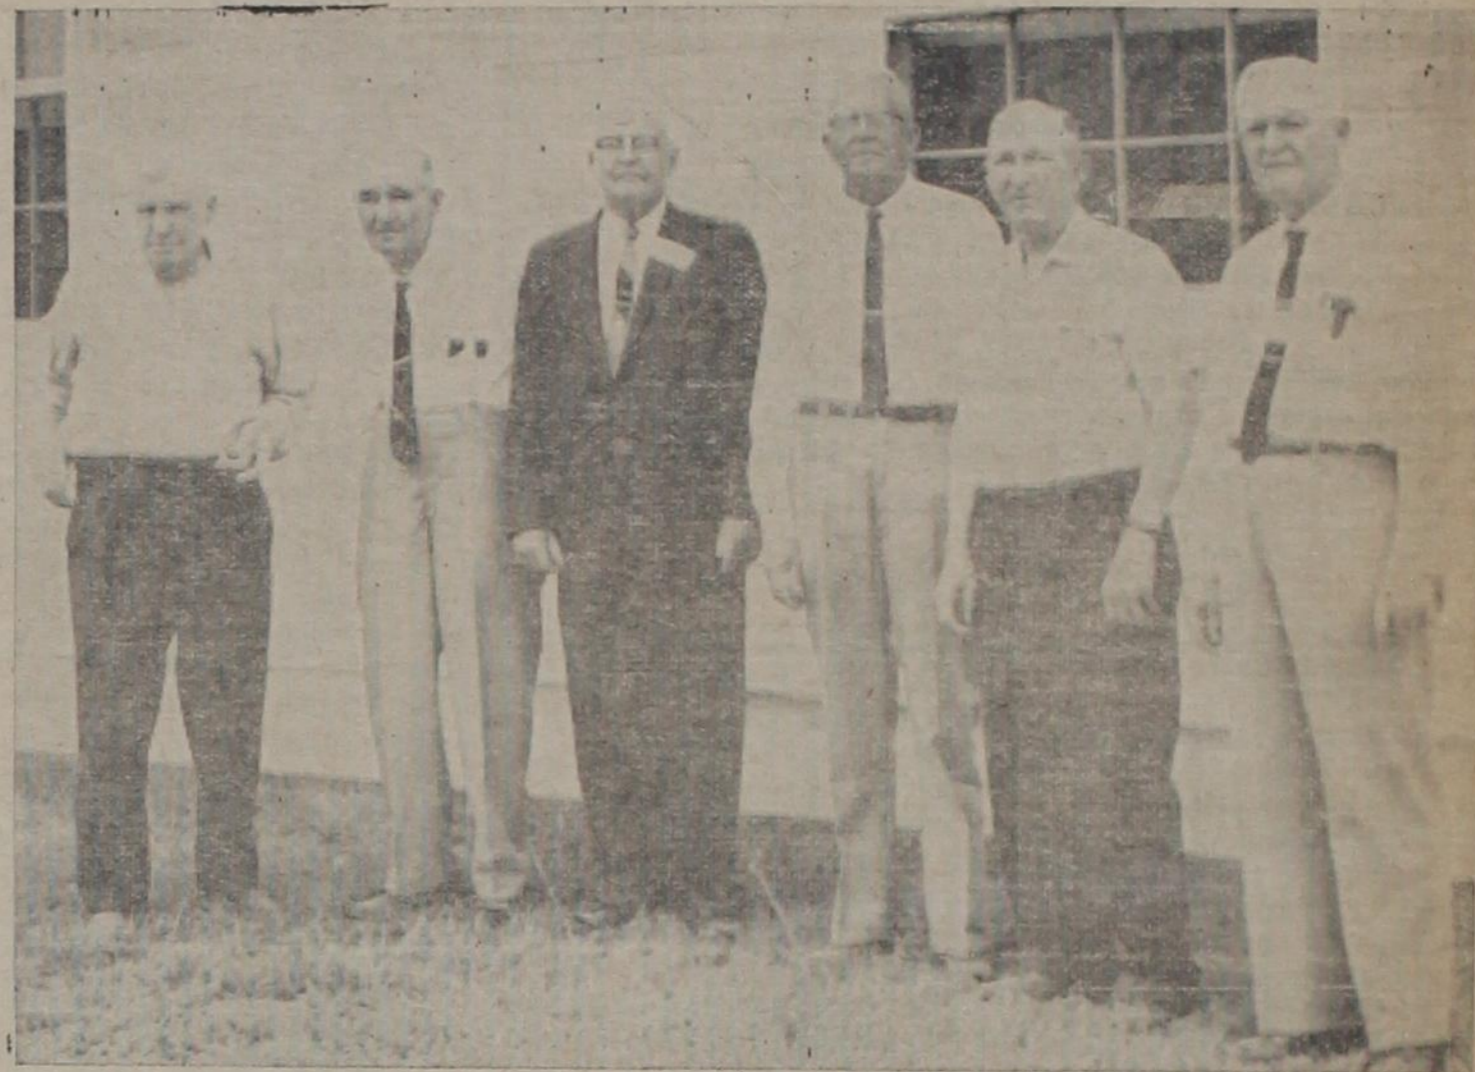

The Public Library will not be open after Saturday, August 20.

PHILADELPHIA STICKY BUNS ACQUIRE PEANUT TOPPING

Philadelphia is the home of many fine food specialties, not the least of which are the famous topsy-turvy sweet rolls known as Philadelphia Sticky Buns. Traditionally baked in a heavy skillet containing a mixture of brown sugar and nuts, the buns are inverted after baking so that the bottom becomes the topping.

Here, Philadelphia Sticky Buns take on new flavor and appeal with a caramel topping studded with Planters Dry Roasted Peanuts. Peanut Sticky Buns are traditionally prepared as a yeast dough; they're baked in muffin cups to make little individual rolls.

The tangy new flavor and crispness of dry roasted peanuts is produced by roasting the nuts in high temperature ovens without oil or sugar, but with a light seasoning of spices. As a result, Planters Dry Roasted Peanuts are unusually crisp and dry to the touch—making them a "natural" for adding flavor and crunchiness to a variety of baked goods.

In Philadelphia, Sticky Buns are served at breakfast, tea and dinner. At the turn of the century, they were purchased fresh each day from street vendors. However, Peanut Sticky Buns are easy to prepare yourself, and may be frozen to keep fresh longer.

PEANUT STICKY BUNS
Makes 2 dozen buns

½ cup milk	2 eggs, beaten
½ cup sugar	1 tablespoon grated orange peel
1½ teaspoons salt	4½ cups unsifted flour (about)
¼ cup (½ stick) Fleischmann's Margarine	1 cup (2 sticks) Fleischmann's Margarine
½ cup warm water (105°-115°F.)	2½ cups light brown sugar, firmly packed
2 packages or cakes Fleischmann's Yeast, active dry or compressed	1½ cups Planters Dry Roasted Peanuts
	1 teaspoon cinnamon

Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and ¼ cup Fleischmann's Margarine. Cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into large warm bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in Fleischmann's Yeast; stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture, beaten eggs, grated orange peel and half the flour. Beat until smooth. Stir in remaining flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, about 8-10 minutes. Place dough in greased bowl; turning once to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Meanwhile prepare topping. Melt 1 cup Fleischmann's Margarine. Stir in 1½ cups light brown sugar and 1 cup chopped Planters Dry Roasted Peanuts. Spoon into greased muffin pans. Combine remaining 1 cup light brown sugar, remaining ½ cup chopped Planters Dry Roasted Peanuts and cinnamon.

Punch dough down. Divide dough in half. Roll out each half to a 12-inch square. Sprinkle each half with the brown sugar-peanut mixture. Roll up lengthwise as for a jelly roll. Cut into 1-inch slices and place in prepared pans. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 25 minutes or until done.

Mr. Cox died in May at his home in Overton, but due to the serious illness of Mrs. Cox at the time, no account of the death and funeral was furnished to The Rising Star. Mrs. Cox asked that the following account be published for friends in Rising Star and area: Lewis Preston Cox, 84 died after a long illness. Funeral services were held at the Church of Christ with Erish Rich and Foy L. Moore officiating. Burial was in Overton cemetery. A native of Rising Star, he had lived in Overton for 34 years. He was a retired groceryman and a member of the Church of Christ. Survivors are his wife and three sons. One sister Mrs. Veona Selagg of Rising Star.

Rising Star Couple Vacation In Colorado

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fox have returned from a month's vacation in Colorado. They were impressed with the beauty of the flowers of all varieties grown in 5-acre blocks, at Rocky Ford. Here vegetables are grown in production. Seeds are gathered, processed and tested for sale in public markets. The seed for the famous Rocky Ford melons are grown in this area. Rocky Ford is located in the irrigation district of the Arkansas River valley with beautiful scenery and lush growth. The climate is ideal, cool and pleasant. The valley is surrounded by desert territory, temperatures run high and the heat is almost unbearable, said Mrs. Fox. Alfalfa fields near Montrose are well worth seeing, Mrs. Fox said. The fields are small but produce hundreds of bales of valuable hay, she said. At Cedar Ridge the orchards of apples and peaches, and big fields of Irish potatoes, reminds one of the prosperity and greatness of a free nation, agreed Mr. and Mrs. Fox.

Cooper Retires; New County Agent Named

Eastland county, come September 1, will have a new county agriculture agent.

The same date will terminate the longest term of service in that office since the agriculture agent was first employed in the early 'twenties.

The new agent-to-be is DeMarquis Gordon, who will transfer from a similar job in Hamilton county.

The man whom he will succeed is J. M. Cooper who has served 21 years as the Eastland county agent, longer than any other agent in this county.

In the same shift the Eastland county assistant agent, Bill M. McCutchen, goes to Hamilton county to replace Mr. Gordon in the county agent's office there.

The Eastland county changes were announced by county judge Scott Bailey after a meeting of the commissioners court Monday of last week.

Mr. Cooper, veteran of 21 years in Eastland county and some 10 years in Stephens Trinity and Jasper Counties, requested retirement due to ill health, including eye trouble that necessitated two major operations, and a heart ailment.

Mr. Gordon, who is 31 years of age, is a native of Cleburne in Johnson County. He is a graduate of the high school there and of Texas A&M University with BS in agriculture education. He started his work as a farm agent as an assistant in McLennan County and went to Hamilton as county agent in August, 1963. He is a military veteran, including overseas duty in Germany.

Married to the former Jo Anne Stransbury of Cleburne, who is a graduate of Baylor University, Mr. Gordon is a veteran in 4-H Club work. He and Mrs. Gordon have two children. He is a Baptist and a Lion and has been active in various civic functions. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon of Cleburne.

The court accepted Mr. Cooper's resignation "with regrets." Judge Bailey noted that "filling Mr. Cooper's office has been a difficult task due to his long and faithful work as an outstanding aid to the farm and ranching interest of our county and region."

Mr. Cooper is a native of Center in Shelby County where he grew up on a farm. He finished school there and graduated from Texas A&M University in 1931. After teaching vocational agriculture for four years in Wise and Cooke counties, he ed with poultry growers, dairy herd owners, peanut growers and has been particularly interested in helping rural communities improve their conditions through the formation of clubs. He has directed a livestock breeders association of young people, and active 4-H club program and numerous other activities.

Pecan tree budding, including an annual school has been taught by Mr. Cooper for 21 years.

Mr. Cooper said they plan to continue living in Eastland where they own their home.

It will be "almost" going home for Agent Bill McCutchen with his assignment in Hamilton. He is a native of Coryell County and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eric McCutchen still live at Gatesville.

Adverse Effect on Peanut Industry Cited If Katy Out

Proposed abandonment of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas (Katy) branch line from Bellmead to Stamford has aroused a storm of protest on the part of the peanut industry in this and adjoining counties as well as other interests served by the line.

Directly affected would be Gorman, where there is a considerable peanut processing industry as well as the headquarters of the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association; Carbon and Cisco, also important peanut marketing centers of the area.

Due to the influence upon the peanut industry, the Eastland County ASCS Committee of which R. G. Lyerla, its chairman, is spokesman, and the U. S. Department of Agriculture have entered protests against abandonment, it was reported.

"Abandonment of the . . . railroad would adversely affect approximately 2,347 farms in Eastland County," Mr. Lyerla said in a public hearing on the petition to abandon the road held at Dallas last week.

The Eastland Telegram in a story last week said:

Eastland County ASCS Committee and the ASCS office staff, Mr. Lyerla pointed out in his presentation:

"It would be hard to evaluate the loss of the freight service to the peanut industry. Gorman and Carbon are not served by the Texas and Pacific Railway and would not have rail service if Missouri-Kansas lines are closed.

"The cost to convert present facilities for handling peanuts by truck from all processing facilities in Eastland County would be hard to accurately estimate, but I feel it would cost as much as $250,000.

"The loss of rail service to Eastland County would greatly affect the marketing procedure, especially for peanuts. Large quantities of peanuts are shipped into Eastland County for processing in transit. The absence of rail service would increase the cost of freight and place processors in a bad position to compete with other processors with rail service.

"Buyers of peanuts definitely prefer rail shipment due to present handling procedures.

STATE FAIR TO FEATURE RARE "SHEEP OF THE WORLD" DISPLAY

An exhibit of the finest sheep trophies of one of the world's great hunters—Herb Klein of Dallas—will be a featured attraction at the 1966 State Fair of Texas October 8 through 23 in Dallas. The rare exhibit in the Museum of Natural History will display some of the best of Mr. Klein's trophies of 13 of the 14 major species of wild sheep found on the six continents of the world. Above, Mr. Klein is shown with the most difficult trophy of them all, the North American desert sheep.

almost doubled due largely to the increased irrigation facilities installed in the county. We estimate that 250 irrigation wells are in operation in the county with approximately 5,000 acres of peanuts being irrigated presently. We anticipate at least 10,000 acres of irrigated peanuts in 1967. This could increase production to 50,000,000 pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Ballew are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mayfield in Houston this week.

they seem to enjoy it. A state of absolute security and needlessness may be an ideal political prospect, but it is also a wonderful antidote for production.
