Ralph Kizer of the Kizer Telephone Company has just done some statistics on his product and has come up with the interesting result that every telephone in the Rising Star and Cross Plains plants of the system is used an average of five times during a 24-hour period.

When you consider that the number of telephones in the two districts is about 1,500, you get a striking idea of the degree to which the use of the telephone here has increased over the past decade, or since the company replaced the old-fashioned ringer system of less than 300 stations (a telephone in the parlance of the industry is a station, with modern dialing).

The statistics are real, too—not the product of guess work or involved and suspect formulae. Every time a call is made on a Kizer telephone a meter registers it. Not the conversation, of course—simply the contact. At the end of each 24-hour period the meter count is recorded. To get the number of calls during a particular 24-hour period you simply subtract the earlier total from the later.

Any way you take it, that is a powerful lot of talking for two small communities—a lot of business calls, a lot of social calls, teenager conversations, and a lot of neighborly visiting transferred from the backyard fence to the electronic highways which carry voices with a speed that rivals light. Now and then, perhaps, a mite of guarded gossip.

It just goes to show that if you serve a need the very provision stimulates greater and greater demand.

The big Proctor Reservoir, built by the U. S. Army Corp of Engineers as a flood control project on the Leon River south of De Leon, will be dedicated next week.

Coming back from Alexandria, La., last Friday—where our Easter had been saddened by the death of a younger brother in a car accident—we crossed a similar project on the Neches River between Jasper and Woodville.

Despite the fact that it was chilly, the area was already swarming with vacationers and fishermen, and the man who owns the cafe and associated concessions on the western highway side, told me that the reservoir environs would be so crowded this summer it would be difficult to find a place to camp although there are miles of camping grounds owned by the government and free to those who wish to use them.

Popularity of the resort is helped by what seems to be an inexhaustible source of fish which breed in a large area of shallow water so dense with trees that it is impossible to work even a small canoe among them, I was told.

No doubt the Proctor reservoir, which appears from the maps to be about as large as the Neches River project have a similar benefit to our section.

Even though the wind was whipping up big waves on the expansive surface of the lake, numbers of small boats were bravely bobbing about in search of bass, crapple and bream.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Busbee of Pecos visited Mrs. T. B. Busbee and Geraldine last week.

Fair Peach Crop Is Seen Despite Cold

"If we do not have further freezes or damaging frost, I believe the Rising Star area will have a pretty fair peach crop," C. E. Smith, local commercial grower, told the Record this week.

"Of course peach buds which at the moment show no signs of damage from the recent cold weather, may drop off in a couple of weeks or so, but for the most part I am confident that we have escaped any serious damage so far," he said.

Mr. Smith owns and operates a large peach and pecan orchard in southwest Rising Star. He is currently president of the Eastland County Pecan Growers Ass'n.

Some varieties have been more seriously damaged than others, notably the Coronets he said. He considers the apricots practically a total loss.

The pecan crop, of course has not been affected so far.

The situation is in contrast to the conditions in the southern peach belt of Tennessee, South Carolina, Alabama and Georgia where, according to reports, there has been an almost total destruction of this year's fruit crop.

House At Pioneer Leveled By Blaze

A mother arrived home from church Sunday night just in time to see her twin sons escape flames which enveloped their home two miles north of Pioneer.

Mrs. G. R. Pancake attended church services at Pioneer and reached home shortly after 10 o'clock. As she approached the house her sons, Barney and Bonny, who had been asleep, raced outside. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Mrs. Pancake reached through a window of the burning building to get a telephone and call Cross Plains Fire Department. The local company sped to the scene but walls of the dwelling were collapsing as equipment pulled onto the property.

The house was located just off the Farm to Market Road which runs from Pioneer to Sabanno.

Capt. Nichols Will Go To German Post

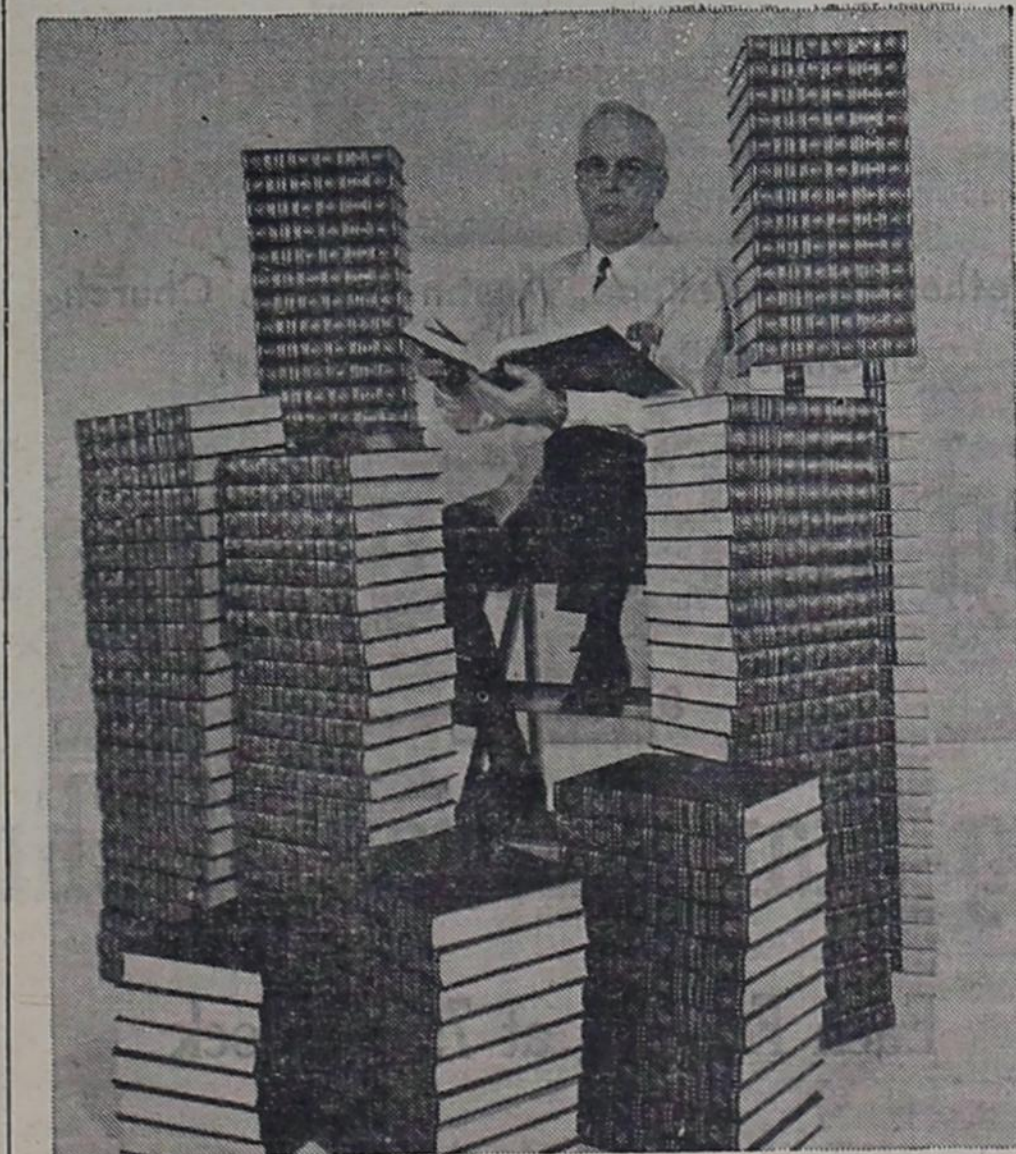

Captain Carl B. Nichols, Jr., who is now finishing a course at S. M. U. in Dallas, has received his assignment upon graduation. He was assigned to service with the U. S. Air Force at Weisland, Germany, by July 1.

Captain Nichols will take with him his wife, the former Carlene Irby, and their two children or will have them join him shortly after he arrives.

Captain Nichols is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Nichols and Mrs. Nichols the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Irby, all of Rising Star.

SISTER-IN-LAW DIES

Mrs. J. W. Weathermon has received word of the death at Capitan, N. M., of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lee Robinson who died on March 24. She was the widow of Lee Robinson, well-known in Rising Star.

THE INFORMATION EXPLOSION—J. A. Caldwell, research scientist at the Houston Research Center of Humble Oil & Refining Company, has a problem. He and others like him cannot possibly keep their heads above the mounting tide of technical literature. The seven complete 24-volume sets of Encyclopaedia Britannica that surround him here represent the amount of scientific information published around the world every 24 hours. Keeping up with this scientific "paper storm" is one of the great challenges facing government and industry today. Companies and industries in Houston are considering plans to establish a unique Technical Information Center to serve industrial scientists and engineers in the thriving Gulf Coast area. The clearing house would benefit individuals and both small and large businesses.

Pecan Budding School Set For April 15 At Cisco

April 15th has been designated as the date for the annual Eastland County Pecan Budding and Grafting School to be held at Cisco according to Tom Stevenson, chamber of commerce manager and County Agricultural Agent J. M. Cooper, cosponsors of the all-day affair.

Cooper will teach the school which has been an annual event in this county for many years. The morning session beginning at 9 a. m. will be held in the cafeteria at the Cisco Junior College. It will be devoted to lectures and demonstrations on when and how to bud, types of budwood, storage and seasoning of budwood, wrapping, when and how to force the bud into growth, difference between budding and grafting and latest technique of grafting.

After lunch in the cafeteria the group will re-assemble in the Kent Word orchard three miles south of Cisco, in the Leon River bottom for a practical session and grafting demonstration.

A supply of the double bladed pecan budding knives and the new plastic budding tape will be available. Cold storage pecan budwood of some of the new popular hybrid varieties such as the Choctaw, Comanche, Wichita and Apache as well as some of the older varieties will also be available for those desiring it.

Stevenson said that out of county folk who want to learn to bud and graft pecans are welcome to attend. Women as well as men may attend. A large number of people from 16 different west central Texas counties attended the school last spring.

No Curiosity Now . . .

Not so many years ago aerosol-charged push-button cans were a curiosity. Now, we are advised, they have passed the billion-year mark and dispense from 550 to 600 different sorts of product with the absolute minimum effort!

One way to comprehend the extent of the recent boom is to consider that if a billion cans were divided equally among us, every single one of America's 47 million households would use just over 21-and-a-quarter of them in a year.

More amazing still, we think, is their coverage of human needs and foibles. Whether you need a medicated spray for acne or angina pectoris; a flame-retardant spray, a push-button fog horn; flame-proofing for your Christmas tree, something to keep your rugs from skidding, vitamins or vermouth, wall paper cleaner, poultry inhalant or tool-makers ink, the aerosols have it!

But these push-button wonders — like all the revolutionary developments to save us exertion and condition us to sybaritic luxury — do make some demands on our intelligence if not our brawn. We should sternly resist the childish impulse to throw such containers into a trash fire or pierce them with a can-opener — just because the label says don't do it!

Household and shop chemicals, paints and medicants are not toys. So keep the aerosols out of the reach of small children. Don't ever encourage the idea they are playthings!

Remember when electricity first came into the home? A lot of people had to learn the hard way that this mysterious new servant commanded respect. And plenty of others got lumps on their noggins, or worse, when their horses shied at horseless carriages.

In short, push-button aerosol will inflate a tire, flick the ashes off your vest, or dust the furniture. But it's still not smart to blow out the gas with it.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Willet arranged a double birthday dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Vonnie Ware and two sons in Brownwood on Sunday, March 29. Mr. and Mrs. Vonnie Ware have the same birthday and have celebrated together since their Ward School days.

IN CONTEMPLATION OF DEATH

Uncle Joe, a widower, had more money than he would ever need. This enabled him to make generous gifts over a period of years to a number of friends and relatives.

When Uncle Joe died and his estate was probated, the heirs were shocked when the federal Treasury Department levied estate taxes on all the gifts made during the past three years. How could this be?

The tax law is clear: Any transfer of property within three years preceding the date of death—except on a bona fide sale for adequate and full consideration—is presumed to be in contemplation of death and taxable, unless shown by donor, estate to the contrary. But any gift or transfer more than three years before death is not taxed as part of the estate.

This law has a valid public purpose. It is aimed at preventing people from avoiding estate taxes by giving away their property before they die. Of course, one seldom knows exactly when he will die, but an older person or one with an illness may reasonably know that his years are limited. Thus the law raises the presumption that any transfer within the three-year period is in contemplation of death.

Anyone can make gifts of his property at any time. Those gifts other than purely nominal ones must be reported for gift tax purposes. Sizeable tax exemptions are allowed for gifts, but the tax laws are so contrived as to prevent a wealthy person giving away all his property before death tax-free. In Uncle Joe's case the gifts will be taxable unless the estate can re-but the presumption that they were made in contemplation of his death so as to avoid the estate tax or as a substitute for a will.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret the law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D. Commissioner of Health

AUSTIN — Diseases transmitted by insects have been on the wane since 1939. That was the first year DDT (an abbreviation of the formula dichlorodiphenyl-trichloroethane) was first used.

The new insecticide was quick to make history. Its effect on lice was particularly striking. It deloused heads in a few hours and they stayed deloused for several weeks.

Dr. J. S. Wiseman, a State Health Department entomologist, tells the story to illustrate the point.

During World War II, an American service officer visited a North African jail to delouse prisoners. The men assembled and the officer used a small hand sprayer to puff a small amount of DDT powder between the prisoners' skin and clothing.

As expected, there was a great deal of chaffing and hilarity in the face of what seemed to be such a childish procedure — compared with showers, shaving of heads, "stoving" of garments, and application of lotions.

When he had finished, the American, who had carried out his task with great thoroughness, said to the men:

"Tomorrow morning I will come back to check on the action of the powder. If any of you can present me with a live louse I'll reward him with a pack of cigarettes."

Everyone was cheerful at the thought of the cigarettes and all were certain they could easily qualify for them. They spent the whole night eagerly hunting for lice.

Next morning, when the officer returned, the men assembled and brought out their catches. There were only 10 lice in all. Not a single man had been able to catch more than a single louse.

There was not a question about the success of the experiment, and the men began listening to their visitor with more respect. He made a further offer.

"Tomorrow," he told them, "I will come back and there will be $10 and a whole carton of cigarettes for every live louse."

All the prisoners crowded around that day's winners to learn of their technique. The night was again spent in a frantic louse hunt. A whole box of cigarets! What luck!

But the next morning not a single prisoner could produce a live louse. The DDT had wiped them out.

ARE THE LIONS ALWAYS BUSY ON YOUR PARTY LINE?

Have you ever heard a lion roaring into the telephone when you'd been talking much too long? Maybe it wasn't a lion, but a long suffering lamb of a party line neighbor deciding enough was enough. You won't hear lions if you space your calls and keep them reasonably brief. Everyone's service is better that way, including yours. Try it and see.

THE VALUE OF COURTESY

The days of chivalry are gone! No more do we see gentlemen opening doors, bowing to ladies and doing other such old-fashioned acts. Perhaps the changing times instigated the change in social manners; but this does not excuse our generation for ignoring courtesy. Courtesy is merely common sense to those who have a true concern for the feelings of others; it is a means of exercising the long-taught "Golden Rule." In our hurrying everyday lives, we have a great tendency to think only of our own welfare. If we can learn to set aside more time each day for thinking of others, we will be adding much to our own lives. It is through our acts of friendship and kindness that we experience happiness from knowing that we have made someone else happy.

Courtesy is more than just a desirable asset; it is a necessity for a well-developed personality. You will find that it is often easier to be courteous than to avoid being friendly. It takes no longer to smile and speak when meeting an acquaintance than it does to pass without speaking.

A person can not be unfriendly toward a person who makes every effort to be friendly. A courteous person has the ability to bring out compatible qualities in those who seem remote. If courtesy were practiced more extensively by everyone, many social problems could be eliminated.

Courtesy does not cost anything, but it often can certainly be profitable. It can give us a whole world just for the price of treating others as we want to be treated.

"UPWARD AND ONWARD"

This week finds us back from our holiday and studying for our six weeks' tests to be given next week. After this week we'll just have one more six weeks' period to go.

Spring is in the air; it's so pleasant, and I like not wearing a heavy ole' coat!

Our tests this week should not be too hard. Most of our subjects are now on a more retainable level; however, for a while that English just about got me!

I hear we are to have another Stage Band Assembly—that's good and we're all looking forward to it—especially, the number dedicated to the faculty!

We're certainly glad to have Miss Burkhalter back with us after her illness.

These volleyball scores are great. Wish we could win them all the way we did over Scranton. Track is fair this year.

Randy, why the white shirt? Oh, you didn't have any other one clean?

H. S.—How do you like M. G.'s?

Sharon D.—Do you know anything about a week-end of wine, roses, and State University?

Until next week—
Harriet

"THIS IS YOUR LIFE"

Arthur Dale Jones was born November 7, 1946, to Mr. and Mrs. A. B. (Duby) Jones at Gorman, Texas. Arthur has one sister, Rita.

All of Arthur's school years have been spent in Rising Star Schools, from which he will graduate in May.

Arthur's favorite pastime is being with a certain sophomore named Linda Duke. His favorite movie is "Brass Bottle," while Debbie Reynolds and Troy Donahue rate as his favorite movie stars. "Come In the Back Door," which I think must be an Arthur original, is his favorite song.

Arthur has represented our school in tennis three years and in band four years. He considers typing his "pet peeve".

As a senior Arthur was elected as the most intellectual boy.

Next year Arthur plans to enter college, probably Cisco Jr. College. Good luck, Arthur, and we seniors hope that your dreams are fulfilled.

"KNOWLEDGE COMES BUT WISDOM LINGERS"

This is Sharolyn Roach filling for our reporter Linda Burkhalter, who is in Abilene in the hospital. We surely do miss her, and we all wish her a quick recovery.

This has been a very exciting week for us juniors. The characters for our play, "It's A Great Life" by William D. Fisher, have been chosen. The cast is as follows:

Tommy Wilson: Bruce Hubbard; Ted Stokes: Mike Pruet; Mr. Charles Wilson: Tommy Darnell; Mrs. Elouise Wilson: Charlene Vermillion; Miss Gertrude Harris: Sandra Teague; May Wilson: Sharolyn Roach; Marie George: Sherry Jones; Wilbert Wiggins: Terry Geyer; Miss Alstead Billings: Carolyn Stover; Theresa Gant: Judy Rutherford; "Mussels" O'Rouke: James Cox.

The date has been set for April 21, but it is not yet final. We only hope that our play is as great a success as was the senior's. You really did a great job and we really enjoyed it.

We enjoyed the band banquet very much and would like to take this opportunity to thank all of those responsible for its success. The dates for our spring concert is April 23. We have been working very hard on our new music and hope everyone enjoys it. We will be expecting you there.

We are all very proud of our track boys so keep up the good work.

We are anxiously awaiting the junior and senior banquet, which has been set for April 24. We juniors have begun some preparation but still have a lot more to do.

Now for some gossip:
 P. I.—All is fair in "love" and war. Right, Patricia?
 Sherry—Be careful of those pans; you could hurt someone.
 C. V.—Expecting company?
 J. C.—What a bad place for a "burn"! ! !

T. G.—Yea, A and M, boo Texas or is it the other way around?

B. H.—Let's watch those freshmen girls; especially one with initials P. B.

S. T., S. R., S. J.—On to "VICTORY"! ! ! Right, girls?

Until next week when Linda will be back with us.

"LIVE AND LEARN"

Hi! This week we are reviewing for six weeks' tests next week. Believe it or not, we have only one more six weeks' period, and we will be out for the summer.

The sale of the "Wildcat" sweatshirts is doing well. We encourage everyone to buy one. They are $2.50.

We enjoyed our Easter vacation, but we are to resume our studies.

This week we are studying very hard getting ready for the tests. The World History class is taking a test on Chapter 19, and they will take up Chapter 20, World War I. English students are continuing the study of grammar in Unit III. The Home Economics II girls have completed another meal, which proved successful; Mr. Geyer is taking his boys to contests.

Gossip:
 Kenny—Has your souvenir been found?
 Bobby—Since you are such a great track star, how do you rate as a comic?
 Julie—Are you drowning in blood?

Until next week—
Marcia

"BUILDERS OF TOMORROW"

I trust that everyone had a happy Easter holiday and is ready to begin again.

The Freshmen followed a busy schedule last week. Term themes and book reports were due and we seem to have more than the usual amount of home work. We lived through it somehow and find ourselves at the close of another week which is looking much brighter to most of us, I am sure.

The band members thoroughly enjoyed their banquet last Thursday night; they are now working on numbers for the spring concert. The Algebra I students finished the chapter concerning factoring and took a test over it last Wednesday. We have now taken up Unit 8 which deals with the percentage, and reducing of fractions. The General Math class is finding the circumference of circles and the volume of solids. The members of the English I class have a daily lesson in our workbooks. The homemaking classes are finishing their dresses with quite a bit of taking out, not to mention one particular instance when a certain girl sewed up the back instead of the sides and tried to put the zipper in.

The sixth period P. E. girls have been running track to liven up the usual volleyball routine. We are even allowed to do our exercises on the football field, and they are not nearly so bad.

"TOWARD NEW HORIZONS"

The F. H. A. meeting this month was one of the best we have had. Charlene Vermillion called the meeting to order and the opening assembly was recited. Marcia Lee called the roll and each member gave a reason for staying in school. Sharolyn Roach and Julie Watkins led the chapter in the Prayer Song.

The program was a skit on two teenage dropouts who were married. It was very interesting and it had a good lesson. The junior and senior members did a fine job of presenting it.

The Song Leaders then led the group in songs we learned at the Area meeting this year.

The meeting was adjourned.
 Until next week—
Becky

"GIRLS SPORTS NEWS"

We are back from the Easter holidays, and we must say we enjoyed the vacation!

Our volleyball girls have played games with May and Scranton. We must compliment them for their magnificent playing in each game.

This is all the news that I know, so join us again next week for more.

Until next week—

Teach Children To Dial Zero In Accident Urged

COLLEGE STATION.—Small children should know and trust the telephone operator as much as they do the corner policeman, and should turn to the operator in the event of an emergency.

Extension Service specialists at Texas A&M University say that although pre-school youngsters can't be expected to memorize long telephone numbers, they can be taught one rule: If an accident happens, dial zero, tell the operator what is wrong, and she will help you.

A child should be taught, however, that he is to dial zero only in emergencies, says Bobye Riney, Extension rural civil defense specialist, and Paty Reynolds, family life education specialist.

One five-year-old's plaintive message to the operator was, "My Mommie's asleep and won't wake up—and there's a fire in our house." After a little prodding, the operator learned the boy's name and address and called the fire department. Firemen rushed to the address, found the house on fire, and the mother knocked out by sleeping pills. Both survived, thanks to the child's action and the operator's help.

Another youngster whose mother fell through a floor and was trapped, went directly to the telephone and dialed zero. He couldn't remember his daddy's name or where he lived but he rattled off the name and address of his grandparents. The operator called them, got the child's address and had a doctor on his way in minutes.

Although operators are ingenious in tracing calls from small fry, such procedure is a waste of precious time. Encourage your child to memorize his name, his father's name and address, the specialists recommend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gray visited his brother, Rush Gray and family, in De Leon Friday, March 27. Mrs. Beryl Heath was with them and visited her Heath relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Lee of Siloam Springs, Arkansas, spent Easter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lee, Sr.

Their medical needs are already being met!

Most of the aged in Texas who need help in meeting their medical care costs are now receiving it through the Old Age Assistance program. Independent surveys by a leading research organization, Belden Associates, have documented this fact.

Belden Associates recently made a detailed survey of all aged Texans who were NOT covered by Old Age Assistance and concluded that "There apparently remains approximately three per cent of all aged Texans who need and want outside help." A constitutional amendment passed by the 1963 session of the Texas Legislature, if approved by the voters of Texas this November, will make possible a medical care program for the needy aged who are not recipients of Old Age Assistance and who are unable to pay for required medical services. With this new program (called Medical Aid to the Aged) in effect, all aged Texans who want and need help in meeting their medical care costs will have it.

Additional medical care programs, sponsored and controlled by the federal government, are not needed and would result in the wasting of millions of your tax dollars. Write your congressman today and tell him you favor the Texas aged care program (Kerr-Mills) of providing care to those who want and need help. Encourage him to oppose the King-Anderson Bill (H.R. 3920) which would provide a compulsory federal program for the aged, financed through high social security taxes.
